

TRADE STIMULANT LOOKED FOR AS HEMMINGFORD-HUNTINGDON HIGHWAY NEARS COMPLETION

ONLY FEW MORE MILES TO BE FINISHED OF ROAD WHOSE SURFACE RIVALS MAIN HIGHWAYS — OTHER DISTRICT ROAD WORK STARTED

With twenty miles of the Hemmingford-Huntingdon highway completed one more link in the chain of better roads which the Quebec government is building in this section of the province will be finished in a few weeks' time.

Besides this important artery, however, the following roads are also slated for reconstruction and resurfacing: Henderson street in the town of Huntingdon; the Ridge Road from Huntingdon to Dundee; the No. 3 highway from Dundee to Ste. Barbe, and the road from Huntingdon to Port Lewis. Work on these will be started as soon as possible, according to Hon. Martin B. Fisher, Provincial Treasurer.

Work on the Ridge Road will be started this summer but the No. 3 highway requires widening and this will delay work on it for a time.

Fulfilling one of his election promises made during his last campaign, Hon. M. B. Fisher has been responsible for the resurfacing of the Hemmingford-Huntingdon road. There is approximately seven more miles of this section to be done yet and then travellers will have a roadway stretching the distance of a mile, rivaling the main Montreal-Malone Highway.

The road is being widened for three miles at Havelock and five miles at Franklin and in addition is being widened a distance of a mile on the road from Boyd's Lines towards Herdman.

In addition to route 52 the stretch from Herdman's Corner to the American border is being repaired and mended to connect with the road to Chateaugay, N. Y.

With approximately 300 men and 50 trucks engaged, work is rushing ahead. Route 52 will be completed with the exception of about 3 miles by August 1st, according to Mr. Fisher.

The giant mixer at the Lindsay gravel pit in Rockburn is turning out enough material to cover a mile of road a day, and the road is being covered at that rate. The big machine in the pit, along with the spreading machine used on the road are the only machines of their kind in the province.

The mixer takes wet gravel and sand, sifts, then dries it, mixes it with tar and oil and dumps the ready-made material onto waiting trucks which carry it away to be spread on the road.

The spreader takes the prepared substance from the trucks as they move slowly along the road, spreads it about 2 inches thick, and rolls it at the same time. Another smaller roller follows behind to take care of any minor bumps that the large spreader may have missed.

The Hemmingford - Huntingdon road is being done at an approximate cost of $3500 a mile. Its surface which now is as good as the best in the district is from 18 to 20 feet wide.

In preparing the road for the new covering much foundation work had to be done. The old road was levelled and the holes filled with gravel. A primary coat of oil was then applied and this had to be on for 48 hours before the final surface mixture was applied.

Work has already been started on the stretch from Cowansville to Waterville, and after this summer

Heat Continues To Be Daily Fare Of Local Residents

With the mercury mounting to new high levels citizens sank to new low depths and a blistering heat continued to pour down without mercy in this district during the past week. Some thermometers around town recorded 98 degrees Friday afternoon and heat reflect off the main street pavement was terrific on that day.

Saturday night and early Sunday morning heavy rains cooled the atmosphere off to a certain extent but the sun came out in even better form on Monday and sweating heat has been the daily fare since then.

Lightning flashes and rumbles of thunder have been heard from time to time during the week but except for Sunday no rain or storms have occurred.

Fisher Sailed For Continent On Saturday

To Study Taxation System And Investigate Peat Development

The Hon. Mr. Fisher left on Saturday, July 10th with Hon. Joseph C. Lacombe, Minister of Finance, on board the liner, Empress of Britain bound for England, where he is to select two financial experts who will study Quebec's tax situation. He sailed from Quebec, Saturday.

Decision to revise taxation in the province was decided at the last session of the Quebec Legislature and Mr. Fisher was chosen to select English financial experts to study possible changes.

Mr. Fisher left with Hon. Joseph Bloudeau, Minister of Trade, Commerce and Municipal Affairs, who is heading a representative delegation of the Federation of Boards of Trade of the Province. He is sharing the leadership of the group with L. A. Langlois, president of the Quebec Board of Trade, and will visit the Paris Exhibition with the Provincial Treasurer, official representative of the province.

Mr. Fisher will not return to Quebec until September 10. In the meantime, he will seek to develop the liquor trade between Scotland and Quebec. Also, he will study the peat situation in Denmark with regard to local peat developments. Before his departure on Saturday, the Provincial Treasurer said he felt that the peat situation could be developed.

The Week at Ottawa

Hitler, Chamberlain, Mussolini, Roosevelt, Stalin and Chautemps Said to Hold Destiny of the World in Their Hands

By Wilfrid Eggleston

There is not much doubt that the destiny of the world these days lies in the keeping of five or six men. Hitler, Chamberlain, Mussolini, Stalin, Roosevelt and Chautemps.

A few years ago, there was alleged to be a shortage of gold. Now, at an increased price, it is capable of doing more work per ounce. Also, new supplies have been uncovered. Normally, this would result in a great inflation in prices. There have been moderate rises in prices, but nothing spectacular. What has prevented this?

The experts say that Roosevelt has 'taken the rap' by continuing to buy all the gold offered her at the standard price of $35 per ounce. This has been a great blessing for the gold mines of Canada and South Africa. Will he continue to do so? If he suddenly calls a halt, what happens to the price of gold, and to the big gold producing countries?

It takes a more erudite economist than myself to answer such questions. But it seems clear even to the layman, that President Roosevelt has quite a lever in gold. He may decide to use it in getting world reductions in tariffs.

Some critics of the U.S. contend that the United States wants to sell abroad, but won't take goods in exchange, and that her customers are forced to pay the only other way, in gold or in dollars. This is a fair time being, that means payment in gold.

Is this true? The trade figures indicate that the United States is now developing an unfavorable balance of trade. Still the gold pours in. Of course, at $35 an ounce, the gold-producing countries are very happy to get rid of it. There is always the fear that the price may be lowered again.

Both because of her vast interests in gold mining, and because of her stake in international trade, Canada is vitally concerned in the Roosevelt-Chamberlain negotiations. Preliminary hearing of Captain Freeman Hatfield ended at Ottawa Monday with an intimation from Magistrate Glenn Strike, the veteran Nova Scotia skipper would be committed for trial at the Fall assizes on a charge of obtaining money from the Government of Canada by false pretences.

Hatfield received more than $71,000 on the claim the ship was torpedoed by a German submarine. The Crown claims the vessel was accidentally lost from stress of weather.

Entertaining Program Is Promised For "Old Home Week" Celebration Here

Parade, Bands, Dances, Reunion, Concerts, Land and Water Sports, Speeches, Plays to be Offered To Mark Historic Event

PRIZES AWARDED FOR ALL COMPETITIONS

The program for the "Old Home Week" celebration is rapidly nearing completion. A few details have yet to be attended to before the whole program can be announced, but today we are able to give a very general report as to what can be looked for during the three days celebration, on August 4, 5 and 6.

At the present time the "Old Home Week" headquarters is located in the McMillan Block, Mr. Nelson White, who is devising his entertainment, is presently preparing signs and decoration material. The signs for floats can be made by Mr. White and the charge for same will be kept as near cost as possible.

With regard to floats, the parade committee is actively engaged in making contacts. The following floats have been definitely promised:

Shawinigan Water & Power Co., Malone Chamber of Commerce, International Harvester Co., Huntingdon Farm Equipment Co., Laberge Bros., Holstein Breeders' Club, Jersey Cattle Club, Howick-Huntingdon Ayshire Club, National Breweries, Molson Breweries, Township of Godmanchester, Township of Elgin, Township of Hinchinbrooke, Township of Franklin, and Empire Garage. It is generally expected that the remaining townships of the County as well as the Town of Huntingdon will also have floats.

C. B. Kelly Jr., is sponsoring one of the comic units for the parade. Mr. Alex. Fawcett is taking charge of the Jos. Carr Shetland pony "good-will" contribution float. This pony and cart will be decorated so that the remaining townships of the County will be afforded an opportunity of making a small contribution to the parade by casting a coin into the cart as the pony passes by.

Music for the parade is to be supplied by the famous Black Watch Regimental Band of Montreal, the Malone Municipal Band, Valleyfield Boy Scout Bugle Corps, the Huntingdon Chateau Orchestra and perhaps the Malone Company I Drum Corps.

The bicycle section of the parade promises to be a big success. Mr. Delmo Montpetit is in hopes of having upwards of 70 bicycles, or perhaps more, in the parade. This section is open to boys and girls, all ages.

23 Taxpayers Are Added to Local School

Added Revenue $600 But Few New Scholars Will Be Obtained

A meeting of the School Commissioners for Huntingdon Academy was held Monday evening. At this meeting Commissioner Roy Biggar terminated his office as commissioner. In Mr. Biggar's place, Mr. Wm. Winter was named commissioner. Commissioner E. C. McCoy was generally expected to resign from office, due to ill-health and being unable to take any real active part on the School Board. It was, however, intimated that he wished to again serve a term on this Board. Mr. McCoy was thereupon named a commissioner, and was honored by being named chairman.

In the Township of Hinchinbrooke, 16 ratepayers petitioned for detachment from the school municipality of Hinchinbrooke so that they may become a part of the Huntingdon School Municipality. In due time the Director of Protestant Education at Quebec notified Huntingdon of the desires of these Hinchinbrooke ratepayers and wished to determine if Huntingdon was agreeable to accepting such educational responsibilities. In due order proprietors of lots carrying a total valuation of $109,000 have been added to the Huntingdon School Municipality. The total property value in this school municipality now amounts to $1,555,912. This extra property added to the Huntingdon School Municipality will increase the school revenue approximately $600 a year. This ought to be more than sufficient to pay for the transportation of the school children to Huntingdon. Very few children will be added to the Academy school roll as practically all the pupils from that territory have been attending the Academy in recent years.

Shakespeare Was Topic Of Women's Institute Speaker

The Aubrey-Riverfield Women's Institute met on Thursday at the home of the Misses Morris, Aubrey, with over thirty members and friends present.

The roll call was responded to by quotations from Shakespeare. The County Picnic on August 6 in Hemmingford was discussed a day in advance of our visit to Franklin. W. L. was changed to August 10. Mrs. C. Manning, of Franklin Centre, R. I. gave a short humorous story while Mrs. R. J. Roy of Howick W. I. gave a comic recitation on "Bringing Up Children," which were greatly enjoyed.

A report from the Provincial Board Sessions at Macdonald College in June was given by Mrs. Jas. Bruce. Our guest speaker for the day was the Rev. Mr. Keith, of Lachine, who gave a splendid address on Shakespeare and other of the great poets. Shakespeare, he said, had a great knowledge of human nature, he was master of the English language using 24,000 English words to express his thoughts. His works are divided into three classes: History, Henry VIII, etc. Comedy, Merry Wives of Windsor, Merchant of Venice, etc. Tragedy—Julius Caesar, Hamlet, Macbeth, etc.

He recited various selections, viz. Othello's speech before the Roman Senate, when he was speaking for

Special Speakers Preach Sermons At St. Andrews Church

Special services were held both in the morning and evening at St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Huntingdon, on Sunday. In the morning, Rev. Dr. Norman McLeod of Brockville, Ontario, was the speaker and his sermon was based on the text: "What is man that thou art mindful of him?" In the evening, Rev. A. A. Lowther, missionary of Jhansi, India, was the speaker. His address dealt with the problems of the mission worker in India, referring chiefly to the tribulations the church had to face in meeting the "caste" system of that land. Mrs. Griffith and Mr. Gordon, Thoms of Montreal, rendered solos. Both services were attended by large numbers of young people who were delegates to the Presbyterian Leaders' Conference held here during the past week. Evening services in several district churches was cancelled to enable congregations to attend St. Andrew's.

Chasing Dirt Big Occupation Of Homemaker

Says Miss McEwen, B.H.S., Speaking on "Soap" To Women

CHEAP SOAP FILLED

Hymn of Thanksgiving Was Sung In Iroquois By Indian Lady

Chasing dirt is a major occupation of the homemaker, said Miss Isabel McEwen, addressing a joint meeting of Huntingdon and Dundee Women's Institutes at the Community Hall, Dundee, on Wednesday afternoon. Miss McEwen has a degree in Household Science, having led the class of 1937 at Macdonald College. She gave a brief talk on the subject of the "dirt" to only touch upon some of the more complicated aspects of the subject. But enough was said and indicated to fully justify the modern demand that Domestic Science should be a compulsory subject for girls and even boys, in an up-to-date school.

Modern fabrics, methods and, above all, advertising, have brought about many changes in the soap making industry. Even a slight knowledge of the subject would be sufficient to place consumers on guard as to believing everything they read or hear on the radio!

Soap is only just soap by whatever fancy name or package it is offered. To the public, "Out of the same brew may come the cheapest, toughest bar down to the slippery shaving variety squeezed from the high priced shaving tube. Oil and tallow are the backbone of the soap industry. Palm, coconut, olive, whale and fish oils alone and in combination. Much of the cheaper soap is heavily filled. In addition to fats, rosin is used in yellow laundry soaps because it makes it softer, forms and more readily and is cheap. Consumers have been educated to expect large boxes of flakes and large bars of laundry soaps at very low prices. They often get products containing a small amount of true soap and a large amount of other substances when they buy solely on this basis.

Questioned further on this point, Miss McEwen named certain varieties that could be relied upon to be pure.

Neutral, or mild soaps, are those which contain no excess of alkali or fat. They are suitable for shampoo, shaving and washing wool, silk and rayon. Soap for general laundering and scrubbing contain alkaline materials which are added in the crutcher where the pure soap is churned into a creamy mass.

Soap is able to surround tiny particles of dirt and grease and float them off the skin, fabrics, or surface being washed. Soap cleanses more quickly when used and then rinsed away in warm or hot water.

Good Program Is Given At Lawn Social

Visiting Ministers Speak to Large Gathering at Georgetown

The Ladies' Aid organization of the Georgetown Presbyterian church held their lawn social on Wednesday, July 7th. Weather conditions were ideal and resulted in one of the largest attendances in many years. A varied programme was provided, including songs and recitations by local and outside talent. The delegates to the Sunday School conference in Huntingdon attended and speeches were made by some of the visiting lecturers, including Rev. Norman Macleod, Brockville, Ont., the Rev. Dr. Reid, of Montreal, Rev. Dr. Kennaway, of Toronto, Ont. The local ministers were also present and brought greetings and good wishes to the Georgetown congregation. Ice cream, soft drinks, coffee and sandwiches, the usual refreshments were supplied. The proceeds of the evening amounted to $90.00.

We are sorry to report that the Rev. Mr. Moore will be a very short time with us, having received a call to Easton, Pennsylvania. Mr. Moore has only been about five years as minister in the United Church, but in that short time he has won the friendship of many besides his own congregation. Also, Mrs. Moore, not only in church work, of which she is an active worker, but in all social activities was always willing to take her part. The new field of work will be much larger than Howick, which means more responsibility.

Huntingdon Defeats Ormstown In Donkey Baseball Classic

Young Lady Suffers Wrist Fracture

Miss Madeleine St-Onge, a Huntingdon Academy Grade VIII pupil, had the misfortune to fracture her wrist on Tuesday afternoon when she fell off a load of hay while helping her father load in the field. She stepped too near the edge of the wagon and fell to the ground. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Isaac St-Onge. She is progressing favourably.

Wins 4-2 in Floodlight Burro Battle Before Big Crowd at Huntingdon Fair Grounds

LAUGH SENSATION

Audience Howls as Bucking Broncs Throw Caution And Riders to Winds

One of the largest crowds ever to attend an athletic event in Huntingdon turned out at the Fair grounds Tuesday night to witness the battle of the century—a baseball game between Ormstown and Huntingdon played on donkeys.

Although Huntingdon actually won the contest by a 4-2 score everybody was too engrossed in the comical aspect of the game to care which side was victorious.

Those who have never seen an athletic contest where the motive power depended upon the slow moving Rocky Mountain mules have missed about the funniest spectacle imaginable. The animals were named adding more humour to many situations. The mules seem to have a passion for not doing what they are told and the player is often left stranded between bases or wherever his four footed friend decides to stop.

Doug, Elder was the high scorer for the local team bringing in two runs. Spence Gavin probably tallied the most spectacular run of the game when he became disgruntled at the slow movements of his mount and picked it up by the front feet at second base and literally carried the mule and the donkey across the plate at the same time.

Morris Hunter made a hit with "Mac West" but couldn't get to first base with her and was thrown out on a nice pick-up—Cartier to McGerrige. Dr. Caza, playing third base on "Satan," pulled off some smart plays. He tagged three men out—chasing one all the way out to centre field for the put-out—and added the final Huntingdon run on a rapid dash down the home stretch to score by two feet.

John Teifer smacked a hard hit ball to deep left field, but the mule on which he was to ride to first saw

Cars Crashed None Injured At Ormstown

Damages Estimated at $250

Driver Offers To Pay Costs

Two cars were damaged in a collision at the intersection of Station Street, Ormstown and the Montreal Malone Highway, Friday morning, and although six were injured, none were fatally hurt.

About 7 o'clock, Dan Leahy, of Franklin was driving a lady passenger and three children to meet the train, going toward the station, when a coupe driven by Mr. Waddell of Windsor, Ont., coming down the highway at a high rate of speed tried to make the corner without slowing down, he struck the Leahy car, spinning it around three times before coming to a stop. Mr. Leahy was dragged out and around with the whirling car. He sustained severe cuts about his head and three fractured ribs. Mrs. Taylor was huddled in the bottom of the car. There was not a piece of it left after the collision. Leahy's sedan car was taken to Guerin's Garage, where it was viewed by many and all wondered how anyone escaped without fatal injuries.

The whole front left side, engine, running board, fenders, etc. were badly smashed, estimated at about $250 damages.

The driver of the coupe admitted being at fault and consented to pay the damage. The accident was investigated by Provincial Road Officer, William Greig.

New Roads, More Speed

It is a natural thing but often a disastrous one that when newer and better roads are built the temptation to speed is increased. Car drivers boast that whereas in the "old days" it used to take them 30 minutes to travel a certain distance they do it now in 15.

Already we've heard several drivers state that it used to take them over an hour to go from here to Hemmingford, but now that the new road is nearly completed they can do it in less than half that time. These fellows will never learn. It takes a nice, slow ride in a hearse to teach them but then the lesson comes too late.

The Hemmingford road has not even been completed but there has already been a fatal accident on it in which seven were injured and one died of injuries. That should serve as a warning to others who are tempted to "let the old bus out." Do you know how much time you save in travelling a distance of 5 miles at 60 miles an hour as compared with 35. The answer is - - - three minutes. It takes much less than three minutes for a careless driver to go from here to eternity, however, and take a whole load of innocent passengers with him.

Driving a car is not a part time job. You have to be on the watch every minute. You have to watch the other fellow, too. Companions who ride with you are entrusting their lives to your care. You're not playing the game with them if you take the wheel in a drunken or sleepy condition. When you get into a car to drive in that condition you're taking a passenger you never bargained on. Death gets in beside you then and rides with you.

The new roads being built here are good roads but they can't do a thing for you when you shove the accelerator to the floor board. Don't speed and then have to repent in a hospital. Remember it's not only your own life you endanger when you "step on it." There are other lives too, maybe even more important than your own.

These roads are being built to stimulate business between the places they pass through, to provide better avenues for trade and commerce. Don't use them for a race course and slaughter grounds of your friends' lives.

Think about that the next time you get behind the wheel and your foot begins pressing down on the accelerator.

The Late Rev. W. H. Stevens

IN accordance with the regulations regarding the number of years a Methodist minister might be on a local charge it usually ranged from three, four and occasionally of five years' duration. Under such a system the Methodist Church ministers who would go out to preach were many. Huntingdon had a great number of Methodist ministers previous to Church Union, but the one minister of that denomination that became most widely and favourably known to people of all denominations was the late William Hansford Stevens, who died in Quebec on July 8th at the age of 72 years.

The Rev. Mr. Stevens administered to the Huntingdon Methodist congregation for a period of 4 years, from 1906-10, when he left for Chesterville, Ontario. When he was in Huntingdon he made himself one of our most esteemed public-spirited citizens. He was, to a very considerable extent, like the Rev. C. S. Jenkins of St. John's Anglican Church in that he was incessantly endeavouring to promote activities to keep youth interested in clean, healthful sport.

The Rev. Stevens not only devoted much of his clerical effort to work with the young folks but he mingled much with the adults. In the winter months he was usually found actively participating curling.

To some this may be considered unnecessary for a minister of the gospel, but we believe a clergyman who is capable of making such contacts and is held in such esteem can do much good for the cause of Christianity. If all our ministers of the gospel mingled with the rank and file in local activities as did the late Mr. Stevens benefits to all concerned would result.

The memorial that stands in Huntingdon which we connect with the late Mr. Stevens is the fountain facing the Bank of Commerce. It was in 1908 that the "Y" Society erected this fountain, as well as the horse watering trough at Prince Arthur Square. It was the Y's who paid for these fountains and presented them to the Town of Huntingdon, and the work was promoted by the late Rev. Stevens. Within the "Y" Society the hymnals which are still being used were purchased through the efforts of Mr. Stevens.

The late Mr. Stevens was born in Sherbrooke, Que., on August 10th, 1864. His early education was received there and later he followed the Divinity course at Wesleyan Theological College, Montreal. He was ordained at Sherbrooke in 1893.

He held pastorates in Ottawa, Hudson Heights, Grenville, Calumet, Knowlton, Huntingdon, Pembroke, Chesterville, and Almonte, before going to Quebec City. When in Quebec City he was pastor of Wesley Methodist Church and at the time of Church Union he gave up this charge and was appointed Port Chaplain.

As a Port Chaplain we feel that a better man in all Canada for such an appointment could not be found. We are sure that many a family coming to Canada, would gain a favourable impression immediately when greeted by Mr. Stevens with a hearty welcome, smile and a witty story.

He is survived by his widow; his daughter, Mrs. Whilmina Isabell Askie, Glasgow, Scotland, and two sons, Graham, of London, Ontario and Alan Huntingdon, of Montreal.

Huntingdon Band

WE have had several inquiries since our last editorial on the possibilities of starting a Huntingdon Band but no one has come forward with any suggestive ideas or with any offer to take control of such an undertaking. Many have intimated their willingness and desire to join once the organization has been started, however. We shouldn't let the present opportunity pass when enthusiasm for the idea is at its height.

A Sign by the Road

WITH the completion of long stretches of new road in this vicinity the fact that there will be more speeding will have to be accepted as fact. One way in which the drivers' trouble could be lessened and the danger of accidents minimized is that of having adequate signs placed at all danger spots.

Several signs on the Hemmingford-Huntingdon highway that barely served the purpose when the road was torn and ill-adapted for speeding should be moved further back from the dangerous corners and curves in order to give the driver plenty of room in which to stop or gain control of his car.

Perhaps some residents of this district won't see the need for this, claiming that they know all the curves and sharp corners anyway, but the tourists who are visiting here for a few days or just passing through don't know them.

Most of these tourists are used to fast driving over smooth roads at home. They are not accustomed to the twisting, winding roads that dot this part of the country. Why not give them this added protection?

The Boys' Farm at Shawbridge

CITIZENS of this Province should be justly proud of the recent achievements of the young athletes from the Boys' Farm and Training School. Recently a team of nine boys journeyed to Cornwall and competed in the Dominion school boy track and field meet. These nine lads won eight first places, four seconds and six thirds, amassed a total of fifty-six points and finished second against all schools in the Dominion, being only five points behind the Giebe Collegiate of Ottawa, which won the Curry Trophy.

Although physical training is not the most important thing in character building, there is little doubt that the splendid record of these boys will do much to give them confidence in themselves and will inspire their fellow pupils at Shawbridge to strive for similar honours in the future.

The Boys' Farm is an example of what can be done in the training of boys, who in many cases, through no fault of their own, just didn't quite fit into the scheme of things in the cities or elsewhere. The management of the school has always tried to impress its pupils with the fact that they are citizens and instill in them a desire to make themselves respected in the community from which they come. Those who know the work at first hand are aware of the fact that mental and spiritual training is given as much attention as the physical and anyone attending the school closing exercises at Shawbridge or witnessing their chapel services and bible study classes, cannot fail to be impressed with the interest manifested by the boys in the training of their minds and characters.

In these days of class differences and misunderstanding, it is a fine thing to see these lads making names for themselves in competition with boys who in many cases have had more opportunities afforded them to succeed, and those who are responsible for the splendid work being done at Shawbridge should receive the hearty support and commendation of all.

Self Esteem

SELF esteem is a quality that is good, if we have a sense of proportion, but if we are lacking the possession of this important thing, we should seek by all means to acquire for its specific reasons. First, it is possible to overestimate the individual importance. Each of us, at one season of his life, has had a grand conception of his own excellence and virtue. Many are apt to think, if I were removed by some circumstances, who could fill my place, who can follow me. Nobody can do my duty but myself, if I be removed, the machine stops, and all the noble and magnificent results will instantly disappear. My friend, you over-estimate yourself. The fact is, very few will miss you when you are gone, a handful will go about the street sorrowful, but the great world will rush on, as it has rolled before. It is quite possible therefore for you to disappear from the world, or the position you occupy and yet scarcely be missed, and when you are permanently removed, the same infinite and inexhaustible resources will raise up, make a nobler and better to take your place.

But it is also possible to under-estimate the importance of the individual. If it be possible to have a too lofty conception of our own value, we may likewise have too mean, and unworthy a notion of it. Some one, perhaps looks round himself, upon this vast world, he sees it peopled with busy millions upon millions, to whom his name is unknown, and he says to himself, "what am I among so many." He gazes into the vast expanse of the firmament, and he sees clusters of orbs, constituting groups revolving around suns, and those suns, with innumerable clusters, constituting only another group, revolving around an inner sun, and he exclaims, "what am I in the immensity of the universe, a grain of sand, a bubble on the face of the ocean, a spark that appears on the wave, and is quenched, and disappears for ever."

But there is a correct estimate, and the importance of knowing it is obvious from such facts as those already mentioned. Some under-estimating society and over-estimating self, have left the duties, and the responsibilities of the world altogether, others supposing the individual can do nothing at all, have formed themselves into bodies, and merging the personal in the corporate, have become mere cogs in the great machinery, and have lost altogether their individual indignity and importance by merging themselves into the mass.

The true place that the individual should occupy, is therefore not secluded and alone; not altogether overwhelmed in the great mass; but in connection therewith, and in relation to all the multitude by which you are surrounded.

The sea itself is made up of innumerable grains. The body itself is made up of innumerable drops. The body is made up of so many members. Look at the eye alone, you may under-estimate it, or, you may over-estimate it. Look at the eye in connection with the senses and members of the body, and you see its true aid its important place.

So in an army, a private soldier drops down weary, or is shot down by the enemy, and he is scarcely missed, but if each were to disappear the whole army would go altogether.

A wise man remarked, I am only one, but I am one; I cannot do everything, but I can do something. Let me find what I ought to do, (and the word ought means 'I owe it' to myself and to others, mark that well,) and let me have the moral backbone to do it, then and then only shall I have performed the function, for which I have been sent.

The busy world shoves angrily aside the man who stands with arms akimbo set, waiting to be told what he ought to do, and he who waits to have his work marked out will die, and leave his errand unfulfilled.

NO MEMORIAL LASTING

On the death of Martha M. Hall, New York spinster, in 1935, her will was found to name her nephew, James J. Morgan, sole executor of her estate, valued at $4,000,000. The will specifies this fortune is to be spent exclusively "for purposes of constructive human welfare" in such a way that will prove a lasting memorial to her father, dead for many years. So far Morgan has spent only $25,000 which is less than the accumulated interest. He says it is all but impossible to abide by the terms of his aunt's will since there is nothing in these changing times that money could buy that would be a lasting memorial. Meanwhile, Morgan has become a virtual fugitive. He has had to move out of New York, and rarely shows himself in public because individuals and officials of welfare organizations are continually hounding him for gifts from the estate for "worthy purposes" of all kinds. He says he can imagine no more difficult task than to give away $4,000,000 on the terms specified in his aunt's will.

BABY MIXUP SETTLED

Two girl babies were born in an Atlantic, Ga., hospital on the same day in 1919. One was Mary Louise, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John C. Garner, Macon, Ga., and the other, Louise Madeline, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Pitman, of Atlanta. When the mothers took their babies home, Mrs. Garner protested there had been a mixup, and she had the Pitman child. Not long afterward the baby taken home by the Garners became ill with influenza and died. The Garners went into court to obtain possession of the baby they claimed as their own. After hearing the complicated case the judge finally ruled that the surviving baby should remain in possession of the Pitman family until she was 18, when she should be permitted to decide for herself. A year ago, on her 18th birthday, she decided she was a Garner and had her name changed to Mary Louise Garner. On her recent 19th birthday, she was more positive than ever that she had made the right decision a year ago, and is reconciled to remaining a Garner the rest of her life.

HOT NEWS IN 1800

Printed January 4, 1800, in Kingston, Ireland, an ancient yellowed newspaper, entitled the "Ulster County Gazette," is the prize possession of George H. Hotson, optometrist in Lacombe, 46 miles south of Edmonton. The fragile leaves contain the "latest" war news from the European battle lines — "Napoleon Successful on Several Fronts" — "Austro-Russian Army Defeated at Glatz" — "Four British Frigates Captured by Two Spanish Ships and Towards 600,000 in Bullion—and other items rushed posthaste from Europe by ship. Further space is given to a lengthy account of the death and burial of George Washington, while the advertisements ranged from "A Stout, Healthy, Active Negro Wench for Sale!" to an estranged husband forbidding all persons "whatever" to harbor or aid his spouse.

CHEQUE UNPAID

Back in 1915, Thomas K. Litch, who later became a millionaire, received a cheque for $50 from Henry Ford. Litch did not cash the cheque immediately and it was mislaid. During the early years of the depression, Litch lost his fortune. Now at 60, he is on relief in Pittsburgh, Pa. Two years ago, in going over some old papers, he discovered Henry Ford's cheque for $50, still uncashed. He tried to cash it but payment was refused as its authenticity was doubted. Now Litch has brought suit against Ford to force payment on the cheque.

CLIMBS SKYSCRAPER

The second man to climb the 103-story Empire State building in New York was A. W. Aldrich, a farmer from the green mountains of Vermont. Peter McGuire, guard in the skyscraper, was the first to accomplish this feat. Several newspapermen on hand to see Aldrich do the stunt started to climb with him but the last of them gave up at 40 stories. Aldrich, a small man 5 feet 2 inches tall, and weighing 120 pounds, made the climb of 2,240 steps, each 7 inches high, in 36 minutes, without stopping. The Empire State building, more than 1,000 feet high, is the tallest in the world.

TUNNEL RESCUE

A High Wycombe (England) man's rescue of a cat from a flooded tunnel, only 3 feet high, is to be brought to the notice of the Royal Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals. The cat was trapped for several days on a ledge at the top of the tunnel, but rescue attempts failed. Then, although the water was only a few inches from the tunnel roof, James Lottimer, corporation employee, crept along the tunnel. The swift flowing stream threw him off his feet several times, but he reached the cat and brought it back to safety.

16 WEDS 65

Indians in Bangalore gathered at a mass meeting to protest against the marriage of a 65-year-old Indian to a girl of 16. Speakers condemned the marriage as an inhuman monstrosity, and adopted a resolution urging the government to legislate against such unions. It was pointed out the Sarda act, now on the statute book, fixed minimum ages for marriages of men and women, but it was even more desirable to legislate against disproportionate ages.

PAGE THACKERAY

Recently a copy of "Henry Esmond" by Thackeray published in book form fell into the hands of one of the big movie producers in Hollywood. In due time, a letter came to the publisher of the book asking him to sell the rights to "Thackeray" explaining this story was being considered for movie production and asking Mr. Thackeray whether he would write a film version of the novel. The letter fell into the hands of the publisher of the Thackeray edition who wrote the movie company under the name of Thackeray, dead since 1863, that if they like "Henry Esmond," they should wait until the next story by Thackeray came out which was to be named "Vanity Fair."

CAR PAYS FINE

After hearing the case against Mrs. Paul Gurnitz, Joliet, Ill., charged with driving a car minus either state or city license tags, Judge William Nicholson assessed a fine of $3 and ordered the defendant to buy licenses costing $14. "That's too much money for an old car like ours," Mrs. Gurnitz protested. "Just keep the car and call it square." The judge, a bit surprised at first, finally agreed and turned the case over to the police department to be used for city patrolling.

SPEED MANIA

After establishing a world speed record for automobiles, 301 miles an hour made on the salt flats near Bonneville, Utah, in 1935, Sir Malcolm Campbell promised his family he would stop this highly dangerous pastime. He has kept his promise so far as auto racing is concerned but now is building a racing boat of 2,000 horsepower in which he hopes to break the world's power boat record of 126.86 miles an hour held by Gar Wood.

ACRE YIELDS LIVING

They even raise wheat and alfalfa for chicken feed. Others crops are peanuts, potatoes and a variety of garden crops as well as bush fruits.

Ellen Gets Her Man

Chapter 10

They had talked together then and Ellen had been startled by Benham's appreciation of the beauties of the north country. Most of the men she knew were rough, hardened by the rigorous life. There had been something almost poetic in John Benham's understanding. In some intangible way it seemed that a bond of friendship, of common understanding between them was born there at that moment. Now Ellen knew that it was love.

For a long time Ellen had stood there, across the dying campfire flames, staring at this strange, still, elemental man. Her mind seethed with truant thoughts, and words she dare not speak lay close to her lips. Then one of the sleeping Indians had stirred, breaking the spell. She had moved away.

"Good-night," she had called softly. "Good night—John Benham."

She shivered a little now at the memory. The great disappointment at the later turn of events filled her heart almost to the bursting point. Here was her mate... the man she loved... and she had so little faith and understanding that she had believed all the false reports and lying stories about him. The Northwest Mounted Police and demanding Benham's arrest. To be sure, later events had cleared him of suspicion and trapped the real culprit, but she could well understand why Benham should hate her and refuse to listen to her apologies.

Time passed, and she was unconscious of it. She merely sat and looked out towards a future which seemed very drab and very grey and very empty. At length she heard voices approaching. She rose and stepped ashore, her face stony and expressionless.

Whitlow was there with his prisoner. In the background was Moosac and John Benham, with a number of the tribe slinking furtively beyond.

"I'm sorry, Miss Mackay," Whitlow was saying. "But you and Moosac will have to return to the Fort in another canoe. I cannot chance your safety by carrying you with me and my prisoner. Deteroux is desperate."

Ellen nodded briefly. "Just as you say, trooper," she answered.

Whitlow stepped up to Deteroux, a tiny key in his hands. "Let's see those cuffs, Deteroux," he said briskly. "I'll see that you earn your passage with a paddle. A white mask no mistake about it. I'll shoot you dead if you try any tricks."

Deteroux shrugged again and held out his hands. The cuffs fell away.

The next moment Deteroux exploded into movement. One terrific back-hand blow swept Whitlow to the ground, half unconscious. With a swoop that rivalled the speed of a diving fish-hawk Deteroux was upon him. The next second he was erect again, and in his hand was Whitlow's revolver.

"Back!" he snarled.

Whirling, he thrust the canoe out into the lake with a tremendous shove, and by a flying leap settled in the stern of it. Then he caught up a paddle and sent the frail craft foaming away.

The paralyzed group behind him broke into feverish action. Benham raced away up to the shore to where other canoes were beached, but already running like a deer, old Moosac was leading him. Whitlow lurched to his feet and shouted for a rifle.

"John!" cried Ellen, despairingly. "John Benham. He'll kill you."

Benham did not hear her. Long before she could reach him he was afloat and hurling all his splendid strength against a paddle. His canoe drove out into the lake with surging eagerness.

But before him was still another of the birch-bark crafts. In the stern of it was a hunched brown figure, with wrinkled, seamed face twisted in a mask of savage hatred. Old Moosac was launched upon some strange trail of retribution.

Deteroux leaned on his paddle, and the power he bent into his stroke snapped the overstrained maple, short in his hands. Snarling he whirled, whipping up a gun.

In the same second the canoes struck, and Moosac lunged out in a great sprawling leap. A moment his spread-eagled body hung clear in the air, and Ellen saw, in the up-raised right hand, a length of glittering steel.

Straight into the centre of that flying body Deteroux flung a bullet. But Moosac's desperate lunge carried him through to his goal. Ellen saw him crash down upon Deteroux, and saw the glittering knife rise and fall—rise and fall. And when it rose the third time it no longer gleamed in the sun. Then both men toppled into the water.

There was a sudden whirl of foam. A hand appeared—once. In it a knife still gleamed. Then it slid slowly from sight. At this moment the straining Benham drove his canoe surging over the spot. His right arm shot down into the water to the shoulder and grabbed something that struggled weakly.

Slowly Benham straightened and dragged the limp figure of Moosac over the side of his canoe. His glance seemed to probe the placid depth of the lake again for a moment, then with a gesture of resignation, he spun the canoe about and drove it back towards the shore.

Moosac was still breathing when they lifted him gently out, but it was plain that life was ebbing swiftly. He was shot through the centre of the body.

White-faced, and murmuring with pity, Ellen cradled the old Indian's head in her lap, and with gentle fingers smoothed back his thin, black, dripping locks.

"Moosac," she murmured brokenly. "Oh—Moosac—how can I face Gitchee now? What can I tell her?"

Moosac stirred. His eyes opened. Strangely enough, he had heard Ellen's words.

"You may tell her our honor is clean, now," he said gently. "You may tell her our own Fawn Eyes, who has been long in the arms of the Great Spirit, is smiling again, for, though Moosac was old, his hand was cunning and his arm was strong."

"Many, many summers ago it was, when Fawn Eyes danced and sang through all the seasons. She was young and joyous. Her sweetness and beauty was that of the wood violet. Then Deteroux came."

"He too was young and good to look upon. Yet even then the man was evil and his tongue was forked. And so there came a day when Fawn Eyes crept home to us. Her spirit was gone and her shame like some terrible disease. And one dark night her spirit went away to the Great Master."

"Long—long has Moosac waited, and today the trail ended, and at its ending Moosac's arm was strong and his aim was true. And Fawn Eyes is smiling."

Moosac's eyes closed again and, gradually, the harsh, savage set of his features softened into a look of peace. Tears blinded Ellen's eyes, and trickled down her cheeks. They fell moist upon Moosac's wrinkled forehead.

Ellen felt a hand upon her shoulder, powerful—yet gentle. She looked up. John Benham was bending over her. "He was a very brave man, Miss Mackay," Benham murmured. "And he shall have a brave man's grave."

The buried Moosac when the purple gloom of the forest was massing in the shadows. Then began the flurry of departure. Tepees were stripped and covering, implements of the hunt, and trapping industry were gathered. Bales of furs unearthed.

Ellen sought John Benham. She found him at the lake edge—alone. A single Peterborough canoe rested on the sands. Ellen's eyes widened, and she looked at the silent Benham shyly.

Presently Benham cleared his throat.

"I owe you an apology, Miss Mackay," he said, a trifle awkwardly. "I'm afraid I've acted pretty boorishly. But Whitlow told me of the source from which you and your father had received certain—certain misinformation."

HAD RHEUMATIC PAINS FOR 25 YEARS

His Arms Were Becoming Useless

It was about 25 years ago that rheumatism first came down this sufferer, and finally the day came when he could hardly lift his arms. But he found relief—here in this letter he tells the whole story:—

"About 25 years ago I first experienced slight muscular rheumatism in my arm and shoulder. A few years later lumbago also attacked me. I gradually got worse until the pain got acute in both arms and loins. I could not lift a jugful of water with my arm extended straight out. About 12 months ago I bought a bottle of Kruschen Salts and by the time it was finished I was agreeably surprised at a slight improvement. I bought another one, and when that was finished all the pain had disappeared and has never appeared since."—T.R.

The pains and stiffness of rheumatism are frequently caused by deposits of uric acid in the muscles and joints. The numerous salts in Kruschen assist in stimulating the internal organs in eliminating this excess uric acid.

Leisure For Farmers

An Editorial in a recent copy of "Better Crops" discusses the problem of adult education along with an outline of the educational needs of the younger generation in the United States.

The following paragraph states rather nicely just why and where of the younger generation in Canada.

"One of the hardest jobs, as we have seen in the AAA efforts has been to get farmers to accept the theory of leisure. Hard work, long hours, and manly endurance were the symbols of pioneer effort, and many a household motto over the rock-shelf has planted those precepts firmly in the fabric of Canadian principle. As I see it, the dread man had of leisure was that they held idle hands before them. Women usually picked up their knitting or darning, hooked rugs, or weaving; but the poor old helpless men folk were up against it on a rainy day. Nobody thought of study, until recently. But as machinery grows in efficiency and land does not expand, there is a time ahead when leisure will be forced on the Canadian farmer whether he wants it or not—and to some extent also in the industrial worker. Are we getting ready to afford mental occupation, or new and inspiring tasks for people to do when that time comes?"

BLACK HORIZON

A New Serial
By JOSEPH LEWIS CHADWICK

The schooner Ventura, a ship without a destination, manned by a strange crew and carrying a stranger freight, moved softly through waters whose very quietness contained a threat.

Sonya Durand had been kidnapped from the island of Maglaya by Maya Jack Cannaghan and shanghaied aboard Rand Kirby's own schooner, where Rand himself was held a prisoner.

Hatred walked the decks of the Ventura—for Rand and Maya Jack both loved Sonya Durand. Danger waited for all of them—in the too-quiet sea and the too-cloudless sky.

The first compelling chapter of this story of faraway islands appears next Wednesday in

When Mr. Menique felt he could not bring the truck back on to the road, he told T. Myre who was with him, to jump but he failed to do so. Mr. J. Smythe was called with his wrecker and soon had everything straightened out. Most fortunately none of the occupants of the truck were hurt and very little or no damage done to the truck.

What's in the Wind

BEAUTY—AND THE BEAST

A number of people have mentioned to me the great pleasure they experienced in hearing and afterwards reading the address given by Mr. E. A. Morgan, ex-Principal of McGill in Huntingdon last Fall.

One lady told me that upon hearing of his resignation she wrote him a letter of regret, expressing her delight in his address to the Women's Institute and saying she didn't expect a reply—just wanted to let him know of her gratitude and friendly feeling. Promptly, however, a courteous reply came back!

A companion on many of his trips told me that Principal Morgan was the soul of courtesy at all times and never failed to send "thank you notes." His hospitality also held a democratic touch. A hundreds of students a couple of students to Sunday Afternoon Tea at R.V.C., one of them the leader of McGill Band. He said, casually, that they were just on their way to have dinner with the Principal and urged the young lady to accompany them. The invitation was informal and inclusive—"bring anyone you like."

Referring to the Principal's famous address on "Beauty," I have recently read in "Castles in Spain" by John Galsworthy, a strikingly similar theme. Galsworthy wrote of the deadly monotony of modern employment which compelled workers to obtain whatever culture they could in their leisure and not as did artisans of old, from practicing their crafts. He accuses the practical business man of having an indulgent contempt for art and beauty.

"Yet beauty, alone, in the largest sense of the word, the yearning for it, the contemplation of it—has civilized mankind. The mistake of all ages, perhaps, has lain in keeping the love of beauty as a preserve of the few, the possession of a caste. . . . Besides cooking and the fine art of being clean, we can bring an inkling of the other fine arts—architecture, literature, painting, music—to children even in the humblest school. It should be our castle in Spain to put beauty within the reach of all."

This was written before the Spanish War. Castles in Spain in these days are no safe havens for beauty! It is comforting, however, to know that Galsworthy put cooking as the first of the fine arts! Very few, alas, of us women get a chance to extend our knowledge of art any further. But the story ends on a hopeful note. "We can build by leaving, each of us, a tiny corner of the universe a little more dignified, lovely and lovable than we found it."

In a way of confirming the romantic ideas of these two Englishmen I am prompted to quote a paragraph from a letter received from a reader of this column: "Are not the mornings just wonderful? When I go out to do my chores I feel as though the whole world was especially created for me. The bubbling, musical notes of the tiny wren is to me a kind of 'God Save the King of earth and heaven' in fact, the whole world seems singing a song of praise. When I say that I feel the world was made especially for me, I also feel that it is made especially for anyone who will claim his heritage."

Mr. S. F. Aaron writing in Scientific American for July 1937, doesn't think that nature is either grand or beautiful. In fact, throughout Nature's realm the almost universal rule is tooth and fang. He ridicules such fanciful expressions as "joyous songs of birds," "music of the spheres," "peaceful" wads as poetic fancies. "All birds sing with exactly the same motive as crowing roosters and gobbling turkeys; that is, as a challenge to others of their species and sex. Their song is merely an expression of ego in relation to possible rivalry." He gives many examples among different species to prove this assertion, and claims that the poet and the naturalist alike may have a poetic streak and the poet be a close observer. Mr. Aaron thinks that we should face the truth, which is often crushed to earth by beauty.

"In nature there is a general rarity of happiness; also that any evidence of joyousness is imaginary, and that peacefulness is almost totally absent alike among creatures that seek their food or are sought for food."

Three Special Days Ottawa Exhibition

Outstanding Features to Mark Jubilee Year—Show To Last Nine Days, Aug. 19th to 28th

Pageantry, thrills and novelty will mark the first three days of the Ottawa exhibition, three special days to celebrate the fiftieth anniversary. Instead of a week, there will be nine days in all, August 19th to 28th, opening on Thursday, August 19th.

Lucky Teter and his daredevil automobile riders will do their stuff for the first three nights. This is claimed to be the most sensational act in outdoor entertainment. With a cast of 800, suitably costumed and with an elaborate stage setting, a historical pageant, Chaudiere, will be presented, and indications are that it will be the most pretentious offering which has been staged in the Capital. A cavalcade with the riders of the ages and fireworks will be added features.

With the exception of the livestock, all departments, including the big midway, will be in readiness for the opening day. Then on Monday, August 23rd, there will be a complete change of entertainments. Goldman and his band; a big song and dance presentation. The Revue of Tomorrow; vaudeville, the best obtainable; horse races, horse show, automobile show and a hundred and one other free attractions will combine to make the 1937 exhibition memorable.

Price lists are available on application to the secretary, as is other information with illustrative literature.

Dundee

George Sutton, operator of the Aubrey Creek Creamery in Dundee which was destroyed by fire recently, has purchased the Stowell Creamery at Stowell's Corners in Dundee. The purchase was made from John Monique, owner and operator of the factory, who plans to retire from the milk business and reside at Dundee Lines.

The factory building contains living quarters on the second floor where Mr. Sutton will reside. The consideration is reported to have been $3500.

At the time the Currie factory went up in smoke, thirty-six families of Dundee were delivering their milk to this station and it is presumed most of these patrons will go with the new owner to the Stowell creamery.

Farm Notes

Helstein-Friesian Association The May Record of Performance list of the Dominion Department of Agriculture records a new champion—a world's champion for three lactations, made on twice-a-day milking. The new honors go to Pontiac Dutchland Deries, 9-year-old Holstein owned in the herd of T. R. Dent, Woodstock; and her latest 365-day production of 27,309 lbs. milk, 964 lbs. fat, raised her three-year production figures to 84,499 lbs. milk, 3054 lbs. fat—a world's record on twice-a-day milking for all breeds by a very wide margin.

In all, 304 animals of the Holstein breed qualified for production honors during the month, with the leaders in the 16 classifications showing an average production of 20,715 lbs. milk, 699.8 lbs. fat in the 365 day division, and 13,907 lbs. milk, 501.8 lbs. fat for 305 days. In both instances the averages include records made on two and three year old heifers.

Leading the list for milk, and second to Mr. Dent's new champion for fat, was the 8-year-old cow Bessie Hornoyke Gerben from the Ontario Reformatory herd at Guelph with a 365-day production of 31,112 lbs. milk; this being the high milk record in Canada for the present year.

Ontario herds furnished eight of the sixteen class leaders, Quebec and Alberta were tied with three, and one each to the provinces of British Columbia and New-Brunswick.

Mechanical action, such as rubbing, tumbling clothes in a washing-machine or squeezing the suds through fabrics, is necessary to dislodge the dirt and grease so that they may be carried away in the rinse water.

Hard Water Soaps The mineral salts in hard water react with the soap to form insoluble silmy lime curds, familiar as the grayish deposits on wash tubs and the ring around the bath tub. These curds are deposited on fabrics making them gray, dingy, and spotted because they are almost impossible to wash off. They often cause an unpleasant odor on clothes. Much more soap is required to make suds in hard water, and even then good laundry work is almost impossible. Soft water does not precipitate lime curds and this is why clothes look and smell so much better when laundering is done in soft water.

Soap manufacturers add "builders" to make soap perform better in hard water. Such added materials are alkaline and while they improve the cleaning power of the soap, general laundry they are destructive to fine materials such as wool, silk and rayon. The intelligent home laundress will get better results with hard water by adding water softeners independently of the soap, and particularly by using them in the rinse water.

To effectively remove the mineral salts it is necessary to add the softener, let the precipitate settle, and drain off the softened water.

When softeners are added to the manufactured soap the price is greater than the value. It is cheaper to buy them separately. The most satisfactory softener is trisodium phosphate, which is the basis of many branded water softeners and it can be bought at the drug store. The next in order named are modified soda, metasilicate, sal soda and borax. Borax is the most expensive and the least efficient in general laundering. Since it is very mild it may be added safely to hard water in which a neutral soap is to be used for washing wool, silk or rayon.

To get the best results when it is necessary to use hard water for laundering, keep good suds in the washing machine at all times. Add trisodium phosphate if the water is very hard. Use several hot rinse waters and agitate clothes during rinsing.

The labels on laundry soaps, particularly packages, sometimes recommend it for all uses including washing of silks and woolsens. If the soap is recommended for general laundering it is safe to assume that it contains too much alkaline material to be used on delicate fabrics.

White laundry bars contain sodium silicate (water glass) which aids the cleaning somewhat. When the white bars dry out, the silicate becomes partially insoluble in water and the soap is then difficult to dissolve.

Yellow laundry soap takes its color from rosin. Rosin increases the lathering power if it does not amount to more than 30 per cent. of the fat. Large amounts tend to make the soap sticky and too soluble and to harden the fabric washed with it. Yellow bars usually contain from 10 to 15 per cent more real soap than white bars and from 30 of 36 per cent water. A smaller amount of builder is used because it will crystallize on the outside of the bar if it is left on.

Mrs. Helmut, Convener of Canadian Industries, read a very interesting paper on the history of Cotton Thread and afterwards distributed a book entitled "Sewing Secrets," issued by The Canadian Spool Cotton Co., and small cakes of Palm Olive soap.

Mrs. Earl Gardner gave a very intelligent account of the recent Provincial Convention at Macdonald College.

Mrs. Cecelia Thomas of St. Regis contributed an unusual feature to the programme when she sang a solo, a hymn of Thanksgiving in the Troquois language. This delighted the audience and later she selected from the Presbyterian Book of Praise, "Nearer My God to Thee," which she said she had learned at school. She was accompanied at the piano by her friend, Mrs. Back.

CONSTIPATION CUTS DOWN YOUR ENERGY, DULLS HAPPINESS

Don't let common constipation take all the fun out of living. This condition drains your vitality and enthusiasm. It may also be the cause of dull headaches, poor appetite, sleeplessness. You feel puny.

Why endure half-sick days when you can correct constipation due to meals low in "bulk" by eating a delicious cereal?

Millions of people have used Kellogg's ALL-BRAN with satisfactory results. Laboratory tests prove it's safe and effective.

Within the body, ALL-BRAN absorbs twice its weight in water and gently cleanses the intestines. Isn't this food better than taking weakening pills and drugs?

Eat two tablespoonsful daily. Three times daily, in severe cases. Serve as a cereal with milk or cream or in recipes. Sold by all grocers. Made and guaranteed by Kellogg in London.

Covey Hill

Mrs. J. C. Barr has received the sad news of the death of her sister Mrs. Sarah Orr, which occurred last Friday at the Edmonton hospital. The funeral service was held on Monday. The immediate relatives left to mourn her loss are Mrs. W. J. Ledoux, Vancouver, and Mrs. John Wilson, Watertown, N.Y., both of whom were with Miss Orr during her last hours; also Mrs. J. C. Barr, Covey Hill, and Mrs. Frederick Orr, Medicine Hat, Alta., to all of whom is extended the sincere sympathy of the former neighbours of the deceased, who was born and spent her girlhood in Covey Hill.

Mr. Charon, representing a waterless cookery manufacturing firm, gave two highly interesting demonstrations last week. Tuesday evening at Mrs. A. L. Stewart's; Thursday evening at Mrs. R. J. Bourdon's. Food values as well as the economy of time and fuel were all dealt with concisely, the other discouraging factor being the almost prohibitive price. Why throw bushels of vitamins away and buy bottles of medicine? Yet some cooks will have burnt and overcooked the old graniteware and save the water the vegetables are boiled in for the soup kettle, thus securing those precious vitamins.

On Thursday afternoon the Ladies Aid of Wesley United Church was entertained by Mrs. C. B. Edwards. About twenty-one ladies were present, including the Misses Christie of St. Lambert, Miss Merle Edwards, of Montreal, Mrs. Christie of Amberley, Mrs. Pearce of Dewittville, and the hostess, Mrs. McKimsey. Sewing garments and quilt blocks occupied the work period. The president, Mrs. A. B. Stewart, conducted the formal meeting with Miss Melba at the piano.

The afternoon's sultry heat made the serving of the tea out-of-doors very acceptable, the tasty chicken party and their vands being enjoyed by all.

Mr. McLean's evening services are proving attractive. Last Sunday he spoke on a subject not often expounded—Christ's anger, which he declared was founded on His love for the oppressed, the poor and the suffering. Our faithful organist, Mrs. Mannagh and her choir were pleased to welcome a gifted musical visitor in the person of Miss Kate Christie of Amberley, Mrs. Brisbane's friends were glad to see her in her accustomed place once more.

A letter from Mr. W. J. Orr, of Hamilton, Ont., states that he is planning to attend the Gideon Convention at Ashbury Park, N.J., July 20-25, and expects to return via Montreal, so hopes to visit "the dear old Hill", and if agreeable to give a message at the evening service on August 1st.
