CHILSON'S PATENT
WORLD'S FAIR PRIZE MEDAL
FURNACE.

WE are happy to announce that CHILSON'S PATENT AIR WARMING AND VENTILATING FURNACE, as recently improved and patented, is declared by high and reliable authority, to be the Best Furnace in the World.
Not only is this furnace, and our system of ventilation, proved and declared to be the best mode of Warming and Ventilating DWELLINGS, CHURCHES, ACADEMIES, SCHOOL HOUSES, COURT and STATE HOUSES, HOSPITALS, STORES, &c, in nearly all the cities and towns in the United States, but is meeting with equal favor in the CANADAS, ENGLAND, RUSSIA, and other FOREIGN COUNTRIES. It has been awarded at the recent Fairs, in this Country, GOLD and SILVER MEDALS FIRST PREMIUMS, and lastly, the GREAT PRIZE MEDAL AT THE WORLDS FAIR, LONDON. It has been subjected to the most rigid investigation and severe practical tests, and unanimously declared the best. (See the printed reports of the Fairs, also city and state public committees on public buildings.) We have more than twenty-five hundred references, many of whom are professional gentlemen, whose scientific attainments in such matters are well known. To attain this desirable object, the inventor of this furnace first abandoned the manufacture of the common frail hot air furnaces seven years since, under the settled conviction, that red hot iron furnaces burn the oxygen out of the air, producing an unhealthy, scorching, disagreeable odor, unfit to be inhaled by human beings; besides the constant cracking and burning out of the pots, which permits the poisonous gases to escape and mingle with the air; and then the annoyance and expense of repairs, new pots, &c. He now has the satisfaction of knowing that his efforts to secure a healthful, economical and durable apparatus, for thoroughly warming and ventilating buildings, has been entirely successful. They posses the following advantages: purity of air, powerful heaters, economical plan for burning anthracite, bituminous coals or wood, all equally well—flues easily cleaned out—great durability of furnace, not liable to repairs for a life time; perfect safety against setting buildings on fire in which they are located; may be set in low cellars. Sizes for all classes of buildings. Also, 4 sizes of new and superior.
PORTABLE FURNACES,—Dr. Clark's improved BOSTON SCHOOL STOVE.
REGISTERS of all descriptions; HOT-AIR GRATES; ROOM VENTILATORS, &c.

CERTIFICATE.
We have had an opportunity to test the Patent Safety Lamp and Lamp Feeder of Mr. John Newell, of this city, in regard to the measure of protection which their construction affords. In the trials to which we subjected them we endeavored without effect, to produce explosions of the vapor of the fluid mixed with air, and to burst them by the pressure of the vapor alone.
The principle adopted by Mr. Newell is that of the well know Davy Lamp. He has so combined the parts that we are satisfied that all risk of explosive action is removed.

READ the following extract from the official report of Councillor J. B. BRONSDON, appointed by the Corporation of Montreal, to examine WARREN'S IMPROVED FIRE AND WATER-PROOF COMPOSITION ROOFS.
To the Mayor, Aldermen, and Citizens of the City of Montreal.
GENTLEMEN,—Visiting Buffalo, on the 23rd ult. to examine the buildings there covered with the Composition, and to judge of its efficacy to resist the action of fire, I was introduced to the Hon. G. R. Babcock, L. H. Lathrop, Esq., Ald. A McKay, C. F. Miller, Esq., W. Johnston, Esq., W. Hutchinson, Esq., Collector of Customs, and a great many more of the principal and most influential inhabitants of the city, who testified in the strongest and most favorable terms of the fire resisting qualities of the Composition, and recommended its general introduction as a safe means of covering buildings, it being both fire proof and water tight. I personally examined a great number of first class buildings in Buffalo covered with the Composition, gravelled over, and I ascertained that the best houses and stores in the city were covered with it. From all I saw and heard, I am of opinion that it is the safest and best kind of covering that could be used for buildings in Montreal. For the proper application of it the roofs should be nearly flat. This is attended with no inconvenience either in summer or winter, for the rain in the former cannot penetrate the roof, as the Composition is water proof, and in winter the snow is nearly all blow off by the wind. A great advantage of this kind of Roof is that in the event of fire by going on top of them, with the engine hose the fireman may protect all adjacent and surrounding property without the danger of falling. I observed that in Buffalo, most of these roofs were surrounded or nearly so with handsome iron railings, and provided with zinc, copper or galvanized iron spouts or cornices, which, besides being completely fire proof, gave the buildings a very pretty appearance.
The whole, nevertheless respectfully submitted
J. B. BRONSDON,
City Councillor.

PATENT PORTABLE FIRE ENGINES FOR SALE at Messrs. FROTHINGHAM & WORKMAN'S, RREWSTER & MULHOLLAND'S, and WM. & C. BREWSTER'S. The article is so portable, that two women or children can carry one to any part of the house, and could be worked by women and children, by placing the Engine in the garret of the house, and directing the stream of water to the fire, even under the roof, where it would be difficult to reach it by any other means, and thus save many houses that otherwise would be destroyed. It is of the highest importance to be able to apply water, when fire is first discovered.

Provincial Parliament.

(Reported for the Montreal Herald.)

LEGISLATIVE ASSEMBLY.

Saturday, Oct. 30.

Then the petitions were read over, one from Dunner and Burleigh was found to contain some very extraordinary modes of expression, whereupon Mr. Malloch moved that the petition be not now received.

Mr. Cameron, however, contended that the people's right of petition ought always to be respected and opposed the motion.

Sir Allan MacNab read some of the passages from the petition, such as that the petitioners knew the Queen was "game to the back bone"—that the Pakingtons had never "seen a skunk or a muskrat since they were in coat and breeches," and contended that such a petition was an insult to the House. He also remarked on the covert allusions to annexation it contained.

Mr. Brown did not wonder at this latter part of the petition, after the Government had used threats of separation from the Home Government it was not wonderful that the people should do the same. The petition was then rejected on division; only 12 persons voting for its reception.

Mr. Christie (Wentworth,) then moved the adjournment of the House for six weeks; stating as his reason the alarm felt by many persons, on account of the prevalence of disease, and the consequent departure of many members.

Mr. Hincks then rose and stated that, if business were proceeded with no faster than at present it seemed impossible to get through the session before the Christmas holidays. With this fact before the House, and the present feeling of alarm, it became a question whether an adjournment should not take place then in preference to a later period. The ministry, of course, would remain in Quebec at any rate, and it would be more convenient for them if the session continued; but they would not commit the selfishness of keeping members in town; if they desired to leave. They, therefore, left it entirely to the House, except what it was absolutely necessary to finish before the House separated, and they therefore, resist an adjournment till after some eight or ten days. A long conversation took place upon this discussion, during which,

Mr. Cameron said the number of deaths altogether, since the 28th Sept., were one hundred and twenty-eight. The last three days the average was less than for some time before. The day before yesterday there were two deaths, yesterday six, to-day one. There was nothing unusual and nothing alarming, and his return was, as thought, on the best authority, that of the health officer, and it appeared to him that the return of that day showed no deaths in the Marine Hospital, where the greatest amount of sickness had taken place.

Mr. Stuart, while prepared to vote for the resolution, did not think there was any fear for the inhabitants of the City of Quebec. Since the 28th September, he learned from the best authorities that only 120 deaths had taken place, which amounted to only four per day. Within the last few days however the small average had attached itself to this locality where we were; so that three cases had occurred out of the six the day before yesterday, from persons attached to that House; and a person in attendance on a member the previous night was now a corpse.—It therefore became a question whether an adjournment of some days should not take place in order to have the House ventilated and purified.

Mr. Christie at length said that finding the sense of the House against his motion he would withdraw it, which was objected to by Mr. Boulton, and on division, the numbers were yeas 15, nays 41.

THURSDAY MORNING, NOV. 4, 1852.

Water Supply for the City.—We lately mentioned our having received a part of Mr. T. C. Keefer's Report to the Chairman of the Water Committee of the Corporation, on a preliminary survey for the water supply of our city and, having now received the complete report, we proceed to lay a synopsis of it before our readers, as we know of no subject, connected with their municipal affairs, which so urgently demands their prompt and earnest attention and consideration.

Mr. K., after comparing the different modes of obtaining an abundant supply of water, arrives at the conclusion that the plan of going to the head of the Lachine Rapids for it is the best which, under all the circumstanees, can be adopted. For the details of Mr. K's. plan of effecting his object, we must refer our readers to the Report—the following are its general features :—

It is proposed to take water out of the River St. Lawrence at a point about one mile above the head of the Lachine Rapids. The river here flows deep and strong within a few yards of the shore, and ranges but little between its extreme high and low water marks. At the point where the Aqueduct would commence, the level of the river is thirty-seven feet above the summer level of Montreal Harbor.

The water is to be conducted in an open channel, four and three-quarter miles in length, to the Lachine Canal at Gregory's. Here the wheels and pumps would be placed—the waste water being discharged into the St. Pierre river, which has a fall of 12 feet between this point and the St. Lawrence—but being narrow and crooked, some clearing out and enlargement of its channel will be required. On account of the winter elevation of the St. Lawrence, it is proposed to keep the "tail race" from the water wheels, at least twenty feet above low water level of Montreal Harbor; this will leave a head and fall of at least sixteen feet at the pumps—about one foot of fall being assigned to create a proper current in the Aqueduct.

From the pumps at Gregory's, the water is to be forced through an iron main, 30 inches in diameter, laid under the Canal, Turnpike, Railway, and all the public streets, into a reservoir, at about the elevation of the residence of the Hon. Mr. Justice Smith, being about two hundred feet above the level of Montreal Harbor.

With regard to the quantity of the supply, Mr. K. says :—

The scale of works contemplated by this survey,—as assented to at the commencement,—was for a daily supply of 5,000,000 imperial gallons, and for a reservoir at an elevation of two hundred feet above Montreal harbour—being about 140 feet above the higher points of Notre Dame Street. Thirty gallons per head, is the usual provision, with proper allowances for the increase of population—but recent experience has shewn the average consumption in New York and Boston to have risen as high as fifty to sixty gallons per head. The above amount provides about 40 gallons per head for a population double that of the City at present, and considering the facilities for extending it under the proposed plan, is, I consider, an ample provision. The dimensions of the Aqueduct are sufficient to conduct water enough for an effective power, on breast wheels, of three hundred horses—in summer when the flow is unimpeded by ice; and as this is the season when the greatest supply is required, the erection of an additional wheel and an increase in the speed of the pumps will enable you to extend the supply as required. With you, therefore, it may prove the wiser policy to provide for that waste of water so much complained of in New York and Boston—rather than to rely upon your future ability to check or prevent it.

The estimated cost of the works—including aqueduct, wheels and pumps, rising main, reservoirs, land purchase, masonry, &c. &c.—is £150,000; and the following are Mr. K's. remarks upon the probable revenue to be derived from them when completed :—

The population of Montreal being taken at 60,000, the number of "water tenants," according to the experience of other cities, should be about 8000. The average charge per tenant in New York and Boston is about $10 per annum, and in the city of Philadelphia about $5. At the Philadelphia rate, the present population of Montreal should give a gross income for water rates of £10,000 per annum.

The actual income from the present water works of the city is as follows :—

| | £ | s. | d. |
|---|---|---|---|
| 1065 annual tenants............... | £5345 | 3 | 10 |
| Sale at water taps (2d per puncheon) | 1090 | 12 | 3 |
| Special tenants.................. | 47 | 10 | 0 |
| | £6483 | 8 | 1 |

The foregoing is the revenue only. The amount paid for water by the city is much larger. In addition to the £1090—paid the city for some 130,000 puncheons at the water taps—the consumers pay for cartage of the same (7d per puncheon) the sum of £3,700. What amount of water is carted from the river is not known—but here we have £10,270 paid for water supplied by the present water works. It is probable that the amount paid for cartage of water from the river during the winter, would increase the gross annual payment for water by the city, exclusive of wells, &c., to some £11,000 or £12,000.

The inefficiency of the present supply needs no demonstration. The capacity of both engines, working constantly, is reported at 1,000,000 gallons in 24 hours, or about 16 gals per head of the population; what quantity is furnished, on the average throughout the year, cannot be ascertained—probably not 10 gallons a head per diem. This inferior supply costs the water works department about £2500 per annum. Assuming that one million of gallons were raised daily, this would be the extravagant price of £7 per million gallons—and it most probably is £10 per million gallons. The cost of raising one million gallons, at the Fairmount works, Philadelphia, in 1850, was 8s. 0½d., only!

If the new works were constructed, five times the quantity of water at present supplied would be furnished to eight times as many tenants, at a cost to each of about one-third the present charge. The present population of the city, at the Philadelphia water rates (the lowest in America) should pay an annual revenue of £10,000—a sum nearly sufficient to cover the interest of the new outlay and the annual charges of management, &c., giving the city water for fires, street watering, and fountains, free—and, as the population increases, the rates may be reduced, or a sinking fund be formed of the surplus, for extension of the works, or extinction of the debt.

These favorable prospects are due to the cheapness at which an abundant supply can be obtained at Montreal, as compared with some other cities. The Croton works cost the citizens of New York about £10 per head—the Boston works cost that city about £8 per head. Equally efficient works here can be had for £2 10s. per head, exclusive of the cost of distribution

Nor should the other advantages of a full supply and the new plan be overlooked.

The extension of manufactories, particularly those requiring a supply of pure water, would not only enrich the city, but enlarge the water rates. The Fairmount works number in their water tenants no less than 138 steam engines, and several hundred manufactories of every description; some of these engines pay £50 per annum for water, and one sugar refiner pays $750 annual water rate.

The diminution of the annual cost of supply on the new plan, is forcibly shown by the following comparative statement of the cost of water power and of steam power, in the city of Philadelphia.

The total expense of running the eight wheels and pumps at Fairmount, in 1850, was as follows :

"For wages of workmen, tallow, oil, packing yarn, and fuel for heating the mill house, $2594,91 per annum, or $7,10,8,10 per diem.

"For repairs to wheels and pumps, during the year, 216,27 — 59-2.10

$2811,18 per an., $7,70 per diem,
£ 702 15 11 do £1 18 6 do

"For which sum an average of 4,785,338 ale gallons per day were pumped by the eight wheels and pumps, equal to a cost of about $1,61 per million gallons raised per day.

"The cost of pumping by steam power at the Spring Garden and Northern Liberties works in 1850 was as follows :—

"For coal, wages of workmen, tallow, oil, yarn, &c, $16,644 per an=$45,60 per diem.
"Repairs to engine & pumps during the year, 5,127,46 do 15,06 do

$21,771,46 — $60,66
£ 5442 17 3½ do £15 3 3½ do

"For this sum an average of 3,231,254 gallons per day were pumped by three engines and pumps,—about $18,77 per million gallons per day."

Thus the cost per million gallons by steam was............ $18,77
Do do do water, was 1,61

or, in other words, 4¾ millions of gallons were supplied at a daily cost of 38s by water power, while 3¼ millions pumped by steam cost 303s daily: and the Fairmount works, at a cost of £702 per annum, furnished one-third more water than the steam works, at a cost of £5442 per annum.

Mr. K. concludes his report with the following observations :—

I am informed by the manager of one of the principal insurance offices in this city, that, previous to the great fire, the average amount of premiums paid at all the offices on property insured within the city might be estimated at about £25,000: and that since the fire the rates have been increased upwards of fifty per cent;—so that the premiums on the same amount of risks would now amount to about £40,000 per annum. The same gentleman is of opinion that an efficient supply of water would have reduced the old rates twenty per cent, or that—instead of £25,000 the amount of the preminms before the fire would have been reduced to £20,000. From this it may be inferred that the city is now paying a penalty of £20,000 per annum in extra insurance, for the want of proper means for extinguishing fires. No doubt part of the present increased rates of insurance are levied to make up losses—and some part of it may have reference to the fire department, but it does not appear unreasonable to assume that at least £10,000 per annum would be saved in this single item of insurance, if the city were in possession of an ample supply of water. This sum would pay the interest on the cost of the works, and is therefore all that need be claimed under this head: but, the actual money value of the additional security obtained through an abundant supply of water would be far higher, because it will embrace the reduced risk upon all the property in the city, whether insured by the companies or by the owners.

But arguments are unnecessary to prove the great economy of a water supply on an efficient scale. With the experience of the past year no rates would appear safe for insurance companies—and with the recurrence of such calamities insurance must become impracticable or unnecessary. It is argument enough for the expenditure of £150,000 for preservation from fire alone (setting aside the other advantages of abundance of water) that we have seen property to five times that amount utterly annihilated in a few hours, and that a repetition of such a catastrophe is by no means impossible.

Agriculture.—It will be seen by the following report of the proceedings of the Agricultural Society of the County of St. Hyacinthe, that its intelligent and enterprising members have come forward liberally in support of their President, Mr. Leclere's, mission to Odessa, thereby showing an excellent example to their Sister Societies throughout this section of the Province. The merits of the Black-Sea wheat, in our soil and climate, have been, we understand, fully and satisfactorily tested; and, consequently, the importation of fresh and well-selected seed of that species of wheat, cannot fail to be of great practical benefit to our farmers. We trust, therefore, that Mr. Leclere—who departs on his long journey in the course of a few days—will not be permitted to leave without receiving many such commissions as that given by his friends in the County of St. Hyacinthe :—

Agricultural Society of the County of Saint Hyacinthe.

A Ploughing Match took place at St. Hyacinthe, on the land of Mr. André Gauthier, Tuesday, 26th October, when the following prizes were adjudged :—

By the English papers, we perceive that Lieut. General Clitheroe, who, as Deputy Governor, prorogued the Canadian Parliament, on the death of Lord Sydenham, is dead. By the death of this gallant officer the colonelcy of the 67th Regiment has become vacant.

Health of the City.—It is gratifying to learn that, notwithstanding the filthy and utterly disgraceful state of our streets and thoroughfares for a fortnight past, the health of the city has not yet been affected by it, and that there is very much less of sickness than is usual at this season of the year within our borders. We say, not yet!

Quebec Correspondence of the Montreal Herald.

Quebec, November 2.

Nothing has taken place here of any consequence since Saturday, when the House, after rejecting the petition from Dunner and Burleigh, of which I sent you a copy, also agreed to reject the motion for a three weeks' adjournment. The melancholy death of Col. Antrobus renewed the alarm which had already been created, and with this alarm was mingled a very large share of sympathy for the widow and thirteen children, who have been left destitute by this event. It appears, however, that there has been no just cause for increased apprehension. On the contrary, as you will have learned by telegraph before this reaches you, the malady has ceased its ravages, at least for a few hours, and this may probably be looked on as the period of its duration this season. I know not if anything will be done in the House, about adjournment, before the telegraphic despatch leaves to-night. In case it should not, it may be well here to mention that there is a general impression an adjournment will be carried from Tuesday or Wednesday next week till some day in January or February.—There have been, I believe, some additional explanations about the "flag of truce" before the doors were opened to-night; but I do not learn anything of the particulars.

The doors have been opened since I wrote just now, and it is now said that Mr. McKenzie took an opportunity to confirm the assertion imputed to Mr. Louut, as to Dr. Rolph's conduct when he carried the flag of truce to the parties who had risen, and who were marching upon Toronto.

The entrée of Louis Napoleon into Paris, on the 16th, was celebrated with the greatest eclat. His entrance into Paris was a day of pomp and excitement, in which the Parisians took special delight. There were any number of triumphal arches erected, all of which were surmounted by the imperial emblems, except one on the Boulevard Beaumarchais. Over the shops, however, in the neighborhood, such emblems and mottoes were abundant. As Louis Napoleon entered the grand entrance of the Garden of Tuilleries, the bouquets and garlands strewn upon his path were so abundant as to incommode the horses of the escort. It is calculated that 350,000 strangers arrived to see the spectacle.

If, after the deliberation of the Senate, the forms of government shall be changed, the result will be submitted to the people, and the Legislative body will be appointed to ascertain the regularity of the vote, and to declare the results.

CAPE OF GOOD HOPE.

Despatches from the Cape give a more favorable account of the progress of the Kaffir war. Gen. Cathcart's plan of operations appears to have been carried out without any serious casualities.

INDIA AND CHINA.

The details by the overland mail add little to the brief summary already published. No advance had been made in the Burmese war. The English flotilla at Prom still commanded the river.

The advices from Hong Kong are to August 24. All was quiet at Canton and the north.—

The intelligence from the disturbed districts at the west was favorable to the imperial troops; the insurgents had been defeated, and their chief, Fienteb, was reported to have been taken and beheaded.

THE VERY LATEST.

London, Wednesday morning.—The Morning Post says—The reason of the late change in the Turkish Ministry is now apparent in the positive refusal of the Sultan to ratify the Turkish loan. Russian influence is said to be at the bottom of this most important step. The Times says the new Turkish Cabinet is entirely Russian and Austrian in its character, and that strong influences have unquestionably been used to throw difficulties in the way of the ratification of the loan. It is reported that the French minister has taken the matter up with great energy, and that this interference is likely to be followed by an immediate and satisfactory adjustment of the whole affair.

LOWER CANADA.

Death of Colonel Antrobus.—Since we beheld Lieutenant Colonel Edmund William Romer Antrobus, literally full of life and intelligence, how short a time it is! Yet that comely form, that laughing eye, that kindly heart is to be seen no more. Only since our last issue, smitten with a fell disease, between then and now, Colonel Antrobus has suffered, died, and been buried. And what a world of sorrow this simple announcement conveys. It tells of a wife and 12 children without a protector, and without a morsel of bread, for the deceased was alas! of too generous a disposition to be provident of the future. But let us speak more particularly. Colonel Antrobus, son of the late John Antrobus, Esq., Grand Voyer of Three Rivers, was born in Quebec, about the year 1795, and was a student of law for a short time previous to the war of 1812, with the present Chief Justice, then acting Attorney General, Bowen. On the breaking out of the war he entered the Canadian Fencibles, commanded by his uncle, Col. Robinson, as a cadet, in which corps he soon afterwards obtained a commission, having distinguished himself at some of the engagements in Upper Canada, for which he was entitled to a medal. From the Fencibles he was transferred to one of the regiments of the line, continuing to serve in it until the close of the Peninsular war, when he returned to this country, and, upon the death of his father, obtained the appointment of Grand Voyer of the district of Three Rivers, and while holding that office was named, by Lord Dalhousie, an Extra-Provincial Aid-de-Camp, without pay. In this office he remained until 1825 or '26 when, a vacancy occurring in the office of Grand Voyer for the district of Quebec, he was transferred from Three Rivers to Quebec, where he continued to fill the office of Grand Voyer until it was abolished in 1841. The emoluments of this office were considerable—between £1200 and £1400 a year; and he had now, in addition, £200 per annum as Provincial Aid-de-Camp. Lately his income was inadequate to his station and to the maintenance of his large family. He had only his pay as Aid-de-Camp, and an inconsiderable pension by way of compensation for the loss of the Voyership.

For the suavity of his manners, the correctness of his general conduct, and his peculiar frank[...] Colonel Antrobus was universally esteemed; indeed, when in 1837 the onerous duties of Deputy Adjutant General of Militia were forced upon him, under most trying circumstances he gave great satisfaction. He was shrewdly intimate with Canadian society, impartial and conscientious, and was, indeed, eminently fitted for the office he held.

The government, we most sincerely trust, will deal honorably and kindly towards his family.

The remains of Colonel Antrobus, were buried yesterday in Mount Hermon Cemetery, being followed to the grave by His Excellency's carriage in which were Colonel Bruce, and the other members of His Excellency's staff, nearly all the officers of the different regiments and departments in garrison, the Executive Councillors, and the leading merchants of the city, the funeral service being performed by the Reverend official Mackie, D. D.—Quebec Chronicle.

It is needless longer to conceal that cholera has been prevalent in this city for some time past, now that it has carried off persons of note; but we may add the disease does not prevail to an alarming extent, and a healthy change of weather may shortly be expected. There was only one case on Saturday and one on Sunday; and we are not aware of there having been any fatal case yesterday.—Ib.

UPPER CANADA.

We learned by telegraph last evening, that the Champion ran ashore in a fog at Salmond Point, about 60 miles above Kingston on Thursday evening. Preparations were making to get her off.—Hamilton Spectator.

Another Fatal Accident at Burlington Heights.—An inquest was held yesterday, by Dr. Craigie, on view of the body of a laborer on the Great Western Railroad, named William Keefe, who accidently lost his life while descending from a large block of concrete or cemented gravel, which rolled down upon him, crushing him to death almost instantly. A verdict of accidental death was returned. The deceased was a widower, and has left two children to deplore his loss.—Ib.

Drowned.—On Monday morning, an elderly man named George Grant, was unfortunately drowned while attending to his duties as keeper of Lock No. 11. He had gone out at midnight to commence the lockage of vessels on the Canal, and at about five o'clock his wife looked out for him; and not finding him about, she gave the alarm. Presently his hat and the oil can were found floating on the water, and at ten o'clock his body was recovered. It is believed that he had fallen from the plank crossing the waste weir, in the act of letting on the water for mills below.—St. Catharines Journal.

Propellor Burnt.—Early on Tuesday morning, the Vermont, then lying at Port Maitland, which she reached the night before, was discovered to be on fire between decks, near the companion way. The men were soon up, but their atten[...] to save the vessel were useless, as in five min[...] from the discovery of the fire the [...] completely enveloped her. The Captain got out the safe containing the books, and the men saved their things, except one, who lost also $30. Her cargo consisted of about 100 tons of oil-cake, 1,400 bbls of flour, 100 bales of feathers, 20 of wool, 15 to 20 tons of butter, 4 of leather. The hull lies in 9 feet water, and her machinery will probably be got out. About 100 cords of wood belonging to Mr. Richardson, was burnt on shore and some other damage done.—Ib.

UNITED STATES.

The Mormons.—A correspondent of St. Louis Republican thus writes from Salt Lake City: This is a beautiful valley. The mountains which surround it are high, bold and rugged, whose summits are always covered with snow. No timber grows in the valley, and not much on the mountains near by; but water, delightful streams of water gush out and run down the sides of the mountain, which are conducted along the ridges to the city, and to all the principle farms in the Valley. The Mormons are a very industrious people. They are farming, building, and in fact are doing up a big business most every way.—We were there in time to witness Mormon religious service on Sunday, and the ceremonies of the 4th Monday, at the Tabernacle, they sang and prayed like other religious denominations, but the preachers took no text, and, of course, said nothing in particular, but a great many things in general. The first preacher, an Englishman, had a good deal to say about the "houlliness" of Mormonism, but he made a pefect fizzle of it, and did but little else than illustrate his own lack of brains. But I was most interested in seeing and hearing Brigham Young, the present chief of Mormonism. He is a six foot Vermonter, weighs about 180 lbs, has florid complexion, light hair, well perfumed and combed, with a curl here and there, as if one of his new wives had twitched her finger through it, wears a black suit, a famous white cravat, a fashionable black hat, black cotton gloves and sports a large gold headed cane. This was the man pointed out to me as the Governor of Utah, and Chief Apostle of the Mormons. He rose to harangue his people but did not remove his gloves. There was nothing eloquent in his matter or manner, nor was his voice at all agreeable. The burthen of this discourse was to show that no person, except he, is 'imbued with the spirit of God, is fit to administer the temporal affairs of a people,' which, when made applicable to his audience, signified that he was the only man to be made Governor of Utah. From this subject he made a tilt at the lawyers, and I must say that I never heard such low-flung, foul-mouthed expressions come from the lips of any man having any claims to decency, as were uttered by him in this connection. They make no bones of this many wife business here, but talk about it familiarly and practice it extensively, holding that every man is entitled to as many wives as he can maintain. But the real argument with Mormons is this—that according to the Scripture the "Saints are to reign a thousand years"—that this period is now soon to be consummated in the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints, that it is necessary that the Saints should increase as fast as possible—that by emigration from all parts of the world, and by natural increase, they will soon be strong enough to conquer the Gentiles, to rebuild their demolished temples, and avenge the blood of their murdered prophets—and when all these events shall come to pass, then the "Saints shall reign a thousand years." I saw a whole omnibus load of Brigham's wives leave the Tabernacle together, Brigham sitting on one side next the door and his old wife on the other. In fact, I was disappointed in the man. I did expect to see a man of some talent—of some religious enthusiasm, or some other property or qualification calculated to insure admiration.—But not so. He is not half the man that Joe Smith was. Cool, cunning and sensuality are the chief characteristics indicated by his countenance. He has a number of wives. His old wife is the only one entitled to the application of mistress, while all the rest are called by their christian names. What is to come of this? A generation of brothers and sisters who will not be able to distinguish their own kin—a miserably corrapt state of society which will sooner or later fester and rot the whole community of Mormons, which will explode by spontaneous combustion in the end, and blow up the whole concern. Is there any remedy for this outrage on society in a Christian country? None. The genius of our institutions allows all States and territories to elect their Legislature and to make their own laws. The Mormons constitute nearly the entire population of Utah. Their Legislature has passed no law inhibiting bigamy—hence it is no crime here, and the way is open for as many wives as they please.

Churches in San Francisco.

A statement of the number of Churches in our city, and their capacity, will no doubt be interesting to our Eastern readers, as well as news to not a few in San Francisco. We have, therefore, taken pains to procure one :—

The First Presbyterian Church, Rev. Albert Williams, Pastor, is situated on Stockton street, near Broadway. It is built of wood, plain on the outside, but handsomely furnished and decorated in the interior. Will seat 500 persons.

First Baptist Church, Rev. Mr. Preveaux, officiating Clergyman, on Washington street, between Stockton and Dupont. This is the oldest church edifice in the city, and yet retains the old style of San Francisco architecture. Will seat 500 persons.

First Congregational Church, Rev. T. Dwight Hunt, Pastor; corner of Jackson and Virginia streets. Will seat 250 persons.

Firsl Methodist E. Church, Rev. S. D. Simonds, Pastor, on Powell street, between Washington and Jackson. Will seat 300 persons.

Trinity Church, Episcopal, Rev. F. S. Mines, Rector, on Powell street, next to the first Methodist Church. Will seat 250 persons.

Second Presbyterian Church, Rev. S. H. Willey, Pastor, on Howard street. Will seat 200 persons.

Second Baptist Church, Rev. James W. Capen, Pastor, on Pine street, also a wood building.—Will seat 200 persons.

Wesley Chapel, M. E. South, Rev. Dr. Boring Pastor, on Powell street, near Clay. Will seat 300 persons, and has Lecture and Sunday School room in basement.

Grace Church, Episcopal, Rev. Dr. P. L. Ver Mehr, Rector, on Powell street between Pacific and Jackson. The finest church edifice in the city. Well seat 500 persons.

First R. C. Church, on Vallejo street. The clergymen are the Right Rev. J. Alemany, Bishop of Monterey, the See of California; Very Rev. A. Langlois, Vicar General; Rev. Messrs Scanlan and Delmas, with five others. Will seat 450 persons, Second Roman Catholic Church, in Happy Valley, Rev. Father Migin, Pastor. Will seat 200 persons.

Roman Catholic Cathedral, Mission Dolores, Rev. Father Flavian, with another clergyman.—Will probably hold 400 persons.

Free Baptist Congregation, Rev. O. C. Wheeler, officiating, have no church as yet, and meet temporarily in the District Court Room, which will seat 200 persons.

Seamen's Bethel, Rev. Wm. Taylor officiating, occupies the storeship Panama, beached on Front street, near Jackson. It will accommodate 200 persons.

Trinity Church, (new,) in Happy Valley, now being erected. Is intended to seat 400 persons.

Jewish Synagogue, Emanuel, (God with us,) Kearny street, between Pine and Bush. Will seat 150 persons.

Jewish Synagogue, Shearith Israel, (Remnant of Israel,) Kearny street, near Broadway. Will seat 150 persons.

Thus we have twelve Protestant, three Roman Catholic and two Jewish places of worship, and, in the aggregate, capable of accomodating 5050 persons. All the church edifices, except the Cathedral at the Mission Dolores, and Trinity (new), are constructed of wood, but nearly all are neatly finished and painted. Many are furnished with tasty pulpits, pews and choir galleries, while their floors are carpeted.

Generally speaking our churches are well attended, and among their congregations there is always to be found a large proportion of ladies. The Clergy of San Francisco are able and zealous. A majority of the congregations have well-organized and talented choirs.

On every pleasant Sunday, preaching is had on several of the wharves, and on the Plaza. These services are usually led by the Rev. Mr. Taylor.

Altogether, our city has reason to be proud of her churches, their ministers, and the support which is rendered them. In return she receives a most conservative and salutary influence. San Francisco may never be able to claim the title of the "City of Churches;" but the present gives gratifying token that she will always regard the House of God as one of her chief ornaments.

The Press in Paris.

The tone of the French government organs clearly foreshadows some fresh and decisive measure against the press, to finish at once all opposition. In this view, a fresh article from a pen prophetic of ill, that of M. Granier de Cassagnac, is worthy of particular attention.

This sinister composition, a continuation of others under the heading of "The Government of December 2 considered in the point of reason and morality," defends what he calls the "reform" introduced by that government in the law relating to the press. To appreciate this reform, it is, he says, necessary, in the first place, to resolve this general question—"To what extent have the governments of great nations in all ages permitted freedom of thinking and writing?" This question he answers, to his own satisfaction, in these terms :—

"History teaches that the absolute liberty of writing and thinking proscribed by the governments of all lettered nations of antiquity, is a modern theory of revolutionary origin, never taught to the test of experience till less than a century ago, and this theory will appear now to all right thinking men, as during a long course of centuries it did appear in the eyes of the great nations, false, dangerous and impracticable, if, as reason and equity require, it be judged by its results. This is not the place to expound in detail the constant practice of the two great nations of lettered antiquity, the Greeks and Romans, with respect to the liberty of thinking and writing; some general traits will suffice to refresh the memory of the reader in this particular. It is well known with what severe orthodoxy the dogmas of the state religion were protected by the laws of the Greek republics against the novelties of the philosophic schools. The boldest freethinkers themselves outwardly professed to respect the belief of the people, and two celebrated religious prosecutions (the trial of Alcibiades for the mutilation of the Hermes, and that of Socrates) mark in the ancient times of the western world the commencement of that era of the energetic defence of religious dogmas, which finished in modern times by the condemnation of Vanini, Servetus, and the Chevalier de Labarre."

A man who in the nineteenth century supports an argument against the liberty of the press, by citing as precedents, the poisoning of Socrates and the burning of Servetus, is evidently not an advocate to do his work by halves. Passing from the Greeks to the Romans, M. de Cassagnac refers to the persecution of the Christians by the Roman emperors for three centuries, and to the laws of Theodosius and Valentinian, when Christianity had become the state religion, by which it was made death to deny any iota of the Nicean creed. The governments of the middle ages, and that of France in particular, faithfully followed this tradition of ancient nations, and thus from the first of the capitularies to the last of the ordinances three generations of kings protected, by severe laws, the trust of the public creed against the temerities and aberration of individual reason. M. Granier sets the stamp of his approbation upon the above-mentioned monumental acts of tyranny,—held up through all history to our execution,—in these words: "If good and wise spirits reflect, they will acknowledge that the conduct of these governments was equitable and sensible."

Thus, in the opinion of the chief writer of the government press, the execution of 8,800 heretics by the first grand inquisitor was an "equitable and sensible" proceeding. While the text inscribed over the constitution of January 15, 1852, is the preservation of the principles of the revolution of 1788, M. Granier speaks of the most fundamental of those guarantees,—the liberty of the press,—as a pernicious concession of XVI. He proceeds to show the "equitable and sensible" way in which the First Consul dealt with the press, and concludes that the liberty of thinking and writing has never been a right, but is a mere prejudice, incompatible in the troublous times of the last half-century with the existence of government and society, at least in France.

This manifesto can only be regarded as the precursor of a fresh blow to the press. The articles of Mr. Granier have a more important scope than to console people for lost liberties, and to reconcile them to the iron sway under which they live; they pioneer to fresh inroads, they blow the trumpet-blast to fresh onslaughts. The Debats, which has long ago bowed the head and given up the composition of leading articles upon matters nearer than China and Japan, or interests higher than auriferous quartz, or steam-packet companies, may be allowed to exist, if such vegetation can deserve the name. But the Presse will assuredly be crushed, and perhaps the Siecle.—London Daily News.

The Duke at Waterloo.

While the French thus remained unaccountably supine, the Duke of Wellington, with characteristic activity, was providing against every possible emergency that might occur. He was shaved and dressed at two o'clock in the morning; sat down by the light of a lamp to his desk, and wrote many letters, of which three have been given to the public in Col. Gurwood's invaluable collection. One of these—to the English minister at Brussels—has for its object the maintenance of quiet in that city. The writer speaks with confidence of the events which were hurrying forward, and assures his correspondent that "the Prussians, will be ready again for anything in the morning." "Pray keep the English quiet," he continues, "let them all prepare to move, but neither be in a hurry nor a fright, as all will yet turn well." Another, addressed to the Duc de Berri, gives a brief but clear account of the operations of the 10th, and explains the arrangements which had been made for the protection at the Mons road at Hal. At the same time the Duc is advised to remove with his suite to Antwerp, and to carry thither also the King of France, though only as a measure of precaution. "I hope," says the Field Marshal, "indeed, I had every reason to believe, that all will go well; but it is necessary to look a good way before us, and to provide against serious losses, should any accident occur." And last of all, the Governor of Antwerp is instructed what to do—that he is to consider the city "in a state of seige, and have his means of inundating the surrounding country ready;" while at the same time he gives free admission to the King of France and his attendants, as well as to any British subjects who may desire to pass through Antwerp on their way to England. Nor was it thus alone that the Duke of Wellington devoted the first hours of that eventful day to the adjustment of matters which bore more intimately upon the arrangements of its later hours. The spare ammunition, which has been parked over-night at Waterloo, was so distributed as to be ready for carriage to all parts at a moment's notice. Apartments were fitted up in every house, both there and along the entire rear of the position, for the accommodation of the wounded. Nothing, in short, was neglected or overlooked which could in any respect contribute to the security of the country, or the efficiency of the force which defended it, while all was done with a cheerfulness and good-humoured alacrity which seemed to forebode the happiest results. Indeed it was part of the character of the Duke of Wellington to inspire every man who approached him with absolute confidence in the success of whatever he undertook, and so remarkable an instance of the extent to which the feeling was carried occurred this day, that it would be unjust to pass it by. Among other domestic servants who had attended him in the Peninsular, and afterwards followed his fortunes to London, Paris and Vienna, was a French cook, a man of much science and excellent method in his way. This artiste always contrived to get his master's dinner ready at the exact time when it was wanted, and on the 18th of June he applied himself, as usual, to his duties in the kitchen of the house in Waterloo, where the head-quarters of the army were established. Amid the thunder of the battle he never intermitted his task; and when wounded men and fugitives came crowding back, and a thousand voices urged him to escape while he could, he steadily refused either to budge an inch or to intermit his labours. "His Grace had ordered dinner, and would certainly return to eat it. He was not going to disappoint so generous a master for any consideration whatever." And his Grace did come back, as he had promised, and found his dinner not less recherche than usual, though the state of his own feelings, victor as he was, could hardly permit him do justice to it.

REGRETS.

BY ROBERT NICOLL.

Tak' aff, tak' aff this silken garb,
An' bring to me a Hieland plaid;
Nae bed was e'er sae saft an' sweet
As ane wi'it and heather made.
Tak' aff this gowd encircled thing,
An' bring to me a bonnet blue,
To mind me o' the Hieland hills
That I ha'e left forever now.

Tak' tak' awa' this gaudy flower,
An' bring to me a sprig o' heather,
Like those langsyne among the hills
Of home and youth, I aft did gather.
For a' your luscious Indian fruit,
The ripe blackberry bring to me:
To be in braes where black they hing,
There's naught on earth I wad na' gi'e.

Oh! tak' awa' this tinsel wealth,
That wiled me frae my Hieland hame;
I cannot bear its glitter now,—
For it I've played a losing game.
Oh! bring me back my youthful heart,—
The eye and hand of long ago—
Tak' a' I have, but place me syne
Afar where Hieland waters flow!

Oh! for an hour of youth and hope—
Ane moment of my youthful years
Upon the hills of Scotland dear,
When I had neither cares nor fears.
I mauna sigh, I mauna mane—
Before my fate I laigh maun bow,—
Bring wealth—bring wine—till I forget
The time when round me heather grew!

PROVINCIAL PARLIAMENT.

HOUSE OF ASSEMBLY.

Quebec, Nov. 3.

Last night a new writ was issued for Stanstead.

Mr. Hincks then in Committee carried resolutions to the following effect :—

That it is expedient to repeal so much of the Railway guarantee Act, 12 Vict. chap. 29, as relates to the aid to be given to the proposed Railway between Quebec and Halifax, and instead thereof, to provide that the guarantee of the Province may be given to any Company which shall be formed for the construction of a Railway from Quebec to Trois Pistoles.

That it is expedient to provide for the incorporation of a Company to construct such Railway, whenever a sufficient number of persons shall express their willingness to construct the same.

That it is expedient to provide that if such Company shall extend the said Railway from Trois Pistoles to the Eastern limits of the Province, a tract of one million acres may be granted to the Company.

A Bill to incorporate such a Company was ead a first time. Also a Bill to enable the several Railway Companies forming the Main Trunk Line, to join and form one Company.

The Bill to increase the stock of the Montreal Bank was read a third time.

The Main Trunk Railway Bill was read a third time, after the following amendments had been carried, on motion of hon. Mr. Hincks, by adding the following names in the 34th line of the 1st clause :—Alexander Tillock Galt, of the town of Sherbrooke, Luther Hamilton Holton, and David Lewis MacPherson, of the city of Montreal, Esquires. And the following amendments lost, viz :—Mr Brown.—That the Bill be referred to a select Committee to enquire whether interests of the public would not be better conserved by accepting the offer of Her Majesty's Secretary for the Colonies, of an Imperial loan for the construction of a British American Railroad.—Mr. Gamble.—That the Bill be amended by adding the words "provided always that nothing in this Act shall extend or be construed to extend to authorize the Committee to issue certificates for stock to any greater amount than shall actually be expended in constructing the said Railroad at the end of the 4th clause.

A motion by Mr. McKenzie, for the House to go into committee on the propriety of addressing Her Majesty to repeal the clause in the Union Act requiring a vote of two-thirds to change the constitution of the House of Assembly, was lost, only three voting for the motion.

To-day, Mr. Prince moved the adjournment of the House from next Wednesday to the 14th of February next, and the debate was proceeding when the despatch left, the Ministry rather leaning to the adjournment.

Wilder's Patent Salamander Safe.

Great Fire at Edgefield Court House, S.C.

Edgefield Court House, S.C., 2nd Aug., 1852.

Messrs. Stearns & Marvin, successors to Rich & Co., 146 Water Street, New York :

Gentlemen,—It is with pleasure we have to inform you that at the great fire which consumed our store, and three others, also the gaol, we preserved all our books and papers in one of your Salamander Safes, purchased from your Agent in Charleston, Mr. L. M. Hatch. The stores were built of pitch pine, and the heat was truly terrific The crowd present ridiculed the idea of anything standing such a fire, yet we never lost confidence in the safe. Upon opening it next day, in the presence of those who witnessed the fire, the greatest astonishment prevailed when they saw everything inside the Safe perfect, and without a stain, except what arose from the steam of the Salamander.

We shall call upon you next month to select another Safe, and remain yours, respectfully,

Williams & Christie.

The above letter shows that in a real hot fire, RICH'S SALAMANDERS (Wilder's Patent) are the only Safes to be depended upon.

Manufactured by STEARNS & MARVIN, owners of the exclusive right of Wilder's Patent for the States of New Jersey, Maryland, District of Columbia, North and South Carolina, Georgia, Alabama, Louisiana, Florida, Tenessee, Ohio and Indiana; and joint proprietors, with Herring, for New York, Texas and California—and sold by PLANTAGENET WATER.

☞ Make Haste—Make Haste.—Now is the time to get your winter supplies of Plantagenet Water. Orders are pouring in from the States, and the rule at the establishment is "first come, first served." Those parties, therefore, who neglect to get their supplies now, may have to wait for a long time, and perhaps then find themselves a little too late. There is a regular rush from the States. Those who began to take the water last fall have come back with a crowd of their friends, and the difficulty bye and bye will be to satisfy the overwhelming demand. This is the best time of the year to get Plantagenet Water. It will keep any time, and get the better for keeping. A few gallons are worth all the medicine in the world, and the better it is known, the higher it is appreciated. Lay in your supplies, then, or it may probably be too late. Mind, it is going off in hogsheads to the States. The following are places where it can be procured :—Plantagenet Water Depot, 4 Place d'Armes, Montreal; W C Schneider, Esq., Carrillon; Alex. St. Denis, Point Fortune; Mr. Laflamme, Lachine; also at Bytown and Quebec, and all parts of the United States.

Sold at No. 4 Place d'Armes, Montreal.

☞ Wistar's Balsam of Wild Cherry.—We are not much in the habit of taking or puffing medicines, though we had rather write about them than swallow them, any day. But this Balsam of Wild Cherry is so near one of Nature's own pure preparations, and has effected such extraordinary cures under our immediate knowledge, that we are bound in justice and truth to chronicle its virtues, and publish them to the world. We have neither time nor room to report the particulars of a cure it has effected for one of the compositors of the Mirror; and we can only refer those afflicted with Coughs and Lung Complaints, to directions and certificates.—From the Evening Mirror, New York, October 21, 1848.

None genuine, unless signed I. BUTTS on the wrapper. Price one dollar per bottle, or six bottles for five dollars.

☞ Bogle's Amole.—A Compound for Shaving.—This delightful article is totally different and far superior to anything yet invented for shaving. The base of it is derived from the Amole, or "soap plant" of California, an article used by the natives of that country for washing; and thus, the use of strong alkali, so hurtful to the skin, is avoided. Its vegetable and detergent properties have the purest and most nourishing effects on the skin,—it soothes and allays irritation, and has a fine, thick, creamy lather, which does not dry on the face. It is a decided luxury to be shaved with this incomparable soap. It is done up in elegant style, calculated either for the dressing-case of the "rough and ready" traveller, or the toilet of the most fastidious connoisseur.

To be had of Wm. Lyman & Co., Wholesale Agents for C. E.; and sold by A. Savage & Co., Alex. Urquhart, and S. J. Lyman & Co., Druggists, Montreal. In Quebec, of Joseph Bowles and Dr. Musson, Druggists. tts C 210
