Urban Affairs Minister favors

Direct regional tax cuts

TORONTO (CP) — Andre Ouellet, urban affairs minister, had some encouraging words about municipal finance Wednesday at a national conference of municipal leaders. Ouellet told the Federation of Canadian Municipalities (FCM) the federal government is thinking of ways to help poorer communities with their financial problems and would like suggestions from municipal leaders. He outlined some ideas although he refused to say which approach he favors. He indicated he thinks the easiest method might be a direct tax rebate to Canadians varying from region to region. The FCM has long sought a better financial deal from the federal and provincial governments but has been making slow headway with the senior levels of government.

FCM president Jack Volrich, mayor of Vancouver, said Ouellet's speech was an important statement and indicated the federal government is willing to discuss the question of municipal finance seriously. He said the federation will submit its ideas to the minister. SETS GOAL Later, the FCM approved a resolution that the federation's main objective this year will be to press for revenue-sharing with senior levels of government. The federation also agreed to set up a committee to develop proposals for reform of the federal constitution. National unity was one of the major issues at the three-day conference and several delegates were demanding more from the FCM than a resolution simply supporting a united Canada. The conference ended Wednesday.

The resolution also says the new constitution should recognize the country's two national communities and include a universal declaration of human rights. Only 50 of the convention's 450 delegates were at the closing session which approved the constitutional committee proposal. Delegates said few were there because the issue came in the final moments of the conference when people were already on their way home. On municipal finance, Ouellet said there are at least three ways the government could help municipalities with financial problems. OFFERS ALTERNATIVES Ottawa could increase spending on federal programs for municipalities, it could provide extra revenue to the provinces for cities and towns or it could introduce a tax rebate system. Perhaps the easiest way to put poor municipalities on an equal footing with wealthier municipalities would be to allow tax rebates varying from region to region across the country, Ouellet said. With the election of Volrich as FCM president and the decision to push the municipal finance problem this year, Paul Godfrey, chairman of Metropolitan Toronto council, said that Metro Toronto will remain in the organization and pay its dues. Metro Toronto had been withholding payment of its membership dues. Montreal is not a member of the FCM. Victoria dropped out two years ago and London, Ont., left this year. Volrich said he will campaign to get Montreal to join the organization this year.

REGIONAL DEVELOPMENT A PRIORITY — Bernard Landry, Quebec Minister of State for Economic Development stated early this week that regions should develop their natural resources to their maximum. In a region like the Eastern Townships his policy would mean a tighter control on the Asbestos Industry as well as local Pulp and Paper concerns. (See story on page 3.) British Leyland to be investigated

LONDON (Reuter) — A political storm threatened to erupt today over newspaper reports that British Leyland, the country's largest vehicle manufacturer, is paying out millions of pounds a year in international bribes. A British Leyland spokesman said today that the company will urgently investigate a report in The Daily Mail that the sterling equivalent of up to $12 million was paid out last year to fix foreign deals, particularly in the Middle East, and that up to $45 million might be spent for the same purpose this year. The report, described by The Mail as the most damning evidence of large-scale business corruption since the Lockheed scandal in the United States, is likely to cause an uproar in Parliament.

Prime Minister James Callaghan is expected to be closely questioned on allegations that the government-owned British Leyland had tacit approval from Lord Ryder, chairman of the Labor government's National Enterprise Board, to pay "slush money." QUOTES LETTER The Mail quotes what it says was a letter from Lord Ryder to Leyland's chief executive, Alex Park, which said: "I must inform you that the proposed method for dealing with special account arrangements has now been nodded through by the secretary of state. You should also by now have received advice on this matter from the Bank of England." The newspaper says the special arrangements covered various methods for paying "fixers" in foreign countries to win orders. They included padding contracts so that local distributors and agents could evade local taxation and bank their profits abroad. The Daily Mail says the payments were being made when Leyland was privately owned but at that time they were ad hoc arrangements and the responsibility of senior executives within Leyland's various plants. Since nationalization in 1975, the payments have been systematized and increased, the newspaper says. PAYMENTS AUDITED "There is even an off-shore centre in Lausanne, Switzerland, which has been given special responsibility for handling most of the payments, all of which are subject to regular audit by a senior official answerable directly to British Leyland's chief executive, Mr. Vark," it says. The newspaper says it has evidence of people calling at Leyland offices in Britain and receiving large bundles of cash in suitcases. Former Leyland managing director John Barber, ousted when the government took over the firm, said he was astounded by The Daily Mail report. "In my time at Leyland, I was never aware of any illegal payments to secure orders," he said. Barber said the newspaper did not appear to differentiate between illegal bribes and justified commissions and he was skeptical of the report. "It would be naive at the very least for a company to put in its own records that they were to pay bribes and how could they possibly forecast the amount. I am skeptical to say the least." The Bank of England, the industry department and the prime minister's office refused to comment on the report.

Posties and government clash

OTTAWA (CP) — Post office controversy erupted Wednesday in the Commons and at union headquarters on the eve of a new round of formal contract talks between the government and the Canadian Union of Postal Workers (CUPW). Progressive Conservative Walter Dinsdale (Brandon-Souris) opened a Commons debate on the post office with a suggestion that a special Commons-Senate committee be appointed to investigate the post office because of "the government's continuing inability to provide Canadians with an efficient postal service." Earlier, CUPW president J9e Davidson called for a royal commission of inquiry into administration of the post office because it "is foundering like a captainless ship without sail or rudder and something must be done to correct this situation."

agree to suspend talks while a commission went to work and commented as he left his news conference: "It is all academic anyway." Dinsdale said he found it distressing that the post office and CUPW are in a head-on confrontation before serious contract talks have started. The current agreement expires June 30. He said the problems in the post office started nine years ago "when there was a headlong rush towards mechanization... and the whole thing was presented to the union as a fait accompli." The union president said CUPW has presented its demands to the post office "and real bargaining starts this week." The union says it wants a guarantee that workers will benefit from technological changes. WANTS PROTECTION Davidson said CUPW is not opposed to changes that will improve post office efficiency but workers should be protected from adverse effects and because "the post office has violated the current contract with impunity, the new contract should have some penalty clauses in it." The current contract was signed in December, 1975, following a seven-week strike. The union said it thought it had won a guarantee that its members would be protected from adverse effects of changes, but the post office has continued to implement changes without agreement between both parties on how to eliminate adverse effects. The contract requires the government to give the union 120 day's notice of proposed technological change, but it does not extend the consultation period if agreement is not reached within that time. John Rodriguez (NDP-Nickel Belt) said in the Commons he endorsed the union call for a royal commission, but rejected Dinsdale's suggestion that the matter be referred to a parliamentary committee because that would make it a political football. However, since Levesque has indicated that no ministers will be demoted, Johnson may take temporary charge of another portfolio, possibly immigration. That responsibility is currently held by Jacques Couture, who doubles as labor minister. Another backbencher frequently mentioned as cabinet material is Jocelyne Ouellet, member for Hull, who may take over one of the portfolios headed by Lucien Lessard, transport and public works. Observers also say Pierre de Bellefeuille, legislature secretary to the communications minister, may be put in charge of either the cultural affairs or communications departments. Louis O'Neill currently holds both portfolios. A less-talked-about cabinet prospect is Guy Chevette, former member of the Cliche Commission inquiry into violence and corruption in the construction industry. Meanwhile, there have been suggestions from within the PQ caucus that Speaker Clement Richard may be asked to step down because of problems he has had in handling national assembly proceedings. Often contradicted by government house leader Robert Burns, Richard may be named to cabinet to smooth his ruffled feathers, observers say. Speculation is that he would be replaced by either Jean-Guy Cardinal, member for Prevost and former Union Nationale education minister, or Louise Cuerrier-Sauve, member for Vaudreuil. Both are deputy speakers.

Que. cabinet shuffle sparks curiosity

QUEBEC (CV) — Since last weekend's strategy meeting of the Parti Quebecois cabinet, political gossip in the provincial capital has increasingly centred on a single question: Who will be the winners and losers in a planned reshuffle of the cabinet? Following the strategy session called to assess the PQ's first six months in power, Levesque announced Sunday that no current ministers will be dropped or demoted. But he sparked hope among backbenchers and perhaps a bit of concern among his cabinet colleagues by saying that two or three new ministers would be named, allowing some "overworked" ministers who now hold more than one portfolio to drop one. There are rumors that an announcement may be made as early as Friday, although the premier may prefer to hold off until after the biennial PQ convention, scheduled later this month. A likely addition to cabinet—PQ members of the national assembly have been openly touting his promotion—is Pierre-Marc Johnson, son of former Union Nationale premier Daniel Johnson. Johnson, member for the Montreal-area riding of Anjou, is head of the party fund-raising campaign currently in progress. Political observers say the 31-year-old doctor and lawyer has made a strong impression on his colleagues. Speculation is that he may eventually replace Social Affairs Minister Denis Lazure in a department that accounts for more than 30 per cent of the provincial budget.

Levesque qualifies Bill 1 humiliating

QUEBEC (CP) — Premier Rene Levesque says he still questions some aspects of the government's language bill. In an interview published today in Le Soleil, Levesque said he was concerned about a clause in the bill which would require English-speaking parents to have their children in Quebec in order to send their children to the English school system. "It doesn't prevent me from sleeping, but I question it at least once a week," he said. On previous occasions Levesque has termed the Charter of the French language humiliating but necessary. The premier did not rule out the prospect of last-minute modifications to the legislation, but said he still is

Begin seeks coalition

TEL AVIV (AP) — Menahem Begin, propelled to the threshold of power by his conservative Likud party's election victory, began a search today for coalition partners to give him a majority in the Knesset, Israel's parliament. High on his agenda was a conference with Shimon Peres, whose defeated Labor party governed Israel since its birth in 1948. Begin has asked Labor to join a national unity government, but several Labor party sources said there is little chance such a coalition can be formed. Begin campaigned on a platform demanding annexation of the West Bank of the Jordan river, which Israel captured from Jordan in the 1967 war. Labor talked about exchanging part of the territory for peace with the Arabs but planned to ring the area with Israeli civilian settlements or military posts. The 63-year-old Likud leader adopted two key policies of previous Labor governments Wednesday. Speaking at a news conference, he called for direct negotiations, with "no prior conditions," between Israel and the Arab governments if

By election crowd GREET JOE CLARK

KENSINGTON, P.E.I. (CP) — An enthusiastic crowd of about 150 Progressive Conservative supporters greeted party leader Joe Clark Wednesday after the close of a busy day of byelection campaigning. As Clark entered the packed church hall, which serves as Conservative campaign headquarters for the federal byelection Tuesday in the Malpeque riding, the crowd burst into the familiar folk song of Prince Edward Island. After a few brief remarks by Clark and other prominent Conservatives from the province, he helped lead the crowd of mainly elderly people in singing more songs. For Clark's entourage, it was a happy ending to a long day which saw the leader and Ian MacQuarrie, a University of Prince Edward Island biologist and the party's candidate in the byelection, visit several communities in this mainly agricultural area, tour a lobster cannery and watch farmers planting potatoes. The visit to the potato farm had not been on the schedule but Clark insisted that he wanted to know more about planting potato "seeds." He soon learned that potatoes do not grow from seeds. Clark started the day, the second in a two-day criss-cross tour of the riding, by addressing high school students in nearby Summerside. The approximately 70 students quizzed him on everything from dissection within the party to the Quebec separatist movement and expansion of the armed forces. After mainstreeting in a Summerside shopping centre, Clark attended a coffee party in a service club in nearby St. Eleanors. VISITS FARM Later, he visited the potato farm in the New London Bay area on the north coast and rode on the back of potato

Bell workers off job

MONTREAL (CP) — A walkout by militant Bell Canada operators, who say their union will not give them details of a settlement in their contract dispute, expanded here Wednesday despite pleas by the union's national leadership to return to work. A Bell spokesman said more than 350 of 470 unionized operators were off the job late Wednesday, compared with 45 Tuesday when the walkout began. Another 55 workers in Chicoutimi, Que., joined the walkout Wednesday, the spokesman added. Some of the strikers congregated in front of Bell's headquarters here with placards critical of Mary Lennox, president of Communications Union Canada (CUC) which represents Bell's 8,500 operators in Quebec and Ontario. The strikers said they had placed no time limit on the walkout and would not consider returning to work until they receive details of the settlement.

Borrowers and Depositors Protection Bill

Abbott urged to withdraw proposed bill

OTTAWA (CP) — Opposition members Tuesday urged Consumer Affairs Minister Tony Abbott to withdraw a proposed consumer credit bill rather than try to refine it with a long list of amendments.

The comments came as Abbott presented the Commons social affairs committee with 40 amendments to the Borrowers and Depositors Protection Bill covering the first 12 clauses of the 44-clause bill. He said there would be more to come in the next few weeks.

Party consumer critic Howard Graffey (Brome-Missisquoi) said it appeared the minister was "setting a record for amendments" and said the legislation should be divided into two or three separate bills.

John Rodriguez (Nickel Belt), New Democratic Party consumer critic, said the bill should be put "in cold storage" until the committee could redraft major portions of it taking into account suggestions made by witnesses.

MOST CHANGES TECHNICAL

But Abbott said many of the amendments were only technical changes in the wording and "are certainly comprehensible." He said he had no intention of withdrawing the bill.

Introduced last November, the bill would standardize the rules covering loans and deposits to give consumers more protection. By making all lenders calculate interest charges in the same way, consumers would be able to compare shop for credit.

Another section of the bill would give police new powers to control loan-sharks.

But the bill has come under criticism from banks, mortgage brokers, trust and finance companies who say many provisions would disrupt the financial market.

Consumer and labor groups say it does not offer enough protection for the consumer and those that are provided are too unwieldy to ever be used.

AMENDMENTS LISTED

Included in the amendments introduced by Abbott Tuesday are the following: —A reduction in the penalty for failure to disclose fully the terms of a loan to a borrower. The original clause would have allowed a court to reduce the interest rate to zero. The new clause would allow reduction of the rate to the prime rate, the rate banks charge for loans to their most creditworthy customers. It currently is 8.25 per cent.

—Small claims or small debts courts would be permitted to determine whether a credit charge was unjust. The bill allows a borrower to force a lender to prove in court the rate charged is warranted but the original provision would have allowed it to be heard only in a superior court. This is designed to simplify the procedure and make it easier for consumers to take advantage of the provision.

—A provision to allow the minister to start a substitute action on behalf of a borrower unwilling to go to court himself. This would meet consumer group criticism that many borrowers would be intimidated by having to go to court and would never exercise remedies available to them.

—A clause saying borrowers cannot misuse the unwarranted rate provisions to avoid repaying loans if there has been no violation of the act by the lender.

—Addition of a defence for media outlets exempting them from penalties for unwittingly publishing or airing a credit advertisement that violates the act.

—A change in the enforcement structure of the act to give the minister of consumer and corporate affairs the powers and duties of administering the act. The original provision called for the setting up of an administrator, who would be a non-elected official.

But at a modest, if not erratic pace

The national economy is recovering

OTTAWA (CP) — The national economy is recovering, but at a modest pace, the finance department says in its annual review.

Not only is economic growth modest, it says, but it has been erratic because of companies building up inventories and then selling them off, and because of industrial disputes in Canada.

But underneath this, there is a pattern of growth that was fairly steady throughout the last year, the department says. Consumer demand increased, production in the economy rose after declining in 1975 and employment increased.

Looking ahead, the finance department says there is still potential for above-average production growth because plant and equipment are under-utilized.

In addition, companies still are engaged in "labor hoarding," the review says, reducing hours of work and using other means to avoid laying off workers. This should permit them to increase production quickly.

The review tabled in the Commons by Finance Minister Donald Macdonald is basically a review of 1976.

RECOVERY CONTINUES — It was a year of continuing worldwide recovery from the most serious problems faced in more than 30 years, the finance department says.

The fact the recovery was modest "reflects caution on the part of governments in stimulating demand in view of the underlying rates of inflation and a failure of investment spending to come forward at its traditional point in the expansion."

Canada made real progress in the fight against inflation, the review says, with consumer prices rising an average 7.5 per cent over 1975 levels. This was down from 10.8 per cent and 10.9 per cent in 1974 and 1975.

However, since year-end, prices have again started to rise.

As for jobs, the finance department says total employment grew by 2.2 per cent in 1976 over the previous year. This represented 209,000 new jobs.

But the labor force grew by 248,000 persons, and unemployment increased to an average of 7.6, 000 for the year. The annual average jobless rate was 7.1 per cent.

UNEMPLOYMENT UP — Like the inflation rate, unemployment has continued to rise since the end of the year. In April, 8.3 per cent of the work force, more than 900,000 Canadians, was out of work.

Industrial relations were volatile, the finance department notes, with a near-record total of man-days lost. Quebec accounted for more than one-half of the total time lost because of several major disputes in the public and private sectors.

About 11 man-days of work were lost because of industrial disputes, 830,000 of this total during organized labor's day of protest against selective wage and price controls last October, the review says.

The anti-inflation board, which monitors pay raises, produced evidence to show there had been "a significant moderation of wage demands" in 1976. Average annual compound increase in new contract settlements fell to 8.4 per cent by the fourth quarter of 1976 from its previous record of 18.8 per cent in the second quarter of 1975, the review says.

Assessing the business investment pattern, the finance department concedes that the anti-inflation program may have caused businessmen some uncertainty. Real business fixed investment fell by 2.9 per cent in 1976 from a year earlier.

This followed a period of substantial additions to capital stocks, the report notes. Considering that industry was operating at only about 80 per cent of capacity, there likely was little incentive to make new investments, the finance department says.

In addition, it notes that business profits declined through 1976. By the fourth quarter, they were about nine per cent below the 1974 peak, and were at a four-year low.

'Canadians running out of time in their quest for renewable forms of energy'

TORONTO (CP) — Canadians may be running out of time in their quest for renewable forms of energy to replace the declining sources on hand, an executive vice-president and director of Imperial Oil Ltd. said recently.

D. K. McIvor said some Canadians appear unconcerned about the decline in conventional energy supplies because they believe some magic new solution will appear in the next five years.

"I am very optimistic that renewable sources of energy will be developed and will be economic," McIvor said. "But I am certain that even with a crash program combined with large-scale conservation they cannot be ready in time to offset the decline in our conventional energy sources."

Speaking at a science and technology conference at the University of Toronto, McIvor said Canada must bridge the gap between the present energy situation and the time when renewable energy forms are brought into widespread use.

He said this should combine three elements—an ongoing conservation effort, continued interest in renewable resource technology and all-out development of existing natural gas, oil, coal, nuclear and hydro potential.

Development of existing conventional resources is an option that should be pursued now, he said. "While Canada does have the luxury of choice when it comes to future energy options, we do not have the luxury of time."

Text of his address was released before delivery.

Municipalities told to be tougher in labour negotiations

TORONTO (CP) — Municipalities were told to be tougher in labor negotiations Tuesday, but some municipal leaders expressed fears their councils would be vulnerable to high wage demands once federal anti-inflation controls were lifted.

Harold Renouf, chairman of the anti-inflation board, told a Canadian municipal conference that municipalities had been granting higher-than-average wage settlements to their employees. He said municipal councils would have to impose restraints to forestall sharp wage increases when federal controls were removed.

But R. Wolfe, deputy-mayor of Winnipeg, said Canadian municipalities will be "sitting ducks" when the anti-inflation controls are removed. If councils resist high wage demands, they would be faced with strikes and interruption of municipal services.

He proposed retention of some kind of federal wage control for public servants until the economy is healthy. But this motion was rejected by delegates at a workshop session at the Federation of Canadian Municipalities (FCM) annual conference.

Wolfe said he will raise the matter again next month at an FCM executive meeting and write Prime Minister Trudeau with his request.

REJECT ATTEMPT — Earlier, delegates rejected a second attempt to get conference approval for a proposal for a constituent assembly to reform the federal constitution and deal with Quebec aspirations for sovereignty.

The conference declared FCM support for national unity Monday but some delegates said the national unity motion is meaningless. They said the municipal group should be more specific and practical.

However, Ald. Michael Harcourt of Vancouver said there may be another attempt to revive the national unity issue before the conference ends today.

Renouf told delegates that since 1968 wages have risen more rapidly for municipal workers than for employees in any other sector.

In the first year of the anti-inflation program, municipal wage agreements were one per cent above federal guides while average settlements for the entire economy were close to federally established levels.

However, Renouf said he personally realizes that municipalities have an inadequate revenue base—the property tax. Municipal leaders have demanded a share of income and sales tax revenue now in the hands of federal and provincial governments.

Loans to petroleum industry increase

MONTREAL — Chartered bank support of Canada's energy industries increased substantially again in 1976, the Canadian Bankers' Association (CBA) says.

Loans to the petroleum sector totalled more than $1.78 billion at the end of the year, up 34 per cent from 1975. By comparison, total business lending rose only 22 per cent.

During the past decade chartered bank oil and gas loans have increased more than 800 per cent or more than twice the increase in total business lending. Business loans by the banks to all types of businesses now exceed $28 billion outstanding.

Large as these figures appear, they are minuscule in comparison to anticipated financing needs for the next 10 years, particularly for energy projects.

Rowland C. Frazee, CBA president, and executive vice-president and chief general manager, The Royal Bank of Canada, says the estimated $800 billion in capital financing which Canada needs between now and 1985 cannot all be raised within Canada.

"The size and stature of Canadian banks means that we can play a lead role in the international funding of large Canadian capital projects," he told a meeting of Montreal financial analysts recently.

"Such foreign financing will be more than a benefit to all Canadians - it is a necessity if we are to develop all the energy and resources projects which lie ahead."

Sweetsburg Court

SWEETSBURG WARD (JM) — "The person who authorized a loan in the amount of $4,681.65 should be the one who should be ordered to a psychiatric examination." Judge Bernard Legare said here earlier this week at the arraignment of Henri Louis Turgeon, of Granby, in his 50s, was not allowed to enter a plea at his arraignment on a count of having defrauded a Granby branch of the Canadian National Bank of the above mentioned sum on May 4.

Crown attorney Claude Noiseux suggested the psychiatric examination and his motion was upheld by defence lawyer Pierre Gibeau of the Legal Aid Office. Turgeon was remanded in custody in Sherbrooke for a psychiatric profile and his arraignment was continued to June 16 in Granby division of Sessions Court.

Jean Claude Gallant, 19, Granby, who had been remanded in custody for three months following a plea of guilty to charges of receiving stolen goods valued at $2,560 and attempted breaking and entering and willful property damage at the Miss Granby Restaurant saw his sentence continued to Nov. 21.

Judge Legare freed the young man following representations from his lawyer, Pierre Gibeau, who told the court he felt the period of incarceration had been sufficient and his client had made arrangements to join the Canadian Forces on his release.

Eugene Farrell, Mansonville, pleaded guilty to counts of impaired driving when his blood-alcohol level was 100 mgs., and to possession of a firearm dangerous to the public peace in South Bolton, Apr. 15. He was fined $100 and costs, in default 30 days on the first count, $50 and costs, in default eight days on the second, and was allowed 30 days to acquit the fines and costs.

Denis Dostie, Granby, saw his preliminary hearings on counts of indecent assault and qualified robbery continued to June 16 at the request of the crown who told the court his victim on the first charge was not able to appear. The hearings will be heard in Granby.

Roch Dextradeur, Granby, pleaded guilty to a charge of possession of a television set he knew had been obtained through the commission of crime in Canada in Granby, Nov. 29, 1976. His sentence was adjourned to July 17 to allow preparation of a pre-sentence report.

Gaetan Vallieres, St-Alphonse de Granby, pleaded guilty to two charges of uttering forged cheques with a total value of $155 in Valcourt during November 1975. His lawyer, Pierre Gibeau, told the court the charges had been forgotten when his client pleaded guilty to a number of others and had been sentenced to 10 months. "He only has three and a half months left and I suggest any term imposed be concurrent as the crimes all occurred in a short lapse of time," Mr. Gibeau said.

Crown attorney Noiseux concurred with the remarks of the defence and Judge Legare sentenced him to three months, concurrent, on each charge.

Andre Lemieux, Granby, pleaded guilty to a charge of having been illegally at large from the Sweetsburg Jail May 7. His lawyer, Pierre Gibeau, told the bench his client had been sentenced to 90 days on weekends and had only missed the one appearance. "The person he rode over with on Friday nights didn't show up," Mr. Gibeau said. "My client tried to hitchhike, however couldn't obtain a lift. He then communicated with the prison. The next day he was told to report to hospital for surgery which he did," Mr. Gibeau then produced a certificate proving his client had been hospitalized for the period cited and asked for a suspended sentence in view of the extenuating circumstances.

Crown attorney Noiseux asked for a two day term to be imposed when his time is up July 2. However, Judge Legare adjourned his sentence to July 18 to determine the behaviour of the accused in the interim.

Maria Gloria Guverenez Galacia and Sylvia Arnaiz Alejandres, both in their 20s from Mexico, pleaded guilty to charges of illegal entry into Canada at Sutton, Apr. 26, when their passports had expired. Special prosecutor Francois Bourassa told the court he would be satisfied with time served. However, Judge Legare told him his request was impossible under terms of the Immigration Act.

Cpl. Gilles Rioux, RCMP, told the court they were the objects of an immigration detention order pending their deportation and the judge then imposed a suspended sentence.

Landry comments on Que. economy

SHERBROOKE (GB) — Bernard Landry's address to the Sherbrooke population, Tues. night at the Sherbrooke C.E.G.E.P. was in essence a mixed bag of opinions on the present state of Quebec's economic development, its drawbacks and future position in the world market.

The Minister of State for Economic Development stressed throughout his speech the importance of regional development. He cited the asbestos industry as an enterprise needing a number of important modifications to make it profitable for the region.

"We don't have control of large enterprises," he said. "We must maximize the profits from natural resources." He went on to say that the asbestos industry is able to create employment for twice the number of men presently working in the mines if Quebec converted raw materials to be sold on the international market.

With a large number of local business people on hand there seemed to be a certain amount of lip service paid to the Quebec business ethic. "Quebec business has the imagination to be successful," he often said, "but we are at present at a tough economic juncture".

Mr. Landry said that he did not believe that government injections into the economic system would solve the problems of failing enterprises. Grants to enterprises in serious economic difficulties only prolong the time before they perish. Landry told the audience that Quebec needed a global policy to get the Quebec economy back on its feet. He spoke of the future introduction of the "Law of Industrial Co-operation" which would establish definite government policies for subsidies to enterprises.

"What we need is more co-operation between industries who manufacture the same products," he said.

Citing the example of the tent-trailer industry in Quebec, he said that the Quebec tent-trailer industry should cooperate more closely to advance technologically and use common resource facilities as Americans are presently doing in the same industry.

The impending doom looming over the close of the East Angus Pulp and Paper Mill was the concern of many businessmen during the question and answer period.

Mr. Landry suggested that the company had failed in its collective responsibility since it had neglected to reinvest part of their profits to keep the machinery updated. "Companies must have a collective responsibility," he said.

While there are many things wrong with the Quebec economy, Mr. Landry maintained as often as he could that the situation was temporary. He suggested that if Quebec develop an international market to sell its natural resources the future investment in Quebec, the construction and the further development of natural resources would contribute towards Quebec's prosperity.

Bernard Landry concluded by saying that companies must develop a collective notion of profit - develop a system whereby profit does not become the only goal of an enterprise but thought is put into its future competitiveness.

The grant system used in the past to support ailing industries must be reshuffled, he said. Enterprises must look towards creating more employment and developing secondary industries. It is only in this way that Quebec will become prosperous, he said.

Laurier descendant addresses Que.-Can.

By JOHN McCAGHEY (Record Reporter)

GRANBY — The statement, "Canadians we are, Canadians we shall die," brought a standing ovation at the opening of a meeting of the newly formed Granby-Waterloo chapter of the Quebec-Canada Federation held at Parkview Elementary school here Tuesday night. Henri Laurier the grandnephew of former prime minister Sir Wilfred Laurier, was paraphrasing his illustrious ancestor who once said, "A British subject I was born. A British subject I shall die."

A local member told the audience 700 persons had joined the chapter's movement in a recruiting blitz over the past two weeks and an additional 600 membership cards are in circulation in Shefford county.

Mr. Laurier who was introduced by Jacques Noiseux told the audience of 140 he was first introduced to the federation's aspirations while skiing in the Eastern Townships last winter when he was invited to visit Doug Keene at his home near Austin.

"He showed me the logo and outlined the federation's goals. Imagine my surprise the next day when a client from the Hull area visited my Montreal office wearing the same crest," Mr. Laurier said. "It was then I realized the idea was not an isolated one from a small minority but one becoming a cohesive group throughout the province that could have a profound impact on the outcome of the proposed referendum on separation if and when it is called."

He cited the quiet revolution of the Lesage government in the early 1960s. "I was happy then. However, when De Gaulle came and made his statement 'Vive le Quebec libre' at Montreal City hall July 24, 1967 I became more apprehensive."

Today we have Rene Levesque blaming everything on the anglophones while the reality of the matter is compulsory education only became a fact in 1944, 45 years after our sister province of Ontario."

He told the audience the Bourassa regime had always preached the dangers of separatism until it became a reality November 15. "The 16 per cent of the undecided vote obviously listened to Levesque's call for good administration, otherwise we would have a minority Liberal government in power today."

"The major factors that caused the downfall of the former Liberal government in order of priority were: corruption, failure to cope with labor problems, the personality of the premier himself."

"Bourassa reminded me of Louis XIV," Mr. Laurier said. "His regime was no longer democratic and I lost all confidence in him."

He suggested only 11.5 per cent of Quebecers are hard-core separatists.

"The Parti Quebecois' are replacing the church as the focal point in Quebec today. Unfortunately they display fascist tendencies and many of their information meetings remind me of Goebbels," he said. (Dr. Josef Goebbels was Hitler's propaganda minister and is credited with having coined the phrase, "The bigger the lie the more often it is told, the more likely it is to be believed.")

The Pequistes are abrogating our language rights which are entrenched in article 133 of the BNA act which insured bilingualism in the courts and the legislature. If those rights are completely abolished, pressure must be brought to bear on the federal government to insure they are tested or tried before the Supreme Court.

"Possibly they are employing a form of shock treatment and will back down in certain areas before Bill 1 becomes law. Nonetheless the current state of the economy indicates we will starve if Quebec separates. We must prepare to fight and defeat the referendum."

Henri Laurier, QC was born in Ottawa and received his law degree from McGill University. He served in the Royal Canadian Air Force during World War II and has been active in the education field, taught at Vanier College and is a member of the Canadian Council of Christians and Jews.

His closing remarks: "There are 150,000 members of the PQ today. However, our apolitical federation which is mushrooming throughout the province will accede that number by the end of the year," brought another standing ovation from the primarily anglophone audience before the opening of a lively question period. The graduation dance was held at the Sheraton Mount Royal Hotel in Montreal on Saturday evening, May 14 and it was a decided success. The dance was preceded by a dinner. Members of staff, invited Trustee Board executive and Alumni executive attended. Arthur Burke, staff member, was in charge of arrangements. After the dance there was a faculty party, and the graduates had a party. Many of the Grads and their guests saw the sunrise from atop Mount Royal and many were breakfast guests at the parental home of Ian Ferguson.

Grade 7 has had two field trips. Dorothy Duncan and Duncan Graham organized a visit to Sheldon's granite cutting shed that was most fascinating. Mr. Graham and Heather Bunner planned the trip to Georgeville at the McTavish resort and they enjoyed the bird sanctuary. Another wonderful trip.

Duncan Graham will be in New York City this weekend to attend a regional copred meeting.

The play, "The Enemy of the People" will be held in Pierce Hall on Friday evening for the student body and on Saturday evening, May 21 for the public. This play by Ibsen had been adapted by Arthur Miller and involves quite a sizeable cast. The play is directed by Rev. R. W. Peirce, Master of English.

And Track is the sport of the spring season. There will be a duel match at Galt on Wednesday and a team of Bantams will be in Richmond. Our school will have teams at the Galt Invitational on May 21. Here at the school, play-offs are taking place in softball and other sports.

Outdoor living

Victoria Day weekend marks the opening of our provincial parks, camping grounds, and picnic areas. For many it brings that traditional first outdoor trip of the season. More and more people are getting back to nature. Increasing numbers are leaving the concrete confinement of cities and towns and heading for wide open spaces every chance they get. For fun, sport, health, and learning, the natural way is the only way. Here in Quebec and the Eastern Townships, we are surrounded by the beauty of nature, and limitless opportunities exist to explore every facet of outdoor life.

Quebec has more fresh water than any other province in Canada, covering 15 per cent of the total area of the province. Many of our lakes and rivers are easily accessible playgrounds for those who like the outdoors, but still want running water in their cottage, a motor on their boat, and a store just down the street.

Many of Quebec's lakes are as far out-of-the-way as anyone would want to be. These virginal lakes are a fisherman or naturalist's delight, with promises of quiet, clear water, clean air, and most of all, a world away from it all.

Forest covers almost half the total area of Quebec. The beauty of the color and quiet of the woods attracts everyone with hiking trails that seem to never end, more Canadian wildlife than you'll ever see in a zoo, and exceptional scenery that can't be matched. For those true campers who like shaking it rough, our woods are a dream come true. If you don't like the idea of hitching a trailer up to a gas or hot water outlet, our forests offer you lots of sky and space, a personal choice of thousands of campsites, and a guarantee that you won't trip over someone's electric barbecue when you get up in the morning.

Provincial parks in Quebec cover 75,000 square miles - 13 per cent of the total area. There are 30 major parks and 24 provincial campgrounds. These open-air recreation centers offer a world of things to see and enjoy.

In a complicated world, we must appreciate the beauty of simplicity. We can no longer take our natural resources for granted, but we must get out and savor the beautiful world they offer. We must get back to nature - be a part of it and make it a part of us.

How about singing O Canada?

To the Editor:
I have been prompted to write this letter after attending the spring concert at the Richmond Regional High School one evening last week. It was an enjoyable event and I have only one comment to make. Whatever happened to the tradition of closing a program by all rising to sing "O Canada?" I mentioned it to a few friends and they agreed it had been so long since they had sang our national anthem that they wondered if they remembered the words. Come on, now, don't tell me there's a generation coming up that won't know "O Canada!" I have no doubts but what that very well-trained band can play this, I would dearly love to hear them. Why not? Wouldn't a school concert be a good place to get into practice? Sing it in English or sing it in French but let your voices be heard. By the way, when was the last time you attended a public gathering and closed the program by singing O Canada? Thank you for your space.

Scolding answered

To the Editor:
My hat is off to Mr. W. A. Bradley of Lennoxville, that gentle man certainly told the story like it is! In answer to the very sound scolding which I recently received from Mr. McElreavy, I must say that Irishman sure got his Irish up!

In his letter of April 20th, he referred to me as an old doat, I am so very thankful that I am not doating enough to stick up for Levesque. In a recent Record I read an article in which Levesque asked a group of 10 to 12 year old children how many of them thought Quebec should separate. That reminded me of an old fox in amongst a bunch of little chickens, the man is a maniac, he should be shut up some where. I think the Liberals should hold a referendum too, as well as the P.Q., because I don't think the separatist count of votes should be considered trust-worthy if they declare themselves the winners of the referendum. There has been a great deal of criticism going on, by the separatists, because there is not complete bilingualism in the air, well big deal, according to the separatists, we do not have an official language on the ground. They are just so used to hogging everything they find that so hard to put up with. No half a cake for them! They want it all! I heard a lady physician say recently on the Saturday evening program "Response" on TV that the French culture and language were endangered by the American programs coming in here also all the English magazines which the people in Quebec were reading. My, she must smarten up and put a "bug" in Dr. Camille's ear, so he will have time to stick another law on to the "Black paper", "All American programs and English magazines to be prohibited from this day forth, etc. etc. also all English signs which must be in French only, including road signs."

I guess they think if separatists understand the road signs, it really does not matter, if tourists or other people living here, make a mistake in the traffic, by not understanding written words on signs, and get their heads bashed in, in an accident. They would likely just yawn and say, "Oh, well so what! Just one less of those characters to bother us!" It seems to me if they had of "permitted" the road signs, at least, to have been bilingual it would not seem so funny for them to be taking over the accident victim part of the car insurance now.

Maybe they planned this all out in order to make a bundle.

If Mr. McElreavy could forget his children, grandchildren and great-grandchildren (wonderful as I am sure they must be) for a moment, and his memory can take him back to Bourassa's bill 22, can he in honesty, say that children were not given tests, and parents sworn to their mother tongue, then told which schools the children had to go to, if he says that is a lie, then it is a lie that the Irishman is telling be gorry, and not me.

Also Mr. McElreavy tells us his family can all speak French, and most of them read and write it as well, to that I say, "Well bully for them" but what about all the people in Quebec who are not so fluent in French. Do they not matter? Thanks to the Editor for space.

The name of the government game is patience, perseverance

COMMENT

By DAVID SHERMAN
(Record Reporter)

I want to tell you about a little game. I call it the government run-around. It's something I've learned since working for this newspaper. It's quite simple actually. All you need is a desk, telephone, a full package of cigarettes, a pen and very little paper. Also, to kill time, it's important to bring some sandwiches, a few detective novels, a guitar and if possible a portable television set. You are now ready to begin. And the best thing about the game is you can play it with as many people as you like and for as long as you want. A few hours up to several days, but, as the surgeon general will probably tell you, prolonged exposure to this type of amusement can be hazardous to your health.

Calloused dialing finger and sweaty ear syndrome are only the minor side effects. Insanity and possible blindness, coupled with acne have also been known to occur. Nevertheless, this is how you play the game. First pick a topic. Any topic. It could be pollution, health, energy, culture, or (shudder) language, any topic that you know the government knows a lot about and of which you know very little. The idea is to try and get information from the government in Quebec City. Here in the office, whenever things are quiet, we just say, "Let's play the government run-around," and gleefully tackle the telephones.

First dial the minister in question. A secretary will usually answer happily, listen quietly and tell you to hold while she transfers you. The game has begun. Soon, you reach another secretary who will again listen, this time probably a little less patiently and tell you the person, whoever it is you've been transferred to, is not there.

Now at this point, it's recommended that you keep a stop clock and budget sheet, plus a chart for tabulating minutes into dollars on your phone bill. You also have to decide whether to keep going, just leave a message or ask who else you could speak to. The latter will involve perhaps more minutes of waiting on a dead line while the secretary checks into who she can pass you off to. If you're still willing, soon she'll return with another number and you start again. You place another call, go through another handful of secretaries and find either the person you called doesn't know anything at all about the information you want or, better yet, he won't be there. You then leave another message and wait.

If you are fool hardy enough to leave the telephone, that is the time the message will be returned. But, if you decide to wait, then there won't be a call at all. The game can then be carried over to the next day, where you dial the same numbers again and receive the same replies. The record so far for continuous playing is three months with the Minister of Social Affairs, held by some reporter. But, it looks like another record may be set trying to get information for the Minister of Industry, Rodrigue Tremblay on the government's plans for Domtar in East Angus.

It's too early to tell for sure, we've only spent a week at the game, but indications are good that a record may be set or the game may be called off on account of disinterest in September when Domtar closes.

Will authorities prevent assassination

WASHINGTON -- The grim Korean phrase "up se burida," an assassination order, has been transmitted from Seoul to the Korean Central Intelligence Agency in this country.

Its operatives have been instructed to eliminate one of the South Korean regime's most outspoken critics, radio commentator Dr. Youngche Kang. By exposing the plot in advance, hopefully we may save his life.

We cannot reveal how the death message was intercepted, without endangering sources. But U.S. authorities are aware that the terse words "up se burida" have been received by the KCIA in America.

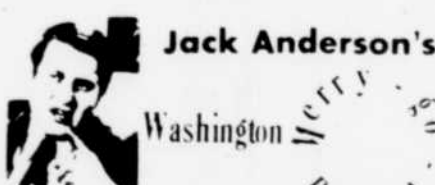

The phrase, according to Korean linguists, means "to be eliminated by force" or "to dispose of by force" or "to be made to disappear." Apparently, this is what the KCIA has in mind for the forthright Dr. Kang.

The broadcaster got wind of his danger a few days ago and complained at once to the Washington field office of the FBI. For several months, the FBI has been investigating KCIA intimidation of Korean exiles in the United States.

This isn't the first time that Kang has been menaced by the KCIA. On Aug. 17, 1973, The New York Times reported that he had received a less explicit threat. He was then editing a monthly political sheet, "Free Republic," which was highly critical of South Korean President Park Chung Hee.

Kang's mother had written from Korea, warning that she and his brothers would be in jeopardy if he continued his attacks on President Park. This was followed by a similar but softer letter to his publisher, Sun Nam Chung, from a relative. Kang is convinced that both letters were dictated by the KCIA.

Kang is an associate of Kim Dae Jung, who challenged Park for the presidency in 1971. Kim came to Washington in 1973 to complain to us about Park. Not long afterward, the exile leader was abducted in broad daylight from a Tokyo hotel.

On Dec. 6, 1974, we published his account of how he had been dragged aboard a ship, lashed to a wooden board and weighted down with huge stones. The appearance of an American helicopter in the area probably saved him from being cast overboard. His abductors finally dropped him off in Korea where he was placed under house arrest.

At the urging of Kim's friends, we made a personal appeal to President Park to free the opposition leader. Interestingly, Park agreed that the abduction was probably the work of the KCIA. But he added earnestly: "I swear to God that I had nothing to do with this ugly affair." He refused, nevertheless, to release Kim.

Later, on July 17, 1975, we broke the story that the KCIA was buying off U.S. congressmen and terrorizing Korean exiles in this country. A Korean embassy spokesman called this "outright, malicious slander."

Yet the following year, South Korean Ambassador Pyong Choon Hahn admitted that KCIA agents had used "goon psychology and tactics" against Korean residents in the United States. He announced that the agents had been ordered back to Seoul.

We have evidence, however, that they are still threatening and harassing Korean exiles. A source with direct, official knowledge confirmed that a KCIA assassination order has been received against Kang.

committee founded by the kidnapped Kim.

Kang, however, is careful to check under his car each time he drives it, and he is wary of strangers near his suburban home.

Footnote: We warned on Nov. 16, 1975, that Chile's secret police had "lured thugs to track down and assassinate prominent exiles." The following September, exile leader Orlando Letelier was blown up in his car as he was driving down Washington's embassy row. Investigators are convinced that Chilean agents arranged the assassination. Now once again, we are giving advance warning of an assassination plot. Let's hope the authorities will be able to prevent it this time.

Who's News: Managing director Donald Brunner helped arrange the Federal Maritime Commission's biggest kickback settlement -- a $4 million deal with Sea-Land Service. Then two weeks after he left the commission, he joined Sea-Land's law firm. Brunner sat on the government's side of the table during the Sea-Land case but didn't take part in the final negotiations. Two days before a settlement was announced, he was approached by the lawyers on the other side about joining their firm. Brunner is now a member of the firm, Ragan and Mason. He handles some matters for Sea-Land but not the rebate case. "I wouldn't be here if I thought there was a conflict," he told us.

Last week we reported that the Navy planned to furnish Adm. Sam H. Moore with an oceanographic research vessel for his retirement ceremony -- at a cost to the taxpayers of $8,210 a day. Our inquiries led to hurried conferences among the admirals. Now we've learned that the Navy has quietly canceled the ship's voyage up the Potomac for Moore's pomp and circumstance. The official reason for the cancellation, the ship might not be able to navigate the Potomac without grounding on a sandbar.

To celebrate 56th anniversary

BOLTON CENTRE (WW) — We wish to welcome Mr. C. P. Nolan, M.B.C. and Mrs. Nolan, who have come to reside at their eldest daughter's home on East River Road.

They will be celebrating their 56th Wedding Anniversary on May 24, along with their two daughters, Mr. and Mrs. Winston DuVal (Connie) and Mr. and Mrs. Larry O'Murtagh (Doris), celebrating their 30th Wedding Anniversaries on the same day.

Both daughters were married on their parents'

26th wedding anniversary, on the same day, in the same church at St. Ignatius of Loyola College, in Notre Dame de Grace, Montreal, in a double military wedding.

Mr. Nolan, who just recently celebrated his 85th birthday is anticipating a continued happy, healthy life, going fishing with son-in-law Larry, a long-time hunter and fisherman. Mrs. Nolan, who is in her 80th year, is an accomplished artist.

They will be celebrating at a private dinner party with their family.

Golden Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Davidson

MELBOURNE — Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Davidson of Melbourne who celebrated their 50th Wedding Anniversary on April 20 were given an "At Home" party at the Belleview Golf Club by their children and grandchildren on April 23rd, 1977 from 2-5 p.m. and evening.

On arrival the honored guests were met at the door by their son Ross and daughter Barbara. Ross pinned an orchid on his mother and Barbara a white carnation on her father and they were then taken to their seats of honor.

The hall was prettily decorated with streamers, wedding bells and golden 50 plaques. On their wedding day April 20th, the couple received a dozen beautiful carnations at their home, from their grandchildren and great-grandchildren.

A wishing well placed at the entrance of the hall was made and given by a granddaughter Debra Noble and the guest book was in charge of their granddaughters Angela and Donna Davidson, and punch was served to the guests by the children.

The afternoon was spent in chatting and reminiscing with relatives, friends and neighbors, among whom were the Spooner Pond W.I. in a group, all the celebrants' seven children, their wives and husbands, as well as twenty five of their grandchildren and five great-grandchildren, as Michael Mace was unable to attend due to having exams.

A buffet lunch was served from the long table centred with the three-tier wedding cake trimmed in gold and white which graced the buffet table. The cake was made and decorated by a cousin, Mrs. Wilfred Lancaster and tea was poured by Mrs. Davidson's sister Mrs. Elma Willey and Mr. Davidson's sister, Mrs. Pearl Tibbitts.

Mr. and Mrs. Davidson received a telegram from Sue and Art Davidson of Toronto. Congratulations were also received from Prime Minister Pierre Trudeau and Governor General and Madame Leger.

The celebrants received a family album from the family with all their family pictures, plus money. A number of cards, money and gifts including a 50th cream and sugar set from the Spooner Pond W.I., a 50th anniversary cup and saucer from the Ladies Auxiliary of the Canadian Legion, Richmond and another 50th anniversary cup and saucer and a gold cup and saucer.

Around 7 p.m. the family, relatives and neighbors gathered in the hall and dancing was enjoyed during the evening to the music of Disco-Mobile by a grandson-in-law Mario Boccarosa. A buffet lunch was served at midnight.

At the close of the evening their son Ross thanked everyone for coming, also gifts and for making the evening such a happy and memorable event which will not be forgotten by his parents. A few words of appreciation were also extended from all their sons and daughters who spoke in turn, also granddaughter Cheryl and grandson Eddie.

A few well spoken words were given by Ronnie Mastine, a very close friend of the family and Wilfred Lancaster who brought back memories of the past to the family with humorous comments. Relatives and friends who attended were from Wilmington, Mass., Concord, N.H., Strathroy, Stouffville, Glen Williams, St. Thomas, Mississauga and Ottawa, Ont., Huntingdon, Montreal, Granby, Brome, Magog, Knowlton Landing, St. Hubert, Lachine, South Durham, Ste. Christine, Danville, Richmond, Kirkdale and Melbourne, Que.

Stitchin' Time

A teen's room that's feminine with flair

By Joanne Schreiber

When your daughter turns into her teens, it's time to give her room a newer, more grown-up outlook. Her room is a reflection and extension of her personality, her first experiment with interior design, and her very own sanctuary. Her room is important, in many ways, and well worth fixing up.

Begin with the color scheme. Ideally, it should be soft and feminine — not, for example, bright red or deep blue, as a child's room might be done. Here, sunny yellow sparked with white sets a cheerful mood.

The casement windows serve as the focal point. The band of taupe around the window frame picks up the color of the leaves in the floral print, and dramatizes the bright yellow-and-white gingham in tie-back curtains and a laminated shade that spans all three windows. A room darkener for late sleepers (and don't teenagers sleep late!), the shade is finished with white-trimmed

FOR THE TEENAGE daughter of the house: window treatment is the focal point, with a wide laminated shade in yellow and white gingham stretching across the three windows. Simple tieback curtains frame the unit. White furniture, floral wallpaper with matching fabric, and a soft white rug complete the decor.

scallops and a wood ring pull. The simple tie-back curtains are made with a casing at the top, and simply shirred onto a tension rod set inside the window frame. They are cut to below sill length, to touch the top of the window seat arrangement. They are pulled back to show the plant collection on the sunny windowsill.

The round table is given a floor length cover of the floral print, and a square overcloth of the gingham. A collection of pillows around the room repeats the two fabrics.

The window seat arrangement is composed of three low chests, joined by the long gingham covered cushion. Self-welting edges the window pillow, and the round cushions on the wicker chairs.

This is an easy room to sew. The curtains are unlined. The throw pillows are made sham-style with back openings and no zippers. The gingham fabric by Waverly is available quilted as well as plain, so the quilted bedspread requires only edge-finishing.

A girl's teen years are so important to her future development. Her own pretty room, prettily decorated, will play an important part in that development.

Peaches perk up baked beans

By Aileen Claire
NEA Food Editor

PEACHES 'N' BEANS

Fruits and vegetables go well together, although too often we forget to try them in combination. Peaches, especially, set off bean dishes. Add sliced cling peaches to brick oven baked beans, sprinkle with almonds and brown sugar and bake. This makes a good barbecue dish. The beans and peaches are also good when eaten cold, a custom devotees of the legume enjoy.

1 can (28 ounces) brick oven baked beans
1/4 teaspoon ground cinnamon
1 can (20 ounces) sliced cling peaches, drained
1/4 cup slivered almonds
1/4 cup packed brown sugar
Preheat oven to 350 degrees. In a bowl, mix beans and cinnamon. Turn into a 1 quart casserole. Top with peach slices. Sprinkle with almonds and brown sugar. Bake 25 minutes. Makes 8 servings.

PEACHES and brick oven baked beans make a welcome combination.

Les Picard, a pastor of Second Mile Ministries, officiated at the ceremony. Standing with Vera and Gordon were Denise Mullin and Bruce Henderson, acting as godparents. Together, her godparents and parents took vows to do their best to bring Anne Shirley up as a Christian. Also attending the ceremony were Vera's parents, Ross and Joan Sampson and her brother and sister, the Lloyd Shaughnessy family, Kathy McComb and Margaret Taylor. Refreshments were served at the Simons' home, after the ceremony.

TORONTO (CP) — Eighteen sketches by Clarence Gagnon, an early Quebec painter, were sold to Toronto art dealer Phil McCready for $58,000 at the Sotheby Parke Bernet Canada auction recently. Pre-auction estimates for the works had ranged from $15,000 to $18,000. A single canvas painted in 1911 and 1912 by Group of Seven artist Tom Thomson was withdrawn when bids fell short of the reserve bid, but other works by the group sold at or above pre-auction estimates. Evening, North Shore.

Lake Superior, by Franklin Carmichael, sold for $36,000—$2,000 higher than the pre-auction estimate.

TORONTO (CP) — Jack Ayre, who was a pianist for the musical group The Dumbells, died of a heart attack during the weekend. He was 83. The Dumbells was a musical group of 11 soldiers of the 3rd Canadian Division who began working together to entertain soldiers shortly after the battle of Vimy in 1917. The group disbanded in 1929 but met occasionally for reunions. Ayre's last public concert was at Ontario Place in 1971.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Television comedian Bob Newhart has said that protests from fans have caused him to change his mind about quitting his CBS series The Bob Newhart Show.

Newhart, who plays Chicago psychologist Bob Hartley on the show, made the announcement during the taping of a recent Tonight Show on NBC. Newhart said he had just ended a vacation that took him to various parts of the country.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) You could be diverted from your primary responsibilities today. Don't fall too far behind or you'll have a lot of last minute catching-up to do.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) You're entitled to some time off. Treat yourself to an evening out so you can be served instead of serving.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Plan things around the family or folk for your social diversion today or tonight. You'll have more fun within these circles.

diamond tricks and A carefully discarded the deuce of hearts on the second diamond and the ace of hearts on the third one. Now B led a heart and A ruffed to set South one trick and give A and B a top score.

"What a magnificent play," said South. "I bet that you are the only pair to set four spades."

"Probably so," replied A. "but back in 1927 or 28 B and I beat a spade game in Wilbur Whitehead's column by that same play. I knew we weren't going to beat you more than one trick. This was a safety play just in case you were void of hearts."

ASK THE JACOBY'S

The gremlins got to us in one of our answers a couple of months ago. The bidding was supposed to have proceeded three clubs-pass-pass-double, but somehow or other an extra pass got in.

The double after two passes is for takeout. The double after three passes is for the birds.

Memorial Service

ROCK ISLAND (IH) — Friends at the Boundary and areas were saddened to learn of the death of Gail Robertson at a Montreal hospital in early May.

A memorial service will be held in Stanstead South Church, Rock Island, on Tuesday evening, May 24 at 7:30 p.m. with Rev. Gordon Mitchinson officiating. Gail comes from North Shore, in Northern Quebec and was in Rock Island for three years as a student at Alexander Galt High School. She was 18 years of age and had latterly been in Montreal. Her death was caused from a heart condition.

While in Rock Island, the first year she stayed at the home of her cousins, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Robertson and family, but after they sold their home on Main street, Gail stayed at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Garry Rolleston and family for another two years.

Gail taught in Stanstead South Church Nursery Kindergarten where she was well liked by the youngsters. She was also a popular student at the High School. Since February she had been mostly hospitalized.

The funeral was held in Montreal with interment in her home Village in North-east Quebec.

Special Service

MELBOURNE — Mr. Wayne Josefson officiated on Mother's Day Sunday at L'Église des Cantons de L'Est and welcomed the congregation on the special day.

The Superintendent of the Sunday School, with the various classes, and Mr. Josefson, gave a flower to each child, who, in turn, gave it to their mothers, after which the classes returned to the Sunday School room.

A very interesting and impressive sermon was given for the occasion.

The offering was received by Mr. Real Laroche and Mr. Gaston Vidal.

Mr. David Fortier, organist, presided, and the choir rendered as an anthem, Tell Mother I'll be there. Appropriate hymns were also sung.

Obituary

MRS. Wm. BERGERON of Sutton
The death of a well known and highly respected resident of Sutton occurred suddenly at her home on April 18, 1977.

Mrs. Bergeron was born in Sutton on July 21st, 1889, daughter of the late Josiah Wheelock Kemp and his wife, Fanny Maria Winchester. She taught school in West Sutton, also at Elva in Abercorn.

On August 23rd, 1911, at the All Saints Church in Dunham, she married the late William D. Bergeron. She was a faithful co-worker for the Canadian Red Cross Sutton Branch for over 32 years, a faithful member of Grace Anglican Church, and was keenly interested in all work pertaining to the church.

Mrs. Bergeron leaves to mourn, her daughter, Mrs. Philias Goyette (Margaret); two sisters, Mrs. C. Patterson-Roberts, Eva of Cowansville, Mrs. H. A. Lee (Rosamond) of Galt, Ont., a sister-in-law, Mrs. E. Johnson (Sophronia) of Sutton, five grandchildren and eleven great-grandchildren and several other relatives. One sister predeceased her.

The funeral service, preceded by prayers at the residence, was held on April 21st at Grace Church, conducted by the Rector, Rev. George Long, who spoke comforting words to the family. The service was largely attended by relatives and devoted friends. The flowers were beautiful and showed the high esteem held for the deceased.

The bearers were Keith Russell, Howard Bower, Dennis Cowan, Lloyd and Gordon Cook and Wade Vincent.

Burial was in the family lot in Grace Church Cemetery.

UCW meeting

BIRCHTON — At eight o'clock, at the Latewood home, Mrs. Nick Turchyn, President of the Birchton UCW opened the May meeting with the repeating of the Purpose, by all, and then welcomed fourteen members and three guests, after which she called on Mrs. Howard Picard for the Devotional period, the theme of which was "Our Father's Garden", based on a selection from the "Songs of Solomon."

After the minutes of the previous meetings, it was reported that the UCW participation in the School Committee's Flea Market had been a success, both financially and socially; five members had attended the Presbyterian held in Cowansville; Community Friendship and Visiting had been active, and had still a small amount in the treasury and that Welfare had a box ready to be sent to Angola.

The Treasurer's report showed a comfortable balance: The Card Committee had added to their coffers, a variety of goods were available and more orders are encouraged.

A letter of appreciation for bandages was received from the "Canadian Council of Ramabai Mukti Mission," also one of appreciation for expression of sympathy to a member and Mrs. Basil Prescott gave interesting notes on the Presbyterian in Sutton, which she had attended.

A motion was made to select our Live - Love project, even though the new book is to be available only late in the summer. Mrs. Prescott and Mrs. Nutbrown volunteered to investigate the matter and to propose possible projects for the Group's consideration.

The theme of the 1978 calendars is "Our Spiritual Heritage," and after discussion it was decided to order a dozen and a half.

The decision of the Special Executive Meeting, that the Group cater to a June wedding, and the committee to handle the details of this was set up of Mrs. Picard, Turchyn, Nutbrown, and Logan.

The meeting, June 8, is to be at Mrs. Nutbrown's home.

As a closing of business, the President repeated "John Wesley's Rule" and turned the rest of the agenda over to the Programme Convenor, Mrs. Arthur Rogers, who introduced the guest speaker, Miss Muriel Cass, who had selected the topic "The Church in Society," and delivered a message which was of concern to all.

After some discussion, Mrs. Prescott thanked Miss Cass for her interesting presentation, and presented her with a small token of appreciation for her time and effort.

After enjoying Mrs. Latewood's delectable refreshments, the folk went "off home," feeling the evening had been well spent.

Pocoroba hits two homers

Braves out-slug Expos 10-8

ATLANTA (AP) — Catcher Biff Pocoroba of Atlanta Braves always believed he had enough power to hit home runs in the major leagues.

He never expected to hit them on consecutive pitches, but he did Wednesday night when he drilled his first pitch from Steve Rogers into the right field seats to give the Braves a lead they never relinquished while out-slugging Montreal Expos 10-8 in a National League baseball game.

Pocoroba had ended a Tuesday night battle with a grand slam homer with two down in the ninth.

"I'm just doing what I'm supposed to do," Pocoroba said. "I'm trying to wait on the ball now and it's helped me out quite a bit."

He's also added about 10 pounds in weight over what he carried a year ago when his power shots were dying at the warning track.

The victory was the third in a row for Atlanta, with Montreal plunging to its eighth consecutive defeat.

Pocoroba also lashed a run-scoring double and rookie Barney Bonnell drilled a pair of RBI singles to lead Atlanta's attack in a game delayed for 61 minutes by rain during the sixth inning.

DOUBLES IN WINNER
Jeff Burroughs doubled home what proved to be the winning run in the seventh and Junior Moore chased in an insurance marker in the eighth with an infield grounder.

The victory went to Jamie Easterly, 1-0, who worked six innings before retiring in favor of Buzz Capra after the rain delay. Rookie Dave Campbell worked the ninth and was credited with his first major league save.

The Expos relied on power for their offence. Larry Parrish hit his first two home runs of the season, a solo shot in the fifth and a three-run blast in the sixth.

Andre Dawson drilled his first major league homer for Montreal in the eighth and Barry Foote closed the Expos' scoring with a two-run double later in the inning.

"We're struggling," said Montreal manager Dick Williams. "We got the hits tonight, just couldn't get the stopper. Maybe it all will jell soon."

Milwaukee almost ran out of pitchers

Brewers nip Blue Jays 3-2

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Milwaukee Brewers nearly ran out of able-bodied pitchers Wednesday night, but finally managed to find their long-lost bats.

Robin Yount, who had broken a 3-for-31 slump with a bunt hit and another single earlier in the game, singled home Sixto Lezcano from second base in the 10th inning as the Brewers nipped Toronto Blue Jays 3-2. Bill Castro, the fourth pitcher used by manager Alex Grammas, earned his fourth victory against one loss as the Brewers won their fourth game in their last 15.

Loser Pete Vuckovich, 2-3, relieved Toronto starter Dave Lemanczyk after nine innings and gave up a leadoff single to Lezcano in the 10th. Steve Brye followed with a sacrifice and Von Joshua was intentionally walked.

Vuckovich struck out pinch hitter Mike Hegan, but Yount lined to left field, and Lezcano easily beat the off-line throw from outfielder Al Woods.

Brewer starter Barry Cort left in the third inning because of tightness in his throwing arm, which reduced the number of available Brewer pitchers to seven. Bill Travers is out for WINNIPEG (CP) — Quebec Nordiques saw their chance to regain home-ice advantage in the World Hockey Association final slip away Wednesday night because of glaring mistakes by a couple of their top players.

Linemates Chris Bordeleau and Marc Tardif, two-thirds of Quebec's most dangerous threesome, committed the errors that allowed Winnipeg Jets to take control of the game and skate to a 6-1 verdict.

"We contained them for almost two periods but then committed two bad mistakes," said Quebec coach Marc Boileau.

"It was a bad pass that gave them the second goal and a stupid penalty that gave them the third."

Bordeleau, the club's leading playmaker with 75 assists this season, threw up the bad pass that Willy Lindstrom intercepted at centre ice. Lindstrom fed a quick pass to Dan Labraaten and the speedy winger went in to score what proved to be the winning goal at 13:16 of the second period.

IN FRONT TO STAY

Six minutes later it was Tardif, Quebec's second-highest point-getter this season, who took a hooking penalty behind the play. That came in the final minute of the second period and with Tardif still in the penalty box in the third. Anders Hedberg scored to give Winnipeg a 3-1 lead and send them on the way to the victory.

"The turning point in the game was that third goal by Hedberg," said Boileau. "He put the puck between the defencemen's legs and then got Richard Brodeur going the wrong way in the goal."

"We played well enough to win but made too many mistakes we're lucky to still be in it after those second-period mistakes. Some times you can get away with the mistakes if you're playing a bad team, but the Jets are a good club and they jump on those mistakes."

Winnipeg scored four unanswered goals in the third period to take a 2-1 lead in the best-of-seven final with the fourth game here Friday night.

The defending Avco Cup champions gave up a goal to Curt Brackenbury early in the first period but scored twice in the second to take a 2-1 lead.

LINDSTROM GETS TWO
Willy Lindstrom scored twice with Labraaten, Anders Medberg, Ulf Nilsson and Bill Lesuk getting singles.

The goals by Hedberg and Nilsson were the first points in the final by the Jets' top line of Hedberg, Nilsson and Bobby Hull.

"It's good to finally get a goal," said Hedberg. "But it's also good to see the other guys carrying the load when they have to."

Labraaten was the most dominant individual on the ice with his strong skating. He checked well, set up two goals and scored the winner.

He was one of the few individuals who appeared not bothered by the hot, muggy temperatures and the wet, slow ice. With the temperature near 24 degrees inside the Winnipeg Arena, the ice surface was dotted with pools of water that at times brought play almost to a standstill.

"The ice tonight was much like it usually is in places like Houston and Birmingham," said Labraaten. "I think I've gotten used to it."

The Nordiques outshot Winnipeg 24-21 but took five of seven minor penalties and those led to two of Winnipeg's first three goals.

Fish Derby

The Lake Massawippi Fish & Game Protection Club Inc. will be holding their annual "Fishing Derby" this coming Saturday and Sunday, May 21st, and 22nd. Registration and weigh-in stations will be located at the Shady Crest Hotel, Ayer's Cliff and at Bill Ride's Boat Rental in North Hatley. Trophies for this event are being donated by O'Keefe and will be awarded at the Annual Banquet.

The annual banquet will be held in the North Hatley Legion on Wednesday, May 25th. Along with the presentation of fishing derby trophies there will be door prizes and an auction sale. Tickets are now available from members.

Official opening

LENNOXVILLE — The Lennoxville Golf and Country Club (Milby) recorded its first hole-in-one of the season last Saturday. Marc Turcotte, 15, of Sherbrooke recorded the hole-in-one on the course's 8th hole, using a 2 iron to cover the 170 yards from tee to green. Marc was accompanied by his father Georges and a Mr. Denis Turcotte. Marc was on the Quebec golf team last year and is considered one of the club's best juniors.

Club officials would like to announce that "Calcutta" will again be played this year, starting May 24th. "Calcutta" will be played every Monday evening for the duration of the summer, but due to next Monday being a holiday, the opening round will be played on Tuesday.

Also, club members are reminded that the club's official opening will take place this Saturday, May 21st. Tee off time for the men is anytime before 11:30 a.m. and anytime after that time for the ladies.

Good golfing!

Cormorant battling injury and illness

BALTIMORE (AP) — Cormorant might not be able to handle Seattle Slew in Saturday's running of the Preakness, but so far he has had more trouble with injury and illness than he has had with the opposition.

Cormorant bolted in his first race last year and finished seventh. He then won seven races in a row until finishing second to longshot Iron Constitution in last Saturday's Withers.

"When he was challenged in the stretch, he was a little bit tired," trainer Jim Simpson said Wednesday of Cormorant's Withers performance. "But he hadn't raced in 35 days and he only had three workouts in 35 days."

Cormorant, owned by Charles Berry Jr. of Upperville, Va., had won the Iroquois Handicap at Garden State and the Bay Shore and Gotham Stakes at Aqueduct in his first three races this year and was headed for the Blue Grass Stakes as a final Kentucky Derby prep. But about 12 days before the Blue Grass, he developed a temperature which kept him from going to Kentucky.

MISSED RACES

It wasn't the first time Cormorant missed a race because of physical problems. After his opening defeat, he won four consecutive races in 1976, including a victory over Royal Ski in the Marlboro Nursery at Bowie.

But he missed the Laurel Futurity last fall because of shin problems, then missed the Allegheny Stakes at Keystone because of a nose injury. His victory in the Iroquois in his three-year-old debut was his first race in five months.

Now he's physically fit again and, Simpson hopes, ready for the $150,000-added, 1 3/16-mile Preakness.

Cormorant will be ridden by Danny Wright. Meanwhile, Jean Cruguet, who is scheduled to ride favored Seattle Slew in the Preakness, was to find out today whether Aqueduct stewards will suspend him for his ride in the sixth race this Wednesday. A ban would cost him the mount on Seattle Slew.

Cruguet's mount, Lady Singer, finished fourth but was disqualified for interference and placed last. Cruguet rode Seattle Slew to victory in the Kentucky Derby, first leg of thoroughbred racing's Triple Crown.

Nicklaus won't be too upset if he doesn't win

DUBLIN, Ohio (AP) — Jack Nicklaus won't be particularly upset if he fails to win this week.

"Of course I want to win, and I'll be trying as hard as I can to win," the Golden Bear said after a practice round over his lifetime dream course, the 7,101 yards of rolling Ohio countryside that makes up the beautifully-conditioned Muirfield Village Golf Club.

"But," Nicklaus smiled, "here's such a thing as being a good host, too." And he is the host, the prime mover, originator, designer, sponsor, and, in general, the chief honcho of the $225,000 Memorial Tournament that gets under way today.

It's his tournament, on his course, of his design. No detail is too small for his attention—the hanging of pictures in the clubhouse, the removal of deadwood from the woods that line the fairways, the uniforms of caddies.

Only a day ago he was taking a tour of the course and spotted an improperly replaced divot. Nicklaus, probably the greatest performer ever to play the game, went to his hands and knees in the fairway and made the repairs on the spot, carefully patting the soil with his hands.

TWO-TIME WINNER
Although Nicklaus,

already a two-time winner this season, ranks high among the list of contenders for the $45,000 first prize, the challengers in the select, invitational, international field of 105 might be his fellow Ohioans—Tom Weiskopf, Ed Sneed and Jerry McGee.

Sneed is a recent winner at Tallahassee and played strongly last week. McGee, who tied for fourth in the inaugural Memorial, has run off a string of top-10 finishes in his latest starts.

Weiskopf hasn't won in almost two seasons but always ranks as a threat and has played this course more than anyone, including Nicklaus. Tom Watson, holder of the Masters title and two other 1977 titles, leading money-winner and easily the outstanding player in the game this season, and on-rushing Ben Crenshaw are the more obvious threats. In his last two starts Crenshaw has finished first and second and still insists he isn't playing well.

Manslaughter conviction unanimously upheld

TORONTO (CP) — Paul Smithers, a former midget hockey player whose manslaughter conviction was unanimously upheld by the Supreme Court of Canada on Tuesday, will surrender into custody to begin serving his six-month reformatory sentence, his lawyer says.

William McMurtry, said in an interview Tuesday that he would seek to get Smithers, 20, released on a temporary absence program so he can continue his apprenticeship as a typesetter.

Donald Smithers, the hockey player's father, said Monday his son has dropped out of community college, left his Shelburne, Ont., family home and is living and working in Toronto.

"I think this case and the years involving the appeals have changed him to the point where he feels what's the sense of going to school when he has this jail sentence hanging over his head. "He was taking physical education at community college but he feels that people will know what he did and won't hire him or want him around their children."

Smithers' original conviction resulted from a 1973 brawl outside a Mississauga, Ont., arena during which he punched and kicked Barrie Ross Cobby, 17, who choked to death on his own vomit minutes later.

Witnesses at Smithers' original trial said Cobby had speared Smithers and racially taunted him. They said that Smithers, who is black, had vowed revenge.

Outside the arena after the game, Cobby's team-mates pushed Smithers against a car. He lashed out and kicked Cobby in the groin.

Smithers, free on bail until Tuesday, spent one night in jail while his lawyers began a series of appeals.
