Mr. C. P. Prakke, Manager of Davies Bros. Farm, Tells Rotarians Of The Middle East

Huntingdon Rotary Club held a regular meeting at the Chateau, on Monday, with a fair number present. During the business part of the meeting it was decided that greater attention must be paid to Rotary objectives and a committee was formed to investigate the possibilities of a certain project and to report back at the next meeting. At this time it will be decided if there is scope for Rotary activity in this project and then a plan will be worked out.

The Guest Speaker for this occasion was Mr. C. Peter Prakke, manager for the Davies Bros. farm at Colonial Acres, who arrived in Huntingdon last month and only in November 1962, in Canada, from Holland. Mr. Prakke was introduced to the Rotary members by Mr Sidney Smith, acting for Mr. Keith Howden.

Mr. Prakke chose for his subject, his experiences in the Middle East at the Sheikdon of Kuwait.

In opening, Mr. Prakke explained that he left Holland in February 1960, by ship to Port Said, Aden, Bahrain and to Kuwait. The trip was uneventful, but interesting. On the trip with him were some Holstein cows and a bull, which were his main reason for going to Kuwait. He had been engaged to bring the cattle and to get them established. The time first allowed was to be one month. Upon his arrival at Kuwait, the ship was met by a very large number of the people who were anxious to see these strange animals, for so they appeared to them.

The present ruler of this Sheikdon is Sheik Abdullah Salem Al Sabah and he is assisted in this by his brothers, sons and nephews.

Kuwait is a small Arab Sheikdom located on the North Western shore of the Persian Gulf. Under its soil lies all its wealth an estimated 60,000,000,000 barrels of oil. Above ground it is just hot, dry desert land, brown, arid and dusty, over which roam meager flocks of sheep, goats and camel. These feed on the sparse vegetation that is available. There is practically no rain, a mere 4 or 5 inches a year, all of which falls between November and April.

The population of Kuwait is about 275,000. Previously the country was under British administration, but since 1961 it has become independent.

Mr. Prakke gave a few outlines of his experiences in attending what might be termed "State Dinners" at the Sheik's palace. Being a distinguished guest on the first occasion, he was treated to some specialties. All the food is placed in large receptacles and a whole sheep is placed at various points along the tables. He was seated next to the Sheik and it is considered in good taste to give a guest of honor the eyes from the sheep's head. These are supposed to give strength and many other advantages. Thus it was that after the meal got under way, the Sheik dug out a sheep's eyes and handed them one by one to Mr. Prakke. He accepted them with some apprehension and awaited a possible opportunity of disposing of them in some other way than by eating them. He said he could not fancy that. So while no one was looking and under cover of taking some other piece of food, he managed to slip one of the eyes in his pocket. What to do with the other posed another problem. As the custom is that when one has finished with a bone to throw it over the shoulder and a servant catches it, he did this with the second eye. An ordeal overcome.

To look at the women of the country is strictly forbidden and all women and girls over the age of about fourteen have to wear veils. When he was required to go to the Sheik's Palace, he had to be escorted by the women's quarters. Thus he would have to knock on the door and while waiting for it to be opened and he to be taken to the Sheik, he was obliged to turn his back to the palace in case he should happen to look at one of the women. He said it is very hot and the temperature will reach as high as 119 degrees with a high rate of humidity. During certain hours of the day no work is done as it is so hot.

The cows and the bull referred to earlier in this article were transported to the State Experimental Farm at Kuwait. In 1953, the State of Kuwait set up an experimental farm to carry out experiments on various plants to discover whether it would be possible to grow them successfully in Kuwait. This farm occupies about 100 acres. In 1961, Mr. Prakke brought the first cows to this country and that is why they created such a sensation when he arrived. The main object was to supply milk to the patients in the hospitals and to crossbreed the local and imported Red Sundie and Kankre to get a resistance against the heat and a good cow. The temperature in July, 1960, was 118 degrees with a humidity of 96 degrees.

After he had been in Kuwait for about three weeks, he received twelve Jerseys and a bull by chartered plane from England. During his 1½ years stay at this farm, as farm manager, he tried out over 25 varieties of grass, many kinds of fodder, beets and alfalfa.

Every day the alfalfa was cut and dried before giving it to the cows, because of the high humidity. Cattle feed was imported from England, Iraq and India. He started feeding the two most widespread local fodders species, a sedge, known locally as "Skunda" and a grass called "Shannan", a plant which is wide-spread throughout North Africa. Skunda appears to be the more productive plant. One acre of it in July or August gives roughly 1,000 pounds of fodder in dry form, while Shannan only gives about 300 to 400 pounds per acre. The cows like this feed mixed with other dried grass or alfalfa.

As stated, he was to stay only one month, but when that time came, he was told he would have to stay and see that the cows, etc were properly established, before he could leave.

"There was one amusing incident and this was when we had milked the cows and all the milk had been sent to its destination and it was about 10.30 in the morning. Someone at the palace decided they wanted some milk and the

Many Blind Children Enjoy Outing At "Colonial Acres"

"Colonial Acres" on Highway No. 4 just east of Huntingdon, owned by Davies Bros., Messrs. George and Edgar, was the scene of a happy and heart-warming gathering for upwards of 100 blind and partially blind children on Sunday afternoon. The outing for the afflicted youngsters, many of whom had never visited a farm before, was sponsored by the Lions Club of Cote St. Luc, of which the Davies Bros. are members.

From the moment the cavalcade of twelve cars and one school bus headed by a Provincial Police escort came to a stop, there were cries of delight from the children. Even Edgar Davies who was resplendent in a high top hat and cane (the hat a relic of yesteryears that his wife purchased the previous day at an auction sale) and who is renowned as a genial MC and organizer, had difficulty in getting the youngsters to settle down to eating hot dogs and other goodies when they knew they were going to have pony rides and "see" calves, rabbits, horses, lambs, etc.

George Jr. and Frank, sons of George Sr. and Edgar Davies, respectively, brought out fast steeds and, riding double, gave the more daring of the children some good rides. Their fathers were kept busy sadding ponies and seeing that the smaller boys and girls each had a canter. Mrs. Shirley Campeau and daughter Anne brought over a couple of hutches of rabbits and it was a heart-warming but somewhat pitiful sight to see the children reach for a baby rabbit, stroke its soft coat and hold it to their faces. Roméo Robidoux and son Jacques, also neighbours, brought over sheep and lambs and the fingers of the sightless children explored the animals' thick, woolly coats. Afflicted children with part vision led the totally blind to the calves and other animals — and we mustn't forget the big, friendly Golden Labradors — they perhaps received as much attention as any of the other animals.

Later in the afternoon, Auctioneer H. P. "Jake" Higgins conducted a brisk sale, proceeds of which will further the benevolent work of the Cote St. Luc Lions Club. Apples, an iron kettle, a pair of rabbits donated by Miss Anne Campeau, etc., went under the hammer at sky-high prices.

A helicopter representing two popular Montreal radio stations arrived during the afternoon and landed in the field in front of the house, much to the delight of all. Shortly before five o'clock, a satisfied group of children boarded the bus for the homeward journey. The "Blind Day at the Farm" is one of the larger projects undertaken by the two-year-old Lions Club of Cote St. Luc, and the success on Sunday augurs for an annual event.

Two Dundee Couples Feted On Silver Anniversary

On Saturday evening, August 17th, the Town Hall at Ste. Agnes was the scene of a rather unusual event when a host of relatives and friends gathered to celebrate the silver wedding anniversaries of George and Elma Sutton and Vernon and Isabel Elder.

The happy couples were greeted at the door by their elder daughters, Mrs. Melvin McCracken and Mrs. Ronald Fleming, who pinned corsages on their mothers and presented their fathers with boutonnieres.

Clarence and Olive Platt led a grand march, following which a receiving line was formed and the happy couples were greeted by their numerous friends who expressed their good wishes for many more years of wedded bliss. Dancing then followed until lunch time, when delectable refreshments were served the guests. The head table was attractively arranged with vases of summer flowers, silver tapers in matching candlesticks, and two beautiful four-tier wedding cakes topped with two silver loving cups and suitably inscribed to George and Elma and Vernie and Isabel.

Seated at the head table with the honoured couples were the two bridesmaids and the two best men, Mrs. Lloyd Hadley, Mrs. Duncan McPherson, Mr. Ernest Sutton and Mr. John Elder, Mayor Hubert Lablanc and Mrs. Leblanc, Rev. Curé Ganon, Mr Lloyd Martin and Mrs. Martin and Mr. George P. Elder.

After a few words of greeting by the Master of Ceremonies, Mr. Franklin Cameron, the Mayor and the two clergymen were called on to bring words of greeting following which Mr Martin, on behalf of those assembled, presented to the guests of honour guest books and well-filled envelopes. Franklin then asked the couples to rise, and each in turn expressed words of appreciation to those who had given them an evening long to be remembered.

Dancing was then resumed for a short time, when all left feeling very happy to have been a part of this joyous occasion.

Can YOU Explain This Mystery?

On Sunday evening, August 11th or rather, as it was about 12:50 a.m. it would be early Monday morning, Mr. and Mrs. Michael Grosser of Hemmingford were just about to retire when a loud noise, like an explosion, shook the house. Thinking something had crashed through the roof they ran upstairs, finding nothing damaged there they went down to the basement and were horrified o find several feet of water all over the cellar.

In the cellar had stood a cistern measuring 12 feet by 3 feet 9 inches, and 4 feet 2 inches deep. The walls of the cistern were not attached to the house walls at any point and were 6 inches thick (concrete). Built by a local man about 23 years ago, it was about three-quarters full. Not only are the four walls cracked open but chunks of concrete appear to have been thrown across the cellar and are leaning precariously against other things in the cellar. Water was running from the ceiling as though it had been hurled upwards.

The whole thing is quite mysterious and rather frightening. No one remembers such a thing happening before, it cannot be blamed on lightening or a thunder bolt because it was a still, quiet evening. Has anyone had anything like this happen to them? Write and tell us if you have.

Rescue Party Saves U.S. Cruiser From Possible Wreck On Lake St. Francis

Some fast work and quick thinking on Wednesday, August 14th, probably averted a tragedy on Lake St. Francis.

About 10 a.m. on the day mentioned, the Lake St. Francis Marine received a call by telephone from St. Anicet Village that a boat off from the village in the lake was in distress. It was stated the people on the boat were blowing the horn and in other ways trying to attract attention in order to get help. Mrs. Grant of the Lake St. Francis Marine immediately put in a call to Jean's TV shop in Huntingdon and Mr. C. L. Sparrow came right along. They got out the Bonnie Prince, a 37 foot boat owned by Mrs. Grant and with Gene, the mechanic at the controls, and with C. L. Sparrow, A. H. Sparrow and Mr. Leblanc they went to the rescue.

After circling the distressed boat, a U.S. cruiser from Rochester, flying the U.S. flag and owned by a Mr. Davis, they succeeded in putting a rope across the bow. Having thus secured the boat, they took it in tow and brought it the five miles into Port Lewis. The engine had given out. It was docked safely. On board were two women, 4 children and 3 men.

The lake was very rough and a north wind was blowing and the boat with its anchor dragging was drifting toward some rocks off shore. Had it reached these rocks the boat would more than likely have been smashed. The cause of the engine trouble was due to a low supply of fuel and which with the rough weather had caused an air pocket which shut off the supply to the diesel engine, causing it to stop.

The occupants of the boat were indeed truly thankful to the people who phoned from St. Anicet of the difficulty and to Mr. Lablanc, who drove to the Lake St. Francis Marine. They were also thankful to Mr. L. Parent who supplied the diesel fuel so that they could once more get underway. There is no doubt that the quick action taken by all these people did avert a tragedy on our lake and they all deserve praise for their great and unselfish efforts.

Several Complaints Received By Town Council Re. Flooding Of Basements From Sewers

An adjourned meeting of the Huntingdon Town Council was held on Monday evening, with all members present except Alderman Picard and with the late Alderman John Walsh's seat vacant.

Discussion centred on the matter of placing a new water main across the river by the existing one and while the river bed is accessible. It is possible that the causeway will soon be removed and it is understood that the new bridge will be available for pedestrian traffic in a few days. It was decided to order the pipe and have it here as quickly as possible and for the work to start at the earliest moment.

A letter was read from the Water Purification Board in which certain recommendations were made. This matter is to be taken up with the Town Engineer as there are many points which the Council does not understand.

It was also decided to have the water tank at the Filter Plant repaired and painted according to a quotation received recently.

Mr. Ronnie Lalonde appeared on behalf of Mrs. Mae O'Connor with regard to damage done by flooding of the basement part of the O'Connor Building. This has happened on several occasions in the past, notably in the spring but this occasion was during the recent rain storms and when the river was at a low level. Mr. Lalonde said he wondered if there could be a blockage in a sewer and this would cause back pressure when larger quantities of water were flowing through. There was considerable discussion on the matter, but finally the Town foreman was asked to investigate the sewer in the eastern part of Chateauguay Street.

Tenders are to be asked for supplying a car of coal to the Filter Plant and an advertisement to this effect is to be inserted in The Gleaner.

Mayor Lefebvre announced that a Nomination Meeting will be held on September 3rd for the purpose of nominating an Alderman to the seat recently occupied by the late John Walsh and for the expiration of his period of office. If an election is needed, this would be held on September 9th.

The question of wedding processions through the various streets of town was brought up and one just recently was mentioned as having blocked the whole of Chateauguay Street for at least 15 minutes besides creating unnecessary noise. It was pointed out that this street is congested badly enough as it is and no such procession should be allowed to further complicate matters. The council was of the opinion that such processions should be banned and that the police be authorized to take action with first next occurrence and to have the guilty parties appear in court. The matter is to be taken up with the police along with some other problems.

A petition was made to the council regarding poor drainage in a section of town. The Council decided to look into the matter and see if anything can be done. It is believed that the heavy rainfall was the cause and under such circumstances there is not much that can be done as the situation is abnormal.

New Apple Storage and Packing Plant Open at Covey Hill

A very enjoyable party was given on Friday evening, August 16th, by Mr. F. Beattie and Mr. and Mrs. Willie Beattie, to celebrate the opening of their new apple storage and packing plant. The building, which lies well back from the road, adjoins the Beattie home on Robson Street, Covey Hill, on the south-west boundary of Hemmingford Township.

The 400 or so invited guests had ample room to dance in the lofty rooms which comprise the sorting, packing and loading section, and which had been completely transformed, with a stage for the orchestra, gay decorations and coloured lights. Baskets of gladioli and chrysanthemums glowed vividly against the panelled walls of the offices. Guests were invited to inspect the plant where apples will be stored in both cold and controlled atmosphere rooms and Mr. Beattie was kept busy answering the many questions of those interested in the modern methods now in operation in the apple industry. Mr. Ian Watson, M.P. and Mr. Alister Somerville, M.P.P. were interested guests, viewing this latest addition to Hemmingford's fast-growing industry and joined with all present in congratulating Mr. and Mrs. Beattie on their efforts and wishing them all success in the future.

Interesting Meeting of H'don. Catholic School Board Held

The regular meeting of the Huntingdon Catholic Schoolboard was held Wednesday, August 7th. at St. Joseph School with all present except the Secretary, who was on vacation at the time and Mr. F. Tardif was designated to take his place. There were quite a number of taxpayers present at this meeting, as contracts for bus routes were to be given. Route No. 1 was given to Mr. Albert Taillefer providing his bus was of the capacity of 60 passengers. Route No. 2 and 3 to Mr. Emile Taillefer Route No. 4. to Mr. Edgar Hart. Incidently Miss Therese Lauzon was chosen as Secretary for the Principal of St. Joseph School. The Board wishes to thank all those who sent tenders for this position.

Congratulations to Mr. Raoul David who was chosen commissioner for the Regional School Board of the District.

St. Joseph's school is receiving a real cleaning, the children will now leave their clothing in the basement as the lockers have been moved to this area. The halls have received a fresh coat of paint, and all the class rooms on the ground floor have colours that are much brighter which will improve the lighting and atmosphere. The lobby of the parish hall has been convertec to a beautiful class room and the lighting is to be improved there. The children of Notre Dame will be pleased to hear that $1000.00 will be spent on the play ground there, $500.00 of this amount has been a donation. In the name of all the pupils of Notre Dame thanks for the gift which will be greatly appreciated.

Congratulations to Mother Superior for having the initative of starting a majorette Corps at Notre Dame. We wish her all the best of luck. There will be more about this later.

The School Board has approved that Night School should continue again this year at St. Joseph's under the direction of the Principal Mr. Florian Tardif. By the way Mr. Jean Forget, the caretaker at St. Joseph's, was hired for another year, also Mr. Edmond Chrétien for Notre Dame. We must say that these two men have done an excellent job this past year.

Weekly Delivery of Sellar History Books Being Made

Mr. and Mrs. J.G. Lehoux and daughter Germaine, of Valleyfield

Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Lehoux and 16-years-old daughter, Germaine, are shown here with copies of "The Sellar History" which they have been delivering to The Gleaner at the rate of fifty per week.

For many years in charge of the V'field City Library, Mr. Lehoux became interested in bookbinding some ten years ago, as a hobby. The painstaking effort reflected in books he rebound for friends and neighbours soon gained recognition and not too long after he began binding books, manuscripts, etc., for the Valleyfield Seminary, library, etc. Mr. Lehoux decided to pursue his hobby and while in his late 50's enrolled in the School of Graphic Arts, Montreal, where he tooks a complete bookbinding course.

The hobby long ago materialized into a full-time business but not before Mrs. Lehoux had also become a first-class bookbinder. The couple own a spacious home at 11 Fabrique St., one of Valleyfield's shortest but most attractive residential streets almost in front of The Cathedral, and their thriving little business is carried on in the rear of the house. They receive work steadily from Montreal, St. Lambert and Quebec City as well as from Valleyfield and surrounding area.

Last fall, arrangements were made to have the Second Edition of the late Robert Sellar's History of the County of Huntingdon and of the Seigniories of Chateauguay and Beauharnois, bound at St. Catherines, Ont., in much the same style as books offered by a nationally-known magazine. Almost too late, we at The Gleaner learned of Mr. and Mrs. Lehoux. An examination of the work done quickly convinced us that as we had not spared costs in printing the Second Revised Edition, we should not spare costs in the binding either.

Mr. Lehoux was hesitant about accepting such a large order. With only his wife, daughter and sometimes his 19-year-old son Bernard as assistants, he felt the job would take too long and steadfastly refused to set a delivery date. (Books bound by the Lehoux family are almost entirely done by hand. They lie flat because of careful hand stitching and a new resilient glue).

Finally one day Mr. Lehoux visited The Gleaner and proudly announced he would accept the contract providing we would accept delivery at the rate of 50 books per week. He had purchased a glueing machine that would speed up production.

For a month now, 50 finished volumes have been arriving at The Gleaner every Friday morning. Local people are being contacted by phone and are calling for their Histories. Next week we will have cardboard cartons for outside mailings and the books will be mailed out alphabetically. Most of the books being mailed will be dark red, but anybody calling at the office may choose from two shades of each of the following red, green, brown.

Comments and letters about the book have been highly complimentary. Although it will not be a money-making venture, nor was it expected to be, the Second Edition of Robert Sellar's most noted work is giving The Gleaner added prestige in its Centenary Year.

Hinchinbrooke Volunteer Fire Department Holds Fund Raising Project

The Hinchinbrooke Volunteer Fire Department held a well patronized Bingo in the Town Hall at Herdman last Saturday evening. Judging by the number of people who were present, one feels that the Municipality as a whole is behind this project, and using this as a criterion, the fact remains that they are glad to contribute their share to it, and this having been revealed it can be taken as a "go ahead" to those responsible for the organizing of same.

Now there may have been those who were unable to attend, or who do not care to play Bingo, but who would like to contribute in some way, if they would send their contribution to The Hinchinbrooke Volunteer Fire Department, % Post Office, Athelstan, same will be gratefully received.

It is understood that a sum of about $300.00 was raised in this their first endeavor to secure the necessary funds. Congratulations let's keep going.

Historical Society to Commemorate Battle of Chateauguay At Allan's Corners October 19

The Chateauguay Valley Historical Society in conjunction with The Royal 22nd Regiment, Regiment de Châteauguay and The Montreal Military Museum will commemorate the 150th Anniversary of the Battle on Saturday, October 19, at the monument site at Allan's Corners. The Vallyfield based Fourth Battalion of the Royal 22nd will carry out military ceremonies at the monument and at the newly acquired park being developed by the Historical Society.

Guns and crew from Fort York, Toronto, being provided through the courtesy of the Montreal Military Museum will perform their part of the ceremony in authentic 1812 uniforms. It is also anticipated that branches of the Royal Canadian Legion and St. Jean Baptiste Society and other groups throughout the Valley area will participate in the day's event.

Arrested For An Alleged Assault Upon Elderly Woman

Gerald Lefebvre of Huntingdon was arrested on Saturday night for allegedly assaulting an elderly lady on the street. Mrs. George Harrigan, age about 60, was walking along Chateauguay Street on her way home at about 11.30 Saturday night, when she felt herself taken hold of from behind and she was thrown to the ground.

The attack took place near No. 21 Chateauguay St. and some people sitting on a verandah nearby went to her assistance — the man escaped. The police were called and Sgt. Provost answered the call and in a short time arrested the man. He is presently at Valleyfield, where he is awaiting trial.

Wesley Church, Covey Hill, to Celebrate 106th Anniversary

It would seem that the year 1963 will be well remembered for the number of anniversaries commemorated in the valley of the Chateauguay. News of two, to be held in October, are already well in the public eye and now comes news of a third which will be held on Covey Hill.

As students of local history well know, and the details are well set out in Sellar's History of Huntingdon County James O'Neill settled on Lot 32, Front Range, (Havelock Township) in 1797. Andrew Gentle came in 1801, Samuel Covey in 1806. A few Americans followed through the years and then, in early 1820's settlers became more numerous and they were chiefly from the Old Country, mostly Presbyterians and Methodists. It is possible that a Methodist congregation was organized in the 1820's or early 30's.

The present Wesley Church a red brick building with some foundation, which stands a short distance east of Covey Hill Corners, was erected in 1857. The lot was given by John and Elizabeth Curran to the Trustees of the Wesley Methodist Church and in the adjoining cemetery many of the 'Founding Fathers' are laid to rest. Here may be found Lieutenant Curran, an old artillery man, who had become a Covey Hill farmer, who served with Captain Edward's Company at the battle of Odelltown. Here also lies William Moore who, in the same battle, while taking part in the fight ing outside the besieged church, was struck on the head by a bullet which creased his scalp but he 'tied his handkerchief round his head to stop the bleeding and went on loading and firing as if nothing had happened.' Men and women who tamed the wilderness and laid out the pleasant farms and orchards which grace the rising slopes of Cover Hill are at rest in this quiet spot and it is to commemorate the 106th anniversary of the building of this church that a service will be held in it on Sunday, September 1st.

The special speaker will be the Reverend Frank Gilmore, B.A., B.D., a young man who went into the ministry from the Russelltown Flats Church and is, at present, the minister of Westminster Central United Church in Montreal. Mrs. G. Picko will be the soloist.

Regular services are not now held in this church but the Trustees and the descendants of those early settlers, who live nearby, take good care of the building and the grounds. An invitation is extended to all to come and join in this anniversary service, the first to be held in this church.

Then on September 15th, a special Memorial Service, planned by the Wesley Cemetery Committee of which Mr Keith Curran is Chairman, will be held in the same church Lieutenant-Colonel Ernest Fitch of the Salvation Army in Toronto and Brigadier Charles Lynch of the Salvation Army in Montreal, will be present at this service together with a Salvation Army Band. Lt. Col., Fitch will be the main speaker. Residents of Covey Hill and from a wide area around will well remember the fine service given on Covey Hill by officers and band of the Salvation Army some few years ago and will welcome the opportunity of hearing them again. Once again the invitation is extended to everyone to come and fill the church to capacity.

FIND SHIPWRECK

KINGSTON, Ont. (CP) — The wreck of a 200-foot sailing schooner, City of Cheboygen, which sank with five persons aboard Sept. 28, 1915 has been found by local scuba divers off Nut Island in Lake Ontario. The ship is in 90 feet of water and standing upright.

THIS and THAT in TOWN

● Just what effect the recent Customs/Immigration change announced by the Federal Government will have in local towns is not known as yet. We understand the Immigration staff will be absorbed into the Customs staff with the latter carrying out priamery interrogation at border crossings. This is nothing new in the smaller ports but will probably cause changes in ports like Blackpool. Civil servants in administrative capacity at Ottawa will likely feel the brunt of the change.

● The Sellar Histories now in distribution are causing considerable favorable comment. We have several complimentary letters from people who have received their copies and in due course will reproduce some of them in The Gleaner. Unfortunately, orders cannot be accepted at the "advance sale" price offer that terminated the final night of Ormstown Exhibition, but a limited number are available as advertized after that date, at sixteen dollars.

● Unfortunately, many people know there is a virus or 'flu' bug around. There are numerous reports of sore throats, aching bones, running noses, etc. Maybe it's what we once referred to as "Summer Cold" but call it what you may, it's darn miserable in hot weather.

● We spoke of Muskies in the Trout River last week. A sequel to this was learning of a 30-odd lb. beauty taken near Somerville Park recently by Claude Caza, husband of the former Miss Jovette Primeau of Huntingdon. A four-foot eel was taken still-fishing, but we aren't sure if this is considered a big one or not.

● The cool weather experienced of late almost felt early fall, so we don't feel too out of place reporting that the 1964 models of Hus-Ski snow travellers commenced two weeks ago at the Pointe Claire plant. Two models will be available to local enthusiasts, the "200" with an 8 h.p. motor and the "400" wit 9½ h.p. The first run of the new line of snow vehicles was hand assembled and production line assembly started Aug. 15.

● Have you noticed that the clock at the Post Office now seems reliable? Also that the flowers "at the fountain" in front of the Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce must create a favorable impression of Huntingdon for transients? That several streets have been re-paved in Ormstown? That the swimming pool near the Nurses' Residence of The Barrie Memorial is greatly appreciated by the R.N.'s? That quite a few people, including one local M.D., have given up cigarette smoking?

● Harness racing at Huntingdon Fair, August 31, will be a stellar attraction. Likewise the Pet Show. Sec. Thos. Brooks states that entries for all sections are coming in well.

● Mr. Kenneth Fraser informed The Gleaner last week that he plans to make representation to the Hon. Alcide Courcy, Minister of Agriculture, the objective of which will be to establish a central laboratory to test the butterfat content of all milk supplied by Quebec farmers.

● Speaking about the Lorne Ave. area, did you know that a bakery was operated for some years across the street from Cleyn & Tinker Ltd. main office?

● Sunday afternoon a Montrealer with a summer home near St Anicet set out alone to visit some friends almost directly across Lake St. Francis, saying he would be home well before dark. Darkness fell with no sign of the man and friends went over in their boat to make inquiries. Learning he had left some three-quarters of an hour before, they became alarmed as they had seen no sign of him on the 15-minute run. After searching for an hour, they returned to St. Anicet and decided to phone the R.C.M.P. for assistance. It was quite a surprise for everyone to learn that the government cruiser is not equipped to travel at night. It was later learned the man's motor had given trouble and he had paddled back to the opposite shore and then walked to his friends' home and phoned to St. Anicet to let his family know he was not stranded on the lake.

● It seems unfortunate that the R.C.M.P. could not offer assistance because the government cruiser is not properly equipped to travel at night. When the Federal authorities spent in the vicinity of $25,000 for a patrol craft, one would think a few dollars more for search-lights, etc., would have been in order.

● The Chicken Bar-B-Q sponsored by the Volunteer Firemen of Ormstown Saturday was most successful, despite the rain and cold. Serving in the dining hall at the Ormstown Fair Grounds started at five p.m. and there was a steady influx of friends from Ormstown and surrounding Communities until well past the anticipated closing hour. In addition, more than 100 dinners were sent out to townspeople. The menu consisted of chicken, salads, fresh vegetables, rolls, pickles, choice of pastries and beverages. Although well organized and well worth the price, some people had to wait in line when carload after carload arrived simultaneously. "When's the next one?" was asked a hundred times, but the firemen were too busy then to give the matter serious thought. It was a lot of work for the firemen and the young ladies who helped in serving and we hope they attained their objective.

● That helicopter hovering between Dewittville and Huntingdon Sunday afternoon landed at Davies Bros. where upward of 100 blind and partially-blind youngsters were being entertained.

● Speaking of aircraft, a glider came down just east of Ormstown recently. Neither pilot nor aircraft was injured.

● The public auction at the residence of the late Lucy Leehy at St. Anicet on Saturday attracted antique lovers from many parts of Quebec and Ontario as well as numerous buyers from South of the Border. The Moore's from Rawdon, Que., went home with a good load of items for their antique village, likewise Jack McAllister and other local fanciers of antiques, but they had to compete with dealers and fans whose licence plates indicated they hailed from New York, Massachusetts, New Hampshire, Michigan, Texas and several Canadian Provinces. Too bad antiques from this area so often end up across the lines, especially with our own Chateauguay Valley Historical Society striving so hard, but then maybe too many of us just don't know a collector's item from "something so old we wouldn't want it around." Representatives from an Ottawa museum and Upper Canada Village attended too.

● And talking about auctions, H. P. Jake Higgins conducted an impromtpu one at Davies Bros, in aid of the blind children who were guests of the Davies. An iron kettle bought at the St. Anicet sale for a dollar on Saturday went for $11 on Sunday, and a half-bushel of Melbas went under the hammer at $18. A baby rabbit donated by Miss Anne Campeau had a new owner for $9.75. Even higher prices than at the St. Anicet sale, but for a Class "A" Cause.

● The Bingo at Herdman Town Hall sponsored by the Hinchinbrooke Volunteer Fire Dept. (recently organized) was also quite a success. Also in aid of a worthy cause, we hope the public will lend their support in all future ventures.

● "Do You Remember" by Chet Oney made a big hit with its debut in The Gleaner last week. No less than twelve phone calls were taken at the Oney home between 12 noon and 1 p.m. on Thursday, and many since. Let's hear from all over and we'll help others to remember.

● Donald Dupuis of Dundee, one-time owner of the Albert Dupuis Hotel, suffered a painful injury this week. He was thrusting a spade into the ground when somehow his foot got in the way and one of his big toes was 90% severed. A serious injury for anyone, but downright costly and inconvenient for a farmer at this time of year.

● Have you seen the big white rabbit at the Huntingdon Dry Cleaners coin laundry? The big bunny wanders in and out as if he owns the place, but Messrs. Dave and Eric deny any business transactions with their friend.

● With much of the concrete flooring now poured, some people are still hoping for the impossible: that the new bridge will be ready for Huntingdon Fair parade.

● Official Opening of St. Francis Rod & Gun Hotel and Motel is announced in this issue... gala evening promised... The recently renovated former club is worth visiting, day or night.

● Letters from the Sea Cadets at HMCS Acadia in Sydney, N.S., indicate all is well with the sailor boys... they'll be returning home Saturday with tales of the sea.

● Let's all observe, right now, a moment's quiet reflection in sympathy for our unfortunate friends who chose the past week for their annual vacation. Poor, cold, wet, bewildered people if they were around here. The rumour that the rest of August might well be the same is just that, a rumour (we hope).

● The Gleaner learned on Monday of the death of Mr. Paul Michaud, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Omer Michaud and sister of Miss Madeleine Michaud, who at one time lived in the home now owned by Mr. and Mrs. E. D. Gosling, at 60 Wellington St. Mr. Paul Michaud was proprietor of a restaurant on Chateauguay St. where Mercedes Dress Shoppe is now located. His late father was agent for the C.N.R. while the family lived in Huntingdon.

● The Legion Hall is undergoing extensive renovations, especially to the west wing. The office and memorial room have been moved to the stage in the east wing and a complete new wood and tile floor is being laid in the west wing. A new ladies' washroom has also been installed.

● Dr. Leslie Lukacs of Fairview Rd. successful contender in a National Chess Tournament in Europe some years ago, has been giving a local Chess enthusiast, Dave Zabitsky, a refresher course in recent weeks. Dave will be instructing beginners in the game when the Adult Community School gets under way in a few weeks.

● And one local person is displaying noticeable timidity about collecting her rent for summer cottages on the lakefront because the vacationers experienced such disappointing weather last week.

● We thought cycling had lost some of its appeal to the younger generation but we're told that last week three Ormstown lads pedalled to Chateaugay, N.Y. for the day and this week a Huntingdon boy rode to Montreal where he is visiting relatives.

● Have you taken a stroll through the park lately? If not, stop and see the new sidewalks that have been laid and which greatly enhance its appearance. This project was discussed two weeks ago at the regular Town Council meeting and the Town Fathers merit congratulations for a job well and quickly completed.

● Huntingdon Fair starts with a parade Thursday evening of next week and already indications are that it will be the best ever. Secretary Thos. Brooks reports as high as 16 and 17 entries have been received in some of the horse classes. 82 livestock exhibitors have signed entry forms to date. An Ottawa midway will start arriving early next Wednesday morning. Joint Chairmen of the Grounds Committee, Dan Murphy and C. J. Kyle, report that the frame of the new building is up and the building will be completed within a week... All boys and girls are invited to enter their cat or dog in a "Kids Amateur Dog and Cat Show" sponsored by The Quaker Oats Co. of Canada Ltd. All exhibitors in this department will receive free Coca-Cola and Humpty Dumpty potato chips. There will also be free prizes for all entries and a special prize for the best dressed cat and dog. "Best of Show" will appear on Channel 12's "Surprise Party" on October 5th... Of special interest: all proceeds from the Salada Tea Wagon and from Maple Leaf Milling booth (baking products) will be turned over to the Ladies Auxiliary of Huntingdon County Hospital and to Huntingdon County War Memorial... AND, membership tickets for the 1963 Fair are available now from Sec. Thos Brooks... Your help will be appreciated.

● NOW don't forget Havelock Fair: their new building is completed and Sec. Aylmer Hadley reports interest is keener than ever with many new entries coming in... Remember that delicious dinner in the dining hall at noon last year and plan to attend and bring some guests with you.

Hemmingford Township Roadsides To Receive Attention

Hemmingford Township Council

The regular meeting of the Hemmingford Township Council was held in the Town Hall on Monday, August 5th. Mayor Alister Somerville presided. Present were Councillors A. Hadley, M. Bouchard, W. J. Brown, H. Poissant and W. Beattie.

A letter from the Quebec Roads Department acknowledged receipt of Council's resolution concerning Monté Hebert. The Engineer would be requested to inspect the work done and, if justified, the Department will take over the upkeep next year.

Two taxpayers queried their assessments, but as the Roll has now been homologated no action can be taken this year.

Mr. Martial Boileau again attended to request that something be done to eliminate the dangerous condition of the corner of the Jackson By-road and Route 52. He said that both brush and an old stone wall needed to be removed from the side of Mr. Eugene Brosseau's house which runs parallel with 52. The bulldozer would be needed to do the job efficiently. After some discussion, Councillor Hadley moved, Councillor Poissant seconded the motion that Council contribute not more than the sum of $50 towards the cost of this work. The motion was carried on the vote of three Councillors, Councillor W. J. Brown and Councillor Bouchard dissenting.

Mr. M. Grosser asked if any reply had been received concerning his complaint on the way the brush had been cut between Boundary monuments along the international boundary at the back of his farm, No. 668 and 670. The Secretary read a letter from Ottawa which stated that an Engineer from the American Boundary Commission had inspected the fence, which Mr. Grosser claimed had been broken down when the work was done, and had found it had been in poor condition and had not been further damaged by the cutting of the brush. After further discussion, the Secretary was instructed to write Ottawa requesting that a survey be made by a Canadian Inspector of the Boundary Commission.

Mr. W. Haney requested that the brush be cleared from the side of the Hebert Byroad which bordered his land. But as he had vegetables nearby he perferred to do the work (spraying) himself. It was moved by Councillor Hadley, seconded by Councillor Beattie that Mr. Haney be allowed $5 and two gallons of brush-kill to spray both sides of the Hebert By-road and that Council accept no responsibility for any damage caused.

The cutting of the grass along the roadsides came up for discussion. While many sections had been cut by the farmers who lived along the roads, other frontages had not been cut and in places created a hazard to motorists. It was eventually decided to divide the Township into four sections. The section north of 52 and east of the Laprarie-Hemmingford Highway would be cut by Mr. Vernon Ellerton, south of 52 to the Border and east of Laprarie-Hemmingford highway by Mr. Albert Bourdon. South of 52 to the Border and west of Laprarie-Hemmingford highway to Havelock line would be cut by Mr. Ernest Dauphinais and Councillor Bouchard was authorized to get someone to cut the last section, north of 52 and west. The rate to be $5 per mile, both sides of the road and that would include all expenses.

Moved by Councillor Brown, seconded by Councillor Bouchard, that the brush on the Whyte side-road be sprayed, Council to pay for the Brush-kill.

Moved by Councillor Brown, seconded by Councillor Beattie, that Council's portion of the fence along the Jackson By-road, bordering the Edgerton property, be fenced.

A resolution that a request be made to the Department of Agriculture and Colonization asking for assistance with the expenses incurred by Council in the removal of the beaver dams from the Little Montreal river, was moved by Councillor Poissant and seconded by Councillor Hadley.

Councillor Beattie notified Council he would introduce a By-law at the next meeting requesting that the Winter Works programme again be effective in this Township during the coming winter.

With regard to the request by Council for a 30-mile per hour speed limit from Lake Hermas to the village, in a reply received from the Attorney-General it was regretted that it was impossible to install speed limits in country zones.

A communication received from the Huntingdon Gleaner invited Council to participate in the Centenary issue of the paper which will be issued in September. The suggestion

Fire Call

The Huntingdon Firemen were called on Friday evening about 8:22 to the home of Mr. Richard Tinker in Garden City. It turned out to be that the furnace was giving some trouble, however here was no damage done.

In this respect, Chief L'Heureux is quite perturbed by the way cars follow after the fire engine when it turns out to go to a fire. On Friday evening a long procession followed the engine and caused considerable disturbance both on the route and at the scene. He says that he will have to lay charges if this happens as it is against the law to impede in any way the progress or operation of fire equipment. Traffic must not follow close behind the fire engine or crowd around the scene of a fire. This applies to firemen as well as to other people as firemen until actually with the equipment or at the scene of a fire, are civilians and must abide by the law. The Chief hopes that citizens will remember this in future and act accordingly. Otherwise action will be taken against the offenders.

Wedding in Hemmingford

LACASSE - VIAU

The marriage of Anne-Marie, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Simeon Viau, Covey Hill, to Mr. Jacques Lacasse, son of Mrs. André Lacasse of Montreal, took place at St. Roman's Church, Hemmingford on Saturday, July 27th. The Rev. J. M. LaRocque celebrated the Nuptial Mass during which the Ladies Choir, under the direction of Mrs. Walter Smith sang appropriate wedding music, accompanied by Mrs. J. H. L'Espérance at the organ.

The bride looked charming in a wedding gown of white silk organza over taffeta. The oval neckline of the bodice was outlined with embroidery and the long sleeves were pointed over the hands. Delicate lace appliques embroidered on the front of the skirt gave a panel effect while the fullness was drawn to the back and fell in graceful folds into a chapel train. Three white, silk lilies held her veil of tulle illusion, and she wore a strand of pearls with matching earrings. Her bouquet was of white stephanotis surrounding a pale lavender orchid.

The flower girl, little Marie Galipeau, niece of the bride, wore a dress of blue silk organza and carried a basket of white and pink carnations.

Mrs. Viau, mother of the bride, wore a sheath gown of blue, printed silk, with a blue silk straw hat and accessories to tone. Her corsage was of pink sweetheart roses.

Mrs. Lacasse wore a gown of pale rose silk linen with lace overblouse and jacket to match. With this she wore a hat of silk straw in black with black accessories and a corsage of deep red roses.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at Hotel Bourdeau, St. Chrysostome, and was attended by some 140 guests.

For travelling, the bride chose a linen suit in palest pink with lace-over-linen jacket and her vagabond-style hat of fine silk Bangkok straw, with a peach-shaded rose poised on the brim, was in a mink-brown shade. Her shoes, purse and gloves were in the same shade of mink-brown. The honeymoon was spent at Niagara Falls and on their return, Mr. and Mrs. Lacasse will reside in Montreal.

was made that pictures of local interest, the present Mayor and Council and a short resumé of interesting local developments might be inserted on a full, half or quarter page and respective prices were quoted. After some discussion during which members studied a copy of the 75th anniversary copy of the Gleaner and a preview of part of the 100th anniversary copy, brought along by Mrs. L'Espérance, it was moved by Councillor Beattie, seconded by Councillor Brown, that a half-page be taken, carried unanimously.

Hemmingford Village Council

The regular meeting of the Hemmingford Village Council was held in the Town Hall on Tuesday, August 6th. Mayor Leo Fortin presided and all Councillors were present. The question of participation in the Centenary issue of the Huntingdon Gleaner came up for discussion and it was eventually decided that a half-page in French and a half-page in English be taken. A committee of three, Councillors Smith, Keddy and McNaughton, together with the Secretary, were appointed to meet with Mrs. L'Espérance to decide on appropriate material for insertion.

The main item on the agenda for the evening was the question of joint fire-protection and upon the arrival of the Mayor and members of the Township Council, the discussion got under way. Present also were the officers of the Fire-Brigade. Full and detailed explanations were given of the ways in which this problem might be solved but there were still many points which needed further discussion. Finally it was decided that three members of both Councills, together with the respective Mayors, meet in committee on the 19th of August and report back to Council at their next meetings.

FURTHER REPORTS FROM THE H.C.H. LADIES' AUXILIARY

The following reports were inadvertently omitted from the report of the General Meeting of the W.A. of the Huntingdon County Hospital held on August 5th in the Board Room at the hospital.

Sewing Report — Mrs. Vi Galipeau, Convener, May 8 to July 24: There were 8 afternoons spent in group sewing with 23 ladies assisting. There were 204 items mended, 104 new articles made, 88 cut out ready for sewing, marked 34.

During the month of July and part of June, 15 pairs of drapes were repaired, washed, ironed and re-hung on the main floor of the Hospital. Three pairs of drapes were made for room No. 1 and the cushions on the porch furniture were recovered in leatherette, 3 throw pillows were made, a pin-up lamp and five ash trays were added to the porch for the patients' comfort. An end table was refinished, thanks to Mr. Usereau and Mr. McMillan, employees of the hospital. A large mirror, donated by the Auxiliary last year, was recut by Mr. James Rolfe at his own expense and is now ready to be hung. All the above was graciously done by the Ladies' Auxiliary.

Treasure Chest report from May 6th General Meeting to July 31, 1963. We have 56 balls of wool out being knitted into various articles. Our sales from May 6 to July 31st amounted to $92.69. We have received gifts of games, children's books, dolls' clothes and many items of interest for the Children's Ward. These are gratefully appreciated and put to good use in the Ward. Two trays have been painted to be used in the Children's Ward. We are hard at work and have many new and interesting items for our Bazaar in December.

At the present time, Mrs. Lallemand, President, and her committees are hard at work with their different Fair projects, which, it is hoped, will be well supported as in other years. There will be a Parcel Post, with Mrs. Gwen McLean and her committee busy calling the different members of the Auxiliary for their kind donations of parcels. The tagging is under the direction of Mrs. Jackie McCallum and the two booths at the Fair will have many items of interest to all. See add for Parcel Post in another column of this newspaper.

Mr. C.P. Prakke

Minister in charge was ordered to get some. He therefore asked me to supply some milk right away. I explained to him that it was impossible, but he said he must have it and to get some quickly. Needless to say he had to wait until the next milking. He seemed to be of the opinion all one had to do was to say get milk and there would be milk"

Kuwait has an estimated 15,000 sheep and goats and some 5,000 camel. In the summer the sheep and goats which are in the desert, feed mostly on the two plants mentioned above On the other hand, the camel have quite a different diet. They can make a real meal out of the thorny and spiked shrubs, or salt buches.

Mr. Prakke had with him an Arab costume and he proceeded to dress himself in this by way of demonstration. It consisted of a long white robe with a large shawl-like cloth which formed the head gear and this was crowned by a black cord. Mr. Prakke said the headgear provided some protection against sand in sandstorms, which are quite prevalent. It also provided a cooling effect by breezes which were caused by movement and was a handy towel when one needed to wipe off perspiration. He said he had the costume made by a tailor to ensure proper fit and in some types of gatherings, etc.,... it was required that such costume be worn.

Mr. Prakke was thanked by Rotarian George Thompson.

Couple Injured In Accident On Highway 4

An early morning accident on Highway 4 near Monique's curve, Huntingdon sent two persons to the Barrie Memorial Hospital just as day was breaking Monday, August 19. Dr. and Mrs. Leslie Geddes had just left the home of his father, Alex Geddes, Huntingdon to return to their home in Houston, Texas. They had planned to visit Ottawa and the Laurentians before heading south. Dr. Geddes, travelling east in a 1960 Ford Thunderbird hit the rear wheel of a five ton International Truck belonging to Alex Hay of Huntingdon. The truck had broken down due to a burnt out coil wire and was parked on the roadside, half on and half off the road. Dr. Geddes was looking directly into the rising sun and never saw the truck until he felt the impact.

Dr. and Mrs. Geddes were taken to the Ormstown Hospital where he is recuperating from a broken left arm and a cut chin and Mrs. Geddes is being treated for a head cut. The Geddes feel that owing to the fact they had their seat belts on their injuries are not near as serious as they could have been.

Mr. Alex Hay is at home under treatment of Dr. McCrimmon for a leg injury he received when the truck was pushed forward by the impact and hit him.

The Geddes Car is a total loss and the truck is damaged to the extent of $1000.

Mr. Wadley Says He's Impressed

Visiting Hatfield Peverel after an interval of 16 years is Mr. Ernest Wadley, who went to Canada nearly 50 years ago to work on an apple farm in Nova Scotia.

He has been staying with his sister, Mrs. L. A. Nettleton, and is, no doubt, well remembered by some people in the village, especially those who in the past had associations with Bovingtons, where he was a frequent visitor before the war.

Not unnaturally Mr. Wadley who has made his home in Montreal, has been keenly interested in the many changes which have, and still are, taking place in the village, and impressed by the high standard of cultivation and obvious prosperity of the farms and of the inhabitants generally.

Mr. Wadley, now retired from business, writes a weekly column in his local newspaper, so no doubt on his return there will be reference to Hatfield Peverel and how life goes on in an English village

The express purpose of this trip to England is to visit his three sisters and one brother.

He tells me he will take back with him the nicest impressions of everyone he has met and the conviction that this part of the Old Country, at least, has its chin well up and can look forward to the future with every confidence.

MARIAGE

LACASSE — VIAU

Le mariage de Anne-Marie, fille de M. et Mme Siméon Viau, Covey Hill, à M. Jacques Lacasse, fils de Mme André Lacasse de Montréal, fut célébré en l'Eglise St-Roman, Hemmingford, samedi le 27 juillet. Le Révérend J. M. Larocque célébra la messe nuptiale pendant laquelle les Dames du Choeur, sous la direction de Mme Walter Smith, chantèrent les chants appropriés à la cérémonie, accompagnées à l'orgue par Mme J.H. L'Espérance.

La mariée portait une robe de soie organza blanc sur taffetas. Son corsage oval était souligné d'appliqués et les manches descendaient en pointe. Des appliqués délicats de dentelle qui bordaient le devant de la jupe donnait l'effet d'un panneau tandis que l'ampleur de la jupe revenait à l'arrière pour tomber en une gracieuse traine de chapelle. Trois lis de soie retenaient son voile fait de tulle illusion et elle portait un collier un rang de perles avec boucles d'oreilles. Son bouquet se composait de stephanotis blancs autour d'un orchidé gris perle.

La bouquetière, Marie Galipeau, nièce de la mariée, portait une robe de soie organza bleue et avait en main un panier de carnations blanches et roses.

Mme Viau, mère de la mariée, portait une robe longue de soie imprimée bleue, avec un chapeau de paille de soie avec accessoires. Son corsage rose était de roses sweetheart.

Mme Lacasse, mère du marié, portait une robe longue de soie rose pâle avec veste. Elle portait aussi un chapeau de paille de soie noir avec accessoires noirs et un corsage de roses rouges.

Après la cérémonie, la réception eut lieu à l'Hôtel Bourdeau, St-Chrysostome et plus de 140 invités étaient présents.

Pour son voyage, la mariée revêtait un costume en toile de lin rose pale avec jacket de soie de lin, un chapeau brun vison style vagabond fait de paille de soie fine Bangkok et accessoires de même couleur.

Ils partirent en voyage de noces pour les Chutes Niagara et à leur retour résideront à Montréal.

Next Liberal Leader May Be French-Canadian

Immigration minister Buy Favreau, a lawyer from Montreal who is almost unknown outside Quebec, has risen in stature so fast that he's now being considered as the next federal leader of the Liberal Party, according to Maclean's Ottawa editor, Peter C. Newman.

"He's been in active politics only since April, but Favreau has already gained a reputation for parliamentary adroitness, departmental efficiency and enlightened counsel in the cabinet," Newman says in the current issue of the magazine. "Since Premier Jean Lesage's combative behaviour toward Ottawa may have cost him the leadership of the federal party, Favreau has begun to be considered as a candidate."

Un moyen facile de ménager ses freins

Lorsque vous conduisez votre voiture, sachez ménager vos freins et en même temps vous accordez une dose de plus de sécurité de la route. Sachez enlever le pied de l'accélérateur en arrivant au sommet d'une pente, en approchant d'une courbe ou d'une zône où jouent des enfants, en approchant d'un feu de circulation, qu'il soit vert ou rouge. Prudentia donne ce conseil aux automobilistes sachant bien qu'un grand nombre ont plus de souci de ménager leur voiture que leur propre vie ou celle des autres.

The C.C.R.A. Ladies Auxiliary will hold their first meeting of the new season on Thursday, September 5th, at 111 St. Patrick St., at 8.30 p.m. The executive are hoping for a full turnout of members and anyone wishing to join will be most welcome. There are many things to be discussed for our new, and we hope, successful season, so please remember to keep this an open date. We hope to make this year our best yet, so if you would like to take charge of a pet project or help out in anything or any ideas you may have to help the Ladies Auxiliary lets hear from you on September 5. We're depending on you, you, and you.

Anyone wishing to knit or sew garments for the Ladies Auxiliary Bazaar in November, may obtain material or wool by phoning 691-9282. If you wish to purchase your own materials you may do so and present the bill to the treasurer of the L. A. and be re-imbursed. Socks and mitts were in great demand at our last bazaar and it would be greatly appreciated if we could have a big stock on hand for this year's event. We are also looking for something out of the ordinary for Christmas ideas and also anything you may have hanging around for our surprise box and table. Let's make this year's Bazaar the talk of the town and pitch in and we'll be sure of success.

Congratulations and best wishes go out to Mr. and Mrs. C. Prest on the birth of their baby daughter, at the Queen Elizabeth Hospital, August 11th, 1963.

Mr. J. Vanndenicuwegiessen of Oxford Cresent, back home after spending a week's holiday in his native Holland.

Bruce and Lise Baronet of St. Patrick Square, back home after a wonderful holiday in the States. Highlight of the trip was a visit to the White House in Washington and a trip every boy wants to make these days to Cape Canaveral, Florida. Needless to say Bruce has been in Orbit since returning home.

Mrs. Elsie Langelois of St. Patrick St., turned salior for her two weeks of vacation on the St. Lawrence Seaway and Great Lakes. Sailing aboard the S. S. Menihek Lake, Elsie visited ports from the Seven Islands all the way west and back with a side visit to Niagara Falls. To give a new twist to an old story Elsie had a boy friend in every port as husband Andy is first mate on the ship.

Also Capt. R. Bissonnette master of the S. S. Menihek Lake is soon to be a resident of the area. He hopes to move into his new home in Parkview at the end of this sailing season. Welcome aboard Captain.

Mrs. Margaret Petrilli spending her leisure time amusing her granddaughter Lori Ann, who is staying at the Vetville residence for a few days holiday.

Residents of St. Patrick Square are overjoyed at the installation of curbstones, but work was held up temporarily on account of bad weather.

The last call for tickets for the dance and corn roast at St. Philomene. There are not too many left according to Social Director Lon Osborne so if you plan to attend give Lon a call at 691-2670.

The Barclays and Taylors of St. Patrick Square, enjoyed holidays in spite of inclement weather. Time to go back to work Jim just made it with the good old college try but sad to report Bert just wasn't up to it. Bert's excuse was that he didn't go to the same college as "Tiger."

Church News

Well the new Church building is really coming along right on schedule, the first worship service will be held on September 8th, and the dedication service will be on Thursday evening, September 12th. This will be a dream come true for the congregation and adherants of this church and I'm sure everyone is looking forward to this wonderful time when we have our own Church building. Another successful coffee party took place at the home of Mrs. J. Lavictoire last Wednesday morning.

Birthday Greetings

A very happy birthday to Mrs. W. Bezenar of McLeod Ave., Mrs. Bezenar will celebrate her big day on August 27th, hope it will be a real happy one for you. My humblest apologies to the Black family of St. Francis, last week I reported the twins as celebrating their sixth birthday and it was only their fifth, now Audrey and Alan are hoping to go to school this year, sorry kids, you'll just have to wait one more year.

Welcome Home

A big welcome home to Mr. and Mrs. F. Robinson and my little sweetheart Grant of McLeod Ave. The Robinsons spent a week of holidays at Lancaster, Ont., but due to the very wet weather were forced to come home a little before schedule.

School Days

Now that the time for schol is drawing near a lady in this district called me to say that she is willing to have between eight to ten little kiddies for lunch when the weather does not permit them to go home. For further information please call 692-0669.

Auction

The Youngs of McLeod, took a jaunt down to St. Anicet, on Saturday, to look over the contents of the Leehy Estate, by the time we got there, quite a lot had been auctioned and there was quite a large crowd. This was the first auction sale that we have ever attended and we found it quite interesting. Came home empty handed though, just couldn't compete with those professionals that attend a lot of auctions.

Household Hint

For church suppers and patio parties ordinary muffin pans make wonderfully efficient relish trays — put a different relish in each cup. Use them at children's parties too, for make-it-yourself sundaes, filling the muffin cups with assorted sauces, chopped nuts, chocolate shot and toasted coconut.

If you need ink eraser and have run out of the commercial kind, a little javel water mixed with tap water will do the trick just as well.

Recipe for Cucumber Pickles

1 qt. vinegar
¼ cup salt
¼ cup sugar
¼ cup mustard

Mix well, salt, sugar and mustard; then add vinegar Wash cucumbers, wipe dry and pack cucumbers in jar; pour mixture over them until covered; seal.

This covers about 2 quarts of cucumbers.

That's it for now, see you next week.

Canada's Centenary

Its Importance To The Chateauguay Valley

T XII

by DOUGLAS R. LAMBIE
Editor of Waiting Room Digest, freelance writer, Past President and Centennial Committee Chairman of the Chateauguay Valley Historical Society

It was quite a week-end! All day Saturday between two and three hundred people milled around or stood intently watching as the contents of the Leehy Store at St. Anicet was auctioned off.

High button shoes that had never graced a lady's foot at the turn of the century. Spare corset stays that were never sold to replace those worn out by the constant struggle to restain some good women's normal breathing . . . even a complete corset or two. Men's celluloid collars in the original boxes — inexpensive then and priceless as relics today.

There were long vicious looking hatpins by the handful; and men's cravats by the box. We saw fifty-year-old woollens and cottons, apparently as good as the day they were put in stock. And the parasols! Two of the prettiest little lace-bedecked, fully lined numbers that were ever intended to flutter high above milady's high-piled ostrich plumes — sold for close to eight times what old Mr. Leehy had priced them to sell for!

And between these lots were boxes of old books — but wait . . . not just old books There were educational treasures, first editions dating back to the Seventies and earlier — irreplaceable today.

The crowd had one of its many chuckles of the afternoon when the ponderous old bedpan was knocked down to a lady buyer, and another as the auctioneer tired of selling hooked rugs and tablecloths one-by-one and piled his 'helping hand' so high the poor man was lost to sight.

Ah, what treasure trove was to be had last Saturday at St. Anicet — and the buyers came from far afield. Distinguished among the visitors were the director of the National Museum in Ottawa and the curator of its historical section. Another couple drove two hundred miles from the Laurentians. And of course a strong attendance was noted from various points in New York State — whence some of these treasures have gone.

We were happy to see the old banc-lit stay in Canada — in fact not many miles from St. Anicet, and we hope that some of the other of the fast disappearing symbols of "Grandpa's" generation are also going to have a few more years in this area.

The next day — in another part of the valley — I rummagaed through an attic. Turning over piles of scruffy looking envelopes and post cards I noticed the post mark dates . . . July 1929, March 1938, then — a letter . . .

"Dear Friend," it began, and was dated October 1889 from Huntingdon.

Nearby lay a heap of papers. I stooped down, picking up a handful, then another — it was a ledger dated 1858 — one hundred and five years old. Every line in it contains fascinating items to fill in a picture of the times. In how many more attics and barns and 'kitchen bedrooms' of this Valley are there such treasures which, put together, could form one of the most interesting historic collections in this country?

Here is a worthy Centenary project — which need cost nothing in terms of money. Most of these things have little or no monetary value. Some of them have sentimental value for the owners, who usually don't stop to wonder whether they could be shared with no harm done to the sentiment.

But far more often they are boxes and trunks of 'junk' unwanted by anyone, and represent a task of sorting which their owners have no desire to face. These are the people who do not realize that their 'junk' might bring many hours of pleasure to someone else — might in future serve to draw a realistic portrait of the life and times of our forefathers for the sake of our children, who may find history a dull subject to learn in school.

"But these are private papers — they are personal," is typical of remarks heard so often when old papers are requested. Are they really personal? Were they ever? Oh, yes, sometimes. In some cases the owners would not have wanted their letters read by strangers' eyes. But one cannot help wondering if they would really object eighty, ninety or one hundred years later.

On the other hand, many never were really private. One which I read this week-end gave no address, and mentioned only one name — the first name of the writer. But it did contain references to "the wool being taken for carding", the different types of fabric she was considering for a new dress, and the price of a "nice piece of cashmere" — at 54c a yard. Innocent enough information, yet added to many other similar little tragments, the picture begins to come to life.

To a small group of people — comparatively — the passing of such an old establishment into oblivion is a little heart-breaking. To a far larger segment of the population this heart-break is completely mystifying. And in-between there is a group whose antenna detects a distinct change in the atmosphere as a disposal sale or auction date comes closer. These are the stalwarts who brave scores of miles, and any sort of weather, to sniff out a precious piece of china (precious to them), a musty old book, a primitive piece of pine (it could be any of several other woods), and incidentally run the gauntlet of local inhabitants (wherever 'local' happens to be this week) who strongly suspect that all auction-goers are a little soft in the head.

But — if you can't find a way to preserve history in its entirety — then salvaging the litle fragments via the route of the auction sale is a delightful and harmless way to go crazy. (As is well known in this area, the author is an auction habitue).

Home Swimming Pools Present Some Dangers

MONTREAL — The widespread popularity of the home swimming pool brings with it a number of potential health and safety hazards.

Unless the homeowner gives it close attention, the backyard pool may become a neighborhood menace to health and safety, the Canadian Underwriters' Association warned today.

"Pools must be kept free of scum, algae, sand, dirt, debris, murkiness and undesirable odors," the C.U.A. reported, in strongly advising daily testing for alkalinity or acidity, and points out that kits are commercially available for this purpose.

Chlorine comes closest to satistying the requirements of pool sanitation, but it may not be the most practical purifying chemical for the owner of the small pool. Chlorine, standard in large pool sanitation, can be harmful and even deadly to humans if carelessly handled by untrained personnel.

If chlorine is used in the backyard pool, the Association urges the homeowner to seek the guidance of skilled personnel. The use of chlorine requires the installation and maintenance of certain equipment, meters gauges and valves. It is potentially dangerous and requires definite precautions to avoid accidents.

Some chlorine substitutes currently available on the market are effective but present marked disadvantage and require stringent precautionary measures. Bromine, for example, though a powerful sanitation agent, must be used with extreme caution. In some cases, head-to-foot protection in the form of acid-proof suits may be needed when a pool is being treated.

Iodine and Iodine compounds are effective germicides, and they are far easier to handle than chlorine or bromine. Also there is less of muscular control and result in drowning.

The Canadian Underwriters' Association recommends that electrical equipment — such as underwater lights and pump motors — should be given strict care and maintenance.

If a swimmer does receive eye irritation and no strong odor such as given off by chlorine.

If the iodine or iodides are used, the hazards are small except for the possibility of skin burns from very concentrated iodine solutions.

The C.U.A. also reports that serious, even fatal, swimming pool accidents may result from electric shock. Wet skins offer very little resistance to the passage of an electric current, and a very small current can cause loss an electric shock while in the pool, the power should be turned off before anyone else, enters the pool. In such an emergency the initial impulse of by-standers is to save the drowning swimmer, though anyone entering the pool before the power is shut-off would be similary shocked and paralysed.

Since the body is so sensitive to electric shock under wet conditions the C.U.A. recommends that installation of equipment should follow exactly the recommendations of the Canadian Electrical Code.

Trip to Shawinigan Kitchens

Last Thursday afternoon Aubrey-Riverfield W.I. sponsored a drive to Valleyfield, when twenty-seven ladies and one gentleman enjoyed a visit to the Shawinigan kitchens. Miss Nicole Labrite welcomed the group and then proceeded to demonstrate four different types of dishes prepared on her General Electric range.

First she whipped up a batch of chocolate filled cookies and then an appetizing dish of cauliflower with egg sauce. This was followed by hamburgers with frozen corn and green beans. Lastly came a mouth watering salmon salad with radishes, cucumbers, onions and pineapple chunks. These were won by several of the ladies in addition to three large plastic tablecloths. A dainty afternoon tea was served and the guests were invited to inspect the kitchen which was equipped with an upright freezer, frigidaire, washer, dryer, stove, dish washer and garbage disposal unit in succession around the room.

Different companies products are used for six months at a time and at this time General Electric was being advertised. Each lady received a cook book and other literature and everyone felt she had had a very profitable and pleasant afternoon.

Moving Dedication Service In Delson Protestant Cemetery

In glorious sunshine and warm summer air, families, relatives and friends gathered in Delson Protestant Cemetery last Sunday afternoon when a Memorial and Dedication service took place. In the sublime serenity of this hallowed spot fond memories were awakened and deeply moving thoughts filled kindred hearts. These words of an old song came to mind, "O, It's Quiet Down Here, But God Is Very Near". The truth of those words could really be felt as one looked around, for so many emblems of love were in evidence. The golden sunshine after the rain, patches of blue sky with billowy white clouds floating by like gossamer wings outspread was truly Nature in beauty dressed, speaking of a Heavenly Father's love for all. The floral tokens, emblems of love and cherished memories of dear departed ones made all standing there realize the gift of life with it's wonderful opportunities.

In the absence of Rev. Wesley Ball, Rev. W. Morris conducted the Ceremony which opened with the singing of the hymn, "Abide With Me", followed by the Dedication of a Monument, sacred to the memory of Soldiers and Civilians of Laprairie Cemetery 1812-1951, which was transferred to Delson Cemetery recently. Memorial Prayers were said in both the old and new section of the Cemetery. Rev. Morris closed with the benediction.

During this brief hour one may have been inspired to the realization that time swiftly passes. There is much good we all can do ere the great call comes for us, thus would we pray, "Lord, let me not die until I've done for Thee my earthly work, whatever it may be. Call me not hence with mission unfilled, let me not leave my spot of ground untilled. Impress this truth upon me, that no one can do my portion that I leave undone.

Gentlemen: —

Your writer is living in retirement, having left actual business just about a year ago.

I have always been keenly interested in all matters of public concern, such and educational matters, and now while living leisurely, I have retained these interests and in fact I have stepped them up in this Community in which I have settled in retirement.

Since settling in Chateauguay I have followed with interest the administration, progress and expansion of education for the Protestant Children of the Community, having a son living in the School Municipality, purchasing his own home and trying to raise and educate three children of School age at the existing high rate of School Taxes, and I feel that I should make my present sincere interest known to you on a most important ruling you have recently issued to all Protestant Taxpayers and Parents of children presently registered to attend your three schools for the coming school term, namely, Julius Richardson, Maple and Mary Gardner.

Your recent edict that you would not continue to provide conveyance for the children to and from schools after the end of the past school season June 30/63, and that they would be compelled to take or leave the offer being made by a local bus company at an exorbitant rate of fare, — which is most unreasonable, especially to those who are Taxpayers as well as parents of children.

This edict has given me great personal concern and from all that I have seen and heard around the Municipality, much feeling of anxiety worry, fear, contempt and injustice is growing among the Parents of your prospective pupils for the coming term, and will no doubt grow more intensive until the opening of the new school term. In fact a movement is being organized to possibly boycott the offer of the local bus company and to possibly resort to a school attendance strike, as it is felt in general that your edict is encouraging the exploitation of the Protestant Parents and is causing a monopoly in the Public Transportation business, and that they have been forced into a take it or leave it condition, as there is no General Public Transportation facility in the Municipality. If not already organized, the existing Home & School Associations in the Municipality are getting together to plan definite direct action against your injust edict.

In view of the above reaction, I hereby desire that immediate action be taken by your Board to revoke or at least postpone its implementation until all parties concerned can possibly get together to discuss this all important matter which greatly effects Protestant Education in the Municipality of Chateauguay, and I hereby summarize the reasons for the requested action: — Conveyance very necessary owing the size of Municipality, No Public Transportation available, School Taxes are already high and will possibly go higher, Encouragement of Exploitation and monopoly.

Yours respectfully and sincerely.

Little Blessings
(By C. M. Stillings)

Little Blessings, these I prize
I do not count them by their size
Or take for granted, day by day,
The happy things that come my way:
The warmth of cherrie words or smiles;
A letter bridging distant miles;
Garden flowers from a friend;
A timely book someone may lend.
I too must think of ways to bless
And bring to others happiness;
A little gift, a friendly call....
A loving prayer is best of all.
God uses folks like you and me
To spread His grand philosophy.
Little things to life bring zest.
Little blessings are the best.

Many of us take each day as it comes, not giving much thought to the little things in life. If we thought of the many things we have to be thankful for, counted these little blessings that each day brings....we would feel so much better in ourselves. This little poem expressed this so well I felt I would like to share it with you. M.M.

QUEBEC PLOWING MATCH ARRANGED

This fall, one hundred and forty years after the first Plowin Match of record in Canada was held at St. Martine, not for from Montreal, another match will be held in that same district when the 9th Provincial Championship Plowing Match is staged by the Laprairie Agricultural Society. The dates are October 2 and 3, and place is St. Isidore.

That first match, held in 1823, had twelve competitors, 7 English speaking and 5 French speaking. This fall it is expected that close to fifty plowmen will be competing, and both French and English farmers will take part. After all good plowing is needed on every Quebec farm.

The match this year will be held on the farm of Fernand Perras, just west of the village of St. Isidore, and just 12 miles, as the crow flies from the centre of Montreal. On October 2, the Laprairie-Napierville-Chateauguay county Plowing Match will be held, while the Provincial Championship Match will take place on the next day, Announcement of winners and presentation of prizes will take place at a banquet that evening.

Arrangements for the Match will be looked after by Fernand Perras, president, and Roméo Ste-Marie secretary of the Laprairie Aricultural Society, and Wilfrid Hébert, agronome of the county, and J. A. Lafortune and O. R. Evans, representing the Quebec Provincial Plowmen's Association.

French Folk Songs to be Recorded Along North Shore

The first tapes of early French Canadian folk music ever recorded along parts of the North Shore of the St. Lawrence River are being made this summer by Miss Maguy Andral of Paris France. The work is being done under contract to the National Museum of Canada.

Miss Andral is travelling between the villages of Mingan and Tete-a-la-Baleine; no songs representative of this area have ever been recorded.

"We are fortunate to have this study undertaken by a specialist with Miss Andral's high qualifications," said Dr L.S. Russell, Director of the National Museum. "She is Assistant Director of the Department of Ethnomusicology at the Musee des Arts et Traditions Populaires in Paris, and Professor of Ethnomusicology at the University of Paris. She also reports on folk music for the Educational Commission of the French Ministry of National Education".

In 1962 Miss Andral made a study for the National Museum of early musical instruments used in Nova Scotia. She will compare the development of folk songs and music in both areas. Her research program is the most intensive ever planned in Canada by a specialist in the field of folk music.

Delson Wading Pool Is Safe'

Another Gala Day has been planned for residents in Delson now that plans have been finalized for the Crowning of the Queen of Sports. This pleasant event will take place in Delson Town Hall on Saturday, September 7th. A big time is in store for the small fry also and further news concerning this will be forthcoming.

It is most discouraging to those who have given and are giving of themselves to promote community fellowship and fun for all, when some malicious tongues spread harmful gossip which would tend to spoil things which up to now have been running quite smoothly. We are told that rumors have been circulated regarding the water in the wading pool not having been tested. The President of the Delson Sports Assoc. Mr. R. Sutton, wishes everyone to know that the water is tested once daily by a maintenance man, chloride is added when necessary, so parents, you need have no fear; the young folk are quite safe to go ahead and have fun as they have been doing.

Shame on the small minded people with evil tongues, who find fault with everything rather than help to make things better. To these folk I would say, "If you want to live in the kind of a Town that's the kind of a Town you like, you needn't slip your clothes in a grip and start on a long, long hike. You'll find elsewhere what you left behind, for there's nothing that's really new. It's a knock at yourself when you knock your town. It isn't your Town — it's YOU. Try being charitable for a change, folks.

THE LEADING ADVERTISING MEDIUM IN THE DISTRICT OF BEAUHARNOIS

Notes and Jottings FROM Robert Sellar's Historical Writings

The night of the 3rd November was fixed for the rising and the chief blow was to be struck by the habitants of the county of Laprairie which included the seigniory of Chateauguay. They were to attack and capture the barracks at the village of Laprairie. The chief agent was a habitant, one Desmarais who had devoted his time to inducing his neighbors to join the movement, and it is proof of his energy, that no other section was so well-organized. He had been implicated in the rising of 1838 and there was abundant proof for his conviction, but the government, in its mistaken clemiency, had set him at liberty. The seigniory of Chateaugay he entrusted to Cardinal, who was to make a night-march on Caughnawaga, surprise the Indians and seize the muskets and ammunition with which the government had supplied them the year before, and then proceed to assist in the attack on Laprairie barracks. Cardinal was a slow and somewhat heavy man, regarded by many as soft and stupid and by a few as cunning and ambitious. He was certainly callous and ungrateful. The steamer from Lachine, the Chateauguay, was late that Saturday, and it was dark when she reached her wharf. She had a full load, and among her passengers were a number of Old Country farmers. The night was cold and wet and the roads bad, so that it was some time before they got under way. The first to get as far as the bridge was John Lewis Grant, a Lachine farmer, who was on his way to his brother-in-law, John McDonald, to warn him that the Canadians had marked him among those they had designated for assassination.*

*There was a plot to kill McDonald. It had been arranged with a worthless fellow to do the deed for a sum of money, and was given a knife and pitol as instruments. The plan was that the assassin was to go with a neighbor to McDonald's store and ask him to examine a pile of the bons storekeepers then issued, and, while so engaged, either shoot or stab him. The neighbor refused with horror, and caused, too late, McDonald to be warned of his danger in the manner stated.

In front of Mrs. Duquette's tavern he met a great crowd of Canadians, who seized hold of his horse's head, and dragging him from his gig, carried him, for he was half-drunk, into a room, where they searched him, thinking he was the bearer of despatches to his brother-in-law. There was no letter but they found a pair of pistols in his pocket, which Duquette appropriated. Shortly afterwards, a string of other passengers came along, when they also were halted and made prisoners. One of them, John Stewart of Howick, resisted, when Duquette drew his sword and threatened to run it through him, when his sons persuaded him to submit. The crowd was constantly increasing and all were in great glee, laughing and gesticulating. That the province would be theirs within a couple of days they had not a shadow of doubt. By-and-by Canadians appeared who had been sent for, chasseurs and laquets who had repented at the twelfth hour and been forced to turn out by patrols sent for them. Meanwhile two detachments of considerable strength were marching down the river, visiting the houses of all the Old Countrymen. The first house they went to was that of John McDonald, and surrounding it knocked loudly for admittance. McDonald, who was getting into bed, asked their errand, when they shouted they were going to declare their independance that night. Delaying to give them admittance, threats of setting fire to the house were made. His servant advised resistance, but McDonald said two could do nothing against so many, and told him to go and hide and seize the first opportunity to fly to Beauharnois and let Col. Brown know that the Canadians were in arms. The servant having hid under a bed, the door was opened, when the rebels crowded in. Their leader, Jean L. Thibert, a neighbour farmer, ordered him to dress and go with them to his store, for McDonald was a merchant as well as a farmer. There they seized some powder and shot, but touched nothing else. Returning to the house, they searched every nook of it for arms, finding a gun. Reforming their ranks they began their march to the bridge, taking McDonald with them as prisoner. At the house of every Old Countryman they came to they halted and rousing the inmates from their sleep demanded instant entrance under fearful threats. Taken thus unaware, resistance was impossible, and amid the tears of wife and children, the head of the house, and if he had any, his grown-up sons, were compelled to leave their beds, to huddle on their clothes and be taken away as prisoners. The hardship was the greater from the nature of the weather. A piercing blast was sweeping over the country and at intervals heavy showers fell, so that the prisoners, as they dragged their weary way through the mud, were chilled and drenched by wind and rain. At one house the goodwife appeared to answer the summons, and declared that her husband was from home. The Canadians knew better, and told her unless he appeared they would set fire to the barn. She pointed to the chimney, where he had taken refuge, whence he was dragged with laughter and his wife was compelled to supply a piece of rope to tie his arms behind his back, the man telling them he would live to see his captors yet hung with it. In the house of James Holmes, they found the Rev. Mr. Roach, who had come to hold service on the morrow, and marry a couple on Monday. He also was made prisoner, and there was neither service nor marriage.* At Dickson's house was Robert Findlay, who, on hearing the errand of those who were demanding admittance, jumping out of his bedroom window and made for Cauhnawaga told the Indians of the rising, got them to ferry him over to Lachine whence he was driven to Montreal and was the first to give Colborne information that the outbreak had taken place. Every house was searched for arms, but beyond a few fowling-pieces none were found. When the party reached Duquette's they had 15 prisoners, who were led to Madame Boudria's office where Cardinal had his office. He received his neighbors with complacency, the majority of whom, a few months before, had signed a petition to the government to condone his offence of sharing in the rising of 1837. The leaders consulted, when the farmers were released, excepting McDonald, an Irishman, McLean, who had acted as drill-sergeant to the militia the year before, and a young Aberdonian named Innis, who provoked the Canadians by telling them the Huntingdon men would soon be down to whip them. The release of the passengers by the steamer was refused. The party sent to visit the houses between the Basin and the bridge, took all the arms they could find but made no prisoners.

*This house-to-house visitation did not pass off as harmlessly elsewhere. A few miles east of the Basin, at La Tortue, two sturdy Yorkshiremen, warned in time of the rebels' approach, stood at either side of the door, musket in hand. The Canadians fired a volley, when Aaron Walker fell back dead in his wife's arms. David Vitty, after discharging his gun, stood his ground, and shouted he would pierce with the bayonet the first Canadian who crossed his threshold. A second volley was fired, and he was wounded in four places. The rebels then rushed in, and found Mrs. Walker, clasping a nine months' old infant, bending over her dead husband. Recognizing among them a neighbor, she said, "You have murdered a man who never injured you." "It is good for him and you too", he replied, as he roughly pushed her aside. Vitty, who was dabbled all over with blood from his wounds, asked for a drink, and as one of the household was raising it to his lips, a French Canadiar dashed the cup to the ground. A troop of Hussars, from Laprairie barracks, warned by a messenger sent by Walker were heard approaching when the rebels fled.

LETTER FROM SEIGNIORY PARK

by FERGUS HORSBURGH)

Good news for Woodbiners — the construction shack and abandoned truck-cum- paint-store in the Park are scheduled for early removal. Mr. Marcel Lefebvre, excavation contractor, is under orders to remove the shack, and would have done so by now but for the spell of wet weather we've had this past week or so. The truck-paint store belongs to a painting contractor who no longer works here, and if he does not take his old truck away himself, it will be towed away to another graveyard.

Commuters to Montreal have been puzzled and exasperated this past week at the method of traffic control at Mercier Bridge. The long-established practice of permitting two-lane traffic to town bound traffic for ten minutes or so during the morning peak has been abandoned, as has been the similar arrangement for home bound cars in the evening. This has caused long bumper to bumper queues of cars, late arrivals at work and late home at night. Why was this highly successful manoeuvre of two-lane traffic abandoned without explanation? Bridge Police claim they were obeying orders from Montreal. Montreal claim the orders came from Quebec City. Perhaps there was a good reason for temporarily changing traffic control plans — it is easy to imagine that the authorities wished to study new traffic patterns which could yield useful information in planning the new approaches.

But surely there is no excuse for presenting the public with a fait-accompli without prior explanation which would have enabled the public to make alternative arrangements. Bridge Police state that traffic control will in future revert to the former plan of blocking off one end of the bridge for the morning and evening peaks, so let us hope they live up to that promise. How ghastly it would be if we were to be faced with a continuation of this past week's traffic snarls.

June says it was just too hot these past few weeks, and there was in any case not much news. Now that cooler weather has returned, she expects to return to business-as-usual.

We were all sorry to hear that Gerry Fortin had been smitten with hepatitis. We hear now he is convalescing satisfactorily, and will be back on the job early in September.

Seigniory Park Co-operative Nursery School and Kindergarten will resume on Monday, September 16th. There are still some vacancies Call Membership Chairman Mrs. Joy Sland, 691-0989, who will be glad to furnish additional information on request.

A warm welcome is extended to Mr. and Mrs. Julien Lafone who have moved into their new home at 389 Frontenac.

Congratulations to Russ Oliver's Seigniory Park Bantams who clinched a play-off spot by defeating Chateauguay Centre 16-7 in an eliminating game. They are the only Seigniory Park team to make the playoffs, and meet Chateauguay Terrace this week in the semi-final three-them they have already beaten Terrace in the regular series so here's wishing them success and on the Final.

I hear from a friend in British Columbia that one of those big "friendly" black bears disputed possession of his favourite fishing spot. My fishing friend did not stay to argue the toss about territorial rights. In my B.C. days I never could quite swallow these stories about black bears being tame — wouldn't hurt a fly and so on. They say everybody knows a black bear wouldn't hurt you, but I was never quite convinced that Mr. Bear himself was familiar with this arrangement.

Anyone who has seen curious spider-web like informations hanging on to trees around here, and wondered what they are: well, the answer is, they are probably caused by the tent caterpillar disease. This is a spreading disease, and the carterpillars eat all the leaves on the afflicted tree eventually, unless they are burnt out. Let's hope the Town Authorities will do the necessary quickly, to avoid losing any of the trees in our park-to-be.

My son Brian and I are off on our annual fishing trip in Vermont this week, but my wife is staying home to mind the baby, and will be pleased to collect any news items — 691-1581.

Weather? Did you say weather? I'm sure we are all a little tired of this cold wet August. I know trying to plan events and then hearing the weather synopsis, it gets a bit frustrating. If only it had been a nice St. Swithans Jones, he did just that, and needless to say the news was soon around and the stride has had a full days use since going up. Thanks to Mrs. Roy and her committee for purchasing the stride and thanks to Mr. Hulshoff for putting it up.

Day. If, what a small word and yet it seems to hold so many meanings one way or another! Well folks if it doesn't rain we will have a good Indian Summer and if it does we won't, but please keep your fingers crossed if only for the sakes of the children. They want a corn boil and a good day at the Fair.

Did you know that a woman has good horsepense never becomes a nag?

Giant Stride

The Giant Stride is up! After waiting for nearly four years to have this piece of playground apparatus placed in the kiddies park, I'm sure Mrs. Roy and her committee of that time can hardly believe it to be true. Mr. W.B. Hulshoff, past president of W.E.H.O.A., after making countless trips to see Mr. Mongeau about the finishing of the playground and putting up of this special piece of equipment, decided the only way to get a job done is do it yourself. With the help of young Bill and son-in-law Dereh.

Social Hilites

Belated happy birthday to Mr. Bill Langdale who celebrated last week.

A happy birthday was celebrated Aug. 16th, by Linda Golden who was hostess at her fifth birthday party. Guests included her little sister Janice, Lola Cherrier, Julie and Ann Sylvestre, Paul and David Poupart, Debbie Boisse, Karen Lee Roy, Debbie Hillock, Tricia Smith, Stevie Rankin and Gary Madden. "Pin a tail on the donkey" was won by Julie Sylvestre and Debbie Boisse. "Pegs in the bottle" was won by Debbie Hillock and Paul Poupart. The games were followed by a dancing session. However there was one law. Mummy didn't have any twist records and the old song records were not fast enough for this high stepping step, but after rummaging about the twist was finally organized and away they went. Suppertime saw a lovely table loaded with goodies and a cake. Twelve hungry little folks had a wonderful party supper. Also out to see her favorite girls was Nanny Bucksley. So glad you had such a grand day, Linda.

Miss Hazel White of Montreal was a weekend guest of Mr. and Mrs. Aldwin Lampith.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Poupart and children Margaret Ann, Donna and Peter, of Halifax N.S. were supper guests of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Poupart. During the evening movies were shown and everyone enjoyed a bit of reminiscing.

Nanny Brayton was a Sunday guest of her son-in-law and her daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Wes Roy and her grandchildren, Wendy, Norman, Karen and Steven.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Hillock, along with daughters Colleen and Deborah, have returned from two wonderful weeks at Atlantic City. They report having excellent weather (80° and more) They were on the beach all day every day. They visited Cape May and the Steel Pier as well as the Million Dollar Pier. Dad won a lovely big doll for Colleen. At the Stell Pier they saw and heard Frank Fontaine, Sammy Davis Jr. and Diana Dors. The children saw an enormous jelly-fish which was washed up on the shore. Stops were also made at Albany, N.Y. and Lake George N.Y. to break the trip. Glad to see you back folks. Hope you can stand the coolness of our weather.

Mr. and Mrs. Stan Houston, Bobby, Danny and Cindy are back after enjoying a Cape Cod vacation. They report having had very good weather during their two weeks. On Fri., Aug. 23rd Stan and Dorothy will celebrate their 12th wedding anniversary. Many more happy years.

Oline Lowe was in for a visit and she looks so well. We are glad to have you back, so get well rested. We have a little job for you at the Fair. The Stilton cheese is scrumptious Olive. Thanks so very much.

Hello there

Let's hope that the sunshine is out to stay for a little while at least. The rainy weather did some good for on the weekend we took our family for a little hike through the woods behind the West End project and much to our delight we found some lovely edible mushrooms that were very tasty. The children were delighted with the many squirrels they saw climbing through the trees and found that there weren't too many acorns left as I guess the squirrels have been busy storing them away for Winter consumption.

Get Well Wishes

Carol and Ross Spinard were both hospitalized last week for a couple of days and had their tonsils removed Hope you are both feeling fine now. Your little playmates missed you while you were convalescing.

Congratulations

Mr. and Mrs. J.D. Watts of St. Maurice Street celebrated their 16th wedding anniversary on Sunday, August 18th. Special congratulations are extended to you from your fellow coaches Mr. Drake and Mr. Kavannagh.

Virus

Seems as though many youngsters in our area still plagued with the virus and last week little Debbie Moody was quite a sick young lady with a bad case of tonsilitis Claudia, Corrina and Cornelius Viereck all spent a day in bed with high temperatures and sore throats also. Hope all you youngsters are feeling better now and are able to get out and enjoy the sun shine now that it is back.

Coffee Party

Mrs. Fred Lortie of Ethie Street held a Coffee Party on Thursday, August 15 in honour of her mother, Mrs. A Lever, who was celebrating her 40th wedding anniversary. A lovely cake topped with a miniature bride and groom was presented to Mrs Lever and also a lovely tea pot, a gift from the assembled ladies. Present were Mrs Lever, Mrs. Lortie, Mrs. Moody, Mrs. Kavannagh, Mrs. Viereck, and Mrs. Fabio.

Farewell

A fond farewell to the Trueman Family of Primeau Street who will be leaving us this week for their new home in Beaurepaire. We hope you will enjoy your lovely new home and that perhaps some day you'll come back and visit with your old friends in Chateauguay.

Handy hints for the home maker

Give oranges or grapefruit a hot bath before peeling Pour boiling water over them and leave for 5 minutes. This will remove the white under coat under the skin. A garlic skin will come off easily if hot water is poured over the garlic bud. Double the life of cut flowers by cutting their stems at a long slant. Add a lump of sugar or camphor or a couple aspirin tablets to the water. They keep fresh longer if leaves below water are removed. Decaying leaves poison the water.

Recipe Exchange Corner

Now that pickling time is here, I thought you might like to try this simple beet recipe which adds a lovely taste treat to any meal.

Beet Salad in Jars — 12 large beets — boil and chop fine.

DRESSING
1 pint of vinegar
2 tablespoons salt
1 cup of water
1 lb. brown sugar
½ cup flour

METHOD: Mix the dressing well and boil until thick. Add the cooked chopped beets and mix well. Put in jars and seal tight. Store and use as needed.

Belated Birthday Wishes

Young Corrina Viereck was one year old on August 13 and to celebrate the event her mother had a family birthday and as a special treat the Lynn Fran Puppeteers put on a little show for the children. A delightful time was had by all.

Soccer Sidelights

Saturday afternoon saw the Legionaires meet the Shamrocks at the Willibrod Street field and the Shamrocks won with a score of 5-0. Responsible for the goals were Robert Drake who scored 3, Tommy Ireland who scored 1, and Warren Welner 1.

Also on Saturday the Rangers played the Hearts and the Rangers won this game with a score of 2-1.

On Sunday afternoon our boys journeyed to Parkview to play their games. In the first game the Shamrocks played the Wanderers and won by a very slim score of 2 to 1. Robert Drake again was top scorer scoring the only two goals of the afternoon.

In the second game the Legionaires played the Hearts and the game ended with no goals scored by either team.

The coaches are very greatful to the following fathers who very generously supplied transportation to our boys for Sunday's game: Mr. K. Moody, Mr. Welner, Mr. Cushion and Mr. F. Fabio. Thanks, too, for Mr. Moody's wonderful vocal support in cheering our boys on to victory and to Mr. Fabio for photographing the boys. Thanks to Mr. Hatcher for allowing our boys to use his basement. It is gratifying to report that each game sees new faces turn out, I mean parents and not children and it's wonderful that more and more of you folks are showing an interest in this wonderful sport, so keep up the good work.

Mr. and Mrs. D. Murray of Maisonneuve St., spent an enjoyable day fishing recently. They didn't have any luck, but they are not giving up. They are going to try again this week-end.

On Saturday the Murrays had friends in who showed them movies they took while on holidays in British Columbia. The colours were beautiful. It was like going on a holiday prepaid.

Friday night, Mrs. L. Ellis of Lachine, Mrs. H. Randall and Mrs. Stafford went to a Tupper ware party. It was held at the home of Jean Nephew, sister-in-law of Mrs. Randall.

Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Bradford, daughters Gail and son Gary from Blacks Harbour, N.B. are visiting at the home of her brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. R. Randall.

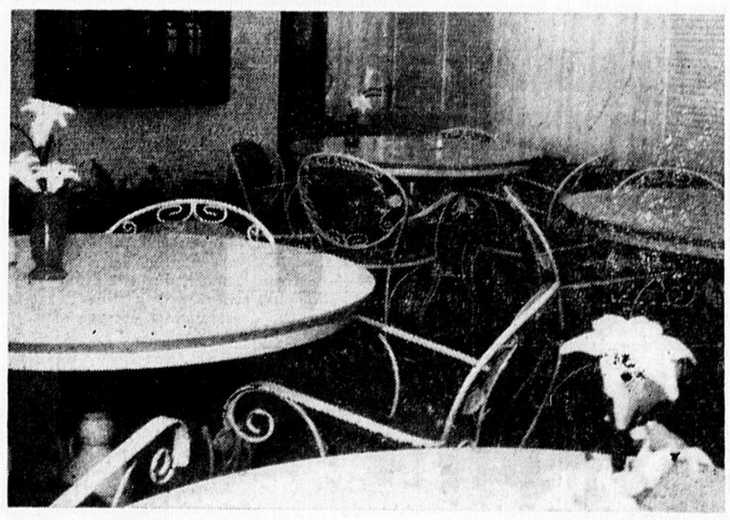

The weather during the past week has been so cool and wet that the children are a bit disappointed. However here's hoping this week will be better.

Miss Sheila Foster spent a couple of days visiting her friend, Kathleen Welsby in LaSalle. Friday evening her father brought the two girls home in time for Sheila's birthday. She was 12 years old on August 16.

Such bad news from the weatherman fell on our wet ears on Saturday. The rainy weather of the past two weeks is likely to remain with us for quite some tme. If you want summer weather you'll have to rely on your memories of the hot sunny month of July.

C.H.O.A. Tours
Labatt's Brewery

Friday evening, August 16th saw Labatt's Maisonneuve room filled to capacity with C.H.O.A. members and friends, all ready for dancing refreshments and a good time. As expected, all three came very easily! Most of those in attendance also took advantage of the opportun ity to tour the plant, a most fascinating half-hour for many new members.

The response to the Labatt's invitation by C.H.O.A. members and friends was most heartening to those in charge of ticket distribution. It is regrettable that only a limited number of passes were available but let us express a most sincere Thank You to Mr. Roland Amyot and Mr. Bissonnet of Labatts for providing so many supporters of our Association with such an enjoyable evening.

Here's a warning directed towards those boys and girls who own bicycles. There has been a rash of stolen bicycles reported to the Town's Police Department. Many of the bikes are found but stripped of items such as handle-rips, pedals, a front or a back wheel or both. Reports have it that these bikes are being stolen right out of people's yards, driveways and from Tower's Discount Store grounds.

Let us acknowledge the fact that our Police Department are well aware of the problem but lack of personnel hinders the search for the culprits. But there are several steps the public can take themselves. The most obvious one of all is never to leave your bike unattended or unlocked! A good two-wheeler costs between $40. and $50. Why not invest about $5.00 more for a sturdy lock and chain to discourage anyone from stealing such an expensive travel-mode. This would be a most useful item when shopping at stores which do not provide any supervision of parking facilities. Even where bicycle racks are provided, don't you think this would be a good insurance against the loss of a bicycle?

Until the thieves are caught, see to it that your youngster is aware of the danger of having his bike stolen. Make sure it is inside your house at night. Make sure he takes necessary steps to protect his possessions at all times. Why does it always take heartbreak and frustration to teach us to do our part in looking after our belongings?

Just what is an Official Football Programme? The one issued by our erstwhile Chateauguay Rambler Club does not even give the names and numbers of the players! If they are going to charge for these Official Programmes, then let it at least include the starting line-up of our home town team.

Plans are in full swing for C.H.O.A.'s Fifth Annual Field Day which will take place on Saturday afternoon, September 7th, at Langlois Rink site. There will be races, refreshments and prizes for all members 12 years old and under. By now most of you have received the circular giving full particulars. If you do not have a C.H.O.A. membership, please call Roy Vetland at 692-2659 or Les Harris at 692-2813.

Back for a visit to Chateauguay are Mr. and Mrs. Lou Essiambre, who recently moved to Quebec City. Lou had to return to Montreal for business reasons, so Ida came for fun. It always is fun to see old friends and I'm sure the midnight oil burns brightly in the homes that Ida and Lou are visiting. Nice to see you both, again.

In a bilingual community such as Chateauguay, why is it that a copy of the Town of Chateauguay's Bylaw is available only in French? This is hard to understand and when I asked if these bylaws could not be had in Enlish I received only a shrug of the shoulders and the one word "no!" This should not be, and I hope the City Fathers can do something about having official written and spoken words, in both languages.

Please call me at 692-2659 and tell me your news, including social news such as birthdays and anniversaries. I enjoy hearing from you.

Here's a sports' bulletin which should make us proud of our youngsters. 3 teams out of 5 from the Gardens' entries into Chateauguay Minor Sports have come 1st in softball. The Squirts, the Midgets and the Girls team, age 7-12. In fact, this girls' team never lost a game.

Congratulations to all our young athletes.

IMPERIAL GARDENS

Fathers how about putting on an exhibition game some night — say maybe Imperial Gardens v.s. Crown Homes with the fathers playing of course. It would be exciting and fun for all the youngsters and mothers alike to watch. The fathers would enjoy it too but no doubt they would have stiff muscles to contend with after.

A bit of humour

A man was driving down the street in his old jalopy when a policeman signaled him to stop. Timidly he pulled over to the curb. "Relax," said the officer. "I just want to see what it feels like to put my foot on a running board again."

We were late getting to church and asked the traffic officer on duty if he knew where we could park. In reverent tones he answered, 'Seek and ye shall find."

Sign seen on a neighbours lawn — "Sick Lawn — Absolutely No Visitors."

That's all for this week folks, don't forget if you have any news my number is 692-9272.

LEGION NEWS in CHATEAUGUAY

The regular monthly meeting of District 13 of the Royal Canadian Legion was held Saturday evening, Chateauguay being the host branch.

Present Harry Robinson opened the meeting and after welcoming the visiting delegates, turned the meeting over to District Commander Dave Watson.

A formal request was presented by the president of Lacolle Branch to transfer to District 13, from their present district. The request was explained at length by Comrade John McCann, a Dominion Command Excutive, and a letter was read from District Commander Pitre stating that he had no objection to the transfer, but that he was sorry to lose the Lacolle Branch from his district. Cde Watson then put the application to a vote and the Lacolle Branch were accepted unanimously.

Before closing Cde Robinson invited the members to stay awhile and partake of refershments in the form of a wiener roast.

During the evening Pres. Robinson presented an engraved silver tray to A.S. (Dubby) Freidlander for outstanding services to the branch for a considerable period of time.

In replying Dubby, as he is known to everybody, said he had always enjoyed his work and associations in the branch.

Dancing and refreshments completed an enjoyable evening.

A second Shuffleboard has been installed and a tournament is to be held shortly, entries should be in by September 6th.

Comrade Mark Snow is hoping for more of our members to partake in the Booster Club. The prizes to date have gone to non-members.

Tickets for the Building Fund Drawing are now available and you will be hearing from Cornwall Bob Jennings, or his committee very shortly. This is an opportunity to win your Christmas cheer for the price of a ticket.

Branch 108 is now getting into the swing of winter activities, and there will be something for everyone. Bowling will be each Thursday evening as last year and conveners are Cds. John Howarth and Bill Cooper.

Next meeting is scheduled for September 3.

A REMINDER TO CYCLISTS.

If you are cycling in a group on the highway, or on city streets, always travel Indian file, that is one cyclist behind the other. If this advice given by Prudentia was always followed out to the letter, there would be a huge drop in the number of accidents involving cyclists. When an auto travelling at 50 or 60 miles per hour hits a cyclist, then whether the cyclists is in the right or not, it does not matter: the results are the same, the cyclist goes to hospital if not to his grave. Don't wait until you are in hospital to take the resolution that you will follow the sage advice, "Indian file for safety."

British Police Soon Crack Case

MOST everyone has read the story of the holdup of a mail train in England recently. That it was a daring one is beyond doubt, that it was a surprise to English people and to English policemen was also beyond doubt.

In this country and in the States, these things happen and it is just another such case. However, in England such things only rarely happen and are therefore practically unheard of. Of late there have been more of these things attempted, but they have not gone very far. Quite recently we were reading the story of a bank holdup in a town just outside of London, in which the would-be thieves were caught before they could leave the bank, or even have time to collect any loot. The suspicions of a policeman were aroused by a man in a car near the bank and he decided to keep watch. The man in the car became nervous on account of the policemen remaining in the area and he took off. The men in the bank also became nervous when they noticed their car move away, and they ran out. The policeman summoned more help and the men were all captured in a few minutes and subsequently charged with attempted holdup, which they admitted and which had failed.

Now we come to this present holdup of the mail train and which resulted in millions of dollars in loot and the robbers got away without trace. The train men could not put much light on the matter so therefore were not of much help. The British police are not used to this sort of robbery and therefore it was a strange case as far as they were concerned. However, in a very short time they had investigated and came up with a number of suspects and were on the track of several more. It was also intimated that some Canadians were suspected as having been implicated and investigation into their movements was proceeding. From the moment the police were alerted to the robbery, they lost no time in following up all possible clues and checking on anyone and everyone who made the least move that might indicate they could have been connected with the robbery. Evidently their quick and extensive work has netted results in the holding of the several suspects. They were helped too by a substantial reward being offered for any information as to the robbery. Apparently several people turned in information which really helped the police in their investigation. Some of the loot is supposed to have been recovered, being either found in cars of the suspects, or at their places of residence.

We think this shows the efficiency of the British police when faced with a situation such as this. It would appear that they will have this matter cleared up in a very short time. One might say they only have a small country and it does not take long to travel from one place to another. This can work both ways, it can work to the advantage of the robbers as well as the police and the robbers did have a start on the police. It is possible for them to get right out of the country in a matter of hours. It is estimated that a large number of persons were implicated in this robbery and that also some women were involved.

We have known of cases in this country and in the United States, of far less proportions than this one, that are still unsolved today. There is no doubt this robbery took some very careful planning by those who did it. Trains in England run on signal and it is much more likely to arouse fear when a train does not reach a certain signal on time. This alone should be enough to deter an attempt such as was made. But the robbers had made plans to look after all these factors and evidently were very sure of themselves. However, it would appear that the police are slowly and surely checking them out, even though they were caught by surprise and they are not called upon for this sort of thing very often.

Clearing Up A Few Facts On Centennial Edition

As most people are aware, The Gleaner will be one hundred years old this year. The publishers are putting out a special birthday edition on September 18th next and for almost a year now have been planning this edition and getting it printed as each section became ready. To date a number of these sections have been printed and now await the completion of the entire publication. This will not come about until the scheduled weekly section is printed for September 18th, which will be on a regular publishing day and on a Wednesday.

The issue will be mainly historical in nature. Naturally it will not be possible to cover the entire period of 100 years in complete detail, but what will appear will be interesting to everyone. Between what appears in the advertisements and in the news columns, there will be considerable of an interesting nature that will unfold the period of 100 years of publication by The Gleaner. It will be a newspaper that will be kept for many years to come and no doubt referred to from time to time.

We have been asked if every subscriber will receive a copy. Yes, every subscriber will receive a copy as his regular weekly right and there will be no additional charge to such subscriber. However, if more than one copy is required, such subscriber will have to buy the extra copy at the rate of 35c each or the advertised offer of three for a dollar. As we have no means of knowing what the demand will be, such order should be received early and we can only supply until the printing has been exhausted. Our regular newsstand vendors will receive their usual order of copies, but these will be on sale at the price of 35c each for this special Anniversary edition only. Extra copies may be obtained from these vendors as long as their supply lasts. They have the right to reserve copies for their regular customers and they should certainly see to this.

Advertising can still be accepted for this special edition, but space reservations must be made without delay. Time is a factor now and there can be no further delays.

The publishers feel that this special birthday adition will prove most interesting to young and old alike.

The Adult Community School

THE revival of the Adult Community School for this Fall, we believe is a good move. After a lapse of time there has been time to miss this school's advantages and there should be a greater eagerness to take advantage of the present offerings.

There is no doubt but what this school did fill a need in our community and it was most unfortunate that there should have been a temporary lapse in attendance and in the interest of manning the forces so to speak. It is a great task for those who have the job of organizing and running such a school and oftentimes it is quite discouraging when all the work falls on the shoulders of one or two persons. It is a tremendous task to decide what subjects will be offered and it is equally hard to get instructors for the subjects. It behooves the public to get behind this project and support it to the utmost. Success will encourage the committees and spur them on to even greater efforts. Poor response of course discourages. Get your entries in without delay, the variety of courses offered has something for everyone to become interested in.

It is only a small sum that is asked and there is something worth-while to be learned from any one of the courses. As you can only take one, it is possible to concentrate the whole period on the subject being offered. Those who would like to get an idea of French, have an opportunity in one of the courses being offered. It is likely that with present conditions this will be a popular course and soon filled. There are several others which should be sought after and a view of the prospectus will soon convince anyone that the school will be a useful one.

MEMBER AUDIT BUREAU OF CIRCULATIONS

SUGAR and SPICE

By Bill Smiley

I had my annual injection of culture last week, and am now ready to resume my normal condition of boorish bourgeoisism. The shot, as usual, was painless physically, producing a feeling of mild stimulation, painful financially, producing an aftermath of hollow depression.

Because we plan to attend a convention at a swank spot next week, that ancient and honorable lament, "I haven't a thing to wear!" reared its hoary head. This gave birth to the inevitable twins: a visit to the bank manager and a trip to the city.

The latter, in turn, demanded that we take in a show. The only show in town was a "brilliant" British revue called "The Establishment," direct from rave reviews in New York. It stank.

That may not be quite the cultured way in which to review a revue, but it's an honest opinion. The critics probably burbled that the thing was "refreshingly frank" and "delightfully irreverent." I thought it was disgustingly frank and childishly irreverent.

The show did have a couple of amusing skits, including a clever parody of the Queen reading one of her speeches, but the remainder was labored and tasteless, about one jump and a bushel of English accents ahead of a college annual show. However, the audience, to prove its broad-mindedness, applauded wildly, while I sat glumly on my $3.50 seat, glowering like a true-blue royalist.

Just to make a proper mish-mash of the excursion, my wife, who was supposed to be shopping for some stunning late-summer clothes, came back to the hotel with nothing purchased but a winter coat which she couldn't resist.

Things were a little brighter on the week end, when we took a flyer to the Stratford Festival, that peculiar Canadian monument toward which we bow with reverence, beam with pride and point with honest indignation when people say, "Ah, you Canadians got no culture."

Ten years ago, when the festival began (it was in a tent), we stayed, for three dollars, in a private home whose mistress turned out to be a nut, and our six-year-old son was left at home with Granny.

Things have changed. The festival is now in a handsome theatre, we stayed, for ten dollars, in the room-at-the-top of the shabbiest hostelry this side of the Atlantic, and our great, gormless boy went off after the theatre to hear the folksingers at a coffee house and didn't get back to the room until 2.30 a.m., at which point he heard some real folksinging from his ain folk.

Stratford itself is unchanged — a pleasant mixture of ugliness and beauty in the town, sophistication and gawkery in the audience, professionalism and amateurism in the performances. We enjoyed it thoroughly, as always.

I liked the hotel. Found the manageress in the kitchen, after waiting vainly at the desk for a while. She tried about eight skeleton keys before finding one that would open the door. Carried our owns bags up three flights. No tip. Went down to the kitchen and got a bucket of ice. No charge, no tip. Used the phone in the lobby. No phone bill. Used the bathroom at the end of the hall. No paper.

Saturday night we saw Cyrano de Bergerac, with John Colicos in the lead. It was a grand Stratford spectacle, a great swirl of color and motion and poetry. But either I'm getting old and hard, or Colicos didn't quite bring it off. You're supposed to bawl like a baby as the gallant Cyrano dies at the end, and the only emotion I felt was impatience that he took so long about it.

Sunday afternoon, we "took in" a Schubert concert, featuring pianist Rudolph Serkin. He needed a shoeshine, but he could really make the piano sing. He even enjoyed it himself, so much that he started, at one point, to sing along with Serkin, booming and humming away. I thought at first that it was some clod like me in the audience, carried away by the tune.

I could tell the concert was a great success, because a lot of insurance salesmen and tourists who had seen too many movies stood up and cried "Bravo!" at the end, something I could not quite bring myself to do should Queen Elizabeth and President John Kennedy do a surpassing soft-shoe shuffle on stage.

relatives and doing just what I want to do and doing it just when I wish to do it. To be sure, this has exasperated some of them beyond measure because they are as curious as all get out and are fearful that their little brother might get up to some kind of monkey trips not likely to be approved of by members of the Methodist Church.

I will lift the veil sufficiently to disclose that, during the daylight hours at least, my activities follow the normal pattern of any sight-seeing tourist. To be sure, I have seen all the same sights many times before but I am not the least bit ashamed to admit that they are as fascinating as ever. The Changing of the Guard at Buckingham Palace draws, as ever, its crowds (including me twice) day after day and the cameras go clicking like mad. The troop of Norse Guards in their resplendent uniforms and on their beautiful horses going down the mall every morning to change their guard at White all is a sight which is not duplicated anywhere else in the world. To be sure, these two guards no longer serve any useful purpose but who cares about that. They are both tourist attractions of the first magnitude and one fully recognized as such by the authorities. I do not doubt but that, among the throngs which watch these ceremonies every day, most of the nations of the world are represented during any one week.

I have been to Westminster Abbey, driven over Tower, London, Waterloo, Westminster and Lambert Bridges. Toured Kew Gardens, Hampton Court, Hyde Park, Kensington Gardens and so many other spots which are a must for all tourists.

But my family does not care a hoot as to what I am doing in the daytime. Their snooping is concentrated on my evening activities. But, I 'aint tellin' Well, not much anyway. I did go to the Palladium, almost the last of the old variety show houses and still a fine show to see. All the big United States stars give their eye teeth to get top billing on this show and when they have accomplished that, they have really arrived at the top.

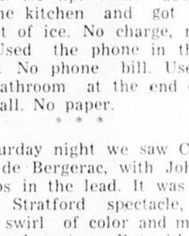

And now I want a word with you veterans of the Second War who were depraved enough to go to the Windmill Theatre. Be of good cheer, comrades, for it is still there. I know from first hand that it is still there because I went there the other night so that I could write and reassure you on this matter. The girlies are still there. In fact, I rather suspect, from the look of them, that some of them are the same lot as you saw in the forties They kick just as high though and it is not their fault if the show they are in is really lousy. I saw a much better show at the Pier at Clacton-on-Sea. Besides, their advertising is somewhat misleading Althought you see lots of girls you do not see as much of them as you are led to expect I am going to complain to the management.

This morning in deference to frantic pleadings by my dear sister Dorothy, who heaven preserve, I went to church, Methodist Church. She has been fretful ever since she heard that I was going to stay in the big, wicked city for a whole week and felt, evidently, that I should at least try and atone for any misdemeanours which I might have perpetrated up to church time this morning. Why eles would she phone me so as to give me explicit details as to exactly where the Hinde Street Methodist Church was located? So, to keep peace in the family I went, was suitably uplifted and was sermoned at by a negro minister of West Indies origin. The singing was nice. I did not know a single one of the fine hymns. There was no anthem thank goodness but there was a collection darn it and so now I feel that I have penanced sufficiently for a week or two but I do not think that I am going to get away with it for I am heading for Glasgow this week and I am betting dollars to doughnuts that I will be in and out of a Presbyterian Church before another week is out.

I almost forgot to tell you that I had a boat trip down the Thames from Westminster Pier to the Tower of London and back. I was the guest of Lily and Jack Butler. You do not know them but I can tell you that they are very nice people. Lily is of the Stringer clan and worthily upholds it's reputation for beauty charm and all the other graces. It was a most interesting trip and strange as it may seem and despite having spent my early days in London, I had never made it before. But, my goodness, the water! It was filthy. Almost black and you could not see through it for ever half an inch. It made we wonder if a boat could ever sink in it as it was so thick. I am told that, should a person ever be so unlucky to fall in it and be rescued he or she is immediately rushed to Charing Cross Hospital where special equipment is kept at the ready to pump out the stomach of the unfortunate person as, if this is not done immediately and the water being so contaminated, the result of the immersion would be certain to be fatal.

And now I am on my way to Lancaster, Liverpool and Glasgow. If I am able to survive everyone's hospitality for the next five weeks I will have to be lifted off the boat in Montreal by a crane. I have already added another 3 pounds to my overweight and I fully expect to be put on a rigorous diet just as soon as I get home. But why look forward to trouble and heartache?

WANDERING WITH WADLEY

I spent last week-end at the charming old home of the equally charming but not so old Bob and Eve Mallory. This home started its useful life as a granary in the 15th century and in the course of time, it was converted into a house. It has had several owners during these fine centuries but I make a good guess that not one of its previous owners made as many improvements on it, whilst still retaining its old world charm, as have Bob and Eve. My luck continued to run true to form and I had a marvelous week-end in all ways, good company, good food, drives round the countryside and reasonably good weather. It did rain, as is usual, but nobody takes any notice of that.

This home is at Kennington, near Ashford in Kent and it is surrounded by many cottages and houses of comparable age. In fact, one might say that this part of the country is really settled in a permanent way. It is in the heart of the fruit and hop growing country and only a few miles from such famous places as Cantebury, Dover, Folkestone and many others. Sheep raising is also a most important farm activity and in the aggregate, I must have seen tens of thousands of them.

Bob's friendship with my family started in the war years when he was stationed in Ottawa as a member of the British Army Staff. My daughter had the distinction of more or less working in his office. At that time Bob was a mere Captain but, as time moved on and his abilities became evident he eventually attained the exalted rank of a Lieutenant Colonel and was awarded the O.B.E. for his pains. Since the war years he has seen service at most of the points around the world where the British still maintain garrisons. And now he is one of the blokes at the War Office.

I am beginning to get suspicious of the enthusiastic way in which my hosts speed the parting guest up to now, my impression has been that such partings were accompanied by long embraces, moist eyes, sniffy noses, really moist handkerchiefs and much waving of hands. But, for me nothing of the kind. All I see are bright, beaming faces. Have the methods of parting really changed or are they so really delighted to get shot of me?

This week is the big week, the mystery week, the sneaky week. I am spending it all on my own (well, almost) in the big, beautiful, wonderful, wicked old London Town and not one of my family knows what I am up to. In fact, I hardly know what I am up to myself. So I am up here in a nice hotel uncluttered by

Report From Ottawa

OTTAWA (CP) The new Liberal government "went nuclear" at week's end in a fateful decision sure to provoke a heated debate when Parliament reconvenes Sept. 30 after a two-month recess.

The government approved an agreement with the United States providing for the acquisition of nuclear arms for Canadian forces at home and in Europe.

The decision carried out a pledge made by the Liberals in the April 8 election campaign, which drew fire from the New Democratic Party and caused splits in the Progressive Conservative and Social Credit parties.

Under the new agreement U.S. nuclear warheads will be stationed at seven military establishments in Canada and at several Canadian stations in West Germany.

Technical agreements will have to be worked out on the mechanics of custody and control of the warheads. These agreements are expected to be ready in six to eight weeks and the actual acquisition of warheads likely will take place shortly afterward.

Hold Two 'Keys'

U.S. troops will be stationed at the nuclear-equipped establishments to ensure U.S. custody and control of the warheads until they are ever needed to repel aggression. Then the U.S. and Canada would exercise joint control through a "two-key" system.

The warheads are designed for use in four Canadian weapons systems as part of the defences of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization and the North American Air Defence Command. These are the Voodoo jet interceptors and Bomarc-B missiles in Canada and the Starfighter bombers and Honest John rockets based in West Germany.

Voodoo squadrons are stationed at five R.C.A.F. stations across Canada: Chatham, N.B.; Bagotville, Que.; Ottawa, North Bay, Ont.; and Comox, B.C. The Bomarcs are located at North Bay and at La Macaza, Que., near Ottawa.

Prime Minister Pearson said his minority government will not submit the nuclear agreement before Parliament because it is in the form of an exchange of confidential diplomatic notes, rather than a formal treaty.

But the opposition could easily open the agreement for debate and a crucial vote in the Commons by introducing a motion of non-confidence in the government on the nuclear issue. The subject undoubtedly will come up when the defence department spending estimates are before the Commons.

PM Makes Tour

With the major nuclear decision out of the way, Mr. Pearson began a round of semi-official and private trips to various parts of the country.

He flew to Murray Bay, Que., Saturday to address the annual convention of the French-language Weekly Newspapers Association of Canada.

This week the prime minister was to tour his constituency of Algoma East, visit the Stratford Shakespearean Festival, see relatives in Toronto and open the Conference memorial complex in Charlottetown.

Last Monday he took part in opening ceremonies at the island site for the 1967 world's fair in the St. Lawrence River off Montreal.

Mr. Pearson promised federal assistance totalling $50,000,000 for the fair and called for a quick conference with Quebec and Montreal officials to make detailed plans for the six-month fair.

Quiet Prevailed

The Ottawa political scene was relatively quiet with the leaders of the three opposition parties out of town. Conservative leader John Diefenbaker and Social Credit leader Robert Thompson were relaxing in their home ridings, while NDP leader T. C. Douglas was touring Europe as guest of several socialist parties.

The Dominion Bureau of Statistics reported that maturing of all grain crops on the prairies has been speeded up because of hot weather. Swathing was well under way in

Provincial Capital Report

QUEBEC (CP) The political spotlight, which glared so brightly on Rene Levesque last summer, has been switched to Paul Gerin-Lajoie as he campaigns for an Education Ministry in Quebec.

This time a year ago, the province was in a tizzy as the Government gropped towards a decision on the power take over issue. The man in the middle was voluble, colorful Rene Levesque, the energetic Natural Resources Minister.

Now the man being watched is Mr. Gerin-Lajoie, the Youth Minister, not voluble, not so colorful but just as energetic.

He opened his campaign on behalf of the Bill establishing an Education Ministry with an eight-day tour of the Lower St. Lawrence and Gaspe Regions. Last week-end he was in the Lake St. John district and Northwestern Quebec.

Later he will visit parts of the Eastern Townships.

The tours were decided upon, apparently, to counteract the effect of noisy protests against an Education Ministry from some quarters. The theory behind the tours, his advisers say, is that offence is the best defence.

But the tours have also served to put Mr. Gerin-Lajoie in the public eye.

At 43, the constitutional expert — and future Education Minister — is one of the main props of Premier Jean Lesage's Cabinet.

And he is often called "Le Dauphin" — the man most likely to succeed the Premier.

Like Mr. Levesque, he has a reputation as an excellent administrator and he too has surrounded himself with able young men who have worked out many of the new education policies being introduced in Quebec.

The black-haired Mr. Gerin-Lajoie is also an able debator and good speaker, although not generally rated as an orator.

In public he is calm, self-possessed, almost distant. His speeches appear more logical than oratorical.

During his tours, he has opened question-and-answer periods after each of his talks, a method rarely seen in Quebec Politics and which caused some concern among a few of his colleagues. But he has handled the question period with ease.

One of his answers evoked an admiring "He's pretty good" from a woman who asked a tough question about the place of religious teaching under the new Education Ministry.

This is one of the aspects which Mr. Gerin-Lajoie emphasizes in his cross-province campaign which he says he will continue "without respite".

He says that religious teachings will be supervised by the Roman Catholic and Protestant Committee of the Superior Council of Education. An Advisory body to be created when the department is established. The Council will have the power of decision in religious matters.

The Minister will do the deciding on other aspects of courses and education. But the Council will be there to advise him and he says he doesn't see how an Education Minister could go against the Council's advice.

Mr. Gerin-Lajoie also emphasizes that the present educational system has grown up helter-skelter and basically unchanged in the last 100 years.

There are too many separate authorities and no final authority in education. As a result the student is the one who suffers most.

The Ministry, he hammers home, will provide co-ordination at the tip of the educational pyramid. The Minister himself will have the 'final and unique responsibility for education.

Establishment of the Ministry was recommended by the Parent Royal Commission. Its report was followed by a Bill creating the Department.

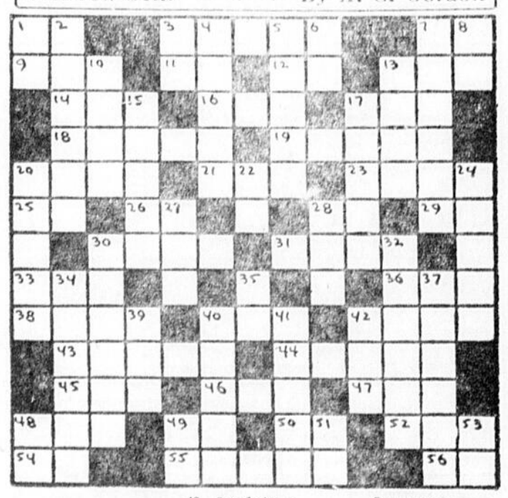

But it was shelved until the coming Legislature Session to give interested groups a chance to go over it and suggest any changes.

The Government says modifications will be in details, not in principles.

Mr. Gerin-Lajoie, after his swing through the Gaspe, says he feels "the mass of the people" want the Ministry.

"I am a little surprised that so many people are interested in it," he said.

Report from Ottawa

southern areas.

Crop deterioration was reported in areas of Manitoba and Saskatchewan because of hot weather, lack of moisture and leaf rust.

The bureau of statistics also reported that Canada's unemployment total dropped to 293,000 in mid-July, despite a heavy influx of teenage students looking for jobs.

The jobless total was 11,000 lower than the previous month and 15,000 under the figure for July 1962. Unemployed made up 4.2 per cent of the labor force, compared with 4.5 per cent a year earlier.

Sell More Wheat

The Canadian wheat board announced a new wheat sale to Communist Poland, the second inside one month. The new contract called for 3,700,000 bushels, the same quantity covered in a July 18 sale.

The terms are 10 per cent cash on shipment with the balance plus interest paid within three years. The order will be shipped from St. Lawrence and Pacific ports between now and November.

Canada's whole export picture was bright. The bureau of statistics announced that exports in the first half of 1963 reached a record of $3,120,400,000, an increase of $190,000,000 from the previous peak attained last year.

The Bank of Canada increased its lending rate to four per cent from 3½ per cent in line with a sharp drop in Canada's foreign exchange reserves in July.

Although the central bank rate usually signals repercussions throughout the commercial money market, last week's change was described as a technical adjustment without effect on monetary policy.

Study Disputes

Citizenship Minister Guy Favreau announced that the government will propose the creation of a three-member Indian claims commission when the session resumes.

The government hopes the commission will settle long-standing disputes over land and Indian trust fund that have caused considerable resentment among Indians against whites. Mr. Favreau also disclosed the government is preparing changes in the Indian Act, which had some "harsh" and "repressive" sections.

Government informants said Canada's annual foreign aid budget of about $50,000,000 might be increased next fiscal year. Negotiations progressed for government financing of a $60,000,000 nuclear power plant to be built in Pakistan by the Canadian General Electric Company.

During the last big thunderstorm — the one that grumbled and growled the better part of one night — we lay awake, allowing fancy and imagination to take our thoughts where they wished. The net result and a small amount of research may be of interest to our readers. At least, we hope so.

If, in this year of Our Lord 1963 when mankind is aware of many of nature's secrets, a thunderstorm can instill in some of us a feeling of awe and apprehension, to the ancients it must have been a traumatic experience. Ignorant, superstitutious, there lives riddled with fear and dread of things unknown, they must have experienced an unimaginable terror at sight of a fork of lightning and the sound of a thunderclap. They must have believed that all the furies of hell were risen on the wind and rain and come to destroy them. Each flash of lightning, each peal of thunder was surely the end. No wonder they thought a thunderstorm was the manifestation of some god's power or wrath. And when the storm was over, how deep must have been their feelings of thankfulness as they emerged from whatever sheltered them to see the sun again.

History is full of accounts of thunderstorms. God's control over lightning is frequently mentioned in the Old Testament. Before He commanded Moses to climb to the top of Mount Sinai, according to Exodus, "there were thunders and lightnings, and a thick cloud upon the mount." Ancient Greeks considered thunder and lightning as omens of Zeus, and to hear thunder on the night before a battle was a favourable omen. The Romans, however, believed thunder on the left to be a propitious sign. The thunderbird, worshipped by certain tribes of North American Indians, was believed to flash lightning from its eye when it winked; and other Indians of British Columbia used wood from a tree that had been struck by lightning to make incendiary arrows. Some primitive people worshipped lightning, others feared it.

In some parts of Germany it was customary at Easter time for the people to char sticks of certain trees which were burned during thunderstorms or placed on the roof of a house to protect it from being struck by lightning. It was also believed in several provinces in France that a charred Yule log which had been lit on Christmas Eve and burned daily until Twelfth Night could, if stored under a bed, protect the house from lightning.

Superstitions and beliefs, preserved in folk lore, have come down through the ages to the present day. Authors, playwrights and movie directors know the trick of implanting a storm to set the mood for impending conflict or tragedy. For example, Alfred Hitchcock uses thunder, lightning and lashings of rain as background for a lot of his murder mysteries.

It may well be that our interest in the theatre makes it easy for us to think of a thunderstorm as a drama. It has all the ingredients of the finest three-act play ever created by man. Written and produced by Nature and conforming strictly to the rules, it has conflict, tension and suspense that mount to a dramatic climax. Its characters play their roles, entering and exiting, never missing their cues like the veteran actors that they are. And the audience, who has seen the play a hundred times, settles down in expectation, mixed with a little apprehension and awe, to await the smash hit which has been playing to packed houses since the dawn of time.

The curtain rises on a sultry afternoon. A bevy of thunderheads looking as frothy and luscious as a sundae topping are gathering on the horizon, their contours picoted in thin strips of sunlight. Slowly, the creamy texture disappears, the pastel shades deepen to green-and blue-greys as the clouds thicken in mass formation. Thunder begins to mutter and the stage to darken. There is a flash of lightning followed by another and yet another. The pace quickens. The clouds roll forward faster and faster. A sudden gust of wind rushes through the trees. The leaves pick up their cue and flounce their pale green backsides like a can-can chorus. The build up in tension mounts, the audience sits rapt in suspense when, suddenly there is a stillness - a stillness so quiet, so full of portent and foreboding as to be unbearable. There is no sound anywhere as the storm moves silently into position.

It is this 'quiet before the storm' which Nature has written into the play with such dramatic effect that carries over to the Second Act. The stage is darkest as the roar of approaching rain is heard. There is a blinding flash, a clap of thunder, a cry in the audience and the principal characters rush on stage; Wind, Lightning, Thunder and Rain each struggle to steal the show from the others. Giant forces, locked in unholy unity, battle for supremacy.

The audience is unaware when the Third Act begins. Presently, the thunder is not so loud, there is a different sound to it. The time between flashes and peals is longer until, finally, the storm moves off stage, grumbling petulantly to itself. The wind dies down and the rain exits into the wings, leaving drips and spatters to finish the business. The stage brightens. Shafts of light streak across it as the sun shines. And sometimes, if it is a gala performance, there s a rainbow arced across the backdrop of dark, but no longer menacing clouds as the curtain falls.

4-H Delegate Tells About Saskatchewan Trip

Gordon Bustard Gives Report

After meeting the other Quebec 4-H delegates in Montreal, I left Dorval airport by jet airliner on July 9th at 8.40 a.m.

Upon my arrival at Saskatoon Airport, I was met by Miss Boonie Fruit, a 4-H Extension Department Aid. After meeting some of the other delegates, Miss Fruit drove us to the Youth Centre at the Saskatoon Exhibition Grounds. There we spent two days with approximately 200 4-H Club members from various parts of Saskatchewan. The 4-H members were competing in the Provincial 4-H Selections, which lasts for one week. The first evening we spent meeting and chatting with each other at a wiener roast, held at the Exhibition Grounds.

In the morning of July 10th the 4-H Provincial Exchange delegates and the 4-H members gathered in an assembly hall, where we were asked to enlighten the group on 4-H work in our home province. Following the meeting in the Assembly Hall, we were taken on a tour of the Western Developement Museum, which was established for the purpose of collecting, preserving, and restoring implements and ways of life of the first quarter of the century in Western Canada.

After visiting the Museum we toured the buildings and 150 acre campus of the University of Saskatchewan.

The afternoon was spent touring the Saskatchewan River Dam, which is the biggest rolled earth dam in the world. In the evening we attended a formal dance, given in our honor at the exhibition grounds.

On July 11th, I went by bus to the home of my host family, Mr. and Mrs. Meikle, at Turtleford, Sask. Turtleford is in Northern Saskatchewan and is 160 miles from Saskatoon.

The Meikle's live on a mixed farm (beef and grain) of 1100 acres.

I spent most of July 12th visiting with the local 4-H Club Leaders, and the Agricultural Representative.

On July 13th, toured the Barracks at North Battleford followed by a picnic lunch with the Mervin Beef Club.

July 14th, went to Island Lake with the Mervin 4-H Beef Club, where we enjoyed a wiener roast and ball game, until a violent hailstorm ended the fun.

The following day, July 15th, I went to Mr. Jonhanthan Fox's Farm at Lloydminister, where I saw Mr. Fox's great herd of Holstein and Hereford cattle and Percheron horses. I also visited the John Grant farm which has the top Angus herd in Canada. Monday evening I was the guest of the Edam East and West 4-H Club at a swimming party and wiener roast.

July 16th, spent the day with my Host family. The roads had been washed out by a heavy rainfall. The following day attended a Rodeo at Onion Lake, an Indian Reservation.

On July 18th. I was taken to Blakely's Ranch to see cattle being branded. The following evening a dance was held in my honor at Turtleford.

A tape recording of my trip was made by the radio station in North Battleford.

I left my Host family on July 20th and went by bus to Saskatoon, where I stayed until the following morning. Then from Saskatoon to Regina, where I toured the R.C.M.P. buildings and the Wax Museum. That evening the Royal Bank of Canada held a banquet in honor of the 9 4-H Inter Prov. delegates at the Saskatchewan Hotel. The guests at the banquet were the Federal Minister of Agriculture and the minister of Agriculture for Saskatchewan.

At the Banquet each one of the delegates was asked to make a ten minute speech on our trip, our community and 4-H Club.

On Sunday, we attended Lakeview United Church in Regina. We were invited to lunch with the local director of 4-H work in Regina. Afterwards we went to Indian Head where we visited the Experimental Farm. We were all invited to the local Agricultural Representative's home, where we had a lawn party.

At 12.40 on Monday I left Regina, and arrived at Dorval at 8.40 p.m.

I would like to thank the Royal Bank of Canada which made this wonderful trip possible. Also Mr. Barrette, Mr. Beaudin and the other Agronome's who helped with the plans for the trip and the leaders of the Ormstown 4-H Club.

The Morison family, Fertile Creek has received word of the death of a brother-in-law, Colin Campbell MacDougall at Glendale, Ont., (near Englehart) in his 90th year. He is survived by his wife Annie Morison, one daughter, Mrs. MacDonald, a son, Lorne, living at home, and two married sons, who live in that district, Gordon and Stewart.

Before going to Ontario, Mr. and Mrs. MacDougall lived at the Gore. At Glendale, Mr. MacDougall was post master for many years, a position filled now by his son.

On Monday the 12th, about 8.30 p.m. Mr. John Anderson and a young man who works there were on the river in a boat. They noticed smoke coming from the barn so rushed ashore calling to Mrs. Anderson to get help. They managed to lead the bull out and carried 7 or 8 calves to a safe place — one has died since from smoke injury. The cows were in the pasture. The fire spread quickly and nothing could be done to save the barn. The house was threatened, but fire equipment from Howick saved it, a granary, tool shed and 2-car garage. The implements were stored further away.

Ormstown firemen were out on a test run and gave generous assistance in keeping the fire under control.

Mr. Anderson bought this farm 4 years ago from Mr. E. Lefebvre, who built the house. The farm had been in the Baxter name for many years. The barn was 80 yrs. old and well built by the same man who constructed the round barn on the old Ogilvie farm (Houles).

The cause of the fire is not known, but work will be started on rebuilding as soon as possible. We regret that Mr. and Mrs. Anderson have suffered this loss.

Apple Rootstock For Eastern Ontario and Quebec

Ottawa, August 2, 1963 — Federal researchers recommend only one clonally propagated rootstock for commercial apple growers in Quebec and eastern Ontario — Malus robusta 5.

Selected for testing at the Central Experimental Farm in 1931, this rootstock was released in 1943. Since then it has been used in many commercial orchards and has shown no winter injury.

Tests have been conducted by P.O. Roy of the Research Laboratory, St. Jean, Quebec, and by L.S. P. Spangelo and John Davies of the Genetics and Plant Breeding Institute, Ottawa.

In hardiness experiments, Malus robusta 5 roots withstood temperatures as low as -4 F. degrees and the trunks as low as -60 degrees without damage.

McIntosh trees grown on Malus robusta 5 are larger than those grown on Malling II and much larger than those on Malling VII stock. Although large trees are not desirable because of extra pruning, spraying and picking costs, East Malling and Malling Merton stocks are subject to severe injury during adverse winter conditions.

Malus robusta 5 has wide adaptability. It will survive in dry soils and flourish in moist soils. It is resistant to fire blight and the damaging, widely spread, stem pitting virus.

Malus robusta 5 is propagated by rooting shoots in stoolbeds. Rooted shoots are taken off stoolbeds in the spring and lined out in nursery rows. They can be budded in the nursery, in late summer, 8 to 20 inches from the soil, or they can be left unbudded to be planted in the orchard the following spring.

To take full advantage of the root and trunk hardiness of Malus robusta 5, well developed one or two-year-old rooted shoots should be planted in the permanent orchard location. The leader then can be budded at about the five-foot level and the laterals 10 to 13 inches from the trunk. Three to four well spaced laterals are enough. Topworking by budding in July or August is satisfactory, but spring grafting with scions can also be done.

Time to Order Lime

Dairymen are well aware that the milk production of their herds largely depends on plentiful feed rich in protein, such as is furnished by good crops of clover and alfalfa. But the quality of a crop depends, in turn, on the nature of the soil in which it is grown. A large number of experiments have shown that clover and alfalfa need soil rich in calcium and that they are very poorly adapted to acid land. Crops remove a certain amount of lime from the soil but a great deal is lost through leaching, especially during wet seasons.

Mr. L.P. Belzile of the Quebec Department of Agriculture and Colonization reminds us that every year, with the coming of September and October, there is a stampede in the direction of the limestone-grinding factories: in fact, the rush is so great that truck-drivers sometimes have to wait their turn in a queue for hours, or even days, before they can get served. There is a simple way to avoid such inconvenience — have your lime delivered during July and August when industrial output has slowed down, freight cars are available on the railways, and roads are in better condition. Later in the season, the railway companies will be sending their box-cars out West for the wheat crop, road conditions will deteriorate as fall advances, and then orders will pile up at the factories.

Prospective buyers should obtain delivery permits from agronome (in order to qualify for the government's grant for transportation) and send one copy to their supplier with the order. Early delivery is economical. Bags of ground limestone can easily be stored and may even be piled temporarily in the field, especially if care is taken to cover them with boards or an old canvas.

Shower for Miss Mildred Bryson

On Wednesday evening, August 14th, Mrs. Bruce Baird entertained at her home at a miscellaneous shower in honor of Millie's approaching marriage.

Upon Millie's arrival, she was completely surprised to find about twenty-two neighbours and friends to greet her. She was presented with a corsage of white carnations by Shirley Lazure and was then escorted to the seat of honour.

After opening the gifts, which had been arranged under a pink umbrella Millie expressed her thanks to all and extended an invitation to visit her in her new home at Bedford, Que.

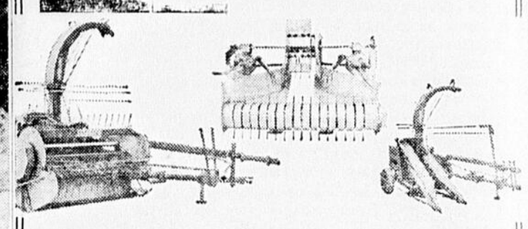

Games were played and winners were: Miss Susan Nussey and Mrs. Hollis Rowe.

Delicious refreshments were served by the hostesses, Mrs. Bruce Baird and Mrs. Normand Lazure, assisted by Mrs. Ross Winter. Millie then cut her Shower Cake, centered on the table and Mrs. Arnold Bryson poured coffee.

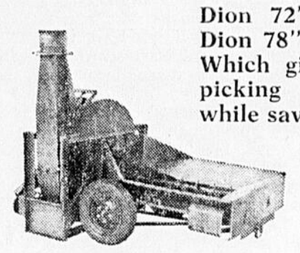

All departed, after an enjoyable evening, wishing Millie much happiness on her approaching marriage.

St. Andrew's Presbyterian Ladies' Guild

The monthly meeting of the Ladies' Guild was held in the hall on Thursday evening, August 15th and was conducted by the President, Mrs. Helen Batchelder. There were 15 members present.

The President reminded members of the film and demonstration to be given, at the next meeting, by the Clark Company. This will take the place of the usual agenda. Each member was asked to bring as many friends as possible to this meeting and to let Miss Laura Grundy know, by September 11th, approximately how many she would be bringing in order that adequate refreshments may be provided.

This metting being the final one before Havelock Fair, all members brought in the many articles they had made for the Booth. These were displayed and priced and it was evident that the Booth would be well-stocked with attractive and useful articles.

Members were reminded that the next regular meeting would be held on Tuesday, Sept. 24th. Following the Mizpah Benediction refreshments were served by the hostesses, Mesdames Walter and Douglas Kyle.

St. Luke's Anglican Church Women's Auxiliary

The regular monthly meeting of St. Luke's W.A., was held in the Forrest Figsby Memorial Hall on Wednesday afternoon, August 14th, with Mrs. Robert Hadley, President in the chair. There were eleven members present, and one visitor, Mrs. Hubert Nash of Toronto, a sister of Mr. Charles Petch.

Reports of the Street Fair and of the Cleland - Paré wedding reception were given. It was the unanimous feeling of all those present that a very hearty vote of thanks should go to all those good friends who helped in catering to the wedding. It was a big undertaking for the small group which forms the W.A. and the generous help from the good friends of the other churches was very much appreciated.

There was discussion concerning two dances that the W.A. will sponsor, one on Labour Day week-end and the other during the Christmas holidays.

The further finishing and furnishing of the new kitchen came in for consideration and a list was drawn up of some of the things needed.

An invitation was issued to the members of the W.A. from the St. Luke's Men's Club, to be present at their next meeting early in September. This meeting will take the form of Mesdames Walter and Douglas a panel discussion of the problems of young people in connection with the Church and it is hoped all will make an effort to attend.

A quilt was set up for the meeting and tied. The meeting closed with the Lord's Prayer. The hostesses for the afternoon were Mrs. Edwin Denman and Mrs. Cecil Jackson, who served delicious refreshments which were enjoyed by all.

A new arrival

Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Gosser on the arrival of a baby daughter at St. Lambert Hospital on August 7th, weighing 6 lbs. 3 ozs. She is a member of the College Orchestra and plays the piano, recorder and flute. She was a welcome guest at the Saturday morning music class taught by Mrs. L'Espérance where the young pupils were very interested in trying their skill with her recorder and flute.

Mr. and Mrs. Melville Hill of Barrington had the pleasure of entertaining a number of guests over the week-end. They were Mr and Mrs. Melville McNaughton, Mrs. Dora McNaughton, Mrs. Muriel Braithwaite, Miss M. McNaughton and Mr. Ronald Barclay.

Mr. Alan Hill left for Los Angeles on August 7th. He is touring the countryside around and will be away for an indefinite period.

OBITUARY

The Late James Roy McCanse

The many friends and neighbours of Roy McCanse were grieved to learn, on Thursday, August 1st, that he had passed away at the Nursing Home where he had been staying for the past few months. Mr. McCanse, who was 70 years of age, was the son of James and Elizabeth McCanse, a very well-known Hemmingford family. He was a blacksmith by trade and the last one left, in the Hemmingford area, of the fast-disappearing group of craftsmen. He had learned his trade from, and worked with, his father. Mr. McCanse was married to Marjorie Rutherford who pre-deceased him six years ago, and he leaves one son and daughter-in-law and a grandson, James (Jamie), who was born on his great-grandfather McCanse's birthday. Surviving him also are his two brothers, Wilmer, in Cornwall and Lorne in Montreal and his sister Mabel, Mrs. Lorne Sample of Hemmingford. His sister Elizabeth, Mrs. Andrew Cascadden, passed away eleven years ago.

Mr. McCanse was a Past Master of the Masonic Lodge of Hemmingford and a member of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church. The service at the Church on Saturday afternoon, August 3rd, was taken by the Reverend Mr. Brown of Riverfield assisted by members of the Masonic Lodge. The many beautiful floral tributes and the large attendance at the funeral paid tribute to the high esteem and regard in which Mr. McCanse was held by his neighbours and friends. The pallbearers were Malcolm Brown, Charlie Smith, George Brown, Herb McNaughton, Halton Kennedy and Robbie Hadley. Mr. Wilmer McCanse and his son Lorne, from Cornwall, attended the funeral but Mr. Lorne McCanse was unable to attend owing to sickness.

LE CONCILE ET LES MISSIONS

Du coup le mot mission perd le sens quelque peu péjoratif qu'on lui a trop souvent attribué. Qui disait mission semblait dire travail chez les barbares. Or les barbares, s'il y en a eu, la terre n'en connait plus. Les différentes civilisations, se sont compénétrées, pour emprunter de l'une à l'autre de véritables valeurs. Il n'y a pas de peuple, si arriéré, qu'il paraissait, qui n'ait apporté sa contribution au bien commun.

On n'a pas suffisamment tenu compte dans le passé des très hautes et très nobles cultures de la Chine, de l'Inde et du Japon. On a voulu une cassure en leur imposant, comme seule règle de perfection, les usages occidentaux. Mais les évêques asiatiques et indonésiens, au Concile, ont brillé, non seulement par la culture latine dont ils se sont rendus maîtres, mais par cet héritage culturel qui leur est propre, par cette autre formule de pensée et de raisonnement qu'ils tiennent de leurs ancêtres.

L'Amerique Latine, elle, convertie en entier au catholicisme depuis la conquête espagnole ou portugaise, est un réservoir de puissance spirituelle qui ne demande qu'à être éveillé pour jouer un rôle formidable dans l'établissement du règne de Dieu dans tout le monde. On sentait bouillonner cette force volcanique dans ces jeunes évêques qui la représentaient, avec une inquiétude salutaire sur les difficultés qu'elle doit affronter dans le moment.

Et l'Afrique? Elle aussi a bien quelques valeurs à nous donner. L'Afrique musulmane n'en manque pas, malgré la rigidité de son attachement à la religion de Mahomet. Cette même fidélité rigide dans la foi en un seul Dieu la rapproche tellement de nous. L'Afrique Noire elle, si un moment elle nous est apparue très arriérée, cachait encore une grandeur insoupçonnée. De toute façon, les pas de géant qu'elle a faits en moins de cent ans pour reprendre le temps perdu, nous la rendent plus sympathique et aimable encore. Qu'ils étaient beaux, ces jeunes évêques noirs, qui, presque puérilement fiers de leur toute neuve indépendance, osaient se mesurer, sans complexe, aux plus belles intelligences de l'épiscopat occidental!

Non, devant ce phénomène que nous a si bien révélé le Concile, il ne faut plus parler de barbarie, ni de missions dans le sens pégoratif d'implantation de la foi chez les peuples arriérés, ou même, selon un néologisme, dans le tiers monde. Il n'y a plus de peuples arriérés, il n'y a pas de tiers monde, mais une seule et grande humanité qui doit retrouver la fraternité dans la foi en Jésus-Christ et dans la charité de Dieu. Alors la mission reprend le sens apostolique que lui a voulu le Christ, quand il nous a donné le commandement: nations". Il y a maintenant "Allez enseignez toutes les des nations dans l'acceptation le plus noble du terme. Quelle merveille maintenant de voir que cette mission d'enseigner, que nous a donné Jésus-Christ, trouve ses apôtres au sein de ces peuples qui hier encore étaient en attente de la vérité! Personne ne peut aussi efficacement pénétrer le coeur d'un peuple que l'apôtre sorti de ce peuple, par des moyens propres à ce peuple, selon le mode d'expression des civilisations comparables à ce que l'occident nous a donné de meilleur.

Importance Des Missions

Le CONCILE a été convoqué par le Saint Père pour permettre à l'Eglise de scruter les problèmes du jour, d'approfondir les connaissances des tâches qui lui incombent. Elles sont nombreuses ces tâches, mais parmi toutes, celle qui arrive au premier rang c'est bien l'évangélisation de ceux qui n'ont pas accepté le message du Sauveur Jésus-Christ. Le Pape n'a pas attendu le Concile pour le rappeler: "Parmi les tâches qui lui (à l'Eglise) incombent, dit-il, l'évangélisation des non chrétiens occupe la première place, dans l'ordre de l'importance, de l'urgence et de la grandeur."

OECUMENISME

L'assemblée générale de la Fédération luthérienne s'est vu recommander la création d'une fondation d'études pour continuer les conversations théologiques avec l'Eglise Catholique et les autres Eglises. La suggestion est venue d'une commission spéciale de cinq membres qui a présenté un rapport sur la "recherche inter - confessionnelle". La commission veut que des travaux appropriés, systématiques et historiques, soient entrepris dans les domaines où il y a divergence doctrinale entre les différentes Eglises théologiques pourraient accentuer les rapports avec les autres groupes religieux.

Communion Verse: Honor the Lord with your wealth, with first fruits of all your produce. Then your barns will be filled with grain, and with wine your vats will overflow. Well, when we were baptized, the priest annointed our ears and tongue. He uttered the same words as Jesus had uttered: "Ephpheta: Be thou opened." "When Jesus uttered the words, a deaf-mute was instantaneously cured. By our Baptism, we should be ready to "hear" God's message and proclaim it. "Hearing" involves listening to sermons, reading Catholic literature, taking part in Catholic discussion groups; "proclaiming it" involves presenting the Catholic way of life by our own conduct, and by our having the right Christian answers whenever the need arises — whether in the kitchen, coffee sessions, the office, factory, school, hospital or outdoors.

FETE DU TRAVAIL

2 septembre 1963

La Fête du Travail sera célébrée avec éclat cette année, dû à la collaboration du Conseil du Travail de Valleyfield et District.

A cette occasion, une Reine sera élue ainsi que deux Duchesses.Toutes celles qui sont intéressées à se porter candidates à ces titres doivent donner leur nom, adresse et numéro de téléphone au Bureau de l'Union, 11 rue Ste-Anne, Tél. 373-8266 ou au Président de leur Union. Une danse clôturera cette Fête le lundi 2 septembre 1963 en la salle Tougas & Nicholson.

Education pour adultes

La brise s'est rafraichie, le soleil lumineux mais "pâle, comme un sourire de malade", disait un poète, éclaire d'une étrange beauté les arbres tremblotants, les gazons devenus plus verts, comme un suprême effort. C'est presque l'automne. Les magasins affichent à pleine devanture des ventes spéciales pour écoliers. Il flotte dans l'air comme un parfum de livres neufs, de crayons fraichement aiguisés. C'est bientôt la rentrée des classes. Ah! que ne donnerait-on pas pour se mêler à cette cohorte enfantine, pour éprouver à nouveau la soif d'apprendre, la joie de savoir.

Mais cela, nous le pouvons. Peut-être retrouver l'insouciance bienheureuse de nos jeunes années mais nous pouvons retourner à l'école, recommencer, continuer à s'instruire, par des cours à la maison et des cours du soir. Les journaux sont remplis d'annonces de maisons d'enseignement offrant ces cours qui permettent de passer les examens officiels du Département de l'Instruction Publique. Il n'y a qu'à écrire pour obtenir leur prospectus.

COURS PRIMAIRE

Pour ceux qui n'ont pas complété ce cours, plusieurs écoles offrent une 6e et 7e combinée qui permet aux élèves de se rafraichir la mémoire sur des sujets étudiés il y a longtemps. Tous ceux qui désirent poursuivre leurs études, dans quelque direction que ce soit, doivent posséder leur certificat de 7e année. Ce certificat est nécessaire aussi pour tous ceux qui désirent pratiquer un métier — soudure, mécanique 2e classe, admission à une école des arts et métiers, quoique, pour ces choses, la 9e année soit de plus en plus demandée.

Certains peuvent être gênés de se retrouver en 7e année à 20 ans, 30 ans ou même plus mais, premièrement, si c'est par correspondance, nul n'a besoin de savoir que vous suivez ces cours. Deuxièmement, il n'y a certainement pas de honte à ressentir parce qu'on n'a pas complété telle ou telle année scolaire — les circonstances autrefois étaient autrement difficiles qu'aujourd'hui et c'est un petit nombre qui se rendait à la 7e année. On avait besoin des jeunes bras sur la ferme pour rapporter un salaire de l'usine. Troisièmement, disons-nous QU'IL N'EST JAMAIS TROP TARD. La 7e année est la première grille à franchir pour pénétrer dans les jardins enchanteurs du savoir où l'on peut aller ensuite de découverte en découverte, sans jamais se rassassier. Même une personne de 40, 50 ans, peut se lancer dans les études. Il lui reste 20, 30 ans à vivre — ce seront des années enrichies, vécues plus pleinement, avec une nouvelle confiance en soi qu'apporte seule la connaissance, l'instruction.

COURS SECONDAIRE

Encore plus de maisons d'enseignement offrent le cours secondaire que le cours primaire. Cela comprend toutes les options — générale, scientifique, commerciale. Le COURS GENERAL est destiné à ceux qui ne désirent pas continuer plus loin que la 11e année. La 9e année générale permet d'accéder aux emplois du service civil; au métier de pompier etc. Elle permet également d'accéder aux métiers de coiffeurs et de coiffeuses. Ceux qui se sentent vraiment forts pourront faire à la maison leur COURS SCIENTIFIQUE; ils auront peut-être besoin parfois d'aide mais je suis sûre que la direction et les professeurs de nos écoles locales se feraient alors un plaisir de leur donner un coup de main. L'effort demandé au cours scientifique est énorme mais aussi, quelles récompenses! Admission aux universités avec la 11e scientifique, préparation aux études d'infirmières, d'instituteurs, brevets A et B, à l'école de Marine, à l'Institut agricole d'Oka, à la gendarmerie royale, aux écoles techniques et aux Hautes Etudes. La SECTION COMMERCIALE, si terminée, permet d'accéder au Service civil provincial, fédéral ou municipal; prépare aussi à entrer dans un bureau, à la comptabilité, au secrétariat.

SPECIALISATIONS

Il existe aussi des écoles techniques qui offrent des cours à la maison en couture, en dessin commercial, en électronique. Certaines écoles ont un service d'orientation qui permet de déterminer quelles sont vos aptitudes et de quel côté vous devez vous diriger pour utiliser au maximum vos talents.

Tout cela ne vous met-il pas l'eau à la bouche? Naturellement, ces cours coûteront un peu d'argent — les frais d'inscription, les manuels à louer ou à acheter. Ils coûteront surtout très cher en soirées sacrifiées à étudier, à préparer des examens. Mais l'enjeu n'en vaut-il pas la peine? Allons, choisissons tout de suite une école qui paraît digne de confiance et envoyons notre lettre demandant son prospectus. Ce sera peut-être l'acte le plus important de notre vie.

Ameliorons notre langage

Attention! Attention! C'est un S.O.S. si je puis ainsi m'exprimer.

Canadiens français, pour l'amour de notre patrie, pour l'amour de nos enfants corrigeons notre langage. N'attendons pas puisqu'il est déjà tard.

Bannissons d'abord les jurons qui blessent notre entourage et abrutissent notre personnalité; évitons les anglicismes qui rendent notre langage presqu'incompréhensible pour les Néo-Canadiens et les étrangers qui visitent notre province; quant au patois, il est heureusement en train de disparaître.

Que faire, direz-vous, pour améliorer la situation? Il faudra sûrement beaucoup de persévérance. Je comprends que c'est très difficile pour certaines personnes qui ont peu d'instruction et même pour celles qui sont instruites, de changer leur manière de parler, du jour au lendemain.

Alors, voici ce qu'on pourrait faire: exiger qu'on sévisse contre le mauvais langage à l'école et cela dès la première année; qu'à la maison les parents secondent les efforts des professeurs, mais, attention, n'allons pas rire d'un enfant qui essaie de parler correctement. Ce serait fatal.

En aidant ainsi nos enfants nous nous perfectionnerons nous-mêmes. C'est dans la famille qu'on reçoit la première éducation celle qui reste ordinairement toute la vie et c'est souvent à cause d'une mauvaise formation du langage, au foyer que nos grands qui sortent des grandes écoles, des couvents et même de nos collèges classiques ont un parler vulgaire qui déprécie leur culture.

Cessons donc d'être des tyrans pour nos enfants à apprendre deux langues françaises, l'une incorrecte pour parler, l'autre correcte pour écrire. N'est-ce pas ridicule?

C'est nous les parents qui préparons les bases de l'avenir de nos enfants, soyons donc très exigeants par rapport à leur parler, par le fait même l'étude du français leur deviendra plus facile et plus agréable.

Quand nous parlerons mieux notre langue, nous l'apprécierons davantage et on ne pourra plus nous lancer à la face: "Parlez-vous le français de France et le mauvais français du Québec? Quelle humiliation!

Hourra! donc! Tous sont invités, les jeunes surtout, à prendre des armes sûres pour combattre toutes nos erreurs de langage afin que tous dans le Québec puissent, un jour, s'exprimer facilement et sans complexe dans une langue française, québecoise si vous le voulez, mais correcte, élégante, harmonieuse.

Invitation au personnel enseignant à s'armer pour la bataille.

Célébration du 3ième centenaire des familles Laberge

Dimanche le 11 août 1963 avait lieu le rassemblement des familles Laberge au pays des ancêtres. La fête débuta par une messe pontificale en la basilique de Ste-Anne de Beaupré, célébrée à 10.30 hres a.m. par Mgr Damasse Laberge, évêque au Pérou et enfant de la paroisse de St-Joachim de Chateauguay Qué. assisté de M. le Chanoine Edmour Laberge curé des Cèdres Co. Soulange et des révérends Pères Wilbrod et Charles Leberge de Montréal. Il y avait environ 800 personnes. Après la messe il y eut banquet à la salle des loisirs mise à la disposition des congressistes par les Pères Rédemptoristes de la basilique. Plusieurs discours furent prononcés rappelant l'histoire des Laberge. Dans l'après-midi visite de la ferme ancestrale à l'Ange Gardien et dévoilement d'une plaque commémorative qui sera apposée sur un monument bientôt.

Ne stationnez pas sur le pavé

Ne stationnez jamais sur le pavé d'une grande route. La route appartient à ceux qui circulent. La route est construite pour la circulation et non pour le stationnement. Celui qui stationne sur le pavé de la route non seulement nuit aux autres usagers de la route, mais devient une cause d'accident, rappelle Prudentia. Comment deux voitures peuvent-elles se rencontrer là où une autre est déjà en stationnement. Nombre d'accidents sont survenus par la faute de celui qui utilisait la route pour y stationner.
