WIDE LEGISLATIVE RANGE COVERED BY HOUSE AS SESSION NEARS END

Patent Medicines, Pensions, Marketing Bill and National Defence Among Many Matters Disposed of at Busy Sessions of Both Chambers Yesterday—Amendments to Income Tax Act Remove Important Loophole in Tax Collection System.

Ottawa, June 16.—Patent medicines, garnet wheat, income taxes, customs tariffs, police pensions, the marketing bill, national defence and the franchise are some of the matters covered by odds and ends of legislation which are a step advanced on their path to law today as a result of busy sessions of both the House of Commons and the Senate yesterday.

Acting with the speed which characterizes pre-prorogation sittings, the parliamentarians went a long way towards clearing the order paper the past week and yesterday was one of the most fruitful days of the week.

The Senate engaged in a few tilts over the marketing bill, which was the subject of long debate in the House of Commons. When it emerged from the Senate committee of the whole, wheat had been deleted from the products to which it may apply. The basis for the action was that the marketing of wheat is now regulated by the Board of Grain Commissioners.

Another amendment proposed by Hon. Raoul Dandurand, Liberal leader, along the lines of Liberal contentions through the long debate in Lower House, was rejected. It would have required all marketing schemes devised under the bill to be approved by Parliament before they could become effective.

The bill stands for third reading, and after that will have to return to the House of Commons because of the amendment respecting wheat.

Meanwhile the Commons also had to do with wheat. It gave third reading to the amendments to the Canada Grain Act under which Garnet wheat will be graded separately.

The question has long been a touchy one in western Canada as millers both in Canada and abroad have argued the grading of Garnet wheat along with No. 2 Northern left the millers in the dark as to the milling qualities of this important grade of wheat and brought Canadian wheat generally into ill-favor. On the other hand, farmers in the northern sections of the Prairies, where the early ripening Garnet produces good crops, feared separate grades would mean lower prices for them.

Two new grades of wheat are established by the bill, Garnet No. 1 and Garnet No. 2. Garnet wheat is barred from the No. 1 Northern grade, but may be included in No. 3 Northern.

Sale of patent medicines as cures for diseases which no patent medicine can cure will be more difficult under the amendments to the Food and Drugs Act which passed the Lower House. Hitherto these alleged remedies for a long list of ailments have been sold freely under the Food and Drugs Act. The changes make the provisions of the two acts uniform.

Changes in the income tax law were also approved in the House of Commons, and Hon. E. N. Rhodes informed the House the receipt of a tax free income of $5,000 a year under a company set-up such as that of the Macdonald Tobacco Company will no longer be possible. All undistributed earnings when distributed in any form following a company winding-up or reorganization will be subject to income tax. The bill was not reported out of committee as a clause respecting the taxing of foreigners doing business in Canada was allowed to stand at the request of Wilfred Hanbury, Liberal member for Vancouver, who feared it would restrict trade.

Another measure which received third reading in the House of Commons was one providing for pensions for widows and children of constables in the Royal Canadian Mounted Police. The fund for this purpose will be provided by contributions from the men and not from the Treasury.

As introduced and read for the first time, the franchise bill provides for two enumerators in each polling division to compile a voters' list. This is in accord with a suggestion of Rt. Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, Liberal leader, who wished a representative of an Opposition party to have a hand in preparing the list to avoid possibilities of abuse.

Amendments to the Customs Act and the Special War Revenue Act received the final endorsement of the Commons. The former gives effect to the tariff changes in the budget and the latter is particularly concerned with modifications in the mine charges on gold.

Senator J. S. McLennan, of Sydney, N.S., speaking in the Upper House agreed with Senator W. A. Griesbach, of Edmonton, that improvements might be made in Canada's coastal defenses. The difficulty in connection with the matter was that military men wished absolute security, which was impossible because of financial limitations.

The only committee still working full time in the Commons group probing price spreads and mass buying. It sat every day this week and devoted the whole time to an inquiry into the T. Eaton Company, Limited. The committee will meet again on Tuesday to investigate another large department store organization, the Hudson Bay Company.

CLAIMS INNOCENT OFTEN SUFFER UNDER EXCISE LAW

Ottawa, June 16.—Strong objections to the excise bill as passed by the House of Commons on June 15 were expressed by a number of members. Continued on Page 2.

BENNETT IS RECIPIENT OF HONORARY DEGREE AT TROY

Degree of Doctor of Laws Conferred Upon Canada's Prime Minister in Token of Friendship which Has Long Existed Between Canada and United States.

Troy, N.Y., June 16.—Prime Minister R. B. Bennett today was awarded the honorary degree of Doctor of Laws as Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute observed its 100th annual commencement.

Palmer C. Ricketts, the Institute president, declared in conferring the degree on the Canadian Premier that it was "in token of the friendship which has long existed between Canada and the United States, and in recognition of your disinterested and courageous leadership in a period of economic stress."

ONTARIO FACES A WEEK-END OF FIERY ORATORY

Political Meetings and Speeches Will Be General Throughout Province as Lively Election Campaign Draws to Final Stage.

Toronto, June 16.—One of the most heated election campaigns in Ontario had two more days of life today before the citizens put an end to the fiery oratory by casting their ballots on June 19. The citizens are taking their politics seriously and the political gatherings during the week-end promise plenty of excitement.

Premier George S. Henry, greeted by tomatoes and eggs at his Brantford appearance last night, will address a Thorold gathering tonight while Mitchell F. Hepburn, Ontario Liberal leader, appears in Toronto for a rally to be attended by all Liberal candidates of Toronto and York ridings.

Mr. Henry's charge against Mayor M. M. MacBride at Brantford last night was described by the chief magistrate as "untruthful and defamatory." The Premier alleged the mayor lost his job with the Highways Department as safety lecturer through "irregularities" in his expense accounts. The mayor replied that the department wanted him to travel by train instead of motor car and as a result of this he was discharged.

The Premier alleged the mayor lost his job with the Highways Department as safety lecturer through "irregularities" in his expense accounts. The mayor replied that the department wanted him to travel by train instead of motor car and as a result of this he was discharged.

Mitchell F. Hepburn, Ontario Liberal leader, made his appeal for votes before 10,000 at Windsor following a brief address at Amherstburg. Mr. Hepburn promised a special session of the Ontario Legislature would be called to deal with unemployment by Liberals if the Dominion Government cut off direct relief on July 15, and providing his party attained power on June 19. He also declared the election of a Liberal Government would mean the end of the beer and wine bill "before the first of July."

GRANTED NEW TRIAL. Halifax, June 16.—The Supreme Court of Nova Scotia granted a new trial today to Daniel F. Sampson, accused in the murder of twelve-year-old Bramwell Heffernan last July.

NEW BRIDGE WILL BE OPEN TO TRAFFIC ON JUNE 22

Official Inauguration, However, Will Be Held at Later Date when Lieutenant-Governor of Province Is Expected to Be Present.

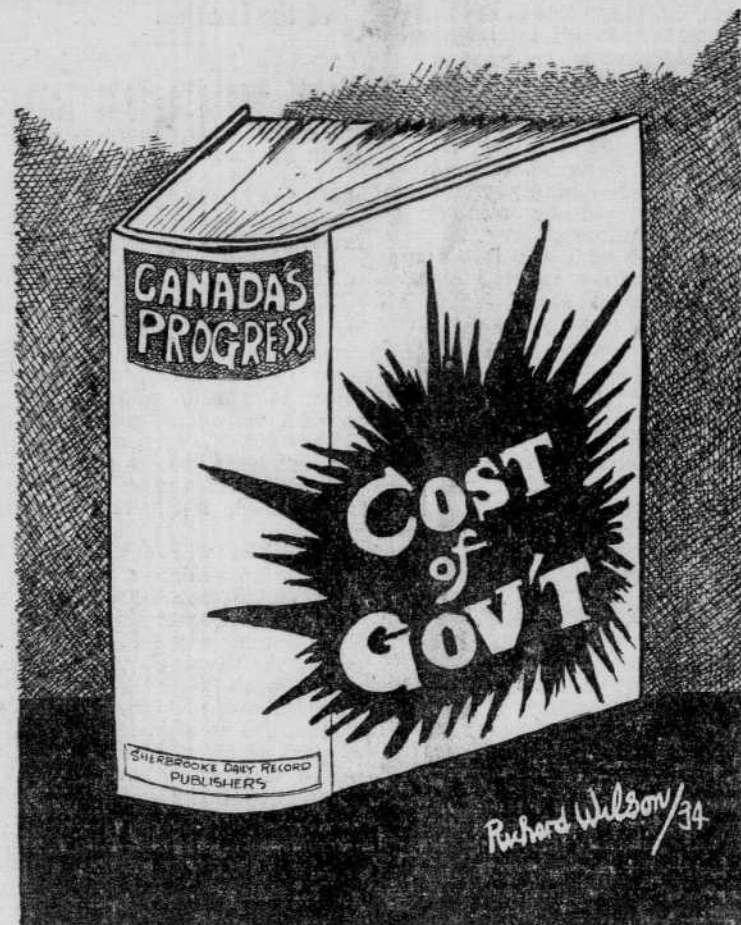

Montreal, June 16.—The Honore Mercier bridge, which spans the St. Lawrence River between Ville LaSalle and Caughnawaga, will be opened to traffic at noon next Friday, June 22nd, but the official inauguration will be deferred until Wednesday, July 11th, it was announced following a meeting of the Lake St. Louis Bridge Corporation.

It is hoped that Hon. E. L. Patenaude, Lieutenant-Governor of the Province of Quebec, and members of the provincial Cabinet, will be present at the christening and inaugural ceremonies. Details will be completed shortly and announced at an early date. Meanwhile, from next Friday, traffic will use the bridge which is completed except for certain minor work such as the erection of the buildings to house the scales for the weighing of trucks, etc., and the installation of some of the electrical material for lighting purposes.

PROMINENT FRENCH OFFICIALS TO ATTEND GASPÉ FETE

Paris, June 16.—The French cabinet decided today to send Pierre-Etienne Flandin, Minister of Public Works, and M. Charley, Rector of the University of Paris, to represent France at the celebrations attending the fourth centenary of the landing in Canada of Jacques Cartier.

A nervous clerk of one firm called police and they doused a water a suspicious looking package, only to learn that it contained sausages.

Often it is like finding a needle in a haystack to total up the various items of expenditure as related in that tome which is called the Auditor-General's Report.

Thousands of pages of the Report are needed to give the details of the many Spending Departments, of the score of Commissions and Bureaus, and tens of thousands of names are attached to the varying sums. We do not find a single payment to the Sherbrooke Record, even though such payment would not affect the disclosures from day to day—nor "whatsoever King may rule."

That our readers may be public-minded through a study of details has been our purpose, lest party prejudice blind them to a judicial decision in the last mad days of an election contest.

With the patience which only a knowledge of political inaction can permit, we still have hopes that the present administration will gain the courage to cut off an hundred millions of the deficit before it goes to the people.

We have an abiding faith in the fact that Truth will prevail.

NEW ANGLO-FRENCH TREATY ENDS LONG STANDING COMMERCIAL WAR

Details of New Agreement Calling for Withdrawal of Quotas and Countervailing Duties Between Two Countries Not to Be Announced Until Actual Signing Next Week—Treaty Heals Breach Caused by Imposition of French Quotas Early in Year.

London, June 16.—Trade difficulties between the United Kingdom and France were removed by a new trade agreement initiated today at the Foreign Office.

Both countries will withdraw measures for quotas on imports and countervailing duties applied against the other some months ago and most-favored-nation treatment will be mutually conceded.

The pact embodies decisions to improve the conditions governing trade in certain agricultural products, but no particulars of the agreement will be made public until the pact is actually signed, probably during next week.

Previous trade agreements between the two countries were nullified early in the year, after France imposed drastic quota restrictions on important imports from Britain on January 1st. Britain retaliated by boosting the duties on French products, and eventually the existing trade agreement and an old convention giving privileged port treatment were killed.

A French trade mission came to London in March and left within a few days with some confusion as to whether a basis had been found for a new agreement. Evidently, however, the negotiations carried on between London and Paris have since removed existing difficulties.

STEEL WORKERS HAVE AGREED TO AN ARMISTICE

Labor Federation Head Presents New Compromise Plan in Eleventh-Hour Effort to Bring Peace to Strike-Threatened Industry.

Pittsburgh, June 16.—The strike-threatened United States steel industry—granted a temporary amnesty by a large portion of its workers—turned to Washington today for initial steps in placing into effect a non-strike agreement.

The agreement, proposed by William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, calls for a presidential-appointed board to settle disputes within the industry.

Its acceptance at a strike convention of the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel & Tin Workers last night marked an armistice in a grave situation which had existed in the steel industry since the Association's annual convention in April. At that time the union voted to demand recognition as the steel workers' bargaining agent. With such recognition generally refused by the steel operators, the convention was called to decide upon a means of reaching its objective—generally construed to mean a strike.

CHICAGO SCHOOL TEACHERS END ALMOST PAYLESS YEAR

City Owes Its 400,000 Teachers $23,016,505 as Classes Are Dismissed Two Weeks Earlier than Usual.

Chicago, June 16.—School's out today, and so are Chicago teachers—out seven and a half months pay. They end an almost payless year and start a payless vacation. They have been paid recently for work done in September and in October, the first six weeks of the school year, and some of last year, but they haven't seen money on scrip for the months since then.

The city owed them $23,016,505 when they dismissed their 400,000 young charges, two weeks earlier than usual, and called it a year.

BODY FAILS TO AID SEARCH FOR MISSING WOMAN

Police Announce Body of Unidentified Woman in New York Morgue Not That of Woman Missing Since Marriage to Bigamous European.

New York, June 16.—Police today announced that the body of an unidentified woman at Fordham morgue was not that of Agnes Tufterson, missing corporation lawyer of Detroit and New York.

Police had sought to identify the woman's body, washed ashore from Long Island Sound, as that of Agnes Tufterson, missing since shortly after her marriage to Ivan Poderjaj, Yugoslav adventurer.

Poderjaj, who already had a wife in Europe when he married Miss Tufterson, is under arrest in Vienna for questioning about Miss Tufterson's disappearance.

Thomas Rogers, keeper of the Fordham morgue, to which the body was taken after being found on June 7 by two canoeists, reported to police last night that the features of the dead woman bore a "striking resemblance" to those of Miss Tufterson, as shown in her photographs.

Poderjaj and Miss Tufterson were married on December 4 at the Little Church Around the Corner following a swift courtship.

Miss Tufterson was reported last seen on December 20, the date she had planned to sail with her husband on the liner Hamburg. She dropped from sight after leaving her apartment presumably to board the ship. Poderjaj sailed two days later, alone on the Olympic.

The woman lawyer withdrew $20,000 in securities and cash from banks shortly before her disappearance. Authorities have been unable to trace it.

Scotland Yard sought to learn whether Poderjaj had any of Miss Tufterson's baggage when he landed at Southampton from the Olympic.

Vienna and London police disclosed they were checking a report that Susanne Ferrand, the wife with whom Poderjaj was living in Vienna, previously had lived in England with Captain Frederick Dawey and that Dawey has been missing since Miss Ferrand left with Poderjaj.

MACMILLAN PREPARES FOR ANOTHER TRIP TO ARCTIC

Noted Explorer Hopes to Bring Back Answers to Some of Mysteries of Arctic Plant and Bird Life.

Portland, Me., June 16.—With the last duffle bag stowed and the ship's collegiate company on board, the sturdy little schooner Bowdoin was ready today to carry Lieut. Commander Donald B. MacMillan on his fifteenth voyage of Arctic exploration.

Sailing time was set for 2 p.m. E.S.T. When the expedition returns next fall, it hopes to bring back answers to some of the mysteries of Arctic plant and bird life. One of the projects will be to band more than one thousand birds in an effort to trace their migratory habits. The possibility is seen that some so identified may eventually be found in Little America.

The coast of Baffin Land and Labrador will be the scene of the expedition's activities. MacMillan plans to land a party on the Buttons, Bleak Islands off the Labrador coast, although the Canadian Government has warned that swirling tides make a land all but impossible.

MacMillan will be assisted in his studies by Dr. Alfred O. Gross, professor of biology at Bowdoin College, and Dr. David Potter, professor of botany at Clark University, Worcester. Bowdoin undergraduates comprise the crew.

The law forbids civilians to carry or possess firearms of any kind except by special licence and provides that the government will buy all arms at prices ranging from ten dollars for pistols to fifty dollars for machine guns.

FRANCE SEEKING UNITED ACTION TO FORCE GERMAN DEBT PAYMENTS

British Support Especially Sought in Move to Impound German Foreign Balances to Protect Holders of Dawes and Young Loan Bonds—Large Adverse Balance of Trade by France Seen as Most Effective Weapon—Germany Demands More Trade from United States.

Paris, June 16.—France intends to collect interest from Germany on Dawes and Young loan bonds in some manner to protect her commercial interests, the cabinet decided today.

The exact method was undetermined. But whether a clearing house, which would handle all French and German merchandise accounts, or a straight surtax on all German goods will be put into effect, ministers were agreed that there would be prompt action.

FRIENDLY NEGOTIATIONS UNDER WAY WITH GERMANY

Paris, June 16.—Vigorous and swift measures to assure the collection of payments on the Young and Dawes loans by Germany were planned today by France.

Negotiations to get Berlin to make payments to French investors have been put into full swing, with Roland Koester, German Ambassador to Paris, conferring with Premier Doumergue.

If negotiations fail, observers said, the French Government sees in its adverse commercial balance with Germany a means to collect on the debts. By increasing the duties on imports from Germany, which the government is empowered to do, France can retaliate.

Under the scheme which is being considered, French importers will hold out for a percentage of payments from Germany, which will be credited through the Bank of International Settlements at Basel, Switzerland.

France is seeking a united front of creditors, however, at least to get British support for joint action.

Plans for a clearing house which will enable Paris to impound funds destined to Germany were reported to be under way. Britain is taking a similar step.

DETAILS GIVEN OF DOCTRINES OF NEW PARTY

R. L. Calder, K.C., Says Third Party to Base Campaign on Few Promises and Simple Four-Plank Platform.

Montreal, June 16.—Repeal of arbitrary legislation "taking away the rights of citizens; establishment of an honest system of government book-keeping; forcing of owners of leases on forest land or water resources to surrender them to the Government; and "complete and pitiless" investigation of all government contracts signed during the past twenty-five years will be the platform of Quebec's new third party.

Announcement of the four planks of the party platform was made at a meeting last night of La Federation Populaire, by R. L. Calder, K.C., right-hand-man of Mayor Camille Houde in the recent Montreal civic elections.

Mr. Calder stressed the fact present-day problems were many and the new party's promises would be few. He also declared no leader had been chosen. The only indication he would give of its personnel was an admission that Aime Guertin, member of the Legislative Assembly for Hull, would be his closest collaborator in the party's propaganda.

"We will be free from alliances with any other party," he said. "We will be neither Conservative or Liberal. We will be free from party entanglements." He said he had suggested the party be named "The Square Party," Le Parti Francais.

To Mr. Calder, the great curse of the present Canadian political system was that both parties looked first for a party fund. If it were not necessary to spend huge sums in getting the elector to register, to go to the polls, sometimes to buy "telegaphers," organizations and purchase people and leaders of people, there would be no need for such funds, he claimed.

Among the thirty European statesmen he mentioned, Knickerbocker said, not one failed to declare that Hitler was sincere in saying he did not want war now or in the near future.

"Almost every one of them, however, qualified that by saying that not a single one of them in his own heart is able to say today what his attitude toward war will be when Germany is sufficiently re-armed to make victory probable."

Here is Mr. Knickerbocker's reaction on visiting London as a final point in his tour:

"French statesmen may be alarmed. Italian statesmen may be alarmed. A dozen chancelleries may echo with anxious prophecies, but when British statesmen are alarmed it means dark days for Europe."

"Britain is alarmed today." Knickerbocker believed that 1944 will be the zero hour for Europe. Ten years was the longest period which Europe's leaders would give him as their estimate of the duration of peace.

GARNET WHEAT DECISION ENDS LONG CONTROVERSY

Ottawa, June 16.—Ending a controversy that has raged for years among wheat growers, grain traders and millers, the House of Commons last night passed its final approval on the amendments to the Canada Grain Act establishing separate grades for Garnet wheat. The changes went through the committee speedily and received third reading.

FRANCHISE BILL PASSED FIRST READING IN HOUSE

Ottawa, June 16.—The new franchise bill which received first reading in the House of Commons yesterday makes provision for the appointment of two enumerators to assist in making up the lists in each polling division. This provision was requested by the Liberals during discussion of the resolution on which the bill is based. The proposal originally was for one enumerator.

The new bill also makes provision for the appointment of a Franchise Commission to administer the act and take charge of the preparation of the lists.

It is provided that not later than six months after the act comes into force the Commissioner shall issue and publish in the Canada Gazette a proclamation calling a general registration of electors to commence and end on respective days stated in the proclamation.

LUMBER SHIPMENTS AND ORDERS IN U.S. DECLINE

Production, However, Exceeded that of Previous Week by Almost Seven Million Feet.

Washington, June 16.—Lumber orders and shipments in the United States continued to decline during the week ending June 9 although, a report today from the National Lumber Manufacturers Association said, production exceeded that of the previous week by almost 7,000,000 feet.

Orders for the week as reported by 1,477 mills were 149,349,000 feet against 163,030,000 for the previous six day period. Shipments totalled 149,279,000 feet compared with 160,910,000 feet and production climbed to 170,251,000 feet as against 163,420,000 feet.

FIGURES REVEAL STANDING OF MORGAN BANKING HOUSE

Statement of Condition as of June 1 Shows Capital Funds of $57,607,114, Deposits of $271,823,364 and Total Resources of $344,251,616.

New York, June 16.—J. P. Morgan and Company in a statement of condition as of June 1, issued for publication today, shows capital funds of $57,607,114, deposits of $271,823,364 and total resources of $344,251,616.

The figures were given out coincident with the legal changes made by the banking house to conform with the Banking Act of 1933, as of June 1, under which the firm is becoming a private deposit bank and discontinuing its securities business.

Compared with the last figures given out at the banking hearings in Washington, as of March 31, 1933, the present statement shows substantial increases. The net worth at that time was $44,862,920. This had increased by $8,561,650 by April 30, 1933, while the present capital funds are about $4,000,000 larger than at the latter date.

WARDEN RESIGNS POST AT PORTSMOUTH PENITENTIARY

Federal Minister of Justice Announced Resignation, But Declined to Give Any Explanations.

Ottawa, June 16.—The resignation of Lieut.-Col. W. R. Megloughlin, warden of the Portsmouth Penitentiary, Kingston, was announced by Hon. Hugh Guthrie, Minister of Justice. Beyond the bare announcement, the Minister had nothing to say. He declared, however, that no pressure had been brought to bring about the warden's resignation. Col. Megloughlin, who was in Ottawa, told newspapermen that he was returning to Kingston, and would quit the warden's post some time next month.

The retiring warden who is from Ottawa, and resided here prior to his appointment to Kingston, went there in the fall of 1932. Just previously there was turmoil in the institution, culminating in a riot.

Colonel Megloughlin took charge and subsequently General Ormond, superintendent of penitentiaries, a result of this numerous changes were made in the regulations, and for a long time there was peace and quiet. Quite recently another outbreak occurred when fire destroyed one of the buildings and the evidence pointed to it being of incendiary origin.

GOVERNOR'S VISIT WILL SHATTER OLD TRADITION

Visit of Governor P. Ashley Will Be First Time in Long History of Hudson's Bay Company that One of Its Heads Has Visited Far-Flung Posts in Eastern Arctic.

St. John's Nfld., June 16.—The Governor and Company of Adventurers of England trading into Hudson's Bay—"to give it the official name"—has lived through 264 years of trade in the north. Never in their long history of the Hudson's Bay Company has one of its governors visited the far-flung posts in the Eastern Arctic. But tradition is about to be shattered.

When the ice-scarred Nascope steams into the north on her annual trip to the posts this year Governor P. Ashley Cooper will be a passenger. Up the Labrador Coast and through Hudson Strait he will follow the trail of the seventy-ton ketch Nonsuch, outfitted in 1663 by Prince Rupert of England and his company of gentlemen adventurers.

The Governor is on the way to Newfoundland. After touring the colony he will go to Montreal to join the Nascope. The supply ship, leaving Montreal, will proceed through the Strait of Belle Isle, and then turn north.

Scattered trading posts on the coast of Labrador, in Baffin Land, and in the mainland of the Canadian north will be visited before the Governor goes back to England to direct operations of the world's oldest public company.

SEEK TO REMOVE BARRIERS AGAINST BRITISH POLICE

Legislation to Be Introduced in British House Would Remove Hampering Restrictions on Officers Delegated to Keep Order at Political Meetings.

London, June 16.—The Government is to bring in legislation which will remove hampering restrictions on police delegates to keep order at political meetings.

Winding up a full-dress debate on Fascist-Communist clashes and the whole question of political uniforms and "private armies," the Home Secretary, Sir John Gilmour, declared in the House of Commons the Government would not for one moment allow any party or group to assume functions rightfully belonging to the executive.

He referred to the eagerness of the Fascists to defend their meetings from physical disturbances. What concerned the Government was the fact that when Communists attacked a Fascist meeting at the Olympia last week the Fascists decided they would repel the invaders themselves, declining to seek police help.

At present the police may not enter a political meeting unless they are invited, or unless there is actual violence. The new legislation, Sir John intimated, will remove the restrictions.

POLAND MOURNS TRAGIC DEATH OF MINISTER

Police Refuse to Divulge Any Details in Their Search for Assassin of Country's Minister of the Interior.

Warsaw, June 16.—Poland mourned her murdered Minister of the Interior, Bronislaw Pieracki, today and named Leon Koslowski to carry on in his place.

The police, seeking the man who shot down Marshal Pilsudski's friend yesterday, kept the details of their investigation a close secret.

Although the Berlin Mittag Zeitung reported that the assassin had been arrested and that other arrests were impending, the authorities here refused to confirm or deny the reports in order to prevent publicity from hampering police efforts to round up an alleged gang.

They did, however, announce that the murderer was a young man, apparently of the educated class, middle-sized, fair-haired and clean shaven.

Physicians who operated on the dying cabinet minister last night in an effort to save his life, revealed that Pieracki never had a chance.

He fought in the Pilsudski legion during the Great War, fought again in the Polish-Bolshevik war, and was wounded several times. One of his wounds had necessitated the removal of part of his skull which was replaced with a platinum plate. The assassin shot him once in the head and twice in the body.

The surgeon said any kind of a head wound would have been fatal.

Angels—And now that our encouragement is ended, you will be good enough to return my letters.

Edwin—Sorry, but when waste paper went to $1 a hundred pounds I felt that I couldn't afford to keep them any longer.

Two roughs were having a real set-to and both were beginning to show signs of wear. At this stage one of the onlookers thought it was time somebody put a stop to it and dashed off for a policeman. He found one just round the corner.

"I say, officer," he gasped, "you're wanted—there's a fight on!"

"That's all right," said the policeman.

She declined to comment on the nature of the charges which might be made in the prospective divorce action.

liceman, "I've been watching 'em for the last ten minutes, and if I leave them alone for a bit more they'll be easier to handle."

Winnipeg, June 16.—Continued optimism is reported throughout the western Prairies as a result of the bountiful rains that have watered the country for the last two weeks and the showers still predicted by the weather bureau. All grains now above ground are showing healthy color and growth and in some localities are beginning to come into short blade.

This is the pronouncement verified by the Canadian Pacific Railway agricultural department through its general western agent, J. M. McKay. A second week of favorable crop weather promises considerable recovery even where conditions were serious as the result of wind, heat and the grasshopper menace in the month of May.

While without doubt areas in south-western Manitoba, south-eastern Saskatchewan and east-central Alberta suffered irreparable losses, the general feeling is better with the encouragement attending weather conditions as a whole.

Range and pasturage in the three provinces promise well also for cattle prospects which were beginning to worry the owners. Cool rainy weather has somewhat checked the grasshopper activities but the pests are still reported as a menace and active war is still waged by the use of poison bait.

British Columbia fruit is moving in large volume and peaches and apricot thinning operations are started in some places. Raspberries and cherries are coming fast and the apple trees are a hopeful sign for a full market in season.

This is a story of which Mr. Roosevelt, the President of the United States, is fond. It concerns an American who had had little education, but was very wealthy.

He was touring through England on a sight-seeing trip, and stopped his magnificent car at the little cottage in Chalfont St. Giles which is associated with John Milton, the poet.

He paid his sixpence and entered, viewing the humble abode with reverent awe. "So this is the place it is?" he mused, almost to himself.

"Yes, sir," replied the caretaker. "This is Milton's cottage, just as it was in his time."

"Milton's!" blurted the American. "Gosh, someone fooled me all right. I thought it was Lipton's!"

U.S. PRESIDENT'S DAUGHTER SEEKS A RENO DIVORCE

Mrs. Anna Roosevelt Dall Confirmed Reports of Intention to Take Divorce Proceedings Against New York Broker Husband.

Omaha, Neb., June 16.—Anna Roosevelt Dall, daughter of President Roosevelt, sped today toward Reno and a divorce.

The blonde matron, who has been a resident of the White House with her father and mother, in an exclusive interview on her train last night, confirmed the reports that the primary purpose of her journey was to begin proceedings against her broker-husband, Curtis B. Dall.

"I can't say positively that I'm going to get a divorce," she said. "Many things might arise. I don't believe any woman can say such a thing definitely."

Reluctant to discuss her personal affairs, Mrs. Dall had secluded herself in a compartment with her two children, "Sistie" and "Buzzie," and a negro maid.

Mrs. Dall has leased a home near Lake Tahoe through an agent, and plans to establish residence in Nevada. She has not retained an attorney, she said.

In her discussion she compared her situation to that of her brother, Elliott, who was divorced last July at Minden, Nev., and married Miss Ruth Goggins, of Fort Worth, Texas, less than two weeks later at Burlington, Ia.

"There is little reason why the private life of any person should be exposed to the glare of publicity," she said

He had been managing very successfully the Bromel Lake Duck Farm for a period of twenty years. Mr. Bates was born in Londonderry, Nova Scotia, and lived in the United States for eleven years, where he married. IT DOESN'T PAY.

Grenville Kleiser.

It doesn't pay to worry
Or to give up in despair.
When there's so much of gladness
For you to freely share.

It doesn't pay to grumble
If things seem to go wrong;
Better drown your disappointment
In a cheerful burst of song.

It doesn't pay to dawdle
When there's urgent work to do;
A clear and noble purpose
Will inspire the best in you.

It doesn't pay to sorrow
Over chances missed and gone,
For however black the midnight
There will surely come the dawn.

ONTARIO ELECTION BULLETINS.

The Record offices will be open on Tuesday night next to accommodate any of our subscribers who may be interested in the Ontario election results, where there are 240 candidates offering themselves for 90 electoral ridings.

There is an aroused public interest in political and economic affairs throughout all Canada, and there is much to gain through deduction in future elections for positions of public trust.

For those in public life there will be a lesson to learn in the result in each and every constituency. On Wednesday we will publish the full returns and definite results.

THE PASSING MENAGERIE OF MIS-GOVERNMENT.

"Hash" is the term one can imagine Frederick of Prussia describing the present state of Europe. "Bosh!" would be Bismarck's obituary, as he looked back upon this orbit which he felt he was learning to run like a sewing-machine in a form of smooth perpetuity.

In our own History of all nations merged into one Anglo-Saxon Empire we can go back and view the ups and downs of what the historians term "progress," with each step marked by bloody seals. There may be found in the past centuries the record of some one or another dictator who ruled the mind of England and who brought order out of chaos for a single lifetime.

There are men who prefer to think they are inspiring fear and exercising power to giving thought to day-to-day happiness.

Not within the memory of man lies the recollection of the days when a warlike country squire became Lord Protector of England and for twelve years exercised all the power of a Dictator. Not until he was dead did a cowardly crew emerge from the bidding places to place his head on a pole.

The Wars of the Roses and royal inbreeding had produced an idiotic and joy-living set of monarchs for England who were not capable of learning by either experience or example.

From the mélange of the many tribal kings, who fought and stole from their fellows in the early centuries, the Kings triumphant kept their subjects quiescent by carrying the war across the English Channel, whence they brought home booty and hordes just as did the Roman Caesars in the yet earlier days.

Did their successors learn sense? Not that history records it. England still meddles with continental affairs, and taxpayer discontent is shrouded behind that which we term loyalty and enthusiasm.

Going further back to the Hebraic records of Kings and their captures we read of the little Kings who bravely told their loyal subjects that previous potentates had whipped them with heavy taxes but that they could look forward to being whipped with scorpions if they but breathed a protest. These kinglings have long since been laid with their fathers.

We devolved democracy, where government was decreed by the people for the people. This was ancient, for in the aeons before we learn that every once in a while the people took away from the usurping power all kingly misdemeanours and governed with some sense.

It is generally admitted that the ex-Kaiser was three parts crazy, as a result of many old-time royal families being cousins. That is another story. Yet the thin red line of bad judgment passes down the pages of history, and the Historian reflects upon the lack of wisdom on the part of Kings and their advisors—chiefly their advisors who live in cloistered ease and do not know what the masses are saying and doing until the explosion occurs.

Fifty years ago who ever thought of a Lenin or a Stalin or a clothing-maker Trotsky from New York governing Russia. History will accord them a place akin to the troubadour who leads around the circus bear that walks like a man. Yet these men knew that in Russia they had but to subdue a nation of millions who were ignorant and uneducated.

Italy has ever greeted the Garibaidian type in a search for the freedom they read about.

Germany was so busily intent on worshipping a war hero of the dotage age, that an Austrian sergeant slipped in like a Corsican and grabbed the reins.

Other nations, intensely interested in their own affairs, and in devising means of reducing huge war debts, looked on with indifference at drastic changes in the European structure.

On this side of the water we have a Neighbour Nation willing to try anything once, as they see their national debt leap a billion or more in a single yearly jump. They follow every chimera, but are presently working on the assumption that they can borrow themselves out of debt by grants of more millions to this and that.

Canada is on the fringe of all nations' affairs, aware that even a crazy man's bullet, as it did in 1914, set the world afire. For in that year an archduke of no consequence was killed, and the autocratic monarchs trembled and went blood-mad.

Canada is trying to remain sane and sensible, even while Parliament is pestered with the freak and fancy notions of men who come from constituencies of aliens not yet assimilated or even become possessed of our aspirations.

Nor do we wish to be compelled to change administrations as fast as they do in Republican France, where the moving question is, "Who is Premier to-day?"

If our politicians would cease playing politics and showing fear of the doles and the railways, then would we be transported with joy instead of being fettered by a fool transportation policy.

One politician accuses his rival of being a Dictator, or of attempting to assume that role. He may win at that, even though he offers no pleasing solution of any of our tax-imposing problems.

EDITOR'S NOTE BOOR.

"It is not fair that at this late hour the honourable gentlemen of the House of Commons should be asked to study the bill," voiced one member of Parliament. It has ever been thus. Important measures are laid aside because of the fear of contentious opposition. Then are they hastily pushed through, with all their errors of omission and commission. The country suffers, and the legal counsel hustles to find the holes in any legislation passed by old men in a hurry. Less talk and more action in the zero weather would overcome the fear of a July in Ottawa, where the rocky promontory exudes heat all day. There promises to be much busy legislation in the hope of prorogation on or before June 30th, when Charlie comes home again.

The archaic mind is first cousin to the autocratic. When they are merged there arises the demagogic. It is the product of inbreeding of wrongful thought. It will be long ere the intelligencia of Canada will thrust aside the insult to the pressmen of Canada by the Premier of the day, when he resented criticism by saying that the ill-paid journalist had neither the right nor the talent to criticize him because he was poorly paid by publishers for services rendered. It was far from an astute criticism, for it was directed at every man who flourishes a high-powered Waterman to express his thoughts.

The only two provinces in Canada which still have a provincial Conservative administration are both settling the appeal to the people for re-election. In Ontario the Henry administration will be upheld by a reduced majority, whilst in Saskatchewan the defeat of the Anderson government may be looked for. The Ontario Liberals should win, but their divided leadership is a grave handicap, and the old-time Liberals are crying, "Oh, for a Sir Oliver!" They wot not what a Mitch they are in.

"I often used to fault-find with newspapers for their repetition," said Dr. Barnes, "but for a month and a half, though we have advertised our own optical store as removed to 66 Wellington, half of our optometry patients tell us that they first called at the upstairs place which we occupied for seven years." The learned man of optometric science aptly illustrates our contention that the successful advertiser advertises every day in the year, so long as he tells his story differently every day.

What Editors Say

THE INDIAN MIND.
Winnipeg Tribune.

We could learn much from the Indian. Children and money are very important elements in human life. The Indian is never cross or cruel to a child, though he may fail to keep it as clean as we think it should be kept. His attitude toward money—that money is to be had by things with, that loans make bad friends—is eminently sane. In fact, it has received the rare tribute of plagiarism from Major C. H. Douglas, Henry Ford and many other advanced thinkers about finance.

The Indian does not merely despise hoarding. He is simply unconscious that such a thing is possible. Why be thrifty with money and lose your friends? The Indian thinks it is more important to cherish friendship than it is to worry about money. The Indian is right. What are all our new-fangled economic schemes but an effort to bring back into civilization the financial sanity of the Indian?

FOOTPATHS IN BRITAIN.
Kingston Whig-Standard.

As a result of the great number of pedestrians killed and injured in highway accidents in Great Britain, the question of adequate footpaths along the highways has lately been getting serious attention.

To establish information as to the extent of provision for the safety and comfort of those who travel on foot the Automobile Association carried out a census of footpaths on the roads which carry the greatest volume of motor traffic.

A summary of the statistics show that, excluding certain districts where speed limits were introduced by the new Traffic Bill, "properly made" footpaths exist on less than fifty per cent. of the mileage of important main roads to which no speed limit applies. There was found to be a wide variation in the different counties and areas in the proportions of footpath mile. ge.

The figures are interesting in the light of the situation in Canada. Even within areas of our densest population there is no footpath mileage on our highways to compare with the lowest figures for Great Britain. Of course, the density of population in Great Britain makes footpaths a far more vital need. At the same time there is need for the provision of more footpaths in this country, particularly where residential building has spread out from cities and towns.

DEVELOPING YOUR PERSONALITY.
Grenville Kleiser.

Integrity is a vital element in building a forceful personality, and a foundation principle of permanent success. To develop a winning personality you must diligently aim to make your every thought and action honest. You must think about your business, or your plans, or your life ambition, or your competitor, or your employer, or your employee, must be an honest thought. In short, your mind must be on the subject at hand.

You are already of consequence in the world if you are known as a man of strict integrity. If you can be absolutely relied upon; if, when you say a thing is so, it is so; if, when you say you will do a thing, you do it, then you carry with you a passport to universal esteem. Men soon come to know you and to appraise you at your true value.

There is a certain business man who has never broken his word. His word is as good as his bond, but it is more; he will go out of his way, if necessary, to fulfill his obligations to the letter. He is a fine example of "Integrity of Thought."

This dominating principle of his life has been one of his greatest assets. When he began his business career, intimate friends told him he could not possibly succeed on the basis of the Golden Rule, but he has succeeded in a pre-eminent degree.

As an ambitious man you should be wide-awake to the opportunities on all sides. Be constantly alert to every move on the business chess-board, though this does not imply the slightest departure from the principle of strict integrity. Win your way by right means. This is the only success worth while. Cultivate as your invariable habits honesty of thought, honesty of speech, honesty of purpose, and honesty of action. These will command the goodwill and confidence of men as nothing else can, and your own realization that you are guided by unswerving truth and uprightness will constantly increase your self-reliance.

Keeness of competition, and the questionable methods of some men, often put honor to its severest test. But as a man of integrity you will steadily adhere to your principles. Avoid even the smallest departure from truth which some attempt to justify by such names as "diplomacy," "expedience," "business," or "exaggeration." Resolutely avoid that common insincerity which shows itself in equivocation, reticence, pretended nonconcern in others' opinions, deception, evasion, pretention or concealment.

LONE GRADUATE OF SCHOOL WAS GIVEN ALL THE FRILLS

None of Customary Formalities Omitted from School's Commencement Exercises Despite Fact There Was Only One Graduate.

Placentia, Calif., June 16.—None of the frills were omitted as the Valencia High School's one-man graduating class received his diploma.

Roy Tillery, the only graduate, made the presentation, gave the valedictory address and was honored by several songs by a mixed chorus. The commencement address was delivered by Verner Kersey, State Superintendent of Public Instruction.

Why Should We Attempt To Stimulate Interest?

W. P. Percival, M.A., Ph.D.

"He delighted to wander over unknown regions, to visit unknown rivers, the interest lessening the fatigue." Ovid.

Many boys who have appeared dull in school have become successful men in later life. Doubtless they possessed initial ability or they could never have made much progress. Why then did they not display their talents at an earlier date?

The answer is probably that they did not "find themselves" while they were in school. The subjects of the curriculum did not appeal. The classroom was a tedious place. Nothing happened to arouse them to their best efforts. The teacher did not inspire. His methods lacked lure.

The practice of many teachers of presenting new material in a dry, lifeless manner, and of cramming shrivelled up information into the minds of unwilling pupils before it has been dressed up and made attractive to them, is much less prevalent today than formerly. The new psychology has emphasized the fact that when a person is interested he works harder, understands better and retains longer than when he is forced to grind against his will. The modern teacher knows that inducing a pupil to build up good habits of study is much more essential than testing his knowledge of facts drilled under compulsion.

How to interest pupils in their daily work is by far the most pressing of all classroom problems. If the school has failed in any particular to realize the hopes of its friends it is in omitting to make adequate plans for the motivation of the various subjects so far as to direct into useful channels the total capacities of each child.

If pupils could be interested in their work some present difficulties would rapidly disappear. The problem of discipline would never arise. Retardation would largely vanish. The grading of pupils would be simplified, for all would do their best and receive credit accordingly.

Theories about doing work for the sake of law have fascinated the philosopher's chair. It is difficult to persuade adults to follow such views, how much more laborious will it be to induce children to accept and act upon them? The appearance of working may be assumed by both under certain circumstances, but it is probably much hypocrisy and not a little fear hidden beneath the cloak.

The varying programmes in the schoolroom help to reduce fatigue, but they bring their own trials. At the stroke of a clock every child cannot be expected to switch his attention from history to spelling, and to be as fully absorbed when he begins the new lesson as he was when reading a thrilling story about the Indian mutiny.

Window decoration has become an art in modern salesmanship. The use of law is fascinating to the public to buy. Newspaper advertisements compel interested people to visit certain stores. Companies send out circulars written by experts who know how to gain the attention of the recipients. Banks build safety devices to give a feeling of security to depositors. The scientist frames a hypothesis to give color to his experiment.

Since adults with developed minds require motives for themselves and others surely it would be foolish to refuse to suggest sensible ones to children. It is unfortunate that, up to the present, adequate incentives have not been devised and made known for the large majority of school topics and for the various types of conduct in the home. Progress in this connection is being made, but there is still much to be done.

The most important time for presenting motives is in the initial stages. When the poster has attracted a customer into a store much of the salesmanship is done. When a device has tempted a child to start a piece of work the impetus should carry him along some distance. The mastery obtained may take him still further. Much motivation, of course, is artificial, and may be costly in time and not in money. But it is well worth the price if it affords effective stimulation for good purposes.

The securing of interest is a nearly as insuperable a task as it may at first appear. Lessons in geography, for example, can be made a series of interesting stories so different from the cold facts and figures of location, population and industries. Every geography lesson should be a journey and an adventure. How attractive can a lesson on the Near East be made? Here is Constantinople, one of the most fascinating cities in the world, a meeting place of Europe and Asia. One can thread his way through the mazes of the grand bazaar with its amazing mixture of the products of the East and West. People of many races jostle one another in its streets. Strange garments, often brilliantly colored, are seen on every side, and a babble of unknown tongues dings in the traveller's ears. A few suitable magazines and picture post cards will make the visit much more realistic.

Every lesson in history should be fascinating. Many stories furnish historical background against which figures and movements are seen in their real significance. Tales like the following make the past live to the reader: Davis, "A Victor of Salamis"; Signet, "The Queen's Vow"; Read, "The Cloister"; "The Heart"; Kinkley, "Hereward the Wake"; Scott, "Ivanhoe"; Stevenson, "The Black Arrow."

For memory purposes the printed page cannot successfully compete with the dramatized pageant. Cartier, Frontenac, Wolfe, Montcalm, Madeleine de Vercheres, Dollard, John A. Macdonald can come to life again. The mariners of England may be seen guarding their native

The Inglenook

By G. W. Smith, M.A., D.D.

"What kind of book is that you are reading, John?" John said, as he put his finger into the place of the Book where he had been reading. "It does not just look like a Sabbath Day book. It is very like Chase's Almanac, and it is hardly the kind of reading we should take on the Lord's Day."

"Now John, you should know me better by this time than to suspect me of reading anything which should do me any harm, on this day, or any other day. But if you want to know I have been reading in this book about one of the most remarkable men who ever lived on the face of the earth since the apostle Paul left it."

"And who might he be, good wife?" John asked with a gesture of surprise.

"Just listen to this story before I tell you his name. He belonged to your own Old Country, as you call it, but to that part of it you do not seem to regard as the best, England. He was a boy, and quite a boy. He saw a bird's nest in a tree and nothing would do but he must climb that tree to get the nest. Up he goes so far and fell down. But he had a second try and fell down again. That should have been enough but he tries a third time and this time he fell and broke his leg. He was taken home, and the leg set. In course of time he was getting better. His mother had to leave him one day and warned him to be very careful about himself. It was sometime before she returned and, as soon as she saw him she noticed that he was flushed and excited. She asked what he had been doing. He held up the nest to her. She scolded him but he said, 'I really could not help it, mother; you know that if I begin a thing I have to go through with it.'"

"And what became of the nest and the bird?" John asked, "It is in the book. It tells about some of those criminals who were caught at last and hanged."

"And it is there you are quite wrong, John. It tells about a man named William Carey, one of the greatest missionaries that ever set his foot outside his native land. We have nobody of his kind in our neighborhood. He was a minister, teacher and a cobbler. He made little enough money, but he was a good man. He had a book and of other volumes which came from God. He gathered from his reading of the Book that God Almighty did not confine His blessings to people with white skins. He had been trained to believe that there was a certain number of people elected to everlasting happiness but he was not at all satisfied with that. He made a map for himself. It was a sheet of brown paper and the different countries of the world were marked on it with pieces of leather, the cuttings from his trade. It struck him that those who had the Gospel should go to the countries where it had not been heard. He belonged to that sect known as Baptists. As a minister he had sometimes to preach to the other ministers. So at one of their meetings he told the others what was in his mind. His last words were 'Expect great things from God. Attempt great things for God.'"

"That would startle, if it did not stagger his hearers, I suppose," said John. "It just comes to me now that I have heard the name of that William Carey. He went to India as a missionary. There was more in his head than making boots, for, if my memory serves me correctly, he learned to speak seven or eight languages. They way I got to know about him was that when I was at the Sunday school my teacher used to tell us about a minister named Dr. Duff, who was in Calcutta. He said he had been at the meeting of the General Assembly when he was speaking about missions and he spoke so long and with such vigour that he swooned. They carried him into the vestry and after he came round he said to those with him that he must go to those into the Assembly and tell them something more."

"You are right, John. It tells about that man in this book. He was a fine stalwart Highlander, that Dr. Duff. When he went out to take his work he went to see that man Carey. He found him a little, wizened creature, old and frail. He got his blessing and was always on the most friendly terms with him. The little book is brought out because it is a century this year since Carey died. It says that he began something which has saved the Christian Church and made the world a safer place for everybody. I could just wish that another would come like him."

"Mother, isn't dinner ready yet?" asked Bobbie.

"No, dear, it's much too early," responded the mother.

"Isn't the clock slow?" asked Bobbie.

"No, dear," replied his mother. "Well, I guess my stomach must be fast then," added the child.

PRINCE URGES EXTENSION OF FARM SCHOOLS

His Royal Highness Donates Five Thousand Dollars Towards Campaign for Establishment in Canada of Farm Schools for Children from Great Britain.

London, June 16.—"I think it is true to say that both Canada and Australia are conscious of a growing conviction that in self-defence against other special dangers they must recruit their stock from the home of the pioneers," declared the Prince of Wales.

His Royal Highness was speaking in behalf of the Child Emigration Society's plan to establish farm schools in Canada for children from Great Britain, including a farm school in British Columbia. Encouraged by the gift of $5,000 from the Prince, the Society has launched a campaign for $500,000 to develop the scheme which has proved very successful in western Australia.

The Prince described this system as most satisfactory, if indeed it was not the only completely successful form of migration at the present time. Of one thousand children sent in this manner to western Australia only six had been returned as failures, he declared.

The consent of the Canadian federal and provincial governments had already been secured for starting a farm school in British Columbia, he informed his audience.

"There is no danger," the Prince said, "of the new school adding to the unemployment problem in Canada or elsewhere, because the children will remain at the farm school for five years. Consequently it would be five or six years before they are ready to seek work."

"In fact, the school would give a certain amount of employment in its own right."

"This is the right time to start so that the training of the first batch of children will be completed, let us hope, by the time prosperity has returned."

COW AND GOLDFISH ABOARD EXPEDITION TO GREENLAND

Goldfish Are Being Taken to Pastor of Church in Brigus, Newfoundland, and Cow Is Destined for Ship Captain's Mother.

New York, June 16.—With a cow and several goldfish aboard, an expedition was sailing for Newfoundland today in a two-masted schooner for a three months' trip along the west coast of Greenland.

To obtain specimens of birds and animals for the Philadelphia Academy of Natural Sciences is the object. The ship, the Morrissey, Captain Bob Bartlett in command, sailed yesterday.

The cow, a registered Guernsey, is a gift from the president of the Academy to Captain Bartlett's mother in Brigus, Nfld. The goldfish are being taken to the pastor of a church in Brigus.

STOPPING NIGHT BASEBALL GAME COST MAN HIS LIFE

Electrocuted when Poked He Used to Shatter Light Came in Contact with a High Tension Wire.

Chicago, June 16.—Anthony Anich, fifty-one years old, made good his threat to stop a night baseball game which interfered with his sleep, but it cost him his life. Only hoots greeted him as he urged the youths, who had gathered under his window last night to benefit from the illumination of a corner street lamp, to play elsewhere.

Finally, his patience exhausted, Anich seized an iron poker and told members of his family he'd stop the game—he'd smash the light. With the poker, he scooted to the top of the twenty-five foot wooden pole. The poker described a vicious arc, shattered the light and contacted a high tension wire.

Anich toppled from the pole, electrocuted.

AUSTRALIA REQUESTED TO CURTAIL FLOUR SHIPMENTS

Shipments of Soft Wheat Flour into Canada by Way of Panama Canal Prompts Government to Ask for Curtailment.

Ottawa, June 16.—Australia has been asked to curtail its shipments of soft wheat flour into Canada, it was announced at the Department of External Affairs today. For some time a steady trade in this type of flour has been going on supplying the needs of sections of British Columbia, but now some shipments are on the way to Montreal via Panama Canal. These shipments impelled the government here to ask for curtailment.

Experimental Farm Experience

Lennoxville Experimental Farm.

MATURE PULLETS SLOWLY

Many poultrymen in the past have carried out the practice of forcing their pullets towards maturity. They then congratulate themselves if at three and a half or four months the birds start laying. As a rule pullets thus forced will produce very small eggs for a considerable period and seldom, if ever, develop into high producers.

Through experiments conducted at the Experimental Farm, Lennoxville, it has been found that, as a rule, pullets should not begin to lay until they are five or six months old. This is particularly important with the highly-bred, intensive laying stock. To be capable of high production and at the same time produce large eggs, a bird must be well-fed and of good size for the breed.

The best way to retard maturity, and, at the same time, produce strong, vigorous birds, is to begin feeding grain liberally when the chicks are quite young. Fine chick grain should be available to chickens right from the start. As they begin to use this feed, the increase in size, coarse grains, containing at least forty per cent. good oats, should be gradually introduced. Hopper feeding of fine grain should be started when the chicks are three weeks old, and this practice continued with coarse grains until they are ready for the laying pen.

Liberal grain feeding, together with the use of a well-balanced growing mash, will generally mature pullets in five or six months. During this period the birds have had time to develop properly, and are bigger, stronger and sounder than those forced along rapidly. They are also more likely to begin laying larger eggs and are less apt to go into a fall moult. Such birds are more profitable, as the small eggs, produced by birds hastened into maturity, are of a low price. It is, however, not so much a question of actual cost per bird, but rather what that bird will do when mature. Invariably the slowly-matured, well-grown bird will prove to be the best investment.

April-hatched pullets should not begin to lay until late in September. At that time egg prices are usually advancing, and, with good, strong pullets laying eggs of good size, there is an immediate possibility of realizing a profit.

Insofar as feed consumption is concerned, it makes very little difference whether it takes four, five or six months to bring pullets to laying size. Grain is cheaper than mash. Accordingly, if more grain is used, the feed cost is less. It is, however, not so much a question of actual cost per bird, but rather what that bird will do when mature. Invariably the slowly-matured, well-grown bird will prove to be the best investment.

EAST FARNHAM PEN STILL REIGNS SUPREME.

The East Farnham pen of White Leghorns entered in the Lennoxville Experimental Farm Egg Contest by the late W. W. Bromby appears to have a permanent monopoly on first place.

Since the contest began thirty-two weeks ago, with twenty entries, this pen has held the leading position. It now has its credit on a total of 1613 points and 1,485 eggs.

A second pen of the same breed also entered by Mr. Bromby, is next in line with 1,522 eggs and 1,517 eggs.

The standing of the six leading pens is as follows:

Owner	Eggs	Points
W. W. Bromby, East Farnham	1,485	1,613.8
W. W. Bromby, East Farnham	1,517	1,512.2
Lennoxville Experimental Farm	1,356	1,441.5
La Ferme Experimentale	1,362	1,413.4
H. R. Drew, North Hatley	1,289	1,359.3
Etienne Rioux, Notre Dame de la Paix	1,284	1,353.8

The two East Farnham pens are White Leghorns and the remaining four are Barred Rocks.

STAGING A SHOW SOMETIMES PROVES QUITE EXPENSIVE. When you enter a theatre to see a movie and you insist on staging a show of your own, it is apt to prove an expensive proposition.

So, Conrad Lacroix, of this city, discovered when he appeared before Recorder Lionel Forest in Police Court charged with causing a disturbance in the Premier Theatre. He was sentenced to a fine of $3 and costs or three days in jail.

Lacroix, according to the police, entered the Premier one afternoon this week to see a movie. But it was not long before he got into an argument with one of the ushers. Words led to blows, and the usher and Lacroix rolled it quite freely.

They rolled in the aisle and the movie audience lost all interest in the show as this unannounced performance got under way. Lacroix and the usher were finally separated. A complaint was immediately taken against Lacroix, charging him with causing a disturbance.

GIVEN THREE MONTHS TO "THINK IT OVER" Judge J. S. Couture yesterday afternoon gave Albert Lachance, alias Arthur Lanctot, alias Emile Banchette, three months' time in which "to think it over."

Lachance appeared in the Magistrate's Court on a charge of theft of the Unemployment Relief Camp at Bishopton. He was found guilty of the charge and the Judge said: "I understand, Lachance, that you have said you would be worse when you got out of jail. Well, I'm going to give you plenty of time to think it over, and I hope that you change your mind."

He sentenced Lachance to three months.

Lachance was arrested by R.C.M.P. officers at Plessisville after obtaining a job at the Bishopton airport and suddenly leaving with a quantity of articles and clothing in his possession. He hitch-hiked to Plessisville, police allege, selling some of the stolen articles en route.

R. C. M. P. officers are investigating further thefts at the airport.

MANY ATTENDED FUNERAL OF VETERAN RAILROADER

A large gathering of bereaved relatives, sympathetic friends and sorrowing fellow workmen united on Wednesday afternoon to pay their final tribute of respect to the memory of Arthur Alexander Price, whose death occurred in his residence on Woodward avenue last Monday. Mr. Price, who was in his sixty-first year, was a life-long resident of Sherbrooke and had gained a large circle of friends through his genial disposition.

Born in Sherbrooke, the eldest son of the late John Price and his wife, Martha McWilliams, the deceased entered the employ of the Quebec Central Railway at the age of twenty-three years as a locomotive fireman. Five years later Mr. Price was promoted to the position of locomotive engineer, a responsible post he held until ill-health forced his retirement. Well thought of by his fellow workmen and highly respected by his superiors, deceased enjoyed the confidence which makes his death the harder to bear.

A member of Victoria Lodge No. 16, A.F. and A.M., Mr. Price belonged to the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, Division No. 694, of Sherbrooke, and in religion was a devout Anglican. The funeral was held at the Church of the Advent with Rev. E. H. Humphries officiating. The choir, with Miss Doris Price at the organ, rendered two hymns, "Nearer My God to Thee" and "Ten Thousand Times Ten Thousand." The casket was borne by Messrs. Arthur Ball, Thomas Johnston, W. J. Deane, W. O. Gilbert, H. J. Wark and L. G. Coogan. Interment took place in

B. C. S. PUPILS ADDRESSED BY QUEBEC BISHOP

Nobility of Character Means Greatness in Life, Declared Right Rev. L. W. Williams, Bishop of Quebec.

Addressing the pupils of Bishop's College School at the closing exercises of that institution yesterday, Right Rev. L. W. Williams, Bishop of Quebec, declared that nobility of character means greatness in life and stressed the fact that now was the time for the students to do their utmost to acquire those traits which would endear them to their fellow-men and help to insure their success in life.

The Bishop of Quebec presided at the distribution of prizes, the presentations being made by Mr. Justice Charles D. White, of Sherbrooke.

You must have faith in and allegiance to God," Bishop Williams declared. "Many of the great men of the world have had faith in God as their most outstanding attribute. You must have courage. It takes courage, you know, to be true and honest under trying circumstances. Above all you must be honest, honest in business or in your profession. You must never deviate from the honest course in the slightest detail.

"High ideals, you are thinking. Of course they are high ideals for there is no use in setting an objective for yourselves unless it is high. I pity the man who does not set high standards for himself and who does not make the most of his talents and his opportunities."

A special feature of the chapel service was the consecration of a travelling communion set which was presented by the school to the North Shore Mission of the Diocese of Quebec.

MARKETS AWAIT SETTLEMENT OF STEEL DISPUTE

Uncertainty Prevailing in New York Extended to Canadian Markets — Even Gold Mines Turned Easier.

Toronto, June 16.—A vast stock-trading organization put in another week mainly occupied in thumb-twiddling while waiting for the public to bestir itself again and whop up the market. In the latter part of May and the first week of June the Canadian markets did a fair summer business while New York, worried about strike threats and the exchange control measure, saw trading drop to almost record low levels. This week, however, Canadian volume has fallen behind relatively.

Prices of both industrial and mining stocks have lost ground this week, but the recessions have been of the size that usually result from marking time rather than of an importance that would suggest fundamental weakness in the price level. Brokerage circles here continue to look hopefully to the adjournment of Congress, expecting the New York market immediately thereafter to give the cue for a little more action, particularly if the labour dispute in the steel industry should be cleared away in the meantime.

The draggy condition of the market at present is fostering bearish sentiment and more has been heard in the last few days about a seasonal slowing down of business. The New York market managed to advance about half a point in the averages this week. However, the slight improvement in buying there is said to be stimulated more by the prospect of inflation than by the outlook for immediate business improvement.

The only market feature in the Canadian list this week was International Petroleum, which closed yesterday at $29.50, a new high mark. Brokers reported there was some outside buying in the stock.

Brazilian traction's annual report came out yesterday, showing another reduction in gross and net earnings, but the market saw nothing in the statement to get excited about and the price of the stock dropped only twenty-five cents in slow trading.

Among mining leaders losses of a few cents to $1.50 were registered and volume in the group was low. Bralorne had the only net advance in the big gold group and that British Columbia issue also led in volume with one exception. Another coast issue, Wayside supplied the fireworks yesterday, by tumbling to twenty-five cents, just half its high mark for the year.

NOTE MARKED IMPROVEMENT IN E.T. CROPS

Although Greater Amount of Rain Has Fallen to Date This Month than During Entire Period of May, Farmers Would Welcome More Moisture.

Although the total rainfall to date this month is over half an inch greater than that for the entire period of May, Eastern Townships farmers do not feel that they have had too much moisture. In fact, according to W. G. MacDougall, agriculturist, of Lennoxville, farmers could stand the present type of weather and another couple of weeks. The rain, coming gradually, has soaked into the ground and a little more would not do any harm. The rainfall to date this month has amounted to 2.07 inches, compared with a total rainfall of 1.42 inches for the month of May.

The June rains, climaxing a dry spell which left farmlands and pastures parched and threatened to severely curtail crop production, came as a great relief to Eastern Townships farmers. As a result of the precipitation, crops have progressed wonderfully. Although they are estimated to be slightly below the average, prospects are quite bright for farmers in this district. "A wonderful improvement has been noticed in the hay," stated Mr. MacDougall to a Record reporter today. "Grain is much better and all garden crops are doing well."

Commenting on the frost which occurred one night last week, Mr. MacDougall stated that it had caused quite serious damage in certain sections. "The damage was not general," he said. "In some places, corn, beans and some garden crops were damaged and beans were cut right down." Grain, able to stand frost, was not affected.

Vegetation suffered especially as a result of this frost. The strawberry crop in some districts was severely damaged, and some of the early crops that he lost almost one-third of his crop. This frost was local and the damage was not the same in all districts.

Farmers generally predicted a bumper crop last spring. However, although the seed was ahead of last year, the dry and retarded agricultural activities, with the result that today the crops are not quite up to the average.

The temperature yesterday, according to the Lennoxville Experimental Farm, was maximum 72 and minimum 63, and that of the day before, last year maximum 65 and minimum 45. The barometer today predicted "windy weather, cooler and mostly fair."

LENNOXVILLE

A SUCCESSFUL EVENT More than its usual success attended the annual summer sale of the Philathes of the United Church.

The president of the society, Mrs. Arnold Bown, and Mrs. F. R. Matthews received the visitors, welcoming them into the beautifully decorated Douglas Hall, where a profusion of the flowers of early summer lent brightness and perfume to the scene. The food sale was conducted by Mrs. J. Crawford and Mrs. Orr. The table where beautifully finished fancy work was displayed was presided over by Mrs. Gertrude Forbes and Mrs. G. A. Hadlock, and Mrs. A. Burbank and Mrs. Gundersen were in charge of the aprons. Miss J. Johnston sold candy and Mrs. William Wark had the care of the "mystery" table.

During the progress of the sale a fruit salad supper was served, supplemented by baked beans for those who desired a hot supper. The waitresses were Mrs. C. H. George, Mrs. Lawrence Parker, Mrs. E. Lane, Mrs. R. E. Mosher, and Mrs. W. G. MacDougall; and in charge of the salads were Mrs. W. Richardson, Mrs. R. W. S. Nutbrown, Mrs. Merrill, Mrs. H. Wallace with Mrs. Gilly looking after the tea and Mrs. J. Campbell and Mrs. L. McAllister pouring.

General Notes Mrs. Albert Hall and Mrs. Bozer, who represented Lennoxville Women's Institute at the annual Quebec Women's Institute Convention at Macdonald College, have returned home.

Mr. F. S. Browne is in Montreal. Mr. and Mrs. F. Gagnon are spending a few days in Montreal.

Mr. Price leaves to mourn his loss his wife, Mrs. Edith Gillespie, formerly of East Angus, and to whom he was married on October 9, 1907; one son, Arnold Price; three brothers, Messrs. John and Norrey Price, of Sherbrooke, and Reginald Price, of Indian Head, Sask.; one daughter, Mrs. H. C. Lebourveau, of Indian Head, Sask.

Among those from out-of-town attending the funeral were Mrs. Price's sister, Mrs. E. G. Simons, and her brother, Mr. Herbert Gillespie, both of East Angus; Mr. J. K. Davidson, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Davidson and Mrs. L. M. Gray, of Ayer's Cliff; Mrs. Frank Morrill, of Bradford, Vt.; Mr. and Mrs. William Price, of Huntingville; Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Cramer, of Wayside, N.B.; and Mrs. Walter Rogers, of Balwer, and Mrs. F. Pope, of Barnston.

The many flowers and messages of sympathy received by the bereaved family from relatives and friends far and near bore evidence of the high esteem in which Mr. Price was held.

MARRIAGES

GILBERT-PEARCE Penacook, N.H., June 16.—A pretty home wedding took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wilford L. Gilbert, Penacook, on May 30th, when Miss Elizabeth Marie Pearce, of Concord, N.H., was united in marriage with their oldest son, Elgin Lewis Gilbert.

Rev. James F. Quimby, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal Church, was the officiating clergyman, and the double ring service was used. The couple stood beneath an arch of evergreens and lilacs, which had been erected on the porch, wending their way there to the strains of the Lohengrin Wedding March played by Miss Clara Osgood, of Concord, a cousin of the groom, pianist, and his sister, Miss Reta Gilbert, violinist.

The attendants were Miss Louise Little, of Concord, a friend of the bride, as bridesmaid and Mr. Irving Burns, also of Concord, a friend of the groom, as best man. Little Mona White, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elroy White, of Claremont, a cousin of the groom, was train-bearer.

The bride wore a white satin gown, with long tulle veil fastened with orange blossoms and carried a shower bouquet of bride's roses and sweet peas.

The bridesmaid was dressed in yellow organdy, with a picture hat and carried a daisy chain. The train bearer wore a dainty gown of pink organdy.

The ceremony was witnessed by about forty people, including neighbors, relatives and friends from Newport, Claremont, Waverley, Mass., Suncook, Concord and Penacook.

A buffet lunch was served on the lawn. The dining-room was decorated with flowers and the centerpiece of the table was a handsomely decorated wedding cake, surmounted by a miniature bride and groom. The cake was cut and served by the bride. The couple received many valuable wedding gifts including a sum of money. Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert left by automobile on their honeymoon. The bride wore a blue figured ensemble.

They will make their home for the present at 11 School St.

Mr. Gilbert was formerly of Brookbury, Que., and also lived at Bishopton, and has many friends and relatives in that vicinity.

DOUGALL-SMITH

Brigham, June 16.—A quiet but very pretty wedding was solemnized on Wednesday afternoon, June 6th, when Margaret Alice, younger daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas E. Miss Lillian Smith, wearing pink organdy with a matching picture hat and carrying crimson roses, attended her sister.

The bridal party stood under an arch of white lilacs and orange blossoms during the ceremony. White and crimson roses and snapdragons adorned the rooms. Miss Winnifred Dougall, cousin of the groom, played the wedding music and Mr. John Dougall acted as best man.

Later Mr. and Mrs. Dougall left by motor on their honeymoon to the accompaniment of a shower of confetti and good wishes. Travelling, the bride wore a blue swaggar suit with accessories to match.

Among those from out-of-town present were: Miss Lavinia Dougall, E.N., sister of the groom; Mr. Newton, aunt of the bride; Mrs. C. Dicks, Mr. G. W. Newton, Miss M. M. MANY MATTERS DISCUSSED AT W. I. SESSION

Twenty-First Annual Convention of Quebec Women's Institutes, which Closed at Ste. Anne de Bellevue Yesterday, Featured by Lady Bessborough's Visit.

Ste. Anne de Bellevue, June 16.—A resolution adopted by the Quebec Women's Institutes' twenty-first annual convention in session here this week suggests that the intermediate course for teachers be extended to two years.

The delegates also registered disapproval of "the practice of deporting immigrants unless they are unlikely to become good citizens," urged earnest support of the League of Nations Society in Canada, "realizing that everything we value is threatened if another world war breaks out."

The convention just closed placed emphasis on the subject of adult education, and thanks were extended to McGill University, and especially to its department of extra-mural relations, for the assistance given with travelling libraries, broadcasts, etc. A resolution endorsed the plan of forming study groups.

It was resolved also that efforts should be made to foster appreciation of country life. The resolutions were presented by Mrs. G. G. McCurdy, of Lennoxville.

Miss Irene Collins, of Sherbrooke, presented her report as provincial convener of child welfare and public health.

The convention was honored by a visit from Her Excellency the Countess of Bessborough, who was present at a luncheon arranged by the School of Household Science assisted by the Macdonald Women's Union.

The wife of the Governor-General spoke straight to the hearts of her hearers—"I am one of you mothers of a Quebecian son," she said, to the delegates at luncheon. "The link I have with this province is a personal one; it is not only

UPWARD TURN IN CANADIAN TRADE BEING MAINTAINED

Winnipeg, June 16.—The upward trend in Canadian wholesale and retail business continued during the past week, it was shown in the trade report of the Canadian credit Men's Trust Association.

All lines recorded satisfactory volume with some Prairie points reporting increased orders as the result of improved crop prospects. Collections were unchanged and old accounts still hard to clean up.

Failures under the Bankruptcy Act, as disclosed by the Canada Gazette for the week ending June 9th, 1934, show a decrease of seventeen compared with those of the corresponding week last year. The figures are: 1933-32 and 1934-15.

as the wife of the Governor-General.

Her Excellency declared that she took great interest in the work of the Quebec Women's Institute, because of its broadminded aims and of its educational aspects, its practical teaching. Those things were invaluable at all times, "and I think you will agree with me that they have been even more so during the last few years," said Lady Bessborough.

Those who helped others benefited also, and by comparison their own troubles and trials appeared lighter. A hope that the clouds were gradually lifting and that more cheerful times were in prospect was voiced by Lady Bessborough.

Five new Women's Institute clubs were formed in the year, making the total number of "live branches" 84 with approximate membership of 1,750 the superintendent of the Quebec Women's Institute, Miss Hazel C. McCain, noted in her report. The financial statement of branch institutes showed receipts of $11,431.03, and disbursements of $8,755.56. Money had been expended for scholarships, prizes at school and county fairs, equipment for schools, libraries, community halls, tennis clubs, and in various forms of social welfare in the different communities; besides which contributions had been made to hospitals and institutions in Montreal, Sherbrooke, and other places.

Mrs. F. S. Browne, of Lennoxville, in her presidential address, remarked that the past year had been one of readjustment, and for the Women's Institutes a year not only of optimism but of achievement. The old spirit of exaggerated caution when new projects were mentioned was giving place to more hopefulness. The Women's Institute, she said, is functioning to better advantage every year, and exerting greater influence on social welfare throughout the rural districts. She mentioned the radio broadcasts, that had been given under auspices of the Department of Extra-mural Relations from September to April, as having been helpful.

The report of the publicity committee and of the official organ of the Institutes was given by Mrs. G. G. McCurdy, of Lennoxville, and Mrs. M. E. Honey, of Abbotsford, presented a report on home economics.

CONFIRMATION SERVICES HELD AT WATERLOO

Fourteen Candidates Presented by Rev. Norman Egerton on Occasion of Bishop Farthing's Annual Visit to St. Luke's Church.

Waterloo, June 16.—Fourteen candidates were presented for confirmation by Rev. Norman Egerton when His Lordship Bishop Farthing paid his annual visit to St. Luke's Church. Bishop Farthing delivered a spiritually inspiring address to the candidates and the large congregation which gathered for the impressive ceremonies.

The senior and junior choirs under the direction of the organist, Mrs. C. W. Candlish, and the leaders, Mr. Claude Fisher and Mrs. P. A. Slack, rendered the musical portion of the service. After the "laying on of hands," His Lordship presented medals to Hilda Hayes and Lorne Holder for their thorough knowledge of the Church catechism in which they were examined by the Sunday School superintendent, Mrs. Slack.

At the conclusion of the confirmation service the gathering repaired to the church hall, where Mr. Egerton, on behalf of Rev. Mr. Egerton, presented necklaces on which were suspended small crosses to Mrs. Slack and Mrs. Candlish as tokens of the rector's appreciation of the untiring efforts of these two ladies in connection with the junior choir. The recipients were feelingly expressing their gratitude for their highly-appreciated gifts.

TWO NEW YORK CLUBS RETAIN SLIM MARGINS

Four First-Division Teams in National League Lost and Four Leading Entries in American League Won to Leave Giants and Yankees Leading Respective Groups.

The "luck" of the Giants, which gained fame last season when Bill Terry's peppery club kept winning games its rivals and their followers thought it should lose, seems to be working again.

It's not that New York hasn't been playing a lot of good ball, but since they finally settled down this year into something like last season's stride it seems that the Giants can't make a mistake without having their rivals equal it.

They provided an example yesterday when they dropped a game to Cincinnati by a two to one count despite a five-hit hurling job by big Fred Fitzsimmons and for the third time this year ended a winning streak at five games.

But while New York lost, so did all the other first division clubs of the National League and the Giants' two and a half game lead remained intact. The second-place Cardinals succumbed to Boston's nineteen-hit attack on four pitchers by a ten to four count when the Braves reached three Jims, Mooner, Winford and Lindsey, for a pair of four-run innings.

The Phillies conquered Chicago's Club by four to three in ten innings after young Adolph Camilli, traded by Chicago on Monday, clouted a ninth-inning homer with one on the score. Completing the rout, the Brooklyn Dodgers turned back the fourth-place Pittsburgh Pirates by six to four.

In the American League, where the New York-Detroit race is even closer, the procedure was exactly reversed. The four first division clubs defeated lower ranking rivals.

Manager Joe McCarthy, of the league-leading Yankees, reached into his pitching grabbag and pulled forth Danny MacFayden, who hadn't won a game since April. Danny hurled a five-hit game to beat the St. Louis Browns by six to three and enable the Yankees to hold their margin of four percentage points over the Tigers.

With Schoolboy Rowe on the hill, Detroit slammed out an eleven to four decision over the Boston Red Sox. Cleveland's third-place Indians piled up seventeen blows, including homers by Earl Averill and Sam Rice, to beat the Athletics by twelve to six.

Washington had a harder route to an eight to seven decision over Chicago, winning in the ninth frame after Zeke Bonura's seventeenth homer had given the White Sox a tie in the same inning.

ROCHESTER SHAVED PULL GAME OFF NEWARK'S LEAD

For the third time this season, the hapless Baltimore Orioles had put together an International League winning "streak" of two games. After tripping up Montreal by eleven to five on Thursday, the Orioles beat the Royals again yesterday by eighteen to thirteen and now will see if they can win their third game in succession for the first time this campaign.

It was only by virtue of some of the heaviest shelling the league has seen that Joe Judge's cellar outfit finally won yesterday's slugfest. Three times they came from behind and after tying the score at thirteen in the last half of the seventh inning, Baltimore won out with another five-run spurge in the eighth frame.

Rochester shaved one game off Newark's lead by beating Syracuse by eight to three, while the Bears were dropping the score at three to three against Buffalo. Newark now lead the Red Wings by three and a half games.

Toronto nosed out Albany by seven to six in the tenth stanza on Joe Morrissey's double and George

CRICKET

AUSSIES HELD TO TIE BY LOWLY COUNTY SIDE

Northampton, June 16.—The touring Australian cricketers were held to a draw by the lowly Northamptonshire county side in their three-day match ending yesterday. Northants did something England could not accomplish in the test, they defied the best Aussie bowling to keep a wicket standing at time and avoid a substantial defeat.

The scores were: Australians 284 and 234; Northants 187 and 133 for nine wickets. Snowden scored 105 in the Northants' first innings and in the second Baskwell was good for fifty-three and Timms for fifty. Although the Aussie bowlers were deadly in the fight against time they could not get the last wicket. L. O. Fleetwood-Smith captured five wickets for twenty-nine runs. Young W. A. Brown with 113 was best of the Australian batters. E. A. Chipperfield scored seventy-one in the first innings, Don Bradman sixty-five and W. H. Ponsford fifty-six.

It was the sixth draw in the Aussies' tour. The other five matches they have played against first-class sides resulted in victories for them.

McQuinn's bunt on which Glen Chapman failed to hold Bill Morrissey's throw to first base. Morrissey's hit was his fourth safety of the game.

YESTERDAY'S STARS

Outstanding players in yesterday's major league games were: Ben Chapman, Yankees; Hil A. triple and a double and a single against the Browns. Tony Freitas, Reds; Scattered nine Giant hits for a two to one victory. Baxter Jordan, Braves; Led attack on the Cardinals with five hits. Tom Zachary, Dodgers; Drove in three runs to help win own game from the Pirates. Adolph Camilli, Phillies; Walked off a homer in ninth inning to tie score against the Cubs.

MEDWICK SETTING PACE FOR NATIONAL LEAGUE BATTERS

Joe Medwick gained undisputed possession of fourth place in the "Big Six" and first among the National League's batters yesterday when he clouted three hits in four times up against the Braves. The stunt shot his average up eight points to .373, while Bill Urbanski, who had been tied with him, hit safely once out of three trips to the plate to hold his .366 mark. Charley Gehring, "Big Six" leader, maintained his .410 average with two hits in five appearances at the plate, while his nearest rival, Heinie Manush, lost three points as he hit only once out of four attempts.

RANK AND FILE PAID GARDINER FINAL TRIBUTE

With Tear-Dimmed Eyes Thousands of Persons of Every Age and from Every Walk of Life Attended Funeral of Ace Goalie in Winnipeg Yesterday Afternoon.

Winnipeg, June 16.—Thousands of persons of every age and from every walk of life yesterday with tear-dimmed eyes paid final tribute to Charles "Chuck" Gardiner, ace goalie of the Chicago Club of the National Hockey League.

Ivy-clad Grace United Church where Gardiner and his wife were married seven years ago, was unable to accommodate the throngs that gathered to attend the funeral of the lad from the Scottish hills who died suddenly on Wednesday.

Mrs. Gardiner and her son Bobby, sat with other relatives and chief mourners at the front of the church, near the altar piled high with floral tributes from close personal friends, scores of admirers and hockey and other sports organizations in Canada and the United States.

The body lay in state at the church for ninety minutes prior to the service. Boys and girls took time out from school studies to walk past the open coffin and view the body. Business men and day laborers, women from social circles and mothers of young hockey players were in the hundreds who went to the church for the services.

Boys with patched trousers and ragged sweaters held shoulder to shoulder with lads from wealthier families in their best clothes. Dozens of boys of five and six years old went accompanied by their mothers. Veterans of sport, some with grey hair and stooped shoulders, bowed in reverence with the younger generation.

The grey coffin was banked high with floral tributes from clubs of the National Hockey League, Winnipeg and Dominion sports organizations both amateur and professional, and scores of Gardiner's personal friends. Many of the tributes took the form of hockey sticks, woven with flowers of many kinds.

Gardiner possessed strenuous effort, self-control and concentration of aim, declared Rev. J. Richmond Craig, who, assisted by Rev. J. H. Slimon, conducted the funeral service. He possessed every quality required to make a great athlete. He was a boy's hero and a man's man, the pastor declared.

His memory remains, said Mr. Craig. "He played the game of life with all the zest of youth. He will remain the ideal of the highest type of athlete and in the memory of the youth of America there will always linger the vision of a lad who, whether at home or abroad, whether with friend or opponent, played the game."

Many who could not gain admittance to the church attended the graveside ceremony in Brooklands Cemetery, where the rites of the Masonic Order of which Gardiner was a member, were conducted. Outside of the church as the procession to the graveside started the crowd was so dense the pall-bearers encountered difficulty in reaching the hearse.

YOUNG STUDENT LED FIELD IN GOLF TOURNEY

Frank Corrigan, Twenty-Year-Old McGill University Student, Paced Outstanding Field in Quest of Premier Honors in Province of Quebec Spring Open Tournament.

Ottawa, June 16.—Frank Corrigan, twenty-year-old McGill University student, led a field of thirty-seven of the outstanding amateurs and professionals of the Montreal, Ottawa and Quebec districts over the Ottawa Hunt and Golf Club yesterday in quest of premier honors in the Province of Quebec spring open golf tournament. Corrigan, whose golf is as two-fisted as his demeanor is cold-blooded, turned in the best eighteen-hole score of the day in the morning round with a seventy-four, one over par for this well-wooded, well-trapped course. He continued his brilliant play in the afternoon round to card a seventy-five for a thirty-six-hole total of 149, three better than his closest rivals, Redvers MacKenzie, Elm Ridge, Montreal, professional, and Robert Alston, the brilliant young Chaudiere professional.

Corrigan's performance yesterday marks him as a threat for Dominion amateur honors at Laval in August. The youngster won the spring amateur last year, and there by won himself a place on the Quebec team in the interprovincial play at Vancouver. He faded toward the end of the season, but he appears to be ready for a more brilliant campaign in 1934.

Fourth place in the tournament went to Walter Smithers, young Royal Ottawa professional, with 155. Fifth honors were won by the Montreal professional, Jack Brown, of Summerlea, with 156. He was tied by Edwin A. Innes, Islesmere, Montreal amateur, who also had 156. Innes took the prize as the second amateur.

Gordon B. Taylor, brilliant Kanawake amateur who was among the favorites to win yesterday, slipped out of the prize list by one stroke. An eighty in the morning put him out of the running and his seventy-

BRITISH HOPES SHATTERED BY TRIPLE DEFEAT

Helen Jacob's Second Victory Today Gave Invaders Three to One Lead in Wightman Cup Tennis Series—England's Lone Win Scored in Doubles Competition.

Wimbledon, England, June 16.—Helen Jacobs, United States champion and team captain, defeated Dorothy Round by scores of 6-1, 6-1 in a bitterly fought contest today to give the invaders a three to one lead on the closing day of the twelfth international Wightman Cup tennis series. It was Miss Jacobs' second singles triumph and left the United States' forces with the necessity of winning but one of the two remaining singles matches and one doubles to counter to win the Cup for the fourth consecutive year.

British hopes suffered a sharp and totally unexpected jolt yesterday when the American women stars swept both singles contests and put up a thrilling fight before succumbing in the lone doubles encounter.

A smooth-working British team, Nancy Lyle and Evelyn Dearman, prevented the invaders from making a clean sweep of yesterday's entire programme when they rallied from behind twice to drop Lyle and Dearman to Josephine Cruikshank in straight sets. The American pair were within a single point of victory in each set, but each time faltered in the face of the steady and machine-like play of their opponents—a new but potent British combination. The American girls were unable to match or check the deadly accuracy of the Lyle-Dearman team and lost by scores of 7-5, 7-5.

Producing possibly the greatest streak of tennis in her career, plucky Sarah Palfrey, of Brookline, Mass., subdued Dorothy Round, England's first ranking star, by a count of 6-3, 8-6, 8-6. The third and deciding set was a breath-taker as the agile little American and the steady Britisher fought off magnificent rally after rally.

The English girl looked like the certain winner in the final set as she captured three games in a row to take a six to five lead. Mrs. Palfrey, however, selected that point to bring her game to its height and tear through three games in a row with the loss of only five points.

Still ranking from the Paris incident of two weeks ago, Helen Jacobs handed Margaret "Peggy" Scriven an unmerciful drubbing by scores of 6-1, 6-1. Miss Scriven defeated the Californian in the final of the French hard court championships a fortnight ago after Miss Jacobs complained about playing in the darkness. The Jacobs-Scriven match merely gave the crowd of 2,500 a breathing spell before the doubles encounter which brought England its lone victory in the opening day's play of the twelfth renewal of the women's classic.

SPORTING NOTES

CANADIAN GIANT SEEKS HEAVYWEIGHT TITLE

New York, June 16.—Canada's pugilistic colony here had been increased by one with the arrival at training headquarters of Louis Kiesewetter, 155-pound giant from Moose Jaw, Sask. The twenty year old Canadian heavyweight title seeker is managed by Charles G. McDonald, formerly of Sydney N.S., who firmly believes his charge will follow in the footsteps of Tommy Burns and be the second Canadian to win the world's heavyweight laurels.

FOOD SHORTAGE DEVELOPS FROM SASKATCHEWAN FIRE

Food Being Rushed to Richlea, Sask., to End Shortage which Arose Late Yesterday when Fire Wiped Out Business Section.

Richlea, Sask., June 16.—Food was being rushed to Richlea today from nearby towns to end the shortage which arose late yesterday when fire wiped out the business section with a loss of $60,000 and destroyed stores selling food.

Twenty-two persons were homeless as a result of the blaze which broke out from a defective chimney in a restaurant and spread speedily to the Richlea hotel and other buildings. Three other stores and two private dwellings were destroyed. Guards were maintained all night to check any renewal of the outbreak which might occur. Several parts of buildings and small buildings, partly burning, were hauled away by volunteer firemen to check the spread of the blaze.

seven in the afternoon gave him a thirty-hole total of 157. Earl Stewart, of Forest Hills, followed with 81-77-154 and Jack Archer, his club-mate, had 83-78-161. Robert Burns, strapping Hampstead professional, had a nerve-racking time of it. He was playing with Corrigan and the Montrealer was mixing his puts by the width of the cup while his young partner was holding them out on the same greens. Burns had 159.

Today a field of fifty-seven takes part in the spring amateur tournament over the same course. Although Corrigan is favored to show a clean pair of heels to the field, observers believe that Gordon Taylor will provide the chief opposition. Taylor's experience over the course yesterday will stand him in good stead. He is stroking the ball exceptionally well.

QUEBEC ISSUED MANY WARNINGS TO MOTORISTS

Provincial Authorities Issued 6,038 Verbal Warnings, Cancelled Licences of Fifty-Six Motorists and Had 274 Drivers Haled to Court.

Quebec, June 16.—A total of 6,038 verbal warnings and 1,085 traffic infractions, formally reported in writing, comprised the work of the highway constables of the Provincial Roads' Department from the opening of the present season up to June 1st, according to information given out by Lt.-Col. J. L. Boulanger, Deputy Minister of Roads for Quebec.

These activities of the police resulted in fifty-six motorists losing their conductor's or chauffeur's licences while the Roads' Department sent out 934 summary notices and instituted court proceedings in 274 cases.

Offences of which motorists proved guilty, varied considerably and, according to the police reports, this year's cases, so far, were classified as follows: speeding, 320; passing other vehicles on curve, 131; driving with defective lights, 584; failing to stop at railroad crossings, 44; for not possessing, or having in their possession, the necessary licences, 1,431; for having licence plates not in the condition required by law, 22; for failing to keep on the right, 191; driving with badly placed mirrors on trucks, 26, and, for passing vehicles at danger spots other than curves, 24.

"While there has been some decrease in the number of accidents this season according to still preliminary figures, particularly in the Montreal district, and also as far as children are concerned," declared Lt.
