Time lag expected before textile move results felt

By GEORGE BERGERON
(Record Reporter)

SHERBROOKE — Textile manufacturing concerns in the Eastern Townships believe that Ottawa's recent decision to curb clothing imports will only be felt by the industry after a time lag of two to six months.

Trade Minister Jean Chretien's move is expected to reduce the foreign share of the clothing market from the present 52 percent to 45 percent in 1977.

Michael Dufour, Head of Public Relations for Dominion Textile, which employs close to 1,000 people in Sherbrooke, said Chretien's move will "create increased demands for primary products by Canadian manufacturers of clothing." He added that "this increase in demand will be expected to reach the primary sector in only two or three months."

He explained that "The textile industry is presently being hit by two fronts. Not only are garments being imported, but primary goods such as cotton are invading our market as well."

"We cannot compete with two dollar per hour average wages earned by foreign workers as compared with the give dollar average wage given to the textile worker in Canada," Mr. Dufour continued.

He pointed out that the import reductions on clothing may not be felt by Canadian manufacturers until January or February because all orders booked prior to midnight Monday will still enter Canada until December.

Mr. Dufour concluded by saying that Canadian clothing prices would not increase significantly because they would still have to compete with the projected 46 percent foreign imports.

Because of the reduced demand for textile goods, Dominion Textiles plans on extending the Christmas holidays from December 27-31.

R. Birkin, General Manager of Paton Manufacturing said, "Although the effect of reduced imports will be indirect it should be felt in four to six months."

There was no significant slowdown in production at Paton Mfg., as compared to last year at the same time, he said, adding that Paton Manufacturing is operating at 80-85 percent total capacity."

Mr. Birkin added that he believes Chretien's move would certainly help the textile industry and would certainly brighten the prospects of the textile industry.

Levesque wants delay in talks on constitution

MONTREAL (CP) — Quebec Premier Rene Levesque says it would be premature to discuss the constitution at the meeting between provincial premiers and Prime Minister Trudeau to be held Dec. 13-14 in Ottawa.

Speaking in an interview to be broadcast today on the private French-language TVA television network, Mr. Levesque said that discussion at the meeting should concentrate on financial questions.

The most urgent question is the renewal of tax-sharing agreements between Ottawa and the provinces for a new five-year term, he said.

The premier said he does not intend to begin immediately the fundamental debate on relations between Ottawa and Quebec. He added he hoped to establish a "new, equal association with the rest of Canada."

Mr. Levesque said the Nov. 15 provincial election which brought the Parti Quebecois to power opens a new chapter in the history of Quebec.

He said that among the priorities of his government would be linguistic questions to be studied by Jacques-Yvan Morin, education minister, and Camille Laurin, minister of state for cultural affairs.

During the election campaign, Mr. Levesque denounced school language tests required for immigrant children under the former Liberal government's Official Language Act.

But he also promised legislation to prevent wholesale assimilation of immigrants into the English community through the school system.

Another priority of the PQ government will be reform of the province's electoral laws, a dominant theme in the recent election campaign.

Recount gives PQ another seat

MONTREAL (CP)—Parti Quebecois ranks in the national assembly were increased to 70 members Tuesday night as the party's candidate, Jean Algred, was officially declared the winner in Papineau riding near Ottawa.

A judicial recount gave Mr. Alfred a 67-vote win over Liberal candidate Normand Racicot. Election night results had declared Mr. Racicot a winner by seven votes.

The Haitian-born Mr. Alfred is the first black member elected to the Quebec national assembly and the first Parti Quebecois member to represent the Ottawa Valley region.

The loss of the riding drops Liberal representation in the 110-seat national assembly to 27 members.

The Liberals could lose yet another seat in neighboring Hull riding, where former public service minister Oswald Parent's lead over PQ candidate Jocelyne Ouellette dropped to six votes from 10 during Tuesday's recounting.

Says PQ merits support

MONTREAL (CP) — Sam Steinberg, chairman of the board of Steinberg's Ltd., has expressed support for the new Parti Quebecois government, saying his company would continue efforts to expand in Quebec's retail food market.

He told Steinberg's annual meeting that the company still considered the province to be its "most important market" and that planned expenditure for expansion and modernization will increase by more than $25 million by December, 1977.

The PQ government's "immediate priority" of social and economic progress for Quebecers "merits our full support," he said.

Company president Melvyn Dobrin told the shareholders he was optimistic about company prospects in 1976-77 despite a reduction of earnings in the first quarter of fiscal 1977 because of "intense price competition."

Says AIB rollbacks should stay

OTTAWA (CP) — Anti-inflation board chairman JeanLuc Pepin said Tuesday the government should pass legislation to ensure that workers whose wages were rolled back don't immediately seek to recoup their losses when the controls program expires in October, 1978.

He told the Commons finance committee an apparent deficiency in the Anti-Inflation Act might permit unions to demand the full amount of increases negotiated with their employers during the controls program even though that amount was ordered rolled back by the anti-inflation board.

He said the board does not have the power to amend the contract, only to recommend what the wage settlement should be. Although it could be argued that once the unions and employer comply with the board recommendation, it becomes law, it wasn't certain.

"I've taken it for granted the government will see to it in future that this is remedied," he said. "If they don't, the parties could go back to the original agreement."

In an interview later, Mr. Pepin noted that a railway union leader had said in Toronto two weeks ago the union was keeping track of wage losses under controls and would recover them after the program ends.

ONE MILLION CUT

The board's annual report said it dealt with agreements covering 2.4 million workers in its first year. Mr. Pepin said wages of more than a million workers had been ordered rolled back.

The committee was sitting to hear Mr. Pepin explain why the board's budget for the year should be nearly doubled to $22.2 million from original estimates of $11.8 million.

The figures does not include $1.3 million the government spent on an advertising campaign promoting the the program this fall or the $2 million in salaries being paid to 79 staff on loan from other government departments.

Mr. Pepin said the board's staff had increased to 861 from original estimates of 200 because the worklaod expanded.

For example, he said, the board was first given jurisdiction to monitor 1,200 companies with more than 500 employees.

Pleased with plan

MONTREAL (CP) — A spokesman for the International Ladies Garment Workers Union (ILGWU) which represents 25,000 workers in the Quebec garment industry, said Tuesday he is pleased with the federal government plan to curb clothing imports.

"We hope that these interim measures don't come too late and that they will be followed up with a consistent policy designed to save our industry which employs 100,000 workers," said S. I. Bresner, Canadian director of the union.

About 200,000 workers are employed in the Canadian textile industry, half of whom fabricate garments. Of all Canadian textile workers, 65 per cent work in Quebec, where about 10,000 workers have been laid off since October.

Mr. Bresner expressed satisfaction that the efforts of industry and union had resulted in government action and said the ILGWU would continue to fight against imports from low-wage countries.

Try to shift blame fails

OTTAWA (CP) — Opposition MPs foiled an attempt by Prime Minister Trudeau to shift the blame Tuesday for a delay in bringing before Parliament charges of questionable sales practices by the government owned petrochemical giant Polysar.

Mr. Trudeau sought to blame former auditor-general Maxwell Henderson for a 3½-year delay in the release of charges that Polysar, then Polymer, was helping European customers avoid taxes and currency regulations by putting money into their numbered Swiss accounts.

Mr. Trudeau said he was satisfied that the company did not use bribes, kickbacks or doubtful accounting procedures in making the rebates to its customers. The company has said it was following standard discounting practices for volume buyers by depositing money in Swiss accounts.

Three opposition MPs said, however, that Mr. Henderson told the prime minister about Polymer's way of doing business in March, 1973, just before his term of office expired.

'DID NOT ACT'

Mr. Trudeau said Mr. Henderson was told that the government accepted the verdict of Polymer's auditors, Peat Marwick, that the company's rebates were acceptable. Mr. Henderson "did not act for 3½ years," he added.

"If he had not been satisfied . . . it would have been his duty, if he thought there was anything wrong, to have said to Parliament, 'I wrote to the prime minister. He acted. We got answers, but I still do not agree with those answers and therefore I am reporting to Parliament.' He did none of this. He was satisfied with the answers made at the time," said Mr. Trudeau.

James McGrath (PC—St. John's East) said Mr. Henderson had written his last report for Parliament when he sent the letter to Mr. Trudeau.

Also, just before he resigned, Mr. Henderson received a letter from a Trudeau aide saying the Polymer matter was being investigated, Mr. McGrath said.

T.C. Douglas (NDP—Nanaimo-Cowichan-The Islands) said Mr. Henderson was not satisfied with the government's reaction. The head of Polymer's auditing firm has said it is not responsible for saying whether there has been tax evasion.

MUST EXPLAIN

Mr. Douglas said the government must "explain why rebates, which should have properly been sent to the head offices of the company in question, were sent to numbered Swiss bank accounts."

"The only purpose . . . was either to evade tax payments . . . to make payments that were improper so that they could not be traced either by kickbacks or bribery," he said.

The Commons agreed after the Trudeau-opposition exchange to refer the Polymer issue to the public accounts committee for detailed study.

Nuclear sales study delayed

OTTAWA (CP) — The federal auditor-general's office needs a guarantee it can carry out a free-wheeling audit before it takes a look at the books of a Tel Aviv company hired to promote nuclear sales to South Korea.

Officials of the auditor's office said Tuesday they were offered a chance to look at the books of United Development Inc., a company that has been paid $15.4 million by Atomic Energy of Canada Ltd., a government company. United could receive a further $3 million.

But the officials said Auditor-General J.J. Macdonell is awaiting a reply to an Oct. 19 letter in which he said no restrictions could be placed on such an audit and asking for more details on the work carried out by United.

W.A. Bradshaw, assistant deputy auditor-general, declined to say outside the Commons public accounts committee what restrictions he was referring to.

Earlier, he told MPs United wanted commercial confidences kept and did not wish the audit to look like a government investigation.

The comments came as the committee skimmed the surface of what could be a lengthy inquiry into the overseas dealings of AECL with agents.

WILL MEET AGAIN

When they meet Thursday, the MPs likely will hear details on a $2.4-million deposit made by AECL to a Liechtenstein bank account as an agent's fee in the sale of a reactor to Argentina.

The deposit was made at the request of its Italian partner, Italimpianti, and AECL does not know the name of the agent.

Mr. Bradshaw outlined the South Korean agreement for the committee, saying the auditor-general is not satisfied with documentation for expenses of $8.1 million included in the $15.4-million payment to United.

2 women ordained as priests

ST. CATHARINES, Ont. (CP) — Two women were ordained here Tuesday, joining four others as the first women Anglican priests in Canada.

Rev. Mary Louise Lucas, 28, and Rev. Beverley Joan Shanley, 37, both of St. Catharines and former deacons, were ordained at Grace Church. Mary Laker Mills of the Huron diocese was ordained Tuesday night in London, Ont.

Three of the six women ordained Tuesday were in Ontario. The other Ontario woman was Rev. Mary Alice Maud Mills of Kirkton who was ordained in London along with Rev. John Eric Hodgson of Sarnia.

Church officials refused to allow the ceremonies in London to be televised.

Rt. Rev. David Ragg, Bishop of Huron, who officiated at the ordinations in London, said that "we are trying to handle this ordination exactly as we always do and television is not a normal part of the proceedings."

Rt. Rev. Geoffrey Parker-Taylor mentioned in his sermon during the London ceremonies a quote from St. Paul which said that "there is neither Jew nor Greek, slave nor free man, male nor female" in God's kingdom.

REFERS TO HUMANITY

Redeemed humanity, not whether a candidate is male or female, determines whether a person is qualified for ordination, he said.

The general assembly of the Anglican Church of Canada approved the ordination of women last year but gave bishops the right to refuse to ordain women into their dioceses.

Miss Lucas said she spent nine months trying to find a priest who would sign her postulancy papers. Rt. Rev. John Bothwell, bishop of the Niagara diocese, signed her application last year.

Miss Lucas, deacon and curate assistant at Grace Church for the last 15 months, will celebrate communion at the church today.

Miss Shanley will be the first of the women priests to have her own parish. She will serve St. George's Church in the Lowville area of Burlington, about 25 miles southwest of Toronto, and St. John's Church in Milton, about 25 miles west of Toronto.

Miss Lucas says church members are used to addressing their priests as father but she wants to be called mother.

Most Rev. Edward Scott, primate of the Anglican Church of Canada, has said most of the lay people opposed to the ordination of women are women.

"They are the same women who feel uncomfortable with the women's movement."

New York

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock prices drifted lower Tuesday, reflecting the market's concern with prices, economic growth and future government policy.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks fell 2.83 to 947.22, wavering once to almost five points below Monday's close.

Volume on the New York Stock Exchange was 17.03 million shares, compared with 18.75 million Monday. The NYSE composite index lost 0.19 to 54.80.

"The market continues to sniff the air to see which way it will go," analyst Monte Gordon of Dreyfus Corp. said. "Your buyers are clearly to the sideline, but there's no selling pressure."

He said investors are unsure of the impact of the steel industry's six-per-cent price increase this week on certain products.

President-elect Jimmy Carter has expressed concern that the increase may provoke the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries (OPEC) to raise oil prices higher than anticipated.

AWAIT REPORT

Meanwhile, many investors expect the U.S. commerce department to report that its index of leading economic indicators declined in October for the third consecutive month. The report, originally scheduled to be released Tuesday, was delayed until today.

U.S. Industries and Occidental Petroleum, both up a fraction, topped the list of active NYSE issues. Occidental's oil shale technology received a favorable comment from a federal energy official.

Also actively traded were Leeds and Northrup, which rose more than four points, and Deseret Pharmaceutical, which rose more than three. Deseret predicted higher earnings in the current fiscal year.

The precious metals and oil service groups bucked the down-trend.

Elsewhere, J. W. Mays and Allied Supermarkets posted fractional declines. Both companies reported quarterly losses.

Among Canadian issues on the NYSE, Dome Mines was up ¾ at $43, Campbell Red Lake up ⅜ at $24¼ and Massey-Ferguson up ⅜ at $19⅞.

Hiram Walker was down ⅝ at $24⅜, Bell Canada down ½ at $45¼ and Canadian Pacific down ¼ at $14⅜.

Chamber of Commerce

Report reveals basic skills missing

OTTAWA — We now have further evidence that most of our secondary school students graduate without having mastered the basic skills of reading, writing and arithmetic, said S.F. Hughes, Executive Director of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce, at an Ottawa Rotary Club luncheon recently.

Mr. Hughes based his remarks on a national survey of Canadian employers conducted by the Canadian Chamber and released recently.

The survey, which included not only commercial and industrial enterprises, but also placement and personnel people, lawyers, architects and consulting engineers, revealed an overwhelming opinion that students now graduating from our secondary school system have less proficiency in basic skills than the graduates of 3 to 5 years ago.

75 per cent of the respondents felt that the written communications capabilities of the current crop of graduates were not up to the standards of a few years ago, while only 3 per cent saw an improvement. On overall communications skills (written and oral), 51 per cent saw deterioration and only 7 per cent an improvement.

46 per cent thought today's graduates do not read as well, while only 5 per cent saw improvement.

As regards the ability to do simple arithmetic, 52 per cent of those who replied saw a deline, while only 7 per cent felt that there had been an improvement.

95 per cent of the respondents said they would prefer to employ graduates who were competent in the "3 R's", and more than 7 out of 10 said they were willing to pay a premium to get them. On an average, they demonstrated a willingness to pay 13 per cent more to acquire people who had a reasonable mastery of these basic skills.

Mr. Hughes said the survey results were consistent and uniform across Canada, and that no region was free from the problem. He added that the survey of employers produced results that were almost identical with the results of the Chamber's 1975 survey of universities and community colleges. The early survey had revealed that many post-secondary institutions were forced to conduct remedial programs in order to upgrade the skill capabilities of freshmen.

Among the recommendations in the current Chamber Report were the following:

1. There should be a system of testing or examination in the "basics" at least. Such a uniform system should begin at an early age in order to ensure that effective and similar standards will be maintained across the country.
2. The business community should work to develop a dialogue with educators at the ministerial or curriculum development levels.

Mr. Hughes acknowledged that the bleak picture emerging from the two Chamber surveys related to only one aspect of the educational system, albeit an important one. He said it is encouraging that educators appear to be moving towards a greater emphasis on basic skills, particularly in Ontario.

Looking at education in a broader context, Mr. Hughes said:

"If Canada is to keep pace with the rest of the world, then our young people must be conditioned to expect change... not to be isolated from it.

"They must be equipped to examine new concepts... not left to shrink back in fear.

"They must be encouraged to question existing philosophies... not left to accept the doctrines by rote.

"Above all, they must be educated to reason, to calculate and to communicate. Failure to do this can only be detrimental to all. It will place our coming generations at a social, cultural and economic disadvantage.

"Our young people are our most important resource. We must guard and guide them as carefully and as skillfully as possible."

TD Bank profits up

TORONTO — Toronto Dominion Bank showed continued strong growth during the fiscal year which ended October 31, 1976, with assets up 19 per cent to $16.2 billion.

Balance of Revenue after income tax for fiscal 1976 was $92 million, an increase of 2 per cent over the corresponding period a year ago.

Chairman Allen Lambert said the increase in assets reflected the continuing high demand for business and personal loans in domestic markets, as well as increased business in international markets.

The moderate increase in after-tax earnings was the result of several factors he said.

Net interest revenue rose by 10 per cent while average assets growth was higher at 17 per cent. The lower growth in net revenue was the result of reduced interest margins on both domestic and international lending.

The rate of expense increase in 1976 over 1975, while lower than a year ago, was still high at 18 per cent, reflecting the continuous need to emphasize operating efficiencies.

In keeping with the spirit of the Anti-Inflation Program, Mr. Lambert said, the bank placed a price freeze on certain services and introduced cost saving features for customers, such as special concessions for people 60 years of age and over and No-Charge Chequing.

The effective income tax rate is lower because the federal surtax was in effect for six months of the 1975 fiscal year, and also because of a one per cent reduction in the federal rate.

On an after-tax per share basis, Balance of Revenue was $2.43 as compared to $2.46 a year ago. The slight decline was more than accounted for by the dilution resulting from the rights issue in fiscal 1975.

While total loans grew 21 per cent, the provision for possible losses on loans at $27 million was down $3 million from the 1975 level. In addition to the $8 million provided last year on loans to U.S. real estate investment trusts, a further $4 million was provided in the current year, bringing the reserve in this category to approximately 30 per cent.

The capital funds of the Bank stand at $656 million, after the transfer of $50 million to the Rest Account, giving a strong base to support future growth.

Board might find its activities curtailed

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Reserve Board may find its independence sharply curtailed if it fails to co-operate with the Carter administration and Congress in creating jobs and expanding the country's economy, Senator William Proxmire said Thursday.

The Wisconsin Democrat addressed his warning to the chairman of the board Arthur Burns after the two disagreed over whether the reserve board is relaxing or maintaining its firm grip on the country's money supply and interest rates.

Burns, whose term as chairman does not expire until 1978, told the U.S. Senate banking committee that the board has eased its policies in recent weeks and will relax them further if the economy needs it.

But Proxmire, the committee chairman, said the board's money growth targets for next year do not show an easing of money policies. Burns had said the board's targets are for growth in the country's basic money supply of from 4.5 to 6.5 per cent, down slightly from the old targets of 4.5 to seven per cent.

'HARD TO ADJUST'

Proxmire said: "You're a very convincing man, but what you are trying to convince me of is that down is really up . . . It's hard to adjust to the idea that 6.5 per cent is higher than seven per cent."

Changes in the level of the money supply are important to the economy, since more money usually means lower interest rates, which encourages borrowing for homes and businesses. A liberal money policy thus can give a boost to the economy, although it also can add to inflation.

If money growth is slight, or nonexistent, interest rates tend to rise, which discourages borrowing and can retard economic growth. Many critics of the reserve board say they feel its money policies have been responsible for the slow growth of the economy.

Plans no change

OTTAWA (CP) — About 87 per cent of 300 large corporations surveyed by the trade department about capital spending intentions have indicated their investment plans were not changed by the federal anti-inflation program, states a government report released Tuesday.

It says that of the 13 per cent reporting some impact, it was not clear whether investment budgets reflected changes in regulations of the program announced in September and designed to reward increased productivity.

The companies intended to invest $18.2 billion in 1977, up about 18 per cent from levels in 1976.

The report, based on an October survey of the firms says increased investment in 1976 over 1975 was expected to be about 12 per cent—only about half of intentions listed by the same companies in April.

"The gains for 1976 anticipated in the earlier survey reflected high expectations by pipeline, oil and gas and mining companies which have materialized in part only," the report says.

SEE ADVERSE FACTORS

"Market demand, followed by costs, labor problems including strikes, and government policies are the reasons most frequently cited for spending less than planned."

The manufacturing sector expects expansion in the food and beverage and primary metal industries will lead the way in 1977.

For next year, the report says above-average expansion is expected in Quebec, British Columbia and the Atlantic region.

The companies covered in the survey account for two-thirds of the country's non-agriculture business investment in new buildings, machinery and equipment.

EDMONTON (CP) — Gulf Oil Canada Ltd. has announced that a delineation well in the Mackenzie Delta has produced gas from three separate zones.

The company said the GulfMobil Parsons D-20 well, 45 miles north of Inuvik, N.W.T, in the Parsons Lake area, produced gas at rates from 17 to 20.5 million cubic feet daily.

The well completes a 1975-76 drilling program in the Parsons Lake area which resulted in five gas wells and one light oil discovery. It also confirms the presence of gas below Parsons Lake, the company said.

Gulf and Mobil Oil Canada have produced gas from 11 wells in the area. The largest flow rate achieved was 34 million cubic feet a day.

The company said it is preparing three more sites for the first round of drilling this winter.

TORONTO (CP) — The Canadian dollar in terms of United States funds lost one-third of a cent in value Wednesday, closing at $1.0042 U.S. on the interbank wholesale market.

The dollar closed at $1.0074 Tuesday and $1.0089 Monday.

A foreign-exchange trader said that among factors to which the decline Wednesday might be attributed was that some participants in the market were reluctant to have long positions in Canadian dollars before the U.S. Thanksgiving holiday today.

Sweetsburg Court

SWEETSBURG WARD (JM) — Joseph Noel Albert, alias Franz Goette, a fugitive at large, was remanded in custody pending preliminary hearing, Dec. 23, on a charge of armed robbery and theft of money orders and a money order machine, in St. Joachim, Nov. 10. Judge Bernard Legare ordered the accused held in closed detention.

+ + +

The in-camera preliminary hearing in the case of Robert Delisi, a 36-year-old Granby businessman, was continued to Nov. 30 when the crown failed to produce all its witnesses at the end of Thursday's session. Delisi is charged with qualified robbery, extortion, indecent assault and wilful property damage. He was remanded in custody to the end of the hearing when a new bail hearing will be heard.

+ + +

Mario Morissette, Canadian Forces Base, St. Jean d'Iberville, was cited to the next term of the assizes following an in-camera preliminary hearing on four counts of gross indecency on three teen-aged Cowansville boys earlier this month.

+ + +

William 'Bill' Carrier, Ste. Sabine, was cited to the next term of the assizes following preliminary hearing on two counts of possession of stolen vehicles. Judge Legare, rebuked Carrier's lawyer, Don Bissionette, when he asked for a non-publication order following completion of the crown's testimony. "You should have asked for the order before proceedings began", Judge Legare said.

Judge Legare then refused to hear Carrier's trial on a count of possession of stolen jewellery valued at approximately $5,000, citing testimony from one of the witnesses in the preliminary hearing might have prejudiced him against the defendant. The trail was set to Dec. 16.

+ + +

Judge Legare gave Jean Marie Lacasse, 31, and his brother Roger, 33, both of Granby, the benefit of the doubt and acquitted them of charges of possession of stolen stereo equipment, in Granby, March 18.

+ + +

Jean Paul Hebert, Stanbridge East, changed his option and pleaded guilty to a charge of indecent assault on a seven-year-old boy in Stanbridge East earlier this month. He was allowed his freedom pending preparation of a pre-sentence report and his sentence was adjourned to Jan. 31.

+ + +

Daniel Westover, South Stukely, pleaded not guilty to a charge of having been illegally at large from the Sweetsburg jail, Oct. 31. His trail will be heard Dec. 6. Westover was recently sentenced to 45 consecutive weekends following a plea of guilt to two charges of possession of stolen goods.

Jean Charbonneau, Montreal, pleaded guilty to a charge of theft of a chain saw valued at more than $200 in Austin, Sept. 23. His lawyer, Claude Haman, Legal Aid Office, told the court his client was driving by and saw what he thought was an abandoned saw on the shoulder of the secondary road. "When he was confronted by the owner, Peter Galvin, he returned the saw," Mr. Haman said. "As he has no prior record I feel a suspended sentence would amply serve the interests of justice."

Judge Legare suspended sentence and bound the accused over to keep the peace for six months.

+ + +

Normand Loyer, Ville LaSalle, pleaded guilty to a count of simple assault on the person of Denis Spiliotopulous, in Noyan during July 1976. He was fined $10 and costs, in default three days and was allowed a month to pay the fine and costs.

+ + +

Laurent Delorme, Granby, changed his option and pleaded guilty to two counts of theft and one of wilful property damage. His sentence will be handed down Dec. 2.

+ + +

Mario Fournier, Granby, changed his option and plead guilty to a count of breaking and entering and one of theft. His sentence was continued to Jan. 31 pending preparation of a pre-sentence report.

+ + +

Gaetan Provost, Farnham; Leon Grenier, St. Ignace de Stanbridge; Roger Labrecque, Granby; and Luc Racicot, Rougemont, all pleaded guilty to charges of impaired driving in the District of Bedford. Fines ranged between $100 and $150 and costs, in default 30 days, depending on the blood-alcohol ratios.

NEW HOME THREATENED — Ginette Dupont and daughter, Marie Claude, stare out over their threatened 50 acres that border the Mansonville highway. Ms. Dupont bought the property in June, only to recently find out that Hydro has tentative plans to flood her property.

20 year dream may be shattered

By DAVID SHERMAN
(Record Reporter)

POTTON TOWNSHIP — Ginette Dupont had a 20-year-old dream, its foundation imbedded in the rock of that great North American dream: a big house in the country, a good view, the perfect place to bring up her two children.

Ms. Dupont finally realized her fondest ambitions after a three year search, when she found a big house with a barn attached in Mansonville at a price she could afford.

Unfortunately, for Ms. Dupont, above her in the mountains, sits Fullerton Pond and below her, across the Mansonville highway, where the bulk of her 50 acres forms her scenic view, is the Missisquoi River, two landmarks that Hydro Quebec's plans for the Fullerton Pond project, have turned into disastrous liabilities.

The $400 million dollar hydro-electric project if given the go-ahead would tunnel under her house, build a 14 storey high dyke in front of her porch and then glood the rest of her land.

It came as a shock to the lady who had spent the better part of her summer tearing out the insides of the house as the first step towards total renovations.

"We bought the house June 1 of this year. The man who sold it said there was no danger of Hydro coming. He said their option to purchase had run out and the project had been abandonned."

She had never heard a word from Hydro.

"I'm not going to stop building," she said. "If I'm going to be expropriated, they're going to have to move me right off the porch."

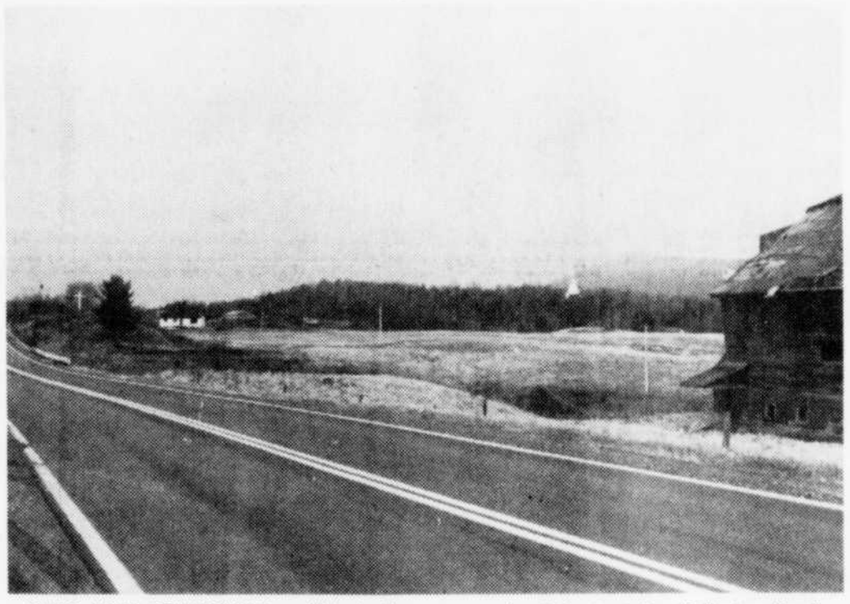
Says 300 residents could be affected

MANSONVILLE (DS) — There could be as many as 70 houses affected if Hydro Quebec goes ahead with its proposal to build a pumped storage station at Fullerton Pond, said Maria Bray, the Mansonville Record Correspondent who has been coming to the area for over 30 years and has been a resident for the last dozen.

"There are seven houses on or close by Travor Road, as many as 20 houses on or just off the Mansonville Highway and perhaps another 45 near Ruiter Brook," said Mrs. Bray, who cautioned that because Hydro Quebec has not made known the extent of expropriation necessary it is difficult to arrive at an exact figure. She did estimate that perhaps 300 people would be affected.

Besides year round residents, the homes are also occupied by the usual rural mix of summer people, weekenders and elderly people who have been relishing retirement in Brome County.

There are only about one or two farmers in the area, said Mrs. Bray, and most of the small producers have shut down operations since the milk companies demanded bulk quantities and new loading equipment to facilitate operations.



DIKE AND RESERVOIR — This is the scene just north of Travor Rd. along the Mansonville Highway where Hydro Quebec has proposed the construction of a 1.7 mile long dike to wall in the lower reservoir of the tentative Fullerton Pond power project. The highway and surrounding 320 acres of land would be flooded.

Concert displays mastery

By DAVID SHERMAN
(Record Reporter)

LENNOXVILLE — With calculated poise and a minimum of ceremony, Liona Boyd played to a sold-out audience at Bishop's University's Centennial Theatre last night, her calm almost impersonal approach belying the sophistication of the works she performed.

Ms. Boyd, whose list of teachers reads like a Who's Who of the classical guitar: Segovia, Bream, Parkening, including a year and a half with Legoya in France and two summers in Orford, seemed to breeze through the concert with ease, allowing her perfect, flowing technique to carry us all away.

Her critics have called her flawless, amazing, superlative and dazzling, the number of the reviews itself pointing not only to her obvious talent but to her well orchestrated career guided by Eleanor Sniderman of Boot Records, who produced The Guitar, the first classical guitar record made in Canada, and her Canadian manage, Edward Oscapella, who has her pursuing her future in every nook and cranny of the country.

Her success in a culture where Top 40 radio reigns is staggering. She has been acclaimed from New York to Holland in almost two years of relentless touring, a schedule that she seems to relish.

In a hasty interview between the show and her traditional reception afterwards, she shrugged at the thought of a vacation.

"Studying is like a vacation. So's travelling. Two weeks ago I was in Florida. Tomorrow I'll be in Toronto."

Points out problems of unemployed youth

SHERBROOKE (DS) — A week-long blitz to sensitize the public in general and employers in particular to the specific problems of the unemployed between the ages of 15-25 years, began Monday with a press conference at Odyssee Placement 15-25, an employment agency funded by the Manpower Department.

Complaining of prejudice against young workers, competition with students and more experienced laborers, the refusal of society to adapt to the young person's different mentality and of the inadequacy of services provided to them by other labour organizations, the spokespersons, Gerald Bourgault, 22, and Danielle Bernier, 20, said that the young people have enthusiasm, dynamism and the will to work as qualifications.

Odyssee Placement, operating on a $400,000 federal grant, is sponsoring the week's activities that will include exposure on the mass media, organized visits to places of employment and an information Kiosk at Carrefour de l'Estrie.

Both spokespersons explained that it is not possible to continually work at dull routinized jobs, such as short order cook or dishwasher, which has been Mr. Bourgault's experience. One of the goals of the week-long campaign is to acquaint employers with the need the young people have for stimulating responsible positions that could benefit the employee as much as the company he works for.

"A job should draw on a person's capacity. Work is a form of expression, a right and a necessity," said Ms. Bernier, who condemned the vicious circle that requires young people to have experience before they can be hired, but never offers any.

There are presently 6,000 unemployed between the ages of 15 and 25, not counting students, who account for 15 per cent of the unemployment rate in the Eastern Townships, and the agency presently had 350 applications for their placement and consultation services.

Odyssee Placement has four paid staff and has enlisted 11 volunteer workers to help out with this week's project, which will climax today with the planned visits to employers to explain the agencies positions and hour by hour broadcasts of developments over the radio.

The young unemployed are not looking for any miracles at the end of the week.

"This week will be a collective experience," said Ms. Bernier. "It will teach everyone something about organization and give them experience in dealing with business. At least the message will be carried."

Helping small and medium size businesses

The priority given by the new Parti Quebecois cabinet to assist small and medium size business is a welcome move for the Eastern Townships region.

The economies of the towns and cities here have been severely weakened in recent years due to the closing down of several small businesses and the cutting back of operations in others, particularly in the major industries of pulp and paper and textile.

Only yesterday Domtar Packaging Ltd. announced that operations at its Windsor plant will be reduced, leaving 35 unemployed. Earlier this year the pulp and paper mill in Sawyerville closed down, causing some workers to leave town to seek employment elsewhere.

Cutbacks and closings have also affected the textile industry. For example, Bruck Mills Ltd. closed down their plant this year in Sherbrooke and cutback the Cowansville operation. The economic fabric of the region is woven into a network of small and medium-sized companies, the vitality of which must be preserved and expanded. Otherwise the region's towns and villages become merely a country refuge for city folk, a place to retire, or a residence from which to commute for work in larger centres. As each company closes in these towns, the population decreases while people seek work elsewhere, there is less money in town to support local stores, and the municipality has fewer tax revenues with which to improve conditions in that area.

The health of the urban centres such as Sherbrooke, Magog, Granby and Drummondville also depends upon the continuance of industries of all sizes so that if one sector of the economy weakens or fails, other businesses maintain economic stability.

In stating the Quebec government's priority, Finance Minister Jacques Parizeau pointed out that the move will help combat Quebec's 10 per cent unemployment rate. The big corporations have become so automated that they have become less important in job creation, he said.

One of the means the government foresees using to implement the policy is to urge public sector purchases in the small and medium size sector of business. Government institutions would be encouraged to buy from small and medium size companies rather than only from the large corporations.

Both Mr. Pariseau and Industry and Commerce Minister Rodrigue Tremblay in statements last weekend supported this new priority to be undertaken by the Quebec government. It is an encouraging step by a new government that if well implemented will be of great benefit to this region.

Carter faces crucial economic decisions

WASHINGTON (CP) — Hampered by conflicting advice and inconclusive statistics, President-elect Jimmy Carter has crucial economic decisions to make as he moves into the White House.

On those decisions depends not only the future of the lagging United States economy and its 7.6 million unemployed people but also, to some extent, the economic future of the other industrialized democracies.

Carter's success or failure in steering the proper course between the dangers of unemployment and inflation may also have far-reaching political implications.

Some observers have predicted that failure to prevent serious economic recession in Western Europe in the last half of 1977 would lead to unsettled political situations and government changes that would weaken NATO.

With such domestic and foreign dangers involved in recession, plus Carter's campaign promises of economic stimulation and the Democratic party's expansionary outlook, there are strong pressures for such expansionary moves as massive tax cuts and job-creating government programs.

The trouble is that over-stimulating the economy in 1977 might well make a serious recession inevitable in 1978. No Western country can afford to give anything like a free rein to inflation.

ADVICE CONFLICTS

Compounding the problem is the conflicting advice Carter is receiving from economists. While some say major economic stimulation is urgently needed, others counsel patience and predict that the U.S. economy will pull itself out of current difficulties.

All agree that the economy was not healthy in the last half of 1976.

After a strong recovery from the recession of 1974 and early 1975, economic indicators began giving alarm signals in mid-1976.

Unemployment rose to 7.9 per cent in October and forecasts were that the 5.5-per-cent inflation rate would rise to 5.9 per cent for 1977.

More than 25 million Americans were below the poverty level—$5,500 for a non-farm family of four—retail sales showed virtually no gain from July to October and wholesale prices were rising at a threatening annual rate of 11 per cent.

In an unsubtle appeal for an expansionary U.S. budget, the Organization for Economic Cooperation and Development (OECD) warned of a world recession for the last half of 1977.

GROWTH SLOWS

The OECD said the industrialized democracies are facing annual real growth rates of 4.3 per cent for the first half of the year and only 3.5 per cent for the second half.

Those forecasts made no provision for the oil-price increases that are expected to come this month when the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries meets.

An increase of 15 per cent in oil prices would add 1.5 percentage points to the inflation rate and decrease the growth rate by one point for the seven major oil importers—the United States, Canada, Britain, Japan, Germany, France and Italy.

The U.S. and Canada, however, would suffer less than the average because of their domestic oil supplies.

The inflationary effect of oil-price increases was only one of the reasons why many economists cautioned against going too far in stimulating the U.S. economy.

They argued that the pessimistic statistics of 1976 were not as bad as they appeared on the surface.

The 7.9-per-cent U.S. unemployment rate, for example, reflected an unemployment rate of only 5.4 per cent among heads of households, indicating that many of the unemployed lived in a household with a wage-earner.

BUSINESS OPTIMISTIC

The annual McGraw-Hill survey of businessmen found plans for a 13-per-cent increase in plant and equipment and general optimism about economic growth.

The economists arguing for moderation also said that 1976 conditions were artificially depressed by strikes and unusual underspending by the federal government.

Such economists found a powerful spokesman in Arthur Burns, chairman of the Federal Reserve Bank, who issued a November warning against "traditional policies of economic stimulation."

The central bank had planned to increase the money supply in 1977 by between 4.5 and seven per cent, but Burns reduced the upper limit to 6.5 per cent, warning that stimulating demand could intensify inflation "and the seeds of another recession would be sown."

One mechanism Carter hopes to use to lessen the inflationary impact of economic expansion is a system of voluntary wage-price guides.

The Trudeau government was unable to make such a voluntary system work in Canada but Carter is banking on the support of AFL-CIO President George Meany and the greater establishment-orientation of the U.S. labor unions.

Other provinces once separatist-minded

FREDERICTON (CP) — So what's new about a separatist vote?

New Brunswick balloted to go it alone in 1865, then opted back into the coming union in 1866, a year before Confederation.

Albert J. Smith had begun his appeal to the New Brunswick electorate on an anti-Confederation stand in December, 1864, only months after the Charlottetown Conference. Confederation, he contended, would simply mean that the Maritimes would help to build Canada's canal system while losing political independence.

A cross-section of the people supported him for a variety of reasons. Manufacturers feared the competition of central Canadian goods in the provincial market. Bankers disliked the prospect of contending with branches of central Canadian banks.

Free-traders, enjoying the Reciprocity Treaty, favored a railway to connect Saint John with Bangor, Portland and Boston rather than the Inter-Colonial. Serving their varied interests, they collectively swept Smith and his colleagues to power on March 6, 1865.

In central Canada the New Brunswick reverse caused grave anxiety. New Brunswick lay between the central provinces and Nova Scotia and no union was possible without her. Nor could the Inter-Colonial Railway be built without a lengthy mileage on New Brunswick soil.

BRITISH CO-OPERATED

For the next year Canadian union leaders, cooperating with the British government, sought to alter the New Brunswick stand. Through this interlude moved Hon. Arthur Hamilton Gordon, the enigmatic governor of New Brunswick.

Some historians regard Gordon as no great enthusiast for Confederation. Rather he was a civil servant acting, sometimes reluctantly, under the orders of the colonial office in London.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Halt strikes with fines on union, company

To The Editor:

Gee, I wish this election we just had could be held again because I'd like to run. When the election was called I didn't have any more to offer the province than any other candidate and not having the money to launch a campaign I let the others run. But now, I've got an idea that this province could sure use and while I'm entrusting it to my MNA I'm a little worried that it might get mutilated in the political machinery in Quebec city.

The idea came to me in a dream and as soon as it's implemented, strikes, when they're still held, won't be nearly so painful. You see, strikes don't bother employees or employers, they only bother people who need hospitals or schools or building supplies or hydro or whatever it is that the strike is blockading. Now not only is a strike a stupid way of settling a dispute, it is also grossly dishonest to the public at large. The two parties who are at odds don't fight it out between them, they both jump on the public and pummel it until they are tired of fighting, at which point they make up and go happily on their way, leaving the public battered and bruised.

Now I don't mean to outlaw strikes, you can't legislate against stupidity, but I think my idea will make strikes easier to bear for the public at large. I call the idea the Fonda Plan. Here is how it works: When a union and a company are negotiating a contract and find themselves unable to agree, they can go to arbitration and have an arbitrator settle the dispute. A strike is avoided, both parties are relatively happy and all is well. When the union and the company are negotiating a contract and find themselves unable to agree and furthermore they refuse to go to arbitration then the union, as happens now, goes on strike.

Here is where the Fonda Plan comes into effect: For every day that the workers are on strike both the union and the company they are striking against pay a fine equal to 5 per cent of their total assets to the provincial ombudsman. Both the union and the company become rapidly poorer as the strike progresses and the motivation to arrive at a settlement is greatly increased. The fine is paid to the provincial ombudsman and at the end of the year all monies collected in this fashion are returned to the public in the manner of tax rebates.

In cases involving the government itself (nurses, teachers, etc.) the government would stand to gain enormously so the fine is not levied against the Department of Health or the Department of Education but levied against the salaries of the individual MNA's.

It is possible that some unions and companies would still be stupid enough to not settle their differences without a strike and we might still be without a plumber to fix our plumbing or a teacher to teach our kids, but we'd at least have the money to hire a plumber from Ontario or Vermont or to send our kids to a private school.

As I say, the plan is really good and Quebec is likely to mutilate it but if enough people know how it is supposed to work, the politicians in Quebec will probably make more of an effort to implement it properly.

NICK FONDA,

Think Tank

P.S.: If the Fonda plan had been in effect this year the Olympic stadium would have been entirely paid for by striking workers and companies and we wouldn't be burdened with the tax increase Quebec is going to announce in February.

New gun enforcement drive hampered

Jack Anderson's Washington Merry-Go-Round

WASHINGTON -- The embattled Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms is supposed to enforce the nation's weak gun control laws.

During the Nixon years, Watergate figure G. Gordon Liddy tried to dismantle ATF's gun enforcement program altogether. The agency was also beset with internal problems. Gun controls were virtually ignored, therefore, until a few months ago.

Now the ATF has started to crack down again on gun law violators. Just last month, for example, ATF agents seized more than 1,000 illegal guns in an eight-state raid.

Yet already, this belated gun enforcement drive is facing a new obstacle. The ATF's parent agency, the Treasury Department, is quietly trying to shake up the ATF before the Democratic takeover in January.

Our sources say the proposed shakeup will de-emphasize field investigations of gun law violators. Right now, dozens of special agents are being ordered to relocate or resign during the final weeks of the Ford administration. The effect of all this, according to trusted sources, will be to hamper future gun enforcement efforts.

The reorganization was vigorously opposed by the ATF's veteran chief, Rex Davis. But in late October, he received a stern, private memo from his Treasury Department bosses informing him that they had decided to go ahead with the shakeup.

"You are hereby directed to implement this plan, effective December 1, 1976," he was ordered. The election of Jimmy Carter only made the lame ducks at Treasury more determined to complete the reorganization before the Democrats take office.

There is some justification, of course, for shaking up the ATF. Its confidential files contain evidence that the agency has been plagued with problems. Here are just a few highlights:

— In Dayton, two special agents got into a squabble at the local ATF office. One agent pulled a gun and shot the other to death.

— Last year, an agent who was pushing narcotics tried to frame a defendant on phony extortion charges.

— In 1972, an ATF informant was murdered in California. Yet the ATF failed to conduct a proper investigation. At last, an investigation was ordered. Then in 1972, an ATF informant was murdered in California. Yet the ATF failed to conduct a proper investigation. At last, an investigation was ordered. In 1972, an ATF informant was murdered in California. Yet the ATF Failed to conduct a proper investigation. At last, an investigation was ordered. The confidential conclusion: ATF agents blew the informant's cover.

— Of ATF's 1,674 agents, only 48 are minority agents. There are no blacks, Spanish-Americans or other minority agents at all in the southeast region.

Treasury Undersecretary Jerry Thomas told us that the ATF shakeup has been planned for more than a year and, therefore, cannot be called a last-ditch political maneuver. It is a long overdue move to professionalize the ATF, he said. Meanwhile, Rep. John Conyers, D.-Mich., is investigating.

Footnote: We recently reported that the Treasury Department was secretly investigating allegations that the ATF chief illegally accepted a gun from the host of a Las Vegas casino. The Treasury has now completed the investigation, which completely exonerates Davis.

OPEN SEASON: The Energy Research and Development Administration has let America's electric power companies wiggle out of more than $650 million in commitments to purchase enriched uranium.

The $650 million bailout was known inside ERDA as "open season" -- open season, that is, on the Treasury.

The story is highly technical. The utilities have been required since 1973 to make long-term purchasing agreements for enriched uranium. This is the fuel for the controversial nuclear generators. The fuel is produced at three government-owned plants and is sold to the utilities in units known as "Separative Work Units."

Last year, the big power companies realized they had been widely optimistic in ordering the uranium units. Construction and operational foul-ups, as well as the opposition to nuclear plants by environmentalists, had slowed down nuclear development.

The utilities were stuck with contracts, therefore, requiring them to pay for fuel they couldn't use immediately. Even though the 100 largest utilities turned a net profit of 10 per cent on $48.2 billion in revenue in 1975, the Ford administration was quick to sympathize with them.

An ERDA memo, uncovered by Ralph Nader's Congress Watch and turned over to us contended that Treasury officials were concerned "mainly with the immediate financial problems confronting domestic utilities. They encouraged any form of utility assistance that ERDA feels it can perform."

Almost miraculously, ERDA decided the nation suddenly needed to stockpile the nuclear units, thereby letting the utilities off the hook. The "open season" project went into effect on June 19, 1975. For the next two months, the utilities were permitted to cancel or defer enriched uranium deliveries.

Of the nation's 135 reactors, 101 took advantage of the "open season" opportunity. They cancelled between $15 million and $18 million in orders and postponed the delivery date on an addfitional $636 million worth of nuclear fuel.

Footnote: An ERDA spokesman insisted that the taxpayers won't lose any money in the end, since the uranium fuel eventually will be sold to other customers. But he acknowledged: "There has not been an attempt to track precisely what the effect of 'open season' has been."

SUTTON — Constable J.M. Stowell raided a line house on the line between Stanstead and Newport, Vt., on Tuesday, confiscating no less than 20 bottles of various kinds of spiritous liquors, which he turned into the collectors at Sherbrooke. The house had been raided a short time before, without success, but it is said that the proprietor, when he learned the seizing constable's name, said he knew he could not lead him blind.

Foundation aims to help sufferers of migraines

OTTAWA (CP) — Anyone who has suffered from migraine knows that an ordinary headache is a mere shadow by comparison. But now those who have been suffering migraine in silence, convinced that nothing can be done, may take heart.

The Migraine Foundation, a Toronto-based non-profit organization, may have the information sufferers and their doctors need to reduce the number and intensity of their migraines.

The foundation's free pamphlet, You Can Help Yourself, offers a basis on which every migraineur, or migraine sufferer, may be able to help control his migraines.

First off, if you haven't discovered what prompts your migraine attack, keep a little notebook with you noting the length of each attack, its severity, and the potential triggers you were exposed to in the 24-hour period before your attack.

The five most common migraine triggers are said to be food, hormone changes, stress, weather changes and low blood sugar caused by fasting.

MUST EAT REGULARLY

For this reason people with migraine problems should go no more than five hours without food in the daytime or 13 hours overnight, the foundation advises, adding that a snack before bedtime may prevent morning migraines.

Migraineurs should stay away from chocolate, cheese, citrus fruits and alcohol—especially such colored beverages as rum, rye, scotch, red wine and beer, the foundation says.

"Giving up chocolates, chocolate cake and ice cream is obvious, as is going without the slice of cheese, the orange, grapefruit or lemon," it says.

"But it is more difficult to remember to avoid foods which contain any chocolate, cheese, citrus fruit or alcohol—watch the sauces, pizza, flavorings, too."

Since migraines are not just headaches, headache medicines are not effective against them, the foundation says. Because migraine medicine is extremely potent it should not be used to treat normal headaches.

"Migraine is defined as a periodic vascular headache that is usually, but not always, accompanied by nausea and vomiting. The blood vessels dilate, causing the blood to bound through the head, creating a terrific pounding pain."

SYMPTOMS DIFFER

Why some people are prone to migraines and others are not hasn't been explained yet, the foundation says.

There are two kinds of migraine:

1. The classic migraine, marked by sharply defined symptoms that appear in the pre-headache period, such as disturbances of speech, vision and balance;

2. The common migraine with vague and diffuse pre-headache sensations such as irritability and a general feeling of fogginess.

One out of five Canadians suffers from migraines, the foundation says, and children are not exempt.

"It is essential to understand that migraine is a unique form of headache in that the condition is not necessarily limited to the head.

"Especially in children, nausea and vomiting accompanied by severe stomach cramps or bilious attacks are sometimes the predominant symptoms, occasionally with no sign of head pain.

"This abdominal migraine can later develop into the recurrent severe headaches that last for hours, days or even weeks."

Oddities....

ADELAIDE, Australia (Reuter) — Dress is optional so the bride and groom are opting not to dress at all.

The bride will wear only red flowers in her hair at what is believed to be Australia's first nude wedding, at a nudist camp near here Saturday.

Announcement of the wedding came in the Humanist Society's Journal and said that dress is optional for guests.

The groom was identified only as Bob, a 43-year-old teacher, the bride as Maureen, 31.

NORWICH, N.Y. (AP) — This northern New York state village's curfew law was declared unconstitutional because it says what time children have to be home but doesn't say when they can go out again.

The law bans children younger than 17 from streets and other public places after 11 p.m. Sunday through Thursday and after midnight Friday and Saturday unless accompanied by an adult.

"Parents and minors are not given fair notice of when children are permitted to return to the streets," a three-judge appeal court said Tuesday in throwing out the statute. "The lack of termination time renders the ordinance susceptible to arbitrary, capricious and erratic enforcement and therefore it is unconstitutional."

BALTIMORE (AP) — The equal rights movement finally is catching up with Santa Claus. Local employment agencies report more applications this year from women who want to be Santa at shopping centres and department stores.

Three out of 10 Santa applicants this year are women, said Linda Dickard, a service consultant for one agency. "The main thing involved in being a Santa Claus is whether the person works well with children," Mrs. Dickard said.

"A girl who wants to be Santa must also have a deep voice, or be able to fake it, and be fairly tall, since the costume is pretty large," Mrs. Dickard said.

LONDON (Reuter) — There was a gap in the lives of thousands of British men Tuesday.

Turning by habit to the third page of their daily newspaper, they found a large blank space instead of the usual smiling nude beauty. To add to the disappointment, the caption was still there, with a tantalizing reference to "beautiful 18-year-old Jackie Sewell."

The newspaper, The Sun, explained that Jackie's pin-up picture had not appeared because of a union dispute.

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) — Police say they are in a war of wits with an obscene telephone caller who evidently does not like being cut off.

He has taken to giving women an advance call, identifying himself as "Detective Bob Johnson, badge number 78041." He tells the women they are about to receive an obscene call, and should stay on the line and converse with the man so a trace can be made.

Sure enough, an obscene call follows—and if the woman keeps the line open, Detective Bob Johnson eventually gets on the line and thanks her for her help.

There is no Bob Johnson on the department's vice squad and police are urging women to hang up on the impersonator.

St. James Evening Guild

FOSTER — Miss Margaret Davson entertained the Nov. 11 meeting of St. James Evening Guild at her home in Foster with nine members and two visitors attending.

The president, Mrs. Muriel Whitehead opened the meeting by leading in prayer.

As the secretary was not present the minutes of the October meeting were not available. Mrs. Dot de Solla, treasurer, reported that the Guild had made a sizeable donation to St. James Corporation. Margaret Davson gave the report of the Corresponding Secretary.

Mrs. Elvia Johnson, Forgotten Patient Convener asked that Christmas gifts for Virginia be turned in as soon as possible. She also reported that several articles had been turned in for the Douglas Hospital Shopping Spree.

The President reported that the interior of the Church Hall had been painted and the bill for the painting was paid at this meeting.

65th ANNIVERSARY — Mr. and Mrs. Peter Rogerson recently celebrated their 65th wedding anniversary at Knowlton with friends and relatives. (Record photo by John McCaghey)

65th wedding anniversary celebrated Scottish style

KNOWLTON (JM) — A true highland ceildh was the only way to describe the 65th wedding anniversary party for Pete and Sarah Rogerson held at the Knowlton Legion Hall on Saturday, November 20, albeit four days after the actual anniversary.

More than 130 people gathered at the party, hardly surprising when you consider they have eight children, 33 grandchildren, 32 great-grandchildren and two great-great-grandchildren, with all five generations represented.

Son George acted as master of ceremonies and recalled his father was always a taskmaster and added — "He's even worse today because he can get to you with his cane!" The Southern Canada Power veteran, one could almost say Pete 'electrified' the Townships, was in fine fettle as he led the group in song and later sang a solo.

Sarah, 'wi her fine wee burr,' was at her gracious best when she thanked all the guests for their attendance at the ceildh. George, in true Scots tradition, said the organizers were deeply indebted to the Ladies Auxiliary, Branch 23, who catered the party at no cost when they learned it was for Pete and Sarah, Pete being a life-member of the Royal Canadian Legion.

"Nessy" didn't appear, contrary to all rumors, however Loch Lomond got one turn around and one left the hall with "Scotland the Brave" echoing in the cold autumn air — a fitting tribute to the couple from Ayr who have contributed greatly to the Townships and Canada.

Ann Landers says:

Suzie is out of place

Dear Ann Landers: I have an 11-year-old daughter who is very smart for her age. Suzie comes up with some of the darndest things. I don't know if it's TV that makes kids so sophisticated these days or what.

When I have a friend or two over (women) Suzie loves to sit in on our conversations. I sense that my friends don't like it. When I ask the child to go out and play she looks so hurt I feel guilty. I hate to displease my friends but I think it's educational for Suzie to hear adults talk. What do you think? — Modern Mom

Dear Mom: It's educational all right. Too educational. Suzie is out of place monitoring adult conversations and your friends are justified in their resentment.

Dear Ann Landers: You often advise people with marital problems, "See your clergyman," or, "See your lawyer." Well, I've seen both and am more confused than ever.

I left my second husband (after only a few months) because our marriage was terrible, except for the sex, which was fantastic. I decided I needed more than that.

My lawyer says I am foolish not to get a divorce because (a) under our state's community property laws I could become responsible for my husband's debts (he is self-employed and in a vulnerable business), (b) he is much older than I so there's a chance he could become disabled and I would have to take care of him for the rest of his life, (c) if I should die first he could possibly inherit a large share of my estate. This would be a lot of money if my parents should pre-decease me. (The money rightfully should go to my children.)

My clergyman says, "Don't divorce him. You would be a two-time loser and it would look very bad for our (Protestant) church."

What do YOU say, Ann? I'm going to take your advice. — Mid-West Teeter Totter

Dear Mid: Listen to your lawyer. One of the poorest reasons for remaining legally married is concern over how a divorce would look to others. And if you knew how many people are doing just that, your eyeballs would pop.

Dear Ann Landers: This is a letter to "Want To Be Neighborly."

Dear "Neighborly": I hate you! You have stolen many of my precious hours and time is irreplaceable. When I see your face at my door, I feel like hiding in the closet until you leave.

I manage to pretend I'm glad to see you, but I deserve an Academy Award for my acting. I have other friends I'd rather be with if only I had the time and energy.

You've dropped in dozens of times — unexpectedly, and prevented me from baking, sewing, marketing, phoning my family, or sneaking in a much-needed nap. To put it bluntly, you are a royal pain in the neck, Madam.

I wish I had the nerve to put a sign on my front door like one man did who wrote to Ann Landers. It read, "If you were not invited you are not expected and you are not welcome." I'm not signing my name, but I hope you recognize both me and yourself. — Can't Stand Drop-Ins

Dear Can't: Any woman who prefaces a message to her neighbor with "I hate you" should have that sign made at once. I hope you will do so as a preventive measure against ulcers, migraines, or high blood pressure — whichever might come first.

Wesselink-Cox marriage

A pretty autumn wedding took place on Saturday afternoon, Oct. 16 at 2:30 p.m. at Christ Church, Stanstead, when Vicki Lynn, elder daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Cox of Rock Island, became the bride of Hendrik Stremmelaar, son of Mrs. Bernard Wesselink and Mr. Wesselink of Stanstead.

Rev. Owen Merriman officiated for the double-ring ceremony and was celebrant of the Holy Eucharist. The organ music was played by Mrs. Alfred Middleton. Miss Madeleine Roy, soloist, sang prior to the entrance of the bride "For all We Know" and during the signing of the register, "The wedding song" theme from The Godfather. Arrangements of flowers in autumn colors were used in the chancel. The guest pews were marked with white satin ribbon bows faced with wheat and an everlasting flower bloom.

The bride was escorted down the aisle by her parents who gave her in marriage. The bride was wearing a gown of peau de soir enhanced with embroidery at the sweetheart neckline, on the bodice and the wide cuffs of the long gathered sleeves. The skirt featured a cathedral train that draped from the tight waist in flared fashion. Her fingertip length double veil of silk illusion edged with lace fell from a Juliette cap of peau de soie and lace. Her jewelry was a pearl drop pendant and her bouquet was a colonial of peach color sweetheart roses looped with matching satin ribbons and trailing ivy with rose buds.

Miss Wendy Cox, as maid of honor for her sister, was in a gown of mint green having a turtle neckline. The gown was topped with a short jacket having long sleeves banded with spruce green velvet and edged with lighter green ruffles. Tiny spruce velvet covered buttons fastened the jacket at the high waistline and were used on the lapels that were edged with ruffles. Her gown was complemented with a matching picture hat of mint green nylon and velvet with a velvet band and streamers. It was accented with a spray of green tiny rose buds.

The bridesmaids, Miss Valerie King and Miss Donna Armstrong, were gowned alike in deep coral with brown velvet trim styled identical to the maid of honor. The attendants' bouquets were of mixed autumn flowers.

The suits of the groom and his attendants harmonized, being in camel with brown velvet trim tuxedos with beige shirts having brown edged ruffles. Mr. Arthur Laberee was groomsman and the ushers were Michael Malouin, cousin of the bride, and Henry Vachon, brother-in-law of the groom. The groom's boutonniere was a rosebud with gypsolia; the others in the party had red carnations.

Mrs. Cox, the bride's mother, was in a gown of emerald polyester having lace trim complemented with a corsage of yellow sweetheart roses.

Mrs. Wesselink, mother of the groom, was in a jacket gown of midnight blue with a floral pattern. Her corsage was a white orchid.

The bride's maternal grandmother, Mrs. Wilfred Molway, was in a gown of light blue polyester crepe topped with a mink stole to which was pinned a corsage of yellow miniature roses.

The bride's maternal great aunt, Mrs. Rose Lyons, was in a frock of cinnamon knit worn under a camel wool coat. Her corsage was white miniature carnations.

The reception was held at the Legion Memorial Home in Stanstead where refreshments were served by members of the Legion Auxiliary, Stanstead Branch No. 5 to about 100 guests. Toasts were proposed to the happy couple by the groomsman and responded to by the groom.

The double tier fruited wedding cake, made and decorated by the groom's mother, Mrs. Wesselink, was in old ivory with coral having the top tier upon cherub pillars. The top was enhanced with a pedestal and bride and groom in miniature centered with a white wedding bell, encircled with pink roses.

Bruce Patton's orchestra played for dancing. Later, amid showers of confetti the bride and groom left on their honeymoon trip to the New England States. The bride travelled in a green pant ensemble with brown accessories and a corsage of peach color roses. They are residing in Sherbrooke.

The bride tossed her bouquet and it was caught by Miss Theresa Malouin; the bride's blue garder tossed by the groom was caught by Randy Buffit.

Miss Henney Stemmelaar, sister of the groom, was in charge of the guest book. Guests attended from Oshawa, Windsor, Chambly, Georgeville, Beaconsfield, Sherbrooke, Ottawa, Chatham, N.B., Auburn, Mass., Longueuil, Magog, North Hatley, Sawyerville, Mutton Bay, Harrington Harbour, Richmond, Lennoxville, Pointe Claire and the Boundary Villages.

The bride is a graduate of Alexander Galt Regional High and the John Abbott School of Nursing, Ste. Anne de Vellevue. She is presently on the nursing staff at the Sherbrooke Hospital. The groom attended school in the country of Holland and graduated from Sacred Heart High, Newport, Vt., and Stanstead College. He is presently employed at the College.

On the eve of the marriage of Hendrik and Vicki, following the rehearsal at Christ Church in keeping with the tradition of the country of Holland, his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Wesselink entertained in their Stanstead home for the groom's party.

This was attended by the bride and groom, their attendants, family and a few close friends and included the groom's 80 year old grandfather, Johan Wesselink from Windsor, Ont.

Stephen Wesselink, an Ontario florist, had arranged beautiful pieces using autumn gold and rust asters and baby mums to decorate the house, some of which were used in the church for the wedding, and for the reception.

Many happy toasts were proposed. The host and hostess served an elaborate buffet of roast turkey and baked ham, salads, home-made rolls, petits fours and wine. The groom's cake made and decorated by Mrs. Wesselink was decorated with horse and carriage and the inscription "Get me to the church on time". This was cut and served.

The bride and groom exchanged gifts and presented remembrances to their attendants. There were approximately 40 guests to attended from Ontario, Waterville and other points.

The marriage of Martha Ann Davidson (nee Jervis-Read) to Raymond Forget took place in St. Luke's Church, Dixie Road South, Mississauga, Ontario, on Saturday, September 25, 1976. Mr. and Mrs. Forget are now residing in Cornwall, Ontario.

SOMETIME AROUND NEW YEAR'S Elizabeth Taylor may be ringing in a new husband, No. 6. The actress and John Warner, former secretary of the Navy, have been constant companions of late.

The name of the GUM game is push

MOSCOW (CP) — The hectic, time-consuming scramble that is shopping in the giant state-owned GUM department store here would probably drive most Canadian consumers to distraction.

There are lineups for everything and few signs of courtesy, even toward the aged, as Soviet customers vie with one another for limited quantities of food, clothing and other material needs.

The name of the shopping game in GUM—the initials stand for State Department Store in Russian—seems to be "push." Canadian shoppers accustomed to the relative efficiency of shopping centres and the chance to pick up their needs in a leisurely manner find almost incomprehensible a system that forces the buyer to queue three times.

Every day is like a Christmas rush, with dour shoppers jostling shoulder-to-shoulder about the many cubicles in the store searching for good buys.

Fierce encounters pitting one shopper against another are not uncommon, especially in the food sections. Shoppers jam against glass-window counters quarrelling over who should be served first as they line up to buy rather poor-looking chunks of fatty and gristly meat.

QUARRELS FREQUENT

It is one of the few places a visitor can see Russians burst into passionate dispute. One argument involves an aged man with a cane and a young woman. As their dispute reaches a peak, another shopper punctuates their lively exchange with shouts at a beleaguered clerk.

GUM, the largest store in Moscow, once was an arcade for private shops but now is owned by the government. It was closed during the regime of Joseph Stalin but reopened after his death.

Inside the imposing grey stone building are three shopping levels with walkways linking the upper corridors.

The store sells everything from small snacks, such as bread with thin slabs of meat or cheese for six kopecks—about eight cents—to expensive stereo record players and tape recorders costing the equivalent of hundreds of dollars.

Customers, once they are fortunate enough to have made their way through the omnipresent lineups, are served by women in brown dresses. Goods in greatest demand are food and clothing, especially meat, shoes and coats.

LINEUPS EVERYWHERE

A purchase in the GUM store is a three-stage operation. First, the consumer waits in line to select what he wants.

Then he goes to the cash register to pay for it. Each cashier is equipped with an old-fashioned abacus—the ancient calculating frame with small wooden balls sliding on wires.

Once the item is paid for, the shopper takes his receipt back through the line at the original counter to collect his purchase.

Often the crowds are so thick it is difficult to move. But no matter how jammed a corridor, there will be a hand at your back pushing you if you slow down.

Apparently courtesy is as unheard of in crowds of shoppers as it is among Moscow drivers. Even if confronted by a group of the aged waiting in line, you will be expected to shove your way through.

Soviet citizens will line up for something before they know what it is. Foreigners living here say it is because so many goods are scarce that a lineup must signify that something special is available.

CROWDS GATHER

It is possible to start a line by gazing into a window for a few minutes. Two or three persons stop behind you; the group expands, and soon you are on your way to your own queue.

Outside the store, on Red Square, some advertising is done by employees speaking through portable amplifying systems.

Consumer goods often seem to be of poor quality although some foods are cheaper than in Canada. Spiced sausage is about 2.90 rubles a kilogram, (about $1.70 a pound) and kippers are about 70 cents a pound.

A loaf of crusty bread is 28 kopecks, or 36 cents.

There are few clothing bargains. A rather drab wool turtleneck sweater sells for 50 rubles, (about $65) and men's white shirts for between $8.80 and $19.50.

A woman's plain white cotton blouse sells for about $24 and a relatively cheap men's suit, poorly made, goes for about $100.

And you can buy a plaster bust of Lenin for $16.90.

OFFENBACH: making it big with Quebecois blues-rock sound

By STEVE BELL
(Record Reporter)

Local rock fans are in for a great treat tonight, as OFFENBACH, Quebec's premier blues-rock band, takes to the stage at the Centre Culturel on the University of Sherbrooke campus.

Emerging in a province where the "star-system" has, for a long time been dominated by solo acts, Offenbach has adopted a tough, American-British blues-rock tradition and the result has been truly original.

The group plays heavy, big city type music, a paradox really, when you consider the musicians hail from Quebec's small town system, the like of St. Jean, Granby and Magog.

It all started with Rock'n' roll (the first song Jerry — vocals and keyboard — performed was "Whole Lotta Shakin' Goin' On) back in the mid '60s when the Quebec versions of Beatlemania were embodied in such groups as the all-white-haired Les Classels.

WE'RE DOING IT THE HARD WAY — Willy, Wezo, Johnny and Gerry, taking their own route and time to the top.

Before they came together, the members of Offenbach played in groups with names like Les Fabulous Kernels, Sphynx, Heritiers, Penitent and Les Gants Blancs (The White Gloves), the latter actually rising as far as releasing two 45 records.

As heavy-rock began to take the world by storm, Offenbach developed an "underground" reputation in Quebec — one of the very few acts to make a commitment to the new sound and stick with it no matter how economically difficult. By 1972, after superstar Robert Charlebois had asked them to be his back-up group and then backed out, Offenbach's first album with the current personnel was released.

And by November of that year, they were ready to stage one of the most grandiose and bizarre events in the history of Montreal rock; a mass for the dead in the St. Joseph's Oratory, the largest basillica in America. The event was broadcast live over CHOM-FM and the live recording which followed — the real "miracle" of the rock mass, vaulted the group towards their first foreign gig, four shows at the Canadian exhibition at the Musee d'art moderne in France.

A year later (1974), after having performed the soundtrack for the film "Bulldozer", they returned to France for 18 months to work on a film starring themselves, entitled "Tabarnac."

While in France the group did numerous concert gigs and opened shows for the then-obscure group, "Supertramp."

The group resigned themselves in the same year, to end their affiliation with Barkley Records and turned to producing their own albums. Their first effort, "Tabarnac", was produced in London.

More recently, the group has just returned from a very successful "mini-tour" of Western Canada. The tour included such cities as Vancouver, Winnipeg and Toronto and was primarily aimed at testing the reactions of the western audiences to this type of music.

"The heavier music really appeals to the Westerners," reveals Michel (Willy) Lamothe, the group's bass player. "They're just not used to it, nor are they used to the French lyrics.

"But we do the shows in both French and English, and the response from the westerners was great," continued Willie.

But probably the most significant development at present are the doors which are, and will be, opening up for the group as a result of them signing a five year contract with A and M records.

This also happens to be another first for the group, for they happen to be the first Quebecois group ever to be signed by the company — a company with such names as Frampton, Nazareth, Supertramp, etc.

Not ones to waste time, Offenbach has just released (early last week) their first album under the new label, "Never Too Tender." It is an all English album.

"We would be stupid not to want to seek out new listeners," says drummer Wezo, referring to Offenbach's new accent on English material. The group has already included English numbers on their albums but today they are making a stronger pitch ("without, of course, losing our own thing," notes Johnny), in such songs as "No Money, No Candy," "Never too Tender," "When I'm Really Down," "Balls and Rods" and "I'm a Rocker."

"We do it the hard way," stated Willy in a recent interview. "We started out as a French hard-rock group, before it became stylish, something never before tried. Rock hadn't really caught on and French rock?

"Seven-Up offered us part of their "Rock-Caps" promotion, where they printed your picture on 50,000 bottle caps in a contest, offering instant recognition," revealed Willy. "We didn't accept, it wasn't what we wanted. We're taking it at a gradual pace, no flash, no flare just the music."

And the group continues to "do it the hard way" as they still refuse to do lip-sinc when offered television spots.

"But it is a group decision to do it this way," says Willie. "Everyone has a say in what we do. Everyone contributes to the composition of the group's music. Our music is made up in jam sessions, kind of variations on a theme. There are no set rules, we just play whatever sounds good and expand on that," states the bassist.

"A lot of bands aren't really bands in the true sense," says Willie. "They're really just a writer and the bunch of guys who play back up.

"With us, if one guy doesn't like the tune, we simply don't use it. We all work on the music together," stated Willie.

And that probably explains it all, the team work and the excellent tight arrangements, bringing forth some really fine "rock'n good blues."

Definitely not a concert to be missed!

Art demonstrations

SHERBROOKE — While exhibiting at "La Galerie d'Art" of the University of Sherbrooke, the Regroupement des Artistes des Cantons de l'Est (RACE) have also been giving practical demonstrations in the different artistic techniques, in the main hall of the Cultural Center.

All this week, until Friday evening, Anne-Marie Audet, Claude Lafleur, Jacques Barbeau, Ophra Benazon, Marc Tinel and Helene Richard will demonstrate such techniques as wood printing, serigraphy (silk screening) and acrylic painting (especially hardedge) for the public.

On Sunday, from 2 p.m. to 5 p.m. Arlette Villecoq, Marc Tinel and Helene Richard will be presenting techniques in photography and serigraphy.

The public is warmly invited to come and view the demonstrations and to see the exhibit itself.

Marc Tinel looks on as Helene Richard inspects a serigraphe in the printing studio of the R.A.C.E. The group will be making presentations all week in different techniques.

South Korean diplomat aiding US investigation

WASHINGTON (AP) — FBI agents are reported to be guarding a South Korean diplomat who has defied orders to return home and is co-operating with the U.S. justice department investigation of alleged South Korean influence-buying among U.S. congressmen.

Sources identified him Tuesday as Kim Sang Keun, officially listed as a counsellor at the South Korean Embassy but who is reported to be the senior Korean Central Intelligence Agency (KCIA) officer here.

FBI agents are reported to be guarding Kim, his wife and family at an undisclosed location near here.

Kim, 43, who was named in recent news reports about the Korean influence-purchasing investigation as a KCIA officer, is reported to fear the Seoul government would make him a scapegoat in the U.S. investigation of its lobbying activities.

The South Korean government is reported to have ordered home several officials to prevent them from co-operating with U.S. investigators.

The alleged influence-purchasing scheme is reported to be directed from the highest echelons of the Seoul government with the knowledge of the South Korean President Chunghee Park.

HAVE IMMUNITY

Although Kim and other South Korean officials at the embassy and other consular offices in the United States have diplomatic immunity, they may co-operate voluntarily with the prosecutors.

A source said that Kim, while not technically a defector since he is from a country friendly to the United States, has been allowed to change his visa status in return for co-operation with the justice department investigation.

"This appears to be something akin to plea bargaining," the source said.

Kim is said to be well-informed about the activities of Tongsun Park, a South Korean businessman with wide interests here, and Pak Bo Hi, president of the Washington-based Korean Cultural and Freedom Foundation and a senior aide to Korean evangelist Sun Myung Moon. Pak is also a former military attache at the embassy here.

DENIES ACTS ILLEGAL

Tongsun Park is reported to have admitted giving cash and gifts to some congressmen, but he has denied he is a South Korean government agent or that he did anything illegal.

The Washington Star reported Tuesday that Park is not planning to return to the United States and that he put two of his lavish Washington properties up for sale.

In Seoul today, the foreign ministry refused to comment on Kim's action. The South Korean government has denied that there is any influence-peddling scheme.

Several congressmen have reported receiving gifts or campaign contributions from Tongsun Park.

Louisiana Gov. Edwin Edwards has admitted that his wife received $10,000 in cash from Park in 1971 when Edwards was a congressman.

Representative John McFall of California, the House Democratic whip, has said he accepted $4,000 from Park that he put into his office fund.

It was not illegal for foreigners to make campaign contributions to congressmen until 1974. But anyone lobbying on behalf of a foreign government was then and now is required to register with the state department.

Bill to give Scotland, Wales rule fought

LONDON (AP) — Scottish and Welsh nationalists, Ulsterites, Laborites and Conservatives all attacked the Labor government's bill to give limited home rule to Scotland and Wales. But political commentators predict the bill will become law within a year.

The Scottish and Welsh nationalists said the bill introduced Tuesday does not go far enough. The Scots objected because it gives them no control over North Sea oil.

The Conservatives said the bill goes too far and threatens the breakup of the United Kingdom, made up of England, Scotland, Wales and Northern Ireland.

About 80 Laborites demanded a country-wide referendum on the legislation. This would probably kill the bill, since the 33 million English voters outnumber the 3.7 million Scottish voters and two million Welsh six to one.

Members of the House of Commons from Northern Ireland protested that the bill ignores their homeland, which once enjoyed extensive self-rule but now is administered by the British government because of the Protestant-Roman Catholic war there.

STRENGTH GROWING

Prime Minister James Callaghan's government introduced the legislation in an attempt to check the growing strength of the Scottish Nationalist party, which won more than 30 per cent of the Scottish vote in the October, 1974, general election.

Although the party has only 11 of the 71 Scottish seats in the House of Commons, further gains would probably increase its seats substantially at the expense of the Laborites, who are traditionally strong in Scotland.

The bill would create elected regional assemblies in Edinburgh and Cardiff that would legislate in such areas as education, local government, the environment, industrial development, agriculture, housing and culture.

Funds would come from grants by Parliament, however, and the assemblies would have no tax powers. And the central government would retain a veto power over legislation which threatened the interests of the country as a whole.

The government also stressed that the Scottish assembly would be given no control over revenue from the North Sea oilfields being developed off Scotland's eastern coast.

WANT REVENUE

The English contend that the oil is a national resource. The Scots Nats, as the nationalist party is generally known, want all the oil revenue for Scotland. More moderate Scots say development of Scotland should be given priority when the oil money is distributed.

Michael Foot, the Labor party leader in the House of Commons, warned that unless the bill is adopted "the chances of a breakup of the United Kingdom would be much greater."

The Glasgow Daily Record, published in Scotland's largest city, reported Monday that a poll of readers found 44 per cent in favor of independence for Scotland, 40 per cent for limited home rule and only 15 per cent in favor of the status quo.

Nationalist sentiment is also strong in Wales, but a desire for independence is not widespread. The region has only 36 seats in the House of Commons, and the Welsh nationalist party, Plaid Cymru, has only three of them.

WI meeting

NORTH HATLEY — The November meeting of the Hatley Center branch of Quebec Women's Institutes was held at the Community Hall with the president, Mr. J. Johnston presiding.

The Collect was repeated in unison and a guest, Mrs. A. Marlowe was welcomed. Nine members answered the roll call with gifts for Veterans.

In the absence of the secretary, the newspaper report of the previous meeting was read and Mrs. R. McLellan acted as secretary. The treasurer, Mrs. W. Shaw, gave a good financial report.

The president reported briefly for Mrs. P. Wilson, Citizenship Convenor, on the Hallowe'en party and the UNICEF collection.

Education Convenor, Mrs. R. Vaughan, told the members about visiting the Salt Lake City International Peach Gardens, which was initiated by the Salt Lake Council of Women in 1939.

The 1977 Fair List was read and several members chose articles to make for the Fair.

Welfare and Health Convenor, Mrs. G. LeBaron read a humorous and informative article on Colds.

The Sunshine Convenor reported a card sent to an ill friend in hospital.

It was moved that a donation be made towards the refreshment booth at the National Plowing Match held at Macdonald College.

The members were sorry to learn that a member, Mrs. Rita Bower would be leaving North Hatley to make her home in Drummondville.

The drawing was won by Mrs. Johnston.

A delicious salad plate was served at the close of the meeting by the hostesses, Mrs. Vaughan and Mrs. G. Bennett.

The next meeting will be the Christmas meeting on Dec. 7th. Members are reminded to bring a decorated basket for Christmas Cheer and a home-made Gift for exchange.

Granted firing squad death

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah (AP) — Gary Mark Gilmore, his death wish granted by the state pardons board, might face a firing squad within days of his 36th birthday Saturday, barring appeals by death penalty opponents who ignored his demand to "butt out."

Gilmore is to appear before 4th District Judge J. Robert Bullock in Provo today to have a new date set for the execution by five anonymous volunteers.

"Thank you, sir," the handcuffed and shackled prisoner whispered Tuesday after board chairman George Latimer announced a 2-to-1 decision affirming a jury's order that Gilmore be put to death for killing a motel clerk.

Earlier, Gilmore, appearing healthy and alert despite an 11-day fast, had ridiculed witnesses who spoke against the death penalty, and snapped at reporters who crowded into the tiny hearing room.

State officials said the execution—which would be the first in the United States since June 2, 1967—must come by Monday to avoid conflict with a state law. That law requires that death sentences be carried out 60 days after initial sentencing.

CHOSE FIRING SQUAD

Gilmore chose the firing squad over hanging, and was to have been executed Nov. 15. But retiring Gov. Calvin Rampton issued an unwanted stay until the pardons board reviewed the case.

After the hearing—which Gilmore contemptuously described as "much ado about nothing"— several individuals and groups said they have planned appeals that might delay the execution.

Tom Jones, a lawyer whom Gilmore fired last week, filed notice of appeal to the Utah Supreme Court, which turned down a previous appeal by two court-appointed lawyers.

Lawyers for the state chapter of the American Civil Liberties Union (ACLU) and lawyers for other Death Row convicts indicated they too would go to court in efforts to stay the execution.

The National Coalition Against the Death Penalty, consisting of 40 legal and religious groups, said in New York it is horrified at the pardons board action.

"I want all these people . . . to just butt out," Gilmore said at the hearing. "This is my life and my death. It's been sanctioned by the courts . . . and I accept that."

NOT SURFEIT of surf but surf fit for a surfer's dream. With temperatures in the 80s and the surf up, the beach is clearly the place to be in San Diego. And this young lady makes the most of it.

The World in focus

19 die

MEXICO CITY (Reuters) — Nineteen people were killed and 17 seriously injured Tuesday when a freight train smashed into a city bus on a level crossing here, police said.

All the victims were travelling on the bus, which was crowded with workers going to jobs in the northeastern suburb of Bosques de Aragon.

Police said they are preparing charges against the injured driver of the bus.

To end fighting?

DUBLIN, Ireland (AP) — Political leaders of the predominantly Roman Catholic Irish Republican Army's (IRA) Provisional wing offered Tuesday to meet with militant Protestant organizations in Northern Ireland in a new attempt to end seven years of sectarian fighting.

The offer was in an editorial in this week's edition of An Phoblacht, mouthpiece of Sinn Fein, the Provisionals' political front.

Well-placed Sinn Fein sources said, however, that the proposed discussions on Northern Ireland's future "are in no way to be considered peace talks. They are purely exploratory to determine if there are any areas of common ground."

Protestant leaders in Belfast declined to comment until they have studied the Sinn Fein offer. One informed Protestant source said: "We'll look at anything that will end the bloodshed."

Within hours of the offer's disclosure, gunmen killed a 37-year-old woman on the doorstep of her house in the staunchly Protestant Shankill Road area of Belfast, police reported.

Peace mandate renewed

UNITED NATIONS (Reuter) — The Security Council approved Tuesday a six-month renewal of the mandate of the UN peace-keeping force in the Golan Heights between Israel and Syria.

If the Council had not approved the extension, the mandate would have expired at midnight Tuesday night.

The vote formally extended the mandate until May 31.

Twelve members voted for the resolution. China, Libya and Benin declined to participate in the vote.

Cod war continues

LONDON (AP) — Another campaign in the cod war between Britain and Iceland ends tonight in defeat for the British.

A six-month interim fishing agreement expires tonight. Owners of 16 British trawlers that were allowed to fish off Iceland indicated that they will leave and no trouble is expected.

The departure of the trawlers is a defeat for British diplomacy and a blow to Britain's deep-sea fishing industry.

Some of the fishermen will join the queues of trawlermen on relief. Others will try their luck in the more distant, less certain grounds of the Barents Sea, north of the Soviet Union.

Meanwhile, British housewives find cod expensive and scarce. Once an economy food, it now sells for $1.48 a pound.

For Iceland, a country of 200,000 people whose economy is almost totally dependent on fish, the British withdrawal is a major victory.

CAN DO NOTHING

Officials in London said the government can do nothing to keep a British trawler out of the fishing zone which Iceland proclaimed for 200 miles beyond its coastline. But they warned that a skipper who violates the 200-mile limit will get no help from the Royal Navy when Iceland's coast guard gunboats go after him.

Future British fishing in Icelandic waters depends on European Common Market negotiations with Iceland for fishing rights for the nine-country European Economic Community. Talks start Dec. 14 in Brussels, Belgium. Similar pacts are to be negotiated with Norway and Greenland.

The Common Market plans to declare a 200-mile fishing limit next year, although Britain is disputing with the other eight countries how close they can fish to its shores. It wants an exclusive 50-mile zone for British fishermen.

FEUDING FOR YEARS

Britain and Iceland have been feuding for 18 years over British trawlers fishing for cod and other species in the rich waters off the Icelandic coast. Each extension by Iceland of its exclusive fishing zone has set off a new round of hostilities, with Icelandic gunboats cutting the nets of British trawlers, collisions between the gunboats and British frigates protecting the trawlers, angry charges and countercharges, and a 3½-month break in diplomatic relations early this year.

The third war lasted from November, 1975, when the 200-mile limit was declared, until the six-month agreement was signed June 1. British frigates were involved in 45 collisions with Icelandic gunboats, and the Royal Navy said damage to 15 frigates totalled more than $2 million. The gunboats cut away the fishing gear and catches of 45 trawlers.

exotic woman with the guarded smile that adorn her press book are reinforced in the dressing room; the well-rouged cheeks, the carefully combed golden hair, the faint scent of perfume.

Her rugged schedule, it seems, has left little to distinguish between the performer and the person, to the public eye at least.

On stage, her instrument consumes her every gesture, her face impassive, her smiles reserved for fleeting seconds between each number when she stands and bows stiffly before describing her next piece.

As her receptions will attest, however, she is as devoted to her public as she is to her music, a practice that at least allows her some personal contact with the audiences she travels so hard to reach.

"My ambition in classical guitar is to reach out to a lot of people who have never been exposed to it, to give people my own age someone to relate to musically.

Although only 26, she has accomplished it well. Her tours with Gordon Lightfoot have given her access to as many as 20,000 pop fans in one night, an exposure that pays its dividends at record counters everywhere.

Her almost universal acceptance amongst music listeners is unique in the classical world, a feat accomplished by every thorough promotion and a repertoire that spans centuries.

"You can't please everybody but I try to keep my programs varied. They're all pieces that I like."

Last night, alone on a black stage without microphones, the guitar perched on a patch of her crocheted peasant's gown, her mastery was unquestionable, a product of a devotion that has spanned 12 years.

Even if history does not rank Liona Boyd with the immortals of the medium, her discipline and dedication up to now has certainly been rewarding not only to the young woman herself, but to audiences and musicians everywhere.

Williams keeping his promise to himself

Maple Leafs "lesser-lights" combine to down Islanders, 4-2

Dave Williams made a promise to himself before the current National Hockey League season and now is doing his best to keep it.

The pugnacious Toronto left winger, along with a group of other Maple Leaf lesser-lights, combined Tuesday to hand Patrick Division leading New York Islanders their fourth loss in five starts, this one a 4-2 setback on home ice.

Williams, 22, who leads the NHL in penalty minutes this season with 150, has never claimed to be a prolific goal scorer. But he said during training camp in September that he was going to concentrate on playing good two-way hockey and prove something to critics who have cast him in strictly an enforcer role.

Williams, who scored twice last Saturday to pace the Leafs to a 4-2 upset win over Boston Bruins, scored the tying goal Tuesday, his ninth of the season, as the Leafs staged a third-period comeback to erase a 2-1 Islanders lead.

ALSO BEAT RESCH

Bob Neely and Scott Garland, who have scored a total of 10 goals between them this season on Toronto's third line, also beat Islander netminder Glenn Resch. Ian Turnbull scored for the Leafs in the opening period.

Jude Drouin was the only Islander to beat rookie goaltender Mike Palmateer, who blocked 28 shots. Resch faced 36 Leaf drives.

New York lost defenceman Denis Potvin in the second priod with a neck injury. He collided with the Leafs' Lanny McDonald and the Toronto player's stick struck him on the cheek.

Potvin was taken to hospital for x-rays which proved negative.

In other games, New York Rangers and Atlanta Flames played to a 2-2 tie, Washington Capitals downed Pittsburgh Penguins 6-4, Colorado Rockies surprised St. Louis Blues 5-3 and Buffalo Sabres stopped Boston 6-2.

STOPS 42 SHOTS

At Atlanta, goalie John Davidson turned back 42 shots as New York Rangers came from behind to gain the tie. Phil Esposito scored the tying goal for the Rangers on a power play at 13:43 of the second period.

The Flames outshot the Rangers 33-16 in the two final periods.

Nelson Pyatt scored two goals to pace the Rockies to the franchise's first-ever victory in St. Louis. The club, which played in Kansas City before this season, managed only a tie in seven previous games at St. Louis Arena.

At Landover, Md., Tony White scored his first two goals of the season to lead the Capitals to only their seventh win in 23 starts.

The Sabres got two goals from Terry Martin, one of them coming during a four-goal Buffalo second period. The victory was the fifth in the Sabres' last six road games and the first Boston loss on home ice since Dec. 23, 1975, when Los Angeles Kings beat the Bruins 4-3.

Play resumes tonight with 12 clubs in action. The Leafs are at home to Los Angeles, the Rangers play host to the Capitals and Philadelphia Flyers tangle with the North Stars in Minneapolis, Minn. Detroit Red Wings travel to Vancouver for a game with the Canucks and Cleveland Barons meet the Rockies in Denver.

Hull line scores 14 points

Jets roll over Mariners

The line of Bobby Hull, Anders Hedberg and Ulf Nilsson exploded for 14 points Tuesday night as Winnipeg Jets rolled over San Diego Mariners 8-2 in one of four World Hockey Association games.

In the other games, Norm Ullman scored in overtime to lift Edmonton Oilers to a 3-2 win over Phoenix Roadrunners, Birmingham Bulls ended a three-game winless string with a 3-1 victory over Cincinnati Stingers and Quebec Nordiques edged New England Whalers 2-1.

Hedberg helped the Jets move back into sole possession of first place in the West Division by scoring four goals in the game in Winnipeg played before 7,121 fans.

Hull, in his second game this year after being kept out of the lineup due to a pre-season wrist injury, scored one goal and assisted on four others.

Nilsson drew five assists with other Winnipeg goals going to defenceman Barry Long, Bobby Guindon and Veli Ketola.

Mariners got their two goals from Tony Cassolato and Kevin Morrison early in the third period.

The Jets outshot the Mariners 39-20 and took three of nine minor penalties.

In Edmonton, Ullman's unassisted goal on a power play at 7:42 of overtime gave the Oilers their fourth straight overtime win.

PROVIDE GOALS

Bob Russell and Rusty Patenaude provided the other Edmonton goals with Jerry Rollins scoring both goals for the Roadrunners. Rollins forced the overtime when Phoenix pulled goalie Clay Hebenton for an extra forward with 25 seconds to play in the third period.

Hebenton stopped 34 shots in the game while Ken Broderick faced 20 shots in the Edmonton net. Roadrunners took four of the seven minor penalties.

Wally Weir scored his first goal of the season in Quebec at the 14:11 mark of the second period to provide the margin in Nordique's win.

Quebec had taken a 1-0 first period lead on a goal by Christian Bordeleau and Gary Swaine ruined a shutout bid by Richard Brodeur with a shorthanded goal in the third period for the Whalers.

Brodeur was tested 38 times compared to just 22 shots faced by Christer Abrahamsson of New England.

The victory maintained Quebec's position atop the East division with a 15-10 won-lost record.

In Birmingham, Jeff Jacques scored with about four minutes left in the game, then Mark Napier scored into an empty net to give the Bulls a victory. Vaclav Nedomansky scored the other Birmingham goal with Peter Marsh giving the Stingers a brief 1-0 lead in the first period.

Tonight, Calgary visits New England.

Draveurs dump Sorel 7-1

Richard David and Alain Belanger fired two goals apiece to spark Trois-Rivieres Draveurs to a 7-1 triumph over Sorel Black Hawks in Quebec Major Junior Hockey League action Tuesday night.

In other action, Quebec Remparts nipped Hull Olympics 4-3.

Francois Lagueux, Richard Dalpe and Guy Dupuis added singles to the Trois-Rivieres attack, while Gary Platt scored in the third period for the Hawks, who were outshot 47-19.

Eddy Godin's goal at 1:11 of the final period gave Quebec a 4-2 lead over Hull and became the winner when Denis Pomerleau hit for the Olympics with 26 seconds left in the game. Denis Turcotte, Jean Chouinard and Pierre Lagace had other goals for the Remparts, with Michel Bauman and Brent Tremblay contributing Hull's other goals.

In the only game tonight, Quebec, which has a four-point lead over Trois-Rivieres in the Dilio Division, visits Laval Nationals.

Tony Dorsett

Heisman Trophy winner

NEW YORK (AP) — When Pittsburgh's Tony Dorsett cradled the Heisman Trophy in his arms Tuesday, there wasn't a prouder smile in the house than that of Herbert P. Douglas Jr.

Another black had made good.

"I have a lot of reasons to be happy," said Douglas, 54, a New York wine and spirits importer. "My alma mater, Pittsburgh, at last has won a Heisman. The black football player now has come to full stature."

Douglas, bronze medallist in the long jump in the 1948 Olympics, was one of two black players who broke the color barrier at Pitt in 1945.

"There were only 39 black players on major college squads in the entire country in 1945," he said. "Buddy Young and I once went over the list, man for man.

"Now we have hundreds. We have our sixth Heisman Trophy winner in the last 16 years—our seventh if you count Archie Griffin twice. We have come a long way.

"It's hard to believe, now they say pro football is 40-percent black, basketball 60 per cent and baseball 30 per cent."

TWO BLACKS ON TEAM

Douglas was a man-in-motion halfback on the 1945 Pitt squad. Another black, Jimmy Joe Robinson, played halfback.

Douglas said Pittsburgh coach Clark Shaughnessy treated him and Robinson with dignity and respect, but there was a long, hard campaign before the two black youngsters were accepted by their teammates.

The bias of the era was reflected in the all-America and Heisman Trophy selections. Jim Brown of Syracuse, one of the greatest ball carriers of all-time, never finished higher than fifth in the Heisman balloting. Such stars as Ken Washington and Buddy Young were overlooked.

Ernie Davis of Syracuse became the first black to win the Heisman in 1961. A few months later, he died from leukemia.

Mike Garrett of Southern California won the Heisman in 1965 and Simpson, also of USC, took it in 1968. Johnny Rodgers of Nebraska, now with Montreal Alouettes of the Canadian Football League, won in 1972 and Archie Griffin of Ohio State was the recipient in 1974 and 1975.

Dorsett, a steel worker's son from Aliquippa, Pa., shattered all existing college records for yards gained (6,082), most 1, 000-yard plus seasons (four) and most career points scored (356).

OBJECTIVE "4,000"

SHERBROOKE — The Sherbrooke Beaver hockey club is presently organizing "Objective 4,000", an effort on the part of the club to get 4,000 or more spectators at this Friday's game between the Beavers and the Cornwall Royals.

The club will be giving out 400 mini-loto tickets to spectators sitting in selected sections of the Sports Palace. The drawing of the winning sections is scheduled to take place between the second and third periods.

The reason for the promotion is the low attendance experienced so far this season. Games average 3,300 to 3,800 spectators, in comparison with the 5,000 spectator crowds last season.

The game should be a good one as the two teams battle it out for first place in their division.

Bill Huges

Parity among teams needed

VANCOUVER (CP) — Parity among existing National Hockey League teams, not amalgamation with the World Hockey Association, is the major problem facing NHL owners, Bill Hughes, president of Vancouver Canucks, said Tuesday.

Hughes said in an interview that the six teams in the NHL before expansion started 10 years ago cannot continue to be preserved at the expense of other teams.

"A parity of some kind has to be attained so that at the start of the season each team has a 50-50 chance of getting into the playoffs," said Hughes, NHL governor for the Canucks.

"There has to be an awakening on everyone's part—the owners and players, particularly—that we are putting on a show of skill in the NHL. That show of skill must be balanced, or we will kill the goose that laid the golden egg."

Hughes said he is concerned about the health of NHL franchises in Atlanta, Denver, Cleveland and Pittsburgh. He said the price tag for getting into the NHL "is unreal and most of the expansion teams were under-financed in the first place."

SHOWED PROFIT

Vancouver, which paid $6 million to get into the NHL seven years ago, is one of the few teams to show a profit while paying the entrance fee over a long-term period. Northwest Sports Enterprises Ltd., parent company of the Canucks, reported a net profit of $299,455 for the year ended Aug. 31, 1976.

Hughes said the NHL must realign its present teams, perhaps under the system used in English soccer, where the top teams play in the first division. Teams that play poorly are relegated to the second division each year and top second-division teams are promoted to the first.

Hughes also said that for NHL teams to reach parity, draft choices must not be traded. He cited the collection of first-round draft choices held by the Stanley Cup champion Montreal Canadiens.

Hughes also said that too many games against international competition are hurting attendance at NHL games. He said it was shortsighted of the NHL Players' Association to enter a team in the World Cup playoffs next April in Vienna.

GAMES COMPETE

"There will be televised games from Vienna that will be in direct competition with Stanley Cup playoff games. We are eroding the value of our own league at home by participating in the World Cup."

Economic survival of some NHL teams also is up to the players, Hughes said, adding that the average salary in the NHL for a player last season was $82,000.

"The players have a responsibility to the people—the fans— who pay their salaries," said Hughes. "They are in the top two per cent of the wage earners in this country and therefore must act accordingly.

"The NHL and hockey in general has—and is—going through tough times. The players must recognize this. Their actions will go a long way in determining the future of hockey in America."

Guy Lafleur-Molson Cup

On his way to number three

The name Lafleur has almost become synonymous with the Molson Cup.

The winner of the Molson Cup the past two seasons, Guy Lafleur, was selected as one of the post-game "Three Stars" 10 times, during Canadiens' initial 26 games of the 80-game schedule based on the 5-point-per star system. Lafleur completed the first of five segments with 50 points, 15 more than Larry Robinson and Jacques Lemaire, each with 35 points.

Lafleur merited three "First," six "Seconds" and one "Third Star" rating during the October-November segment to claim $1,000 as the Molson Cup leader. Lafleur will also select a charity or amateur sports organization which will receive an equal amount from the sponsors of the Molson Cup competition.

Larry Robinson will receive the runner-up prize of $500 despite the fact the defenceman was tied with Lemaire, in Molson Cup points. The determining factor in such cases is the number of "First Star" selections. Robinson had three compared to only one "First Star" rating for Lemaire.

Goalie Ken Dryden picked up 10 points last week with a "First Star" after Canadiens 5-1 win over New York Islanders and a "Third Star" selection following the 8-1 triumph in Cleveland. The selections provided Dryden, the initial winner of the Molson Cup after the 1972-73 season, with 30 Molson Cup points.

Lafleur's high-scoring linemate, Steve Shutt, trails Dryden by 5-points in the Molson Cup competition.

It seems fitting that Lafleur finished the first segment of the Canadiens' schedule with a winning goal, his 21st of the season, with only 11-seconds remaining in the Los Angeles game for a 4-3 Montreal victory. Lafleur merited a "First Star" rating consecutively, after the Barons and Kings games.

Through the past two seasons, Guy Lafleur has earned 119 Molson Cup points for 1974-75 and 155 Molson Cup points for the 1975-76 campaign to claim the top prize.

As in past seasons of the competition, the Canadiens' player with the most Molson Cup points accumulated through the five segments will receive the trophy and $1,000. The runner-up in Molson Cup points receives $500.

Expos players in Central America

Nineteen players from the Montreal Expos' organization, including nine from the current major league roster, are playing winter baseball — in Puerto Rico, the Dominican Republic, Venezuela or Mexico.

Lefthander Angel Torres, recently acquired by the Expos in a six-player trade with St-Louis Cardinals, has run up a 4-0 record for Licey Tigers in early Dominican Republic winter league play.

Pitching in his native country, Torres, 24, has also impressed as a hitter. In posting win no. 4, a 7-2 decision over Estrellas Orientales, Torres helped his cause with four singles.

Two other Expos are also playing in their native Dominican Republic. Utility infielder Pepe Frias is with Estrellas while outfielder San Nejias, obtained from St. Louis in the same trade that brought Torres to Montreal, is with Escogido. Nejias was hitting .299 after Escogido's first 23 games.

Eight Expos are playing in Puerto Rico, six are in Venezuela and two more are in Mexico. In addition, third base coach Ozzie Virgil is managing the Aragua Tigers in Venezuela.

In Puerto Rico, pinch hitter deluxe Jose Morales is playing a designated hitter role with Caguas Criollos. Outfielder Bomba Rivera and minor league infielder Tony Bernazard are also with Caguas.

First baseman Roger Freed and lefthander Terry Enyart from the Class AAA Denver roster are with Ponce Lions, infielder Pablo Carballo and Julio Perez are with Santurce Crabbers and catcher Pedro Gavillan is with Bayamon Cowboys.

Freed, who led the American association in homers and RBIs in 1976, socked four homers and drove in 19 runs through Ponce's first 22 games. Morales also had 19 RBIs for Caguas.

Three major league roster players are in Venezuela. Reliever Joe Kerrigan is with Vergil's Club at Aragua, outfielder Warren Cromartie is with Caracas, and infielder Pete MacKanin is with Lara.

Also in Venezuela are minor league outfielders Leonel Carrion and Andrew Dyes, with Zulia, and pitcher Norm Fierbaugh, with Virgil and Kerrigan at Aragua.

Dyes homered in three consecutive games shortly after arriving in Venezuela. He socked two more homers for a total of five through games of November 21.

The two players in Mexico are outfielder Jerry White, with Navajoa, and infielder Juan Navarrete, with Obregon.

Bishop's women win

LENNOXVILLE — Champlain Cougars overcame a sputtering offensive drive late in the second half to pull away and defeat Granby CEGEP 79-59 in women's intercollegiate basketball last night.

Sue Edwards, a former Massey-Vanier Regional player, sunk the ball for 26 points while Sherbrooke native Sue Berwick followed with 24.

Lorraine Clarke also scored in double figures, chalking up 14 points for the winners.

Hockey action this evening has the Cougars hosting the St. Laurent CEGEP Patriotes at 8:15 in the W.B. Scott Arena.

The locals go into the game with a shutout to their credit in their last outing. It will be Champlain's last home game before the holidays.

"IT'S NOT NICE TO FOOL MOTHER NATURE" — A Hydroponic garden is another way to beat the seasons. Modern version of an ancient technique.

"Green-up" your winter

About 500 years before Christ was born, King Nebuchadnezzar II built the famous Hanging Gardens of Babylon for his queen Semiramis within the walls of the Royal Palace at Babylon in what is now southern Iraq. These amazing pleasure gardens became known as one of the Seven Wonders of the World, but 'hanging' they were not: They were a series of off-the-ground terraces somewhat like today's highrise balconies. Pumps manned by slaves forced fertile river water to the plants which were grown in gravel only, without soil, in a method we call 'hydroponics' today.

Hydroponics means 'working with water' and scientists have spent years on the further development of this ancient growing method which is so ideally suited for gardening in the city. Several firms have recently put hydroponics kits on the market that fit the space restrictions, as well as the pocket book of the city dweller and enable you to have your own 'soil-less' garden on your balcony, in your basement or right in your living room. According to Helmut Julinot, president of City Green Hydroponics of Toronto, over 17,000 Canadians are already growing their own fresh vegetables, herbs and flowers all year round with hydroponic home units manufactured by his firm. Julinot adds that all his customers' units placed side by side would cover an area of more than sixty acres.

Each hydroponic unit consists of one or two planters filled with porous gravel, but instead of Baylonian slaves, a small air pump continuously circulates a fertile plant food solution through the growing beds to provide all minerals needed for thriving plant growth. According to Julinot, water is added only about once every ten days - leaving you free to go away on long weekends and even vacations with your plants well looked after.

Scientists and growers working in hydroponics report higher yields than in conventional agriculture being achieved from the same area. Typically, this means that a soil-less city garden of about six sq ft could produce the same greenfood harvest as a thirty to sixty sq ft plot of land. What's more, when the first frost brings all outdoor gardening to a halt, you just move your hydroponic unit indoors and continue growing all winter, with a fluorescent growlight replacing the light of the sun. Seeds are sown either directly into the gravel bed, or into a separate 'hydroponic nursery' which pampers your baby plants until they are large enough to be transplanted into the full-size unit.

Because soil is not used, there is freedom from soil-borne diseases, and weeding is a thing of the past. Anything can be grown from asparagus to zucchini, with the exception of root vegetables deeper than four inches. Your lettuce, tomatoes or snow peas are fresh as they can be, because you harvest them just minutes before serving, and you know for sure that they are completely free of all dangerous pesticides. What more could a gardener ask?

After the famous Hanging Gardens of antiquity, the hydroponic growing technique was practically forgotten for over two-thousand years. It wasn't until the early Thirties of our century when a professor at the University of California tried it for growing tomatoes. The vines promptly grew to a height of 25 ft and had to be harvested with ladders. Dramatic results like this weren't lost for long on commercial growers around the world, and today there are large-scale hydroponic installations in the deserts of Israel and the Arab countries, in Africa, the southern USA and the Soviet Union. Already one fifth of all the vegetables consumed in Moscow are grown this way. In India, hydroponics is widely used on the village level and has been termed a major weapon in the fight against mass starvation.

There's rarely a story in modern science fiction in which the space ship does not come equipped with a hydroponic unit to feed the space travellers on interstellar voyages. What's more, the Russian space program has already sent several such soil-less growing units into orbit.

More meaningful perhaps is the use of hydroponics back on the surface of our own planet, especially in our cities, where the rising costs of production and transportation are making fresh vegetables increasingly expensive. Scientists today even talk about a food shortage that could follow on the heels of the energy crisis as we lose more and more land to building developments, highways and climate changes.

Because hydroponics does not require land to grow food, many see it as a solution to these problems, with thousands of soil-less 'mini farms' under cultivation in our cities providing their owners with a fascinating year-round hobby - plus a welcome relief from rising food costs.

Potato car purchase planned

OTTAWA (CP) — The federal government is considering the purchase of new refrigerated railway cars to transport potatoes and apples to markets from the Maritimes.

Agriculture Minister Eugene Whelan confirmed Monday that a proposal has been prepared for study by the cabinet.

"We want to make certain that there is a need for the cars before any decision is made," he said. "We don't want to have them sitting on sidings."

Industry spokesmen have complained that a shortage of cars is slowing the movement of potatoes to Saint John, N.B. Potato exports have been booming this year following the drought last summer in Europe.

But Mr. Whelan gave no indication of the number of cars proposed or when they could be ready for delivery.

"It's just a possibility at this stage," he said.

Currently, some cars are leased from railways in the United States.

An agriculture department spokesman said a shortage of cars had developed last week when a number of ships diverted to Saint John without contacting the railways.

But an extra 50 cars had been moved into the area and the backlog cleared up, the spokesman said.

Several department officials indicated there were no immediate plans, however, to purchase the new equipment.

THE BIRDS HAVE FLOWN — The residents of this high-rise apartment complex have vacated the premises at least until spring. They were last seen winging their way south in anticipation of this weekend's snow.

Ministry to pay part of vet cost

The Honourable Kevin Drummond, Quebec's Minister of Agriculture has announced that to cope with temporary difficulties resulting form the voluntary withdrawal of certain veterinarians from the Contributory Animal Health Insurance programme, the Department of Agriculture will compensate farmers directly with the portion normally paid to veterinarians to ensure their professional services on the farm.

Under this temporary measure necessitated by the decision of certain veterinarians to withdraw from the Animal Health Insurance plan of the Quebec Department of Agriculture, farmers, upon presentation of vouchers, will be reimbursed that portion of the cost of veterinary services normally paid by the Government under the agreement between the Quebec Department of Agriculture and the veterinarians participating in the Contributory Animal Health Insurance programme.

The Minister would like to point out that by this mesure, his Department has no intention of making permanent revisions to the C.A.H.I. programme which up till now has been a complete success. Quite to the contrary, he has indicated that he hopes that the veterinarians and the Quebec Department of Agriculture will negociate to reach as soon as possible a joint agreement which will be to the best interests of both parties. More information may be obtained by contacting Grants and Subsidies Division, Quebec Department of Agriculture, 200-A, chemin Ste-Foy, Quebec, Que.

Federal farm fodder

OTTAWA (CP) — The all-you-can-eat buffet of the Parliamentary restaurant and free booze on the cocktail circuit are taking their toll on the waistlines of MPs.

A survey of the eating habits of MPs published in the December issue of Canadian Consumer shows 57 per cent of Liberals surveyed are overweight compared with 45 per cent of Progressive Conservatives, 33 per cent of Social Credit members and only 25 per cent of New Democrats.

The figures come from a study of 100 randomly-selected MPs carried out by the consumer affairs department of CBC radio and reprinted in the magazine, published by the Consumers Association of Canada.

However, the study found the Liberals were only 13 pounds overweight on average compared with 30 pounds for Social Credit members, 16 pounds for New Democrats and 14.5 pounds for Conservatives.

Irregular eating habits brought on by the pressures of the job, too much alcohol and too little exercise were among the reasons cited by MPs for their weight problems. Many skipped meals, didn't eat breakfast and had a tendency to snack in between.

TAKES IT EASY

Former NDP leader T.C. Douglas says that one of the ways he's learned to keep his trim figure is by taking it easy at receptions.

"The best form of exercise is to shake your head left and right every time you are offered something," he said in the survey.

Conservative Steve Paproski, a 260-pound former lineman with the Edmonton Eskimos, says he's on a constant diet and stopped drinking three years ago.

"Over the past three years I'd say I've lost about 4,000 pounds," he said. But although his weight varies, he says he's about 87 pounds lighter than three years ago.

"I guess the buffet in the (Parliamentary) restaurant is partly responsible," he said, explaining how some MPs put on weight.

The restaurant offers a many-course buffet for $2.25 every day at lunch. Several MPs have reputations for the return trips they make to it before heading to the Commons for the 2 p.m. question period.

Elmer MacKay, the Nova Scotia Conservative who specializes in turning skeletons out of the Liberal closet, says he'll eat "anything that doesn't eat me."

"There's a lot of gorilla in me," he told the survey. "I'd be happy with raw meat and vegetables all the time."

OTTAWA (CP) — Federal government plans to remove subsidies on grain shipped to eastern Canadian ports will aggravate unemployment in Saint John, N.B., and Halifax, Gordon Fairweahter, (PC—Fundy-Royal) told the Commons Monday.

Loss of the subsidies to the railways will result in grain being sent overseas from different ports and will seriously damage the flour milling industry in Atlantic Canada, Mr. Fairweather said during debate on the government's spending restraints bill.

Besides removing the grain subsidies, the year-old bill, in second reading debate since Nov. 5, would kill two government youth-employment programs and do away with Information Canada.

Removal of the subsidies would result in many port workers, flour millers and grain-handlers losing their jobs, Mr. Fairweather said, estimating their wages represented about $4.25 million annually to the two cities' economies.

Already unemployment was high in the Atlantic provinces and the economy unhealthy.

"We have no quarrel that the government should strive to use public funds wisely," Mr. Fairweather said, but in this case more damage than good would result.

TORONTO (CP) — Agriculture Minister Eugene Whelan said Monday that he eats a diet of starchy foods to keep himself under control.

The federal minister told the Metropolitan Toronto board of trade that his remark last week which linked the eating of beef with being ferocious was based on a study done five years ago in Scandinavia.

The study showed that Scandinavinan couples who ate spaghetti without meat or eggs for dinner made love about twice a month, Mr. Whelan said.

"In Canada we eat more and love more," the minister said. "You are what you eat."

Howick junior wins in Toronto

By IVY HATCH
(Record Correspondent)

TORONTO — It was one hundred years ago that the Ayrshire cattle came from Scotland to Canada and at the Royal Winter Fair in Toronto a special class sponsored by the Ayrshire Breeders Assoc. of Canada was open to the Junior Ayrshire show people. The stipulation was that the young farmer ages 15 to 20 years must be on the farm. There were ten cash prizes, and a large class of yearling heifers shown.

Pam Ness of Howick, Que., placed first and was presented in addition to the cash prize, the Glencameron Farm perpetual trophy by the donors Kenneth MacGillivray of Brome, Quebec.

There were many Ayrshires shown in the various classes with exhibits showing from the Provinces of Quebec, Ontario, Prince Edward Island, and Univted States points.

Quebecers to win laurals were: The Balig Challenge trophy for Grand Champion female won by S.A. Mount and A. Barr of Brome, Quebec. They also won the Stansell Challenge trophy for the best cow, and were also winners of the Bedford Ayrshire Club trophy to the exhibitor with the highest scoring Ayrshire cow in the inter-breed udder class.

Roger Beaudry of Shefford, Que., brought home the Premier exhibitor award and Francois Beaudry brought home the Junior Ayrshire showmanship Class award.

Ayrshires places in several of the other classes but were not trophy winners.

Jerseys were exhibited from Ontario, Quebec, British Columbia, Indiana and New York. There were several entries from the Townships. The D.D. McCaig & Son brought home to Huntingdon, Que., the John Bull trophy for the highest placed Jersey cow in the inter-breed udder class.

The Erle Kitchen Memorial trophy for the first prize winner, with Canadian R.O.P. records in the senior female class came home to MacDonald & Matheson & Featherstone Bros, Lennoxville, Que., and Oakville, Ont.

A.G. & A.D. McKinsen's Cessnock Farm, North Hatley exhibiting Cessnock Generator's Gem won the Reserve Junior Championship. This animal was undefeated at five Quebec Province fairs this year including Expo Quebec.

Others from the immediate vicinity to place were Jerseys from Macdonald & Matheson; Lennoxville; A.G. & A.D. McKinven, North Hatley; and Bonnyburn Farm, Philip Webster, Massawippi.

From the ranch of Michel and Andre Gagne in Asbestos, Anxiety Lad Sef Hereford, won the Reserve Grand Champion.

There were just about every breed of cattle, dairy and beef exhibited, all beautiful animals. This is the first year there was a class for the Brown Swiss and considerable interest seemed to be shown by the public viewing for they are not too well known in the Townships.

The Exotic exhibit were cross breeds of beef cattle that came from the Canadian West and next year they plan to return when classes will be opened to them.

These were the Chianina with sturdy calves and good looking dressed meat; The Ontario Limousin, - "the Breed of tomorrow - today," was their slogan; then the Maine - Anjou, "the Performance Breed." The Galloways, that are another study breed of blacks, duns and belted with white, that originated from Scotland.

Tuesday evening the Governor General of Canada, The Rt. Honourable Jules Leger and Mrs. Leger and party arrived in a Lord Mayor's coach from London, England. This coach was acquired some four years ago by Choicelea Farms in Acton. Of special interest to many from here was the driver of the four beautiful high stepping horses for it was Albert Chamberlain, a former resident in Stanstead, employed at the Butterfield plant. Albert is now the manager of Choicelea. He was resplendent in his English attire complete with high silk hat and by his side, as groom was his younger son, David. Albert had a lot of talking to do as many from here visited the Choicelea section of the horse barn.

Other dignitaries each evening included the Ambassador to Japan, Ambassador from the United States and the Ltd. Governor of Ontario.

Tuesday evening there were eight, six horse teams of Belgians, headed by Carlesberg who won first prize. Both nights these six teams were pulling a farm wagon, the harnesses were costly and gleaming, on the wagon seat was adriver of the triple double teams plus two grooms, all wearing English Horsemen attire. We learned that the fromt team are the Leaders, the center, the swing pair and next to the wagon, the wheelers. It was interesting to see the skill of drivers and these teams that wheeled around the ends of the arena. The eight teams represented 50 tons of horseflesh.

On the way back home, Douglas Johnston, president of the Q.F.A. Ayer's Cliff Club, presented Tom Dearden, the bus operator with a gift of money from his passengers in appreciation of Tom's thoughtfulness on the entire trip.

A vote of thanks and applause was given to the QFA Club from those who are non members, and to Mrs. John (Rita) Brus, the organizer of the bus.

HOWICK JUNIOR WINS TROPHY — Kenneth MacGillivray of Brome presents the trophy for best yearling to Pamela Hess of Howick at this year's Royal Agricultural Fair in Toronto. Also in the picture is the Ottawa Ayrshire Princess Diane Oldfield and John McCaig from the Canadian Ayrshire Society.

BC school introduces daily phys ed program

PRINCE GEORGE, B.C. (CP) — Don Basserman, principal of North Nechako elementary school, has an office that looks like a gymnasium change room.

Sweat pants and school shirts are stacked on shelves and footballs and soccer balls are on the floor by his desk.

Mr. Basserman and Don Chamberlain, principal of Hart Highway elementary school, are the originators of a daily physical education program that began at their schools three years ago and now is spreading throughout the central British Columbia school district. Other B.C. districts have expressed interest in the program.

Both men are excited about the program and actively involved in it.

"Daily phys ed has had a tremendous impact on this place," said Mr. Basserman. "Every single teacher in this school teaches phys ed and the kids are really enthusiastic about it."

Mr. Chamberlain said the daily physical education period has done more than improve physical and mental health in his school.

EFFECTS LINGER

"The effects have overflowed into other things. There are no fights in our playgrounds. The children aren't demanding organized activities. They're organizing their own and when they move to junior secondary school they're still active."

The purpose of the program is to get children fit and keep them that way. And statistics show it is working.

The idea was conceived at a conference Mr. Chamberlain and Mr. Basserman attended in 1974. Two months later, all pupils in North Nechako and Hart Highway schools were taking 200 minutes of physical education a week.

The program began as an experiment, using Austin Road elementary school, which has no daily program and only 120 minutes of phys ed a week, a control group. About eight months after the program began, students from all three schools underwent tests for flexibility, fat content, heart-lung capacity, weight and growth.

RESULTS IMPRESSIVE

Body flexibility of Austin Road students had increased by 17 per cent. At Hart Highway and North Nechako the increase was 48 per cent.

Other test results were just as impressive and the students' academic standing also improved.

"The initial gains are made within the first year of daily activity and the students should maintain their level of fitness after that time," said Mr. Basserman.

The staff of both schools has also benefitted.

Mr. Chamberlain said a male teacher at his school lost 50 pounds in 18 months through the program and "some of the ladies have redistributed their weight to the appropriate places." And smokers have given up the habit.

Even eating habits have changed. Instead of coffee breaks, teachers at Hart Highway have fruit-juice and carrotstick breaks.

In their daily physical education classes teachers and students dance, run, learn gymnastics, play outdoor games, swim and hike.

ACTIVE IN WINTER

On rainy days they improve their co-ordination on the balance boards in the gymnasium or wherever there is space. In the winter, the North Nechako students snowshoe, the Hart Highway pupils ski cross-country and both schools have all forms of outdoor games.

"We don't expect athletes," said Mr. Basserman. "We just want fit kids."

The program had initial problems.

When it was introduced at North Nechako, the school was going on shifts, three new teachers were beginning work and all the classes had to be rescheduled.

"The whole crunch came down on the teachers," Mr. Basserman said. "They could have told me to go climb a tree when I came into the school and said, 'Hey, I've volunteered you for a new program.'

"But they didn't tell me to go climb a tree. The staff has really worked for this program."

Itinerant resource people helped co-ordinate the program and now are working at other elementary schools in the district.

Marvelous mulligatawny variation

By Aileen Claire
NEA Food Editor

Mulligatawny soup as we know it today comes from the many variations dreamed up by British housewives in India. Traditionally it was served with rice and slices of lime or lemon. Here orange juice has been added to make a more flavorful broth. Another use of fruit juice is in a hot consomme but you may also enjoy this combination of orange juice, tomato juice, bouillon, sugar and cloves chilled or on the rocks. For a dessert, try mixing seedless grapes with fruit juices, wine or grape juice and some brandy for a classic sangria to eat with a spoon.

ORANGE MULLIGATAWNY SOUP

- 2 cups orange juice
- 2 quarts water
- 1 broiler-fryer chicken, whole or cut in serving pieces
- 1 cup chopped celery and leaves
- 1 cup sliced carrots
- 1 cup chopped onion
- 2 apples, pared, cored and diced
- 2 tomatoes, peeled, diced
- 1½ tablespoons salt
- 1 teaspoon curry powder
- 1/3 cup uncooked regular rice

In a large kettle, combine orange juice, water, chicken, celery, carrots, onion, 1 apple, 1 tomato and salt. Cover and simmer for 1 hour. Remove chicken, remove meat from bones, cut into bite-size pieces and return to broth. Add remaining apple, tomato, curry powder and rice; cover and simmer for 30 minutes. Makes two and three-fourth quarts or 6 servings.

ORANGE CONSOMME

- 2 cups orange juice
- 2 cups tomato juice
- 1 cup beef bouillon
- 1/2 teaspoon sugar
- 2 whole cloves

Combine all ingredients in a saucepan. Heat. Serve in small soup cups; garnish with orange slices. Makes 5 cups.

SANGRIA DESSERT

- 1½ pounds Thompson seedless grapes (3 to 4 cups)
- 1/2 lemon
- 1/2 orange
- 2 tablespoons sugar
- 1½ cups red wine or grape juice
- 1/4 cup brandy (optional)
- 6 cinnamon sticks

Rinse and drain grapes; remove from stems. Chill. Cut lemon and orange into thin slices. Place in pitcher, along with sugar, wine and brandy. Chill to blend flavors, about 1 hour or longer. To serve: portion one-half cup grapes into stemmed glasses. Add one-third cup wine mixture to each, and a lemon and orange slice. Garnish each with a cinnamon stick. Serve with a spoon and a short straw, if desired. Makes 6 servings.

Tender steak treatment

SPECIAL marinade tenderizes less expensive cuts of beef.

By Aileen Claire
NEA Food Editor

Steak continues as a favorite of barbecue chefs and of their anxious and hungry guests. A good marinade adds flavor and also helps tenderize less expensive cuts of beef. Any leftover marinade may be heated and served as a sauce. Serve baked potatoes and your favorite fresh vegetables with the steak. Top potatoes or vegetables, hot or cold, with a sour cream dill topping.

DEVILED STEAK AL FRESCO

- 1/4 cup Worcestershire sauce
- 2 tablespoons brown sugar
- 1 teaspoon onion powder
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 teaspoon garlic powder
- 2 tablespoons lemon juice
- 3 pounds boneless beef round or shoulder steak

To prepare marinade combine all ingredients except beef; mix well. Place beef in a snug-fitting bowl or doubled plastic bag. Pour marinade over beef coating both sides. Cover or fasten. Refrigerate for 4 to 6 hours. Place on a rack over hot charcoal. Grill 10 to 15 minutes, turning and brushing with marinade mixture 2 or 3 times. Or, if desired, place meat on a rack in a broiler pan. Place under a preheated hot broiler; follow preceding directions for cooking. Makes 6 to 8 portions.

SOUR CREAM DILL TOPPING

- 1 cup dairy sour cream
- 1/2 cup finely chopped dill pickle
- 2 tablespoons finely chopped onion
- 2 teaspoons vinegar
- 1 teaspoon prepared horseradish
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- Dash pepper

Blend together all ingredients; chill. Use to top baked potatoes which have been split open or serve over broiled tomatoes or dressing for cold string bean salad. (Enough for 6 potatoes, 8 broiled tomato halves, 1 pound of string beans.) Makes about one-and-one-half cups.

WI meeting

LENNOXVILLE — The Women's Institute held a highly successful Bazaar in St. George's Church Hall, Queen St. on Saturday.

The hall was appropriately decorated with wreaths, pine holly and many attractive holiday wall decorations, while the long supper tables were centered with red miniature sleighs filled with greenery and colored baubles.

The head table had a very dainty wicker sleigh where Santa posed with a sleigh full of miniature parcels.

Sales tables were also centered with small sleighs, Santas, etc.

The sale opened at 3:30 p.m. and the home baking had a line-up waiting for the appropriate minute. Here Mrs. Myrtle Knutson, Mrs. Archie Kinnear and Mrs. Wilson Beattie were in charge.

Mrs. Kinnear also had an additional table which had fruits of the garden as well as cooking which was sold for Food for the Hungary proceeds to go to the ACWW Nutrition Education Fund.

Mrs. Harold Worster, home economics convenor, was in charge of the handcrafts table and was assisted by Mrs. Hugh L. Wallace and Mrs. Warren Ross. This table had a wide variety of crafts, weaving, embroideries, crochet, knitting, stuffed toys and various types of novelties. Many of the items were chosen for a lay away Christmas gift.

Miss Kathleen Atto sold Cansave and UNICEF cards. This is also a non-profit project for relief funds.

Mrs. Wilson Beattie welcomed the guests and Mrs. Herman Edgecombe was in charge of the supper tickets.

As the supper hour drew near, a capacity crowd was served. Mrs. Sterling Parker was in charge at the serving table; the menu: ham, scallops, baked beans, rolls, etc. and assorted pies.

Waitresses were Laurie Harron, Sandra MacCaskill, Susan Parker, Karen Pitman, Susan Warner and Nancy Williams, whose assistance was greatly appreciated.

The kitchen duties were directed by Mrs. Earl Findlay, assisted by Mrs. George Povey, Mrs. Frances Taylor and Mrs. Dorothy Geddes. Here also the assistance of non-members was greatly appreciated and thanks are extended to Mr. George Povey, Mrs. Herbert Pratt and Miss Audrey Pratt.

This most successful event was due to the support of the public and sincerely appreciated.

Allegro Unit meets

ROCK ISLAND — Mrs. Bernard Chamberlain entertained at her home the evening of November 10 the Centenary church of Stanstead Allegro Unit meeting.

There were eleven members attending. Mrs. Charles Merriman, president of the month, presided and chose as her opening devotions a Norman Vincent Peale poem "Joy may be had by everyone if you try" and the Lord's Prayer was repeated.

The usual reports of the secretary and treasurer were heard and all were satisfied with the results of the Christmas tea and sale held November 6, a day that started with no electric power and very inclement weather.

A sum of $10.00 was voted to the Border Community Center. The recently held rummage sale in the Community Center had been another satisfactory financial success.

Mrs. Warren Soutiere volunteered to write the November letter to the foster child.

There was discussion to have the United Church Presbyterial meeting here in April with the Unit serving the noon luncheon. It was decided in the affirmative.

Plans were also made for the serving of refreshments along with the Units from Stanstead South and Wesley church the evening of November 18 and the visit of Dr. and Mrs. A.T. Knight, Missionaries from Africa.

December 8 the Allegro and Afternoon Units will be joined by their menfolk for the Christmas pot luck supper in the church hall at 6:00 p.m. and the Allegro Unit will hold their business meeting after this fellowship.

After the adjournment Mrs. Camberlain and her daughter, Mrs. Peter Shiel served refreshments.

Status is eye-to-eye with glasses

By Ellie Grossman

NEW YORK — (NEA) — Cheaper than a nose job, instant eye make-up or a year-round fashion accessory that has captured the country's vision.

That's the status of designer sunglasses.

"I don't think they're a temporary trend at all," says Mark Ugenti, East Coast sales representative for Yves St. Laurent eyewear. "It's something people have realized can help them."

Designers have realized that, too. Bill Blass, Halston, Cardin, Geoffrey Beene — they're among the name designers currently fashioning frames or about to in the near future. And marketing them from $35 to $50 a pair and up, which is where the help comes in.

Still, cosmetically, Ugenti says, eyeglasses can perform a multitude of services.

"If you have a long nose, you can shorten it by wearing your glasses lower down the bridge. Or, to disguise a bump on your nose, rest the glasses on or in front of it."

You want blue eyes, mauve eyes, "ebony haze?" Choose the properly tinted lenses. And, to brighten a tired complexion, try a pair of sunglasses whose gradient lenses gradually fade to a "fashion pink color at the bottom," he says. Just remember, these shades won't protect against the sun's rays the way dark brown, green or gray will.

Ugenti doesn't buy the old round glass with square face, square glass with round face formula. "A woman should choose a pair of frames according to the size of her nose, how much hair she has and the color of it.

"Just about everyone can wear the square shape. Oriental and black people look good in the bow-shape frame because they usually have flat noses. If a woman pulls her hair back, she narrows her face and big glasses will overpower her."

Redheads, he says, look great in mauve frames or leopard, "which is a light blonde tortoise. Blondes and brunettes look nice in tortoise, grayhaired women in blueberry or black frames."

Keep in mind that the frame color should blend with your wardrobe.

To insure longevity, Ugenti says, "always keep the glasses in their case when not in use. Clean them with a soft cloth or a tissue, never a paper towel which can scratch them. Never rest them face down on anything and don't wear glasses on your head because you'll stretch them out. Use barrettes if you want to hold your hair back."

Alfred P. Poll, a leading New York optician who treated the late Aristotle Onassis and whose current clients include Dustin Hoffman and Billie Jean King, is all in favor of eyeglasses as fashion. "Women should probably have as many pairs as they do dresses."

But as far as spending $50 or more for a pair carrying a chic imprint, "I personally don't see the reason these designer frames should cost so much more than the average pair, but I'm too weak to fight the system. We live in such a crazy, prejudiced society."

For the consumer who needs corrected lenses, the real concern should be how he goes about getting them anyway.

Starting with an examination, "A person is better off going to an opthalmologist who is a medical doctor specializing in the field of the eye, including surgery. Optometrists are licensed by the state to test your eyes for vision only, so you get only half an examination from them," says Dr. Poll.

And opticians? "We're the mechanics. We're licensed to interpret the opthalmologist's presciption and to make sure they are correct optically."

It's up to the optician, he says, not the customer, "to know how a frame will fit when the lenses are in. He should see that it's properly proportioned for the face, that it's the proper bridge size and temple length and that the weight is correct."

And there are other factors to consider. "The optical center of the lens has to be placed in line with the pupil. It used to be the geometrical center of the lens, but that's not true with the newer lenses which are larger. Now, our eyes are in the inner third or quarter of the lens, so the optical centers have to be lined up very carefully."

That takes skill which doesn't come cheap. "I think the public gets the least value for its money with optical chain establishments. Many times they're taken care of by sales personnel, not by opticians, who give very little attention to the optical center, let alone the quality of the lens.

"We must buy oversized blanks for the oversize frames or we don't have enough glass to work with and that costs more. A blank is an uncut piece of lens which has the prescription in it but is not shaped for the particular frame. A manufacturer will sometimes sell his rejects to chain stores rather than throw them out. And the public will end up paying $25 to $30 for them, thinking they're getting a bargain. We wouldn't charge them that much for them. Then they come to us for repairs and adjustments."

Still, it doesn't mean you have to spend a lot for good glasses. Dr. Poll claims, "With the average prescription, you can have a very nice pair of eyeglasses for $35 to $40."

And you may just be able to build up a wardrobe of frames after all.

NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSN.

THICK AND THIN blend in pale to deeper shades in these oversized plastic frames (left) designed by Oscar de la Renta for American Optical Co. Extremely effective when fitted with gradient-tinted lenses to match the frame color. Another Yves St. Laurent touch appears (right) in bow-shape sunglasses which look especially well on people who have wide bridges.

WRAP AROUND glasses take on new meaning in these Yves St. Laurent sunglasses (left). Aviator shape looks best on a narrow face with a high bridge. Meanwhile, oversized frames (right) for prescription glasses are designed by Gloria Vanderbilt for Zyloware in slim-line beige, amber and brown mottled effect. These are worn with fall fashion accessories beige knit fisherman's hat and matching scarf.

Shoe orders keep dancer hopping to meet demand

By Ellie Grossman

NEW YORK — (NEA) — The phone hardly stops ringing in the shoe repair shop on West 62nd Street, off Central Park.

It's on Pat Gefke's desk, on the left as you enter, and the callers are either from the theater or "street people," because Ms. Gefke makes shoes for both.

"Hello, this is Pat Gefke. No, my shoes don't look like orthopedic shoes. I don't make orthopedic shoes. Yes, they're custom made, but they're actually dancer's shoes that women find comfortable and like to wear on the street.

"I make one stock style, a T-strap with a mid-high heel, that comes in black or beige. It costs $45 — yes, it used to be $42.50, but it went up because of the leather. The shoe is all leather. If you want other colors and material, the price goes up $10.

"Why don't you come in Monday afternoon. Fine. Goodbye."

Ms. Gefke is, she says, a musical comedy dancer who's "not performing right now," and . . . the phone rings again.

ONE STOCK STYLE shoe that is comfortable for dancers also pleases the New York City customer for street wear. Wisconsin's Pat Gefke has this T-strap with a mid-high heel in black or beige leather. Custom colors and materials cost $10 on top of basic $45.

"Listen, I tried to reach you. Who gets the ballet slippers? All the boys get silver jazz oxfords, I know. We'll dye the shoes so I need a swatch . . . 'bye." That was an industrial trade shoe, uh, show customer.

Quickly, now . . . how did a dancing teacher from Madison, Wisc., get started making shoes?

"Dancers need good shoes and being one, I knew that. And I worked as a saleswoman for Capezio at one time and learned all different aspects of the shoe business. Eventually, I ended up as the manager of their theatrical shoe department . . ."

The screech of the shoe machines on the other side of the store drowns her out and then, the phone . . .

There came an unheralded stretch of silence when Pat said that the shoemaker and the repairman in the shop work with her and that she might be doing the shoes for "Hellzapoppin'" which will bring Jerry Lewis to Broadway this year.

And that business from her street people has been so good, she's going to add another style, an in-step strap shoe.

"My customers are women who are interested in comfort as well as style. I make sizes four to ten and one-half, in narrow and medium widths. I don't have combination lasts. And it takes four to five weeks to make the shoes because of the demand."

But the wait is worth it, she says, because the fit is good and "in Saks, say, you'd pay $60 for the shoes. One reason I don't charge a lot is that dancers don't have a lot of money." Their version of her T-strap comes with a slip-proof ribbed sole.

Yes, she does do mail order business, and what she uses to measure feet are a piece of yellow paper and a black pen. The bare foot stands on the yellow paper, the black pen outlines it and writes in the dimensions and that's that.

The trick, now, is to get the pen to answer the phone and take messages.

Careless smokers endanger lives

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — Please print this letter. By doing so you might actually save some lives.

First, I've got to express the following thought which many people feel the same about. It is so disgusting how many old people are smoking! Even on the street! That is ugly and bad enough but they — male and female — not only harm themselves but they aggravate non-smokers and also cause trouble in many cases, as my aunt did.

She is past 60 and nearly caused a tragedy. She smokes like a dragon. She also has so many wrinkles, coughs all the time and has a gravel voice. Ugh! She fell asleep with a cigarette in her hand while visiting us. My husband, our children and I were watching TV downstairs. She was watching her favorite program upstairs.

Suddenly we heard a piercing scream. We rushed upstairs and she was pouring a glass of water on the beautiful new (never slept in yet) expensive bed to try to put out the small but spreading flame on the bedspread. We called the fire department because we couldn't control it. We got auntie out and were so glad she was not burned at all.

She never apologized nor offered to pay for that damage. I hated to do it but I finally told her she would never be welcome again unless she stopped smoking. We never heard from her again.

A friend of ours had a real tragedy caused by a careless smoker. Five people burned to death. A house was completely destroyed. From a health and cosmetic view, why can't "smoking idiots" realize the hazards of smoking? Women especially look hard, ugly, cheap and smelly. They look like haggard old witches. The halitosis is nauseating. Smoking is also very expensive. Please, some strong words from you.

DEAR READER — A family has the right to set the standards for their own home.

Not everyone who smokes is as bad off as you describe your aunt but it is frequently a rather antisocial habit. It does increase the wrinkling of the skin and it does cause most smokers to have foul smelling breath. Apparently most smokers are unaware of their bad breath.

Many smokers just don't realize the effect of their habit on other people. They are immune to the smell and don't notice. I am constantly impressed by the number of people who have quit smoking and then realize that it is an unpleasant habit. For the first time they smell the bad breath and the smelly clothes. They also realize how much improved their sense of taste is. Food never tasted so good.

I have given you a chance to express your opinion in my column and your basic message about the safety hazard of smoking is well taken. In addition to its damaging effects on health, smoking is a fire hazard. I am sending you The Health Letter number 2-6, Tobacco: Cigarettes, Cigars, Pipes, for a resume of the effects of tobacco on health. Others who want this information for, themselves or for someone who smokes and shouldn't, can send a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope with 50 cents for it. Just send your letter to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York NY 10019.

UCW meeting

KNOWLTON (KT) — A luncheon meeting of Unit 3, U.C.W. was held at the home of Mrs. Bernice Persan on Nov. 17 at 11:00 a.m. The meeting opened with the U.C.W. Purpose and 13 members answered the roll call.

The minutes were read and approved and the treasurer's report was given by Miss Flora George. Among business matters food was solicited for the Tea Room at the annual Christmas Sale and Tea on November 25th. A new feature at the Bake Table this year was some specially prepared items for diabetics.

It was agreed to donate $10.00 on White Gift Sunday toward fresh fruit for the Christmas Cheer boxes.

An election of officers for 1977 took place. Those named to office were: Leader; Mrs. Myrtle Spencer; Vice-Leader, Mrs. Norah Sellars; Secretary, Mrs. Lela Duboyce; Assistant Secretary, Mrs. Rose McLean; Treasurer, Miss Flora George; Devotions, Mrs. Bernice Persan; Special Patient (Douglas Hospital), Mrs. Mary Pille.

Plans were made for the Christmas Worship Service program which will be led by Unit 3 at the U.C.W. General Meeting on Dec. 6.

Proceeds from the sale of United Church calendars were turned in by the Missess Christene and Isabelle Miller.

The Christmas meeting of Unit 3 will be held at the United Church Hall on Dec. 15th at 7:30 p.m.

The Devotions and program were led by Miss Geraldine Vernal who used as her theme the many freedoms enjoyed in our country and our responsibilities as Christian Citizens to be worthy of, and to maintain these freedoms.

After the dedication of the offering the meeting closed with members joining in the Mizpah Benediction.

A delicious luncheon was served by the hostess Mrs. Persan.

By Oswald & James Jacoby

Remember the mountain climber who wanted to climb a mountain because it was there. Some bridge players like to take finesses because they are there. Most of the time they are playing correctly, but there are a few times when they should shun a finesse like the plague.

South was one of those automatic finessers. He couldn't wait to play the jack of spades from dummy at trick one. East produced the queen and our hero won with the king and plunked the queen of diamonds on the table.

That finesse lost to East's king and a second spade was led. After this start there was no way for South to score nine tricks.

It was incorrect for South to play the spade jack at trick one. Had he played small and then taken the diamond finesse East would not have been able to clear the spades for his partner and South would have been sure of 10 tricks.

Also, after losing the spade finesse at trick one South could have recovered by leading a club at trick two. If West held back his ace South could go after diamonds; if West took the trick one spade duck would save South's goose from the cooking pot.

Ask the Jacobys

A Virginia reader wants to know the correct opening bid in standard American with: ♠ A K 8 6 5 4 ♥ A K 2 ♦ 3 2 ♣ A 10.

This hand should be opened with one spade. It is a mighty good hand, but with only 18 high-card points and eight probable winners it is a trifle too weak to start with a forcing two.

Saucy sample of barbecue magic

By Aileen Claire

As the barbecuing season rolls along the outdoor chef begins to experiment with sauces and marinades. Here is a selection using fruits and fruit juices, spices and the standby catsup, all especially tailored for sparking the flavors of pork, chicken, Cornish hens, turkey and duckling. When the outdoor cooking moves indoors, use of these will continue to add variety to broiled or roasted pork or poultry.

BARBECUE SAUCE

- 1 cup chopped onion
- 1/2 teaspoon instant garlic
- 1/4 cup salad oil
- 1/2 cup water
- 1 cup catsup
- 1 tablespoon browning and seasoning sauce
- 1 tablespoon prepared mustard
- 1 teaspoon seasoned salt

Mix ingredients in saucepan and simmer 10 minutes. Use hot or cold with pork or poultry.

NUTTY TREAT

- 1/2 cup orange juice
- 1/4 smooth peanut butter
- 1 teaspoon browning and seasoning sauce
- Dash Tabasco

Mix thoroughly. Simmer a few minutes until well blended. Use hot or cold with pork as a brush-on for barbecue or as a sauce.

FRUIT MEDLEY

- 1 small can each pitted dark cherries, mandarin orange segments and apricot halves, drained
- 1 teaspoon cornstarch
- 1/4 cup orange or ginger marmalade
- 2 teaspoons browning and seasoning sauce

Drain and reserve juice from each can of fruit separately. Measure one-fourth cup of each juice into saucepan. Blend in cornstarch and marmalade. Cook until mixture boils. Add brandy, browning and seasoning sauce and drained fruit. Heat through and serve as a sauce with Cornish hens and duckling.

Do come and experience the joy of the approaching Christmas season, but come early for a seat! The date is Sunday, Dec. 5th at 7:30 p.m.

Also on Sunday, Dec. 5th many local farmers with Heward Grafftey will accompany Joe Clark to the farm of George Gladu, between Cowansville and Farnham. This is a success story about the Primate World Relief Fund. Most will remember the great famine that swept through Africa along the southern edge of the Sahara about two years ago. Instructors paid by the fund went to work immediately. Basically the instructors showed the farmers who grazed their animals in the area a few tricks. One of these was to plant trees to hold back the sand. Another was to dig thousands of small depressions in the sand to trap rainfall and keep it from running away in gullies. The result of all this was that now a carefully calculated number of animals are once more grazing along the southern edge of the desert! Soon the local people will be self-sufficient once more. So those supporting the Primate Relief Fund helped a miracle happen!

Mr. and Mrs. Lyall Rhicard have been entertaining several of their friends with waffle luncheons for which Mrs. Rhicard is famous.

Mr. and Mrs. Bobby Gendron have moved to the home of Mr. Joe and Arthur Phelps and have taken up permanent residence there.

Mrs. Narcisse Dussault accompanied several teachers from the local school for a study session at the Galt Institute at St. Hilaire, Que., which is affiliated with McGill College. This is a lovely spot where naturalists come to study nature in its many phases. They enjoyed slides taken in the area of the birds, flowers etc. The highlight of the study session was that of meeting "Jackrabbit" Johannsen, the one hundred-year-old gentleman of skiing fame who is spending the winter there with his daughter. He gave them a conducted tour of the place and they were able to buy copies of his latest book, which is most interesting.

Much sympathy is extended to Mrs. Girard Fontaine, due to the loss of her husband. Girard will be greatly missed by his many friends here and particularly by members of the Missisquoi Historical Society of which he had been a member for many years and had donated many articles of historical value.
