Union behind scene

Reds press the revolt

PARIS (CP) — The giant Communist-controlled labor union, Confederation Generale du Travail, called for nationwide demonstrations today despite government warnings that police will "act relentlessly" against illegal meetings.

West Germany. Cohn-Bendit told a news conference at the Sorbonne early today that students in Paris should not renounce street demonstrations. But they should try to avoid confrontations with police.

The Conservatives and New Democrats stepped up their attacks Tuesday on the Liberals' record in running Canada's economy, while Prime Minister Trudeau sat in his Ottawa office catching up on his paper work.

The non-debate nears

OTTAWA (CP) — It is called a debate, but the format is more like that of four press conferences in one.

NAVY UNDERSEA RESCUE VEHICLE NOT READY FOR USE — Drawing shows how deep diving vehicle, being developed by U.S. Navy, would operate in rescuing 12 to 14 men at a time from crippled subs in ocean depths down to 6,000 feet. Vehicle would hook up an airtight link with sunken sub and take aboard survivors. Rescue craft, operated by two men, would be about 40 feet long with electric motors located outside its steel hull. A Navy expert, discussing the missing sub Scorpion, said small rescue subs capable of reaching depths of 3,500 feet will not be ready for use until 1970. (AP Wirephoto)

Says hospital expansion's imperative

In view of the number of visits to the Outpatients Department, the number of admissions and the number of examinations in the Laboratory Department of the Sherbrooke Hospital, it is imperative that plans for expansion be completed as soon as possible, Sherbrooke Hospital corporation members were told last night.

Addressing the members, P. M. Robins, president of the hospital, submitted the Financial Statement and the Annual Report for the year ending Dec. 31, 1967.

"The number of admissions decreased," he said, "by 103 with a corresponding decrease of patient days from 42,000 to 40,563."

This could be due, he said, to the radiologist strike in September and October when the percentage of occupancy was much lower than for other months of the year.

The Canadian Council on Hospital Accreditation granted the hospital, he said, accreditation status again for another three years.

"The Q.H.I.S. continues to be slow in its payments," he said, "for prior year deficits."

The final statement for 1967 was received with a drastic reduction in operating expenses of approximately $32,000 for that year, he said.

"You (corporation members) all know that the Province has now resumed the responsibility for all diagnostic, radiological and laboratory tests," he said, "thus another blow to our cash position as we now run four or five months behind with these payments."

He said a new department has been set up to take care of the responsibilities of personnel and purchasing.

"The increased work regarding the employees deductions," he said, "for increased fringe benefits such as Quebec Pensions, Group Insurance and other such items, increases the value of such a department."

He said the operating deficit for the year is very heavy, however it is not out of line with other hospitals in comparable size to the Sherbrooke Hospital.

He said it is expected in 1968 that salaries will have to be increased as well as wages, as the present agreement between other hospitals and their unions expires June 30, 1968.

"It is the policy of the hospital," he concluded, "to continue to provide equivalent or better wages and work conditions for the hospital employees."

The new officers for the year 1968 are President Carl Skinner; first vice-president, C. Lorne Campbell; second vice-president, H. C. Plow, new trustee, Lewis Rosenbloom and re-elected trustee, H. Simons.

Midnight fire levels a Tomifobia barn

TOMIFOBIA — (Special) — A large barn here was levelled by fire yesterday, shortly after midnight.

The barn, owned by Donald Dewey, was part of the farm formerly known as the Boudreau farm until Mr. Dewey purchased it recently.

The Dewey family, who lives nearby the farm, was awakened by a passing motorist.

The farm house had only recently been rented to a couple from Ontario and Mr. Dewey immediately ran to the house to warn them of the fire as the house was close to the blazing barn.

The couple moved most of their belongings out of the house but returned when the fire was controlled.

The house shed and roof caught fire but it was quickly extinguished.

The Stanstead Fire Department was called and assisted Tomifobia volunteers to put out other small fires that started.

Piles of dry lumber owned by Three Villages Milling Association close to the barn were saved by the absence of wind.

Cause of the fire is undetermined.

The loss includes winter vehicles and farm machinery owned by Mr. Dewey.

Is third world war upon us?

"We are in the middle of our Third World War... Then let's have it." Montreal radio and television commentator, David Bassett, addressing the Sherbrooke Rotary Club last night referred to a recent statement by Alfred Toynbee that the current racial strike in the US and the unrest in Paris could be termed a Third World War without bombs.

"Don't look for reasons," said Mr. Bassett. "As long as we can understand the reasons then surely we can find the solution."

Mr. Bassett who spent some time on British Merchant ships also referred to the aftermath of Hiroshima and Nagasaki, which he witnessed while passing through on a ship.

He said 50 miles away from the blast — too far to hear the noise of the atom bomb — there were people with scars on their faces that will never leave them — people who may now be dead as a result of the fallout — a man with a rancid face.

Mr. Bassett said politics and self-interests "can't possibly mean a thing" as compared to the after effects and disaster. Speaking about Communist China, Mr. Bassett said the experts claim that all the average Chinese wants is "a full belly — to worship his ancestors — to enjoy his concubines."

"Under communist rule he is not allowed these things. The same authority tells you that these things can't be suppressed for longer than 50 years."

Mr. Bassett said if the world is not blown up by then — there will be one of the greatest revolutions in China by the end of the next 30 years.

He also spoke on other trouble spots and pointed out these places become a prime target for what later occurred.

While working on a ship chartered to cargo coco and logs for pulp and paper from West Africa to various parts of Europe, Mr. Bassett said his first port of call was a place called Sapele in what was part of Nigeria.

Groups of people were standing on piles of logs which the ship was to take as its cargo.

"These were the homes of a lot of human beings," said the speaker.

He said at Lagos while on the same ship, the cocoa company provided a tour of the cocoa fields.

Mr. Bassett said that one of the things that impressed him most as a young seaman was the sight of a pregnant woman — about ready to deliver her child — working in the fields.

When he queried the guide, he was told that the woman was probably overdue but that she could contain her child until the lunch hour — have the baby during noon — wrap it in a few leaves and leave it returning to work to pick up the child when the day's labor was done without loss of revenue.

Boundary Rotarians suggest ideas to improve communities

STANSTEAD — (Special) — The Boundary Rotary Club met on Monday evening at the Dufferin Heights Golf Club. There was a good turn out of members and guests present.

After all had enjoyed one of Mrs. Winslow's dinners, Lorne Oglivie, program chairman came up with the unique suggestion that all the Boundary Club members speak for two minutes on the topic, What Can we do to Improve our Communities, and there were some excellent ideas presented.

Some were from people born here, others who have made one of the four villages of Rock Island, Stanstead, Beebe or Derby Line their home and others who have come more recently.

There were ideas for beautifying the banks of the Tomifobia river to become a tourist attraction, a committee to welcome newcomers to the communities, to have a brochure printed for new residents outlining the many things available such as the Haskell Free Library, golf and curling clubs, churches, swimming schools, day schools, the College, Convent and so forth.

It was also pointed out people should know that if they paint their properties there is no increase in taxes.

A representative from the Frontier Swim Project was at the meeting to present the budget for the coming season of 1968 for the eight-weeks course to the youth of the area.

The Club will again support the project financially and will arrange to have letters of ap-

Municipal tax boosts apparently inevitable

Judging from the record-making deficit of more than $770,000 for the 1967 fiscal year Sherbrooke taxpayers may expect a substantial boost in their taxes when the 1969 budget is presented to the Council this fall.

It is obvious that expenditures are running substantially ahead of revenues for the current year and the city cannot long incur deficits of this size and retain any semblance of financial integrity.

The only alternative to a tax increase would be substantial subsidies from the provincial government, a rather unlikely development in the light of the uncomfortable financial position in which Quebec finds itself.

Even the application of the strictest economy and a virtual suspension of every unnecessary expenditure would fail to meet the situation, although this is no reason for the aldermen not to do everything in their power to control the outlays of the various departments.

Any economies so achieved would correspondingly lighten the added burden to be placed on the taxpayers.

And an uncomfortable fact is that within the next few years the city will have to undertake extensive borrowing to finance a number of pressing projects, the most important of which will be a sewage disposal plant.

The man who is his own boss works for a demanding employer.

De Gaulle--out of step

The suddenness with which an incident involving a handful of students at one branch of the University of Paris escalated into virtual shutdowns of all work and business in France has amazed the world.

That elusive stability with which Charles de Gaulle supposedly brought to his nation has proved to be but a temporary lid on the historical French penchant for the politics of revolution.

As the French themselves say, the more things change the more they remain the same.

De Gaulle instituted needed changes in the form of government but not its substance; he gave in the venter of democracy but not the substance.

He has given the Frenchmen that cake of a refurbished national prestige but not the bread of a steadily improving standard of living.

He has given them a nuclear-armed "force de frappe" but not better housing and better pay.

He has given them a stockpile of gold and visions of grandeur but not the solution to long-standing economic and social problems.

The signs were there to read in 1965 when de Gaulle failed to receive a majority mandate and was forced into a runoff election, and in the general election last year when the Gaullist majority in the National Assembly was cut to one.

France is now undergoing her most severe crisis since the end of the Algerian war when disgruntled generals and rightists threatened civil war.

But while de Gaulle had the mass of the people behind him 10 years ago, today it is the people against de Gaulle and the reactionary government he symbolizes.

The question is whether the hero of the past can once again identify himself with the true spirit and aspirations of the French people or whether he has outlived his usefulness.

It is difficult to come down from Olympus once you have been up there — for de Gaulle it may be both impossible and too late.

When someone asks us for a nickel so he can get a cup of coffee, our impulse is to ask, "Where?"

TODAY in history

By THE CANADIAN PRESS
May 29, 1968 . . .

The last of the Roman emperors, Constantine Palaeologus, died 515 years ago today—in 1453—during the Turkish capture of Constantinople. The city was defended by 7,400 men and 13 warships during an 11-months siege by 250,000 men and 300 galleys. Constantine fell when 50 Turks entered through a gate which had been opened for a raid. Though the intruders were killed at once, the populace panicked, allowing the Turks to storm the walls.
1630—King Charles II was born.
1844—Emperor Maximilian landed in Mexico.

First World War

Fifty years ago today—in 1918—German troops captured soissons and the Vregny plateau after severe fighting and advanced north of Reims and south of Vesie River toward the Marne; British soldiers repulsed a German raid north of Mount Kemmel.

Second World War

Twenty-five years ago today—in 1943—RAF and RCAF bombers attacked the chemical and industrial centre of Wuppertal with a loss of 33 planes; Labor Minister

Ernest Bevin said 25,000,000 out of 46,000,000 persons in Britain were mobilized either in war work; United States sources announced their forces had the Japanese forces on Attu Island in the Aleutians penned up in a small mountainous area three miles square.

Deserted US Forces base is Stephenville's only hope

By DON McLEOD

It employs 85 to 100 and has a budget of some $900,000 a year.

AIRPORT BOLSTERED

When the federal government took possession of the base from the U.S. it turned over to the province everything except the airport, which the transport department operates. The department has bolstered its staff by 10 and now employs 65 here.

A 100-bed hospital at Harmon was reactivated and will employ a peak of slightly over 50, but a smaller hospital at nearby Stephenville Crossing was closed about the same time.

Atlantic Brewing Ltd., a new company, began production this spring of 50,000 barrels of beer annually from a converted machine shop on the base. The brewery eventually will employ up to 50.

Other small industries are likely to be established in the near future, producing everything from wire cable to magnesium.

But many widely heralded projects appear to have withered on the vine, prompting the Corner Brook Western Star to ask the premier editorially for the latest revised list. "Then, when somebody asks us what's coming to Stephenville, we won't have to say a whole whack of things costing millions and millions of dollars provided by financiers from all over the place."

VIEWED AS CERTAIN

The biggest industry Mr. Smallwood views as a certainty for Stephenville is a $100,000,000 pulp and linerboard mill to provide some 1,200 jobs. He also was "90 per cent sure" early this year that a U.S. concern would build a $150,000,000 aluminum mill here.

Political opponents said he was vote-hunting in 1966 when he turned the sod to launch symbolically construction of the linerboard mill just before the general election of September, 1966. There followed several postponements, but this year's provincial budget says construction will start in 1968.

Mayor Kevin Walsh of Stephenville says the current income sources are mainly "crash programs" and "fabricated jobs" which cannot be viewed as long-term solutions. If a lot of federal and provincial government money had not been put into the area "we'd be in bad shape, I think."

He feels it might take three to five years to get the industry into Harmon but "there is so much here, nobody can conceive of this place not going."

Can even study logic

Teaching computer knows the pupils

By DICK KLEINER
West Coast Correspondent

PALO ALTO, Calif.—(NEA)—The little girl impatiently hit the side of the teletype machine.

"Hurry up," she said. As if it understood, the machine began clattering away.

"This is a review on division," it printed. "Do each problem step by step."

This was the computer room of the Walter Hays Elementary School here. Every day, each of the school's pupils reports for 10 minutes of drill and practice in math—new math, of course, as befits the computer era.

Some gifted sixth-graders even study logic via the computers. They are asked to solve such problems as:

"If it is hot then Alice does not play tennis.

"To deny the consequent, say . . .

"A. Alice plays tennis.

"B. Alice goes swimming."

The boy thought a second and typed, "A." The machine immediately typed, "Correct."

This is the dawn of a new era in education, an era which will see the little red schoolhouse replaced by the big stainless steel computer. There are some educators who see danger ahead, with impersonal computers replacing human beings.

But the children at Walter Hays school do not appear to share that fear. They consider the robot, as they call the computer, as a friend.

After all, it knows them by name and some teachers don't. They recognize its complete impartiality—no body has yet said, "My teacher doesn't like me" about the computer. And the machine gives them its undivided attention while they sit at the keyboard.

"Please type your number and name," the machine says when they switch it on. The children dutifully type their assigned number and their first name. The machine answers with their last name, to indicate that it recognizes them.

After the lesson, the machine tells them how well they have done—"23 problems with 87 per cent correct in 24 seconds." And then it adds a final personal touch—"Goodbye, Lin. Please start off on the dotted line."

Each day, the computer types out a report for the teacher, telling her how the class is doing, which pupils are ahead, which behind. It automatically picks out the correct lessons in the correct level for each child individually. If the child goes fast, it moves him up to a higher level—"branching," the computer scientists call it—or vice versa, if the child lags.

Even within a lesson, the computer is programmed to adjust to the pupil's progress.

If the child misses a few problems in a row—"No, try again," the computer will say in response to an error—it will immediately switch to simpler problems.

Computers in education are not confined to the elementary school level. At Stanford University, I sat in on a class taking elementary Russian on computers. The instructor, Mrs. Elise Belenky, arranged for me to take the first lesson.

The teletype keyboard prints Russian characters, and you wear a set of earphones. In response to the instructor's pre-taped questions, you type your answers and the computer either says, "No. Start over," or moves on.

By the end of the session, I was merrily typing out the Russian words for "Are Ivan and Ina at home?" and the computer had graded me: "Thirty-nine problems with 87 per cent correct in 23 minutes."

To show that there was still a personal touch in the classroom, Mrs. Belenky said my performance rated two jellybeans, and produced a box of jellybeans to back up her threat.

There are four classes in beginning Russian at Stanford. Two use the computer and the other two are non-computer controls. The comparison between the two groups is startling. In one exam, the regular group made three times as many errors as the computer-trained group.

Dr. Patrick Suppes, head of Stanford's Institute for Mathematical Studies in the Social Sciences and consultant to RCA's Instructional Systems Division, thinks another factor is of even more importance.

"Russian is a difficult language," he says, "and always the class has been subjected to many dropouts. The number of students who drop out of the computer classes is significantly less than from the regular classes."

The younger generation—whether it be collegians or sixth-grade—adjusts quickly to computerized education. The children at Walter Hays school have a ready developed some customs regarding it.

For one thing, after a session at the keyboard, they compare the length of the sheet they have typed. The one with the shorter sheet—indicating less wrong answers which have to be corrected—is the winner.

Bygone days

TEN YEARS AGO

Young members of the Sherbrooke Ballet school presented their first performance last night at the Premier Theatre before an appreciative audience.

Under their director Pierre Lapointe, the students, from the tiny tots to the teenagers, went through their steps with enthusiasm and showed quite a degree of accomplishment for their year's work.

The program was designed to show how a ballet student develops the exercises followed and steps learned.

Following a brief history of the ballet by Director Lapointe, the students went through their routines.

Numbers by the company's leading ballerina, Micheline Roy and by Mr. Lapointe were among the highlights.

Miss Pauline Leclair acted as accompanist.

FIFTEEN YEARS AGO

Their annual ET inter-school track meet behind them, Sherbrooke's Y's Men last night turned their attention to the Club's summer camp for boys, adjoining the Shore Acres property.

The meeting marked the last of the season at the Magog Hotel. Weekly meetings through the summer season will be held each Wednesday at the camp itself and will be in the form of work parties.

President Jeff Wilson was in the chair for the meeting and announced the new slate of officers proposed for the coming year.

The elections will be held in two weeks time. Seated at the head table were:

Angus MacLean, Mac Bradshaw, Gordon "Chick" Whately and Mac Sanders.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

The Past Noble Grande' Club of Lennoxville entertained the Sherbrooke club members in the Women's Institute clubroom in Lennoxville.

The president, Mrs. M. Mills, received the guests.

Bridge was played at six tables and prizes were won by Mrs. W. Reid, Mrs. Twyman and Miss V. Nicol. Later delicious refreshments were served by the hostesses Mrs. W. J. Lane, Miss B. Everette, Mrs. W. Stafford and Mrs. W. B. Brady.

Mrs. K. J. McLeod will entertain the June meeting to be held on the 23.

It's a swingin' cruise ship

SOMEWHERE IN THE CARIBBEAN—(NEA)—"She's turned on. She's a swingin' ship, a party ship." That was Robert Miles Runyan talking. He is design consultant responsible for the metamorphosis that is the "new" American Export-Isbrandsten liner Independence.

the thing," he said, "it is run on the European plan, you can pay as much or as little as you wish for food and drink. There's a restaurant to suit every budget and how you dress is up to you.

yourself to your own kind of entertainment—frugs for the swingers and waltzes for the stately. And you dressed up or down to suit yourself.

Bob Runyan turned up one night in a bright Paisley suit. There was no organized play. If you wanted to go to the movies, you went. There was no cruise director saying, "We will now have a Mexican Hat Dance contest."

A sunburst mural on the exterior left dock-walkers aghast. The raspberry, orange and yellow sun, 90 feet high with 400-foot rays streams across the hull, over the lifeboats and up the smokestacks.

Runyan has a cool head as well as a cool vocabulary. And he has the sense to keep an eye on the dollar.

"Our new ship marks the end of the shuffleboard era in cruising," said William Dennis Fugazy, president of Diners/Fugazy who sold the ship line the "floating resort" idea. "The ship is designed for impulsive funseekers who want to think young and be young."

You have no choice but to try out the deck chairs done in the same colors as the mural. The impact will floor you if you don't sit down for a minute.

Runyan's instinct for excellent, working design influences all his interests. He is an authority on art nouveau, an avid art collector and an aficionado of beautifully designed, functioning machinery. He's fascinated with speed and collects sports cars and motorcycles, including a Lamborghini and two dune buggies. Of the Lamborghini he said, "It's designed for beauty and danger and even that's function and delights me."

On the first voyage to St. Croix aboard the gussied-up liner, I participated in and observed what it's like to go on an "unstodgy, freeform, unrestrained cruise."

Runyan, who has used everything from soupcan art to psychedelia on the interior of his design brainchild, is as colorful as his latest work of art.

There was method in the madness of the design planned for the Independence, that makes it look a little like a riverboat.

Clothes? Well, the daytime offerings seemed to be slacks, shifts, and a sprinkling of shorts here and there. One or two ladies came to breakfast in what looked like patio culottes with stoles that could have come off their drapery rods. But on a party ship anything goes, I guess.

At 42, he is ruggedly handsome, flamboyantly dressed and talks the jargon of his own teen-aged kids. Man, he's cool and just as turned-on as the cruise ship.

The wild decor was carefully chosen to typify a new concept in cruising aimed to attract a new audience—the 21-25 age group who could until now rarely afford a cruise vacation under the captain's table, formal-dress-de rigueur rules of the past.

Evenings turned up only a few long gowns in the old cruise tradition. Casual dresses were predominant and cocktail clothes dotted the scene. Dress didn't stop the passengers from night club and party hopping all over the turned-on ship. Gone were the "class" barricades, locked companionways and stern, stodgy stewards. You helped

McCarthy has appeal for youth

By JEFF COX
NEA Special Writer

NEW YORK—(NEA)—When, in some far-off day, someone studies the book entitled, "Young People in America—1968," he'll find a significant portion of those people worked for the election of Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy of Minnesota as president.

tern, looking for an honest man. "We've found that honest man, and it's Gene McCarthy," says David Simon, junior at New York University.

that's what he has to say to McCarthy supporters don't care too much about it.

Chicago police are prepared for half a million Yippies.

Why? What is there about today's youth—what is there about McCarthy—that caused the detente to appear and grow?

This trust in the senator is doubly amazing in a day when many young people assume most politicians are lying—or at least stretching the truth. Those who feel this trust are by and large "middle-of-the-road" students, and they comprise the bulk of the young population.

And the Youth International Party (YIP) still plans to hold its anticonvention convention in Chicago during the week of the Democratic National Convention in August.

"This Yippie thing was designed originally to satirize President Johnson," says Roma Connable. "Now that President Johnson has announced he won't run again the steam will probably go out of the Chicago gathering."

Millions of young people of high school and college age—as well as thousands of pre-teen microboppers and millions in their 20s and early 30s—like what McCarthy has to say about the Vietnam war: "End it now." And there is a magnetism about the youthful heart for underdogs. At the start of the campaign, McCarthy was the underdog of all the serious candidates.

"We don't have the hippies and dropouts," says Martha Pryor, 20, a University of Miami sophomore who joined the McCarthy bandwagon in January. "You've probably heard the slogan 'Stay Clean for Gene.' We really mean we don't want mountains of hair and the vacant stares of the pot-heads. Who needs them?"

Chicago police are prepared for half a million Yippies.

Chicago police are prepared for half a million Yippies.

"Most important, our youngsters believe Gene McCarthy," says Roma Connable, a worker in New York's McCarthy for President headquarters on Columbus Circle. To show their faith in the senator, 1,400 New York young people combed the streets for signatures in late March during "Lantern Day."

At the other extreme, McCarthy doesn't appeal to the right-wing segments of youth—either the black power fascists or the John Birch types. But it is the Senator's strength among those who traditionally would've been moderate Republicans that's surprising.

Author's ego beats cancer

By AILEEN SNODDY

NEW YORK—(NEA)—"I learned to think about myself. I became an egoist. I take care of myself. I take care of my body, of my beauty, of my setting; they are gifts which I don't want to waste. And when anyone derides my cult of myself, I sometimes feel tempted to teach them what true distress is like!"

She was a guinea pig in a sense. But sitting in an exclusive women's club here, the trim author feels that submitting to the use of isotopes for cancer of the thyroid was definitely worth every agonizing minute.

During her struggle she felt she was abandoned by her husband and she herself insisted her two small daughters not live with her.

Her own family was solicitous and one bright light was the meeting of a strong young man who now is a successful French businessman and her second husband. Even with these persons she felt alone.

The novel, originally published in Paris where she lives, stirred others to write to her and their letters, she says, show that what she revealed "has helped keep them hoping and given them optimism."

Even with this she stresses that many people do not understand that cancers are of different types and she urges readers not to take false hope of cures for specific kinds.

Her reason for writing of her medical experiences, she says, was selfish. "I had a shame about my illness and my daughters didn't know about it and wondered why they had to live in the country away from me for so many years. The second reason was the death of a family friend of cancer."

The year it took to write the book was very painful for this former newspaper and magazine writer but now she gets up early every morning and writes for two hours on a new novel while her family is out. Her philosophy gleaned from her hospitalization, chats with fellow sufferers and the doctors and medical staff is quite simple. It worked for her and Pia Paoli (a nom de plume) hopes it will help others in distress.

Nursing staff holds farewell tea

Floral arrangements of lilacs and yellow mums transformed the large living room of the Norton Residence into a bright spectacle on Saturday, May 25 from 2 - 5:30 p.m., when the nursing staff honored Miss C. Aitkenhead at a farewell tea. The theme in the main entrance hall was an English Garden, depicted by a multi floral arrangement topped with a large colorful umbrella. The centerpiece on the tea table was a replica of the Sherbrooke - Montreal train en route complete with track, animals, birds, etc. This was artistically designed in wax and made by Mrs. L. Davison.

Upon arrival Miss Aitkenhead was presented with a corsage of pink Sweetheart roses arranged in the shape of a horseshoe.

Receiving the nursing staff members with Miss Aitkenhead were Mrs. R. Atto and Mrs. G.

Paterson. Pouring tea during the afternoon were Mrs. L. Bartlett, Miss M. Lane, Mrs. M. Ross, Miss F. Whittle, Miss D. Draper and Miss B. MacMillan.

In the early afternoon, Miss Aitkenhead was presented with a sterling silver inscribed tray and scroll from the nursing staff in appreciation of her 15½ years service as Director of Nursing at the Sherbrooke Hospital. The presentation was made by Miss F. Whittle. The scroll was designed especially for this occasion by Mrs. D. Delisle. Pink floral arrangements adorned the gift wrapper, which was artistically wrapped by Miss B. Boyd.

Refreshment conveners were Miss B. Harrison and Mrs. E. Clarke. Mrs. E. Cathcart arranged for the background music and Miss N. Beattie assisted on the planning committee.

Miss Thelma Gratham, Mrs. L. Davison and Mrs. D. Delisle were responsible for all decorating.

Miss Aitkenhead expressed her sincere appreciation to the nursing staff for the gift, for their assistance over the years and for an enjoyable afternoon.

Mrs. Warren Greene, West Bridgewater, Mass., entertained at a miscellaneous shower at her home on May 18, in honor of Miss Joan Getty, of Sherbrooke and Montreal, a June bride-to-be.

Assisting her in opening the many gaily wrapped gifts was Mrs. Edna Hurley, mother of the prospective groom. Later, a buffet lunch was served from a lace covered table, centered with a decorated shower cake, surrounded by lily-of-the-valley.

Helping Mrs. Greene with refreshments were Mrs. Henry Hurley and Mrs. John MacDonald. Miss Getty's marriage to Mr. Hugh Hurley, of West Bridgewater, Mass., will take place on June 15 at Trinity United Church, Sherbrooke, and Mrs. Greene, (the former Diane Evans), and Mrs. Henry Hurley (the former Janet Findlay) both of Lennoxville, will be matron of honor and bridesmaid, respectively, at the wedding.

★ Champagne — Jonis marriage ★

DERBY LINE — A pretty wedding took place on Saturday, May 25, at 11 a.m. in St. Edward's Church, Derby Line, when Mary Lou, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Jonis, Derby Line, became the bride of Mr. Anthony Champagne, son of Mr. and Mrs. Camille Champagne, of Morgan, Vt.

Father Joseph Dussault, Newport, formerly of this parish, officiated for the double ring ceremony and was celebrant of the nuptial mass and the organ music was played by Mrs. Denise Goudreau. White and pink gladioli and white carnations adorned the altar.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was in an original gown of white Irish linen, made by her mother, on princess lines with narrow Irish lace edging the sleeveless bodice and hem of the floor-length skirt, the front yoke had an insertion of the same lace with cut lace marguerites and lace around the high round neckline. Her double veil of silk illusion in chapel-train length was edged with narrow Irish lace and held in place by a triple bow of insertion lace centered with cut lace marguerites. She carried a cascade bouquet of yellow marguerites and feathered white carnations entwined with greenery.

Miss Jaclyn Conley, Derby, as maid of honor, in candlelight yellow; the bridesmaids, Mrs. Richard Jonis, Colchester, Vt., sister-in-law of the bride, and Miss Sandra Rollins, Millbrook, N.Y., both in Nile green, wore gowns of Shanlin Irish linen styled similar to the bride's gown, but having cascade collars of Irish lace with wide bands down the front to the hemline, the backs featuring butterfly bows with ties in three-quarter length. They carried baskets of yellow and white marguerites, and wore bows of white Irish lace in their hair.

Mr. Gabriel Champagne acted as best man for his brother and the ushers were Mr. Richard Jonis, brother of the bride and Mr. Robert Lamarche, of Connecticut.

Mrs. Jonis, mother of the bride chose a wedgwood blue embossed ensemble, a white nylon organza flower hat, blue and white accessories and a white cymbidium orchid corsage.

The groom's mother, Mrs. Champagne, wore a jacket dress of light pink, with toning accessories. Her corsage was a white cymbidium orchid.

Mrs. Gabriel Jonis, the bride's paternal grandmother, wore a figured silk crepe dress with a beige straw and tulle hat and a corsage of pink carnations.

The reception was held at the Triple-L Motel, Derby Line, where dinner was served to 140 guests. The bride's table was centered with the tiered wedding cake, in white with touches of gold and topped with a cluster of bells and marguerites. White and yellow flowers completed the table arrangements. The cake was made and decorated by Mrs. Benoit Blais.

Music for dancing was played by Johnny Scotto's Orchestra from Newport. Miss Vicki Cowens and Miss Pamela Bedard were in charge of the gifts and the guest book.

The couple left on a wedding trip to points in the New England States, the bride traveling in a blue on white check linen dress topped with a matching blue linen coat and white accessories. Her corsage was of yellow Sweetheart roses.

Guests were from Lowell, Chelmsford, Fort Devons and Brighton, Mass., Bronx, N.Y., Colchester, Derby, Newport, Morgan, Holland, Burlington, Canaan, Orleans, West Charleston and Troy, Vt., Plymouth, N.H., East Windsor Hill, Connecticut and the Boundary Villages.

Mr. and Mrs. Champagne will reside in Morgan.

Chanel in Dictionary

For years, fashion pages have been filled with coats and suits that are described as Chanel style. The straight, tailored clothes described are variations on a theme set by Gabrielle Chanel, a French fashion designer, whose classic, ageless styles are popular for both city and suburbs. Chanel has become so famous that she's now mentioned in a new dictionary of the English language.

Slips into Paris in a new move

PARIS (AP) — "Danny the Red," with his hair dyed black, has slipped back into France from West Germany openly challenging the de Gaulle government to stop his student-rousing agitation.

Daniel Cohn-Bendit, who was stopped at the border Friday and turned back to West Germany, held a news conference early today at the Sorbonne and said in response to questions: "There will be continuous violence as long as we live in a capitalist society. That will provide the violence. In no case must we give up the streets to police."

The de Gaulle government last weekend ordered a stop to street demonstrations and force to break them up.

Cohn-Bendit, 23, had boasted in West Germany after his ouster that he would be back in Paris to resume his nose-thumbing tactics against the government.

Says Quebec people want their own motherland

MONTREAL (CP) — Jacques Yvan Morin, president of the Quebec Estates General of French Canada, says the people of Quebec want an authentic motherland for themselves and that Quebec should be the centre of decision for French-Canadians.

Speaking to a local citizen's group, Mr. Morin said he looked forward to a strongly decentralized Canada. Canada "right now is undergoing a social, economic, civilization crisis. It is a climate of confusion, of crisis, an election of crisis."

He said Montreal was not a Canadian city, but an American city with "its industries, culture and economy."

Montreal had dropped from a population which was 63.4 per cent Francophone in 1961 to one that was 60 per cent in 1968. He said it would be 57 per cent in 1971.

night relations between the Quebec and French governments will continue "no matter who the individuals in power are."

government boards was told Tuesday that purchase of common stocks of Dominion Steel and Coal Corp. Ltd. is the easiest and quickest way for Quebec to get into the steel industry.

The committee was told there are "enormous advantages" in the proposed purchase by Jean-Paul Gignac, president of Sid-

MONTREAL (CP) — Pierre Bourgault, leader of the separatist Rassemblement pour l'indépendance nationale says in an apparent change of heart, that separatists should abstain from voting or cancel their ballots in the June 25 federal election.

Mr. Bourgault said in St. Hyacinthe last week the RIN might throw its support behind Prime Minister Trudeau as he was "the most likely to break up Canada." Should he win the election separatists would be able to claim they aided him in the victory.

Birthday

MONTREAL (CP) — The four living members of the famous Dionne quintuplets Tuesday celebrated their 34th birthday privately. They did not have any special plans for celebrating together this year.

NORTH HATLEY — The United Church Women held the May 6 meeting in the Community Hall. Mrs. E. Hatch and Miss Ella Morrissette led the worship period.

The program was presented by the Explorers group, which is sponsored by the U.C.W. Under the directions of their leaders, Mrs. C. Smith and Mrs. W. Caunter, the girls did a little play called, The Secret.

The president, Mrs. C. Smith and Mrs. H. J. Hall reported on plans of the Community Club for catering to the annual antique show, and the members agreed to cooperate.

For supply and welfare, Miss Morrissette reported on the collection of articles for a layette to be sent to Korea, and the members were asked to bring articles for the project, also for a bale, to the next meeting.

It was agreed to make the annual contribution to the U.C.W. allocation. Mrs. Smith drew attention to the summer school for the U.C.W., being held in August, at Ste. Anne de Bellevue. The theme will be Human Rights. Mrs. R. Olson reported the willingness of the choir to hold an occasional song service at the Lowell Home, during the summer months, and urged the members to attend if possible.

Several members reported attending the thank-offering meeting held in Waterville, at which time they had the opportunity to inspect the renovated kitchen in the Manse.

A letter was read regarding the U.C.W.'s forgotten patient at Douglas Hospital, and gifts will be sent to the man.

The June meeting will be an out-door meeting, and the members were asked to respond to the roll call with some article relating to nature.

The members agreed unanimously to send a letter to radio station C.K.T.S., deploring the cancellation of the religious programs.

At the conclusion of the meeting, the hostess, Mrs. R. Reed served refreshments.

On the afternoon of May 9 the U.C.W. held its annual spring tea, in the Community Hall. The conveners in charge were Mrs. R. E. Allworth and Mrs. S. Reed, with Mrs. R. Reed responsible for the beautiful flowers and decorations. The table of home-cooked food did a thriving business with Mrs. M. Sharman, Mrs. T. Carroll and Miss E. Morrissette in charge. The president, Mrs. Smith, greeted the many guests who attended and Mrs. W. Caunter acted as cashier.

DOCTOR'S MAILBAG

Ease Painful Joints With Rest, Hot Packs

By WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.

Q—I have synovitis in my right ankle. What can be done for it?

ment is to put the victim to sleep and forcibly break up the adhesions. Hydrocortisone is then injected into the joint. The victim must move the joint in all directions every day. The hydrocortisone will eliminate or greatly reduce the pain but, pain or no pain, the joint must be moved if recurrences are to be prevented.

A—Synovitis is an inflammation of the sheath of tissue that surrounds the large tendons where they are attached to a bone near its joint. It may be associated with tuberculosis and other serious diseases of the bones and joints but in most cases is caused by repeated injuries incurred when you make quick, forceful movements. If hot applications, rest and protective bandaging don't relieve it, injecting the joint with hydrocortisone should be tried.

Q—When I was 5, I had a slight case of poliomyelitis. The doctor told my mother that if I got married I would produce only one sex. I now have three boys and would like a girl. What are my chances?

A—Since poliomyelitis does not affect the sex of your offspring, the chances are 50-50 with each pregnancy.

Q—I have capsulitis in my right elbow. What is the best treatment? How long does it usually last? Will it recur?

A—Capsulitis of a joint is closely related to synovitis and bursitis. All are treated in essentially the same way. The duration depends on the severity and your individual response to the treatment used. Recurrences are common so it behooves you to avoid sudden violent movements or injuries to your elbow.

(Newspaper Enterprise Assn.)

Q—What causes some of my joints to make creaking or grating noises when I move them? Is there a cure for this?

Q—My doctor says I have a frozen shoulder. What does that mean? What can be done to relieve the pain?

A—This is a name given to adhesive or calcified tendinitis, a condition in which the joint is stiff and movement is very painful. The latest treat-

A—Grating sounds in the joints are usually due to arthritic roughening of the joint surface. When these changes have occurred the smooth surface can be restored only by replacing the joint cartilage with a noncorroding metal.

Q—Since poliomyelitis does not affect the sex of your offspring, the chances are 50-50 with each pregnancy.

STANFIELD CARRIES TRUDEAU — "Let me carry that," Progressive Conservative Leader Robert Stanfield said Thursday to a Calgary teenager running alongside his stagecoach carrying a

Pierre Elliott Trudeau sign. After some hesitation, the youth handed his evidence of Liberal party support to Mrs. Stanfield, sitting as a shotgun guard at a Calgary shopping centre. The word was that Mr. Stanfield was trying to make amends after his limousine ran over a Trudeau placard en route to the stagecoach sitting. (CP Wirephoto)

Activities at Stanstead College

This is the big week and the last week for all students except the matric grades.

Clergy speaking this week are: Rev. R. W. Peirce, Christ Church, Stanstead; Rev. W. Hutchinson, Universalist Church of Derby Lane; and Father Joseph Dussault, Newport.

Bishop Stradling of Johannesburg will be entertained at the home of Headmaster Raymond Lester and Mrs. Lester, on Friday, afterward he will be a luncheon guest at the College and in the evening five of the Anglican boys at the College will be among those confirmed at Christ Church.

The softball tournament was played off last week with the Red Sox the champions. The boys made an excellent showing at the E.T. Track meet in Sherbrooke on Saturday, May 25. Our school placed second by nine points to Sherbrooke High's first. Our school lacks Pee Wees, we had only three to enter, they did their best though.

The Baccalaureate service will be this Saturday, June 1, at Centenary Church in Stanstead at 11 a.m. The speaker will be Dr. P. N. MacDermot, M.D., C.M., Montreal. The prize giving will be in the Amaran Gym on the campus at 12:15 and a buffet luncheon in the dining hall at 1:15. Later that day many of the boys will leave for home with their parents and all will leave by the weekend. For the matric grade students their exams will commence on June 4.

Robert McConnachie, staff, is a very proud man for on June 1 his mother, Mrs. Bessie McConnachie, Sherbrooke, and his wife, Sarah, are both graduating with degrees from Bishop's University, Lennoxville. Congratulations to the family.

During the past few years we've been laying our cables underground. They now run up streets, down streets, across lawns, along fences and around backyards.

This year, you may want to dig a few post holes, build a sunken garden or make a wading pool.

Any of these chores could result in your damaging one or several of our cables. You could very easily knock out your telephone service as well as that of a few hundred other people, many of whom may feel the loss of service caused them irreparable damage.

Sixteen members responded to the roll call with a Today's Chuckle, and two new members were welcomed, Mrs. Grant LeBaron and Mrs. C. S. Daintrey, also a guest, Mrs. R. McVittie, Sr.

Correspondence included notes of thanks for gifts and cards. In discussing the business on hand it was agreed to have the picnic table repaired and painted. The president, Mrs. R. McLellan, reported plans presented by the Community Club for catering to the annual Antique show, and the branch agreed to co-operate. Helpers were asked to work at the rummage sale, and the annual cash contribution to the Memorial Scholarship was voted.

In the conveners reports, Mrs. A. Cheal, for citizenship, said she had contacted the government road overseer and arranged to have signs placed at the picnic site. The convener of education, Mrs. L. Naevie, reported plans are being made for a bilingual kindergarten, to be started in the fall. Mrs. Naevie was instructed by the branch to write to the principal of the high school, urging him to have the requirements for application for the scholarships posted in the school.

For home economics, Mrs. McLellan reported for Mrs. R. Little on the successful card party the branch sponsored in April. Mrs. J. Lowry, convener of publicity, reported posters made for the card party and dog clinic and placed on the Improvement Society bulletin board. For welfare and health, in the absence of the convener, Mrs. R. McVittie, Jr., several members reviewed the dog clinic the branch sponsored. Dr. L. Gendreau, Sherbrooke, was at the Community Hall on April 22 and 31 animals received rabby shots and certificates. It was agreed to write Dr. Gendreau a letter of appreciation for his interest and co-operation in this project and also to the Corporation of North Hatley, thanking them for financial support also.

The vice-president, Mrs. A. Cheal, read the report of the program committee, which was accepted.

The branch had been asked to serve at a wedding reception on May 24, and several of the members indicated their willingness to work at the event.

The members were reminded of the Christmas stockings, which must be turned in at the June meeting. The roll-call will be an article for the sales table at the County Fair, The donation of a dish cloth and soap for the branch's supplies was acknowledged with thanks.

The program for the afternoon was taken by the grandmothers in the branch, who read articles and poems of their choice. A cookie sale followed, each member having provided two dozen cookies. The mystery parcel, donated by Mrs. A. Cheal, was won by Mrs. Canteim.

At the conclusion of the meeting, tea was served by the hostesses, Mrs. G. Pocock and Mrs. J. Lowry.

On May 11, the branch held a spring rummage sale in the Community Hall and through the cooperation of friends, who made generous contributions of all types of merchandise the good attendance and the work of the members in arranging and selling the merchandise, the branch's first effort in this type of project, was a gratifying success.

Junior hockey leagues up in arms over CAHA ruling on age limit

The onslaught against the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association's decision to peg the age limit for junior players at 19 got under way in earnest Tuesday, with Western Canada's top junior league heading for a direct showdown with the CAHA.

The nine-team Western Canada Junior Hockey League announced its governors have agreed unanimously on an age limit of 21. The CAHA at a meeting in Windsor, Ont., last week authorized an age limit of 19.

There was also an outcry from Terry Fraser, general manager of Moncton Alpine Seals of the Maritime Junior Hockey League, who said the fledgling league may be in jeopardy because the CAHA limit will cause a scarcity of players.

And city council in Kitchener, Ont., took the first step in what may evolve into a formal complaint to the Ontario government over the CAHA move.

Prior to last week's Windsor meeting, the CAHA recognized as junior any player who was under 20 on May 31 of the year following the start of the season. The new rule moves the deadline up five months, to Dec. 31 of the year following.

The WCJHL also announced Tuesday plans to offer four-year scholarships to players 18 or younger at universities and vocational schools. Players studying continuously for the four years would keep junior eligibility for the duration of their courses.

But Bill Hunter, owner of Edmonton Oil Kings and chairman of the WCJHL board of governors, told an Edmonton news conference the league will make no move to declare its independence.

Then Gordon Jukes, CAHA executive director, said in Winnipeg that adoption of the higher age limit by the WCJHL would automatically force the league outside organized hockey.

In Windsor, Ont., CAHA president Lloyd Pollock said if the league operates under the new regulations the league and its players will be suspended by the CAHA, and players probably will not be allowed to return to a CAHA-sanctioned team at a later date.

players from other junior leagues. The league reached accord with the CAHA for last season.

The WCJHL also announced Tuesday plans to offer four-year scholarships to players 18 or

Als continue to win blank Quebec 5-0

QUEBEC — Sherbrooke Alouettes stretched their early season winning streak to three straight games here last night when they blanked the Quebec Indians 5-0 behind the shut-out pitching of Enrique Chaviano.

The Alouettes managed 10 hits off of three Indian pitchers and committed no errors while Quebec, not quite so perfect defensively, had five miscues chalked up against them.

Coach Nick Testa has now brought Sherbrooke through three straight wins, two over the Lachine Mets last weekend. For the Indians, Ray Korn, started on the mound. He was relieved in the sixth by Louis de Leon followed by Bill Bostrom in the eighth inning. The 2,457 fans present at the Quebec Municipal Stadium watched Sherbrooke sluggers Erasmo Felipe and Edmundo Borrome manage two hits on four trips to the plate, while Willie Madison had two hits in five attempts.

In other Provincial League play Plessisville crossed home plate twice in the ninth to squeak past Granby 3-2. The Lachine Mets earned their first victory of the season last night when they downed the Thetford Miners 8-4 in Lachine.

The Alouettes are presently awaiting the arrival of a new pitcher. The new prospect, a young right-hander now playing Class A ball, is expected this weekend said Normand Ainslie, general manager of the Als.

Sherbrooke will face the Plessisville Braves Thursday evening in Plessisville.

Tigers win, Orioles and Twins tie in LL, two games tonight

Tigers extended their lead in the Sher-Lenn Little League last evening with a close 8-6 win over Red Sox while Orioles and Twins battled to a 7-7 at the Parade Grounds.

Tonight Yankees meet the Tigers and Red Sox play Senators. Both games are at the Parade Grounds.

On two hits and a error Tigers got away to a two-run lead in the top of the first inning. Rose and Roy were the hitters. Red Sox went hitless in the first. It was 2-2 at the end of two innings as the Sox came up with two runs. Tigers were being held scoreless in their part of the same inning. Urpriet and Roy, with his second hit, put Tigers in the lead again in the first half of the third inning scoring three runs. Red Sox got one of these back in the last of the third. Each team went scoreless in the fourth. Three runs in the fifth for Tigers made it a 8-3 ball game in Tigers' favor. This was how it stood going into the sixth. Tigers in the top of this inning, were kept off the score sheet.

Red Sox trailing by five runs, made a bid to take over with three runs but failed. Louis Robert, Red Sox left fielder, hit a home run with two aboard and Roger Roy, the Tiger hurler, put the fire out before anymore damage was done. This was a well played game by both teams and a couple more hits for Red Sox could have made it closer.

Twins, going into the last of the sixth, trailing 7-3 almost pulled an upset as they came up with four runs to tie the score 7-7. In the last of the sixth young Bill Mulcahy, Twins second baseman, clouted a homer with two men on.

Orioles started off with four runs in the first on hits by Pepin and Bolduc coupled with two errors sending in the runs. They added one more run in the second making it 5-0.

Twins could do nothing with Laforest's pitching in the first three innings.

Twins broke into the scoring column in the last of the fourth as they got one run on a single by Kerridge and two walks. Orioles went scoreless in the top of the fifth. Twins got closer in their part of the fifth as they clicked for two tallies. A home run by Kerridge, with one on, sent the runs home.

Orioles with two runs in the sixth brought their total up to seven, and in the bottom of sixth came Mulcahy's home run to end the game with a 7-7 score.

13-That Sinking Feeling

Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

I left off with two holes to play in the Tucson Open, and tied for the lead with George Knudson. Sounds good, huh? Well, they were two of the hardest holes on the course to par, and as I related previously, I should have had the thing locked up.

This is a very sinking feeling, this early in the year when you've got a chance to knock off a victory. I said to myself, "I'm not playing for a tie."

The pin was cut in real tight on the left on 17, over a bunker, with another bunker to the left. I burned a five-iron in there and it looked good, but the ball hit the corner of the green and bounded off into the trap. I did well to get it on the green and two-putt for a bogey.

Now to tie Knudson, I've got to birdie 18, the hardest hole of all. I hit a good drive and a four-iron that I thought blanked the pin out. But it came up just on the front fringe. I picked the wrong club. My chip shot looked like it might roll in but sneaked 4 1/2 feet past. Some situation! A tournament I should have won by two strokes, and I have to make a putt to tie for second, which meant $4,100 extra in prize money.

I made it, which points up in our game that if you can't win, there's still a lot of money to be made.

I relate my experience to the idea that a golfer shouldn't let one or two bad holes upset his entire round. You can still retrieve a good score by playing them one hole at a time.

Twins edge Indians as A's top Boston Red Sox 3-1

Sonny Siebert and Bill Rohr of Cleveland Indians pitched seven hitless innings against Minnesota Twins, but their combined effort was sort of like locking the barn after the horse escaped.

Siebert and Rohr didn't yield a hit from the second through the eighth innings Tuesday night at Minnesota, but the Twins touched Siebert for three in the first when they scored all of their runs in a 3-1 victory.

In other American League action, Oakland Athletics edged Boston Red Sox 3-1, Detroit Tigers topped California Angels 4-1 and Baltimore Orioles nipped Chicago White Sox 2-1 in 10 innings at Milwaukee. The Washington at New York game was rained out.

Minnesota got its first four batters on base against Siebert in the first. John Roseboro doubled and scored Rod Carew's single. After Harmon Killebrew walked, Tony Oliva doubled in Carew and Killebrew scored on Rich Reese's sacrifice fly.

Siebert then stopped the Twins until the seventh when Rohr took over to complete the job.

in Boston's losing effort against Oakland.

The big Red Sox right-hander, reactivated last weekend, came in with two men on and one out in the sixth and got out of the jam. He also pitched the seventh, yielding one hit and no runs.

Ken Harrelson homered for Boston in the second, but Oakland came back with two runs on Jim Pagliaroni's blast in the bottom of the inning. It was the first homer with a man on base at the Oakland Coliseum this season.

The Athletics also scored in the sixth on two walks and Joe Rudi's double.

Detroit broke loose for four runs against California's George Brunet in the first inning. Bill Freehan doubled in the first two runs and then scored on Willie Horton's homer.

ET pulp mills battle pollution

By PETER VERRAL
(Record Staff Reporter)

Whenever the subject of water pollution is discussed, the public almost always wags an accusing finger at pulp and paper mills ignorant of the fact that the mills are presently engaged in an intensive and costly program to combat potential pollutants being dumped into rivers.

Here in the Eastern Townships the pulp and paper mills at East Angus, Bromptonville and Windsor are busy with anti-pollution programs.

The Quebec Water Board recently nudged the mills into action by suggesting pollution abatement efforts be paced over a three-stage period to end in 1974.

J. A. J. Meyers, assistant to the manufacturing manager of the Windsor-based Domtar Pulp and Paper Limited said the mill "has carried out a sustained program of water purification" over the years.

"The company envisages a continuing program of pollution abatement at an accelerating rate that will cost approximately $2 million over the next three years," he said.

Interviewed at the Windsor mill, Mr. Meyers explained the past, present and future plans in a continuing anti-pollution program.

Ten years ago a $500,000 bark burner was installed which eliminated the coarse bark from the St. Francis River. In 1966 a $150,000 effort was launched to reduce the amount of chemicals and wood fibre from the paper machines.

"The same year," Mr. Meyers said, "a $75,000 program was started to install measuring devices on each source of mill effluent. This program is providing control over the sewers, enabling us to reduce the pollutants discharged into the river."

In 1967 $150,000 was spent in the pulp mill in an effort to stop sewerage lime mud (chemical waste from the Kraft mill process), to the river. The project is expected to be completed this year.

Ticking off other campaigns the mill official said in 1968 "a $200,000 anti-pollution program was set in motion by starting a large reclaim installation in the woodroom that will eliminate bark fines from the river."

"Up to now there was no practical known method to reclaim these particles, but as a result of research undertaken by the company, new techniques were developed to make this possible."

Mr. Meyers said this program is expected to be completed by 1969. This year, he said $50,000 will be spent to eliminate chemical effluents generated by the bleaching process.

In addition to the major projects spelled out, "we have reduced considerably the miscellaneous spills in all departments. We have formed a mill task force of key personnel who are actively investigating pollution losses in their departments and who will evolve new techniques to reduce these further."

A spokesman at the pulp and paper mill in Bromptonville load into Quebec rivers and lakes.

The spokesman explained that since they do not have a chemical pulp mill, there is no chemical pulp load going into the St. Francis River.

He said a number of Sherbrooke groups are pressuring to make the St. Francis a "pleasure river" with crystal clear water.

He said with this in mind the groups may still consider the load going into the river is unacceptable despite the elimination of bark.

Although the situation has vastly improved, a 1955 study of Stream Pollution by the Quebec Federation of Fish and Game Associations, was already raising an alarmed voice over the dumping of bark into the water.

A spokesman for the Domtar mill in East Angus said the mill hasn't been dumping bark into the river for the last eight to 10 years.

At present the East Angus mill is working on a program to reduce the amount of solids as well as chemical pollutants that are dumped into the St. Francis.

The spokesman said new washers (which wash the pulp), will help reduce the quantities of cooking liquors that go into the river.

He said the main problem is to prevent sediments that will cover over fish spawning grounds from going into the river.

According to the spokesman the Quebec Water Board has suggested a schedule to eliminate the various pollutants going into the river. He said the mill hopes to get the amount of solid pollutants down to a controlled level per day by the middle of this year.

And this level is expected to be reduced even farther by the end of 1969.

CONSTANT EFFORT — Above is a disc savel which removes wood fibre and chemicals from water before it overflows into the river. This is just a portion of a $150,000 project conducted by the Domtar mill in Windsor to reduce the amount of chemicals and wood fibre of-fluent from the paper machines. (Record photo: Gerry Lemay)

JACOBY ON BRIDGE

Here is another example of bridge astigmatism which causes a player to overlook the fact that his partner is a living, breathing human being who can make decisions of his own.

North had 15 high card points and a lot of honor cards. He might well have made a two no-trump response. After all, in standard American bidding the two no-trump response shows 13 to 15 points, but North liked his hand.

We have no real quarrel with his three no-trump response. Everyone is entitled to overbid a trifle on occasion.

We have a real quarrel with his five heart bid. North had told his full story and just a little more when he responded three no-trump. His partner had heard this three no-trump call and had chosen to go to four hearts. South wasn't trying for a slam. He just didn't like no-trump and did have two good five card major suits.

East played his ace of clubs on the first trick. He continued by cashing his ace of spades and since there is never any way to eat the ace of trumps, South was down one.

As is so frequently the case, North who was solely responsible for the debacle, blamed South: "Why shouldn't you just let me play in three no-trump? I would have made it."

South replied, "Right, but how could I tell that you had three stoppers in clubs? In any event, you should have passed to four hearts."

South was right. If South were really interested in a slam he could have bid something other than four hearts. It didn't matter, anyway. North had nothing extra to show and no excuse for his five heart bid.
