Landing on moon next space feat

By KERRY GIBBENS

TORONTO. (TNS) — The age of man in space has begun.

Russia took a long stride into the vast unexplored regions of space by putting a man in orbit and bringing him back alive.

The climb to the skies

And says a leading Canadian aerospace engineer: "The Russians will be able to land a man on the moon within five years... THOUGH THEY MAY NOT BE ABLE TO GET HIM BACK."

Today, the Canadian Astronautical Society's Auster Barnes, a key man in the deHavilland missiles and satellite program, looked at the Russian achievement and said:

"This shows the Russians have solved the major problems involved in putting a man into space and getting him back alive."

"It puts them years ahead in the race into space, and shows they are on the verge of a successful journey around the moon."

WITHIN FIVE YEARS, Barnes said, Russia will almost certainly land a man on the moon complete with the means to survive until he can be brought back some years later.

Man has been reaching for the stars since the days of Leonardo da Vinci.

In 1500 da Vinci designed a crude "flying machine" with oar-like wings driven by a system of stirrups or pulleys. It didn't work.

It was a French peasant, Jean Francois Pilatre de Rozier, who first successfully defied the laws of gravity. The year: Nov. 21, 1783.

Then he and a companion floated 1,500 ft. into the air slung beneath a gayly-decorated hydrogen balloon. They drifted around the French countryside for 20 minutes and landed safely five miles from their take-off point.

But man's first real flight by modern concepts, did not come till 17, 1903, the famed brothers Orville and Wilbur Wright raced a flimsy bi-plane down Kill Devil hill at Kitty Hawk, N.C., and took off into the "wild blue yonder."

Their flight lasted exactly 12 seconds and covered just 120 ft.

But once they proved man could fly, development of the means to satisfy this desire was rapid.

In 1919 Capt. John Alcock and Lt. A. W. Brown spanned the Atlantic, and eight years later Capt. Charles Lindbergh did it alone in his Spirit of St. Louis. The air age had begun.

And it proved just a short step from Spitfire of the Forties to the Spartans of the Fifties.

Russia's Sputnik I, the world's first earth satellite, was launched Oct. 4, 1957.

SINCE THEN the Russians have concentrated on developing huge rockets that can hurl enormous objects into orbit around the earth or out into space.

Their principle: the bigger the rocket, the better the chance for its success.

Today, U.S. scientists admit, Russia is perhaps three years ahead in the rocket field.

SPACE SHIP VIEW
The first man to travel 190 miles into space, circling the earth at 18,000 miles an hour, could clearly distinguish the shores of the continents, islands, important rivers, great cities and the seas.

Yuri Gagarin, a 27-year-old Soviet air force officer, was also struck by the great beauty of what he saw.

Eichmann case

Tell Monday if trial legal

By RELMAN MORIN

JERUSALEM (AP) — The trial of Adolf Eichmann is nearing its first critical point—the decision of the three judges on the legality of trying him in Israel under a law enacted by the Israeli parliament in 1950.

Supreme Court Judge Moshe Landau, president of the special three-man tribunal hearing the case, announced that the judgment would be handed down Monday morning. The trial is in recess until then.

Eichmann, a lieutenant-colonel in the Nazi Gestapo and chief of its Jewish affairs section, is charged with "crimes against the Jewish people and crimes against humanity."

Israel accuses him of responsibility in the annihilation of millions of Jews during the Second World War, as well as torture, enslavement and starvation of prisoners.

Dr. Robert Servatius, West German lawyer defending Eichmann, disputes the entire legality of the proceedings. He based his challenge on these grounds:

1. That Eichmann was kidnapped in Argentina in 1960 and brought to Israel.
2. That he signed a statement, under duress, saying he came to Israel of his own free will.
3. That the crimes with which he is charged were not committed on Israeli soil.
4. That the law under which he is being tried is ex-post-facto—enacted and made retroactive after the events.

Attorney-General Gideon Hausner, chief of the prosecution, said: "The privilege and the right to bring to justice Nazi criminals... is the universal right of all civilized nations. The state of Israel has the privilege to try and sit in judgment upon the man who tried to exterminate the Jewish people, and certainly more than any other state."

Servatius, replying to Hausner's closing statement, reiterated his earlier contentions. He then informed the court that Eichmann has "a claim for protection" from West Germany.

Eichmann watched the quick cut-and-thrust between the lawyers and the judges, and between each other, with what appeared to be more interest than he has shown at any other stage in the trial. He scribbled rapid notes during the proceedings and turned to look at each speaker.

Herman M. Batten (L—Humber-St. George's) said he wasn't blaming Mr. Hamilton but it would be difficult to convince himself or his constituents that patronage had vanished from the post office. He said a man in his constituency had been selected as postmaster and had altered his home at some expense to provide accommodation.

HAVANA (AP) — Two aircraft attacked Havana's military airport today and eyewitnesses said their bombs set off a big munitions dump near the airfield.

Eyewitnesses reported on a plane was shot down. An hour after the initial outburst of gun fire and the roar of the planes, explosions could still be heard all over the Cuban capital.

The airport, called Columbia airport during the days of Batista, now is known as Libertad and is located in the southwestern suburbs of the city.

A similar dawn attack was made on the airport at Santiago, Cuba's second city, according to an Associated Press correspondent here.

The correspondent reported by telephone that one or two planes flew low over the commercial airport at 5:45 a.m. and dropped bombs.

Defence Minister Raul Castro, who had set up a base of operations at Santiago, issued an urgent summons on radio for all soldiers and militiamen to take up their posts immediately.

The first bombs seemed to rock the entire city of Santiago, the correspondent said. They were followed by dense smoke columns from the airport.

Santiago is 460 miles east of Havana.

As the explosions ceased at Libertad, a number of civilian and military ambulances entered the camp — an indication that there had been heavy casualties among militiamen stationed there.

An eyewitness to the attack on the big Havana military base said one hostile plane came in fairly high from the sea, dropped low as anti-aircraft fire began from the camp, then released his first string of bombs from a few hundred feet.

The pilot banked around, returned into the line of gunfire and again released his bombs. Dense smoke sprang up and loud explosions sounded as he flew in for his third attack. The plane then flew seaward at low level.

Militiamen on guard duty joined in defensive firing, emptying their sub-machine guns at the plane as it passed over residential areas en route to the sea.

Explosions continued at Camp Libertad for more than an hour, as stores of munitions went off.

One report said the air attacks were made to cover a commando landing at Mariel, a seaport town 30 miles west of Havana and the centre of sea traffic for Soviet ships arriving in Cuba. Official sources said they could not confirm the report.

One eyewitness said an attacking plane at Havana was shot down. He said the plane trailed smoke and appeared to crash, but other sources said it recovered and flew off.

Maine mother has 20th child

WATERVILLE, Me. (AP) — Mrs. Dolores Grenier, 43, has given birth to her 20th child.

The mother and the new eight-pound, 10-ounce son were reported doing well after the birth Friday.

Prosper Grenier, 44, the father, is employed in a wool mill.

Mrs. Grenier said the family has been feeling the economic pinch because of curtailed operations at the mill. Grenier has worked only one day a week during the winter.

The mother's said it was "rough" trying to make ends meet with the large family and her husband's limited work.

Four of the older children work and help the family financially.

During her 26 years of marriage Mrs. Grenier has given birth to 12 sons and eight daughters, including three sets of twins. Two daughters have died.

Two of the children are married. All the others live with the parents in one apartment of a four-family dwelling.

Political roundup

Granby is not alone in being N. B. victim

By CUTHBERT JONES
(Record Staff Writer)

The current dispute between the Premier of New Brunswick and the Mayor of Granby over "raiding" for industries — which has resulted in the announced removal of a Granby firm to that Maritime province — brings to the forefront the determined efforts being made by the Robichaud administration to expand New Brunswick's industrial potential.

Despite Mayor Boivin's declaration that New Brunswick was more interested in stealing industries from other Canadian centres — than in attracting plants from abroad, that province is making a serious bid for foreign capital.

The concessions it is prepared to grant have already found in the Eastern Townships what might have been a major employer. A syndicate of non-Canadian industrialists a few months ago was seriously considering the purchase of a number of plants in this area which had come upon dark days. These were to be modernized and their production diversified.

Negotiations had reached the point where an official announcement was expected within a few days.

On the very eve of the planned announcement, the representative of the syndicate began to stall, asking a few days to "adjust certain details."

He returned overseas to consult his principals.

A few days after his departure, announcement was made in Fredericton that an agreement has been concluded whereby the plant would locate in New Brunswick because of the greater concessions available in that province.

DANGEROUS PRACTICE — Actually, the dispute concerns nothing new in the Canadian industrial scene, but just brings to a higher plane a practise that has been going on for many years — the bidding between provinces and municipalities for new industries, either domestic or imported.

Prior to World War I this took the form of direct cash bonuses, whereby a municipality would pay $30,000, $50,000 or even $100,000 to a plant to locate within its limits and employ a specified number of employees for a certain period of time.

Sometimes the bonuses were justified and the municipality gained an industry which prospered and expanded over the years. But, too often, the promoters were bounty hunters who would establish a shoe-string operation, continue for the minimum period of the contract and then move to other fields where bonuses were available.

This practise resulted in such a threat to the solvency of many municipalities that the Ontario and Quebec governments, following the armistice, each passed legislation outlawing the practise.

Tax exemptions were also prohibited.

With everyone on an even pinch because of curtailed operations at the mill, Grenier has worked only one day a week during the winter.

The mother's said it was "rough" trying to make ends meet with the large family and her husband's limited work.

Patronage charged in House

OTTAWA (CP) — Charges that political patronage exists in the post office department were made in the Commons Friday by Liberal and CCF MPs.

The charges were made in a day-long debate on the 1961-62 spending estimates of the post office during which Postmaster-General William Hamilton was criticized for not—in the words of the opposition—instituting reforms he proposed an opposition member.

H. W. Herridge (CCF — Kootenay West), describing patronage as an evil in a democratic society, said the wife of the campaign manager of a defeated Conservative candidate in the last election was appointed to a post office position at Trail, B.C. He said the woman's husband is the principal of a high school and receives a good salary. He felt the job could have gone to another more in need of employment.

Herman M. Batten (L—Humber-St. George's) said he wasn't blaming Mr. Hamilton but it would be difficult to convince himself or his constituents that patronage had vanished from the post office. He said a man in his constituency had been selected as postmaster and had altered his home at some expense to provide accommodation.

Dayliner, freight collide head-on

FERNIE B.C. (CP) — Twelve persons were injured Friday night when a self-propelled Canadian Pacific Railway Dayliner crashed head-on with a 60-car freight 350 miles east of Vancouver.

The engineer of the dayliner, train 45 bound from Medicine Hat to Nelson, leaped from his cab moments before the collision.

Two of the injured were reported in serious condition.

There were 25 passengers aboard the westbound day liner.

Job taken away
"All at once something happens," Mr. Batten said. "One night after dark a post office inspector walks in and says to the postmaster 'We are taking the post office away from you.'"

The minister had told the house earlier that the postmaster was relieved of his duties because his appointment was temporary. If that was the case he should have been told of this when he was appointed and he would not have gone to the expense of altering his home.

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Producer Arthur Freed is trying his best to make the 1960 Oscar presentations a success. Freed has one of show business' most thankless jobs. He must put together a thousand... interesting by having them presented by important people. And we'll intersperse them with entertainment. There's another matter: The five nominated songs will be delivered by the Brothers Four, Connie Francis, the Hi-Los, Jane Morgan and Sarah Vaughan, none of them particularly associated with films. "There are no singers in movies today," Freed explained.

WHY DO WE SELL MORE USED CARS than anyone else in the Eastern Townships?
Here is one reason: Miss Claire Spooner is private secretary to the President, Mr. Philip Desautels. She has been in the employ of De Luxe Automobile Ltd. for five years. She is a graduate of the Beaujeu Commercial School in Sherbrooke. Miss Spooner is proud of her job at De Luxe Automobile. Her valuable training and experience adds to the overall efficiency of De Luxe Automobile. An organization that operates efficiently serves the customer better. Miss Spooner knows she is working for an organization serving more happy car buyers than any other in the district.

They brought a guest of the church, Rev. Joseph Nyommm, minister at Camarous, South Africa. Mrs. Nyommm, and little daughter Christine, who are on a year's visit to French Presbyterian Churches in Quebec.
On Saturday dinner was served in the church hall after which the young people left for the Perron's sugar camp for a sugar party. On their return, supper was served and some left for Teentown and the others enjoyed entertainment at the Church.

HIGH TIMES
 By SANDRA PICKFORD

Drummondville High School sends along some helpful hints on how to raise school funds. Robert Davis, High Times correspondent for Drummondville High wrote in describing three ways in which they raised money.

D. H. S. pupils have just finished a campaign that I have never heard of. They sold chocolate bars that had wrappers with the school name and crest printed on them. These were sold in connection with a plan sponsored by a chocolate manufacturer and Robert says the project was a tremendous success and resulted in the selling of some eleven hundred bars with a profit of approximately $170. The money will go towards the buying of books for the school library.

At the recent Beatinik and Sadie Hawkins Dances a total profit of $55 was made, proving both dances were highly successful.

Still another campaign. The grade ten at Drummondville High is having a movie, "The Gypsy Colt," yesterday and today to raise more money for their educational tour of Quebec City. The trip, incidentally, is planned for the weekend of May 6 and 7.

Reading over what Robert Davis has sent in, I'd say these projects should give your school an idea for raising money. Should you have any special campaign that might prove of interest to other schools, send them along to High Times c/o the Sherbrooke Record, and I'll be glad to publish them.

Presentation of Golden Mitres to four Bishop's seniors climaxed the University's annual Awards Banquet Friday night at the Wellington Hotel.

Over 150 students, faculty members and guests applauded as Barry Wansbrough, Brian Stevenson, Bruce Stavert and Susan Anglin accepted the awards from Dr. Anthony Preston, Dean of Arts and Science.

A maximum of five Golden Mitres are annually awarded to the members of the graduating class adjudged by their fellows to have contributed most to life at the University.

An annual fixture, the Awards Banquet this year featured roast beef, six speeches, 23 gleaming trophies and awards of one sort or another to more than 120 different students for their extra-curricular efforts during the past year.

Speakers as usual comprised three students and three faculty members, the former proposing the toasts and the latter replying.

Barry Wansbrough, Brian Stevenson and Bruce Stavert proposed toasts to the Alma Mater, the Societies and the Faculty respectively. Dr. C. F. Poole, Rev. Robert Crouse and Dr. A. N. Langford responded.

The Golden Mitre presentations provided the big excitement, however, with the names being kept secret—sealed in an envelope—until the big moment.

Barry Wansbrough, 25, from Toronto, was President of the Students' Association during the past year and led his Students' Executive Council through a maze of inherited financial troubles with notable success.

Other activities have included playing one year with the hockey team, directing last year's production of Gilbert and Sullivan's Patience, and being a leading voice in such campus organizations as the Current Affairs and History Clubs.

Brian Stevenson, 21, has been a prominent member of the past two Students' Councils in the responsibility-filled position of President of Athletics. He was instrumental this year in the inauguration of the new Athletics Board.

From Kingston, Ont., he has been active in a number of organizations—singing in the Deep Purples, helping to found the Current Affairs Club, and playing three years on the University hockey team.

Twenty-one-year-old Bruce Stavert, from Westmount, was Vice-President of the SEC two years ago and this past year devoted his energy to the very worthwhile but heavy job of heading both the National Federation of Canadian University Students and World University Service of Canada committees at Bishop's.

He also found time to serve as an active President of the Current Affairs Club, which he was instrumental in founding last year.

Susan Anglin, 20, was a hard-working Senior Lady and President of the Women's Society—organizing teas, skit nights, Blood drives and other functions with great success.

Mayor suggests temporary measure

Portland project 'not pressing'

Enlargement of Portland Boulevard and construction of a sidewalk along the south side between Ontario and Argyle Streets are not "pressing issues", Mayor Armand Nadeau said Friday at his press conference.

He said that it would certainly be foolish for the city to build a sidewalk without first widening the Boulevard.

"Such a sidewalk would cost about $28,000 and would have to be torn up within ten years to allow for enlargement of the boulevard as foreseen in the Director's Plan, anyway," he said.

"On the other hand, I don't think the street has to be enlarged right away either. The best solution would probably be some sort of temporary measure."

He said that he would certainly be foolish for the city to build a sidewalk without first widening the Boulevard.

"Such a sidewalk would cost about $28,000 and would have to be torn up within ten years to allow for enlargement of the boulevard as foreseen in the Director's Plan, anyway," he said.

A delegation of Portland Boulevard proprietors met with city council last Monday to protest the projected enlarging of the boulevard arguing that to do so would attract increased traffic.

This, in turn would endanger the lives of children as well as depreciating property values, they said.

Council decided to postpone work indefinitely.

'Would be very nice' — Nadeau

Repeats wooden sidewalk plan.

Mayor Armand Nadeau has again proposed the construction of a wooden sidewalk along the south side of Portland Street between Ontario and Argyle Streets where it borders Howard's Park, to lend "harmony" to the area.

At his press conference Friday, he said that when he made the same suggestion at a meeting of city council last month, "it wasn't taken very seriously but I think it would be very nice."

"I have seen them elsewhere and they certainly adapt much better to the beauty of a park than does a cement sidewalk."

"Besides, it would be inexpensive and would last for about ten years," he said.

When he first made the proposal to council, he had some difficulty convincing them, particularly North Ward Alderman Everett Nicol, that his suggestion was a serious one.

And even after he did, Ald. Nicol held out for a conventional cement construction so the matter was dropped.

Autoroute finances

Says wouldn't pay in immediate future

A Montreal-Sherbrooke Autoroute would not pay for itself in the immediate future but with a normal increase in the rate of traffic during the next few years, it probably would, Mayor Armand Nadeau said at his press conference Friday.

Terminating the present road menace to the safety of everybody that travels on it, he said, the only solution would be an autoroute "which would at least partially pay for itself."

Roads Minister Bernard Pinard said earlier this week that there is no doubt the Sherbrooke region is more heavily cluded of several studies presently underway before making a decision on whether or not to construct the Autoroute.

He also noted that the construction of a Montreal-Three Rivers Quebec Autoroute is now under consideration.

In reply, Mayor Nadeau said that there is no doubt the Sherbrooke region is more heavily cluded of several studies presently underway before making a decision on whether or not to construct the Autoroute.

EASTER HOLIDAYS OVER — EXAMS BEGIN

Judging from the letters sent in, now that E.T. Schools are back from Easter holidays students are now buckling down to some serious studying for final exams. Donna Elliott from Sherbrooke High School says the French Oral exams are now in progress. Gail Cady from Cowansville Consolidate High reports second term exams for grade ten and eleven start on April 19. April 19 is also the date grade nine and down commence their third term examinations, she said.

COMMUNITY CONCERT REPRESENTATIVES VISIT S.H.S.

On April 11, two people from the Community Concert Association spoke to the grades 9, 10, and 11 girls and the grade nine boys. They urged the students to buy memberships entitling them to attend concerts held in Sherbrooke every year. A membership is $3.00.

KNOWLTON BAND TO PLAY IN OTTAWA

The Knowlton High School Band will leave for Ottawa next Friday where it will present two concerts, says Gay Grannary, correspondent for Knowlton High. Mr. Long and the band members have been practising a lot recently for this trip and Knowlton High students can well be proud of them.

A.D.S. RESUMES REHEARSALS

Asbestos-Danville Shipton High School students who are in the school's play, this year entitled The Red House mystery, have resumed rehearsals. Sandra Gallup A.D.S. reporter says. The play will be presented at A.D.S. at the end of this month.

BADMINTON TOURNAMENT SOON

A letter from St. Pat's in Sherbrooke said that the badminton eliminations are under way, to choose Senior and Junior singles and doubles representatives to attend the big annual badminton tournament at Sherbrooke High School on Saturday, April 29. Jim MacKinnon, physical education teacher at Sherbrooke High, says that entry forms have been mailed out and he expects about 24 representatives to compete in the tournament. For those of you who enjoy watching a good game of badminton, put a ring around April 29 on your calendar.

Gail

CMA president to visit city

T. R. McLagan, O.B.E., National President of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, will visit members of the Association's Sherbrooke District Branch on the occasion of the Branch's annual meeting on Thursday, April 20th.

The day's program will include a tour of The Union Screen Plate of Canada Limited, Lennoxville, a visit to Sherbrooke City Hall and a reception and dinner at the New Sherbrooke Hotel.

Mr. McLagan will be guest speaker at the dinner and his address will feature a review of current national problems.

Sherbrooke court cases

Sent to jail for refusing to enter plea, finally admits guilt — 17 months later

A 45-year old Sherbrooke man, who had been imprisoned for 17 months following his refusal to enter a plea on a charge of illegal possession of burglary tools, pleaded guilty to the charge in Sherbrooke Court of Sessions, Friday.

Harry Belland, told the Court he was a plumber by trade. The accused had been apprehended by the police on the morning of November 13, 1959, as he was walking near an Orford warehouse, carrying a bag full of crowbars, hacksaws, and other tools.

On his first appearance in Court, Belland refused to enter a plea, and maintained his stand on his following arraignments under the same charge. He was then ordered to remain behind bars, to such time as he would deem fit to either plead guilty or not guilty. He finally changed his mind this week.

Judge Joseph Marier sentenced the accused to the time he had already spent in jail and advised Belland to mend his ways and keep clear of court rooms in the future.

A similar application for bail by Dawson was refused after it was revealed by Crown Attorney Benoit Turmel, Q.C., that he had a criminal record dating back to 1941, containing more than a dozen convictions.

Jean-Claude Auger, of Sherbrooke, was fined $25 and costs in Court of Sessions Friday morning after he pleaded guilty to a charge of taking a car without the owner's consent, on February 21.

The Court was disposed to remand the case for three months, so as to take into consideration the accused's further behavior, but Crown Attorney Benoit Turmel, Q.C., opposed this. The latter explained that Auger had previously been arraigned before Judge Redmond Hayes with three of four companions following a vicious attack on a defenseless destitute. Auger had been released on a suspended sentence, and Crown Attorney Turmel requested that the accused be ordered to pay at least a heavy fine.

"I won't request a prison term for the accused," said the Crown Attorney, "but I think a fine would teach him a lesson."

Judge Marier, while imposing the light fine, said he feared that the accused's parents would have to pay the brunt of any heavy fine, and added that the $25 fine in this case would certainly serve its purpose.

Reading is the key

Reading is the key. This is the slogan of Canadian Library Week April 16 to 22.

For a child who is just being introduced to books these words may have little meaning, but to someone who can look back over a wealth of knowledge and enjoyment gained by reading, these words have an aura of charm and mystery.

These people have already used the key to open many doors. Only by offering children unlimited opportunity to read books and enjoy them will they every reach the stage where they can use the key at all.

Ideally, books should be all over the school and the home. The child should run into books not only when he is looking for them but also when he last expects it. There should be literary books in every classroom and in every room in the home. A child should be free to wander over the shelves and pick out something to read for himself, not for his teacher or parent.

This is the only way they will learn, as Prime Minister Diefenbaker, patron of Library Week suggests "that books enlarge the mind, stir the imagination, please us in our leisure, and help us in the serious business of life."

During library week everyone should be made aware of these facts and should make an effort to give children the opportunity to learn the meaning of the words, Reading is the key.

April snow

Snow now isn't what it was back in December.

Then it could be described in fond, descriptive terms.

Its gentle flakes floated down with elegant grace to smooth the sharp, harsh outlines of November, turning the world into a hushed, white fairyland.

But this is April, and the same sentiments hardly apply.

Snow now is a cold, sticky mess, cutting visibility, turning streets, sidewalks and lawns into dirty, irritating slush. Now, it tangles traffic and people's feet, settles uncomfortably on hats, bareheads and down the backs of necks.

It prevents pleasant drives in the countryside, dulls the eager anticipation of golfers and swimmers, unsettles usually even tempers and hopelessly tangles community snow clearing budgets.

It's messy, its cloying, it's a nuisance, it's unwelcome.

It's downright unseasonal!

The alcohol problem

Two new and depressing views on the alcohol problem were advanced this week.

In France, researchers came up with a new theory on why 'reformed' alcoholics often fall off the wagon.

They found that it is a longing for companionship not a longing for alcohol that send many a Frenchman back to the bars and renewed drinking. Alcoholism, they found, is a social problem rather than a medical one particularly in the larger cities.

In England, an eminent physician said he is convinced that man must have alcohol or tranquilizers to survive the stress of today's jet-age living.

He said man must take drugs — by which he means alcohol, sedatives and tranquilizers — to overcome his mind and his problems.

And while drinking has declined over the last 50 years he said, the consumption of tranquilizers has increased.

This he said was caused purely by financial considerations. Man had found that he could get around the taxing of alcohol. At one-tenth of the cost he could get the same effect from tranquilizers.

Adventures with God

Spring meditation for the young

by JANE SCOTT
A spring meditation for our younger readers.

A modern expression took on new meaning for me today as I listened to the sweet melody of a migrating songsparrow. I refer to the term bird brain.

I have heard young people disdainfully refer to one of their group as a bird brain. The inference being that they did not know enough to come in out of the rain.

The term is a misnomer and is an insult to the birds rather than a reflection upon the intelligence of the one to whom it is addressed.

Any youth who refers to one of his fellows as a bird brain hasn't the brains God gave the geese or he would know that man is of greater worth than the sparrows.

Even with his weaknesses, man has propensities, skills and potentials far beyond the abilities of a bird brain or a brainy bird.

Birds less than six months old can fly to Florida for the winter. And they can do it without spending a cent or consulting a road map or tuning in to radio towers to get their bearings.

That tiny bird brain has a built-in mechanism that eliminates his dependency upon the scientific discoveries of mere man.

OUR SUPERIORS
He could tell the Wright brothers a few things about aviation but he won't talk. He simply performs to prove his superiority in many respects.

And we landlubbers who fracture our bones when we fall off a chair have the audacity to infer that a bird brain is something very inferior to the human brain, which in the last 50 years has mastered a few of the principles of aviation.

are our superiors. They can rise and follow a straight course from point to point. They can find the same tree in a forest thousands of miles away where they were hatched last year.

And that without the aid of road signs and pointing arrows. The bird brain is also a marvelous scale-model of the universe. If we could take it apart, we would find the elements contained in the animal and vegetable kingdom with some things added and other things missing.

That little bundle of feathers and brain has life and is therefore part of the pulsating, infinite universe which has been designed, motivated and empowered by God the Creator of all things great and small to function perfectly in its own sphere and to propagate its kind through the eons.

The songsparrow that fly by instinct can sing and hear and see and love and fear and trust God, even as you and I.

In the matter of faith in God, the sparrows put us to shame. Sunshine or rain, they live from day to day, taking no thought for the morrow what they shall eat or drink or wear.

Our Lord used these little bird brains to point a lesson to His supposedly superior followers when He was on earth. Said Jesus: "Behold the fowls of the air; for they sow not, neither do they reap, nor gather into barns; yet your heavenly Father feedeth them. Are ye not much better than they?"

Matt. 6:26.

LESSON FOR ALL
The sparrows believe that the "heavenly Father feedeth them" but they have the good sense to get out and get pecking for their food. They know, too, that they must put their faith into positive action before they can get results. A lesson that many of us should learn.

We expect God to feed us from a bottle all our lives and cuddle us in His mighty arms long past the time when we should be feeding for ourselves.

We expect God to sing lullabies to us when we ought to be out in the world cheering our fellowmen with our songs as the little sparrow cheered me today.

Like the sparrow we ought to accept the responsibilities of life with courage as well as with faith. When I watch the birds building a nest, I marvel at their patience and fortitude.

Flight after flight to pick up single strands to weave into their nests. All the while rejoicing in the privilege of finding ultimate fulfillment in the reproduction of their kind.

And facing courageously the tiring days when they must find food, not only for themselves but for their brood.

Bird brains? Yes. Bird brains of love who notes the needs and the fall of a little creature like a man or a sparrow.

When I consider all the worlds that God has made, the telescopic view overwhelms me, I can hardly conceive of the God and creator of such a marvelous universe having either time for or interest in our little world.

But when I take a microscopic view of the tiny humming bird, for example, that emerges from an egg with all the potentials of a helicopter and the colors of the rainbow and the power of reproduction and the power of a jetplane built into it, I can readily accept the fact that God sees and cares because it is His scale model of the greater universe.

I know from personal experience that God has accommodated Himself to dwelling in my heart and He will accommodate Himself to any who will accept Him by faith.

When I see a tiny seed that has the germ of life for a million trees in it, I can conceive of a God who can love and share His life with mankind.

It is a logical sequence to expect the Creator to reproduce Himself in His creation.

"Out, Damned Spot!"

The coming race war: Part 4

Viewing apartheid—the hard way

(This is the fourth in a series of articles on South Africa's racial crisis by a Canadian Negro who recently toured that country.)

By SYDNEY WILLIAMS
Distributed by Toronto Telegram News Service

I learned about apartheid the direct, hard way. I had visited model townships—white communities—which white government officials had shown off to me.

Later, I would receive furtive phone calls like this: "You've seen the nice places; now come and see the others." Then would follow instructions to walk to a certain spot, enter a certain car. Thus I saw Alexandria, Klipfontein, Germiston and other older and more horrible "locations."

In this way, I met people who live under the laws that rule their lives, their speech, their movements but not—thank God—their thoughts.

To get to these locations, I would have to play a bizarre game of cops and robbers. Because I suspected I was being watched even when not in the company of government officials, I would leave one car and run to another. Or I would alight and walk quickly through an office building to enter another car at a pre-arranged spot.

Thus I learned how apartheid is a betrayal of the very principles it professes to espouse. More than 12 years ago, the word apartheid was coined as an election gimmick by the late Prime Minister Malan. When the late Johannes Strydom succeeded him, it began to take shape as an actual program. Many things long accepted became hard law: Separate buses at separate street stops, restricted native areas, official passbooks identifying the natives and their jobs.

Visualize the worst slums of the western world and you fall far short of the conditions that prevail in many of the native townships. In many, there are only a few central points where water may be obtained. It must be carried in buckets a great distance. Open privies are a source of infection.

In one tiny two-room house in Coronationville, for instance, I saw seven people living, one of them an invalid with an infectious disease. This was not an uncommon sight.

As I talked in front of one house, the cart of barrels which carried away the sewage from the open toilets lumbered along the road. Children played where it went. Sewage slopped from the barrels onto the road.

I asked, "Who will clean that up?" My driver grinned, and said, "Clean it up? Let it stay there till the stink clears away."

Everywhere refuse was piled in corners. In the older townships, the walls of houses were riddled with holes which those who lived there tried to plug with rags and paper. Roofs leaked. The only light at night is from kerosene lamps. Because kerosene costs money, few lamps burn at night.

If you are black in South Africa, the jobs you may hold are strictly limited by the Job Restriction Law.

No black man can hold a position superior to that of a white man on the same job, no matter how inferior the white man's position.

For instance, if you drive up to a garage, the master mechanic will always be a white man. The fellow who lifts the hood and checks the oil is always a negro. But, it is often obvious that the negro assistants know more about automobiles than the white mechanic.

You may not belong to any union in which there are whites. Your income is thus controlled. And blacks cannot go on strike.

If you work similar to that done by a white man, you will get half, or less, his pay. You may not hold any supervisory position, other than over a black work gang.

The law is convenient. By government decree—not parliamentary sanction—it can be amended. When there was growing unemployment among middle-aged and older white males, negroes were barred from jobs as elevator operators. The result: employment for whites, unemployment for blacks.

Such moves have been followed by more vicious regulations. They were based on a professed desire to "preserve the great traditions and heritage of the native peoples" or to "cherish the best in ancient native culture," and so on.

Thus education, long provided by Christian church schools, was taken over by the government. Its administration was put under the national ministry of education, but under a ministry for Bantu (Native) Affairs.

Universities were gradually closed to natives. This was courageously opposed by many white students, even Afrikaansers. But funds are vital to any college, and this proved the final weapon of government control.

Native schools were staffed with native teachers pitifully ill-fitted for the task. Teaching was done in the native tongue, but Afrikaans became a compulsory second language.

One reason for having the teaching done in the native tongue soon became obvious—the language contains no advanced or technical words.

Such education limits the natives to the roles of laborers, houseboys, gardeners, mine workers, maids, porters and similar menial tasks.

It preserves a vast population as a source of unskilled labor at low wages, always available as needed, subject to banishment to distant native reserves if they act up. And it preserves a farm labor force, always useable by the veid Afrikaaner.

Apartheid, as defined by its book of laws and its creators, envisioned some vague form of self-government for the natives.

Outside the townships, as in the reserves, it was planned to retain the traditional tribal pattern of the chieftaincies.

But apartheid betrayed its intent. Any chief who refused to cooperate was dethroned by government order-in-council and a willingly conforming stooge

Gerald Waring REPORTING

OTTAWA — Ernie Halpenny is an experiment in the laboratory of government. Code name: Minister of Odds & Sods. And the experiment appears to be succeeding.

When Prime Minister Diefenbaker brought Halpenny into the cabinet last fall as a minister without portfolio, he let it be known that he had a special responsibility in mind for the businessman-MP from London, Ont. Halpenny was not to be tied down to any one field of administration, nor was he to be allowed to go the thumb-twiddling way of the usual minister without portfolio.

Instead of being a spare tire for the vehicle of government, useful mainly to provide cabinet representation for some section of the body politic, Halpenny was assigned the task of bringing his extensive business experience to bear in any field and on any problem where it is needed. In a cabinet weak in business experience, he fills much the same kind of void that C. D. Howe filled in the former Liberal administration.

The Tory opposition used to call Howe, the "minister of everybody's affairs" in caustic reference not to his proven ability to handle many and varied responsibilities, but rather to his empire-building. In moving from post to post in his 22 years in cabinet, Howe amassed and kept under firm thumb a huge conglomeration of unrelated jobs and responsibilities. For example, while trade minister he bossed TCA (from his Transport days), atomic energy (from Munitions & Supply), and wheat marketing (snatched from Agriculture.) Halpenny is not Howe's counterpart in this sense. His assignments are many and varied, but all temporary except service on the Treasury Board the committee of cabinet that rules on departmental requests for money. If the government is faced with a problem that is not particularly within the field of responsibility of any departmental minister, or cuts across two or more departments, it is likely to be passed on to Ernie Halpenny. Particularly if it is of an economic nature affecting a special area or industry.

Acting singly, or as head of a temporary cabinet committee, Halpenny will come to grips with the problem and produce a recommendation for consideration by the whole cabinet. If he had a department, it might well be called the Ministry of Odds & Sods, or even the Department of Hot potatoes.

Halpenny, a big square-set man of 58 with iron gray hair and blunt manner, was a successful drug manufacturer when London Tories persuaded him to run for Parliament in 1957 to succeed the retiring Tory MP. Two months after his election he was named parliamentary assistant to Health Minister Monteith.

On entering the cabinet he sold his controlling interest in the Canadian Pharmaceutical Company, the drug manufacturing business that he built on earlier experience of 17 years with American Home Products in both Canada and the U.S.

It is this lifetime of business experience that is making the Halpenny experiment succeed — a success that marks Halpenny as a likely bet for a "business portfolio" — such as defence production — in the next cabinet shuffle.

Letter to Editor

Dear Sir: Will you be kind enough to publish this letter in your paper?

The directors of the Sherbrooke Alouettes wish to thank the mayor of the city, the aldermen and the superintendent of parks for their full collaboration in our demands.

We were very pleased with their grant of $1500. And we are fortunate enough to have the municipal ball park at our disposal free of charge.

CHARLES DROUIN
secretary

The Editor, Sherbrooke Daily Record.

With reference to your editorial "Practical Progress," may I ask you to investigate thoroughly just what is meant as street widening, Portland Ave. from Queen Blvd to Ontario St., is a reasonable width, but certainly a Boulevard of Portland Ave., to connect Queen and Jacques Cartier Blvds with similar width as presently proposed by the town planner is definitely an invitation for a race track.

A sidewalk on the south side of Portland Ave., on Ontario St., to Argyle Ave., is a necessity for the convenience and protection of school children attending at least five schools in this area. We already have the death of one child on record.

You say the effect on property valuation may be unfortunate but practical progress would seem to demand street widening.

If the present plan is adhered to it is certainly not practical. It is a deliberate conversion of a residential street to a death trap and a serious deterioration of property value is obvious. It is no longer a street but a commercial artery.

If "Practical Progress is being sought in the North Ward there are plenty of projects where the "Citizens' money can be spent more wisely.

Mrs. A. A. Munster, P.S.: Portland Ave., being called a bottle neck is sheer nonsense.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

President Roosevelt is determined to beat back an isolationist resolution which would ban the use of U.S. Atlantic convoys.

The Sherbrooke Chamber of Commerce has demanded that the Provincial Government take immediate action to improve the Magog highway.

TEN YEARS AGO

Republicans called today for a searching investigation of the administration's Asiatic policies as they reply to President Truman's charge that the Republican party is trying to confuse the country.

JACOBY ON BRIDGE

EAST DOUBLES WITHOUT CAUSE

Today's crime is easy to spot. It was East's double of South's three no-trump contract. The punishment was severe indeed.

West opened the six of hearts. East's double had called for that lead and South had no trouble gathering in 10 tricks for a point score of 400 below the line. Instead of the mere 100 and 30 he would have made without the help of the double.

Of course, East had a reason for his double. Most criminals do have a reason for their actions.

East wanted a heart lead and conceivably a heart lead might have upset South's apple cart. I say conceivably because almost any result is possible in bridge, but East did not have the right holding to demand a heart lead.

Furthermore, East had one very bad card in his hand. He held the queen of clubs right in front of the club bidder and if it happened that South needed a club finesse the queen would be right in the pocket.

Finally, East had three cards in each unit suit. There was no reason to fear an opening of whichever of those suits his partner might select.

matter of FACT

Pelicans and seagulls feed on schools of fish. But one fish won't co-operate. A huge European catfish called the Glanis waits in deep water to snap up any unwary bird.

Ghost picture opens at Premier today

It would be fair to say that Hollywood views with alarm, whenever producer-director William Castle makes another picture: with alarm, with delight, and with happy applause.

Mr. Castle is the maker of such foreboding, fright-filled films as "The Tingler," "The House on Haunted Hill," "Macabre" and now, opening today at the Premier Theatre, "13 Ghosts." Like its predecessors, "13 Ghosts" is a picture with an entertainment gimmick, a pleasant piece of cinematic which adds to the suspense and excitement of what is always a good picture anyway. What the gimmick is in "13 Ghosts" will be seen by its audiences; film-drom promises only that it's a beauty!

Young Charles Herbert is starred in "13 Ghosts," along with Jo Morrow, Martin Milner, Rosemary DeCamp and Donald Woods. Along with, it must be added, the ghosts of a headless lion-tamer, his lion, a chef who messes up a kitchen and a number of other miserable residents of the spirit world. These real "live" ghosts all haunt an ancient house inherited by museum professor Woods who moves in with his unsuspecting family. Young Herbert, a ghost-lover from way back, finds himself right at home with the spectral spectacles; the rest of the family have trouble indeed.

Advance audiences report that "13 Ghosts" is a picture for the strong of heart, a film filled with excitement, suspense, drama, and truly ominous activity. The prediction here is that a lot of people are going to look for ghosts a long time after they see "13 Ghosts," and with good reason.

Awarding of contract protested

A letter from the Eastern Townships Builders' Association will be sent to the Department of Education protesting the awarding of a construction contract by the Coaticook Roman Catholic School Commission to a local contractor who submitted a bid which was $63,580 higher than the lowest tender.

Jules Thibault, a member of the School Commission, said that the fact that the contractor was the only local businessman to tender had been taken into consideration but that a further study of the tenders is being made.

He noted that the Department of Education would have to approve the awarding of the contract in any event.

Evangelistic meetings scheduled

A week of evangelistic meetings will be held in the Coaticook and Dixville Baptist Churches, April 17-18 in Coaticook Baptist Church at 8 p.m. and April 20th to 22nd inclusive in the Dixville Baptist Church at 8 p.m.

These meetings are sponsored by the Council of Baptist Churches of the Eastern Townships.

The main speaker will be Andrew Moffat of Sutton.

He will be assisted by Rev. Paul D. Burns of First Baptist Church, Sherbrooke, Quebec and Rev. Emrys M. Jenkins the minister of the Coaticook, Dixville, Barnston and Moe's River Baptist Churches.

Mr. Moffat was inducted into the Sutton and Mansonville Baptist Churches in October 1960.

In 1953, as a layman, he was elected vice-moderator of the Eastern Association of Baptist Churches and in 1954 became its Moderator.

During his residence in Lake Side Heights in the city of Montreal, he was one of the leaders in establishing a new Baptist Church.

many more years of health. Leslie Bliss, D.D.G.M., will be a guest at next Tuesday's meeting and will install the officers for the ensuing term.

Through the kindness of the Canadian Legion, Alexandra Lodge has been able to hold its meetings in the Legion hall on Rosedale Avenue.

Maple season contest entries show encouraging improvement

The Sherbrooke Record's ugaring-off photo contest will lose as of this weekend, so if you have not as yet mailed your entries get them in the mail tonight.

The judging will begin next week and from a quick look at the entries, up to now, it will be a close contest. I believe the entries are of better quality this year and our contestants were trying a bit more as they were waiting for better lighting conditions and also understood a little more what we would like to see.

We fully realize that perhaps a do the subject justice would require a series of say, three or four photos. But to make it real tough, we ask that only one do the job.

All those who entered, will gain something if the contest plants the seed of imagination. It could grow with time, and instead of only taking pictures, they will think pictures. This is the only difference between a snapshot and a well balanced photographic rendition.

Photography, when properly done, is an art. It is not a mechanical way of rendering a subject, but this is not wholly true. Taking a good picture requires foresight and self-expression. Making the enlargement requires an artistic viewpoint for many things can be done to enhance the original scene.

But this is not necessarily tricky or hocus-pocus. It is a photographic expression which is meant to be a part of the original idea and the final print relays a message of artistic feeling.

SHOWING THE IMPORTANCE photography has attained in the artistic world, many artists now simulate the many angles and styles used by the cameraman, like this picture. It was taken with a 35 mm. camera and a 135 telephoto lens. Cloes cropping was done while taking the picture, not in the enlarger. The subject is Rev. J. D. F. Anido of Bishop's University.

These and other changes would involve subsidies totaling $97,000,000 during the first year, thereafter declining rapidly in size and importance.

DIPLOMATIC CRUMBS

Little has been revealed about Prime Minister Macmillan's talks with President Kennedy and Prime Minister Diefenbaker over the last two weeks. The crumbs were so small that one Labor MP in London complained that Macmillan had told the press more than he had told the Commons.

Diefenbaker said Thursday there had been discussion about Communist China's entry to the United Nations but he did not say what stand had been taken.

In Ottawa Tuesday, Macmillan said Britain will consult the Commonwealth "at every point" in considering whether to join the European Common Market.

NOTES ON THE WEEK

Quebec's Premier Lesage announced sales tax changes in his budget Friday; lower levies on restaurant meals and fuel oil, higher ones on liquor. Welfare benefits were improved.

Fire and explosions crippled the British liner Dara in the Persian Gulf last weekend. The liner, carrying 752 people between Bombay and Basra, sank Monday. Nearly 200 are feared to have died.

Tomasz Biernacki, 37, a Polish immigrant, was charged in Montreal Monday with spying for an unidentified foreign power.

Haffa aide jailed

WASHINGTON (AP)—A federal court jury Friday convicted former telephone operator Mrs. Sally T. Hucks of obstructing a Senate racket committee investigation into affairs of president James Hoffa and other Teamsters officials. The jury convicted Mrs. Hucks, 43, on nine out of 10 counts in an indictment that alleged she altered and destroyed hotel records of telephone calls made by Hoffa and other union officers. The government contended the records were destroyed in 1959 to hide them from Senate investigators.

Cady of Cowansville Consolidated says the Cowansville High School is holding its annual Graduation Dance at 8:30 p.m. Friday, May 5. The admission is $2.00 per couple and dress is optional. Refreshments will be served and the music will be supplied by Eddie Walker and the "Triumphs." Everyone is welcome to attend.

SAWYERVILLE HIGH INVITE S.H.S. TO DANCE

The Junior Red Cross of Sawyerville High School has invited the students of Sherbrooke High School to attend a Record Hop at the Sawyerville gym tonight. Patty Winslow, secretary of the Sawyerville Student Council, who issued the invitation says dancing from 8 to 11 p.m.; and Dick Gale is to be Master of Ceremonies. Admission, 50 cents per person, 80 cents per couple.

TRACK MEET PRACTICES BEGIN AT KNOWLTON

Even though the snow still covers the ground and more keeps coming, athletes at Knowlton High School are beginning to practice for the coming track meet to be held in Sherbrooke at the end of May.

PUBLIC SPEAKING CONTEST AT ST. PAT'S

A public speaking contest will be held at St. Patrick High School in Sherbrooke, says Roger Leclair, while the grammar school will compete in a spelling contest. All this is slated for June 7 with a five dollar prize to the winner in each division.

DANCES HELD LAST NIGHT

The annual I.O.O.F. dance and card party sponsored by the Richmond Rebekah and Oddfellow Lodges was held last night at the St. Francis High School gym. Prizes were given for bridge and 500 and the music was provided by Jack Hobbs and his orchestra. Proceeds of the dance will go towards sending a grade ten student to the United Nations Pilgrimage for Youth in New York this summer.

CPR employee dies suddenly

Frank Irwin, Magog Street, in charge of the CPR freight sheds here, died suddenly Friday.

He was helping to load a truck at the Rand-drill, and collapsed shortly after. Death has been attributed to a heart attack.

Submit plans for new lodge hall at Ayer's Cliff

AYER'S CLIFF — Alexandra Lodge held its 15th consecutive meeting on April 11 to hear committee reports on a proposed new lodge hall and business block to replace the building destroyed by fire on Dec. 27, 1960.

Two well prepared plans were submitted by the committee and they will be brought before a general meeting to be voted on next Tuesday.

James Robinson was presented with a 50 year jewel. Mr. Robinson is still active in the lodge and members wished

In Memoriam

BISHOP—In loving memory of a dear wife and mother, Ethel Bishop, who departed this life April 16, 1955.

We often think of bygone days
When we were all together,
The friendly chain is broken now
But memories live forever.
Always remembered by CARL and FAMILY.

DUPRESNE—In loving memory of a dear husband, father and grandfather, Arthur Dupresne, who passed away April 15th, 1960.

We often think of bygone days,
When we were all together,
The family chain is broken now,
Memories live forever.

Sadly missed by,
HIS WIFE, CONNIE,
SONS and FAMILY,
Austin, Que.

LODGE—In loving memory of a dear mother and grandmother, Mrs. William Lodge, who passed away seven years ago today, April 15, 1954.

Mother to your grave we often wander,
And we picture your face so dear,
In silence we stand in sorrow,
For the Mother we loved so dear,
Gone from us, but leaving memories.

Death can never take away,
Memories that will always linger,
While upon this earth we stay,
Dear God please take a message,
To our Mother in Heaven above,
Tell her how much we miss her,
And give her all our love.

Lovingly remembered by,
IRENE and ROY MONAHAN,
daughter and son-in-law;
HOWARD and FRANCES LODGE,
(son and daughter-in-law);
PEARL & ALTON GOODENOUGH
(daughter and son-in-law);

SHERMAN—In loving memory of our dear friend, Reuben Henry Sherman, who passed away April 16th, 1959.

MRS. LOUISA BEATON,
AND FAMILY,
Brehton, Que.

WHEELER—In fond and loving memory of a dear husband, father and grandfather, Melvin A. Wheeler, who passed away April 15th, 1960.

He whom we loved is out of sight
Though never out of mind,
And always cherished in the hearts,
Of those he left behind.
Dearly loved and always remembered by,
HIS WIFE and FAMILY,
Bulwer, Que.

Tea clipper competition

Trip to India, scholarship for ship model contest winner

By SANDRA PICKFORD (Record Staff Reporter)

Build a tea clipper ship model and help recreate Canada's past:

In conjunction with Tea For Canada Week, April 10 to April 15 the Tea Council of Canada is going to promote the nations' maritime history next fall by sponsoring a model clipper ship building contest.

Awards for the most authentic clipper ships are directed towards teenagers and the contest begins now. First prize is an all-expense paid trip to India and Ceylon, the world-leading tea producers, and a one-thousand-dollar scholarship to a Canadian university. Other prizes include a $750 scholarship, three $50 scholarships and sets of Encyclopaedia Britannica.

Roger Periard, who is touring the Province of Quebec during Tea For Canada Week, in announcing the contest this week said: "One of the most colorful and important areas in Canadian history is in danger of slipping into obscurity." He was referring to the 1880's, which saw the climax of the romantic age of sail.

Tea Clippers, the fastest wooden sailing ships ever built, numbered more than 4,000 during the brief decade of the 1880's. At the end of the decade some 7,000 clippers were built along the Atlantic seaboard and far up the St. Lawrence River.

They were manned by Canadians and carried the commerce of a dozen nations across the seven seas.

"Today the great deeds of these clipper ships are almost forgotten," he said, "and to revive interest in this golden age of Canada's maritime development and to help win the decade its rightful place in the country's history, Tea Council is sponsoring a Centennial decade which will begin with the clipper ship model building contest." Mr. Periard said.

Those participating must use model kits, but the Tea Council will furnish the plans. The clippers will be judged by Tea Council and the winners will be announced in the fall of 1962. The clippers will be judged on accuracy of detail, the closest replica and furnishings. "The clippers will not be judged on the amount of money spent on them," he said, "but the time and patience spent in building them."

There is no entry fee for this contest but an age limit has been set. The participant must be under 20 years.

MODEL CLIPPER SHIP — Roger Periard, who is visiting cities in the Province of Quebec as goodwill ambassador for the tea trade in Canada during Tea For Canada Week, April 10 to 15 displays a model of one of the clipper ships which made Canada famous in the field of maritime development. Mr. Periard, in his visit to Sherbrooke this week, announced a clipper ship model building contest for young Canadians sponsored by the Tea Council of Canada.

All entries will become the property of Tea Council and the winning entry will be placed as a permanent exhibit in the tea museum.

For the rules of this nationwide contest, application forms further information and plans for the building of a clipper write to Tea Council, 6th floor, 42 Charles Street East, Toronto, Ontario.

Eastern Star Hat fashions highlight event

Receiving the guests at the Spalding and Mrs. D. Baldwin, Spring Bonnet Tea, sponsored by the Queen Mary Chapter, No. 5, O.E.S., held at the Monson Temple, Prospect Street on April 19th, was the Worthy Matron, Mrs. J. Evans. The conveners were Mrs. C. Johnson, Mrs. A. Fowler, Mrs. D. Macdonald and Mrs. A. Drennan.

The small tables were very attractive with a centre piece made up of a miniature hat, sitting upon a stand, these were very cleverly made by Mrs. A. Rowat.
 Mrs. A. J. Ross was in charge of the food table.
 Modelling the hats were Mrs. C. Young, Mrs. C. Kent, Mrs. L. Gingras and Mrs. W. T. Evans, and the commentator for the show was Mrs. G. Forman.

The hats and gloves were by courtesy of Mrs. M. Mateh. Mrs. M. Vallee drew the tickets for the prizes, 1st going to Mrs. Samuel Green, Coaticook; a certificate for a hat donated by Mrs. M. Math, 2nd Mrs. Gordon Whatley, Sherbrooke, gloves given by Mrs. J. Evans and 3rd Mrs. George Smith, Sherbrooke, a box of Yardley's powder, given by Mrs. A. Rowat.

Publicity - Mrs. E. M. Goodfellow reported that she had sent an account of the meeting to press and radio. She read an article, Manitoba Celebrates 50th Anniversary. Welfare and Health - Mrs. Murdo Macdonald, said that 375 dressings had been completed. She also announced that a card party would be held in the Brompton Road Community Hall on Saturday, April 8.

Hostesses for the afternoon will be Mrs. C. Stuart Billing, Mrs. P. Mercereau, and Mrs. R. Traux. The president, Mrs. D. Cullen, chaired the meeting. Following the reading of the minutes by the secretary Mrs. Elgin Decoteau, Mrs. W. F. Goodfellow gave the treasurer's report. Convener reports were then given: Agriculture: Miss Elsie Winget read an article, Outlook for Canada in 1961. Citizenship - Mrs. Hiram McLeod spoke of the fiftieth anniversary of the Dunham, branch of the Institute.

Education - Mrs. Norman Hatch in the absence of the convener Mrs. G. Hatch reported that prizes would once more be given to Mitchell School Home Economics - Mrs. Westman read articles describing courses sponsored by Macdonald College.
 The proceeds of this party will go towards cancer dressings. Volunteers to attend the next cancer dressings meeting are Mrs. D. Cullen, Mrs. McLeod, Mrs. T. Goodfellow, Mrs. N. Hatch.
 A gift was presented to the retiring treasurer Mrs. N. Hatch by the secretary Mrs. E. Decoteau.

An auction of maple products was held. Mrs. M. Macdonald acted as auctioneer. Mrs. Stuart Billing was the winner of the floating prize.
 Refreshments were served by the hostesses assisted by Mrs. Wesley Billing and Mrs. N. Hatch.

ST. ANDREWS MISSIONARY SOCIETY
 St. Andrew's Missionary Society, held their regular meeting at the home of the president, Mrs. G. Stevenson. Miss Dora Smith and Mrs. Allen Morrison conducted the devotional period using the program from the Glad Tidings.
 All were sorry to learn of the illness of Mrs. Garland and wished for her a speedy recovery.
 Reports of the year's activities in the Presbyterian were read and discussed in preparation for the Rally to be held in May.
 The meeting closed with a hymn and prayer.
 Refreshments were served by Mrs. L. Dunsmore and Mrs. G. Stevenson.

Change Perfume
 Perfume, like make-up shades, should be changed with the seasons. When warm weather comes, put away your heavy scents and use one as light and flowery as the season itself.

Marriage Tips for parents

LACROIX — ROYEA
COWANSVILLE, Que. — A lovely spring wedding took place on Saturday, April 15th at 2 p.m. in Trinity Anglican Church, Cowansville when Miss Shirley Irene Royea, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Adrian Royea, Albert St., Cowansville became the bride of Mr. Maurice A. Lacroix, son of the late Mr. A. Lacroix and of Mrs. Conrad Gagne of Sutton.
 Rev. John Peacock officiated at the double ring ceremony.
 Lighted tapers adorned the altar, and the guest pews were marked with white satin bows and streamers. The organist, Miss Elizabeth Watson, R.N., played appropriate music.
 Given in marriage by her father, the bride was charming in a waltz length white gown of nylon lace and net and pleated satin cummerbund with double tiered lace skirt, bolero with long sleeves ending in points over the hands. Her sheer illusion finger-tip veil was embroidered in a rose design, and hung from a tiara that was hand-beaded in a heart design, with this she wore a three strand pearl necklace, the gift of the groom, and carried a Colonial bouquet of red roses.
 The bride was attended by her cousins as junior bridesmaids, Miss Vera May Patien of Cowansville wore rose nylon, and Miss Frances Darrah, of Montreal was in yellow nylon, and they carried prayer-books topped with corsages of pink carnations.
 Mr. Conrad Gagne was best man, and Mr. Ernest LeDoux, of Sutton, ushered.
 Mrs. Royea, mother of the bride chose an aqua blue flower printed tulle gown with toning accessories and a corsage of red roses. The groom's mother, Mrs. Gagne, wore a beige two piece suit with brown accessories and corsage of red roses.
 The reception was held at the "Gai Canon" Restaurant on River St., where the bride's table was festive with daffodils, and centred with a lovely three-tiered cake done in white and silver, topped with lace hearts and miniature bride and groom, made and decorated by Mrs. Irene Williams.
 For travelling the bride chose a white sheath dress with "Schiffli" embroidery in Caribbean blue with a wide band at the waist, and tiny flowers over all, with this she wore white accessories, a grey mouton coat and a corsage of red roses.
 The happy couple left for their wedding trip to Niagara Falls amid the good wishes of all present. On their return they will reside at 216 River St., Cowansville.
 Out of town guests were from Montreal, Sherbrooke, Granby, Waterloo, Knowlton, Magog and Sutton.

DOCTOR'S ORDERS
 The doctor's orders must be followed. If the child is to stay in bed, in bed he must stay. Once this is understood, the path is easier.
 Here are some tips that may act as "near tranquilizers."
For the very young patient: His ordinary toys can be supplemented by surprises. He will be interested in a magnet and a few metal objects to pick up. Bolts and screws will keep his small fingers busy, as will an old clock or camera to take apart with a screwdriver.
 A padlock and key, a deck of playing cards, a mail order catalogue, a bubble ring (this will need supervision), kitchen gadgets such as an egg-beater, and scraps of paper, cloth, etc., to cut will add to variety.

ENGAGEMENT
 Mr. and Mrs. Lucien Bergeron of Richmond, Que. wish to announce the engagement of their younger daughter Patricia (Pat) on the staff of the Wales Home, to Mr. Ross Henderson also on the Wales Home staff, son of Mr. and Mrs. Glen Henderson of South Durham.
 Mr. and Mrs. Fred Morusyk of St. Paul, Alta., wish to announce the engagement of their daughter Joan Mary R. N. to Rev. Carlton Herbert Miller B.A., B.D. of Vermilion, Alta., son of Mr. and Mrs. W. O. Miller of Hatley, Que.
 The marriage has been arranged to take place in St. Paul United Church St. Paul, Alta. on May 6th.

Vivid study of a changing country

THE NEW FRANCE by Edward Tannenbaum. — University of Toronto Press. — $5.00 — 225 pp.

As the author explains in the preface, this book is not an attempt to review the history of French governments and their policies. Instead, Mr. Tannenbaum is concerned with "a national community in the process of changing its whole way of life."

He manages to make this a vivid study by various means. One factor which contributes to the interest of this book is the section of illustrations which are well chosen to portray numerous aspects of French life.

Mr. Tannenbaum also appeals to the North American reader by comparing French customs to similar American ones. He says for instance, "The practice of trying to influence the rulers for private ends is as old as civilized society itself. And court favourites from Madame de Pompadour to Sherman Adams have always been able to help their friends."

Mr. Tannenbaum has obviously made a close study of the French people, their attitudes, their beliefs, and their institutions.

He discusses among other things, education, religion, atheism, art, and industrialization all with equal assurance and factual backing.

He uses the works of contemporary authors such as Simone de Beauvoir to show the intellectual attitude to life and the way in which it reflects present day trends. By interpreting these works,

Mr. Tannenbaum not only provides insight into French thought, but he opens new vistas for readers who would like to read contemporary French novelists, but find them largely unintelligible.

By introducing the reader to a country which is vitally concerned at the moment with increasing production, manufacturing atom bombs and introducing new industries Mr. Tannenbaum produces a picture of France that is less picturesque than the traditional idea of that country as a romantic background. However, he shows that The New France has a charm and a romance which is modern and equally exciting.

Fifty years at H. B. C.

FUR TRADER'S STORY by J. W. Anderson Ryerson Press, Toronto — $5.00, 245 pp.

After reading J. W. Anderson's story of his fifty years with the Hudson's Bay Company, one does not wonder that so renowned a man as Lord Tweedsmuir saw fit to write the foreword.

The author came to Canada on the historic ship S. S. Discovery in 1910, one of eleven apprentices for the Hudson's Bay company, most of them from the north of Scotland. He served with the company until 1955, when he retired as district manager, Eastern Arctic Division. He writes not only of the Company and the north it helped develop but of the people he knew during his long years of service—he writes of them with insight, understanding and affection.

The reader will meet men from rival companies, Indians, Eskimos, missionaries, traders, couriers, guides, apprentices and managers, and will learn that the answer to a conundrum posed by the late Thomas Bell of Rupert's House, a Revillon trader, "When is a business not a business?" deserved the answer, "When it is a fur trade." The early trader had to concern himself in the personal affairs of his conferees and subordinates to an extent unknown in other businesses.

An example is the romance of Post Manager A. R. Scott in charge of Arctic Bay, north of Baffin Island. Mr. Scott received the second of the pioneering Private Commercial Radio Stations to be established on Baffin Island, in 1937. Almost his first message was a proposal of marriage to his girl in Scotland. She accepted; Mr. Anderson had to buy the engagement ring, and arrange for the girl to come to Canada. The ladies of the H.B.C. helped her buy her trousseau in Winnipeg. When the bride finally arrived in Arctic Bay, in August 1938, the marriage ceremony was performed by the Right Reverend A. L. Fleming, Bishop of the Arctic, in the saloon of the Naoscope. In July, 1939, the Scotts had a baby daughter. And the H.B.C. ladies of Winnipeg had to go on another shopping spree, this time for a layette.

Written, as Lord Tweedsmuir remarks, "in that simple, unadorned English that comes naturally to a very few" FUR TRADER'S STORY is well worth reading.

Jottings

By GLADYS TAYLOR

Canadian Library Week begins on Sunday, April 16th. No doubt each library in the Eastern Townships has already planned some means of bringing this culturally important event to the attention of the public.

As an adjunct to their publicity I thought readers might be interested in knowing how thoroughly library-conscious the town of Lethbridge Alta. (pop. 30,000) became last year as a result of their library's original and stimulating campaign.

The Library committee had five different media to use in their publicity campaign — the Library itself, TV, radio, newspapers and local stores. The use they made of these can best be described in their own words:

"We used the various media for the maximum effect. The Library was used to give a visual jolt. We have a long display window on street level and this we covered completely with book jackets. You could spot it a couple of blocks away. T. V. was used for thumbnail sketches. Radio lent itself best to books as recreation reading and here were recruited community leaders to tape programs on their specialties. One woman gave a complete program on poetry readings. The newspaper reviewed significant biographies and a staff member spent his time on the modern novel. The most refined approach was through the local merchant. A photographic dealer did a fine window on photography books, a paint store put in a window on interior decorating, a hardware store put in books on carpentry, a record shop displayed books on music and TCA did a fine window on travel. We hit the theatre fans with a display of books on movie stars in the rotunda of the major theatre. There is no doubt that Library Week in Lethbridge was successful and the most repeated comment we got was 'I never realized before what the Library had'."

This week I hope all our Eastern Townships readers discover or re-discover their local libraries.

Marjorie Freeman Campbell well-known Ontario author is busy researching the history of the city of Hamilton - from the time it was a wolf and rattlesnake infested swamp down to the present. Mrs. Campbell is the logical choice for this task as she is a native of the city. She hopes to have the history finished by 1962 - in time for the 150th Anniversary of the founding of the community and the 130th anniversary of its incorporation as a town, both of which fall in 1963. The City of Hamilton has supplied her with a desk in the new City Hall at which to carry out her research.

CLARKE, IRWIN & COMPANY is beating the drums for one of its newest books ANGEL OF HUDSON BAY to be published this month. Written by William Ashley Anderson, it is the story of Maud Watt and her husband Jim. Maud was a young bride when she first went to isolated, storm-swept Hudson's Bay. Today she is still there as the beloved Warden of Rupert House. Of interest to Quebec readers is the fact that she is the first person of this century to be feted by the renowned Beaver Club of Montreal.

Authentic account of Eichmann's capture

THE CAPTURE OF ADOLF EICHMANN by Moshe Pearlman, McClelland and Stewart Ltd., $3.25.

The proliferation of books about Eichmann has reached the stage where anything else written about him risks redundancy.

Yet the account by Moshe Pearlman of the capture of the former SS colonel is a welcome addition to the crowded club because it has the ring of authenticity and corrects some false notions that have crept into other books on the same theme.

None of the other authors had Pearlman's access to official Israeli documents and the men who tracked Eichmann down.

Pearlman benefits from being the white-haired boy of Israeli public relations. The disclaimer of any official stamp for his book reveals the charm of the former Israel government's press chief at work.

"Moish," as I remember him during his Tel Aviv press office days, had a penchant for trying to look innocent when he had something official on tap. It is perfectly plain that his book is based on long confabulations with those who conducted the operations that led to the cornering of Eichmann in a Buenos Aires suburb. All that is lacking to make the book "official" is a government imprimatur. It would almost seem as if its publication has been timed as a guide for the Eichmann trial.

SOME CORRECTIONS The guide book makes the following corrections of the mistakes of its literary predecessors:

Eichmann knows neither Yiddish nor Hebrew. (Some authors say he speaks these fluently.)

Eichmann never left Argentina after he arrived there in 1952. (Some accounts said he wandered from one South American country to another under a different alias.)

Eichmann's wife did not leave Argentina for Austria in 1958 to renew her passport. (This was the tip-off, said other biographers, of Eichmann's whereabouts. Actually, the tip came from a South American Jew who discovered that Eichmann's wife was living in Argentina with a man by the name of Ricardo Klement, who turned out to be the long-sought-after quarry.)

REUBEN SLONIN

Brief story shows skill

I WAS GOING ANYWAY, by Robert Switzer — Brett-MacMillan Ltd. — 121 pp. — $2.95 — The dust jacket lists this book as a mystery, but it has very little of the conventional mystery about it. It is a brief story about a small group of Canadians, some of them rather grubby and uninteresting, and the troubles in which they involve themselves.

A sportswriter for a Toronto newspaper falls in love with the daughter of a prominent man; is blackmailed for a previous charitable but shady action; the blackmailer dies, probably accidentally; the affair is pounced on by a group of so-called magazines and newspapers specializing in the sale of scandal and innuendo; some people, as always, eagerly believe the worst, and the lovers finally decide to say good-bye.

Switzer sometimes seems to be trying to irritate or even shock the reader, dialogue is clipped and cryptic, and the use of simple, descriptive phrases and sentences is generally carefully avoided.

The author has considerable skill in the style of writing he has chosen and some readers will rate him highly among "modern" authors. Others however, are liable to put the book down, not having been greatly stirred or amused, and with the suspicion that the author himself didn't care much about his characters either.

When Canadian money was sold at a discount

The decimal system was not established in Canada without problems. A century ago it was possible to purchase $10 worth of bright un-circulated large cents at 20 per cent. discount, in an effort by the banks to promote circulation of this new coinage which was replacing sterling.

Authorized by the Statute of the Province of Canada,

Robert Wallace McLachlan, in his catalogue with notes of 1886, said that strong inducements were offered to brokers to help put these coins into circulation. He well remembered procuring $10 lots, put up in bags at 20 per cent. discount. Reasons were that the old copper pieces were in ample supply, but in penny and half-penny. And since six half-pennies were equal to only five cents, it was impossible to get more for a cent than a half-penny's worth.

This was overcome at length in 1870, by raising bank tokens of the old currency to one and two-cent pieces, and withdrawing all other miscellaneous pieces from circulation.

Five 1888 and 1889 varieties exist: plain 1888, narrow "9" over "8", plain narrow "9" (common), re-engraved wide "9" over "8", and re-engraved wide "9". Aside from the plain narrow "9" in the date, all others are scarce, varying in price from $6 to $45.

passed in Toronto in 1857, first official Canadian coins arrived from England in 1858, including large cents, which continued to arrive in abundance the following year dated 1859 (in four varieties).

Report from the London mint listed 10,000,000 large cents struck in 1858 and none in 1859. But an amendment explained later that the order was received late in 1858 and most of it remained over to be filled in 1859. This is obvious on two varieties of the cent, where the "9" is over the "8", leaving the tail of the "9" touching the main loop, where the underlying "8" had joined.

This ridiculously large order provided more than six cents change for every Canadian and proved a sufficient supply until the next issue in 1876.

1960 MINT REPORT

The mint report for 1960, just released, shows coins struck as follows, with 1959 production figures in brackets.

$1.00 - 1,420,486	(1,443,502)
.50 - 3,448,397	(3,095,535)
.25 - 22,835,327	(13,503,461)
.10 - 45,446,835	(19,891,433)
.05 - 37,157,433	(11,552,523)
.01 - 75,772,775	(83,615,343)

Mint sets sold 64,097 and separate silver dollars 18,631. This is the highest production of coinage since the mint was established, partly due to the return of so many coins to the U.S. last fall, when the value of U.S. money dipped and many Canadians refused to accept U.S. coins at par.

Music on Records

by Hugh Doherty

BRUHMS — Trio in E. Flat; Victor Babin, piano; Joseph Eger, French horn; Henryk Szeryng, violin. BETHOVEN, Sonata for horn and piano, Babin, Eger (RCA VICTOR mono LM-2420) — This recording provides something that cannot normally be heard on the concert stage — three acknowledged instrumental virtuosos playing in concert. The horn is the unusual element in both works; it gives the music in each case a pleasant mellow quality. The Brahms trio is a serious, and in places, melancholic piece while the Beethoven sonata is a complete contrast; more capricious, composed and played in a lighter vein. As might be expected from three such talented individualists, the musicians sometimes seem to be vying with each other instead of cooperating, especially the violin and piano in the trio, but they offer brilliant and technically perfect performances. Sound is excellent.

THE ART OF THE PRIMA DONNA: Joan Sutherland, soprano; Orchestra and chorus of the Royal Opera House, Covent Garden, Francesco Molinari-Pradelli cond. (LONDON stereo two discs, OSA 1214) — This is one of the outstanding collections of "bel canto" or coloratura soprano singing on records, featuring a singer who is being hailed as showing promise of becoming one of the great sopranos of all time. Miss Sutherland performs a variety of immortal arias that range all the way from Handel to Mozart and Verdi. The pieces she sings are associated with a number of great sopranos of the past.

For sheer versatility of style and beauty of voice, especially in the upper ranges, Miss Sutherland is often breathtaking. Sound engineering is not as sharp as it might be, but her wonderful voice transcends all. Fine as these recordings are, however, they are not all quite collector's items. Miss Sutherland's Bell Song from Lakme, for example, is not as exciting as an old 78 rpm recording made by this same company with Erna Sack about 15 years ago. Miss Sack climaxed her tour de force with a glorious high note, thin and sweet as a violin. Miss Sutherland takes a less stirring, lower way out, and has to strain to make that.

PIPE ORGAN FAVORITES IN STEREO: D. J. Rees, organ of Alltwen Chapel, Pontardun, Glamorgan (LONDON stereo CS 6102) — A fine organ and an extremely competent organist combine to produce a recording containing various works often played in church as the organ voluntary — music played before and after a service. All the pieces, from Handel's Largo to Jesus, joy of man's desiring, are beloved, familiar items of church music. Rees occasionally takes liberties with the tempo of his selections, but no harm is done. Excellent stereo sound conveys the depth of the pipe organ sound in a church.

ALBENIZ — Iberia; TURINA — Danzas Fantasticas, L'Orchestre de la Suisse Romande, Ernest Ansermet cond. (LONDON mono CM 9263) — These are both works of tremendous color and vitality, and the very fine Orchestre de la Suisse Romande gets vigorous, sensitive conducting from Mr. Ansermet to bring them out. Unmistakably Spanish in flavor, both evocative pieces feature some unusual percussive effects. A thoroughly enjoyable recording.

PROKOFIEFF — Piano Concerto No. 3; MACDOWELL — Piano Concerto No. 2; Van Cliburn, pianist; Chicago Symphony Orchestra, Walter Hendl cond. (RCA VICTOR mono LM 2507) — The young American pianist lives up to his most enthusiastic notices in these short, showcase pieces. The Prokofieff work is a pleasant one, rather on the near side of the classical tradition, but with many delicate, chimey touches. It is played with impeccable technique and fine feeling by Mr. Cliburn. The MacDowell concerto is composed more in the grand manner, and the soloist suits his mood to the music, demonstrating a powerful, sweeping style.

cerpts of Blake's writings. At the back is a summary of where his paintings may be seen and a reference to a book of his prose and poetry. This is a book which will not be forgotten once having been read. Instead it will be put into the bookcase to be withdrawn and reread from time to time.

JOSEPH M. POPE

STAMP CHAT

by Milton Cronenberg

A selection of 45 covers from what will probably be recorded in philatelic circles as the "Port Chester Find" of United States 1869 and Bank Note stamps, will be sold at auction early in May, by the well known stamp auctioneers Harmer, Rooke and Co., Inc., 360 Fifth Ave., N.Y.C.

The collection of covers was originally found in a heap of discarded debris together with books, old eyeglasses and other memorabilia at a Port Chester house that was being renovated about 1904-7.

A young father who had a 6-year old son, although he knew nothing about stamps, decided to rescue the covers and put them away, thinking his son might some day become interested in collecting.

FOUND COVERS The son never developed an interest in stamps — in fact forgot about the covers until he found them among his father's belongings when his aged parent died last year.

He sold a group of the covers to a Connecticut dealer — the money he received to be used, he said, to buy his wife a fur coat and to make a down payment on a house. The stamps on the covers are from the 1869 series and the so-called Bank Note issue. The 1869 set of 10 stamps was the first United States pictorial issue, and values ran from one cent to 90 cents.

The Port Chester covers are all part of an 1869-72 correspondence from Port Chester to Lima, Peru, and are all addressed to Mrs. D. H. B. Davis, care of Davis Bros. They are coming into philatelic hands for the first time. Fifteen of the covers are franked (stamped for postage) entirely with 1869, the values running from one cent to 24 cents in various combinations.

Bank Note and 1869 issue stamps are combined in 15 more of the covers, and the remaining 16 carry Bank Note issues only, with denominations from two cents to 24 cents.

One handsome cover is franked with 2-cent, 3-cent, 15-cent and 24-cent singles of 1869. The stamps in both sets used, catalogue from three cents to $950 each, and in covers in series such as this group features, they are extremely rare.

Collecting in the E.T.

Collectors sooner or later find that they have perhaps included some pre-cancels in their collections, and then proceed to throw them away because they are apparently worthless. These pre-cancels do have some value. In fact there are some really scarce ones, so keep them in your stock books. Canadian pre-cancels are now collected by nearly as many collectors as those of the United States, simply because there is so little information available concerning them. I possessed a 50-cent Edward VII that was pre-cancelled, kept it in a stock book for some time and then received a lot of stamps from England that had one the same in it, but it had an estimated value that was quite high, and this was a scarce variety of a Quebec overprint.

Look over some U.S. pre-cancels sometime, you will find inverted overprints, sometimes even double or triple; the latter are rarities. Several Canadian cities have 3-cent and 5-cent pre-cancels, although for the most part you will find these to be 2-cent stamps, used to prepay the second class mailing cost on circulars, magazines, and so on, this practice was initiated by the Post Office Department in 1927. You will be interested to know that Sherbrooke has had a 5-cent pre-cancel, one of the few, during the past few years — Have you one of them? In 1930 the Post Office started to use the money order number of the Post Office instead of the place names. In Quebec the numbers are from 0001 to 1999, in the Maritimes they have an "X" for a prefix, in Ontario 2000 to 4999, Manitoba up to 5999, Saskatchewan cities the 6000's, Alberta to 7999 and British Columbia to 8999.

Several collectors have expressed a desire to see something about stamp auctions, and information concerning how to bid. Stamp collectors can always add to their collections by purchasing from the many auction houses. These companies usually sell a great deal of material that is not readily available from dealers. These auction lots come from estates, dealers stocks, or collectors disposing of surplus requirements. It is easy to place your bids and you may do so with confidence because most States and Provinces have strict laws governing auctions. The auctioneer is simply the intermediary between the buyer and the seller and if he is to remain in business he must make sure his customers are satisfied, or his next auctions will not attract many bids. With every auction catalogue you will find a bid sheet, all you have to do is complete the sheet with the numbers of the lots you would like and the amounts of the bids. Remember this, consistent low bidding will not get you anywhere, if it is a sale with floor bidders someone will get it there, if not, rest assured that the auctioneer will protect the owner to a certain extent. Be careful, unless your money is unlimited, not to place too many bids that could be successful, you are completing a contract to buy at stated prices.

Some dealers have peculiar ideas about the meaning of "superb", "very fine" and other terms, for high priced items it is better to see the illustrated catalogues. When the auction starts the bidding is started at the second highest bid received or at one bid above the second highest. For example, if a lot number has a bid of $1.00, and the next highest is $2.00, the bidding will start at $1.25, and should the floor bids reach $1.75 then the mail bidder of $2.00 would get it for $1.90, should the floor and mail bids reach the same figure then the mail bidder will get it because his would be a prior bid, but of course the floor bidder could go higher. Try auction buying, try selling your extra scarcer items by this method. You will enjoy it and become a regular buyer I'm sure.

NOTES — Looking over some old copies of stamp columns that appeared in this paper I noted that in the spring of 1958 I suggested that the Coaticook Stamp Club be reorganized into a club called the "Eastern Townships Stamp Club" with headquarters in Sherbrooke. In the fall of 1960 this became a reality. Have you joined the Royal Philatelic Society of Canada — you really should belong, the magazine is good now, the aims are worthy of your support.

Have your car lights adjusted, lessen night driving hazards

The major traffic hazards in Alaska are dog teams, moose and long hours of darkness.

Few Canadian motorists have run into dog teams or moose lately. But darkness certainly is one of their major driving problems, according to the National Safety Council.

Darkness doesn't mean just "pitch blackness." It also includes the "twilight hours" — 4-8 p.m.

Consider these facts: 1. Three times as many motorists and pedestrians lose their lives at night in auto accidents as during the day.

2. Nearly 3 out of 10 auto accidents occur from 4-8 p.m. One out of four fatal auto accidents occurs then, too.

3. In summer months, especially, the succeeding four hours — 8 p.m. to midnight — are almost equally as hazardous as the twilight hours. About 1 out of every 5 auto deaths charged against U.S. motorists occurs then, the Council says.

Why is darkness such a danger? For several reasons, the Council points out.

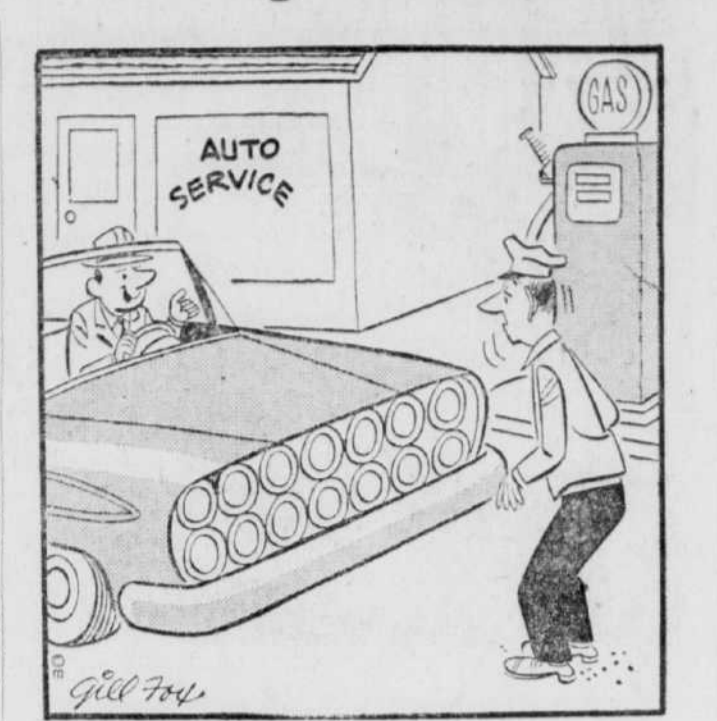

1. Drivers are tired after a hard day. A trip is a pretty tiring ordeal, even when it's not preceded by eight hours of work.

2. Motorists probably are more inclined to doze at the wheel at night. About 1,850 motorists killed in traffic accidents in 1956 were said to have fallen asleep at the wheel. An estimated 270,000 dozing motorists were involved in that year's traffic accidents.

3. It's harder for most motorists to see at night and some of them just don't seem to realize it. Too, headlights of approaching cars make night driving difficult for many persons.

4. At night it's hard to spot hazards ahead — sudden twists in the road, wandering animals, a motorist tinkering with his stalled auto.

5. Perhaps most dangerous of the night-time hazards are improper head-light cleaning before driving.

2. Keep your windshield clean, too. It will help reduce fatigue and eyestrain.

3. Slow down when the sun's down.

4. Dim your lights to approaching cars, even if they don't dim theirs. And dim when following a car.

5. Stop periodically on trips for a break. "It's true that in Canada we don't have dog teams or moose to contend with," the Council says.

"But it still takes a lot of extra effort by motorists to make night driving safe."

Have a complete spring check up and prevent car accidents

In every province in Canada and every state in the United States motorists are being urged to have their automobiles given complete spring check-ups.

Sponsored in Canada by the Canadian Highway Safety Council, and aimed at cutting down the number of mechanically-dangerous vehicles on the streets and roads, the campaign is called "Check Your Car, Check Accidents."

It gets complete co-operation from the automobile dealers and the oil companies. Not that May is a time when service stations or garages need any help to get business; they have all they can handle without a campaign. But they welcome the drive in that it makes the driver of a car aware of the fact that a mechanical fault in his car can kill him and several other people, often without warning.

To keep cars in safe operating condition, the Council asks motorists to have competent mechanics make a thorough check of these 10 points — brakes, front lights, windshield wipers, rear view mirrors, steering, glass, rear lights, exhaust system, tires and horn.

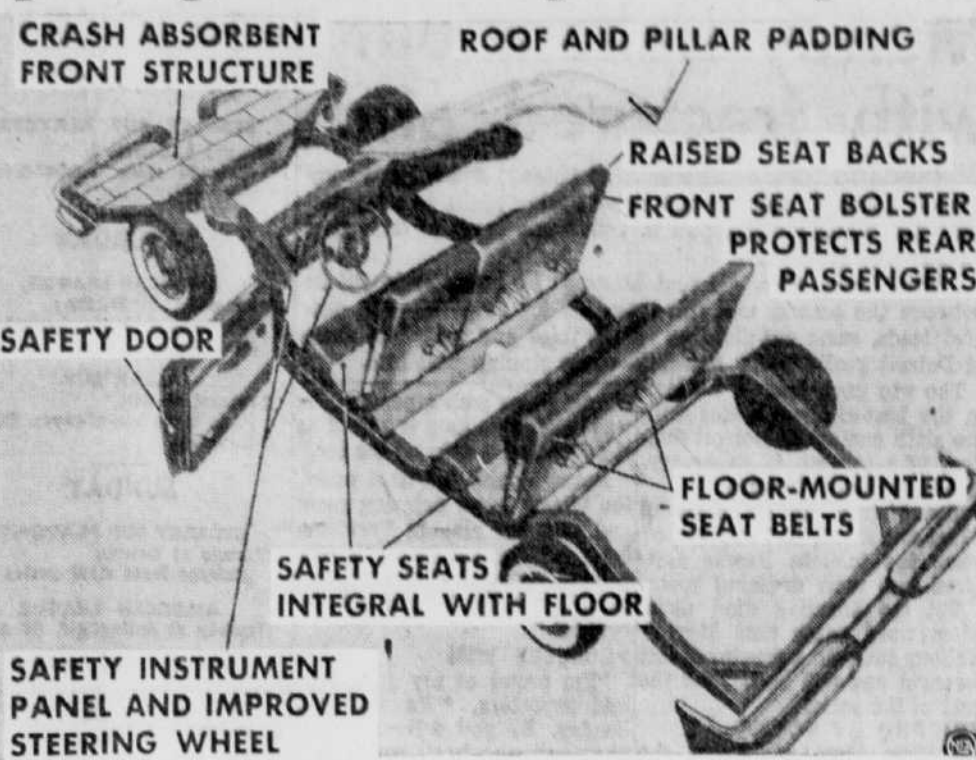

It asks, "Does the brake pedal have excessive travel? Are front and rear lights and all turn signals operating and aimed properly? Do wipers operate satisfactorily and are their blades clean and in good condition? Are rear view mirrors clean and page advertisements and various editorial productions.

Various police forces — city, provincial, RCMP — set up carchecks on the highways. Vehicles are waved to a stop off the shoulder of the road and put through a comprehensive check-up by the police who, in many instances, have special equipment on hand to test the 10-point program.

The switch-over from winter driving, which usually produces a good supply of rattles and creaks in any vehicles, and the enthusiasm of the driver when he sees a dry, smooth road ahead often combine to disguise small defects in the cars. There are many mechanical defects the average driver will not be able to discover by himself, and these can create sudden hazards as the car is moving.

Only a good, complete checkup will show up all defects, including the ones that can bring death on the highway.

Even if every car passed all these safety ideas a spring check up would still be essential.

Tips for warm weather driving

ENGINE STOPS ON A HOT DAY — This is a real baffler. You are driving along at normal highway speed on a really hot day when suddenly, inexplicably, the engine stops and you have to pull off the road. Nothing will make the brute go again, although nothing seems to be wrong.

HERE'S WHAT TO DO — Get a shove from another car. The car needs to burp. It has Put the gear shift in second

Every car even the smallest should have a thorough spring check up.

just had all the heat it can take for a while. If there is nothing apparently amiss, the likely culprit is the fuel pump, which has gagged on a ball of air called a vapor lock. Open the hood and let the engine compartment cool off, preferably in the shade. If in your explorations of the car's interior you have located the fuel pump, pour some cold water on it. This will help it digest its lump of air and allow the gasoline to pass through the pump to the engine. If you can't locate the fuel pump, don't worry about it. A half-hour's cooling out should remedy the situation and the car will be ready to roll as if nothing had happened.

BATTERY DEAD — Will this car never get going? In engine turns the rear wheels has been reversed. The rear wheels were already turning, and by forcing the car's forward motion to turn the engine fast enough for it to "catch" of its own accord. You may do the same thing with the gear in reverse being pushed backward, but it's harder to control a car rolling backward.

With automatic transmissions you can be started in the same way, but the forward momentum has to be at least 25 miles an hour. Put the gear in Neutral until you hit 25, then change to Drive. As a last resort, any of the aforementioned difficulties can be overcome by a push from another car.

RADIATOR BLOWS ITS TOP — Geysers of water and steam cascade from the nose of Old Faithful, frightened you silly. On sweltering days, the engine needs plenty of air to keep cool, and it can't get it while moving slowly in traffic jams. The water in the radiator turns to steam, expands, and blows the cap off.

HERE'S WHAT TO DO — By way of preventive medicine, watch the heat gauge on warm days.

When it starts to climb, and there is no chance to speed up, pull over and turn off the engine. The temperature will still climb a few degrees, but if you caught it soon enough, will soon return to normal.

If the radiator does boil over, lift the hood and pour in more water slowly, taking care not to burn your fingers. The radiator is just like a steam kettle. Pour in the water quickly and it will erupt again. If possible, keep the engine running.

LEN O'DONNELL'S Sport Shots and Pot Shots

PRESIDENT CAMPBELL CRACKS DOWN AGAIN Clarence Campbell, president of the National Hockey League, is certainly throwing his weight around and the boys are beginning to find out that "talk isn't cheap" in the loop especially when you're blasting referees.

Ivan got tagged for $300 and Pilous $200 "for making statements having a prejudicial effect on the league and the game of hockey." As for Reg Fleming and his verbal tirade against Udvary, after the game, President Campbell said nothing would be done. These fines must be paid by Ivan and Pilous personally and without outside assistance.

Ivan claimed Detroit's Howie Glover was in the crease and that Udvary didn't have the guts to call the goal back. That is the statement which cost him the neat sum of $300. This is the second time President Campbell has imposed fines during the playoffs.

The teams go at it again tomorrow night in Detroit and it looks as though it will be another tough one. The first team who registers a victory on their opponents' ice will be in the driver's seat and should emerge the winner.

A meeting of the Quebec Zone Little League will be held tomorrow afternoon in Montreal at the MAAA building. The local circuit will be presented as well as the rest of the loops around the Townships.

We are sorry to hear that Art St. Onge is in the hospital. We understand he is progressing fine and should be out shortly.

Hugh Lehman, who passed away this week in Vancouver, should be well known to older sports in this District. He was manager for Warren Bros., who built the Stanstead-Sherbrooke highway back in 1932.

Amherst Ramblers seem to be having a little trouble with the Galt Terriers and we can well understand the reason why. Too many penalties from certain "High-Stick Artists" on their club.

We told officials of the Amherst club that they would not get very far if they continued to play in that manner as good referees would put the thumb on them but quick. At Galt they ran into Charlie Knox and Dick Munn of Montreal, both these boys officiated in our league and they call them according to the book, and the Ramblers must know now what I meant.

Even Jacques Monette, their playing coach, stated following their third straight setback if his team remained on the ice they could win. In Thursday's tilt, which broke out into the biggest brawl of the season at Galt, the Ramblers drew fifty-five minutes in penalties out of eighty-seven dished out in the second period.

We are of the opinion if we had that kind of refereeing at Amherst the outcome would have been different. We don't make a practice of criticizing work of officials but when things were as obvious as they were at Amherst we can't help but speak our mind. Anyway it is all over now but we suggest the CAHA sends referees from another district to handle such important games.

The Yamaska Conservation Association is holding a special show Wednesday at the Canada Hotel in Waterloo. Junior members are welcome but must be accompanied by a senior member.

We understand that it will be patterned after the fabulous TV show "The Price is Right" and someone will take home some very nice prizes. Three films will be shown thanks to the courtesy of Molson's Brewery. So don't forget Wednesday, April 19, at the Canada Hotel in Waterloo. Come one, come all.

In answer to L. A. Parmelee of Waterloo let me point out the reason why we never carried anything on the Provincial Baseball League is simple. We never received anything from the league nor the clubs who comprise the circuit.

As for your insinuations regarding my personal opinions on the matter we are not in the habit of doing things in the manner you suggest. In the Eastern Townships Intermediate Hockey League, of which we have the honor of being president, the loop gets plenty of publicity for the simple reason the clubs, and league officials, contact the papers throughout the Townships informing them what is going on.

At all league meetings the press is invited and we think if the clubs in the baseball league would appoint someone to contact the papers everything would be simple and the public would get a better idea of what is going on. The clubs have something they wish to sell, and get support from the public, therefore it is up to them to see things are done the proper way.

So Mr. Parmelee why don't you contact your own club and see if they have someone who attends to this matter. The Record has a very good correspondent in Waterloo but we are sure nobody ever took the trouble of getting the news to her in order to get it in the paper.

Soccer Stars Interested In Canadian Clubs VANCOUVER (CP) — The Province says 14 of Britain's best soccer players have expressed a desire to play in Canada.

It says some of them want to play in Canada this summer, the off-season in the United Kingdom, while others would like to settle in this country. Names of the players were not disclosed. At least four top-ranking internationals and several others who have played in Canada with touring clubs are among the players, The Province says.

Hawks Scalp Detroit 6-3; Mikita, Balfour Get Two

Murray Balfour out with fractured arm

CHICAGO (CP) — The doughy Chicago Black Hawks unleashed a terrific third-period drive Friday night to whip Detroit Red Wings 6-3 and pull to within one game of their first Stanley Cup in 23 years.

The Hawks, given "a real blasting" by coach Rudy Pilous between the second and third periods for twice blowing one-goal leads, came out fighting in the third and pelted 24 shots at Detroit goalie Terry Sawchuk—three zipping past him.

The win gave them a 3-2 lead in the best-of-seven series with the sixth contest in Detroit Sunday. If a seventh is necessary, it will be here Tuesday.

The victory set up cries of "Just one more, just one more" when the jubilant Hawks clattered into their dressing room. But the shouting died down when word came that Murray Balfour suffered a fractured left forearm and will be out for the rest of the series.

TRIPPED BY YOUNG Balfour, right winger on the Hawks' No. 1 line with Bobby Hull and Bill (Red) Hay, spilled heavily into the goal post in the third period when thrown off balance after being tripped by Detroit's Howie Young.

Pilous said he "gave 'em hell" before the third period got under way. "I just wanted to find out if this is an honest hockey club or not," he related to reporters after the game.

"They took the criticism like thoroughbreds and came back to win it," added General Manager Stan Mikita, 21, who was Chicago's offensive sparkplug in the third. He scored twice and set up the third by defenceman Pierre Pilote.

Balfour scored in the first and again in the second. Ron Murphy added Chicago's other tally.

Leo LaBine, Howie Glover and Vic Stasiuk scored for Detroit.

FIGHT IN SECOND The 16,666 screaming fans in stuffy Chicago Stadium, saw Detroit defenceman Pete Goegan and Hay trade punches in the second period, each drawing major penalties from referee Frank Udvari. A general melee threatened as players shoved and mauled but the linesmen jumped in to stop the principals.

Pilous fined $200 by President Clarence Campbell of the National Hockey League for a public outcry against Udvari's officiating Wednesday, indicated he wasn't happy with the referee's work Friday night.

But some of his players quickly piped up: "Watch it, Rudy or you'll get fined again."

Pilous remarked sarcastically: "Well, they finally got

Jack Roxburgh of Simcoe. Both clubs have agreed that had penalty infractions been curbed in the first two games, the third-game explosion might never have occurred.

Monette thinks his club can play better. "Sam Gregory and Frank Dorrington, for instance, have been playing pretty well, but they could be better," the coach said.

Terriers, undefeated in a 10-game playoff march to the threshold of the Allan Cup final, have been playing without two regular forwards. But left-winger George Aitken returned in the third game of the series and there is a possibility that captain Butch Martin will play in the fourth game.

Ramblers have been on skates every day since they arrived here seven days ago. They held two practices before the series opened and others Wednesday and Friday, both off days.

"We have skated well in the first period," contends Monette. "But have slowed down in the second and third periods."

Terriers have also come in for some praise from the Maritime coaches. "Their forwards handle the puck well and their defense has played very well, especially Darryl Sly. He starts a lot of their plays."

Should Ramblers force a fifth game, it would be played Monday. The sixth and seventh games, if necessary, are scheduled for Tuesday and Wednesday.

Names New Referees Two new neutral referees have been authorized for the fourth game by CAHA president

Frank Lary's Bid For No-Hitter Is Ruined By Freak Single In Fifth As Tigers Win, Cubs Top Milwaukee 3-2

A fifth-inning single ruined Frank Lary's bid for a no-hitter Friday as he pitched Detroit Tigers to a 7-0 triumph over Chicago White Sox in an American League baseball game.

The only other daylight tilt in the majors Friday saw Chicago Cubs edge Milwaukee Braves 3-2 when Sammy Taylor hit a two-run homer in the ninth on a three-two count with two men out.

Jim Landis got the only Chicago hit off Lary when he bounced a ball to the infield that went off the glove of Detroit shortstop Chico Fernandez. The official scorer ruled it a hit.

Fernandez was forced to go far to his right to make the play. If he had fielded it cleanly it appeared he might have caught Landis at first.

Lary, dazzling the White Sox with an assortment of curves, sliders and fast balls, retired the next 13 batters before walk-

Eight Entered In United Nations Trot YONKERS, N.Y. (AP) — Eight trotters from five nations were invited Friday to start in the $50,000 United Nations Trot at Yonkers Raceway April 20.

Outstanding in the 1 1/2-mile race are the French mare, Marena, winner of the $61,000 Prix de Amerique at Vincennes in February, and Su Mac Lad of the United States, who took the $65,600 Gotham Trot at Yonkers Thursday night.

Marjolaine V also represents France; Lukander E. is the German entry; Tornese, the Italian champion, and Jaroliann will represent Italy; and Tie Slik, who won the 1960 United Nations, is the Canadian entry. The field will be completed by Air Record, an American horse who finished second in the Gotham Trot.

The Tigers supported Lary's pitching before a home crowd with a 15-hit attack and scored their seven runs in the first three innings off loser Frank Baumann and reliever Bob Shaw.

It was the first one-hitter of Lary's seven year major league career.

In Chicago, Taylor's blow gave the managerless Cubs their first victory of the season and it came after Milwaukee apparently had sewed up a 2-1 triumph on solo homers by Frank Bolling and Hank Aaron.

The Taylor heroics came after he entered the game as a pinch-hitter in the seventh and proceeded to throw out three frisky Braves on the bases.

Taylor's decisive blow was a gift of Milwaukee starter Bob Buhl who had gone all the way.

Al Heist spanked a single with two out in the ninth. Then, with the count before a home crowd, Taylor brought the slim opening day crowd of 11,290 to its feet with a blast that just made it into the centerfield bleachers above the 400-foot mark.

Alouettes Sign Stan Wilson As Trainer For '61

MONTREAL — The Montreal Alouettes Football Club have acquired a trainer to replace the late Ernie McKenzie.

Stan Wilson of the University of Minnesota will be the Alouettes trainer in 1961. Stan has been Assistant Trainer at Minnesota since 1951.

Wilson was born on April 25th, 1922, in Redwing, Minnesota. Upon his graduation from Redwing High School, he entered St. Olaf College, in Northfield, Minnesota.

In 1950, Stan was Head Trainer at Southern Illinois University, and in 1951, he joined the training staff at the University of Minnesota.

Stan is not new to Canadian Football, for he worked 5 weeks during the summer of 1955 with the British Columbia Lions. Stan is married, and has 2 boys. He will report to the Alouettes on June 1st.

REMEMBER WHEN... Tommy Farr, rock-jawed batter from Wales, punched out a 12-round decision over Max Baer at London 23 years ago tonight and moved into the forefront of world heavyweight contenders. Defeated later by Joe Louis and Jimmy Braddock, Farr dropped a sizzling 15-round verdict to Baer a year later.

Other top performers awarded trophies were Tony Pacaud, golf; David Bassett, tennis; Peter Watson, men's badminton; Virginia Wayne, women's badminton; Sue Davidson, rifle shooting; and Martha Shearer, skiing.

General proficiency in athletics was also honored at the banquet, with over 80 athletes in 13 separate sports at the University being awarded recognition for their efforts. Major awards were presented to leading members of the four major-sport teams: football, hockey, and men's and women's basketball.

Football major award winners were Wally Denver, Cliff Maclean, Lloyd Reaume, John Milligan, Gerry Peterson, Brock Thomson and Grant Johnston.

In hockey, Ken Underhill, Ed Shane, Dave Bassett, Jim Murray, Grant Johnston and John Milligan took the honors.

Awarded major crests in men's basketball were Mike Caswell, Cliff Maclean, Ted Runions, Murray Smith and Don MacKay, while in women's basketball it was Betty Dennison, Joanne Woodward, Cathy Donald, Judy Dando, Joanne Teaney and Judy Stockwell.

President's Awards for work in organization of the large and complicated athletics program at Bishop's went to Ed Shane, Marnie McCullough and Graden Miller.

This year the men's basketball team won the eastern section title in one of the Ottawa-St. Lawrence Conference, while the football and hockey teams both finished well. The newly organized curling team won the Ottawa-St. Lawrence championship on its first try.

Eastern Townships titles were taken by the women's basketball team, for the sixth straight year, the ski team and the badminton team.

Wally Denver Named Bishop's Top Athlete

A 20-year-old native of Montreal has been named Bishop's outstanding athlete of the year. Wally Denver, a tall senior, was presented with the Students' Executive Council Trophy at the University's annual Awards Banquet Friday night.

Denver also took the McGreer Shield, awarded to the winner of the gruelling five-mile run.

During the year, he participated widely in other sports. He captained the football team in the fall and was a member of the second basketball and badminton teams this winter.

He also was one of the most regular interannual performers in the University, helping the Greens dethrone the Yellows for the title.

Including the pair won by Denver, no less than 13 individual trophies were presented to Bishop's athletes.

The prestigious most valuable player awards went to hard-rock football guard Lloyd Reaume, high scoring hockey centre Ken Underhill, team leader Mike Caswell in men's basketball and talented forward Betty Dennison in women's basketball. Clifford Maclean was named most improved football player.

Other top performers awarded trophies were Tony Pacaud, golf; David Bassett, tennis; Peter Watson, men's badminton; Virginia Wayne, women's badminton; Sue Davidson, rifle shooting; and Martha Shearer, skiing.

Amherst Ramblers Face Tough Task Tonight When They Clash With Galt In Fourth Game Of Series, Down 3-0

GALT, Ont. (CP) — Amherst Ramblers trailing Galt Terriers 3-0 in the Eastern Canada Allan Cup finals, haven't given up yet.

But they admit they'll need a greatly improved brand of hockey to perform the implausible—win four straight on the road.

"We'll need four games of perfect hockey," said playing coach Jacques Monette who has been starting in goal for the Maritime champs.

The Ramblers will get their first comeback chance here tonight when the clubs meet in the fourth game of the best-of-seven series.

The winner will face Western champion Winnipeg Maroons in the Canadian final which will be played in the east.

"We must stay on the ice," says Monette, who stopped 110 shots as his club bowed 5-4, 3-0 and 4-2. In the third game Thursday Ramblers incurred 11 minors, three majors, four 10-minute misconducts and a game misconduct for their part in a wild, rough game.

Most of those penalties were assessed during a tempestuous 23-minute second-period brawl which carried over into the penalty box and involved police. Both teams were warned that a recurrence of such rowdy play could cause expulsion from the playoffs.
