Sewer Causes Controversy At Town Council Meeting

A regular meeting of the Huntingdon Town Council was held at the County Building, on Monday evening, with all members present.

The minutes of the previous meeting were read and a number of bills approved.

A letter was read to the effect that the F. Lalonde project had been approved for the laying of sewer and water pipes. It was decided that the work would be proceeded without further delay.

There were to complaints with regard to open ditches and water lying on the roads. In the case of the ditches it was said there was considerable smell from the stagnant water. It was decided to check into these complaints and see what can be done. Mayor Lefebvre said he was in favor of all open ditches in town being filled in.

After a trial of repairing sidewalks with black top, it was decided to go ahead with this method where needed.

A letter was read from the Dept. of Health as to burning rubbish near the C. Lalonde property. The Dept. requested the Town to warn the parties responsible and to take the necessary steps to put a stop to this practice. The parties are to be notified of the requirements of the Town By-law.

In the past while there have been many reports on the Town Water Supply. Mayor Lefebvre reported on Monday night that he had been in touch with the Dept. of Health and the Town Engineer. The question was raised that soda ash should be used to counteract the acidity of the water, this to be fed into the water supply as well as the alum. He said this would require the use of another machine at the Filter Plant, as the one that was there would not be efficient. He estimated the cost as being about $500 for the machine. He pointed out that some time ago lime was used with this same purpose in mind but this had developed trouble in one of the dye plants. He had consulted with the chemists at the dye plants and they felt that if the machine were installed, it would not interfere in their work.

Alderman McGerrigle said he was more concerned with the water supplied being fit for human consumption and he felt the Town's first obligation was to the domestic consumer and the people must be supplied with good water first. The mills must be satisfied with such an arrangement. The mills must be prepared to recondition the water to suit their needs after.

Mayor Lefebvre said the Dept. of Health was satisfied with the water being supplied, but he did not want trouble to occur at the mills.

The council is to proceed with its investigation and if necessary to call a special meeting on the subject. Alderman McGerrigle said that the water supplied over the weekend had brought him many complaints and it was certainly bad as far as he is concerned. This should be the first concern of the council and if soda ash was going to remedy the situation, then it should be used as had been recommended.

Mr. Guy Lefebvre, representing the Huntingdon Recreation Centre which has recently been organized, asked the council for a grant toward the expenses of operation. Alderman McGerrigle was in favor of making a grant of $200 toward this worthy cause as he felt it would do much to keep down delinquincy. It was finally decided to make a grant of $200.

An enquiry regarding tax arrears revealed the fact that many taxpayers are being sued, while some have paid a part, or all of the arrears, or have made arrangements to do so.

The matter of a two-way radio for the police car was discussed, as it was stated that one can be obtained at a reasonable figure. It was felt that such a system would be most useful for the police. At the present time it is necessary for the policeman on patrol to keep reporting back to the police station in case he should be needed for some other reason. The matter was left to the Police Committee to make enquiries.

Alderman Picard gave notice of motion that he would introduce an amendment to the by-law regarding garbage pick-up, with the intention of raising the present rate. The rate mentioned was given as $7.50 per year instead of the present $5.00.

Alderman McGerrigle gave notice of motion that he would bring in a by-law to recover 50% of the costs of water and sewer pipes in all new installations in the future. This could be paid in cash, or spread over a period of twenty years with interest.

A heated discussion took place on a sewer that was recently installed on Fairview Road under the direction of Alderman Picard. According to Alderman Picard permsission had been obtained from Mr. Stephen to install the sewer on property under Mr. Stephen's jurisdiction. Other Alderman maintained that Alderman Picard had gone ahead with this work without consulting the committee or other members of the Council. It was originally intended that the sewer would drain a certain septic tank that was causing a nuisance. Legal right of way had been obtained and plans drawn as to where the sewer would be put and it had been agreed to follow this course. The sewer as now installed does not follow a plan and was installed under Mr. Picard's directoion.

Alderman McGerrigle who has had the matter in hand for some time and who had made all the arrangements, demanded that the approval of the authorities be sought with regard to the present sewer.

Alderman Picard offered to dig up the sewer and remove all of it at his own expense and then the job can be redone in the way that it is wanted. He claimed that he had done the job at very low cost and saved the Town much money.

Other members of the council claimed that the sewer as it is had not been approved and there were no plans for it. There had been trouble of this nature once before and the council did not want to take responsibility again.

Alderman Walsh said to leave the sewer as it is and if there is trouble to settle it at that time. Mr. Picard erred in not consulting the other members of the council on the matter before going ahead and doing the job.

Alderman McGerrigle said he did not want to do anything that was dishonest and he felt that it would be dishonest not to follow the proper course and get approval from the proper authorities.

Alderman Picard renewed his offer several times to dig up the sewer and remove all of it. He said he would not be responsible for other extra costs if they came about.

Alderman McGerrigle moved and Alderman Leduc seconded a motion that the council apply for the approval of the sewer as now placed. Alderman Picard and Tremblay were against and Alderman McGerrigle, Gaw, Walsh and Leduc were for the motion and it was carried.

Mr. Martin said he would need plans of the sewer to send with the application for approval. Alderman McGerrigle said Alderman Picard would supply them as he knew all about it.

Discussion centred on the buying of another new truck for the town. The town foreman said the old truck now in use was completely finished, it had so many things wrong with it that it is practically useless. It was suggested that a second-hand truck be purchased, but there were immediate cries against doing this. Finally after much discussion it was decided to call for tenders for a new truck, 3 ton, complete with dump body.

The lucky person was Mrs. Edith Thompson of Huntingdon. Meanwhile games were played, and lots of lucky people took home some very nice looking prizes. The soft drink stands on the grounds were doing a brisk business as this was a very warm night, also the ladies of the branch were sweating it out inside the Hall serving hot dogs and smoked meat sandwiches. There was a Dance inside the Hall from 10.00 p.m. till 1.00 p.m., music by the Wilson's Westernaires. Ormstown Presbyterian Sunday School Picnic Held At St. Francis Beach

The Presbyterian Sunday School Picnic was held at St. Francis Beach last Wednesday. The children met at the Church at ten-thirty and were taken by bus and private cars. This event is the first chance of the season for many to get an opportunity to try their swimming skill, and few were those who did not try. After lunches several types of races and games were enjoyed, ten attendants at the canteen had a busy time supplying drinks and ice cream to thirsty participants. The end of the day came too quickly for the 50 or more tired sunburned youngsters who will all be there again next year, to do the same thing all over again.

Young McWhinnie Said Suffering From Mental Disorders

Judge John O'Meara asked for a mental examination for Ray Doak McWhinnie who was undergoing preliminary trial, accused of attempted murder of his fiancee, Helen Ferguson, age 21.

A medical expert, Dr. Carlo Giovanni Boss, Psychiatrist declared that he had examined McWhinnie on June 25th and found that the young man was suffering from mental disorders, which explained his act when he hit his fiancee with a mallet during her sleep. The young girl was taken to the hospital, where she was treated for lacerations of the head. The preliminary inquest was therefore postponed until August 3rd and will be taken up at that time after thorough mental examinations and treatment of young McWhinnie.

Notes From The Police Blotter

Drowning

Joseph Thompson, 55-year-old Indian resident of Cornwall Island, lost his life near St. Regis when the motorboat he was in capsized about 2.30 p.m. on July 1st. Two companions swam to shore after the mishap, but the victim, a non-swimmer, went under almost immediately. The body was located an hour later and members of the R.C.M.P. detachment at St. Regis and Quebec Provincial Police practiced articial respiration, but to no avail. Dr. George Lefebvre of Huntingdon, District Coroner, gave a verdict of accidental death due to drowning. The boat capsized in the same area of the Chenail ("Snye") that two Indians lost their lives last winter when their car went through a hole in the ice.

Warning to Farmers

The law states that all vehicles used on the roads must be licensed and this most certainly includes farm tractors. It is estimated that 90% of the farm tractors in Huntingdon County are not licensed, yet many of them are used for various reasons on the roads. Provincial Police have given many warnings to the drivers to have their tractors licensed and all have had sufficient time to obtain their plates. Starting this week, Provincial Police have been issuing tickets to offenders. Farmers, take heed: have your tractor weighed, take the slip to the local license issuer and save yourselves a fine, because the Quebec Provincial Police mean business.

The Police also state that although some farmers have purchased their licenses, they have not affixed them to their tractors. This is also an offence. Moreover, even if the tactors are registered yet do not carry the plates, the owner is responsible if an accident occurs.

A car owned and driven by Leo-Paul Taillefer, age 43, Chalmers St., Huntingdon, was involved in an accident at 3.25 p.m. July 1st with a car owned and driven by Gabriel Therrien, age 22, of Beauharnois. Mr. Taillefer, his wife and children Louise, 13, and Robert 9, suffered minor injuries and were treated at Huntingdon County Hospital by Dr. Cameron and later released. The occupants of the Beauharnois car escaped injury. The Taillefer car was approaching Huntingdon on the Plank Road from Port Lewis and the other vehicle was approaching the Plank Road from Ste. Barbe. The accident occurred at the intersection and both cars were demolished.

The June 21st issue of The Gleaner reported that on June 20, Quebec Provincial Police had recovered a Volkswagon truck owned by Georges Renaud of East St., Huntingdon, and a Chevrolet sedan owned by Riverside Motors, also of Huntingdon. The vehicles were recovered in the woods not far from the Powerscourt dam. On Friday, June 30, Robert Lapierre, age 19, of Powerscourt and Cazaville pleaded guilty to both thefts before Judge Fortin at Valleyfield and was sentenced to nine months in jail.

Approximately $3,000 worth of copper wire owned by The Bell Telephone Company of Canada has been stolen since June 1. The wire, not used since the ice storm in February, was hanging from Company poles along Highway No. 4 between Huntingdon and Dewittville. Before daylight on several occasions, thieves would climb the power poles, cut the wire, haul it away and sell it for scrap metal to junk dealers. Quebec Provincial Police have been investigating the series of thefts and two men have been arrested. They will stand trial in Valleyfield. The arrest of three others connected with the thefts is expected momentarily. Similar thefts have taken place in the Howick area.

Rev. R. Beal, Purvis Hamilton Elected To School Board

Nominations were held on Monday to fill the vacancies for Commissioners on the Huntingdon High School Board. Two persons were named, Rev. Robt. Beal and Purvis Hamilton and they were elected by acclamation to fill the vacancies. Mr. Hamilton was the retiring member and stood for re-election. Rev. Beal replaces Mr. McIntosh, the former member.

Young Delinquents Captured After Burning Elgin Cabin And Car

Three escapees from a Montreal reform school burned a car stolen in Ormstown and a cabin being renovated to a summer home in Elgin on Thursday morning of the past week. The car belonged to Mrs. Alton Graham and the cabin, which has changed hands a number of times in recent years, was owned by Joesph Brady of Valleyfield.

The three youths, one 14 years old and the other two 16, escaped on Wednesday from Mont St. Antoine Reform School in Montreal East. They hitch-hiked to Valleyfield and are reported to have visited Brady, an uncle of one of the boys. Leaving Valleyfield, they hitch-hiked to Ormstown where they stole a 1951 Prefect car owned by Mrs. Graham.

The trio spent the rest of Wednesday night and on into the early hours of Thursday touring the roads southwest of Huntingdon, searching for Brady's cabin on the First Concession of Elgin.

When they finally arrived at their destination, they rested for a short time and then set fire to the cabin, valued at $5,000 by the owner. At the same time they decided to destroy the car and set fire to it also. Nearby residents saw the fire and notified the Constable and Trout River units of the Constable Volunteer Fire Department and although the brigade arrived in record time, both the car and cabin were completely destroyed.

The young arsonists then headed for the woods in an attempt to cross the Canada-United States border. The U.S. Border Patrol was notified that the trio was seen near the Stebbins Woods road at 12.40 p.m. At 1.35 Senior Patrol Inspector Harold Ladouceur and Patrol Inspector Stanley Spofford and John Pollock apprehended the boys. They were captured without much trouble but one injured an ankle in attempting to escape the officers and was later taken to Huntingdon County Hospital for treatment. Quebec Provincial Police working in conjunction with the U.S. Border Patrol, were notified that the trio had been captured. The U.S. lawmen turned the youths over to the Q.P.P. and they are being held in Valleyfield.

The Constable firemen extinguished a fire in a second nearby building on the proprety that became ignited by sparks from the cabin. Police described the lads as "Real young toughs for their ages". It is believed the cabin fire was a mischievous act resulting from a disagreement with the uncle, Brady, and the boys, with the latter taking revenge by setting fire to the cabin. Burning the car was probably a childish afterthought to destroy evidence.

Weather, The Best, For Annual Farmers' Picnic

The annual Farmers' Picnic was held at Cairnside on Dominion Day. The attendance was very gratifying, that of young folks being particularly large. This large attendance of youths was undoubtedly due to the fact that 22 junior softball teams participated in a contest. Foot races found large classes ready to run just as soon as the classes were called. It was indeed a fine afternoon of wholesome sport.

The public speaking programme did not command a great deal of attention. Those who spoke evidently forgot that it was Dominion Day, for little or no reference was made to it. This fact was regrettable for if there is one day in the year when Canadianism can be proclaimed it should certainly be on Dominion Day; the day to sell our citizens upon its good features, accomplishments over the years, and resources, thereby presenting a picture of what might be aimed at and attained for our future welfare. One would naturally expect the members of Parliament to be present to meet with their electors at large and to speak a word for the good of Canada or Province, but their presence was not to be recorded.

The Ormstown Band was in attendance and presented a fine programme of band music and was much enjoyed.

The results of the ball games and races are as follows:

Presentation to Mr. William J. McGerrigle and to O.H.S. Staff members

Mr. and Mrs. B. L. McGerrigle entertained members of the School Board and the staff of Ormstown High School on Wednesday evening.

Several of the guests availed themselves of the opportunity to swim in the pool.

During the evening presentations were made to the staff members retiring from O.H.S. this year. Mr. J. C. Moore, principal, expressed the appreciation of the teachers and Mrs. Erskine McClintock, Miss Jean MacKenzie and Mr. Ralph Cooper each received a small remembrance from other members of the staff.

Another presentation for service of long standing was made to Mr. William J. McGerrigle. Mr. McGerrigle is retiring from the Ormstown School Board after serving faithfully for twenty years. Mr. B. L. McGerrigle, chairman of the Board, received some of the various responsibilities he had accepted and executed efficiently during the term of offices. His mature advice and his presence at meetings will be very much missed. Mr. Leslie Ross made a presentation to Mr. McGerrigle on behalf of the Board.

Coffee and delicious refreshments brought a most sociable gathering to a close.

Next year's grade seven pupils enjoyed Thursday afternoon at the camp of their grade six teacher, on lake St. Francis. Each year Mrs. Hooker treats her class to a picnic and the facilities of the family camp site. Several parents went along as supervisors, and with the "Buddy System" while swimming, the children were royaly entertained. Lunch on the spacious grounds, with excited conversations, mostly on "How I will spend my vacation", and games rounded off a wonderful day. The children graciously thanked their teacher, expressing regrets at having to leave her behind, while they will go on to "Higher Education" in the fall.

The Lion's Club organized a Bee, Monday evening, to prepare four softball diamonds for the Little League. The youngsters had a chance at the Rock Picnic to show just how keen they are to "Play Ball", and won for their team several balls and bats. Lion Gerry Mahoney of the Montreal Lions Club presented them with six more sets so they are all set to go now. A snooping reporter heard the following conversation between the members of the midgets the other day, "Gee, it was not very hard to beat those guys" said one puffing red faced player. "No", gasped another, "and if we beat Howick and St. Martine, even maybe we can beat some of them Montreal teams, and even play a game in Montreal — even — maybe." Well, even maybe they can, the spirit is there, and the Lions are behind these kids, with that combination, there is no reoson to lose.

No. 2: 1st, John Moore; 2nd Ian Johnson. No. 5: 1st, John Moore; 2nd, Graham Frost; Teachers: 1st, Wendy Fury; 2nd, Floris Henderson. Sack Race: No. 1, Philip Woodward; 2nd, Jimmy Rweo. No. 2: 1st, John Moore; 2nd, Graham Frost; Teachers, 1st Mary Cottingham; 2nd, Floris Henderson. Peanut Race: No 1: 1st, Murray English; 2nd Lawrence Stote; No. 2: 1st, Jane Whitehead; 2nd, Lynn Rowe. No. 3: 1st, John Moore; 2nd, Graham Frost. Each child who tried in the race received a prize. Following the races each child was treated to a bag of chips, regardless of whether he had tried to win a race. A weiner roast followed and it was presumed, after observing the rapidity with which the "dogs" disappeared that both young and old had a wonderful time, marshmallows and soft drinks topped off the feast. Before departing, a gift was given to each child who had attended classes nine Sundays or more during the 1960-61 term.

Historical Notes Gleaned From "Sellar's" History

Apart from those under Sims, all the Hemingford men did not leave Odelltown. A number remained to haunt the scene of the late excitement in the expectation that it would soon be renewed. That the rebels who hid under the shelter of a pretendedly friendly power would make a second raid into Canada was not supposed; the seat of danger was to the northwest. On the afternoon of the previous Saturday, the 3rd November, under the direction of one Trepannier, the rebel element in Napierville suddenly asserted itself, by appearing in the streets in bands, armed in a rude fashion, who arrested the loyal inhabitants, some 50 in number, placing them in prison, and posting guards at all outlets so that no message could be sent to the authorities of what had happened. Soon after reinforcements came straggling in from the neighboring parishes, St. Remi, St. Valentine and Lapigeonierre, among others, furnishing contingents. At four o'clock Lucien Gagnon came marching in with a strong band of habitants and with Dr. Côté assumed command. The rebels had it all their own way; the few loyalists were in custody, all the rest of the population were in sympathy, and the ease with which they had gained the upper hand created a feeling of unbounded confidence, which caused every man able to bear arms to crowd into the little town, so that when Sunday dawned there was the raw material of a little army. All was excitement in view of the expected arrival of Dr. Robert Nelson and the American contingent, and they went out to meet him. The previous evening he had embarked on a barge at St. Albans, accompanied by two officers from France, Hindenlang and Touvrey, the boat having for cargo 250 muskets. Dropping down the river to lake Champlain, a course was taken for the Canadian shore and early in the morning she tied up to an obscure wharf near the mouth of the Richelieu. Nobody awaited the leader of the contemplated revolution, and the guide left to get aid. After waiting an anxious hour, he was seen returning with half a dozen habitants, whom he had roused out of their beds, and three horses. Getting into the saddle, Nelson and his two aids-de-camp rode to Napierville, the arms and ammunition following in 4 French carts. The road was so bad, that it was drawing towards noon when the little cavalcade was met by the delegation that had come out from Napierville to receive them. With shouting the procession entered the village, when the rebels formed a hollow square in the marketplace and Dr. Nelson was formally welcomed. In responding the doctor denounced Britain as a tyrannical nation, and declared that the hour had come when its power should be overthrown in Canada. Of the assistance coming from the United States, which he had left a few hours before, he gave a glowing account. Turning to the two gentlemen who were on horseback beside him, he introduced them as officers from old France, exiles on account of their republicanism, and who had come to assist in freeing Canada from the curse of monarchy. The habitants yelled with delight and believed the day of English rule was at an end. The waggons were unloaded and they exchanged their pikes and scythes for fine new American muskets. The French officers set to work to orangize the habitants into companies and to teach them something of drill. The commissariat was simple, consisting of the confiscation of the property of the English-speaking residents. The goods in their stores were appropriated for the benefit of the new army as were their cattle and grain. Before evening 2 elaborate documents were promulgated. The first was an imitation of the American declaration of dependence, giving reasons for throwing aside allegiance to the British government and for erecting a republic, followed by an enumeration of the reforms that were to be made in "the State of Lower Canada." The second was simple a declaration that they had taken up arms and that they would not "lay those arms down until we shall have secured to our country the blessings of patriotic and sympathizing government." To those who would assist the hand of fraternity and fellowship was extended; on those who opposed them they would "inflict the retaliation which their own terrific example has set before us." Dr. Nelson signed these documents as "president" and as "commander-in-chief of the patriot army." The troops paraded with two small flags, blue with two white stars, and a large white flag with two blue stars was hoisted on the village flag-pole. It was the flag of the new republic. A perfect furore possessed the habitants on hearing of these doings at Napierville, and by Tuesday it was estimated that there were 4000 of them who had come to support the rising. There were more recruits than there were arms for, and the arrival of fresh supplies from the United States was anxiously waited for. On Tuesday morning Gagnon, Côté, and Touvrey left for Rouse's Point to hasten the reinforcements of men and supplies, and next morning were routed by Col. Scriver as already described. The tidings of this defeat fell like a thunderbolt on Napierville, and the habitants, true to their volatile nature, dropped from exultant confidence to blank despair. That night a large number deserted and returned to their homes, and their place was by no means supplied by the few who came in that day and next from Chateauguay and Beauharnois. Dr. Nelson saw that if he was to effect anything at all, he must strike at once. The intention had been to advance on St Johns, and had that town been captured it would have afforded a base for operations and a convenient rendezous for the parishes that lined the St. Lawrence. Instead of striking a bold blow for the capture of St. Johns—the only place of the slightest strategetical value within his reach—he weakly determined upon falling on Odelltown and restoring his communication with the United States. Hidenlang had, with miserable success, striven during the past 5 days to lick the crude material, of which there was such abundance, into something like an army, but it was still little better than an armed mob. All Thursday, it rained, preventing any movement, but on the morning of Friday, the 9th, the order to march was issued and the rebels, to the number or 1200, took the road that led to Odelltown. They moved in companies, the officers being on horseback, and were fairly well-armed, 800 having muskets, the others pikes. Opportunity favored them, for the loyalists had not expected such a movement, and were taken unprepared. An easy-going man and satisfied that the rebels would not assume the offensive, Colonel Odell had the day before, which was very rainy, freely allowed such of his men as wished to visit their families, with orders to muster, after dinner on Friday, when Scriver with the Hemingford men were to return and an attack be made on Lacolle. The consequence was that he was left with few men beyond the Hemingford volunteers who had remained, and who were billeted at Fisher's tavern or the Methodist church, where Lieutenant Sims was posted. At 9 o'clock Colonel Taylor, of the regular service, who had been sent the previous winter to organize the militia on the frontier, arrived at Fisher's tavern from St. Johns to take command of the designed attack on Lacolle, and for which he brought a quantity of ammunition. He found everything quiet and not a suspicion of danger being close at hand. While resting quietly a messenger came galloping up with a message from Capt. Weldon, who held the advanced post, about half a mile from Lacolle, that the rebels were advancing in great force, and that he was falling back before them. Surprised by the startling news, the colonel ordered out his horse, sprang into the saddle and galloped up the road. He had not gone far when he saw, in front of the Methodist church, a cluster of volunteers gazing earnestly northwards. Among them were Captain Weldon and his men. They were watching the head of the rebel column as it appeared above the rise in the road a little to the north of them. All told there were not 200 men about the church, but Colonel Taylor had no intention of retreating. The cannon that had been captured two days before had been left in charge of Lieutenant Sims, and it was wheeled to the middle of the road and pointed at the advancing column. It was handled by a member of Capt. Edwards' company, Lieut. Curran, an old artilleryman, who had become a Covey hill farmer, and Sergeant Beatty, of the Royals, a regular, detached to act as adjutant in Woolrich's company. When about to apply the match, Colonel Taylor, who was watching the approaching rebel host with his spy-glass, said, "Wait a minute; I will give the word." In a few moments he cried, "Fire now!" The gun was badly directed, and the shot riddled the adjoining fence. At the report, the rebel column halted, and, dividing, one-half deployed on to the fields to their right and the other to those on their left, when they resumed their advance behind the shelter of the trees and buildings that lined the road. The movement was well-executed, and its object Colonel Taylor perceived. From the church there ran backward an old fence with a deep ditch which continued some 200 yards when it reached a graveyard. This ditch and the graveyard were promptly occupied by the loyalists, and the attempt to flank the church checkmated. As the rebels drew near they set up a dreadful yell, and opened fire. Up to this time the cannon alone had been brought into requisition, and, though energetically served, did no damage to the enemy beyond making them cautious in advancing. The conduct of the gunners was admirable. Beatty stuck to his post until disabled by a shot in the calf of the leg, and Curran had the powder-horn carried away by a bullet while pouring in priming. When he shouted that he had no wadding for another shot, a volunteer took off his coat and, tearing out the lining, handed it to ram home the charge. The rebels after halting a while, began to edge nearer the church from the northeast when Colonel Taylor, fearing they designed to make a charge to capture the field-piece, ordered it to be dragged into the church. He received a coarse refusal. A minute afterward, it became apparent it was impossible to stand by it, owing to the stealthy approach of sharpstooters, and an effort was made to run it from the road up the steps of the entrance into the church, when it was found too heavy to handle, and was left in the ditch. Captain McAllister, whose long white locks and simple piety alike commanded respect, was standing at the church-door watching the movement. At the engagement of Wednesday he bore himself bravely and when the day was won was overheard to exclaim, "Glory be to God for this victory." Now he scanned the coming foe with unbleached cheek, when a rifle bullet, fired by an unseen rebel, struck him on the breast, passing through his body, grazing the right arm of a loyalist behind him, and denting the door of the church. Without uttering a word, the stout-hearted Ulsterman, for he was an Irish Protestant fell dead. Colonel Taylor's order, that all should go inside the church, was unneeded, and the door was shut. It contained 60 men, of whom half were from Hemingford.

Congratulations Children

With a sigh of relief most children gazed at their report cards last week and saw the magic words "PROMOTED" marked on them. To those who just didn't give that little extra effort and will have to repeat, it will probably serve as a grim reminder that success comes only to those who try.

Congratulations to Dougie Campbell and Martin den Heyer who both received first proficiency prizes — Hans Vrolyk, second proficiency prize and Mary Didkowsky a prize for Sustained Effort.

The Girl's Handicraft Club held their weekly meeting last Thursday on the lawn of Mrs. Mitchell's home. Some were kept busy making serviette holders while others busily painted wishbones. Plans were discussed to have the girls visit the Hospital at Caughnawaga. Everyone seemed quite in favor of the idea and Mrs. Mitchell asked the girls to collect comic books and magazines with lots of pictures, so that these could be given to the sick children. Wrapped candies and fruit are also acceptable and will be included when we pay our visit. More details will be available at the next meeting. Don't forget girls, the time has been advanced to 3 p.m. on Thursday.

Canada Day

VETVILLE — With "Canada Day" come and gone for this year, we can now look forward to 4th September for the next National Holiday, and are reminded that "Labour Day" is generally regarded as the end of our summer, so unless the weather hereabouts changes, it does not appear that we will have enjoyed a particularly warm one. On the other hand, it could be that we have much to be thankful for when thinking of the ruined crops and water shortage being experienced throughout the Prairie Provinces which have already reached the critical stage. The numerous Forest Fires also, which constitute another national disaster, with so many completely out of control despite superhuman efforts to contain them by every available means, should at least cause us to hesitate before complaining. How many of those weary Firefighters were privilaged to celebrate "Canada Day" like us?

"All our ills, to us, seem so
appalling;
Till we see how much worse
they could be;
And notice that those who do
the least bawling,
Are more often far worse off than we."

After carefully rehearsing a nice 'Welcome back' speech to our neighbour, Mrs. M. Manx, "Amiens" on her return from a month's vacation in the U.S.A. I lost all the wind out my sails when I learned she was merely spending the week-end at Vetville to visit her son who recently joined the local Property Owners, and had just moved into his new residence. From what I hear, she will spend another month on vacation before taking up residence here again. Cannot blame her, after seeing the lovely car her charming daughter drove her off in. Was wondering if it could have been a Cadillac from the fleeting glimpse I caught of it!

Another busy and happy couple this week-end was Nelson Lavine and his good wife who received a visit from his brother Maurice from Rouen, accompanied by Nelson's son Jean who, however, will return alone. Brother Maurice will however make a further visit on his return from Boston, Mass., where he continued on from here after staying one day. Am very pleased to state that Mrs. M. Hannah has now had the cast removed, necessitated after her automobile accident in which she was a taxi passenger and fared worse than the driver or other passeneger. Sincerely trust she has fully recovered. Regret to hear that Mrs. Matt. Will is still indisposed and confined to her apartment. Our best wishes for early return to normal and her usual activities.

Any Others?

Have often wondered how many Philatelists there may be in our midst, or among local residents. Was pleasantly surprised to learn a while ago that our Presbyterian Padre, Rev. J. F. Allan is a fellow enthusiast. Am fully aware that many of the younger fry are interested in collecting stamps as a hobby. I doubt however if any of us are quite such fanatics as some of the distaff in their collecting of another kind of Stamps"? Am sure, with the rapid growth of residents in every direction locally, there must be sufficient for someone to take the intiative and start a local Club or Get-together for the winter months. How about it fellow Philatelists? Apart from the many interests and educational advantages from this hobby, just think how much easier one can get rid of their spare change! I discovered this many years ago, as doubtless many others have.

Speaking of hobbies, how about Bird Watching? It is pleasantly surprising to see how many different species of these feathered friends are in evidence locally, many not usually noticed around a metropolis. Some with very distinctive plumage and colouring, needs a more expert knowledge than the writer's to identify with any degree of certainty.

This week am relating a very true anecdote which brought many amusing remarks and a great deal of hair pulling by bewildered N.C.O's during the 1st War during my travels. To understand it must be explained that prior to 1907 (?) all Imperial Regiments allotted Regimental Numbers to enlisted men or transfers from another regiment, in consecutive sequence. As a very young soldier, I transferred from one cavalry regiment to another, and upon arrival in South Africa in February 1907, all of the draft to which I belonged expected to receive a new regimental number from the new regiment. Imagine our dismay to find that the numbers allotted us commenced from number 13. My own particular number happened to be No. 15. Eventually we were given the explanation, which was to the effect that in future, every branch of the service would be numbered as separate corps, i.e. Household Cavalry; Dragoons of the Line; Hussars of the Line; Dragoon Guards of the Line; Lancers of the Line etc. etc. Royal Artillery; Infrantry ect. Apparently therefore, the first twelve numbers already allotted must have been given to newly enlisted recruits joining any Lancer regiment or on transfer to one. With the many regiments in every class in those days, the numbers very soon reached four figures, as most of the previous regimental numbers had been. Therefore, as troops were moved around and changed locations, as usual, the first identification asked was Name and Number. Naturally when asked my number I replied FIFTEEN Sgt. What's your number I asked, was the average retort to my reply. Again I would state FIFTEEN Sgt. Usually that was when the fun started. Some would start scratching their head, and try and figure out if I was a mental case; others would ease their mind with a string of epithets and cuses ending up with asking if I thought they were there to amuse me etc. Some however could come back without the least hesitation, such as "I'm not asking you the size of your fat head, I'm asking you what your regimental number is". After I had given a detailed explanation, and following much deliberation, 15 still remained under suspicion, even after acceptance. Abuse; theats; comments and warnings of dire results became so accustomed to, that I derived many a good laugh and others evidently saw the humour of the situation, if onlookers. That was in War 1 days. It was noticeable during the World II days, that numbers in many cases reached from 5 to even 8 or 9 digits, according whether it was an Artillery; Cavalry; Infantry or Departmental Corps.

WELFARE COSTS

There should be some work in return for welfare payments. Social assistance is a necessary thing., but in lean times it may perhaps reach beyond its original intent. If Ottawa maintains its attitude of straight hand-outs we can be far on the way toward the building of the welfare state before we know it — and that would be a pitiful thing indeed for such a young country as Canada. — Quesnel (B.C.) Last Meeting For The Summer

St. Andrew's W.M.S. held their last meeting for the summer on Wednesday June 29, in the Church Annex, with 21 members and visitors present. Mrs. Jean McCleery presided. Devotional exercises were taken by Miss Frances Turner and Mrs. Grant. A letter of thanks was read from the Chinese Mission in Montreal for donation received. Welcome and Welfare reported 14 calls made on the sick and shut-ins. A letter from the Supply Secretary asked that all donations of used clothing, quilts, etc., for the bale must be in by Oct. 1st.

The high light of the afternoon was a visit from Mrs. Ross Clemenger, who is in mission work in Colombia, South America. Her sister, Mrs. Stanley Ruddock, introduced the speaker. Mrs. Clemenger is a very interesting speaker, and delighted her audience with stories about conditions among the women in Columbia, how down-trodden they are, and how little they have compared with women here, and asked for prayers for the success of the mission work there.

Mrs. Moody thanked the speaker, saying what a privelege it was for us to hear about these women from one who had worked among them. At the close of meeting refreshments were served by the committee in charge. Next meeting will be in September, when plans will be made to celebrate our 65th anniversary of the W.M.S.

Repairs at Huntingdon Fair Grounds

Mr. Carl L. B. Wheeler, vice-president of Huntingdon Agricultural Society Division "A" and chairman of the Grounds Committee, is making sure that vehicles will not be bogged down to the axles in mud if the weatherman decides to give us rain during Huntingdon Fair. On Saturday and Monday, more than 200 tons of crushed stone were trucked onto the grounds and low spots in the roads repaired, others built and a liberal coating of stone placed in the vicinity to be used by the Midway. The road from the horse barn to the cattle sheds is now in good repair also, as is the area between the horse stables and the Huntingdon County War Memorial Arena. "There is no use waiting until the last minute to do things" as Mr. Wheeler says.

Howick

HOWICK — Rev. and Mrs. C. R. Sutherland and son Donald were honoured guests at a social gathering at the United Church Hall, on Monday, June 26th. Mr. H. Brady, Clerk of Session, acted as chairman and his fund of appropriate stories set the mood for the evening. He called on Berta Orr, who sang sweetly "Whispering Hope". Roberta Templeton and Christine Turner pleased everyone with the vocal duet "When I kneel down to pray". Math McKell played lively music on his violin.

Rev. and Mrs. Sutherland were asked to come forward. Mr. Brady spoke feelingly of the part they had played in the life of the church and community during the past three years and asked them to accept a gift which Mrs. Donald Chisholm, President of the W. A., had brought forward. This was a combination sandwich toaster and waffle iron. Mrs. Robert Templeton, President, and Mrs. J. D. Lang, Supply Secretary, presented a pretty quilt to Mrs. Sutherland from the afternoon auxiliary of the W. M. S. Other Special gifts were given by individuals. Rev. and Mrs. Sutherland thanked everyone for the gifts and expressed the hope that the congregation would go forward successfully in the future. He said that he had enjoyed working with the different groups in the church. He mentioned the Young People's Society, to whom he said we must look for leadership in the continuation of the church, and also the wonderful work accomplished by the women's groups.

While lunch was being prepared a sing-song was led by Mr. Robt. Templeton. Mrs. Russell Stewart as accompanist during the evening, was one good reason why all the musical numbers were so enjoyable. A delicious lunch was served and the evening closed with the singing of "Blest be the Tie that binds."

Mrs. W. G. Gibson Leaves For Florida

Mrs. Joan Speidel of Fort Knox, Kentucky and Mrs. Fay Edris of Shiloh, Florida, arrived in Rockburn the week of June 18th, to visit their grandmother, Mrs. W. G. Gibson, and to make arrangements for her to return with them when they left for home on June 27th.

Mrs. Gibson was born in 1874 at Bridgetown, 3 miles from Rockburn, where she came as the bride of W. G. Gibson, merchant. Having a decided talent for organizing and leadership, she soon became the organist and choir director in the Presbyterian Church at Rockburn, which position she held for over 50 years.

She was a faithful and devoted Sunday School Teacher and she was the driving force behind church concerts, minstrel shows, Christmas and Easter plays. All of these benefited the church considerably. She was very active in Church Mission work and served as President and for many years was Secretary and Treasurer of the Ladies Aid.

All of these activites she carried on as well as helping her husband in his general store and post office. She had also a large number of music pupils and in fact gave lessons until as recently as two years ago.

She organized and conducted a large orchestra with a wide varity of musical instruments all of which she taught to the various players. This orchestra was started and ran from about 1904 to 1918 and was in demand throughout the countryside during the period of its existence. At the same time she was holding singing classes for all who wished to join and learn to read music and sing by note. There were upwards of 40 in this class, coming from Rockburn and nearby localities. These classes were very popular and well attended. Many owe to her whatever knowledge they had of music.

After the Gibson Store was struck by lightning and burned down in 1923 they retired to the old Craig homestead beside the Rockburn brook, then owned by Mr. Mossop. Here they held open house for all their friends. A constant stream of visitors came to call or to stay for an extended length of time with them, no former resident returning to Rockburn considered his visit complete without a call at the Gibson home.

Mrs. Gibson sold her property Mr. Gibson died in 1950 and in 1951. Their only child, Marjorie, wife of George D. Goldie, had died in Florida in 1948, Fay. Mrs. Gibson stayed at her leaving two daughters, Joan and old home from the time of the sale until 1959. After this, she became an esteemed and contented member of the Percy McGowan family in Huntingdon, under whose excellent care she remained until the death of Mrs. McGowan at the end of 1960. She then returned to Rockburn to live with Mrs. Clara Sutton, who cared for her and looked out for her interests until the arrival of her granddaughters and her departure for Florida.

Her life has been a busy and useful one to the community and to the church. Her friends were legion and her enemies few. She had a regal bearing and appearance and lived her religion faithfully seven days a week. Her outlook on life and people was charitable and her thoughts, speech and deeds were unfailingly kindly to all. The good wishes of her many friends go with her to her new home in Florida.

She could well say with the poet who expressed it so well:

"To you from failing hands
I throw the torch
Be yours to hold it high."

SOME GOALS FOR '61

There are several goals which Canada must aim for during 1961 if we are to have continued prosperity.

One goal is increased exports. About one-fifth of our gross national product is accounted for by exports, whereas the USA depends on exports for only one-twentieth of its GNP.

We have a small domestic market to begin with. On top of that handicap, we have loaded ourselves with expensive government services. These costs find their way into the prices of our exported goods, and buyers begin to resist. Foreign buyers do not wish to pay for our social services and vast power projects.

Another roadblock to exports and even selling in our own domestic market is the high cost of Canadian labor. The high wages paid to those who are working are actually making it less likely that others can be employed. Canadian labor, in its own self-interest, should wish to see productivity increase to the point where prices can be lowered so that our products and services can be sold in competition with those of other countries and other trading blocs.

Another goal we must aim for is a reduced tax bill. The government took some steps in that direction with its baby budget. So far, so good; but what is needed is a massive reduction in all tax rates, so that these reductions would be reflected in lower prices. From such action we could expect to see business humming again, just as it has been humming in West Germany. And from lower tax rates the government would eventually reap an even higher volume of revenue.

In short, Canadians should take stock. We live in a country with bountiful natural resources; but it is a cold and sparsely-populated country, and many of our resources are hard to get at. Unless there are incentives to develop them, and the possibility of selling the resulting products, they do us no good.

Canada's economic situation is much sounder than some of the gloomy commentators would have us believe. The present government, it must be admitted, inherited a great number of problems. The world situation is uneasy. Competition is stiffer than it has been for a long time. The days when we could export or consume everything we produced, regardless of price, are gone. We must cut costs, increase productivity, and generally act like a team that knows it is playing in a tougher league.

ON THE ROAD TO MANDALAY

Mandalay, capital of Upper Burma, is on the Irrawaddy River 385 miles above Rangoon. According to the Book of Knowledge it came into British possession in 1885. It is an important Buddhist religious centre. weakened by disease.

CHI-CHI

The London Zoo's young giant panda, Chi-Chi, has been delighting all England with its droll actions since its arrival there in 1958. The Book of Knowledge describes the giant panda as the greatest clown in the animal world.

NEW JETS IN THE OFFING

Small and medium-size jetliners are on the way, says the Book of Knowledge Annual. They will be capable of operating at the same high altitude as giants like the Boeing 707 and Douglas DC-8. In this way the advantages of jet travel will reach many small places far off the track of the big jets.

Great Britain has a new detective—a flesh-and-blood one—who is making people forget Sherlock Holmes, reports Reader's Digest. He is Chief Constable William (Wee Willie) Merrilees, a Scot with a chest as broad as the Firth of Forth. He has been decorated by the Queen for his services as a policeman and a humanitarian, but his true reward comes from the devotion of young and old in his home city of Edinburg.

GROWING RATE

ARMDALE, N.S. (CP) — The school population in this Halifax suburb is growing at such a rate that two new classrooms are needed each week to keep pace. School construction in the county now has passed the $10,000,000 mark. Seven schools are under construction and eight more are planned.

THE DEBATE CONTINUES

Everybody knows that the nine of diamonds in a pack of cards is known as "The Curse of Scotland." But why?

Says the Daily Mirror:

The phrase has its origin in the heraldic arms of James Dalrymple, first Earl of Stair, embodying nine diamonds — or "lozenges."

Stair was detested by loyal Scots because they held him responsible for the ignominious Union with England.

But he was hated most bitterly for his part in the massacre of the Macdonalds at Glencoe in 1692.

The clan was guilty, technically of failing to register under an amnesty which expired on 31st December, 1691. By 6th January, Stair had obtained an order from William III for the extermination of the Macdonald clan, his old enemy.

The massacre was undertaken by the Campbells, who were entertained at Glencoe as friends by the unsuspecting Macdonalds. The Campbells rose in the night and treacherously murdered their hosts.

Say letters to the Weekly Scotsman:

It is known from its similarity to the arms of Argyll, the Duke of Argyll having been instrumental in bringing about the Union (with England), which, by some Scottish patriots, has been considered as detrimental to their country.

During the reign of Mary, Queen of Scots, a thief stole nine of the best diamonds, or pearls, out of the Scottish Crown. To replace them, a tax was imposed and the Scots grumbled at having to pay this imposition, thus the nine of diamonds gained its new title.

GREAT CANADIAN

One of the greatest of modern Canadians, Sir John Alexander Macdonald, died on June 6th 70 years ago this year. The Book of Knowledge says he was born in Glasgow, Scotland and was brought to Canada in 1820. He grew up in Kingston, Ontario. The chief architect of Confederation, he became the Dominion's first prime minister, serving from 1867 to 1873 and again from 1878

Life Membership Award

Mrs. Harold Palmer, Covey Hill, past Hemmingford Branch President and past County President of Chateauguay-Huntingdon County on Wednesday, June 28th, gave the last of the six broadcasts which have been given over CJAD for the past six months, publishing the work of the Women's Institutes in Quebec over the past 50 years. On June 27th to 30th, the Annual Convention of the Q.W.I. was held at Macdonald College, Thursday was given over to Golden Anniversary celebrations and Mrs. Palmer also broadcast over CBM at mid-day. As Chairman of the Anniversary Jubilee Committee Mrs. Palmer has put in a year of outstanding service to the Q.W.I. in planning and organizing the many events which went to make up the programme for Jubilee Day and the hundreds of delegates and visitors were delighted when, at the end of the afternoon's programme, Provincial President Mrs. Ellard called Mrs. Palmer to the platform and to her utter astonishment, pinned on a Life-membership Badge, the gift of the Province. The secret of the presentation has been well kept, this Badge is awarded for outstanding service, and, as Mrs. Ellard said when presenting it, she could not think of anyone who deserved it more.

Barbecue Beef

During Queen Anne's reign, Englishmen of wit and joviality were honored if selected to wear a small golden gridiron badge which marked them as members of the famous old beefsteak clubs. Today the badge is a large chef's apron when Canadians take to cooking steaks over the grill in their backyards.

The consumer section, federal agriculture department, has these pointers for steak buyers:

For several servings of large beef steaks, allow ⅓ to ½ pound per person. A porterhouse steak, the choicest of the large steak, contains a T-shape bone and part of the round tenderloin. Allow 1½ inches in thickness for cooking.

The round and wedge bone sirloins which have lean meat and the double and pin bone sirloin which have a greater amount of bone yet give fewer servings, should be cut at least 1½ inches thick.

A ½ to ¾ inches thick top round steak with some marbling of fat through the lean is good for slower cooking on the barbecue grill. For tenderness, marinate or score prior to cooking.

Trim Fat

Small steaks such as the tenderloin or filet mignon, the T-bone and the club or wing steak should be cut at least 1½ inches thick to prevent any drying out while cooking. Before barbecuing, trim the fat from the outer edges and use the trimmings to rub over the grill to prevent any meat sticking. Score edges of steak, keep the grill high above the flames and turn steak with tongs.

A tested barbecue sauce for meat specifies: 2 tbsps. brown sugar, 1½ tsps. dry mustard, ½ to ¾ tsp. chili powder, 1 tsp. salt, ⅛ tsp. pepper, 1½ tsps. spicy meat sauce, 3 tbsps, vinegar, ¾ cup finely chopped onion and 3 cups tomato juice.

Mix brown sugar and seasonings. Add remaining ingredients and mix. Simmer until thick, about 30 minutes. Makes 3 cups. Use with beef, lamb, minced meat patties or spareribs.

Old Clipper-Ship Port

One of the most important ports of North America, during the clipper-ship days, was Providence, Rhode Island. The Book of Knowledge says that the city dates from 1636. One of its industries today is the manufacture of artifical flowers.

LABOR CHANGE

OHAWA, Ont. (CP) — City council voted unanimously to "urge all departments and boards to hire unemployed men with dependents for all casual labor." The resolution was made after Mayor Christine Thomas learned the Oshawa parks board was hiring four students for the summer.

POOH

A. A. Milne, famous for his verses and stories for children, was noted in other fields of writing too. The Book of Knowledge says he was assistant editor of PUNCH for several years.

FINER THAN HAIR

A fibre of merino wool is much finer than a strand of your hair. The Book of Knowledges gives its width as one one-thousandth or even one two-thousandth of an inch. The Merino sheep orginally came from Spain, where they were considered so valuable that it was a capital offence to smuggle a single sheep out of the country.

...IS LOCAL NEWSPAPER ADVERTISING TO LOCAL BUSINESS FIRMS?

Here's what the American Bankers Magazine, a publication that represents a traditionally conservative profession, has to say:

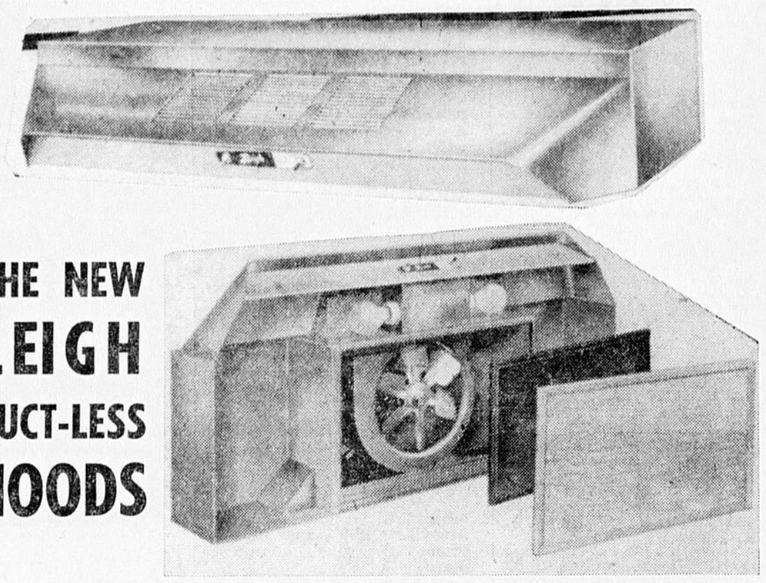

"No business man or woman in any town should allow a newspaper to go to press without his or her name being mentioned somewhere in its columns.

"A stranger picking up a newspaper should be able to tell what business is represented in a town . . . it's the best possible town advertiser. The man or woman who does not advertise does an injustice to himself or herself and definitely to the town".

Dances

Two dances were held over the weekend and a large turnout at each of them. The dance held at the Chateauguay Heights Recreation Club had a very large turnout and the "Wild Stallions" made it an enjoyable evening. The highlight of the evening was a Rock 'n Roll contest and the winners were Terry Modeland and Danny Rose.

The other dance held at Maple School and sponsored by the Parkview Community Club was also a success. About 100 people attended and everyone had a swell time. Winners of the Spot Dance were Willy Hortel and his partner.

Scout Jamboree

Three Chateauguay members of the Scouting Movement in Canada have left to attend the Canadian Jamboree at Ottawa. They are Ian Riley, François Scott and Assistant District Commissioner Condé Crepeault, who will act as Scoutmaster for the troop from Quebec.

The boys left on July third for Camp Anderson where they will spend three days getting acquainted with their equipment and on July sixth they will board a special train for Ottawa. The official opening will be on July seventh and Governor General Vanier will open it.

The boys will spend 10 days there and will have a chance to get acquainted with other boys and to trade badges and stuff like that. This Jamboree is a very interesting event and the boys will enjoy themselves immensely.

Chatter

Chateauguay's "Earthquakes" are really getting around lately and visited St. Isidore last Wednesday night and Ste. Anne de Bellevue on Friday night. We wish the Earthquakes the best of luck in the future and hope they will continue on the road to success.

It seems that B. D. and B. M. have been seeing quite a lot of each other lately. Nice work Bob.

Seems as though the Earthquakes' drummer is getting desperate.

That's all for this week folks, remember now hat the summer is here news is getting harder to find so how about using the phone, the number is OX. 2-2440.

IMMIGRANTS ISSUE

A frighteningly high proportion of Canadians are not in favor of immigration or increases in immigration. Why? Some are opposed to the religion of some of the immigrants, some to the color of their skin, some feel immigrants crowd too many in a room or house, some are so parochial they dislike hearing a foreign language spoken, some don't like competition from immigrants willing to work for less than themselves, and some don't want to develop Canada themselves and are unwilling to see others do so. — Bonnyville (Alta.) Tribune.

Those things that come to the man who waits seldom turn out to be the thing he's waiting for.

Uniformity of School Dress To Be The Rule Here

In recognition of the problem of "what to wear to school" and the tendency towards competition in dress among children, it is the policy of our schools to regulate school dress. There will be no change in dress policy for Maple Elementary School. They will continue as follows :

1. All girls are to be dressed in navy blue tunics and white blouses. The style and cut are optional.

2. Boys are to be neatly dressed. Jeans, wellington type boots, and other forms of street gang outfits are prohibited.

3. For physical education classes, girls require white gym shoes, white blouses and black or navy blue gym pants to go with their school tunics. Boys require white-soled gym shoes and white T-shirts

It is recommended that parents have names stencilled on their children's clothing.

The school colours for Maple School are red (scarlet) and white. The equipping of children with red gym shorts to go with their white blouses (girls) or white T-shirts (boys) is optional but encouraged.

Concerning high school dress, there has been considerable discussion and a good representation of opinion. School colours have been selected as blue (navy) and grey. Dress selected is as follows :

For girls : White blouse, grey tweed pleated skirt, white socks.

Gym Wear : White blouse, navy blue shorts with inside elastic cuff, white socks, white gym shoes.

For boys : Dress pants and shirts — grey flannels, white shirts, blue ties, optional but encouraged.

Gym Wear : White T-shirts, navy blue shorts, white-soled gym shoes.

Navy blue blazers for dress occasions are encouraged for boys and girls.

The motto selected for the high school is "CARPE DIEM". Literally translated it is, "Seize the Day". In more general terms, it means, "Seize the Opportunity".

M. E. Barrington, M.P. Gives Talk On Budget In Radio Broadcast

Following are a few excerpts from a broadcast given by Mr. Merrill E. Barrington, M.P., for Chateauguay - Huntingdon - Laprairie, over radio station CFCF, on Thursday, June 29th, in connection with the recent Budget.

REPORT FROM PARLIAMENT HILL

I wish to make some remarks concerning the Budget brought down in the House of Commons on Tuesday evening, June 20th.

This budget has been called an economic budget, and I think it has been well named, because through an appropriate mixture of fiscal, financial and commercial policies which in turn it is felt will create more jobs, will stimulate production and improve the general state of the economy of our country.

During the past four years the Government that I have the honour and privilege to support has introduced numerous measures designed to overcome these many problems, indeed had it not been for these many commendable measures our country would not be in the more favourable economic situation in which we find ourselves today. There remains much to be done to improve our lot after the recent recession, but I feel that with measures such as have been taken in this budget we can look forward to certain recovery and the desired goal of employment and prosperity for everyone in this great Country of Canada.

Already the economy in 1961 is showing improvement over the declines of last year and, as proof of this statement, I mention the great increase in the housing industry over last year, total employment has risen in the past months and the number of unemployed has declined a good deal in the similar period. There has been a further increase in our exports, especially in wheat — all in all, we have every reason to have confidence in the months and year ahead, as both ourselves and our neighbours to the South continue the recovery from the economic recession which we have both experienced.

It is readily admitted that competition in world markets has become much more intense and our western world has suffered as the result — labour and industry must meet this competition by working along with the government, by increasing efficiency and self discipline and still better co-operation between business and labour.

A noteworthy example is the removal of the 7½% excise tax on automobiles. This should result in a marked increase in car sales and, in turn, Canadian car production — more jobs — more growth in our industry — further incentive for our people to buy Canadian and encourage production at home.

Now I would like to say a word or two regarding the Exchange Rate between the Canadian and American dollar. I am very happy about this move — I have always felt that our exchange rate was not in keeping with our economic circumstances. Personally, I think we took a great deal of pride in the fact when our dollar was, as we say, worth more than the U.S. dollar. This, I maintain, was a false pride at the expense of our industrialists, our exporters, our producers and the tourist industry. The present move will correct this and place our Canadian suppliers of goods and services in a more competitive position in both our home and foreign markets, again giving more employment and assistance to our economic growth. This will be brought about by an appropriate adjustment of the exchange rate.

Further traffic changes, in accordance with the recommendations of the Tariff Board reports, will be made to assist our textile industry in Canada. Time will not permit me to go into details on this very important matter, but I am happy to say that it will be a further assistance to this depressed industry.

Other tariff changes have gone into effect, resulting from this budget, to protect and assist our farmers, our poultry raisers, small machinery manufacturers, etc.

I realize that this is a very brief analysis of the 1961 Budget, but I shall sum it up as follows:

A Budget to give more employment to Canadians;
A Budget to improve the general economy of Canada;
A budget to stimulate production;
A Budget to give rapid, yet balanced growth for all sectors of the economy in all regions of our Country;
A Budget to encourage an increase in the level of savings and investment by Canadians in Canada.

Chateauguay Brownies Attend Church Parade

(by Mrs. F. Berry)

Last week marked the closing of meetings for the 3rd Chateauguay Brownie Pack for the season.

On Sunday, June 25th, the Pack attended Chateauguay United Church, Parkview. It was a pleasure for the congregation to see the front rows filled with the little girls in Brown.

Rev. W. McDowell who conducted the service, gave the Brownies a special welcome to the church. This was certainly a Sunday to be well remembered, as not only was it the Brownies first church parade, it also marked Rev. McDowell's last Sunday with us here in Chateauguay. Everyone is sorry to hear he is leaving us, but we all join in wishing him a rewarding session at Edinburgh University, Scotland, where he plans to spend next winter.

We also had four baptisms on this very eventful Sunday, and of coarse it was our Communion Sunday. The church was so well attended, extra chairs had to be brought up from the basement.

On Wednesday, June 28th, the Pack met at 9.30 a.m. at the home of the Brown Owl.

Two Officers of the Chateauguay Police escorted the whole pack along Highway Four to the new Seigniory Beach Club It was no problem to entertain the girls swimming until lunch time, and swimming again after lunch. The main problem of the day was convincing the girls they had to wait after lunch before returning to the pool, however, on the whole they were all very well behaved and had a wonderful time.

Thanks go out to Mrs. Paquette, and Guides, Joanna Raynes and Debbie McEnroe for helping with the girls. Our deepest gratitude goes to the two Police Officers who also escorted the Pack home again at 3 o'clock. all very tried, but very happy.

Friday Registration Day For Summer School in Chateauguay

Unfortunately there are always a number of students of Grade VII and high school levels who, usually due to lack of application during the year, fail to meet the minimum requirements for promotion to the next grade. In a great many cases these students could achieve the required standards through a few additional weeks of concerted effort with maximum teacher guidance. For these students the School Board, in co-operation with members of the teaching staff, is prepared to offer summer courses in certain basic subjects and under the conditions outlined below.

1 Registration, open to Chateauguay protestant students of Grades VII — IX, will take place between the hours of 9 a.m. and 12 noon on Friday, July 7th.

2 Only those students recommended by the principals are eligible for admittance to summer classes.

3 Full payment for courses must be made in advance on registration. Cheques should be made payable to the "Protestant School Municipality of Chateauguay".

4 Courses may be cancelled if the total registration falls below 30. Any payments received would, under these circumstances, be refunded in fall.

5 Standards to be attained for a "pass" in any course shall be the same as for June final examinations.

6 Classes will be held from 9 a.m. until 12 noon, 5 days a week, commencing July 10th and ending on August 4th. To attain credit for courses, students must attend at least 90% of the classes and complete at least 90% of the assignments.

7 Students may take a maximum of two double courses or a double and a single course.

8 Cost of courses, to be paid in full on registration :
Single courses $15.00; Double courses $25.00.

9 Courses to be offered :
Grade VII English (to include literature, language, spelling); Arithmetic (single); French (single).
Grade VIII French (double); Mathematics (double); English (double).
Grade IX French (double); Mathematics (double); English (double); Science/Geography (single).

30 Races And Other Attractions At Valleyfield International Regatta

To the numerous and exciting races which will appose more than 150 racers, to the acrobatic feats on water and in the air, to the Sunday night's fireworks over the bay, add a big popular dance, a fine open air concert, a gigantic bingo and then you will have an idea of the various attractions which will take place during the regatta week-end.

Indeed, starting Friday night, bingo games will be played in the Park Sauvé every night and on Saturday and Sunday afternoons. This bingo is organized by MM. Henri Lemieux and François Gagné of the Valleyfield Zouaves whose representative on the Regatta Committee is Mr. Real Foucher. To permit the players to keep on with the game, rain or shine, a huge tent will be put up.

Another interesting attraction will be, on Sunday night, the open air concert by the "Union Musical" of Valleyfield under the direction of Mr. Henri Dumouchel.

On Saturday night, in the Tougas and Nicholson Hall will be held the big popular regatta dance. This is an annual affair and a big crowd is expected to attend it. Romuald Gauthier and his orchestra will entertain with their captivating dance music as early as 8 o'clock. This dance is organized by Mr. Jacques Sauvé, O'Keefe agent in Valleyfield, assisted by Mr. Bruno Girard.

Women like to look into a mirror, except when pulling away from a parking place.

School's Out

Many eventful things have taken place in the past week. School closing was the biggest event as far as the children are concerned. Their theme song must be "Happy days are here again." I wonder what mother's is? Remember Mum, "Patience is a virtue."

Garden Party

On Wednesday afternoon a lovely Garden Party was held on the lawns of St. George's Anglican Church. The ladies enjoyed tea and cookies. Also the opportunity to purchase some home baked goodies. There were many surprises for the children. Chocolate milk and cookies, icicles, candies and balloons, not to forget a ride on Weston's merry-go-round.

Many happy returns to little Sharon Butler of Violet St., who celebrated her 2nd birthday on June 30th. Sharon's birthday was enjoyed with her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Butler and Mr. and Mrs. Parsons.

Chateauguay Terrace Field Day was a most enjoyable event. Our thanks go out to the organizers of the C.T.R.A. who made this day a big success. Also we would like to thank Mrs. Cahill and Mrs. Noonan who spent a very busy day selling hot dogs and cokes. Music was also provided which made it very pleasant. Knowing how children love their names in the paper we are listing the winners of the various races.

Closing Exercises At Julius Richardson School

The closing exercises of Grades one to three took place on Wednesday, June 28th, at 10 p.m., while Grades four to seven received their report cards and prizes on Thursday, June 29th.

All teachers, pupils and parents assembled in the gymnasium where Mr. C. Harrowing, Principal, gave a brief talk on safety. He emphasized the many dangers that lurk in Chateauguay, which is one of the fastest growing communities in Canada. A great temptation to many youngsters are the number of houses under construction in the various developments. A child will get inside a partly constructed home and meet with an accident, either a loose board or a nail not properly imbedded can cause dire results. It was also pointed out that Chateauguay possesses a river which is another hazard for children, and certainly another measure for precaution.

Mr. Jobber, of the School Board presented the first and second prizes to the pupils, while Mrs. Yarnell on behalf of the Home and School Association awarded prizes to the pupils chosen by the teacher for various merits.

RUSSIANS FIRST IN NORTH PACIFIC

Although eastern Canada was discovered soon after Columbus reached America in 1492, more than 250 years passed before the first European ship was sighted off the coast of British Columbia. First to sail near the rocky headlands, says the Book of Knowledge, were Russian explorers searching for the sea otter. It was not long, however, before Spain, Britain and France were attempting to carve themselves empires in the Pacific. Rivalry between Britain and Spain was fierce for a few years.

THE HIGHWAY VICTIMS INDEMNITY ACT

For the first time in Québec's history, the innocent victims of traffic accidents are assured of indemnity if they suffer injuries or property damage in an accident due to a motorist's negligence.

The Act ensures that the owner of an automobile must bear the responsibility for damages, either to person or property, caused by his vehicle, unless the driver absolves himself of negligence.

You must know the facts now in order to protect yourself against risks of traffic accidents since, effective July 1st, 1961, the law will be merciless to drivers convicted of certain infractions.

Full Employment

STATISTICS have been published indicating that unemployment in Canada has been greatly reduced, and the inference left after reading such reports is that employment is now almost normal. Huh! what contributed to making unemployment nearer normal? Or may we again say, what contributed toward creating unemployment?

Let's answer the second question first. One of the contributing factors toward unemployment was that too many of the employees of the Unemployment Insurance folks seemed to think it was their duty to tell folks how they could collect unemployment insurance money. One case we know of concerned a woman who was part time employed. We don't believe the woman wanted a full time job, even if it had been available. Yet, an Unemployment Insurance representative, in the office of the employer, spent the best part of an hour telling the woman how to collect unemployment insurance for the days she was not working. Fortunately the woman had moral backbone and did not seek financial support. However, we are quite ready to believe there are many folks who would seek such unployment insurance cash, they just had to

Perhaps the return to work can be attributed as much to the fact that time ran out for many who were collecting unemployment insurance cash they just had to get back to work.

A young man we know of took the winter off so that he could do all the skiing he wished in Ottawa and collect Unemployment Insurance money. He told us that when the cash stopped coming in he would seek employment from the Goverment. He tried to get a Federal Government job but evidently was not employed, for another firm wrote inquiring about the qualifications of the same man. This man quit a gainfully employed job that was still open for him to continue with, but no! Unemployment Insurance free money and skiing were most important in his mind.

Two other men wanted employment, in both cases the men lived in or near Montreal. They only wanted to work two days a week and collect Unemployment Insurance money. Two days work a week and what they would receive from the Unemployment Insurance Commission gave them the equivalent of a full week's pay.

How can any employer feel warm toward the Unemployment Insurance Commission the way things are presently allowed to operate. Employers need employees on a full time basis. When employers buy Unemployment Insurance stamps each week, and mind you the employer contributes half the value of the stamps, he naturally feels he is just contributing to the waste of money and in some cases for the benefit of unscrupulous souls who may, or many not, be employed by him.

Federated Charities would undoubtedly receive much larger subscriptions from employers if there were no such thing as an Unemployment Insurance Commission the way it is presently operating.

Mr. Fleming might have done well when bringing down his Budget had he intimated that the Unemployment Insurance Commission would have its staff cut down by 25%, pay good salaries to a better grade of employees, who would take a more becoming interest in the welfare of the Commission. The figuratively speaking so dismissed employees, would then go to work and be taxpayers to Canada in place of spenders of the taxpayers contributed dollars. Are such employees not worthy of being classified as equivalent to barnacles on the ship of state?

Amen.

Buy ..... What?

THE Baden Report to the Federal Government pertaining to the auto industry had the effect of having the recent Fleming Budget eliminate the 7½ excise tax. So much to the good, as far as the general public is concerned. How long it will be before the auto manufacturers take advantage of the situation and increase the cost of the automobiles is a mute question. The auto industry in the era of the late James A. Robb as Finance Minister cried blue ruin when taxation was reduced on automobiles coming in from the United States in place of being manufactured to a greater extent in Canada.

The Baden report also deals with the cars being imported from Europe and England. We are not going to enter into the good or bad of the report. Protection policies can work for good as well as be detrimental to a country.

In a press trade magazine the following editorial appeared that portrays why buying foreign-made goods is not always to the detriment of Canadians:

There's an important fallacy in the spate of "Buy Canadian" campaigns which seem to be growing in Canada these days.

Basic idea behind the campaigns is to influence customers to buy "made in Canada" items rather than the same sort of items imported from aboard.

The most obvious and most important flaw in this idea is that because it is all-inclusive and not limited to any particular products (though the electrical manufacturers, especially of radios, have been hitting it the hardest) it suggests that every item we buy from Japan or West Germany throws a Canadian out of a job.

This simply is not so. We are still exporting more to each of these particular countries than we are importing. To put any kind of an embargo—official or otherwise—on such imports is an open invitation for them to do the same. And since their purchases are largely of raw materials, the group which stands to lose the most is the one in which there is the most current unempoyment. Ottawa bowed to this pressure when it increased the import tax on automobiles from certain countries—a most ill-advised move in our opinion. If ever they extended this to the importation of radio and electrical products from Japan it would be disastrous.

The second important flaw in the "Buy Canadian" campaign is that in the case of many items, there are no domestically produced parallels except those which have been forced out of reluctant manufacturers because they must compete with imports.

Small cars are an excellent example, and at this writing there is still no domestic competition for the Volkswagen-group of cars, though some of the motor moguls have been forced off their complacent posteriors to the point of meeting competition from the larger British cars. The Japanese gave us transistor radios and transistorized TV portables and low cost hi-fidelity equipment while American and Canadian manufaturers were still milling around in confusion at the new fields opened up by the transistors. We all know where the first mass-priced items taking advantage of solar cells are going to come from, don't we?

There are many other examples: cameras and optical instruments, toys, gadgets, some kinds of furniture, glassware, fine stainless steel products, hand-made art objects are just a few. Until Canadian manufacturers can match the imports they don't deserve consideration.

While the second consideration is open to some argument, the first portion is not.

More Classrooms In The Offing

HAD a visit with Principal Maurice Melnyk when we received the school graduation results. We were informed that he anticipated a High School enrollment for 1961-62 of 555 scholars. Three years ago when Principal Melnyk came to Huntingdon High School the enrollment was 443. From his general observations, he believes the enrollment growth will continue in years to come. With the Huntingdon High School enrollment increasing by 25% during the past three years, and the present school building being taxed to capacity, one must assume that the day is not too far distant when more classrooms will have to be provided.

If additional classrooms are to become a necessity in the not too distant future, perhaps we had best get busy and do serious thinking on the subject. With Montreal growing in population and the suburbs reaching out for miles in every direction, we all know right well the Huntingdon area is also going to have some of that overflow population. Every year we find a few city folks acquiring property in this area. In most cases these folks come to the country because they have a family to rear.

Playground facilities are a school necessity. The present location of Huntingdon High School has limited playground space. When the day comes for a new school to be built, would it not be well to build it outside the town limits on a site that would be spacious? The present school would not become a loss, because it could be retained for the teaching of a certain number of grades and the new building perhaps accommodate the High School Grades. We are only in the thinking stage now, but let's give it some serious consideration and not be so backward as were the Commissioners in the early 1930's when Lord Atholstan was anxious to see Huntingdon become an educational center with a set of modern and spacious buildings and grounds located on what is now known as Roosevelt and Churchill Streets, including the sites of Fawcett & Grant Ltd., textile mills. His Lordship had lots of vision, but the school commissioners of that day were very much lacking in foresight.

Time brought about a change in school commissioners. Men with initiative saw to it that a new school was built in 1939, which was then further enlarged three years ago. The English Protestant population in this area was thereby retained and is still growing. Without the new school having been built in 1939, this population might well have almost vanished. There is plenty of room for folks of different religious views to live in harmony in this area. Let's keep on living in this cosmopolitan way which calls for having ample school facilities for the rising generation.

The Week In Quebec

QUEBEC (CP) — The Quebec Government-appointed Royal Commission inquiring into the purchasing practices of the former Union Nationale administration has adjourned its hearings until Sept. 19.

The way was cleared for the Commission to postpone further hearings until the fall by a Provincial Cabinet Order-in-Council. under law, the Commission must receive Cabinet permission if it wishes to adjourn for more than eight days.

The Commission, sitting two or three days a week through the months of May and June, heard a parade of witnesses testify about receiving kickbacks on former UN Government purchases from private firms between 1955 and 1960.

Among those who testified this week about collecting kickbacks were:

Lucien Boucher, 46, Progressive Conservative organizer for Eastern Quebec; J. B. Laberge, 59, a Federal Government employee and one-time chief poll organizer for the late Premier Maurice Duplessis; Paul-Edmond Gagnon, 52, industrialist and independent member of the House of Commons for Chicoutimi between 1945 and 1957, and Edmond Hardy, 62, brother of former Quebec purchasing bureau director Alfred Hardy.

Premier Jean Lesage told a press conference the Royal Commission's report into the purchasing practices under the UN Government will be handed in by early 1962. He gave no specific date.

The Premier also said that deadline for a report of the Commission's inquiry into sales of Hydro Quebec's Montreal gas distribution system to Quebec Natural Gas Corporation has been postponed to Oct. 15.

The Commission was due to make its report on the 1957 sale by July 1.

Investigation of the gas distribution sale was suspended two weeks ago by a temporary interlocutory injunction issued by Quebec Superior Court.

The injunction was issued by Chief Justice Frederic Dorion who said there is a serious doubt whether the three-man commission has the right to investigate purchase of shares in Quebec Natural Gas Corporation by members of the Legislature.

A Government law generalizing a two-per-cent sales tax for education purposes became effective throughout the Province July 1.

Approval of the tax was one of the Quebec Legislature's chief pieces of legislation during its last session. It was made at the request of the Federation of Roman Catholic School Commissions.

Most affected by the tax will be the province's rural areas.

Before July 1, 378 school commissions levied a sales tax for education, 268 collecting two percent and the rest one per cent. But most of these, representing two-thirds of the province's population, were located in the heavily-populated areas.

Spreading of the tax across the Province is expected to yield about $35,000,000 to Quebec in 1961. It will help finance $164,000,000 in statutory grants to School Commissions this year.

The Province has been levying a two-per-cent tax of its own since 1940. In addition municipalities are allowed another two-per-cent tax for local purposes, thus bringing the total sales tax in many regions to six per cent.

The first step towards the application of the newly-created idemnity fund for victims of insolvent drivers, another important piece of legislation adopted by the Legislature this year, now is in force.

As of July 1, all Quebec motorists were required to show proof of solvency if found responsible for a traffic accident. The fund itself will start operating Oct. 1.

Each motorist must supply proof of financial responsibility for a minimum of $10,000 for damages resulting from bodily injury or death of one person, $20,000 for more than one person, and $5,000 for material damages.

The idemnity fund, once in operation, will cover motorists or pedestrians involved in accidents in which they cannot be held responsible, even when the responsible driver cannot pay. A victim of a hit-and-run driver also will be fully protected.

Gerard Cournoyer, Minister of Transport and Communications, said the idemnity fund will mark the beginning of an important era in Quebec's history.

"The insolvent drivers generally are those who are the most imprudent on our highways, "Mr. Cournoyer told a press conference. "Because of this new law, it is beyond all question that the number of accidents will diminish."

He estimated that 45 per cent of automobile drivers now cannot prove financial responsibility when accidents occur.

The Week At Ottawa

OTTAWA (CP) — The Coyne controversy approached its climax in the House of Commons with charges and accusations reaching new heights of bitterness.

Although James E. Coyne, Governor of the Bank of Canada, had no illusions as to the ultimate outcome, the 54-year-old former Rhodes Scholar fought on, determined that his case would have a full hearing before his seven-year term is cut short by an act of Parliament.

In the process, the Commons heard some of the strongest language since the pipeline debate that preceeded the Liberal party's exit from Federal power.

The battle raged on two fronts. In the Commons itself, the government tried to justify its actions amid opposition cries that Mr. Coyne should have his "day in court"—that the whole issue of his firing be put before the Commons banking committee where the governor could be called as a witness in his own defence and answer government charges.

Coyne Letter

Outsides the Commons, Mr. Coyne lashed out with an open letter to Finance Minister Flemming. He also asked for a hearing before the committee and charged that Mr. Fleming's request on May 30 for his resignation had amounted to "blackmail."

Mr. Coyne, basing his argument on events before his resignation was requested, reasserted that no issue had arisen to warrant his leaving the $50,000-a-year post whose term normally would have ended in December.

"My opinion remains unchanged. The government has not yet brought forward—and cannot bring forward—any reason of substance, any point of principle or policy, on which it can be said the Bank of Canada under my management failed to co-operate with government policy . . . ."

"The sudden and unexplained demand for my resignation on May 30, the appearance of haste and urgency, and the blackmailing tactics used, suggested that the present government had a plan to call a snap election, without a burdget, or perhaps immediately after the budget speech was made, and subvert the Bank of Canada under a new governor of their own choosing to assist them in financing expenditures and programs not authorized by Parliament."

The governor wrapped up his reasons for challenging the government demand by saying "the position of the governor of Canada's central bank will be destroyed, and the whole institution will become merely an arm of a political machine, if the governor is to be terrorized into resigning whenever the government of the day wants him to, without any issues of policy being raised . . . ."

In the Commons, both the Liberal and CCF parties steered clear of defending Mr. Coyne's policies or saying that he should remain in office. But they spared no words in an effort to have the governor argue his contentions before the parliamentarians in committee.

Critics' Barrage

In the process of making their central point, the opposition members landed an abundance of carefully-aimed blows at the government—and especially at Mr. Fleming.

The minister was accused of being hypocritical, of intimidation,or arrogance, of insulting the intelligence of Canadian voters and of acting as though he were above Parliament.

These are samplings from the various speakers:

Mr. Pearson: "There's nothing like this kind of smokescreen and confusion to conceal the inefficiency of the government."

CCF leader Argue: "What arrogance and what a horrible insult to the intelligence of Canadian voters."

Jack Pickersgill: "If Mr. Coyne had been as gutless as the minister of finance . . . he would have supinely gone his way."

But the government did not take a back seat in the counter-attack.

Mr. Coyne was labelled as a schizophrenic and "almost an anarchist." Works Minister Walker drew angry replies from Mr. Pickersgill when he suggested that the Liberal member had assisted in writing Mr. Coyne's letters.

Grant Campbell (PC—Stormont) said if he had been in Mr. Fleming's place, the governor "probably would be in jail for misappropriation" in using the central bank's facilities for his attack on the government.

Fleming Firm

Mr. Fleming stuck to earlier statements both by him and by the Prime Minister that the point at issue was the supremacy of the government over its public servants. He refused to let the question go to committee and asserted that the governor's actions in the last three weeks alone were more than sufficient cause for his removal.

He said grounds for the dismissal dated back four years to the governor's "firm and angry" refusal to ease the money supply. He said the governor had stepped out of his realm of monetary policy and in public speeches attacked tax and economic policies that were the government's exclusive domain.

Drought Aid

In other areas of concern, attention focussed on parched prairies.

Prime Minister Diefenbaker disclosed steps to aid Prairie cattle raisers in the event the drought continues.

Mr. Diefenbaker outlined the same special plans implemented in 1958 and 1959 to get cattle to fodder-rich areas or fodder to cattle-heavy areas. Manitoba and Saskatchewan both are involved and Alberta is expected to join, he said.

The provinces will bear half the cost for cattle or feed, the federal government will pay the other half and the railways will allow lower rates.

HEMMINGFORD PLAYGROUND ASSOCIATION.

A successful dance in aid of funds for the Playgrounds was held in the High School Auditorium, on Friday evening, June 30th. A good crowd danced to Bobby Hill's music and several lucky people won prizes donated by Mr. Benny Berthiaume, Mr. Maurice Patenaude, Mr. Walter Smith, W. Keddy and Son, Mr. Lyle Simpson, Mr. John McKough, and Mr. Lucien Charbonneau. The Committee greatly appreciate the generosity of the above-named donors and also of Mr. Norman Fortin for his generous contribution to a successful evening. The Playground, open to anyone, is situated in the field at the rear of the United Church. In the enclosed space there are swings and slides, a sand box and ball games and there is a supervisor on duty at all times. There is a shady spot where one might just sit and rest and the only restriction is that a child under three years of age must be accompanied by a responsible person. Parents are urged to encourage their children to go to the Playground to play rather than amuse themselves on the streets.

RED CROSS WATER SAFETY DEMONSTRATION.

On Friday afternoon, July 7th, Mr. Greffard of the Montreal Red Cross Water Safety Division will give a demonstration of water safety and life-saving at Lake Hermas, commencing at 2 o'clock. The Hemmingford Women's Institute have been trying for some time to start a water safety project and have, at last, managed to obtain the services of this expert. All children over the age of eight years and as many parents as possible are asked to be at the Lake, on Friday afternoon, to take part in this demonstration. If an enthusiastic response is received on Friday it is just possible that something may be arranged which will continue through the summer months. More of that anon. See you at the Lake on Friday!

SUMMER ACTIVITIES.

The problem of what to do during the summer holidays was admirably solved by two young Hemmingford girls during the early part of the vacation. The preparation planning and costume making actually began before school closed, then during the early part of June the actors and actresses were chosen, rehearsals began, programmes were made, invitations were issued and finally, on Tuesday afternoon, June 27th, on the lawn at the side of Mr. Edwin Keddy's house, Linda Winter produced her 'Variety Show' with Nancy Cleland acting as Stage Manager and 'Props'. There were songs, dances, skits and poetry readings. The boys did acrobatics and the dog did as he was told, (when they finally rounded him up!) The Record Player provided the music and Mother provided sheets for back-drop and curtains. There were fifteen acts! and many changes of costume. The troupe was called 'The Busy Beavers' and included Betty Curry, Peggy Curry, Bruce Curry, Martin and Donna O'Connor, Linda Keddy, Jimmy Winter, Susan Matheson and Raymond Germain, Oh yes and Scamper Winter (the dog). At the close of a most enjoyable programme Miss Winter was presented with a box of delicious (home-made) Candy and Miss Cleland was presented with a beautiful bouquet of red Peonies tied with a large ribbon bow. The producer is twelve years of age and the stage manager is fourteen! The actors and actresses range from four years to twelve years!

Congratulations everyone, let's have another show before school starts in September.

INTERESTING VISITORS.

Mr. and Mrs. G. Bychowski were hosts the second week of June to two distinguished visitors from southern Germany, Dr. and Mrs. Paul Polzin. Mrs. Polzin (who is also a Doctor of medicine) and Mrs. Bychowski are childhood friends. Dr. Paul Polzin is a famous heart specialist, he is on the teaching staff of Wuerzburg University and on the Staff of the Hospital attached to the University. He has done much research in the field of heart trouble and has had several books published on his findings. At present he is working on mental stresses on the physics of the body. Dr. Polzin was invited to address the Third World Congress of Psychiatry held at the Queen Elizabeth Hotel from June 4th to 10th and was delighted to accept as it gave him an opportunity to visit a country completely unknown to him and also to visit his friends whom he had not seen for several years and who wrote in such glowing terms of their new home. Mr. and Mrs. Bychowski took their guests on as extensive a tour as possible. They visited the St. Lawrence Seaway which Dr. Polzin agreed was one of the greatest engineering feats in the world, they explored the old and the modern buildings of Montreal, toured the Laurentiants and viewed the United States and Quebec from the top of Covey Hill. Both Dr. and Mrs. Polzin were very impressed with all they saw and thoroughly enjoyed their visit. Summing up his impressions Dr. Polzin said he liked the wide open spaces, the modern designs of the new buildings, the many household gadgets, nice cars and above all the kindness and friendliness of all the people with whom he came into contact. He was greatly impressed by the excellent farms and orchards around this district and the diversity of knowledge possessed by the farmers. On visiting a nearby farm where a new barn was being built, he was astounded to learn that the farmer himself was his own Architect, Draughtsman, Carpenter and Plumber. At home, said Dr. Polzin, this job would have needed at least four other men. On leaving Hemmingford Dr. and Mrs. Polzin went on to Boston, Washington and the Mayo Clinic

Why Huntingdon and Chateauguay Gleaners Are a Combined Publication

Amongst the Gleaner readers we find a goodly number speak of interest and appreciation of receiving a section containing news of Chateauguay, Que. Others feel they would prefer not knowing about the fast growing community and be content with reading the news of their immediate surroundings.

The Chateauguay Gleaner section was added to that of the Huntingdon Gleaner for two reasons. First, was felt Chateauguay, being a portion of the District of Beauharnois, might appropriately by included until such times as it developed to become a self-supporting publication, and that day is not too far distant. Secondly, there are a great many people in the Chateauguay area who are keenly interested in much of the content of the Huntingdon Gleaner. The advertisers, who actually provide the funds to support the publishing of a newspaper, are benefiting by this combined publication.

The new shopping centre being built at Chateauguay will provide space for 32 stores. We know who will be occupying these stores and when they get into operation the volume of advertising that will follow in due time will make it that the Chateauguay area will warrant The Chateauguay Gleaner being made into a newspaper in its own rights, and no longer be given free to the subscribers of the Huntingdon Gleaner.

A great many of us in the southwest end of the district have probably not taken the time to turn off Highways 3 or 4 when going to or returning from Montreal, but those who have done so have expressed amazement at the changes. From the highways, one sees little, but a drive into the developments reveals hundreds of beautiful, modern homes. New streets are being opened up regularly and even people who have not had occasion to visit the area in the past two months would be amazed in the changes in that short time.

For the most part, residents of the new developments are English-speaking. New Roman Catholic and Protestant schools are being erected and also churches. What is considered the best swimming pool in Canada was officially opened on Saturday.

Many of these Chateauguay Valley people formerly resided in Ormstown, Howick, Huntingdon, Franklin and other parts of Chateauguay and Huntingdon Counties. These people are most anxious for The Gleaner to continue in its present form, but this will be impossible as Chateauguay expands because when the new shopping centre opens the advertising alone will probably amount to several pages a week. The Chateauguay Gleaner will grow with Chateauguay and eventually The Gleaner and The Chateauguay Gleaner will be two separate newspapers. When that day comes, many will miss the news and advertisements from Chateauguay, but a combined subscription rate at an attractive price will probably be arranged and then readers who want news from both ends of the District will not be disappointed.

In the meantime the Gleaner readers are going to receive the combined publication without any additional charge for the service being accorded. When the day arrives and two distinct publications are issued there will be two subscriptions to be paid by those who wish to keep themselves informed as to what is going on at both ends of the Chateauguay Valley.

People will be wanting the Chateauguay Gleaner in the south west end of the Chateauguay Valley for we honestly believe the Chateauguay area will be a community of perhaps 50,000 people. At present its population is nearing 20,000 souls. When the additional bridge is built alongside the present Mercier Bridge it is but natural to expect an industrial community will also be created. People will be flocking from this south west area to Chateauguay for employment, just as they did to Nitro during the early 1940's.

Council Meetings

Hemmingford

HEMMINGFORD TOWNSHIP COUNCIL MEETING.

The adjourned meeting of the outside Council was held in the Town Hall on Monday evening, June 19th, Mayor Alister Somerville presiding. All Councillors present. The Secretary reported he had received a communication from the Department of Social Welfare, requesting payment of the amount due them from this Council, the sum being $2,344.70. This amount represents bills which have accumulated over a period of four years and have remained unpaid from April 1957 to June 1961. Councillor Beatty asked the Mayor if he had been able to obtain an itemized statement from the departments concerned, the Mayor replied that he had, and produced a summary of accounts from the department of Health. These unpaid bills were from April 1955 to 31st December 1960 and were for the total amount of $5,303.68 making a total amount owing to the two Departments of $7,648.38. Councillor White asked if it was certain that the individual cases were residents of this Municipality to which the Mayor replied that it was the responsibility of the existing Council to verify this fact at the time the bill was received. He added that he was contacting the Departments concerned to see if they would agree to spreading the payments over a period of time.

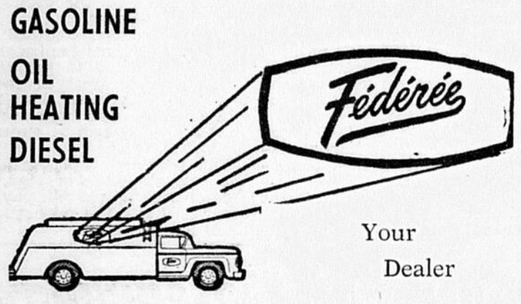

Eighteen changes in property ownership were recorded and six valuations of new property were made. These will be confirmed or amended when the recently appointed Assessors commence their new valuation which will be made in June 1962 in conformity with the Municipal Code.

The Tax rate for the ensuing year was set at $1.20 per $100.

Mr. Howard Miller queried the payment or non-payment for Government work done on ditches particularly in the Robson Street area and asked if those who had not yet paid would be compelled to. The Secretary confirmed that some had paid in full and others were paying it off gradually. These amounts are now due and are collectable.

An amended resolution from the village Council was read concerning the new Town Hall. The Secretary had been asked to confirm if there was any time limit on the sum asked as rent for the office which will be placed at the disposal of the outside Council. The amended resolution stated that the sum of $40 per month would be constant for as long as the Township Council required the office.

A few taxpayers were present at the meeting and two or three joined in the discussion which followed concerning the advisability of demolishing the existing Town Hall and joining with the village Council in the proposed new building. After a lenghty discussion the matter was postponed until the next meeting.

Three resolutions were received form the Chamber of Commerce, they were as follows :

(1) That zoning areas be established in the district and that the Director of the Quebec Bureau of Urbanism be asked to attend any meetings on this subject in an advisory capacity.

(2) That signs marking county borders and road names be erected.

(3) That signs forbidding the dumping of rubbish on the roadside and indicating the position of the Council dumps be erected.

The Secretary was asked to record these resolutions in the Minute Book and discussion on them will be held at the next meeting. He was also asked to have two sample signs prepared for consideration at the next meeting, one in French and one in English.

Councillor Paré was asked to contact Mr. W. J. Brown regarding the spraying of the roadsides.

Thoughts Along The Way

Our two year old son is having his difficutlies at the moment learning to share his toys with others. This business of sharing is a strange trait. It is not limited to human action alone. On a recent walk through the woods I noticed a mother bird sharing her food with her little ones and I read not long ago of how beavers will share their submerged homes with a visiting beaver. But on the human level sharing reaches its highest plane in giving. Mothers gladly share their time, their thoughts and even their life with their children.

What do you share? The summer season in the rural area is a time when we welcome many friends and relations. We gladly share our homes with them. We invite them to share an evening at the movies or an afternoon shopping. We are quick to say : "Will you join us for a picnic at the Lake tomorrow?" but how seldom we ask : "Will you come to Church with me next Sunday?"

Why is this true? Do we think that an afternoon at the Lake or an evening at the movies is more important than the Church? Or is our Church too valuable to share with others? We need to share our Church. It is in this way that the Gospel is spread and becomes a blessing to all. We urge you to share your Church in these summer months and pray that as you do you may find rest and renewal. May you and your friends see new work to do and receive new strength to do it as you worship together. And may you find a new joy and know an increasing faith.

Yes, sharing is a strange trait. At its very best it reminds us of God's sharing of Himself in Jesus Christ for our salvation.
