SELF-HEATING IRONS.
PATENTED, QUEBEC, AUGUST, 1852.
FOR SALE BY THE SUBSCRIBERS.

LADIES are invited to call and examine the IRONS. Those who have tried them acknowledge their superiority over every other description of Smoothing Iron, for all laundry purposes.

The large amount of fuel consumed in heating the common Iron causes an uncomfortable heat, and an extravagant expense, both of which are avoided by using the SELF-HEATING IRON.

With this Iron, three bushels of charcoal are sufficient to do the ironing of a common family twelve months. Once filled, you can use the Iron five hours without replenishing. While using it you do not require to suffer the annoyance of a heated stove or fire place. You need not labour so hard pressing with it as you do with the common iron. The Irons being finely finished, they are easily kept bright and clean, and cannot possibly soil the finest linen.

Manufactured in Canada East only at the Montreal Foundry and City Works.

McDONALD, BROTHERS & CO.,
Importers and Manufacturers of Oils,
25 ST. PETER STREET, MONTREAL,

WILL commence business on the 1st May next, in premises recentlyoccupied by the Messrs. D. & C. Darling. By devoting themselves exclusively to the IMPORTATION and MANUFACTURE of OILS, they will thereby be enabled to offer to the trade the superior advantages resulting from the purchase in large quantities of the different kinds of OILS at their respective places of production. And by combining the manufacturing and refining of OILS with the importation of the crude article, they feel confident of being able to execute orders upon the very [illegible] Their Stock will comprise—
Bleached and Unbleached [illegible] Sperm Oils
Do. do. do. Elephant do.
Do. do. do. Solar Sperm do.
Double Clarified Lard Oil
Best Gallipoli Olive do
Do. Sicily do
Patent Refined Russian Rape Seed Oil
Fine Nut and Palm Oils
Raw and Boiled Linseed Oils
Oils for Fuller's and Currier's use
Pale and Straw Colored Seal Oils
Cod, Whale, and Porpoise Oils

They would call particular attention to their

"Refined Lubricating Machinery Oil,"

which they warrant suitable for Railroads, Steam Boats, and every other class of valuable Machinery. This OIL is the most economical for machinery, it requiring less of it than of any other Oil to lubricate a given amount of friction. It runs machinery perfectly cool, creates no gum, even works off the old gum accumulated upon the journals and slides, &c., by the previous use of bad Oil, and it does not congeal in the coldest weather.

It is, in every respect, a superior article, and the manufacturers having in view the incalculable injury done to machinery in Canada by the use of base Oils are prepared to guarantee its results.

Montreal, April 26, 1853. 1y 50

THE BALTIMORE CLIPPER BARK
INCA,
900 TONS BURTHEN,

HAVING made two successive voyages from China, each in the very short period of 101 days, has thoroughly established her reputation for fast sailing, and will be dispatched for MELBOURNE, AUSTRALIA, on the 25th of August.

The ships of the Pioneer Line have made remarkably quick and healthy voyages; losing only one passenger among 950 that sailed in the first five ships, whereas it appears, from the report of the Emigration Commissioners, that the mortality on board English ships to Australia has equalled 4-90 per cent. This very gratifying result shows that no care and expense have been spared in selecting, ventilating and provisioning the ships of the Pioneer Line.

The "INCA" will only carry a limited number of passengers, at as moderate rates as are consistent with justice to passengers and owners.

MISCELLANEOUS.

PRESERVATION OF LIFE FROM SHIPWRECK.—Yesterday a meeting of the Royal National Institution for the Preservation of Life from Shipwreck was held at the offices, John Street, Adelphi, the Duke of Northumberland, president, in the chair, supported by Mr. Alderman Thompson, M.P., Sir Thomas Herbert, M.P., Mr Thomas Chapman, Captain Hall, R.N., Captain Perrot, Capt. Blanshard, R.E., C.B., &c. Mr. Lewis, the Secretary, having read the minutes of the previous meeting, the silver medal of the institution was voted to Robert Sands, a man of color, master of the wrecking schooner Oracle, in consideration of his noble exertions in saving, under Divine Providence, one hundred and sixty persons from the emigrant ship William and Mary, of Bath, Maine, bound from Liverpool to New Orleans, which was wrecked on the 2nd May last, off the Bahama Islands. It appears that these islands are surrounded by extensive coral reefs, situated at the mouth of the gulf streams, and are, during the winter months, the dread of mariners bound to and from New Orleans, no less than three emigrant ships having been wrecked there during the past winter. The ship William and Mary having been observed by Sands to strike on one of these reefs, he immediately bore down to her assistance, and found the poor emigrants using every exertion to keep her afloat, and discovered that, with the exception of two men, they had been cruelly deserted by the captain and the sailors, who, he adds, to the horror and consternation of the unfortunate people, had taken with them all the ship's boats Seeing that the ship was rapidly sinking, Sands and his brave crew, who were, like him, men of color, set to work, without loss of time, at the pumps, while a portion of the women and children were being embarked on board his vessel. This having been speedily done, he placed the schooner under the charge of his brother, with directions to take her to the nearest land, he himself remaining on board the sinking ship with the almost frantic people, and patiently awaiting his brother's return to take them off, which took place just before the ship went down head foremost, two men narrowly escaping with their lives by jumping into the schooner's boat. Had not Sands gallantly gone off in the first instance, without having the least knowledge of the inhuman conduct of the master and his crew, 160 poor creatures must inevitably have perished; we therefore hope that he will receive a suitable acknowledg- [illegible] to save life from wrecks. Storr and his family are proverbial for gallantry. Some time since, when a sloop was seen on Whitby Bar to be in circumstances of danger, Storr, undeterred by the sacrifice of a brother, who had perished in going off to a wreck, immediately put off in an open boat to the assistance of her distressed crew. Such, however, was the violence of the storm, that he was dashed out of his boat, having his leg severely fractured in two places, and narrowly escaping a watery grave. Several new life-boats were reported to have been sent by the institution to their stations during the past month; but in order to pay them, a considerable portion of the small funded property of the institution was again ordered to be sold.—London Globe, 8th July.

LOST LUGGAGE OFFICE.—At a short distance from the terminus of the up-trains of the North-Western Railway there is a foundling office, termen the Lost Luggage Office, in which are received all articles which the passengers leave behind them, and which, on the arrival of every train, are brought by the company's "searcher" to this office. The superintendent, on receiving them, records in a book a description of each article, stating on what day, by what train, in what carriage it arrived, and by whom found. All luggage bearing an address is kept about forty-eight hours, and, if during that time no one calls for it, it is then forwarded, by rail or other conveyance, to its owner. In case it bears no address, if not inquired after, it is after a month opened, and, if any clue to the owner can be found within, a letter is addressed to him. If no clue be found, the property is kept about two years, and has hitherto been then sold by auction, in the large coach factory, to the company's servants—a portion of the proceeds being handed over to the sick fund for persons who have been hurt in the service, and the remainder to the "Friendly Society" among the men. It having, however, been ascertained that a few of the railway men who had spare cash purchased the greater portion of these articles, it has, we understand, very lately been determined henceforward to sell the whole of this property by auction, exclusively to the public. We will at once proceed to a large pitch-dark subterranean vaulted chamber, warmed by hot-air iron pipes, in which are deposited the flock of the lost sheep, or, without metaphor, the lost luggage of the last two years. Of course, cases, portmanteaus, writing-desks, books, bibles, cigar-cases, &c.; but there were a few articles that certainly we were not prepared to meet with. One gentlemen had left behind him a pair of leather hunting-breeches, another his boot-jack. A soldier of the 22nd Regiment had left his knapsack, containing his kit. Another soldier of the 10th, poor fellow, had left his scarlet regimental coat. Some cripple, probably overjoyed at the sight of his family, had left behind him his crutches. But what astonished us above all was that some honest Scotchman, probably in the ecstacy of suddenly seeing among the crowd the face of his faithful Jeanie, had actually left behind him the best portion of his bagpipes. Some [illegible] open, previous to a general sale, a locked leather hat-box, which had lain in this dungeon two years, found in it, under the hat, £65 in Bank of England notes, with one or two private letters which enabled him to restore the money to the owner.

BARRACK LIBRARIES.—Barrack libraries were first introduced a dozen years ago; and, in spite of opposition from military martinets, they have increased in number and utility until we now find that there are 150 such libraries, with 16,000 paying members and 117,000 volumes of books. An instance of the value of these barrack libraries occurs in the fact, that the officers have lately prayed to be allowed the use of the books—instead of their own mess libraries; and this privilege has been granted at head-quarters, on condition that they in no way interfere with the rights of the men. Like the common soldier, they may take the books to their quarters, and they are allowed to keep them the same number of days and no more—so that all members of the military hierarchy meet on this single point—a neutral ground of military equality. The only difference between officer and man is in the subscription—the men paying 3s a quarter, and the officers a full day's pay. The statement with respect to barrack schools is not less interesting.—These have been less than seven years in existence; but the reports from commanding-officers and inspectors-general describe the results as highly beneficial. The desire to get schooling seems to be very strong. Wherever the superior officers refrain from opposition to the schools,—which is not the case universally,—the soldiers attend in such numbers that the teachers can barely get through their labours. In the 77th regiment, the school-roll shows an attendance of 538 adults; in the 35th regiment, 371; and in the 82nd regiment, 270 adults attend the barrack schools. When it is considered the soldier's pay is very small, that he generally comes from the lowest ranks, that the hardships and indulgencies of his life are peculiarly adapted to promote habits of carelessness and dissipation, this amount of voluntary devotion and money sacrifice is remarkable. In the face of facts like these, we are not surprised to hear that the "conduct" of the army has very greatly improved of late years. But how much might be done to ameliorate and elevate the condition of the gallant private soldier, if the brutal, beastly, demoralizing punishment of the lash were abolished.

CONVERSATION.—The art of conversation is generally considered to be something so easy of attainment—so natural, in consequence of that gift of rational speech which distinguishes man from the rest of creation—that few persons take any trouble to prepare themselves for its practice. Perhaps this is the reason why, when we recal conversations in which we have taken a part, we generally find that but a small amount either of pleasure or improvement had been obtained from them. Among the educated classes, where we should naturally expect to find conversation pure, animated, and intellectual, there are many persons so much the slaves of conventional forms of speech and action, that the light of reason or the warmth of feeling never breaks through. Lord Bacon long ago described such people as "having certain common places wherein they are good, but want variety, which kind of poverty is for the most part tedious and ridiculous. It is good," he continues, in his quaint and solid style, "in speech or conversation, to vary and intermingle speech of present occasion with arguments, tales with reason, asking of questions with telling of opinions, and jests with earnests;" all which presupposes extensive and varied information, and that union of quick perceptions with good sense and good humour which we now call tact. This power was considered by Hazlitt to consist in the being completely aware of the feeling belonging to certain situations, passions, &c, and the being consequently sensible to their slightest indications or movements in others; and Rousseau must have had a similiar idea of it when he laments that he had not himself "the calmness to think, and the quickness to speak, what was most appropriate in society, where one should know everybody's character and history, so as to say nothing that can give offence to any one." Indeed, many men who have been conspicuous in the eye of the world for their fine mental qualifications have failed in the same way—profound philosophers and scholars, like Sir Isaac Newton, having been proverbial for absence of mind, taciturnity, and awkward bashfulness.

LOVING AND LIKING.—Of the French language Canning is reported to have said in a dispute, "Why, what on earth, sir can be expected of a language that has but one word for liking and loving, and puts a fine woman and a leg of mutton on a par—as, J'aime Julie; J'aime un gigot!" Our American women, however, are open to the brilliant Englishman's sarcasm, confounding (as they do) the words to such an extent that their destinction is practically annihilated. To "like," as a contemporary observes, is altogether too tame an expression for a lady's choice. She "loves" everything for which she has any affection, penchant, appetite, or fancy. "Oh I dearly love turnips!" exclaimed a lady the other day at the table, (says the Post,) who merely meant to say that she liked the vegetable in question.—"The d—— you do!" exclaimed an ascetic old bachelor of her acquaintance, who sat opposite. "What more could you say of your husband, or that beautiful child of yours, or even of your Redeemer, madam? 'Love turnips!' I hope you may yet find something more worthy of your affections."

HELP YOURSELF.—Beg, borrow, seek office, fish for place, trust in patronage, wait for old men to die, worship fortune—who does not one or other of these? Who does not expect to rise by the help of others? Help yourself, and God will help you. Nine-tenths of the world will live and die infidels of this truth. So destitute are most people of the knowledge or belief of this truth, that, give them the slightest indications that they may rely on you, eat you, clothe themselves out of you, and they will do it without mercy. They will drop their tools and their labour, and do it. This it is that makes the world so hedge-hoggish. The self-helpers know that, in the common run, if they help others, they may help and be taken up. This it is that spoils most, if not all, the experiments to apply the science and economy of association to practical human life. Take people as they rise, and put them together in a bee-hive community, and half of them will turn drones and live upon the rest, because they have not been educated to rely upon themselves, but just the reverse. No wonder that the swarm should be eaten up by these drones, or exhaust itself in an effort to turn them out. Yet men are naturally self-reliant. The moment a baby can go alone, it goes itself, and imitates all kinds of work, proud to be doing something. But this disposition is not encouraged, but discouraged. The rich are ashamed to have their children do anything menial, and mean were the same word. The poor cannot be bothered to teach work to babies, and when their babies get to be old enough, they overload them with it untaught. Hence the child comes to maturity, educated to sloth, "bad health," and reliance on others, or to hate the burden which crushes him, and longs to be relieved entirely from it. Self-reliance is destroyed every way—in work, thought, and opinion. Whole classes, we say races, of men are taught to feed upon others, without returning any fair equivalent. They even think themselves generous to leave a little which they don't eat.

ESTABLISHMENT FOR GENTLEWOMEN DURING ILLNESS.—A meeting of ladies and gentlemen interested in the success of this institution was held yesterday in Upper Harley-street, the Bishop of London in the chair. The right rev. prelate stated that the objects of the society in affording an asylum for sick ladies, where they might receive all the benefits of the healing art, administered by skilful and charitable men, eminent not only in their profession, but for their piety and benevolence, and also those spiritual consolations which were not less important than medicine itself, were such as made it impossible for him, circumstanced as he was, not to feel the liveliest interest in its success. But he looked at it in [illegible] domestic ties—not prevented from carrying out their wishes and aspirations by more sacred obligations and exercises—might best evince their devotion to the service of Christ by dedicating their best energies to the service of His suffering disciples; and whilst this institution was set on foot, looking at its benevolent objects, and the auspices under which they were sought to be carried out, he felt confident it was one to which he could conscientiously extend whatever support he had it in his power to afford. He had reason to believe that on a limited scale it had already answered the expectations of its founders; but he looked forward to its having a more extended sphere of usefulness. He looked now to the success of that part of the institution which afforded an opportunity to sisters to perform the duties of nurses themselves, and to assist in training others for carrying on the same charitable work. He felt persuaded that that would be done in a manner to give free scope to the class of females to which he alluded, and would at the same time effectually preserve them from the danger of falling into the superstitious practices of the Church of Rome (hear). The report was read by the Secretary, from which it appeared that the establishment was in successful operation for three years, and that there was every encouragement to go forward. The Bishop of Oxford moved a resolution recommending the institution for public support, and the meeting was addressed by Mr. Marjoribanks, the Rev. Mr. Garnier, the Rev. Mr. Auriol, Sir J. P. Kay Shuttleworth, Vice-Chancellor Sir W. Page Wood, Mr. Bence Jones, M.D., and Mr. Bowman.

A NEW ANÆSTHETIC.—At a recent meeting of the London Medical Society, Mr. Richardson read a paper "On the Anæsthetic Properties of the Common Puff Ball (Lycoperdon Proteus.)—His attention was directed to the subject by the fact that in some parts of the country bees are stupified by this agent before extracting the contents of the hive. He was thus induced to try some experiments on cats and dogs, in which he succeeded in producing anæsthetic effects perfectly similar to those obtained by the agency of chloroform and ether. In one case, a painful operation was performed by Dr. Willis of Barnes, on a dog, with perfect success. The mode of administering this agent is, to allow the animal to inhale the fumes of the dried fungus, whilst in a state of ignition. Mr. Richardson has inhaled the fumes himself, and finds them productive of similar effects with those of chloroform. It is curious, that this fungus, which emits these narcotic fumes, may be eaten with impunity, and that it is amongst those which Dr. Badham has recommended in his recent work to be eaten as the esculent fungus of Britain. No chemical principle has yet been detected to account for these very curious effects.—London Athenæum.

The Irish Roman Catholics and the Italian Refugees.

[From a London Paper.]

Another serious disturbance occurred last night, in the neighbourhood of Gray's inn-lane, between a number of the lower order of Irish Roman Catholics and a party of Italian refugees resident in Baldwin's-gardens and its vicinity.—On this occasion, as on Monday last, the [illegible] were the aggressors [illegible] to the admirable [illegible] taken by Superintendent Martin, of the G. division, several fellows have been apprehended and lodged in the station house, on the double charge of assaulting unoffending Italians, and resisting the police in the execution of their duty. Of the premeditated character of the riot, there cannot be the smallest doubt, inasmuch as from information previously communicated to the authorities during Saturday night and yesterday, nearly 400 constables have been kept in reserve, ready to act at any moment they might be called upon. It was about half-past 7 o'clock when the first disturbance occurred. Information to that effect, that a large number of Irish Roman Catholics had left the various localities of White-chapel, St. Giles's, Lambeth, and the Borough, in parties of twos and threes, all directing their steps towards Gray's-inn-lane, had previously been received, and the reserve constables from the chief police station in Bow Street, as well as those at Islington and other districts, had been summoned to the spot by Superintendent Martin, who distributed them throughout the neighbourhood, under the command of careful inspectors, in such a manner as appeared best calculated to quell any disturbance that might unfortunately arise. The gradual assemblage of large numbers of Irish, and the occasional passage to and fro of parties of Italians, added to the presence of an unusual police force, occasioned considerable excitement in the neighbourhood, but up to half-past 7 o'clock no breach of the peace was threatened. At that hour an Italian boot and shoe maker, named Daniel Stauvenghi, a resident of Baldwin-gardens, was returning from a house in Greville-street, used as a resort by many of the refugees, to his own residence, when, while passing through Fox-court, a paved thoroughfare leading from Greville-street into Gray's-inn-lane, he was assaulted by an Irish costermonger named James Neale, who threw a round paving stone, weighing several pounds, at him from behind, and then hastily retreated into his house, a small tenement in Fox-place, an outlet from Fox-court. It does not appear that Neale had any previous personal knowledge of Stauvenghi, but as the latter wore a red cap of liberty and possessed strongly marked Italian features, the Irishman considered him a fair object for attack, and, as stated, threw a stone at him with so much violence that it rolled several yards in advance of where he was walking. Stauvenghi being an active man suddenly turned round, and seeing his assailant running away he followed him as quickly as possible, and marked him enter the house No. 1, Fox place. One of Mr. Martin's constables was fortunately passing down Fox-court just as the stone was thrown by Neale, and the missile actually rolled close up to where the officer stood. His attention was instantly directed to Stauvenghi running after Neale, and calling to his assistance two or three other officers they followed the Italian into Fox place, where they found the house Neale had entered, barricaded against them. After attempting to effect an entrance by the adjoining house, in which they failed, the officers called upon Neale to surrender. The summons was answered from the 2nd floor window by hurling down a variety of missiles, and among the rest, an iron-mounted plasterer's hammer, which narrowly escaped falling upon the head of one of the constables. A renewed summons to surrender himself, and a threat that if he did not do so the door would be forced, brought Neale to the window with a kettle of boiling water, the contents of which the miscreant threw out upon the officers, one of the sergeants receiving a considerable quantity over his head and face. It was now felt that further parleying would be useless, and a reinforcement of constables having arrived, an entry was effected, and Neale's apprehension, after some difficulty, secured. A second Irishman, named John Carroll, who assisted Neale in barricading his house, and assaulted Stauvenghi, was also safely lodged in custody. The greatest possible excitement prevailed in the neighborhood during the progress of this affray, and but for the presence of an overwhelming force of police, all of whom behaved admirably, there can be no doubt very serious consequences would have occurred. Up to 11 o'clock only four arrests had been made, all of Irishmen, and although it was thought desirable to retain the police on duty, there appeared every probability of the night not being further disturbed. It is, no doubt, very difficult to arrive at the true explanation of this absurd dispute between the Irish Roman Catholics and their Italian brethren of the same faith. Each party consider themselves aggrieved, and if the respective explanations they offer of their differences could be relied upon they must be considered equally blameless. A careful consideration of the narrations made by each party, however, leaves no room to doubt that the difference is simply a religious question. There are some 300 Italian refugees at present resident in London, embracing all classes of society, from the educated advocate and university student to the unlettered mechanic and simple artizan. These men are Mazzini's admirers, and opposed to Pio Nono. It seems His Holiness has sent an Italian priest to this country, with instructions to note the conduct of the Mazzini sympathizers, and report accordingly. This priest, during his stay in England, has been the guest of the officiating father of the Roman Catholic chapel in Baldwin's gardens, and the fact of his errand having become known to the Italians, a feeling of distrust and enmity has arisen against the Irish priests. This feeling has been increased by the latter having addressed observations from the altar to their congregations, reflecting upon the refugees, and stating that their only object was to depose and degrade the Holy Father of the Church. On Mo day last, two Italians were engaged in conversation on the foot pavement in Baldwin's gardens, when one of the Irish priests passed by, and in so doing touched the shoulder of one of the refugees. The hot Italian demanded satisfaction for the insult. The priest told him he was a low blackguard, and to be gone.—The row, which has been already reported, followed. The Irish, led on by the priest, who brandished his umbrella after the fashion of a standard, gathered round their "spiritual father," and kissing his hands and his feet, speedily demolished every window in the house of an Italian restaurant keeper, in which the offending refugees had sought shelter. The excitement has been kept up throughout the week, and last night was the climax. It is to be hoped that the strong arm of the law will be brought to bear upon the matter without delay, and that the peace of the metropolis will not again be disturbed by the religious feuds of either our Irish neighbors or the Italians who seek our shores. Inspectors Brennan, Chadwick, Hardy and Reed of the G division, with Inspector Mahony of the C division, and Barry of the M division, were especially active during the height of the disturbance last night.

LIBEL SUITS.—We translate the following from La Minerve of Saturday last:—

In speaking of an action for libel, brought by M. T. J. J. Loranger, Advocate, in the name of J. Bte. Simmard, Policeman, against the nine members of the Jury on the Gavazzi inquest, who traduced him as a perjurer before the public, the Herald say: "But as the public interests—the interest of every citizen liable to serve on a jury—are deeply involved in this matter, we feel bound to record our opinion that a more baseless and groundless action, for the recovery of the most extravagantly imaginative damages, was never instituted in a Court of Law." If the Herald can find no precedent to compare with this action for damages, would he inform us if the offensive conduct of the jury has one single precedent, whatsoever? Has he ever known a jury much less still the minority of a jury, who, instead of judging of the fact submitted for their decision, have given a judgment of so serious a character (de cette gravité) against a certain number of witnesses, by name? No, it is well that every citizen, who is liable to serve on a jury, should know that it is against his duty so to act. It would be wrong to pass over so bad a precedent in our annals.

It will be observed that our contemporary, while he blames the conduct of the minority of the jury, disputes not—or only by implication—the correctness of our "opinion" in this matter. In reply to the questions he puts, we shall merely say that the members of a jury sworn to give a verdict, on any matter of judicial enquiry, are, most decidedly, and ought to be—again in our opinion—under the special protection of justice, to remark upon and communicate to the Court, whatever opinions they may conscientiously hold regarding the testimony given before them; and cannot be made responsible, in their purses, for the effect of such remarks upon the characters of individual witnesses. The "finding" of the minority of the jury, on which this most extraordinary action for the recovery of £45,000, as damages for the injury in character suffered by Mr. Loranger's client M. Simard, Policeman, in consequence of the opinion (for it is nothing more) of a minority of the jury as to the credibility of the evidence given by him—evidence, be it remembered, directly contradicted by other witnesses, and not affecting the good name alone, but the life of a respectable citizen—we say that, this "finding" was nothing more than a perfectly legal expression of opinion, by the minority of the jury to the Court, explanatory of their conduct and proceedings as jurymen. It was reported and published as a part of the proceedings in open court, but the individual jurymen were, in no respect, parties to its publication—it being a communication from them, to the court, IN THEIR CAPACITY OF MEMBERS OF THE JURY, AND IN NO OTHER CAPACITY. In conclusion, we shall merely repeat, what we said on Friday, that, if jurymen are to be held personally liable, in their purses, for the effect of their verdicts, or of their opinions, stated to the judge on the bench, as to the credibility of the evidence, by which they are solemnly bound by oath to decide, trial by jury will be worse than useless as a means of administering justice—a mere snare to honest and conscientious men, a mere delusion as a protection to life and property.

THE CHIEF JUSTICESHIP.—We find the following in Saturday's Pilot, and, for once, we are inclined to believe the ministerial organ speaks the general sentiment of the country. The Hon. Mr. Lafontaine's appointment will, we believe, meet with the approval of all parties:—

It affords us most sincere gratification to learn that the Hon. Mr. Lafontaine has consented to accept the office of Chief Justice of the Province. His numerous friends and admirers, and indeed the whole Province, will view with satisfaction his elevation to that high dignity, and will feel confidence that in his hands both the dignity of the Bench will be upheld, and the important ends of justice be promoted.

COMPLIMENTARY BANQUET TO MR. STEPHENSON.—We are glad to hear that the list of entertainers on this occasion already embraces the names of most of our leading citizens—it will be, undoubtedly, one of the most elegant and recherché entertainments ever given in Montreal. Those desirous of participating in it, and in the honor of welcoming so justly distinguished a visitor as Mr. Stephenson to our city, will do well to send their names in to-day, as the numbers must, necessarily, be limited.

FOX HUNTING.—The officers of the 54th Regiment, at Kingston, have imported a pack of fox hounds, and announce their intention to commence hunting about the end of September. The farmers of the district are publicly notified that any damage that may be done to their property or fences will be "gladly paid for."

GAME LAWS.—Three convictions have just taken place at Quebec, for offences against the game laws. Two were for shooting woodcock, and the third for shooting partridge during the time prohibited by law. The fines were ten dollars and costs.

The following historical sketch of one of the most deservedly eminent sons of French Canada (enfants de sol) will be found interesting:—

M. de Bienville, the Founder of New Orleans.

Among the family portraits in the gallery of the Baron de Longueuil, of this Province, there is one in heavy mail, of M. de Bienville, a man famous above all others, for half a century, in the early annals of Louisiana, and the founder of the city of New Orleans.

A copy of this portrait, with the owner's permission, has lately been made, by one of our most distinguished artists, for Mr. DeBow, a citizen of Louisiana, and it is believed to be the only copy, as this is the only original picture of that truly great man.

"If you will examine", says M. de Longueuil, in a note we have been permitted to see, "the back of M. de Bienville's portrait, you will find his name, and the date when the likeness was taken, inscribed thereon by the artist. I can, of course, give no personal information on the subject, further than having frequently heard the late Baroness, my grandmother, mention the portrait as that of her relation, M. de Bienville, the founder of New Orleans. My great-grand mother, who was still living when I was four years old, used to speak of it as such, to the older members of my family. You are probably aware that both the above-mentioned ladies attained an extreme old age, and must, of course, have well known the portrait to be authentic. The reminiscences of my great-grandmother, now dating more than a century back."

It cannot be other than a source of surprise, that, greatly as New Orleans is indebted to the memory of de Bienville, no monument or bust or other representation of him can be found in any of her public buildings or squares. He was the founder of the city as much as was Peter the Great the founder of the one that bears his own name, and seemed ever to have cherished it, as the darling object of his pride in spite of every obstacle, and at times in spite even of the seeming designs of his Government.

Mr. DeBienville belonged to that illustrious brotherhood, the sons of Charles Lemoyne de Bienville, an emigrant to Canada in 1640, who distinguished themselves so much in the early annals of Lousiana. Promoted to the rank of Governor of the Province at the early age of twenty, he continued to occupy with rare intermissions that high position through every vicissitude of service in the field and in the Council, in hostile movements against the Indians and at times against the Spaniards, he retired at last to Paris, ending his days there on the 7th March, 1767, at the advanced age of over 80 years.

The work of laying out the city of New Orleans, begun in 1718, was not completed until 1842, and the seat of Government was removed there in 1823. In his Memoirs of Louisiana, Dumont furnishes the particulars of this transaction:—

"The commander, M de Bienville, remained alone at Old Biloxi with his troops, and the officers of the company thought of procuring in the country for the colony, a more fixed and more solid establishment than any which had been formed up to this period. With this view he selected a spot, situated about thirty leagues above the mouth of the Mississippi river, and sent M. de la Tour, the Chief of the engineers, thither with orders to select, in this canton, a situation for a city worthy of becoming a capital, and the source from whence all the other plantations, which were about being formed, might have resources and receive supplies. As soon as M. de la Tour arrived on the spot, which then consisted of a few inconsiderable plantations, scattered here and there, and which had been cultivated by voyageurs who had come from the Illinois, he caused to be made along the river a clearing of sufficient extent to enable him to carry his intended plan into execution. Afterwards, with the aid of piqueurs, he traced the streets and squares which were to compose the new city, and made known to all who desired lots or places to build on, to present their application to the council. Each inhabitant who presented himself received ten toises (sixty feet French measure,) front by twenty toises in depth, and as each square was fifty toises square, it is easy to conceive that each square contained twelve inhabitants, of which two lots in the middle had ten toises front by twenty-five toises in depth. It was ordered that all who should obtain these building lots (emplacemens) should be obliged to enclose them with a picket fence, and leave all around an empty space, three feet wide, for the construction of drains to carry off the waters of the river in the season of an overflow. M. de la Tour thought himself not only obliged to order these canals or ditches which communicate with each other from square to square, but he caused likewise, in order to preserve the city from inundation, to be erected in front of it and close to a small elevation which leads to the river, a dyke or levee of earth, at the foot of which he caused to be excavated a similar drain."

"The space now occupied," says Gayarre, in his admirable History of Louisiana," by New Orleans, was then entirely covered by one of those primitive forests, with which we are so familiar. Owing to the annual inundations of the river, it was swampy and marshy, and cut up with a thousand ravines, ruts and pools of stagnant water, when the river was low. The sight was not inviting to the physical eye, but de Bienville looked at it with the mind's vision. His intellect hovered over the whole country, from his native valleys of Canada, down the Mississippi in the footsteps of La Salle, through those boundless regions whose commercial emporium he foresaw that New Orleans was destined to be."

VERDICT OF THE JURY on the inquest upon the bodies of the sufferers by the late [illegible] collision on the New York and Philadelphia railroad:—

STATE OF NEW JERSEY, ss.—Middlesex County, ss.—An inquisition taken at Oldbridge, in the County aforesaid, the tenth day of August, in the year 1853, before me, John Perrine, one of the Justices of the Peace of said County, acting as Coroner in the absence of the Coroner, upon the view of the bodies of Rosa Dustin, Ann Foot, Mrs. Bradford, and a German unknown, supposed to be about 35 years of age, then and there lying dead, upon the oaths of Phineas M. Skinner, foreman, James Cross, Benjamin Dill, David Bissett, John W. Thomas, Henry Rudd, Dorsett Earhart, William Palmer, James Appleby, Joseph H. Bloodgood, Anthony P. Valentine, John Yates, Samuel Gordon, Isaac Smith, James Bodine, David Vanderhoof, Thos. Christie, John Platner, Gabriel Tenbroeck, Andrew Snowhill, Charles Green, good and lawful men of the said County, who, being sworn and charged to inquire on the part and behalf of the State of New Jersey, when, where, and how, and after what manner the said Rosa Dustin, Ann Foot, Mrs. Bradford, and the German man unknown, as aforesaid, came to their deaths, do say, upon their oaths aforesaid, that the persons aforesaid came to their deaths by a collision between the New York and the Philadelphia trains of cars, at Old Bridge, in the County of Middlesex, on the 9th inst.; and the said Jury find that the collision was caused by gross negligence on the part of John Anderson, engine-driver of the train from South Amboy, in running said train at unusual speed by the station and around the curve at Old Bridge. The Jury also find that Edward Muschamp, conductor of the train from South Amboy, is highly censurable for omitting to compare his watch, and that of the engine-driver, with the standard clock of the Camden and Amboy Railroad Company in New York, on the day of their collision, agreeably to instructions expressly given by said Company.

The said Jury exonerate the said Company from any censure in regard to said collision. The Jury further think if the orders of said Company had been obeyed, the collision would not have taken place. The Jury exonerate the agents and officers from Philadelphia, from any censure.

PLEASURE EXCURSIONS.—We gladly avail ourselves of the following paragraph from Saturday's Pilot and Transcript—surely, all who can compass an escape from our scorching streets, will avail themselves of the pleasant opportunities now offered them:—

In another column will be seen an advertisement of a Pleasure Excursion to Lavaltrie on Wednesday next. We understand that the arrangements made for the gratification of the parties who may favour the excursion with their presence are most complete. The musical department will be under the direction of Mr. Prince, music seller, Notre Dame Street, on whose skill and judgment every reliance may be placed. The benevolent object—the sustentation of the St. Patrick's Orphan Asylum—for which the expedition is planned, and to which its surplus funds will be devoted, commends itself to every member of the community. The number of tickets to be issued being limited to the means afforded of comfortable conveyance, an early application is desirable. Price, 2s. 6d. each; children under 12 years of age, half-price.

It will also be observed that provision is made, in case the weather should prove unfavorable, for holding the excursion on the Wednesday following, 24th instant.—Pilot.

Our readers will observe that the Rowland Hill, commanded by our old friend, Capt. Ryan, makes her fourth pleasure excursion to the Saguenay, and the intermediate ports, on the 15th inst. Of the splendours of this trip, they have been so often described, that it is unnecessary to say anything more.—Transcript.

On Saturday last, we received Nova Scotia and New Brunswick papers to the 4th and 6th instant. They contain little of interest—we give the following extracts:—

THE RAILWAY.—We understand that at a meeting of the Executive Council, held this week, the location of the line between Shediac and the Bend was approved of, and that an immediate commencement will be made at grubbing and grading. Mr. Rose, agent for the contractors, with a number of superintendents, arrived by last steamer at Halifax, and we presume will reach Saint John to-day via Annapolis.

We understand that the day for the formal celebration of the commencement of the work is fixed for Wednesday, 14th September, and that Mr. Jackson and Mr. Stephenson are expected to be present.

The surveys having been completed, and the location approved of, the railway between Shediac and the Bend will now, we understand, be pushed forward with all the speed that men and money can accomplish. Two cargoes of materials are daily expected at this port, and the remainder have been shipped for Shediac.—St. John's Courier.

We are sorry to learn that since the late rains unmistakeable symptoms of the potato disease have appeared in this neighbourhood, and in other parts of the century. We hope the attack may be only partial, and that the disease is wearing out.

It has now been ascertained that the hay crop is decidedly short, and that fodder will be rendered still scarcer by the want of oat straw consequent on the late drought.—Ib.

THEATRE ROYAL.—On Saturday night we were glad to see so goodly a company assembled for Mrs. Conway's benefit. Her performance of Ophelia, as Mr. Conway's of Hamlet, was admirably sustained, and elicited the frequent and enthusiastic applause of the audience. At the conclusion of the play the gratifying announcement was made, that, on Monday (this) evening, Shakspeare's admirable comedy of MUCH ADO ABOUT NOTHING would be performed, for the benefit of Mrs. Buckland—whose Beatrice ought to, and we doubt not will, attract every lover of the pure English drama to the Theatre to-night. It was further announced, amid the hearty cheers of the audience, that Mr. and Mrs. Conway, Mr. and Mrs. Hale, and Mr. Wheatleigh, although their engagements had terminated and they were being waited-for in New York, had all kindly volunteered to remain over to-night, in the cause of the fair and talented bénéficiére—we may, therefore, confidently anticipate such a cast of the various parts in MUCH ADO ABOUT NOTHING, as will leave nothing to be desired by the most critical. The farce announced, also, is an excellent one—MR. AND MRS. PETER WHITE—, in which Mr. Hale will appear in his celebrated part of MR. PETER, and, with Mrs. Stephens, will sing the comic duetts of the piece and dance a mock-minuet. None of our play-going readers will deny the thanks they owe to our obliging and excellent lessee for his unsparing—and we may add thoroughly successful [illegible] amusement on the continent, and, in every respect, a credit to our city. Let them remember, then, that the performances this evening are for the benefit of MRS. BUCKLAND.

Parties going with the excursion to St. Albans, are requested to be on the wharf before seven o'clock, to-morrow morning, as the first steamer for them, leaves at that hour precisely—powerful locomotives will be in readiness to insure speed on the road. The tickets for reserved seats will be sold at the boat.

We are requested to call the attention of the travelling community to the change of hour of departure of the "Rowland Hill" for the Saguenay, she will leave at four instead of six.

The Ship "Shandon, Greig, from Glasgow, arrived at Quebec on Saturday forenoon, on her second voyage this season.

The Steamship "Sarah Sands," at Quebec from Liverpool, spoke on the 7th instant, the ship "Montreal" in the Straits of Belleisle, and on the 11th instant, the ship "St. Lawrence," in the river, both from Liverpool for Montreal.

TO CORRESPONDENTS.—"Another of the Mechanics" and "Veritas" tomorrow.

From the Cincinnati Gazette.

The Shepherd of the Valley and the Archbishop of St. Louis.

Some month since the Shepherd of the Valley published an article, whose spirit is well exhibited in the following sentence:—

"If the Catholics ever gain the ascendency here, as they certainly will, religious freedom in this country is at an end."

This article drew forth a great deal of comment from the secular and religious press of the country, its intolerant sentiments making it odious to all persons who understand and love the spirit of our institutions. An attempt was made at the time to discredit the authority of the Shepherd, and to deny its power to speak for the church; and as often as this article of the Shepherd has been quoted or alluded to, so often has an attempt been made to clear the Catholic church of all responsibility for such utterly anti-American sentiments. Only last week, the Catholic Telegraph, of this city, copied a long and elaborate article from the Pittsburgh Catholic, in which an effort is made to show that the Shepherd's article, or at any rate the editor was a man of no account, and what he said deserving of little consideration. Notwithstanding the Catholic seemed anxious to do away with the effect of the Seepherd's article, rather by specious reasoning than by manly denial and direct refutation, we were glad to see its article, because it argued the presence of a feeling, even in the Catholic Church, which will not brook such sentiments.

But, while we were rejoicing even in this qualified repudiation of the Shephard by some of its contemporaries, the mails brought [illegible]bishop of St. Louis, which changes the whole face of the matter, bolsters up the waning authority of the Shepherd, and recommends it anew to the support of the church:—

"The Shepherd of the Valley is published with my approbation, and I recommend it to the support of the Catholics of this diocese.

†PETER RICHARD,

7th July, 1853. Archbishop of St. Louis."

With the approbation and recommendation of the Archbishop, the Shepherd will, doubtless, feel encouraged to go on disseminating its Anti-American sentiments, and indoctrinating its readers with the political heresies which it has heretofore advocated with so much zeal. We do not know how such sentiments will be received by Foreign Catholics, who have been nurtured in the shadow of monarchical and hierarchical institutions; but we imagine they must be very offensive and obnoxious to American Catholics, whose ideas of political and religious liberty have been formed in a very different school.

UNITED STATES.

PROGRESS OF THE WEST.—The States which were bankrupt ten years ago, seem to be improving in wealth at a very rapid pace, under the influence of railroads and emigrants. The State of Michigan became insolvent in 1840, under a debt of $5,000,000, and she was obliged to repudiate that portion for which she had not received full payment. She sold, however, her two great railroads, the Southern and Central roads, for her outstanding bonds. In the hands of enterprising men, those works have been prolonged across the State, to connect with Chicago and the Great Illinois Central Railroad, the consequences have been that the rich farm lands of Southern Michigan have been made accessible to market, on as favorable terms as any other lands in the Union, and the influence upon the fortunes of the State are seen in the following table of the valuation of counties of 1853 as compared with 1851, when the last equalization was made:

ASSESSED PROPERTY IN MICHIGAN.

1851,	21,526,957
1853,	76,735,490
Increase,	$55,208,538

The largest increase was in Wayne, rising from $3,833,213 to $16,097,331. The increase in all has been, in two years, eleven fold the amount of the debt which the State could not pay. This is the result of railroad influence, and well might it have stood the State in hand to give the means of building them.

The Counties through which the two roads run, respectively, have advanced in value as follows:

CENTRAL:	1851	1853
Wayne,	$3,833,213	$16,097,331
Wasstenaw,	2,461,373	9,375,000
Jackson,	1,516,459	4,810,655
Calhoun,	1,637,347	3,646,816
Kalamazoo,	1,094,192	4,810,655
Van Buren,	541,963	1,633,560
Total,	$11,084,247	$40,444,018
SOUTHERN,	1851.	1853.
Monroe,	$960,044	$1,336,000
Hillsdale,	993,040	4,967,225
Branch,	387,280	2,874,354
St. Josephs,	1,088,920	4,119,675
Berrien,	375,740	2,874,354
Lenawee,	411,666	1,200,448
Total,	$5,166,899	$18,090,858

This is a remarkable change, but no less so than the increase in the prosperity of the roads themselves.

COLD WATER STEAM ENGINE.—Yesterday afternoon we visited the machine shop of Messrs. Burge and Johnston, to witness the performance of a new engine, styled as above, and recently invented by Mr. Edward D. Tippett. The steam is produced without boilers, by simply injecting cold water into generators. The amount of steam required to force out or return the piston rod is made by the introduction to the influence of the fire at each moment of precisely the quantity of water needed, thus doing away with the necessity of boilers. It is claimed that there is no possibility of an explosion, that great power is obtained, and less room occupied for the necessary machinery. The water falls into the engine, being first raised by a force-pump into a reservoir situated above the engine, and thence inducted down as wanted. The engine is a singularly constructed piece of mechanism, both in appearance and mode of operating.—Cincinnati Gazette.

LOLA MONTEZ AGAIN MARRIED.—The telegraphic report of the news from California yesterday, announced the important event of the marriage of Lola Montez, the public dancer, to a California editor, by the name of Hull. The California papers, received this morning, give us the particulars, which we copy below for the benefit of that distinguished female in this city. It will be seen that many "distinguished citizens" of California, "besides several ladies," lent their presence and countenance to the ceremonies. The School Committee of San Francisco are not mentioned as among the guests. This is the third husband of this famous woman—the two former ones, we believe, are still alive and well; as is also the ex-king of Bavaria.

Married, this morning, at the Holy Church of the Mission Dolores, by the Rev. Father Flavel Fontaine, Curate, Madame Marie Elise Rosanne Dolores, Countess of Lansfeldt de Heald, Baroness of Rosenthal, and Chainoinesse of the Order of St Therese, to Patrick Purdy Hull, Esq., conductor of the San Francisco Whig and Commercial Advertiser, of this city.

The ceremonies were performed in strict conformity with the rules of the Mother Church, but rendered peculiar impressive by their pure simplicity. The distinguished bride, on approaching the sacred altar, deposited at the feet of the Virgin, with appropriate demonstrations of devotion, a beautiful offering. There were present to assist at the solemnities, besides several ladies, the Hon. Beverly C. Sanders, late collector of the port of San Francisco, Hon. Wm. C. Hoff, James E. Wainwright, Esq., Clerk of the County, A Bartol, Esq., ex-president of the Board of Assistaldermen of the city, H. M. Gray, M D., ex-President of the Board of Aldermen, His Hon. Alex. Wells, Associate Justice of the Supreme Court of the State of California, Alex. G. Abell, Esq., late Consul of the United States for the Sandwich Islands, Louis R. Lull, Esq., Associate Editor of the San Francisco Whig, Robert B. Hampton, Esq, P. A. Brinsmade, Esq., J. Benson, Esq., James Grant, Esq., late Alderman, and H. J. Clayton, Esq.

The marriage certificate was duly attested by James E. Wainwright, Esq., in his magisterial quality of clerk of the county.

After the ceremonies, the bridal party was hospitably entertained by the Curate, at his apartments adjoining the Church.

After the return of the party to the city, the happy pair were waited upon at their residence in the house of Mrs. Gates, by some of the most distinguished of our citizens, among whom were Hon. John B. Weller, of the United States Senate, His Honor, Geo. W. Baker, City Recorder, Gregory Yale, Esq. Hon. Judge Parsons.—San Francisco Jour. 12th July.

The California papers inform us that the citizens of Sacramento received Mr. and Mrs. Hull with a serenade of tin horns, pans, pots, gongs, &c., and other like demonstrations of respect.—The marriage of Mad. Lola does not interfere, it seems, with her public performances. She danced before the firemen of San Francisco on the night of the 11th, and afterwards made a speech to them from her window. At the conclusion of her speech, her husband invited the firemen "to step into the bar-room below, and take a drink at his expense," which they did.
