Both Sides Give in.

The lacrosse prologues are in the point of returning, and the fatted calf is ready for the slaughter.

Both sides are giving in a little, and the result will be, barring unforeseen complications, that the lacrosse season will be finished during the present month just as if there had been no trouble whatever.

The directors of the Montreal Club, some of the members of the Shamrock, recognizing that the National Amateur Lacrosse Union could not break away from the C. A. A. U. without being professionalized by the latter, and also recognizing that to professionalize a lot of young men who are all more or less interested in other sports, was a serious matter, while at the same time considering that objection could be raised if necessary in the courts by members of the organization affected, decided to try their utmost to see if some amicable agreement could not be reached.

To do this, however, they needed time, and therefore the Montreals asked Mr. W. Bramley, their former president, to represent them at the lacrosse meeting of a week ago for the purpose if possible of delaying the action on the part of the Lacrosse Union.

Mr. Bramley was the man for the work, and with his provoking calmness—or, rather, through his former president, to represent them at the lacrosse meeting of a week ago for the purpose if possible of delaying the action on the part of the Lacrosse Union.

On the other hand, the C. A. A. U. promises to forget all offences committed previous to their joining, and everything will go on as merry as marriage bells.

It must have taken considerable persuasion to get the Capitals into line, but it was done, and in the application signed for their admission to the Canadian Amateur Athletic Union the Capitals are represented, and a letter of President Tasse is on record agreeing with the new plan. There were several meetings.

There was a quiet meeting on Thursday night—a sort of a caucus. Then there was a meeting, where the details of the various senior clubs on Saturday, when the Shamrock-Cornwall match was declared off, and another joint meeting of the C. A. A. U. and the presidents of the lacrosse clubs in the M. A. A. U. on Saturday night. After that came the regular meeting of the C. A. A. U. on Tuesday.

All these Saturday meetings were secret ones, but after that has passed, the following series of resolutions that were adopted:

"That in the present unsettled condition of athletics in Canada, this union, the C. A. A. U. deems it advisable to put forth every effort to arrive at a perfect and satisfactory solution of the difficulties unquestionably now existing.

"That this board of governors, in order to carry out the spirit of the constitution, are prepared to make some concessions in order to encourage the different athletic unions throughout the Dominion to recognize the C. A. A. U. and the principles of amateur athletics, and the advisability of having an independent representative body in control of amateur athletics.

"That as we understand that if certain athletic unions consent to become members of or subscribe to the constitution of this body, they will be deprived of a great number of athletes whose services are essential to their existence.

"That this body resolves that any other union which shall become an active member of or a subscribing member to the constitution of this body, within six months from date shall have the right to demand and shall receive from this union complete reinstatement of all its members, and that these members be transferred to the professional class to date and a promise of immunity for any offences committed to date.

"That in taking this step the board deems that it is acting in conformity with the principles of its constitution and is carrying out the objects of its framers.

"That the object of the union is laid down in article II. of its constitution, imposing on it the obligation of taking this step, for we realize that the ideas of amateurism undoubtedly possessed by some of our leading athletic organizations can be attributed to the fact that a great number of these unions are not represented on this board, and are not familiar with the aims and objects of this union.

"Be it therefore resolved, that the secretary be instructed to write to the president of the N. A. L. U. notifying him of a letter having been received by the board of governors signed by four of the members of the said union, guaranteeing that their union would make application for membership in the C. A. A. U. on condition that the C. A. A. U. would reinstate the suspended members of the N. A. L. U., and this board authorizes the president to accept such application under the conditions contained in said letter."

In addition, Mr. Ayling made a statement which in a nutshell was to the effect that since the lacrosse clubs were willing to abide by the rules of the C. A. A. U., he would be glad to see the interest to forgive past failings. The reason for the being of the C. A. A. U. was to have a central body for the control, guidance and playing merely of all amateur sport, and the more clubs and associations willing to abide by its

Will There Be a Hitch?

The letter from the Capital Lacrosse Club, according to the C. A. A. U. government, in the proposed understanding between them and the N. A. L. U. was signed by President Tasse.

The special correspondent of the Star in Ottawa sends the following despatch:

Specialist. The Montreal Star, Ottawa, September 5.—Speaking of the resolution which the C. A. A. U. passed on Saturday night at the meeting of the Board of Governors, Mr. Foran was very explicit in his view of the situation. He said: "We are quite ready for the meeting of the N. A. L. U. at which I shall be present. We are prepared to go as far as we can to help out the present tangle in the lacrosse situation, and will play out the game, and we will only accept the terms of the C. A. A. U. provided we have no documents to sign. So far as I can understand the Capital Lacrosse Club never admitted the authority of the C. A. A. U. The matter will be thoroughly thrashed out on Monday night. It is a strange thing that the C. A. A. U. should accept terms of surrender when they see associations like the C. L. A., the O. H. A., and others, ignore them."

Too Much Water to Play.

For the first time in the memory of most who have followed the sport in Montreal, a lacrosse match was called off because it rained.

But such a rain, so continuous and plentiful, has never been known for many years, either. It was almost worth a person's life to get to the Shamrock grounds from the Back River cars, and the ground themselves looked like an immense lake, with a small green island in the centre of it.

In some places there was three feet of water, and although both teams were ready to go out, the Cornwall and Shamrock executives, after carefully discussing the matter, came to the conclusion that it would be foolish to attempt to carry out the match.

It was also decided that it should not be played unless there should be a tie in the championship.

There were about two dozen good old standbys in the grand stand, and they sat and soaked till they were notified of the decision.

Capitals Improve Their Time.

Ottawa, Ont., September 5.—The Capital Lacrosse team left for Brantford on Sunday night, where they will cross sticks on Labour Day with the professional champions. This will be the first match played since the team was penalized for playing with the Tecumsehs.

THE GOLFERS

United States Championships.

New York, September 5.—There is a fine representation of golfing talent entered for the National Amateur championship this year, which is to be decided this week over the Baltusrol Golf Club links. That the contestants have pretty well gotten over the foolish habit of entering and playing merely for the sport, is shown clearly by the list of entries. The 144 men entered represent no less than sixty-five different towns, and thirty-four of these clubs are only represented by one man each, presumably their best player, while fifteen more of the clubs have sent two men each, and nine other clubs only three men each.

The Baltusrol Club has ten entries, but as a rule, the heaviest entry comes from the club upon whose course the tournament is played. Morris County has seven entries, but it is nearby and the club has a number of promising young players. Essex County, Hillside are each sending six men, some of whom are very good, but with these exceptions the entries are kept pretty well down to one or two men each. Garden City, St. Andrew's, Nassau, Fox Hills, Chevy Chase and Brae Burn.

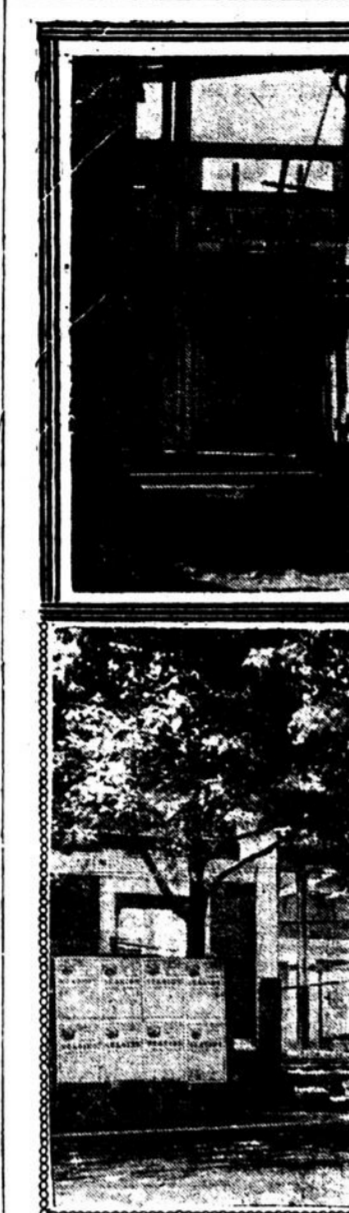

The fifteen clubs sending two men each are: Glenview, Exmooor, Dyker Meadow, Fairfield County, Apawamick, Princeton, Ardsley, Country Club, Columbia, South Orange, Manhasset Manor, Westfield, Island Golf Club and Oakland County Club. The thirty-one clubs with but one representative are: Seattle, San Francisco, Midlothian, Spring Haven, Morristown Field, West Burn, Essex County Country Club, Englewood, Tuxedo, Scranton, Jersey City, Flushing, Midland, Hollywood, Marine and Field, Lenox, Norwood Park, Davison, Country Club, Woodland, Wallaston, Stockbridge, Myopia, Alston, Concord, Brookline Country Club, New Haven, Misqu-

Close of Niagara Tournament.

Niagara-on-the-Lake, Ont., September 5.—The Niagara Golf Club's tournament was brought to a close here Saturday on the Fort George links. During the morning rain fell in torrents, but by noon the weather cleared, and the sun shone brightly. The big surprise of the day was the defeat of the former champion of Canada, George S. Lyons, of Toronto, and Parker Wright, of Buffalo, by Laird of Toronto. In the Lyons-Laird match they took 21 holes to decide. Laird finally gained the hole on the 18th green from the tee. The final in the afternoon was a great exhibition. At no time was either Laird or Wright more than one up. Wright drove over the green. Laird dropped his ball, about fifteen feet from the hole. Wright approached over the hole. Laird made a beautiful put and holed out, thereby winning a very exciting match and the championship.

The consolation handicap was won by D. Carlisle, of Buffalo, with a net score of 85. The ladies' "put and approach" was won by Mrs. Hellivell, of St. Catharines, with Mrs. Phelps, of Hamilton, second.

On the Outremont links the first round (match play) was played for the Robert Wood medal, and resulted as follows: E. G. Coker defeated A. S. Eves, W. B. Blackader defeated P. Barrow, I. E. Hulet defeated W. H. Clarke-Kennedy, H. E. Miles defeated G. A. Dunlop, G. R. Major defeated L. Crozier, C. M. Finnes defeated H. A. Harries.

The Levin defeated Dr. D. J. Evans. Dr. J. H. Spring defeated C. T. Gordon (by default).

The second round is to be played off on or before next Saturday.

On the Westmont links the qualifying round for the William Yule Cup was pulled off and resulted in the following qualifying: F. D. Fraser vs. W. H. Butters; J. Lewis vs. E. D. Howard; H. J. B. Hamilton drawn by G. R. Grier drawn by E. Dawson vs. Walker drawn by E. Dawson vs. H. Grier; W. Arnold drawn a bye.

The regular monthly handicap was also played off Saturday. E. J. Howard coming off first, and H. J. B. Hamilton second.

An interesting game of mixed foursomes will be played at Westmont to-day.

The Beaconsfield links next Saturday the qualifying round for the Tooke Cup will take place.

THE TURF

Race for $20,000 Stake.

New York, September 5.—Before a great crowd, Stalwart won the $20,000 Century Stakes at Sheepshead Bay Saturday, defeating the favourite, Ort Wells, in one of the closest finishes of the year. Short Horse was third, eight lengths back. The time, 2:31 1/2, is a new track record, 2-5 seconds faster than the best previous record made by Waterbury last year.

The Century Stakes is worth for age races and a high class field lined the starter. The Drake-Gates combination bet a small fortune on Ort Wells, forcing his price down from 4 to 3 to 1 to 20. Thomas placed his money on Stalwart, who dropped from 4 to 1 to 2 to 2. The prices of the others ranged from 8 to 50 to 1. Delhi took the lead, followed by Ort Wells, and Major Daintier. Passing the stand the first time Delhi was leading by one length, with Ort Wells second, and the other three in the first turn Delhi was still leading. In the run down the back stretch, the positions remained about the same, except that Stalward took third place. After the first turn Delhi began to stop, and O'Neill sent Ort Wells into the lead. As Delhi dropped back, Stalwart moved to second place. Short Horse taking third position. At the head of the stretch, Stalwart was wide leads to a left and beautifully both boys began to ride hard, and drew away from the field. Redfern slowly forged his way into the lead, and, in a driving finish, Stalwart won.

Sidney Page's Tradition easily captured the $10,000 Flatbush Stakes. She was backed down from 3 to 5 to 1 to 20 at post time. Oiseau was second, and St. Bellane third. The time was 1:25 1/2.

Seven two-year-olds faced the starter, and they were sent away to a good start. The weather was clear, and the running to the bend where they tired. Tradition then took the lead, and won easily by three-quarters of a length from

BOYS AND ATHLETICS.

(Copyright and published in the Montreal Star by special arrangement.)

In the many standing high jump contests in which I have entered since I first took up this form of athletics I have been surprised at the few entries.

Possibly it may be on account of the limited number of opportunities offered to the standing jumper compared with those held open to the athlete who aspires to honours in running jumps.

These discrepancies like water will find their level, and if the boys in the public schools and the young men of our universities would take up and train for these neglected events the increase in entries would be an indication for an additional number of competitions till in time the standing jumps would be found in the games of every club.

Unlike the running high jump, the standing event needs great power in the legs and shoulders to raise and later to lift the body over the bar. Height of the athlete does not mean ability to succeed, but rather is it a fact of conformation, either natural or acquired, combined with regular practice and judgment.

In my own case while at school I had tried every kind of sport, but I never enjoyed any of them. I only took up the standing high jump in order to help out my school in this event.

When once I had decided that I would compete in that item I went right into it, using all my time out of study in either actual performing the jump or following athletic and gymnastic work calculated to improve the necessary muscles and give strength.

My jumping consisted of about ten to twelve jumps a day, the highest being about 4 feet 7 inches, which was the best I could do. Combined with this, I played baseball and other outdoor games.

My gymnasium work was of a nature to develop the thighs, abdominal muscles, and included all exercises which would aid in the lifting and perfecting of conformation. I also paid particular attention to the shoulder muscles used in the arm lift.

The squats and skipping a rope with the knees were of great value, and the exercises which I used, and are of great value, while very simple.

After I once got my muscles into shape a very little practice sufficed to keep them right. About six weeks previous I jumped in a contest, however, I jumped in practice every day till within four days of the event when I allowed myself complete rest from any such exertion. During this six weeks I only placed the bar at a medium height extending myself about one inch.

In jumping I stand from 12 to 17 inches away from the bar, according to the height; for 4 feet the shorter distance, while in doing my record of 5 feet, 5 1/2 inches, there was about 17 inches of space between the center of my feet and the computed position of the bar.

Don't get too near, it means jumping higher to clear the bar.

Having got the correct position crouch down as low as possible with arms bent and knees bent. As the body is gradually straightened out in preparation for the final spring from 1 1/2 feet the arms should be brought forward and up. At the time of leaving the ground the arms should be almost over the head and they should be fully extended when the body is above the bar.

The most having been gotten out of the spring and the arm and shoulder lift inside leg should be raised over the bar, the knee drawn up as high as possible.

When well over the bar curl up the other leg and the hips. As the original spring should then carry the jumper clear.

In practice attention wants to be paid to two things particularly. The correct action of the legs and the lift of the arms.

The former is somewhat in the nature of a high kick, for which reason the legs should be kept straight and are useful in preparing for this sport.

Smoking and drinking of any kind of alcoholic liquors must be abstained from, if success is expected, and a lot of sleep is necessary. More nerve is required for the standing high jump than for any other athletic event, for which reason nothing must be allowed to interfere with this important part of one's make-up.

For the same reason attention should be paid to what is eaten, as a little indigestion will make a man nervous and balky.

Above all things keep warm and avoid any chill to the muscles of the legs and arms while jumping.

Any one who follows out the lines suggested in these notes, even if he cannot win a championship, will materially benefit himself physically by the training involved.

THE STREET COVERT.

Fashion is fickle.

For some time the street Covert has not been popular. Too many had been "manufactured" by the ready-made. Well dressed men looked for some other light weight coat than the ordinary shapless monstrosities that were everywhere in evidence.

They dropped out for a while, and now fashion dictates the street Covert.

The Semi-ready Street Covert is thoroughly well hand-tailored on a shape-retaining base. Tried on at the finishing stage—all the seams left with outlets and the inner parts basted only.

WHISTLING TREES.

A species of acacia which grows very abundantly in Nubia and the Sudan is called the "whistling tree" by the natives. Its shoots are frequently distorted in shape by the agency of larvae of insects and swollen into a globular bladder from one to two inches in diameter. After the insect has emerged from a circular hole in the side of this swelling, the opening, played upon by the wind, becomes a musical instrument suggestive of a sweet-toned flute. The whistling tree is also found in the West Indies.

Desmarteau Was Loudly Cheered When Presented With His Prize—Peck Again Ran Third in Saturday's Events.

Special to The Montreal Star.

St. Louis, Mo., September 5.—Athletes from the Montreal A. A. made a gallant attempt to score in the championship events Saturday, but were unable to do so. Desmarteau, a hand light in the 1500 meter run, Lightbody, of Chicago, continued his winning streak, winning the event in record time, beating the Englishman's (Bennett's) record for the distance by three-quarters of a second. In the 400 yard dash hand-cap, J. B. Peck, of Montreal A. C., starting from the six yard mark, took third place. During the progress of the game, the special prizes, consisting of silver trophies, were presented the winners, among whom was E. Desmarteau, of the Montreal A. A., winner of the 56-pound weight championship. Desmarteau was the only foreigner representative to win a prize in the field or track championship events, and when he was presented with the cup was loudly cheered by the vast throng at the games.

Another Win for Sarfields.

There was a one-sided game of baseball played on the Shamrock grounds before about 500 spectators, between the Sarfields and Tuckeries, score 14 to 2 in favour of the Sarfields. McCready was hit out of the box in the fifth inning. A splendid one-hand catch of a line drive by Cooney, of the Sarfields, in the sixth, was a feature.

Baltimore got seven hits in each of the two games played Sunday.

Jersey City has struck the toboggan evidently. Yesterday the Mosquitoes lost two games at Newark.

(2) If a wine merchant permits riotous persons to assemble in her house and those riotous persons do not seize and take them to the authorities, she is liable to a fine.

(3) If a devotee or the wife of a god, who in the temple precincts does not reside, opens up a wine shop or even enters into a wine shop that female shall be burned.

(4) If a wine merchant for sweet drink, sells a mixture of water and wine, she shall be fined.

MR. BLANCHET'S CAREER.

Mr. Blanchet was born in St. Blaise in 1842. He spent several years in the United States, after which he returned to this city and entered the mercantile trade. He was elected to the Legislature in 1883. He had practised his profession very successfully. He was interested in politics, and his greatest desire was to become a member of Parliament. He contested the election in Bagot County in 1887, but was defeated. This defeat did not discourage him, as he became a candidate to succeed Mr. Bernier in February 1897 campaign. During the campaign he was victorious. He was elected to the House of Commons in 1897. He had only recently regained his health, and passed quietly in his wife's arms, which he never felt better.

HIS MUNICIPAL CAREER.

He had on several occasions been elected to the City Council, and at the time of his death was solicitor for the City. He was elected in 1886 to Annis Logan, of Montreal, who survives him. He was noted for his generosity and large-heartedness.

New York, September 5.—The Herald's cable from London Saturday says: "Lord Strathcona has just purchased the Islands of Colonsay and Ormsay from the executors of the late Sir John McNeill, V.C. For the last two hundred years these islands have been in the possession of the McNeill family. They belong to the inner Hebrides group, and are together about twelve miles in length. The historic castle of Elizabeth, as a guest, and Mary Queen of Scots, as a prisoner, stopped in the sixteenth century, still come under the hammer on September 15th and 16th."

MR. MACKENZIE IS BACK TO THE WEST.

Toronto, Ont., September 5.—Mr. William Mackenzie, president of the Canadian Northern Railway, who returned Saturday from the west, has been reported to have a very satisfactory and good average crop. The conditions along the Canadian Northern are also satisfactory. He said he was not at all positive as to whether there was any truth in the report that the Grand Trunk has bought the Canadian Atlantic Railway. In regard to the famous Bay of Quinte, Mackenzie stated that construction would be started almost immediately on that work.

UNCERTAIN REPORTS FROM WHEAT FIELDS.

Winnipeg, Man., September 5.—Last week having been generally wet or unsettled, progress in harvesting was not so great as had been expected. Some districts notably the eastern prairie and the main line, a Canadian Pacific Railway main line, are reported to report hardly an acre out in the whole week. Indian Head has been delayed, and crops on much of the land lying land are sodden with wet, but the wheat shows signs of being more settled.

A Scotch Immigrant Injured.

Brookville, Ont., September 5.—While attempting to board a freight train on the main line of the G. T. R., a Scotch immigrant, Alfred King, of the wheels with his right leg was so badly crushed and jammed between the knees that subsequently it was found necessary to amputate it. King was stealing a ride, as he lay on the track fully an hour until picked up by the section gang going to work. He told a pitiful story. He said he was a native of Glasgow, Scotland, and that he had been in Canada but a short time. He left his widowed mother in Scotland, he being her only living and to come to Canada to earn a living, and

OFFENSIVE HOLD-UP OF PASSENGERS

AT YARMOUTH, N.S.

United States Officials Taking Charge of Passenger Traffic at British Port.

Yarmouth, N.S., September 5.—The action of the United States Government officials, ostensibly seeking to prevent undesirable people getting in the United States, is causing considerable feeling here. The D. A. R. steamship line run fast steamers between this port and Boston, and a large traffic is carried on. Passengers have been in the habit of going on board the daily steamers and going ashore again much as they do in Montreal or any other port. Recently they were surprised to find an official of the United States who was putting a stop to this practice. He stood at the gangway and asked all passengers to show their tickets before going on board. This was a new departure, but no one refused to comply with the request. One of the passengers had occasion to go ashore again to get his wife. This privilege was refused. Another passenger who wished to go ashore was also refused. Yarmouth is a British port and the steamer was a British ship, and why the liberty of the traveling public should be thus interfered with by the official of a foreign power is a question that many feel should be settled. The avowed object is to prevent paupers and diseased people getting into the United States. A test case is to be made during the present week, arising out of a difficulty some days ago. It grew out of the collection of $2 head tax from a would-be passenger to Boston, and the refusal to return if the applicant was determined to go ashore. The applicant's name is Levine, a young Jewish resident of Halifax, living at 13 Creighton street, and doing business in that heavy town. He never been ill, he avers, in his life, and has had no eye trouble, although that was the excuse given for detaining him. After his head money had been collected the United States emigration officer said he was a victim of an infectious or contagious eye trouble, and refused to allow him to go ashore. The steamer Levine went to see a local doctor, who examined him, and said that he was in perfect health and had nothing wrong with his eyes. It recalls the case of the other Halifax Jew who was put to much trouble and expense before being passed. When Levine learned that he was not to visit Boston he asked for the return of his money, which was refused, the official remarking that it was his obligation to pay the head money. Levine was a stranger in Yarmouth, but was taken in charge by the acting rabbi here, and upon advice will leave for Boston on the steamer.

NO ONE HAD ACCESS TO COTTON CROP REPORT.

Washington, September 5.—Officials of the Agricultural Department denied the accusation from Savannah that there had been a leak in the cotton report issued Friday. In a telegram addressed to Wright Hunter, chairman of the Committee on Information, Savannah Cotton Exchange, dated Saturday, Acting Secretary Moore says: "The claim of any person to have been in possession of the Government crop figures before one fifteen Saturday the time that their official promulgation is absolutely false and without foundation. Spurious claims are frequently made, but usually they are falsified by the official figures themselves and speedily forgotten."

Death of a Noted Inventor.

Chicago, September 5.—Clark Cyril Hawkins is dead from inanition at his residence here, after an illness of several months. He was born in Buffalo, N. Y., in the electrical works of an inventor and writer. In 1844, Mr. Hawkins is said to have sent the first telegraph message that ever passed between two countries, wiring it from Buffalo to Queenston, Canada. His most notable achievement was evolving the multiple telegraph, now used for telephones all over the world, which makes it possible to operate any number of lines from the same exchange.

Mother and Son Drowned.

Amherstburg, Ont., September 5.—A double drowning accident has taken place here at the Union Hotel, and his wife and eldest son Wesley, were returning from Sugar Island in a sailing boat when they were overtaken by a sudden and furious storm between Sugar and Bois Blanc Islands, and their bodies were never returned. Mrs. Thresher and her son were drowned while Mr. Thresher was rescued almost unconscious, after being in the water for an hour.

Lightning Struck a Church.

Farnham, Que., September 5.—The inside staging of the Roman Catholic Church, now in course of construction on the main line of the G. T. R., was struck by lightning Saturday morning. It is thought the building was struck by lightning, or the frame work, but some of the floor beams and part of the roof were broken through the fall of the timber.

The King in London.

London, September 5.—King Edward returned to London Saturday afternoon from Marlborough, looking in splendid health.

THE FOUR DAUGHTERS OF THE CZAR.

As the mother of the heir to the Throne the Tsaritsa may enjoy a much more influential position than has hitherto been her lot, and it is hoped that she will be enabled to mitigate the existing state of things. The baby girl with the Tsaritsa is the Grand Duchess Anastasia, born June 18th, 1894, and the Grand Duchess Marie, born June 26th, 1899.

THE FOUR DAUGHTERS OF THE CZAR.

Three isn't due for fifteen minutes yet, and she is always late.

They mounted the steps to the station platform in the thick crowd of departing railers.

It was a mixed masculine multitude, fairly typical of time, place and occasion, stalwart men of the soil for the greater part, bearded and bronzed and rough-clothed, with here and there a messenger in picturesque leather shape, sagging pistols and wide-flapped sombrero.

Loring stood aside and put up his eye-glasses. It was his first sight near at hand of the untrammelled West in puris naturalibus, and he was finding the spectacle both instructive and diverting. Looking to Kent for fellowship he saw that his companion was holding himself stiffly aloof, also, he remarked that none of the bolshavous Maritanses flung a word of recognition in Kent's direction.

"Don't you know any of them?" asked Loring.

Kent's reply was lost in the deep-chaired bell-below of a cattleman from the Rio Blanco.

"Hold on a minute, boys, before you scatter. Line up here, and let's give three cheers and a tall-taller for next-Governor Bucks! Now, then everybody: Hip, hip—"

The ripping crash of the cheer Loring's eye-glasses from their sockets and he replaced them with a smile. Four times the ear-splitting shout went up, and as the echoes of the "tiger" trailed off into silence the electrician's voice was lifted again. "Good enough! Now, then, three groans for the land syndicates, alien mortgagees, and the Western Pacific Railroad, by grabs; and to hell with 'em!"

The responsive clamour was a thing to be acutely remembered—rattled, long, low, and with a steady, unremitting pandemonium of groans, yelps and cat-calls, in the midst of which the electrician shifted into his marching order and tramped away townward.

"That answers your question, doesn't it?" said Kent, smiling sourly. "I can't set it out for you in words. The Western Pacific is the best-hated corporation this side of the Mississippi, and I am its local attorney."

"I don't envy you," said Loring. "I had no idea the opposition crystallized itself into any such concrete ill will. You must have the whole weight of public sentiment against you in any railway litigation."

"I don't," said Kent, simply. "If every complainant against me, the right to pack his own jury, we couldn't fear worse."

"What is at the bottom of it? Is it our pricking of the Gaston bubble by building on to the capital?"

"Oh, no! It's much more personal than that. As you may or may not know, our line—like every Western railway with no exceptions—has for its motto, 'All the traffic the traffic will stand,' and it bleeds the country accordingly. But we are forgetting your train. Shall we go and see how late it is?"

A MAN OF THE PEOPLE.

Train Number Three, the Western Flyer, was late, as Kent had predicted. Just as young Kent was about to get on, and pending the chalking-up of its arriving time on the bulletin board, the two men sat on an empty baggage car, and smoked in companionable silence.

While they waited, Loring's thoughts were busy with many things, friendly and otherwise. He was serving to the point of departure. He knew what a handfast friend might know: how Macdonald had finished his post-graduate course in the law and had succeeded to his father's small practice in the New Hampshire county town where he was born, and also how Kent had known his gifts and ability, and had been curious enough to pay Kent a visit to spy out the reason why, on their first evening together in the little law office which had been his father's. Kent had made a clean breast of it: there was a young woman in the case, and she was a farmer's daughter, with no notion for a change of environment, and she had determined Kent's career and the scene of it, laying his lines in the narrow field of her own choosing.

Later as Loring knew, the sentimental anchor had dragged until it was hopelessly off holding-ground. The woman had been named the name at Kent a bad half-year of fault-finding and recrimination, and had finally made an end of the matter by marrying a neighbouring farmer.

Frank Guffenhaus, a freeman, was seriously injured by falling from a ladder. Six other freemen were overcome by heat and sunstroke, and removed to hospital, since his fall.

THE GRAFTERS

By Francis Lynde

"It was a decent thing for you to do—stopping over a train with me, Grantham," said the host, when the five squares intervening had been half measured. "I have had all kinds of a time out here in this God-forsaken desert, but never until to-day anything approaching a chimney hour with a man I know and care for."

"By coming, you mean? Oh, I don't know about that. You have had some hard knocks, I take it, but if you are hell-fell they were out of the dark lower, they have made a bigger man of you."

"Think so?"

"I bet on it. We have had the Gaston epic done out for us in the newspapers. No man could live through such an experience as you must have had without growing a few inches. Hello! What's this?"

A turned corner had brought them in front of a lighted building in Texas street with a straggling crowd gathered about the porticoed entrance. As Loring spoke, there was a rattle of snare drums followed by the dum-dum of the bass, and a brass band rapped out the opening measures of a campaign march.

"It is a rally," said Kent, when they had passed far enough beyond the zone of brass-throated clamoring to make the reply audible. "I told you that the Gaston wolf-pack had gone into politics. We are in the throes of a State election, and there is to be a political speech-making to the Opera house to-night, with Bucks in the title role. And there is a fair measure of the deadness of the town! When you see people flock together like that to hear a brass band play, it means one of two things: that the town hasn't outgrown the country village stage, or else it has passed that and all other stages and is well on its way to the cemetery."

"That is one way of putting it," Loring rejoined. "If things are as bad as that, it's time you were moving on, don't you think?"

"I guess so," was the lack-luster response. "Only I don't know where to go, or what to do when I get there."

"They were crossing the open square front of the wide-aved passenger station. A thunderous tremor, dominating the distant band music, thrilled on the still air, and the extended arms of the station sprang with its two dangle lanterns wagged twice."

"My train," said Loring, quickening his step.

"No," Kent corrected. "It is a special from the west, bringing a Buck accord to the political rally. Number

FOURTEEN THOUSAND WORKING MEN THROUGH NOTRE DAME CHURCH AT SPECIAL LABOUR SERVICE

Last evening Notre Dame Church was crowded in answer to the appeal of His Grace Archbishop Bruchesi, to invest the labour celebration with a religious character.

The vast throng of over fourteen thousand men, was an inspiring scene. The altar was tastefully and beautifully decorated.

The English sermon was delivered by Rev. Fr. Callaghan from the pulpit of Notre Dame.

Labour like a good soldier of Christ Jesus. Timothy, chap. 2 vs. 2. The preacher began by thanking His Grace for the great honour conferred on him by selecting him to preach on so solemn an occasion.

When listening to the farewell address, I thought myself of the saying: His Grace's illustrious name, like the great apostle of the Gospels, St. Paul, "We should live soberly, justly and piously in this world, looking for the blessed hope and coming of the glory of the great God and our Saviour Jesus Christ."

Dear friends, you form a most important factor in our community. You are a power for good or for evil. Upon you in a great measure depends the rise or fall of our Dominion.

Strikes, violent or peaceful, should be avoided at all costs. Daily experience teaches that for the friends of peace derived thereby, if ever derived, they tend to impoverish the working man and his family.

DEPLORES STRIKES. In a recent pastoral letter written expressly for you, my dear friends, His Grace the Archbishop begs you for the sake of God, for the sake of yourselves and your families, not to have recourse to strikes.

Love your work. Glory in being hardy toilers. Manual labour has been always held in honour by the Church of Jesus Christ, who came upon earth to raise man to his proper level and dignity, dignified labour, yes He defined it.

CHURCH NOT OPPOSED TO UNIONS. The Catholic Church does not oppose your unions. These unions are for the mutual assistance and support of the members, and in union there is strength.

CHANGES HAVE TAKEN PLACE IN TEACHING STAFFS. The following changes have been made at St. Laurent and Cote des Neiges colleges for the scholastic year 1904-5.

faith and charity must ever characterize them. Unless they be grounded on such solid bases, those associations may thrive for time, but eventually they will dwindle into insignificance and end in being a menace to the commonwealth.

When listening to the farewell address, I thought myself of the saying: His Grace's illustrious name, like the great apostle of the Gospels, St. Paul, "We should live soberly, justly and piously in this world, looking for the blessed hope and coming of the glory of the great God and our Saviour Jesus Christ."

Dear friends, you form a most important factor in our community. You are a power for good or for evil. Upon you in a great measure depends the rise or fall of our Dominion.

Strikes, violent or peaceful, should be avoided at all costs. Daily experience teaches that for the friends of peace derived thereby, if ever derived, they tend to impoverish the working man and his family.

DEPLORES STRIKES. In a recent pastoral letter written expressly for you, my dear friends, His Grace the Archbishop begs you for the sake of God, for the sake of yourselves and your families, not to have recourse to strikes.

Canada and the Power to Make Her Own Treaties. BY JUDGE HODGINS. The following article on Canada and the treaty-making power was written by Judge Hodgins, of the Admiralty Court, and appeared in the Canadian Magazine.

In 1842, Lord Ashburnton, in ignorance of the boundary line on the Franklin "Red Line Map of 1782," ceded over 4,000,000 acres of Canadian lands, and by extending Maine 86 miles north into Canada, placed a barrier between Montreal and the Atlantic. The map had been discovered by Dr. Sparks of Harvard University, in the French Archives, and forwarded to Mr. Webster.

Another says that for the Crown to admit the treaty-making power upon Canada "would mean the dissolution of the integrity of the Empire."

THE EAST INDIA CO. The East India Company, by virtue of the Royal Charter, often exercised an independent treaty-making power. In 1713, a treaty between the Nabob of Arcot in the Carnate and the East India Company came before the Emperor's court, and it was held that, although the company were mere subjects with relation to Great Britain, their political treaties, under their designation of sovereignty, were the same as treaties between two independent sovereigns.

CHICAGO REMAINS OUT

Chicago, September 5.—The return to work of the 3,500 strikers in New York City will have no material effect upon the general situation in the stock yards strike, according to President Donnelly, of the Butchers' Union.

THE FALL RIVER STRIKE

Fall River, Mass., September 5.—Without concessions from either side and with no apparent prospect of a settlement, the 5,000 New England textile operatives have entered upon their seventh week.

ANOTHER ITALIAN FEUD OF OLD WORLD

Two Italians Killed and One Fatally Injured in Boarding House.

Niagara Falls, N.Y., September 5.—Two persons were killed and another was fatally wounded in a shooting and stabbing affray in an Italian boarding house here last night.

The dead are: Antonio Pasquale, 23 years old; Sautino Sivizera, 22 years old. Fatally injured, Carmine Spacone, 23 years old.

Pasquale was shot and instantly killed. Spacone, who is suspected of having fired the shot, was wounded with a long stiletto in the point entering his back at the side and the blade entering his lower intestines.

The man saw Carmine Spacone and his brother Vincenzo, once Pasquale's upstairs. A minute later shots were heard, and the two Spacones came running downstairs.

The minds of a great many American cranberry-growers, Mr. Fosdick said, "have been turned lately to Canada. We know that there are hundreds of thousands of acres of land in the far North-West which is too marshy for other agricultural purposes and yet, on all descriptions, should be exactly suitable for growing cranberries."

It may not be as evident to you in Canada as it is to us in the United States that the way of the cranberry is spreading. The succulent cranberry pie has invaded every quarter of the globe, and no cot, no matter how humble, can be properly called contented unless its Christmas turkey is garnished with the rich red sauce which is now almost traditional on this continent.

"Well, all this requires raw material and requires it in such quantities that we poor growers of Massachusetts, Michigan, Wisconsin and a few other places can hardly keep up with the demand."

"Cranberries thrive best in moist and rather chilly places, whereas are turned our eyes to our geographers of North-West Canada. Mosquitoes, I may remark, possess no terror for this hardy plant, and it is expected that in the next few years to find a large proportion of the world's supply of cranberries grown in Canada."

"It takes about three years for a cranberry marsh to become productive. Vines cost from $2 to $5 a barrel, and six or eight barrels are needed to the acre."

BOUGHT A BICYCLE INSTEAD. The Rev. George C. Wright, who for eighteen years has been a city missionary in Lowell, Massachusetts, tells an interesting story of his efforts to prevent young mill operatives from marrying before their wages would support a home.

A young man who had not yet attained the voting age, and who frequently had attended the evening services at the mill, was one day in the office one morning, and told him that he had been keeping company with a girl for several weeks, and wanted to marry her at once.

The clergyman found that his wages left him a margin of only three dollars over his board, and advised the young man to be responsible for the matrimonial step. The young man was reluctant to accept the advice, but finally agreed to let the matter over for six months.

Mr. Wright lost sight of him soon afterward, and did not come across him again in several months. The following conversation took place:

"Well, John, how are you getting along in the mill?" "All right, I've got a steady job, and am doing well."

"And how about the marriage?" "I gave that up long ago."

"What was the matter?" asked the clergyman, seeing, as he thought, the fruit of his advice.

"Well," replied the young man seriously, "I bought a bicycle instead."

Fatal Nitroglycerine Explosion.

Findlay, O., September 5.—Five are dead and an equal number seriously injured as the result of a premature explosion of a quantity of nitroglycerine, near Upper Sandusky, today.

The dead: Maion Lookabaugh, Findlay; Lefe McKay, Findlay; Jos. Fox, Lima; Corne W. Upper Sandusky; Emanuel Ucan, Cincinnati.

Three of the injured are expected to die. The accident occurred while McKay, an oil well shooter, was engaged in lowering the nitro-glycerine. The cause of the explosion is unknown.

CRANBERRIES TO BE GROWN IN CANADA

U. S. Growers Turn Longing Eyes to Marshes of North-West

WILL START FARMS THERE

World's Demand is Getting Too Large for Them to Supply at Home.

Considerable interest is being taken in the project of raising cranberries on the muskeg and marshlands of the North-West Territory by a number of United States farmers and capitalists.

Mr. Lucian J. Fosdick, of Carver, Mass., who is much interested in the project, was in Montreal yesterday on his way home from St. Louis, where he had been taking part in the conference on cranberry growing and explaining the exhibit which is located in Gallery "N" of the Agricultural Building.

The minds of a great many American cranberry-growers, Mr. Fosdick said, "have been turned lately to Canada. THE CLEVEREST THIEF THAT PARIS HAS EVER KNOWN

The most cunning and successful thief of that Paris has ever known has reached the end of his career.

For twenty years he has been suspected or known to be implicated in various daring and famous crimes. Pickpocket, sneak thief, card sharp, swindler, constantly under the surveillance of the most perfect police system in the world, he was never caught in the act.

Handsome, a dandy among dandies, a leasur, a boss-up, rich by dint of two decades of masterly dexterity and cunning, the friend of dukes, princes, and even kings, who marvelled at his strange accomplishments and permitted him to frequent the most exclusive circles, he was a man of many talents.

He was a popular and much sought after man in the hope of an insane asylum who sought his aid in trying to convince his keeper that he is of royal blood, a Bourbon king by birth, but one destined to meet a violent end.

Tales of Home-Run Haggerty.

How He Nullified the Bunt Nullifier and Glass Arm Ameliorator.

"Here's something that struck me as funny. I went to a big league game the other day, and the first batter on one of the teams bunted. He bunted the ball down in front of the pitcher's mound, and the pitcher stepped down to catch it. When the ball was in his hands, he looked at the pitcher and said: 'That's a bunt, but it's a bunt that's not a bunt.'"

"That's the way to play the game. Drop 'em right in front of the pan." "Hard luck. He ought to be safe."

"The next minute the second batter got up on his toes and ketches the ball on the end of his bat and it went out like a streak of light on a dead line. The pitcher and the batter both looked at the ball with two fingers, running backward, and the batter walked in from where he's been bunted. The pitcher said to the gang around me: 'That's a bunt, but it's a bunt that's not a bunt.'"

Korean Superstitious.

Corea is a land of pleasure, of languid business, and of... materialism. It is the least religious of all the lands of the East. A mild form of Confucianism is the dominant religion, and the only sentiment approaching religion is ancestor-worship.

Index, such religion as exists in Corea is the most curious in the world, and is after the manner of the many monasteries scattered about the land, and these are a proof that Buddhism has never really prevailed, but these institutions are not really religious, but are really a superstition.

The Barber and His Rival

Chalkley Leeds, the first Mayor of Atlantic City, recalls at the city's sixtieth anniversary some interesting reminiscences of the town's early life.

"I call to mind," he said, "two rival barbers. They have been dead a long time now. They had shops opposite one another in Atlantic ave., and the competition between them was brisk and bitter."

"Smith, the younger barber, always had his hair cut and dressed in the most graceful and correct manner, and he was always shaved beautifully. Brown, on the other hand, would shave badly, with a cut on his chin and a patch of overlooked beard on his cheek, and his hair would be cut in steps, as a though a child had done it."

"Smith couldn't understand why his rival displayed on his own person such poor examples of barbering, and he sent a friend to Brown's one day as a detective."

"The man got shaved. During the process he said: 'How is it, Mr. Brown, when you are yourself a barber, how do you manage to get up from the razor?'

"Why," said Brown, "the explanation is simple enough. I can't cut my own hair, and so I get my rival across the street to do it, and he shaves me, too. You see the result?'

MOST SUCCESSFUL MEETING EVER HELD

The D. R. A. Competition Just Closed, Most Satisfactory. INTEREST NEVER SO GOOD

The Rifle Meeting Was a Memorable One and the Results Were Gratifying.

Special to The Montreal Star.

Ottawa, September 5.—The most successful meeting ever held by the Dominion Rifle Association closed on Friday, but the final returns were only fully made known on Saturday when the statistical office finally got through. The arrangements this year have been carried out with that military precision which should, but does not always, characterize rifle matches.

The fact that 200 tyros entered this year, and a large number of them got the second stage of the Governor-General's competition was most encouraging, showing as it does that the encouragement of tyros promotes an interest in the sport.

There was also some complaint at the quality of the ammunition, but the fact that the scoring was generally so high goes to point out that there was no really serious ground for complaint.

THE LATEST RESULTS. The Goswick Cup competition was carried out late Friday in a pouring rain. The possible is 600 points.

THE REVOLVER MATCH. Five rounds at 25 yards, lasted throughout the week. The possible is 60 and the first two on the list, shot an extra card for the two revolvers.

AN ABDUCTION CASE AT BROCKVILLE.

The Defendant, An Italian, Was Committed for Trial on Saturday.

Special to The Montreal Star.

Brockville, September 5.—The first hearing in an interesting abduction case took place on Saturday, before Police Magistrate Deacon. Tony Ruggino, an Italian about 40 years of age, was charged with the abduction of the two children of Fred Widdis—Lulla and Lillie, aged 13 and 11 years respectively.

MUST ENRICH INHERITANCE.

"All honest study must enrich the inheritance of his successors, and his Grace thought, as a representative of that science, that it had not spoken its last word before the world of suffering, struggling, aspiring, and he ventured to say, believing humanity, it was in that spirit that he accepted the honor, but I consider it so small a matter and of not interior importance to the others, to become a member of one whose long history has still to be written."
