The Beatles Yellow Submarine docks at participating movie theatres across Canada for one night only

Animated movie has been restored by hand and in 4K digital resolution

Portion of proceeds from ticket sales will be donated by EMI to MusiCounts

Cineplex Entertainment, via our Front Row Centre Events and EMI Music has announced Yellow Submarine, the animated feature released in 1968 starring The Beatles, returns to the big screen for one night only on Thursday, May 24, 2012, show times vary by location. Currently out of print, this landmark movie has been restored by hand, frame-by-frame in 4K digital resolution for the first time by Paul Rutan Jr. and his team of specialists at Triage Motion Pictures and Eque Inc.

"Yellow Submarine has been delicately restored, bringing back the rich and vibrant colours it was known for and the legendary music of The Beatles comes to life in 5.1 Dolby digital surround sound," said Pat Marshall, vice-president, Communications and Investor Relations, Cineplex Entertainment. "The Beatles remain one of the biggest bands in music today with generations of fans who will not want to miss this masterful and influential movie that we have brought back to the big screen for one night only."

The Beatles' classic 1968 animated feature film, Yellow Submarine, has been digitally restored for DVD and Blu-ray release on June 5 in North America. The film's repackaged song track album will be reissued on CD on the same date.

About Yellow Submarine

Once upon a time...or maybe twice, there was an unearthly paradise called Pepperland, a place where happiness and music reigned supreme. But all that was threatened when the terrible Blue Meanies declared war and sent in their army led by a menacing Flying Glove to destroy all that was good. Enter John, Paul, George and Ringo to save the day! Armed with little more than their humour, songs, and of course, their yellow submarine, The Beatles tackle the rough seas ahead in an effort to bring down the evil forces of bluedom.

Directed by George Dunning, and written by Lee Minoff, Al Brodax, Jack Mendelsohn and Erich Segal, Yellow Submarine began its voyage to the screen when Brodax, who had previously produced nearly 40 episodes of ABC's animated Beatles TV series, approached The Beatles' manager Brian Epstein with a unique vision for a full-length animated feature.

Yellow Submarine, based upon a song by John Lennon and Paul McCartney, is a fantastic tale brimming with peace, love, and hope, propelled by Beatles songs, including "Eleanor Rigby," "When I'm Sixty-Four," "Lucy in the Sky With Diamonds," "All You Need Is Love," and "It's All Too Much." When the film debuted in 1968, it was instantly recognized as a landmark achievement, revolutionizing a genre by integrating the freestyle approach of the era with innovative animation techniques.

Festival Saint-Zénon-de-Piopolis

An evening with Marie-Josée Lord

Saturday may 26, 2012, 8 p.m. Piopolis Church

Born in Haiti and bred in Lévis, Quebec, Marie-Josée Lord has become one of our own famous voices. Following her professional debut in the fall of 2003, singing Liù in Puccini's "Turandot" at Opéra de Québec, Marie-Josée has since been on the international and local scenes enrapturing music lovers with her spectacular renditions of Julia in "Passionément," Mimi in Puccini's "La Bohème," Laoula in Chabrier's "L'Étoile" and numerous other roles such as Fiordiligi in Mozart's "Cosi fan tutte" in a Canadian tour with the Atelier Lyrique de Montreal.

Marie-Josée Lord is also the recipient of several prizes among them the Prix d'Excellence de la Culture, awarded by the Fondation de l'Opéra de Québec, and was selected to represent Canada at the Cardiff Singer of the World competition.

Known for her irresistible charisma, her generosity and passion for lyric art, Marie-Josée is a favourite guest on radio and television where her bubbling personality wins her many laughs and admiration for her simplicity.

In Piopolis, where she will be performing next Saturday, May 26 in the lovely Piopolis Church, Marie-Josée Lord will interpret music from Verdi and Bizet as well as songs from French popular composers such as Plamondon, Lama and Ferland.

Tickets may be purchased at the door, through our web site at www.festivalpiopolis.ca or by dialing (819)583-3255.

A clown at Cannes: Bill Murray
Clad in a plaid jacket that could have come out of Rodney Dangerfield's wardrobe in "Caddyshack," Bill Murray clashed with traditional Cannes fashion but made the most of the film festival in every other way. Murray has been soaking up the atmosphere on the French Riviera, where he joined other stars for the opening night premiere of Wes Anderson's "Moonrise Kingdom." The 61-year-old actor has been to Cannes before but his attendance is never assured, leaving film publicists to cross their fingers and hope he shows.

'House' to end eight seasons of painful recognition

It will be painful saying goodbye to "House." The Fox medical drama concludes its eight-season run Monday with a series finale at 9 p.m. EDT, preceded by a one-hour retrospective. And with that, Hugh Laurie will be done as the show's abrasive champion, Dr. Gregory House—unless, Laurie adds with a laugh, "someone comes up with an idea for a stage musical."

Hollywood builds tales on famous brands

Hollywood is known for snatching up bestselling books and turning them into big-screen blockbusters: "Twilight," "Harry Potter," "The Hunger Games," "The Help" and countless others. But the adaptations hitting theatres this week didn't need a novel's characters or built-in narrative, just a well-known brand name.

Lee Brice — a talented and good-looking newcomer

Marty Stuart: 'It is that good'

COUNTRY CONNECTION

JESSIE AULIS

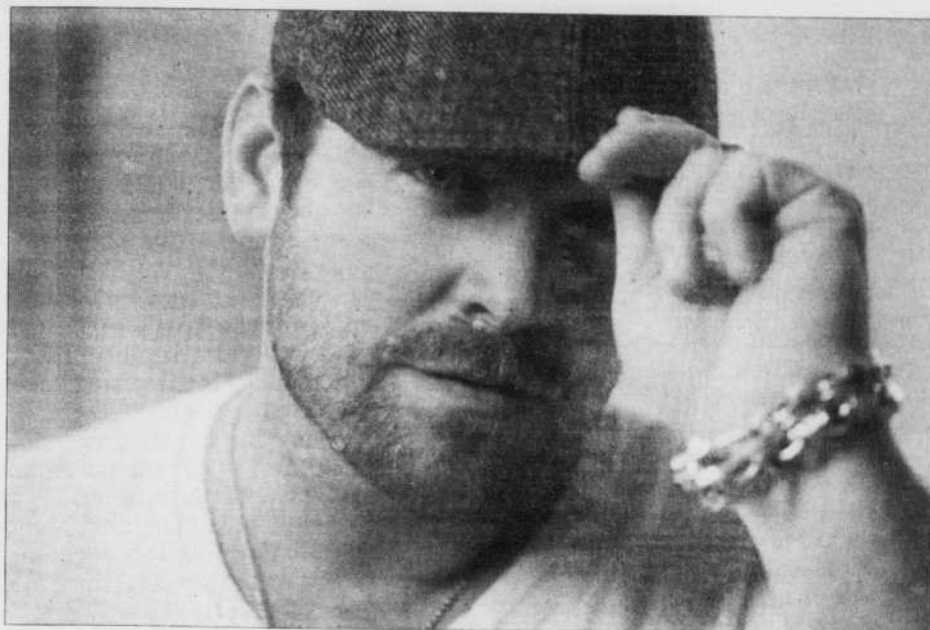

After much success as a hit songwriter for chart toppers such as "More Than a Memory" from Garth Brooks as well as many more from Tim McGraw, Jason Aldean just to name a few, Lee Brice is now focusing on his career as a singer.

South Carolina native Brice is slowly making his mark on Nashville's Music Row. The Billboard charts over the past few years reveals that the 32-year-old artist has become one of the most familiar names in country music.

In 2010, it was his own single, "Love Like Crazy" off his debut album that received the title of radio's Most Played Country Song, and in 2011, it was Eli Young Band's "Crazy Girl," a song he co-wrote that got the same honour.

Now, Brice has released his sophomore album for Curb Records titled Hard 2 Love. It is a 13-song collection that fearlessly showcases what Brice is all about. Mixing a vivid lyrical imagery, ability to craft hook-filled melodies and passionate, raw vocals is the secret. Brice has set the bar high while showing his growth as an artist.

The album features plenty of tunes, some penned by the singer and some by Nashville's finest tunesmiths, including Billy Montana, Jerrod Niemann, Lance

Lee Brice

GOOGLEIMAGES

Miller, John Ozier, Jon Stone, Phil Barton and Eric Church.

Many producers also collaborated to make this album. The team includes Kyle Jacobs, Jon Stone, Doug Johnson and Matt McClure. Brice, who co-wrote eight of the tracks on the album, also serves as a co-producer on the project.

"A Woman Like You," the album's catchy first single, is a great example of why Brice's brand of country music appeals to the fans, male or female. Here Brice describes the merits of bachelorhood, mainly the freedom to go fishing when you feel like it.

Part of those pleasures is also having plenty of time to be a good football fan. But there's another message in the song that we discover, as Brice sings, "If I was a single man alone and out there on the loose / I'd be looking for a woman like you." Sweet enough!

Despite the different tempos and feels, the bluesy "Don't Believe Everything You Think" and the ringing "Life Off My Years" (co-written with Eric Church) both showcase the singer's passionate vocals.

On the title-track "Hard To Love," a beautiful bass line and textured acoustic guitars are used as backup to the song's introspective theme. The lyrics come as a confession when he sings, "I'm hard to love / No, I don't make it easy / I couldn't do it if I stood where you stood."

There's also the stellar, but rather somber, "I Drive Your Truck" about the struggle of dealing with a brother's death. On the other end of the emotional spectrum, "Beer" is about having to wait for a whole week before finally enjoying the weekend. It also offers some great harmonica work. Many of us can relate to that one.

You will also find here a couple of party and friendship anthems such as "Parking Lot Party" and "Friends We Won't Forget."

Bottom line this is a wonderful sophomore album from one of the truly talented newcomers and Lee Brice is certainly making a giant step here. And ladies, he is good-looking as well!

Labbé family fonds, Sherbrooke Historical Society

Sylvio Lacharité became a rising star in the Sherbrooke Symphony Orchestra that he founded with several friends in 1939. His success grew with that of the Orchestra, which he conducted until 1969. His talent garnered him world renown, and he conducted major musical shows on French radio, as well as on Radio-Canada. He is seen here in his youth, accompanied by artist Albert Brusilov.

Videotank #3: Dialogue with Audience

Artist: Joseph Beuys

Opening reception: Saturday, May 19, 2 p.m.-5 p.m.

Exhibition: May 19 to June 30, 2012

As part of the third installment of our new "VideoTank" series, we are proud to present a video documenting a fascinating discussion presented by artist Joseph Beuys on January 7, 1980 at Cooper Union in New York. Dialogue with Audience is a 50-minute video that reveals the multiple facets of Joseph Beuys as an artist, teacher, and activist. It is here that the performance artist shares his own definition of art and of his conception of a social sculpture as a universal work of art – otherwise known as a gesamtkunstwerk. Beuys declares, "The idea that this art and this is not art. I refuse... People who work on the earth hauling potatoes, those who work in education, in medicine, in the sciences, housewives, and so on... this is art, this is also art!" To this day, Beuys is considered as one of the most influential German artists of the second half of the 20th century. His contribution to the social dimension of art, which he explains in this video, has had an immense impact on the history of art.

Joseph Beuys (May 12, 1921 – January 23 1986) was born in Krefeld, Germany and at an early age was recognized by his teachers as having a talent for drawing. In 1941, he began his military training as a radio operator. It was at this time that he seriously began to consider a career as an artist. In March 1944, the plane of Beuys was shot down on the Crimean Front and crashed near Znamianka. Beuys subsequent recount of this event has become one of the most controversial parts of his artistic persona. Beuys claims to have been rescued by a tribe of nomadic Tatar tribesmen who healed his severe wounds by wrapping his body in animal grease and felt. This powerful myth greatly informed his identity as an artist. It was during the 60s and 70s that Beuys began to become more and more active in German politics. He was consistently influenced by social and philosophic ideas. His extensive body of work consisted of four major areas of discipline: The visual arts, performance art, teaching, and social and political activities. One of his most well-known performances is "I like America and America likes me." Performed in 1974 at the René Block Gallery in New York, Beuys shared the gallery space with a wild coyote for eight hours over three days. At the end of the three days, the coyote had become tolerant of Beuys' presence. Over the course of his life, Beuys participated in the Fluxus group, and was selected to present his work as part of "Documenta" in the 60s and 70s, the "Venice Biennale" (1975), the "Paris Biennale" (1971), at the "Solomon R. Guggenheim Museum" (1979), and many other international institutions. Joseph Beuys died on January 23, 1986 at the age of 64.

Opening Reception of the group exhibition: 'Alluring Things'

Saturday, May 19, 2 p.m. to 4 p.m.

Curatorial Talk at 2:30 p.m.

Exhibition: May 19 – June 30, 2012

We are proud to present to the public our newest exhibition "Alluring Things," realized in collaboration with guest curator, Gentiane Bélanger. This exhibition examines the role played by material culture in our comprehension of nature. For the artists presented here, ecological responsibility involves a respect for objects, an attraction to their materiality, and recognition of their influence on our actions.

Whimsical rather than moralizing, the Canadian artists of this exhibition, Bill Burns, T&T, BGL, and Daniel Corbeil take well-trodden material paths to prompt alternate perspectives on nature. The works on display draw materialism out of its usual alienating connotation to turn it into a relational vector between the natural element and the production of cultural objects.

Artists:

BGL (Quebec, QC). The collective BGL was established in 1996 by Québécois artists: Jasmin Bilodeau, Sébastien Giguère and Nicolas Laverdière. Their art works often feature an ambivalent viewpoint regarding mass consumption: they are at once critical of societal patterns of consumption and fascinated by the abundant availability of materials, especially recyclable ones; Bill Burns (Toronto, ON) Burns now lives and works essentially in Toronto (Canada) and London (England). He is known for his "Safety Gear for Small Animals" (SGSA) which was first shown at 303 Gallery in New York in 1994 and later at the Museum of Modern Art in New York in 2005-2006 and at the Institute of Contemporary Arts in London in 2008; Daniel Corbeil (Montréal, QC) Native to the Abitibi-Témiscamingue region, Daniel Corbeil lives and works in Montréal. Corbeil is a teacher at the Cégep du Vieux-Montréal, and has been exhibiting professionally since 1989. He is well-known for his do-it-yourself approach to art-making and his use of ecosystematic models to test simulations of climatic variations; T&T (Toronto, ON) is a ten-year collaboration between two Canadian artists: Tony Romano and Tyler Brett. Their common artistic mediums are drawing and building models where they propose to find balance in ecological and social ways via the social reorganization of post-disaster environments.

Free entrance: Tuesday to Saturday, from noon to 5 p.m. (and all evenings of presentation at Centennial Theatre). Musical History Night (Part 2)

The History of big bands and country western in the Sherbrooke area before 1950

The Lennoxville-Ascot Historical and Museum Society (LAHMS) is very pleased to invite you to the second installment of, "Musical History Night."

Join us on May 21, 2012 at 7 p.m., at St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church (256 Queen St. Lennoxville). We will be exploring the history of big bands and country western music in the Sherbrooke area before 1950. Our speakers for this event are both local musicians and authorities on their respective subjects.

George Beaulieu will present the history of his father's Sherbrooke-based band, Les Beaulieu's Big Band. We will also be presenting an interview with Bruce Patton and Stewart Deacon discussing the history of country western and big bands in the area.

As we did during the first meeting, we will have a few musicians play some songs to highlight the topic at hand. We hope that you will be among us! Everyone is welcome! Admission is free.

For more information, contact us at LAHMS: (819)564-0409 or by e-mail at lahms@uplands.ca.

Opening hours: The Lennoxville-Ascot Historical and Museum Society is open Wednesday through Sunday from 1 to 4:30 p.m. at 9 Speid Street in the Borough of Lennoxville (Sherbrooke).

Donna Summer, Queen of Disco, dies at 63

By Mesfin Fekadu
THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Disco queen Donna Summer, whose pulsing anthems such as "Last Dance," "Love to Love You Baby" and "Bad Girl" became the soundtrack for a glittery age of sex, drugs, dance and flashy clothes, has died. She was 63.

Her family released a statement, saying Summer died Thursday morning and that they "are at peace celebrating her extraordinary life and her continued legacy."

"Words truly can't express how much we appreciate your prayers and love for our family at this sensitive time," the statement read. She had been living in Englewood, Fla., with her husband Bruce Sudano.

The family did not disclose the cause of death.

Summer came to prominence just as disco was burgeoning, and came to define the era with a string of No. 1 hits and her beauty queen looks.

Disco became as much defined by her sultry, sexual vocals — her bedroom moans and sighs — as the relentless, pulsing rhythms of the music itself.

"Love to Love You Baby," with its erotic moans, was her first hit and one of the most scandalous songs of the polyester-and-platform-heel era.

Unlike some other stars of disco who faded as the music became less popular, Summer was able to grow beyond it and later segued to a pop-rock sound. She had one of her biggest hits in the 1980s with "She Works Hard For The Money," which became another anthem, this time for women's rights.

Soon after, Summer became a born-again Christian and faced controversy when she was accused of making anti-gay comments in relation to the AIDS epidemic. Summer denied making the comments, but was the target of a boycott.

Still, even as disco went out of fashion she remained a fixture in dance clubs, endlessly sampled and remixed into contemporary dance hits.

Summer, real name LaDonna Adrian Gaines, was born in 1948 in Boston. She was raised on gospel music and became the soloist in her church choir by age 10.

"Love to Love You Baby" was her US chart debut and the first of 19 No. 1 dance hits between 1975 and 2008 — second only to Madonna.

During the disco era she burned up the charts: She was the only artist to have three consecutive double-LPs hit No. 1, "Live and More," "Bad Girls" and "On the Radio." She was also the first female artist with four No. 1 singles in a 13-month period, according to the Rock Hall of Fame, where she was a nominee this year.

She was never comfortable with the "Disco Queen" label. Musically, she began to change in 1979 with "Hot Stuff," which had a tough, rock 'n' roll beat. Her diverse sound helped her earn Grammy Awards in the dance, rock, R&B and inspirational categories.

Dionne Warwick said in a statement that she was sad to lose a great performer and "dear friend."

"My heart goes out to her husband and her children," Warwick said. "Prayers will be said to keep them strong."

Summer released her last album, "Crayons," in 2008. It was her first full studio album in 17 years. She also performed on "American Idol" that year with its top female contestants.

Country Connection

Marty Stuart — An amazing new album!

Grammy-winner and music icon Marty Stuart has released his third album for Sugar Hill Records entitled Nashville, Volume 1: Tear The Woodpile Down. The ten-song collection, mostly written by Stuart, features his touring band The Fabulous Superlatives. Nashville staples Buck Trent, Kenny Lovelace, and Robbie Turner are joined by country music royalty Hank Williams III (Hank3) and Lorrie Carter Bennett (The Carter Family) on harmony vocals to complete the lineup.

Marty Stuart is a living connection to the heart and soul of real country music. Everything about Stuart is authentic, from his voice to the songs he writes, to his musicianship. All his new material fits flawlessly with the other masterpiece albums that have made the history.

Indeed, it is that good. It has been said that these days in Nashville the most outlaw thing that can be done is to play real traditional country music. Well, Stuart has done it and Waylon Jennings must be very proud while Haggard surely has a big grin on his face.

The new album is a logical follow-up to 2010's Ghost Train, and a nice addition to a string of albums, starting with 1999's thematic The Pilgrim, that's included country, bluegrass and honky-tonk.

Stuart arrived in Nashville in 1972 and he was barely 13, when he started touring with different singers. One of them was Johnny Cash. Because of his vast experience, his knowledge and understanding of real country music is incredible.

The desire to be part of that world that was driving him when he first came to Nashville is still evident through the title track but also through the whole project. There are originals and a few covers but the thing is that you can feel his passion for country music throughout the entire collection.

There's "A Matter of Time" about the loss of a muse, and a solo cover of Porter Wagoner and Dolly Parton's "Holding on to Nothing," about a disenchanted singer letting go of his music dream.

The album closes on a somber note with Stuart and Hank III joining together for Hank Sr.'s "Picture from Life's Other Side," simply a great pleasure it is to listen to.

When it comes to his career and the country music scene, Marty Stuart has gathered the knowledge of an historian. As he writes in his fabulous liner notes, "Today, the most outlaw thing you can possibly do in Nashville, Tennessee is play country music." The marketing suits on music row may not care, but playing country music is just what Marty Stuart and His Fabulous Superlatives do to perfection. A must-own for traditional country music fans!

Taylor Swift gives $4M to Country Music Hall of Fame for children's education centre

By Chris Talbott
THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Taylor Swift has taught a generation of kids to appreciate country music over the last five years. Now, she's donating $4 million to the Country Music Hall of Fame and Museum to make sure that education continues.

The gift is the largest given to the museum by an artist and is the second largest from an individual, officials said. It will fund the Taylor Swift Education Center, an exhibit and classroom space scheduled to open in 2014.

"In terms of what it will allow us to do, we do education very well now," museum director Kyle Young said. "It will allow us to do what we do better, serve more people, develop new programs and I'm happy to say that as we talked through this opportunity with Taylor, she very much wants to be involved in an advisory capacity in what we do. Is there a better person out there who's in touch with a young audience? I think not. I was joking we should be paying her to do that. I was only joking."

The new education centre is part of the museum's $75 million "Working on a Building" expansion project that will increase the space more than 200,000 square feet to 350,000. The expansion is part of the new convention centre project in downtown Nashville and will include a new concert theatre, more room for exhibits and archives, and a shared entrance with a new hotel.

Swift's education centre will have its own exterior entrance and is 7,500 square feet-plus spread over two stories. It will include three classrooms and exhibit space and will allow the museum to add to its youth education programs. The new space will house interactive activities such as a musical petting zoo and a "wet" classroom space to make concert posters and other art projects. The expansion also would allow the

Luke Kirby lands in The Samaritan

Canadian actor co-stars with Samuel L. Jackson

Opens in Toronto, Vancouver and Montreal on May 18

By Bob Thompson
Postmedia News

Former Toronto actor Luke Kirby has never hustled anybody in his life (or so he says). But you'd never know it from his convincing flim-flam man in The Samaritan.

"I would never give away the game, even if I had," says the 33-year-old from his Brooklyn, N. Y. home.

Kirby's joking, of course, but he adds as a tease: "Once you get inside the head of a con man, you can never go back, anyway."

Opening May 18 in Toronto and Vancouver, The Samaritan stars Samuel L. Jackson as Foley, a former grifter who gets released from prison only to be tricked back into the swindler's life again by Ethan (Kirby), the sociopath son of his former partner.

At first, Foley, just out of jail, figures he's going on the straight and narrow when he meets Iris (Ruth Negga), and he has visions of settling down. That's when the conniving Ethan shows up, and offers him a deal he can't refuse.

Together, they set up the good Samaritan con on a crooked businessman (Tom Wilkinson) who is as smart as he is vengeful, but he's a mark ready to fall for somebody pretending to be his friend.

The score is $8 million, but Foley finds out the scam is way more complicated, and a lot more dangerous, than he first imagined it would be.

"I was so perplexed and disturbed by Ethan when I first read the script, because I couldn't grasp what his motive would be," says Kirby of his role. "Then I realized he's dealing with a great deal of loss, and not coping very well with having things taken away from him."

With his character backstory in order,

Kirby says that he next faced the daunting task of acting opposite Jackson, one of his acting heroes from Jungle Fever and Pulp Fiction.

"I mean he is so iconic, and he is etched in my memory as one of the main actors in so many films I hold in high regard," says Kirby.

Once they were face-to-face on the Toronto set of The Samaritan, the young actor got over his fan worship fast enough with assistance from the easy-going Jackson.

"When we got on the floor together he was playful and fun, but always ready to go."

Kirby even enjoyed the fact that his Ethan had to be aggressive with Jackson's Foley in some of the scenes. "Every day I would walk away from the set with a big smile on my face, grinning at the absurdity of it all," he says.

Kirby also has praise for Toronto-based Samaritan director David Weaver.

"He really made a textured film that's hard boiled but it doesn't get lost in its own darkness."

He thinks The Samaritan falls into the same category as 1990's The Grifters museum to start new programs and workshops and for teens and senior citizens as well as continuing workshops.

The 22-year-old singer-songwriter is country music's top-selling artist and current ambassador to the world. The six-time Grammy winner is a two-time winner of both the Country Music Association and Academy of Country Music entertainer of the year awards and has taken the genre to Asia, Europe and Australia as well as the top of the US pop charts.

She has a long history with the museum. One of her first public performances was on the building's plaza. She signed her record contract there. And she has donated her time to the museum's "All For The Hall" fundraisers.

"For Taylor to want to engage herself in the life of this place in such an appropriate way ... every way you slice it and dice it, it's great for this place," Young said.

and the 1981 remake, Body Heat. "Those were the movies, and the sub-genre, I was referencing for the movie," he says.

Born in Hamilton, Ont. Kirby studied drama at Montreal's National Theatre School of Canada, and shortly after graduating in 2000, he co-starred in the CBS miniseries Haven and the films, Lost and Delirious, and Halloween: Resurrection.

Based in Toronto, he continued to act in local plays, TV shows and movies. His Mambo Italiano role in 2003 won him a Canadian Comedy Award nomination. He co-starred in 2003's Shattered Glass with Hayden Christensen, and in 2007 he was part of the cast in All Hat with Rachel Leigh Cook and Keith Carradine.

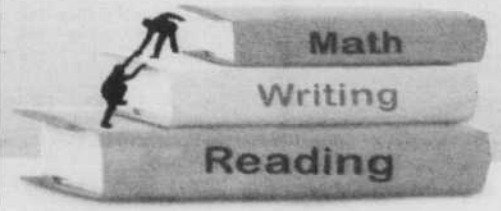

He also starred in the Canadian-produced series Cra$h & Burn in 2009-2010.

Last year, he was part of the ensemble for Sarah Polley's Take This Waltz with Michelle Williams, Seth Rogen and Sarah Silverman. The movie had its premiere at last year's Toronto International Film Festival, and will open theatrically in New York, Los Angeles and Toronto June 29.

"I am really proud of that film, too," Kirby says.

Other than that, he's biding his time, waiting for his next job.

"I'm looking around, prospecting for work, and getting ready to enjoy the summer."
