Stevenson Critical Of Truce Pact

Anchorage, Alaska.—(AP)—Adlai E. Stevenson charged Sunday "U. S. policy defaulted and France salvaged what she could" out of the Indo-China settlement.

Stevenson, 1952 Democratic party presidential candidate, made his first public comments on the Indo-China situation in a speech to Anchorage Democrats. Stevenson was vacationing last week at McKinley National Park while the Indo-China cease-fire was being negotiated.

"Again the shooting has stopped but Communist China has staked out another menacing salient into Free Asia and enveloped 13 million people and one of the richest rice growing areas in the Orient," Stevenson said.

"This is the sorry sequel of all the foolish, boastful Republican talk about liberation of the white nations, about unleashing Chiang Kai-shek, seizing the initiative, a new look on foreign policy, no more little wars as in Korea, and, finally, that threatening talk by the secretary of state and the vice-president about massive atomic retaliation which scared our Allies half to death, if not our enemies."

Rhee Visit Opens Series Of Key Washington Talks

Washington.—(AP)—A gathering of military advisers in advance of a visit from Syngman Rhee today heralded a series of White House conferences expected to have an important bearing on U. S. policy in the Far East.

Rhee, president of South Korea, was due in Washington late this afternoon (4 p.m. EDT). He begins talks with President Eisenhower and other top U. S. officials Tuesday.

Several hours ahead of Rhee's arrival, Eisenhower summoned to a luncheon meeting Defence Secretary Charles Wilson and Admiral Arthur Radford, chairman of the joint chiefs of staff. Also invited was retired Gen. James Van Fleet, recently returned from a survey of military assistance needs in the Far East.

The White House meeting followed closely announcement of tentative plans for a conference in August or September of Western and Asian nations of formation of a Southeast Asia defensive alliance.

Rhee is likely to ask, according to Seoul dispatches, for military equipment and transport to equip

Weary Story Continues In Coffin Trial

Perce, Que.—(AP)—The long, slow trial of Wilbert Coffin today enters its 10th day as the crown seeks piece by piece to build its case against the 43-year-old prospector accused in connection with the slaying of three American hunters a year ago.

So far 45 witnesses have been heard in the courthouse in this picturesque little tourist village. But the crown still has 60 witnesses and the defence is expected to put 100 into the box.

Coffin is charged specifically with the rifle killing of Richard Lindsey, 17, of Hollidaysburg, Pa. His body, and those of his father, Eugene, 47, and a friend, Albert Claar, 20, were in the Gaspé bush last July.

The bulky prospector from York Centre, Que., has appeared increasingly tired as witness followed witness.

Dressed in a neat grey sports jacket and wearing a white shirt, he sits slumped in the prisoner's dock during the long hours of testimony, darting a glance now and then at his lawyers, Francois B. Gravel and Louis Dorion.

He rarely smiles, his expression changing only when some witness mentions a lighter incident.

The crown has concentrated on trying to show that the three sportsmen were ambushed in two long logging camps about 60 miles west of Gaspé and that four rifles owned by the hunters and found with them had not been fired or their safety catches unlocked.

Witnesses have testified that Coffin was seen in possession of a hunter's utility knife and a large sum of American money June 12 and that he paid $10 he owed a friend and purchased a substantial amount of liquor the same day.

His attractive, 28-year-old sister testified Saturday Coffin left home around midnight, June 12, not telling anyone where he was going.

Others said they saw him early the next morning in Perce and that he purchased a brake cylinder for his truck after he ran in to a ditch near here.

He was also seen, according to witnesses, the same day in a Chandler barber shop, 40 miles southwest of here where he passed around a bottle of whisky to eight customers and to the barber, paid for the haircuts of two other customers and left a large tip. He also offered to take an 82-year-old man to Montreal with him.

They said he paid a man $10 for hauling his overturned truck from a ditch at Caplan, 140 miles southwest of here later that day. The next day he turned up at a hotel at St. Andre, in Kamouraska county, 300 miles west of here and drank seven bottles of beer.

Witnesses said Coffin purchased a case of beer in Gaspé with a $20 American bill, paid the man who hauled his truck at Caplan with a $20 American and offered a "big" U.S. bill to the hotel waitress in St. Andre.

Others who met Coffin testified he had a large amount of money in his possession and that he told them he was a Gaspé mining prospector who had been called to Montreal suddenly on business.

Declares Russia Must Change Stand On Several Basic Issues Before East-West Conference Feasible.

By ARTHUR GAVSHON
London.—(AP)—Prime Minister Churchill's cabinet met today and is reported to have decided Britain must reject Russia's proposal for a European security system as it stands now.

Informed sources said, however, Britain is likely to suggest that the Big Three western Allies should tell the Kremlin in reply:

1. Unless the Soviets have changed their stand on several basic issues affecting European security, the plan for an early East-West conference is unacceptable.

2. The Allies would be prepared to join a Pan-European security system after, or as part of, a final German peace settlement. Such a settlement would be possible only if Russia accepted the principle of free, adequately prepared and supervised all-German elections.

3. The Allies are interested in a continental security system including Communist nations but not at the cost of the Atlantic Pact or of the European Defence Community project.

Russia in notes to Britain, the United States and France called Saturday for an early conference of all European countries and the United States to discuss collective security. Red Communists should send observers, Russia suggested.

The foreign office would not comment officially on the proposal. A spokesman said Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden might make a short statement on it in the House of Commons very soon.

Meanwhile Britain, the United States and France are arranging to set up a joint committee, one of their capitals to draft an answer to Moscow. In doing so the three countries will consult the West German federal republic, Austria and their partners in the Atlantic pact.

A first move in the phase of Allied consultation on the subject already has been arranged. French Ambassador Rene Massigli invited Eden to dinner tonight to discuss this question and also the plans of Prime Minister Pierre Mendes-France to try for early ratification of EDC.

Some British officials privately expressed the opinion that Russia's note was intended to make it more difficult for the French government to win parliamentary approval for EDC.

The independent Liberal newspaper, in its lead editorial, contends that the Senate leader acts as an effective brake on State Secretary John Foster Dulles, leaving U. S. policy hampered at a time when it should be free and adaptable.

"The difficulty of the present position," the editorial adds, "is that it confines the United States to a negative role and deprives the Western powers of the leadership of America."

Communist China Apologizes, Offers Indemnity For Downing British Plane

By GENE KRAMER
T. Kyo.—(AP)—Communist China apologized to Britain today for shooting down a British airliner over the South China Sea Friday with an apparent loss of 10 lives, including three Americans. There were eight survivors.

A Peiping radio broadcast heard here said Red patrol planes thought the transport was Chinese Nationalist. It expressed a willingness to consider paying damages.

The apology was in a note to British Charge d'affaires Humphrey Trevelyan from Chang Han-fu, Red Chinese vice-minister for foreign affairs.

Text of the note, broadcast by Peiping, said shooting down of the Cathay Pacific Airlines Skymaster over Hainan island was "entirely accidental" and an "unfortunate incident."

"They shot us down with the intention of killing us," Capt. Philip Blown, pilot of the airliner, told reporters in Hong Kong.

Britain protested the shooting Saturday night and U. S. State Secretary Dulles charged that the airliner was "deliberately shot down."

The Peiping broadcast said the Red Chinese government "expresses its regret at this accidental and unfortunate incident of the British transport aircraft and has taken appropriate measures in dealing with it."

"It extends its sympathy, concern and condolences to the dead and injured in this incident and to their relatives. It is willing to give consideration to the payment of appropriate benefit and compensation for the loss of life and property damage involved."

The broadcast denounced Nationalist China and said Red fighters identified the British transport as "an aircraft of the Chiang Kai-shek gang."

"While carrying out patrol duty over Pei Yulin of Hainan island," the broadcast said, the fighters spotted the airliner "and fighting took place."

"Upon receiving this report, the government of the People's Republic of China undertook an investigation through various channels which revealed that the transport involved was actually a British-owned transport aircraft whose sinking was by our patrol aircraft as an aircraft of the Kuomintang Chinese Nationalist gang on a mission to raid military bases at Pei Yulin."

The rescue of survivors was carried out by a United States amphibious plane despite 10 to 12-foot swells.

In London, British newspapers took an extremely dim view of the incident. Papers on the street before the Peiping apology were broadcast were unanimous in their denunciation of the shooting.

The Daily Mirror, a mass circulation tabloid which generally favors a soft approach to the Red regime, called the incident "stupid and barbarous."

The Daily Telegraph declared: "Chinese intentions will be judged not by peaceful protestations but by whatever action the Chinese government takes to punish or condone such barbaric conduct."

The Times said "Nothing can excuse the wanton shooting down of a civilian passenger aircraft going about its lawful occasions."

Daily Mail: "Actions speak louder than words, and the Chinese attack on the British airliner looks precious little like peaceable intent."

Daily Express: "Here is an act that belies the peaceful professions of the Chinese negotiators at Geneva. How much confidence can there be in a truce that is so quickly followed by treachery?"

Vietminh Forces Strike Below Demarcation Line

By JOHN RODERICK
Saigon, Indo-China.—(AP) Vietminh forces stabbed southward in Viet Nam during the week-end, striking far below the dividing line set in the imminent cease-fire.

The new attack, 180 miles north of Saigon, came as Peiping radio trumpeted a pledge by Red Vietnam chief Ho Chi Minh to "liberate" the lower half of the partitioned Indo-China state.

In northern Viet Nam, which formally passes into Vietnam hands Tuesday under the Geneva agreement, the French get ready to evacuate up to 1,000,000 civilians and fighting men. The giant operation is set to begin Wednesday.

A French high command spokesman said the rebel attack in the south began Saturday. He said the Vietminh struck at Nha Trang, on the China sea coast. Rebel commandos sabotaged several bridges in Nha Trang after Vietminh artillery had bombarded the coastal town's defenses.

The rebels also attacked French and Viet Nam positions at Qui Nhon, 100 miles north of Nha Trang, and struck at Tuy Hoa, midway between the two towns.

Other Vietminh forces brought pressure on Cheo Reo, a post 60

New Bridge Opened

Brief, Impressive Rites Yesterday Witnessed By Thousands Of Citizens

Marking an important milestone in the path of Sherbrooke's business and economic progress, the new Jacques Cartier Bridge, spanning the Magog River and linking the North and West wards, in the vicinity of Jacques Cartier Park was officially opened for traffic yesterday afternoon by Mayor J. Emile Levesque following a brief but impressive dedication ceremony witnessed by present and past civic administrators, representatives of the federal and provincial governments, heads of local public bodies and thousands of citizens.

The brief proceedings were opened by an address by Mayor Levesque following the playing of O Canada by members of the Harmony Band.

In his brief remarks, the Mayor said:

"We are here today inaugurating the second bridge built in Sherbrooke in the last five years."

The Joffre Bridge inaugurated in 1950 and the Jacques Cartier Bridge which we are opening today. The building of these two bridges indicates the prodigious growth and development of Sherbrooke in the last decade.

"This magnificent bridge unites two of the largest wards of the city, the West and the North wards, the combined population of which is over 31,000 citizens. The new bridge will be of great use to industry and commerce and will certainly help to alleviate the volume of traffic in the downtown areas of the city. It is expected that the heavy traffic of trucks from Montreal to Quebec and intermediate points will be diverted over the Jacques Cartier and Joffre bridges, thus relieving the present congestion elsewhere."

"The by-laws authorizing the loans necessary for the construction of the bridge which you admire today were voted by the Council in 1951 and 1953 and approved by the property owners on January 24 and October 14, 1952. The actual cost of the bridge is $1,314,183, of which a sum of $1,250,000 was voted by by-laws No. 757 and 776. A further sum of $64,183, representing the discount on sale of bonds has been absorbed by By-law No. 807 duly authorized by the Legislature."

"The new bridge was designed and built by local engineers and contractors who are to be congratulated on their excellent work. The new bridge is 1,244 feet long and 46 feet wide and is erected 43 feet above the Magog River. Three million five hundred thousand pounds of steel and six thousand three hundred cubic yards of concrete have gone into its construction."

"Although the bridge is opened for traffic today, Jacques Cartier street which links the bridge and King Street will not be completed for some time. As you have noticed, sidewalks are under construction and the street must be levelled and paved."

"The Council is indeed happy to add this new bridge to the City's system of public roadways and I am sure it will accommodate all the citizens, especially those of the West and North Wards."

The Mayor then called upon Mr. Lucien L'Heureux, Grand Vicar of the Archdiocese of Sherbrooke, who blessed the new structure while a short dedicatory prayer was given by Rev. F. C. Amery of the Sherbrooke Baptist Church, representing the Protestant Ministerial Association.

At the conclusion of the dedicatory ceremonies, the Mayor cut the ribbon, opening the bridge to traffic.

Following the ribbon-cutting, the invited guests entered cars which had been waiting at the northern approaches to the bridge, where the ceremony took place, crossed the new structure and proceeded to the City Hall where an informal reception was held.

Once the bridge was cleared of the official traffic, a real traffic rush ensued. Literally thousands of cars, both from Sherbrooke and outside points, were lined up on both sides of the river for the ceremonies and when these were completed everyone seemed filled with the same idea—to cross the bridge as soon as possible.

Perhaps the desire was intensified by the fact that, unlike most official openings which take place weeks or even months after the actual start of traffic over these bridges, yesterday's celebration actually marked the commencement of public vehicular traffic over the thoroughfare.

For over an hour after the official party had started over the bridge, the municipal police were compelled to restrict the movement of cars from the North to the South sides of the river in order to prevent hopeless traffic jams at the King Street approaches.

Shortly after four o'clock, the north-end rush had eased enough to permit two-way traffic and the much smaller collection of cars at the southern approach was permitted to get under way. But the desire to travel the bridge still dominated many local motorists and long after nightfall, there was a steady stream of vehicles, only a few feet apart, going in both directions.

Figures released this morning by City Treasurer Pierre Bachand, C.A., show that the final cost will be within the by-law authorizations. The actual construction expenditures are placed at $1,230,327.66 as compared with $1,250,000 voted in the two loan by-laws, leaving $19,672.34 to cover the cost of issuing the remaining $300,000 authorized bond issue and absorbing any discount on these bonds. The discount on the $950,000 bond issues already sold and the issuing charges totalling $54,183.50 were absorbed by By-law No. 807 which consolidated the discount charges on several issues.

The steel superstructure cost $627,470 as compared with $626,940 provided in the by-laws; the final figure for the substructure was $513,419.05 as compared with an estimate of $495,523. Engineers fees were $57,044.45 against a provision of $56,123 but the cost of land expropriations amounted to only $18,988.16, sharply below the $60,000 appropriated for this purpose. Soundings of the river bed, for which no provision had been made, cost $1,892. Although the electrical installation is not entirely complete, it is expected they will come within the estimate of $11,414.

Funeral services will be held on Thursday, July 29, at 9 a.m. in Immaculate Conception Church for Mrs. John Flynn, of 405 Galt Street, Sherbrooke. Born Mina Pariseau, her death took place in the Hotel Dieu early this morning, after a short illness. The deceased was 72 years of age.

Remains are resting at Hamel and Frere Funeral Home, 505 Short Street. The interment will be in St. Michael's Cemetery.

Besides her husband, John Flynn, she is survived by four daughters, Mrs. Gerard Gendron (Lillian), Mrs. Amie Bergeron (Mabel), Mrs. Flavien Desmarais (Bella), and Mrs. Philip Martineau (Theresa); one son, John R. Flynn, all of Sherbrooke; thirteen grandchildren, Mrs. Clement Fournier (Jacqueline), of Three Rivers; Andre Gendron, Henriette, Lise, Dianne and Jean Bergeron, Louise, Suzanne and Jacques Flynn, Clair Desmarais, Raymonde, Pierette and Denise Martineau; two great-grandchildren, Ivan and Jacques Fournier, of Three Rivers; one sister, Mrs. Damase Garon, of Rock Forest, along with one daughter-in-law, two brothers-in-law, three sisters-in-law and several nieces and nephews.

Upon arriving at the tank, the parade was commanded to halt, then ordered to "left turn." Mayor Emile Levesque, who held the rank of lieutenant-colonel and commanding officer of the Les Fusiliers de Sherbrooke when the overseas unit was organized, welcomed the members to Sherbrooke.

"As mayor it always gives me pleasure to welcome groups of visitors and to extend to them our hospitality, but on this occasion, there is much personal pleasure because it means that I will have the opportunity of renewing many friendships I established during the war years."

Standing at "ease" the members heard the mayor say "Thus it was with a deep personal feeling that I followed the story of your exploits in Europe, from the day of the invasion on the Normandy beaches, through the battles of Caen and the Falaise Gap to Holland and ultimately Germany."

Utmost silence prevailed as the trumpet sounded the "Last Post" in memory of their fellow "buddies" who were killed in action, and whose names are inscribed on a tablet beneath the elevated "bomb." Brig. Robert E. Wyman, C.B.E., D.S.O., who led the 2nd Armoured Canadian Forces into Normandy on "D" Day, marched forward and placed a wreath beneath the monument. Later he told them, that "A" squadron of the Sherbrooke Fusiliers Regiment advanced further on that day than any other force in the Allied armies. Field Marshal Montgomery, so stated in his memoirs.

Prior to the parade the members held a meeting at which Major Gerry Barlow, C.D., was named president of the Sherbrooke Fusiliers Regiment for the coming year. The day-long re-union was brought to a close with a mixed party with buffet supper followed by dancing to the Sherbrooke Regiment Band.

One man appeared before Judge Richard Crepeau in Municipal Court this morning and received a suspended sentence on a charge of drunkenness.

A total of $32 in bail money was forfeited as two men failed to show up to answer charges of speeding and drunkenness. A man picked up for speeding on July 24 forfeited $25 in bail, while another charged over the week-end forfeited $7.

Victoria Street Woman Is First Lucky Dollar Holder

Hooray!!!
The first "Lucky Dollar" in the Record's fabulous new "Lucky Dollar" game which started on Friday has been claimed, and the first of many ten dollar bills given out.

Our lucky winner is Mrs. E. O'Connor, 122 Victoria street in Sherbrooke. She simply brought us one of the five winning bills whose serial numbers was published Friday, and we gave her a brand new ten-spot for it.

But — with the new dollar put in circulation today, there are still five "lucky dollars" waiting to be identified and exchanged for $555555. Fifty dollars still to be won!!!

Mrs. O'Connor first started checking her serial numbers Friday when the Record came out, but didn't find this lucky bill until Saturday morning when she checked again. She is pretty sure she picked it up Friday night while shopping downtown, probably at the A & P Store, where she had a ten dollar bill changed.

Believe it or not, that particular dollar bill was put in circulation Friday afternoon at LaBaron's IGA store in North Hatley. Money certainly has a way of getting around.

And what will she do with the new windfall?
"Well" said Mrs. O'Connor, "I think I'll get myself a new summer dress to finish off the summer."

It certainly pays to have sharp eyes in this game, so start looking for those lucky serial numbers. Remember, five lucky dollars are now in circulation throughout Sherbrooke and the surrounding communities.

And incidentally perhaps we had better clarify a point. Each lucky dollar must be accompanied by the regular Record Crossword 50% correct. That's the crossword in the Crossword Puzzle Competition not the other daily one.

A New Era For France?

The raw facts of geography make it plain that the Indo-China truce is a smashing defeat for France and the free nations.

As a result of it, the Communist rebels under Ho Chi Minh will control the great northern cities of Hanoi and Haiphong, and the rich, populous Red river delta surrounding them. They also gain a small pocket of land in the neighboring state of Laos.

This land the Reds did not have when the war began in December, 1946. It was gained by force and the threat of force. Few military men doubt that the key portions of the delta yielded in this truce would have fallen to the Communists soon if the war had continued. France's military position there had deteriorated seriously.

In other words, the French were not able to obtain a truce which was not a defeat. They were lucky the Communists willingly proposed terms they could accept with any grace at all.

Under the agreement, the principal Indo-Chinese state, Viet Nam, is partitioned near the 17th parallel, at a point where it is quite narrow. Laos and Cambodia are to be neutralized, which means the French, no less than the Communists, will be barred from maintaining armed forces there.

Elections will be held in all three states later on to determine their political future. Here France won some advantage, since the voting will take place later than the Reds wanted. The latter obviously believe that elections held now would go strongly in their favor.

Tribute To The Living

Very few men in public life ever live to know in what esteem they are held by the people of their country. Usually the accolades are not piled on until they are six feet under.

Former United States President, Harry S. Truman is now one of the lucky few. Because he fell seriously ill after an operation some time back, he was given the golden opportunity to see how the American citizenry gauged his worth.

During his unexpectedly long tenure in a Kansas City Hospital, the former president has received more than 100,000 telegrams

A Safety Precaution

According to news reports, a Toronto brain specialist has endorsed the use of seat belts for private automobiles, to help reduce the number of fatalities caused when passengers are thrown against the windshield, or the seat ahead in collisions. Both front seats are particularly dangerous.

Safety belts have been used in aviation for many, many years, and have given good service. Safety experts have advocated reverse seats for planes, so that passengers

This belief emphasizes the weakness of the French in Indo-China in this war. The great upsurge of native nationalism there lay at the root of this conflict, yet the French largely ignored it until it was too late. Thus they never won more than half-hearted support even from the Indo-Chinese who wished to resist communism.

Whether in the interval between the cease fire and the Indo-China elections the French can convince the natives that their destiny still lies with the free West is a grave question. Most hard-headed observers today are expressing doubt.

For two reasons, the truce is cheering news. First, the world must always find some satisfaction in an ending of bloodshed. The guns have stopped in one more small hot war.

Second, however grim the truce terms, the mere fact of the truce is a political victory for French Premier Mendes-France and must accordingly be hailed. He promised agreement by July 20 and said he would quit if he failed. He missed his deadline by just two hours.

Free nations cannot help but be heartened when a French statesman today succeeds in doing what he said he would. It is the first show of real leadership in France in many a year, and we must pray it is the beginning of a new era of more positive French action on the world scene.

From the ashes of the Indo-China defeat, France may start the long, hard climb upward to a new position of strength and honor.

and letters from all corners of the United States.

The messages come from all kinds of people, but there was an unusual number of greetings from servicemen. Many came from either Republicans or Democrats who said they had never even voted for Mr. Truman. Indeed, some newspapers which were among his bitterest political opponents wished him well in this trial.

Such expressions of friendliness and warmth must gratify Mr. Truman deeply. And they are a welcome sign of America's fundamental humanity.

That safety promotion plan has more or less died out now as passengers are taught how to cushion their heads in their arms during a forced descent.

Car passengers caught in a crash seldom have time to think of such precautions. It is better if passengers in the front seat ride belted in.

TO GROW OLD AND LIKE IT

Ottawa Journal
In London there is being held a congress of the International Association of Gerontology which, being interpreted, means a study of old age, its cause and cure — why people grow old, whether life can be prolonged, and that sort of thing.

With all the advances made by medical knowledge and skill, the centenarian continues to be a rare bird. Russia claims to have 320 of them in Southern Siberia alone, but Russia is not to be taken too seriously in its claims of superiority. A Turk is said to have been 157 when he died a few years ago, and Britain's oldest in decades was a citizen who died at 114. But in a general way the saving of human life has been at the beginning of it and not at the end. Fewer infants died, and so the expectation of life has been raised sharply in recent years, but still it is true that coming up towards reaching distance of the century mark a wise selection of ancestors (and bit of luck) perhaps has as much to do with survival as the whole battery of medical marvels.

There may be something to the theory of a Hungarian scientist who told the congress that the solution of a happy longevity was hard work and a lot of it. But it goes counter to the whole trend of modern thought, which is that leisure is the great thing and the natural goal of mankind, that less work for more money is our legitimate goal, that the world owes us security and a pension.

We suspect the scientist is in the position of a man who might anchor his small boat in the middle of a swift river and command the stream to reverse. The lad just off the roll of the family allowance who surveys the long bleak years stretching ahead to the old age pension and wonders if he can last the course may not be greatly impressed by the assurance of an Austrian scientist that he would do well to return to the simple philosophy of his grandfathers.

APPLIED SLAPOLOGY MAY PRODUCE RESULTS

Quebec Chronicle-Telegraph
There may be times when it is justified to act first, and ask questions afterward. From England comes the report that teenage girls are carving initials of their boy friends' on their arms, back or legs, and sometimes rubbing charred wood into the cuts to make the scars more easily read. The craze began near a U.S. Air Force base at Swindon. Now it has spread as far north as Nottingham.

No one seems to know how or where the craze started. Social workers and psychologists began theorizing. Perhaps, said some, they were seeking to show the intensity of their feelings for their boy friends. Or, said others, it may be related in some way to a strange feminine desire to be hurt and dominated by men.

While the psychologists theorized, we are told, the parents of the young lassies took a look at the brands, and used a bit of applied slapology where it was likely to do the most good. We have a strong suspicion that this should ultimately prove the theory that there are times when it is better to act first, and then ask questions.

THAT'S A LONG TIME

The terms "attorney" and "counsel" often used interchangeably with "lawyer" suggest some of the functions of the legal profession and one of the premises of its ethics. Attorneys are in the business of representing people who call upon them and of selling advice when asked. It is to be expected, therefore, that such men may at different times be found on different sides of somewhat the same conflicts of interest. It is up to the good sense of the clients and to the legal profession's pretty well established code of ethics to keep this relationship within bounds.

Government, however, has become such a vast operation, its laws and regulations so complex, that he who knows his way around the inner labyrinths can often sell his guidance to the profit of some clients and to the disadvantage of the government — which means all the citizens, too.

For this reason the endeavor represented by one of the Brownell bills to broaden the prohibitions of the "conflict of interest" laws so that fewer federal officials can make use of inside knowledge

Fresh Imp

By NORMAN DISHER

McClure Syndicate — WNU Features

Taffy and I had met at the Lodge on Pinecrest. I'd been down swimming at the Lake and I'd just walked up to the lodge for a cool drink.

"Hi!" was her pert greeting to me.

"Why—hello!" I exclaimed wondering who this pretty little stranger was that was talking to me.

"Good swim?" she asked looking at my suit.

"Water's great—I'm going back in a minute; care to join me?" I boldly asked thinking this would frighten off this fresh imp.

"Sure," was her instant reply.

I was the one who was surprised but off we went down the path to the lake. We swam the rest of the afternoon then sat on the beach and talked. Taffy was an easy girl to get acquainted with and soon we were talking each other all sorts of intimate things. After a week of swimming and horseback riding, a week of sheer pleasure, we became inseparable. By the middle of the summer we knew we were desperately in love.

"I'm a little frightened, Mike," she told me one evening when we were down by the lake.

"Why?" I asked.
"Well, because I've never really been in love before. You see there's a boy named Roger at home that I've gone with three years and we were never serious but just more or less of a habit with each other. My feelings for him are just—well, like you would feel toward a brother, but I think he takes our relationship a bit more seriously now. You see, Mike, since I've met you I know what love really is. It just scares me that something might happen to us!"

"You're being silly, Taffy, there's nothing to worry about," I told her. "I know, Mike," Taffy interrupted, "but I have to go home next week and make sure Roger understands about us. I can't tell you everything but it's just something that has to be done. I didn't want to tell you but I feel I know you well enough now that I can ask you to have faith in me. I'll be back by the end of the week or else I'll write if anything should happen."

I received the news with a sinking, scared feeling inside of me. That I might lose her had never occurred to me and now that such a possibility could happen, could disrupt our love, well, it just frightened me.

We swam the rest of the afternoon, then sat on the beach and talked.

Taffy left the following week. Part of me left with her and I had a funny feeling that I might not see her again. She didn't return at the end of the week. I got a letter from her soon after saying that things hadn't worked out the way she'd expected and that she would need a little more time and not to worry. "Don't worry!" I mused to myself. "Don't worry!" For the first time in my life I had something worth hanging on to, something in my love that would carry us through anything but now that that love was being held in doubt I began to wonder if I had the courage to carry myself through our first trial. "Don't worry," I repeated to myself. It was like telling a man who was drowning not to worry about it and that everything would be all right.

That letter was the last word I had from her during the remainder of the summer. One hope saved me from condemning her in my mind and that was the fact that I knew she was honest and sincere, that our love was not the result of one more summer romance. I believed with all my heart that whatever she did, whatever had happened, she had a very good reason for doing it.

I returned to school in the fall determined to forget Taffy and to keep her memory from becoming bitter inside me. By the time the following summer appeared on the calendar I had almost forgotten her.

Now I was walking up the same path to the same lodge and as I turned the corner I was startled by a figure sitting in the sun in front of the lodge. A freckled-faced kid in blue shorts, a fresh looking imp.

"Hi!" was her pert greeting to me.

IT'S YOUR DEAL...

CANASTA SCORING IS EASY

By OSWALD JACOBY and ALFRED SHENWOLD

"Please settle a problem for us," asks a Trenton correspondent. "Both sides have melded. An opponent melds out at a time when we have all four red threes on the table, melds of 100 points, and cards in our hands that come to 215 points.

"Our melds fail to offset our cards by 115 points. We claim a score of 685 points, which is the 800 points for the four red threes less 115 points. Our opponents say that we must break up our four red threes to offset the 115 points and that we are therefore entitled to only 285 points.

"On another occasion, the opponents went out at a time when we had 50 points in cards. Our only meld was a canasta of four kings and three deuces. The opponents said we had to break up the canasta to offset the 50 points, and we thus lost the 300-point bonus for the canasta.

"What is the official rule on this sort of scoring problem?"

You never have to lose a bonus even if you cannot offset the cards that remain in your hand when the opponents meld out. You are entitled to the 800 points for all four red threes in the first problem, and to 300 points for the canasta in the second problem. Your net score is 685 points in the first case, and 350 points in the second case.

The correct method of scoring easily settles all such difficulties. Always write your score down in three steps: First, the bonuses for both sides; second, the card score (plus or minus) for both sides, and third, the net score—reached

His own sense of what was beautiful and good apparently was the only measuring stick. We suspect that such a man would have loved his paintings just as well if not one of them ever had been called great. That strikes us as genuine appreciation.

CORRECT DEFENSE IS OBVIOUS TO EXPERT

South's jump to four spades in today's hand was an attempt to shut the opponents out. North had already passed, and South had very little defense against the opponents. (As it happened, North had two aces, and East-West could not have made a game.)

South should have been defeated, but he actually succeeded in making four spades when East went off in the wrong direction. West opened the queen of hearts, and dummy won with the ace. Declarer returned a diamond from the dummy, and East wisely hopped up at once with the ace.

At this point the correct line of defense should have been very clear. South probably intended to ruff diamonds in the dummy, and it would be to East's advantage to get rid of dummy's trumps by leading the ace of spades and next a low spade. South would then succeed in making five trump tricks, two aces, and two diamond tricks at most.

For some obscure reason, East thought the best defense consisted in leading hearts persistently to put West in an overruffing position. The trouble with this idea was that West had no high trump with which to overruff, and this fact should have been clear from the bidding.

When East took the ace of diamonds, he promptly led the king of hearts. South ruffed, cashed the king of diamonds, and ruffed a small diamond in the dummy. There was now no way to defeat the contract. Even if East overruffed and returned a low trump, declarer could draw the trumps and give up a diamond, losing only two diamond tricks and one overruff.

Actually, East overruffed with the ace of spades and led another heart. South ruffed, ruffed another diamond in dummy, and succeeded in making his contract with an overtrick instead of being set one trick.

The moral is quite clear. It usually pays to remove dummy's trumps when it seems likely that declarer plans to ruff losing cards with dummy's worthless trumps. If you decide against this obvious defense you must be very sure that your own plan will work better.

Deny France In Secret Peace Deal

By John M. Hightower
Washington (AP) — U.S. officials apparently are convinced that French Premier Mendes-France did not buy peace in Indo-China through secret deals with the Communists to kill off the European Defense Community or to recognize Red China.

U.S. State Secretary Dulles is reported to be hopeful that the French premier will bring the controversial EDC project—providing for German rearmament—up for an assembly vote in three or four weeks. Dulles also is said to believe Mendes-France will make a determined effort to get it through in some workable form.

As for Red China, French officials have told American leaders that Mendes-France did not make any recognition commitments. They say the subject did not even arise in his conversation in Geneva with Chinese Foreign Minister Chou En-lai. The French attitude on recognition was authoritatively described as being one of waiting to see how the Red Chinese carry out the Indo-China armistice.

It seems clear that France probably will recognize Red China eventually if the Chinese live up to their commitments.

Russians Manoeuvring

Russia struck what the Kremlin probably considers to be a death blow at EDC Saturday in a follow-up to the Geneva conference. It was in part an attempt to trade on any goodwill won by the Indo-China peace agreement in order to advance Red objectives in Europe.

Soviet Foreign Minister Molotov handed notes to British, American and French diplomats in Moscow proposing an international conference to create a European security system. The conference should be held in the next few months, the note said, with the United States participating and Red China sending observers.

At the Berlin conference last January Molotov talked about a 32-nation, all-European system embracing Communist and non-Communist countries alike. He frankly acknowledged that its purpose was to kill off EDC.

Would Join NATO!

In a subsequent exchange of notes, Russia said the United States could be a member of the proposed European system and that Russia could join the North Atlantic Treaty Organization. The U.S. Britain and France argued that it did not make much sense since NATO was set up specifically to provide Western security against Russian power.

U.S. officials made it clear from the outset that the Soviet conference proposal should be summarily dismissed, as far as the U.S. was concerned. But they promised consultation with Britain and France.

The problem is primarily what French political leaders are going to do about the proposition.

If France does not ratify EDC within a few weeks the U.S. and Britain will begin pressing other means to give West Germany full independence and get it rearmament.

Russia is trying to play on French fears of a rearmament Germany by holding out hopes of an alternative security system.

bad (and wrong) impression to the outside world that the United States does not care for a peaceful policy of live and let live. It is a pity that passive negotiation should have superseded the (Dulles) ideal of a dynamic approach.

In the last few months The Guardian, a paper which places great stress on close Anglo-American relations, has devoted many editorials to criticism of certain trends in U.S. policy, being particularly outspoken against right-wing Republicans such as Knowland and Senator Joseph McCarthy.

LIVING MODERN

RUTH MILLET

BEING ASKED TO POUR IS JOB, NOT HONOR, WRITER SAYS

Two of Washington's social arbiters are in disagreement over whether or not it is a greater honor to be asked to preside over the coffee or the teapot at a reception or afternoon tea.

One of them seriously maintains that the woman, whose husband has the higher ranking, should always be asked to serve the coffee, with the tea pouring being left to the wife of the man of lower rank.

As one who has poured both tea and coffee, though not in Washington, I would like to point out to the misinformed experts that it is NO honor to be asked to pour either.

There you sit in a straight chair ready to smile sweetly, but not too broadly, at each woman who reaches your elbow and stands waiting for her cup of tea or coffee.

You're missing the party. You feel the need of a cup of that coffee yourself, but you know you can't have any until every other guest is served.

Pouring Is No Fun

And if you pour coffee, or tea, to 200 women, 199 of them will say, "Doesn't the table look lovely?" Such a charming flower arrangement!

That's what you get for conversation, when if you hadn't been asked to pour you might be off in a corner with a good friend saying out of the corner of your mouth: "How soon do you think we can get out of here?"

When you get right down to it, there is little honor for anyone invited to a big tea.

It means you have to get dressed up; drag out your white gloves and fanciest hat, park three blocks from the tea table, stand up during the whole affair, and smile at a lot of people you never see except at teas.

All you've been asked to do is to be the "stage setting" for some guest of honor some hostess wants to impress with how many charming people she knows.

But at least if you're just a guest you can sneak out the minute you have finished your cup of tea, anemic looking little sandwich, and decorated cupcake.

But if you're asked to pour, you are stuck for the whole affair. So it's no honor, whether you pour tea or coffee.

If You Visit Chatsworth, Look Out For Bess

ENGLAND'S "LITTLE VERSAILLES," Chatsworth House, is set on 50,000 acres of park and woodland in Derbyshire. The mansion was taken over by the government in lieu of death duties.

London — Bess of Hardwick would spin in her grave if she could see the American tourists hung with cameras trooping through the satin-lined bedrooms of Chatsworth House.

For Chatsworth House, "the little Versailles of England," has been nationalized and turned into a museum.

Its owner, the 11th Duke of Devonshire, has been kicked out because he is unable to pay the 80 per cent death duty on his late father's estate, and for this he can thank British Socialists.

Crushing death duties were the instrument thought up by the Socialist of the Elizabethan variety. Bess was a gambler, a money lender, a farmer, a timber merchant — everything but a lady.

She made her pile by marrying men with strong assets and weak hearts. Each of her four husbands was richer than the last, and each died shortly after he had persuaded her to leave her all he had.

Bess, herself, died in 1608 at the ripe age of 93.

For fortune, including the original Chatsworth House, she left to her second son, who then bought the earldom of Devonshire at a basement bargain for $30,000.

Today, Chatsworth House, and

Bess of Hardwick would have had no truck with the Socialist welfare state. A two-fisted indi-

Sherbrooke Edges Drummerville In Week-End Series

Daily Double Paid $503.30 Last Night

Win Saturday Night 5-3 And Last Night 2-1; Lose Yesterday Afternoon On Ninth Inning Homer By Stuijbergen

The Sherbrooke Indians edged the Drummerville Athletics by one game in their three game series over the week-end. Despite this they lost ground in their efforts to retain last year's pennant when the Quebec Braves came up with three wins in a four game series with Theford Mines.

In last night's fixture at Drummerville, the Indians pushed across one run each in the first two innings and were never headed from then on. The Athletics scored one in the fifth but could not manage to tie the game despite the fact that they had the bases loaded in the last of the ninth inning with one man out.

Second baseman Fishback and shortstop Pedigree each hit doubles while new arrival Ron Ryba drove in the winning run. Ace righthander Gary Kolod gave up six hits while Lefebvre and Watson gave up eight between them. Lefebvre was the pitching star of the night, striking out nine in four innings and allowing only one hit.

In yesterday afternoon's game Drummerville left-fielder, Walter Stuijbergen, broke up a one-one tie with a home run in the ninth inning to give the Athletics a 2-1 victory.

Sherbrooke opened the scoring in their half of the second inning with one run on two hits. Mayhew started with a single and went to second on an error by first baseman Shea. Williams reached first on a fielder's choice but was thrown out at second on an attempted steal. However, pitcher Farrell helped his own cause when he came up with a hit, scoring Mayhew.

In the third inning the Athletics tied the game on one run for no hits. Hartman reached first on an error by Stephens and went to second on another error by third baseman Mayhew. Pitcher Steele was safe with a fielder's choice and Vane hit into a double play which scored Hartman. Centerfielder Wisneski grounded out to retire the side. Both teams then played

Perez-Shirai Draw In Buenos Aires

Buenos Aires — (P)—Ringside fans hooted and booed the decision but Argentine sports writers had nothing but praise Sunday for Saturday night's non-title fight which ended in a draw for Pascual Perez, the Argentine champ, and Yoshio Shirai, the world flyweight champion from Japan.

The sellout crowd of 27,000 that jammed Luna Park Stadium began cheering wildly when the 10-round bout ended, confident the undefeated Perez had won. But the cheers changed to boos when the referee raised the arms of both fighters to signify the draw.

The disappointment of the fans changed to suspicion when Perez and Shirai shook hands with Argentine President Juan Peron

Indian Fans Talking Pennant After Cleveland Returns Home With New Respect From Rest Of American League

The Cleveland Indians failed to sweep the Yankee series in New York but they have gained a new-found respect all over the American League.

Back home today following a successful road trip, the league-leading Indians found the home town folks talking pennant for the first time this season. Earlier the cynical Cleveland populace would greet them with something like this:

“Why get steamed up over the Indians? They never win the big ones. They'll blow it again down the stretch.”

The Indians certainly didn't look like a team that had any folding tendencies. They arrived in New York Friday a thin half-game ahead of the Yankees and left Sunday night with a game-and-a-half margin over the New Yorkers.

The Yankees nipped the Indians 4-3 in 11 innings Sunday but even that narrow loss failed to mar the Tribe's satisfaction over whipping the defending champions on Friday and Saturday.

The Indians' fine showing prompted Casey Stengel, Yankees' grizzled manager, to mutter: “This has got to go down to the last weeks. Cleveland is not going to blow up. They got too many good players for that.”

The New York Giants' National League lead was whittled down to four games as the second-place Brooklyn Dodgers defeated St. Louis 2-1 while the Milwaukee Braves were walloping Leo Durocher's men 7-5 for a sweep of the three-game series. The Dodgers met the Giants tonight at Ebbets field.

In other National League games, Chicago Cubs downed Philadelphia twice, 6-1 and 2-1. Pittsburgh and Cincinnati divided a doubleheader, the Pirates winning the opener 4-2, the Redlegs taking the nightcap 3-2.

Chicago's third-place White Sox climbed to within six games of the pace-setting Indians in the American League, sweeping a twin-bill from Boston 5-2 and 4-2. Jack Harshman, rookie Chicago left-hander, struck out 16 Red Sox batters—a short of Bob Feller's major league record—in the opener.

Spec Shea Beats Tigers
Washington protected its fourth-place hold, beating Detroit Tigers 11-3 as Frank (Spec) Shea won his first game of the season. Philadelphia Athletics buried Baltimore Orioles deeper in cellar with 9-4 and 6-4 victories.

Cleveland, trying for three straight over the Yankees, enjoyed a 3-1 lead until the seventh. Mike Garcia, seeking his 13th victory, was chased in that inning when the Yankees tied the score on pinch hitter Eddie Robinson's double with the bases loaded.

Rookies Bob Grim of New York and Ray Barleski of Cleveland battled on even terms from the eighth until the 11th when the Yankees filled the bases on walks to Mickey Mantle and Gene Woodling and an infield single by Irv Noren. Andy Carey hit through a drawn-in infield to break up the game and send 57,279 fans home happy.

Clem Labine, making his second start of the season for Brooklyn, outpitched Harvey Haddix, Cardinal ace, to give the Dodgers the rubber of the three-game set. Jim Hughes replaced Labine in the ninth with the bases loaded and there were loud, but short-lived shouts of “gongoo, tongo!” setup.

In accounts of the fight published Sunday, however, the two fighters were lauded for a thrilling fight.

Perez seemed to have the better showing in the early rounds, but after the sixth Shirai rallied

Jr. Tennis Crown To Guy Durocher

Montreal — (P)—Guy Durocher of Sherbrooke Sunday won the junior men's division of the Province of Quebec junior tennis championships by defeating Smith and Chapman of Montreal 6-3, 6-3, 6-3.

Saturday, Nicole Boutet of Quebec City was defeated 6-0, 6-1 by Eleanor Dodger of Montreal in the Junior women's championship.

Andre Toupin of Montreal won the boys' division with a 4-6, 6-2, 6-2 victory Saturday over Bryan Patterson, Montreal, while Louise John, Quebec, took the girls' section by defeating Marlene Williams of St. Eustache 6-2, 6-2.

and struck out Rip Repulski on three pitches to save his 17th game for the Dodgers. Don Hoak, with a double and two walks, scored both Brooklyn runs.

Pafko Sparks Giants
Andy Pafko drove in three runs with his 11th homer and a bases-loaded single to spark the Braves to their third straight victory over the Giants.

Ralph Kiner's 15th homer featured Chicago Cubs' first-game victory over the Phillies. The doubleheader sweep gave the Cubs their 11th victory in 15 games.

Pitcher Howie Judson won his own game with a single in the seventh to give Cincinnati a split after Frank Thomas had paced Pittsburgh to a first-game victory with a homer and three singles.

The White Sox followed up Harshman's sensational strikeout performance by defeating an old nemesis, Ellis Kinder—in the second game with a two-run seventh inning rally. Kinder had whipped the White Sox in 20 out of 26 decisions.

A seven-run eighth inning in the first game and a four-run seventh in the second enabled the Athletics to come from behind twice against the Orioles. Don Larsen, Baltimore right-hander, retired the first 17 batters in a row in the nightcap and went down to his 13th defeat against two victories. Sonny Dixon and Al Sima, a pair of mid-season acquisitions, were the winning pitchers.

Sweden Takes Cup Finals Over France
Paris — (P)—Sweden won the European zone Davis Cup tennis finals Sunday, defeating France in the doubles, 6-3, 6-4, 3-6, 9-7.

The victory, combined with a sweep of Saturday's opening singles, gave Sweden a winning 3-0 lead in the five-match series. The Swedes, upset finalists in the European playoffs, now meet the winner of the American zone finals.

Sweden's top player, Sven Davidson, teamed with Thorsten Jonhansson to defeat France's Paul Remy and Jean Ducos de la Halle in the deciding doubles match.

Yesterday's International Golf Play Won By Americans

Americans Win 13-11 Over E. T. Golf Team Yesterday But Match Ends In Draw As Teams Will Share C.J.-M. Trophy

The American team eked out a 13-11 win over the Eastern Townships Golf team in the last half of the International match played at the Sherbrooke Country Club yesterday.

By virtue of the victory, the Americans deadlocked the home and away series for the Canadian-Johns-Manville Trophy at 24 points each since the Canadian team won 13-11 at Burlington, Vt., a few weeks ago. The Americans will retain possession of the trophy for six months and the Canadians for six months.

Kiki Price and Bill Chesley playing for the Americans split the point with the E.T. No. 1 team of John Dukelow and Val Laurie. Each team got 1½ points.

Les Mercer and Mike Zitter halved the points with the local team also as Connie Dion and Marcel Fortier got 1½ and Mercer and Zitter also had 1½.

Gus Brault and Graham Sharman picked up two points for the E.T. squad with a win over Art Bellmore and Dick Mulvey who got 1 point.

Fred McKnight and Kermit Grant got three points and gave Dusty Miller and Marcel St. Pierre quite a trouncing as the local team failed to pick up a point.

John Lindell and Boisy Macdonald got 2½ points for the E.T. squad while Bob Sassone and Norm Lillie salvaged a ½ point for the Americans.

Bob Stewart and Flat Wright got 3 points over Ray Setlakwe and Armand Dussault who didn't pick up a point for the E.E. squad.

Landy And Bannister Finally Meet Over Steak In Vancouver; Both In Training For Event In Two Weeks

Vancouver—(P)—It was "Hello John" and "Hello Roger" when the world's two fastest milers met in Empire Village Sunday.

Roger Bannister strolled to the athletes' dining room a couple of hours after he and his track and field mates from England had arrived for the British Empire Games. Eating steak was John Landy of Australia, whose 3:53.0 a little more than a month ago in Finland beat Bannister's 3:59.4. The two are the only humans who have beaten the four-minute mile.

They posed for photographers and then parted. Later Bannister, in a press interview, said he thought the record will be cut "by smaller and smaller fractions."

"If one man can do a certain time, some other man can better it, perhaps by the most rigid training. But I think we are approaching the physiological limit now."

Bannister said there are 12 men in Britain who have been under 4:10.0 this year, whereas he considered Wes Santee the only outstanding miler in the United States, where the world's great sprinters predominate.

Of the coming Games mile—with heats set for Aug. 5 and the final Aug. 7—Bannister said this race "is not necessarily connected with fast time; we have to assess each race differently."

His opinion was in line with that of Jim Eve, general manager of the Australian team. Earlier Eve said he thought "factors will play a big part in this mile."

Asked if he felt sure of winning, Bannister replied: "I think anyone would be foolish to be supremely confident."

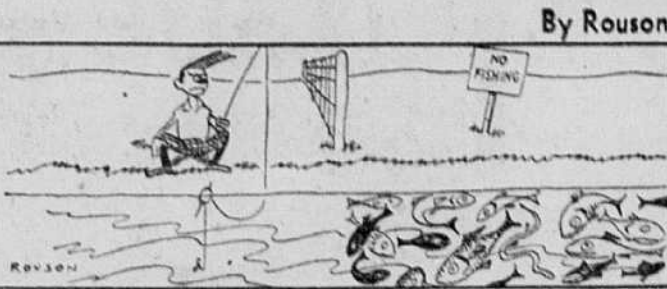

Bannister said he will not train over the full mile distance between now and the race. He plans to work out today. In the heats "I will go just fast enough to qualify."

In training for a race he doesn't eat any differently than he normally does. He likes to have a meal about four hours before the race. He considers ideal conditions are the absence of strong winds and a track that is springy, "not too hard and not too soft."

Since he has become a doctor he finds he hasn't as much time now or running as when he was a student.

Interdenominational Daily Vacation Bible School Conducted At Fitch Bay

Fitch Bay, July 26 — A successful interdenominational daily vacation Bible school came to a close on Friday afternoon, July 16, at the Fitch Bay Intermediate School, having continued in session daily from 9 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. from July 5-9 and July 12-16, inclusive. In all, 57 children attended, the total average for the ten days being 70 per cent. This shows that the interest and goodwill of the children was maintained throughout. A total of 16 children had perfect attendance, eight of them being in the preschool and primary group and eight of them being in the junior and intermediate group.

Rev. R. A. Carson, M.A., incumbent of the Anglican Mission of Fitch Bay-Georgeville, served as superintendent of the school, being assisted by six ladies, members of the U.C. Ladies' Aid of Fitch Bay and five ladies, members of St. Matthias' Anglican Guild and W. A. of Fitch Bay. The main Bible course taught to the junior and intermediate groups was the tabernacle course based upon the modern text written by Helen A. Maxfield. That taught to the preschool and primary group was: "First Steps with Jesus," based upon the modern Act-O-Craft text of that name. The juniors and intermediates were in charge of Mr. Carson, Mrs. W. Camber, Mrs. E. Webster and Mrs. D. A. Dolloff. The primary and preschool were under the care of Mrs. N. Corbett and Miss E. Wilson. Folk songs and hymns for primary worship were led by Mrs. H. Rollins and recreation was supervised by Mrs. R. A. Carson and Mrs. B. Crawford.

Printing work was accomplished by Miss Winnifred Shaw. Mrs. J. Kimpton taught shellcraft to the girls of the junior group, enabling them to make several useful articles for themselves.

Mrs. B. Crawford conducted a "Telezoning" course and showed the junior children modern methods of artificial respiration. Mrs. H. A. Smith had the older children doing block printing and puppet making, which proved to be very interesting.

The community is very grateful to those who gave of their time and talents to make the school so successful and the work so inspiring and instructive.

Attendance prizes were given at the closing on Friday afternoon to the following pre-school and primary children: Janet Carson, Patricia Keet, Valerie Keet, Heather Thayer, Helen White, Sandra White, Children: Sandra Dolloff, Herman Huckins, Doreen Keet, Richard Keet, Doreen Markwell, Janet Markwell, Edna Webster and Diane Woods.

Prizes for good work along with good attendance were given to: Patricia Keet, Valerie Keet, Carolyn Woods, Phyllis Dahl, and Sandra White.

The total cost of the vacation school amounted to $45.66, which was covered by the following donations: St. Matthias' Guild and W.A., $15; the United Church Ladies' Aid, $20; the town council, $5; Mr. Carson, $1.16; Miss E. Wilson, $1; Mrs. E. Webster, $1; Mrs. H. A. Smith, $1.50, and Mrs. Keet, .50. The latter amounts were given generally to balance accounts.

The occasion being appropriate, prizes were also given the following children who had been members of St. Matthias' Sunday School from September 27, 1953, to June 7, 1954: For attendance, 1, Janet Carson, 92 per cent, Sandra Dolloff, 85 per cent, Sandra White, 85 per cent, a silver pin; 2, Ashley Woods, 62 per cent, and Juanita Woods, 62 per cent, a bronze pin; 3, Brian Woods, 53 per cent; Edna Webster, 55 per cent; Jack Sheldon, 50 per cent, a celluloid pin.
