FRANCE SEEKS TO PREVENT GREAT BRITAIN "FROM GOING WHOLE WAY"

French Premier Intends to Exert All Possible Pressure at League Session to Keep Military Measures Against Italy for Activities in Ethiopia Mild—Official Quarters "Bothered" at Idea of Being Bound to Support Great Britain—League Avoids Italian Trap to Delay Discussion.

Paris, October 8.—Premier Laval was officially described today as anxiously seeking to keep Great Britain from "going the whole way" in sanctions against Italy.

French sources said official quarters found themselves "bothered" at the idea that they would be bound to support Great Britain if that country, in the event of carrying out possible League of Nations orders for military sanctions against Italy, were attacked.

"We are counting on England's prudence," one official said.

It was announced that Laval will represent France on the League's co-ordination committee in which representatives of the Council and Assembly will consider sanctions against Italy for its measures in Ethiopia. The Premier, it was said, intended to exert all possible pressure to keep the measures mild.

AVOID ITALIAN PLOT TO DELAY STUDY OF REPORT

Geneva, October 8.—Italy does not now propose to make a statement to the Council of the League of Nations.

When the report of the committee finding the Italian Government guilty of resort to war in defiance of the Covenant of the League was submitted last night, Pompeo Aloisi, the Italian delegate, requested adjournment that he might consult his Government to make a statement.

Adjournment was ruled out with the understanding Aloisi could make a statement later.

This morning Aloisi wrote the chairman of the Council stating that in view of the Council's decision there was now no purpose in making a statement. At the same time Aloisi in behalf of the Italian Government expressed full reserve on the decision and regrets "that methods in clear contradiction to the most elementary rules of procedure were adopted by the Council for the first time with respect to my country."

The issue now lies with the League Assembly.

President Edouard Benes arrived this morning and began talks on the procedure of tomorrow's historic meeting. Anthony Eden, British Minister to the League, and Pierre Laval, Premier of France, lunched together and discussed the situation.

Delegates who left Geneva ten days ago hurriedly returned.

The same report adopted by the Council yesterday will be before the Assembly with a record on the Council's decisions. Taken together they mean declaration that the Italian Government is a covenant-breaker. Members of the League who approve of them in effect bind themselves to apply sanctions. The nature of the sanctions and their date of application will be considered by a co-ordinating committee representing both the Council and the Assembly. French and British financial and commercial experts are already in consultation.

And tomorrow the League faces its real test. Never before has it applied sanctions against a first class power. Will the fifty-four nations represented in the Assembly declare their readiness to apply sanctions or will there be wavering? Will sanctions imposed be effective or will they put sufficient pressure on Mussolini to make him ready to restore peace? These are questions everybody is asking, but nobody knows.

MUSSOLINI WARNS YOUTH OF SERIOUS TIMES AHEAD

Rome, Oct. 8.—Italy's Fascist Youth fighting organization was told today by Premier Benito Mussolini to prepare for all emergencies.

"Temper well your daggers," he told thousands of young men and boys as they massed in the Piazza Venezia and acclaimed him. "The day will come when you will have to use them."

BRITISH GOVERNMENT TO APPROVE FRENCH STAND

London, Oct. 8.—France's conditional assurance of naval support to Great Britain in case of an "isolated attack" was the subject of comment in the morning's press.

Newspapers declared the Government may approve the French reply as far as it goes—and may delay final determination until settlement of the pending questions.

THE WEATHER

PARTLY CLOUDY AND MILD.

Pressure is high from the Great Lakes eastward and over the eastern states with a deep low area centered over Hudson Straits. A depression, developing in southern Saskatchewan, is moving southeastward, while high pressure with unsettled and colder weather is extending over the Western Provinces from the north. Rain has occurred in Nova Scotia and Cape Breton though in other districts of eastern Canada the weather has been fair.

Forecast: Moderate southwest winds; fine and somewhat milder. Wednesday—moderate to fresh southwest winds; partly cloudy and comparatively mild.

Temperatures yesterday: Maximum, 51; minimum, 20. Same day last year: Maximum, 30; minimum, 42.

ETHIOPIA BREAKS OFF DIPLOMATIC RELATIONS WITH ITALY

Addis Ababa, Oct. 8.—The Ethiopian Government today ordered return of their passports to the Italian Minister and his staff thereby breaking off diplomatic relations with the Rome Government.

FRANCE DEMANDS LEAGUE JUSTIFY ITS EXISTENCE

Paris, Oct. 8.—France looked to the League of Nations to vindicate its existence today by showing the ability to reach a reasonable settlement of the Italo-Ethiopian conflict.

Informed quarters saw in the League Council's condemnation of Italy as the aggressor nation an enhancement of the international body's prestige, but admitted the League's path was hedged with perils.

The French Government awaited a reply from the British Foreign Secretary to the assurance France would give assistance to Great Britain if such aid would be returned by the British.

ROD-AND-LINE RESCUE

Leeds, England, Oct. 8.—Harold Jennings saw a girl fighting in the Leeds and Liverpool Canal near here. With a cast of his rod he drew her to the side and hauled her on the bank. She was unconscious but responded to first aid.

The Right Honourable Richard Bedford Bennett, Conservative Leader, who addressed a large gathering in Quebec City last night and who hopes to lead his party to victory on the 14th day of October.

ADDRESS IS GIVEN AT TORONTO

Beverly Baxter, a Toronto man who occupied a very high place in British journalism, delivered an address to the Women's Press Club in Toronto.

Declaring his patriotism for Canada, the country of his birth, Mr. Baxter added:

"I do deplore that in Canada where there is so much that is magnificent and democratic, there is a lack of respect for your men in public life. It has been going on too long. At a trying time it is right to look to the Government for leadership, yet so long as you discredit your public men you can have no faith in politics."

"It may be improper for me to express an opinion, but I was reading the report of Mr. Bennett's speech, given last night, and the interruptions were crude and foolish. I have been told that his only desire is to be re-elected so he can see that his riches are not taken from him."

"Such rot! Stupid rot! I saw Mr. Bennett in London four months ago. He appeared a dying man. I said to him: 'I want to see Canada as a Canadian I want to see Canada come to that civilization where the men in public life is honored.' In England public life is the aim of men. It is an honor."

FIRST STAGE OF CAMPAIGN ENDS AS ITALIANS CAPTURE HOLY CITY

London Hears Italy Has Occupied Aksum, Once Capital of Ethiopian Kingdom—Large Number of Foreigners Reported Evacuating Addis Ababa—Mussolini Warns Italian Youth to Be Prepared for All Emergencies—Ethiopian Troops Massing in Readiness for First Major Engagement.

London, Oct. 8.—Italian forces captured the Ethiopian Holy City of Aksum today, the Reuters News Agency correspondent at Addis Ababa reported, virtually completing the first stage of their campaign in the north.

With the fall of the Holy City, once capital of an Ethiopian kingdom, the Reuters correspondent said the Fascist columns established a line about seventy miles long on the northern front, extending from Adiragat to Aksum by way of Adawa.

Another Reuters dispatch said a special train left Addis Ababa for Djibouti, French Somaliland, with forty native members of the staff of the Italian legation and the consul from Debra Markos.

Other passengers were reported to include twenty Americans, twenty Germans, thirty-seven Egyptians and a number of French, Greeks and Armenians, among whom were many women and children.

A sudden panic broke out in the foreign colony late last night, the news agency reported, when more than one hundred and twenty foreigners besieged the railroad station and tried to book places on the train.

"Addis Ababa will soon be bombarded," the Reuters correspondent said, was the fear which sent the foreigners racing to the station.

SEVERE IN CRITICISM OF LEAGUE OF NATIONS

London, Oct. 8.—"What if bombs fell on Geneva?" inquired the Daily Mirror today in an editorial attacking "The League of Nations."

"We believe a decapitated League Council with heads blown off by bombs would, before expiring, give orders to hold a commission to see if there are any heads on the floor in Geneva," the Mirror said.

DROP INVESTIGATION INTO THE CAUSE OF LINER FIRE

Suspicion of Incendiarism in Blaze which Wrecked Sixteen Million Dollar French Liner Atlantic with Loss of Seventeen Lives Unsupported.

Bordeaux, France, Oct. 8.—An investigation of the possibility of incendiarism in the fire which wrecked the $16,000,000 French luxury liner Atlantic nearly two years ago was dropped yesterday when a magistrate reported failure to find anything to support the suspicion.

The 40,000-ton Atlantic burned mysteriously in the English channel in January, 1933, with a loss of seventeen lives. Since then its hull has been lying in drydock at Cherbourg, while the insurance companies and the owners fought to get rid of it. Insurance companies have appealed from a decision of the Paris Commercial Court that the vessel is a total loss.

PARTY LEADERS DOUBLE EFFORTS AS CAMPAIGN ENTERS LAST STAGE

Prime Minister Convinced Scheme of Voluntary Retirement of Workers at Sixty Should Be Adopted to Increase Economic Stability—Mackenzie King Declares Senate Would Block Any Reforms Introduced by C.C.F. or Reconstruction Groups.

ANGLO-FRENCH ALLIANCE WITH RUSSIA URGED

President of Society for Cultural Relations Sees Revival of Old Alliance as Greatest Chance for Maintaining European Peace.

London, Oct. 8.—"The greatest guarantee for peace in the world in face of the present grave international situation would be an alliance between England, France and Russia," claims Lascelles Abercrombie, president of the society for Cultural Relations in an article for The Association of his paper.

"If America would join too, then the world would be safe. 'I do not know what Americans would feel about joining a small group of which Russia was a member. But I think that the fear of Communism is dying down now that Russia has come into the League. After all, she cannot be kept out of the community of nations.'"

"I am convinced that if America would bring her force into the League and all it implies, the world would be safe both for her and for Europe."

"The gravity of the situation cannot be overestimated. 'Mussolini knows only too well that the very existence of the Fascist regime is at stake, and he will go to any lengths to preserve it.'"

"Stability of his regime is one of the two chief causes, therefore, of his determination to seize Abyssinia. Conditions in Italy are not what they might be. The rule of the 'Fascists' is becoming most unsatisfactory to the Italian people. Something must be done to keep the flame burning."

"Italy's 'yes' men, hitherto blind followers of their dictator, are flagging in enthusiasm. They have had to be stimulated. Mussolini has found two very effective stimuli."

"He has offered them Italy beyond the seas and at the same time encouraged in them the belief that Britain is the arch-enemy obstructing the path to it."

"The second chief factor underlying Italian designs on Abyssinia is the belief current in Italy that while England and France are busy in a change of the name of the Conservative party to the Bennett party, People were being asked to 'vote Bennett,' not 'vote Conservative.'"

This was following the European fashion where the leader was everything, where the people and the party were nothing, where men were shot because they refused to obey the leader."

"About half the population of Canada has as much freedom as the serfs had in Russia," exclaimed the reconstruction leader Stevens at Dunsmuir, Ont. He directed verbal fire on great corporations which he charged with beating down farmers' prices, banks, which he said restricted credit and note issue; and huge department stores to whom he attributed destructive mass buying.

"What is Britain's position in face of this threat? Can Britain bear the thought of a Soviet Italy in the not distant future?"

STORMY SCENES AT NOMINATIONS FOR THREE E. T. CONSTITUENCIES

Stanstead County Nomination Meeting at Ayer's Cliff Broke Up by Activities of Group of Rowdies—Provincial Party Members Object of Attacks by Crowds at Sherbrooke and Cookshire—Richmond-Wolfe Offers Greatest Puzzle of E. T. Ridings with Four Candidates.

It was far from quiet on the Eastern Townships federal election front yesterday afternoon. In some halliwicks in this district the meetings which followed the official nomination of candidates for next Monday's election proved quiet and peaceful, but in other ridings the usual decorum was completely shattered, turbulent gangs breaking up the gatherings without permitting the scheduled speakers to deliver their addresses.

In accordance with the old custom that now only exists in the Province of Quebec, contradictory meetings are held at which the candidates and their supporters are afforded the opportunity of presenting their views on the questions of the day. As usual feelings ran high yesterday and at Sherbrooke, Ayer's Cliff and Cookshire some of the speakers ran into such disfavor with the assembly that they found it impossible to make themselves heard even with the intervention of higher authorities.

Locally, Emery H. Fortier, M.L.A. for the County, proved the target for the boos and shoos of the crowd that jammed the City Hall. In Ayer's Cliff the meeting was unmanageable and soon got out of the control of the chairman, while at Cookshire platform supporters of the Liberal candidate, J. A. Blanchette, were only enabled to air their opinions through the intervention of the Conservative nominee, Hon. Sam Cobell, Postmaster-General.

Richmond-Wolfe and Megantic-Frontenac provided last-minute surprises as far as new candidates were concerned. In the former county Marcel Bedard, of Asbestos, presented himself as an Independent Liberal, making a four-cornered battle in this riding. Bedard is running against Dr. F. J. Lafleche, M. P., Conservative candidate, and J. P. Mullins, of Bromontville, official Liberal, and Phylippe Brodeur, of Asbestos, a Reconstructionist, trails along.

Conservatives in Megantic-Frontenac entered a candidate of their own at the last minute yesterday, J. E. O. Bellevue carrying the Government standard against the former Liberal member, Eusebe Roberge, and Joseph Beaudoin, who is running on the Reconstruction ticket. Nobody knows Bellevue or Beaudoin.

Other Eastern Townships ridings providing triangular contests are Drummond-Arthabaska where the candidates are: Roland Provencier, Conservative, W. Girouard, Liberal, and Elie Laumiere, Reconstructionist; and Stanstead-Bellefleur, where the candidates are: J. A. Blanchette, K.C., Conservative, last member for the County is opposed by R. G. Davidson, Liberal, and J. B. Reed, Reconstructionist.

Sherbrooke will have the traditional contest between representatives of the three major parties, there being no frank party candidates nominated here. Charles B. Howard is again seeking election on the Liberal ticket, with Dr. W. W. Lynch carrying the Conservative colors, and Sam Cobell, the Reconstructionist.

Brome-Missisquoi is a straight battle between the popular farmer-doctor, Dr. F. H. Pickel, the ex-Conservative member, and Louis A. Gosselin, a Montreal lawyer seeking the Liberal franchise.

Postmaster-General, is again running in Compton, opposed by J. A. Blanchette, Liberal.

Shefford finds both the old parties represented by newcomers, Sylvia Lebrun, of Waterloo, replacing Dr. F. H. Pickel, and J. B. Tremblay, as the Government representative, with J. H. Leclerc, of Granby, running as a Liberal.

Yesterday's nomination meeting locally was the liveliest in many years. The City Hall auditorium, scene of many a lively gathering in years past, was more than crowded. Both sides were represented by their share of enthusiastic followers, but even greater numbers were independent voters interested only in hearing the issues of the day discussed.

The first sign of trouble became apparent when Mr. Fortier entered the hall following the official nomination. He was greeted with the most efficient combination of boos, shoos and catcalls that it has been the privilege of local citizens to hear in many years. Upon his disappearance into the ante-room of the platform, the disturbance subsided, only to be resumed with even greater vigor when he arose to speak on behalf of Mr. Howard.

Mayor Bradley, presiding over the joint meeting, called on the audience to give the gentleman a hearing, only to be met with cries of "We'll give him a hearing, outside that willow with a rope round his neck." "Throw him in the river" and "We hope to choke."

This only served to raise the ire of the Chief Magistrate, who threatened to re-inforce the police detachment in the hall and have all the talkers ejected on "It is only fair that members of parliament who are sacrificing their time for the people should be given a courteous hearing when they come here to state their case. If anyone interferes, out they go!"

From then on a certain semblance of order prevailed, although interruptions and questioning by individuals were frequent, and although a general feeling of disgust ran through the audience as one speaker indulged in a bit of willful slander and the audience showed their dislike of such tactics.

The value of the Empire Trade Agreements signed at Ottawa and the tariff policies of the Government provided the main topics for the remainder of the debate.

party was called for today to review the question of its attitude on sanctions against Italy, a point on which the party previously had overwhelmingly agreed.

UNITED STATES MINISTER MEETS BRITISH OFFICIAL

London, October 8.—Sir Samuel Hoare, the Foreign Secretary, today received Ambassador Robert W. Bingham of the United States.

An authoritative source said that while no official information was available on the subject of their conversation, it could be assumed that the British Government would inform Bingham of the line of action Great Britain would adopt in League consideration of the Italo-Ethiopian situation.

It was said to be British policy to keep the United States constantly advised of the British viewpoint.

Authoritative quarters most emphatically stated that Great Britain was not making any unilateral approach to the United States to determine the attitude of the United States in connection with possible League sanctions against Italy.

These quarters categorically stated such an approach, when and if made, would be done by the League directly and that there would be no question of Great Britain acting for the League on the matter or carrying on negotiations outside the League.

ITALIAN MINISTER ASKED TO DEPART FROM ETHIOPIA

Geneva, Oct. 8.—The League of Nations was informed today that the Ethiopian Government has asked the Italian Minister to Addis Ababa and his entire staff to leave Ethiopia immediately.

LEAGUE STUDIES DETAILS OF PROPOSED SANCTIONS

Geneva, Oct. 8.—The problem of just what sanctions should be applied against Italy and how to put them into effect confronted the League of Nations Council today after its dramatic indictment of Il Duce's Government as an instigator of unjustified war.

"Will Mussolini weaken under the weight of world opinion, as expressed in the Council's unanimous action?" was the question asked widely in League corridors.

Without waiting for the answer, League statesmen went ahead with plans to co-ordinate the complicated network of sanctions made compulsory by the Council verdict. With them they will attempt to entangle and paralyze the mechanism of Mussolini's East African war machine.

Article XVI of the League Covenant, which became operative against Italy, sketches the broad outlines of such sanctions and declares it the duty of the League member states to enforce them.

These details were discussed today in conferences between the leading delegates. The League Assembly will meet tomorrow to create a co-ordination committee to draft the actual plan and to fix the date when it should apply.

Discussion centred on whether these sanctions should involve moral disapprobation, financial and trade restrictions, or use of armed force.

ITALY WELL PREPARED TO MEET LEAGUE SANCTIONS

Rome, Oct. 8.—Premier Mussolini girded his nation today against impending League of Nations sanctions.

The defensive sectors of Italy's million-man army stepped up preparations to defend coastal cities in the event that hostilities arose from League action against the kingdom for its war on Ethiopia.

Informed Italian sources said Mussolini felt he had the jump on the world, as far as the effect of economic sanctions was concerned and that he would not be caught napping by any effort toward application of military sanctions.

Economists pointed to several specific measures which Il Duce put through during the last year to make Italy self-supporting.

To these they added references to dozens of other achievements by Italy's "corporate state" which they said made the Italians dependent on no one for their bread, lighting, transportation, water and fuel.

With all these measures in mind, economists close to the Government felt Italy would suffer much less from application of economic sanctions than some League members might suppose.

On the defensive side, informed sources said orders were issued to coastal capitals such as Naples, Genoa, Bari and others to observe air drills and to instruct the citizens on protection from aerial bombardments.

These sources also reported that anti-aircraft coast artillery and other defence regiments had entered into a period of intensive training.

Italy was really ready, they said, to "meet military sanctions with military measures" should League developments warrant.

Informed sources said the League action in declaring Italy had resorted to war in violation of article XVI of the Covenant, making article XVI and its sanctions operative, would have no answer from Italy soon in further advances by Fascist troops into Ethiopia.

FIRST STAGE OF CAMPAIGN ENDS AS ITALIANS CAPTURE HOLY CITY

BIG GUNS TO CLEAR PATH FOR MUSSOLINI'S TROOPS

With the Italian Armies in the field, Aduwa, Ethiopia, Oct. 8.—The command of Italy's northern army ordered a restraining check on the Fascist troops today to let the artillery drive a cencentration of Ethiopians from the mountains behind Aduwa.

The troops were eager to press forward into the interior of Ethiopia, but officers said they were dampening the soldiers' enthusiasm despite the difficulty, lest a too-fast advance result in an unnecessary loss of lives.

There was a possibility that the troops would spend some days consolidating their position along the line between Aduwa and Adigrat and letting the big guns clear a path past the heights immediately beyond this point. They then would push on past the Ethiopian warriors in their occupation.

The roads were crowded with reserves moving up to the front.

Although the Fascist forces met a cordial reception from the Ethiopian civil population all along the frontier zone on their line of advance from Eritrea, they found a sentiment of coldness farther back from the frontier.

The chiefs of the population in the front zone had retired with the Ethiopian troops, now massed in the mountains, and had instructed those left behind to offer passive resistance to the Italians.

CLAIM ETHIOPIAN FORCES IN TIGRE IN FULL FLIGHT

With the Italian Army, Asmara, Oct. 8.—It was reported here today that Ethiopian forces in Tigre province were in full flight and had pressed by the Italian advance which has occupied the Ethiopian Holy City of Aksum.

Taking of Aksum is regarded here as a brilliant strategic stroke. This operation, it was said, was decided upon yesterday when it was learned that the Ethiopian commander Ras Seyoum was concentrating on Makale and would attempt a new march on Aduwa to separate the two right wings of the Italian army.

This is now believed to have been averted. By capturing the Holy City the Italian forces have given the right flank under General Maravigna effective protection against a thrust from the Ethiopians.

REPORT NATIVE SOLDIERS DESERTING ITALIAN ARMY

Addis Ababa, Oct. 8.—An Ethiopian official said today the Italian army on the northern front was suffering wholesale desertions of its native soldiers.

"Information received from the north shows that Ethiopians serving in the Italian army are deserting en masse," the official asserted.

"Fifty armed Eritreans under the command of an important chief, was captured at Makale, south of Aduwa, with Italian machine guns. In the Agame region, two hundred armed Eritreans surrendered to authorities."

STORMY SCENES AT NOMINATIONS FOR THREE E.T. CONSTITUENCIES

Supporters of the Conservative candidate were loud in their praises of the value of these agreements and policies in boosting Canada's fortunes. While Mr. Howard and his friends were convinced that they were of little use, or in fact were detrimental to Canadian trade expansion and employment.

The debate ran along well ordered lines, while in the majority of cases, the speakers appeared well able to handle any of their inter-rupters.

"Dr. Lynch is a very fine fellow. I like him. He is our own family physician. He is very popular, but this is not a popularity contest. It is a matter of public welfare of all Canada," said Mr. Howard.

"The main question is: Whether you want to continue the Bennett policies, which has meant the lowest prices in agricultural products, famine wages to the workmen, and suffering used."

"Mr. Bennett has accomplished this, and we all know it. He has within five years made seventy-five millionaires and one million beggars." This was Mr. Howard's closing quip, after he had put forward many clever questions for answers from the Prime Minister.

The policies of Mr. Bennett, R. B. Bennett are best suited to the needs of Canada at the present time, Dr. Lynch told the audience, declaring that the present Government is responsible for making a man work for wages which hardly enabled him to live. Animals were protected from cruelty but men and women faced conditions worse than those faced by animals.

Conditions in Canada, continued Dr. Woodworth, leader of the C. F. W. party, were only slightly better than the slavery conditions in the southern states before the Civil War. The alternative was social control in the face of great public monopolies. For one thing, the C. F. W. would take from the banks the power to create depression or boom days.

Prime Minister R. B. Bennett today returned to Ontario to conclude his general election campaign in that province. Reaching Montreal early this morning he planned to motor to Alexandria, Ont., for an afternoon meeting and will speak at Cornwall at night.

Mr. Bennett in his Quebec address last night, reviewed the legislative record of his Government and the trading accomplishments which he said had placed Canada fifth among nations of the world in trade.

His Government had played no favorites with the various provincial premiers, Mr. Bennett asserted, but had not understood the Quebec Premier was not very popular. "I can't say I am surprised after the Caughnawaga bridge, near Montreal, and things like that."

It cost the $92 candidates who entered the Dominion election to-day $178,400 for the privilege of running on October 14th. Election they grumbled that much, because successful candidates will be refunded the $200 they deposited.

The Ottawa trade agreements will be raised when they expire and "it won't be Mr. Bennett to do it," Hon. H. H. Stevens, Reconstruction party leader, declared last night at Dundas.

Mr. Stevens claimed he had as much to do with negotiating them, through Parliament, as Mr. Bennett, and "there's no need to worry about them."

To a Wentworth County audience the Reconstruction party leader explained his part in the agreements. Several of them he had negotiated entirely by himself, he asserted, and the Canada-United Kingdom agreement had been drafted with the assistance of officers of the service. He had been constantly active in assisting their passage through Parliament.

Life in August this year than in any year since 1932, Liberal leader Mackenzie King told a Windsor meeting last night. Prime Minister Bennett had promised to end unemployment and this was the manner in which the relief problem had developed.

Despite these figures, provided by officials of Mr. Bennett's Government, the Prime Minister claimed conditions were improving and said he had "ended unemployment" as a result in 1930.

In 1930, Mr. King said, 100,000 people were unemployed. Now there were 500,000 and the number receiving direct relief in August, including dependents and those on partial relief, was 1,103,690.

Present unemployment figures took no account of thousands being employed on works being carried on by Governments for the express purpose of giving work. These works would have to be paid for out of taxes and were to be reckoned with in appraising conditions in reckoning the cost of unemployment.

The most important issue in the election campaign, Mr. King said, was dictatorship or democracy. The country had had five years of government under one man who sought to get all control in his hands and refused to give credit to members of his own party or even of his own Cabinet for any achievement by him. There the party counted for nothing. There no one was consulted.

No man, however, great, or however wise, could solve the problems of Canada single-handed, Mr. King said.

This glorification of the leader was after the European fashion where governments were built by one man and dominated by him. There the party counted for nothing. There no one was consulted.

PARTY LEADERS DOUBLE EFFORTS AS CAMPAIGN ENTERS LAST STAGE

and sweating of workers.

Talk of Liberal leader King about developing foreign markets, continued Mr. Stevens, would not stop sweatshop conditions in Canadian factories, bring fair prices to farmers or raise wages.

The Conservative leader laid great stress on the Ottawa trade treaties. Mr. Stevens noted, "I am just as much in favor of them and had quite as much to do with negotiating them and getting them through Parliament as Prime Minister Bennett."

Like Mr. King's trade policies, the agreement offered no solution for the economic problems of the Canadian people.

Mr. Stevens wondered why Premier Bennett had changed from a policy of controlled inflation which he advocated early in September to one of opposition to inflation when he spoke recently in Montreal. It was noticeable the change came after "Mr. Bennett and Sir Charles Gordon, president of the Bank of Montreal, became bedfellows."

Social and economic conditions in Canada, he asserted, were the C. F. W. party, leader of the C. F. W. party, who made three speeches in Winnipeg yesterday. He is the one national leader who will not end the campaign in Ontario.

The C. C. F. leader he would like to see sections added to the program, preventing an employer from making a man work for wages which hardly enabled him to live. Animals were protected from cruelty but men and women faced conditions worse than those faced by animals.

EATON CORNER CHURCH PLANS A CELEBRATION

United Church Congregation Contemplating Services and Festivities to Mark One Hundredth Anniversary of Founding of Church.

Eaton Corner, Oct. 8.—One hundred years ago next month Rev. A. J. Parker, of Shipton, conducted the service which marked the opening of the old Congregational Church here. Today plans are under contemplation to celebrate the centenary of what is now the United Church since the union of the Congregational, Methodist and Presbyterian Churches.

It was on November 8, 1835, that the Congregational Church was founded in Eaton. Three years later the first regular minister, Rev. E. J. Sherrill, was ordained and shortly afterward he undertook the construction of a church. The present building was dedicated to worship in 1841. In the six years, from 1835 to 1841 the membership grew from nineteen to 104.

Rev. Mr. Sherrill continued as minister for thirty-seven years when he resigned due to ill health. For a time after his resignation the pulpit was supplied by students from the Congregational College, Montreal, among whom were W. H. Warriner, later Professor Warriner, one of the leading figures in early negotiations towards church union. In succeeding years several ministers served the church, notably among whom were Rev. W. V. Smith, Rev. George Skinner and Rev. R. Hay.

Many changes occurred in this community in later years. Many of the old families, staunch supporters of the church, moved away, and for a number of years the edifice was closed. It was used by the Methodist congregation for a time and around the year of church union was purchased and renovated by this denomination.

The official records of Rev. L. O. Bunt, of Birchton, who now ministers to this congregation.

It is interesting to glance through the old records and note the families that resided in this vicinity in pioneering days. Some of these early families have living descendants while many others are entirely depleted. The first item appearing in the official records, started in 1835, is registration of the birth of Charles Frederic Osgood, son of Mr. and Mrs. Osgood, who was baptized by Rev. E. J. Sherrill on September 8, 1838, at the age of one year and six months. The witnesses were Joshua Foss and S. A. Hurd.

The first burial took place on November 4, 1838, when Catherine, four-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joshua Foss, was laid to rest. The first marriage recorded was that of Isaac Waldron to Eliza Goodhue on March 7, 1839. Rev. Mr. Sherrill officiated and the witnesses were Emily Alger and Horace Elger.

Arrangements are being made by the local congregation to celebrate the centenary early in November, when it is hoped that all former residents and friends of Eaton will make this an occasion of homecoming and participate in the services and festivities.

AMBITION.

Grenville Kleiser.

I want to be a helpful man
And render service true—
To cheer some pilgrim out of luck
And show him what to do.
If I give but a cheering smile,
'Twill make another life worth while.

I want to be a useful man,
Engaged in useful work;
To fill the hours with honest toil,
And never grudge nor shrink.
For if I look with willing mind,
Some useful work I'm sure to find.

I want to be a kindly man
With sympathetic heart;
To those in sorrow or distress,
I'll play a brother's part.
For after all, it's what you give
That makes you feel it's good to live.

But most of all I want to be
A man of sterling worth,
That I may prove myself to be
Foll' worthy of my birth.
For, though I fill a humble place,
I then can walk with happy face.

CURES FOR ENVY DO NOT ALWAYS WORK THROUGH APPEASEMENT.

Inciting passion and arousing latent prejudice is the easiest and the weakest resort of contending partisans in an election contest.

Perhaps the worst kind of logic is that which aims to make the successful man appear to be enemy of the unsuccessful, for it only arouses the passion of the uncultivated ne'er do well who thinks the world owes him a living, and he should be able to collect without work.

The Stevens propaganda is all founded on that envy which engenders hatred, and only appeals to the ignorant and the unfortunate. Neither the C.C.F. nor the Social Creditors have any arrow in their quiver which is not poisoned with the venom of passion and prejudice.

Theodore Roosevelt began this type of appeal when he coined phrase after phrase to arouse hatred for the industrious man who devoted himself to the accumulation of riches. Lloyd George had still been a useful public man had he not become imbued with a dislike of people who were more successful than he. But both these men thought they were on their way politically when their passionate declamations drew applause from the idle and the lazy, and what British Columbians call the "cultus."

To discourage people from working, from saving, from being thrifty, is not the way to build up a country or a nation.

The man who would arouse class against class, and the masses against classes, is not to be trusted. Should fate or fortune throw them into a different place in life, they either ascend to good sense or descend to degradation. In either case they soon change their views. The Labour candidate, if elected, soon despises his beginnings or deserts his cause. An outstanding example is Ramsay MacDonald. There are myriads of less conspicuous men who have either gone down or become uppish through a change of association.

Premier Taschereau has sought to change the point of view of radical extremists and restless dreamers, one by making him Minister of Labour, and the other Minister of Municipal Affairs. With them it has not yet worked the cure.

IT WAS A GOOD SHOW AND A SUCCESSFUL ONE.

Another Winter Fair and Horse Show has been marked on the calendar of the Eastern Townships Agricultural Association. Despite the business in the field of public affairs of most of the executive they were able to direct their younger colleagues to such good purpose that the Winter Fair of 1935 goes down in history as having been a record-breaking success.

Already the permanent staff have their minds fixed on 1936, when they will follow the grow-and-grow policies to still greater triumphs.

With his added experience in public life it is thought that Ald. Alex Ross will get his step up. Active political partisans seldom have their minds on the race.

Beating all others in attendance, despite the inclement weather, may be ascribed to better advertising and to the visit to the Fair on opening night of the Prime Minister of Canada, who gave to the Horse Show the eclat of his seal of approval.

The Poultry Building attracted many visitors. But through keeping closed the main gates the display of fruit and vegetables in the Floral building did not gain its fair share of attention. It was further handicapped by a somewhat lazy attempt at proper decoration.

REVOLTING CONDUCT OF ITALY.

Italy stands to-day as a Defaulter to its written promises—as guilty as was Germany when its representatives termed a signed Treaty a mere "scrap of paper."

Besmirched in its failure to observe its covenant as a member of the League of Nations, Italy becomes a nation which all Italians must be ashamed to confess loyalty or allegiance.

Mussolini will be pilloried before the world as a bouncing bucaloo of a Bully; and the outcome of the war on Abyssinia will no doubt result in his disappearance in the Slough from which he emerged in an era of chaos and shame after a war from which the Italians emerged as chicken-hearted.

Germany and the Germans have stood in the shadow of an ill-fame which paralyzes their industrial life throughout the world, and this infamous reputation may be partially put in the penumbra of an eclipse with the new generations. For time alone can obscure and make us forget infidelity—and pusillanimous degradation.

We had made the allowance for Japan, only of late decades admitted to be out of the state of barbarianism, and still with the taint of the undependable Asiatic, but when the oldest of the European countries, the home of the Caesars, drops back into the Slough of the Barbaric, we lose confidence in the civilized countries when they sink to the level of Heathendom.

ONLY A WOMAN KNOWS.

A glaring absence at any proper decoration in the Fruit and Vegetable building at the Winter Fair calls attention to the need of an honorary committee of ladies to supervise the carrying out of this cultural need in all the Exhibition buildings. Few men have that artistic instinct of the woman who can, within a half hour, make a hotel bedroom give out the home atmosphere. The Canadian Pacific Railway could drive this lesson home to mere man, for when Mrs. Hayter Reed was alive she gave that "touch" to all the C.P.R. hotels in Canada. Some of them have since been marred by successors who lack the artistic sense. The basic thought stands out in such great hostleries as the Chateau Frontenac in Quebec, despite the lack of understanding.

THE ROMANCE OF A RAILWAY.

Canadians have long waited an authentic and authoritative history of the conception and building of a Canadian Pacific Railway which would connect the Atlantic Coast with the Pacific Coast.

That history has been written by John Murray Gibbon, an author of some repute, and has been just published by McClelland and Stewart, Toronto, publishers, who have the skill in securing some of the choicest and rarest books.

"Steel of Empire" is a 400-page volume, and an example of good book-making, in which Mr. Gibbon relates the romantic history of the Canadian Pacific, and depicts the building of that railway as one of the thrilling events in what has proven to be an achievement which has led to the welding of the British Commonwealth. It was one of the first tangible steps in creating a true Empire out of the United Kingdom.

Mr. Gibbon, who is a scholarly man in the publicity department of the Canadian Pacific, has shown an ability and a depth of investigation in pursuing the loose ends of railway building and diplomacy, in picturing the grave difficulties as they were overcome. There are all the elements of romance in the relations of the "Steel of Empire," and in the success of a railway which has caused so much enmity by its rival, enmity which has been fanned into flame among the small minds of prejudice.

EDITOR'S NOTE BOOK.

Every time there is a coal strike or a shortage of coal some strangers to coal mining may go forth and study the peat bogs which are located every here and there. By-and-bye some of the more glibly are figuring with pen and pencil the large profits which are to be made in digging and drying the peat. It looks as good as a hen ranch or a rabbit farm, either of which can be made to look like the quintuplets of industry which folk are trying to make popular with curious acclimation.

COUNCIL TAKE EXCEPTION TO POSTER SIGNS

Ald. Ross Calls Attention to Gaudy Displays Which Are Spoiling Beauty of City's Main Thoroughfares and Parks.

The City Fathers will not tolerate having the streets of Sherbrooke and the city parks or boulevards plastered with poster advertising.

This practice has reached the point where even the city's tribute to Sherbrooke's gallant soldier-dead has been hidden behind a huge, gaudy poster erected in the centre of one of the city's busiest thoroughfares and in the heart of the shopping district.

It was Ald. Ross who sounded the call to halt. Last night Ald. Ross called the attention of the City Council to this matter and urged that immediate action be taken to curtail it.

Ald. Genest, chairman of the Parks Committee, gave permission to have the poster in question erected. But he frankly admitted last night that in so doing he was misled. He thought that it was simply a small streamer which was to have been stretched across the street. He had no idea that a huge and ugly affair was to be built. Ald. Genest's explanation was accepted by his conferees, with reservations.

The Mayor said it would be an easy matter to get rid of this cheap form of publicity if the parks by-law was strictly enforced. The Council was in accord that a more strict supervision should be maintained. The by-law will be adhered to.

Last night's Council meeting was a brief one. Lasting little over an hour, the greater part of the time was taken up with routine business.

The aldermen went on record as favoring the project to have the highway from Sherbrooke to the United States border kept open during the winter months, although there was no discussion. Ald. Bourque said he would attend the meeting in Montreal later in the present week when this proposal is to be considered.

The construction of comfort stations which were discussed several months ago, again came in for attention last night. The Council still has five thousand dollars for this purpose, but as yet the aldermen have been unable to decide upon a suitable location.

At the request of the Mayor the Parks Committee will study the question of a site and report back to the Council at an early date.

The Mayor and the aldermen appeared in a jovial mood last night. There was so little of interest in the way of business to come before them that they hurried through the meeting and shortly after nine o'clock the Mayor declared the session over.

EXPERIMENTAL FARMS WERE SUBJECT OF HELPFUL TALK

F. S. Browne, of Lennoxville Experimental Farm Staff, Was Guest-Speaker at Opening Meeting of Bishop's University Maths and Science Club.

An enlightening insight into the work carried on at the Dominion Experimental Farm and their value to the farmers of the district in which they are situated was given last night by F. S. Browne, B.S.A., in an address before members of the Maths and Science Club of Bishop's University.

Mr. Browne, who is a member of the staff of the Lennoxville Experimental Farm, spoke on "Plant Breeding," his talk marking the opening of the 1935-36 activities of the Maths and Science Club.

R. L. Baglow, president of the club, occupied the chair. Before introducing the speaker, Mr. Baglow mentioned the fact that in past years the Maths and Science Club had met irregularly, but that this year they planned to have regular meetings and to make the organization truly active in all its phases. It was, he said, the intention of the new executive to have the Maths and Science Club reflective of the thought of the scientific students of the University.

"Plant Breeding," Mr. Browne remarked, "has been of great importance since the establishment of experimental farms in 1886." He then went on to say how at that time Canadian agriculture was in a chaotic state. No one had any experience, costly mistakes were being made and crop failures were common.

That was paid by the speaker to Dr. William Saunders, first Director of Experimental Farms, who began plant breeding in 1887. The speaker then went on to trace the various stages of progress which resulted in the present modern and efficient experimental farms.

This address to students who live within the shadow of the Lennoxville Experimental Farm was both beneficial and interesting, for it gave many a new idea of the work which the Lennoxville Experimental Farm is doing and the service which it is rendering to the surrounding farming community.

At the conclusion of his address Mr. Browne was heartily thanked by Mr. Baglow.

FINED FOR NOT PAYING TAXI. Ovia Gaudreau, of Rock Forest, was fined three dollars and costs by Recorder Lionel F. Frost in Police Court this morning for refusing to pay for a taxi which he hired last night.

Mrs. A. B. Lewis, nee Laura Provencher, Meadow street, was sentenced to a similar fine for creating a disturbance.

I.O.D.E. WILL ASSIST DESERVING STUDENT.

The disbursement of $35 for educational work, interest in which was furthered by Miss L. R. Nourse's clever "trick-talk," featured yesterday's largely attended and interesting meeting of the King George Fifth Chapter of the Imperial Order of the Daughters of the Empire. The members were entertained by their Regent, Mrs. W. E. Loomis, at her residence on Ontario street, with Mrs. I. S. Somers acting as joint hostess.

The secretary, Miss May Mitchell, read the minutes and the financial statement, following which the sum of $35 was voted towards the tuition and general expenses of a student, thus furthering education, which is one of the important branches of I.O.D.E. work. Tentative arrangements were also made for a tea and bridge party.

Miss I. R. Nourse's interesting and graphic address "Some Things I Saw on the Continent," was illustrated by souvenirs of craftsmanship from several of the centers she visited while abroad.

At the close of the meeting afternoon tea was served by the hostesses, assisted by Miss Sylvia Loomis and Miss Eileen Barlow.

LENNOXVILLE GROUP STAGED NOVEL EVENT

Leaders of Four Political Parties
Portrayed in Clever Manner at Well-Staged Mock Political Meeting.

Lennoxville is usually a quiet town but last night political issues and national questions ran high when members of the Young People's Society of the Lennoxville United Church staged a mock political meeting.

All the leaders were there and each had his side of the political picture to portray.

Prime Minister Bennett was represented in the person of Weston Orr, while Robert Woodside, in the role of the Hon. William Lyon Mackenzie King, leader of the Opposition, defended the stand of the Liberals.

William Worster headed the Reconstruction party and Ross Spry had the role of J. S. Woodsworth and his C. C. F. policy.

It was a lively meeting while it lasted, but just what influence the "leaders" had on their audience would be hard to determine. At any rate it was a successful meeting and everyone had a thoroughly good time.

Summing up the political meeting Alan Willard gave an address on "Christianizing The Social Order."

NEW YORK RETAIL TRADE EXPERIENCES SHARP BOOM

Sales for Past Week-End Reported at Highest Point for Five Years Except During Christmas Season.

New York, Oct. 8.—The New York Times said today that retail trade in the Metropolitan area of this city last Saturday rolled up the largest sales total for any Saturday in the last five years outside of the Christmas shopping period.

Business ranged up to twenty-five per cent, or more over the same day of a year ago, the Times learned from store executives.

One store head said that in response to a newspaper advertisement twenty rugs were sold in a few hours at $359 each.

The gains Saturday were store wide, the Times said, with buying heavy in almost all sections. Sales of apparel and accessories spurred and there was strong demand for home furnishings, ranging from furniture to kitchen utensils. Demand for furs picked up after a seasonal decline and fur sellers believed they would have an excellent fall and winter season.

It was unanimously decided to gratefully accept Mrs. Clifford Bryant's kind offer to open her home on Quebec street for a bridge party. Further activities were discussed prior to adjournment, following which the hostess served fairly refreshments, assisted by Miss Doris Price and Miss Evelyn Kinder.

PAISED WORK CARRIED ON BY LOCAL Y.M.C.A.

Environment Such as Permeates
Local Association Helps Young Men to Be Better Citizens.

Environment such as permeates the Young Men's Christian Association helps young men to be better citizens in every sphere of activity.

J. W. Terrey, chairman of the Y.M.C.A. membership campaign, told the group of canvassers which attended the supper in the "Y" dining room last evening. Urging his listeners to continue their good work, Mr. Terrey related characteristic examples of what can be accomplished through association with this organization.

The brief remarks were made to the two rival teams which are engaged in a friendly competition and seeking to make the best showing before the campaign ends. Offering encouragement to his audience, Mr. Terrey declared that the results of the work of the canvassers would provide material for fine souvenirs in future, while he stressed that the members of the two camps should set a good example for prospective candidates.

J. R. Sangster, president of the local Y.M.C.A., compared the old headquarters on Strathcona Square with the present accommodations and related how the financial campaign had been conducted for funds to build the present edifice. The burden of carrying on this important work rested on the shoulders of the younger generation. Mr. Sangster stated that the older directors, offering co-operation and assistance gained from experience.

Bob Richardson reported for his Reds and Walter Mutchler submitted a statement for the Blues. The team captained by Richardson has a considerable lead over the Mutchlerites to date, but the Blues promised last night that the next meeting would reveal that they had covered much ground in their attempt to overhaul their rivals.

The two teams are composed of the following canvassers:

Reds: J. C. Stevens, Dean Bishop, D. T. Diplock, F. E. Woods, G. M. Dick, Earl Hall, Harold McCullough, Frank Edwards, Lawrence Ball, Arnold Simpson, Don Johnston, Ronald Welsh, Fred Simpson, Jack Ewing, A. D. Eichenberg, P. D. Mathias, J. Moffatt, L. Rosenbloom, J. W. Terrey, A. White, Robert Bell, Donald Watson, Charles McCullough, Newton Munkittrick, Howard Terrey and E. Strachino.

Blues: A. C. Stevens, Dean Bishop, D. T. Diplock, F. E. Woods, G. M. Dick, Earl Hall, Harold McCullough, Frank Edwards, Lawrence Ball, Arnold Simpson, Don Johnston, Ronald Welsh, Fred Simpson, Jack Ewing, A. D. Eichenberg, P. D. Mathias, J. Moffatt, L. Rosenbloom, J. W. Terrey, A. White, Robert Bell, Donald Watson, Charles McCullough, Newton Munkittrick, Howard Terrey and E. Strachino.

Miss Evelyn Cox spent a week-end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. P. Cox.

Mr. Thomas Lowery and Miss Lowery, accompanied by Mr. Chester Melville, spent Sunday with friends in St. Sylvester.

Mrs. W. Kinnear who has been ill recently is able to be out again.

Mrs. May Ross, of Hardwood Flat is calling on relatives in this locality.

Messrs. W. Longmore and Ralph Patterson were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. C. McVetty.

A large number of Orangemen and their friends met at the hall, Campbell's Corner, where a very substantial and dainty supper was served by Mrs. Alger Patterson, Mrs. C. W. McVetty and Miss Raycraft.

Messrs. John McVetty and C. W. McVetty motored to Quebec on Monday to attend the funeral of their niece and cousin, Mrs. George A. Penny. They were accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Robert Graham, of Glen Murray.

GOSLIN'S BLOW WAS CLIMAX TO TENSE CONTEST

Veteran Detroit Left Fielder's $50,000 Single in Drama Packed Ninth Inning Yesterday Gave Tigers Their First World Series Championship.

Detroit, Oct. 8.—Detroit woke up today with a terrific hangover—emotionally and otherwise—but it came out of the other happier than ever before in all its baseball history, automatically acclaiming its first world champions, Mickey Cochrane's Tigers.

If heads could scarcely lift from the pillows, bosses whispered hoarsely to their stenographers, policemen walked around in a daze, the street cleaners muttered to themselves as they carted away the debris, Cochrane was to blame. Cochrane and the ancient eaglebeak "Goose" Gosselin, his particular copartner in the slaughter of the innocents, Chicago's young scrappy Cubs.

It was the beloved, low-legged "Goose," nearing the end of his trail but still a great money player, who slapped the line single to center-field with two out in the ninth inning of yesterday's sixth World Series game that scored Cochrane from second base with the run that beat the Cubs by four to three, won the series by four games to two and closed a celebration unequalled in Detroit history. Nothing like it has happened in baseball since Walter Johnson and the Washington Senators won the title.

Twenty-eight years, from the time Detroit won its first American League pennant in 1907, the baseball-mad faithful of the city that ruined the future of the horse have been waiting this moment. Four times, from 1908 down through last season—when the St. Louis Cardinals thwarted them in seven games—they have hoped and cheered and screamed in vain.

Then out to centerfield, closing out one of the most thrilling duels of modern series history, boomed Gosselin's $50,000 shot and Detroit was on the loose. From the throats of 48,420 people, almost half of them in one huge bank in the bleachers beyond the left field wall, poured wave after wave of hysterical sound. Above the clamor rose one soaring, thrilling cry: "Yea, 'Goose.' Yea, 'Goose.'"

People poured out on the field, would not leave for almost an hour until they had the pleasure of personally chasing old "Bandy Legs" through an exit gate, and downtown, with the flash of the victory word, came the start of the celebration. Every automobile horn in Detroit, the city of automobiles, pressed down and stayed down until batteries died under the electric strain. Every factory whistle tooted. Into the streets went a steady fall of ticker tape that left the hotel section looking as though it had been hit by a blizzard. Elbows bent, songs rose on high, the clamor increased, and at dawn roaring hotels were still mad houses, boasting and toasting and revelling in Cochrane's champions.

The end of this million-dollar battle, one of the closest, most exciting in all the long history of World Series, ended on the same high note of throbbing drama, of fierce argument, and bitter action that sang through every one of the six games, three of the last four decided by a single run and the fourth by two runs.

It ended the third wealthiest of series, with $1,173,794 taken in through gate receipts and from other sources, a new record for six-game series. It rewarded the Tigers with full shares of $6,831.88 each, the losers $4,382.72 each, far surpassing any previous individual returns to the victors and the vanquished.

It was the first American League victory since the New York Yankees shattered the Cubs in four straight games in 1932. It wiped out all the unpleasant memories of the past—two World Series beatings from the Cubs in 1907 and 1908, another by the Pittsburgh Pirates in 1909, the fourth and most bitter by "Dizzy" Dean and the Cards in the vegetable barrage of 1934.

It wound up with the Cubs, young, hard-bitten and desperate, clawing against the inevitable, fighting the Tigers and their personal natural enemy, Umpire George Moriarty, to the last ditch. Twice, against the nervy little bunch of rascals who beat them in the second game, slender Tommie Bridges, they came from behind to tie the score. Crippled by the loss of Lonnie Warneke, anchored to the bench with a pulled shoulder muscle, they did the best they could with the most they had left, southpaw Larry French, and it just was not quite enough.

It looked as though the fates were against the battling Bengals. They lost the opening game of this year's series but then went on, despite the loss of their slugging first baseman, "Hank" Greenberg, to take three straight from the Cubs, drop the fifth game and then outflinch the Chicagoans in a spine-tingling slugfest yesterday afternoon in a warm weather finish to a series that otherwise had been the coldest in history.

The final game was filled with tense moments, some of the hardest hitting of the series and marked by a bitter renewal of the warfare between the Cubs and Moriarty before Bridges earned the decision over French. Both pitchers went the route, under heavy fire, as each club collected an even dozen base hits. Both did some superb work in the pinches, but the Tigers got the "breaks" when they could be most useful and capitalized their chances to squeeze out their third one-run victory.

Led by the sensational Billy Herman, who banged out three hits, including a home run in the fifth inning, and drove home all three Chicago runs, the Cubs put up a gallant fight to send the series into a seventh game. Scrapping all the way, swinging from the heels against Bridges' fast ball, the National Leaguers tied the score in the third frame, took the lead in the fifth chapter and yielded only after giving the Tigers a last-inning scare.

A close decision at third base by Moriarty in the third stanza cost the Cubs one run and another ruling by the same arbiter in the sixth canto had the Cubs growling in bitter protest against the man who seemed fated to be "on the spot" at any time there was a close play to call with the fortunes of the National Leaguers vitally involved.

After singles by Cochrane and Charley Gehring and a double by Pete Fox had sent the Tigers off with a one-run lead in the first, the chapter, the Cubs opened fire in the third inning against Bridges. Billy Jurgess led off with a single and French fanned, but Augie Galan's sharp drive caromed off Marvin Owen's glove for another base hit, sending Jurgess to third. Herman's single tallied Jurgess, but Galan was out down on Fox's brilliant throw to the third baseman.

"Flash" Clifton at third base, Galan's hook slide into the bag was similar to the arrival of the ball. The Cubs kicked vehemently, renewing their feud with Moriarty, but it did them no good.

The Tigers took a two to one lead in the fourth session with the aid of another "break." Gerald Walker, who had replaced "Jo-Jo" White in center field, and Billy Rogell led off with base hits. Owen's attempted sacrifice resulted in a force-out play at second while Walker reached third and Owen got to first on the fielder's choice. Bridges then rapped a tricky bouncer to Hack. It looked like a double play as Hack fired the ball to Herman for a force-out, but Bridges' sliding error gave Owen a turn of speed, best the relay to first by a half stride as Walker crossed the plate.

The Cubs went ahead on French's single and Herman's home-run blast in the fifth canto with two out. The count was three and one when the Chicago second baseman took a toe-hold and put the ball among the customers in the on-deck seats.

The Tigers came back in the sixth inning to knot the count. With two out Rogell doubled and scored when Owen lashed a single on the first pitched ball for his first and only base hit of the entire series.

This followed the second Cub outburst against Moriarty. With two out in the Chicago half, if the sixth frame Hack doubled, it raced toward third as Jurgess grounded sharply to Clifton, halted and started to retrace his steps to avoid being tagged, swerving to one side, Hack tried to dodge Clifton's lunge and made another attempt to reach third, but Moriarty ruled him out and the war of words was on again.

The huge crowd, all but filling the park to its utmost capacity, groaned as Hack delivered his second successive extra-base hit at the outset of the ninth inning. He got to third standing up. It was the choice for Bridges to make his last stand and the Tennessee right-hander turned on the thunderbolt to do it. He fanned Jurgess, retired French to a bouncer to the box and got Galan on a short fly to Gosselin as Hack was left stranded. The last Chicago hopes faded and the crowd yelled furiously.

Clifton fanned to start the home team's half of the last inning, but Cochrane drew a big roar from the crowd with his third hit of the game. The Tiger manager reached second on Gehring's roller down the first-base line. This set the stage for the "Goose." Hillless in four previous turns at bat, Gosselin swung hard at the first pitch and fouled it against the lower boxes in front of the right-field pavilion. He connected with the next pitch on a line over Herman's head and Cochrane came home easily, well ahead of Frank Demaree's futile throw in the general direction of the plate.

The official boxscore of yesterday's game follows:

Johnny had been disobedient, and finally his teacher asked him to stay after school.

"Johnny," she began, "I have to mark the report cards this evening. Now, what do you think I should do about yours?"

"Well," said the youngster, "I think you really ought to go home and have a good dinner and rest before you mark mine."

JUBILANT FANS ALMOST MOBBED "GOOSE" GOSLIN

Police Protection Needed to Keep Hero of Yesterday's World Series Game from Wild, Surging Mass—Ruling Expected Soon in Moriarty Dispute.

Detroit, Oct. 8.—That drama-packed ninth inning, veteran writers in the press box agreed, will go down as one of the longest to be remembered in World Series history. . . . Great pitching by Larry French in the eighth frame being followed by even greater twirling by little Tommy Bridges in the ninth stanza. . . .

That slashing triple by Stan Hack to open the final frame. . . . The ball cleared Walker's outstretched glove by two feet, bounded crazily into the corner behind the flag-pole. . . . seemed to bound around so long that Hack might even score. . . . Jurgess up, and out on three pitches. . . . and still two more to go. . . . French up and he is going to hit, not sacrifice. . . . Strike one, strike two. . . . A tap to the box, Bridges glanced quickly at Hack, throws to Owen for the second out. . . . one man to go. . . . Galan, a fine hitter, takes his place in the box. . . . Strike one. . . . the crowd roars, then is silent. . . . Strike two. Can Bridges do it? Slash. . . . a high fly to left, the wind is holding it. . . . Rogell and Clifton going back. . . . Gosselin coming in fast. . . . waving his teammates away. . . . making the catch. . . . and the roar which was almost a sigh. . . .

Clifton up. . . . and out on strikes. . . . Cochrane singles to right. . . . Gehring's hard smash to Cavarretta. . . . The youthful first baseman's throw to the out, then shoots a fast throw to second, the ball getting away from Jurgess. . . . But Mickey had beaten the throw. . . . Then the "Yeah, Goose, yeah, Goose" chants, swelling to a roar from the bleachers. . . . and Gosselin's $50,000 single. . . . sending a grinning, jubilant Cochrane home. . . . Cavarretta put off Demaree's throw to the plate. . . .

No sooner had the "Goose" smashed the winning hit to drive in Cochrane than fully 25,000 fans rushed onto the field and toward the Detroit dugout. The playing field swarmed with humanity wild and joyous. But Gosselin was too fast for them. As soon as he saw Cochrane across the plate the "Goose" dashed to the dugout. . . . Police had a difficult time holding back the wild, surging mass. A half hour later, "Goose" ran across the field escorted by six policemen. He almost had his clothes ripped off by the mob. . . .

Policemen had to stand around the pitching mound to keep the hysterical crowd from ripping the rubber right out of the "hill." The playing field was littered with paper and a couple of bushels of vegetables that some fans took along in case of another Joe Medwick-Marvin Owen battle. . . . Umpire George Moriarty got so mad at the Cubs' antics yesterday that he was funny. When the Chicagoans protested Hack's out at third in the sixth inning, big George wheeled around, rushed over to the left of third and demonstrated how Hack had run out of line in attempting to dodge Clifton. He almost fell showing them how. . . . Commissioner Kennesaw M. Landis had Grimm and Jurgess on the carpet again before game-time because of their taunts at Moriarty. Something is almost certain to result from the "jury" meetings. The Cubs threatened Sunday night to "get" Moriarty. . . .

Landis, leaving Detroit last night for a trip with Mrs. Landis, said "There is nothing to be said on this occasion" relative to the dispute, intimating that he had reached a decision. Landis said he did not know when he would make it public. . . . After the game Landis and Ford Frick, president of the National League, entered the Detroit dining room. "I never saw a greater World Series game," was Landis' comment. . . . Charlie Grimm extended his congratulations while the Cubs trooped into their dressing room weary and crushed. . . . Cochrane was a candidate for the Detroit City Council last night whether he liked it or not. In the midst of the riotous celebration last night an unknown fan went through the crowd campaigning for the Detroit manager and hundreds of fans assured him they would write "Gordon D. Cochrane" on the ballot in today's civic elections. . . .

Within two hours after the game, Detroit police reserves estimated at least 500,000 screaming, jubilant fans were parading the streets on foot and in automobiles. Loud speaker trucks, sound apparatus pitched to maximum, rolled the streets, barking a triumphant parody of "Hold that Tiger." Meanwhile traffic packed itself into a jam. It was not just snarled; it did not move. . . .

TORONTO AMATEUR SIGNS CONTRACT WITH LEAFS
Toronto, Oct. 8.—Norman Mann, fleet right winger and centre player with Toronto of the Senior Ontario Hockey Association and Controls of the Toronto Mercantile League last winter, has signed a three-year contract with the Toronto Maple Leafs of the National Hockey League, it was learned today. Mann has been on the Leaf reserve list for some time.

The new office boy had been instructed how to answer callers. Just before noon a man asked, "Is the boss in?" "Are you a salesman, a bill collector, or a friend of his?" the boy inquired. "All three," was the answer. "Well, he's in a business conference. He's out of town. Step in and see him."

"Well, he's in a business conference. He's out of town. Step in and see him."

OPENING GAMES IN CHURCH LEAGUE LAST EVENING

The Sherbrooke Church five-pin Bowling League resumed its activities last evening on the Y. M. C. A. alleys. The opening games on the 1935-36 schedule resulted in victories for St. Andrew's and Trinity.

The Presbyterians, with Cecil Patton bowling "over his head," blanked the representatives of the Plymouth congregation, while Trinity took the odd string in three from St. Peter's.

Cecil Patton posted high scores of 258 and 677 in the single and three string columns, respectively. The detailed results follow:

TOURIST PROBLEMS AIDED BY NEW BRUNSWICK GROUP

President of Guides' Association Points to Province of Quebec as Example of Flourishing Tourist Industry.

Saint John, N.B., Oct. 8.—Tourist problems featured discussion today at the thirty-seventh annual meeting of the New Brunswick Guides' Association which opened yesterday with D. Leo Dolan, director of the Canadian Travel Bureau, the principal speaker.

"If we are to make progress in the tourist business, Canada's foremost business activity today, we must not revert to the horse and buggy days at developing the industry," said Mr. Dolan. "The value that New Brunswick spends less per capita, excepting Prince Edward Island, than any other province, on advertising."

Landis, leaving Detroit last night for a trip with Mrs. Landis, said "There is nothing to be said on this occasion" relative to the dispute, intimating that he had reached a decision. Landis said he did not know when he would make it public. . . .

After the game Landis and Ford Frick, president of the National League, entered the Detroit dining room. "I never saw a greater World Series game," was Landis' comment. . . . Charlie Grimm extended his congratulations while the Cubs trooped into their dressing room weary and crushed. . . . Cochrane was a candidate for the Detroit City Council last night whether he liked it or not. In the midst of the riotous celebration last night an unknown fan went through the crowd campaigning for the Detroit manager and hundreds of fans assured him they would write "Gordon D. Cochrane" on the ballot in today's civic elections. . . .

Within two hours after the game, Detroit police reserves estimated at least 500,000 screaming, jubilant fans were parading the streets on foot and in automobiles. Loud speaker trucks, sound apparatus pitched to maximum, rolled the streets, barking a triumphant parody of "Hold that Tiger." Meanwhile traffic packed itself into a jam. It was not just snarled; it did not move. . . .

The new office boy had been instructed how to answer callers. Just before noon a man asked, "Is the boss in?" "Are you a salesman, a bill collector, or a friend of his?" the boy inquired. "All three," was the answer. "Well, he's in a business conference. He's out of town. Step in and see him."

ORILLIA WITHIN ONE WIN OF LACROSSE TITLE

Vancouver, Oct. 8.—The Orillia Terriers, stoutly defending their Canadian box lacrosse championship, clamped at the bit today for a third whack at the Richmond Farmers, British Columbia titlists, in the hope it would end their scheduled five-game series and give them the Dominion title once again.

Shooting with accuracy and power, the Terriers defeated Richmond by nine to six last night to make it two straight over the British Columbian. The easterners won the first game Saturday night by ten to eight and will win the series tomorrow night if they score another victory.

As in the first game the Terriers showed too much polish for their British Columbia opponents and in addition Ted Hall, in the Orillia goal, turned in the greatest exhibition of netminding ever seen on a coast lacrosse floor.

its most flourishing industry is urgently important; there must be more whole-hearted co-operation in New Brunswick to sell to the United States and western Canada." William T. Griffin, president of the Association, spoke at the annual dinner last night. "If we were to open up the vast interior of our province, yet untouched, I feel certain we could develop our tourist business to the extent which the Province of Quebec has, and so make New Brunswick the prize sporting ground of eastern Canada," he said.
