Traffic change

Westmount Police have announced that left turns for eastbound traffic on Westmount avenue will be prohibited at Grosvenor and Roslyn avenues. The ban came into effect Tuesday.

The order, made public by Chief R. Edmonstone, of Westmount, is for the safety of students at Roslyn School, a police official said.

Roslyn School is on Westmount avenue, between Grosvenor and Roslyn avenues.

Manufacturers told industry should provide more jobs to expand

Next week's weather

September 10 to 17

By ERIC NEAL

Bright with frosty mornings, cloudy evenings and some wind. Occasional heavy night showers, particularly in mountain districts, with thunder. Temperature range 35-75°F in the south and 28-60°F in the north, with 45 sunny hours this warm and wet but pleasant week.

Mainly sunny and relatively warm into the middle of the week, with cool mornings, some mist and widely scattered showers. Killing frosts possible in northern districts.

Pleasant but misty and sultry to end the week. Strong winds as fringes of a hurricane spread into our regions. Fishing fair morning and evening.

Don't walk between parked cars

Walking into the street between parked cars is a form of gambling. The stakes are your life.

If the street is clear of traffic, you are safe. If a car happens to be coming, chances are the driver will not be able to see you in time to stop. The result? Another pedestrian accident, perhaps a fatality.

Don't take a chance. Always cross at intersections urges the Royal Automobile Club.

Air Ways

Alcohol and gas still don't mix

By LARRY McINNIS

NOTE TO PILOTS: Millions of words have been written about the fact that alcohol and gas don't mix, applied to car drivers. Besides the fact that gas and alcohol make a terrible drink, the old cliche applies also to flying. This little message is directed more to the recreational flyer than the airline pilot, whose jobs and strict regulations usually make sure that drinking is left for their time off. Not so, unfortunately, with too many private pilots, and especially those who are fortunate enough to own their own aircraft. Besides stressing, "If you drink, don't drive," we should stress, "If you drink, don't fly." Even more so than on the road probably, the ban on alcohol when in the air should definitely be adhered to. It is no time to start collecting wits when making a nasty crosswind landing.

A STORY: A friend of mine, who has thousands of hours flying every type of aircraft you could mention, learned about drinking and flying the hard way. While in the RCAF he had the job of ferrying a fighter from Belgium to Paris. The trip was delayed while mechanics put the kite in flying shape, and my friend spent his time imbibing while waiting. He made the trip alright, but when he came in for a landing he left wheels up, burned up the field, started a loop at the far end of the runway from about ten feet off the deck, and, amazing as it sounds, somewhere on the back side of the loop lowered his wheels, continued the loop until the bottom of it set him perfectly on the runway. The chances of success are pretty slim, but he made it. When he climbed out of the fighter, and realized what he had done, he collapsed. It took about three days to get him back in shape. To my knowledge he has never taken a drink while flying again, and he doesn't mind a drink at a good party.

AND MORE: Another case, more recently, involved the captain of a DC-3 who had had a few, and probably a few too many. When he was boring down the runway for his takeoff, and when he got the tail in the up position, he thought he was airborne and ordered wheels up. His first officer questioned the order, but was told firmly to pull the wheels up. Like the rules of the sea, the first officer obeyed. Needless to say, the aircraft was a total write-off. On the smaller side, I know a chap who "landed 50 feet in the air" with a Cessna 140, bounced to the runway, bounced about 50 feet up again, and then really got himself into trouble. At the top of the bounce he inadvertently put on his wheel brakes, and when he came down the aircraft nosed over. It too, was a total write-off.

THIS AND THAT: The Canadair CL-41, the new jet they hope to sell as a primary jet trainer, has been doing a lot of flying lately, including the occasional downwind takeoff . . . a second model has been finished and now awaits engines before being given preliminary flight tests . . . the craft is now powered with a Pratt & Whitney, but can take any one of three engines, although the second model is expected to also take a P & W . . . Noticed a daring pilot the other night over Cornwall with a Cessna 180 on floats making a night landing on the river — very brave lad, but he should have got back earlier . . . new City of Montreal street maps, taking a lot for granted, have drawn in the proposed new cross runway at Dorval . . . they say the new terminal building should open this year, but we'll wait and see.

STILL MORE: "Operation Sky Shield" will take place Saturday, in this area from 2 a.m. to 8 a.m. The operation is designed as a practical exercise for all NORAD fighters in North America, plus a good workout for the radar sights across the country. All civilian flights will be cancelled during this period . . . For sheer boredom, pity the pilots of the Constellations which provide a continuous flying radar station off the Atlantic and Pacific coasts . . . next week we hope to have more information about costs, etc., of maintaining a light aircraft for the private owner.

Unity Boys' Club

Volunteer teachers needed

By MAURICE MARIASINE

The Unity Boys' Club of Westmount, sponsored by the Rotary Club of Westmount and affiliated with the Montreal Boys' Association, a Red Feather Service, fills a need wherever there are boys and girls who lack opportunities for wholesome recreation, companionship, and for the constructive use of leisure time.

The Unity Boy's Club is daily attracting youngsters who most need its opportunities and benefits. There are no membership limitations and the fees are at purely nominal level — easily within the means of any boy or girl.

The Club creates an environment where character develops under natural and favorable circumstances. It also provides for the wholesome use of leisure time, for the building of health, for the development of recreational and vocational skills, and for the leadership and guidance which produces men and women better fitted for the responsibilities of citizenship.

HOW DOES IT HAPPEN?

There are many determining factors. To begin with-and this is very important — the character of the club, the standard of operation, and of equal importance, the program. The Unity Boys' Club is operating on high standards. Emphasis has always been placed on respect of authority, respect of the aged, respect of property and respectaoility. This has been achieved by tolerance, fairness, friendship and by individual counsel. Naturally, there are some exceptions.

Keeping the youngster occupied with a difersified program is a fery important factor, and the Unity Boys' Club is doing its utmost in providing such a program. This year, the Club is offering unlimited opportunities in Arts, crafts, hobbies, group clubs, athletics, with the accent on health and physical fitness, social and special activities.

VOLUNTEER LEADERS NEEDED

With the beginning of another season the 10th anniversary program year, the Unity Boys' Club in attempting to carry out its primary function, rendering service to the youth of the community, will this year require additional volunteer workers.

Despite the fact that some 25 volunteer workers are returning for another year of service at the club and at least eight new workers are expected to join the Leaders' Corps, we are still short of maximum coverage if a complete program is to be provided for all our members.

Some former leaders are yet to be heard from and this might improve the situation. However, we are appealing to the citizens of Westmount and St. Henry to offer ttheir services. We are in need of handicraft instructors, athletic coaches, group club supervisors, social activity leaders and general supervisors for the Games Rooms, etc.

Although personnel skilled in leatherwork, woodwork, art, sewing, knitting, shell work, model boat and aircraft, puppetry, paper sculpture, claycraft, painting, embroidery, copper work, folk dancing and dramatics are essential for the educational program of the Club, volunteer workers without qualifications are also welcome.

If you can spare just two hours of your time per week, please do not hesitate to call the Unity Boys' Club at WE. 2-5506 for an appointment or drop in at the Club at 1090 Greene avenue. You may apply to the Club Director or to any one of the permanent staff —John Meister, Boys' Work Supervisor; Mrs. Irene Hemsworth, Girls' Work Supervisor; Rupert Bowen, Physical Directo .

STAFF CHANGES! Your reporter regretfully announces the following changes in Staff for the coming year. Miss Crystal Cunningham, on the permanent staff for four years, is leaving to pursue a career in teaching. She is being replaced by Mrs. Irene Hemsworth.

John McDonaugh, on staff for one year as Sports Director, leaving to resume studies at one of the local universities. His post, with a new nomenclature, Physical Director, will be handled by Rupert Bowen.

The club caretaker for the past four years, Michael Cooney, has accepted another position and will be replaced by George Blevin.

We would like to take this opportunity of expressing our sincere thanks to Miss Cunningham, Mr. McDonaugh and Mr. Cooney for their valuable assistance throughout their term of office and extend best wishes to them for the future.

We welcome our two new staff members: Mrs. Hemsworth and Mr. Bowen, and cordially invite all our club members to come into the Club and meet them. We also welcome Mr. and Mrs. Blevin who will see that the Club is always kept tidy, bright and clean.

. .PROGRAM NOTES: Dance instructor Danny Smith has called rehearsals for his dance groups starting immediately . . . and Fred Johnston of the Talent Club would like to see his group so tthat preparations can be made for the Lake Placid N.Y. Show on September 25. . . . the Unity Talent Group provided entertainment for the School for Crippled Children on the occasion of their annual cruise on Lake St. Louis. Registrations for the 1960-61 seashon are underway. The first day of registration on Sept. 1 saw 71 members renew for the coming season — this is a record first day . . . The Club has resumed Fall and Winter time hours: Open daily, Monday through Friday, 3 p.m. to 5 p.m. and 6:30p.m. to 9 p.m. On Saturdays, the Club opens at 9:30 a.m. until noon and from 1:30 p.m. to 4.30 p.m.

Trinity observes 35th anniversary for cubs, scouts

Sunday, September 11, Trinity Memorial Boy Scout troop will observe its 35th anniversary with a special service at 11 a.m. and luncheon at 1 p.m., the latter in the church hall.

Rev. John O. Peacock of Cowansville, a former leader of both Scouts and Cubs at Trinity, will preach the sermon. Rev. Canon F. L. Whitley, M.A., honorary assistant, who organized the first Scout troop in Verdun in 1910, will be the guest of honor.

During the service the rector, Ven. Archdeacon R. K. Naylor, DD, will unveil a bronze plaque in the church honoring all Cub and Scout leaders past and present! and the colors of Trinity Memorial Sea Ranger Ship "Valiant" (Girl Guides) will be dedicated.

All Scout troops and Guide companies of the Western district have been invited to attend, and other districts have been invited to to send representatives. Planning to attend are some from the Montreal Association for the Blind and from the new Northlea troop in St. Martin. Scout and Guide officials will also be present. Altogether, indications are that there will be upwards of 500 uniformed boys and girls and leaders and possibly 20 color parties, besides the congregation. And it is hoped that many former members of the Scout troop and Cub pack will also attend.

Council hears valuation appeals

NEW TEACHERS: Four new teachers on the Westmount scene talk to Roslyn principal W. A. Land value increases spark 121 complaints

Submission of appeals against the new valuation roll, which lists increases averaging 75 percent, kept Westmount City Council pinned down from 8 p.m. to 11.30 p.m. Tuesday night as 121 'wronged' citizens stated their case.

Furthermore, in some districts where re-zoning has taken place, and in a few isolated cases, the increase in land value may be somewhat greater than the average.

Notification of the increase was given earlier this summer, and owners were told they had until August 26 to register complaints if they thought the new assessment too high, and to give Council an idea of what they thought was a fair assessment. The special general session Tuesday night was called to hear the appeals.

The new valuation roll has been computed on the same basis as the City of Montreal, a practice being followed by more and more of the Island's municipalities. It increases the land value, but permits a lowering of the total mill rate. In Westmount's case, the Cities and Towns Act does not permit a mill rate in excess of 20 mills, so the only way to increase revenue is to increase the valuation.

At the meeting of Council, Mayor J. C. Cushing listened to the appeals. Members of the Board of Assessors, headed by chairman Donald Baillie, noted each appeal, and promised that consideration would be given to each case, and citizens would subsequently be advised of their findings.

Mayor Cushing stated that a general increase in assessed values did not mean that property taxes would be increased by a similar amount. The higher assessment would permit a reduction of about two mills in the general tax rate.

Last year land values were increased by 20 per cent. This was the first general increase in assessed values in Westmount in many years. The upward revision of land values conforms with the general pattern of re-evaluation in other municipalities.

Citizens had previously written to the Council stating their reasons why they thought the new assessment too high, and the meeting gave them the opportu-

Picture not so bright

Manufacturers must provide more jobs, increase exports

Canadians should be vitally concerned to ensure that manufacturing flourishes rather than stagnates and declines, and the present manufacturing picture is by no means as bright as it might be, T. R. McLagan, president of Canada Steamships and president of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, told a gathering at Toronto's CNE Directors' luncheon this week.

"Manufacturing employs one in four individuals in the Canadian work force," he said. "It pays more taxes than any other, and produces better than 55 percent of the total net value of production.

"In fact, manufacturing employs more Canadians than agriculture, mining, fishing, forestry and construction put together!"

Mr. McLagan pointed out that the ominous truth is that manufacturing is no longer keeping pace with the growth of the national labor force, and this is a major factor in the present uncomfortably high total of those seeking work and unable to find it.

In the last 10 years," he said, "the percentage of the national labor force in manufacturing has declined from 26.6 to 24.8."

He attributed the decline to intensified import competition, not only from the U. S., but from Britain, West Germany and Japan, thereby shrinking the local market for Canadian goods.

"A decline in sales has led to a decline in jobs," he said, "and in many cases, indefinite postponement of expansion plans."

Mr. McLagan said that, although imports from the U. S. were away ahead of all other imports put together, their type of goods did not provide competition on the Canadian market and, in many cases, made manufacturing in Canada possible because American products were a compliment to our own industry.

This is not the case, he pointed out, with imports from most low-wage countries whose goods are a direct competition to Canadian commodities.

"It is absolute nonsense for us to be told," he said, "that cheap imports are an indication that Canadian manufacturers are inefficient.

"Our manufacturers are as competent and go-ahead as any in the world, and they certainly don't drag their feet when it comes to technological innovation and the like."

He said there was no question of Canadian industry being able to manufacture better goods than those from the low-wage countries and sell them for the same price, or lower.

"How," he asked, "can we convince unions, in the face of this import competition, that annual wage increases, unless they have been demonstrably

Steam era passes

SAVED FOR POSTERITY. Townspeople of Alexandria, Ont., turned out to see CNR locomotive 6153 on its last run to Point St. Charles yards where it will now become a museum piece for the world to see under the protection of the Canadian Railway Historical Association.

Just as dapper as ever

By E. C. GANNON

She was as dapper as the day she was born over 30 years ago. She had travelled over a million miles and had seen all parts of Canada but had fallen into discard. Resurrected and painted with loving hands she was now on her last journey to show all and sundry that there was still a good puff left in her.

She was CNR locomotive No. 6153 on her last run marking the end of the steam era on the Canadian National system after having given yeoman service during peace and war.

Her last run was made over the weekend hauling an eight car train carrying members of the Canadian Railroad Historical Association to Joliette on Saturday and then on to Ottawa Sunday for a final passenger run.

Misty eyes greeted her particularly among the older employees and yardmen at Turcot as she slowly but proudly rolled her way through the old yard which she used to call home.

Veteran trainmen stood in admiration and doffed their caps, the newer diesels which had displaced her, saluted with their whistles but she proudly ignored them.

She knew she was the centre of attraction. She was no push-button monstrosity. In her new finery she knew she was whistle bait and like a lady she knew she deserved it.

No modern engine could equal her record and she puffed on proudly.

At her controls on her second to last run was engineer George Boisjoly and fireman Robert Tessier, both knew her well in her hey-day which was some thirty years ago when they ran her from Montreal to Riviere a Pierre on the Mont Joli line. She was glad to have them back and she responded willingly.

On her trip to Joliette Saturday she hit an easy 60 miles per hour on straight stretches and could have done better if she had been urged to.

Rolling smoothly through the country side she roared out her deep throated whistle at the level crossings, a sound the farming folk have not heard for many a year.

Hundreds greeted the train at every stop and camera fans had a field day photographing old 6153 as she roared through the countryside.

Many American railroad enthusiasts came to Montreal for the occasion and plenty of time was given them to photograph her from every angle. She positively purred with pride.

Stops were made at Turcot West, the hump west of St. Pierre, Montreal North and Joliette. It was here that thirst overtook her. She needed a drink for her return journey.

But since she has been out of commission like her other steam partners over the years, all the huge watering tanks which dotted the railway line at intervals had been dismantled.

The modern diesel version does not need as much water hence the disappearance of the railside watering tanks.

But water is her life blood and she refused to get steamed up about it. So she waited patiently. In her prime she had been watered and her thirst quenched through a huge ten inch hose which poured thousands of gallons into her tanks in a matter of minutes.

But things had changed over the years and there was only a three inch hose available. This watering process made her snort in indignation and it took two hours to satisfy her enormous thirst for her return journey, when in former days it took only a few minutes.

Her capacity was actually 16,500 gallons of water which interpreted in more familiar terms equals approximately 185,600 ordinary glasses of water.

And she returned home, sober as a judge.

WE SAY

The squeaking wheel gets the most oil

THE ever increasing frequency of advertising circulars, big and small, from stores outside the community should make local merchants take notice.

Foremost is that such stores probably sell considerable merchandise to local people, or they wouldn't waste their advertising here.

Secondly, in many cases prospects thus are taken right out from under the noses of local merchants.

What is the secret?

Advertising.

Advertising long has been the most effective merchandising aid for businessmen. The most successful storekeepers advertise regularly.

We have them here. You see their ads in The Examiner. It pays them.

While they are rightly urged to "buy at home," buyers are not always to blame if they pass up prices as good as, if not better, than elsewhere; service that has the advantage of being immediately handy; goods of variety and quality. The prospect may not know what is offered close at hand.

Every person is a potential customer. The wise merchant reaches them first, and frequently, through advertising — printed, tangible, verifiable advertising in the person's hand, to be read, absorbed, acted upon.

BY THE WAY

THE physical researchers who were disappointed because a man disguised as a ghost failed to awaken any interest when he walked across a field near a crowded road, suggest that he may have lacked the psychic power of attracting attention.

I suggest that if he had carried his head under his arm or walked through a haystack, somebody might have been struck by something odd. A moaning figure, appearing suddenly, is more likely to start a rush for autographs than to frighten people. "Ow, boy! It's Bippy Mango!"

Judge-lawyer asks better court rooms

Sir: I am addressing this letter to you rather than your metropolitan contemporaries since so many prominent and distinguished members of the Bar reside in Westmount. Associate Chief Justice Scott is also a resident of Westmount. Hard working, conscientious and anxious to expedite the cases that come before the Superior Court he has on several occasions pointed to the urgent need not only for additional judges but for a Court House in keeping with the times in view of the tremendous increase in litigation.

The Bar of Montreal has, likewise, suggested that the Provincial Government take prompt action for enlarged and more commodious quarters to house the judiciary of the city and district, many of whom have neither the Court cooms rooms or chambers that would facilitate the carrying out of their important duties.

The present Court House is totally inadequate to meet present and modern needs. It was built at a time when the population was not one third of what it is today. Criminal trials are held in the new Court House in quarters that are larger and more dignified than those across the street.

Prime Minister Lesage and Attorney General Lapalme are proud of their profession and are aware of the need for court rooms and judges' chambers that will impress not only the litigant but the average citizen. A few million dollars expended in the building of a modern and dignified Hall of Justice would be an excellent investment.

A competition for design should be instituted by the government and the one or more deemed suitable submitted to the Bar Council and Associate Chief Justice Scott. It should be a structure that architecturally would not only be pointed to with pride by members of the Bar but admired by visitors to our City.

Since bench and bar are unanimous in their request for a bigger and better Court House, there is every hope that the new Prime Minister will announce the intention of his Government to meet the wishes of the bar and the judiciary to give Montreal a court house in keeping with its importance, influence and growing population.

How the spaceship landed

One of the most outstanding experiments in history has been recently successfully completed. The Soviet spaceship with living creatures on board landed safely after flying more than 700,000 miles around the earth.

Pravda's correspondent asked the Academy of Science of the USSR to describe in detail the landing of the satellite spaceship. This is what he was told.

As is known, two dogs, Belka and Strelka, were among the space travellers. During the flight they were in a special cabin separated only by a transparent net so that they were able to see each other all tthe time. Aboard the spaceship, in addition to them were rats and white mice, as well as flies, seeds of certain plants, and fungi. There were also water plants and spiderworts. The scientists needed them in the cabin of the spaceship in order to ascertain the specific features of the development of biological species at great heights and in conditions of space radiation.

During the satellite ship's 18th revolution the order was given from the Earth for its descent. All the very complicated automatic mechanisms forming part of the system of ensuring a safe landing operated precisely and faultlessly. From the very first moment of the descent data were transmitted to the Earth with the aid of special apparatus that characterized the work of the braking device, and the system of control over the route of the descent, and a recording was made of the parameters when the ship passed through the dense layers of the atmosphere. All these data are of tremendous practical significance for future flights of spaceships and their safe return to the Earth.

In order to better understand the complexity of the task it should be borne in mind

Pity the poor desk sergeant – he hears them all!

Another disgruntled motorist pays up

By LARRY McINNIS

Really, people should pity the poor policeman on desk duty! Besides the many, many calls he gets, ranging from squirrels trying to pry open bedroom windows to actual cloak-and-dagger work, he takes the brunt of the wrath thrown forth by those millions of poor, innocent people — the citizens who get the traffic tickets.

For an example, an irate man walked up to the desk sergeant one recent afternoon clutching one of Westmount's most feared pieces of paper in his hand — a traffic ticket. He told the sergeant where he had got it.

"I've parked there for 14 years," he shouted, "and never got a ticket."

The sergeant explained patiently that the man had been lucky for the past 14 years.

The man paid. They all do. He mumbled something about the fact he considered it unarmed robbery.

"Well, the fine is provided for in the by-law," the sergeant said, with more patience than would be shown if the positions were reversed.

"But," the man protested, "I don't live in Westmount, and I don't know the by-laws."

The sergeant provided a copy of the by-law, taking time to mark the appropriate passages for the gentleman's information.

"Robbery!" the man grumbled, paying the fine and stalking out.

Witnesses to this type of dialogue hour after hour, day after day, say they wouldn't exchange jobs with a desk sergeant for all the money in the world. The sergeants, though, say it's all in a day's work.

"Wouldn't you try to beat a ticket if you thought you could?" a sergeant asked.

Watching the sergeants and their assistants is a study in personalities that would do the heart of any head shrinker (psychiatrist to you) good. Most of Westmount's finest just patiently listen to all the abuse while they calmly reach out for the money, and then write the official receipt.

"I don't think I deserve this ticket," another victim fairly screamed.

"Then," asked the deskman, "why did you get it?"

"That's what I'd like to know," the man said, with a note of triumph creeping into his voice.

Examination showed he was parked within the 40-foot limit from a corner. This important fact was pointed out to him.

"But," he protested, "I just ran into the bank. Besides, there was still about 20 feet to the corner, and that should be far enough."

"I've always expected more of Westmount," he added.

The policeman was still very patient.

"I don't think I'll pay it," the man said. "What do you think of that?"

"I think we'll give you a summons for court," the policeman said, not even showing a trace of a smile.

The man paid. They all do. Of all the tickets and summonses issued during the past year, dismissals or withdrawals of tickets average about one each month.

The man on the beat and the commissionaires who hand out tickets take their share of abuse, too — especially if the hapless motorist wanders back to his vehicle while the ticket-writing is in protest.

Some of the usual comments:

"Hey, you can't do that!" This is usually greeted either by complete silence or, at best, the squeak of a ball point pen.

Others:

"Do you beat your mother as a hobby?"

"I'm not double parked. Where's your seeing eye dog?"

"With your eyes, how come you're not wearing glasses?" Or, if the cop is wearing glasses, "How come your glasses are not thicker?"

"You should be a baseball umpire—they can't see either."

And then they run right down to the worst insults, not the least of which is: "I'm a citizen and a taxpayer. I pay your wages. And you're nothing but a stupid jerk!"

And it goes on and on.

But statistics prove you can't beat the rap in Westmount. They'll get you. The only way you can even consider beating a ticket is to leave Westmount forever, and never plan on returning.

But, everyone wants to come back to Westmount.

So, if you get a ticket, you can be sure you got it for a good reason. Take some good advice — get your $4 ready, go down to the Stanton station, pay the ticket, put the receipt in your pocket, and promise to yourself that you won't park illegally again.

And speaking of paying quietly, most deskmen agree they have less trouble collecting from women than from men.

The reason?

Simple! Wifey doesn't want a summons to be delivered to the house and let hubby know she was stupid enough to park in a no-parking zone.

The ladies usually sneak into the station, pay their money, and sneak off home again, thinking they'd rather be caught by the Policy than by hubby.

And so it goes! But some people never learn.

Hyde to speak at Gesu Hall

Residents of the Montreal area will be given an opportunity to learn much about Communist global strategy when Douglas Hyde gives a public lecture at Gesu Hall, 1200 Bleury street, on Sunday, Oct. 2 at 8 p.m.

Mr. Hyde's visit to Montreal, sponsored by the Catholic Inquiry Forum, opens the former Communist's sixth lecture tour of North America within seven years. Upon completion of a long list of U. S. speaking engagements, he is scheduled for work in Latin America.

After serving as news editor of the Daily Worker in London for several years, Mr. Hyde renounced Communism in 1948 and late that same year was received into the Roman Catholic Church. Since that time he has traveled an average of 65,000 miles a year, fighting the effects of the Communist campaign.

He will arrive in Montreal with fresh information from the jails of Southeast Asia where he spent the first half of this year living among captured Red leaders, working for their conversion to Christianity.

New regulations

Left turns at Grosvenor and Roslyn from Westmount avenue for eastbound traffic have been forbidden by the Westmount Police, effective last Tuesday.

Chief R. Edmonstone said the new regulation was put into effect to cut down the amount of turning traffic at these intersections, and to give the school children in the area a better break.

Roslyn School is located between the two streets. The area has always been considered dangerous for pedestrians.

This Week in Westmount

City took its name from Murray house

By VALENTINE RAHR

WESTMOUNT, situated on the beautifully wooded land that rises in terraces, was not always called by its present name. In 1895, it was known as Cote St. Antoine.

Around the end of the last century, it is recorded, our Community refused to be annexed to Montreal. As the character of the place become more urban, and the population overwhelmingly Anglo-Saxon, the name was changed from Cote St. Antoine to Westmount, and was suggested by the western shoulder of Mount Royal. Previously, the name had been adopted by the Murray Family for their residence "Westmount House" which stood on the site of the prsent tennis courts in Murray Park. Westmount House was demolished about 1935.

MRS. CHRISTINE LIGHTHALL HENDERSON, author poetess, teacher, lecturer, world traveller, and resident of Westmount for many years, has reached her 92nd birthday, and is still a spirited old lady. Her Montreal apartment is crammed with mementos of winters in Rome, Paris, and London, and her mind is fresh with vivid memories of encounters of vitally interesting characters.

Active in many associations, Mrs. Henderson was the first woman president of the Province of Quebec Society for the Protection of Birds, and lectured all over the province using slides to illustrate.

The doorman of her apartment describes her as "a wonderful independent old lady. She goes out two or three times a week. And she's 92!"

A fashion show organized by JULIETTE (Mrs. Glen Harmon in private life) is an exciting event. Usually, Juliette does her own commentary. Known mainly for her hat creations, other clothes and accessories can be seen. Suits and dresses, tourmaline stole, handbags, sportswear, costume jewellery, are all blended to give the wearer the most flattering appearance possible. Juliette, who does all the buying for her two stores, one in Westmount and one in Town of Mount Royal, lives in The Town with her husband and three children. About 10 to 12 models are used in a show.

An enterprising doctor, who has made trips into the Canadian Arctic to gather data on the incidence of cancer among the Eskimos carries a heavy schedule as a surgeon at the Royal Victoria Hospital, assists in development of a heat camera for the treatment of burns, experiments in diets, raises beagles, has a very unusual hobby to pursue in his not-so-spare time.

Dr. R. Lawson, has installed a giant Wurlitzer organ in his home on Churchill avenue. Many will remember when movie houses that had such an organ, were preferred to those which offered piano accompaniment to movies only.

The organ in Dr. Lawson's house was used in the Capitol Theatre, and was regarded as one of the best in our city. The effects of surf on a beach, harps, violins, bells, automobile horn, and other interesting sounds can be presented with realistic effect in addition to ordinary musical tones.

Missing parts are still being sought in an effort to make the instrument complete.

Ret. Children Association to hold meet

The Canadian Association for Reannual conference and meeting in tarded Children will be holding its Montreal for the first time, on September 14, 15 and 16, at the Sheraton-Mount Royal Hotel.

The Conference will be attended by over 500 delegates from Canada and the United States. Among these delegates will be the Executives of all the Provincial Retarded Childrens' Associations, Executives of Institutions helping the retarded in Canada, as well as representatives of the Civic, Provincial and Federal Governments, and School Boards. These delegates will be addressed by the leading authorities in the field of mental retardation.

Architects hold show at Museum

An architectural exhibition, showing work completed in the province of Quebec in the last two years, will open in the Museum of Fine Arts here on Friday, September 9, Max W. Roth, 5 Bellevue avenue, chairman of the exhibition committee of the Province of Quebec Association of Architects, announced this week.

The work featured, which will include photographs and models, has been selected by a jury of Professor Douglas Shadbolt of McGill School of Architecture and Pierre Morency, head of the L'Ecole des Beaux Arts School of Architecture, Mr. Roth stated. He said that most of the work that will be shown has been completed since the last large public exhibition was held.

"There has been more work of good quality done in the province," Mr. Roth explained, "than most people realize. The purpose of our association is sponsoring this exhibit is to encourage high architectural standards and throw a spotlight on examples of interesting and outstanding architecture."

The exhibition will continue in the lecture hall on the main floor until September 25.

Westmount police are best trained

First-aid training is apparently given very little emphasis in some West End police departments a Monitor survey showed this week. Both civic officials and officials of the St. John Ambulance Brigade were questioned.

The latter is the only organization in Montreal which is equipped to give courses in first-aid.

The survey was made after a daily newspaper reported that members of suburban police departments were receiving little or no first-aid training. The reports implied that by comparison to the City of Montreal first-aid training in suburban municipalities was inadequate.

Mr. Joffre Prud'homme, in charge of instruction at the St. John Ambulance Brigade, confirmed that the Brigade instructed members of the Montreal West police department "two years ago."

E. L. Mignault, St. John Ambulance Commissioner, noted that training varied in different municipalities. He said there were some "very qualified" men working on the ambulances recently put into operation by the Montreal police department.

Inspector G. Ferron, who is responsible for the ambulance squad, said it was the policy of the Montreal police department to train all incoming recruits in first-aid. He said a group of volunteers from the department recently underwent training at Notre Dame Hospital. "The course was two weeks long and was given by doctors and St. John Ambulance," Inspector Ferron said. The course given to Montreal policemen consisted of instruction on how to deal with shock, poison, burns, acute pain. Instruction is also given on how to deliver a baby.

Mignault noted that it is a wise policy for police departments to keep their men trained in first-aid by giving refresher courses.

Chief R. B. MacDonald of the Montreal West police said his men received "some first-aid training about two years ago." He said also that he was hoping to carry on training in first-aid this fall. "This is a small department and it is sometimes difficult to work the training in," Chief MacDonald remarked.

Mr. Prud'homme said Westmount policemen are "the best-trained as far as we're concerned." He said Westmount policemen are examined by the St. John Ambulance each year. "They always ask for a particularly tough examiner," he remarked.

Chief R. Edmonstone of the Westmount police department said it is the policy of his department to have every man qualified in first-aid. He said instruction is done by members of the department who are qualified as first-aid instructors.

Mr. Prud'homme said the Brigade has given no training to members of the Town of Hampstead police department.

Members of the Hampstead police department and Town officials were unable to give any specific information with regard to first-aid training in the Town's police department.

Mr. C. G. Rieux, Hampstead town manager, said members of the police department are given training which is "supposedly adequate". "All new members of the department are trained in first-aid," Mr. Rieux remarked.

In the absence of the Chief of Police, other Hampstead police officials said they could not release information about first-aid training.

G. Cloutier, Cote Saint Luc police chief, said "every Cote Saint Luc policeman has first-aid training." Chief Cloutier noted that every man entering the department is trained in first-aid. He said some members of the force completed a course at the Queen Elizabeth Hospital "two months ago."

Mr. Prud'homme said St. John Ambulance gave a first-aid course to members of Cote Saint Luc police department two years ago. He said also that the City requested a first-aid instructor from the St. John Ambulance "about the end of June" and added that a course would commence for members of the Cote Saint Luc department "some time in September."

Members of the City of Saint Laurent police completed a first aid course and had an examination in June, Mr. Prud'homme noted.

Assistant chief A. Sabourin of the Saint Laurent department noted that 16 of his men completed a course "about two months ago." The men attended the course twice weekly for two months. However, enrolment was on a strictly voluntary basis.

Unity results of track and field meeting

August 31 at 9:30 a.m. Staynor Park boasted 140 boys and girls who were participating in the Unity Boys' Club Summer Program closing, Track and Field and games day.

In five different age groups, with 19 different events, boys and girls were trying to win and gain credit and respect from their friends.

The meet lasted until 12 o'clock and it was great success.

A 10-8-6-4 point system worked out for the winner and for the 2nd, 3rd, and 4th places.

Of the boys, mention must be made of Steve Alleyne and Steve Vittoratos, who both won 52 points and four first places. With that performance these two boys won the Track and Field champianship of the Unity Boys Club.

Also mentioned are Hudson Alleyne who came 2nd with 36 points and Sigmund Radoman 3rd with 32 points.

The other winners out of the boys are: Neil Fernandes, Clifford Vawer, Louis Grimes, Richard Holden, Bob Johnston, Donald Taylor, Bill Standing, Gary Taylor, Roger Harte, Bruce Standing, Guy Forest, Juvenal Fermandes, Nicolo Missori, Bradley Syvret, Victor Alleyne, David Blizzard, Allan Ansell, Pierre Boulanger, Mietek Radoman, Melvin Mingo, Harri Weeks.

The girls' winner was Ann Marie Williams with 22 points, Susan Fein with 16 points, Cheryl Hogan with 10 points, Lynn Moore with 6 points.

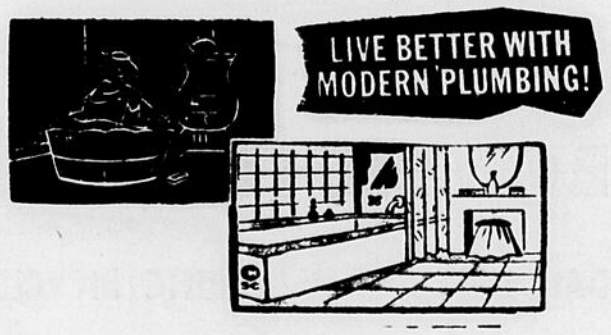

St. John's Ambulance group seeks $250,000 in annual fund drive

A Westmount resident who is playing a leading part in this year's St. John Ambulance fund campaign, which opens next week is Lt. Col. Henry T. Langston, of 522 Clarke avenue.

The campaign seeks $250,000 to carry on St. John Ambulance's first aid and nursing work for the coming year.

Lt. Col. Langston, an architect, is Westmount area chairman of the appeal. He has lived in Westmount since 1929, and served overseas during World War II with his regiment, the 3rd Field Engineers.

"The voluntary work of St. John Ambulance in the community," he said this week, "grows in importance and scope every year. First aid for organizations taking an active part in Civil Defence training has been added to the long list of public safety functions of St. John.

nity to discuss the situation and, if necessary, add further information to the appeal already submitted in writing to Westmount City Council.

The meeting also enabled the Board of Assessors to state, in some cases, how they had arrived at an assessment, which, on the surface, appeared to the property owner completely out of line with his own estimation.

Property owners on Grosvenor avenue were especially irate about th enew assessment. The conversion of Grosvenor avenue, they stated, from a quiet residential street to a main thoroughdue to increase of traffic, and fare has depreciated land values consequently an increase of noise and dust factors.

Residents pointed out that the sents an inequality which should situation on Grosvenor represents an inequality which should have been taken into consideration when the new assessment was being drawn up.

Mayor Cushing stated that the Council was now well aware of the problem, and promised that fair consideration would be given to the views of the property owners in that area.

Other complaints mentioned depreciating land values owing to the erection of new high rise apartment buildings close to private homes, which also produced a critical parking problem for small property owners.

One owner complained that his property was supposed to be in a restricted residential area and was assessed accordingly. It was, in fact, non-residential as across the street was a boarding house and a parking lot.

Property owners on Claremont avenue mentioned that buses going up and down the hill shook the buildings, and the noise and smell of gasoline was objectionable, constituting an annoyance and reducing the value of the location.

A resident of Belmont avenue objected to the assessment of twin houses, one with a smaller lot being assessed at $11,050 and the other, with a wider lot and the added advantage of a double garage, valued at $8,250.

Mayor Cushing declared that so far this year city revenues have not been adequate, consequently increased revenues must be found for next year. It is unlikely, he said, that there would be any change in the Protestant School rate. Also the city's special tax would remain unchanged.

In a stiffer note, he added, "Needless to say, these dreamers have never, to the best of my knowledge, beaten the drum for lower corporation taxes. Indeed, they are all too often to be found advocating stiffer ones!"

He said that the limited market, the second highest wage structure in the world, and punishing taxation make too clear the difficulty of being able to compete with other major industrial nations.

"There can be no assurance of prosperity or security for any of us," he said, "if we fail to provide jobs for the large numbers of people who want them."

Result of recruiting

'Around the globe' teachers start to work

It was back to school for the children this week, and the next few days will be spent by them forming an opinion of their new teachers. And there are many new teachers this year, but still not enough.

The Catholic School Commission has stated there is a serious shortage of English-speaking teachers in Catholic schools.

The Protestant School Board of Greater Montreal took drastic steps during the summer in a concentrated recruiting campaign in Canada and Europe. Results of the campaign were evident when the Board entertained 435 new teachers at lunch on Tuesday.

The list of teachers read from all points: 51 from the Province of Quebec; 14 from Ontario; five from Nova Scotia; seven from New Brunswick; eight from British Columbia; 53 from England and Wales; 13 from Scotland; six from Australia; two from Switzerland; two from Ireland; one each from France, Holland and Germany.

One of the 'imports' from Scotland, Margaret Aird, a young teacher with three years' experience in Scotland and Wales, said she was happy about coming to Canada, where she will teach in Westmount's Queen's School.

"I am happy about teaching here," she said. "Teaching is universal, and the system here seems to compare favorably with British schools."

Another newcomer to Queen's, John MacGregor, is a native Montrealer from N.D.G. who chose the teaching profession as a means of expression.

"I'm mildly nervous," he said, "at the prospect of teaching for the first time, but I think I'll manaeg alright."

The confident young man expressed some definite views on the teaching profession.

"I think," he said, "that teaching is a very beneficial occupation. A person can gain a lot; it is good for personality growth."

John said his future plans were rather indefinite, but he thought he might, some day, like to teach in a university.

"You know," he laughed, "I'm the hopeful Ph.D type."

The scene was repeated throughout the convention floor of the Queen Elizabeth Hotel, where the dinner was given. Youthful teachers, embarking in a new profession, chatted together, a definite undercurrent of excitement running through the air. Schools were compared, and plans for the coming school year.

Like it or not, nervous or not, the teachers are hard at work today.

WELCOME

Welcoming the new teachers, Roy E. Wagar, vice-chairman of the Board, asked that they work hard to develop character in their students by word and character.

"The students need a set of principles," he said. "They need to be taught to be broad-minded; to look at ideas and facts from all sides; to compare statements, reports and beliefs honestly and eagerly; to be thoughtful of others; to be gentle and modest, combined with strength and authority; to have a sense of duty, obligation and responsibility; to be honest, fair, and true; to have self-respect."

"Character," he emphasized, "is power."

Mr. Wagar said all people will have to work harder in the future, and children should be accustomed to the fact now.

"I'm not anti-labor," he said, "nor do I advocate a return to the 60 hour week of our fathers, nor am I suggesting a longer school day.

"But I do say every hour must be more productive.

"If any person only produces a half or a third of what he could easily produce, then ultimately — and in our time — we are going to be swamped by those who are willing, or have to, produce a day of full work."

He also asked the teachers to tell the children about freedom and democracy.

"Our boys and girls should be told from an early age," he stressed, "and it should be re-

Citizenry

By
The Venerable
R. Kenneth Naylor, D.D.,
Rector, Trinity Memorial Church

A few weeks ago an ex-Mayor of Toronto allowed himself the privilege of implying that French culture and language are fighting a losing battle. As a Quebecker I should say that my impression is that the the Torontonian is totally wrong, and I should add that I hope he is wrong. Perhaps the ex-Mayor and I are both guilty of wishful thinking; so it may be well to defend my own point of view.

We have a nation containing two main elements differing in culture, language and in their forms of the Christian faith, and those are likely to remain, and they will make the duality of our inheritance more pronounced than it is anywhere else in the world. There are many dual language communities in the world but there are very few in which the duality of language is bolstered by a cultural and religious duality. Perhaps Southern Ireland is another such community; and there the language duality has been deliberately introduced to make the difference in culture and religion more effective.

This mutual support of language, culture and religion must be of value because it is employed in building up the new Israeli State. It is seen in other non-Christian countries. It is part at least of the reason for the tremendous resurgence of native religions in Africa and Asia; but I doubt if the combination is more effective anywhere than it is in the Province of Quebec.

That state of affairs is part of our national life; the real question is what we are to do about it. We might spend the rest of our lives complaining about it: the English Canadian because the French members grow too rapidly; the French Canadian because the English control so much wealth. Or we may use political methods to keep control in the hands of one party. But when all is said and done the only sensible way of dealing with an unchangeable fact is to accept it cheerfully and then turn it to mutual advantage. If we accept one another and learn from one another we shall broaden our ways of thinking and become better citizens. We English-speaking Canadians might begin by learning not to be ashamed of our faith, but to make as much of St. George's, St. Andrew's and St. David's Day as the French do of St. John the Baptist's Day.

FRIENDLY ACCEPTANCE

The great harmonizer in a situation like this is friendly acceptance of the other group. It is a possible position as the Parish Priest of the Church of Notre Dame de Grace proved last Spring, when he and his assistants invited the clergy and rabbis of Notre Dame de Grace to a party and 75 of his couples invited 75 non-Roman couples to the same party. It was a most outstanding example of friendly acceptance. At the party Father Lafrance turned to me and said: "I wish they could see this in Toronto."

We have a Montreal Council on Christian Social Order in Montreal, composed of Protestants, Orthodox, Roman Catholics and Anglicans. We held a dinner to commemorate our tenth anniversary, with 250 guests from all the communions represented, with Cardinal Leger as our speaker. A few days before the dinner I was taken to task by one of my friends who said: "You can't do this sort of thing. It just won't work." I think he came from Toronto. But it did work. The whole affair was an example of friendly acceptance. We have an unusual example of the same thing in the Hebrew Institute to which the Jewish community invite the leaders of the Christian community to a day's lectures. It works. Possibly the ex-Mayor would like to try it in Toronto.

Youth Minister to open museum exhibit tonight

Youth Minister Paul Gerin-Lajoie, representing Premier Jean Lesage, will officially open the exhibition Eleven Painters in Montreal 1860-1960 at The Montreal Museum of Fine Arts at 9 p.m. this evening.

The Youth Minister, who has jurisdiction over all educational matters in the provincial administration, will be the principal speaker at the opening. A Rhodes scholar and constitutional expert, he represents Vaudreuil-Soulanges in the legislative Assembly.

The exhibition, according to Director Evan H. Turner, "telescopes the extraordinary evolution" painting has undergone in Montreal in the last century, producing at least two "international leaders."

Sixty-two lenders are contributing works to the show which will be on public view from Sept. 9 to Oct. 2. The lenders include eight institutions and companies.

Artists who will figure in the exhibition are: Cornelius Krieghoff (1815-72); Antoine Sebastien Plamondon (1894-1895); Robert Harris (1856-1919.; Ozias Leduc (1862-1955); Maurice Cullen (1886-1934); William Brymmer (1855-1925); James Wilson Morrice (1865-1924); Arthur Lismer (1885-); Goodridge Roberts (1904-); Paul-Emile Borduas (1905-60) and Jean Paul Riopelle (1923-).

Not all the artists were born in Montreal but much of their work was done here, "influencing the city and its artistic life in one way or another," Dr. Turner said.

Layreader and 'tales of a sourdough'

By MILLICENT HICKMORE

Russell Hammond, 466 Grosvenor avenue, Westmount, a Diocesan Layreader and vice-president of the Fellowship of the West (a Montreal Anglican Businessmen's Missionary Society) returned recently from the post he filled in the Yukon on his summer vacation.

Mr. Hammond was assigned to support the Rev. A. W. Smith who relieved Archdeacon Haldenby of the Klondike while the Archdeacon was on furlough.

CHURCH SERVICES

Churc services were conducted at St. Paul's, Dawson City; Christ the Pioneer, Bear Creek; St. Barnabas, Moosehide; and at Granville, where Mr. Hammond said they were well attended by local people, visiting Americans and Indians. A successful vacation school of 40 pupils and a morning devotion program on CBC were also on the agenda.

Impressed by the friendliness of the people, Mr. Hammond said they were kindly received by the Yukon Consolidated Gold Corp.; the Mounted Police, the CBC, Post Office officials, merchants and everyone they came in contact with.

"Everyone talks gold," he said. "It is a great place for souvenirs, reasonably priced."

He was very surprised by the beautiful, well-dressed ladies and children, especially as there are no dress shops in the Yukon, so everything is either homemade or bought by mail order.

The cost of living is high, with soft drinks priced at 35 cents, small loaf of bread 35 cents and gasoline 70 cents and at some places one dollar per gallon.

Dawson City, richly steeped in golden legends and traditions, is one of the world's most unique frontier mining towns, with a glowing past and a bright outlook for the future.

Situated at the month of the Klondike River, it is a picturesque town, where you can see many of the famous old landmarks and buildings of the gold rush era standing, side by side, with new and modern structures.

Behind the town rises the Midnight Dome, accessable by good auto road. From atop this dome, Mr. Hammond said one can see a wonderful view of the purple, snow-clad Rocky Mountain ranges in the distance and a panorama of all the famous old mining creeks. The mountains around here, he explained have round domeshaped tops and are called domes.

"Permafrost," he said,, "is one foot below the grass, yet people grow their crops in the short season, potatoes, cabbage, etc., with continuous daylight, in the Land of the Midnight Sun."

For amusement the Klondikers hold a monthly party in 1898 fancy dress. This is held in the last big dance hall with stage and balcony. Here for one dollar cash you can get $3,000. Dawson dollars to spend as you wish on games of chance — or to see "the shooting of Dan McGrew" or on other amusements or treats. The money does not go as far as one might think, as for example the price of a hot-dog is $500.

Mr. and Mrs. Hammond are members of St. Mathias Church, Westmount. While Mr. Hammond spent his vacation in the service of the church, Mrs. Hammond spent two weeks visiting in New Jersey and the other two weeks at their country home, Butternut Bay Farm, Waterloo Lake, Que.

All in all, Mr. Hammond summed up his experiences as "a great adventure and priviledge to and we hope," he continued, "others will do likewise in the years serve in the Yukon for the Church, ahead. It is a challenge and an opportunity."

These thirteen promising young Quebec students are among the 50 from all parts of Canada who will shortly begin their college careers in the Arts or Sciences at the Universities of their choice under the Bank of Montreal Canada Centennial Scholarship Plan. Each of these students will receive a scholarship of $750, in this, the first year of the Bank's seven-year Plan.

We, at the Bank of Montreal, congratulate these exceptional young people. We are happy to assist them in their pursuit of a higher education in fields where they will have the opportunity — through scientific research and pursuits in the public service — to contribute in some notable way to the common good of the nation in the years ahead.

To all of these students we extend warmest wishes in their endeavours to qualify for the additional valuable scholarships to be awarded each year until 1967, when the Plan culminates in Canada's Centennial Year.

HERE ARE THE ADDITIONAL AWARDS FOR WHICH THESE STUDENTS MAY QUALIFY:

48 SCHOLARSHIPS OF $1,500 . . .

In the Spring of 1961, the top 16 of these 50 students will each be awarded a B of M Scholarship of $1,500 for second-year university training.

In 1962 and 1963, provided at least good second-class grades have been maintained, these same students will each be awarded a B of M Scholarship of $1,500 per annum . . . leading to graduation in 1964.

24 FELLOWSHIPS OF $3,000 . . .

In the Spring of 1964, the top eight of these 16 students will each be awarded a B of M Scholarship of $3,000 for one year's study anywhere in Canada or abroad.

In 1965 and 1966, provided a satisfactory standard of work has been maintained, these same students will each be awarded a B of M Scholarship of $3,000 per annum for further study leading to their Doctorate.

2 BANK OF MONTREAL CANADA CENTENNIAL AWARDS OF $5,000

In 1967, to culminate this seven-year plan, the two top students—one in Arts and one in Science—will be chosen, from all 50 original participants in the plan, to receive the Bank of Montreal Canada Centennial Awards of $5,000 each for a further year of study anywhere in Canada or abroad.

Thus, to each of these two winners — if they have been participants throughout the plan — the Bank will have provided financial assistance amounting to $19,250.

Scholarship Students are chosen on merit alone — academic standing and character — by independent selection committees of faculty members of Canadian Universities. THE B of M HAS NO PART WHATEVER IN THE DECISIONS OF THE COMMITTEES.

Russian bible takes 5 years to translate

Boris Zaiteff, one of the outstanding Russian writers of today writes of the new translation in modern Russian of the four Gospels, in these words, "On my desk lies a small blackbound book, with a gold cross on the cover, and above it, also in gold, "The Gospel." This is a new translation of the four Gospels from the Greek; published by The British and Foreign Bible Society. The translation is by Bishop Cassian, assisted by a commission made up of Prof. Kartasheff, V. N. Rayevsky, Prof. A. P. Wassilieff, N. A. Koulomzine and others.

For five years every Friday members of the Commission sat for four or five hours reading the text over and over again, comparing, discussing, sometimes so carried away that tempers were almost lost. . . . . "Once we disputed half an hour over the commas in one verse of Matthew. It also happened that, having decided upon one turn of phrase, two years later we changed it, only to return after two years to the earlier text . . . . and now our five years' labor has taken the form of 234 small pages — the Four Gospels."

MR. AND MRS. ROBERT ALEXANDER HENRY McLEOD, photographed following their wedding which took place recently in St. Philip's Anglican Church, Montreal West. Mrs. McLeod was formerly Miss Linda Louise Thompson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Trevor Thompson, of Montreal West, and Mr. McLeod is the son of the late Lieut.-Col. Robert Neil McLeod, and of Mrs. McLeod, of Westmount.

St. Philip's Church scene of McLeod-Thompson wedding

The marriage of Linda Louise, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Trevor Thompson, of Montreal West, to Mr. Robert Alexander Henry McLeod, son of the late Lieut-Col. Robert Neil McLeod, and of Mrs. McLeod, of Westmount, took place recently in St. Philip's Anglican Church, Montreal West, the Rev. C. C. Campbell officiating. Mr. W. Steers played during the signing of the register, and standards of pink and white gladioli and candelabra were used to decorate the church.

The bride, who was given away by her father, was gowned in ice blue Duchess satin with a fitted bodice having a high open neckline, sleeves ending in points over the hands, and a bouffant skirt extending into a chapel train. Her full-length matching veil of tulle illusion was held by a satin headdress, and she carried a cascade bouquet of white carnations and pale pink Sweetheart roses.

ATTENDANTS

Miss Lorna Belle Houston, as maid of honor, and Miss Margaret Ann Capper and Miss Beverley Anne Capper, cousins of the bride, as junior bridesmaids, were in frocks of wedgewood blue silk organza over taffeta with fitted bodices and full skirts. They wore circlets of pale yellow and pale blue carnations in their hair, and carried bouquets of the same flowers.

Master Neil McLeod Palmer, nephew of the bridegroom, was the page wearing a McLeod dress tartan kilt.

Mr. George Joy acted as best man for Mr. McLeod, and the ushers were Mr. David Kertland, Dr. Wilfred Palmer, brother-in-law of the bridegroom and Mr. David Thompson, brother of the bride.

Mrs. Thompson, the bride's mother, was in a gown of periwinkle blue French ribbon lace over pale blue taffeta with a hat and accessories of the same shade, and a corsage bouquet of pink Sweetheart roses.

Mrs. McLeod, mother of the bridegroom, was gowned in blue and green shaded Swiss taffeta, and wore a beige hat and accessories, and a corsage bouquet of yellow roses.

Mrs. W. M. Capper, the bride's grandmother, was in a gown of royal blue silk sheer with a jacket of the same shade, and wore a navy blue hat and accessories, and a corsage bouquet of pink carnations.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the residence of the bride's parents, where pink and white gladioli were used as decorations.

Later, Mr. and Mrs. McLeod left for Metis Beach, Que., the bride travelling in an ensemble of cornflower blue pure silk shugu and wearing a beige hat and ac-

Nash-deSilva

The marriage took place in Ascension Church Westmount, of Germaine Ellen deSilva, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George deSilva of London, England, to Mr. Ralph Raymond Nash, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Nash of N.D.G. Rt. Rev. J. Lapointe performed the ceremony.

The bride who was given in marriage by Mr. A. A. Desmarais, wore a white lace gown styled with scalloped portrait neckline, short sleeves, and a chapel train, and carried a white prayer book, decorated with white streamers and orange blossoms.

Miss Lillian Yurchuck was maid of honor, she wore a peacock blue peau de soie frock, with matching head-dress and carried a cascade of yellow shasta daisies.

Mr. Kenneth Walker was best man.

Following the wedding, a reception was held at the home of Miss Lillian Yurchuk. Later the couple left for a trip to Banff, Alberta. The bride travelled in an orange and white frock, with white accessories, and a corsage of gardenias.

Beauty

Can it be only a tree I see
With its branches flung to the sky?
As the silver slip of a moon shines through
Like a flashing torch held high.

Is it only a sunset that I see
With jewelled banners aflame?
A lambent sea, like holy fire,
But fading as it came.

Do I see love in each passing face
A symbol of love divine?
A mystic magnet, that draws me on
To make it a part of mine.

Fashion Show to aid St. Ann's Baby Clinic

The Fall Fashion Show under the auspices of St. Ann's Baby Clinic Associates is being presented by Jas. A. Ogilvy's Ltd. and will be held in the Windsor Hall of the Windsor Hotel, Cypress street entrance, of the Windsor Hotel on Tuesday, September 20, at 8:30 p.m. with Mrs. Henneth H. LeClair as general convener. This organization has been in existence for 44 years during which time progress has been made in social welfare work. Members hold monthly meetings in their homes and the knitted articles turned in to the layette convener who prepares the layettes as requisitions are received from the nurses at the Child Health Clinic on Richmond square. Each layette contains 33 articles, and during the past year approximately 76 layettes were supplied to needy mothers, as well as a generous amount of cod liver oil, milk, food certificates and nursery equipment for the clinic.

MISS GERALDINE DUBEE
ticket convener

The families who attend the clinic are of all races and creeds. Members knit during the summer months to prepare for the Christmas project, and last year 125 pre-school age children were outfitted with two sets each of hand knitted toques and mitts, in addition to several other articles of wearing apparel, new and used, games, toys, candy and fruit. Each Wednesday and Friday during the year volunteers from the Associates attend the clinic where child health nurses are assisted in weighing the babies, keeping charts and records in order and supervising the playroom.

Miss G. Dubee is in charge of tickets; prizes, Miss Barbara Ann Reynolds; ushers, Miss Shirley Rochon and publicity, Mrs. J. L. Larochelle.

Tips on Touring

By Carol Lane
Women's Travel Authority

Want to save money on your next car?

You can — hundreds of dollars in some cases. The secret? Take good care of your present car to make sure you get the highest possible trade-in. The little money you spend now will be made up many times over when you trade it in.

Here are some tips on maintaining your car's appearance:

Give it a good waxing at least twice a year. Pay special attention to areas under the doors, to the joint of the door and fender, seams around the trunk lid, and to the drain lines around the roof. These are the spots where rust is most likely to form. .en you're waxing, remember the chrome work.

Have minor dents and scratches repaired immediately. Have rust spots touched up before they spread or get deeper. If your car's been through a snowy winter, have the underside cleaned in the spring to get rid of road salt.

Protect the upholstery with seat covers. You'd be amazed what a difference good upholstery makes when trade-in time comes!

Rubber floor mats are a good idea, too. They prevent wear of the carpeting. Most important spot: in front of the driver's seat. Get the kind with a waffle-weave pattern to catch dirt and pebbles and keep them from being ground into the carpet.

Finally, never neglect lubrication. Your Shell dealer will watch this for you. Good mechanical condition can give trade-in value a real boost.

Principals in Fashion Show

MISS DORIS CLARK of CJAD, commentator; and MRS. E. H. WOODLEY, chairman of the Fall Fashion Show sponsored by Wesley United Church. This event will take place Wednesday, September 14, at 8:15 p.m. in Wesley Hall. For tickets tel. Mrs. K. Jenkins at HU. 4-7590 or Mrs. Woodley at HU. 4-3429.

Potter club

The activities of The Potters' Club, 346 Victoria avenue, Westmount, will be starting again with the exhibition rooms opening to the public from 1 to 5 p.m. on Wednesdays and Saturdays, beginning September 14. As in the past, the public is welcome, and tea will be served on these days.

At the end of September classes will be organized for beginners (both adult and children) as well as experienced potters who would like to take up special courses in "throwing" and "enamelling." Full particulars pertaining to the courses may be obtained from Mrs. Lillian Cunningham, educational chairman of the Potters' Club (HUnter 6-2102).

Fall Fashion Show

The Wesley United Church Woman's Association, under the presidency of Mrs. Murray Heslop and chairmanship of Mrs. E. H. Woodley, is having its Fall Show on Wednesday evening, September 14 at 8.15 p.m., in Wesley Hall.

Miss Doris Clark will be the commentator. Tickets in charge of Mrs. K. Jenkins; refreshments, Mrs. G. R. Woolsey and Mrs. G. H. Turner; candy, Mrs. B. Bassett, Mrs. G. Hamilton and Mrs. H. Pelton. Refreshments will be served.

For tickets phone Mrs. K. Jenkins, HU. 4-7590 or Mrs. E. H. Woodley, HU. 4-3429.

Magic chocolate fudge pie for very special occasions

With spring cleaning behind us, this is the time of year when entertaining is a pleasure. And whether we're playing hostess to brides-to-be, newly-weds, or family friends, or planning a special treat for youngsters who won scholastic or athletic honors, a most popular confection is certain to be Chocolate Fudge Pie.

For the tastiest Chocolate Fudge Pie of all, here is a recipe featuring sweetened condensed milk in combination with squares of unsweetened chocolate. The result is a creamy filling with a wonderfully rich fudge taste.

The following Chocolate Fudge Pie recipe takes little time to make, and can win compliments galore for even a novice cook.

MAGIC CHOCOLATE FUDGE PIE

- 1 8 inch baked pastry shell, cooled
- 1⅓ cups (15 oz. can) sweetened condensed milk
- 2 ounces (2 squares) unsweetened chocolate
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- ½ cup hot water
- ½ teaspoon vanilla
- ½ cup whipping cream, whipped

Pour sweetened condensed milk into top of double boiler. Add chocolate and salt. Cook over rapidly boiling water, stirring constantly, until mixture thickens and drops, rather than runs from spoon, about 4 to 8 minutes. Stir in water gradually, keeping mixture smooth. Continue cooking, stirring occasionally, until mixture again thickens slightly, about 1 to 3 minutes. *Remove from heat. Stir in vanilla. Pour into pastry shell. Cool at room temperature for about ½ hour; then chill in refrigerator for at least 3 hours. Top with ½ cup whipping cream, whipped.

* If glassware double boiler is used, cover and cook for 3 to 5 minutes until mixture thickens slightly.

Add ½ tsp. salt and ¼ tsp. black pepper. Work with spoon until well-blended. Form into round thin cakes.

Fast saute in butter or broil 5 min. for rare.

If broiling, baste twice with melted butter and turn once.

Peach Turnovers: Make up 1 reciue American pie pastry or use mix.

On lightly-floured surface, roll into scant ¼" thick rectangular shape. Cut in 4-in. squares.

On half of each, place 1tbsp. peach filling. Fold over dough. Press edges together with tines of fork. Prick each turnover in centre to allow steam to escape. Brush with milk.

Dust with 5 tbsp. granulated sugar. Bake 15 to 18 min. in very hot oven, 425 deg. F.

Makes 8.

Peach Filling: Combine 1 c. sliced peeled peaches cut in 1" pieces, 2 tbsp. brown sugar and 2 tbsp. melted butter.

Pie Pastry: Sift together 2½ c. sifted enriched flour and ½ tsp. salt. Chop in ½ c. shortening with pastry blender until mixture resembles bran.

Add ¼ c. additional lard or shortening; chop until size of corn flakes.

With fork mix in ¼ c. cold water, 1 tbsp. at a time. As pastry sticks together, remove pieces to large sheet of waxed paper.

Turn up ends of paper and fold like envelope. Chill 20 min.

Put pastry in paper onto flat surface. Press vigorously with rolling pin to stick dough together.

Turn dough onto lightly-floured surface. Roll to desided thickness.

Miss Dorothy McGuinness honored on retirement

More than 90 friends and business associates recently feted Miss Dorothy McGuinness at her residence, 357 Kensington avenue, on the occasion of her retirement on pension from the Bell Telephone Company's Montreal area accounting department after 41 years' service.

Following congratulatory remarks, O. Tropea, Montreal area accounting manager, called upon J. A. McGuinness of the company's headquarters accounting department to present the president's wallet to his sister, H. I. Turner, president of the Laurentian Council Telephone Pioneers of America, presented a Life Membership certificate in the Pioneers. S. G. Malone of the Montreal area accounting department presented a gift and memory book on behalf of Miss McGuinness' co-workers.

Miss McGuinness has been long active in raising funds and organizing welfare activities for the St. Anne's Military Hospital and the Senneville Lodge, as a member of the ladies visiting committee of the Bell Telephon branch of th Canadian Legion. In this regard, she was presented with an electric clock by Frederick Foote of the Bell branch for her outstanding service.

Your School, Your Child and You

Starting The School Year Right

By E. George Cochrane, B.A., M.Ed.

Thousands of Montreal children will toddle off to school for the very first time in their young lives this week. Many thousands more will be returning to halls of learning with which they are already familiar and for which they have varying degrees of affection.

For both groups the first few days of the school year are vitally important, for it is at this stage of the proceedings that attitudes and habits are going to be formed that are likely to remain with a child until the school bells toll their message of farewell next June.

Education, even the formal education provided in our schools, is a partnership, a partnership requiring the co-operation of teacher and parent if all the latent potentialities which every child carries with him to the classrooms are to be developed to the maximum extent possible.

To the school falls the responsibility of providing an environment in which intelligence can be disciplined and organized, in which desirable habits of work and behavior can be inculcated, and in which the child's social needs will be met To provide such an environment highly trained, truly professional teachers are essential.

But even the best of teachers' efforts can be hamstrung by parents who fail to meet the obligations of their half of the educational partnership. And what are these obligations?

First, the parent should do his utmost to instill into his child a positive attitude towards school. The importance of a good education should be communicated to the child by his parent. Other things fall readily into place once the home has an awareness of the school's vital function.

For once that understanding is present, parents can readily go on to ascertain that their child is getting the amount of sleep that he requires, that his diet is properly balanced, that his vision and hearing and general physical well-being have been checked.

It is up to the parents to see that their child has a suitable place in which to do his homework, a room that is quiet, free from distractions. It is also up to them to see that their child devotes to his homework a reasonable amount of time each night.

And, finally, the parent has the responsibility of supporting the practices and policies of the school which his child attends. This includes backing up the teacher when Johnny comes home with tales of woe about the injustice of classroom life.

The time to begin discharging these responsibilities is now — at the beginning of the school year. To allow bad habits and attitudes to become established can be fatal.

CHRISTINE MANGIAROTTY, 18 year old Notre Dame de Grace girl who has spent the past two year studying at the Royal Ballet School in London, returned over the weekend in the Holland-America liner Ryndam. While in London she appeared before a capacity house at Covent Garden in a Royal Ballet School production of "Swan Lake." Christine will teach ballet in Westmount.

Smothered Chicken

1 young chicken, 3 to 4 lbs., ready-to-cook, cut up
1½ teaspoons salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
¼ teaspoon ginger
¼ teaspoon poultry seasoning
⅓ cup flour
½ cup fat, for frying
2 cups cream or rich milk
¼ lb. sliced muchrooms

Coat chicken with mixture of the seasonings and flour. Cook chicken in hot fat until golden brown. Place pieces in casserole. Sprinkle any remaing flour mixture over top. Heat cream to boiling, add sliced mushrooms and pour over chicken. Cover and bake in slow oven (325 degrees F.) until fork-tender, 1 to 1½ hours, 5 to 6 servings.

New television station searches 'fresh' star

CFCF-TV, Channel 12, Montreal, is looking for a girl who is willing to become a television star.

An extensive competition, launched today, will end with the selection of a young "unknown" who will be groomed as Pajama Pattie, hostess of the new station's nightly "Pajama Playhouse" feature film presentation.

Announcing the contest, Bud Hayward, program manager CFCF-TV, said the search will be conducted throughout the Channel 12 viewing area — a radius of 62 miles from the centre of Montreal Island.

"There are, of course, dozens of good, experienced personalities who could undertake this job, but we would like to have a fresh face, a typical girl-next-door who probably has never been in front of a microphone or a camera in her life," said Mr. Hayward.

"This competition is open to anyone who has a bright personality, an attractive appearance, a pleasing voice, and who speaks fluent English. Anyone who thinks they know of a suitable personality for this show is also welcome to send in an application," added Mr. Hayward.

"We might find a suitable person working as a professional model in Montreal — or she might be a receptionist in Granby, or a drug store clerk in Valleyfield. Wherever she may be now, we plan to find her and make her a TV star."

Throught advertising, promotions, and personal contact, CFCF-TV will search for a Pajama Pattie who can combine the grace and poise of a model, with personality, charm and confidence.

In the next few months, CFCF-TV personnel expect to sift through thousands of photographs, study applications, visit model schools, and conduct dozens of individual talent hunts.

Furrier moves to Westmount

The well-known firm of Fraser the Furrier Inc. are now located at 361 Victoria avenue, one block of Sherbrooke street.

Robert C. Fraser, president and founder of the Company received his earlier training with Jas. Coristine and Co. Ltd., Canada's leading wholesale fur manufacturers of that period, serving in various departments until finally appointed branch manager of their uptown retail store in The Dominion Square Building.

In 1936 he opened his own business, and during the intervening years has built up a City-wide clientele. All work is done in their own premises (except cleaning) by experienced help, who have been in his employ for many years.

Complete fur service includes new garments (stock or made to order), repairs, remodelling and storage.

How the spaceship...

that in landing, the spaceship has to overcome great difficulties. Suffice it so tay that during the passage of space bodies through the thick of the atmosphere a very high temperature is developed which even meteorites cannot withstand and as a rule burn up without reachink the Earth's surface. A special thermal shield helped the satellite ship to overcome these difficulties.

How did the last stage of the ship's descent proceed?

When the spaceship was at a low altitude the container with the animals was separated from it. This was done in order to fully guarantee the safe landing of the four-legged space travellers: this was the first time a spaceship had "landed." The spaceship itself landed safe and sound, as did the container with the test animals.

The landing took place on an even meadow surrounded by fields. The first to witness this historic event were the collective farmers who were working nearby. They surrounded the unusual "guest" from the Universe and looked at it with interest. Someone read the inscription on the container which requested that its location be notified to the indicated address. But there was no need to send any telegram.

ONE CAN SAY WITH reasonable safety that summer is over. Last weekend was the last for many community workers to be away from the big city, while others who have country homes of their own, will keep them open for several weeks to come. Now, the hard work lays ahead for most voluntary workers. Football officials started several months ago and are now ready to meet their opposition in all divisions. In hockey the boys have not been asleep, for there's lots of work to get the cold weather sport underway.

In football over the long weekend, NDG Maple Leafs who were crying about the lack of material and the need of a bench had little trouble in their opener against Northmount. It was a 35-0 for the Leafs, defending champions, who seem to be okay with what they have in player material. Yet, the first comment we received on Monday, was the Lions had shown improvement. One thing we were told, Rickey Samuels, a lad who once played his football out of Verdun with the Braves midget and juvenile teams, showed up well. Then Rosemount Bombers made short work of Lakeshore, which leaves the junior QRFU the same way as last year, NDG and Leafs in the finals.

There were upsets in senior QRFU. Verdun Sham Cats had their tails pulled by Cornwall Emards 15-0 and the 42-0 licking the Cats scored over Massena looks bad right now. In United States, Massena were beaten out 8-7 to the Lakeshore Als, which according to reports, about 6,000 saw the game. The word is that penalties were costly to the Verdun Cats, which has been something that the players have not been able to check. Last year the same club received plenty of yardage for penalties, and football teams just can't stand that kind of a reverse if they want to be successful.

In minor football, everything seems to be on the move. Bantam and midgets will move into the public's eye on the week-end. Pee wee football got away from the starting line last week-end. This time next week, there won't be a minor QRFU team that has not played at least one game. In the QRFU bantam section, Verdun have four teams and one from Saint Laurent. East End Optimists dropped out last week and a new opening date had to be set.

* * *

The Juvenile QRFU section opened last Saturday with two newcomers, Laval West and LaSalle Rapids meeting each other and Laval won 7-0. The coaches of the LaSalle did not waste time with their charges, for they were ordered to practice on Monday night. LaSalle were handicapped from the lack of heavy training due to their equipment not arriving on time. In fact the team played with borrowed pants.

Westmount cup cricket winners

Westmount Cricket Club won the Davidson Cup, emblematic of Montreal Cricket League supremacy by defeating Adastrians in in a two innings match over the weekend.

Adastrians 'B' team won the Rubenstein Cup, given for the division championship by defating TCA — also a two inning match.

In the Davidson Cup match, Westmount batted first and totalled 159 runs in their first innings with G. Taylor 57, V. Lewis 31 and R. Croney 20 the top scorers.

Adastrians replied with 121 with G. Taylor 57, V. Lewis 31 and R. Croney 20 the top scorers.

Adastrians replied with 121 with R. Farmer getting the top score of 51.

TOP BOWLING

Rennie and Mullholland were Adastrians' best bowlers in the first innings with 4 for 43 and 3 for 27 respectively. R. Thomas with 5 for 17.

The second innings saw freer scoring for both sides with Westmount scoring 268 to Adastrians 186.

Westmount batted all day Sunday to get their total except for the last half hour. R. Croney with 85 and K. Branker with 78 were the two top batsmen while I. Rennie took 4 Westmount wickets for 58 runs.

GOOD TRY

Adastrians went into bat for their second innings needing 306 runs to win, and in spite of losing ttheir opening batsmen very early made an excellent try.

M. Downer hit up 51 runs very quickly and was joined by Adastrians captain Mel Rilstone, who in spite of a sprained back, batted very tenaciously for 54 runs. However, this was to no avail, as Westmount, led by Bernie Thomas bowling had Adastrians all out for 186.

Verdun rink wins N.D.G. lawn meet

Verdun Lawn Bowling Club guided by the clutch playing of skip Bill Patrick won the N.D.G. Trophy with two wins, a tie and plus nine.

The Verdun crew comprising John Guthrie, lead; Bob McLaughlin second; Bob Allan, third and skip Patrick came from behind in their third match of the evening, which was against Westmount.

Trailing by one shot in the final end Patrick's first bowl touched and stayed with the jack to pull his club through with a 9-9 tie.

Verdun's two victories were over Mount Royal and Riverside by 11-8 and 13-7 counts respectively. CNR and Westmount also had two wins and tie with plus scores of four and three respectively.

Verdun also won the Trophy in 1958. It was not competed for last season.

Shipments from 21 plants engaged primarily in the manufacture of candles in 1958 were valued at $3,043,000. Religious candles accounted for most of the output.

SKIERS, SWIMMERS

A swimmer in the water is hard to see. If he's between you and the sun, he disappears completely. Following closely behind a water skier is bad medicine If he falls, you're in danger of running him down. Best practice is to give skiers a wide berth. And if you're skiing, don't "buzz" boats.

Loyola Sports Roundup

By Mike Ferrie

Some 50 candidates showed up Tuesday night for football practice in various sizes and shapes and were put through a strenuous drill of calisthetics and wind sprints.

Athletic director Ed Meagher welcomed the footballers and made a few interesting announcements. Paul Gallagher, who up to last week was unable to return, will definitely resume his duties as backfield coach. Larry Kennedy will act as line coach and Ed himself will round out the staff as an advisory coach.

Ed Meagher and Paul Gallagher are known for their fine football work and have made a great reputation for themselves. However, not too many are acquainted with line coach Larry Kennedy.

Larry joined the team half way through last season and helped tremendously. It is now felt that since Larry will be with us for the full season, the Warriors will have a well drilled and alert line.

Larry is an American, and gets his football experience from Notre Dame University, where he played under coach Frank Leahy.

He earned his letter as a guard on the 1953-54 Fighting Irish team. A keen student of defensive football, Larry intends to make the Warriors an aggressive defensive team.

Although the Warriors cannot be criticized for their defensive work last season, allowing only twenty points in six games, it was felt that the line lacked the persuit which is always associated with great defensive football teams. It is precisely in this respect, which Larry intends to drill the team on intensively.

With all of this defensive talk, it would seem as though the Warriors have forgotten entirely about an offence. Such is not the case however, as Paul Gallagher has twenty aspiring backfielders looking for berths on the team.

Most impressive on Tuesday night was Peter Howlett, a 6 ft. 1", 202 lb. sophomore who has the speed to match his size.

It is expected that the Warriors will have one or two more light drills this week before drawing equipment and getting down to serious businses.

STATE INTERVENTION

Too many people for far too long have come to accept the notion that state intervention is both desirable and beneficial. — Melfort (Sask.) Journal.

'Doc' Whittall, paddler and cager, dies at 53

A familiar figure in paddling and basketball, Earl (Doc) Whittall, a native of Point St. Charles and later a resident of Notre Dame de Grace, who resided at 5235 Cote St. Luc, died in his 53rd year, in Albany, N.Y., Labor Day Monday while on a holiday. He died following a heart seizure.

He first flashed to athletic prominence as a football player with the Grand Trunk club in the era when the Point St. Charles team boasted an outstanding reputation on the gridiron. He later played as a running halfback with senior MAAA teams.

He also played 12 years in senior Montreal basketball ranks with various clubs, but it was in paddling that the 'Doc' gained his greatest fame in the ranks of amateur athletics.

STARTED YOUNG

Starting at the age of 12 with Grand Trunk Boating Club, he won honors as a singles, tandem and fours paddler. He switched to Lachine Racing Canoe Club in the thirties and had been a competitor with that club up to the time of his death.

He skippered Lachine's lead war canoe boat for many seasons and was considered the oldest active paddler in North America.

Highly regarded for his coaching ability in the sport, he was invited by the Swedish government along with Edgar Gilbert of Montreal to go to that country in 1950 to teach their paddlers the fine points of Canadian style paddling. He did such a fine job, the Swedish boys beat Canada at the 1952 Olympics at Helsinski.

OLYMPIC COACH

The 'Doc' coached Canada's canoe teams at Helsinki and the 1956 Games at Melbourne, Australia.

Following the finish of this summer's Eastern Division regatta schedule, the 'Doc' had told friends he was hanging up the paddle.

But no one really believed this durable athlete who had never been sick in his life and imparted a Spartan training for the many younsters who had come under his wing at Lachine.

He is survived by his wife, the former Ester Lyons, son Ross and six sisters.

The funeral will take place Friday, 2:00 p.m., from D. A. Collins Funeral Home, Sherbrooke street west.

James W. Marshall, who discovered gold in California, profited little from his strike. He died in poverty.

Canada triumphs over US paddlers

Canadian entries captured first place in the first five events of the North American Canoe Racing Championships in the President's Club regatta in Washington.

Potomac Boat Club of Washington saved the day in the sixth and final event for the U.S. canoeists by defeating Lachine Racing Canoe Club in the kayak fours.

Another Canadian Club, Cartierville took the team championship with 18 points, but third in the kayak fours.

The rest of the day belonged to the Canadians.

Cartierville won the tandem single-blade and Canadian four single-blade.

Ginger Powell of Otterburn Boating Club captured the Canadian singles.

Jabor Joo, a Hungarian refugee from the Toronto Sailing and Boat Club, took the kayak singles and Lachine was first in the tandem kayak.

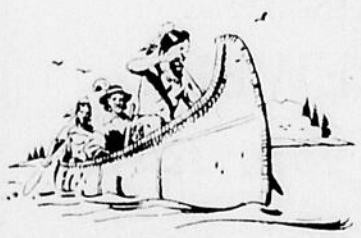

Whitlock wins ladies inter-club matches

Whitlock Golf Club captured the Canadian Ladies Golf Union Inter-club team championship and the Kate Campbell Trophy at Hampstead when they finished with a total of 93 points to edge Royal Montreal.

The first half of the competition was played at Beloeil in July. Results with scores at Beloeil list first follow:

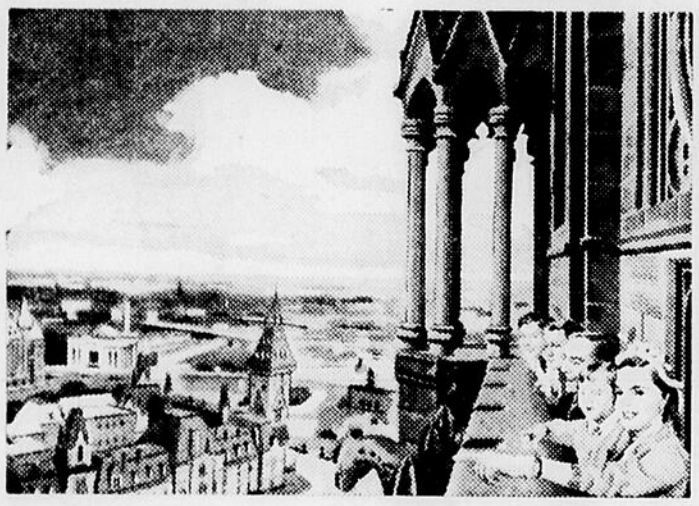

Whitlock 47½, 45½ — 93 points; Royal Montreal 53½, 37½, — 91 points; Rosemere 49½, 47 — 89½ points; Elm Ridge 39½, 50 — 89½ points; Hampstead 49½, 39 — 88½ points; Wentworth 48, 37½ — 85½ points; Beloeil 39½, 46 — 85½ points; Lachute 38½, 47 — 85½; points; Beaconsfield 38, 46½ — 84½ points; Municipal 43½, 40 — 83½ points.

TRENT FRAYNE, one of the nation's more prolific typewriter pounders and a gentleman whose western background occasionally protrudes from the printed page, has called the Winnipeg Blue Bombers to win the Grey Cup this season, which would make it three in a line for dour Bud Grant's Manitobians. Mr. Frayne has, of course, been wrong in the past, but as of today it looks as though the Bombers are well on their way to another Western title, which would be their fourth straight . . . Frayne, whose prophecies appear in he current issue of Maclean's, is also the author of these words: "Behind Winnipeg? Calgary — as long as Stampeder brass can harness impulsive quarterback Joe Kapp, probably the most exciting player in the west. Calgary, too, is tough defensively (their Don Luzzi is the best tackle in the WIFU). Calgary will thus keep Winnipeg from dominating the league as consistently as in other years, but the real struggle will be for third place — between Vancouver and Edmonton. Vancouver will take it by a shade."

All of which must come as cheering news to stout Stephen Owen, the burly American who has taken over the coaching reins of the floundering Calgarians . . . In the East, writes Frayne, it will be a two-way fight between Hamilton and Ottawa — and he calls Ottawa to win out.

One more paragraph of the Frayne prose and we shall pass on to other matters of moment: "Toronto stands little chance of finishing better than third unless it can buttress a woefully weak defence. Montreal, short of Canadian substitutes, should have little trouble cinching last place."

The Monkland Tennis Club has circulated to its membership this sincerely eloquent tribute to Malcolm David MacCallum, who died this summer: "A Gentleman, whose friendship and courtesy will be sorely missed at our club. He was a man of exceptional athletic prowess, which we all admired and made effort to emulate. Everyone enjoyed the opportunities of playing tennis with 'Mac,' who was always enthusiastic. The ladies of our club will miss this courteous and kind man, for he willingly played, in fact he enjoyed, the 'mixed' set as well as playing with the fellows. The memory of such a man will stay with many of us for the years to come. His name will invoke happy conversations and recitation of anecdotes about his tennis that he enjoyed till the end."

Montreal baseball fans, whose enjoyment this season has been reduced largely to deriving whatever satisfaction they can from the feats of Royal alumni, are taking special pride in the way that Rocky Nelson, the tobacco-chewing first baseman, has finally — on his tenth try — proved that he belongs in the major leagues. The Rock's .300 plus hitting and steady fielding are helping the Pittsburgh Pirates along the road to their first pennant in 33 years.

The NDG Junior Maple Leafs, who still maintain that they are on the lookout for additional playing talent, certainly didn't seem to be lacking very much last Friday evening at Trenholme Park as they opened the season with an impressive win over the Mount Royal Lions, the squad coached by erstwhile Alouette Bob Geary.

Hap Holland, the voice of the QRFU, contends that the Rosemount Bombers are the team to beat in Junior grid circles this autumn . . . Happy points out that the Leafs work out every night, except Saturday and Sunday, at Trenholme Park, and that anyone who had not turned 21 by January 1, 1960, is eligible for Junior competition.

Bill Davies, who is helping Roy Chesley with the Leafs' coaching this season, coached the Lakeshore Flyers to the national intermediate crown in 1953. He won seven QRFU crowns in eight years . . .

Draft football league opens season Saturday

Come rain or shine, the Draft Touch Football League is in action for its second season. Formed last year by a group of young businessmen — many of them ex-college football players — the league has doubled in size with eight teams taking the field for opening games, September 10.

Playing six men a side, the teams put out an exciting brand of football with bodily contact strictly ruled out.

"We're playing for exercise and fun", explains league president Brian Gallery, "and rough stuff is strictly watched by the league executive".

Another difference, which would probably meet with the approval of Alouette fans, is that there are no field officials.

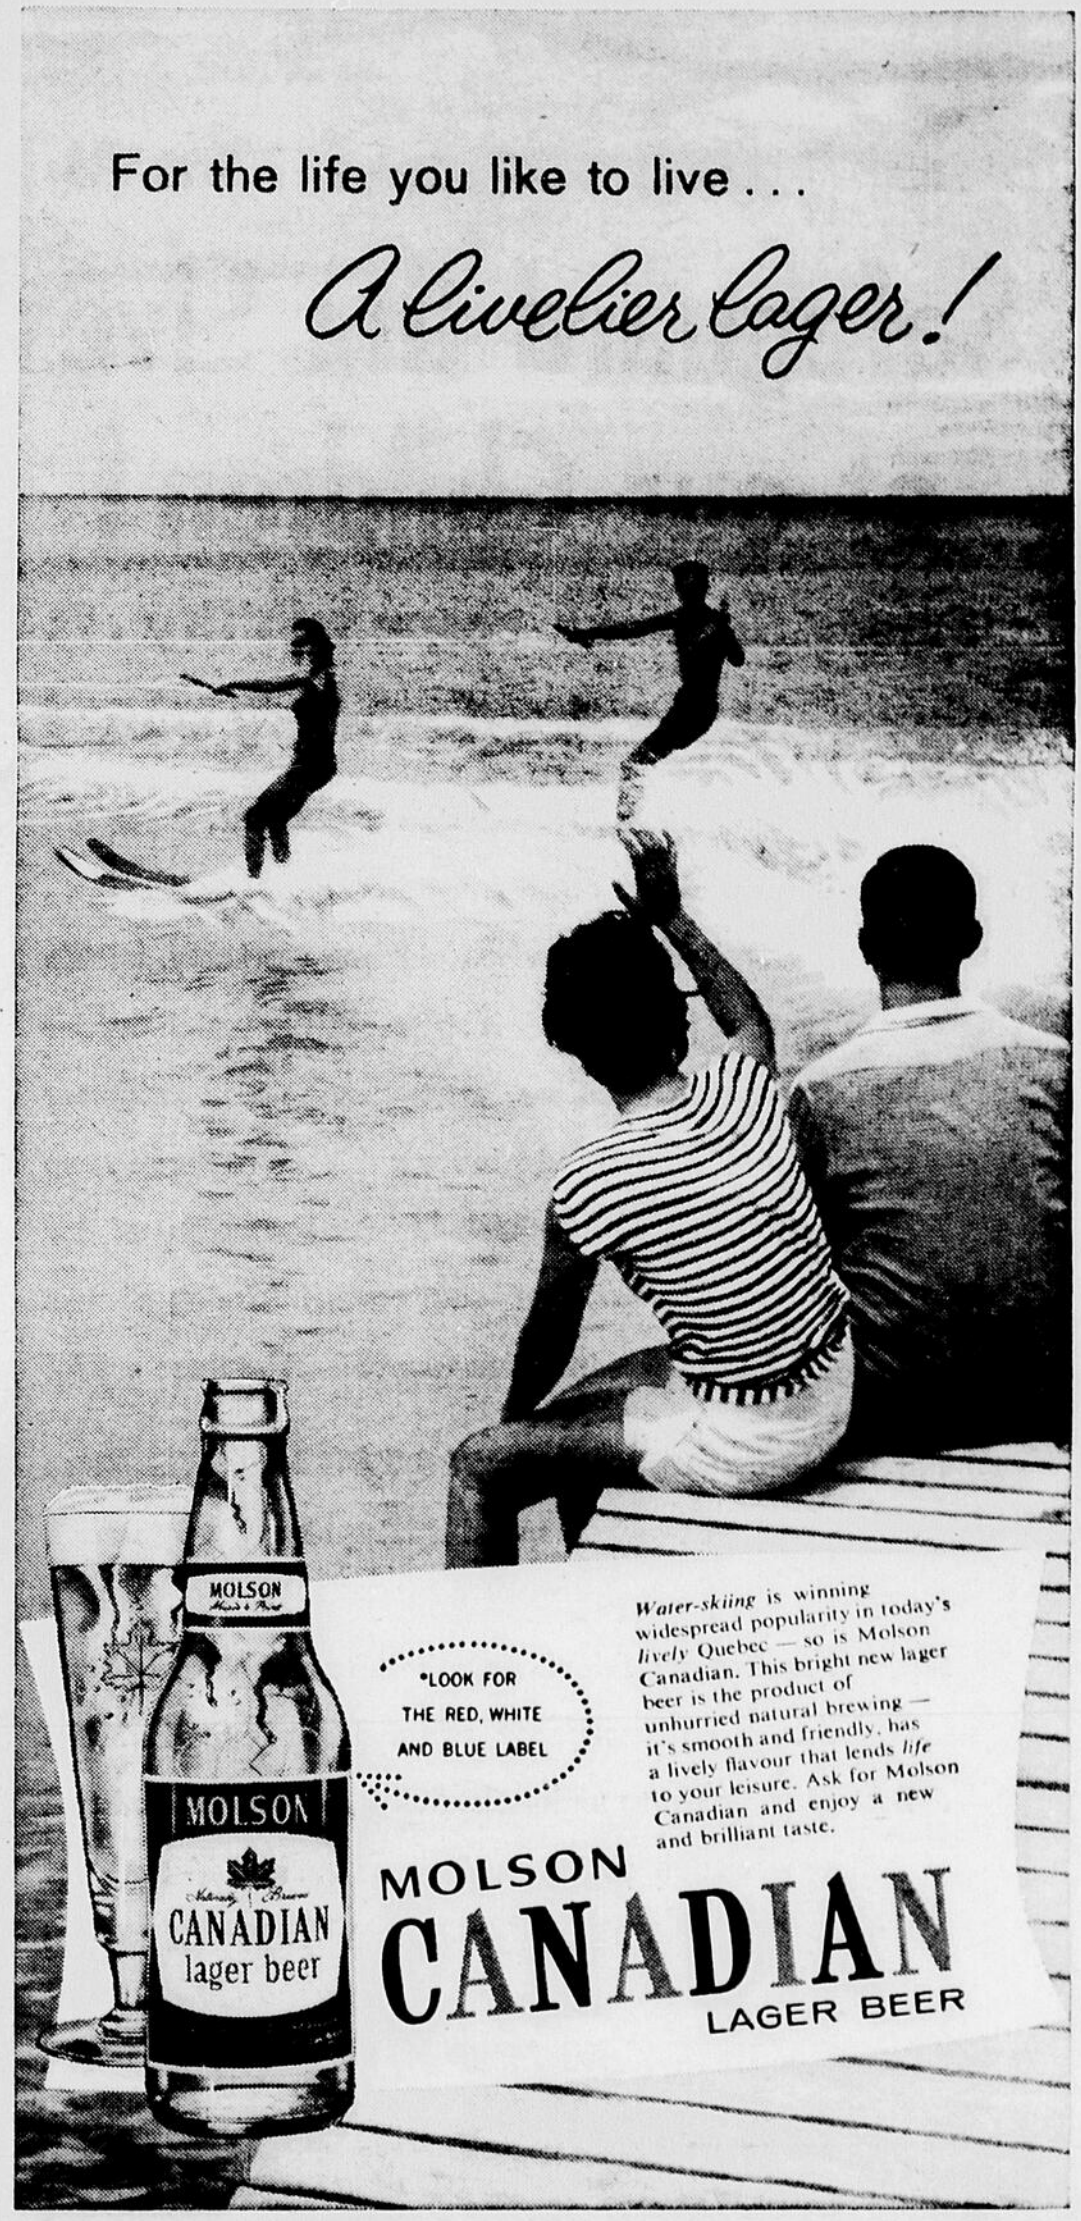

Games are played on the honor system with the players themselves deciding if a ball carrier has been touched or if there have been any rule violations.

Despite the fact that the 120 players actually "pay to play" ($3.50 to cover expenses) the league has taken on an almost professional appearance for the 1960 season.

Sweaters for each team have been supplied by the sponsoring firm — Carling Breweries Limited — and trophies have been donated for the play-off champs, the most valuable player and the high scorer.

Games are played each Saturday morning at Mohawk, Saint Laurent, Westmount and Kent Parks. Each team has seven games, leading up to semi-finals and the play-offs.

Teams include: N.D.G. Rods; Beaurepaire Barbarians; Mount Royal Playboys; Westies, composed of ex-McGill players; Martians from Westmount; Travellers, with a good sprinkling of former Loyola footballers; Greenburds, made up of Bishops' alumni; and the Saints from Saint Laurent, last year's champs.

DRIVE WITH CAUTION

Safeguard the Lives of our Children!

Safety is your responsibility . . .

when in doubt, "STOP"!

YOU, nobody but YOU controls YOUR CAR! If you are involved in an accident . . . if a child is injured or killed . . . YOU are responsible! Remember, children are hasty, unable to exercise judgment, it is up to YOU to watch out for them, to be extra-cautious, extra-alert! YOUR judgment as an adult has qualified you for a driver's licence . . . so YOU must accept the responsibility for the safety of our children by taking more than usual care, by being always on the alert! You can NEVER replace a life!

The first rule of safety is . . . SLOW DOWN AND LIVE! Those few extra moments you spend driving slowly may save a child's life, perhaps YOUR own! Be sure your car is in top mechanical condition! Poor brakes and slippery tires can, in an emergency, mean death instead of life! Best of all, learn to understand and obey all traffic laws! They were written for good reason . . . in the interest of YOUR safety and the safety of others!

REMEMBER, SAFETY IS NO ACCIDENT! BE SURE TO DRIVE CAREFULLY . . . TO PROTECT OUR CHILDREN . . .
