Both sides anxious, neither side moving

The hydro strike continues

HALLOWE'EN FUN — Halloween day is Hobo day for the staff and students at Sunnyside elementary school. This group of youngsters are first level students. Wearing costumes they are waiting refreshments being served by their teachers Mrs. Deryl Williams and Mrs. Sandra Rever. For another photo, see p. 12.

MONTREAL (CP) — A strike by 8,500 Hydro-Quebec workers entered its second day today with both management and union officials saying they were anxious to resume negotiations but neither side making a formal move to return to the bargaining table.

About 44 power failures across the province, caused by routine problems but unrepaid because of the strike, have left 2,600 customers without power, a Hydro spokesman said.

In the Montreal suburb of Hampstead,

1,000 homes were without electricity as union emergency crews refused to repair a line severed by a construction crew.

A Hydro official said the workers also refused to repair power supplies to a home for the aged in Kamouraska, south of Quebec City, saying the home had its own standby diesel generator.

Claude Morrisseau, spokesman for the Canadian Union of Public Employees (CUPE) which represents the workers, said at a news conference that at present temperatures a blackout in a residential area is not considered an emergency.

The union has said it will maintain essential services to water pumping stations, fire and police departments and hospitals, and will judge the emergency status of other interrupted services.

Jean Bernier, chairman of the company's committee on service maintenance in case of a strike, has defined all Hydro-Quebec's services as essential.

Rasminsky retiring on birthday

OTTAWA (CP) — When Louis Rasminsky leaves the Bank of Canada Feb. 1, he will have been only its third governor in 38 years.

Mr. Rasminsky, whose second term of office does not expire until July 24, 1975, Monday announced through the board of directors that he would retire on his 65th birthday.

A 32-year veteran with the bank, he became its governor July 24, 1961. At that time the shy, retiring Montreal native stepped into the tumultuous shoes of James Coyne, whose last years as governor were a running fight with the government of the day.

The initial governor after the bank was founded in 1935 was Graham Tower, whose signature like those of his successors marks the lower right hand corner of every Canadian bank note.

CHANGED TACK
But where Mr. Coyne defended brilliantly and flamboyantly at times, the right of the bank to remain always free of government control, Mr. Rasminsky did not.

He agreed that while he should control day-to-day operation of the bank, in times of crisis or international demand, he would take advice from the government on bank action and tactics.

His avowed intention was to keep the bank out of contentious situations domestically and internationally, and this he did while still gaining international respect from world banking leaders.

Dougherty rebukes plaque critics

By WENDY McMULLEN
Record Reporter

LENNOXVILLE — Visitors to the Lennoxville town council meeting had comments on the proposed unveiling of a plaque for a Canadian boy killed while fighting for the United States in Vietnam were rapidly dispatched by Mayor Cecil Dougherty yesterday evening.

A letter from the Girl Guides association, asserting that the association had in no way made a public statement supporting the proposal, as Mayor Dougherty affirmed to The Record last week, was read to council. The letter asserted that at a meeting for representatives of local organizations to discuss remembrance day plans the Girl Guide association had offered no opposition but that no mandate to approve or disapprove the plaque had been offered.

A spokesman for the Girl Guides association contended yesterday evening that had the association been informed before the meeting that they would be implicated in the decision, some opposition might have been voiced.

"Our representative felt that the decision had already been made — a fait accompli," she added.

"We recognize that Mayor Dougherty wanted to commemorate something he believed in and was prepared to issue a public statement to that effect but the mayor vetoed that on the grounds that anyone against the plaque would be swayed by public statement," she pointed out.

ETHICS INVOLVED

"We feel that national ethics are involved and that a war of which we do not agree with the politics should not be commemorated in Canada. The boy has been buried by the U.S. and involvement ends there," the Girl Guides' association's representative concluded.

Mayor Dougherty replied that he was sorry if there was any misrepresentation and that no one had taken a decision which had not been thought about. The decision has been rendered and he had to stand by it, the Mayor added. "Had they decided against it at the meeting, we would have stopped there," the Mayor contended. "But the decision has now been made even if you have decided to go against it."

He added that he had called the meeting to which the representatives of various organizations had been invited because he wanted a decision on what might be a controversial issue.

SOUGHT UNANIMITY

"When we first made the decision we thought everyone would be unanimously behind it and I am ashamed to be discussing it now," Mayor Dougherty said. "The plaque is to be dedicated by two friends of the boy who loved him very much. The youngsters will be dedicating the plaque as devoted Canadians as the boy himself was," he added.

Another visitor who had twice requested to be heard and been peremptorily refused by the Mayor on the grounds that he had formerly identified himself as a listener not a speaker was finally allowed to ask if the Mayor had received opposition by private individuals on the project. Mayor Dougherty replied that he had received only one telephone call.

None of the other councillors present at the meeting had comments on the matter. The Lennoxville town council announced that the new valuation roll for rates and taxes has now been prepared and citizens of Lennoxville may visit the city treasurer's office to check their valuation from today until Wednesday, Nov. 15.

Bills for taxes will go out on Jan. 1, 1973 and ratepayers will be given until March 15 to challenge their valuations.

SEPARATE CORRECTIONS

Mayor Dougherty also explained that there is no longer such a thing as homologating, that is, each person can object and be dealt with separately and any new valuation will not affect others.

It is possible that Lennoxville residents will pay lower rates for fire insurance following council's proposal to take up insurance rates with underwriters. Mayor Dougherty pointed out that Lennoxville was paying more for fire insurance rates than surrounding areas such as Huntingville, and Ascot which were considered protected.

It was suggested that improvements in fire prevention and facilities should be brought to the attention of the insurance companies to attempt to get lower rates both for the city offices and private home owners.

A complete report on recreational organizations in Lennoxville is to be submitted to council. The town council was informed that the Lennoxville sports ground, the OTJ, had a $221 deficit this year. The councillors decided that a grant of $500 would be given to the OTJ and that the financial situation of all recreational facilities in the town would be reviewed.

Mayor Dougherty commented that since the people concerned gave their services to the facilities voluntarily the council could not allow them to worry about debts as well. The councillors therefore decided that a grant of $500 would be given to the OTJ and that the financial situation of all recreational facilities in the town would be reviewed.

The Local Initiative Program projected by the council will probably not begin before Dec. 4, council announced. Councillor James Mitchell, however, stressed that projects should not be held up in the hopes of getting a Local Initiative grant from the government, since the grant, if it came would probably not be large.

Council accepted a request by the school municipality of Lennoxville to collect the 1973 school taxes which will apparently be reduced from approximately $1.80 to about $1.60 for the coming year.

Strike has little effect here

SHERBROOKE (AR) — While Hydro-Quebec workers stayed off the job throughout the province yesterday, the city of Sherbrooke was unaffected by the labour problems and everything was functioning normally.

"So far there are no problems," Jean Bourassa, in charge of Sherbrooke electric services, said yesterday. "But if a major problem occurs there isn't much we could do to alter the situation."

Sherbrooke's hydro employees belong to the same union as the strikers but they belong to a different local. "Our workers are bound by a unique contract with the city which is effective until December 31, 1973," Bourassa explained.

"We are supplied by high voltage lines from outside the region and any possible troubles are remote," he added. "However we can handle all minor problems within the area if the need arises."

Should a major breakdown occur Sherbrooke employees would not act because "They would be acting as scabs," Bourassa remarked. "If the weather remains mild as it has been lately, we shouldn't have any problems."

Oddly enough Lennoxville residents are out of luck if they should require service since they are not served by Sherbrooke's hydro facilities.

Record turnout expected for U.S. elections

WASHINGTON (CP) — Richard Nixon in San Clemente, Calif., and George McGovern in Mitchell, S.D., join an anticipated 85 million other Americans at voting booths across the United States today to decide who will guide the country for the next four years.

Although rain was forecast for many parts of the U.S.—notably the Deep South, the West Coast and a central belt from New Orleans to Chicago—the weather was not expected to be severe enough anywhere to keep a determined voter away.

A record turnout seemed assured. Absentee ballots were reported to have been filed in unprecedented numbers in many states, an indication of voter interest, and about 25 million young people over the age of 18 have become eligible to vote for the first time in a presidential election.

The two presidential contenders ended their campaigns Monday, the same way they had conducted them all along.

TAPES TV STATEMENT

President Nixon, assured by the polls that he can expect a resounding triumph, barely broke away from his sequestered affairs at the Western White House to tape a five-minute statement for national television.

Senator McGovern made an exhausting cross-country dash by plane from New York to California, touching down in Pennsylvania and Kansas, before he returned half way across the continent to his home state of South Dakota well after midnight.

Nixon votes at San Clemente, then immediately boards the presidential aircraft for Washington where he will watch the results from the White House. McGovern is scheduled to vote at Mitchell, then go to a Sioux Falls hotel to await the returns.

The first state-wide results are due from a few New England and southern states where polls close at 6 p.m. EST, but the bulk of the heavily-populated northeastern states do not begin counting until after 8 p.m. EST and the last polls in the U.S.—on the western tip of Alaska—do not close until 2 a.m. EST the next morning.

As it has throughout the campaign, and indeed in the election four years ago, the Vietnam war dominated the final appeals of the two presidential candidates.

EXPECTS AGREEMENT

Nixon expressed himself on TV as "completely confident" that he will soon reach an agreement "which will end the war in Vietnam." He added:

"By your votes, you can send a message to those with whom we are negotiating and to the leaders of the world that you back the president of the United States as he insists that we seek peace with honor and never peace with surrender."

He also completed his campaign without once mentioning his opponent by name.

McGovern, who defied the polls by repeating to a Philadelphia crowd that "I believe we are going to prevail," also told a rally in Long Beach, Calif.

"We see now before us a record of deceit and deception on Vietnam that has ended with the worst deception of all—not a peace in the name of humanity, but a hoax for the sake of politics."

Both vice-presidential candidates wound up their own campaigns in normal fashion.

Tobacco prices upped

MONTREAL (CP) — Imperial Tobacco Products Ltd. announced Monday an increase in the wholesale price of cigarettes that will "probably" mean an increase of about two cents a package to cigarette smokers.

The increase is effective Nov. 20. Edmond Ricard, company president, said the increase "is necessary because of the increased cost of goods and services over the past two years."

The wholesale price per thousand cigarettes for regular and king size will increase 57 cents to $18.79 and $19.22, respectively. Mr. Ricard said "the two cents increase per package we anticipate at the retail level will also enable tobacco wholesalers and retailers to regain their margins which have been eroded."

There would be no increase in the prices of tobacco for roll-your-own cigarettes, cigars, pipe tobacco or snuff. Imperial Tobacco markets about 15 brands of cigarettes.

There was no indication of any immediate price increase from other cigarette companies.

TAKING LONG LOOK

Pat Ferguson, vice-president for marketing at Macdonald Tobacco Inc., said it is "taking a long, hard look at the situation" but no increase is planned "at the present time."

The two cents is expected to be added by retailers in each province, where prices for packages of cigarettes vary with provincial taxes.

Imperial said the price increase followed recent completion of a new labor contract retroactive to July. The company also said it was certain to pay higher costs for leaf tobacco because of the short 1972 tobacco crop which was hit by a spring frost.

Tobacco for roll-your-own cigarettes is not being adjusted "because users of this type of tobacco are generally in the low- or fixed-income brackets and even a slight price increase could be a great hardship to these smokers," the company said.

The last price increase by Imperial was January, 1971.

WISEMEN PROVIDE FURNITURE

The Wiseman's Club of Sherbrooke, a service club branch of the YMCA provided essential furniture and household utensils for the two Ugandan families recently arrived in Sherbrooke. The president of the association Richard Lemieux and the treasurer, Frank Bryan drove the two families to the YMCA boys summer camp on Lake Magog to select the furniture and then arranged for it to be transported back to their recently rented apartments in Sherbrooke. Mr. Lemieux said that the Wiseman's Club intend to sponsor programs for shut-ins or deprived people. The club at present sponsors the little league baseball club and the Track and Field Meets for the English schools in Sherbrooke. Seen above is the daughter of Mr. Haiderai Damani, one of the two Ugandan Asian families recently arrived in Sherbrooke.

The Circle agreed to pay one third of costs for items for the parsonage in Rock Island.

All agreed to be active for the November 11 salad luncheon - tea in the church hall starting at one o'clock and to continue until 5:00 p.m. Workers volunteered to work in the kitchen and food was solicited. Mrs. Selby will be head of the kitchen. It was also decided to have a fancy work crafts table of

With deep feeling Mrs. Grow expressed her appreciation.

Everyone sang "For Merle's A Jolly Good Fellow".

"Let's not wait until another year to meet," said some of the group and all agreed. So it was decided to serve the Christmas supper to the Senior Citizens in the church hall on December 14, join the Seniors for supper, then afterwards have a meeting.

There will also be a gift exchange not to exceed 50 cents.

All spent another half hour chatting for all felt it was good to be together again. Departing, they expressed appreciation to Mrs. Selby for the enjoyable afternoon, and delicious luncheon, also expressing adieu and good wishes to Mrs. Grow.

AWARDED ORDER OF CANADA — Mrs. Lilian Butters, seen above chatting with governor-general Michener and his party, was recently awarded the Order of Canada insignia for her fine work with Cecil Butters memorial hospital in Austin.

ET resident awarded Order of Canada medal by governor-general

AUSTIN (WM) — Mrs. Lilian Butters, owner-administrator of the Cecil Butters Memorial Hospital, was presented with the insignia of the Order of Canada at Government House in Ottawa on Oct. 26.

The governor-general personally made the presentation to Mrs. Butters and the ceremony was followed by a reception and banquet in honour of the new officers of the order.

Mrs. Butters, who is now entitled to use the initials O.C. after her name, declared she was astonished and delighted when she heard that she was to receive the award. She said that before the letter came asking her to accept the insignia she had no idea she was to be so honored. She commented that her work at the hospital in Austin was part of the reason why she was awarded the O.C. The Cecil Butters Memorial Hospital, a home for the emotionally disturbed, was started in 1946 by Mrs. Butters and her husband who died eight years ago. Mrs. Butters said yesterday that the hospital started with only two children and gradually grew to the 400 patients it now houses in its three buildings.

Most of the retarded persons now cared for are adults. Mrs. Butters said. Many of the patients have been in the hospital from infancy, she added.

Mrs. Butters said she had always enjoyed caring for the retarded and derived a great sense of satisfaction from it. She still takes an active part in all aspects of the life in the hospital.

Mrs. Butters, who had five children, was accompanied in Ottawa by her daughter, Mrs. Mary Camber and her son, Mr. John Butters.

Council quickly passed decision on the salary of the city's legal officer, Yvon Genest, sending the item for further study. "We should wait until we have a comprehensive policy before we decide," O'Bready declared.

The third item shelved by the council was a request from Mr. R. Marcoux to amend the zoning bylaws to permit him to construct a gas service station on the corner of Galt West and Cherbourg streets. In a report attached to the item, city technical experts disapproved of the proposed changes, alleging that the site was uneconomical for the purpose intended.

SOME DECISIONS MADE Despite the several items which council failed to act on, some decisions were made. The status of numerous city employees was confirmed and, as well, the councillors approved two installations for Bell Telephone.

The major item approved was a notice from Toulon Construction Co. requesting that the city take action on the services promised in connection with the shopping centre due to be erected at Des Jardins Fleuries street and 13th avenue north.

Specifically, the company wanted council to pass resolutions outlining the schedule and enumeration of works and confirmation that both 12th and 13th avenues would be transformed into one-way streets.

Although council voted $234,000 for the water lines, sewers, paving and resurfacing, the ratepayers must approve the borrowing of funds for the project. The matter must then be confirmed by the provincial government.

Several pertinent points were raised during the course of the assembly, some of which will make their way on to the agenda in future meetings.

Acting Mayor Gingues suggested the city compile the total of monies paid to persons claiming damages incurred at the Webster street and Wellington street municipal parking lots. He noted that monies are awarded every week in sizeable sums.

Councillor Gerard Deziel revived the controversy about hydro rates in Sherbrooke, mainly in terms of the inequity suffered by domestic users. Deziel asked that a study made 18 months ago be put on the agenda at the earliest possible moment so that rates could be rationalized in favor of persons who use electricity for heating purposes.

WILL BUILD AGAIN Under questioning from councillor Rosaire Couture, assistant director-general Frank Mascolo revealed that building permits have been awarded to Propane Gas Co. for reconstruction of facilities destroyed by fire in late September. Couture stressed that it would be desirable to ask the company to build elsewhere because the residents of the surrounding territory feared for their safety.

He suggested that at least the city should not allow further establishments of such a nature to be built in the area. A resident of that district pointed out that such a move is fruitless because there is no land available for additional construction.

He further maintained that the city should act to have the firm relocate, since this was what he and other neighbours wanted. Council's response was inconclusive.

A spokesman for residents of Bonin street articulately voiced their fear for the safety of children and deplored the lack of action by the police. She brought attention to the unusually high number of accidents on the street and asserted that something should be done now.

The complaint from the Bonin street group was brought up three weeks ago by councillor Carl Camirand and a subsequent report showed that a sidewalk would effectively solve the problem. Such construction, however, could not be carried out until the spring.

The acting-Mayor ended the meeting requesting council to vote congratulations to Councillor Antonio Pinard's son, Claude, who had recently been appointed judge in Victoriaville.

In one year but often out the next!

The Record's special correspondent, Joyce Hibbert, takes an affectionate look at the fashion world.

By JOYCE HIBBERT We're heading into fall and winter again, reading and listening to the regular turn of the season bombardment about fashion changes.

It should be easier to find a wide variety of wearable styles than it has been for a long time. The key word is 'back' rather than 'new.' Yes, by all your natural and man-made fibres, many old favorites are back.

There is the 'little black dress', formerly considered so chic, so handy and a must for every wardrobe. Nowhere to be found during the recent little-girl clothes craze, the sophisticated number is back in stores and boutiques.

Demure by day in a neat puritan collared and cuffed dress, a woman can become a slinky witch by evening if she dons one of the long backless, bias-cut gowns so reminiscent of the thirties.

There have been the years of tittering about Joan Crawford shoulders' but the puffier sleeves are back — can the padding be far behind?

Camel hair coats are once more with us in fair numbers. Both the return of shortie coats and the rash in blazers are welcome revivals.

It's great to see that the shirtwaist is again a la mode and a relief to find a dress with a front opening. Occasionally one may be spared the contortions needed to cope with those back zippers and the easier way out, "zip me up, please."

The smock is enjoying a new run but not primarily as a pregnancy garment or a cover-up overall. Now it's popular gear for the young, topping jeans or bare legs. And you'll be in the vanguard of style if you're sporting bags, those wide-cuffed pants. But what's going to happen to all the skin-tight jeans which, I presume, were so carefully shrunk and moulded to forms while being worn in baths or swimming pools?

How the fashion world ever got thousands of females into sack dresses must be the puzzle of the century. Now there was a style that did nothing for anyone and surely there is no yearning for its return.

NEW VIRTUES It would be interesting to keep examples of advertisements justifying incoming fashions over outgoing ones. When new things appear on the racks apparently the virtues of the old fly out the window. It seems suspiciously like servings of brainwash eagerly administered and receptively swallowed.

In retrospect one wonders how those narrow pointed shoes were ever allowed on the market.

They were described as elegant and essential to complement the full crinolined skirts of the day. So, in order to appear correctly we stuffed our feet into the narrow confines and tottered about on stiletto heels. Up went the cries about floors being ruined and toes being pinched.

Then the designers and manufacturers saw fit to put sensible footwear back on the shelves and so ended that foolishness. Now, in some cases, things have gone to the opposite extreme and we're back to Carmen Miranda mini-stilts. Wedgies and chunkies are built up to ridiculous heights — ending up as uglies and the warnings are out about the thick sole tripping hazards.

THE EARLY DAYS Some of us may remember earlier days of flimsy or complete lack of bras. Way back then, those who took to the new supporting garment looked at the floppers and bouncers in pity — for they were surely behind the times. Now it seems we are back to the au naturel look and it's those presenting more solid fronts who are not in the fashion swing.

The mood of the times is hardly likely to encourage another craze in corsets, bloomers or bodices but let's hope that we are left with out pantyhose. For my money (and haven't we all spent plenty on them) they are the best covering on two legs.

Out with the girdles and all the other uncomfortable. Thanks to pantyhose we can just about tuck it all in and let it all hang out at the same time, so to speak.

This does seem to be one of those rare times in fashion when females may run the gamut, jeans or pantsuits, dresses of any old length desired, undergarments or none, shoes, boots or sneakers. You can adopt ethnic clothes, you can dress up or dress down.

The main thing is there is a choice once more and one needn't appear either as a freak or a trum in the fashion parade.

Mystery shrouds death

MAGOG (AR) — Police are investigating the death of 24-year-old Pierre Hamel who died accidentally at his home in Magog Sunday evening. Hamel plunged three stories off the balcony of his residence at 83 Hall street at approximately 11:20 p.m.

"We were called to the house around 11:30 p.m.," detective Gilles Robinson of the Magog municipal police told The Record yesterday afternoon. "but the ambulance had already arrived."

"As far as we can determine the death was caused from a fall from the third floor balcony," he said. "Apart from that we don't know very much about it yet," he added. "The investigation is still underway."

Detective Robinson would not comment on the circumstances surrounding the accident, replying that he would rather wait for all the facts to be gathered. "An autopsy was completed this morning," he revealed, "but the results are not available at the present time."

There were two eye-witnesses to the fatality but the police spokesman was reluctant to identify them.

The young victim, described by friends as a very likeable person, was an outstanding ski instructor at Mount Orford.

"He was one of the better young skiers in the area and a good-natured fellow as well," a friend who asked that his name not be used told The Record last night. "He was well liked by everyone who knew him."

Hamel was an active participant at the Salon d'Hiver held at the Sherbrooke Sports Palace over the weekend, where he demonstrated skiing on the simulated hill in one of the kiosques.

Lecture series continues

LENNOXVILLE (WM) — Art in the Eastern Townships is to be the topic of tonight's lecture at Bishop's University. The lecture will be given by Joyce Cochrane of the University of Sherbrooke and will cover painting, drawing, sculpture and architecture in the Eastern Townships.

Mrs. Cochrane said the talk would be divided into two parts. She will first discuss the inspiration derived from the Townships in the works of artists such as Kreighoff, Edson, Goodrich Roberts and Stanley Cosgrove and then she intends to speak about artists at present working in the area including Graham Cantini and Virginia and Lowell Naeve.

The talk will be illustrated with 50 slides of the fine arts and crafts and architecture and sculpture from St. Benoit du Lac.

Admission is free to the lectures which are held in room No. 2, Nicholl's Building at 7.45 p.m.

Farmers' workshop on tomorrow

LENNOXVILLE — As a result of discussions with some local farmers and agronomists, the chemistry department of Bishop's University in cooperation with the department of extension, has decided to hold a one day workshop on Wednesday, November 8, at Bishop's University centennial theatre. The workshop is being held to consider problems associated with the growing and maintaining of forage crops and their optimum use in animal feeding programs.

The session will begin at 9 a.m. and continue till 4.30 p.m. Lunch will be served in the Dewhurst Dining Hall at 12:30 p.m.

All local farmers are urged to attend and bring their questions for discussion. This workshop would appear to be especially appropriate this year in view of the inclement weather in our area and the resulting poor quality of some forage crops.

Speakers from Macdonald College, the experimental farm in Lennoxville and the agricultural service laboratories at Rock Forest have agreed to introduce various aspects of the Eastern Townships forage crops symposium and to act as group discussion leaders.

Some specific topics to be examined include "Recent Developments and Future Needs in Soil Research," "Production and Maintenance of Forage Crops," and "Value of Eastern Townships Forage Crops in Animal Feeding Programs."

It is expected that many practical questions will be raised by the participants and that it should be a useful and profitable day for all who attend.

Trudeau's decision

Prime Minister Trudeau has taken the proper course — although it may not appear so to the Conservatives — in deciding to face Parliament as soon as possible and try to carry on with his minority government. Parliament cannot be called until all the electoral writs are in and the official count of members known. But on Thursday night the prime minister assured the country that he would summon Parliament as soon as is reasonably possible, which should bring the members back to the Hill some time in December.

This is wise. The country faces acute problems — high unemployment, high prices, spiralling inflation — which are not getting any better. Mr. Trudeau admitted as much at his Thursday press conference when he said that the government should have to take action to meet some of these problems. This should not have to wait until January, when Parliament was scheduled to meet, but should be tackled as soon as is humanly possible.

In deciding to face Parliament and try to carry on, Mr. Trudeau has been accused of hanging on to power in the face of the verdict of the people. It may be, as Robert Stanfield said the other night, that Mr. Trudeau has lost the confidence of the people. But if he has, the people, in their wisdom, gave it to no one else — person or party. The Liberals had, at last count, 38 per cent of the popular vote, the Conservatives 35.

On this basis Mr. Trudeau might be said to have a slight edge in public confidence. And when he was speaking on Thursday night, the count in seats was exactly even — 109 each. So there was nothing to choose from there, unless one remembers the rule in football that when a receiver and a defender simultaneously get their hands on a forward pass, the ball goes to the receiver, not to his opponent.

Once Parliament has been recalled, the burning question will be how long it can last. After listening to Mr. Trudeau tell what he hoped his government would be able to do, and immediately afterwards to NDP Leader David Lewis giving his version of what he hoped the government would do, it would be fair to conclude that the next Parliament may last considerably longer than anyone had hitherto hoped.

Mr. Lewis had greatly toned down his price for NDP support of a government from the statement he made on election night. It was clear from his remarks that he does not want an election, right away, at any rate, because, he said, the people of Canada do not want one. Thus he listed areas in which he hoped the government would move and the direction in which he hoped it would move.

The NDP, he said, would support legislation of which it approved. But he intimated that the party would go half way to meet the government in "progressive" legislation; in other words, the NDP would be content with half rather than a whole loaf, all in the interest of the national good.

At no time did Mr. Lewis suggest that the NDP would withdraw its support from the government because the government failed to bring in legislation which the NDP wanted.

He did say, however, that if legislation were brought down of which the NDP could not approve at all, then it would not swallow its principles but would vote against the bill.

What this seems to add up to is that the government can count on NDP support for legislation of which the NDP approves; it will also get support for legislation of which the NDP at least partially approves.

And if it brings down legislation (for example, Mr. Turner's bill to give industry fast depreciation write-offs) of which the NDP cannot approve, then chances are that this will be the kind of legislation which the Conservatives cannot help but back, thus keeping the government safe.

Unless, of course, the Conservatives are angry enough at Mr. Trudeau's decision to hold on to power that they will take the first opportunity that presents itself to bring the Liberals down.

Nixon won't betray Thieu

the right

with William F. Buckley Jr.

Galbraith — to that obscurity it so richly deserves.

The trouble with the script is that it isn't true. A word on the subject:

Those who believe that Richard Nixon will suddenly, abruptly, alter his policy so as in effect to become an instrument of the North Vietnamese disparage Richard Nixon to the point of identifying him with the caricature popularized by such as Herblock.

They see him as a scheming, conniving, unprincipled politician who thinks nothing at all of his word. That word was given to the South Vietnamese, and backed by mountains of American grief and money, shed and spent for the maintenance of an American credibility which is the vertebra of world stability.

I say flatly: it is implausible to think this of Nixon. Nixon is not going to dump Thieu. Thieu may go, in the long run, for complicated reasons which may or may not lead to strategically disastrous developments for South Vietnam. The British people, in their wisdom or lack of it, overthrew Winston Churchill at war's end, and, not much later, the French shed Charles De Gaulle. But Nixon is not going to serve as Executioner, surrogate for the Vietnamese people.

Why then did President Thieu give the impression that he was being pushed around? It is hard to say exactly. The Vietnamese are, just to begin with, inscrutable. The advantages of his posture are obvious. He will solidify his position among those of his countrymen who would rather resist and resist and resist, than surrender.

It is often remarked that there is no apparent end to the tenacity of the North Vietnamese invaders. Why should there be an end to the tenacity of the South Vietnamese resisters?

For all that Thieu may aggravate the House of Commons, the New York Stock Exchange, and Olaf Palme, it is his country he is fighting for, his country that has been brutalized, his countrymen who are threatened by massive retaliation and bloodbaths and tyranny, and the presumption must continue to be, as regards Thieu, that he is acting as one would wish an American leader to act under similar circumstances: with that eternal determination to protect his country and his people from subjugation.

Let the deliberations then go forward, and let us proceed on the following presumptions.

One: that Richard Nixon is not engaged in betraying the central commitment of his Vietnam policy.

Two: that Nguyen Thieu will finally balance the prospects at home, with the realities abroad. Meanwhile the apparent anxiety of the North Vietnamese to conclude the grisly war may finally justify the cautious and incautious vaticinations of those who have said, right along: North Vietnam can't keep it up forever.

There are grounds for guarded optimism.

Different awareness

Dear Sir:

This letter is written most especially to those 12 who signed their names to protest the proposed unveiling of a plaque in memory of the local youth who was killed while with the United States forces in Viet Nam.

To protest is their right under law, and that law has its roots deep in our past history; a history of freedom upheld by youth who, by their actions, demonstrated far more awareness of our dangers than the above twelve.

I do not agree that Canadians should serve in forces bent on subjugation of others. Never mind American opinion on Viet Nam, think of our own. I suppose you and your friends agree that we should shelter their draft dodgers? If you do, then you don't know enough yet to protest about anything.

I shall point out a few not too distant facts about this kind of thinking and the results of it. Can any of you remember the Civil War in Spain, when Franco and his boys butchered women and children in the bullring at Badajoz? Did you know that Canadians fought in Spain in that war? 1,155 served there, 300 survived, and the whole of Canada was sure that they fought on the wrong side. Did they?

Remember too our fat friends Mussolini and his monkey-faced friend Adolf, and the acclaim they once received from our side, until one day it was too late, and we all paid for it and what was gained? I would say, here we go again, wading the fool's path towards another showdown, same old mistakes, same old story, or do you agree?

A plaque is not going to bring back the millions who died in foreign wars because perhaps they could see further past their noses than a lot of our protesters. Yes, my short-sighted friends, let the plaque go up, as a mark of our awareness that we need to show our beliefs in a solid demonstration, by action, not by cry baby whimperings or quivering cringing when you can smell gunpowder, when the chips are down.

Yours truly,
W.W. Young

The cost of U.S. elections

By ROD CURRIE

WASHINGTON (CP) — Although this is the first United States presidential election since sweeping new campaign spending laws came into force, the mud-slinging over campaign cash is a hotter issue than at any time in recent history.

And it is certainly the most expensive campaign ever: President Nixon and Democrat George McGovern have already spent at least $54.5 million. The actual total will be considerably higher, but it will not be known until after the election Tuesday — if ever.

Most of the allegations of shady dealings—financial and otherwise—have been aimed at the well-heeled Nixon campaign. And much of the ammunition has been provided by newspapers and magazines, largely based on unidentified sources.

Final pre-election spending and contribution reports filed last week show that through Oct. 26 Nixon committees spent $36.06 million and McGovern committees $18.47 million.

The totals do not include the millions McGovern and others spent in pursuit of the Democratic party's presidential nomination, nor the reported $10 million to $20 million spent by the Nixon camp prior to April 7, when the new laws went into effect.

The new regulations were hailed as the most sweeping reforms in 50 years, but their effect is limited. Mainly they curtail political advertising through television, radio, newspapers, magazines and outdoor signs.

Presidential candidates now are limited to spending 10 cents for each potential voter in such advertising. Of that total, only six cents may be diverted to radio and TV advertising.

With the number of eligible voters set at 142.5 million—only about 80 million are expected to vote—candidates are limited this year to $8.5 million each on radio-TV advertising. Total media advertising is limited to $14.25 million each.

This compares with an estimated $12 million spent on advertising by Republicans to elect Nixon in 1968 and $8 million spent in behalf of Democrat Hubert H. Humphrey.

As in the 1968 campaign, the actual totals this time can only be guessed since unknown, but large amounts are expenditures made by state and local groups on behalf of the national tickets.

Aside from the advertising limit, the new law sets no overall ceiling on campaign spending in general. However, there is a $50,000 limit on the amount a candidate may spend out of his own pocket on his campaign.

The new law replaced the Corrupt Practices Act of 1925. The fact that it was full of well-used loopholes, and that the new law didn't come into effect until April 7, made it possible for anyone contributing before that deadline to remain anonymous.

In a much-criticized move, former commerce secretary Maurice Stans, now Nixon's fund-raising chairman, made a tour of big potential contributors to get them to contribute before the law went into effect. Common Cause, a self-styled citizens lobby, went to court and won agreement from the Nixon people to disclose donations up to March 10, but the names of givers between then and April 7 remain secret, the subject of further litigation in the post-election period.

McGovern, pledging to live up to the spirit as well as the letter of the law, has released the names of all donors.

MORE THAN $1 MILLION

The champion individual contributor among Nixon supporters is W. Clement Stone, chairman of Combined Insurance Co. of America, who says he gave more than $1 million and is said to have ambitions to be U.S. ambassador to Britain. Richard M. Scaife of Pittsburgh, heir to a banking fortune, is listed in returns as giving $800,000, but has said he gave $990,000. He said he made out $3,000 cheques to 330 different Nixon committees — standard practice among big donors to avoid paying gift taxes, as they would on a lump sum.

There have been accusations that the Nixon camp has diverted campaign contributions into spying activities.

There also have been charges of "laundered" money—cheques passed through Mexican bank accounts to protect the identity of the original American donor.

But in the absence of hard evidence or clear-cut denials of some of the allegations, and because none of the court cases and other investigations will be concluded until after the election, the American public is left bewildered as to the extent, or even the existence, of such hanky-panky.

IOOF Lewis Lodge

SCOTSTOWN — The regular meeting of the IOOF Lewis Lodge No. 53 was held in the lodge room in the former Scotstown High School on Monday evening, Oct. 23, with a large number of visiting Brothers from different lodges.

A group of five Brothers from Leeds Lodge No. 54 presented Lewis Lodge No. 53 with the traveling gavel, each lodge keeps it six weeks and then passes it on to another lodge in the area.

Duncan McLeod on behalf of his sisters, Mrs. Jean Murray and Miss Doris McLeod, his brother Roderick McLeod, Catherine and Robert McLeod, children of the late Fraser McLeod, presented Lewis Lodge No. 53 with a cheque for $100.00 to be used for invalid equipment in memory of their father and grandfather, Norman M. McLeod who was charter member of Lewis Lodge and passed away in 1967.

D.D.G.M. Mel McHarg with his team installed the officers of Lewis Lodge No. 53 for the 1972-73 term, which are as follows: Noble Grand, Dannie Morrison; Vice Grand, Prentice Jacklin; Secretary, Sam Maher; Treasurer, John M. Morrison.

There was one car load from East Angus, one from Thetford Mines, three cars from Sherbrooke and Lennoxville and one from Leeds.

The gavel that was presented was given by Brother Ivan Perkins, who passed away shortly after completing the gavel.

At the close of the meeting members of Lewis Lodge served refreshments.

Opening dance held

MANSONVILLE — On Saturday evening, Oct. 21, an opening dance was held at the Owl's Head Ski Chalet, where 1972-73 members were admitted free. The fee charged non-members was to raise funds for the Mansonville Snowmobile Club (Niteriders). Music was provided by Les Citadins Orchestra from Magog.

Door prizes were won by Mr. Omer Prive and a non-member from Montreal (each a case of beer donated by Francis Tremblay of the Mansonville Hotel) and Miss Paulette Lessard for the young people's door prize donated by the club, a wine pouch was won by Miss Lessard and Mr. Daniel Laliberte for the spot dance (donated by Mrs. Rita Marcoux of the Marcoux Garage).

Approximately 300 people attended the dance and the Niteriders appreciated the support given them.

Youth Centre Card Party

MELBOURNE — The Melbourne Township Youth Centre group held another in a series of card parties in the church hall of St. Andrew's Church, Upper Melbourne, on Thursday evening, Oct. 26, when a number of tables of cards were played.

Prize winners were: Ladies 1st - Dot McCourt; 2nd - Thelma Westman; consolation - Selina Aulis.

Gents 1st - Stan Garrett, 2nd - Clifford Sullivan, consolation J. Jackson.

Following the games refreshments were served by the ladies and a social hour was much enjoyed.

SOCIAL NOTES
Mrs. Stafford Husk has returned after spending ten days visiting relatives in Streetsville, Brampton, Ont. and Montreal.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Sykes of Danville, Vermont were weekend guests of Mr. and Mrs. Forrest Johnston.

Church Service

MELBOURNE — Professor Robert Hostetter of Lennoxville officiated at the Sunday service in L'Église des Cantons de l'Est, October 29. He gave a very interesting story to the children. His text was Have Faith in Someone and he emphasized grace and glory. His message was taken from Exodus 2.

The choir, with Mr. Paul Fortier at the organ rendered the anthem Do You Hear the Joyful Song. The offering was received by Mr. Real Larochelle and Mr. Roland Perron.

The Board of Stewards were to meet on Thursday, November 2, at 7.30 p.m. in the church hall. The benediction concluded the service.

The family ACW Meetings

SCOTSTOWN — The Anglican Church Women met at the parsonage for their regular meeting on Oct. 18 with a good attendance.

The president, Mrs. Mick Goodin, opened the meeting with prayers and conducted the business.

Mrs. Bea Atkin read the minutes of the September meeting and Mrs. George MacDonald gave the treasurer's report which showed the receipts for the month were very good.

Notice of the World Day of Prayer on March 2, 1973 will be under the sponsorship of the Anglican Church Women Church calendars for 1973 would be ordered.

A card party was held Oct. 25 at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Basil Woolley.

Finished articles of fancy work were handed in. Members worked on binding quilts. Meeting adjourned and a pot luck lunch was enjoyed.

SCOTSTOWN — Mrs. Les MacLeod and Mrs. Percy Coates were hostesses for the Autumn Thanksgiving offering meeting of the United Church Women at the home of Mrs. MacLeod, on Oct. 19.

The meeting opened with Mrs. Percy Coates conducting the Worship. The theme was on Thankfulness, she read Psalm 100, meditation and prayer. The hymn My God, I Thank Thee, was sung.

Mrs. W.A. Ladd conducted the business meeting. Eight members and two visitors were present.

The secretary and treasurer read the minutes of the previous meeting and treasurer's report given. The treasurer, Mrs. MacDonald presented the book bought at the Rally which will be used for the worship at the meetings. Mrs. F.B. Mayhew gave a report of the Rally held in Cookshire with Mrs. Roy Waldron and Mrs. Ross MacDonald adding some highlights.

Mrs. Raymond Young received the offering which was dedicated by Mrs. Ladd.

Mrs. Mayhew and Mrs. Ross MacDonald read some interesting articles in pamphlets they had got at the rally. Mrs. Ladd read from the Happenings where old nylon pantie hose, turtle neck sweaters and knitted slippers can be sent to Harrington Harbor where the ladies make use of them in rugs and toys. These things can be left with Mrs. Waldron.

Mrs. Everett Rudd spoke of the Renewal with the Church meeting she had attended in Sherbrooke.

The November meeting will be in the Church hall and will be Bring and Buy. Following the benediction the hostesses served refreshments.

AYER'S CLIFF — The ACW of St. George's Church, Ayer's Cliff, met in the church hall on Thursday evening Oct. 5. Opening prayers were read in unison and the Devotions from the Living Message were read by Mrs. Norman Wintle.

The business meeting was chaired by the President, Mrs. G. Vance. Regular reports were given. Mrs. N. Wintle reported that all the cook books had been sold but 100 more had been ordered and will be available before Christmas for those who are still interested in purchasing one.

Two representatives from the ACW, Mrs. G. Vance and Mrs. W. Browning, will meet with the wardens to discuss necessary work needing to be done on the buildings. A committee was also appointed to decorate the church for Thanksgiving. Also a representative appointed to attend the Parish Council meeting in the hall on Oct. 15 namely Mrs. Maude Chadsey.

The President asked members to bring in their Thank Offering boxes at the next meeting. Mrs. N. Wintle was appointed to be correspondent for the Quebec Diocesan Gazette. Church calendars will be sold again this year. The date for the Christmas

W.I. meetings in the Townships

GORE — The monthly meeting of the Gore WI was held on Oct. 5 at the home of Mrs. G. Coote, South Durham, with Mrs. V. Mountain as assistant hostess.

The president, Mrs. N. Mountain, presided and opened the meeting with the repeating of the Mary Stewart Collect in unison. Ten members answered the roll call by naming a vitamin and telling where it could be found.

Miss N. Watt read the minutes of the last meeting and the correspondence, including a letter of thanks for a sunshine box sent to a neighbor who is ill. Letters were read from provincial officers asking for suggestions in revising the WI Handbook and also for an up to date mailing list for the Macdonald Journal.

We were advised that the prizes offered at the Richmond Fair were awarded as follows — Jolene Stalker, second, Jane Driver with Don Patterson being the winner for the best winter skidoo picture. No one was interested in going to Place Bonaventure for the Agricultural Day.

An invitation from the Brompton WI to attend their October meeting was accepted and several members plan to go. Four members were at the Melbourne Ridge WI in celebrating their 50th anniversary on Oct. 14.

The membership in the Canadian Association of Consumers was renewed for a year. Donations of $5 each were made to UNICEF and UNESCO.

Miss N. Watt, convener of education, reported she had attended a committee meeting at the home of Mrs. C. Carson Danville, where it was decided to award the annual bursaries to Cynthia Allan and Wayne Lynch.

Mrs. S. Husk read interesting articles entitled Desperate Remedies and Statistics will kill us.

Due to the small attendance it was decided to hold the white elephant sale at the next meeting, which will be held on Nov. 4 at the home of Mrs. R. Duffy.

Delegates to attend the county meeting are Mrs. N. Mountain, Miss N. Watt and Mrs. R. Duffy. The monthly drawing was won by Mrs. L. Newell.

Reporting for agriculture, Mrs. R. Duffy read an article entitled Rural Route Letter.

The meeting was adjourned and lunch served by the hostesses.

SAWYERVILLE — Mrs. Halliday and Mrs. Watt were hostesses for the Oct. 4 meeting of the Women's Institute held in the school cafeteria with an attendance of 22. The President Mrs. Macrae was in the chair and opened the meeting with the collect. The minutes were read by Mrs. Twyman and Mrs. A. Robinson gave the treasurer's report. Correspondence consisted of a thank-you note, a notice of the International Salon of Food and Agriculture in Montreal from Oct. 27 to Nov. 5 and the Federated News.

Mrs. Nugent, Agriculture Convener, said farmers in Compton County had received the form to fill in to receive assistance in The Rain Damage Program.

Citizenship reminded us it is our duty to vote on Oct. 30.

Health and Welfare read an article on Hardening of the Arteries.

Publicity said we would have space in the December issue of Macdonald Journal for Compton County.

Fruit and Flower convener reported a small balance on hand.

Mrs. Halliday, convener of Education introduced Mrs. Perkins who gave a very interesting Travel-Talk on her trip to France last spring. She was assisted by her daughter Mrs. Philpot, who ran the projector for the slides.

Everyone enjoyed the evening very much. Refreshments were served and a social hour enjoyed.

DANVILLE — The Shipton Women's Institute meeting was held at the home of Mrs. Della Gallup in Danville on October 14. The President Mrs. R. Hull was in the chair and opened the meeting with the Mary Stewart Collect.

The Secretary Mrs. J. Saffin read the minutes of the last meeting. The roll call was answered by twelve members telling a joke or reading a funny poem. Mrs. Saffin also read a number of thank you notes from members and their families for a wedding gift, sympathy cards, flowers and get well cards.

The next meeting will be held in St. Augustine's Church Hall on Nov. 4 at 2 p.m. when all members will wrap gifts for the Wales Home Christmas Party to be held in December.

At the close of the meeting tea and a basket lunch was served by Mrs. Della Gallup and Mrs. S. Taylor.

The treasurer gave her report which showed a good balance on hand.

The mystery prize given by Mrs. R. Hull was won by Mrs. John Lodge.

Mrs. John Jordan at her wedding.

Jordan-Cathcart wed

A reception at the Halifax Country Club Saturday, October 7th, followed the wedding of Miss Jill Mary Cathcart, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald G. Cathcart of Plainfield Road, Marshfield, Massachusetts, and Mr. John Bradford Jordan of Olivette, Missouri. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John W. Jordan of West Peterborough, New Hampshire.

Miss Cathcart is the granddaughter of Mrs. George D. Cathcart, of Sherbrooke, Quebec.

The Reverend Raymond Low performed the double ring ceremony in St. Luke's Episcopal Church, Scituate, Massachusetts.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore an empire gown of ivory peau de soie with a duchess neckline and long tapered sleeves of English net applied with Alencon lace, accented with tiny buttons at the back of the gown and a court train. Her fingertip Mantilla of silk illusion edged with Alencon lace was attached to a small lace cap, and she carried a cascade of orange and white sweetheart roses, stephanotis and pittosporum.

Mrs. Rallo Malmquist, of Drummondville, Quebec, matron of honor for her cousin, wore a gown with an ecru lace bodice and an old gold velvet skirt. She wore a matching Juliet cap and carried a crescent bouquet of fall chrysanthemums, wheat and sweetheart roses.

Mrs. Merle Foss, of St. Louis, Missouri, and Miss Jane Hayes, of Peterborough, N.H., cousin of the bridegroom, were similarly costumed in ecru lace and copper gold viata velvet skirts. Jill Malmquist, flower girl for her cousin, was identically gowned as the matron of honor, and carried a miniature fireside basket of fall flowers.

John Hayes of Peterborough, N.H. was the best man for his cousin. Ushers were Paul Jordan of West Peterborough, N.H., brother of the bridegroom and H. Joe Dougherty, of North Hatley, Quebec, cousin of the bride.

The bride graduated from Marshfield High School and attends University of Missouri at St. Louis. She is a pricing coordinator for Monsanto Company in St. Louis, Missouri. The groom is a graduate of Peterborough High School and a B.S. and M.S. Graduate in Chemical Engineering from the University of New Hampshire in Durham. He is a past President of Alpha Chi Sigma, the Chemistry and Chemical Engineering Home Fraternity at U.N.H. He is a Chemical Engineer at the Monsanto Company, St. Louis, Missouri.

For their honeymoon to the Virgin Islands, Mrs. Jordan wore a two-piece dress in burgundy and beige wool with brown accessories and an Orchid corsage, they will make their home in Olivette, Missouri.

The many friends and relatives attending came from New England, Vancouver, B.C., Stratford, Ontario, St. Louis, Missouri, Shawnee Mission, Kansas, Chillicothe, Ohio, Lennoxville, Sherbrooke, Drummondville and North Hatley, Quebec.

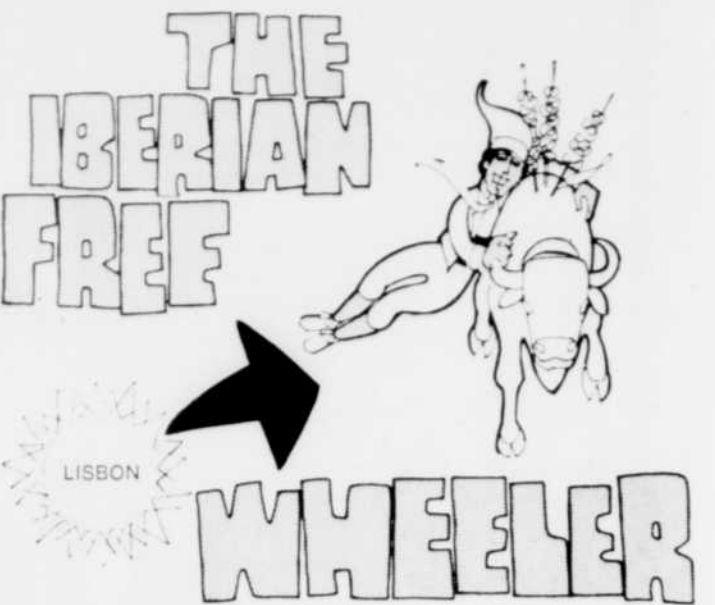

At the close of the evening a drawing took place on two soft balls and a bank in the shape of a ball.

The North Hatley Scouts had some experience in fire fighting on Sunday morning October 22. The Scouts were on their way by boat, to their camping site up the lake when they noticed a cottage on fire on the West Side of the lake, between Blueberry and Black Point. The Scouts helped the owners take their possessions out of the cottage, while one of them crossed the lake to Woodland Bay to notify the Ayer's Cliff Fire Department. The remaining Scouts made a fire break, so that the fire could not gain access to the woods.

The head table guests, introduced by Mr. A. Ditchburn, Sports Chairman for the Legion, were: G. Harton, President of the Legion, G. St. Pierre, Mayor of North Hatley, Lawrence Burnham, Coach, Junior Coulombe, Coach, Ed White, G. Meigs and R. Bassett, Legion members involved in the sports programme, and Don Montgomery, head of the sports and recreation in Lennoxville.

The Legion President presented the following awards: Rookie of the Year - Andy Coulombe, Most Valuable Player - Nicky Bean, Most Important Player, Jean St. Laurent and Best All Round, Maris Burnham.

DR. LAWRENCE E. LAMB

Blood bank tests for syphilis

Dear Dr. Lamb—I donate blood to a blood bank once or twice a year. Do they check for syphilis? Should I be secure in not having a disease since I give blood? I recently broke up with a man I expected to marry as I am quite sure he's been cheating on me. I'm not promiscuous. I do get a physical about every six months. Would my doctor know through lab tests and pelvic exams that I am in good health. I'm in my 40s and am ashamed to say that I know so little about this subject. I do read about it and it scares me although I haven't any physical evidence to warrant my worries.

Dear Reader — Yes, the blood bank tests all blood it collects for syphilis. In the first few weeks of infection the tests can be negative and sometimes in individuals who have had it for several years, the tests can be negative. But with regular examinations such as you described it is most unlikely that you would have a negative test and still have syphilis.

Although a blood test is now being developed for gonorrhea, at present it is not available and the test has to be made from a culture obtained during the pelvic examination. Without the culture test the pelvic examination might be negative and the woman still could have gonorrhea.

About 80 per cent of the women who have gonorrhea have no symptoms, which is one reason that the disease has gotten out of hand and exists in epidemic proportions in this country. A new office culture test method is available now which should make it easy for practicing doctors to determine if a woman has gonorrhea or not, even if she has no symptoms and there's no good evidence of it on the physical examination. If you're worried about it, why don't you ask your doctor to test you for it.

Dear Dr. Lamb—Is there anything that can be done to remove a keloid scar. Recently I had some moles removed from my face and back and now they have healed into a keloid scar. My doctor says they are hereditary. They just look terrible.

Dear Reader — A keloid scar is an overgrowth of the scar tissue even to the point of forming masses or tumors. They more often occur before age 35 and particularly in individuals with dark skin.

If they are cut away, there is a great chance that they will just come back again, unless they are done in later years and then, with increased age, they are less likely to recur.

For this reason, most doctors who remove keloid scars like to use X-ray or other treatment over the fresh operation area, and for some time thereafter to try to prevent a recurrence of the keloids. X-ray therapy is not very beneficial in treating an old keloid and usually must be used with new surgery.

Parents must have their rights too

Dear Ann Landers: You demonstrated a surprising lack of understanding and imagination when you praised the mother who refused to give her child the strawberries off her shortcake. When the child asked, "Can I have your strawberries, Mom, because I love them so much," the mother replied, "I like strawberries, too, and I'm going to eat them myself."

You commended that mother for not caving in and you added, "Too many kids think they should have everything they see and ask for. Parents who cater to the whims of their children do them no favor."

A much better way of handling the situation, in my opinion, would have been for the mother to say, "I like strawberries, too, dear, but I will share mine with you and the next time we have strawberries you will share yours with me." Agreed?

The child would not only have been pleased but he would have learned the satisfaction that comes from sharing. The mother's approach, which you applauded, was a complete shutout. — Also From Chicago

Dear Chic: It was indeed a complete shutout, and that's what I liked about it. The notion that parents must always compromise to save a child's feelings is for the birds. There are many ways a child can learn to share, but this was an excellent opportunity to teach the child who "loved strawberries" that other people also love strawberries, and it's not fair to ask someone to settle for NO strawberries so he can have twice as many.

Dear Ann Landers: My mother taught me it is bad manners to look into other people's windows. I've grown up believing this is an invasion of privacy and in poor taste.

Here's the problem: We have a large bay window in our living room and I love to let the sunshine stream in, so I seldom pull my draperies. A dear neighbor of ours (and I am sincere when I say she is a lovely, fine person) has a habit of looking into that bay window to see if it is O.K. before she rings the bell.

For the life of me I can't understand what she is looking for. She would be welcome any time, and I mean that. Her habitual peering into my window really annoys me. Occasionally I look out and see her there, shading her eyes with her hands, and I become upset. I'm sure she believes she is being considerate but I feel it is terribly rude. Please don't tell me to tell her I can't. Any other suggestions? — Love My Neighbor In Miami

Dear Love: O.K. don't TELL her. ASK her. Sample language:

"What are you looking for? Please don't feel that you need to check to see if it's all right to ring the bell. You are welcome any time."

Dear Ann Landers: I was watching a game show on TV recently and the following information was presented as fact:

(1) An egg faints before it is cracked.

(2) A healthy egg will get nervous if it is placed next to a cracked egg.

Can these statements be true? I have been unable to eat an egg ever since I heard these unsettling statements. Thanks, Ann — Barnyard Blues

Dear Barny: Those botanists who talk to flowers might have influenced some egg farmers.

I've checked with my eggsperts (sorry about that) and they say go ahead and eat eggs again.

They have not been able to locate any nervous eggs in Iowa, Illinois, Minnesota or Nebraska.

The Day Under Your Sign

ARIES (Born March 21 to April 19): Don't let false appearances lead you astray. Surface appearances aren't always accurate.
Taurus (April 20 to May 20): A display of temper at this point works against you. Keep a tight rein on your emotions.
GEMINI (May 21 to June 21): You feel out of sorts but can't put your finger on any specific reason for your cantankerous mood.
CANCER (June 22 to July 20): Your sense of style isn't too reliable just now, so postpone purchase of winter wardrobe.
LEO (July 21 to Aug. 21): A day for quiet study. Your problem will be finding a place to work with out interruption.
VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22): Someone may make unusual demands and you resent such imposition. Don't show displeasure.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22): This is no time to pussy-foot around. The direct approach is your best bet, but you dilly-dally.
SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21): Negative outlook suggests advisability of "staying put" instead of roaming around the countryside.
SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21): Even tho you can prove you are right, try to avoid the temptation to say "I told you so."
CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): You could be the victim of gossip today. Be so circumspect that there's nothing to talk about.
AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): Although there's plenty to do, you're not in the mood to do it. Get away from usual scenes.
PISCES (Feb. 20 to March 20): Give instructions, make requests, ask favors tactfully. Don't make demands or order people around.

Jacoby's bridge

When both sides lead the same suit, the odds that one side is making a mistake are overwhelming.

South found himself in a four-spade contract after typical rubber bridge bidding. His two-spade bid was a sign-off but North looked at his 18 points and bid game anyway.

West opened the jack of diamonds. Dummy's queen was topped by East's ace and a diamond was led back. Dummy's king won and South proceeded to play the king and jack of trumps.

West allowed them to hold, whereupon South led a heart to his king; a second heart to dummy's jack and then dummy's ace. East showed out but this didn't worry South.

He ruffed dummy's last diamond, ruffed his last heart, cashed dummy's ace of clubs for his ninth trick, and was still sure of a trump trick for his contract.

East promptly pointed out that West could have beaten the contract if he had taken the second trump and led a third round, but that South would have had a cinch if he had just led one round of trumps.

East's analysis was correct but we can't really fault either South or West. South didn't know that trumps were going to break 4-1; West couldn't know that South held four hearts in addition to his five spades.

Windsor observes day on Nov. 11

Branch 148, Royal Canadian Legion, announce plans to observe Remembrance Day at Windsor on Saturday, Nov. 11. Veterans of the two World Wars, members of the Canadian Legion and Ladies Auxiliary will form a parade as usual.

The citizens of Windsor are invited to join in the service at the Cenotaph at 2 p.m. This year residents will be approached to buy a poppy by members of the Legion and the Auxiliary. Buy a poppy and wear it proudly, in remembrance of those who went to war.

When you see these men before the cenotaph, wearing their berets, their medals, and their poppies, observe a moments silence with them, and silently say "thank you" to those who gave their lives for you.

Species saved from near extinction

By DON McLEOD
CAP TOURMENTE, Que. (CP) — Every fall, wave after wave of snow-white geese glide up the St. Lawrence River valley in honking, V-shaped formations to descend on the tidal marshes and mudflats below towering Cap Tourmente.

The world population of greater snow geese, after flying 2,000 miles from the eastern Arctic, make this their one major nesting and feeding stop on an annual migration that continues to wintering grounds in North Carolina and Virginia.

During the last half century, hunters and conservationists have combined to rescue the species from near extinction and rebuild the flocks to a point where, this year, steps have been taken by the Canadian Wildlife Service to remove some of the pressure on food supplies here.

The geese, numbering only 3,000 in 1900 after years of unrestricted shooting, multiplied to 55,000 in 1970. This year the flock is estimated at 145,000.

Protected in their Arctic nesting grounds of Bylot and Baffin islands by remoteness and a federal sanctuary covering part of the region, their flight path southward remains largely unknown until they appear over the Saguenay River, flowing into the St. Lawrence 85 miles east of here, early in October. Cap Tourmente is 35 miles east of Quebec City.

Baffled biologists like Marcel Laperle say the geese must leave the Arctic by the mid-September freeze-up and the flight to the St. Lawrence should take only about a week or less. Somewhere along the way, perhaps over north-central Quebec, the snow geese must put down for three weeks or so but the location of that stop is a mystery.

Here they rest and feed until sometime in November, when they leave on the next leg of the trip south. They return along the same route in the spring, stopping here in April and May.

Since there has been no open season on greater snow geese in the United States since 1931, the only real hunting threat is along the St. Lawrence, especially when they put down at Cap Tourmente.

Historical records say they were seen resting and feeding by the thousands here at the time of Jacques Cartier.

The mudflats and marshes were purchased in 1908 from a Quebec seminary by a group of Quebec City sportsmen, who severely restricted hunting. In combination with other measures, this led slowly to the rebuilding of the stocks.

The Canadian Wildlife Service, which purchased the land in 1969 and set up a 5,000-acre National Wildlife Area, decided this year the goose population was approaching the maximum level that could be sustained by the primary food supply, underwater roots.

There is more food elsewhere along the river but, apparently, the geese have learned this is a no-hunting area. The service staged a controlled hunt this fall with the aim of dispersing the birds and forcing them to extend their feeding area.

Lonliness, fear... plenty to remember

By CAPT. CRAIG G. MILLS
OTTAWA — Remembrance Day: who or what are we supposed to remember?

Is it the old man with sunken cheeks, laying in a hospital bed and staring at the ceiling? He remembers...

... the thunder of the guns; acrid, deadly gas; the loneliness of a dark quagmire of a trench. And the fear that came with each night.

Or the middle aged man looking up at a climbing jet? He recalls scores of operational take-offs, jammed in his cockpit and looking back into the black English night.

He remembers the probing fingers of searchlights, the thump of ack-ack guns, silhouettes of night fighters, and the voices yelling in his head. He remembers being along, and fearing the unknown.

A man sits at his workbench carefully building a model warship. His thoughts travel back to monstrous black waves and a burning, sinking ship. His ship.

He shivers involuntarily and recalls the icy claws of the North Atlantic; close to death from the perishing cold; his prayers; and the miracle of unexpected rescue. All are dim memories now, but the fears remain.

An off-duty nurse rides the last night bus home, and her thoughts wander to "double deckers," another kind of bus in another land. She remembers her first hospital in a strange country, and the chopped up bodies carried there from the battlefield. Fears of almost three decades ago still are vivid.

A serviceman sits in his mess, alone for the moment with a cool beer. Another place, another time swims into his thoughts. He is on a hill in the dark Korean night. Lost, his patrol cut up in an ambush, he stumbles in the darkness, cold and afraid.

Why did they go? Most of them couldn't be sure now. But they remember it was for something good. An idea, maybe; peace, freedom, security, the threat of tyranny.

They knew it was right that they should fight. Anyway, it was always the other guy who got it. It couldn't happen to them.

SUNDAY, NOVEMBER 12

IF A VETERAN, WHY NOT A LEGIONNAIRE?

On Sunday the 12th November, Sherbrooke citizens will line the sidewalks to witness a parade. This will not be just any parade, for it should be the most important one on the calendar of any of us.

Remembrance Day Parade!!!

Heading the column will be the men who have served Canada in the armed forces, and are still serving in their civilian life.

Members of the Royal Canadian Legion.

The public probably does not realize that at Sherbrooke Branch 10 alone, during the past year, we have raised and spent $1800 in the relief of veterans and their families, (not just members of the Legion), in the form of Christmas baskets, clothing and accommodation. We are also major contributors to the Quebec "March of Dimes" campaign, which enables veterans or their dependents to borrow free of charge, wheelchairs or any of several prosthetic appliances.

You will all have heard of the Lennoxville Little League Ball Team and Wrenettes. It is the Legion which pays for all of their equipment, uniforms and administrative expenses of the Tigers.

However, do not think that being a Legionnaire is all meetings, parades etc. It is not! At our "Home" on Bowen South, we have one of the best clubs in Sherbrooke. Veterans and their friends can come any night for some activity or another. We have dances twice weekly. Come to our Armistice Dance, next Saturday, for instance, or play pool or darts. If you prefer, just sit and watch the sports events in color.

So, as I was saying, if a veteran, why not a Legionnaire? Come and join us, you will never regret it.

A Legionnaire.

Remembrance Day Parade—Sherbrooke

1400 hours—Units arrive at St-Michel Cathedral Grounds.
1430 hours—Units form up for marching.
1445 hours—Parade will arrive at Couture St. starting line.
1500 hours—Service at the Cenotaph.

The parade will then proceed down King and Wellington North to march past the reviewing stand facing the Court House. Col. Fred Baldwin E.D. will be reviewing officer.

Poppies will be sold on the street on Nov. 10th and 11th. Poppies are available in stores all this week.

HALLOWE'EN — October 31 is annually Hobo day at Sunnyside elementary school in Rock Island. The teaching staff and youngsters come in costume because of Hallowe'en. There was a haunted house the youngsters visited but seem afraid as they "wandered" through. The teachers provided treats in the classrooms. Here we have left to right, Philip Hucksins, Julie Goodsell, Laurie Boyd and Terry Hartley, four of the several Hobos.

MLA fighting a new war

By GERRY SUTTON
CALGARY (CP) — During the Second World War, a British officer escaped from a prisoner-of-war hospital in Greece while a German sentry was watching women digging for food in a rubbish heap.

Call it boldness or courage, but the daytime escapade was typical of Roy Farran who received several awards and was wounded four times during his military career which started at the age of 18.

Now the action is less intense, although the Progressive Conservative MLA for Calgary North Hill has been placed on the firing line as head of a government committee on provincial-municipal financial relations—formed to decide which level of government should pay for which service.

Provincial politics are a new adventure for the 51-year-old former newspaper reporter, who was born in India. He was an alderman for 10 years and publisher of a weekly newspaper in Calgary before he sold it.

CAPTURED IN CRETE
His war career evolved around the Queen's Hussars, "a British mechanized cavalry." He served in the western desert, Crete, Sicily, Italy and France.

He is the author of seven books, including the history of the Calgary Highlanders and Winged Dagger, which first was published in 1948 and describes his wartime exploits.

Maj. Farran, who was a lieutenant at the time, said he was captured in Crete. Wounded in his thigh, both legs and right arm, he later was taken by the Germans to a prisoner-of-war hospital outside Athens.

The major, who was always called captain, said in his book that "we passed our days in recounting the disasters of the battle and in looking forward to the next meal."

"As we became more fit, we began to discuss the chances of escape. Many talked about it, but few were prepared to put a plan into execution."

GUARD HALF-ASLEEP
His escape was described this way:

"I was taking a course of sunbathing on the roof in the afternoon to try to cover myself with enough tan to pass as a Greek. . . . I suddenly noticed that the sentry on the gate was gazing at some Greek woman in a rubbish heap."

"He seemed half-asleep and I knew him of old as a rather stupid man with one eye. . . .

I ran down to the ward, grabbed my pillowcase, scurried down the stairs and out through the back door."

The sentry on the gate was still looking in the opposite direction. I walked straight up to the wire and crawled through it. The dressing had come off my leg and I limped slowly across the open space, keeping one eye on the sentry.

"Just as he turned, I threw myself into a convenient rivulet, but by then I was 500 yards away from the wire." Lieut. Farran said after a few moments the sentry turned to gaze at the Greek women once more.

"I stood up and ran, half-limping, towards the nearest Greek cottages."

Lieut. Farran, who spent four months in the hospital and an adjacent prison camp, stayed with a number of Greeks until escape plans were worked out to take him across the Mediterranean.

THIRSTED FOR BEER

The second phase of the escape was in a "small vessel" — perhaps 30 feet in length. In the boat were 14 other people, including 10 Greeks and three British citizens, who eventually reached Alexandria in Egypt after nine days which covered 900 miles on the Mediterranean.

During that time, they ran out of fuel, food and water. "By the eighth day we were all far gone with thirst and exhaustion. Our lips were cracked, our tongues were swelling and we could only crawl about on our hands and knees."

"I have always heard that when one is expecting imminent death, one dreams of the loved ones at home, or of heaven and the happy days of one's youth. I did not."

"All I could think of was a glass of cool Pilsner beer with a plate of steak, fried tomatoes and chips in a little cafe in Alexandria. So much for romance."

That was in 1941, just a small part of his eight-year career as a British soldier.

The former construction worker and farmer also made a parachute drop in defiance of orders behind the German lines in northern Italy where he took command of a band of partisans.

He was awarded the Distinguished Service Order, three Military Crosses, the U.S. Legion of Merit and the French Croix de Guerre with palm in the Second World War.

Two million copies of Winged Dagger have been sold since it was first published and Wm. Collins Sons and Co. Canada Ltd. is printing a new edition of the paperback.

Dr. P. D. McTaggart-Cowan, executive director of the Science Council, said the earlier report already has prompted many industries and industrial associations to re-examine their research and development work.

He believed the government would have done more if its work had not been interrupted by the recent federal election.

Dr. Bourgault said his job was simply to examine the problem of innovation in the structure of Canadian industry and place it before the council. He did not make specific recommendations in his report.

But he said at the news conference that Canada needs more industrial engineers and should do more to apply research and development techniques to the reduction of costs. If Canadian industry was consolidated, it could make savings which would reduce prices for consumers.

He said he believed industry would be willing to follow federal government suggestions, but in some instances "you may have to knock a lot of heads together." It might be necessary to subsidize one firm in competition with others in order to get an industry to fall into line.

proving our position."

He said the large number of similar products on the market needs to be consolidated and industry rationalized.

NO SCARE

"I believe industry is more prepared to play according to the rules the government might make than the government thinks it would be, provided it can be profitable. Such rules wouldn't necessarily frighten everyone away."

Dr. Bourgault said some government incentives to industry to expand may have aggravated the problem of multiplicity of products.

He suggested applications for grants from the department of regional economic expansion (DREE) should be examined on the basis of consolidating manufacturing facilities, and the government should not discourage mergers.

His report was prepared as a study of the problem covered in an earlier Science Council report, Innovation in a Cold Climate. In that report, the council recommended the government and industry work together to develop an industrial strategy for Canada.

China short doctors

TORONTO (CP) — Despite rapidly expanding training facilities, China still suffers from a shortage of doctors. Dr. Fu Yich'eng, deputy secretary-general of the Chinese Medical Association, said Monday.

Dr. Fu, deputy leader of a 12-member Chinese medical delegation to Canada, told a news conference the 70 to 80 per cent of the population living in the countryside rarely see a qualified physician.

These people are served by "barefoot doctors," peasants who receive enough training to deal with common ailments and then return to the fields. Dr. Fu said they represent a "preliminary solution" to the medical-care problem.

He said about 250,000 doctors graduated in the first 15 years of China's Communist government compared with 9,000 in the 10 years preceding its takeover in 1949.

Efforts were being made to speed the production of graduates by shortening undergraduate courses to three or four years, but the program was experimental and still was being evaluated.

WORK SIDE BY SIDE

Dr. Fu said the best elements of traditional Chinese medicine are being integrated with Western methods. Practitioners of both disciplines work side by side and patients may receive both kinds of treatment.

Acupuncture, the ancient practice of planting needles in various parts of the body, had proved effective in treating some types of deafness and research in the treatment was continuing.

He said venereal disease has virtually been eradicated in China by wiping out its sources.

Shortly after the present government came to power, it closed all houses of prostitution, gave medical treatment to the occupants and put them to work in other occupations.

The delegation, which arrived in Toronto from Edmonton Saturday, visits hospital and medical facilities in Toronto and London, Ont., today and will spend the following three days in Montreal.

Another three days in Ottawa, the delegates leave for Paris next Monday.

Drawing raises money

ROCK ISLAND (IH) — As a means of raising funds, the Boundary Broomball team sold tickets on 10 prizes. These were drawn for on Saturday, November 4, at Sunnyside School by the volleyball players and two members of the press each pulling one ticket until a total of 10 were pulled.

The prize winners were Nicole Emslie, Derby Line; Andre

Price of B.C. lumber at all-time high

VANCOUVER (CP) — A combination of factors including recent labor strife in British Columbia, a housing boom, price controls in the United States and log shortages on both sides of the border have pushed the selling price of B.C. lumber to an all-time high, industry spokesmen say.

The upward trend is expected to continue at least until winter weather conditions cause a seasonal dip. But even with this, lumber market experts believe the prospect for good sales and high prices will continue into the first half of 1973.

Prices on green random length standard and better quality, shipped by water to the U.S. Atlantic seaboard last week reached $145 a thousand board feet compared with $98 a thousand in the same week last year. The previous high was the March, 1969, average price of $127.

Industry spokesmen say the boom in house building in the U.S. has continued at a rate much higher than expected, with August figures showing an annual rate of new starts for 1972 of 2.4 million, up sharply from the 1971 figure of 2,084,000.

Price controls in the U.S. are said to be limiting production in some areas. Some companies reportedly are near their profit guideline and have chosen to cut back production rather than go over the suggested profit limit. The result is that U.S. producers are not able to meet the demand.

SHORTAGE OF LOGS

There are log shortages in both B.C. and sections of the U.S. and the lumber inventories of U.S. wholesalers are extremely low, partly because of the early summer strike in B.C. by members of the International Woodworkers of America. Some estimates place the shortfall at 200 million board feet.

The U.S. housing boom is being maintained partly because American corporations have not been competing as hard in the money market, making that much more available for homes, the experts say.

In addition, the average American has been saving at a slightly higher rate than expected, thus making further money available through savings and loan associations for housing.

A spokesman for MacMillan Bloedel Ltd. says the current market has been achieved without heavy sales to such countries as Japan, where an economic downturn has limited buying.

He expects an improvement in the Japanese market, however, and this combined with the U.S. prospects makes the outlook for 1973 "pretty healthy."

Pakistan: The worst Canadian nightmare

By JOHN HAY
KARACHI (CP) — Strained and finally fractured by regional and linguistic hostilities, Pakistan has already experienced the worst Canadian nightmare.

This view by Pakistan's ambassador to Canada, J. K. A. Marker, reflects Pakistan's long and continuing battle simply to stay in one piece.

After 24 years of struggle against secessionist pressures in its eastern wing—separated by 1,000 miles of alien India as well as by language and culture—the country split in two last December with the breakaway of Bangladesh, once East Pakistan.

Mending its morale after that dismemberment, Pakistan is still fighting to quell separatism, subdue bitter language divisions and forge a new federal system.

Even with peace and prosperity Canadians have learned the difficulties of a federal government. But Pakistan is a poor country. It has just emerged from military governments that have ruled nearly all its 25 years of independence.

The problems are familiar to Canadians: provinces competing with the federal government for political and financial power; small provinces chafing against the dominance of a rich big brother; an explosive language conflict manipulated by politicians jockeying for power.

SEE TROUBLE AHEAD
Many of the issues have lingered for years, submerged by the over-riding threat of Bangladesh separation. But with Bangladesh gone, the tensions have erupted in full force.

The ugly memories of the Bangladesh war mean that any threat against the central government is seen as a threat against the country itself.

Most observers say President Bhutto has firmly established himself since he succeeded the old military regime after its defeat in Bangladesh last December.

He has plotted a program of socialist reforms to stimulate the economy and build a stable political system. He has also repudiated the single-minded centralism that led to the final break between the two halves last year.

But there are increasing signs of trouble ahead.

Two small and poor provinces, Baluchistan and North West Frontier, are stepping up their demands for greater freedom from central control.

REBELLION QUELLED
They also want to offset the power of the biggest province—Punjab—in the central government by gaining a guaranteed portion of seats in a new upper house, which would have more power than the Canadian Senate.

Punjab, which holds 65 per cent of Pakistan's population and supplies a disproportionate number of its business and government leaders, insists on a strong central government. It would be dominated by Punjabis.

Summer language riots in the fourth province, Sind, were tied to the provincial rights issue. The Sind government passed a law upgrading its own provincial language in relation to the national language—Urdu. Urdu is the language of Punjabis in the province who held many positions of power in commerce and government service.

The rebellion against the language law was quashed after mass arrests.

The federal-provincial conflicts are aggravated by partisan politics. Bhutto's group, the People's party, holds the central government and Punjab and Sind legislatures. The principal opposition parties rule the two smaller states.

The dispute became so vicious recently that when several opposition leaders travelled simultaneously to London, a central government minister hinted they were hatching a plot to overthrow the government.

MANY HAVE DOUBTS
Beneath the domestic turmoil are haunting questions about future relations with Bangladesh. Will it ever be lured into a new union with Pakistan? Does Pakistan itself want reunion?

Bhutto insists the questions are still open, and wants to discuss them with Bangladesh Prime Minister Mujibur Rahman before recognizing Bangladesh independence.

But to many Pakistanis the attitude is "good riddance."

"Let India spend its millions trying to take care of the Bengalis," one government official said.

The question of Bangladesh recognition colors political debates within Pakistan.

Drapeau says Montreal needs plenty of help

MONTREAL (CP) — Mayor Jean Drapeau said Monday that the city will need the help of both the federal and provincial governments in plans to finance the 1976 Olympic games.

Speaking at a reception honoring International Olympics Committee president Lord Killanin, Mayor Drapeau said that both Quebec and Ottawa "will have to modify some acts so financing can be made available for some aspects of the Olympics."

He did not specify which acts would have to be modified but later said that a Quebec law will have to be amended to allow an Olympics lottery.

He said the Montreal Games earlier this summer "got the audacious support of higher governments to get the money where it was available on a voluntary basis."

"And that is exactly what we intend to do here in Montreal," he added.

It appeared to be a contradiction of earlier statements by Mr. Drapeau that he would not need extra help from the other two levels of government, although funds should be available through existing legislation.

AVAILABLE TO POOR

"We are out to prove that Olympism is available to poor cities as well as rich cities," the mayor said.

Mayor Drapeau made no mention of estimates that costs of the Montreal Games run well over $700 million, but he and Lord Killanin both stressed that the Games were self-financing.

Complete estimates for the Montreal Games have not yet been released but the mayor has said they will cost about $120 million. He did not specify if this figure was for the sports installations or for the organization or both.

Monday Mayor Drapeau congratulated the mayor of Munich not only because he was able to secure federal government aid but also because "the Games were self-financing."

"And our aim in 1976 is to make the Games completely self-financing," Mr. Drapeau said.

He said many important businessmen had already lent their support to the Games and he hoped that the "spiritual value" of the Olympics would take precedence over the financial aspect.

TIME FOR TRUTH

"For too many Olympics, money has been stressed too much," he said. "It is time to bring back the real truth of the Olympics."

He said it is commendable if Munich has accounted for a good number of public benefits, including public housing and transportation, within the cost of the Games.

His own original plans called for the same kind of move after the Montreal Games have ended and he has indicated that he can finance these projects through provincial and federal urban renewal programs.

Lord Killanin, in a speech, said money should not be wasted in planning the Games, but noted "that frequently those cities to whom the Games are given, are able to develop more rapidly."

"I am thinking in terms of metros, subways, railways, housing, sporting facilities and many other by-products of an Olympic Games."

"I think perhaps with the figures which are frequently mentioned for the cost of Munich, a false picture is represented," because the civic benefits of the Games and the housing projects are often forgotten by those criticizing the cost of the Olympics.

The IOC head, here on a four-day visit which ends today, said he had been impressed by the organizing committee's efforts to make maximum use of existing facilities "and at the same time erecting buildings and stadia which will not be white elephants and unused in the future."

NO FORCED DECLARATIONS

Later, speaking on the sticky topic of Olympics and amateurism, Lord Killanin said there was no way the Games will ever become open to both professionals and amateurs.

"What is important, is that the individual amateur should not be forced, by national pride or political pressures, to have to sign any declaration which is countersigned by a national association, all three knowing they are hypocrites."

"Hypocrisy is alien to Olympic ideals."

He said the Olympics eligibility code is being studied in relationship to its application at Sapporo, Japan, and Munich, in the winter and summer Games earlier this year.

"Further discussions will take place with the international sports federations, who in some cases, have rules even more strict than the IOC," he said.

Kings reign supreme

MONTREAL (CP) — Los Angeles Kings, spearheaded by forwards Ralph Backstrom, Butch Goring and Bob Berry, have become the scourge of the National Hockey League's West Division.

The Kings, who lost five of their first six games, have come to life and have won their last seven games in a row. That is the longest winning streak enjoyed by a post-1967 expansion club.

The previous record for an expansion club was set last season when Minnesota North Stars won six in a row.

The Kings will try to stretch their string to eight tonight when they visit the Blues in St. Louis in the only NHL game scheduled.

BOMBED NETMINDERS

During their seven wins the Kings have bombed enemy netminders for 34 goals, while giving up only nine, a reversal of form from their previous seasons.

Los Angeles now leads the West Division standings with 16 points, two more than Philadelphia Flyers and Chicago Black Hawks. The Kings also have moved into sixth place in the goaltending race from 11th spot one week ago.

Goring and Backstrom led all NHL scorers last week collecting 10 points each. Goring's total included six goals—two three-goal games—and four assists, while Backstrom had four goals and six assists. Berry had five points, including his 11th goal and leads the Kings in that department.

Rod Gilbert of New York Rangers has jumped into a second-place tie with left winger John Bucyk of Boston Bruins.

RRHS sports scene slows

By JENNIFER GRIFFITH

RICHMOND — With soccer season closing out and basketball starting, these last two weeks haven't seen too much action at Richmond Regional High School.

On Wednesday, October 25, three teams from Richmond travelled to Bishop's College School to play Alexander Galt. The Bantam Boys lost to Galt Leeds by a close 3-2 count.

Jimmy Stevens and Bruce MacDonald scored for Richmond. AGRHS shut out our Junior Boys 'B' team in soccer by a 1-0 score.

However, the Girls' Field Hockey team made up for the losses by clinching the league championship. Joan Taylor scored the only goal in the game to bring home the championship.

This was the first year for field hockey at RRHS and the team did well, losing only one league game and the final game in a tournament to Massey-Vanier Regional High School 1-0 in overtime.

Saturday morning saw the three boys' teams at Stanstead and the junior and senior girls at BCS. The Bantam Boys lost their exhibition game to Stanstead 6-0 and the Junior Boys did equally as bad, losing 7-0. The Senior Boys came out victorious in their game beating Stanstead, 3-1.

Allan Stevens, Bruce Morin and Norman Rioux tallied for Richmond. This victory left the Senior Boys in first place in the league.

In girls action at BCS the Seniors battled to a 0-0 draw with BCS to finish out the season with two ties and two losses.

The Junior Girls won a 5-2 decision over BCS. Field goals by Claire DeBellefeuille and Kathy Nicholls and a penalty shot by Joan Tyler gave Richmond the victory. This win leaves the team in a first place tie with Galt, with two ties and two wins.

The only sports action this week saw our Junior Boys soccer team lose the league championship, in a disappointing game to BCS, by a 2-0 score.

In other school news, RRHS students did well on the Unicef campaign. To date $632.00 has been collected with still a few boxes not yet returned. The highest collector was Gerry Norton of homeroom G-101 who brought in a total of $26.08.

Despite win

Unitas, Colts no longer united

FOXBORO, Mass. (AP) — Johnny Unitas, professional football's Mr. Quarterback, kicked his famous No. 19 jersey into a corner and admitted his love affair with Baltimore Colts was over.

"There's no use in staying around here," he said, "not the way they're treating me."

"There's nothing I can do about it. It was their decision not to play me anymore."

Baltimore had just cracked a four-game losing streak, handing New England Patriots a fifth straight defeat, 24-17, in Monday night's National Football League game.

But, Johnny wasn't celebrating. Young quarterback Marty Domres, given the job Unitas owned for 16 years, hit 10 of 19 passes against New England for only 89 yards. One of his shots was a 17-yarder for a touchdown to tight end Tom Mitchell.

MADE THE DECISION

Joe Thomas, new general manager of the Colts, was the man who made the decision to bench Unitas and look ahead with the 25-year-old Domres.

"You can't keep going with a quarterback who'll be 40 years old next May," said Thomas, builder of NFL powerhouses as personnel chief at Minnesota and Miami.

John Sandusky, the longtime Colts assistant coach who became the field boss when Thomas fired Don McCafferty a month ago, was smiling over his first victory.

It wasn't pretty, but it was a win," he said. "It's my first and I'm proud of it."

The Colts now are 2-6, tied with the Pats for third in the American Conference East.

HAD HIS DOUBTS

Sandusky wondered for a while if he would survive the "beer bottle touchdown."

In the second quarter with Baltimore ahead 7-3, New England fans were booing over an interference call and another penalty for toughing the passer. The flags put the Colts on the Pats' four.

Domres flipped back to Don Nottingham and the chunky runner bounced untouched into the end zone. But it wasn't a touchdown. Some Patriot fan had saved a score with his beer bottle.

One official said he had called timeout amid all the noise after spotting the bottle lying in the end zone.

The unhappy Colts tried it again, but failed. They settled for a nine-yard field goal by Jim O'Brien. The loss of four points could have become important as New England drove late in the game for what could have been a tying touchdown.

But the Pats didn't make it. Baltimore fell behind on a 36 yard field goal by Charlie Gogolak, but all-purpose player Sam Havrilak put the Colts ahead to stay on a dazzling reverse.

FINAL STATS REVEAL NEW CFL RECORDS

TORONTO (CP) — A number of season records were established and some career marks were extended when the Canadian Football League issued its final statistics of the season Monday.

Among the new season marks were the 15 interceptions by Al Brenner and the 37 kickoff returns for 1,033 yards by Munroe Eley.

Brenner, of Hamilton Tiger-Cats, intercepted four passes against Toronto Argonauts in the final Eastern Conference game Sunday, breaking the record of 11 interceptions in a season set by Don Sutherland of the Ticats in 1961.

Eley, with British Columbia Lions, broke the kickoff return record set last season by Mack Herron of Winnipeg Blue Bombers, who ran back 35 for 1,019 yards.

Other season records included Gerry Organ's 29 field goals for Ottawa Rough Riders, an Eastern Conference mark, but one short of the league record of 30 set by Ted Gerela with B.C. in 1968.

Career records extended were George Reed's 12,022 yards rushing, Ron Lancaster's 29,732 yards passing and Tommy-Joe Coffey's 10,320 yards on pass receiving.

Reed ran for 1,069 yards this season, making it his seventh year in a 10-year career in which he has reached 1,000 yards or more. He has carried the ball for Saskatchewan Roughriders a total of 2,376, also a league record.

Lancaster's career passing records, after 13 seasons with Ottawa and Saskatchewan, also include 3,600 pass attempts and 1,093 completions.

COFFEY TOP CATCHER

Coffey, after 13 years with Edmonton Eskimos and the Ticats, now has run his career receiving record to 650 catches for 10,320 yards. His eight touchdowns this season, however, left him one short of the career record of 64 set by Hal Patterson with Montreal and Hamilton over a 14-year span.

With only 27 catches for 432 yards this season, Coffey wound up 11th among EFC receivers on the season. Toronto's Eric Allen was tops with 53 catches for 1,067 yards and eight touchdowns.

In the West, Winnipeg's Jim Thorpe was the top pass catcher with 70 receptions for 1,260 yards. Also passing the 1,000-yard mark in the WFC were Calgary's Gerry Shaw, with 65 catches for 1,002 yards; Jim Young of B.C., 63 for 1,362; and George McGowan of Edmonton, 54 for 1,015.

Herron of Winnipeg was the league's top rusher with 1,527 yards on 258 carries, followed by Reed of the Roughriders. The only other player to join the 1,000-yard rushing club was Hamilton's Dave Buchanan, who led the East with 1,165 on 263 carries.

SPARTANS THUMP VANIER

By BILL BROCK

STANSTEAD — The fall sports program ground to a halt Saturday as the football Spartans scored early and late to hand Massey-Vanier Regional a 41-19 defeat. The victory left the Spartans with a 5-2 record for the season which coach Alex Philip had described as a rebuilding year following two consecutive undefeated seasons.

The Spartans scored on their first two plays from scrimmage en route to a 22-0 lead at the end of the first quarter. Gary Garbarino and Joey Cammalleri scored on 78 and 43 yard runs for the first quarter, this one on a six yard run. Cammalleri converted all three and added a single on a wide fieldgoal attempt.

Stanstead padded their lead early in the second quarter as Cammalleri took a fullback pass from Jim Etcheverry and rambled 17 yards for the TD. From this point, the Cowansville crew embarked on a comeback that saw them narrow the margin to 28-19 early in the last period.

The Cowansville surge came on the sturdy legs of Ken Seaton and Steve Demone who gained 160 and 67 yards respectively. Demone scored once and Seaton twice, once on a brilliant 50 yard scamper.

The Spartan offence took over, however, and iced the game on two Etcheverry touchdowns.

Hull optimistic, hopes to be back Wednesday

BOSTON (AP) — Bobby Hull, former National Hockey League superstar who jumped to Winnipeg Jets of the rival World Hockey Association, says he's optimistic of victory in the court decision expected today in his contract dispute with the NHL.

But even if the court rules against him, Hull said, "I think I've played my last game with the Black Hawks," his former NHL team.

Hull said he understood lawyers in the case had been summoned to Philadelphia for a decision in the case.

Expos acquire Roque

MONTREAL (CP) — Montreal Expos of baseball's National League announced Monday they have acquired Jorge Roque, a 22-year-old outfielder, from St. Louis Cardinals in a straight one-for-one player deal.

He played 32 games for the Cards last season and hit one home run, that one in Montreal against the Expos to break an extra-inning game.

"In Roque, we're getting a fine young major league outfield prospect," Fanning said. "He not only possesses good running speed and a good throwing arm, but he has a good minor league offensive record. Roque has been carefully scouted for two years."

McCarver, 31, returns to the organization with which he broke into major league baseball in 1959. He played seven years at the major league level with St. Louis before being traded to Philadelphia Phillies after the 1969 season.

McCarver came to Montreal in exchange for catcher John Bateman last June 14. He appeared in 77 games for the Expos and hit .251.

Roque started the 1972 season with Tulsa of the American Association, and hit .233 in 64 games. He later hit .341 in 22 games with Arkansas of the Texas League.

The trade was announced by Expos' general manager Jim Fanning.

Roque, a right-handed batter, has spent five years in the St. Louis farm system. He was called up by the parent Cardinals in September of the last three seasons.

McCarver came to Montreal in exchange for catcher John Bateman last June 14. He appeared in 77 games for the Expos and hit .251.
