9 Lessons Carol Sung At Christmas By Advent Choir

The Carol Service of the Nine Lessons was held in the Church of the Advent, Westmount, on Sunday, Dec. 27, at 7 p.m. The service was conducted by the rector, Rev. Alexander Mellor, assisted by Rev. Canon Sydenham B. Lindsay. Representatives of the various church organizations also took part. The choir was directed by Lorne W. West, organist and choirmaster.

This popular Christmas service traced the birth of Christ through the Bible writings and the music of many lands. Soloists at the service were Masters Allan Lamb, Peter Bildfell, and David Ross, all of Lachine, and Master Peter Mellor, Westmount.

The second presentation of this service will be held in the church on Sunday, Jan. 3, 1954, at 4 p.m.

CFCF Will Air News And Views Of Teen-agers

By MARTY GOODMAN

A half hour long daily radio program—strictly for teen-agers—will be initiated by radio station CFCF Monday, to give local students the opportunity to voice their opinions on a self-organized show.

All high schools, including West Hill, Westmount and Montreal West, have been invited to take part. Final arrangements were worked out at a meeting Tuesday.

The program will be put on daily from 4:30 - 5 p.m., and opinions are that it will go a long way towards building student spirit and interest. The first week will be basically explanatory, and schools will choose special radio committees to handle news and views.

Gradually, officials of the radio station hope to work in sports announcements, with a different student handling the chores each day. A platter panel is another project—new release records will be heard each day and discussed by representatives.

There will be interviews with students—those who have done something to merit special attention at school, and with show-people, all done by the pupils themselves.

CFCF also plans to donate tickets to various events, then take opinion polls of the teen-agers. Student talent will get a chance to go on display later, while the program will also offer social and club news.

Student council presidents, who attended the initial meeting, hailed the idea. "It will be the first time that students have a chance to express their own views, problems and news on their own program," one said, "while it will all take place as an extra-curricular activity."

One of the chief advantages of the program will be the opportunity for any students seriously interested in radio to become well-acquainted with the medium, while the knowledge gained is useful in many other fields as well.

Anne Conrod, president of West Hill's student council, was most enthusiastic over the activity.

Different Idea

"It is a completely different idea", she said, "and is a wonderful way to let each school know day, January 5th at 8.30 p.m. Members of the executive are reminded of an executive meeting at 7 p.m. before the dance.

New Year's Schedule

The "Y" building will close at 6 p.m. on December 31st, and regular classes will commence on Monday, January 4th.

what the others are doing."

She pointed out how closely the idea of the program followed the main thought of the student councils conference recently concluded—to interchange ideas and views.

Her immediate plans are to publicize the idea around school, and she hopes to have a council meeting Monday. Representatives will then report to their classes, and in this way the news will be transmitted throughout the school.

All those interested and willing to give of their time and energy will be taken for the first program, but gradually the number is expected to exceed the demand. Then a committee will be formed to run the school's affairs on the show, and prepare the news for each day.

The program, while prepared by students, will have Pat Murray of CFCF as MC, while Mike Wood will supervise the show. Wood recently conducted a similar program in Toronto most successfully.

The program will be held before a radio audience, composed of high school students, and tickets will be proportionately allocated. Some 150 can be accommodated in the radio station's studio.

Another meeting is scheduled to be held in two weeks, when the council presidents and their school radio committees will plan for the balance of the year.

YEAR OF DEVELOPMENT: In the Royal Canadian Navy, 1953 was a year of development, fleet expansion, training and travel. Ships of the fleet sailed many thousands of miles in the fulfillment of training and special assignments. There was the Coronation Naval Review, in which six RCN ships participated; the Far Eastern theatre, where three Canadian destroyers continue to serve; Exercise Mariner, massive NATO war games in which five Canadian warships took part, and a continuous series of other cruises designed to provide practical experience for ships and their officers and men. The photographs above reflect a small portion of the Royal Canadian Navy's activities during the year. 1. The destroyer HMCS ATHABASKAN, veteran of the Korean war, which returned to Esquimalt, B.C., December 11 to complete her third tour of operations in the Far East. 2. Training of personnel has been a keynote of the year's program. Two members of a gun crew are seen in action on board HMCS PORTAGE during a training cruise to Bermuda. 3. The skyline of Manhattan forms the background in this picture of the ship's company of the aircraft carrier HMCS MAGNIFICENT at Divine Service during a visit to New York. 4. HMCS ALGONQUIN, former destroyer converted and rebuilt as an anti-submarine destroyer escort, was commissioned during the year. 5. An AVENGER anti-submarine aircraft about to make a roaring take-off from the flight deck of the Magnificent. 6. One of the most spectacular sights of the CORONATION was the illumination of the fleet following the Naval Review of Spithead. 7. Personnel of HMCS QUEBEC give a rousing cheer as the Royal Yacht carrying Her Majesty Queen Elizabeth passes the cruiser during the Naval Review. 8. The Korean truce was signed last July, but Canadian destroyers still serve in the Far East. The vigilance they are helping to maintain is depicted here by AB William T. ## Naval Strength Is At Peacetime High During 1953, Defence Department Says

Canada's naval strength reached a new peacetime high in 1953.

At the end of the year, the Royal Canadian Navy had more ships and more men than at any time since the war-time forces were demobilized.

Coincident with this expansion in size was an evident increase in experience and efficiency, achieved largely through an intensive program of training carried out during the year both a sea and ashore. Ships currently in commission include an aircraft carrier, two cruisers, eight destroyers, one destroyer escort, five frigates, four minesweepers, five coastal escorts and 16 miscellaneous craft. The minesweepers are the first of 14 new construction 'sweepers due to be completed by next summer. Six of these will go to France under the Mutual Aid agreement.

Besides those ships in service, the Navy has another 56 in reserve. Twenty of these have been modernized and most of the remainder are in varying stages of modernization. Additional ships, including an aircraft carrier, 14 destroyer escorts and an Arctic patrol vessel are under construc-

NEW YEAR'S DAY, 1954

A Happy New Year!

Look Backward, Take Stock, And Make Some Good Resolutions

New Year's Day is a good time to look backward, to take stock of yourself, to try to learn and improve from past mistakes. We read of a group of young folk who had organized a "no-resolutions society", a sort of "eat, drink, and be merry and to hell with it" attitude. Fortunately, such irresponsibility in youth soon gives way to the realization that the problems of life can only be overcome by facing up to them, unpleasantly as that might be, and not by ignoring them. The young man who hopes to succeed will early appraise the problems ahead of him and plan to surmount them. Most of these problems that stand in the way of his advancement can be solved by the old-fashioned method of hard work. The majority of our successful men read and studied, working out their problems while others played. That old formula isn't always popular with young folks, but nothing has yet been discovered to take the place of competence, and competence comes from diligence applied to intelligence.

Yes, this is the time to look back, to take stock of yourself, to try to discover what mistakes you made during the year just closing, and to plan to avoid them in future. Sometimes mistakes are serious and discouraging, but they are seldom of such magnitude as to get an intelligent and courageous man "down". Remember the ancient swords made of Damascus steel: they could be bent until the point touched the handle, but they never broke. When the pressure was removed, they sprang straight and true. That characteristic in humans is one of the principal causes of success.

New Year's Day is traditionally the time to make resolutions. Wise is the man who still does so, and keeps them.

APPRAISAL

By Rev. Canon R. Kenneth Naylor
 (Rector of Trinity Memorial Church)

Many people are submitting their year's business to the scrutiny of auditors who will determine for them whether the business is in a healthy condition or not. Others, less formally, are studying last year's affairs to see what mistakes they have made, and can be corrected; what advantages they have gained which can be carried still farther. It is a healthy exercise even if we do find at times that our gains are disconcertingly small. We may find that some very clever deal which we were proud of at the time has left nothing behind it but a sense of shame that we were too clever by half.

When all this is done formally the auditors will in some cases, at least, submit a report suggesting changes and improvements. Such and such a practice has brought financial loss and must be abandoned. Some other practice has not brought the gain that might have been expected of it and must be corrected at some points. And even the less formal surveys will be pursued to similar ends.

But if that is true in our business affairs it is no less true in our personal life. After all we are not standing still in our lives; we are going somewhere; we are certainly changing from year to year, and a little personal survey of our lives would be very good for us. Most of us are aware of defects and inconsistencies in ourselves. By defects, I mean points at which we fall short of a real Christian character; there is some bad habit, some weakness or flaw in our character which we know should be eradicated. But we are too lazy to make the effort; or we may say that no one will notice it in us, though we should be very quick to notice it in others. The bad-tempered man notes bad temper in others much more quickly than he corrects it in himself.

By inconsistencies in our characters I mean those many things which do not agree with our Christian profession, "which is to follow the example of our Saviour Christ and to be made like unto Him," to quote the Anglican Prayer Book. They are the things which we have accepted into our character as something positive, like pride or self-assertiveness, or aggression, which are essentially wrong, and essentially different from the following of Christ.

We shall always be in need of self-examination to see if we have made any progress in eliminating these known wrongs, which are as clear to ourselves as to others if we only look at them honestly. But a general overhaul at the end of the year is useful, because there is a very widespread habit of making New Year's resolutions and we cannot make such resolutions wisely unless we have examined and appraised the past

Christian Science

The necessity of a spiritual basis for genuine peace and brotherhood will be stressed in the Lesson-Sermon entitled "God" which will be read at Christian Science church services on Sunday.

The Responsive Reading is from the King James Version of Psalms, and includes the following: "God is our refuge and strength, a very present help in trouble . . . He maketh wars to cease unto the end of the earth; he breaketh the bow, and cutteth the spear in sunder; he burneth the chariot in the fire."

Total revenue of the ten provincial governments last year was $1,221,000,000. Federal government revenue that year was $4,374,628,000.

tion, with the Arctic patrol ship scheduled to complete in the spring of 1954. There are also nine naval ships, including three frigates, on loan to other government departments.

By the end of 1953, there were 16,377 officers, men and Wrens on full-time naval duty. This was two-and-a-half times the personnel strength of the RCN in December, 1947.

More than 3,500 of the Navy's officers and men are veterans of service in the Korean theatre, where Canada continues to maintain three destroyers, despite the truce. This has been a continuous commitment almost since the beginning of hostilities, and one Canadian destroyer, HMCS Athabaskan, has three complete tours of Korean duty, totalling 34½ months, to her credit.

Now serving in the Far East are the Huron, Crusader and Iroquois. The Iroquois is due to be relieved at the first of the year by the Cayuga and the Huron will be succeeded by the Haida early in February.

in patrol, blockade, bombardment and carrier screening duties on both coasts of Korea. In the first half of 1953 they achieved an enviable reputation as "train-busters" wrecking with their guns a number of trains on the main communist rail line on the east coast of the peninsula. Top scorer in the UN fleet was the Crusader, with 4½ trains to her credit. The Haida bagged three and the Athabaskan two.

Since the cease-fire, the Canadian ships have been carrying out patrols, taking part in exercises and visiting, in the course of their UN duties, such famous Far East ports as Hong Kong and Manila.

Units of the fleet not committed to Korean operations engaged during the year in a continuous series of training cruises and exercises. Notable among these was NATO "Exercise Mariner", the largest maritime manoeuvres ever conducted. Five RCN ships — the Magnificent (aircraft carrier), Quebec (cruiser), Algonquin (destroyer escort) and frigates Swansea and La Hullose — took part.

But the year's most ambitious single undertaking for the RCN was the provision of a Coronation Squadron of six ships with a total complement of more than 3,000 officers and men. The squadron, composed of the Magnificent, the cruisers Ontario and Quebec, the destroyer Sioux and the frigates Swansea and La Hullose, represented Canada in the spectacular Coronation Naval Review at Spithead on June 15.

Naval personnel also took part in the Coronation procession, marching with the tri-service Canadian Coronation Contingent and lining the street in the vicinity of Canada House.

Naval Aviation
It was an active year for naval aviation. Every opportunity was taken to carry out flying training from HMCS Magnificent, and in Exercise Mariner, despite frequent unfavorable weather conditions, the ship's fighter and anti-submarine squadrons flew on 15 of the 19 days and logged 833 hours in the air.

The expansion of training and other operations at HMCS Shearwater, the RCN Air Station at Dartmouth, N.S., resulted in the transfer of the 30th Support Air Group, with its two squadrons of aircraft and ground personnel, to Summerside, P.E.I.

The importance of the Royal Canadian Navy (Reserve) in Canada's naval structure was emphasized with the establishment at Hamilton of a separate command to administer the reserve. Reserve training was carried out in 22 naval divisions across Canada and, during the summer months, in ships and schools of the RCN and at the Reserve Training Establishment, Great Lakes, in Hamilton.

From a naval aspect, the year produced numerous highlights. One was the commissioning in February of HMCS Algonquin, former destroyer converted into an anti-submarine destroyer escort. From the hull up, the Algonquin was almost entirely rebuilt. The ship embodies many of the features of the destroyer escorts under construction for the RCN and contains the most modern available equipment for the detection and destruction of submarines.

HOWES - CRAIG

A candlelight ceremony was performed in Dominion-Douglas Church, Westmount, Tuesday evening at seven o'clock, when Linda Allison, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Craig, jr., of Westmount, became the bride of Mr. John Denison Howes, son of Rev. and Mrs. J. W. Howes, of Drummondville, Que., formerly of St. Georges, Bermuda. Rev. Dr. A. Lloyd Smith performed the ceremony, assisted by the bridegroom's father, Mr. John Robb was at the organ, and Master Peter Bildfell sang. Christmas trees decorated with blue lights and silver tinsel, with candelabra and white chrysanthemums decorated the church.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was attended by Miss Doreen Armstrong, as maid of honor, with Miss Margot McCrae and Miss Edith Howes, sister of the bridegroom, as bridesmaids. Rev. Eric McIlwain acted as best man, and the ushers were Mr. Allan Craig, brother of the bride, and Cadet James Van Vliet, cousin of the bridegroom.

The bride wore a gown of Chantilly lace over taffeta, the long

The maid of honor, wearing Christmas blue taffeta shot with rose and silver, and the bridesmaids, in rose, shot with silver blue thread were dressed alike in strapless taffeta frocks having full pleated skirts, and topped by shrug jackets. They wore matching mitts and headdresses of white feathers, while they carried bouquets of white chrysanthemums and holly leaves.

The bridegroom's mother, Mrs. Howes, in a frock of peacock blue and black iridescent taffeta, wore black velvet accessories with a cluster of yellow Talisman roses at her shoulder.

In the Oak Room of Victoria Hall, white chrysanthemums and tall white candles decorated the bride's table for the reception. Leaving later on the wedding trip to Quebec City before taking up residence in Ste Anne de Bellevue, the bride wore a wine shade suit under a charcoal grey and wine coat, with white hat and black suede accessories, her corsage bouquet of white gardenias.

Out-of-town guests attending the wedding included Mr. and Mrs. John Van Vliet, of Lacolle.

Both the bride and the bridegroom graduated in 1952 from Macdonald College for Teachers.

Master-chef Hans Fread Is Feature On CBC Television's 'Cooking School' For Gourmets

On the program "Hans in the Kitchen", a Tuesday-night feature on CBC television, Hans Fread welcomes all friends of the fine art of cooking. The show includes general hints to interest the home-maker, but it is the host's emphasis on the gourmet touch that sets it apart from an ordinary "cooking school". Its popularity is proved by the mail response. About 100 letters arrive for Fread every week — the greatest number from the Ottawa-Hull district, but many also from the Toronto-Hamilton area and a regular flow from a group of ardent cooks living at Lockport, New York.

Hans Fread arrived in Canada into the restaurant business and eventually into TV by a remarkably circuitous route. Seventeen years ago he was a lawyer in Germany who found himself on the wrong side of the Nazi fence. He fled to Canada, his choice at the time because his second language is French. Arriving in Montreal, he found a job as a dishwasher. "I figured if I was around a kitchen," he recalls, "I could always get something to eat." But his fluent French came to the rescue and he was promoted to the rank of waiter.

He was still a waiter when he moved to Toronto, but by that time he had resolved to open his own restaurant. This he managed to do in 1948, when The Sign of the Steer opened on Dupont Street in Toronto. The assets to begin with were meagre, but Fread's steaks and chops, continental style, appear to have made up for any other deficiency.

His debut on TV came at Christmas, 1952, when Mavor Moore, chief producer at CBLT, asked him to demonstrate before the cameras the correct method of carving a turkey. The audience responded to his obvious skill, as well as to his engaging personality, and he was booked for regular appearances.

Fread always sticks firmly to his dictum that cooking is an art. And now he knows beyond doubt that there are many fellow-gourmets in the CBC's viewing audience who like to experiment with out-of-the-way recipes that take patience, an instinct for spicing and blending and, above all, plenty of time.

In spite of his sudden popularity as a TV performer, he still considers his program of secondary interest. But his off-hand attitude towards it probably enhances its fascination; he speaks without reservation or apology as one enthusiast to another. His approach is continental and sophisticated and in the talk that accompanies his demonstrations he tries to inject the atmosphere in which he believes fine food should be served and eaten.

Fread has only two rules of life. "Live well and be happy," he says. "Nothing should interfere." A man of substance, married and with two growing sons, two dachshunds and a TV program that gives him the opportunity to talk about his favorite subject, he seems to have discovered a formula for putting his philosophy into practice.

Canadian Cancer Society Reviews Activities
 Voluntary Workers Number Well Over 500

Mr. George S. Cowie, President of the Canadian Cancer Society, (Quebec Division) receives a $300.00 donation from Mrs. E. R. Frigon of the Junior Branch of the Engineering Institute, convener of a Fashion Show organized by the Institute, the proceeds of which constituted the gift.

Here are some of the other achievements of the volunteer groups of the Canadian Cancer Society: One of the chief activities of the volunteer workers is the making of cancer dressings. This very important phase in what I might call the production of welfare, operates under the very able supervision of Mrs. Spearman, who trains workers and organizes working groups. This sphere of activity in the Canadian Cancer Society has seen its share of growth as the following figures will show.

In 1950, with 12 groups working alternately, they succeeded in making enough dressings to supply 49 patients. In 1952, the number of patients supplied with dressings jumped to 325.

This year, with 53 groups working, 398 patients have been supplied with dressings. During the past ten months, the volunteer workers now numbering well over 500, have supplied 764,940 dressings for 398 patients, 267 of which are in Montreal.

It was inevitable that such an expansion of the service should call for a decentralization, so, in 1952, a progressive decentralization process was inaugurated with the establishment of a dressings section in Quebec City and Sherbrooke will open its own dressings section in the very near future, presumably in January.

Another major project on the volunteer ladies' program is the sponsorship of Trend Teas or fund raising plans. The first Trend Tea was sponsored by the T. Eaton Co. in October of last year. Although no collection was made then, the momentum was there gathered, which resulted in the successful organization of more Trend Teas, proceeds of which were presented to the Canadian Cancer Society for the purchase of a service station wagon. In all, 19 Trend Teas in the form of fashion shows, bridge or cocktail parties were held, with the result that the auxiliary women's volunteer groups presented the society with a shiny new station wagon on April 15.

On October 5 of this year, under the sponsorship of Holt, Renfrew & Co., the volunteer workers organized a fashion show which was the means of raising $1,206. to be applied to the further maintenance insurance and housing of the society station wagon.

Since 1950, the volunteers in the various dressings groups have provided for the maintenance of gift cupboards. Seven such gift cupboards are now maintained. They have established visiting committees to bring cheer to cancer patients, with gifts of flowers, magazines, etc., provided by the cupboards. They have, in certain individual cases, promoted occupational therapy, by providing facilities for knitting, stamp collecting and other enjoyable pastimes.

 Heather Ladies' Rink

The Heather ladies' curling club is entertaining at a bridge, tea and curling on Wednesday Jan. 6, at the club house. Mrs. G. Arthur Wood will be in charge of the bridge, and the 'Greens' will serve tea.

The president Mrs. Bruce Adair and the vice-president Mrs. I. Tait will receive the guests. Rinks from the following clubs have been invited. Montreal West, Royal Montreal, St. George, Outremont, Mount Royal, Lachine, Pointe Claire, Ste. Annes, St. John's and a rink from the Ladies' curling association.

Certain individual patients have been the recipients of parcels of food, clothing and other niceties, after investigation by our Medical Social Worker, Miss St-Martin.

In 1952, our volunteers provided 121 patients with elaborate Christmas parcels, and in certain cases, each member in the family of the patient received a cheering Christmas gift.

Some volunteers have assisted by wrapping dressings for out-of-town or other patients who are unable to have them fetched.

Some volunteers have helped and are still helping with the clerical work on a year-round basis, with additional time given in campaign period.

Others have helped in the transportation of patients to clinics, collection and delivery of parcels of dressings, or collection of dressing material and gift packages.

Almost all volunteers have been of tremendous service during campaigns. In addition to canvassing, they have done work telephoning, making lists, preparing cards and filing.

Now you have the whole picture: a picture of achievement through individual and collective effort. A picture of meritorious devotion to this labor of mercy. A picture of self-sacrifice. A picture of hard workers who have, as their only earthly reward, the satisfaction of having done good for their neighbors, without even knowing who they are.

NCW President's New Year Message

"Women of Good Will"
"Les Femmes de bonne volonté."

We have just emerged from our Christmas season when the spirit of good will has been foremost in the Christian world.

We now enter upon a new year and we are wishing happiness to all. When describing council women who work together in a spirit of Good Will — "Les Femmes de bonne volonté". By that I mean first and foremost volunteer women who work together in a spirit of good will in the community. I mean by that women who are so enthused about accomplishing good works that they have no time or thought for pettiness or meanness. No interest in indulging in small talk about one another, which will impede Council work.

You are a federation of great women banded together in service for others. Women of the past uniting with women of the present to plan and work for the future.

I salute you "Women of Good Will." May you have peace in your minds and hearts this year.

Kimono-Clad Girls, Jack-o-Lanterns Featured At Bell Yule-Time Oriental Party

Kimono-clad girls, jack-o-lanterns, incense and the flip-flop shuffle of soft-soled eastern slippers were recently the mode at Bell Telephone's Snowdon office though not an oriental was present.

The dainty slant eyes on the 12 hostesses were effected to carry out the motif of a truly oriental dinner prepared by the girls of the Design for Living group sponsored by the Bell Telephone Company — as an after-hours activity for women employees.

The guests checked their shoes, donned heel-less slippers and squatted cross-legged on cushions on the floor where to the reedy tones of a clarinet they tried eating with chopsticks.

The party developed from an idea by one of the girls in the group, directed by Dora Bonneville. They wanted their term-end dinner to be unusual and when Louise Houde suggested the oriental theme the girls went all out.

The cafeteria was borrowed for the evening. Chinese lanterns, incense burners and oriental decorations transformed the room. Chairs were moved out and cushions were supplied for seating accommodation.

After business during the past few weeks the girls met to fashion Chinese slippers for the guests and to make kimonos and hats for themselves. Make-up supplied oriental complexions and slant eyes and then the girls were ready to meet their guests. Supervisors and company officials turned out in full force, gaily checked their shoes and enjoyed the oriental party.

WHAT WILL 1954 BRING, MUSICALLY SPEAKING?

As 1953 nears its finale, we all wonder what is in store for us in 1954! Musically speaking, one can never guess but can only anticipate and hope for happy surprises. One special event of momentous interest that is definitely in the offing is the celebration of the fiftieth anniversary of our Alma Mater, the McGill Conservatorium of Music, which was founded in 1904, the official opening having been attended by the Governor General and Lady Minto. Much detail will be announced later in these columns.

We read with interest that Lady Roddick is founding a "Poetry Records Room" in the Redpath Library at McGill where a student can listen to recorded poetry which in many instances will be by the author himself. It has been stated that the listener will know exactly what the poet intended his creation to sound like. This is an excellent opportunity being afforded those who are studying this artistic medium.

The music student has many advantages of this nature although not all composers are artists but the records, radio and television have shown many progressions. Even when the composer has not always been an able performer, he has put in the correct tempo and the marks of expression in his works... if the composer has not already done so then the editor employed by the publishing firm has done it or added to some composer's few marks of expression... likewise good teachers have been able to demonstrate and explain so music students have had this benefit and those who have good advantages should have no cause for por interpretations.

There is a new trend everywhere in many fields... "do-it-yourself" well... amateur musicians have been doing just that always... they have to "do-it-yourself" if they want to "make music". Amateur orchestras, dilettante, and students have a lead on the "do-it-yourself" campaign, painters and hobbyists of every kind... lamp base makers, ceramics, costume designers, carpenters and all home decorators. Praise to the amateur musicians who have forerunners in this movement!

The Christmas and New Year Season always brings happy memories, greetings from old friends, colleagues and pupils... colourful cards of all types from far and near... Among the many...

Everything Unusual Happens To Pop-Singer Joan Fairfax

If, the unusual is going to happen to a singer, put your money on Joan Fairfax and you'll have a sure bet that it will happen to her. This young lady's career is already peppered with interesting happenings, and if they continue to occur at the present rate, she will probably wind up as one of Ripley's "believe-it-or-nots."

Who else, for example, would credit the depression of 1930 with being one of the big breaks in life? Her Dad, like many others, lost his job in England, where they lived, and brought his family to Canada to make a fresh start. Although she was only two at the time, it was this that brought her to Canada and she feels she has been given a chance here which would never have been offered in the U.K.

Another big moment for her was her audition for the CBC in 1951. She recalls that the accompanist couldn't play her numbers so she had to accompany herself. To this day she contends that those judging her performance did not know she was singing at the piano. The audition landed her a spot on the CBC's Latin American Serenade.

"Unique" is the only word for her nomination as "Miss TV of Canada". At the time, there was no such thing as Canadian television and it was six months before the first station went on the air. Also greatly cherished by her is the invitation she received to appear on Arthur Godfrey's talent program. Here again she had an unusual experience. She had to turn the invitation down because she was too busy!

Godfrey doesn't know it, but he wasn't the only loser, for he missed out on a Fairfax apple pie which she had planned to take to New York as a present for the exponent of "humility". From all accounts (including her husband's) pies don't come any better than those from her kitchen.

The amount of material constituting the sun is equivalent to 300,000 earths rolled into one, according to the Encyclopedia Britannica.

Northern Combines To Meet Favored Southern Bombers

New York, N.Y.—A heavy, last-minute flurry of betting is expected in metropolitan centres throughout the United States and Canada today as it becomes apparent that the Garbage Bowl game will be played in Montreal West, Quebec, on New Year's Day.

Previously, a carefully-preserved shroud of secrecy had surrounded the annual classic, which has been played before capacity crowds every year since January 1, 1950, for no authoritative source could be reached to determine whether or not the 1954 classic had been postponed for security reasons. However, an unnamed official gave the green light and the game is officially on.

The decision to play the Garbage

Bowl game rounds out a quintet of top-flight attractions for football fans on Friday. There is the Rose Bowl game at Pasadena, the Cotton Bowl at Dallas, Texas, the Sugar Bowl at New Orleans, Louisiana, the Orange Bowl at Miami, Florida; and the Southern Bombers will play against the Northern Combines in the Garbage Bowl game in Montreal West.

A dance was held Tuesday night and all proceeds from the game and dance will be given to the School for Crippled Children.

Odds-makers have installed the South as favorites in the Run from the Garbage, with the morning line showing the Bombers at 6½-5 or by seven points.

Officials of each team, playing their cards close to their vests, declined comment on the progress shown by the respective twelves in pre-game drills, all of which have been conducted in secrecy, away from the spying eyes of the opposition. Last year a considerable amount of pre-game scouting was done.

HOPE FOR DRY FIELD

The secret drills have been proceeding satisfactorily, officials of both teams intimated, and each club was evidently hoping for a dry, fast field. Both twelves have placed the emphasis on speed and deception for the 1954 game, a far cry from other New Year tussles which have been played in snow and mud and featured driving line play by the contestants.

The weatherman has expressed the opinion that a cold, dry day is in prospect, but also warned against the possibility of the usual January thaw. Both of the teams feel that such a thaw would be disastrous to their plans, for the Garbage Bowl committee was unsuccessful in their attempts to locate a tarpaulin, their prospective vendor, Varsity Stadium in Toronto, refusing to part with the famous Canadian Rugby Union tarp.

THE UNIFORMS

Bombers, the defending champions and winners of three of the past four tussles, will again wear their natty pyjamas. The Combines team will be all decked out in dazzling red underwear.

Now the question of the hour is: Which will prove more effective, Southern's short punt formation or Northern's split-T?

This question will be answered on Friday, come rain or shine. Game time: 1.30.

Nine players in the National Hockey League have played for three or more different N.H.L. clubs. Two of these players, Jimmy Peters of Chicago formerly of Verdun and Cal Gardner of Boston, are currently performing for their fourth National League team. Peters played with Canadiens, Boston and Detroit before coming to Chicago, while Gardner toiled for Rangers, Toronto and Chicago before joining the Bruins this summer.

The seven players who have worn the livery of three N.H.L. squads are Jim Henry and Hal Laycoe of Boston, Gerry Couture of Chicago, Bob Goldham of Detroit, Harry Lumley and Harry Watson of Toronto and Max Bentley of Rangers.

Trout may be found in all but three of the 14 counties in Arizona.

Brewers Hold Down Third After Splitting Matches

The Dow entry in the Senior "B" section of the Montreal Basketball League will start off the New Year with a record of three wins and two losses. This is made up of victories against Southwestern "Y", International "Y" and Golden Knights, while the grey and purple Brewers dropped one each to Giants and M.A.A.A.

In their last two games, the locals split, losing to

M.A.A.A. 63-47 and downing Golden Knights 62-60 in a thriller, which was not decided until the final whistle. The clash with M.A.A.A. saw the Dow squad play fair ball in the first half when they assumed a 22-20 lead. Had their shooting been on a possible 15 point lead would have been racked up.

Brown High Scorer

The second canto was a different story as the sharpshooting of the M.A.A.A. snipers gradually took its toll, together with some inaccurate passing by the visiting Brewers. In this contest, Gerry Brown was best for the winners with 19 points. John Field was top man for the visitors with 13.

The Dow quintet next visited the Golden Knights on the West hill floor and after a rather spotty performance against the home-sters, finally squeaked through with a two point margin. The Golden Knights drew ahead at the half 28-25 but a determined second stanza drive by Dow saw the lead change hands several times. At one stage, the ultimate winners were 7 points but a determined rally by the Knights saw them forge in front. However, the Brewers were not to be denied and finally assumed a three point lead with less than a minute to go.

Knights Come Close

The Golden Knights came close when they were awarded two free shots with fourteen seconds to go. The first one was dropped through the hoop and the second shot was deliberately missed in an endeavour to pick up the rebound and knot the count. After some furious action under the hoop, the final whistle shrilled to see the Dow squad walk off with a hard earned victory.

Dow will next be in action when they visit the undefeated Giants on the spacious Mount St. Louis court on Tuesday, Jan. 5, at 8 p.m. This same Giant squad upset M.A.A.A. 68-62 after being behind 21 points at the end of the first half in their last league encounter.

Team standings after the first half of the season:

	P.	W.	L.	P.
Giants	5	5	0	10
M.A.A.A.	5	4	1	8
Dow	5	3	2	6
S'Western "Y"	5	2	3	4
International "Y"	5	1	4	2
Golden Knights	5	0	5	0

SONGIN ALMOST A BRUIN

Ed (Butch) Songin, who quarterbacked the Hamilton Tiger-Cats to the Canadian professional football championship, almost became a member of the Boston Bruins. Songin, who hails from the Boston area, was an All-American defenseman at Boston College. He was on the Bruins' list and was to be invited to training camp that fall, when his knee was injured in the North-South football game during his senior year. He still makes his home in Boston and is a neighbour and old friend of Milt Schmidt. He is also a pal of Woody Dumart's.

MOST POINTS

When Detroit's Red Kelly scored two goals and had three assists November 28 against Chicago, it marked the first time any players racked up five points in a game this season. Kelly also had one goal and two assists for three points the following evening.

MacRae Faces St. Laurent As Loop Action Resumes

Action will once again resume Saturday afternoon at the St. Laurent Arena as the St. Laurent Intermediate League swings back into full stride. This week's double-header has the NDG Regents meeting Royal Pharmacy at 2 p.m. with Westmount MacRae Electric and the St. Laurent Laurels rounding out activities.

This year has seen one of the closest races with only two points separating the top team while the St. Laurent Laurels have been deep in the cellar most of the time managing only recently to win a couple of starts.

Don Bussiere of Royal Pharmacy has the lead in the individual scoring race to the end of the year, followed closely by Jim Campbell and Ken Fisher, both of the Regents, and Bill Ranson, a teammate of Bussiere.

MacRae Most Penalized

Other statistics reveal that MacRae Electric are the most penalized team with a total of 99 minutes. This followed by the Regents with 54 minutes, while St. Laurent and Royal Pharmacy have 29 and 26 minutes respectively. Ronnie Brambell, MacRae's stalwart defenceman is the most penalized player having served 34 minutes in the sinbin, including two match misconducts as well.

With an open date last Saturday, due to Christmas festivities, the St. Laurent Laurels and N.D.G Regents went through a two hour practice to keep in shape and to wear off some of the excess poundage gained over the holidays. However, it will most likely be a few weeks before all four teams get back to their normal stride.

Amateur Hockey, Junior Or Senior Takes Plenty Of $$$

The days of operating an amateur hockey team on a shoe string are over. The teams technically can't even afford to buy the shoe string.

"Nobody makes money in amateur hockey," Stafford Smythe, manager of Toronto Marlboros of the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A League, said in an interview.

He estimated it cost between $40,000 and $50,000 a year to operate a team in the OHA.

"And we consider it a good season if we lose between $20,000 and $30,000," he said.

The question of finances was never more evident than in the OHA, both junior and senior series, this year.

Sarnia Sailors were forced to drop out of the senior circuit. Kitchener-Waterloo Greenhirts were the centre of a bitter dispute recently when Montreal Canadiens of the National Hockey League and owners of 18 team players, attempted to transfer them wholesale to the Quebec Junior Hockey League, but the move was blocked. Greenhirts backers claimed financial losses were the reason for the move.

Quebec Citadelles dropped out of the OHA Junior A loop Monday and the team's holdings were sold to Quebec Frontenacs, rival club in the QJHL.

Walter Weber, Greenshirt president, said at the time the player transfer would realize enough money to meet the payroll and current debt.

"We are losing between $900 and $1,000 a week with no visible means of support," he said.

In withdrawing its team the Sarnia Arena Commission said the Sailors were $8,000 in the red. R. N. Taglietti, commission member, placed the blame "100 per cent on the shoulders of the public."

The Sailors, tied for last place with Niagara Falls Cataracts, drew an average of 1,412 fans when 2,000 were needed to keep the team in the black.

Smythe said most teams continue to operate solely because big league sponsors pay their debts.

"The sponsor doesn't mind paying the shot as long as he gets one or two future stars out of the team," he added.

Smythe, whose Marlboros draw an average cosmopolitan crowd of 5,000, referred to two current examples of public support in the OHA Junior A loop.

BASKETBALL

The 1953 windup of the Municipal Intermediate Basketball schedule saw Avenue Stars severely trounce the hitherto unbeaten Staynor squad by a 99-58 count. Guppie MacDonald was top man for Staynor while Doug Alexander and Graydon Easton hit for 18 and 6 respectively.

In the scheduled second game of the evening Frosst took 2 points by default as Royals failed to floor a team.

RANGERS' STAR ROOKIE OUT FOR SEASON

New York and Montreal players gather around Rangers' rookie forward, Ron Murphy, who is sprawled out on the ice unconscious after a brawl in recent NHL contest between the two teams. The starry rookie, who suffered fractures to his left cheekbone and upper jawbone during a stick fight with Montreal's Bernie Geoffrion, will be out for the season. Eighteen penalties, including a match penalty apiece to Murphy and Geoffrion, were meted out by the referee. Veteran hockey players Edgar Laprade and Doug Bentley have agreed to return to active competition with the Rangers to replace the injured Murphy. Geoffrion was suspended for eight games for his part in the affair, Murphy for four, by league president Clarence Campbell.

Academy Players Disturb Coach By Avoiding Ice

Thanks to attendants and student volunteers, St. Leo's rink enjoyed a few days of skating and good hockey weather. Taking advantage of the early start, a swarm of enthusiastic youngsters cavorted over the surface.

Conspicuous by their absence were St. Leo's potential Senior B hockey players and this hardly caused any joy to coach Andy McGillis' optimistic plans for the coming inter-school hockey campaign. Without any artificial ice at their disposal this year, coach McGillis pinned his hopes on the good will of his charges to take every advantage of the local school rink whenever ice was available and to use this means to skate themselves into shape.

Learn Fundamentals Instead

In the team practises at Verdun Auditorium this week, a lot of time was taken on fundamental skating and this could have been avoided if the members of the team had used the natural ice of the school to skate themselves into shape.

A fine turnout was on hand for the bantam QAHA team practise on the school rink and coach Mike Lunny is predicting a good year for his boys.

Pee Wees In Action

St. Leo's Pee Wee QAHA section, will swing into action on Monday Jan. 4, on the school rink. John O'Brien's Canadians will oppose Dave Farrell's Rangers at 9.30 a.m. and Jimmy Grant's Maple Leafs will meet Sandy Morrison's Black Hawks at 10.30 a.m.

The Academy Bantam Intermural Hockey League, will get underway on Saturday Jan. 9, with Rovers tangling with Maroons and Senators facing Bruins. The school's two Midget clubs, have been busy at practise all week at Verdun Auditorium in preparation for the opening of their schedule in the Westmount Midget QAHA section.

Loyola College Artificial Ice Arena Another Record On McGarry's Score

A hockey pioneer who has never played hockey this week marked up another score on his record sheet. At Loyola College, in Montreal, he began installation of his hundredth odd plant to make artificial ice.

More than 40 years ago in Vancouver, B.C., J. H. C. McGarry began his career of making ice for Canadian hockey players. Until then the hockey season depended on the weather which meant that British Columbia could have no share of Canada's national game. Lester Patrick, "Mr. Hockey" on Canada's west coast, decided to build a rink with man-made ice. He called on Mr. McGarry, the local representative of Linde Canadian Refrigeration Company, to supply the ice.

That installation started the ice-man off on his nation-wide career. Today, as vice-president and general manager of Linde, he looks back on ice-making for the Montreal Forum, Maple Leaf Gardens, Winnipeg Amphitheatre, Calgary Stampede, Quebec Coliseum and most of the other big-

HEAVIEST TEAM

The 1953-54 version of the Boston Bruins are big and husky. The current edition of the Bruins is the biggest Boston team in a long time. The average Bruin weighs 181.3 pounds which is about a pound per player more than the average member of the Toronto Maple Leafs weighs. Average weight for each Toronto player this season is 180.9 pounds.

While Boston is the heaviest team in the National Hockey League this season the New York Rangers are the lightest. The average Ranger weighs 172 pounds. Chicago Black Hawks are the third huskiest squad with an average per man of 179 pounds. Montreal Canadiens are next with a 178 pound average. Detroit Red Wings ice the second lightest club in the League with a 176 pounds average.

CUTS OUT

Ivan Irwin, New York Rangers' colorful rookie defenseman, cuts out the palms of his hockey gloves. When asked why he did this, he said it was an old lacrosse practice, and that he was an old lacrosse player. "What that does," says Ivan, "is to give you a better feel on the stick."
