Security Unit reorganization follows officers' complaints

By LAUREEN SWEENEY

PROPOSED changes in the Public Security Unit were announced yesterday by city officials following a morning-long meeting between public safety officers and the city's director general, Frank Davis.

Lieutenant Walter Richardson, the second-in-command, would be moved from shift duty to day operations and two shift-supervisor vacancies would be filled immediately on an acting basis.

This would ensure "proper coverage" at all times, Mr. Davis said.

The immediate changes in supervisor conditions resulted in the withdrawal of the resignation tendered Monday by Lieut. Richardson.

"I'm delighted that all concerned met and could work out their difficulties," Ald. Paul Fortin told THE EXAMINER.

The city's commissioner of public security said city officials were working with MUC police to define the jurisdiction of the unit and improve working relations with police.

'Uneasiness'

He said that unclear jurisdictions coupled with an "internal uneasiness" in the unit had resulted in a petition to city council by public safety officers two months ago and the subsequent resignation this week of Lieut. Walter Richardson.

"I have been aware of the situation and its resolution is a top priority of the council," Ald. Fortin said.

The petition asked the council to review the organization and operation of the Public Security Unit.

Following the requests of public safety officers, he said, patrol cars had been issued first aid kits and a photocopy machine had been provided for the office.

"We are re-allocating space in the headquarters as well," he

Police give 600 tickets on Cedar

More than 600 speeding tickets were issued by police during three weeks in September on Cedar avenue near Mount Pleasant avenue, police report.

The crackdown by MUC police came following complaints of cars exceeding the 30-kilometre-per-hour speed limit on Cedar.

Radar cars have kept up the surveillance this month as well, issuing as many as 50 tickets some days, according to Director John Dalzell of local MUC station 23.

The tally of tickets given out during the initial three-week period was 602.

Centraide donations roll in

Well over 100 workers have been able to collect over $87,000 in contributions to the local Centraide campaign, chairman Susan Khan reported to THE EXAMINER Tuesday.

"It's really looking good," Mrs. Khan said, adding that she hoped the campaign would continue to advance rapidly.

"We're a little ahead of last year," Mrs. Khan said. She urges canvassers to complete their rounds.

But Westmounters don't have to wait for a canvasser. Mrs. Khan notes that the office in Dominion-Douglas Church is open Tuesday and Thursday mornings from 9:30 to 11:30. Donors may drop in or call 484-7407.

Gunman gets loto tickets

A lone gunman made off with a bag containing $300 cash and $1,500 in loto tickets from the Loto Quebec kiosk in Alexis Nihon Plaza Tuesday last week, police report.

The robber, described as between 20 and 25 years old, held up the cashier about 4:55 pm. He was not disguised.

ONE OF THE LUCKY ONES: This young firefighter got to try on a fire helmet and sit in the cab of the fire pumper parked outside the children's library last Thursday as one of several Fire Prevention Week activities conducted by the Westmount Fire Brigade.

Royal Montreal Regiment to mark 70th anniversary

By ROB SOUTHCOTT

SEVERAL hundred soldiers of the past and present will come to Westmount next month to celebrate the 70th anniversary of one of Westmount's military units, the Royal Montreal Regiment.

For the last 59 years, the RMR's armory has been located at 4625 St. Catherine street. On Nov. 9, 10 and 11, the building will be the central location of a number of social and military gatherings to celebrate the anniversary.

Along with present members of the militia unit, members of the RMR's affiliated cadet corps and Royal Canadian Legion will take part.

Today, the RMR does not have the military presence it once had in Westmount, but it still provides a training ground for Canadian Armed Forces militia. Regimental Sergeant Major Ed Watkins, a retired member of the RMR, says that despite a lower profile, the unit now trains soldiers better than it has for years.

'Elevated standards'

"The elevated standards are now closer to those for the regular service," says Mr. Watkins, noting that those in the RMR now are "better equipped and much sharper" than in past years.

"The unit now has new and better equipment and this is what attracts young recruits," says Mr. Watkins. "If you can show a man that he has a proper truck to drive, then you can get these people."

Packed up

Two suitcases were found at the rear of 17 Weredaile Park Wednesday last week. They were turned in at local MUC police station 23.

CITY OF WESTMOUNT
VILLE DE WESTMOUNT
Official NOTICE BOARD
TABLEAU D'AFFICHAGE officiel

Our mayor . . .

BRIAN O'N. GALLERY

. . . says

The month of October is usually the fulcrum between summer and winter. The time to put away our summer tools and toys and prepare for cooler temperatures. The autumn winds and rains bring down the leaves from the trees and the problem of removing them becomes the municipality's responsibility. Leaves raked onto the streets and sidewalks create a hazard to motorists and pedestrians, so your co-operation is sought in placing the leaves in bags or piles behind the sidewalks where they may be removed by the city's equipment. Any branches, bushes, etc. should be bundled and piled separately.

Now is also the time to protect any shrubs or bushes which could be damaged by snow removal or salt. In the interest of economy and expedience, it is the policy of the city to cast snow behind the sidewalks in certain areas. Although the removal crews do not intentionally cast snow on private property, some overspill does occasionally occur. This policy is currently being reviewed.

We intend to experiment this fall with some neutralizing agents to prevent or reduce lawn damage. As you may appreciate, snow removal is an expensive operation, particularly with our steep hills and heavily-travelled arterial streets. It is therefore necessary to employ cost saving methods wherever possible. This year, it is our intention to dispose of some of our snow from the Pont de la Concorde and although this dump site will not permit as fast a removal time as previous years, it is anticipated that it will result in a considerable savings.

Residents are also requested to remind their snow removal contractors that they should not block streets nor sidewalks but snow can be spread on the windrow prepared by city plows for removal on your side of the street.

Octobre marque en général la transition de l'été à l'hiver. C'est le moment de ranger ses outils de jardinage et les jouets d'été et de se préparer au froid qui ne saurait tarder. Les vents et les pluies d'automne dégarnissent les arbres; il appartient alors à la Ville d'enlever les feuilles qui jonchent le sol. Les feuilles râtelées et déposées sur la chaussée et le trottoir constituent un danger pour les automobilistes et les piétons; nous comptons sur votre collaboration et vous demandons de bien vouloir placer les feuilles dans des sacs ou encore de les empiler au fond du trottoir pour que les équipes de la Ville puissent les retirer avec un matériel spécial. Les branchages et les buissons doivent être assemblés en fagots et empilés à part.

C'est aussi le moment de protéger les arbustes et les buissons contre les méfaits du déneigement ou de l'épandage de sel. Pour des raisons d'économie et d'efficacité, la Ville a comme politique de projeter la neige au fond du trottoir à certains endroits. Bien que les équipes de déneigement ne projettent pas volontairement la neige sur la propriété privée, il arrive que cela se produise. Cette politique est en ce moment en voie de révision.

Cet automne, nous nous proposons de faire l'expérience de certains agents neutralisateurs afin d'éliminer ou de réduire les dommages causés aux pelouses. Vous n'êtes pas sans savoir que le déneigement est une opération très coûteuse, surtout à cause des collines escarpées et des artères à forte circulation qui caractérisent notre ville. Cette situation nous oblige à recourir dans la mesure du possible à des méthodes susceptibles de réduire nos dépenses. Cette année nous nous proposons de déverser une partie de la neige du pont de la Concorde; bien que ce site de déversement ne favorise pas un déneigement aussi rapide que par les années passées, nous prévoyons réaliser des économies intéressantes en l'utilisant.

Nous prions les résidents de bien vouloir rappeler à leurs entrepreneurs en déneigement qu'ils ne doivent pas obstruer la chaussée ou le trottoir; cependant, la neige peut être déposée sur le bourrelet formé de votre côté de la rue par les chasse-neige de la Ville pour être enlevée par la suite.

The accident occurred Tuesday morning on Sherbrooke street between Claremont and Prince Albert avenues. The impact of the crash pushed the truck into two parked cars. Witnesses claim that a passenger in the car ran away after the accident.

RMR granted use of field

The Royal Montreal Regiment has been granted the use of the playing field in Westmount Park Nov. 3 and 4 to rehearse for its 70th anniversary parade and demonstrations taking place Nov. 9 and 10.

Permission was given to the regiment by city council in general committee recently, according to Mayor Brian Gallery.

said, adding "I think most of the items the petition listed will be met."

One of the recommendations made by public safety officers was the holding of regular meetings with the PSU management to discuss areas of concern.

Step forward

Yesterday's meeting between the public safety officers and management was seen by Ald. Fortin as a step toward improved communications.

The city's director general, Frank Davis, said it was the first of such meetings planned to provide the PSOs with the opportunity to communicate with city management and for the city to gain input from the men.

Among the items contained in the petition was the appointment of one of the officers as liaison with MUC police.

Public safety officers also asked for more efficient use of manpower, increased use of foot patrols and CPR training.

They also felt the present work system needed updating to "1984 standards." Public safety officers currently use an old police shift schedule of six days on, two off.

Remember

The annual Remembrance Day service is scheduled to take place at the Westmount cenotaph this year on Sunday, Nov. 11, at 2 pm, according to city officials.

Flower show opens Nov. 7

The official opening of the annual fall chrysanthemum show will take place Nov. 7 at 6 pm in Victoria hall, Mayor Brian Gallery announced recently.

A number of citizens are to be invited this year. He said they would be chosen by members of council from their wards in an effort to make the event "a social affair."

Local shop undressed

A $30 dress was discovered missing from a shop on Sherbrooke street near Prince Albert avenue last Thursday, police report.

A saleswoman had seen two persons looking at the dress shortly before noticing it was gone from the rack. She caught up with the man and woman outside and was told they had put the dress back.

Wary woman seeks help

A woman stopped a Public Security patrol passing the Steinberg parking lot on Victoria avenue last Thursday night following a slight accident, officials said.

The woman asked for assistance when she became afraid of the driver of the other car.

Peace meeting with Johnston this evening

Hon. Donald Johnston, member of Parliament for St. Henri - Westmount, will be in Westmount tonight to participate in a panel discussion on the issue of nuclear disarmament.

The discussion, which is being called "Canada and the Nuclear Arms Race," is being sponsored by a local group, the Westmount Initiative for Peace (WIP).

The event will take place in Victoria Hall, starting at 7:30 pm.

Included on the panel with Mr. Johnston will be Dr. Judy Vogel, of Health Professionals for Nuclear Responsibility, and Prof. Eric Shragge, of the McGill University school of social work.

Panelists will respond to questions in both English and French. Members of WIP also are encouraging citizens to take part in a march for peace, to take place this Saturday.

Participants will meet in front of Westmount city hall at 1 pm and walk down Sherbrooke street to the corner of du Musée avenue. There, they will join other marchers in a human chain between the United States and U.S.S.R. consulates.

The march is being organized by a peace group, Operation Ploughshares. A similar march last year attracted roughly 15,000 demonstrators.

"It's a very respectable event," according to Georgia Carpenter, a WIP organizer. "Peace is a very conservative issue."

Bus and car hit at Clarke

Smoke detectors prove their worth in two incidents

By LAUREEN SWEENEY

Two lives probably were saved here last week and a major fire averted in two separate incidents because smoke detectors had been maintained, fire officials report.

Both incidents occurred less than 24 hours after last week's EXAMINER appeared carrying a message from the fire department urging citizens to maintain their detectors.

"These are good examples of our message," explained Westmount's acting fire chief William Timmons.

He also praised efforts by managers at Westmount Square during Fire Prevention Week last week who distributed photocopies of THE EXAMINER's smoke detector story to every apartment.

The story launched the Westmount Fire Brigade's adoption of an Oregon smoke detector program to "Make Tuesday detector test day."

The two fire incidents discovered here last week through smoke detectors are detailed in separate stories.

Filled with smoke

Chief Timmons said a smoke detector at 3241 St. Antoine street

Firefighters found smoke issuing from the front door of a house at 648 Belmont avenue last Thursday after neighbors heard a smoke alarm ringing.

Cause of the smoke turned out to be chicken legs left cooking on the stove, fire officials said. No one was at home at the time, about 5:46 pm.

A 1½-inch line was laid but not used. The house was entered through an unlocked door and the stove turned off. The pot was taken off the stove and the house ventilated.

"A fair amount of smoke" had filled the home, fire officials said.

Residents arrived home while firefighters were at the scene and were advised to buy new smoke detector batteries.

Bicycle gone

A bicycle was reported stolen in Westmount Park near the children's library Sunday, according to Public Security Unit officials.

Friday at 4:22 am had awakened sleeping residents whose flat was filled with smoke from a cushion fire.

"We feel the lives of the two people in that home were saved by their detector."

The previous evening, a smoke detector had alerted neighbors to burning food at 648 Belmont

Lamp ignites cushion in third-storey flat

Two Westmount residents escaped a smoke-filled flat in the early hours of Friday morning after a small reading lamp ignited a cushion, fire officials said.

The fire at 3241 St. Antoine street was detected by Public Security officers who smelled smoke and heard a smoke detector ringing. Damage was estimated at $250.

Saved lives

Fire officials said a smoke detector probably saved the lives of the occupants.

The smell of smoke first attracted the attention of Public Safety Officer Raffaele Barba at 4:22 am. He was joined by Sgt. Richard McEnroe and PSO Bob Stringer who reported hearing an alarm ringing.

They saw smoke coming from the door of the triplex and called the fire department.

avenue where smoke had filled the house. No one was at home at the time.

"In this case the smoke detector was responsible for reporting a fire condition."

Fire Prevention Week was considered to have been a success in Westmount, Chief Timmons said, noting that the week had closed with one "small working fire" at 338-340 Metcalfe avenue.

This was caused accidentally by workmen burning off old paint (see separate story).

We Say

A vacancy to fill

DESPITE the fun-making of our cartoon, opposite, this week, we think it is eminently good sense for Ald. Ian McPherson to delay the formality of his resignation from city council, to avoid an election over the Christmas period.

At the same time the candidacy of Mr. Allen Nutik to fill the vacancy, whenever it officially opens, also is to be welcomed. Citizens need not be reminded that Mr. Nutik ran in the general election a year ago for the mayoralty and he made a respectable showing against His Worship Brian Gallery. It was generally felt then that his chances were not good; he reached for the top municipal office without prior experience on council, whereas Mr. Gallery was vitally needed to provide leadership and continuity for an otherwise totally new and enlarged group of solons.

That in no way detracts from the undeniable talents and deep interests in Westmount's affairs of Mr. Nutik. He now has an extended history of attendance at city council meetings as a citizen and observer. While his question-period interventions were seldom appreciated by the previous council, during the present administration his inquiries and his comments have been informed, thoughtful and constructive on a broad range of city affairs.

If he had chosen to run for an aldermanic seat last November, he already might have been on council. We thought then that it was a pity that he had not taken that course.

There is no one else on the scene with the expressed keenness for the job or, for that matter, better qualified by interest shown and by expressed ideas to fill the upcoming vacancy.

While contests are to be desired because they bring people and issues to the fore, in the present circumstances an acclamation would be appropriate. If nothing else, it would save the city the cost of mounting an election and the distraction it will pose for the administration from other, more pressing matters.

It should be noted that here again we have an example of how the provincial meddlers have put us, and all the municipalities of Quebec, into a strait-jacket of rules and regulations regarding municipal voting. Witness the stratagem which has had to be adopted to avoid a Christ-time election, and all the fussy requirements laid down to replace a council member. Just what is it about bureaucrats which makes it impossible for them to keep their hands off the detailed affairs of municipal governments?

Preserve Public Security

RUMBLINGS reaching the public from the Public Security Unit while disquieting should not raise concern for this second-line of defence (or is it Westmount's first line?) of good order locally.

Morale among the men remains high, possibly because they are a conscientious, hard-working and dedicated force hand-picked by the director, Mr. Sidney Ashford, for those very qualities.

There is none more qualified than the second in command, Mr. Walter Richardson — whose resignation tendered to the city this week has brought present problems to the fore.

Those problems are essentially of internal communications, a classic cause of unwitting disruption or discord in any organization. The effects tend to be magnified in a body which by its nature must be well structured if shifts, duties and broad responsibilities are to be clearly understood and carried out.

From the public side there is little or no complaint about the unit. It was an idea having broad support in the face of the shortcomings of MUC police integration and its effect on the quality of service

Westmounters had both expected and demanded of their own former police force.

The present issue is muddled by on-going perceived rivalry between the police and the unit. Which is short-sighted: the regular constabulary should welcome the additional ears and eyes providing effective surveillance of the territory through the unit's night and day patrols. Much of the work of the unit happens to be regarded by policemen as too petty or beneath their dignity, despite the fact that these things are the nitty-gritty of good local policing.

The police need reminding that it is a tenet of theirs that they always welcome public alertness and assistance. They should welcome all the more, then, a unit organized and paid for by the local government to provide those very things.

There is a responsibility on the city's side, too, to make its determination clear that the Public Security Unit is regarded by Westmount as an important, essential service to its citizens: make it clear to both the MUC police and all members of the unit. We get the feeling that there

Proportional misrepresentation

POLITICIANS of the Parti Québécois persuasion have been heating up their preoccupation with what they call electoral reform and which we call gerrymandering in their effort to return to power, an eventuality otherwise not too certain as their mandate nears its end.

The buzz-words they use are "proportional representation" and they are fond of attempting to give them legitimacy by citing some places in the world where the so-called system is used.

It is not so much a system as a slick, scientific-sounding form of swindle whereby citizen-voters have taken away from them the right to elect whom they wish to represent them — the very foundation of the free democratic system of government — and are presented instead with something else.

The politicians of the day never should be permitted by those they represent to tamper with the method of representation. Certainly not without consultation with the electorate and receiving a clear mandate for any change.

It should be regarded by all citizens as outrageous if, as we suspect from the current kite-flying talk that it may be its intention, the PQ government should use its tenuous control of the National Assembly to change the electoral rules prior to the next election.

The entire questionable issue is prompted by the experience of the party in its earlier days when it found it had scant representation in the legislature despite having what it regarded as a proportionately greater share of the (two more hollow buzz-words) "popular vote." In other words, they are saying that parties should be represented in the house in proportion to the total votes allegedly cast in the province for each party.

Parliamentary rule, by tradition and practice, is determined by control of the house and not by some perceived control of the electorate. The only legitimate way for a party to form a government is to see to it on the hustings, if it can, that members of its own party (or of other parties or independents pledged to support it) are elected.

The other fundamental flaw in any post-polling fiddling is that there are bound to be members ending up in the parliament who have no mandate from or responsibility to the electorate. They would hold seats alongside the legitimate representatives of the people, owing their allegiance only to the party.

Parliament was fought for and won for the express purpose of representing people, not parties. One of the privileges evolved from the secret ballot and universal suffrage is that every qualified voter is free to vote as he or she sees fit, on the basis of the qualifications or the party affiliation, or both, of the candidate. Once the people have spoken in that manner, any reshuffling of the results is simply sub-may have been some lack of firmness in this respect, resulting in the present personnel difficulty.

Both Dir. Ashford and his deputy, Lt. Richardson, were highly respected members of the old Westmount Police force and both know the qualities expected of them. Times have changed and some of the old authoritarian methods no longer work; rather, they become counter-productive. Hence the need for more effective, two-way communication between officers and between officers and men.

If somehow there has been a failure in this regard, then it is urgent that steps be taken for correction. The city can ill afford to lose the services and leadership of Lt. Richardson.

While there has been some commentary in regional and national media on the idea of so-called proportional representation, we have failed to note any unequivocal condemnation of it. This may be because the dailies, the magazines and the broadcast people have become sensitized to the idea that politics is what takes place in capital cities and with political parties. They have lost sight of the fundamental fact that it has everything to do with direct, local representation of citizens for the purpose of self-government.

As a local community newspaper we like to think we live more constantly closer to the truth of the matter. It is one reason we, and many other weeklies, regularly carry columns by our local representatives and report the activities, scant as they unfortunately are, of constituent organizations. To us, even the most lowly backbencher who may happen to represent us is vastly more important than the ministers — simply because the member is our elected representative. Even the premier or prime minister of the day, let alone a party in power, has no direct mandate from us, except through our member of the assembly.

Mr. Richard French is our MNA. He represents this constituency at Quebec. No one else can speak for Westmount in the National Assembly until we should replace him — at the polls.

We would take an extremely dim view of any party which tampered with this fundamental right, whether in the name of reform or, more likely, as a high-sounding means of hanging onto the power and perks of office by distorting the pattern of constituency by constituency representation.

Arresting the juggernaut

TONIGHT, I will be participating in a panel discussion at Victoria Hall together with Dr. Judy Vogel and Professor Eric Shrage on the subject, "Canada and the Nuclear Arms Race."

I accepted the sponsor's invitation with enthusiasm, not because I have great expertise to offer but simply to contribute whatever I can to this area drawing from my own experience in public life. It is also a great opportunity to learn from others and become better equipped for a role in Parliament.

Arresting the nuclear juggernaut will not happen at the level of the military; the debate must be carried on between political leaders sensitive to the concerns of the citizenry and open to their ideas.

Rich in approaches

My constituency of St. Henri-Westmount is rich in many areas but none more so than developing creative approaches to disarmament and the pursuit of world peace. I need only mention the wonderful initiative of Eva Prager (Children for Peace), the work of McGill's Don Bates and, just a few days ago, the appointment of Ann Gertler as an advisor to the Canadian delegation for the 39th United Nations General Assembly, to name but a few.

Canada is not a nuclear power. Our role must be played from a position of moral authority, credibility and trust vis-à-vis the members of the nuclear club. How best to do that is where we must focus our efforts and, I hope, the dialogue at tonight's panel.

Sherlock Holmes smoked a pipe — of course he did

Sir: One or two errors of fact have crept into your report in last week's EXAMINER on my talk on Sir Arthur Conan Doyle and Sherlock Holmes.

Of course, Holmes did smoke a pipe, and this is an essential ingredient in many of the stories. In fact, he was an expert on various tobaccos and could identify at a glance the ashes of any known kind: he had even written a monograph on the subject. What I did say was that he did not smoke the "calabash" or curved pipe usually depicted in his silhouette or movie portrayals. A briar, a cherry wood, a clay pipe, yes, — but a calabash, no.

Another tiny (but nonetheless important) detail — I am the past president of the Sherlock Holmes Society of Montreal: Mr. David Dowse is now the sovereign (or president).

Weeklies not denigrated on CBC Thursday show

Editor's note: THE EXAMINER wrote to CBM Radio following readers' comments implying that less-than-flattering comments about the community weeklies were aired on a recent weekly program. From the following reply we are satisfied that our informants misheard and we are glad to have and to publish this letter:

Sir: Diane Klempner — who produces Radio Noon — asked me to reply to your letter of Oct. 3 in reference to our program of Thursday, Sept. 27.

We make a recording or "air check" of each program. Here is an exact transcript of the only two references to the feature in question — the review of metropolitan weeklies:

"Just before one o'clock, I'll be telling you what's in your local weekly newspapers. Not all, of course, because we want you to read them. But we have news from Westmount and Town of Mount Royal and N.D.G. and Saint-Henri and all over the place..."

"...and I'll be up to my armpits in the newspapers again. This time, the metropolitan weeklies. I hope you read them and don't just wipe your feet on them."

At no time did I say "...if any of you read them..." nor was my tone in any way sneering or derogatory.

Your comments are always welcome.

Rethinking electoral reform

THERE is an old story in academic circles about the sociology professor who wrote a book about prostitution but never had visited a house of ill-fame.

Without intending the analogy to be complete — given the implications it might have for public esteem for my present line of work — that is the feeling one got from last week's parliamentary hearings on reform of the electoral system. At the bar were three commissioners who had written a report recommending a radical reform of the electoral system in the direction of proportional representation.

They had consulted those who could be attracted to come out to the series of public meetings they held across the province. They had polled the population, albeit on a subject about which few are either concerned or informed. They had taken a trip to Europe to study various electoral systems in force there.

The result, however, was a recommendation that only a theorist could love. It was a recommendation that fundamentally

Bill 40 update

THE school boards of Quebec received last month a document from the Hon. Yves Bérubé, minister of education, entitled "Guidelines for the re-writing of Bill 40." This is the bill that is designed to re-structure Quebec's educational system by abolishing its confessional structure (Protestant and Catholic).

The Bill is to be re-written and deposited soon after the National Assembly meets this week.

The guidelines state that all of Quebec will be divided into French or English school commissions. English school commissions would be mandated to educate only those students who have the right to an English education under Bill 101.

Non-confessional?

The guidelines state that these linguistic school commissions will be non-confessional. The government is very concerned about the constitutionality of such a change and for this reason it has proposed that the confessional school commissions (or boards) of Montreal and Quebec City established before 1867 be maintained. However, these four school commissions are to be reduced to the territories they held in 1867.

This piece of sophistry will reduce the Protestant School Board of Greater Montreal territory from an area that covers most of the Island of Montreal to one in which it has virtually no students residing and one school, our Fine Arts Core School, housed in the old High School of Montreal on University street.

Did the report of the representation com-

The ministry of education again betrays its anxiety over the issue of confessionalism by giving each school the right to apply for a Protestant or a Catholic status.

Mr. Bérubé expects the newly elected commissioners (to be elected next year in April 1985) to freeze the confessional status of all schools in the province on July 1, 1986. From the 1986-89 school year the parents in each school (who it is assumed will be either English- or French-speaking, and also a mixture of Protestant, Catholic and other) presumably will be expected to fight it out, and one religious group finally will triumph to determine the religious status of the school.

One can plainly see that the people who wrote this nonsense are struggling very hard with the constitutional guarantees given to confessional education in Lower Canada in 1867.

The Protestant Committee of the Superior Council of Education has questioned the need for this sweeping administrative reform, specially during a time of severe economic distress and labor unrest.

What is overriding value?

The council also has asked a question the government never has answered: Why does language have to be the overriding value to which all other values must be subordinated in bringing pupils together in the same school?

And just who is it, in any case, that is clamoring for the widespread change on the Island of Montreal that the ministry is planning to bring about?

Is language really the best basis upon which to divide children for the purpose of education?

As an alternative to imposing its will, perhaps the government should allow existing local boards working with their communities to continue to respond to the needs of the children and parents they serve.

"Westmount, traditionally Conservative for the past forty years, must choose between an Independent, Liberal or Union Nationale candidate to represent its electorate in Quebec in the forthcoming Provincial elections. When nominations closed at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon no Conservative candidate had deposited nomination papers with Nominating Officer Puddicombe. In the running were Liberal Candidate G. Gordon Hyde, K.C., Independent Hon. Gilbert Layton and Union Nationale standard bearer Charles Petrie. The Westmount Conservative Association, for the first time in its history, failed to take any part in the election proceedings. The association felt that with the withdrawal of W. R. Bulloch, and the desire of Hon. Gilbert Layton to enter the elections as an Independent, its best move was to remain out of the conflict altogether."

"Tomorrow afternoon, Proctor Academy, a well-known boys' school in Andover, New Hampshire, will pay their first visit to Westmount High School. It is hoped by students and school officials alike that this will be the beginning of an annual affair. School plans call for a special dance Saturday night in the High School to entertain the visitors and on Sunday they will be shown the various sights around our metropolis. Monday afternoon, Westmount High School students will be given a half holiday so that they may take in the 'Big Game' at the Westmount Athletic Grounds when Proctor and Westmount meet on the gridiron."

The building will consist of a six-storey tower, housing administrative services and an adjoining two-storey 'pancake' structure for fulfillment services. The whole edifice will be ultra-modern in design."

"City council erupted or blossomed — depending on the point of view — into a genuine debate, unprecedented in recent times, at a mid-month open, public meeting Tuesday evening. Marked by proliferating amendments and sub-amendments to a by-law broadening the role of the architectural commission into the realm of planning, the rare Westmount exercise of municipal parliamentarianism was spirited, thoughtful and amicable. The by-law subsequently was passed, little but in some sense significantly altered. The nine-item agenda, which ordinarily would have been covered in less than 10 minutes... took one hour and two minutes..."

"The Westmount Municipal Association will offer Brian Gallery and JoAnn Issenman the chance to debate each other head-to-head at its 'all candidates' meeting on Tuesday night, and will give other unopposed council candidates the chance to air issues and ideas publicly. Because only one election race is shaping up, in the Ward 2 area of eastern Westmount north of de Maisonneuve boulevard, the meeting is shaping up more as a 'citizen review' of city council's past four years."

Magnetic magnate

By JOAN CAPRÉOL

PAUL MARTIN jr. is a super guy, a passionate Liberal, and president and co-owner, with the Westmount shipping magnate Laurence Pathy, of the CSL Group Inc., Canada's largest privately held transportation firm, perhaps in that order.

Many high-placed Liberals want him to be the next prime minister, but when asked if he wanted to be, Mr. Martin replied: "I think what I really want is to do a good job at what I am doing as president of CSL."

He added that he gets a thrill from running a $500-million (sales) conglomerate consisting of Montreal's Canada Steamship Lines Inc., Toronto's Kingsway Group, Montreal's Voyageur Enterprises Ltd., Collingwood's (Ont.) Canadian Shipbuilding & Engineering Ltd., and Concord's (Ont.) SSF Transport.

Why didn't he run for the Liberal leadership?

"When I bought my company with virtually every cent I could scare up three years ago I made a number of commitments," Mr. Martin replied. "One of those commitments was that I would stay where I was for a minimum of five years and the time period had not elapsed. In addition, I really like what I am doing."

Not good for system

Mr. Martin thinks that the Conservative win was too great a victory. "Such a majority is really not good for the democratic system," he said. "I hope the Conservatives are able to use this tremendous mandate to take the kind of decisions which are required if Canada is to be able to navigate in what are really very treacherous economic waters."

Mr. Martin said he liked Brian Mulroney very much but he was not enamored of the philosophical basis that is at the root of the Conservative party. "I believe that the new prime minister will have a very tough time fusing a sense of compassion or equity into his party," he said.

Is he ever going to run as an MP?

"I honestly don't know," he replied. A candid, direct, modest man of 46, Mr. Martin is said to be too outspoken to be a politician. He has a guileless, boyish, mobile face that usually is not photogenic. His smiles have a peculiar way of appearing as scowls. He is a six-footer, blue-eyed, with a slight touch of grey in his brown hair. He is fluently bilingual.

Mr. Martin was interviewed in his cluttered office on the sixth floor of the Canada Steamships building in Victoria Square.

Worships father

Martin worships his father, Paul Martin sr., the high commissioner to Great Britain from 1975 to 1980. He helped to organize his father's unsuccessful attempt at the Liberal Party leadership in 1968 which Pierre Trudeau won in a burst of Trudeauomania. He took the defeat a lot harder than Paul sr. "My father retired to write his memoirs," Mr. Martin said. "Volume 2 is expected to be out in September 1985."

He inherits his wit and love of sports from his paternal grandfather, Philippe Martin, who worked in a lumber mill as a mill hand.

Back to his job. "What I enjoy most is building and fortunately the management team here are all builders," Mr. Martin said.

He has the common touch with his 6,000 employees. "The great thing about working for a transportation company is that you visibly can see the contribution you are making to your country," he said. "I believe all the employees here feel that strongly and that's what sustains them on cold, windy, winter days when they are battling the elements, so I have both a tremendous affection and respect for them all."

The company's export coal tonnage to Europe, Japan and Korea fluctuates between a million and a million and a half tons annually. "We are very proud of it because it was a trade that we pioneered and developed," Mr. Martin said. "All of our competitors said it couldn't be done. One of the key people in conceiving this trade was Westmounter Fred Pitre, vice-president of marketing."

The sprawling transportation empire embraces 40 or so bulk carriers and tugs, 2,500 transport trucks and vans, 350 buses and two major shipyards.

Mr. Martin was born in Windsor, Ont. His mother, Eleanor (Nell) Adams Martin, a former pharmacist, lives with her husband in Windsor. He has one sister, Mary Anne Bellamy, 40, who lives in St. Paul, Minnesota.

Mr. Martin attended Ottawa University High School. He got his honors degree in philosophy and history from St. Michael's College, University of Toronto, in 1961. He graduated from the U. of T. law school in 1964, then went to Osgoode Hall, and was called to the bar in 1966. He never practised law and surprised his father by going into business.

The international financier Maurice Strong, who long has been interested in the Third World, gave Mr. Martin a job at 17 when he was in the oil and gas fields of Western Canada. "He fired me because I smashed up a truck and it's from there I hitchhiked up to the Arctic and got a job working on the Mackenzie river and in the Beaufort sea as a deckhand," he said.

"Many years later — in 1966 — when I was working in the European Coal and Steel Community in Luxembourg, Maurice Strong offered me a job at Power Corporation. He then left Power and I stayed for 15 years, working for Westmounters Bill Turner (now chairman of Consolidated Bathurst) and Paul Desmarais, who both had a tremendous influence on me.

Became president

"Connie is an affiliate of Power and I went there with Bill Turner in 1970. I left Connie in 1973 and came back to work with Desmarais at Power. He asked me to become president of CSL."

Mr. Martin married Sheila Ann Cowan, 39, a 1965 graduate of the University of Toronto, who went to the Ontario College of Education and became a teacher. "Sheila was originally from Windsor, a friend of my kid sister," Mr. Martin said. "We really met at university and married in Windsor in 1966."

The Martins have three sons. Paul III, 18, is in the first year of arts at the University of Toronto. Jamie, 15, and David, 10, are in grade 10 and grade 5 respectively at a Westmount school. They all were born in Montreal. Mrs. Martin and the boys helped Don Johnston's election campaign.

Is it true that he can beat Mayor Brian Gallery at tennis?

"Absolutely; in fact, the best tennis matches are not singles, where the result is predetermined, but the doubles matches, where Sheila and I play the Gallerys and Nancy is able to shore up Brian's game," Mr. Martin said.

In a rebuttal, Mayor Gallery said: "Due to the burdensome problems of being the mayor, my game has not been as sharp as usual. Therefore, the Martins have been able to beat Nancy and me a couple of times, which victories were more of a surprise to the Martins than to the Gallerys!"

Mr. Martin enjoys his weekends at his 400-acre farm with its 100 head of Hereford cattle at Iron Hill in the Eastern Townships.

"Mostly I clean out the barn," he said, with a wry smile.

mission help to advance the debate? Perhaps. By the time you read this, the prime minister will have revealed his own plans on electoral reform, for the nth time, in the inaugural speech.

If we are making any progress, however, it wasn't evident last week. Most Liberals remain unconvinced of the need for change.

The minister of energy, Yves Duhaime, believes we need a republican system. The MNA for Gouin, Jacques Rochefort, proposes a second ballot system, as in France. The MNA for Trois-Rivières, Denis Vaugeois, would like to see the resurrection of a second chamber.

So it goes. We are not at a point of emerging consensus, we are at a point of divergence.

If Mr. Lévesque thinks he is going to be able to ram a major reform through the assembly, he has another think coming.

Wheels taken Mounties tail crash driver, alert MUC police force

Two wheels and hubcaps were stolen from a car parked Wednesday last week in front of 350 Selby street, police report. The Honda Civic was found jacked up on blocks at 10 pm, minus the front wheels.

A 38-year-old Montreal motorist was arrested by police and issued with two tickets Sunday morning after the car he was driving reportedly left the scene of an accident here.

Police said the car failed to stop after hitting another in the rear while westbound on Dorchester boulevard at Greene avenue.

The car was followed by two RCMP agents who happened to witness the accident and radioed for MUC police. The Mounties stayed with the car until it was stopped by MUC police at Sherbrooke street and Atwater avenue at 8:07 am.

The car, a 1976 Ford, was believed to be unroadworthy and was given a ticket for inspection.

A second ticket was issued to the driver for not having insurance.

The accident had taken place about 8 am when a car from Glens Falls, New York, was hit causing up to $500 damage.

UNICEF president Masella encourages Rotary support

Yolande Masella

Members of the Westmount Rotary Club were told about the value of their organization to another service agency, the United Nations Children's Fund (UNICEF), Wednesday last week.

Yolande Masella, a Westmount resident and president of UNICEF Canada, addressed Rotary's regular weekly luncheon meeting, speaking about her organization's goals and how they could be attained.

"We are now seeing a new tragedy in the world due to the global economy," explained Mrs. Masella. She noted that the recent economic decline forced many of the more prosperous nations to divert funds away from Third World aid toward their own economic problems.

In Mrs. Masella's view, the greatest victims of this change were the children of underdeveloped countries. She said that 40,000 children in the Third World still die each day from the effects of malnutrition, disease and poor living conditions.

"For every child that dies," added Mrs. Masella, "another becomes disabled in mind and body."

One of the programs currently being pursued by UNICEF is called the GOBI program. Its four areas of concentration — growth charts, oral rehydration therapy, breastfeeding and immunization — are designed to be inexpensive and simple ways for Third World mothers to improve their children's health.

Immunization of interest

The last of these programs, immunization, long has been an interest of Rotary, and Mrs. Masella emphasized this point.

"Perhaps one day, thanks to Rotarians like yourselves, polio will join smallpox as a thing of the past," she said, noting the $11 million Rotary International has contributed to Third World immunization programs.

Despite such help, noted Mrs. Masella, less than 20 percent of children in underdeveloped countries have been immunized against diseases such as polio.

Mrs. Masella said that although Rotary already has helped organizations such as hers, more could be done. She called on Rotarians to help inform the public about agencies such as UNICEF and to help raise social and political awareness to Third World problems.

"Rotary is a formidable force," said Mrs. Masella. "Few organizations can marshal the influence and motivation that your organization represents."

Mrs. Masella was introduced by Étienne Glucksthal and thanked by William Kenwood.

The club welcomed visiting Rotarians from France, Barbados, Ohio and Montreal.

Three flee restaurant

A window found broken at a restaurant at 4124 St. Catherine street in the early hours of Saturday morning was believed to be a break-in, police said. Nothing was reported taken from the Hong Kong House.

Two passersby told police they had heard glass break just as three persons headed north on Greene avenue about 4 am.

They alerted security guards at Westmount Square who called police. The area was patrolled but no one was found matching the description of the possible suspects.

Summer building, renovating put permits up five percent

By ROB SOUTHCOTT

The summer of 1984 has proven to be one of the busiest periods of building in Westmount in recent years.

A survey of building permits issued at city hall during the third quarter of the year indicates that activity worth an estimated total of $2,835,266 was started in the city during that time.

The total represents a 5.5 per cent rise from the same quarter of last year and an 84-per cent leap from the value of permits issued in the second quarter of 1984.

Unlike the previous three months, in which no new structures were started in Westmount, this past quarter marked the start of several structures, including two houses, two garages and three house extensions.

This work, worth a total of $741,000, is in addition to several large contracts for alterations and renovations to existing structures.

The largest value of work registered was for the Congregation of Notre Dame, at 4873 Westmount avenue. The $825,000 worth of alterations to be done there made up the largest building permit issued this year in Westmount, but city officials may break down the total into a number of smaller permits.

Lights timed for 40 kph

Traffic lights on Sherbrooke street through Westmount are timed for motorists driving at 40 kilometres an hour, according to Public Security officials.

The lights used to be synchronized but now are apparently timed in progression.

The change came during the past year and its effects, if any, on traffic, are being monitored this week by radar units on Public Security cars.

Church renovating

Permits for sizeable alteration contracts also were issued to Yesteryear Grocers at 1250 Greene avenue, for $150,000, and to Dominion-Douglas United Church, which will spend about $70,000 renovating.

The total value of permits issued for alterations and renovations was $1,594,155.

Other large permits issued in the third quarter were for $260,000, for a new structure at 8 Sunnyside avenue, and for $250,000, for a house at 80-84 Belvedere road.

Permits issued for gas conversion of furnaces and water heaters totalled $201,616. For plumbing work, a total $79,570 worth of work was registered and permits

Northbound cars collide

A 1981 Mazda sustained more than $500 damage Saturday afternoon when it collided with another car on Grosvenor avenue at Côte St. Antoine road, police report.

Both cars were heading north when the Mazda apparently turned left to go west across the path of the other car about 4 pm.

Damage to the second vehicle, a 1977 Pontiac, was estimated up to $250. No injuries were reported.

WMA committee to find by-election candidates

By JAMES MILLS

The Westmount Municipal Association plans to revive its nominating committee in order to find suitable candidates for the expected by-election in ward 1, directors of the association decided Monday evening during their regular monthly meeting in Victoria Hall.

Directors discussed their involvement in an election to replace Alderman Ian McPherson, who is expected to resign from city council in coming weeks.

Since WMA by-laws do not provide for a small, by-election nominating committee, the entire eight-ward, 40-member committee that served in fall elections last year is to be reconstituted.

Although several directors commented that the procedure seemed "unwieldy," WMA president James Wright remarked that aldermen not only represent an individual ward but serve the whole city. He looked positively on the involvement of citizens of all wards.

Following the same procedures used in the last election, the committee will be responsible for finding one or more candidates suitable for election.

The report of the nominating committee likely will be presented at a general meeting of WMA members in January.

Commonwealth recruiters go to court

Measures are to be taken in Westmount Municipal Court against two persons for soliciting without a permit, police report.

The action followed two complaints that membership cards were being sold to the Parti pour la république de Canada (Party for the Commonwealth of Canada) outside 4 Westmount Square last week, police report.

The cards apparently were offered for sale at $50 each.

Police initially were called to the scene Wednesday last week about 11:20 am after a complaint was made by the city to police director John Dalzell of station 23.

A man and a woman were cautioned.

Police were called back again Friday at 10:06 am.

Charges are being laid under municipal by-laws against a 24-year-old Rosemount woman and a 26-year-old Montreal East man.

Salt damage to lawns among WMA complaints

Salt-laden snow spread over city lawns by snow-removal crews last winter came up under during discussion of several different agenda items at the meeting of Westmount Municipal Association directors in Victoria Hall Monday evening.

Dr. Hilary Bourne mentioned the poor condition of several trees in Westmount may be due to ill-effects of melted salt snow.

In discussion, dying grass on Westmount lawns also was attributed to salt run-off.

Directors resolved to pursue the matter with the appropriate city officials.

Other sore points in city affairs discussed during the meeting included parking meters which do not indicate the time remaining before expiry.

Director John Johnston complained that parking meters on St. Catherine street recently had been installed down the middle of the sidewalk at Alexis Nihon Plaza, perhaps posing a hazard to pedestrians.

Georges Hébert noted that a silver maple tree planted by the city near his home had sent roots across his property. He noted that the species was not recommended for city planting.

James Wright, president of the association, wondered aloud what was being done about speeding in the city. Residents of Kensington avenue successfully petitioned the city for a reduction of the speed limit there to 30 kph, but he cited a lack of enforcement.

In other business, the WMA accepted with regret the resignation of Douglas Weston as a director. A replacement has yet to be found for Anne MacSween, whose resignation was tabled at the last directors' meeting.

Heather McFarland said a series of ward meetings, which had been planned for last spring but were postponed, now would be held in mid-November.

Emms chosen

Thelma Emms was chosen by the directors to accompany Alderman Sally Aitken to a meeting with the Montreal Urban Community Transit Commission regarding bus service.

A revised membership fee schedule is to be presented at the next directors' meeting, Nov. 12, by the executive.

Park flasher is reported

An alleged indecent exposure was reported to have occurred in Westmount Park Friday afternoon, Public Security Unit officials report.

A patrol was flagged down by a woman who said the incident had taken place about 4:30 pm. It was reported to MUC police. The man was described as a white man in his 40s.

Cupboard bare, purse missing

A purse containing $150 cash was stolen from an employee at a stationery shop on Sherbrooke street near Prince Albert avenue Tuesday afternoon last week, police report.

The bag had been put in a cupboard at 2 pm but was gone at 5 pm. It belonged to a Montreal West woman.

Crime seen rising

A burglar who broke into a first floor apartment at 225 Olivier avenue Saturday left in a hurry when he was spotted by the resident, police said.

Entry was gained by cutting a screen on a rear window about 12:27 am.

The occupant was in bed when he saw the intruder in the doorway.

Arts Westmount renews campaign to preserve railway station

Edythe Germain, president of Arts Westmount, reported to the Westmount Historical Association

(WHA) meeting Monday night at Westmount Public Library that efforts to save West-mount station for use as a public facility have been renewed following the change in government in Ottawa.

CP Rail has discontinued regular passenger service through the station and the Montreal Urban Community Transit Commission is expected to transfer local commuter trains to a new Vendôme station as soon as work at Vendôme is complete, perhaps early in 1985.

Arts Westmount is leading a campaign to have the station preserved for use as an art gallery.

Mrs. Germain told THE EXAMINER Tuesday that she had met with the new minister of transport, Hon. Donald Mazankowski, in recent weeks to discuss the Westmount station dossier. She awaits a reply.

Mrs. Germain previously had met with Hon. Lloyd Axworthy, minister under the Liberal government, and had received a "positive" letter from him.

A $4,000 grant from the Quebec ministry of cultural affairs is being used to prepare a historical record of the station, to prepare plans for its restoration and use and to publish a pamphlet about the station for the public, Mrs. Germain said.

Arts Westmount and the WHA together are working on the historical document, Mrs. Germain said. Architect Michael Fish is working with the arts organization on plans for the building.

Recalling comments made at the WHA meeting Monday, she said Westmounters feel the view provided by the station at the foot of Victoria avenue is important.

She encourages Westmounters with historical information about the station to contact the WHA. Creating an impressive historical document might figure in the campaign to save it, Mrs. Germain said, with reference to the cultural affairs department.

Since negotiations on the station began, the regional direction of CP Rail has moved to Toronto and a new vice-president for eastern Canada has been named, Mrs. Germain said. She now is corresponding with Donald C. Coleman.

VW radio gone

A $450 Blaupunkt radio was stolen from a car parked Saturday on Melville avenue near Sherbrooke street, police said. Damage to the 1984 Volkswagen amounted to $400.

Everybody who has $1,000 in a chequing account should read this message from Royal Trust...

carefully.

Most people assume that all chequing accounts are the same, so they walk into the closest doorway labelled 'bank' and plop down their money.

All chequing accounts are not the same.

Royal Trust has a daily interest chequing account that gives you high interest on every dollar.

Importantly, with a $1,000 average monthly balance, this is a free, full-service chequing account that allows you to write all the cheques you need to write, provides you with a detailed monthly statement and even returns your cancelled cheques at no additional cost.

We call this the Daily Interest Chequing Account.

The name identifies yet another benefit. Daily Interest. And the daily interest rate is determined by the average balance, meaning that if your account drops below $1,000 for a day or two, but averages over $1,000 for the month, you still get the higher interest rate on all your money.

And if you are 60 years or over you can get an even better interest rate on all your money with our R.T. 60 account.

Alcan executive McEvoy dies in Montreal hospital

A funeral service yesterday at St. Andrew's United Church was planned for H. Stuart McEvoy, 50, vice-president (metal planning and administration) of Alcan Aluminium Ltd., who died Sunday at the Montreal General Hospital.

Mr. McEvoy's career with Alcan included sales and marketing experience in both consumer and industrial products, as well as a number of general management positions. He was appointed a vice-president of Alcan early in 1980, and became president of Alcan Metal Marketing on its formation later that year.

He pursued many outside interests, including teaching marketing, business policy and international business at both graduate and undergraduate levels at McGill and Concordia Universities.

He was a past chairman of the international affairs committee of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce, a member of the advisory council of the Canadian Commercial Corporation, a member of the rector's advisory committee of Concordia University and a director of the Kanawaki Golf Club.

He is survived by his wife,

H. Stuart McEvoy

Frances Thomas, and two sons, Scott and Geoffrey. His parents, as well as a sister and her family, reside in Toronto.

Westmount Baptists plan vesper family supper

The Christian education committee of Westmount Baptist Church, under the direction of Jean Dixon, is planning a special vesper service, to be followed by a sandwich family supper to be held Sunday at 4:30 pm.

The theme of the service will be "A Bountiful God" and three members of the congregation will show slides which relate to harvest and the changing of the seasons. The hymns and special music also will relate to the theme of God's provincial care, who lets his rain fall on the just and the unjust alike.

Each family is urged to bring plates of sandwiches and spreads ready to serve as the emphasis on the church as a "family" continues with table fellowship.

At the 10:30 morning service the minister, Dr. Walter Ellis, will preach on the subject "Assurance in Times of Stress." Three adult forums will follow at 11:45, a sermon talk-back, and Bible studies based on the books of Romans and Revelation.

The congregation also expresses thanks to the pastor for coordinating the Thanksgiving dinner, when 50 members joined together for a turkey special and pot-luck. All agreed that with an increase in the number of senior citizens and singles it was a great way to express solidarity as a church family.

United Church recalls Methodist roots

The year 1984 marks the 200th anniversary of the founding of the Methodist Church in North America. On Sunday, Oct. 21, members of St. Andrew's - Dominion Douglas United Church will remember their Methodist roots.

Prior to service, Georgia Carpenter and Margaret de Castro will lead the congregation in a hymn sing in the Methodist tradition, highlighting the hymns of Charles Wesley. The music throughout the service will be hymns of both Charles and John Wesley and music of Samuel Sebastian.

An order of service prescribed by John Wesley in 1786 to be used by his followers in North America will be the order of worship. The sermon by Rev. Alex J. Farquhar will reflect on the person and influence of John Wesley, the founder of the Methodist tradition.

John Wesley had intended to reform the church of which he was a member, but found that he had spearheaded a new movement which grew into a large denomination. The Methodist Church was one of the uniting churches in the formation of the United Church of Canada in 1925.

R. F. Shepherd soon to become B.C. bishop

Rev. Ronald F. Shepherd, formerly dean and rector of Christ Church Cathedral, has been voted bishop-elect in the diocese of British Columbia. The date of his consecration and enthronement has been announced for Jan. 6, 1985, the feast of the Epiphany.

Mr. Shepherd, formerly of Westmount, served in Montreal's Anglican cathedral for 13 years.

He will have episcopal charge of Vancouver Island and some of the Gulf Islands in the new post. His diocese is one of six in B.C. and the Yukon, and it comprises 55 parishes that include approximately 55,000 Anglicans.

Bishop-elect Shepherd, 58, who was born and raised in Victoria, left Montreal in the fall of 1983 to become the rector of St. Matthias' Church in Victoria.

Replacing Mr. Shepherd as Montreal's dean and rector of Christ Church Cathedral, is Rev. Andrew S. Hutchison, of Westmount, formerly of Toronto. Dean Hutchison was installed last month by Bishop Reginald Hollis.

Seniors groups work together to help those who help others

The Westmount Senior Citizens' Centre plans to team up with the N.D.G. Senior Citizens' Council to help those in the community who help care for the elderly.

The two groups, which have worked together in the past, have received a federal government grant of $25,752 to organize a series of lectures and workshops.

Working under the title "Our Aging Community," the series will be aimed at helping "caregivers," those people who look after elderly parents, relatives, friends or neighbors.

The idea for the series came from the director of the N.D.G. council and Suzanne Bannon, director of the Westmount Senior Citizens' Centre. They realized that, in the case of seniors who could not be independent, the people spending the greatest amount of time helping them were often those least prepared for the task.

By ROB SOUTHCOTT

"In our work," says Mrs. Bannon, "we realized how lost a lot of the caregivers were. They often have a tremendous amount of guilt because they don't understand how the (elderly) person has changed."

Mrs. Bannon says the funds for the program, provided by the health promotion directorate of Health and Welfare Canada, are going to help a group which seldom receives credit for its efforts.

"The majority of care that is given in the community is by family and friends," she says. "They don't cost the government one cent but they don't get any information on what to do. They need help and understanding of their situation."

The series will include a number of lectures and workshops beginning in January. Mrs. Bannon and the other organizers now are lining up guest speakers and locations for the events.

Mrs. Bannon says that, along with providing information for caregivers, the workshops will give these people a chance to talk about their experiences with others in the same situation.

She adds that the series also

Man consumed rubbing alcohol

A 58-year-old Montreal man was taken to hospital last Thursday after he was found at Tupper street and Atwater avenue in a state of intoxication and nervous disorder, fire officials report.

The man was discovered by the fire brigade's first responder crew Friday about 9 pm while checking fire boxes in the area.

He was taken to the nearby Reddy Memorial Hospital by Urgences Santé. He was reported to have consumed rubbing alcohol.

may help some to come to understand their own future as a senior citizen.

"It's like a little pre-retirement training," says Mrs. Bannon. "It may give them an idea of what to focus on themselves."

Further information on the series is available by calling 332-6492.

Missing oil tank filled

When firefighters were called to a house on Grenville avenue Wednesday last week for an oil spill, they found 250 gallons of fuel oil on the garage floor.

The oil company had just "filled up" a tank that had been removed. Fire officials said the filler pipe had been left in place.

The spill was contained to the garage floor. Fire officials said Quebec environment personnel were contacted and did not expect the spill to cause a pollution problem.

WHY ARE 44% OF ALL CANADIAN HOMES HEATED WITH NATURAL GAS?

Nearly half of all the homeowners in Canada enjoy the efficiency and economy of natural gas. Compare that to 28% who still rely on high-priced oil, and only 23% who use electricity.

Why are so many Canadians turning to natural gas? Here are the facts:

NATURAL GAS IS THE MOST ECONOMICAL MAJOR SOURCE OF ENERGY IN NORTH AMERICA

No matter how you look at it, natural gas is the most economical way to heat your home; furthermore, there is every reason to believe that it will retain its competitive edge over the years to come: right here in this country, we have an abundant supply of natural gas.

A quick glance at the comparison below will convince you that natural gas is the way to go:

SINGLE FAMILY DWELLING

	OIL	ELECTRICITY	DUAL SYSTEM Electricity/ oil	NATURAL GAS
YEARLY HEATING BILL	$965	$779	$807	$625

Based on a consumption of 2,837 litres (624 gallons) of oil at 34¢ per litre ($1.54 per gallon). Oil figures based on a furnace operating at 65% efficiency; electricity on a system operating at 100% efficiency. In a dual system (electricity/oil), 80% of total energy needs are covered by electricity. Gas figures based on second generation equipment with an 80% efficiency performance. All figures based on costs as of September 1st, 1984.

CONVERTING TO NATURAL GAS REQUIRES NO IMMEDIATE CASH OUTLAY

The Canada Oil Substitution Program (COSP) offers generous grants to convert from oil to an alternate source of energy. Already 282,000 Canadians have taken advantage of this program to convert to natural gas.

Gaz Métropolitain's financing plan gives you the convenience of covering the remaining cost of conversion (total price minus total grants) over a period of several months. However, the savings you enjoy from using gas will usually offset the cost of conversion on your monthly bills.

"For comfort and economy... the choice is natural," a comprehensive document on conversion to natural gas, is available free of charge from Gaz Métropolitain. Simply call the following number and ask that a copy be sent to your home. You can also call for a free estimate, details on subsidies or the name of an Authorized Agent at the Gaz Métropolitain Information Centre, (514) 598-3333 (collect calls accepted).

Special offer
valid until November 15, 1984

Convert to natural gas now! Your Gaz Métropolitain Authorized Agent offers you an improved efficiency furnace for the price of conventional equipment.

This represents an allocation of $400 or more, depending on your heating system (hot water or forced air). And this equipment will allow you to save up to 35% of your yearly heating bill.

Westmount firefighters raise burn unit funds

By LAUREEN SWEENEY

Westmount firefighters are asking citizens to respond as generously as last year in next week's sale of raffle tickets to raise $1 million to equip the two major burn treatment centres in Quebec.

The centres are near completion following last year's successful appeal in which Westmount firemen raised more than $7,000 toward the fund.

The raffle tickets, which go on sale Monday at Westmount Square and Alexis Nihon Plaza at $2 each, carry prizes worth $200,000 in gift certificates from The Bay.

Members of the Westmount Firefighters' Association, who will be among 21,000 Quebec firemen selling the tickets, will man two booths here, one in Westmount Square, the other in Alexis Nihon Plaza.

"We have had tremendous co-operation this year from both city officials and the shopping centres," said Fireman Hugh Clarke, one of the organizers.

Booths will open Monday through Saturday at 8 am and will remain open Thursday and Friday nights.

The Westmount firemen hope to sell close to 3,000 tickets.

Each ticket also takes the form of a scratch card offering discounts at St. Hubert barbecue outlets, Shell gas stations and Rona hardware stores.

Last year's province-wide campaign resulted in the initial set up of the first major burn centres in Quebec.

Paint removal starts fire on Metcalfe

A fire broke out in wood behind the roof flashing at 340 Metcalfe avenue Saturday afternoon as old paint was being burned off, fire officials report.

The fire caused a considerable amount of smoke and travelled along the exterior facade to the semi-detached house at civic number 338.

Total amount of the fire damage was estimated at $2,000.

It was the second such fire to occur accidentally in Westmount in two weeks.

Firefighters were called to the scene at 3:26 pm and found smoke coming from the eaves. A 1½-inch line was laid at the front and a 2½-inch line to the roof via the aerial ladder.

The false facade of the house was opened to check for extension of fire.

The fire charred away deeply at one beam, said Fire Chief William Timmons.

"The fact that the house was so well built with supports confined the fire to the one beam. It didn't get enough air."

Firemen remained at the scene until after 5:30 pm and a fire watch was maintained until 9 pm. Côte St. Luc covered at the fire station.

Gas crews end street leak

Gas crews were called to repair a leak in the street near 420 Wood avenue Saturday after firefighters detected a 60 percent reading inside the home.

Fire officials said readings were obtained in the basement storage room as well as outside the house. Repairs were reported completed on Tuesday.

Bathroom fire out on arrival

A fire in a bathroom wastebasket had been put out on arrival of firemen Monday at 3 Westmount Square, fire officials reported. The smouldering wicker basket was moved outside.

Mutual aid firemen from Outremont were called automatically to the coded building but were cancelled eight minutes later.

Winners named in prevention poster contest

The winners have been picked for the Fire Prevention Week poster contest.

The theme of the contest, which was sponsored by both the Westmount fire department and the children's branch of the Westmount Public Library, was fire prevention in the home.

Prizes for seven different age groups will be awarded at the library Tuesday afternoon at 3:30 pm.

The following won prizes in each age category: Daryn Mitchell, six; Rafie Smith, seven; Roland Sperlich, eight; Ajida Legge and Anders Robertson (a tie), nine; Francisca Schmidt, 10; and Michael Nourse, 12.

In the category for 11-year-olds, the winning poster was made by a grade 6 class at St. George's Elementary School. The class included Karen Wise, Robert Accurso, Sarah Armstrong, Tony Baron, Ramneesh Bhardwaj, Ellen-Jane Erbstein, Seanna Hore, Nadia Oliveri, Jennifer Perzow, Alexandre Robertson, Matthew Shapiro, Jeremy Toeman and Jaquie Ulrich.

Faulty fans fume stores

A defective ventilation system filled stores at 4026 and 4024B St. Catherine street with smoke and fumes from a nearby restaurant Wednesday night last week, officials report.

Difficulty in tracing the source of the problem shortly after 9 pm kept Westmount firefighters on the scene for close to two hours.

A slight haze also was detected at the adjacent restaurant.

MUC police were called when the glass in one door had to be broken to permit entry of firemen. Public safety officers also attended.

The smoke did not recur after ventilating the premises.

Open flames prohibited by by-law

Westmount residents are reminded by fire officials that open flames, such as those caused by the burning of autumn leaves, are prohibited within 50 feet of a building.

Fire officials were called on to explain the municipal by-law to men burning leaves at the rear of 462 Argyle avenue Sunday afternoon. The fire was extinguished using a shovel and pail.

The burning of leaves also would be prohibited under provincial pollution by-laws, fire officials said.

Motorbike gone

A Yamaha motorcycle valued at $2,000 was stolen Sunday afternoon while parked opposite 370 Wood avenue, police report. The victim lived in Hawkesbury, Ont.

Learn acting

The Quebec Drama Festival is holding two six-week acting courses Saturdays from Nov. 3 to Dec. 8 at the National Theatre School, 5030 St. Denis street. There are two levels, one which requires no prerequisites and another which requires previous enrolment in a QDF course or an acting course from a recognized school. For information call 843-8698.

Music from Golem

The duo of Teresa Trull and Barbara Higbie will be performing Sunday, 6 and 9 pm, at the Golem Coffee House, 3460 Stanley street. I don't know anything about the pair but the Golem people say they "radiate exciting, expressive music and dazzle their audiences with contagious dynamism and offbeat senses of humor."

Trio performs

Le Trio de Montréal will be presenting a concert tonight, 8 o'clock, in Pollack Hall, 555 Sherbrooke street west. The trio consists of a violinist, pianist and cellist. They will perform works by Beethoven, Alexis Contant and Schumann. This is a CBC Radio/McGill concert and admission is free. The concert will be recorded so bring your cough drops.

More kids' theatre

Le Théâtre du Carrousel will present a new piece for children Saturday, 2 pm, at the Maison de la Culture du Plateau Mont Royal, 465 Mont Royal street east. Entrance is free but you must pick up tickets at the maison or at a Banque d'Épargne in the district.

Band benefits vets

The Band of the Royal Canadian Artillery will present a "Musical Gala" featuring all types of popular music Friday, 8 pm, in Expo Theatre. The concert is a benefit for needy veterans and their dependents. For ticket information call Diane Rogers at 866-7491.

Films address issues

The National Film Board of Canada has been criticized for being an expensive playpen for filmmakers but it continues to prove itself as an invaluable tool for bringing contentious social issues to the forefront of our collective consciousness and conscience. Given Canada's mediocre record in social and environmental issues, the NFB proves itself even more important as a watchdog for the poor or powerless. The NFB will be presenting, each Tuesday, 8 pm, until Dec. 11, a series of films that explore citizens' rights when they are in conflict with the interests of the state. The first film, on Tuesday, is Abortion: Stories from North and South and it shows how abortion transcends race, religion and social class. Subsequent films are Dream of a Free Country: A Message from Nicaraguan Women, Oct. 30; Democracy on Trial: The Morgentaler Affair, Nov. 6; Incident at Restigouche, Nov. 13; a special tribute to French production at the NFB on Nov. 20; Home Feeling: Struggle for a Community, Nov. 27; Herbicide Trials, Dec. 4; Behind the Veil, a look at the history of Roman Catholic nuns, Dec. 11. The series is called "Point of View" and films will be shown evenings at 8 o'clock in La Place du Cinéma in Complexe Guy Favreau, 200 Dorchester boulevard west. Ticket price is very reasonable.

What's new in film

The 13th Montreal International Festival of New Cinema will be happening at various venues from today until Oct. 28. One of the highlights of the festival will be Rainer Werner Fassbinder's Berlin Alexanderplatz, a 15-hour epic that is described as his "ultimate statement about the relation of the individual to society, depicting Germany on the brink of apocalypse through 15 monumental hours of love, betrayal, decadence, seduction, murder, innocence and suspense." The film will be shown in four parts on consecutive evenings so your eyes won't fall out of your head. Screenings of other films in the festival will be at the La Cité cinemas, the Outremont Cinema, the Cinémathèque Québécoise and the Cinéma Parallèle. There will be several world premieres at the festival and this year there is a special video section. Call 843-4725 for schedule information or pick up one at the Spectrum, 318 St. Catherine street west.

Surviving injustice

Enterprise Theatre, a group from Fredericton, N.B., will be presenting the Athol Fugard play The Island, tonight through Saturday, 8 pm, in Morrice Hall of McGill University, 3485 McTavish street. The play is about two men in jail in South Africa determined to survive their ordeal honorably. Mr. Fugard is South African and has opposed his country's policy of apartheid in several plays. He has a deft touch, however, and he doesn't use his plays like a sledgehammer to drive home his ideas. His subtler manner makes them more universally appealing.

West meets east

Choral music lovers will have lots of ear candy this month. The Tudor Singers will be performing Sunday and Monday, 8 pm, in Pollack Hall, 555 Sherbrooke street west. Guest pianist will be Paul Helmer and the theme will be "Soirée à la Française" The Vancouver Chamber Choir will give a concert Oct. 31, 8 pm, in the Church of St. Andrew and St. Paul, corner of Sherbrooke street and Redpath avenue.

Students show videos

The artsy types at Concordia University are presenting two evenings of videos that they have created. The first showing was last night but the second is tonight, 8 pm, in the Visual Arts Gallery, 1395 Dorchester boulevard west. The videos will be shown on a large screen and a quality sound system will be used for the accompanying electronic music.

Australian commissioner attends ball

Rowlen Osborn, Australian high commissioner to Canada, and his wife, Beverley, were guests at the second annual Australian Ball in Victoria Hall Saturday evening.

Suzanne Kell, of Westmount, coordinator of the ball, reports that "a comfortable crowd" approaching 200 persons in size entertained themselves in antipodean fashion.

The ball was intended for local Australians to meet or renew acquaintances.

"It was terrific," Ms. Kell says, already looking forward to the third annual ball next year.

Thoughtful walrus, playful seals, friendly owls and even a mother with wings can be seen in the exhibition of Inuit artists and carvers from Baffin Island at Dan Delaney's Artlenders Gallery, 318 Victoria Avenue, until Oct. 26.

Twenty-two carvers are showing 27 sculptures in serpentine stone, whalebone and ivory from walrus tusks. In addition, there are 17 prints and 16 drawings. Owls are prevalent in the exhibit. They are held in awe by the Lipa Pitsulak, one of the best known artists of Baffin Island, submitted drawings called Two Sednas (mermaids) and Friendly Owl.

Enook Manomie is represented by a 20-pound sculpture of an owl which is priced at $1,500. His drawing is of a falcon dreaming of the hare he wants to catch. The subject of one of his prints is a large whale with three little whales in his stomach; the other called Celebration, depicts a drum dancer.

Inuit because of their noiseless, spirit-like, enchanted flight.

Star of the show is Elisapee Ishuluktak, of Frobisher Bay, whose subject matter is drawn from her personal experience of living on the land and her deep-rooted spiritual and cultural traditions.

Here she shows a gold-plated plate together with a print simply called Owl. Her large sculpture of a mother feeding her child has been sold for $792.

and prints reflect his experience as a hunter and his sense of Inuit tradition.

Enook's brother, Towatuga, shows a sculpture of a musk-ox in serpentine stone which comes from white into black and all shades of green in between.

One of the finest prints is Hunting by Kayak from floe edge by Davidee Itulu, of Lake Harbor. He is especially known for etching on ivory.

An unusual sculpture is a man in a kayak made out of one piece of stone. It was sculpted by Manasie Akpaliakpak.

Another distinctive piece is two whales and a wolf's head carved out of a whale vertebra by Yassie Kakee.

There is a large whalebone bird by Rhoda Kopalie and a tender, sleeping bird by Lydia Quaq.

George Tulsch, who travels to Baffin Island three or four times a year because he loves it, helped Mr. Delaney mount the show. "Any sculpture that doesn't invite your hand to touch it, is not for you," he said.

there is the RMR Cadet Corps. With about 65 cadets at present, the corps provides continued support for the militia unit, supplying about half the warrant officers and sergeants who have served in the reserve unit in the last 15 years.

The anniversary celebration will include a display of military equipment the morning of Nov. 10 in Westmount Park. Mayor Brian Gallery will be among the guests at an anniversary dinner to be held that evening at the RMR armory.

On Nov. 11, members of the regiment will go to Pointe Claire to receive Freedom of the City from Malcolm Knox, the mayor. The honor is being bestowed on the RMR, in recognition of the unit's sponsorship of Pointe Claire's army cadet corps.

Westmount bestowed Freedom of the City on the regiment in 1944.

The RMR also will parade through Westmount Nov. 11, joining others at the cenotaph in the city's annual Remembrance Day service.

History of proud regiment spans two wars

The 14th Canadian Battalion, designated "The Royal Montreal Regiment" by special warrant, was recruited in August 1914. The component officers and men came from these Montreal units of the Canadian Active Militia: the 1st Regiment, Canadian Grenadier Guards; the 3rd Regiment, Victoria Rifles of Canada; and the 65th Regiment, Carabiniers de Mont-Royal.

The battalion was one of four in the 3rd Canadian Infantry Brigade which was commanded at the beginning of World War I by Col. R. E. W. Turner, VC, DSO.

Most of the members of the regiment had their first experience of war conditions at Valcartier Camp and on Salisbury Plain.

On formation, command of the Royal Montreal Regiment was assumed by Lt. Col. F. S. Meighen and the post of second-in-command went to Lt. Col. W. W. Burland.

When the RMR arrived at Valcartier, they found the newly-established camp a shambles with little in the way of facilities. There were 33,000 men assembled in the area.

Battalion takes shape

As training and organization continued, the 14th Battalion began to take shape, and one of the officers who joined the battalion as medical officer was Capt. F. A. C. Scrimger, who later was to win the coveted Victoria Cross at Ypres.

The regimental sergeant-major at this time was C. B. Price, who had relinquished a commission in the Victoria Rifles to go overseas with the 14th. Price volunteered to become a color sergeant to permit the appointment of J. M. Shephenson, a regular soldier with wide experience, to the post of RSM.

When the strength was 46 officers and 1,097 other ranks, the battalion boarded the liner "Alaunia" at Quebec City on Sept. 25, and arrived at Plymouth in mid-October following an uneventful trans-Atlantic crossing.

Salisbury Plain

Then began the regiment's acquaintance with British mud, with special emphasis on the variety produced on Salisbury Plain. Training continued throughout the months of November, December and January on the Plain and the 14th crossed the channel to France in February aboard the "Australind," a captured German cargo and cattle steamer.

On Feb. 24 — exactly six months after the battalion had left Montreal — arrangements were made for several platoons to undergo instruction in the front line, near Armentières.

Early in April, the Regiment was moved to Ypres and withstood their first German attack on April 22 following a fierce artillery bombardment. During the ensuing days, the battalion was subjected to fierce enemy shelling and was forced to give ground. In this action, the qualities of a remarkable young soldier, Sergeant Dick Worrall, were noted. Worrall brought the regiment back to Montreal three years later as commanding officer, with the rank of lieutenant colonel.

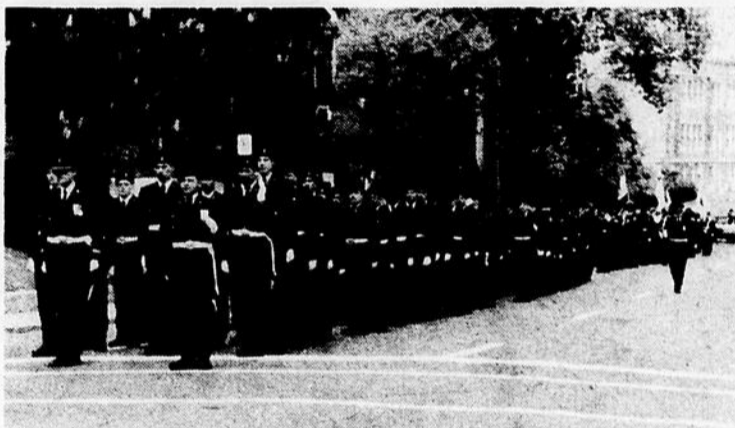

Late in April, the RMR was withdrawn behind the Yser Canal for rest, but they were back in the front line facing the Pilkem-St. Julien ridge when, on May 2, the Germans launched a gas attack on their left. The Battalion was saved from the gas only by a sudden wind shift.

Second battle for Ypres

During the second battle for Ypres, Capt. Scrimger showed the outstanding heroism for which he later was awarded the Victoria Cross. When the brigade headquarters was blown to pieces and the ammunition dump set afire, he refused to abandon the wounded men he was tending. Despite the continual bombardment, he stayed with them and helped evacuate the wounded when the shelling subsided.

With the withdrawal of the Canadian Division from the Ypres Salient, the 14th Battalion had an opportunity to recuperate, rest and refit. In the battle, the RMR had lost 69 officers and men killed and 150 wounded. On May 25, commissions were granted to CSM C. B. Price and Sgt. Dick Worrall.

RMR ON PARADE:In their last parade through Westmount, members of the Royal Montreal Regiment participated in the annual church parade, held in June. Following the parade, members and friends of the regiment joined in a service at St. Matthias' Anglican Church.

The regimental history records the Battalion did little but march through the European countryside during May 1915, until it went into the trenches again at Le Touret for the battle of Festubert.

Then followed a seemingly unending series of line duties and reliefs at Bethune, Beauvry, Neuf Berquin, Outersteene, Ploegsteert and Kortopyp on the Messines front. Then it was back to the Ypres Salient and later the Somme.

The last took a terrible toll of members of the RMR with 360 NCO's and men killed, wounded or missing.

Vimy Ridge

The early days of April 1917 found the 14th Battalion preparing for the attack on Vimy Ridge. The attack began April 9 with an artillery barrage and it met with stubborn resistance from Bavarian troops. The battalion reached its first objective, reformed and moved ahead again. In the 14th, six officers were killed and three wounded. Casualties in the other ranks included 92 killed and 173 wounded. The battalion carried fully its share of the burden of holding the ridge throughout the summer of 1917.

After participating in the battle for Hill 70, the high ground north of Lens, the 14th Battalion returned for the third time to the Ypres Salient.

Passchendaele

The Canadians had taken Vimy in the spring of 1917 and had taken Hill 70. Now, they were going to be told to take Passchendaele. And again the 14th Battalion was on the spot.

The Canadians did the job in a memorable attack on Nov. 6, but suffered 16,000 casualties in 11 group swarmed over the barricade.

Back in action again

Throughout the spring and early summer of 1918, it was training and more training for the 14th Battalion. But they were back in action again for the battle of Amiens in August.

Late that month, when French divisions took over the front at Amiens, the Canadians were shifted secretly to Arras to act as the spearhead of an attack on the Hindenburg line. And then in the fall of the year came the 14th's crossing of Canada Du Nord.

Nov. 1 found the battalion in billets at Fenain, and they still were there when word was received that the Armistice had been signed. Two days later the 14th embarked on a march that was to take them into Germany. The Regiment marched 82 kilometres between Nov. 3 and Dec. 8 when they crossed the Rhine at the head of the 1st Canadian Division. They had moved from Fenain by way of La Sentinelle, Elouges, Quaregnon, Neufville, then to the Rhine, and finally on to Cologne.

On January 4, 1919, the Battalion paraded at Unter Eschbach where HRH Prince Arthur of Connaught presented the King's and Regimental Colors. The Colors had been brought from England by Capt. G. V. Whitehead and Capt. H. G. Brewer — both destined to be commanding officers of the regiment.

The regiment said good-bye to Germany March 5, 1919 when it entrained for Le Havre and crossed the Channel to England. Two weeks later, His Majesty the King held an investiture at Buckingham Palace and received of Officers of the regiment who had won awards in the field.

The Atlantic crossing started April 10 and was peaceful. The liner "Carmania" docked at Halifax eight days later and the RMR was back on Canadian soil.

When the regiment reached Montreal, it marched from Place Viger station with bayonets fixed and colors flying to the high school barracks where Lt. Col. Worrall bade his command farewell.

Over 6,200 men passed through the ranks of the 14th Battalion during the war and 1,192 were killed in action or as a result of illness contracted on service. Another 3,277 were wounded.

Major Price takes command

After demobilization, negotiations were begun for amalgamation with the Westmount Rifles and in 1920 when the Canadian Militia was reorganized, the combined 14th Battalion and Westmount Rifles were given a place on the list under the title "The Royal Montreal Regiment." Major C. B. Price DSO DCM, accepted command.

In 1920, the regiment suffered a great loss when Lt. Col. Worrall died of pneumonia.

Meanwhile, plans were being made to affiliate the regiment with a unit of the Imperial Army and it was felt the Prince of Wales' own, the old 14th Foot of the British Army, would be appropriate.

The early 20s saw other prolonged negotiations; this time for an armory. The city of Westmount leased to the RMP Armory Association for 99 years at a rental of $1 a year the land on which the armory now stands. Simultaneously the Sun Life Assurance Co. loaned the association $143,000, the government agreeing to pay to the armory association, as rent for the completed building, enough to pay the interest on the Sun Life loan, plus an amount for sinking fund purposes. The association agreed to raise $37,000 — the difference between the loan and the estimated cost of the building.

LEGIONNAIRES WALK TALL: Members of the Royal Canadian Legion, branch 14, Royal Montreal Regiment, marched in the regiment's annual church parade, held in June. Wearing their familiar red berets, the legionnaires represented just some of the thousands of men who were affiliated with the RMR during both the First and Second World Wars.

The first sod was turned June 1, 1925, and on Dec. 28, the building was formally opened by Defense Minister E. M. Macdonald. The building commemorates those men of the regiment who died in France during World War I.

During the years after 1925, the regiment maintained a high level of training, although there was only limited public interest in the military.

On Nov. 8, 1936, Lt. Col. G. V. Whitehead ended almost 20 years of continuous service in the regiment when he handed over the Command to Maj. J. E. Slessor, ED.

Machine guns

During the year, the department of national defense ruled the Royal Montreal Regiment, an infantry unit since its formation in 1914, should become a machine-gun battalion to be known in future as "The Royal Montreal Regiment (MG)." So began training in a new field under instructors from the permanent force.

In 1937, Company Sergeant Major J. A. Mitchell represented the Regiment in the Coronation Contingent of Canada in England.

Sept. 1, 1939

As the international situation became tense in the summer of 1939, plans were made for mobilization of the regiment again. And the first entry in the war diary of the regiment is dated Sept. 1, 1939.

Recruiting and training went ahead rapidly on the field beside the armory, and the overseas battalion left Montreal by train for Halifax on Dec. 6 to begin the regiment's second period of overseas service in defense of Canada.

The battalion disembarked at the Clyde and headed immediately for Aldershot. The high mark of those early days of training in England was a visit by His Majesty, King George VI on Jan. 20, 1940.

Then, it was back to training, training and more training.

Early in May, the RMR received the code word "Julius" which set in motion a plan for Canadian troops to stand to in defence of Britain. Leaves were cancelled, but the tension eased, and the battalion returned to the work of preparing itself for the battle for Europe. Lt. Col. G. V. Whitehead resumed command of the battalion at this time.

For most of 1940, the regiment trained near Camberly under the mounting threat of German air-raids. Late in the year, the battalion moved to Sutton, Surrey.

Banstead Downs

During the many months spent on Banstead Downs, the men of the battalion were warmly received by the residents of Sutton. Training officers of the battalion helped by the local Home Guard. Others took part in community activities. When the Banstead hospital was damaged by bombs, the RMR supplied 50 men to help clear the debris. Such gestures were appreciated by the community at large.

Early in 1941, a side trip was made to Brighton for a tour of coastal duty.

As efficiency increased, so did the number of tactical exercises. "Maple," "Dog," "Spring,"

"Valley II," "Hare," "Benito," "Brenda," came and went in quick succession. They were climaxed by "Bumper," in the fall of 1941 — the largest military manoeuvres ever seen in England up to that time. Armistice Day, that year, found the regiment back in Sutton, but only for a short period. The regiment headed for Petworth early in 1942, and then to a machine-gun concentration area in Wales in July for a three-week intensive training period.

Re-organization in 1943

1943 found the RMR facing the prospect of re-organization and Jan. 11 it was announced the regiment would become a reconnaissance regiment under command of headquarters, 1st Canadian Army.

The subsequent new training and re-organization was difficult and was coupled with a change of command; Major T. C. Lewis took over from Lt. Col. J. A. Calder who was promoted and posted.

The new year's honors list of 1944 brought good news. Regimental Sergeant Major J. A. Mitchell was made a member of the Order of the British Empire.

But March brought a devastating blow. Lt. Col. Lewis was informed that the regiment was to be disbanded — but not even an army order could keep a good regiment down. Although members were dispersed to other units, the Royal Montreal Regiment was changed again before the end of the month to Army Headquarters Defense Company, taking over from the Lorne Scots.

With the change in status, the RMR moved into what could be called the higher society of military life. Generals were commonplace at army headquarters, and even field marshals were frequent visitors along with other foreign dignitaries.

The advance party of the company crossed the Channel June 17 and during the next six weeks was stationed at the heart of operations during one of the most critical periods of the war. The main body of the company stayed in Surrey during this time and fretted, but finally it, too, reached Normandy late in July. So began a period of hectic activity at Army Headquarters.

In September, Lance-corporal G. Malone of the advance party took two German prisoners — the first taken by any member of the platoon. That month, too, the company carried out a series of escorts and patrols and finally carried the badge of the Royal Montreal Regiment into action.

Word was received that the unit was to be attached for a time with the Regina Rifles, and the RMR first saw action in World War II near Cape Gris Nez within sight of the cliffs of Dover.

Calais

Men of the RMR participated in the freeing of Calais, but were unable to stop long enough to join in the rejoicing. They were moved almost immediately to Hey Brugge, near the Franco-Belgian border, thence to Clit where they joined the Regina Rifles in the attack on the Leopold Canal.

The purpose of the canal attack was to seize a bridge-head to enable engineers to throw a bridge across, heavy enough to carry armor. Enemy positions were well dug in and stiff opposition was expected.

Captain R. Schwob was in command of the company during the attack which was preceded by flame throwers which deluged enemy positions with fire.

The first platoon that tried to cross the canal was caught by machine-gun fire and most of the personnel were casualties. However, platoons 2 and 3 made the crossing safely, only to come under fire from pill-boxes and posts on the flanks.

During the ensuing fight, casualties were heavy and for a while the position of the company was critical. At one time, the company strength had been whittled down to Capt. Schwob, Sergeant Lorne Thomson and 11 men.

Lt. Col. Mathewson of the Regina Rifles commended men of the RMR on their "great courage and splendid fighting ability" following the canal attack. The company's known casualty toll has been tentatively set at six dead, 35 wounded and 21 missing. Sgt. Thomson was awarded the DCM for his outstanding work during the canal crossing and Capt. Schwob was awarded the Military Cross. Private Stanley M. Enair was awarded the Military Medal.

Late 1944 found the company back at Army Headquarters, with the additional duty of guarding high-ranking German prisoners. General Eisenhower visited the HQ in November and inspected an honor guard of the RMR.

Around this time, the armored car troop spend a month at the front with the Manitoba Dragoons, near Rosendaal, but the tour of duty was relatively uneventful.

During the German offensive in the Ardennes, Army Headquarters was on the alert, and tension was acute. No direct threat materialized, however, and the stand-down order was issued.

Spring of '45

The spring of 1945 found the RMR moving with the headquarters, first to Tilburg, then Grave, and finally to Delden. The war was drawing to a close and the surrender terms became effective at midnight May 8.

Meanwhile, the transformation of the RMR from a company back to a battalion again was slowly carried out and the armored car troop became the only element of the regiment to serve on the soil of Germany.

In July 1945, the 1st Canadian Army Headquarters Battalion RMR was relieved by the Canadian Grenadier Guards at Apeldoorn and moved to Amersfoort to become part of the 1st Brigade.

New colors were presented to the regiment by General Crerar July 10, 1945. Plans for the presentation of new colors, donated by the City of Westmount, had been inaugurated in 1938, but the colors reached Canada from London too late to be presented before the regiment went overseas with the 1st Canadian Contingent.

A welcome ceremony was arranged in Westmount Park by the 2nd (reserve) Battalion where grandstands had been erected. The colors were turned over by the overseas battalion to the 2nd battalion and the order "Dismiss" ended nearly six years of service for the overseas battalion.

In November 1945, shortly after the return of the First Battalion, Lt.-Col. Hugh Graham Brewer, MC, who had done the regiment extraordinary service, handed over to Lt. Col. Richard Pierson, MC. As second-in-command he had Major B. A. H. Smith, who had been one of the PSMs to go over with the First Battalion in 1939 and who eventually had gone to Italy with the PLDG.

In 1951 the old colors were permanently laid to rest in St. Mathias' Church.

The unit has always remained closely associated with the city of Westmount and, on its 40th anniversary in 1954, this was appropriately marked by the gracious action of the citizens of the community in granting the regiment the Freedom of the City, which also bestows on the regiment the right to parade through the streets of the city with bayonets fixed

Protagonist Tootle absent from library book launching

By JOAN CAPRÉOL

Motherhood is fashionable again in Westmount as witnessed at the launching of the Johan Sarrazin-Terry Mosher (Aislin) children's book, Tootle, at the Westmount Public Library last Friday evening.

Young mothers brought their small children in droves; soon-to-be mothers looked as if they could hardly wait for the blessed event.

One area of the library resembled a kindergarten with little kids sprawled on the floor, dipping in to Tootle.

Unlike most book launchings, the majority of the crowd of 200 were young people.

Johan and Terry autographed over a hundred books at $9.95 each and looked whacked after two hours.

Judy Mappin, of the Double Hook bookstore, and her staff worked feverishly, serving wine and punch and taking in the bonanza.

Hostess round-eyed

Chief librarian Rosemary Lydon, the official hostess, regarded the jubilant scene with round, round eyes. She accepted the book donated to the children's library gratefully. It was autographed by Johan, Terry and Mayor Brian Gallery, who wasn't there.

The story was that Alderman John Shingler signed the mayor's name. "It wasn't a forgery though," he pointed out. "I used my own handwriting."

In his arms was his 3 3/4-year-old son, Benjamin, whom he had to carry because he couldn't find his shoes at the last moment. The McGill professor of political science bought one copy of the book for his four children to share. His other kids are Alex, 10, Thomas, 8, and Kate, 6.

Among the more mature guests were Kathy Keebler, of Newswatch, and her distinguished husband, Dr. Robert Kinch; May Cutler, the book's publisher, and her husband, top labor

Tax seminars becoming full

Citizens still interested in attending the Westmount Public Library's seminars on personal finance should register for the sessions soon.

As of early this week, over 90 people had registered for one or all of the four seminars. Although library staff do not want to set a limit on the number allowed to register for the sessions, they do stress that space available for those attending the lectures is limited.

The subjects covered will be: Oct. 23, financial goal-setting; Oct. 30, investing in stocks and bonds; Nov. 7, tax planning (in French) and Nov. 13, tax planning (in English).

Further information is available from the Westmount Public Library at 935-8531, ext. 231.

Holton residents frustrated by decision on wires

Residents of the north side of Holton avenue were angry and frustrated this week after learning that the city plans to allow the light and power department and Bell Canada to string electrical and telephone wires in their backyards.

The residents received a letter from Mayor Brian Gallery on Tuesday, explaining that city council had decided, in committee Oct. 2, to proceed with the stringing of the wires between poles.

The entire issue started about a year ago, when Bell erected telephone poles to replace aging telephone wires fastened to the rear of the attached houses. The city also planned to use the poles for new electrical lines, to replace the lines now strung between tripods on the roofs of the buildings.

Holton residents Dr. James Coulton and his wife, Judith Kashul, protested to the city that the poles had been put up without proper consultation of the residents concerned. They said the poles and wires would ruin the esthetic value of the properties.

The city then looked into other options for placement of the wires, including burying them or attaching them to the houses.

"It is regrettable that so much work has not succeeded in producing for this vexing problem a solution with which we might all have been happier," admitted the mayor in the recent letter, but he stated that the other options were not feasible.

'Report discouraging'

"The consultant's report was discouraging" said the letter, referring to the possibility of attaching the wires to the house exteriors. It explained that for such an option, renovations to several of the structures' walls might have been necessary.

The letter also explained that the option of burying the cables was rejected because of its cost, which was said to be about $140,000 for the city and as much as $5,000 for each homeowner.

Dr. Coulton and Ms. Kashul not only were upset with the city's decision, but they were even more disturbed with the way in which it was taken.

"We are concerned that the process has not been followed," Dr. Coulton told THE WESTMOUNT EXAMINER. "It isn't a matter of frayed services. It's a matter of the democratic process."

Dr. Coulton and Ms. Kashul have certain complaints about how the matter was handled by the city.

First, they say, city council was given only two options to choose between. These options were to either allow the telephone poles to be used or to install

Wallet finder is anonymous

A wallet containing $28.41 was turned in at local MUC police station 23 Friday afternoon.

The finder refused to leave her name, police said. The wallet was found at Sherbrooke street and Victoria avenue and has been returned to its owner, a resident of Grey avenue.

House visitors get sculptures

Four sculptures valued at $2,750 were believed stolen from a house on Sunnyside avenue Oct. 7, police report.

The house was for sale and the items were believed taken during an open house. Two of the pieces were ivory carvings.

underground cables at a cost to the city of about $140,000.

Dr. Coulton said that, apparently, council never voted on the option of attaching the wires to the rear of the houses. He added that this was despite the fact that the consultant's report did not rule out this possibility.

Meeting promised

Second, Dr. Coulton said that light and power commissioner Joan Rothman promised the residents a meeting to discuss the matter once the city had compiled all the technical information concerning it. He said that meeting, in which the residents were supposed to be allowed to state which option they preferred, never took place.

"It was a short-circuiting of the route by sending the information to council without going to the citizens," said Dr. Coulton.

Finally, said Dr. Coulton, the city's Architectural and Planning Commission, which is supposed to oversee many aspects of the esthetic design of city streets, was barely consulted on the matter of the wires. He added that some of the committee's members informed him that the matter had been briefly brought up in a meeting of the commission in June. The matter apparently never was dealt with again by the commission.

"The city did not direct this

Two cars, one spot, $100 dent

A parking altercation between two motorists ended last Thursday with $100 damage to a car door, police said.

The incident occurred about 6:50 pm in front of 4840 Sherbrooke street when both drivers were vying for the same parking space. One vehicle apparently cut the other off, sparking the problem.

One of the drivers, a man living on Vendôme avenue, kicked the door of a Honda owned by a woman resident of Kensington avenue.

By ROB SOUTHCOTT
matter, for full consultation, to the Architectural and Planning Commission," said Dr. Coulton. "The city has apparently made the decision without consulting all of the parties concerned."

Maybe not over

Although the city has made its decision in the matter, it may not yet be over.

"The mayor's letter makes it sound like a dead issue," said Ms. Kashul. "We don't feel it's a dead issue and we would like to continue investigating it."

That investigation already has started, with Dr. Coulton contacting members of the departments of urban planning and architecture at McGill University. He said that members of both departments have expressed interest in examining the issue further.

Dr. Coulton added that he also had approached the Westmount Municipal Association to discuss the matter.

Dr. Coulton notes that the city of Montreal has recently looked into operating a joint program with Hydro Quebec to encourage homeowners to have underground electrical lines attached to their dwellings. He said the program may provide subsidies to homeowners to help pay for the work.

"At a time when wires are being eliminated... it seems contradictory that Westmount is still stringing them up," said Dr. Coulton. "Cities are recognizing this is not pleasant and are doing something about it."

"It appears Westmount is not biting the bullet."

Richler's 'Joshua' filmed on location in Westmount

By ROB SOUTHCOTT

Those passing by Westmount city hall last Saturday may have noticed the lights, caught a glimpse of the camera and heard the man in a ski vest and fedora shout "Action!"

Westmount was making it to the silver screen.

The man in the ski vest and fedora was film director Ted Kotcheff and the dozens of people working with him made up the crew of Joshua Then and Now, the film version of Mordecai Richler's bestselling novel of 1980.

The film tells the the story of Joshua Shapiro, a Montreal-born journalist and television pundit who rises from the 1940s working-class district of St. Urbain street to the affluent heights of Westmount in the 1970s.

The film began shooting in August, and most of this fall has been spent filming on location around Montreal and Westmount.

Joshua Then and Now is being produced by Westmounter Stephen Roth, chairman of the board of RSL Entertainment. Mr. Roth and his co-producer, Robert Lantos, also of RSL, bought the screen rights to Mr. Richler's book in 1980.

Contributing elements

"It was obvious that there were elements in it that could contribute to be a great film," says Mr. Roth, but he notes that care had to be taken with the transition of the story from the written word to the film medium.

"The story is essentially a study of characters, not a linear story," explains Mr. Roth. "There was no single riveting story to carry through onto film."

The book was converted to a screenplay by Mr. Richler, and the filming has been left to Mr. Kotcheff, who directed another well-known Richler story set in Montreal, The Apprenticeship of Duddy Kravitz.

James Woods, whose most recent pictures include Once Upon a

WAR MONUMENT COVER-UP: Members of the crew filming Joshua Then and Now had to make a few cosmetic changes to the Westmount cenotaph on Saturday. Since the scenes being shot were set before the end of the Second World War, reference to that war had to be covered up on the monument.

Time in America and Against All Odds, stars as Joshua. His co-stars include Canadian actress Gabrielle Lazure and actors Alan Arkin and Michael Sarrazin.

Although locations sometimes are used just as backdrops for films, the locations used in Joshua Then and Now were integral to the establishment of the story's characters. Thus, using various houses in Westmount as sets for the film was an important element in shooting the film.

'Westmount an element'

"It's not essentially shot in Westmount to call it Westmount," says Mr. Roth. "I suppose we could have found similar places in Outremont or Montreal West, but Westmount is one of the elements of the story. It will be very recognizable, because it's part of the character we're trying to give the film."

Mr. Roth calls the film "a story about contrasting backgrounds, cultures and ways of living." He adds that the setting of Westmount was essential to the film, not only because part of the book was set here, but also because of the signs of affluence visible in the city.

"There are parts of Westmount that are not the huge mansions," he says, "but those aren't in the film."

One exception to this is a number of interior scenes shot in a duplex on Somerville avenue. This location was used to represent a St. Urbain street apartment because the producers could not locate another apartment large enough to accommodate the

Mr. Roth expects the film to be released next summer or shortly after. A four-hour version of the film will be shown on the television network of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation, which is one of the financial backers of the film. World-wide distribution will be handled by 20th Century Fox.

Sisters to move in March or April

By JOAN CAPRÉOL

Sister Florence Quigley

Time is running out for the Mother House of the Congregation of Notre Dame at Atwater avenue and Sherbrooke street west.

The 300 sisters, including the sick in the infirmary, are moving to the Institut Pédagogique on Westmount avenue in March or April 1985 to make room for Dawson College whose students surely will enjoy the space and grass of the campus, the proximity to the Métro and downtown, without being downtown.

Sister Florence Quigley, who was born in Westport, Ont., near Kingston, guided members of the Westmount Historical Association around the Mother House with the familiar Madonna and Child statue on its rooftop, last week on one of the last tours.

"This is an aging community," she said, with a shrug. "There are hardly any novices today but we are accepting change. There are about 52 deaths among us every year." (A funeral for one nun was going on at the same time as the tour, a grey hearse waiting outside.)

"Sister Florence has a good philosophy about life and change," said Alderman Sally Aitken in an aside.

Trooped up steps

The Historical Association men and women first trooped up the skiddy, squeaky clean, steep steps, which keep the nuns agile, to the enormous chapel.

The shrine to Marguerite Bourgeoys

Three works of art are situated above the altar. The centrepiece, unveiled in 1910, represents the "Visitation of the Blessed Virgin to Saint Elizabeth." On the right is the artist's representation of "Our Lady's call to Marguerite Bourgeoys," founder of the order, and to the left, the mural of "Marguerite Bourgeoys ascending into Gloria." Both the latter were unveiled in 1950.

The dramatic lights of the chapel are in the form of wooden crosses.

Sister Florence and Pope Paul II, during his recent visit, came up to the front of the chapel, spoke briefly, then blessed the sisters in wheelchairs.

Sister Florence arrived in Montreal in 1958, taught for some years, and came to Marguerite Bourgeoys Centre in 1974. She said the chapel had not been too big to accommodate the nuns who came from all parts of Canada, the United States, and other countries for their annual retreat and to commemorate the death of Marguerite Bourgeoys on January 12, 1700. There are about 3,500 sisters in the order.

May become auditorium

What is to become of the chapel? "Dawson College may turn it into an auditorium, a music room or a library," replied Sister Florence. "One little boy on a tour almost cried and said it should be kept for music."

The organ, with its beautiful sound and resonance, will be removed.

Sister Florence said the successful, bilingual, secretarial school across the road at 2330 Sherbrooke street west will remain functioning.

In the Memorial Room are artists' sketches of five earlier Mother Houses, two of which burned down. "We made six moves in three centuries," said Sister Florence, who has a great sense of humor.

The authentic Borduas-like black and white portrait of Marguerite Bourgeoys with its shapely hands dominates the room and was painted by artist Pierre LeBer on the day of her death. Marguerite Bourgeoys was born in France in 1620 and came to Canada in 1653.

A replica of the Stable School, the first school in Canada, with small figurines of Marguerite Bourgeoys talking to the first seven pupils, is located in the Memorial Room. The school was opened on April 30, 1658.

Barbier hangs

A primitive painting of a dimpled Christ child painted by Marie Barbier, the first Montrealer to join Marguerite's community, also hangs in this room.

The shrine, with its many candles ablaze, is located on the same floor as the Memorial Room.

In the dining hall is a huge banner of Marguerite Bourgeoys painted by a Dominican monk in Turin, Italy. It hung outside St. Peter's Basilica in Rome at the time of the canonisation of Marguerite. It was returned to the Mother House to hang above the main entrance on the occasion of the Pope's visit.

If you are interested in seeing the new red brick infirmary, designed by the architectural firm LeMay and Leclerc to accommodate 125 ailing nuns, it is located behind the Institut Pédagogique and below No. 2 fire station.

Members of the Westmount Historical Society who were enchanted by the tour were: Dr. Helene Saly, Aline Gubbay, Dorothy Jarman, Lillian Hill, Gwen Geddes, Eleanor Earle, Allan Raymond, Pat Barrett, Doreen Lindsay, Diana and Dan Haggerty, Blanche Ducharme, Gillian Burpee, Anne Pasold, Lyla Brooks, Madeleine Pagnuelo and Louise Senecal.

Art galleries salon to open

Visitors to the second Salon National des Galeries d'Art today, tomorrow and Friday at the Montreal convention centre have the chance to see displays by local art galleries and to hear a number of local speakers.

It is expected that works by Westmount artists will figure in the displays, among them works by Rita Briansky, Ariel Ben-David and Catherine Bates.

Booths taken

Galerie Art et Style, Galerie de Bellefeuille and the West End Gallery all have taken booths at the salon. Es arts, an arts promotion agency in Westmount's twin-city, Rimouski, also has reserved a booth.

Westmount residents who plan to speak at round-table discussions held in conjunction with the salon include Esther Dagan, a specialist in African art and director of the Galerie Amrad; Sarah McCutcheon, co-director of Galerie Esperanza; and Noreen Corrigan, co-ordinator of cultural activities at Teleglobe Canada.

The salon's theme this year is "Art and Woman." Cultural programs focus on an examination of the problems inherent in art propagation.

For further information about the salon, call 937-2373.

Rabbi Segel to address AJCS

The new spiritual head of Temple Emanu-El Beth Shalom, Rabbi Kenneth I. Segel, will be the keynote speaker at the opening meeting of the board of directors of the women's federation of Allied Jewish Community Services, Tuesday, October 23rd, at 9:30 am.

The meeting will be held in the fourth-floor boardrooms of Cummings House, 5151 Côte St. Catherine road in Montreal.

Dr. Segel's topic will be "Jewish Commitment and Communal Responsibility."

The recently-arrived rabbi is a native of Buffalo, New York, and most recently taught in New Orleans where he was a professor at Notre Dame Seminary and an assistant professor at the University of New Orleans.

Rabbi Segel's doctorate is in sociology from Mississippi State University. He served as spiritual leader of Congregation Gates of Prayer in New Orleans from 1975 until his move to Montreal.

The Rabbi has distinguished himself as a writer, broadcaster and composer as well as in the synagogue and university lecture hall. He hosted weekly radio and television programs in New Orleans.

His original musical compositions include an entire Friday evening musical service, which is used in more than 100 Reform Congregations, and 12 pieces of Holy Day music to accompany "Gates of Repentance."

CNIB holds art auction

Zarin Mehta of Westmount, manager of the Montreal Symphony Orchestra, is a member of the honor committee of the Canadian National Institute for the Blind, which plans to hold an art auction Dec. 9 at the Hôtel du Parc under the chairmanship of Alexander Gaudieri, director of the Montreal Museum of Fine Arts.

The works of painters, sculptors and engravers will be sold in order to provide financial support to the CNIB's growing services to the blind population of Quebec. For further information, call Jacques Dumouchel, 284-2040.

The Mounties
get new roof

Hon. Roch LaSalle, minister of public works Canada, announced recently that Couvreur Verdun Inc. of Montreal has been awarded a contract of $150,360 for the installation of a new roof for the RCMP Québec Region headquarters, in Westmount.

Couvreur Verdun Inc. was the lowest of four bidders. The high bid was $203,922.

The work is scheduled to take eight weeks. The building, located on Dorchester boulevard west of Atwater avenue, has been in use since 1973. Project manager is Minh Tran of Public Works Canada in Montreal.

Hit and run

A car parked Monday last week at 4141 Sherbrooke street was hit by an unknown vehicle damaging the left rear fender up to $500, police said. The 1981 Datsun was struck sometime between 1:40 pm and 2:15 pm.

Banquet set

The 1984 Quarter Century Club banquet for City of Westmount employees will take place Dec. 5 at 6:45 pm at Victoria Hall, city officials report.

clue to crime

Cash was reported stolen from a purse following a burglary at a house on Grosvenor avenue recently, police report. Residents were at home.

The complainant told police he had been upstairs putting the children to bed sometime between 9 pm and 10 pm.

On his return downstairs, he noticed the kitchen door open, but thought it had been left ajar by the children. He then let the cat in and went to bed.

Later, a purse and wallet belonging to a member of the household were found in the parking area outside the house. Cash of $80 and two credit cards were gone.

Annex odors
bring firemen

Firefighters were called twice during the past week to check out a burning odor in the lobby of the city hall annex adjoining the Stanton street fire station.

On both occasions the problem turned out to be caused by a defective motor in the ventilation system located in the ceiling, fire officials said.

The first time it occurred, on Friday, fire apparatus was at Mount Pleasant avenue and had to travel "home" to Stanton to answer the call.

The odor recurred Monday morning.

Kids' library picks winner

The children's branch of the Westmount Public Library has picked the winners of its contest to guess the number of tokens that were entered in the "harbor" of its recent Jacques Cartier contest.

The actual number of entries in the container was 6,785. The children whose estimates came the closest to that number were Jessica Brownstein, 5, who said there were 7,000 tokens and Marc Rozen, 8, who ventured a guess of 6,510.

Reddy staff

Staff of the Reddy Memorial Hospital once again will be sponsoring an arts and crafts sale to be held on the main floor of the hospital Nov. 1 and 2.

All items on sale have been made by hospital staff — doctors, nurses and administration staff. Proceeds from the sale go toward support of the hospital.

Sale items include home-made jams and jellies, paintings, sewing, knitting, and ceramics, as well as many others.

'Intruder' was newsboy

A person mistaken for an intruder in the apartment building at 52 Academy road last Thursday at 5 am turned out to be a newspaper boy, according to Public Security officials.

MUC police were notified and found the "suspect" to be delivering papers from New York.

Back incident in schoolyard

A car driven by a Westmount woman backed into a school bus in the parking lot of St. Leon school Wednesday, according to police. No injuries were reported.

The car, a 1978 Chevrolet, was driven by a 68-year-old resident of Victoria avenue.

Wallet lost

A small black wallet was reported lost Monday last week in the basement of the apartment building at 239 Kensington avenue, police said. It contained only personal papers.

Bike stolen

A Roadrunner bicycle was stolen Wednesday last week when left under stairs of a house on Grosvenor avenue, police report. It had been unlocked.

Students' job prospects bring Johnston to WHS

By ROB SOUTHCOTT

Westmount High School will have a visit next week from Hon. Donald Johnston, MP for St. Henri - Westmount, who is to speak to students on job prospects in the future.

WHS principal Gary Thompson told the school committee Monday that Mr. Johnston would be at the school during the afternoon of Oct. 23.

Mr. Johnston, who recently was appointed finance critic for the official Opposition, will speak on the topic "Career Options in the '80s."

"The information from Don Johnston should give us (staff at Westmount High) guidelines about what to acquaint the students with," said Mr. Thompson.

The school also will inform students about the workforce with other events. Mr. Thompson said that following Mr. Johnston's visit, the school would survey students to find what fields of work they would be interested in exploring.

Invite representatives

Mr. Thompson said that, armed with that information, he then would invite representatives of various fields to visit the school to take part in a career day Nov. 22. He said that through this event, students might have a chance to find out more about careers which interested them.

Westmount High also will be reaching out to other groups beyond its doors. Mr. Thompson announced that on Nov. 6, the school will hold a community awareness day, when people from various local community groups will visit the school.

The program for the day likely will include a short assembly in the morning to introduce the groups to students, followed by displays by participants.

Both students and parents should have a chance to view the displays, since parent-teacher interviews also are to be held that day.

Parents of students at Roslyn School will have a chance to find out more about Westmount High on Nov. 1. On that evening, Mr. Thompson, along with some students and parents from Westmount High, will visit Roslyn to tell parents there why they should consider sending their children to Westmount High School.

A similar presentation was made to Roslyn parents last year, after only 12 students from the school had gone to Westmount High the previous September.

Of about 100 students who graduated from Roslyn this year, said Mr. Thompson, 26 went to Westmount High. He said about 50 went to private schools and most others to Royal West or Argyle Academies.

ST. GEORGE'S SHOWS OFF: Gloria Toeman, right, a member of the board of directors at St. George's Elementary School, was one of those conducting tours of the school Tuesday morning. St. George's was holding an open house to allow interested parents to have a look at its classes in operation and to view the facilities at the school.

Burglar visits coin collector

Coins worth $800 were stolen from a collection during a burglary on Grenville avenue sometime between Oct. 10-14, police report.

The house was broken into through a front window by cutting the screen and forcing the window. Bedrooms were searched.

'Vox Ducum' staff enlists parents' support for book

Parents on the school committee of Westmount High School at a meeting Monday again discussed the future of this year's Vox Ducum, the school's yearbook.

Hugh Mahabir, the teacher-advisor this year for the Vox, and Kathy Oh, the photo editor of the book, came to the meeting to ask for support from the school committee.

Armed with a slide presentation showing photographs of various aspects of the life of the school, Mr. Mahabir and Miss Oh told the parents that students are considering holding a raffle, which could raise about $2,000 towards the cost of the yearbook.

Mr. Mahabir said that about $3,600 already had been raised for the expenses. He said that this amount included the revenue from both sales of the book and advertising that students had sold to date.

"We're doing our part and we are hoping that the school committee will do its part and maybe supply prizes," said Mr. Mahabir.

Members of the committee said that they already had found some small prizes and would try to locate some sort of major prize for the raffle. The first prize in a similar raffle last year was a pair of season passes to the Centaur Theatre.

Start newsletter

In other matters, the committee decided to start a monthly newsletter for parents. The newsletter, which should commence next month, is to inform parents of events at the school.

Parents also were informed about the school at a meet-the-teacher night, held last week. Principal Gary Thompson told the committee that "on balance, it was well-attended and the atmosphere was very nice."

Mr. Thompson said that he is considering a different organization of the next such event, so that teachers will be more organized in explaining the school's curriculum to parents.

Mr. Thompson also told the committee that as of Monday, the final day for registration at Westmount High, enrolment of the school stood at 695 students.

"I figured last spring that if we got 600 bodies, we'd be lucky," said Mr. Thompson. He said the final increase in enrolment had come in the business education program at the school. Mr. Thompson noted that the program, which teaches 21 students, had several in their 20s and 30s, and even had one student who was 58 years old.

Girls' soccer record tarnished by Billings

Westmount High School NEWS

By CHRIS CARTER and KATHY OH

Unfortunately, the "undefeated" girls' GMAA soccer team fell under the heading "defeated" last Wednesday against the highly-ranked team from Howard S. Billings with a score of 2-0. But the girls have not given up and are preparing for victory next game.

The midget boys' soccer team has acquired the title "undefeated" and won its most recent game against Marymount High Sept. 15. Much credit must go to coach Mr. Nadeau who is devoting ample time from his schedule to help these boys reach the top.

The Westmount High School boys' basketball team will participate in a tournament to be held at Westmount High Oct. 20. The bantam girls' volleyball team is showing steady improvements. Keep it up girls!

The Reach for the Top team has been selected and consists of Anthony Fieldman and Anthony Levenson, both grade 10 students, and graduates John Tsang and Victor Ly.

Last Monday, a slide show was presented to the Westmount High School parents' committee on behalf of the staff of Vox Ducum, the WHS yearbook.

The Vox Ducum is on the verge of survival with the help of some 40 students and a few faculty members. They are showing great potential to exert maximum effort in producing one of the best yearbooks ever.

Youths flee confrontation

Three youths fled from a house on Columbia avenue last Thursday when they awakened a resident who told them to get out, police report.

The three boys entered the house through a rear door and were found on the main floor. One was reported to be carrying a knife.

A woman who was lying down on a couch in the basement at the time told police she heard a noise and went upstairs to confront the youths.

"What are you doing?" she said. "Get out of here." They left and nothing was reported taken.

Crash course

More than $500 damage resulted to two cars involved in an accident Tuesday noon last week in front of 4141 Sherbrooke street, police report. Both were headed east when one apparently backed into the other.

St. George's School honors retiring president Nemiroff

Stanley Nemiroff, of Westmount, was honored at the St. George's School of Montreal's 54th annual meeting held Oct. 11. Mr. Nemiroff retired after a four-year term as president of the board of directors.

Newly elected president, Stephen Dorsey, and Principal Murray Magor, both of West-mount, spoke highly of Mr. Nemiroff's distinguished service to the school.

As a member ex-officio of several committees, he has helped launch St. George's most recent fund-raising campaign, which in the last year has raised over $200,000 for the school's academic programs and building repairs.

Mr. Nemiroff is an associate professor in McGill University's department of religion and philosophy.

Other officers of the corporation elected during the meeting include Frank Schapira, treasurer; Chandra Gowrisankaran, secretary; and Westmounters Morris Charney, vice-president (buildings and grounds); Marcia Herbert, vice-president (education); and Steven Levy, vice-president (development).

St. George's School is a coeducational, non-denominational, English independent day school. There are approximately 470 students enrolled. Of these 190 attend the elementary school beginning with 4- and 5-year-olds in pre-school and kindergarten programs and continuing through grades 1 to 6. The remaining 280 students attend grades 7 through 11 at the high school.

Roslyn student injured

A nine-year-old Roslyn School boy was taken to hospital Wednesday afternoon when he was hit by a car while crossing Westmount avenue about 4:33 pm.

Police said he had apparently stepped off a bus at the southwest corner of Roslyn and ran in front of it into the side of car in the outer lane.

He was taken to the Montreal Children's Hospital by Urgences Santé.

A public safety officer who arrived on the scene at 4:35 pm reported finding the victim on the southeast corner being held and comforted by two women. He was complaining of pain in the back.

Lockered

A student at Dawson College told police Tuesday last week someone had stolen her purse from a locker the previous week. It contained $50 cash and personal papers.

Soccer players drive for leagues' top spots

Westmount's peewee and bantam soccer leagues entered their second-to-last week of play, with all teams digging and fighting as hard as they possibly could for the top spot in their league.

In the peewee division, Italy occupied the top spot, before last Saturday's game, with eight wins, no losses and two ties, totaling 18 points. Second and third places were taken by Sweden, with three wins, five losses and two ties for eight points, and Uruguay, which amassed a total of four wins and six defeats, totaling eight points. In last place was Brazil, only two points behind.

Sweden started the game very strongly and scored three quick goals before Brazil had a chance to blink. Doug Bensadoun deked out an opposing defenseman and passed the ball swiftly over to Eddy Hoyeck who promptly drilled it past the goaltender.

Then Alex Vineberg put the ball past the goalie in the lower left-hand corner. The third goal was scored on a very fine pass from Doug Bensadoun to Alex Thabet.

Brazil had a rather difficult

Places remain in jazz class

Young jazz dance enthusiasts should note that there still is room in the Westmount recreation department's teen jazz dance program.

The class, open to those 12 years old and up, takes place on Tuesdays at 6:30 pm. Recreation supervisor Beverly Adams says that those who are not sure about taking the course are welcome to try a class.

Although the adult jazz dance class is filled up, Miss Adams notes that some of those registered have not shown up for classes. Miss Adams says that those wishing to take the course should attend classes or notify the department if they do not wish to take the course.

She says there is a considerable waiting list of people wishing to take the class if places become available.

Youths snatch purse, radio

Two youths snatched a woman's purse and Walkman radio Sunday as she walked opposite 4200 de Maisonneuve boulevard, police report.

The victim, a 54-year-old resident of Fort street, said she was heading east on the north side of de Maisonneuve when two youths passed her.

One grabbed the radio, the other the purse, dragging her to the sidewalk and causing her to let go of the handbag. She was unable to provide a description of the robbers.

The radio was valued at $150, the purse at $40. It contained $50 cash.

By FRED BARKMAN

time in the first half, but they seemed to get their act together in the second half, keeping the ball in Sweden's zone most of the time. Despite the exceptional play of Adam Ray and the rest of the team, they failed to capitalize, eventually losing the game 3-0. The win for Sweden gave them a total of 10 points.

Uruguay met the powerful Italian team, knowing they would encounter a difficult time trying to win. The game was extremely close, with the ball travelling the field from end to end, neither team able to take advantage of the other's mistakes.

Brisset scores

Italy's first goal came from Alex Thabet, and the second from Alexis Brisset on a nice set-up from Fabrice DeDongo and Jeremy Laurin.

But Uruguay came out of the

Unleashed dog struck by car

A small collie was taken to the Animal Hospital of Westmount last Thursday when it was struck by a car at St. Catherine street and Bethune, public safety officials report.

The dog, who was with its owner, had not been on a leash and had run across the street. It lived on Kensington avenue.

Master warned about puppies

Two loose spaniel puppies were found Wednesday last week at Montrose and Mountain avenues, public safety officials said.

The owner was located after ringing several doorbells and was cautioned about letting the dogs run free.

The Westmount recreation department would like to remind all prospective figure skaters that figure skating classes start next week at the city arena.

Classes will take place at the following times: beginners, Mondays at 4:30 pm and Fridays at 5:30 pm; juniors, Mondays and Wednesdays at 5:30 pm; intermediate, Mondays and Wednesdays at 6:30 pm; seniors, Mondays and Fridays at 7:15 pm; and tiny tots and parents, Tuesdays at 2 pm.

Courses for adults start Oct. 24 at 7:30 pm and the boys' special interest class starts the same day at 4:30 pm.

Further information on the classes is available from Beverly Adams at the recreation department, telephone 935-8531, ext. 212.

Purse found

A purse containing $329.88 was turned in at local MUC police station 23 Tuesday last week by an N.D.G. woman who found it at Atwater avenue and Sherbrooke street Tuesday last week. Police said it belonged to a Pierrefonds woman.

Dave MacKeown, with ball, a Westmount player, looks for a way out as two T.M.R. players put the arm on him in rugby action Saturday. Peter Gelinis, another Westmount player, in rear, moves in to help out.

Westmount rugby team loses final

There were a lot of frustrated players of the Westmount Rugby Club last weekend when the team lost the first division finals of the Quebec Rugby Union.

The Westmount team faced off against the Town of Mount Royal Saturday, losing the game 3-0 on a single kick.

Jim McLean, the president of the Westmount club, called the game a "gruelling match." He said that the teams remained scoreless after 80 minutes of regular play and still failed to score in four periods of overtime.

Each team then was given a chance to kick off. The T.M.R. team managed to score but Westmount did not.

Mr. McLean said that because several players were dissatisfied with the outcome of the game, the T.M.R. team decided to let the Westmount team keep the division trophy for the last half of the next season.

Handicapped girl molested

A 16-year-old handicapped girl told a Public Security patrol at Victoria avenue and Sherbrooke street last Thursday afternoon she had been molested on a bus, officials said.

The youth was described as having difficulty talking and had to communicate with the officer through handwriting.

MUC police were called to the scene to take a report.

Shari Fleming attends school in Jerusalem

Shari Fleming

For two Dawson College students, this summer spent at the Rothberg School for Overseas Students at the Hebrew University of Jerusalem was an opportunity to learn more about the Holocaust.

Shari Fleming of Westmount, a social science student at Dawson, and Mindie Saloin, a nursing student from Côte St. Luc, travelled to Israel together.

Their course on the Holocaust was taught by an instructor who had lived through it, which, the two young women said added insight and depth to their studies.

Both Fleming and Saloin had been to Israel before, so they used this trip for both familiar and new sights, both within the framework of the Rothberg School's trips and on their own.

"We wanted to know more about what was going on here — the way of life, religion, how people communicated with each other," Mindie commented.

The Rothberg School annually serves some 2,500 students from abroad, offering instruction in English, Russian, Spanish, French and Hebrew.

The summer courses program has just completed its 19th year of providing academic studies for credit in Judaic, Middle Eastern and Israel studies.

Some 700 students participated in summer courses this year, coming from all the major Western countries as well as Iceland, Finland, Korea, Mexico, Thailand, Japan and Trinidad.

Westmounters to participate in philatelic exhibition

A Westmount company will be one of those taking part in the National Philatelic Exhibition, to be held later this month in Montreal. Lighthouse Publications, located on Victoria avenue, will be among those groups with displays at the exhibition, which be held Oct. 25-28 at Place Bonaventure.

Lighthouse, which supplies a variety of materials for stamp collectors, is a branch of the German company Leuchtturm Albenverlag, the largest manufacturer of stamp collecting stock-books in the world.

This exhibition is a big event for local stamp collectors, since it is one of the first major philatelic shows to come to the Montreal area in several years.

For Westmounter Maria Botman, manager of Lighthouse Publications, the exhibition is a chance to demonstrate the pleasure and interest of stamp collecting to those who know little about it.

"The aspect we are concerned with is (stamp collecting) as a hobby," says Mrs. Botman, noting that sometimes stamps are regarded merely as commodities, like valuable works of art.

Became investment

During the 1970s, says Mrs. Botman, stamps became a popular item to use for financial investment and speculation. When the world economy lost stability at the start of the 1980s, the market for stamps crashed, causing many stamps to drop sharply in value.

Although she recognizes the monetary value that some stamps can have, Mrs. Botman frowns on the idea of a stamp collection being "an investment that is just kept in a bank vault and not seen." She sees stamps' greater value as being a "pictorial history of a country."

Video blues

A video machine and tapes were reported stolen from an apartment at 288 Grosvenor avenue sometime Saturday or Sunday, police said. No value of the items was reported. No signs of forced entry could be found.

Basket burns

A fire in a metal wastebasket at Prince Albert Park Saturday was out on arrival of firemen shortly before 11 pm, fire officials said. Public safety officers noted it had been extinguished by someone throwing in sand.

Mrs. Botman is very concerned with fostering a love of stamps in children, and, for this reason, she encouraged the stamp club at the children's branch of the Westmount Public Library.

"There are basics (of stamp collecting) that have to be shared," says Mrs. Botman. "If a child doesn't know what to look for, they lose interest."

Lack of interest

The children's stamp club, which usually has a waiting list for members, was Mrs. Botman's contribution to overcoming the lack of philatelic interest in many North American families.

"Compared to Europe, it's in its infancy here," she says. "In Europe, every family would have a serious stamp collection and the collection would be extended by each generation."

For those interested in finding

Library revives its stamp club

The children's branch of the Westmount Public Library is inviting young philatelists to join its stamp club for children.

Children's librarian Maria Varvarikos says that the club, which normally has a waiting list, has some space left for this year.

Children between the ages of nine and 13 who are interested in finding out more about the club can attend its next meeting, to be held next Thursday at 4:15 pm in the children's library. The club meets every second Thursday at the same time.

hibition. These will include topics such as postal administration, philatelic societies and postal history. There also will be a day focussing on stamp collecting for youth.

In organizing the show, the Quebec Philatelic Community is working with the Canada Post Corporation, whose philatelic service is the one division of the corporation that turns a profit. Canada Post will have a wide variety of stamps on display, and also will bring in several people who work in the philatelic field. The corporation also will focus on a different aspect of stamp collecting during each day of the ex-
