LENNOXVILLE — Alexander Galt Regional High School will be the site of the second annual Eastern Townships Relay Meet on Saturday, May 18.

Beginning at 10 a.m., the meeting will have 13 high schools from Quebec, Ontario and Vermont competing in the 20 interscholastic relay events.

Close to 500 high school athletes are expected to attend and run in the planned events.

Special invitational races and relays have also been arranged to supply more thrills during the day. Two women's races will be run, while one men's run is planned.

At 10:45 a.m., the first invitational event will be run. The women's 400 meter race will have a possible international track star running. From the United States, Robin Campbell, Gwen Norman, Ester Stry and Debby Pastal will take part, while Canada will be represented by Yvonne Saunders, Brenda Walsh, Marg McGowan, Joan Eddy, Ann Mackie and Joyce Yakubovich.

In the afternoon, the second women's special event, a 4 x 400 relay, will be held at 3:15 p.m. The four American girls will run against four of the Canadians.

The only men's invitational race will be held at 2:15 p.m., with eight more stars from Canada and the U.S. competing in a race which is unusual to their normal events. The 5,000 meter race will involve Toronto's Grand McLaren, Dan Shaumessy and two others, while the group of four Americans is made up of Carl Thorton from Philadelphia, Berry Brown from Florida and Steve Stagasberg and Gord Oiver from Washington.

The other special event of the day will take place at 12:10 p.m. A jogger's mile for anyone interested in taking part will be run. The only stipulation in the race is that participants be over 30 years of age.

A canteen will be set up on the premises throughout the day so you won't have to miss any of the exciting relay events.

Nine interscholastic trophies will be up for grabs in various events, donated by local companies or establishments. They are: the Estrie Athletic Association Trophy, the L.G. Balfour Trophy, the H. B. Strick Trophy, the Sherbrooke Snowshoe Club Trophy, the Eastern Townships Regional School Board Trophy, the Town of Lennoxville Trophy, the Stanstead College Trophy, the Bishop's College School Old Boys Trophy, the Bishop's College School Trophy.

The day promises to provide some very exciting interscholastic competition, along with the special invitational events. Besides, the meet will be the first major event on the rubber-asphalt track at Galt, and the meet will be a fitting christening.

VANCOUVER (CP) — A stunning victory for a reform group of unions at the Canadian Labor Congress (CLC) biennial convention Thursday was greeted by wild cheering as new faces took over three of the four top congress executive jobs.

Although Joe Morris, an incumbent on the four-man permanent executive, was chosen congress president, as expected, two candidates backed by the delegates showed displeasure with the labor organization's establishment.

Even Mr. Morris faced unexpected opposition as more than one-third of the 2,500 delegates cast votes for a virtually unknown challenger, Gilbert MacIntyre from Sydney, N.S. The ballots cast against Mr. Morris reflected a protest vote, Mr. MacIntyre said.

Serving with Mr. Morris on the permanent executive are Donald Montgomery of Toronto, as secretary-treasurer; Shirley Carr of Niagara Falls, Ont., an executive vice-president, and Julien Major of Montreal, also an executive vice-president.

The convention, which ends today, has so far lived up to its advance billing by retiring president Donald MacDonald as one of the most unpredictable in years.

QFL SUPPORTED

Besides the drama of the election upsets, which were greeted by joyful floor demonstrations by reform group supporters, the delegates approved by an overwhelming majority a bid for more power from the Quebec Federation of Labor.

That approval first required the rejection of a recommendation by the old congress executive. The executive proposal would have sidetracked the QFL request for more control over education, financial and labor council programs.

After the 2,500 delegates overruled their executive Wednesday night the QFL issue was brought back early Thursday morning on the floor and the Quebec group's resolution was supported. The resolution now is referred to the incoming executive for appropriate action.

QFL president Louis Laberge, a dominant figure at this convention, was strong in his praise for the support the Quebec members received from their English-speaking counterparts.

With only 300 delegates to the convention, the QFL had to lobby long and hard to collect support for their position. When the vote was taken they won by an 80 per cent majority.

The reformers seemed to grow more powerful as the convention went along. They want more mergers among affiliates, tougher standards to provide more independence for Canadian sections of international unions and better services for members.

Mr. Montgomery won the secretary-treasurer post

Guerrillas denounce Israeli raid

Palestinian guerrilla leaders promised swift revenge for Israeli air strikes into southern Lebanon that killed or wounded more than 150 persons in refugee camps, apartment houses and villages.

The Israeli raiders bombed, rocketed and strafed at least five Palestinian camps and three border villages Thursday in retaliation for the Arab terrorist attack Wednesday in which 24 Israelis were killed and 74 wounded. The Israeli bombs and rockets also hit a block of apartment houses in Sidon, adjoining a refugee camp, leveling one three-storey building and causing heavy casualties.

Lebanon asked Thursday for a meeting of the United Nations Security Council to hear its protests of the raids.

"This new Israeli crime will not pass without punishment. Israel will pay very dearly for the price of our children," declared the Palestinian news agency WAFA.

Communications from the Palestine Liberation Organization promised "violent reaction" to the raids, and one guerrilla leader said retaliation will "come sooner than Israel expects."

The Israeli strikes increased the possibility that U.S. State Secretary Henry Kissinger will return to Washington soon without an agreement between Israel and Syria for a separation of their forces on the Golan Heights. But Kissinger made another trip to Damascus Thursday and maintained on his return to Jerusalem that "progress was made."

The Lebanese defence ministry said 36 Israeli jets made simultaneous strikes Thursday afternoon on seven targets, and an eight-plane raid followed at dusk.

The Israeli pilots made repeated bombing and strafing runs on three villages near the Israeli-Lebanese border, a Palestinian refugee camp 15 miles southeast of Beirut and three refugee camps on the outskirts of Sidon, the ancient port 25 miles south of Beirut.

No firm casualty figures were available, but an incomplete tally indicated at least 30 to 40 dead, more than 130 wounded and scores more unaccounted for.

Although the Israeli chief of staff, Lt.-Gen. Mordechai Gur, said the raiders hit "guerrilla bases," casualties were particularly heavy among Lebanese families living in a block of three-storey apartment buildings adjacent to the Ein el Helweh refugee camp at Sidon.

Armed Palestinian guerrillas patrolling the area said a large number of persons were buried in the wreckage in the camp and the apartment block. Weeping relatives and rescue workers dug through the night for bodies and survivors.

Egyptian Foreign Minister Ismail Fahmy warned that the Arab states could not stand idly by in the face of "Israeli acts of aggression."

Petrochemical plant

Alberta opposes Sarnia site

EDMONTON (CP) — Alberta has served notice it will vigorously fight a massive petrochemical development planned for Sarnia, Ont., that Premier Peter Lougheed says will damage his province's attempt to set up its own petrochemical industry.

In a policy statement delivered in the legislature Thursday, Mr. Lougheed opposed the proposed $250-million Petrosar Ltd. plant in Sarnia on the grounds that it would hurt Alberta.

"It will jeopardize the possibility of new jobs in Alberta from petrochemical development as it will absorb a significant portion of the limited available Canadian market and render Alberta-based plants less feasible."

Alberta's position might set off another round of federal-provincial feuding since the Petrosar consortium is controlled by Polysar Ltd., a federal Crown corporation.

The petrochemical industry, using the natural resources of Alberta, has been centred in Sarnia and Montreal. Premier Lougheed said he doesn't want to cripple existing plants in the east dependent on Alberta for raw resources.

"Our policies contemplate a continued viable Ontario petrochemical industry based on maintaining existing facilities and normal growth using Alberta resources."

JOBS NEEDED
But the province wants to make a start on getting the thousands of jobs possible through processing petrochemicals and using them to make numerous plastic-based products ranging from garbage bags to toys. The premier emphasized that Alberta must seize the opportunity to diversify its economy.

Otherwise, "we accept the risk that creation of new jobs will decline as the conventional petroleum industry headquartered in Alberta and its related service industries begin to level off."

While opposing the Sarnia operation, Premier Lougheed gave full support to a proposal by Alberta Gas Trunk Line and Canadian Industries Ltd., promising full production and processing of petrochemicals in plants throughout Alberta. Up to 16,000 jobs might be created.

The premier also threatened to withdraw the province's approval for a petrochemical plant planned in Alberta by Dow Chemical and Dome Petroleum Ltd. if too much of the production is shipped to Eastern Canada for processing into plastics.

HARD TO STOP
The premier admitted that although he is opposed to Petrosar, it would be difficult to stop it if the federal government decided to forge ahead. The plant will depend on Alberta crude oil for the manufacturing of petrochemicals and the province has little say over exactly where the oil goes once it is shipped out of Alberta.

The premier questioned the establishment of another petrochemical plant in southern Ontario, "the area with the highest income levels in Canada." He also pointed out that it would be using Alberta oil priced at below world prices and, to top that, it would be an inefficient use of oil.

Mr. Lougheed has already told Petrosar officials they would be "ill advised" to rely on Alberta supplying the 170,000 barrels of oil a day they will need.

Flooding leaves thousands homeless

Thousands of persons were evacuated from towns along the surging Gatineau River Thursday after heavy rainfall and melting snow threatened to burst a Hydro-Quebec dam, forcing authorities to open spillways releasing water ten times above normal flow.

Public works officials in the area say this has caused the worst flooding in 15 years.

In Maniwaki, Que., about 3,000 people, half the population of this logging town 90 miles north of Ottawa, have been evacuated since the Gatineau rose at least 15 feet above normal level.

When the over-flowing Baskong Reservoir threatened to rupture the Mercier Dam, north of Maniwaki, flood gates were opened, five times since Tuesday, each time raising the river's level.

Normal flow from the dam is 10,000 cubic feet a second, but, a spokesman for Quebec Provincial Police said Thursday night, the flow was at 80,000 and expected to be increased today to 100,000 cubic feet a second.

"We haven't seen the worst yet," he said.

A Hydro-Quebec spokesman said Thursday gas and electricity supplies have been cut to 200 homes in the area.

He said the Mercier Dam

spillways may have to be opened more by the weekend if rain continues.

FURTHER FLOODING
"This will cause even further flooding, but it is either that or have the dam burst."

A meeting with provincial government representatives is scheduled today to discuss a plea by the region to have it declared a disaster area.

Gilles Masse, Quebec natural resources minister, told the national assembly Thursday the extent of damages due to flooding in the Gatineau Valley will not be established until after the water recedes.

Mr. Masse said the inter-departmental committee on disasters has sent delegates to the area to provide whatever help is possible.

Meanwhile, other low-level towns along the Gatineau were also flooded, forcing evacuation of some residents by boat and truck.

Officials in Gatineau, Que., near Ottawa, reported no flooding yet in the town centre although 25 persons were evacuated Thursday.

In nearby Touraine, officials said the river, currently 27 inches above its normal level, would have to rise another 10 inches before evacuations would be necessary there.

Evacuations have already taken place in Deleage, Ste. Famille d'Aumond, Masson and Templeton.

SPILLWAYS OPENED

Elsewhere, eight of 10 spillways at the Carillon Dam on the Ottawa River have been opened to prevent overflowing. Flood waters Thursday were reported flowing into the dam at a rate of 243,000 cubic feet a second.

Mercier dam spill-offs affected the Montreal region where the Milieu Iles River has risen 38 inches since flooding began Monday.

Towns north of Montreal along the river were also hit severely by floods. Lorraine, St. Marthe sur le Lac, northern Laval and Pointe Calumet were the hardest hit where at least 10,000 homes were reported flooded.

The St. Maurice River Thursday flooded a highway between Cap de la Madeleine, 77 miles northeast of Montreal and La Tuque, 75 miles northwest of Quebec City, Quebec Provincial Police said.

The river, which runs parallel to the road, has submerged sections of the highway in as much as five feet of water, forcing evacuation of 22 families from La Tuque.

Quebec in focus

No help for gas consumers

QUEBEC (CP) — Premier Robert Bourassa told the national assembly Thursday the government will not move to offset recently announced increases in the wholesale price of gasoline by providing subsidies for consumers.

In answer to a question by Lucien Lessard (PQ—Saguenay), Mr. Bourassa said the government will not reduce existing taxes on petroleum products.

Gilles Masse, Quebec natural resources minister, told reporters later he did not know what effect the price increases will have on consumers and said there was a possibility that the distributor may absorb part of the cost of increases.

He said the government has no control over the fact that distributors would undoubtedly benefit from the increases by adding to their profit margin.

Mr. Masse also said the provincial government is examining the possibility of introducing legislation to set up its own retail price for oil. He said the government has engaged the services of legal experts at the University of Montreal to study Quebec's jurisdiction in this area.

Day-care subsidies in June

QUEBEC (CP) — The Quebec government plans to subsidize the province's existing day-care centres starting in June, Lise Bacon, minister without portfolio, announced Thursday.

"By June 15, we will be able to announce a day-care program which probably will be retroactive to June 1 and which will assure the permanence of such services," she told the Quebec national assembly.

The question of provincial involvement in funding day-care centres has come to a head in recent weeks with the federal government's decision to discontinue, during the next two months, grants to about 50 centres in Quebec operated as Local Initiatives Program projects.

Miss Bacon, answering a question from Jacques Veilleux (Lib—St. Jean), said the Quebec program will affect not only the LIP-project centres but all day centres holding permits from the social affairs department.

There are 250 day-care centres holding provincial permits. Nine are already subsidized by the provincial government, 50 are run on LIP grants and the rest are privately run.

Miss Bacon said the new daycare policy is still being prepared and will be submitted to the cabinet within the next few weeks.

Change soon in municipal vote

QUEBEC (CP)—Municipal Affairs Minister Victor Goldbloom said Thursday an amendment to the provincial property evaluation act will be introduced before the summer adjournment to permit tenants to run in the municipal elections this fall.

Mr. Goldbloom told reporters outside the national assembly a mistake in drawing up the new property evaluation law last summer led to a clause in the bill saying only property owners could be listed on municipal evaluation roles.

At the same time, Marcel Leger (PQ—Montreal Lafontaine) told the assembly, the cities and towns act says only persons whose name appears on the evaluation rolls can stand as a candidate in municipal elections.

"Our intention is clearly not to prevent anyone from standing as a candidate," Mr. Goldbloom said, adding that the amendment will apply to all municipalities, including those such as Montreal which have a provincial charter.

Montreal is the major municipality in the province holding municipal elections this fall.

A coalition of citizens groups and political parties—including the Parti Quebecois—has been formed to oppose Mayor Jean Drapeau whose Civic Party holds all the seats on the Montreal city council.

Mr. Goldbloom said the contradiction in the two laws was not noticed in time to amend it for the 1973 elections.

He said he was not aware of cases where tenants who won election last year have had their election contested because of the mix-up.

Mr. Leger said it had happened in a number of cases, notably in Mont Laurier, Que.

"Evidently, if there are contested elections, it's a legal question," Mr. Goldbloom said.

"The courts will have to decide or our legal advisers will have to provide us with a way to settle these problems."

New York

NEW YORK (AP)—Stocks of aluminum companies, caught up in a controversy with Jamaica, led a broad retreat in the stock market Thursday.

The sharp decline wiped out some mild gains recorded early in the session and carried the New York Stock Exchange's composite index to its lowest close in 3½ years.

The NYSE index, made up of all the approximately 1,500 common stocks listed on the exchange, dropped .35 to 47.38, its lowest finish since Nov. 27, 1970.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials fell 10.72 to 835.34, and losers outnumbered gainers by four-to-three in a turnover of 12.09 million shares on the NYSE.

Pressure on the aluminum issues stemmed from a breakdown in talks between the companies and the government of Jamaica, the Caribbean Island nation which produces a large percentage of the world's bauxite, the principal source of aluminum.

Jamaican Prime Minister Michael Manley indicated the country intended to increase sharply its tax and royalty take on bauxite mined there.

CMC official advises students

Initiative pays dividends in job hunting

SHERBROOKE (MI) — Thousands of students will be looking for jobs this summer, if they haven't already begun looking. Some will find them, others won't.

One thing appears clear, however. The best way to obtain employment is to pick up the telephone book, turn to the yellow pages and begin with 'A'.

"It's a fact," claims Canada Manpower officer Marc St. Laurent, "most employers are more impressed by students who make their own efforts instead of waiting for an agency to refer them." According to statistics Mr. St. Laurent provided, The Record yesterday, the Sherbrooke student placement center of Canada Manpower places one of every two students who register with the center.

Of the 1,050 students placed by the center last year, 460 were employed in the social services and industrial sector; 300 were employed in the more narrow commercial sector of stores and restaurants; and 190 in public administration. The remainder were divided, in small numbers, among agriculture, manufacturing, transportation, construction, and other service occupations.

Although 44 per cent of the students who registered with the center last year were female, only 20 per cent of the students placed were female. June was the best month, with 386 jobs being filled through the Canada Manpower center.

The Quebec Manpower center in Sherbrooke reports less satisfying results. Director Real

Leblanc says the center usually places only 20 of the 400 students who apply there. "This year, however, is unusual," he claims, "because we're going to place 80 students."

Both governments — federal and provincial — have elaborate programs for placing students in summer jobs.

The key to the provincial program is the $7.6 Quebec Student Employment Service which operates from Montreal and Quebec City. Last year, the service succeeded in providing 42,200 jobs for the 58,600 applicants throughout the province.

The service divides students in terms of three levels: secondary, CEGEP and university. Registration forms are distributed through the province's educational institutions and students are urged to return the applications before an April 15 deadline.

The core of the program lies in the incentives offered to employers, whether they are municipalities, farmers or private businesses. Under this program, employers are eligible to receive a refund of 33.3 per cent of the salary paid to a student employee during his first eight weeks on the job.

The maximum amount to which the government will subsidize an employer is $30 per student per week, and $12,000 total.

The federal program continues to be based on the student placement centers and various special opportunities.

Opportunities for Youth (OFY), a form of direct job creation for students, is the largest component of the federal government's program for assisting students to find jobs. Budgeted at $30.5 million and expected to create jobs for some 24,000 students this year, OFY supports projects which stress community service and social benefits, and which provide practical work experience for participants.

Other federal plans include incentive grants to farmers and voluntary organizations who hire students for the summer; paid military training for interested students; scholarships and grants for students researching and disseminating information on non-medical use of drugs; employment for Indian high school students in projects designed to improve living conditions on Reserves; and travel subsidies to students who accept jobs which Canada Manpower centers are unable to fill locally.

Canada Manpower statistics for the Sherbrooke area show that a greater percentage of secondary students who register with the center receive jobs than do post-secondary students. Mr. St. Laurent cautions against misinterpretation, however: "There is the same number of jobs available whether a large or small number of students apply, so the fact that secondary students apply in fewer numbers means the percentage of placement goes up."

He also stipulates that the better-paying and more interesting jobs inevitably go to post-secondary students who are more qualified and are available to work longer periods of time than the secondary students.

He asserts that the center's objective for the year, including all students, is to place 1,600 applicants. "To this end, it is important that they specify what type of work they want because it makes the job of referring them to prospective employers more easy for us and more meaningful for the employers," he remarks.

Mr. St. Laurent encourages students to register with the center, and contends the staff intend to make a special effort to assist secondary students to find jobs.

Joe Gallagher, a guidance counsellor at Alexander Galt Regional High School, confirms Mr. St. Laurent's impression that secondary students find most difficult the job of finding summer employment. "The students don't look very hard to find themselves jobs, mainly because they feel embarrassed to call people they select from the phone book," he declares. But, he adds, he knows many students who wanted to work who were unable to secure employment.

"Last year we decided to set up an employment service ourselves," he recalls. The operation involved students using a school phone to call employers listed in the yellow pages.

"We found out that many small businessmen didn't want to have anything to do with any type of agency. They wanted to speak to and see people face to face at their own initiative. That's why all of the students who did the phoning, and only them, found jobs."

BISHOP'S UNIVERSITY ENGAGES NEW TEACHERS

Bishop's University has engaged four new staff members and is searching for a fifth. According to university dean Cecil P. Haver, the new personnel will fill positions in computer science, history, sociology, business and drama. A second person for the drama department is to be hired in the near future.

In addition to the above posts, the university's mathematics faculty will be increased by two members, both former Bishop's instructors who have been away from the university while on leave of absence.

CHAMPLAIN COLLEGE PERSONNEL CHANGES

Frederick Turley, Champlain College's first director-general, will be leaving the college this week. Brian Ash, his successor, will join the operation in early June.

Raymond McGrath, current co-ordinator of research and development for the college, has resigned his post effective June 30. He had been recommended unanimously for the position of academic dean at the St. Lambert campus of the college by selection committee, academic council and principal.

Mr. Turley chose, however, to overlook the recommendations and to appoint Margery Langshur to the post. Mrs. Langshur had served as acting academic dean for four months.

Champlain controller Phil Wood has also tendered his resignation, effective at the end of the current school year.

LDSB MAKES PERSONNEL ARRANGEMENTS

The Lennoxville District School Board engaged 10 new teachers and has accepted the resignation of one teacher at an executive committee meeting held recently.

The 10 new teachers were hired in the following areas for the following schools: three teachers at Sunnyside Elementary School (Stanstead-Rock Island) for level six, level two and special education; two at Princess Elizabeth Elementary School (Magog) for special education and bilingual kindergarten; two at Sherbrooke Elementary School, for special education and bilingual kindergarten; one at North Hatley Elementary School for level six; one at Ayer's Cliff Elementary School for special education; and, one at Lennoxville Elementary School for physical education.

The resignation accepted was from a Sherbrooke Elementary School special education teacher.

LDSB JANITOR WORKSHOP

The Lennoxville District School Board arranged for its maintenance staff to attend a workshop earlier this month. According to LDSB secretary-general John Haffenden, topics discussed focused on economical use of supplies and efficient cleaning techniques. Demonstrations also formed part of the workshop.

LDSB BUDGET TO BE DISCUSSED

The finance committee of the Lennoxville District School Board will present the proposed operating budget for 1974-75 to the entire council of commissioners for approval on June 5. The finance committee, drawn from the administrators and executive committee of the board have met frequently to discuss and develop the budget.

LDSB FINANCIAL AFFAIRS

The executive committee approved expenditures of $215,000 for the May 1-May 15 period at their last meeting. The members of the committee also wrote off $4,700 as uncollectible taxes; added $4,000 to the collection roll value of incoming taxes; and refunded $70 at the meeting.

AGRS DATES

Teachers at Alexander Galt Regional High School will participate in a teacher planning day at the school on Monday, May 20.

By month's end, department heads will have finished providing their input to administration concerning teacher assignment, class number, class size and room allotment.

BISHOP'S UNIVERSITY SUMMER COURSES

John Haywood-Farmer, director of the Bishop's University summer school, believes nearly all proposed courses will be offered.

Included among these are financial management, Canadian consumer problems, field and laboratory biology, English language and literature, the origins of Romanticism, Blake, historical geography and economic geography of the Eastern Townships, history of France, chemistry and man, environmental stability, Quebec politics, and women's role in society.

Five courses will probably be cancelled, however, because of limited interest. These courses include modern world economic history, multi-ethnic Canadian nationalism, native and racial studies in Canada, Canadian urban politics, and Canadian community and local politics.

Dr. Haywood-Farmer intends to make final decisions on the courses in the near future.

BISHOP'S UNIVERSITY GREENHOUSE

The Bishop's University greenhouse is currently charged with the responsibility of producing flowers in sufficient quantities that the university grounds will be pleasantly adorned with plant life. One member of the maintenance crew spends most of his working days attending to the nurturing and care of the flowers.

Geraniums, petunias, marigolds, snapdragons, chrysanthemums, carnations, salvia and zinnias are among the various plants cultivated. Many of these will be in evidence during the university's upcoming Convocation ceremony, to be held Saturday, May 25.

Little interest shown in municipal politics

SHERBROOKE (CC) — Many questions have been posed since the public information session on municipal politics in Sherbrooke was held Wednesday evening.

The session, which featured Mayor Marc Bureau answering questions, was hosted by the Civic Action group which had been the moving force behind the 1970 municipal election in Sherbrooke.

All Civic Action candidates were elected to council in 1970 but in recent months many councillors have spoken out against the group.

Wednesday evening only 25 persons were on hand. Many of them were either local media covering the event or organizers themselves.

With the municipal election less than six months away many local elected officials have begun to ask themselves just how important municipal politics is to Sherbrooke residents. The press, which has covered city hall extensively, is also asking the same question.

The second question elected officials seek an answer to is what the future holds for the Civic Action movement. In the aftermath of the information session it seems that the movement no longer carries much force in the city.

Police week comes to an end in Sherbrooke this weekend. During the past week thousands of residents have visited a display organized by the local men in blue which was located in the newly constructed police headquarters.

The display centered around the equipment which the police use carrying out their work. A highlight was different motorcycles which attracted substantial attention.

Visitors also had the chance to talk with local police constables who were on hand to answer questions. Department representatives also gave talks to local service and social clubs.

+++++ The police department is presently involved with city officials negotiating a new contract. Their last contract ended December 31, 1973.

There are conflicting reports about just how well the negotiations are coming along. One thing is certain — there is much malaise in the department.

The union representative, who asked his name not be mentioned, said there are not enough men. Since the police headquarters was opened, not enough men have been hired to staff it. "They say that we can have the men to staff headquarters but we have to take men off the beat to do it," he said. "We don't have enough men on the street as it is."

"Most nights we only have two or three cars," he added. "We were lucky that we had men available the night of the Gitan-Atom fight."

+++++ "Usually that isn't the case," he said. "We want to have men on hand always."

One of the problems which the union faces is the city's attitude that the men should be satisfied because they now have the new police station, according to the union representative.

The men also want more fire power in each car. They would like to see shotguns within easy reach at all time. That isn't the case now.

+++++ Serious negotiations are continuing. At least 16 hours of negotiations between the two groups took place this week.

+++++ Negotiations are also continuing with three other unions representing city employees. The unions represent the hydro workers, municipal white collar employees and the fire department.

The city has already given the public works employees a new two-year contract. The public works employees went out on a four day strike earlier this year.

+++++ A Swiss book display will be held at the municipal library between May 21 and 25. The library is located on Dufferin street.

The exposition, which will feature eight categories of books written in four languages, will be officially opened by the Swiss consul to Canada, Pierre Barbey, during a ceremony Monday, Mr. Barbey will also be feted by Mayor Bureau at city hall.

The exposition will be open to the public Tuesday through Friday between 1:30 and 5:30 p.m. and 7 p.m. and 9 p.m. Saturday the public can view it from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Stanstead College

Autoroute safety measures increased

Last Saturday was a disappointing day for Stanstead College when the Invitational Track Meet had to be cancelled due to the all day and night of rain on Friday. There will be no free weekend before the June 1 close of school so another track meet will not be until the spring of 1975 at Stanstead.

+++++ However our school is planning to participate in the E.T. Track taking place in Sherbrooke on May 18.

Saturday, May 18 is the day open to all Alumni and friends of the school. Headmaster Thomas Russell, the staff and students will be looking forward to as many former students at the school over the years as can make it.

The annual meeting will be held in Colby Hall reading room at 3:30 p.m. with President John Hardy presiding. Reports will be heard and officers elected or re-elected for another year.

At 6 p.m. the annual banquet will be held in Lebaron Hall dining room. This year the speaker will be Robert McIntosh who is a graduate of Stanstead College and who grew up in Stanstead. Robert is the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Gordon McIntosh and is a nephew of Mrs. Chrissie Scarth of Stanstead.

As the end of the school year looms three weeks hence, there are a lot of finals happening. May 10, a debating team of Ken Norris, Mike Shayne, Sheldon Caplan, Ken Stewart and Stewart Logie with Master Paul Duncan attended the Fun evening at AGRHS at Lennoxville. The group had fun as had been planned.

Tonight is public speaking here at Stanstead and possibly the drama group will present the play The Wall, which they had produced and presented at Bishop's in the winter. There are seven boys participating in public speaking, four seniors and three juniors.

Monday, May 13 was French Day at Stanstead. Signs and so forth, were in French or bilingual but they told the story of the day's features.

At 4:30 p.m. students arrived from AGRHS and North Country and at 4:45 all went swimming in the Ralph B. Hood pool. Then came supper for students and guests before leaving by bus to attend a French concert at the Granada theatre in Sherbrooke.

We sincerely hope for a good turnout of former students at Stanstead College, regardless of age, attending the meeting and the banquet at our school. The welcome mat is out.

Labonte, Lawrence receive sentence

SWEETSBURG WARD (JD) — Mr. Justice Carrier Fortin sentenced Marcel Lawrence and Robert Labonte, both of Montreal, to 12 and 10 years respectively, in Court of Queens Bench. The men each pleaded guilty to three counts of attempted murder on Bedford Police Chief Georges Perron, Quebec Police agent Irene Dion, Cowansville, and Claude Chabot, QPF armed robbery squad, Montreal.

The attempted murder charges stemmed from a shoot-out at Pigeon Hill, March 1, 1973, following an armed robbery at the Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce, Bedford. Lawrence, Labonte, and Jacques Morin fled the premises with a take of $40. Morin was killed in the fusillade, while Lawrence received five wounds and Labonte one.

Defence counsel Pierre Gaudreault, of Quebec, said the attempted murder charges stemmed from an armed robbery to which the men had already pleaded guilty. He suggested the interests of justice would be well served with concurrent sentences.

Crown prosecutor Claude Noisieux made no objection to the request of the defence, however stipulated the sentence should run from their date of plea, be concurrent one on the other, yet concurrent in all to the prior sentences handed down for the armed robbery.

Lawrence was sentenced to 12 years, and Labonte 10, following their pleas of guilt to the charges of armed robbery, earlier this year.

Judge Fortin, prior to handing down sentence, reminded the two men that although the act of indictment read the Queen versus Labonte and Lawrence it was that of the citizens of Quebec and Canada, in effect society as a whole.

"Hockey and baseball have rules members must follow or they are either penalized or sent to the showers. Society has the same rules, and although many persons think a judge enjoys handing down prison terms, it is, in fact, the most onerous of his duties."

The young men, handcuffed and wearing leg irons, left the court with broad smiles. They were allowed a few minutes of monitored privacy with their girl friends prior to being returned to the St. Anne des Plaines Institution.

This trial concludes the 1973 term of the District of Bedford Assizes. The 1974 roll will be called early in October.

Lavallee gets two months

SWEETSBURG WARD (JD) — Robert Lavallee, alias Robert Menard, the former host on a hot line show on CJMT Radio, Chicoutimi, is back in custody.

Lavallee, who fled the Cowansville Institution May 1, 1973, surrendered to the Chicoutimi detachment Quebec Police Force Saturday. He had been sentenced to 10 years for armed robbery in the judicial district of Iberville, January 14, 1972.

Lavallee told Judge Gerard Normandin he could not dispute being illegally at large following his arraignment here Monday. Lavallee asked permission to speak to the court, which was accorded.

"I escaped to prove I was ready to reintegrate into society. I spent the first two months creating a new identity then drove a taxi for two months in Montreal. Then I decided to resume my former career and obtained a position with the Chicoutimi radio station. While in Chicoutimi I fell in love with a girl and we decided to get married, however I felt it would be best if I turned myself in to complete the term. My employers only knew my true identity when I told them I was going to surrender to the QPF."

Crown prosecutor Noisieux suggested a three month term as Lavallee had not done anything reprehensible during his absence from custody.

Judge Normandin asked Lavallee if he had a prior record to the armed robbery. The accused replied no.

Judge Normandin, citing a

Montreal tabloid, opined the sentence was very severe in view of the fact that only $500 had been stolen.

Lavallee, in a soft voice, replied: "That's a mistake your honor, the actual figure was $64,000."

Judge Normandin sentenced Lavallee to two months additional, and said: "It appears you have taken the first steps to your rehabilitation. I hope the National Parole Board will take this in consideration."

Lavallee thanked both Crown prosecutor Noisieux and Judge Normandin before he was led off to cells.

Tragedy of Willy Brandt

Willy Brandt, chancellor of West Germany and leader of the Social Democratic party, has left the political scene under a cloud, a tragically undeserved finale to a brilliant career. Whatever his detractors, critics, opponents, and even his friends, may now say, Mr. Brandt is an upright, honorable man to whom Germany, and indeed the entire Western world, owe an immense debt of gratitude.

The dismal years of the Berlin confrontation have now been largely forgotten, the years when Willy Brandt, then the heroic mayor of beleaguered Berlin, stood alone, firm as a rock. Indeed, it is largely due to his uncompromising defiance of Soviet blackmail that Berlin has remained a free democratic island in a totalitarian sea. Later, his spell as foreign minister in the "grand coalition" of Christian Democrats and Social Democrats proved fruitful in laying the foundations of what was to become a closely-knit European community. That work now lies in ruins.

But it is the collapse of Mr. Brandt's Ostpolitik, the attempt at reconciliation between Germany and her eastern neighbors, that has shattered the self-confidence of the German chancellor. The fact that the Communists placed a spy in his own office has proved all too conclusively that Moscow does not put the same emotional emphasis on détente as does the West.

It ended Mr. Brandt's hopes that the situation on Germany's eastern borders could become normal, that an end could be put to the cold war animosities with their attendant barbed wire and dogs, mine-fields and automatic weapons, which continue to disfigure the landscape within the heart of the European continent. Guenther Guillaume, the spy in Mr. Brandt's office, was an officer in the East German intelligence. But he reported regularly to Russian emissaries whom he met in various French cities, thus showing that nothing much has changed in the satellite status of East Germany.

There was nothing James Bond-ish about Guillaume, an entirely new breed of spy. He was hard-working, helpful and always available — something that after a quarter-century of West German democracy is still a rarity among the mostly autocratic bureaucrats. Guillaume was neither brilliant nor adventurous. He was an industrious plodder, always willing to take on yet another dull chore. Such spies are not easy to detect.

However, detected he was, although how early will probably remain the cardinal issue in the imminent political controversy. When the affair broke into the open, the image of Willy Brandt as a weak man manipulated by unscrupulous characters of his entourage assumed something of a Watergate aura, and Mr. Brandt, being the man he is, accepted the consequences and stepped down.

His personal tragedy lies in the fact that he had contemplated resignation for many months. It had been rumored that he would leave office in the summer, after Walter Scheel, his foreign minister and the leader of his coalition partners, the Free Democrats — a German Liberal party — has been elected West Germany's new president. In fact, Mr. Brandt's political star has been fading for some time.

The inflation that has not spared Germany's economy has alarmed a public still suffering from nightmares caused by ancestral memories of the galloping inflation of the 1920s. Mr. Brandt was saddened when Germany's labor unions refused to agree to his anti-inflationary program and found powerful allies within his own Social Democratic party. The Young Socialists' flirtation with extreme radicalism caused him added anguish, as he watched the new generation discard so lightly democratic values for which he had fought throughout most of his life.

Willy Brandt was a tired man. The circles beneath his eyes grew more prominent and belied his still vigorous appearance. He was disillusioned and depressed. He saw the Communist totalitarian regimes that half-encircle Germany grow stronger and the human contacts, the famous "small steps" that were to dissipate the mistrust and enmity between the two worlds, remain dreams that defied fulfillment.

Mr. Brandt, who from his days in Berlin knew the nature of communism better than anybody else, yet hoped that common humanity would prevail, convinced that the rational view of history was the only valid view. His faith in human decency was betrayed, leading to his tragic downfall. And now the future of Germany, once the brightest spot in the Western community, is overcast with a threat of storms.

Ulster security forces get praise

LONDON (CP) — The announcement that documents have been discovered outlining Irish Republican Army (IRA) plans for launching a civil war in Northern Ireland has caused an immediate sensation in Britain and brought lavish praise for the security forces in Ulster.

But many observers see the plans as little more than a restatement of long-known IRA intentions.

Some suggest Prime Minister Harold Wilson may have given the announcement more drama than its importance warranted in order to show that British troops in Ulster are still effective, despite some pressure in Britain for their withdrawal. Two leading IRA officers were captured in the house where the documents were found.

Basically, the documents showed the IRA has formulated plans for taking over sections of Belfast, bombing Protestant areas of the city and burning any parts they were forced to yield as part of a "scorched earth" policy.

The discovery led Brian Faulkner, leader of the moribund Northern Ireland executive, to issue a statement that the IRA now has been proven to be the greatest enemy of the Irish people.

CLAIM AUTHORSHIP

The IRA was quick to claim authorship of the documents, found in a Belfast house. But the organization's spokesmen maintained that the documents contained contingency plans which would be put into full effect only if civil war broke out.

Loyalist leaders, too, say privately they have emergency plans to be put into effect in case of an outright civil war. These, they say, include burning parts of Belfast and destroying sections of its industrial complex.

Wilson stressed that the IRA objective of taking over areas of the city was particularly ominous. But it is general knowledge in Ulster that the IRA already controls life in most of the Roman Catholic enclaves of Belfast and other large centres. The same is true of Protestant extremists who wield great authority over the loyalist areas.

As far as the scorched-earth policy of burning areas which it might be unable to hold, the IRA first began this as long ago as 1969 when it organized the Catholics to burn the homes they were forced out of rather than surrender them to Protestant extremists.

When Wilson made his dramatic announcement, he was faced with what seems to be a slowly-building feeling within his Labor party that the troops should be pulled out of Ulster.

The announcement of the IRA plans was presumably partly intended to show that in the absence of troops, a bloodbath might follow. But does the IRA really want a civil war?

The Protestants are better armed and better trained and in an open fight they might probably emerge victorious unless the Irish Republic pitched in on the IRA side.

The IRA probably prefers a situation where it can continue its guerrilla tactics in a kind of a no-war no-peace stalemate.

"You're a Liar! It Says So Right Here in Black and White!"

Beautification sabotaged

WASHINGTON — Lady Bird Johnson's dream of scenic highways, without unsightly billboards to blot the view, has been sabotaged by one of her best friends.

He is hard-working Rep. Jim Wright, D-Tex., a power on the House Public Works Committee, who has been running interference in the corridors of Congress for the billboard lobby.

The resulting scenic ruin increasingly is spoiling the majesty of the countryside for vacationers.

Here's what has been going on behind the scenes:

— A law was pushed through Congress in 1965 banning billboards along major federal highways. Yet a cabal of congressmen, led by Wright, brought pressure on the Transportation Department not to enforce the law. More billboards now clutter the roadside, therefore, than in 1965. And Wright has introduced a measure that would allow still another 400,000 new billboards.

— Wright is trying to give states the right to zone rural land along the highways as "commercial." This would permit the billboard builders to get around the federal law. When a federal judge refused to permit the states to circumvent the highway beautification act, Wright scribbled his views on a napkin at breakfast and passed it across the table to federal highway counsel David Wells.

Ever since, federal enforcers have paid more attention to the napkin than the law. Wright says Wells still has the napkin.

— The billboard lobby assiduously courts even the most obscure aides who have influence on billboard legislation. For example, two key Public Works staff men, Dick Sullivan and Cliff Enfield, were lodged, wine and dined at luxurious Innsbrook in Tarpon Springs, Fla., by the lobbyists.

— Ironically, Wright is chairman of the Highway Beautification Commission. At least one member, Marion Brown, has complained to him that the commission has been "a waste of time" and the beautification law a

Jack Anderson's

have a hollow ring. Federal highway executive director Lester Lamm, for instance, promised Congress he would "be completely responsive" to Wright and his allies on several crucial issues.

For his part, Wright has sought to give the impression that the billboard lobby is made up mainly of small businessmen. The truth is that its leading members are the Roadside Business Association, representing Holiday Inns and others; the National Electric Sign Association, whose vice president is a pal of Wright; the National Advertising Company, owned by the giant 3M conglomerate; and the coast-to-coast Outdoor Advertising Association.

Footnote: Wright, in a long, earnest talk, denied he is the "tool of the billboard lobby." In fairness to him, we believe his sympathy for billboards comes from his days as the executive of a small advertising firm, not from political contributions. Spokesmen for the billboard lobby insist their signs are needed to stimulate commerce.

Federal Corporations? The Nixon Administration is pushing to have the oil-rich naval petroleum reserves opened to commercial drilling, rather than have the Navy or a federal corporation do the work.

States a confidential Federal Energy Office memo:

"It should be noted that government-Navy management of exploration and development of NPR-4 is probably the slowest and most inefficient mode of operation... This could serve as an assist to congressional advocates of a federal oil and gas corporation and prove something of an impediment with regard to future arguments in opposition to such a corporation."

The proposed federal corporation would explore public lands for oil and use its experience as a benchmark to measure industry performance. The memo was intended only for former FEO boss William Simon and his then deputy, John Sawhill.

More men, not money, the answer

By Don Oakley

Just on the face of it, there would seem to be all kinds of room for economizing in the Defense Department's record $85.8-billion request for the coming fiscal year.

This is a monstrous sum of money, even though it represents a small fraction of America's total economic output. Americans, harried by inflation, perceiving no immediate threat to the nation's security and still looking for the Vietnam peace "dividend" that has never materialized, inevitably question whether such an outlay is necessary.

This kind of grass-roots thinking is perhaps exemplified by one Florida newspaper editor, who points out that our only two possible adversaries are Russia and China. "The idea that one or both of these powers would launch an unprovoked war on America is completely absurd," says Robert K. Pepper.

Why should the Soviet Union, which occupies a third of the land mass of the globe, seek to seize the Dakota wheat fields when they can buy all the grain they want on credit, he asks? China does not have, and probably never will have, the long-range offensive capability to threaten us.

The problem is not grave enough to warrant a large standing army, he concludes.

Yet one thing critics tend to slight when they question the defense budget is the fact that fully 55 to 60 per cent of this $85.8 billion will go not for missiles or ships or sophisticated weaponry but simply to meet the payrolls of the armed services — which at 2.2 million men are already half a million below the level of pre-Vietnam 1964 and 1.2 million less than that maintained by the Soviet Union.

"Military critics scream about the high cost of defense," says Rep. F. Edward Hebert (D-La.), chairman of the House Armed Services Committee.

"But the cost of trying to do without the draft is high and will continue to increase."

The Army especially, which has discharged all but a tiny percentage of its draftees and has no prospects for any more, is discovering that it costs more and more to come up with less and less.

Despite a quadrupling of military pay in the past 10 years, $2,500 bonuses for four-year enlistments and a lowering of educational requirements, the Army fell nearly 15 per cent below its 1973 recruitment target and is currently 13 per cent under authorized strength in its combat arms. It is becoming top-heavy with officers.

Hebert predicts that in three years we will return to the draft because the effort to establish an all-volunteer force will have failed and our defense structure will be weakened.

Whether this will happen in the absence of some new international crisis or a reversal of the trend toward "détente" is something that only the next few years can tell.

In the meantime, however, the time is rapidly approaching when the nation will have to make some realistic decisions about the kind of defense structure it wants or needs.

If recruitment targets have fallen short, have the targets themselves been set too high? Should we be willing to spend even more for an even smaller force of better trained and better equipped professionals?

Or is a highly paid, elite military force itself "undemocratic" and a potential danger? Should a period of some kind of public service be required of all young people, with military duty considered as one way of several of discharging that obligation?

And after all this, we still don't know

By Bruce Biossat

WASHINGTON (NEA)

In all the endless hurly-burly over Watergate, one crucial element has, astonishingly, been lost sight of. Final crucial responsibility for the June, 1972 bugging and burglary of the Democrats' Watergate headquarters never has been fixed. And it now seems evident that even President Nixon and some of his former key aides do not know.

Along the way, the President, his onetime counsel John Dean and others had some quite specific ideas about how the critical guidance for the break-in might have been given. But they were never altogether certain, and seemed either unwilling or unable — or both — to pin down the blame.

We must remember that for our own guidance we have only the edited, transcribed versions of conversations on Watergate which the President held with Dean and others over a period of many months, starting in this instance from Sept. 15, 1972. Obviously, there were earlier conversations but analysts and the public have no access to them.

In summary, from a reading of pertinent passages in the released transcripts, it can be said that Mr. Nixon and others came to feel — after much searching discussion — that White House pressures exerted by former aide Charles Colson and/or Gordon Strachan (acting clearly in the name of Mr. Nixon's top aide, H.R. Haldeman), may have provided the decisive impetus for the Watergate break-in.

Many times the name of Re-election Committee chairman John Mitchell is brought in, but in early conversations it is largely dismissed. Later on, however, there is a judgment that, somewhat weary at battling (so he has always said) bizarre intelligence-gathering plans, he may at long last have bowed to represented White House insistence and said "go ahead," without a clear idea what that would mean.

On March 21, 1973, the day the President improperly describes as the first time he had any knowledge of real White House involvement in Watergate and coverup, Dean told him that in February, 1972, Colson telephoned Jeb Magruder, a top executive at the re-election committee where intelligence work was centered for certain purposes, and said:

"You all either fish or cut bait. This is absurd to have these guys over there and not using them. If you are not going to use them, I may use them."

Later in that chat, the President says Colson "may well have been the trigger man where he just called up and said now look here Jeb go out and get that information. And (G. Gordon) Liddy and (E. Howard) Hunt went out and got it at that time."

At this juncture in the March 21 talks, Dean disclosed for the first time that Liddy and Hunt both were in Colson's office when the call to Magruder was made. He told Mr. Nixon he was so informed by Colson himself.

Liddy, of course, was an intelligence gatherer for the committee and Hunt had a White House cubbyhole office as an operative hired by Colson for the so-called "plumbers" unit. Liddy sometimes is portrayed as feeling unused and, in Nixon aide H.R. Haldeman's words "pushing to get something done" — and as saying on other occasions that he was pressed "without mercy" by Magruder to dredge up far more intelligence about the Democrats than the White House was getting.

Here enters the added pressure from Magruder from Haldeman's top helper and tie to the committee, Gordon Strachan. In the discussions, Mr. Nixon and others try to weigh its effect along with Colson's.

Haldeman, earlier portrayed as dissatisfied with committee intelligence and urging Strachan to so advise Magruder, sees the possible link to a Watergate bugging decision. On March 27, 1973, he tells the President Strachan's message to Magruder conveyed the idea both Haldeman and Mr. Nixon wanted more information. He adds that Magruder told Mitchell, who said "OK, if they say it, go ahead," and suggests that by this chain of events, with Liddy and Hunt the real operatives, the Watergate bugging and burglary was brought about. Yet none of the top men seems sure who besides Liddy and Hunt knew or approved the specific plan — if anyone did.

"What d'you mean — your husband gives at the office...?"

You are about to be enumerated!

If you live in an urban area...

Sometime next week, two nice people are going to call at your home. They're official federal enumerators. They'll show you proper identification. And they'll ask you a few simple things about the people, 18 and over, who live in your home...if they're Canadian citizens, their names, occupations and the address. In this way they'll find out who's qualified to vote in the July 8th federal election. For those qualified, the enumerators will fill out a NOTICE OF ENUMERATION card and leave it with you. This means their names go on the list of electors and they'll be eligible to vote.

If you're not home the first time the enumerators call, they'll leave you a card telling you when they'll be back.

If you live in a rural area...

One enumerator, probably a friend or neighbour, prepares the list of electors. That person doesn't have to call at your home personally since he can get the information needed from other sources.

This handy pamphlet gives you all the details

For complete election procedure details, consult the Guide for Electors which will be delivered to your home.

Make sure you see the list of electors...

The list of electors, prepared shortly after the enumeration is completed, is posted in both urban and rural polling divisions. In urban polling divisions only, the printed list of electors is mailed to every household on the list by the returning officer of your electoral district.

When you see the list or receive your copy, check it. If your name is not on the list or if there are any mistakes in names or other particulars, call your local telephone company directory assistance operator to find out the telephone number of your returning officer. Then phone your returning officer. In that way you will be sure the necessary corrections are made so that you will be eligible to vote.

Remember...you can't vote in an urban polling division unless your name is on the list.

Some 40 years ago the late Ely Culbertson said, "When a hand belongs in six and I am shown all the cards, the Culbertson system will get there."

What Ely meant was that when you see all the cards your bidding problems will disappear, if you want them to.

The bidding in the box shows how an expert pair stopped at five clubs, when six was a laydown.

They weren't too upset about it. The hand was played in an IMP team match and the other North-South pair landed at the really horrible contract of three notrump. Still they have asked us to analyze the bidding and show how to reach six clubs scientifically.

Sweetsburg Court

SWEETSBURG WARD (JD) — Yves Beauvillier, 25, and Gilles Boissonneault, 23, both Quebec City insurance adjusters, were sentenced to 23 months in sessions court.

The young men had earlier pleaded guilty to charges of attempted armed robbery and possession of illegal firearms which stemmed from an attempt on the Eastman Caisse Populaire, February 1, 1974, when they fled empty handed.

Defence counsel Yvon Robichaud cited the presentence reports and had both men testify. They said they had left Quebec on a two day drunk, each armed with a b.b. pistol, and admitted to having talked about pulling off a 'job'.

Mr. Robichaud said they probably were doing it for 'kicks', and a minimum prison term would be sufficient as the presentence reports indicated little chance of recidivism.

Crown prosecutor Claude Noisieux said: "If they were doing such things for 'kicks' they must be prepared to accept the consequences."

He told Judge Normandin that Mr. Normandin had recently sentenced two Granby youths to 23 months for a similar crime when they fled with $1 and added: "We cannot have two standards here. If underprivileged kids from Granby get 23 months surely these men who hold responsible positions merit similar punishment."

Judge Normandin said: "I never hand out sentences of less than three years when guns are involved in a robbery, however I made an exception to that two weeks ago. Even though the gun would only fire pellets someone could have lost an eye. I would like to be able to place you on probation, yet in view of the offence and the fact I must follow the law, it is with much regret you are sentenced to 23 months."

"I will recommend you be transferred to the Quebec area, where the prison administrators may see fit to allow you to continue to work."

Alain Brunelle, of Actonville, was ordered to the next term of the local assizes following preliminary hearing on a charge of criminal negligence in the operation of a motor vehicle.

The offence occurred between Roxton Falls and Valcourt, September 29, 1973, and resulted in the subsequent death of Monique Rousseau at the Sherbrooke University Medical Centre.

Brunelle stood mute at voluntary statement.

Judge Normandin postponed sentence in the case of Gaston Jolicoeur to July 29, pending preparation of a pre-sentence report.

Jolicoeur, 18, of Granby, was found guilty of possession of a firearm with intent to commit a crime, in Granby, March 15, 1974.

Defence counsel Don Bissonnette unsuccessfully argued the weapon belonged to an accomplice, Raymond Gladu, also of Granby, and that Jolicoeur had attempted to dissuade Gladu from committing the crime.

Crown prosecutor Noisieux argued the declaration signed by the accused was sufficient proof to indicate he was aware a crime might be committed, and conspiracy was a much graver offence than possession of an illegal weapon.

Both Gladu and Jolicoeur testified, however Judge Normandin said: "The declarations are much more plausible than the testimony" and found Jolicoeur guilty as charged.

Christian St. Laurent, Granby, pleaded guilty to theft of a guitar valued at $260. St. Laurent, who had been the object of a bench warrant, told the court he had done time in Montreal but not for similar offences.

Mr. Noisieux suggested a prison term, restitution, and probation.

Judge Normandin sentenced St. Laurent to one week plus time served, placed him on one year's probation following his release, and ordered restitution.

Herman Reed, St. Armand, pleaded guilty to a count of impaired driving in Bedford, April 18. He was fined $100 and costs, in default 30 days, and granted one week to acquit the fine.

Andre Lepage, 25, of Drummondville, who had earlier been ordered to the next term of the assizes, changed his option and pleaded guilty to a count of assault with intent to commit a robbery on the person of Ms. Lilian Boule, and breaking and entering at the Maurice Dupuis store, both in Waterloo, on April 7, 1974.

Despite arguments by defence counsel Yvon Robichaud, Lepage was sentenced to three months by Judge Normandin. The judge said he had considered the six weeks Lepage had spent pending trial in rendering his sentence.

Crown prosecutor Claude Noisieux had asked for one year considering the record of the accused.

Guy Matte, of Granby, pleaded guilty to a charge of simple assault on the person of Miss Muriel Lincours, in Granby, February 28. He was fined $25 and costs, in default eight days, and ordered to keep the peace for two years.

Armand Beaudin, 19, Waterloo, who was to have undergone preliminary hearing on three counts of breaking and entering, in Waterloo, changed his option and pleaded guilty to the charges.

Judge Normandin postponed sentence to July 29 pending preparation of a pre-sentence report.

Adrien Berube, Farnham, pleaded not guilty to a charge of defrauding the Banque Canadienne Nationale, Farnham, of $313.02, February 1, 1974. Defence counsel Gilles Poussard opted for trial before a magistrate alone, which was fixed for May 27.

The golden gates stood open
One year ago today
With farewell left unspoken
You suddenly slipped away
God knew that you were weary
He gently took your hand in His
And whispered "Peace be Thine"
Now looking back in memory
Along the path he trod
I bless the years we shared together
And leave the rest to God

Council meetings

Rock Island

ROCK ISLAND — There was no doubt about the attitude of the Rock Island council on Monday evening, May 6, when Fernand Bergervin of the Department of Public Works came seeking council consent to demolish the old Customs building on Rock Island's Main street and replace it with a 15-car customs parking lot. The motion was unanimously defeated.

This would have meant that Rock Island not only would lose the basically solid old Customs Building, but would also be deprived of any public parking space on Main street. The Department of Public Works would demolish the old building and then fill in the foundation to be used as a parking lot exclusively for Customs purposes.

A second motion, made by Alderman Robert Alger and seconded by Alderman Gerard Surprenant, offered to exchange 20 feet of town-owned property on the South side of Center street for a strip on the street in front of the old Customs which would be wide enough for angle parking. This motion was carried. Mr. Bergervin said he will take the two motions to the department and return within a two to three weeks period with their decision. He said a parking lot is urgently needed for staff and Customs patrons, so he expected things will move rapidly.

Later in the meeting another motion was adopted stating that the Rock Island council will not sell any portion of the Notre Dame boulevard parking lot or the old Cote garage property to the Department of Public Works for the construction of a new post office. The town's final offer for the Cote garage property has now been refused by the owner and motion was made to authorize the town's attorney to proceed with expropriation. This will mean a larger parking lot for the business section of the town and give access to the new park.

A letter from the Stanstead municipal council rejecting the offer of the Town of Rock Island to take over police duties in Stanstead prompted Mayor Edouard Girard to remark that the matter is now closed and no further negotiations will be carried on.

There was also a letter from a Stanstead group seeking construction of a new hockey arena in the area and asking Rock Island to name a delegate to this committee. Alderman Gerald Clark was so named.

DR LAWRENCE E. LAMB
Reader misinformed
on vitamin stand

DEAR DR. LAMB — I am not a physician or a member of the FDA, but I do have a right to my personal opinions. I feel the AMA and the FDA are working together to bar the God-given right of any individual the use of vitamins to supplement the synthetic, lifeless food now pushed down the throats of the consumer. Also, I feel the use of natural vitamins in high dosage which you people say is harmful is not, as opposed to the synthetic ones the AMA and the FDA take into consideration.

I am led to believe the AMA will not be satisfied until it can get all vitamins under prescription to get their cut of the business and to keep people from staying healthy by taking natural vitamin supplements if they choose to do so.

DEAR READER — Yes, you are entitled to your opinion, even if it is based on misinformation. Your views represent a segment of the public who do not really understand vitamins and are often victimized by commercial interests.

The recommendations for the amount of vitamins we should get are not set by the AMA or the FDA, your first bit of misinformation. Rather, they are set by the Food and Nutrition Board of the National Academy of Sciences' National Research Council supported by the federal government. This organization has nothing to do with the direct fee for service practice of medicine. So, you are very far off the truth.

Their main goal is to set standards to ensure the good health of the public and to protect the public from unfair and often untruthful promotion. Your attitude represents a sort of widespread paranoia about the medical profession, which all too often is based on ignorance. That is what makes people like you an easy mark for the propaganda of profit-making commercial interests.

The AMA and the FDA are not against people having vitamins — another misrepresentation. One of the first acts of the FDA was to be sure that vitamin preparations did, in fact, contain the needed amounts of vitamins and not substandard amounts that mislead the public. Doctors and the FDA are all for people getting natural vitamins — and because the best natural vitamins are in good wholesome foods, it is usually recommended that the best way to get these is by eating a proper diet instead of pill-popping or paying through the nose for so-called natural vitamins promoted by commercial interests. In those cases where a person cannot get sufficient vitamins in their diet, then vitamin supplements are commonly recommended. Under periods of stress, for example during pregnancy, it is common for doctors to recommend vitamins and minerals.

Finally, you are wrong about natural vitamins not being harmful in large amounts, as opposed to synthetic vitamins. Let me give you a classic example. The polar bear liver is loaded with vitamin A, just about as natural a source of vitamin A as you can get. So is the halibut liver. If you eat much of either you can get deathly ill and can even die from the effects. Many such cases are well documented. Excessive amounts of either vitamin A or D can have adverse effects. The excessive D can cause dissolving of the bones and other problems.

So, perhaps you should consider these points and start asking yourself why you are so hostile to groups that are trying to help you and protect your health from crass commercial interests. That is the significant question.

Send your questions to Dr. Lamb, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019. For a copy of Dr. Lamb's booklet on balanced diet, send 50 cents to the same address and ask for "Balanced Diet" booklet.

By
Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers: My sister who was only 38 died of cancer. In addition to the grief, we experienced another problem, and this is what I am writing about. It is too late to undo the damage, but I hope this letter will help others who may one day face a similar situation.

My sister had three children; the youngest was five. Her husband refused to allow the five-year-old to attend the funeral. (Open casket, but the restoration job was remarkably good.) Only the two older children, 10 and 12, were permitted to attend the funeral.

The five-year-old became upset. She asked a great many questions which were not answered properly. The child felt she was being denied a last chance to see her mother. Now she is very angry with her father who made the decision.

Will you please give us your views? Do you believe the child would have experienced recurring nightmares (her father's basis for refusal) and that he did the right thing by protecting her from the trauma? Thank you for your answer, whatever it is. — Garden City

Dear G.C.: Even at the age of five, a child has an awareness of death. When he finds lifeless birds on the sidewalk, or his fish or his cat or dog dies, he knows that life is over for that creature and he will have to "put away someplace."

According to Jules Furth, a Chicago funeral director and my principal consultant in these matters, children should not be denied the experience of attending the funeral of a close relative. Leaving out the youngster could lead him to believe he was not as important to his mother as the children who were permitted to attend.

If, on the other hand, the child does NOT want to attend, he shouldn't be encouraged to do so. The decision should be up to him.

Dear Ann Landers: For several years, I was married to a man who insisted on having affairs with his students. He was deceitful, exploitive and an accomplished liar. When he made my life intolerable, I divorced him. But he did NOT snore.

Now I have found a man who is considerate, generous, talented and completely charming. He helps me with the cooking and marketing. We are not only wonderful lovers, but good friends. He, however, DOES snore.

I took the advice you gave someone who wrote in several months ago and invested $1.25 in earplugs. Although they do not block out the snoring completely, they help some.

The point of this letter is to tell you that a good night's sleep depends more on how you feel about the person than whether or not there is noise in the room. — Morpheus's Mate

Dear Mate: Of course you are right. In fact, some women claim they enjoy the sound of their husband's snoring. (At least they know where he is.)

Dear Ann Landers: A while back you printed a heartbreaking letter from grandparents who were cut off completely from their only grandchild because the boy's mother (their son's ex-wife) wanted to be punitive. I hope they live in Texas. The law is now on their side. The new Family Code, Senate Bill 168, Section 14.03, Claude D. provides grandparents with legal visiting rights. — Good For Us

Dear Good: Thank you for letting me know I happily pass the word and hope that the example of the Texas legislature will be followed by all the other 49.

Is alcoholism ruining your life? Know the danger signals and what to do. Read the booklet, "Alcoholism—Hope and Help," by Ann Landers. Enclose 35 cents in coin with your request and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 3346, Chicago, Illinois 60654.

Bridal shower

DERBY LINE — Sunday afternoon, May 4, Miss Christine Williams of Akron, Ohio, was the guest of honor at a delightfully arranged shower prior to her marriage on July 5 in Ohio to Mr. Daniel Balis of Derby Line.

She had been invited to go to the hall with a group and upon entering was pleasantly surprised to be presented with a corsage of red roses by Miss Cathy McQuillen of Newport.

Chris was escorted to a special chair reserved for her. She was introduced, as several of the guests attending had not met her. The hall, her table and chair were decorated in pink and yellow and wedding bells. Seated with her to open the gifts were her aunt, Mrs. James McQuillen of Newport and Mrs. Joseph Blais, her prospective mother-in-law.

The lovely and useful gifts for her new home in Derby Line were admired as they were circulated. Chris voiced her appreciation to each and all.

A game was played and winner presented a prize. There were also three door prizes given away.

Another welcome guest attending was Rev. Sister Carmen Blais who arrived at Dorval Airport on May 1 after working the past eight years in Africa. She was met at the plane by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Blais of Newport, former Derby Line residents.

At the shower were two special cakes, made and decorated by Mrs. Benoit Blais, one a "welcome home" for the Reverend Sister, the other a shower cake for Chris. This latter was in the design of two wedding bells, one marked with Christine, the other with Danny. This was further decorated with natural pink carnations on green. Both recipients cut and served their cake. Afternoon refreshments were served.

A guest book was signed by guests attending from Newport, Orleans, Derby, Holland and the Boundary Villages.

The hostesses were relatives of the couple.

Wedding Anniversary

DERBY LINE — Mr. and Mrs. Winston Rollins of Derby Line observed their 22nd wedding anniversary on April 27. Because they had planned an evening out, the preceding evening, their daughter, Kristi at home, planned a surprise party.

Neighbours dropped in for anniversary cake and dessert served with coffee and to offer the celebrants congratulatory good wishes. Later, a group remained and an evening of playing cards was enjoyed.

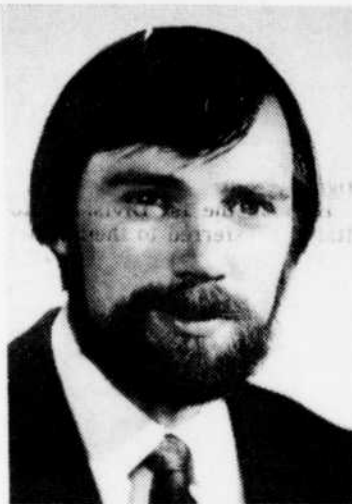

Mr. and Mrs. Rollins' daughter, Sandy, Mrs. Barry Smith phoned her good wishes from Wappingers Falls, New York.

The past week end Mr. and Mrs. Rollins were in Hinsdale, N.H. to see their first grandchild, a daughter, Jessica Lynn born to their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Rollins. This is also a great-grandchild for Mrs. Ann Rollins in Derby Line.

Winston and Dorothy Moore were united in marriage on April 27, 1952. They have four children, Sandy, Timothy, Burlington, Vt., Steven and Fristi. Mr. and Mrs. Timothy Rollins were here to visit his parents.

Induction service

SUTTON — The Service of Institution and Induction of Rev. Roy Darcus, M.A.-M.T.S., as Rector of Grace Church, Sutton; All Saints Church, Abercorn; and the Church of the Good Shepherd, Glen Sutton, in the Diocese of Montreal, took place in Grace Church, Sutton on Wednesday, May 1st before a large congregation of the members of the above churches as well as from other denominations in the area.

The Rev. Venerable T. Desmond Rowe, Archdeacon of Bedford represented Bishop Maguire and officiated at the service assisted by the Rev. Wilbur Davidson, Rector of Brome. The preacher was the Rev. Kenneth I. Cleator, B.A., B.D.-S.T.M., Rector of Saint George's Church, Montreal. The choir was under the direction of Mrs. Robert Cowan, directress, and Mrs. Denis Cowan, organist. The new Rector replaces the Rev. Archdeacon J.H.M. Brett who retired at the end of last year.

A reception in the parish hall followed the service when a delicious lunch was served by the ladies. Tea and coffee were poured at a beautifully appointed table covered with an embroidered cloth and lighted with white tapers in a silver candelabra. A small container of mums completed the arrangement. The pourers were Mrs. Burnham and Mrs. Fuller of Glen Sutton and Mrs. McGrath and Mrs. Fairhurst of Abercorn.

During the evening Rev. Darcus and his wife Deane were welcomed to the community by a member of each of his parishes as well as by representatives of Olivet Baptist Church, Calvary United Church and by Father Lareau of the parish of St. Andre de Sutton.

At this time Mrs. Darcus was presented with a lovely corsage by Mrs. F.F. Holmes. Rev. Darcus expressed his thanks for the grand welcome given them and said that he and his wife were looking forward to their service in the communities assigned him.

The Rev. Roy Darcus was born in Vancouver and attended the university there. He then studied theology and the New Testament at Harvard Divinity School. After completing his studies there he came to Montreal and took professional education for the ministry at the Anglican Montreal Diocesan College.

Ordained in May 1972 he served as curate at St. George's parish, Montreal, and worked mainly with a Presbyterian organization, Tyndale Neighborhood House in the urban re-development area of Little Burgundy, Montreal.

It is the hope of everyone that the change from urban life to country living will prove to be a long and happy one for this young couple.

Help get these people into trouble.

Many of our Salvation Army people go out looking for trouble every day of their lives. They look for it in Skid Row. To offer a helping hand. A bed. A hot meal. Rehabilitation and a second chance at life.

They seek trouble amongst the aged. They offer solace and comfort in our homes for the elderly.

They seek trouble in the courts and prisons, where offenders, confused, embittered, ignorant of their rights, can turn to the man or woman in The Salvation Army uniform for assistance and guidance.

We seek trouble wherever it occurs. Wherever people need us. Wherever people can use our Christian faith. We wouldn't ask you to come with us. It's not pleasant. But we do ask for your help. Money. Donations to the Red Shield Appeal.

Your gifts help get us into trouble. And they help get a lot of other people out of trouble.

The aged. The imprisoned. The sick. The wayward. The infirm.

Please. Send us a donation. It's very little trouble.

Phillies dump Expos, regain share of first

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Tommy Hutton drove in five runs with two homers and a single, leading Philadelphia Phillies to a 6-3 National League baseball victory Thursday night over Montreal Expos.

Hutton gave the Phillies their first run with a single following Del Unser's double in the first inning. The first baseman then hit a three-run homer in the third and a bases-empty shot in the fifth.

Hutton's performance, the best run-producing effort of his major-league career, helped Steve Carlton win his fourth game in seven decisions. He gave up seven hits while besting Mike Torrez, 3-3.

An error by Carlton opened the door for a Montreal run in the first inning. The run was eventually driven in on Ken Singleton's base hit.

The Expos scored their second run in the fourth on a single by Jim Cox and a double by Pepe Frias. The Phillies scored a run in their half of the inning on Dave Cash's single.

After Hutton hit his third homer of the year in the fifth to give the Phillies a 6-2 lead, the Expos scored another run in the eighth on Barry Foote's sacrifice fly.

HUNT SINGLES

Montreal got a runner on base in the third when Ron Hunt led off with a single, but Carlton retired the next three batters. Bob Bailey hit a two-out single in the fifth, but Hal Breeden's line drive landed in Mike Schmidt's glove at third.

MIKE TORREZ
...tagged with third loss

The Phillies threatened in the sixth when a pair of walks around a single by Cash loaded the bases, but Greg Luzinski failed to right to end the inning.

Hutton, who was inserted in the starting lineup Wednesday night, turned from goat to hero in 24 hours. He misplayed a ninth-inning bunt play in Wednesday night's game, allowing the lead run to reach second from where it scored on a single.

Cash had two hits, extending his hitting streak through seven games, while Del Unser and Bob Boone had two hits each. For the Expos, Bailey managed a pair of singles off Carlton.

Brett pitches, hits Bucks over Cubs

Hitting against Ken Brett may not be as tough as pitching against him.

Pittsburgh Pirates' leftlander can throw a baseball as hard as most pitchers, but he also hits as hard as most hitters. Brett raised his batting average to .583 and his pitching average to .500 Thursday night while helping the Pirates beat Chicago Cubs 5-2.

"Hitting has helped me get where I am," Brett said after collecting two singles and knocking in two runs. "I'm not the kind of pitcher that's going to have a 1.09 earned run average. I've got to help myself anyway I can and hitting does it for me. I take pride in my hitting."

Brett, who didn't stick around to pitch a complete game, stayed around long enough to get the victory—his third in six decisions.

His performance at the plate gave him seven hits in 13 at-bats so far this year. He has hit two home runs and collected five RBIs.

In other National League games, New York Mets stopped St. Louis Cardinals 6-4, Philadelphia Phillies trimmed Montreal Expos 6-3, and Atlanta Braves bombed San Diego Padres 11-1.

In the American League, Kansas City Royals defeated Texas Rangers 5-3 and Chicago White Sox nipped Oakland A's 4-3.

Shortstop Mario Mendoza collected the first three hits of his major league career, combining with Brett to lead the Pittsburgh victory.

HOME RUNS HELP

Don Hahn hit a two-run homer and Teddy Martinez pounded a two-run double, rallying New York past St. Louis.

Marty Perez drove in six runs with a single, double and home run and Carl Morton pitched a six-hitter, leading Atlanta past San Diego. The Braves shelled Rich Troedson and three other San Diego pitchers for 16 hits.

John Mayberry hit a two-run homer and Hal McRae slammed a bases-empty shot, powering Kansas City over Texas.

The defeat was the third in a row for the Rangers' Ferguson Jenkins, 6-4, who was relieved for the first time this season after Mayberry's 440-foot blast in the sixth inning.

Home runs by Buddy Bradford and Ken Henderson carried Chicago over Oakland in a game shortened to seven innings by rain.

Western Sprints held outside U.S. for first time

BURNABY, B.C. (CP) — The $350,000 Burnaby Lake rowing course, built with provincial and federal government money for last year's Canada Summer Games, is the site today and Saturday for one of North America's premier rowing meets.

The meet is the Western Intercollegiate Rowing championship, more commonly known as the Western Sprints, which is being held for the first time outside the United States.

Twenty-eight schools are competing, including powerful teams from the universities of Washington, California at Berkeley, and California at Irvine.

Also given a chance is the host University of British Columbia team.

Twelve events are scheduled today, with repechages—in which losers get a chance to qualify for the final—in the afternoon. Finals will be held Saturday.

If the weather stays cold, the University of Washington, which has been working out in similar weather on Lake Washington near Seattle, should have an advantage in the prestigious events.

LIKE IT WARMER

Otherwise, the two California universities and Oregon State will be strong.

Berkeley defeated University of Washington two weeks ago, setting up the return engagement here.

Designated golf termed unfair

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — Jack Nicklaus says he wouldn't be playing if he didn't have to. Arnold Palmer says it's unfair. And Lee Trevino says it is the greatest thing since they put dimples on the golf ball.

Those were some reactions to the new concept under which the game's leading players are required to play in certain tournaments.

"I feel that it is not quite fair to all the sponsors," said

Palmer, 44. "And it is not fair to the players, either."

"I approve of the concept," Nicklaus said, "but I'm not sure that this is the way to go about it. We'll just have to wait and see."

Trevino, however, was enthusiastic about the designated player set-up that got its first test Thursday in the first round of the $250,000 Colonial National open golf tournament.

"I've played here every year I've been eligible," Trevino said. "I'll play here every year I continue to be eligible. Colonial has always done so much for the players."

LEADS TO TITLE

The designated tournament is a brainchild of Deane Beman, the Tournament Players Division commissioner, and former commissioner Joe Dey. It is designed to provide a series of highlights to the season, leading up to a TPD championship in the fall.

The Colonial is the first of three designated events on the schedule this year. The rules provide for a maximum of 10 in a season. All leading players are required to play the designated tournaments.

"It's great for the tournament that is taking place," Palmer said. "But it will hurt other tournaments."

"No player can play in 52 tournaments a year."

Baseball stats favor blacks, Latins

By Ira Berkow

NEW YORK (NEA)

A most unusual and absorbing new baseball statistics book demonstrates that, on an average, black and Latin players steal more bases, slug more home runs, hit for higher averages, pitch more winning games, strike out more batters and allow less runs than white players.

"The Black, Latin, White Report," which takes up only the last two pages of the 478-page book, "The Sports Encyclopedia: Baseball" (Grosset and Dunlap paperback, $5.95), shows that:

— Blacks and Latins since 1961 have maintained an average of one stolen base for every 40-50 at bats. White players stole one base for every 110-130 at bats during that period. And the last white player to lead a major league in stolen bases was Jackie Jensen of the Boston Red Sox in 1954.

— In the last five years, the white players' slugging average has been .371, the Latins' .366, the blacks' .422.

— In the last five years, the white players' batting average has been .251, the Latins' .265 and the blacks' .270.

THREE WHO HELPED tip the stats in favor of black and Latin players are (left to right) Lou Brock, Hank Aaron and the late Roberto Clemente.

Some other hitting aspects illustrated include the fact that Johnny Bench has been the only white player to lead the National League in home runs in the last 14 years; in the 26 years since the first black entered major league baseball, only two men, Willie Mays and Hank Aaron, have joined Babe Ruth in the 600-or-over home-run category; and in the last five years, only three players, Mays, Aaron, and Roberto Clemente, have had 3,000 or more hits. Only two players had reached this high figure in the preceding 40 years.

Pitching figures demonstrate a small but superior coterie of blacks and Latins. Since the black man entered baseball in 1947, he has averaged better than a .535 winning percentage. The average for Latins is about the same. The white pitchers did not reach the .500 level. Black pitchers have the lowest earned run averages, the most strikeouts, and least number of hits allowed.

And on an average since 1961, the white pitcher has completed only 25 games to the blacks' 31 and the Latins' 35. "However," we are told by the writer of the text, Jordan A. Deutsch, "this is largely due to the influence of three men — Bob Gibson, Juan Marichal and Ferguson Jenkins — who maintained an unusually high percentage of complete games."

After the records of ability, we check another revealing statistic: the number of appearances. For every 100 times-at-bat in both leagues between 1947 and 1960, whites appeared 88 times, blacks 7.6 and Latins 4.6. However, from 1961 through 1968, the white at-bats dropped to 64 per 100, while black at-bats rose to 22 and Latin at-bats to 14. The trend continued through 1973, with white at-bats dropping to 58, while black at-bats increased to 26 and Latins' to 16 per 100. At this rate, 1974 will see for the first time in history more blacks and Latins coming to bat than whites in the big leagues.

The story is roughly the same for pitching appearances — especially when the statistics are weighted to reflect the fact that only 11 per cent of all pitchers are black and Latin.

This demonstrates that the more blacks and Latins come on the scene, the more they play.

Today, the total number of black and Latin players (non-pitchers) are 22 and 15 per cent.

One may ask why, if blacks and Latins show superior pitching performance, are there so few of them in comparison to their relative numbers in non-pitching positions?

"One guess," said David S. Neft, a Ph.D. statistician and one of the compilers of this book, "is that pitching, I believe, takes more training than other positions, and athletes from the more culturally deprived areas of society do not get the kind of training whites do in Little Leagues and other youth baseball organizations."

Another figure, not in this book, shows that 63 per cent of all non-pitching players are white — but that only 42 per cent of all non-pitching players are regulars. What this means is that there are comparatively few black and Latin bench-warmer. Why?

"Again, only a guess," said Neft. "It could show prejudice. That is, when the 24th and 25th player for a team is to be selected, and all other things are equal, the white will get the job over the black or Latin."

"But the statistics might also show that there are just fewer black and Latin players to choose from since they are minorities in the population."

"Or, it could be a mixture of both points."

In the book the authors caution: "It is (our) intention that the report, rather than causing racial divisions, only helps to show the contribution of all men to the game. Further, these facts may help us all to visualize what some of the records and statistics of major league baseball might be if the sport had been open to all men for all time."

One statistic not mentioned, however, heavily favors whites. The percentage of white managers compared to black managers is 1,000 to .000.

Sherbrooke Athletics kick off season Sunday

By BRUCE PORTER
Record Sports Editor

SHERBROOKE — While you're reading this story, turn your mind to Athletics. No, I don't mean sports in general, or fitness, I mean the Sherbrooke Athletics.

The Athletics are the newest Quebec Junior Major Baseball League franchise, and they'll be housed in the Amedee Roy Stadium. The team consists of 17 signed players, who live either in Sherbrooke or Lennoxville.

With the ages of the players ranging between 16 to 22 years old, and the mixing of francophones and anglophones, one might think problems would arise between the different elements.

But according to coach Gaetan Bourget, the guys are now practising as a single unit. "At the beginning, there were two gangs, the Lennoxville guys and the ones from Sherbrooke," said Bourget, "but now they are just one."

The players, interviewed on Thursday evening, agreed with Gaetan on the team spirit.

"Everybody's getting along very well," remarked Steve Mitchell, one of the first Athletics to sign, "we have excellent spirit."

When asked about the relations between the two ethnic groups, Mitchell answered: "It's really incredible, the English guys are trying to speak French, and the French guys are trying to speak English... there is no favoritism at all."

Bourget admits the club has really good spirit, and he thinks they will have to use all they've got to defeat the Junior Royals from Drummondville in the season opener.

"Drummondville has a good team and with the pitchers they have, it should be a very good game," he noted. "I also think our section is stronger than the East division, so it will make for a pretty good season."

But enough for talking. The thing now is to do. The home opener is this Sunday, May 19 at 2 p.m. Saturday, the A's will be holding a spectacular parade through Sherbrooke to show off the team.

The parade will organize at Lorraine Bowling Lanes on King West. From there it will travel along King West to Belvedere, where it will turn north and go to Frontenac.

The route will then be Wellington North from Frontenac to King St. again. The parade will stay on King East until Parc where they will turn north and travel to the Amedee Roy Stadium where the procession will terminate.

Barring inclement weather on Sunday afternoon, the home opener will begin at 2 p.m. with pre-game festivities at 1:30 p.m. including the Lac-Megantic Marinières, a 60-girl majorette corps and the throwing of the first ball by Athletics president Bob Martineau.

Political dignitaries will also be on hand. Among them will be Sherbrooke County MP Irene Pelletier, St. Francis MNA Gerald Deziel and Sherbrooke MNA Jean-Paul Pepin. Honorary president of the Sherbrooke A's, Jean-Paul Thibeault, as well as representatives from the Drummondville club and others will be in attendance.

The ladies will also be honored on Sunday. As every woman passes through the gate, she will receive a flower, compliments of local florists Jean Cote and Pierre Goudreau.

Season tickets for all Athletics home games are still on sale. The price is $15 for the 17 home contests. Gate tickets are $1.25 for reserved seats and $1 for general admission. Over 650 season tickets have been sold to date.

Come on out Sunday afternoon to watch Denis Dusseault of the A's battle it out with the Junior Royals pitcher Jean-Pierre Roy on the historic opening game of junior baseball in Sherbrooke.

In spirited game

Orr leads Bruins to victory

BOSTON (CP) — Bobby Orr and Boston Bruins shrugged off reports of dissension among the players Thursday night by skating to a 5-1 victory over Philadelphia Flyers.

"That's a lot of expletive delative," the Bruins' all-star defenceman said after leading his club with two goals and an assist. He was the best player on the ice for either team.

The reports followed the Bruins' 4-2 loss Tuesday at Philadelphia that left them in the position of having to win three straight games to capture their third Stanley Cup in five years.

They trail 3-2 in the best-of-seven National Hockey League final with the next contest set for Sunday in the Philadelphia Spectrum starting at 2 p.m. EDT.

The game will be carried nationally in Canada by the CBC on television and radio.

SIPPED A LITTLE

"All we did after the game Tuesday was go back to our hotel and have a little meeting," said Orr. "Then we had a roast beef dinner, a little wine and beer and then we went to bed."

"Gawd, I don't know where these stories come from."

What was said at the meeting? "All we did was tell ourselves that we haven't been skating and if we were going to win this thing we'd have to put a little more effort into it," Orr said.

The Bruins put a lot more "effort" into the game than they had in any of the previous four outings and, for the first time in the playoffs this year, flexed their muscles.

The result was a 3½-hour game in which referee Dave Newell called 29 minor penalties, 12 major fighting penalties and a game misconduct to Boston's Bobby Schumacher and a 10-minute misconduct to Dave Schultz of Philadelphia.

SET PENALTY RECORDS

Schultz led the penalty parade with 22 minutes, including two for fighting and a misconduct.

The game set a record for most penalties by both teams (43) and by one team (22 for Philadelphia) for a total of 138 minutes.

Schultz and Wayne Cashman came to blows behind the Philadelphia net after Schultz had given the Boston winger an elbow in the mouth.

Showing a big welt on his forehead when he was crashed into the glass prior to his fight with the Flyer policeman, Cashman said Schultz is "nothing but an animal."

"I'll fight the guy any day of the week, even on Sunday, if he's up to it."

Schultz denied he was trying to provoke the Bruins. On the contrary, he said it was Boston that was doing the intimidating.

"They gave us a lot of cheap shots and didn't get called," Schultz said. "We got called on all of them."

Gregg Sheppard, with his 11th playoff goal, gave Bruins a first-period lead.

The Flyers bounced back with a goal by Bill Clement at 6:04 of the second period. But, unlike earlier games, the Bruins didn't fold.

In fact, they pressed harder and continued to play aggressive hockey.

Orr broke the deadlock at the 12:06 mark with his fourth play-off goal and scored again less than five minutes later.

It marked the first time in the series the Bruins have scored in the second period. Ken Hodge and Don Marcotte added third-period goals.

The penalty records broken were set during a Toronto Maple Leaf-Boston game at Boston Garden in April, 1969. The previous records were 38 by both teams and 20 by one team (Boston).

Bobby Clarke who, along with goalie Bernie Parent, has meant so much to the Flyers in this series, couldn't explain the reason Flyers started slowly.

"At the start we were really tense or really flat—I don't know which," Clarke said, adding: "If we don't win Sunday we're in for a lot of trouble."

The Bruins face the Flyers and their unofficial mascot, Kate Smith, at the Spectrum where the singer's recording of God Bless America often is substituted for the U.S. national anthem.

The Flyers are 36-3-1 at home (7-0 this season) with Miss Smith's record. Sunday she'll be there in person.

Guidolin decries intimidation

BOSTON (CP) — Coach Bep Guidolin wasn't impressed by efforts of Philadelphia Flyers to knock his Boston Bruins out of the rink Thursday night.

"They tried to intimidate us, but it didn't work," Guidolin said after the Bruins defeated Philadelphia 5-1 in the fifth game of their best-of-seven Stanley Cup final.

"We got 60 minutes of hockey from every one tonight," the Boston coach said. "We out-hustled them, out-muscled and out-played them all night."

"We had our back against the wall and had to win."

Guidolin said Boston fans can't believe "we're playing one hell of a hockey team."

"They still think of them as an expansion team. That's no expansion team out there. They wouldn't have come this far if they were."

COACH CONFIDENT

The Boston coach said he is sure now the Bruins will win the cup.

"All we've got to do is play a game like this one Sunday in Philly, because there's no way they're going to win back here," he added.

Boston defenceman Bobby Orr, who scored two second-period goals and added an assist on the Bruins' first goal by Gregg Sheppard—a short-handed effort at 8:14 of the first period—said he felt a lot of chippiness displayed by both sides was unnecessary.

"The chippiness could carry over," Orr said. "But if we play as well or better than we did tonight we'll be all right."

"You expect to get the bumps and bruises in any game, but tonight there was a lot of foolish pushing and shoving on both sides that led to foolish penalties. It would have been a better hockey game without all the chippiness."

'DIDN'T GIVE UP

Centre Phil Esposito denied the Bruins had given up in the earlier going.

"You don't give up when you're facing elimination," Esposito said. "You put out a little bit more—tonight we just kept shooting."

Aeros think sweep

HOUSTON (CP) — With a 2-0 lead and the series shifted to their home ice, Houston Aeros are thinking of a four-game sweep in the best-of-seven World Hockey Association final.

Houston won the first two games in Chicago 3-2 and 6-1 and now has home advantage for games tonight at 9 p.m. EDT, Sunday and, if necessary, Monday.

"They've got a tough road ahead of them now," said goalie Don McLeod, one of the major reasons for Houston's success this season.

"It's not only that the next three games are on our ice, and it's not a question of Chicago playing well or not against us."

"We just have the better personnel, the more experienced players."

McLeod, who lost his shutout Wednesday with 16 seconds remaining, said the only way Chicago can beat his club is "if we have a letdown, or if their goalie happens to have a hot game and stop everything in sight."

"We can wrap this up in four straight, that's the type of team we are."

COUGARS DETERMINED

The Cougars are determined, however.

"We've been a fighting team all year and have been down two games in a series before," veteran forward Ralph Backstrom said. "But, for sure this weekend will be Cougars' supreme test. All we can assure you is that we'll be in there working."

The Cougars have never won in Houston, but coach Pat Stapleton says that "maybe with a little luck we can change things around."

"Don't forget New England had us down 2-0 and we came back," the Chicago playing-coach said, referring to the quarter-finals when the Cougars fought back to beat the defending champions in seven games.

Stapleton says the initial goals have determined the tempo so far and that will remain the case.

"If we can get one or two goals up, instead of being down and having to fight back, it'll be a different story. When you're down, you have to open up and that's usually when teams get into trouble."

LONG LAYOFF HELPS

Despite being the oldest and most-experienced team in the WHA, Houston has shown no signs of tiring, and coach Bill Dineen credits an 11-day layoff before the final.

Hill leads Colonial

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — Hale Irwin scorched the Colonial Country Club course with a five-under-par 65 Thursday and seized a three-stroke lead in the first round of the $250,000 Colonial National Open.

Battling gusty winds, Irwin bagged three birdies on the final four holes and swept away from a cluster of challengers with a 32-36-65.

"There was not very much I did poorly," admitted Irwin, a non-winner this year but 10th on the money winning list with more than $75,000.

Rolling in birdie putts of three, one, 35, 10, three and 25 feet, Irwin, who has the habit of playing tough courses extremely well, struck a resounding blow in his bid to capture the first designated tournament title in the history of pro golf.

Three strokes back with 68s were Billy Casper, Charles Coody, Bobby Nichols, Hubert Green, Larry Hinson and Bert Yancey.

They had a stroke advantage over another group at 69 that included Orville Moody, Phil Rodgers, Bruce Baird, Julius Boros, Bob Stanton and Frank Beard.

George Knudson of Toronto shot a 75.

Tom Weiskopf, defending champion who matched par and said that, "70 is not a bad score and we have a long way to go," was tied at that figure with Rod Curl, Larry Ziegler, Chuck Courtney, Dave Stockton and Ben Crenshaw.

Jack Nicklaus, one of the "designated" players required to compete here under the new, controversial setup, carded a 71 and said that, "if I hadn't made some putts, I would have vaulted into the 80s."

At that, he fared better than many of the other superstars. Arnold Palmer and Gary Player had 74s, Lee Trevino posted a 72 and the current tour kingpin, five-time winner Johnny Miller, limped in with a 78.

Stanstead County WI annual meeting

NORTH HATLEY — The annual meeting of the Stanstead County Women's Institute was held on Tuesday, May 7 at the North Hatley Community Hall where the Hatley Center Branch were hostesses.

Mrs. Doris Shaw was in charge of registrations. Mrs. Nelson Pierce, the President presided and opened the meeting with the Collect and the singing of the WI song. Mrs. A. Cheal, on behalf of the hosting branch, spoke a warm welcome.

Annual reports were heard from the secretary, Miss Viola Moranville; the treasurer, Mrs. John Johnston; and convenors, as well as the president, Mrs. Pierce.

These noted the County has 122 members. Beebe Branch now has five members of 50 years each in Institute work, plus another 50 year member from the Ayer's Cliff branch.

The County Branches collected a total of $471.81 for UNICEF in 1973, through school children, which was most gratifying. At the County Collection of Plays presented May 1 at Ayer's Cliff, candy sales and the silver collection totalled a sum of $88.50 which is being used for expenses.

Mrs. Warren Soutiere and Mrs. Irving Lord, convenors of Agriculture, in their report gave a summary of the past year's work and activities.

The major project was the school fair last September at Ayer's Cliff. Seeds for this year have arrived and prepared by Mrs. Soutiere for distribution in the schools. The fair date this year is set for Thursday, September 12 at the Ayer's Cliff Fair Grounds. Through arrangements with officials at Alexander Galt, the students of the County accepting seeds or in other ways participating will be given the day to attend the fair.

The past year each of the five branches had a busy year in various agricultural activities. Miss Viola Moranville presented Mrs. C. Mitson's Citizenship report. National holidays were observed. Armistice poppies purchased and memorial wreaths laid. Donations made to Canadian Legion, Pennies for Friendship contributed, some branches subscribe to the Federated newspaper, some have pen pals. All were pleased to learn Mrs. Mitson, although she remains a patient at the University Hospital in Sherbrooke, is gaining.

Mrs. Rixford Knight, Education, noted work done in schools. The 1973 awards of three scholarships, the Estella Holmes, the Dr. C.L. Brown Memorial and the Maude Kezar Memorial. Library prizes and magazines have gone into schools, support is given the McLennan Traveling Library, and considerable volunteer work has been done.

Home Economics, Miss Viola Moranville said all five Branches participated in the Ayer's Cliff WI C de C competition of crafts, in the County tea room and donated items for the sale table. Some subscribe to the Consumers of Canada magazine and some WI branches participated in the Beebe Centennial celebrations and others at the Hatley July Dominion Day celebrations.

Publicity, Mrs. Ivy Hatch, noted accounts of WI sent to the Macdonald College magazine, and to all newspapers. Reports from the five branches have been good and all faithful. Appreciation goes to the news media, papers, radios and television stations that carry Institute news and programs. Mrs. Hatch read an informative communication from the Provincial convenor, Mrs. Perley Clark of Brownsburg. Welfare and Health, Mrs. V. Naeve noted support of hot lunches in schools, Christmas cheer, 20 platters of fruit to shut-ins, cards, flowers and other gifts made, collections for the Sherbrooke Hospital campaign, sale of daffodils for cancer, Red Cross participation in various ways, visits and gifts to the Dixville Home, a dog clinic held and a birthday party given a shut-in.

In addition, all branches had speakers, roll calls pertaining to their convener, some had demonstrations in various crafts adding up to a busy and very successful year. It is when one hears county reports that one can realize how much is accomplished in a year.

Mrs. Pierce noted all branches had contributed used Canadian stamps for the convention in Australia of the ACWW. She made reference to the WI plays on May 1 and a sum of $10.00 was voted to St. George's Anglican Church Wards for the use of their hall. This gift will be accompanied by a note of appreciation.

All were reminded of the Hatley branch fair on May 18 and urged to attend this always pleasant day.

A sum of $10.00 was voted in support of the Sherbrooke Hospital campaign and support was asked for the Townships Sun through letters.

A resolution pertaining to the gifts from the Abby Pritchard Fund was approved by the County after all five branches had approved them. This will now be forwarded to the provincial resolutions committee to be brought up at the May convention at Macdonald College.

Embroidered tea towels were judged. Mrs. Ezra Woodard, Beebe, placed first; Mrs. Ivy Hatch, second and Mrs. Tom Ride, third. The two top winners will go to Macdonald for the J.P. Coats competition along with work from across the province.

Mrs. Pierce announced a bus is going to the convention at Macdonald on May 30. Several announced their intention to be on the bus and paid their fare.

The printing of the 1974-75 programs for the County was left with the president and secretary to make arrangements as they cannot be done this year at Macdonald.

It was voted to transfer a sum of $100.00 to the School Fair treasury so the treasurer, Mrs. William Curtis can pay bills. The seeds for the 1974 year were valued at $270.00 and with the funds in the red by $60.00 from last year, there is not much money left.

Mrs. Pierce said she had enjoyed her three years as County president, and spoke words of tribute to her executive and the members for their support and cooperation. "You have all done whatever asked even when on short notice" she said and added "thank you".

Mrs. Grace Lebaron took the chair for the election of officers after the slate was presented by Mrs. Maurice Dezan. Elected were President, Mrs. Douglas Johnston, Stanstead; Vice-presidents, Mrs. Irving Lord and Mrs. Victoria Plow, Ayer's Cliff and Hatley Center; Secretary, Miss Viola Moranville, Beebe and treasurer, Mrs. John Johnston, Hatley Center.

Convenors: Agriculture, Mrs. Warren Soutiere and Mrs. Irving Lord; Education, Mrs. Margaret Mosher and Mrs. R. Knight; Home Economics, Miss Viola Moranville; Citizenship, Mrs. Archie Moulton; Publicity, Mrs. Ivy Hatch; Welfare and Health, Mrs. V. Naeve.

At noon a delicious luncheon was served by the hostesses. The tables were decorated with daffodils and pussy willows and the WI Grace repeated. Mrs. Erwin Taylor, on behalf of the members voiced appreciation to Hatley Center members for their hospitality and the wonderful dinner.

With the new president, Mrs. Johnston in the chair, her first official act was to present a gift to the retired president Mrs. Pierce and to thank her for her dedication as leader the past three years.

The roll call showed Ayer's Cliff 7; Beebe 5; Hatley 7; Hatley Center 11; Stanstead North 14.

A card was signed to be sent to Miss Esther Miller, Hatley, who had a recent fall, and another to Mrs. Marion Buckland in Newport, Home Extension Agent for Orleans County, leaving soon for a higher position in this work in Gainesville, Florida.

An item about the May 12 Open House was read from the Newport Daily Express with several stating intention to attend to wish Marion every success in her new venture.

Mrs. Knight introduced the afternoon speakers. They were Alain Laffamme and Gilles Brodeur from the Free Legal Aid service in Sherbrooke.

These two young men asked for questions and gave replies which were most enlightening and helpful. They invited the public to come to one of the Legal Aid service offices when any problem arises and outlined what they can do to help and cannot do but can guide people in trouble.

They can give assistance, advice on divorces, annulments, separations, social welfare problems, prevention service, on commercial racketeers, but cannot handle defence cases.

Mrs. Glen Bennett thanked the two who had taken time out from their busy schedule to come and speak on this matter which is important to every person in the area. Mrs. Knight presented them with a gift of money to aid them in their work.

This brought another annual meeting to a successful climax. The August quarterly meeting will be held at the Red Brick schoolhouse with Stanstead North the hostesses.

Megantic County WI annual meeting

KINNEAR'S MILLS — The annual meeting of the Megantic County Women's Institute was held in the Community Hall in Kinnear's Mills the evening of May 6 with the Kinnear's Mills members acting as hostesses.

The president, Mrs. M. Nugent, opened the meeting with the Salute to the Flag and the Creed. Six members and one visitor from Inverness answered the Roll Call. Seven members from Kinnear's Mills were present.

All the ladies were saddened by the serious injuries sustained by a member, Mrs. V. Lowry, in a head-on collision the evening of the meeting. Just prior to the accident Mrs. Lowry had been helping with preparations for the evening lunch.

The secretary, Mrs. E. Nugent, read the minutes of the previous meetings. This was followed by all the convenors' reports of the year's work.

Mrs. M. Nugent reminded the members of the highlights of the Provincial President's letter. One particular item was the date that entries for the competitions must be sent to Macdonald College.

Mrs. W. Graham took the chair for the election of officers and asked Mrs. B. Robinson, chairman, to read the slate of officers which was as follows:

Past President - Mrs. M. Nugent.

Social evening enjoyed

BIRCHTON — The lights were bright at the Birchton Hall on Tuesday evening, early, in anticipation of the some fifty ladies who arrived about eight o'clock, from Bulwer, Cookshire and Island Brook, wondering what the programme might be to while away the hours.

After being welcomed by the President of the Birchton U.C.W., Mrs. Gilbert Nutbrown, and socializing for a while, the group was called to order by Mrs. Audrey Waterman, who, seated at a head desk, explained the intricacies of the game Bingo.

Cards and "corns" were distributed and Mrs. Waterman called the numbers, while Mrs. Howard Picard, at the shout - or shouts of "Bingo", checked the card called, and delivered the prizes, chosen from a well-laden tray by each winner in turn.

Interpersed among the regular bingo games, were several Specials with Special prizes.

Partners were chosen by the matching of numbers. Delicious refreshments were served at two long tables, during which the visiting folk, in turn, expressed their appreciation of the relaxing and enjoyable evening, and emphasizing the need of the good fellowship of such social - no charge - Get-togethers amid the pressure of our modern times.

SOCIAL NOTES
Mrs. Marguerite Beaudoin, her daughter Monette, her son and friend, all of Sherbrooke, spent Sunday afternoon with Mr. and Mrs. Percy Jackson, the Beaudoin's neighbours over the years.

Mrs. Willis Willey
80th BIRTHDAY
 Mrs. Etienne Lane celebrated her 80th birthday on Saturday, April 13, when she received many cards and gifts, phone calls and telegrams. A beautiful birthday cake was made and decorated by Mrs. Kent Durrell. During the time relatives and friends were gathered there, tea and cake was served and pictures taken. Mrs. Lane was our local Post Mistress for many years, and still works in the local store at her home. A list of wishes are extended to "Aunt Etienne" as she is called by most friends and neighbors.

Recent callers at the home of Mrs. Blanche Schoolcraft were Mrs. Alice Rowat and Mrs. Elinor Baldwin, Lennoxville; Mrs. Iris Daine Peasley, and Mrs. George MacDonald, both of Sherbrooke; Mrs. Doris Shaw, North Hatley; Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Bullock; Mrs. Joe Castonguay and son Gaston, Montreal; Mr. Milton Whitehead and Mr. Clark, Waterloo; Mrs. Wayne Clark, Knowlton; Mr. Landings, Mr. Ormonde Schoolcraft, Vale Perkins; Mr. John Manual and Mr. Dominique Petrone of Leaville.

Mrs. Ethel Coates and Mr. Arthur Morfee were visiting Mr. and Mrs. Stewart Coates in Lennoxville, recently. Friends will be sorry to know that Mrs. Francis Scruton has entered the Royal Edward Chest Hospital again where she will undergo surgery. If anyone wishes to write or send cards, her address is: Royal Edward Chest Hospital, 3650 St. Urbain Street, Montreal, Quebec, 5th Floor. Mrs. Ricky Durrell will again assist at the Post Office during Mrs. Scruton's absence. Mrs. Willis Willey and Miss Lorna Willey were calling on Mr. and Mrs. Roy Willey, Knowlton and Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Fuller and Mrs. Irene Royea, Bolton Pass Road. Mr. and Mrs. James Scruton, and daughters, Victoria and Heather of Montreal, spent Easter weekend at the Lane-Scruton home. While here they attended the celebration of the birthday of their grandmother and great-grandmother. Miss Heather Davis, Miss Lorna Willey and Miss Barbara Willey attended the movies in Newport, Vt. on Friday evening. Mrs. E. D. Lane received news from her niece on the death of her husband, Mr. Walter Beland. North Hatley. Mrs. Beland would be remembered here as the former Mildred Snow who lived here practically all her girlhood life. Friends and relatives extend sympathy to the family. Belated birthday wishes are extended to Mr. George Pibus who celebrated his 83rd birthday on April 29.

Mansonville

Miss Sadie McKenzie and Mr. Fred Ducharme have returned from a winter visit with Mr. Ducharme's sister Mrs. Jeanne Falardeau in Tucson, Arizona. Sadie said that every day the TV would show people with cars and large vans having difficulty getting gas. Phoenix was the end of the line as far as gas was concerned, and some people just sat where their car was parked for some few days.

Vans were not able to get the diesel oil required and therefore all food stuffs and meat were just unloaded on the spot, some of it was fruit from Florida, and all this would just rot in no time.

What a pity and crying shame with two-thirds of the world starving today, and the nomads of the desert in their sixth year of drought, some of them too weak to journey the full distance to a large city or place where they might be helped.

The pink pictures of the oil pipeline on the front page of the main section of the Sherbrooke Record Annual Review were taken in 1965 of the second pipeline put through from Portland, Me., through Highwater and on to Montreal, and they were loaned through the courtesy of Bruce Nichols.

The 1941 pink picture at the bottom left-hand side was the dedication ceremony of the first pipeline put through and the then Defence Minister the Hon. C.D. Howe was present for the ceremonies. This was loaned through the courtesy of Lorne Barnett.

The two little white and black pictures on the same page were referred to in the Highwater history, the top one was the temporary train station made up of a caboose and railway car, and the middle one was the 1937 train station at Highwater demolished by fire, both were also loaned through the courtesy of Lorne Barnett.

Best sellers on film have glamor and bite

By Dick Kleiner

HOLLYWOOD — (NEA) — There are two big best-sellers at the moment. Each will make a big movie. But each has tremendous problems inherent in translating them from the printed page to film.

The two are Peter Benchley's "Jaws," the story of a great white shark which terrorizes a Long Island beach community, and Irving Wallace's "The Fan Club," a tale of four kooks who kidnap the movie's top sex symbol for their own pleasure.

"Jaws" is tough because it isn't easy to take pictures of a shark eating people. "The Fan Club" presents a different problem. By its very nature, it's a sexy movie. It should be an X-rated film but it also should be a big one.

And not many X-rated films are big grossers, so the producers will have to make a choice — do it literally, or fudge a bit to play to the box office.

Peter Benchley, who wrote "Jaws," tells me that they are currently shooting the shark sequences off the Australian coast. He says they found plenty of great whites but one as big as the monster he tells about in his book.

To compensate for the lack of size they've resorted to some cinema trickery. For the big scene — an ichthyologist is in a cage, under water, to get a closer look — they used a midjet in a small cage beneath a small boat, so they would all look full size next to the relatively IRVING WALLACE: Opening up the whole glamor thing.

"Jaws" has been a bonanza to Benchley. He says he just had a big thrill — writing a check for $121,000 to pay his income tax. Fortunately, he had been on the receiving end of some even bigger checks — the paperback sale was $575,000 and the movie sale was $150,000.

Casting for "Jaws" is still being done. Benchley says it looks like Sterling Hayden will play Quint, the fisherman. Roy Scheider the police chief and Richard Dreyfus the ichthyologist.

Benchley wrote three drafts of the "Jaws" screenplay and it is close to the production. But Wallace, as is his custom, has had nothing to do with the movie version of "The Fan Club," except to sell it for another whopping sum. Columbia bought the rights and it's their problem now.

They did talk to him about casting. Wallace says he had a long talk with producer Lawrence Gordon on the subject. He doesn't want a "semi-name" feeling that it would be hard for the audience to accept anyone but a major star or a complete unknown in the part of the biggest star of all.

He believes the movie of "The Fan Club," if it is done properly, can be a milestone for movies.

"This can open up the whole glamor thing in pictures," he says, "that has disappeared. If it succeeds it will bring back women in movies — this is a man's town now."

He thinks that only two actresses of any repute around today could play his sexpot Sharon Fields. The two are Candy Bergen and Jacqueline Bisset. But he really would prefer to see a complete unknown in the role.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21): A better than average day provided you don't succumb to temptation to goof off and neglect duties.

CANCER (June 22 to July 21): Take time to assure those who rely on you that you won't let them down no matter what happens.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21): Accent is on home planning. Outline improvements you wish to make during summer months ahead.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22): Artistic endeavors, home and family affairs, sociability, all under line rays in Virgo charts today.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22): Be tolerant if friend breaks a date to which you had been looking forward. You'll soon get another chance.
