Talk on economy, fiscal policies planned as House resumes session

OTTAWA (CP) — Parliament resumes today, and unless unexpected developments occur there will be a lot of talk on economics, fiscal policies and taxation in the months ahead.

The first order of business following the 68-day summer recess will involve special government measures to help offset the American import surcharges. Prime Minister Trudeau has said he hopes for quick approval of the measures which would help cushion "the very serious setback" caused by the imposition of the surcharges.

And once this debate is out of the way, Parliament will settle in for a long examination of the government's tax reform legislation. Some MPs feel the debate could go on until Christmas.

While there may be short breaks for other legislation, sources say the government is prepared to spend at least two months on the tax bill.

The prime minister says that passage of the tax bill is imperative if, as scheduled, "millions" of Canadians are to be exempted from the tax rolls by next Jan. 1. MANY CHANGES MADE

There have been many major changes made in the proposed tax legislation since the original white paper was published and Conservative Leader Robert Stanfield travelled the country fighting the proposals. But Conservative spokesmen say the changes have not produced an acceptable bill. They say there will be "many" amendments offered.

And Stanley Knowles, house leader of the New Democratic Party, says his party will also offer a series of amendments.

While the subject under debate will involve taxation, the House rules provide sufficient leeway for MPs to discuss economic matters that are affected by taxes. "I suspect," says Conservative House Leader Gerald W. Baldwin, "that there will be a great deal of talk about the U.S. surcharges during the fall."

Other subjects will be dealt with during the daily 40-minute question period or through special debates. Opposition spokesmen say they are anxious to discuss the proposed new civilian security body, the defence white paper, the work of the secretary of state's department, and the long-term problems of unemployment and inflation.

Fun for all at Brome County exhibition

By CROSBIE COTTON
VILLAGE OF BROME — Nearly 40,000 people passed through the gates of this year's Brome County Fair which was one of the highlights of the Labor Day weekend.

Brome Fair, which ran Saturday, Sunday and Monday, was the event responsible for generating hours of happy pleasure for thousands of Eastern Townshippers who were able to enter the grounds during the last holiday weekend of the summer season.

Noted primarily for its agricultural exhibits, this year's fair was not a letdown even for those who did not like the livestock exhibits.

Young and old wandered around the midway grounds, smiles spanning their countenances as they tried the spills and thrills of the various midway rides.

Others were stricken with grief. Have you ever lost any of your hard earned money on the sideshows which seem to be a part of any county exhibition? Have you ever, after having squandered some of your funds on the games, said "I shouldn't have done that?"

Thousands at Brome Fair did, but all in all it was an excellent fun-filled time for all fair goers.

Everyone loves a fair, especially if the quality of the different exhibits is above average. Crowds at the Brome County fairgrounds this past weekend showed that this year's fair was no exception.

Five Townshippers die in Labor Day weekend accidents

SHERBROOKE (WC) — Five Eastern Townshippers died in highway accidents over the Labor Day weekend.

Serge Toussaint, 8, of Longueuil was killed when he was struck by a car at an intersection in St. Louis de Blandford at 5:15 p.m. Saturday.

Florent Lemieux, 21, of Dixville, died in an automobile accident on Route 50 near St. Hermengilde on Saturday at 6:30 p.m.

Stephen Hall, 21, of South Graton, Massachusetts, was killed in an accident which occurred Saturday night between Bromont and Waterloo.

Mrs. G. Tremblay, who had celebrated her 37th birthday just two days previously, died Sunday in an accident which occurred on Route 20 near Grantham. Mrs. Tremblay was a native of Pont Viau.

Rene Pelletier, 2, from Brigham in Brome County, was the victim in an automobile accident which occurred Sunday afternoon near Adamville in Brome County.

Traffic accidents accounted for 66 of at least 86 accidental deaths in Canada during the Labor Day weekend.

The Canada Safety Council had predicted traffic accidents would kill more than 70 persons during the three-day weekend which ended at midnight Monday.

Report says Quebec education must be completely revamped

QUEBEC (CP) — Quebec schools still cater to the children of the wealthy and must be reorganized completely to give all children an equal chance, the Superior Council of Education says in a report released today.

The 24-member council, established in 1964 to advise the education minister, found in a study that the children of the poor are as handicapped in school as they are elsewhere in society.

A child of four has already acquired half of his potential adult intelligence, the council said in its report to Education Minister Guy Saint-Pierre, and the slum child starts school with a handicap he is rarely able to overcome.

The council recommended that children start kindergarten at the age of three, to give the schools time to cope with deficiencies arising from the child's family and social milieu.

Another recommendation was that Quebec improve its teacher-pupil ratio to one-to-15 from the present one-to-25, so that pupils can get more individual attention.

The council also found that the better qualified teachers tend to find jobs in the wealthier areas, and recommended that steps be taken to get better teachers into slum areas.

TEACHERS WEAKER

"Important differences were found between teachers who work in underprivileged areas and those who teach the children of wealthy families," the council said.

British, Irish PMs meet to plan ways to end war

LONDON (CP) — The prime ministers of Britain and the Irish Republic spent nine hours Monday in intensive discussions about ways to end Northern Ireland's two-year epidemic of violence.

Both sides said after the talks ended the discussions had been useful and another meeting was scheduled for today.

Prime Minister Jack Lynch of the Irish Republic said after his meeting with Prime Minister Edward Heath of Britain that the talks were being held to consider in depth the position of the two governments. There was no question of finding immediate solutions, he said.

"We know each other's minds better," Lynch told reporters at the Irish embassy here.

He added: "I would not like to say there has been progress or lack of progress. We have been talking very well and frankly."

A spokesman for the British said the talks were friendly, relaxed and businesslike.

The sheer length of Monday's discussions between Lynch and Heath aroused keen interest.

They met at Chequers, Heath's official country residence, while violence continued in Ulster. A teen-age girl was killed in Londonderry's grim Bogside district—the 100th death in two years of civil strife in Northern Ireland.

The two prime ministers were joined at luncheon by Foreign Secretary Alec Douglas-Home and Home Secretary Reginald Maudling of Britain. They then resumed their talks alone.

There was strict security around Chequers, and no leaks from the talks.

Before their talks began, experts predicted Heath would press the Dublin leader for stricter measures to control the clandestine Irish Republican Army, which has been using the republic as a base for deadly strikes against security forces in Northern Ireland, a part of Great Britain.

Lynch was expected to urge that the British for their part act more decisively to give greater political rights to the groman Catholic minority in Ulster.

Waiting to see the Irish leader after the talks was Harold Wilson, former British prime minister, whose opposition Labor party is scheduled to issue a detailed statement of policy for Northern Ireland Wednesday.

Meanwhile, in Belfast, thousands of Protestant workers demonstrated in support of the projected formation of volunteer forces to deal with IRA guerrillas.

Rev. Ian Paisley, member of both the Ulster and Westminster parliaments and leading spokesman for the militant Protestants, addressed the meeting as Union Jacks and other emblems of loyalty to Britain were displayed by the crowd.

In another part of Belfast, however, two British soldiers were shot and wounded in a continuation of the violence.

In Londonderry, Catholic demonstrators shouted their support for Ulster MPs John Hume and Ivan Cooper as they appeared in court on charges of failing to disperse when ordered to do so by British forces last month.

The case was adjourned until later this week. Hume and Cooper were taken into custody by troops after a sit-in by residents of the riot-ravaged Bogside area.

The Heath-Lynch talks began within minutes of the Irish leader's arrival Monday from Dublin.

Lynch, a 54-year-old lawyer, is performing a delicate balancing act in the matter of Northern Ireland.

Alaska crash kills 111, called 'worst disaster'

JUNEAU, Alaska (AP) — Rescue workers began Monday the grim task of recovering the bodies of 111 persons killed Saturday in the United States' worst single-aircraft disaster.

Among the dead were Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Burch of Calgary.

"We have 56 bodies located and we have another ridge to go," one recovery workers said at mid-afternoon.

Investigators from the National Transportation Safety Board also found the flight recorder and the cockpit voice recorder which they hope will provide clues to the cause of the crash.

Fist-sized chunks of metal, papers and clothing were scattered with the bodies over about a mile-square area high on a rugged mountainside where the Alaska Airlines 727 jet crashed.

Recovery workers moved among the torn bodies, marked them, and prepared them for helicopter lift to Juneau, where a temporary morgue was set up in a National Guard armory.

The airlift, postponed over most of the weekend by bad weather, began Monday afternoon.

The bodies and debris were scattered throughout three parallel depressions 2,500 feet up 3,500-foot Mount Chilkat. Personal possessions of the passengers also were strewn about the area.

Patrick Wellington, deputy commissioner of the Alaska public safety department, said: "We've got that airplane scattered up and down a hillside for about 1,500 feet, and some of that is straight up and down. We've got a lot of rain, low clouds and wind, and those people on the hill are taking a beating."

The 23 men on the hillside Sunday staked out what Wellington called "larger portions of the aircraft."

"There are no large portions," he said.

It could be "six months or six days" before officials would have any idea why the jetliner slammed into the ridge, Wellington said. He said the investigation would be hindered because the aircraft was broken into "so many bits and pieces."

The airliner, en route from Yakutat, was on its final approach to Juneau Municipal Airport when it hit the ridge about 1,000 feet below the top of the mountain.

Orville Gano, chief of the flight standards district office of the Federal Aviation Administration, said pilot Richard Adams, of Redmond, Wash., reported the aircraft was using a localizer, or directional aid, slightly before the crash.

PLANE TOO LOW

The directional aid lines up an approaching aircraft with a low "cut" in the Mendenhall Peninsula near the runway's end. Once over the cut, the pilot must turn to the right to land, taking his bearings from the airport's lighting system.

FAA officials say this turn in the final stage of the approach prohibits the use of a glide slope indicator, which turns on a warning light in the cockpit if the jet strays too low or too high during its approach.

The indicator can be only where an aircraft can make a straight-line approach to the end of a runway. At Juneau, an approaching pilot must maintain proper altitude by means of the altimeter in his cockpit.

The Alaska Airlines jet never made the cut, crashing into the ridge miles west of it, and officials were at a loss to explain why the jet had descended to the 2,500-foot elevation. FAA rules require an incoming plane to maintain at least a 6,500-foot altitude over the holding area.

"He was right on course precisely," said Bob Dodd, an Alaska Airlines vice-president.

"Whether it was some malfunction of the aircraft or pilot error, we just don't know."

Will appeal court ruling

PETROLIA, Ont. (CP) — Rudy Krall said Monday he will appeal the ruling of the Quebec Superior Court refusing him an injunction against Quebec's egg marketing board which seized his eggs in June.

Mr. Krall, a farmer near this community 15 miles east of Sarnia, says Quebec legislation that allows the marketing board, Fedco, to restrict the import of eggs is not constitutional. He says the restrictions, which resulted in 1,350 cases of his eggs being seized in June, are a contravention of the British North America Act.

Continue investigation

MONTREAL (CP) — Police are continuing their investigation into the bombing of an English Catholic elementary school and a Bell Telephone relay station.

There were no injuries in the school explosion which police said was caused by one-stick home-made bomb that exploded at 3 p.m. Saturday, minutes after they received a warning telephone call.

The bomb, which was placed near the entrance to Ste. Rita's Ahuntsic school, shattered more than 16 windows and damaged an office.

An estimate of damage was not available.

An estimated $400,000 in damages was caused Friday when a dynamite explosion ripped through a Bell Canada relay station in nearby Dorion.

Service was back to normal Saturday.

An anonymous telephone call was received minutes before the explosion.

No one was hurt.

Children found safe, sound

RIGAUD, Que. (CP) — Three children who wandered away from their homes on the Ontario-Quebec border Sunday were found Monday, wet but otherwise unharmed after 20 hours in the bush.

Police said the youngsters — Marion Genest, 10, Denis Racette, 10, and his sister Suzie Racette, 6 — were found in the Rigaud area, 40 miles west of Montreal, by a volunteer searcher.

They had wandered about five miles from their homes in St. Redempteur since setting out for a walk Sunday.

Police said the youngsters were found by Michel Lauzon, 15, one of about 100 volunteer searchers.

handicraft exhibits all were of an extremely good quality at the fair.

"This year's fair has to be qualified as a success. Everyone who attended had the chance to see some great exhibits. The cattle, poultry, swine and hog exhibits were as good as if not better than any we have ever had at the Brome County Fair," J. Jackson, president of the 1971 extravaganza, told The Record, yesterday, closing day.

Livestock at the Brome Fair was above average. All breeds of cattle were represented, with many of the local agricultural knowledgeables staging exhibits.

"Many of the exhibitors at the fair this year will be taking their cattle to show at the annual Quebec City Exhibition next week. Some of the exhibitors are planning to stage a show at the annual Royal Fair in Toronto," the president added.

Bright sunny weather, which highlighted this year's annual Brome County spectacular, was marred late Sunday afternoon by a downpour of heavy showers.

Horse judging, which was in the process of being carried out at the time of the onslaught of rain, was postponed until Monday afternoon.

Brome Fair, amid bright rays of warm sunshine threw open its gates to the public early Saturday morning. Thousands entered the grounds to witness some of the best cattle judging.

competitions experienced throughout the Eastern Townships during the past summer.

Saturday night's grandstand attraction, two of the Grand Old Opry's most renowned stars named Lonzo and Oscar, attracted more than 2,000 Townshippers.

"The grandstand attractions this year attracted thousands of people. You might say we were operating at one and one half times capacity. We had to bring many other seats to the grandstand," Mr. Jackson said.

Grandstand attractions, cattle parades, calf club parades, bands, horse shows, machinery parades, an exotic midway and plenty of fun for everyone guaranteed the success of this annual Brome County exhibition.

Some of the fun of the fair unfortunately was destroyed by the unwanted actions of pickpockets who roamed the fair's site throughout the long weekend.

Livestock exhibits, a major factor in the success or failure of any country fair, were excellent at the Brome Fair. Following is a list of the winners in the prime classes.

In the interim

One of the insidious dangers that assail democracy is hyperbole. There has to be a daily headline in newspapers and on television, there has to be an "achievement" easily comprehensible to that mythical personage who used to be described by the United Press — before it had become United Press International — as the Kansas City milkman.

President Nixon, in speaking of the Berlin agreement, had therefore to describe it as "a major triumph," a proof of Soviet co-operation, which indicates that the Russians too are interested "in shifting to negotiations from confrontation."

President Nixon was not alone in his euphoria. Warsaw newspapers have hailed the agreement as a great triumph of Soviet foreign policy. They pointed out that the existence of two German states has been confirmed. West Berlin — but, of course, not East Berlin — has been recognized as a separate entity with no constitutional links with West Germany. Soviet determination has triumphed.

East Germany, although a little more subdued, also claims that the agreement has given her what she long desired: international recognition. And the Soviet press crows that the fabled European security conference, which the Russians, and the French, so ardently desire, is now imminent.

It seems that the Communists, rather than President Nixon, are nearer the mark. The Berlin Wall has not come down. Indeed, the Daily Telegraph of London has described the Soviet concessions in Berlin as "minor mitigations of long-standing massive violations of the wartime agreements and subsequent understandings."

Moreover, the Russians are said to be demanding that a decision on the convening of the European security conference be made now, even before a final accord has been reached between East and West Germany on the implementation of the Berlin agreement. It has been hinted that unless the Western powers give their consent to the conference, there may be no Berlin agreement after all.

The Russians were blackmailed into minor concessions, because they need the agreement to get on with their policy project of weaning West Germany away from the Western alliance. Now, in turn, they are blackmailing the West to give in on the security conference that is to be the next, major, step in this weaning.

In this they have the support of France, which is breaking the Western united front for highly questionable motives. President Pompidou, who follows the late General de Gaulle's policies in trying to make France an arbiter between East and West, does not like to see Mr. Brandt stealing his clothes.

In the words of the theoretical journal of the Soviet party, Komunist, Soviet policy is not a series of separate actions "but a whole complex, a system of measures." To crow about greatest triumphs, about new eras, etc., is deliberately to deceive the public.

President Nixon may have had the loftiest of aims in trying to persuade the Congress not to tamper with his foreign policy by withdrawing American troops from NATO. He wants to please both the starry-eyed idealists and the realists. But each lie, even a white lie, brings on its own punishment, and in politics as in business it's honesty that pays.

Chancellor Brandt has described the Berlin agreement as a "significant interim result." It's nothing more than that.

Hydro power to the people

While Quebecers are debating the merits of their own James Bay hydroelectric power development project, Newfoundland is examining a parallel issue.

CHURCHILL FALLS, Nfld. (CP) — The way Premier Joseph Smallwood sees it, the $950 million Churchill Falls hydroelectric development, largest of its kind in the Western world, is only a beginning.

In interviews and speeches during a summer visit to this central Labrador area 650 miles northwest of St. John's, Nfld., he emphasized his belief that a uranium enrichment plant costing close to $1 billion would be built at Churchill Falls.

Mr. Smallwood also said he was certain the potential of nearly four million horsepower of the Lower Churchill would be developed by British Newfoundland Corp. at a cost of between $500 and $600 million.

Brinco is the majority shareholder of Churchill Falls (Labrador) Corp. which is building the 7,004,000 horsepower development here.

W. D. Mulholland, Brinco president, who met with the premier during the visit, reported the project on schedule with delivery of the first commercial power from the first two of 11 generators next May. Completion is scheduled for 1976.

The two also toured the 972-foot power house carved from solid rock 984 feet underground.

Hydro-Quebec, with the Newfoundland government a minority shareholder of the Churchill Falls corporation, will buy most of the power.

Sale arrangements call for delivery of 31.5 billion kilowatt hours annually, with provision for recapture of about 2.4 billion for sale outside Quebec. The 65-year sales contract is valued at about $5 billion.

"It's here the uranium enrichment plant will go," Mr. Smallwood said in an interview.

He brushed aside suggestions the federal government might not agree to any Brinco proposal to build such a plant in Canada.

The possibility that Brinco might build Canada's first enrichment plant was mentioned by Mr. Mulholland last March in an address to the Empire Club in Toronto.

Mr. Mulholland said reactors requiring enriched uranium were expected to account for "approximately 90 per cent of the world's nuclear power plants by the late 1970s."

He predicted a "critical shortage" of enriched uranium within a few years.

Since national security and international agreements would be involved "it is unthinkable that we should undertake this project without the wholehearted approval and support of our government."

Mr. Smallwood said federal support and approval would not be a problem.

A source close to the premier said Mr. Mulholland had already been told by Prime Minister Trudeau that federal approval would be forthcoming.

Mr. Smallwood said in the interview the abundance of cheap, reliable electricity and water available at Churchill Falls made the area the best possible site for a uranium plant.

Although Brinco was not publicly committed to a site Mr. Smallwood said there was no doubt it would be Churchill Falls.

The premier said Churchill Falls would be a town with a permanent population of 1,000 upon completion of the project.

The "infrastructure"—school, hospital, hotel, shopping, water and sewage—already was available and additional homes could easily be built for the 1,000 workers a uranium enrichment plant would employ.

Modern town services would encourage families of workers to stay "because it's the wives who make these things."

Employment at Churchill Falls reached 6,500 last year—the highest since the project began in 1967. This year's total reached about 3,400.

About 2,200 square miles of the plateau will be covered with water 8½ months after the 91 dikes are completed and control gates closed. The 40 miles of dikes plug gaps in the rim of the Labrador Plateau.

The artificial lake—larger than Prince Edward Island—has been christened the Smallwood Reservoir. The reservoir also will cover such existing lakes as Lobstick, Michikamau, Sandgirt, Orma, Sail and others, including many that have never been named.

Completion of the reservoir also will reduce to a comparative trickle the 245-foot Churchill Falls, the most spectacular part of the Churchill River which drops 1,000 feet in 20 miles.

The river's flow, diverted by dikes and gates, will be channelled through 11 penstocks, each with an inclined length of 1,200 feet.

After passing through the turbines from the penstocks, the water will flow into a surge chamber almost as large as the powerhouse and through two mile-long tailrace tunnels back into the Churchill River.

About 120 miles downstream is the probable site of any Lower Churchill power development.

In a speech just prior to pushing a button to close a gate in the Lobstick control structure 55 air miles west of here July 1, Mr. Smallwood said Brinco's plan to fill a 55-mile gap in a road from Esker, 113 miles west of here, to Goose Bay on Lake Melville, an inlet of the Atlantic Ocean, indicated the corporation's interest in development of the Lower Churchill.

It was Mr. Smallwood's first visit since a sod-turning ceremony four years ago and he was obviously impressed with the massiveness of the project.

The powerhouse, 81 feet wide and with a planned upper chamber that will be five times as large as the main concourse of Canadian National's Central Station in Montreal, contains the project's key elements.

They include 100-ton turbine runners and 650-ton generator rotors that will turn at 200 revolutions per minute.

A transformer gallery, next to the powerhouse and also carved out of rock, will contain equipment to boost the 15,000-volt output of the generators to 230,000 volts. A second transformation on the surface will raise the power to 735,000 volts.

A right-of-way 710 feet wide has been cut westward through the wilderness to carry the power 126 miles to the point of delivery to Hydro-Quebec at the Newfoundland boundary.

Cash and confidence
By NICK THIMMESCH

WASHINGTON — Which political verity was uppermost in Mr. Nixon's mind as he mulled his decision to cut loose with a battery of hardline economic policies?

Was it, "What's good for the President is good for the country?" or was it, "What's good for the country is good for the President?" It was probably an admixture, and will always remain so. Because that's what leadership is: the ability of a President to strike boldly when he believes it is in the people's best interest, and to reckon that he will be rewarded with their support and loyalty as a consequence.

Around the White House, the word is that the President's startling message is tough-to-top, can't be repeated (for political reasons), and that hopefully, Mr. Nixon has knocked off the one remaining issue the Democrats can hold against him — the uneasy feeling Americans have about their economy. As Democratic Sen.

William Proxmire sized it up, if Mr. Nixon's new economic plan works, "he will be very hard to beat in the 1972 election."

The President unburdens himself — and all of us — on the apprehensions over our daily bread and the realization that the rest of the world is growing up and we don't like it. What happens? First the praise pours in. The President is "courageous . . . strong . . . decisive . . . hardheaded." Then the commotion starts, and that's where politics comes in.

Teachers, figuring on raises in their contracts for the upcoming school year, yowl when they learn they won't get them for at least 90 days, hint they will challenge the wage-freeze in the courts, some saying they would never vote for Mr. Nixon now. Parents and students paying tuition are miffed when they learn the Treasury Department declares that tuition and fee hikes announced before August 14 are permitted.

Landlords and tenants, contract buyers and sellers, wholesalers and merchants, unions and companies — are all having some dandy innings trying to get straight with each other in the weeks ahead. It's likely that the losers will hold Mr. Nixon responsible for their grief.

He might just understand. Years ago as a young lawyer he worked for the Office of Price Administration and became vexed for life with such government controls over our daily economic activities.

So ultimately, the test of Mr. Nixon's quick, pragmatic decision is whether its juggernaut quality brings on enough real and fancied changes that people will think "Well, he's a pretty good President after all."

When the political opposition embodied in the Democratic Party is struck with a lightning force like Mr. Nixon's economic message, the customary strategy is to regroup and read a counteroffensive.

Aware that Mr. Nixon has the upper hand on the peace issue, Democrats are determined to impale him on the old reliable (for votes) — the economy. Every poll shows that Mr. Nixon has been in trouble on this score.

So here comes Dr. Walter Heller, the economist-polemicist for the Democrats, charging that the $8 billion Mr. Nixon urges in investment tax credit and liberalized depreciation allowances for business to create jobs is "trickle down with a vengeance," and that a tax break this size belongs to consumers, not big business.

Moreover, according to Dr. Heller, who was President Kennedy's chief economic adviser, the 90-day price-wage freeze should be for six months. He cheers the "untying of the dollar," but feels that the 10 per cent surtax on imports can only be justified on a short-term basis, else it will become protectionist and reactionary.

Sen. Hubert Humphrey, probably the most skilled Democrat in rousing middle Americans to anger over the Administration's economic policies, jumped right in, barked that "a stubborn President had been compelled to take action," and criticized Mr. Nixon for not making income tax cuts for individuals effective immediately.

Sounding like the perennial Populist he really is, Sen. Humphrey lambasted the President for deferring action on welfare reform and the vaunted revenue-sharing program and for asking Congress to cut federal spending by $4.7 billion this year.

Sen. Humphrey knows he can hurt Mr. Nixon this way, and Mr. Nixon knows it too. Mr. Nixon knows that the real and urgent economic problems are the status of the dollar and the toughening trade situation for us in the world.

The domestic economy is not in crisis. Current unemployment of 5.8 per cent is about the same as we had in the 1961-64 period before our big effort in Vietnam. Inflation persists, but price-level increases in the first six months of this year were the smallest since the last half of 1967. Drive across the United States and you'll see all sorts of building and energy at work.

Each quiver on the economic dial is trumpeted across the Republic, however, and how people's concern is real. Therefore the President, aware of how fidgety we Americans have become, addressed himself to the reality of this fear. He threw a bucket of cold water on all of us.

Such a shock might clear our heads long enough for Mr. Nixon to regain people's confidence in their immediate, daily world and the business of making a living.

"S'funny — we must have run out of gas . . ."

They dug their work

GRONDINES, Que. (CP) — About 37 young people between the ages of 16 and 23 worked for the summer on an archeological excavation financed by a grant from the federal Opportunities for Youth program.

And what started out to be a simple summer job for young people of this Quebec region became a focal point of interest for a whole community.

Originally, the project was the vacation hobby of Pierre Houde, geographer and professor at the University of Quebec. Gilles Despres, a geography student, became interested in the project and decided that he wanted to do something to further the research.

In two days and nights he and his friends worked out a project, then submitted it to the federal government and it was accepted.

Grondines, a village of 900, is on the St. Lawrence River midway between Quebec and Trois-Rivieres. It was founded in 1647 and named by Samuel de Champlain.

When the seigniorie was founded it belonged to the Sisters of the Hotel Dieu in Quebec. It passed to Jacques Aubert and then to Louis-Marie Hamelin, the ancestor of most of the village's inhabitants.

The Opportunities for Youth project worked out by Gilles and his friends called for the excavation of six historic sites. Those on the project are from the local area and have voiced an interest in continuing the research during the school year, even if the government financing is no longer provided.

"We had a rough idea where the principal sites were because we had an old 1888 map which showed the point of reference as an old mill on the banks of the river," says Gilles. "By examining aerial photographs we were able to pinpoint the areas to be excavated."

Once the areas were marked off, one group of young people began to dig. All objects found were put in sacks to be sorted later and identified. Another group combed the village for documents that could help to reconstruct the history of the village and a third group interviewed the village oldtimers on traditions and legends.

About 1,200 documents have been collected in the project's office located in the old mill, the property of the federal government. Bills of sale, marriage contracts, wills, receipts, leases and inventories all have been photocopied in duplicate and returned to their owners.

One copy is to be retained in the village presbytery and the other will be sent to the Quebec archives.

Among the papers collected, two are considered of great historic value. One is a letter signed by Vaureuil in 1760, one year after the capitulation of Quebec, conferring the title of "lieutenant du ministre" on someone from the village and calling for resistance against the English.

The other is a Quebec government manuscript dated after the conquest in which are listed the names of the fathers of almost all those who became the Quebec Fathers of Confederation.

The excavations have brought several valuable objects to light. Among them are two pieces of money—a Louis XV coin from 1737 and a Mexican coin. Searchers also found an Iroquois tomahawk and some fragments of Huron pottery, all about 1,000 years old.

They also came across the beams of two houses built by the first colonists, showing the influence of French architecture with the fireplace the centre of the house. Later, because of the harsh Canadian winters, colonists built their fireplaces on the northeast walls of their homes.

When the young people first started their project, they met with some reticence on the part of the villagers. But after a three week door-to-door campaign for support they established co-operation with the villagers and now the project belongs to everyone.

IT'S SCHOOLTIME

DRIVE WITH CHILDREN IN MIND!

KEEP THEM SMILING... DON'T LET TRAGEDY STRIKE

- DRIVE EXTRA CAREFULLY around schools and playgrounds!
- Be on the lookout for children when they walk to and from school! Your vacation from school children is over now!
- BE ON THE ALERT when you are near a school bus. Of course, they have to obey all the traffic rules. But give buses a break anyway . . . they carry priceless cargo!
- PARENTS, NEVER STOP TELLING children about the many traffic dangers! Only then can we hope to reduce traffic fatalities. One out of seven fatalities involves a school child. One out of ten fatal accidents is caused by a teen-age driver!
- DRIVERS! DON'T HURRY WHEN YOU DRIVE! We may as well face it — we cannot reduce casualties unless we slow down! Their lives are in the hands holding your steering wheel! The minute you may save isn't worth the life of a school child.
- HAVE YOUR CAR CHECKED by an expert! Any car that is not in perfect mechanical condition is a potential murder weapon! The few dollars you spend may save a life.
- PULL OFF THE ROAD when you're tired, and take a nap!
- DON'T DRIVE at all when you've had a drink. Drowsiness and drinking are responsible for most fatal accidents!

PEAR GINGERBREAD — An attractive spicy gingerbread displays slices of fresh pear. According to the home economists at Canada Agriculture, Ottawa, the pear pieces are arranged in brown sugar, butter and lemon juice before the gingerbread batter is poured in. Served warm with whipped cream, this combination makes an appealing dessert.

Pears to eat fresh or to cook

Do the names Bartlett, Flemish Beauty, Clapp's Favorite and d'Anjou mean anything to you? They are some of the most common varieties of fresh pears, and differ greatly in shape and coloring. Pears, like apples, have a long history. The Grecian writer Homer referred to pears as the "gift of the gods." Eating a perfectly ripened pear is indeed a sheer delight.

Pears are not allowed to ripen fully on the tree but are picked when tests indicate the proper degree of maturity. Color alone can not be used as a test for ripeness. Pears are ready for eating fresh when the flesh yields to gentle pressure in the palm of your hand.

Pears, as indeed all fresh fruit, need careful handling. A basket of pears should be checked and sorted according to ripeness.

Fully ripe ones should be refrigerated for eating out of hand, in salads or for a fresh fruit tray. The others may be allowed to ripen at room temperature. Slightly underripe ones may be used for cooking.

The home economists at Canada Agriculture, Ottawa, have provided one of their favorite pear recipes, "Pear Gingerbread." The flavor combination is unusual and truly delicious.

PEAR GINGERBREAD

2 tablespoons butter
1-3 cup brown sugar
1-2 cups peeled sliced pears (4 medium)
1 tablespoon lemon juice

BATTER

1/4 cup butter
1/4 cup sugar
1 egg
1/2 cup molasses
1-1/4 cups sifted all-purpose flour
3/4 teaspoon baking soda
1/4 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon cinnamon
1/4 teaspoon ginger
1/8 teaspoon cloves
1-3 cup boiling water

Melt the 2 tablespoons butter in an 8-inch square pan. Stir in brown sugar, arrange pear slices and sprinkle with lemon juice.

Cream butter and sugar. Beat in eggs and molasses. Sift dry ingredients and add alternately with water. Beat until smooth. Pour batter over pears and bake at 325 degrees F. until cake springs back when pressed lightly (40 to 50 minutes). Let stand in pan 5 minutes, then turn onto serving dish. Serve warm with whipped cream or ice cream. 6 servings.

Lafoe, Harding wed

DERBY LINE — The marriage of Kay Annette, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Perry Harding, Jr., of Laramie, Wyoming, to Richard B. Lafoe, younger son of Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Lafoe, Derby Line, Vermont, took place on Sunday August 8 at 1:30 p.m.

Rev. Dave Steffenson, Campus minister of the University of Wyoming officiated for the ceremony which took place in the St. Albans Chapel, Snowy Range, Wyoming, in its picturesque setting of snow-capped mountains, softwood trees and flowers of the wild in bloom with music of the birds. The chapel is in the mountains, at an altitude of 10,000 feet.

The altar was decorated with pine boughs and cones and with Mexican daisies, while on the altar table were arrangements of delphiniums from the gardens of Mrs. Zane Brown of Laramie.

The rings for the double ring ceremony were designed by the bride and groom and handmade by a silversmith in Denver, Colorado. Trent Ackerson, son of the bride, carried the rings in a black velvet lined antique gold chest. The wedding ceremony was written by the bride and groom and included verses from First Corinthians and the Book of Numbers. The wedding music was from The Gospel, Changing Times, Ray Beckstead, Laramie, played the guitar.

The bride was wearing a gown, fashioned and made by her mother, of pale green dotted swiss in 1890 style having a square neckline complemented with a cameo of the bride's maternal great-grandmother. White lace was used on the high bodice and hemline and the long sleeves were full to gather at the wrists. Her long hair was caught at the back with white straw flowers and she carried a sheath of pom-pom mums, and a white linen handkerchief edged with green tatting, made by the groom's maternal grandmother.

Richard wore an 1890 styled pale green shirt with white flare trousers.

Miss Karla Morgan, as maid of honor, was in a gown similar to that of the bride in beige dotted swiss with a maid's apron and was trimmed with lace. She wore white straw flowers in her hair and carried a sheath of pom-pom mums.

Greg Harding, brother of the bride, as groomsmen was wearing an 1890 shirt in beige with white trousers.

The maid of honor's attire was styled and made by Mrs. Harding, mother of the bride.

Miss Laurie Jean Lafoe, niece of the groom, as flower girl was wearing an old-fashioned gown of pink cotton embossed with tiny purple flowers, made by Mrs. Lorand Rollins of Derby Line with a purple sash and ties at the back of the high waist. She carried an apple basket of garden blooms from the garden of Mrs. Zane Brown.

Mrs. Harding, the bride's mother chose a multicolored dotted swiss with a long full skirt and peasant blouse; she wore a white mum corsage.

The groom's mother, Mrs. Lafoe, was in an 1890 dress of black cotton crepe with tiny multicolor flowers and lace at the neck and hem. She wore a corsage of white mums.

Miss Malva Rowan and Miss Sue Moss served wedding cake and punch at Snowy Range; afterwards, the wedding dinner took place at the home of the bride's parents.

The couple's honeymoon was motoring to Derby Line, Vermont. The bride left in a short pants and mini dress of lavender and white. They will be residing at Morgan Centre, Vermont.

Among the guests at the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Lafoe, Derby Line; Miss Laurie Jean Lafoe, Plymouth, N.H.; relatives and friends from Wyoming.

Vacation Bible School

KNOWLTON — The Daily thirty Bible School was conducted for two weeks in August under the direction of Miss Genevieve Porcheron, Willowdale, Ont., and Miss Vera Czajinski, Burlington, Ont.

Closing programmes were held on Wednesday evening August 11th at West Brome, and Friday evening August 13th at Brome. The theme song was The Bible Stands and the theme verse was taken from 1 Timothy 3:16. In addition to being very capable teachers, Miss attendance at each class of Porcheron and Miss Czajinski were talented vocalists and musicians and their duets added much to the morning services at Brome during their time here.

Their assistance in various ways during a time of illness and shortage of help is greatly appreciated by one of the families with whom they spent one week.

Church Anniversary

WAY'S MILLS — The 90th anniversary of the Way's Mills United Church will be celebrated on Sunday evening, September 12 with a special service at 7:30 p.m. Rev. C. Malcolm Keir, of the Coventry Road, Vt., a Methodist church minister, will be here as well as other guest speakers.

Many beautiful gifts arranged on a table were opened by the bride-to-be, assisted by her mother, Mrs. Donald Riel, and her future mother-in-law, Mrs. A. M. Allen.

Delicious refreshments were served by Mrs. Casey assisted by Mrs. W. Heron, Mrs. L. Crandall, Lorraine Crandall, and Mrs. Ross Cornish.

Among the guests were Mrs. Buck from Bromont, Diana's paternal grandmother, Mrs. Allen, Montreal, as well as many from Granby, Magog, Dunham and Bedford.

Previously a money shower had been given Diana by her friends in Montreal, where she had worked for some years before going to Vancouver, where she has been for about two years.

Diana thanked all the friends who had made this surprise such a happy and long to be remembered party.

POLLY'S POINTERS

Hard to Open Pockets Are Her Pet Peeve

By POLLY CRAMER

DEAR POLLY—My Pet Peeve concerns the opening of containers for granulated soaps or anything else that is boxed and not used all at once. The widely used method of "Press Here" makes it impossible to open a package without the use of some tool to do the pressing and the result is a jagged opening which makes measuring almost impossible without spilling, not to mention the very poor job one does trying to reseat such a package. Cornmeal, instant potatoes, salt, etc., have metal pouring spouts which are so much more convenient. Such spouts should be according to the box sizes.—VIOLA

Polly's Problem

DEAR POLLY—I would like to know how to wash or clean gloves that are leather on the palm side and cotton on the outside.—JUDITH

DEAR POLLY—So many women now wear high boots so I have a Pointer for keeping them tall and straight. I tie a paper clip to each end of a heavy string or cord and then slip one of the clips through an "eye" in the zipper of each boot. Hang the cord over a line, coat hanger or hook so a boot hangs down at either side and they are kept in good shape. (Polly's note — This would be a good way to put boots away for the summer.)—ELSIE

DEAR POLLY AND M.S.—We received damages to two chairs during our last move and the movers did not want to make any adjustment in our bill so we notified the bank to stop payment on the check we had given them. Our bill was reduced $40 right away.—LANELLE

DEAR READERS—Stopping payment on the check would not really solve this problem as the bill would still be outstanding. When the move is within one state, contact your Better Business Bureau for information as to the best procedure for settling such a claim. If the move was interstate, from one state to another, then write your story to the nearest Interstate Commerce Commission.—POLLY

Far-out names are remembered

By Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers: May I say a word to "Marmaduke Crumbum," the guy who wanted to know how to go about changing his name legally because it was so different? He doesn't know how lucky he is to have a name that is out of the ordinary.

My name is not Joe Smith but it's equally common. I hate it. Wherever I go I am one of many. In school it was always a mess. In the Army it was worse. I was forever getting somebody else's mail. Now, it's a problem with the bills. And since the computers handle everything, there's no way out.

My wife and I have agreed to give our children ridiculously far-out names so that no one will ever forget them. People may laugh, but they will remember.—Joe

Dear Joe: In behalf of Birdseed Wilson, Tonsillitis Moore and Numbersgame Jones, I thank you.

Dear Ann Landers: Is there a cure for a man who is so tight with money that he makes his wife's life hell? My husband earns a good salary—has for many years. But he is so afraid of being poor again that he counts pennies. He makes $1500 a month and our expenses run about $300. He must have a small fortune saved. When I ask him what we have in the bank he says, "Enough so we won't starve if something happens to my job."

As time goes on he becomes worse instead of better. We cannot enjoy life because he is so tight-fisted he won't spend money to see a movie and gets mad when I go. He never wants to eat out because it's cheaper to eat at home. When I ask him for money to make a donation to a worthy cause he says, "Who will take care of US when we are down and out?"

Can extreme poverty in childhood do this to a person? Please help me understand, and tell me what to do.

—Scrooge's Wife
Dear Wife: Yes—extreme poverty in childhood can do that to a person, and this is probably what happened to your husband. Poor fellow has a clinker in his thinker.

Statistically you will survive Scrooge. This means he will have scrimped and saved all of his life, denying himself many simple pleasures because he was unable to part with a buck. Sad.

My condolences to him and to others who suffer from the same illness.

Dear Ann Landers: I am writing in regard to the 11-year-old who had problems with his musical interests.

When I was nine I started to play the clarinet on a three-month trial basis. After the three months were up the teacher told my folks I had talent and they were advised to buy the clarinet.

They dished out the $150, which was a lot of money to them. A week later I decided I wanted to play the flute. My parents said "no." I was pretty mad and said I wouldn't play any instrument if I couldn't play the flute. My dad said, "We bought you the clarinet and you'll play it or nothing. After you are good at it we'll consider a second instrument."

I sulked for two years then decided they weren't going to give in. I realized what a fool I'd been. All the kids in the band had been enjoying themselves, taking trips, etc. and I had missed out. So I decided to go back to the clarinet.

It's eight years later and I am really an expert. My dad kept his bargain and next week I start with the flute.

So tell those kids out there to stay with one instrument until they can play it well. They will be glad they did.

—Future Music Teacher
Dear Teach: You struck a sweet chord with me. Thanks for the harmony.

Art exhibit nears closing days

BOUNDARY — There are only a few days left to view the excellent oil paintings on exhibition in the art gallery at the Haskell Library here at the Boundary.

This is a collection of paintings done by Mrs. Winnie Dewey of Stanstead and depict the four seasons with snow canvases, sugaring in spring, apple blossoms, summer and autumn.

They have been creating considerable interest and it is hoped all who have not seen them will try to by the end of the first week in September.

BIG KNITS — Knits are biggest in children's wear this fall. The styling versatility of the knitting machine could provide the Canadian garment industry with its best ammunition in fighting off imports. For example, this hot pant dress with new flared skirt designed of bonded with ribbed "Orlon" acrylic fibre by Majdell of Montreal. Zippered tunic-and-sweater look is actually one-piece. Navy or red with white, in sizes 4-6X.

Knits big in kids' fashions

Saint Laurent, Cardin and Valentino take notice. If you have any doubts as to where fashion is going, just ask the kids.

No group is more sure of its own taste or more responsive to fashion innovation than the current crop of eight to 13 year olds. They're quick to spot an incoming fashion and in seven out of 10 cases make the final decision themselves. Often less well informed and sometimes uncertain of her own taste, mother usually relaxes into a state of resigned acquiescence. However, for the up to 6X size group mother still knows best.

Today's little girl is too sophisticated for frilly party dresses. She was asking for midis and hot pants almost before they were available to the 15 to 21 years old. Her reading material including comic magazines keep her abreast of changing life styles.

Knits and kids go together like French fries and vinegar. One Montreal manufacturer who knits his own cloth has produced a smooth textured knit fabric of stretch nylon that's an eye-fooler for the way suede reflects light. More of a camouflage than a direct attempt at imitation, it's being made into knickers, hot overalls and vests.

The styling versatility of the knitting machine could be Canada's greatest asset in fighting off imports. This season kids are finding self expression in the variety of figurative designs and colors produced by the complicated jacquard knitting machine.

The days of fashion absolutes in fabric, style and length are gone. Basics are scarce. This fall there are so few, the dress with long pants has been relegated to that category. Short shorts and knickers have become the new pantsuit. Before the onslaught of cold weather, shorts plus (shorts plus shirts, shorts plus vests, shorts plus dresses) are expected to prevail.

Although girls are interested in style and mothers in practicality, 90 per cent of all children's wear sold is washable. With all this washable fashion on the market, mothers could point out to their fashion-conscious daughters that decision carries responsibility—the responsibility of doing their own laundry.

Haskell Library notes

By Adelaide Prangley
BOUNDARY — This being my first summer as librarian, I had no idea how well known the Haskell Library and Opera House were or how many visitors they attracted. After conducting dozens of tours during the past few months, I have come to realize even more fully how fortunate we in this community are. One of the most gratifying things is to hear the comments of summer residents who have come from larger centres—they are consistent in their praise of the variety and quantity of reading material we have available.

This week Mr. and Mrs. Lacasse, both professors of French literature at the University of Sherbrooke, asked if they might visit us. They explained they were making a study of culture in the province of Quebec and on consulting the provincial report on libraries, had found ours to be the best in the province. This was nice to hear, to be sure, and it's true that in many aspects we do indeed lead the province—we seem to do "the most with the least," being next to the last on a list of 96 with regard to government grants, have the most space per person, the most books per person, the most loans per person, etc.

I was duty bound to point out that these figures were misleading since the government bases their report on the population of the municipality in which the library is located, in this case Rock Island. To be realistic, we must consider that we also serve the people of Derby Line, Stanstead and Beebe and that much of our support comes from Vermont. However, realistic appraisal notwithstanding, we do have one of the top libraries in the province and this area is known as one where culture is nurtured and enjoyed.

The Minister of Cultural Affairs has a representative in Sherbrooke and through him we may be able to widen our horizons with regard to the exhibits in the reading room and hopefully perhaps in the use of the Opera House.

The Minister of Cultural Affairs has also compiled a list of artists in the province. They realize that the list is only partial and ask our help in completing it. If you are an artist of any kind living in Quebec, please phone the Haskell Library so that your name may be sent in and added to the list. This way your work is more apt to receive recognition and you also will have contact with other artists.

Last week I had a letter from Mrs. Cora Slack (nee Philips) of the National Film Board in Ottawa concerning a photography contest. Mrs. Slack is an ex-resident of the community and in asking my help to publicize this event said, "Since the good people of Three Villages are always interested in all forms of art—I thought perhaps we might uncover some budding talent."

The contest is open to all photographers of 25 and under, and the dead line is October 14, 1971. Further details are available on the bulletin board at the Library.

The Sesame Street books have arrived at last and are delightfully fascinating. We don't restrict them to any age group but suggest that if you take them out, you share them with a young friend or relative!

JACOBY ON BRIDGE

Suppose South were dealer. He would open one spade. JACOBY MODERN bidders sitting North would raise to three (nforcing) and South would bid on to four. Standard American bidders would have to respond two diamonds. They might reach game or they might not. In any case, they would be getting there by a complicated, roundabout route.

Four spades makes easily. Assuming West continues clubs, South must ruff the third club high after that, he wraps up 10 tricks.

Electrocardiograms may vary

DR. LAWRENCE E. LAMB

Dear Dr. Lamb—Could you give me some information on electrocardiograms? What makes them vary in people? On my annual examination last year, mine was classed as abnormal because of flat "T" waves. The year before, it was borderline. My doctor had me go every three months to see if there was any change. There wasn't and it is still the same. I seem to be in good health. I do not smoke or drink and use Sanka. My blood pressure is 114/76. I am five feet, two inches and weigh 113 pounds. My cholesterol is 244. So all tests prove normal.

My doctor sent me to a heart specialist and he found no symptoms of heart disease. He said for my piece of mind he would put me through an exercise program to bring my cardiogram back to normal. If this is normal for me to have a cardiogram like mine, then is there any harm in leaving well-enough alone?

Dear Reader—No, there isn't any harm in leaving well-enough alone. Sometimes skillful neglect is excellent medicine. Electrocardiograms are the graphic record of the electrical activity of your heart that occurs with each heart beat.

The electrical impulse passing over the heart muscle stimulates it to beat each time. We have established characteristics of the graph as normal on the basis of many tests.

I have studied electrocardiograms in well over 100,000 healthy men and a lesser number of women. The men were from the U.S. Air Force population, including space pilots and astronauts. The women were Air Force nurses and women officers. The change in what is called the "T" wave is the most common variation in the electrocardiogram in individuals, even in good health. We have learned that the "T" wave can be changed from a variety of unimportant causes to some very important ones, like high blood pressure and changes in the heart from heart muscle damage. You usually have to examine the patient with the record to be able to tell if it is important or not.

The best rule of thumb is that, if the person has no other evidence of heart disease, the change should be ignored—unless it represents a change in the record compared to previous ones.

From a practical point of view, there isn't anything constructive you can do about it that you shouldn't do anyway—like controlling your body weight and getting adequate exercise. You can do that on your own. I would like to see your cholesterol level be a little lower. This suggests diet and exercise for most people.

In the future, when you have an examination, be sure that you get your heart tracing while you are fasting (no food, coffee or cigarettes). About half of the people who have "T" wave changes that cause a lot of confusion have normal "T" waves when they are fasting. This will save both you and your doctor a lot of trouble. I would recommend fasting to anyone having such an examination.

New drive launched in Indochina, Nam

SAIGON (AP) — Anti-aircraft guns opened fire Monday on an unarmed United States photo reconnaissance plane deep inside North Vietnam, and its escorting fighter-bombers followed with retaliatory strikes, the U.S. command reported.

In South Vietnam's northwest corner, thousands of Saigon troops, backed by extensive U.S. B-52 raids, launched a new drive near the Laotian border and the so-called demilitarized zone.

A command spokesman, Maj. Richard Gardner, said the F-4 fighter-bombers destroyed two anti-aircraft guns 51 miles north of the demilitarized zone. He said there was no damage to the air force RF-4 reconnaissance plane or its two escorts.

It was the 56th "protective reaction" strike reported inside North Vietnam this year. The United States halted the bombing of North Vietnam on Nov. 1, 1968, but has kept up reconnaissance flights to check on North Vietnamese troop and supply movements and defenses.

The B-52 superfortresses supporting the 12,000-man drive flew more than 30 combat strikes in the region around Khe Sanh, losing nearly 1,000 tons of bombs on North Vietnamese positions.

SEEK OUT SUPPLIES

There were no reports of significant ground contact in the area and only minor skirmishes were reported elsewhere in South Vietnam.

The South Vietnamese troops were lifted into the Khe Sanh area by scores of U.S. helicopters.

The aim of the operation is to destroy North Vietnamese base camps, storage depots and supply routes leading into South Vietnam from Laos to the west and the DMZ to the north.

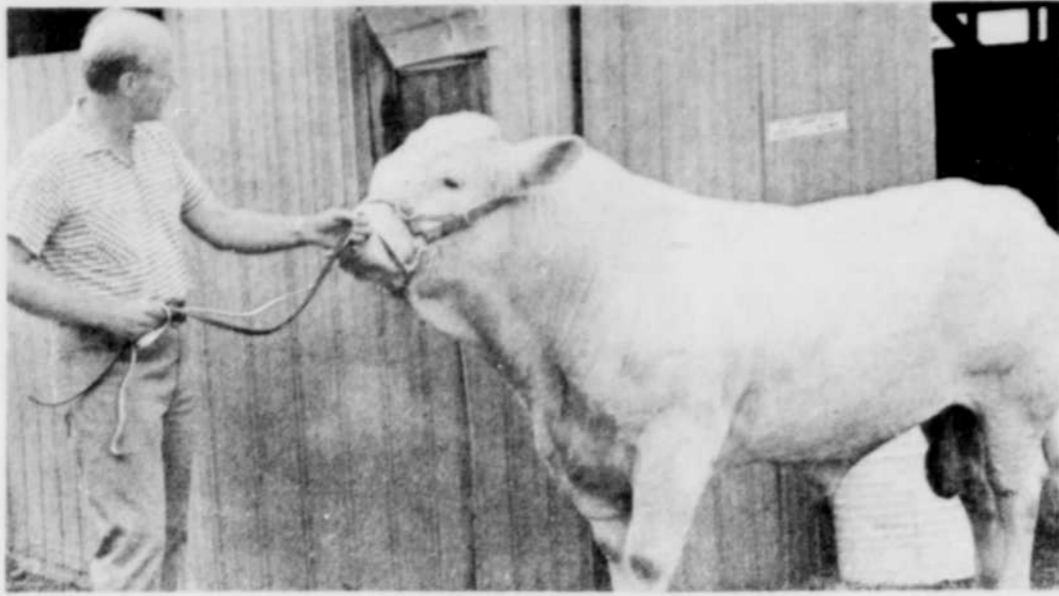

U.S. helicopter pilots said the North Vietnamese had built roads and established communication lines inside the southern half of the demilitarized zone and it appeared they were digging in.

INDUSTRY IN BRIEF

Announces grant for Granby

OTTAWA — The Honorable Jean Marchand, minister of regional economic expansion, today announced that six firms would receive incentives under the Regional Development Incentives Act for projects in Quebec which will create an estimated 166 jobs.

Cooperative Agricole of Granby will receive an incentive of approximately $249,000 for the construction of a new plant at Notre-Dame du Bon Conseil, Quebec, that will produce cheddar cheese products. This project will create an estimated 36 new jobs. The incentive is based on a rate of seven per cent of the approved capital costs, estimated at $2,792,000, plus $1,500 for each new job created.

Population misstated

OTTAWA — The city of Drummondville's 1971 population was inadvertently overstated in a preliminary bulletin issued by Statistics Canada. Instead of being 39,438 as published, the preliminary figure has now been established at 31,537.

The village of Drummondville-Ouest was annexed by the city between 1966 and 1971. When the population figures were compiled for the city according to new 1971 boundaries, part of an adjacent municipality was accidentally included in the total.

A re-check of the whole Drummondville district, enumeration area by enumeration area, revealed the discrepancy and produced the corrected preliminary figure given above.

Announces local incentives

OTTAWA — The Honorable Jean Marchand, minister of regional economic expansion, has announced an Eastern Townships firm will receive incentives under the Regional Development Incentives Act for projects which will create an estimated 23 new jobs.

Northern Sintered Metals Inc. will receive an incentive of approximately $124,000 for a new plant in Granby to manufacture powdered metal parts. The incentive is based on a rate of 18 per cent of the approved capital costs, estimated at $311,000, plus $3,000 for each new job created.

Local firm gets contract

OTTAWA — Williams-Atto Construction Ltd., Sherbrooke, has been awarded a $635,700 contract for an addition to the laboratories and office building at the Agricultural Research Centre in Lennoxville, P.Q. Public Works Minister Arthur Laing announced last week.

The successful firm submitted the lowest of five tenders, high bid being $729,000. Funds for the project are being provided by the department of agriculture.

The addition will be a two-storey, steel-framed building comprising 7,000 square feet of space. It will be completely air conditioned. The work is expected to take eight months to complete.

Plans and specifications were prepared in Montreal by the Quebec region office of the federal department of public works. L. A. Deschamps, director of the Quebec region of the department, will provide supervision.

AGRICULTURAL ROUNDUP

Certificate awarded

OTTAWA — Nine cows owned by Quebec Ayrshire Breeders have qualified for special production certificates in recognition of high lifetime production achievements. Gold seal certificates are issued for cows which produce over 100,000 lbs. milk. All of these cows completed all their lactations on practical twice daily milkings.

Locally, Laurent Bousquet, Granby, Que., has been awarded a gold seal certificate for Sunny Dale Victoria. In her first eight lactations, she has produced 111,048 lbs. milk; 4,835 lbs. fat; 4.36 per cent in 2,632 days. She has five consecutive 305 day records with over 600 lbs. fat, including 16,339 lbs. milk, 697 lbs. fat, 4.27 per cent at six years. Her sire is Selwood Swaney's Victory and she is classified as very good.

In the senior four-year-olds, the highest record was made by Bonheur Lulu, a daughter of Wendybrook Dream's Beacon, owned by M. Beaudry, St. Alphonse de Granby, Quebec. At four years, 301 days, she produced 12,109 lbs. milk, 622 lbs. fat, 5.14 per cent in 305 days, a gold medal record. Next was Spruce Vine Carom's Goldie, a daughter of Brampton Line Six's Carom, owned by Floyd R. Dingwall, Berwick, Ontario. In 305 days, at four years, 243 days, she produced 10,131 lbs. milk, 670 lbs. fat, 6.61 per cent, also a gold medal record.

Wheat insurance due

QUEBEC — The president of the Quebec Crop Insurance board, Romeo Martin, reminds growers of winter wheat that they have until Sept. 30 to insure their 1971-72 crop.

As in previous years, winter wheat insurance will provide coverage from the September 1 to the end of August against damage caused by snow, hail, rain, drought, frost, insects and diseases.

Notice of such damage must be given to the local representative of the crop insurance board at a time when the losses can be easily seen—that is, before the need to carry out such urgent operations as harvesting and delivery becomes pressing.

Growers of winter wheat who wish to take advantage of this special crop insurance policy should apply in writing to the Crop Insurance Board, Government Buildings, Quebec.

City man is new director

QUEBEC — The minister of agriculture and colonization, Normand Toupin, has announced the appointment of Jean Desjardins as director of agricultural products marketing division.

Mr. Desjardins, hitherto coordinator of the southwest of Montreal agricultural region since 1967, succeeds Vic Pelchat who has been appointed to the agricultural department's programming and economics section.

Mr. Desjardins was born at Sherbrooke in 1927 and studied at the Quebecs Academy in Outremont and then at the Oka Agricultural Institute where he took his degree in agriculture in 1949.

In addition to a sound university background Mr. Desjardins has had wide experience of agriculture marketing, in which he has held important administrative posts both in government and private industry. With CIL from 1949 to 1955 he was a fieldman for fertilizers and pesticides and then sales organizer for the whole province.

In 1956 he joined Hardee Farms Ltd. as assistant to the general manager, a position which required him to travel throughout Quebec to study the commercial possibilities of wholesalers outside the urban centres.

As assistant head of a division in the Cooperative Federee from 1960 to 1963, he was in charge of the fruit and vegetable section and was responsible for the orderly marketing of these products in the Montreal region and in the province generally. Later he became marketing coordinator for Quebec with Robin Hood Flour Mills Ltd. (balanced feeds division).

He was technical adviser to the Quebec Agricultural Marketing Board at Montreal from December 1964 to November 1966 and also acted as consultant to the Royal Commission on Agriculture in Quebec for over two years.

In March 1967 he was appointed coordinator of the southwest of Montreal agricultural region. Married to Esther Berard of Montreal, he is the father of seven children, four boys and three girls.

Tiger-Cats down Argos 30-17 in 2-touchdown game

HAMILTON (CP) — Hamilton Tiger-Cats defeated Toronto Argonauts 30-17 Monday in a fumble-filled Eastern Football Conference game before a record Hamilton crowd of 34,535.

The Tiger-Cats' sputtering offence came alive for two touchdowns: a 108-yard pass-and-run play by Dave Fleming and a one-yard run by newcomer Frank Quayle. But it was the defence that provided the momentum.

Defensive lineman Ed Chalupka picked up a Toronto fumble at the 27-yard line and lumbered over for the third Hamilton major score.

End Tommy Joe Coffey had a big afternoon, converting the three touchdowns, kicking the Ticat scoring with two singles, one a 74-yard effort in the second quarter.

Me' Profit, on an eight-yard scoring pass from Greg Barton, and Dave Raimy, intercepting a Zuger pass to the flats on the Ticat four-yard line, scored the Toronto six-pointers.

Ivan MacMillan, with a convert and field goal, and Zenon Andrusyshyn's single accounted for the other Toronto points.

Turnovers were the big factor in the Ticat win as they dealt the Argos their second loss of the season in seven starts while improving their own mark to three wins and two losses.

Ticat defenders recovered three Toronto fumbles, two bobbles by usually-reliable Bill Symons and one by Cramer on the kickoff after Quayle's score led to Chalupka's touchdown.

The Ticat defenders also pulled in four Joe Thiesmann passes as Argo head coach Leo Cahill continued to work his alternate quarterbacking system with Barton.

The Ticats opened an 8-0 lead in the first quarter and increased the count to 12-0 before Toronto got on the scoreboard with Profit's touchdown at 10:37 of the second quarter.

The Argos took a 17-13 lead into the final 15 minutes and appeared destined to continue control of the game. But early in the quarter, defensive back Chip Barrett barrelled into punter Zuger on a third-and-long-yardage situation.

The Argos were called for making contact with the kicker and Hamilton retained possession on its own 51-yard line.

Wally Gabler, who came in to relieve Zuger with six minutes left in the third quarter, finally got the Ticats' sputtering offence in motion and moved the ball to the Argo eight in two plays: a 30-yard pass play with Bobby Taylor and then a 21-yard run on his own after finding his receivers covered.

Mets blank Expos 7-0 in Montreal as Seaver registers fourth shutout

MONTREAL (CP) — Tom Seaver tamed Montreal on two hits and banded out a two-run single in the second inning to lead New York Mets to a 7-0 win over the Expos in National League play Monday night.

The Mets capitalized on three hits and one Expos' error in the second to score all their runs and end Ernie McAnally's five-game winning streak.

Art Shamsky led off what turned out to be a weird inning with a walk and moved to second when Ken Singleton also received a free pass.

Catcher Jerry Grote then doubled against the left-field fence but Shamsky, who was almost lapped on the base paths by Singleton, was thrown out at the plate.

Seaver followed with a two-run single and scored later in the inning when John Bateman let a relay throw go through his legs for an error.

Seaver, who registered his fourth shutout of the season, walked only two Expos and struck out 10 to post his 17th win against eight losses. He also lowered his league-leading earned-run average to 1.85.

McAnally allowed six hits and two earned runs but was hurt by four Expos' errors and lost his 10th game in 18 decisions.

Pittsburgh Pirates are better off than they were a day ago.

As a result of Labor Day activity in the National League, the Pirates hold a seven-game lead in the East Division while the Dodgers trail San Francisco Giants by the same amount in the West.

Pittsburgh swept a doubleheader from Chicago Cubs, 4-1 and 10-5, while Los Angeles trimmed San Francisco 5-2.

Elsewhere, St. Louis Cardinals split with Philadelphia Phillies—winning 6-3 and losing 2-1. New York Mets trounced Montreal Expos 7-0. Houston Astros beat Atlanta Braves 6-4 and Cincinnati Reds nipped San

Ottawa Riders trounce Als in 40-17 win

OTTAWA (CP) — Montreal Alouettes tried valiantly to give away a football game to Ottawa Rough Riders Monday night and succeeded brilliantly, 40-17, before 24,395 laughing fans.

The win moved the Riders into a second-place Eastern Football Conference tie with Montreal and Hamilton Tiger-Cats. Each has six points and the leading Toronto Argonauts have 10.

The Alouettes were still in the game and behind only 22-17 with nearly 11 minutes left in the final quarter. But they polished their two key plays of the evening—the fumble and the intercepted pass—to allow Ottawa two converted touchdowns in the dying minutes.

When Brock came to bat in the fourth the outfielder had to jump away from two inside pitches from rookie reliever Manny Muniz.

Brock started for the mound—but McCarver intercepted him, saying, "He's only a kid."

"Well," answered Brock, "if it happens again I'll fight you."

"I don't go for these talking-shoving matches," explained McCarver, who punched Brock twice before the umpires pulled him away and ejected him from the game.

Tom Seaver fired a two-hitter, struck out 12 and singled home the first two runs of the game as the Mets trimmed Montreal and nudged past the Cubs into third place. Seaver allowed only Ron Hunt's single in the first inning and Gary Sutherland's double in the fifth in posting his 17th triumph and sixth straight complete game victory.

Home runs by Steve Garvey and Maury Wills helped the Dodgers over the Giants.

Houston rookie Ray Busse doubled home a run in each of two early three-run outbursts as the Astros downed Atlanta.

Wayne Simpson and Clay Carroll teamed for a three-hitter against the Padres while Tony Perez drove in the Reds' lone run.

SPORTS IN BRIEF

Quarterback operated on WASHINGTON (AP) — Quarterback Sonny Jurgensen underwent surgery on his left arm in Oklahoma City Monday and will be out of action for at least six weeks, said Washington Redskins of the National Football League. The 37-year-old Jurgensen suffered the fracture of the coracoid, a small bone between the upper arm and the shoulder, while making a tackle in the third quarter of the Redskins' loss to Miami in Saturday night's NFL exhibition game.

Packers poisoned?

GREEN BAY, Wis. (AP) — Green Bay Packers said Monday about three-fourths of their National Football League team is suffering from stomach flu, possibly caused by food poisoning. Three players, Mike McCoy, Charlie Hall and Dale Livingston, are in hospital in Green Bay for treatment of dehydration. The sick list also includes the team physician and coach Dan Devine. The Packers said at least some of their players must have contracted the illness before the game, which Devine said might have accounted for some of the sluggishness in the 27-24 exhibition loss.

Oliva to undergo surgery

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Minnesota Twins outfielder Tony Oliva will undergo surgery to remove damaged cartilage in his right knee at the end of the baseball season. Oliva, hobbled since he hurt his knee diving for a fly ball in Oakland June 29, leads the American League in hitting and needs only about two dozen at bats to qualify for his third batting title.

Petrocelli, Kasko meet

NEW YORK (AP) — Boston manager Eddie Kasko and his architect, third baseman Rico Petrocelli, met Monday morning for a long talk.

Petrocelli had blasted the manager as the cause of the Red Sox' decline, which has seen them lose 20 of 30 games going into Monday's doubleheader against the Yankees. Rico apologized Monday.

"After Rico made his remarks about me to the press, I decided to seek him out," Kasko said. "Maybe it was my fault that I didn't do so before. I explained to him that I have 25 individuals to handle and I have reasons of my own for doing things, even if he doesn't understand them. I told him I deal with each man in a way which I feel will benefit him and the club."

Petrocelli had accused the manager of being unsympathetic toward his troubles, which also include a suit by an airline hostess who accuses him of molesting her during a flight.

Lolich posts 23rd win in 3-0 decision over D.C. Senators

Mickey Lolich and Vida Blue have little in common besides their pitching records.

Lolich, the 32-year-old Detroit Tiger veteran enjoying his finest season in the American League, won No. 23 Monday with a six-hit 3-0 decision over Washington Senators.

He joined Blue, the brilliant Oakland Athletic fireballer, as the winningest pitcher in the majors. They also share the most complete games—24.

"Because of his popularity," Lolich said of Blue, "he's bound to win all the awards."

"You can't give the Most Valuable Player Award to one pitcher and give the Cy Young Award for the best pitcher to another. You just can't do it."

"I know what's going to happen. He's going to win everything—so I'm not going to worry about it," Lolich said. "He's playing with a first-place club and I'm not."

Lolich's second-place Tigers picked up half a game to move within 9½ of pennant-bound Baltimore in the American League East as the Orioles split a Labor Day doubleheader with Cleveland, winning 10-5 before the Indians won the nightcap 10.

In other Monday action, California Angels beat Oakland 4-2 and, in three more holiday twinbills, New York Yankees swept Boston Red Sox 5-3 and 3-0, Chicago White Sox defeated Minnesota Twins 6-3 then lost 10-3 and Kansas City Royals swept a pair from Milwaukee Brewers 4-3 and 6-4.

Washington cracked Baltimore 5-3 and Boston drubbed Cleveland 8-1 in Sunday action which also saw New York nip Detroit 5-1, Milwaukee trim California 6-4, Chicago blast Kansas City 8-0 and Minnesota down Oakland 7-3.

In Saturday action, it was Detroit over New York 9-1, Oakland over Minnesota 5-4, Cleveland over Boston 11-9, Baltimore over Washington 6-2, Kansas 3-1 against Chicago and Milwaukee 4-1 over California.

Lolich breezed past the Senators while the Tigers gave him the only run he needed in the first inning on Aurelio Rodriguez' triple and Gates Brown's grounder.

Boog Powell's fourth career grand slam home run highlighted Baltimore's five-run eighth inning in the opener.

But Fred Stanley's run-scoring single in the fourth inning of the nightcap was all the Tribe needed as Vince Colbert and Steve Dunning teamed to silence the Orioles on seven hits.

Tony Gonzalez and Roger Repoz stunned Oakland's 13-game winner, Chuck Dobson, with successive two-out homers in the top of the ninth for the Angels. Ron Swoboda won the Yankees' opener with a two-run pinch single in the eighth inning, then saved it with a spectacular catch in the ninth as he crashed into the right field stands to rob Reggie Smith of a game-tying homer.

They made it a sweep as Horace Clarke snapped a scoreless tie in the eighth with a two-run triple off Red Sox rookie John Curtis.

Twins rookie Peter Hamm hurled 4 1-3 innings of no-hit ball in the second game and wound up with a seven-hitter while Harmon Killebrew knocked in four runs. In the opener, Bill Melton hit his 28th homer and Steve Kealey provided a solid relief pitching for the White Sox.

Paul Schaaf and Gail Hopkins each cracked homers for the Royals in the first game. Sandy Valdespino highlighted Kansas City's four-run fifth inning in the nightcap.
