Words of Welcome

Welcome Address at the 2025 World Congress of Political Science

I extend my heartfelt congratulations on the hosting of the 2025 World Congress of Political Science. It is a special pleasure to meet you here in Seoul. On behalf of the National Assembly of the Republic of Korea, I warmly welcome all political scientists, distinguished guests from around the world, and participants who have gathered here with a shared passion for scholarship.

The Republic of Korea is a nation of dynamic democracy. Rising from the tragedies of colonial rule, division, and war, and overcoming military dictatorship, we have built our democracy through the power of the people from the ground up. In recent months, Korea has once again demonstrated remarkable resilience in the face of democratic crisis. Our people changed power with cheering sticks and wrote a new chapter in history through their votes. Korean democracy is still evolving—and continues to inspire the world.

Korea now stands at a new starting point where we must once again consolidate democracy. We must further strengthen our political democracy and move toward realizing socioeconomic democracy. The National Assembly is committed to enhancing the authority and functions of the legislature, while focusing on legislation that promotes social dialogue, mediates conflict, and addresses polarization and inequality. Democracy can only take deeper and broader root when tangible improvements are felt in the lives of the people. Democracy must be proven not by who holds power, but by how it transforms the lives of citizens.

The theme of this Congress—Resisting Autocratization in Polarized Societies—is timely and profoundly important. The spread of fake news, hate-driven politics, populism, and authoritarian tendencies poses a grave threat to democracies worldwide. In such times, politics, academia, and civil society must come together—sharing insights, raising voices, defending freedom, and protecting the values of democracy. I believe this Congress will serve as a vital platform for such collaboration.

Though our political systems may differ, the desire for democracy is universal. I hope this Congress connects those shared aspirations and fosters new solidarity. Democracy does not stand still. And together, we move forward.

In closing, I would like to express my deep gratitude to the International Political Science Association and the Korean Local Organizing Committee of the 2025 IPSA Seoul World Congress for making this meaningful gathering possible. I hope your encounters and discussions in Seoul will remain a lasting memory for all.

Words of Welcome

Dear colleagues and friends,

It is my pleasure to welcome you to the 2025 World Congress of Political Science in Seoul, South Korea. The International Political Science Association (IPSA) organizes the World Congress every two years. It is IPSA's most important activity, offering its members the opportunity to gather, present, discuss, and disseminate their research results. The IPSA Congress is a unique global forum for political scientists, providing a space to meet with colleagues from all around the globe and learn from their work. It allows participants to listen to diverse and numerous perspectives and explore fields that may lie beyond our everyday work. At the same time, the plenaries, lectures and roundtables open new opportunities to engage with leading voices on key issues affecting our political systems.

The host city, Seoul, is a great metropolis, highly populated and dynamic, with an exceptionally interesting blend of tradition and ultra-modernity, its renowned cultural attractiveness and delicious gastronomy. Above all, its citizens (South Koreans, at large) are well known for their hospitality and friendly attitude. Additionally, this World Congress will allow us to interact particularly with the very active South Korean community of political scientists. The high number of registered participants and paper submissions indicate that this will be among the most successful Congresses in IPSA's history; it may well be the most successful one!

In the past two years, the world has experienced radical changes that entail enormous challenges for our community of political scientists. Across nearly all political systems, populist and autocratic tendencies have increased, with negative consequences for democracy. Rising radicalization and ideological and affective polarization among our citizens and leaders challenge the resilience of democratic institutions. At the same time, our societies and institutions generate resilience mechanisms that enhance their quality and reinforce the citizens' democratic values. These developments pose important challenges for political systems and, therefore, for political scientists who study them.

The Congress theme, Resisting Autocratization in Polarized Societies, summarizes and encourages reflection on these transformations and challenges. Of course, many other topics of interest to the discipline will be discussed. Our task, as political scientists, is to analyze all these relevant topics, to help improve their understanding, and to propose solutions to these challenges in order to enhance the quality of our political systems, their institutions and processes. And we will do so in a cooperative way, through open debate and collective learning, doing what we do best: contributing to innovative scientific knowledge.

The Congress will be an excellent opportunity to address all these issues of global interest, sharing academic initiatives with colleagues from the five continents. It will undoubtedly enrich our perspective through this intellectual, scientific and cultural exchange in the global community of political scientists.

There are many people who worked diligently and tirelessly to make this World Congress possible. We cannot but express our gratitude to them. I want to recognize the leadership of the Program Co-Chairs, for shaping a great and ambitious program that will entail rich intellectual contributions and discussions. The Local Organizing Committee and the regional partners have also worked tirelessly to ensure that the logistic aspects are seamlessly managed and facilitating scholarly exchanges by creating an important number of panels and tracks. I also want to mention the great work by the IPSA Secretariat in organizing and managing the Congress. And, of course, we also have to show our gratitude to all those who have generously agreed to chair tracks and panels or to serve as discussants. Without their dedication and generosity, this event would not have been possible.

Let me invite you to bring to Seoul the results of your work but also your intellectual and cultural curiosity, and your willingness to share, discuss and learn within this global community. We all, together, will shape the voice of the global political science in Seoul.

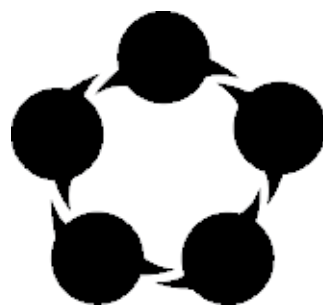

I wish you a great and enriching World Congress.

Thank you!

Pablo Oñate

Welcome to IAPSS
International Association for Political Science Students

Words of Welcome

Welcome to the 28th IPSA World Congress of Political Science, taking place in the dynamic city of Seoul, South Korea, from 12 to 16 July 2025. It is a pleasure to gather once again in person to share cutting-edge research, renew longstanding friendships, and forge new collegial connections. This Congress marks a significant moment for the international political science community and promises to be one of the most dynamic and globally inclusive gatherings in IPSA's history.

This year's Congress theme, Resisting Autocratization in Polarized Societies, was developed through a collaborative process involving the Program Co-Chairs, Dr. Azul A. Aguiar Aguilar and Dr. Irasema Coronado, in consultation with the Committee on the Congress Program (CCP), the Local Organizing Committee (LOC), and the IPSA Executive Committee. The theme addresses one of the most urgent challenges confronting global democracies today: the erosion of democratic norms and the rise of autocratic regimes amidst deepening political polarization. It invites reflection and debate on the causes and consequences of these developments and encourages critical dialogue on pathways toward democratic resilience, pluralism, and inclusive governance.

The CCP has played a pivotal role in shaping the academic content of this Congress. Charged with advising on the program structure and overseeing the acceptance and distribution of panels and papers, the CCP ensures alignment with IPSA's values, including gender balance, regional representation, and linguistic diversity. Alongside the Program Co-Chairs, the CCP comprised Magdalena Musiał-Karg, Florence Haegel, Serge Granger, Berk Esen and Keiichi Kubo, with Euiyoung Kim and Ajin Choi serving as representatives of the LOC. Together, this team steered a rigorous peer-review process involving the review of more than 6,274 paper proposals, ultimately curating a diverse and intellectually rich program.

The Congress structure reflects the centrality of its theme. Congress Theme panels and roundtables, organized by invitation, feature leading scholars who will address critical aspects of autocratization, populism, and polarization. General tracks encompass a wide range of topics across the discipline, while Research Committee tracks—drawing from more than 50 specialized areas—highlight the depth and breadth of political science research from around the world. Special Events include innovative formats such as informal café-style lunchtime gatherings focused on research methods and academic publishing, designed to foster mentorship and peer-to-peer exchange in a relaxed setting.

Plenaries will bring together prominent scholars and public figures. IPSA President Pablo Oñate will chair the Presidential Plenary, "Populism, Polarization and the Consequences for Democracy," featuring six distinguished scholars from different global regions and career stages. Among the keynote speakers are former United Nations Secretary-General Ban Ki-moon, who will speak on "Liberal Democracy, Multilateralism, and Global Citizenship," Professor Donatella Della Porta, who will address "The Contentious Politics of Academic Freedom: Social Movements and Repression," and Professor Neera Chandhoke, whose keynote is titled "Resisting Legal Autocracy in South Asia." The Congress will also include sessions honoring recipients of IPSA's most prestigious awards.

This year marks a major step forward in linguistic inclusivity. For the first time, panels will be presented in languages other than English, French and the local language. A total of 21 panels will take place in Arabic, Spanish, Portuguese, Hindi, and Ukrainian, further advancing IPSA's commitment to accessibility and multilingual scholarship.

The Local Organizing Committee, in partnership with leading Korean academic and public institutions, has curated a number of special tracks, including sessions on Asian Politics, Korean Politics, International Relations of East Asia, and emerging political issues across the region. Collaborative programming with the Korean Political Science Association (KPSA), the Japanese Political Science Association (JPSA), and the Chinese Association of Political Science, Taipei (CAPS), adds further regional depth and dialogue.

The successful planning of this Congress has been made possible through the close collaboration between the IPSA Secretariat and the Local Organizing Committee. The LOC played a vital role in bringing the Congress to Seoul and securing the Coex as a world-class venue. The Program Co-Chairs and the CCP wish to extend their deepest gratitude to Yee-Fun Wong, Roksolana Bobyk, Stephanie Doughty, and to Kim Fontaine-Skronski, Ekaterina Kuzmenko, Mathieu St-Laurent, Halûk Dag, Éric Grève and Fernand Thériault of the Secretariat for their exceptional support and dedication throughout the planning process.

The 28th IPSA World Congress of Political Science stands as a testament to the power of global collaboration and shared intellectual commitment. We hope this Congress will offer a stimulating, thought-provoking, and memorable experience for all attendees, and we warmly welcome your participation in this vital international conversation.

Words of Welcome

Dear IPSA community,

Nearly three decades have passed since IPSA held its first congress in Asia, right here in Seoul, bringing together close to 1,500 scholars from around the globe. In 2025, we return to this vibrant city, this time with over 3,500 participants, setting a new record in IPSA's 76-year history! This remarkable achievement reflects the tireless efforts of the Local Organizing Committee (LOC) and its regional partners, whose dedication has helped make the 28th World Congress of Political Science a historical milestone for the association. It is a testament to the commitment and resilience of the global political science community in times of great uncertainty and change in both national and international politics.

After holding a fully virtual congress in 2021 and a hybrid congress in 2023, we are pleased to return to a fully in-person event. In a world increasingly shaped by disinformation and fake news, science is now more than ever the last bastion against the attacks on liberal democratic principles and multilateralism. This year's theme, Resisting Autocratization in Polarized Societies, resonates deeply with our contemporary global reality. It invites us to reflect on the forces driving democratic backsliding, even in settings where it once seemed unthinkable, and to explore how scholarship can help promote democratic resilience.

As we gather here in Seoul, we carry forward the spirit of perseverance and innovation that defines our discipline. I invite you to approach this congress with the same sense of adaptability and unity that have guided us through many challenges in recent years. Your contributions will not only enrich our collective knowledge, but also chart the course of political science in the years ahead.

In closing, I would like to express my heartfelt gratitude to all the participants, the track chairs, panel convenors, the Program Co-Chairs, the LOC and regional partners, the Executive Committee members, and the dedicated team at the IPSA Secretariat. Your enthusiasm and hard work have been instrumental in making this year's congress a resounding success!

I wish you a fulfilling and inspiring experience at the 28th IPSA World Congress. I thank you for your participation and look forward to witnessing the remarkable work that will undoubtedly emerge from our gathering.

Kim Fontaine-Skronski
Executive Director

Dear colleagues, distinguished guests, and fellow scholars from around the world,

On behalf of the Local Organizing Committee, it is my distinct honor and pleasure to welcome you all to Seoul for the 2025 IPSA World Congress of Political Science.

We are deeply grateful to host this global gathering in a city where tradition and innovation coexist in vibrant harmony. Korea is a place where democracy was not granted but earned—achieved not from the top down, but through the determined will of its citizens. From candlelight vigils in public squares to the ballot box, Korea's democratic journey has been one of collective courage and civic conviction.

Most recently, the Korean people overcame yet another internal political crisis—resolving it peacefully through civic action and democratic elections. This reaffirmed the enduring power of public voice, non-violence, and constitutional governance. In this spirit, it is especially meaningful for us to convene in Seoul at a time when democratic institutions around the world face growing strain.

The theme of this Congress, Resisting Autocratization in Polarized Societies, could not be more timely. Across the globe, we are witnessing troubling signs of democratic erosion, rising authoritarianism, and deepening political and social fragmentation. This Congress aspires to serve not only as a platform for rigorous academic exchange, but also as a collaborative space for envisioning democratic renewal—through interdisciplinary dialogue, comparative insights, and policy-relevant scholarship.

This marks the second time Korea has hosted the IPSA World Congress, following the successful 1997 Seoul Congress. Much has changed since then. Today, Korea stands as one of the world's most dynamic democracies and an active contributor to global political science discourse.

To reflect that spirit, the Local Organizing Committee has curated several special tracks and events in partnership with national and international institutions. These include the Speaker of the National Assembly Roundtable on the future of Korean democracy; a timely session on "The Role of Academia in Resisting Autocratization," featuring university presidents trained in political science and the heads of major political science associations; and a commemorative event honoring the newly established Kim Dae-jung Award, which celebrates democratic leadership and scholarly contributions to peace and justice.

We will also showcase regional collaboration through an East Asian Cooperation Forum with scholars from Korea, Japan, and Taiwan. In addition, we are proud to host Asian Night—a celebration of cross-cultural solidarity and intellectual fellowship, as well as a recognition reception for the Congress track chairs and representatives of IPSA's collective members.

Let me express my deepest appreciation to our generous partners and supporters, including the National Assembly of Korea, the National Election Commission, the National Research Council for Economics, Humanities and Social Sciences, the Ministry of Foreign Affairs, the Kim Dae-jung Foundation, the Korea Tourism Organization, and the Seoul Tourism Organization.

May your time here be intellectually stimulating, professionally rewarding, and personally memorable. Welcome to Seoul—where democracy is alive, and dialogue thrives.

With warmest regards,
Euiyoung Kim
on behalf of Local Organizing Committee Co-Chairs

The International Political Science Association (IPSA) was founded in Paris in 1949 under the aegis of the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization (UNESCO) to promote the development of political science worldwide. With over 4,000 individual members across all five continents, IPSA has also been successful in encouraging the creation of national and regional political associations and, today, there are close to 60 such collective members.

As an international scholarly association, IPSA has a mission to:

- Support the development of political science in all parts of the world, building academic networks linking East and West, North and South;
- Create an inclusive and global political science community by ensuring a balanced representation along the lines of region, gender and career development, in all of its activities;
- Promote collaboration between scholars in emerging and established democracies and support the academic freedoms needed for the social sciences to flourish;
- Promote the participation of scholars from less developed countries through travel grants and the Global South Solidarity Fund;
- Offer opportunities for political scientists working in particular sub-fields of the discipline to associate with colleagues worldwide;
- Ensure that political scientists are strongly positioned to make a valuable contribution to the quality of public deliberation and decision-making and to our understanding of an increasingly interconnected political world;
- Offer publications, including the lead journal International Political Science Review, the International Political Science Abstracts, Participation, and the IPSA Portal;
- Support and promote political science globally by offering summer schools in research methods;
- Support the role of political science in empowering men and women to participate more effectively in political life.

Institutional Relationships

IPSA is a member of the International Science Council (ISC) and has a consultative status with the Economic and Social Council of the United Nations (ECOSOC).

IPSA's Main Activities

Research

IPSA has 53 active Research Committees (RCs) covering a diversity of sub-fields of political science. Starting with one in 1970, IPSA RCs are now a vast worldwide research network where all interested individuals are welcome to contribute. While they frequently publish their work and organize their own conferences, RCs also present a minimum of two panels at IPSA World Congresses. Joint panels between two or more RCs are strongly encouraged.

Anti-Harassment Policy: Code of Conduct

The purpose of this document is to provide an authoritative statement of the expectations for conduct for all who participate in IPSA meetings and congresses. The code of conduct is a natural outcome of IPSA's commitment to maintaining and promoting a professional environment at its meetings and other organized activities, and it is guided by the conviction that the advancement of knowledge flourishes most readily in an atmosphere of constructive debate in which all members treat each other with dignity and respect.

The International Political Science Association (IPSA) brings together professionals from a variety of backgrounds and from a large number of locations around the globe. This diversity brings with it the potential for fruitful dialogue about research and policy, but also the possibility of disagreements among members. This code of conduct is designed to ensure that all are treated with dignity and respect, and that sensitivity and consideration guide our interactions while, at the same time, not limiting the substance or arena of our debate.

- 1) This code of conduct refers to relations between IPSA members, IPSA Secretariat staff, and other participants, and to their interactions in the course of IPSA activities.
 - a) IPSA activities include IPSA's governing bodies (Executive Committee, Council), world congresses, regional and committee meetings and workshops, and editing of IPSA's journals.
 - b) Some matters of professional ethics are under the purview of specific committees and are addressed elsewhere: for instance, plagiarism and academic freedom.
- 2) IPSA office holders, from the President and Executive Director to members of the Executive Committee (EC) and editors of IPSA journals, have a special responsibility to uphold and observe this code of conduct, promoting in the Association's activities a professional environment characterized by constructive debate and the treatment of all members and participants with dignity and respect.
- 3) IPSA recognizes that there is a distinction between victimization through harassment and legitimate, justifiable, and appropriate constructive criticism. Nothing in this document should be construed as a limitation on the ability of members and participants to constructively evaluate and critique one another's work.
- 4) Nonetheless, IPSA recognizes its duty to ensure that members and participants are not harassed. It further recognizes that this duty is of wider application and includes all members and participants, regardless of status or the time period.
 - a) Harassment can be defined as unwanted conduct (actions or comments) related to age, gender, gender identity, sexual orientation, race, disability, religion, nationality, citizenship or any personal characteristic of the individual, which has the purpose (intentional) or effect (unintentional) of violating a person's dignity or creating an intimidating, hostile, degrading, humiliating or offensive environment for that person.
 - b) Harassment may include, but is not limited to:
 - i. Offensive, insulting, intimidating, or malicious behavior targeted at another person or persons;
 - ii. Abuse or misuse of power intended to undermine, humiliate, denigrate, or injure the person or persons toward whom such behavior is targeted;
 - iii. Actions or comments—persistent or isolated—affecting the dignity of people or individuals. The key is that the actions or comments can be experienced as demeaning and unacceptable;
 - iv. Sexual harassment or intimidation.
- 5) IPSA recognizes that members and participants who feel that they have been victims of harassment as defined in this code of conduct are entitled to pursue their case in a welcoming and non-threatening environment.
- 6) IPSA is committed to ensuring that complaints brought under this procedure shall not lead to the victimization or harassment of any individual.
 - a) The procedures for addressing grievances (detailed below) aim to resolve complaints in an informal way, whenever possible. At the same time, IPSA recognizes that punitive measures may be required to address some violations.
 - b) IPSA also is committed to ensuring that those who lodge complaints under this code are not subject to retaliation by respondents or third parties.
- 7) IPSA ensures that procedures are in place to address complaints of harassment. Such procedures provide for:
 - a) Timely handling of such complaints;
 - b) Fair and impartial handling of such complaints; and
 - c) Fair, impartial, and sensitive treatment of all parties affected by such complaints.
- 8) Congress and event participants should report—directly or through another IPSA office holder—a violation of the code of conduct to the IPSA Ombudspersons, which are appointed by the EC at its pre-World Congress meeting to serve until the next pre-World Congress meeting.
- 9) In cases where the reported behavior is ongoing, or where there is a question of immediate physical harm or danger, steps will be taken by IPSA officials to ensure the safety of participants, regardless of whether a formal complaint is pursued or not.
- 10) Participants have two options through which to pursue a complaint.
 - a) If the participant does not wish to enter into a formal investigation process, then IPSA can issue a notice. In these cases, the IPSA Ombudspersons will contact the person who is the subject of the complaint, inform them that a complaint has been made, and remind them of IPSA's Anti-Harassment Policy. The recipient of the notice will have the opportunity to respond to IPSA in writing, but no further formal investigation will be undertaken.
 - b) The formal investigation process will be handled in confidence, and the identity of the complainant will not be revealed to the respondent, except with the permission of the complainant. To proceed with the formal investigation process, the complaint must be made in writing and must include:
 - i. The name of the complainant;
 - ii. The name of the respondent;
 - iii. The nature of the conduct about which a complaint is being made, including, where possible, dates, times and locations;
 - iv. If appropriate, names of any participants who may have witnessed the conduct.

- 11) An investigation will be conducted by the Ombudspersons in every case where a formal complaint is made.
 - a) The Ombudspersons will ask the respondent to provide a written statement in response to the complaint. The Ombudspersons may also contact identified witnesses or consult with others with direct knowledge of the incident in question. All evidence should be given in writing (including email).
- 12) At the end of the formal investigation, the Ombudspersons will propose a resolution for the matter. Resolutions may include:
 - i. Determination that IPSA's policy has not been violated and that the complaint will be dismissed;
 - ii. Recommendation for informal resolution of the matter in order to re-establish a professional relationship between the parties, including options such as mediation;
 - iii. Termination of IPSA congress or event participation for the respondent, including current and/or future IPSA congress and events;
 - iv. A temporary or permanent restriction on the respondent regarding accession to leadership positions in IPSA, including the Executive Committee;
 - v. A temporary or permanent suspension of the respondent's IPSA membership.
- 13) The final decision regarding such proposals will be made by the EC, and the resolution of the matter will be notified to all parties in writing.
- 14) In any proceedings, IPSA will make every effort to protect complainants from retaliation. The information given by all parties and their identities will be treated with strict confidentiality. If anonymity becomes difficult to maintain in particular cases, IPSA will defer to the preferences of the complainant.
- 15) This code of conduct and its procedures for resolving grievances are not intended to, and are not a substitute for, the rights of any of the parties to seek legal redress. Any legal action on the part of the complainant will be exclusively a matter between the complainant, the respondent and the authorities in the location where the incident occurred. IPSA will not be a party to such legal action, nor will it accept any legal liability or financial responsibility for such action.

Congress Program Track Chairs

Track Chairs are crucial to the Congress since their role is to solicit high-quality papers and excellent panels prior to the submission deadline. During the subsequent review process, they have a heavy burden selecting further papers and forming panels - over 700 panels were assembled by the 2025 Track Chairs. The Program Co-chairs owe a tremendous debt of thanks to each and every person listed below, and we express our very sincere gratitude.

After Globalization: The Future of World Society

After several decades of significantly increasing global economic, socio-cultural, and political integration, the globalization pendulum is swinging back. But what comes "After Globalization"? The 26 chapters of this volume, originally presented at the World Society Foundation's 40th anniversary celebration in 2022, address from different angles four core issues of "deglobalization": First, the re-conceptualization of world society and globalization within the current context of deglobalization. Second, the dynamics that are (re)shaping the world-economy, including processes of fragmentation, regionalization, reshoring, and global and regional polarization. Third, the current dynamics of global social and cultural structures, including new globalization cleavages, political mobilization, popular protest and resistance, and political participation and democracy. Fourth, the increasing great power conflicts and global rivalries and their impact on processes of (de)globalization.

Christian Suter and Patrick Ziltener (Eds.)

Christian Suter is Professor Emeritus of Sociology at the University of Neuchâtel, Switzerland, and President of the World Society Foundation, Zurich, Switzerland.

Patrick Ziltener is Associate Professor at the University of Zurich, Switzerland.

LASA2026: Republic and Revolution

May 26 – 30, 2026 • Paris, France

Convening LASA in Paris provides an opportunity to think about Latin America and the Caribbean as a whole and in relation to the larger global forces that have shaped our world over several centuries. We have chosen to situate the region not only in relation to European colonization but also the transformations unleashed by the Atlantic revolutions and the anti-colonial struggles that led to the formation of new republics. As Brazilian philosopher Roberto Mangabeira Unger has written in The World and Us, the revolutions of previous centuries are not over, but we need to “breathe new life and new meaning into this revolutionary turn.”
