The Wageleins put it all together on ice

SHERBROOKE (WC) — If Roy Wagelein had had his way, he never would have been a skater — at least that's how it started out.

When he was a small boy, his mother used to drag him to his skating lessons. It happens to every boy, whether it's piano or skating lessons.

"I didn't like skating, so when she left me at the rink, I would hide in the men's room until it was time to leave. After the first little bit of skating that I actually did I gradually found myself getting better and I started to enjoy it."

Roy thinks his mother pushed him just enough, then she stepped out of the picture and let him make up his own mind.

Both Roy and his wife Sandi, star performers in the Ice Capades now at the Sports Palace, believe it's wrong to push children too hard.

"We know fantastic skaters who really can't stand the sport because they were driven too hard when they were young," she said.

Professional skating has become a way of life for the Wageleins. Although they are only in their early twenties, this is their third year as a starring couple with the ice show.

Roy and Sandi came to the show with excellent amateur credentials; they were second in national competition in 1963 and they represented the United States in both the Olympic and world competition.

Both from southern California, they have enjoyed travelling to areas of the globe since joining the Ice Capades.

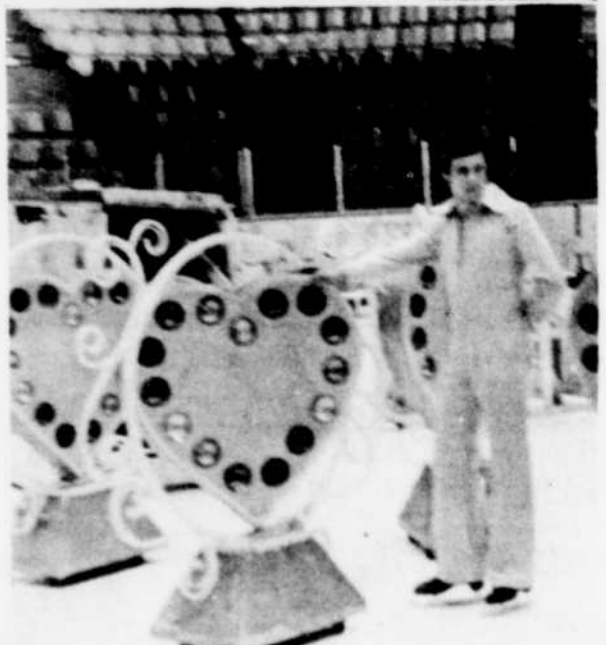

"We play in 38 cities a year and in each town there's a new crowd and a new show to do."

"Opening night in any city is always the most exciting — before the show you are really nervous, but once you get out on the ice you're too busy to be nervous."

Just as opening night is exciting to the Wageleins, closing night is particularly sad. It's time to move on.

The couple loves to skate; watching them perform is testimonial enough. They are dedicated to the sport and practise constantly to keep in shape. They were married eight days before they joined the show. Later on, the couple would like to settle down and raise a family. Roy would like to work as a skating coach.

...Ice Capades show even boasts ET native

ET FLAVOR — Jacques Ouellette, a young man from Thetford Mines is a skater with the Ice Capades. He is the only French-Canadian in the cast and is in his first year. He hopes to be with the troupe for many years to come.

Man killed in gunfight

MONTREAL (CP) — Police shot and killed a man during a gunfight Wednesday night in a basement parking lot beneath a downtown skyscraper.

A police spokesman said a constable was approaching a robbery suspect when the man pulled a revolver and started shooting.

About 25 shots were exchanged between the suspect and reinforcements who arrived shortly afterwards at the garage under Place Ville Marie.

The dead man was not immediately identified.

Expenditures to top $4,000 million mark

Quebec decides against further tax increases in budget speech

QUEBEC (CP) — The Liberal government has decided against any tax increases this year to allow Quebecers to participate fully in the province's economic growth. Finance Minister Raymond Garneau said Thursday night in his budget speech.

The government will borrow heavily to cover a projected deficit of $270,714,000 in the 1971-72 fiscal year starting April 1.

Revenues are estimated at $3,880,500,000 and expenditures at $4,151,214,000, surpassing the $4,000 million mark for the first time.

Under a new system of accounting introduced this year, the projected deficit for the 1970-71 year ending March 31 is $6,322,000—based on revenues of $3,654,548,000 and expenditures of $3,660,870,000.

"We have decided that there will be no tax increase, Mr. Garneau told the national assembly in presenting a budget he said is aimed at encouraging economic development "more than ever."

"Consumers and businesses could not really contribute to the economic recovery which is beginning if their additional resources were reduced by new tax burdens."

Mr. Garneau said the budget is "expansionist" in terms of both expenditures and financing.

Mr. Garneau said the government will also issue a series of savings bonds to allow small investors to "participate in the expansion of the public sector."

Quebec will receive considerable financial help from Ottawa, but Mr. Garneau said Quebec wants still more than it is getting.

Highlights

Tax abatements for working mothers and changes in succession duties will not be introduced until the federal government establishes its policies in these fields.

For the fiscal year coming to an end, revenues are projected at $3,654,548,000 and total expenditures at $3,660,870 for a projected net deficit of $6,322,000.

Quebec wants a new formula for equalization payments and a new break in federal-provincial tax-sharing.

A new accounting system will give Quebec municipalities $9 million more in provincial sales tax revenue.

The government will borrow a total of $415 million, including $65 million from the federal government under the latter's economic development programs, compared with a total of $324 million for the current fiscal year.

Hydro-Quebec, the publicly-owned hydroelectric utility, will borrow $250 million, compared with $226 million for the current fiscal year.

The government will issue a series of savings bonds to encourage citizens to invest in the expansion of the public sector of the economy.

Municipalities will be empowered to tax the property of junior colleges and universities at a rate of $25 a student.

Reinvesting profits responsible for firm's success says Bruck

MONTREAL (CP) — Gerald L. Bruck, president of Bruck Mills Ltd., says the textile company's policy of reinvesting its profits is largely responsible for its success over the last half century.

"Through good times and poor times the company never wavered from its policy of instituting plant improvements," he said Thursday as the firm prepared to celebrate its 50th year of operation as a Canadian textile manufacturer.

The company was founded in July, 1921, under the name of Premier Silk Mills Ltd., in Cowansville, Que. It became Bruck Mills Ltd. in 1947.

Mr. Bruck said this policy of reinvesting profits "even in the face of bad times accounts for much of our present success... in the industry."

The company began with only 40 employees and 14 looms. Within a year of operation, it expanded to 100 looms and 80 employees and today employs 1,750 workers in offices and five plants in Montreal, Cowansville, Sherbrooke, Que. and St. Jean, Que.

The company was founded by Isaac Bruck, a European immigrant who came to Canada from the United States. His idea was to weave broad skills and bring the product within the price range of the average consumer.

Robert J. Bruck, executive vice-president of Bruck Mills Ltd., credits his company's success to its ability to innovate and to adapt technical and production methods which paralleled the introduction of new fibres.

In 1947, the company built a weaving plant in Sherbrooke and added a yarn spinning mill to it three years later.

The company, always expansion-minded, has put much of its earnings into modernization projects.

In 1965, the company built a new weaving plant in Cowans-ville called Premier Mill, in recognition of the company's first name. The size of this plant was doubled in 1967.

The system controls more than 60 dyeing machines and provides guidance in the dyeing of more than 140 different fabrics from 10,000 potential colors. Operators can get up-to-the-second data on any dye machine at any time by touching a button.

The company now is planning a $3.5 million expansion over the next three years, "specifically for our double-knit operation," said Robert Bruck. The money will buy new knitting machines and dyeing and finishing equipment, and Mr. Bruck said the investment will create 150 new jobs over the three-year period.

For artist-world traveller Capt. Brown, ET is 'home'

AYER'S CLIFF — In 1964, Captain Edward Brown bought a broken down cobweb infested house in this community. Now instead of sagging ceilings and bulging walls greeting the visitors, paintings spread the Eastern Townships before their eyes and antiques and souvenirs tell tales of adventure.

Captain Brown, 70, came from England that year to visit his daughter in Granby. While he was here he and his wife Marion had the occasion of spending a week in a cottage on the shores of Lake Massawippi. He described his feelings at that time.

"While we were here, we fell in love with the place. One of the great things that struck us was the extreme friendliness of the people and the peace was the beauty of the area. You can paint panoramic scenery without even having to go anywhere." While we were here a woman put up a house for sale sign so we bought the house and that was it."

Since that time Edward Brown has painted or sketched over 500 scenes of the Township region and of his adventures at sea.

Edward Brown was born in Birmingham, England, just after the turn of the century. At the age of 16 he went to sea joining a cargo ship as a cadet. He still remembers his first voyage.

"At that time there were no luxuries at sea or in port such as electric lights or fans. I can still remember Calcutta when the temperature was over 100 degrees and we had no fan or mosquito nets. Our first stop on that trip was at Table Mountain in Capetown."

"The Spanish flu had just hit the city and the Africans were dying at a rate of 600 a day. We spent Armistice Day, 1918 at a party given by the Sultan of Zanzibar."

"Two more interesting things happened on my initial voyage. We loaded soda in Lake Megadi in Africa to be taken to India. The soda was cut from the lake just as we here would cut blocks of ice. In India I met a woman who said that the chief annual event in Bombay was to meet the sailing ship filled with ice blocks cut from the St. Lawrence River."

He worked on cargo ships for six years before leaving to join the crew of an oil tanker running from Rangoon to Burma. In 1927 he married his wife on a trip to England.

"When I married her I took her over to Dublin on the Irish ferry to see how good a sailor she was going to be, to see if she was going to be seasick," he said.

She passed the test.

In 1929, he joined the Bombay pilot service. Before retiring 30 years later, he held the post of pilot, dock-master and harbour-master. The last five years in Bombay were spent as the director in charge of port services.

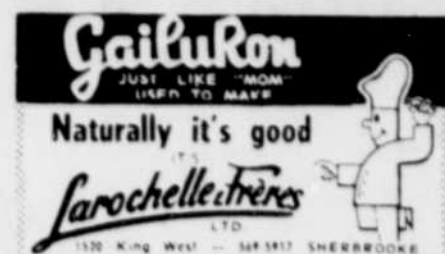

After his retirement he bought a house in England living there three years before coming to Canada.

Captain Brown's paintings have been exhibited in Granby, Knowlton, North Hatley and at the Border. He sells a few paintings but even if he didn't he says he would continue painting. It's something he loves to do.

Three years ago, he painted frequently when he and his wife went around the world, visiting with his daughters in Ceylon and Australia.

As for the future Captain Brown says, "We are happy here, we are getting old and do not want to change ships. We will just pass the rest of our days here, painting and living as usual."

Captain Brown is a familiar sight, sketchbook in hand ambling along the streets of Ayer's Cliff.

QUEBEC IN FOCUS

Science committee created

QUEBEC (CP) — Premier Robert Bourassa announced Wednesday the creation of a ministerial committee on science policies.

The committee will define areas in which the government should involve itself in scientific research, including matters of federal-provincial interest.

Education Minister Guy Saint-Pierre will head the committee. Other members will include Claude Castonguay, minister of social affairs, Gerard Levesque, industry and commerce minister, and Victor Goldbloom, minister responsible for the environment.

Laurier Gauvin, an official of the department of education, was named secretary.

Airline won't lose deposit

MONTREAL (CP) — Air Canada will not lose its $600,000 deposit on six U.S. supersonic aircraft as a result of the United States Senate cancellation Wednesday of funds for development of the controversial Boeing airliner, a spokesman said today.

He denied reports that Air Canada would lose half of the $1.2 million set aside for the aircraft, expected to be delivered in the late 1970s.

The United States government, he said, would refund the money if the plane were not built.

A CP Air spokesman said he could not comment on reports that CP Air would lose $300,000 — half of its deposit for three aircraft — until Boeing announced its decision on the project.

Until Boeing announced it was scrapping development of the supersonic airliner, the project would be considered as continuing.

A CP Air spokesman in Vancouver said Wednesday there was no reason to believe the situation had changed since last August, when CP Air said it and Air Canada would lose half their deposits if the program were cancelled by the government or Boeing.

'Special section' formed

MONTREAL (CP) — Justice Minister Jerome Choquette said Wednesday a "special section" is being formed in his department to co-ordinate the actions of government and Quebec's police forces in the fight against organized crime.

Calling organized crime a "scar on our democracy," Mr. Choquette said his department is moving quickly to expose the "permanent conspiracy going on to exploit the public."

"It will draw specialists from all government agencies who are skilled in combatting the many dimensions of this type of crime."

He told a B'nai B'rith organization he will elaborate on the "special section" in his department's white paper on police organization, expected by the end of May.

Suggest computer bank

MONTREAL (CP) — A central computer bank of municipal information was suggested Thursday by Mayor Ivor Dent of Edmonton, in a speech to a conference of information management of the Canadian Federation of Mayors and Municipalities. Mayor Dent is president of the federation.

Cities such as Edmonton, which now used computers, could benefit each other by supplying information to a central information bank that all municipalities could draw on, he said.

Such information could assist cities to deal with all the problems they now experience.

To achieve this would require standardization of many procedures, something that is desirable, Mayor Dent said.

There are "national municipal preoccupations," that can be standardized and on which information can be exchanged, he said.

Mayor Dent said the solution to problems such as pollution, social questions and finance being faced by Canadian cities require a "global approach" and computers and exchanged information could "establish quickly a common front."

Liberals to quit party

CHICOUTIMI, Que. (CP) — Two Liberal executives in this community 115 miles north of Quebec City say they are quitting the party and may join the separatist Parti Quebecois.

Bertrand Bechar and Andre Beaudin, president and vice-president of the local party association, told a news conference Wednesday they planned to send a letter of resignation to the Quebec Liberal party.

Heading their list of reasons for leaving the party, they said, is lack of confidence in Premier Robert Bourassa. His campaign promise to create 100,000 new jobs by the end of 1971 seemed now to be nothing more than pure election talk and demagoguery.

The themes of participation and democracy at the last provincial Liberal conference, they said, were meaningless. In reality, the Liberals were a "party of cliques and personal interests at all levels."

Furthermore, "the last federal-provincial conference, which brought together in Ottawa the ministers of social affairs from each province in Canada, demonstrated that federalism was not feasible for Quebec."

Structure will remain same

MONTREAL (CP) — Guy Marcil, president of the Montreal's Policemen's Brotherhood, said Wednesday the union's structure will stay the same despite the recommendations of a report on the Oct. 7, 1969, Montreal police strike.

The Quebec police commission report recommended that the brotherhood be divided into two units, one for officers and one for ordinary policemen.

Mr. Marcil said in an interview that if the commission's recommendations on union structure were put into effect "the morale of the Montreal police would be the same as on Oct. 7, 1969."

Police release 10 persons

MONTREAL (CP) — Police said today 10 persons arrested Wednesday after a sit-in at the offices of the Quebec Civil Liberties Union have been released.

A police spokesman said no charges were laid in connection with the occupation by members of the Movement for the Defence of Political Prisoners which began Monday night.

Police moved in Wednesday to clear the building of about 20 demonstrators who were protesting what they called "total inaction" by the QCLU on behalf of so-called political prisoners.

Labor legislation blamed

OSHAWA, Ont. (CP) — A sub-contractor employed on construction of Montreal's new international airport until work on the project stopped last month, blames the stoppage at least partly on Quebec labor legislation.

Norman Wilton, president of Alnor Earthmoving Ltd., said Thursday "it's a dynamite situation and the result could be the virtual elimination of all non-Quebecers from working the project."

Work on the $400 million airport started in November and, as stipulated under the federal government contracts, hiring was done through Canada Manpower centres.

Four unions walked off the job after a union steward was fired for allegedly assaulting a foreman Feb. 4, but Mr. Wilton said the real problem is Quebec labor legislation that came into effect Jan. 2.

The legislation stipulates that all construction hiring in the province must be done through the new Quebec Manpower centres or union halls. This, he said, has slowed negotiations in the work stoppage.

Mr. Wilton's firm has a subcontract from Montcalm Construction, a Quebec subsidiary of Armstrong Brothers Co. Ltd., of Brampton, Ont. Montcalm has two contracts for a total of $17 million to build two 12,000-foot runways for the airport, located at Ste. Scholastique, Que.

At elementary school Adults given drug abuse talk

COWANSVILLE — Wednesday night, March 17, was designated open house at Heroes' Memorial Elementary School.

It was at this time that some 150 adults came to tour the school and meet the individual class teachers.

The evening was well planned with various displays and entertainment provided for the visitors. The school's Glee Club kicked off the opening with a sign-song held in the gym.

Among other things planned, a French current event class was held in the French room for the benefit of those who wished to attend. Miss Nancy Gaudin conducted the lesson to a packed audience.

Later that evening Hymen Ludmer, science teacher presented a discussion entitled "Drugs and Their Abuse."

Adults crowded the school's lab as Mr. Ludmer, aided with a sample drug kit explained the various narcotics, and their use in today's "culture."

Along with the sample kit, Mr. Ludmer, aided with a sample drug kit explained the various narcotics, and their use in today's "culture."

Along with the sample kit, Mr. Ludmer also presented a film strip helping to shed light on the question "Why?"

Ludmer attributes problems at home as one of the major causes. Children who have problems with their parents, or children who come from a home where alcohol is used without moderation often turn to drugs.

The young teacher stated that there is great profit to be made in the selling of illegal narcotics. "25 pounds of heroin sells for about $400 in the orient. Smuggled into North America it will go for about a million dollars!" he said.

Although there were numerous parents present it was hard to tell the impact the discussion had on the crowd. As well as being stuffy in the packed room, it was also very quiet.

Fish, game club bags four lynx

WINDSOR (CM) — A member of the Fish and Game club of St. Francois Lake, Yves Lapierre, has succeeded in capturing four lynx.

Among his catch are three females and one male weighing forty-six pounds, a size quite rare for this type of animal.

Last winter, another member of the same club, was successful in picking up five. He was Albert Larochelle of St. Francois Xavier de Brompton, Gaetan Hamel of Lake Larouche succeeded in bagging one. We must remember that these lynx destroy a great number of deer and other animals, especially during the winter months.

For this reason, the Fish and Game Club of Lake St. Francois pay premiums each year to their members who succeed in capturing these animals.

The club also pays premiums for coyotes and wolves in the hope of protecting our deer and conserving their existence.

Unlimited energy supply

A 21st-century historian writing about our own time might well observe that "never did so many have so little faith in the future."

This is not the first age given to prediction of disaster. All of Christendom believed that the world was going to end in the year 1000. Our modern fears however, are not based on superstition or numerology but on science — rather, some of the undesirable fruits of science and technology, such as pollution, overpopulation and the possibility of nuclear Armageddon.

But this same historian may also observe that our failure of faith curiously came at a time when mankind stood on the verge of a true Golden Age, and that the most important event of the 20th Century, if not of all centuries, was not World Wars I or II or the threat of III but something presaged by a recent announcement out of the New Mexico desert.

Scientists at the Los Alamos Scientific Laboratory report they have taken a major step toward developing a controlled fusion or thermonuclear reaction, the same kind of reaction that provides the energy of the sun and, uncontrolled, of the hydrogen bomb.

With a research device called Scyllac, they were able to produce a hot stream of ionized deuterium gas, or plasma. Deuterium, a form of hydrogen, is readily extracted from sea water.

According to project director Dr. Fred Ribe, there is enough potential energy in the world's oceans to supply power at 100 times current world consumption for 10 billion years. Not only that, but a fusion reactor would be virtually pollution-free and would produce no long-lived radioactive wastes.

It may be years before a fusion reactor is perfected and many more before its energy can be harnessed on a large scale.

But an age of unlimited power, and every fantastic thing that can mean to the world's billions, lies in the future — if we can keep the present world together long enough for it to happen.

Our anniversary review

Once again the Sherbrooke Record takes pleasure in presenting its annual review edition which marks its 74th year of service to the people of the Eastern Townships.

The past year has not been without its difficulties both for Canada and the Province of Quebec and these events have had their reflection on the life of this district.

But, despite the economic slowdown that has afflicted the country and some political uncertainties, the Eastern Townships has shown some remarkable advances, during the past year.

These have included the establishment or prospective establishment of new industries in some communities, the expansion of others, the start of construction of the Trans-Quebec Autoroute which should do much for the industrial life of the area.

Thus it is to be expected that the coming year will prove more satisfying to the residents of Sherbrooke and neighborhood.

This year the annual review edition concentrates basically on the developments in the various municipalities of the region during the past year, supplemented by articles dealing with the history of the communities and with the lives of those residents who, either because of their accomplishments in community life or their longevity, have assumed places of importance in the district.

All in all, the 74th anniversary review is designed for the instruction and entertainment of our readers.

French Press says:

Union demands cause of unemployment

This is a selection of editorials on current topics, translated from the French-language press of Canada.

Moncton L'Evangeline — Unions have accomplished an immense good in helping the worker, in improving his salary and his working conditions, as well as his lot.

We don't want to discuss today companies or financial enterprises that exploit workers, ration their salaries, make them work in miserable conditions while the companies accumulate exorbitant profits.

In many cases, however, we seriously ask ourselves if the unions are not often exaggerating their demands in asking for higher wages and conditions that do not always seem to be reasonable. We wonder if their exigencies do not constitute a cause of unemployment.

The right to strike is undoubtedly essential sometimes as the only means of defence against exploiters without consciences. But even here, this right can be abused. And we have the impression that union leaders often launch a strike in this country in which everyone loses, the bosses, the workers, society.

Exorbitant prices are paralyzing industry and the economy. How many people would build houses if materials and tradesmen were not so expensive? Certain tradesmen, with a minimum of schooling, make better money today than university professors who have studied all their lives and who are a credit to their universities.

At home, if we get the chicken to lay too many golden eggs, we'll kill it. ... March 18.

Trois-Rivieres Le Nouvelliste — The agriculture minister in the Bourassa government, Normand Toupin, has decided to put an end to about 30 measures of aid for farmers that cost $7 million so as to set up a series of new programs worth about $10 million.

Over-all, even though the new government reforms appear very ambiguous, it is clear that the provincial government is running with the hare and hunting with the hounds in its agricultural policies.

We had been waiting for more concrete reforms that would have really answered the needs of Quebec farmers. We therefore must ask whether Minister Toupin, through these mini-reforms, did not want to force farmers to swallow a pill to mollify them.

It must not be forgotten that one of the most serious problems facing the agriculturalists in Quebec at present touches directly on revenue.

Recently, the federal government provided $100 million to western farmers to guarantee them an annual revenue of $7,000. In Quebec, the situation is dangerously close to a paradox: The average annual revenue is only $2,500.

There is therefore no question of grandly rejoicing in the new provincial government measures. On the contrary, we must become seriously worried.

We dare to believe that if the Quebec authorities immediately worked toward the consolidation of farms, the complete revisions of the Quebec agricultural market to avoid dumping and the just repartition of Quebec territories used for breeding or different categories of agriculture, the solution would certainly not be the same.

Rejean Lacombe, March 19.

Ottawa Le Droit — The Canadian aerospace industry serves as a curious paradox in early 1971. At a time when even the aircraft manufacturers are in peril, as Canada risks the imminent loss of what little economic advantages it holds in certain sectors of the industry, the government possesses the magic formula to ensure its future, to build for it the place of its choice on the world market.

Still aware of the massive layoffs during the last three years, we are not without the knowledge that Canadair in Montreal now is manufacturing the famous water-bomber, the CL-215, which seems to answer to all the hopes and needs of foreign nations to fight forest fires but which, for unknown reasons, does not seem to please the majority of our provincial governments.

Only Quebec, with 15 of the aircraft, has bought this homemade aircraft.

At the start of 1970, Canadair had about 8,400 employees. Today, the number is so reduced that there are only 4,000 workers. The situation will worsen by the end of 1971, with an additional 2,000 workers leaving the company.

It is up to Ottawa now to take action. By financing the construction of 20 of these planes, it would be possible to avoid the 2,000 layoffs. This measure could also result in the rehiring of previously laid-off employees. ... Taking into account the known reputation of the CL-215, Ottawa should have no problems selling the aircraft after financing construction.

Louis Roque, March 18.

Montreal La Presse — While the royal commission on bilingualism and biculturalism was announcing in Ottawa, ... that it was ending its work, Justice Minister Jerome Choquette was tabling in the Quebec national assembly the fifth and last report of a commission investigation into justice.

Headed by Yves Prevost, ... the commission was given a mandate in 1967 to inquire into all aspects of justice. Since then, the commissioners have put forth enormous work.

We can, in effect, ask ourselves what motivated the discretion with which the justice minister made public the fifth Prevost report. It may be its privilege, but the government did nothing to be partial to a large portion of the remarks and recommendations.

Even if he showed himself to be favorable to the creation of a permanent organization set up to revise penal laws, Mr. Choquette received the over-all report with prudent reserve. In fact, the minister did not make any formal mention of other commission recommendations.

If it showed itself severe toward the conduct of certain policemen, the commission otherwise made recommendations that prove its will to improve the efficiency of law and order forces in their fight against crime and the commission wish to protect fundamental rights of citizens. ... Claude Gravel, March 20.

The search of Pierre Vallieres

DOUGLAS FISHER

How could Trudeau and Pelletier have installed Pierre Vallieres as editor of their precious Cite Libre?

A few months ago, selections from Vallieres' book White Niggers of America were translated and published in an American socialist magazine.

I assumed from these cuts that the book was essentially a political tract. All the passionate arguments of the FLQ full of mock heroic prattle about revolution.

I was wrong. The English edition, put out by McClelland and Stewart and translated by Joan Pinkham, is exciting reading. It is more an autobiography than a political tract, much more a racy analysis of French-Canadian institutions and myths than a bible for a revolutionary movement. Trudeau and Pelletier were excellent talent scouts. You can spot in Vallieres ideas and style which remind you of Trudeau. For example, the following paragraph could be from a Trudeau essay circa 1958:

"... The premiers of Quebec, in particular Honore Mercier, cultivated this nationalism and turned it into an instrument of blackmail, to the profound irritation of the Federal Government. Daniel Johnson, like Lesage and Duplessis, is only doing what Mercier did. But French-Canadian nationalism did not necessarily provide a living."

Vallieres, like Trudeau, is bitter that the national feeling of Quebecers was prostituted, generation after generation, by clerics and Negro kings, all the while keeping the ordinary people ignorant and obedient.

Outsiders looted the resource economy of Quebec while the indigenous leaders batted on the masses through patronage and nepotism. Vallieres and Trudeau have the same tough, jeering scorn for sentimentalists. Each is very disrespectful of the "authorities." (Remember, the comparison is between Trudeau as author and Vallieres as author.) Vallieres refers derisively to the publicity-hungry Cardinal Leger as "Kid Kodak," exactly the kind of laconic colloquialism you'd expect from the Prime Minister.

Vallieres is now 33 years of age. Again, as so often since 1966, he is in jail, awaiting trial. He could get a lifetime in jail from the present charges. To see what shaped Vallieres, one should drive through Ville Jacques Cartier and the grubby little villages south and east of it.

So are the explanations why he gave it up and went off to Paris, believing that he'd never return to the misbegotten land of Quebec.

In France he fell among Marxists and began to see the comradeship of the workers as the key to the future.

He was terribly lonely; he contemplated suicide and thought himself a total failure. He couldn't get deeply involved in the French political situation. Finally, a Communist friend, an unfrocked, worker priest from Martinique and his mistress, forced him to realize that "no country but your own can give you what you are looking for." In Quebec he could find himself.

Vallieres is always looking for symbols. "A few days after I came back, the Wolfe monument was overturned in Quebec City. I suddenly said to myself that things had changed in the country of silence and winter."

"I began to hope again."

"Gerard Pelletier offered me a job at La Presse and I accepted with joy."

And he was away into a period of recognition, into one then of rejection by the moderates who had spotted his writing talent. This rejection bothered him little for he was rejecting them and discovering the solidarity of working men. He turned to working out the ideas of the FLQ. Ultimately, these took him to New York for demonstrations at the U.N. These brought notoriety, arrest, extradition to Canada, and the long trials and appeals which have made him a martyr to some Quebecers.

TIMELY QUOTES

Most of us in Washington have seen a lot of mismanagement in government programs. But military assistance is the first program I have come across that appears to be characterized by unmanagement.

—Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis.

I've got to feed my kids. Let me keep my job and to hell with the environment.

—Workman at a Florida pulp paper mill, which claims it will have to close down if forced to stop discharging wastes into a nearby river.

THE ART BUCHWALD COLUMN

WASHINGTON — The big question everyone in Washington is asking is whether the South Vietnamese army is strong enough to take over the American PX system once all the U.S. troops pull out.

The real test of a first-class military force is how capable it is to run its PXs at a profit.

So far, the American officials have been highly pleased at the progress the South Vietnamese have made in PX administration, and the U.S. military predict that they will be able to turn over all essential PX activities to the ARVN by 1972.

"These little fellows learned twice as fast as we thought they would," said former Gen. E. H. Hartsell, who, up until a few weeks ago, was in charge of the PX-ification program.

Hartsell told correspondents proudly, "I'd be willing to put them up against any PX officers in the world. When it comes to purchasing, cost accounting, warehousing and distribution, the South Vietnamese have proved they can do the job."

"Are you trying to tell us that the South Vietnamese will be able to handle their own pinball and slot machines by 1972?"

"Definitely," Hartsell said. "The ARVN have had pinball and slot machines in their officers' clubs for over a year and their jackpot count has been next to zero. In some cases the take off the top from the slot machines has been higher than that of the most lucrative U.S. Army messes in Southeast Asia."

Hartsell said the success of PX-ification can be attributed to a crash training program that the U.S. Army started two years ago. "I was assigned the task of training them, and I was given carte blanche to do anything I wanted as long as I got results."

"The first thing I did was set up a training school in a large villa outside Saigon. It had a swimming pool, an open bar, bedroom suites, hi-fi and a French chef. We wanted to simulate for our trainees the same battle conditions they would face in a real PX situation."

"In the daytime we held classes in black-market sales management, manufacturers' kickbacks, Swiss bank accounts, false air conditioner and refrigerator manifests, and beer and whiskey inventory subterfuge."

"We worked our students until they were ready to drop. In the evening they each had to go through an obstacle course which consisted of swimming across the heated pool six times, eating a seven-course meal, drinking a fifth of scotch with a U.S. company distributor, and then going three rounds in hand-to-hand combat with a beautiful South Vietnamese hostess."

"Since all our trainees were volunteers, we had very few dropouts, many of them wanted to sign up for the course twice. Our toughest methods paid off. Three of our graduates are now generals in the South Vietnamese PX system and already own majority interests in seven Saigon massage parlors."

For his work in training the South Vietnamese, Hartsell was awarded the distinguished slot machine service medal by the Thieu government. It couldn't have come at a better time, because Gen. Hartsell has recently been stripped of all his American decorations, busted to private and asked to resign for the good of the U.S. Army.

State waste

Sir:

Hon. Eddie Sargent, Ontario Liberal M.P., sounded a much needed alarm against the unnecessary, unreasonable, unprofitable outlay of the people's money by the federal government. This squandering of the people's money — right, left and centre — has burdened and angered the people beyond endurance, when there is such a need of money being used in Canada to relieve the unemployment situation and the exorbitant taxation plaguing the country, caused by the ineptness of said government.

Improvement

Sir:

To say that the C.B.C. has had a lapse of taste in producing The Megantic Outlaw is questionable but I suppose with great effort it might be justified. (You would then have to say the same about many shows produced by every network including the NEWS.)

But to attack it as being well written, well produced or well acted (to quote your words) is completely unjustifiable. Next, are you going to tell us that Somerset Maugham, the Forsyth saga and the Wives of Henry the 8th prove the B.B.C. cannot write, produce an act? I only hope Fletcher Markle will be able to maintain the quality of drama now being produced.

SHERBROOKE TRUST 96th ANNUAL REPORT

TO THE SHAREHOLDERS

"The year under review in this report was a challenging one for the Sherbrooke Trust. Profitable and balanced growth continued to be our primary objective and the record of achievement established by your institution during the last twelve months is both impressive and encouraging.

Total Assets of your Company and Assets Under Administration reached $60,956,053. This represents an increase of $1,794,700 over last year's Total Assets of $59,161,353. Assets Under Administration for Estates, Trusts and Agency Accounts now exceed $34,600,000.

Your Company also enjoyed an increase in its Total Deposits which now amount to $24,681,460, for a total increase of $1,139,117. Savings Deposits in both our Special and Chequing Accounts increased from $4,289,339 to $4,853,801, while Guaranteed Deposits registered a gain of $483,978 to reach $17,378,003. Our Company Debentures, which all mature in no more than five years from the date of issue, now amount to $2,449,656.

Our Deposits in the course of the year were invested mostly in short and medium term bonds, principally in Dominion and Provincial issues. We also endeavored to invest a reasonable percentage of our funds in high-grade residential mortgages. On the 31st of December, $731,714 was held in Cash or short-term Certificates of Deposits in Canadian Chartered Banks. Dominion of Canada bonds amount to $1,969,593, while our Provincial Bond portfolio increased by approximately $1,000,000 to reach $5,364,381. Your Board of Directors, concerned about a severely restrictive monetary policy and constantly rising interest rates, exerted every effort to maintain maximum liquidity and flexibility in our operations. A price must, of course, be paid for the enjoyment and protection of liquidity and the net income derived from our Savings, Guaranteed Deposits and Debentures was 8.1 per cent less than last year's, but very much in line nevertheless with the performance of the trust industry in 1970.

The Gross Income of your Company reached an unprecedented high of $2,603,327 as compared with $2,203,253 earned the previous year. Our Total Income includes $470,639 earned in fees and commissions, as against $453,258 in 1969, while our Investment Income increased by 21.4 per cent to reach $2,096,187. This increase in investment income is primarily due to a record-high level of deposits and the unusually high interest rates prevailing on loans and investments throughout the last fiscal period.

Total Expenditures, however, were correspondingly higher at $2,340,664 as compared with $1,909,010, for the same period last year. Our Interest Expenses rose by $375,104 to reach $1,754,382. Rates of Interest on our Savings Deposits were increased to 6 1/2 per cent, while the rate on five year Guaranteed Deposit Certificates rose to an historically high 9 per cent. This was an expensive exercise for all trust companies in an extremely competitive market in 1970. Salaries and other benefits paid to our Staff increased from $303,920 to $342,546 and this amount includes the normal year-end salary increases and the hiring of additional personnel to handle a higher volume of business.

Excess of Income over Expenditures after Depreciation of Fixed Assets is $262,663, as compared with $294,243 earned in 1969. Provisions for Income Tax (Federal and Provincial) is $119,000 as compared with $144,000 the previous year. Our Net Income for the last fiscal period is therefore $143,663 or $4.79 per share. In 1969 our Net Earnings were $150,243 or $5.01 per share. We consider these results most gratifying, particularly when the comparison is made with the results achieved in the previous year of operations (1969) when we experienced a record year with a 24.3 per cent increase in Net Income before Taxes.

This year, as in 1969, a total of $2.50 was paid in dividends on earnings of $4.79 per share. Total Cash Dividends amount to $75,000 on earnings of $143,663 or 53 per cent of our net income after taxes.

The total assets under administration by your Company place us in the forefront of financial institutions in the Eastern Townships. A number of accounts that terminated in the normal course of business upon the distribution of assets in trusts under Wills were retained as new accounts in our Estates and Trusts Department. A large percentage of our new trust business was also, as in the past, directed to us through referrals from old established accounts. Our staff also continued to review the large number of Wills on file with our Company with our clients and their notary or attorney, in order to keep abreast of changes in tax laws, particularly with the amendments to the Federal Estate Tax Act.

Investment objectives need to be constantly reviewed and analyzed and our trust and investment officers must coordinate their efforts more and more and assume greater responsibilities for maintaining sound investment programmes for our estates and trusts under administration. Our total staff now numbers sixty-three officers and employees. We have confidence in the experience, competence and enthusiasm of our organization to build an institution of expanding influence in our specialized field of fiduciary and financial services in our community.

Sherbrooke Trust continues to play a very active role in the mortgage field in the Eastern Townships. Your Company, a comparatively small institution among trust companies, now has 622 loans in its investment portfolio for a total of $9,950,343 in mortgages outstanding. All our mortgage contracts are for a period of five years and the average loan is for an amount of slightly less than $16,000. In 1970 we wrote $1,750,000 in new mortgages, and of our total loans of $9,950,343, seventy-seven per cent, or $7,716,387, are on residential properties. In addition, a large volume of mortgage loans was also contracted for numerous accounts, such as pension funds, agencies and estates under administration.

The year 1970 which we have just completed was both exciting and difficult. It was a year of apprehension, disenchantment and mounting restiveness about continuing inflation, historically high interest rates, painful unemployment, reduced corporate earnings, and an insignificant growth in real gross national product. It was also a year of social and economic unrest, and underlying all these trends was the unusually wide spectrum of sentiment expressed by the Canadian and American people on a multiplicity of issues. It was a year that called upon business management to display much courage and ingenuity in coping with new difficulties. It was a very eventful year.

Interest rates on Government of Canada securities rose to their highest levels in more than 100 years as central authorities engaged in a very restrictive monetary policy in an effort to stabilize the economy and curb inflation. The expectations of further inflation and higher interest rates were so damagingly pervasive that bonds became attractive only at progressively lower price levels. The result was a steady upward march of interest rates. The long-term average rate on Dominion of Canada bonds reached as high as 8.31 per cent and during the same period highest quality public utility and industrial bonds were selling on a 9.50 per cent basis. The Provincial and Municipal bond markets became severely depressed. The spending of these governments was being sharply restricted by impairment of their normal access to the capital market. At the same time the volume of new mortgage loan commitments declined significantly when interest rates on highest quality residential mortgages reached 10 1/2 per cent. It was only in the last two months of the year that we began to witness a drop in the yield on long-term government bonds and that rates on mortgages declined fractionally.

The policy of restraint undertaken by the Government to de-escalate the pace of cost-push inflation had certain positive effects on the economy. The over-all average price increase for the year 1970 was reduced to an encouraging 3.3 per cent, the smallest rise since 1964, and considerably less than the rate of inflation in the United States.

Many factors contributed to this de-acceleration of price increases. The economy in general was less buoyant; there was less industrial capital investment; corporate profits were lower; the Price and Incomes Commission exerted good influence upon our population to show more moderation; and the volume of retail sales was not spectacular.

This same restrictive monetary and fiscal policy followed by the authorities to check excessively high prices and wage increases had an unfortunate, concomitant, disastrous effect on employment throughout Canada. In December unemployment rose to 6.6 per cent. The economy had lost much momentum and it was in danger of drifting to perilously dangerous levels unless some positive action was put in force.

Toward the end of the year the Government in Ottawa turned to a precipitate modification of economic policy and set its course upon a more expansionary monetary programme to combat unacceptable, mounting unemployment. Federal expenditures were, therefore, lavishly increased. These expenditures included upward revisions in unemployment benefits and multi-million dollar allocations for provincial and municipal projects. These measures, among many others, however, will have to be supported by consumer and business spending to be truly effective.

The spending pattern of the Canadian consumer in 1971 will be a crucial determinant in the course of the economy. Accumulated savings are at a very high level but there is a question as to how much the consumer will spend in view of all the economic and social uncertainty. There is always a built-in psychological deterrent to spending that affects the consumer when unemployment is high and gloomy statistics appear in bold black print in newspapers and periodicals. However, in view of the accumulation of potential demand in many sectors of the economy, and easier money conditions, it is expected that spending on both durable and non-durable goods by consumers will enjoy a fair increase this year. It is the consensus in economic circles that gross national product could rise for a true growth of between 3 and 4 per cent, while the increase in the rate of inflation probably will be between 2 and 2.5 per cent this year.

In our Annual Report last year we commented extensively on the economic and social implications of the White Paper on Taxation. We remarked then that the tax proposals, unless seriously modified, contained by their nature the seeds of future inflation, because they would be a deterrent to savings and capital accumulation in the country. Numerous briefs were submitted to the Joint Parliamentary Committee on Taxation, including a long study prepared by the Trust Companies Association of Canada, and both the Senate and the Commons Committees have now published their reports. We do not know what final legislation will result from the White Paper on Taxation, but we are encouraged by a few of the recommendations contained in the majority report of the Commons Committee, which suggests, among many other changes, a reduction in the proposed increases in tax rates on middle income individuals. It is apparent, however, from the general tenor of the recommendations that the Commons Committee approves many of the basic tenets and postulates of the White Paper and that we will probably have a capital-gains tax, although presumably on less severe terms that were at first suggested. The prolonged discussion on taxation has created much ferment and uncertainty which has inhibited capital investment and worked as an impediment to economic growth. Dynamic economic progress is never achieved in an atmosphere of apprehension, vexation and doubts, and we think that the Government should clear the air and make its true stand on tax-reform known at the earliest possible date.

In November, the Board of Directors of the Sherbrooke Trust was strengthened by the election of four new Directors whom we are very pleased to welcome among us: Lt. Col. Frederick H. Baldwin, E.D.; Mr. Jacques Lemieux, D.Sc.A.; Civil Engineer, Lt. Col. Bertram D. Lyon, E.D.; and Mr. Arthur Simard, Q.C.

Mr. Baldwin is a chartered insurance broker and President of Baldwin & Fuller, Inc. Prominent in civic affairs, he is a Governor of the Sherbrooke Hospital.

Mr. Jacques Lemieux, a well-known civil engineer, is a member of the firm Lemieux, Carignan, Royer and Associates. A trustee and member of the Corporation of the University of Sherbrooke, he was the first Dean of its Faculty of Sciences.

Mr. Bertram D. Lyon is President of Sherbrooke News Co. Inc. and a Director of Sherbrooke Pure Milk Co. Ltd. He has also long been associated with the Sherbrooke Hospital.

Mr. Arthur Simard, Q.C., a prominent financier and industrialist, is Chairman of the Board of Trust General du Canada; Marine Industries Ltd. and Reynolds Aluminum of Canada Ltd. He is also a director of many other Canadian and U.S. companies.

The past year has been an exceedingly active one for your Company, and our officers and personnel responded brilliantly to the daily challenges. It is again my pleasure, on behalf of your Board of Directors, to thank and congratulate all the members of our Staff for their year of solid achievement."

MRS. KENNETH MACRAE
of Toronto, Ont.,
formerly of Richmond, Que.
Friends were grieved to hear of the passing of Mrs. Kenneth MacRae (Ethel Mary Rose) of Whitby and Toronto, Ont., a former well known and highly esteemed resident of Richmond for a number of years, and wife of a prominent Richmond businessman, Kenneth MacRae.

Mrs. MacRae passed away on Tuesday, March 2, 1971, in her 98th year, after an illness of short duration. She was taken suddenly ill at the home of her son and was removed at once to the Whitby Hospital where she was a patient for about three weeks, after which she was taken to the Altamont Nursing Home, West Hill, Ont., where she passed away.

Mrs. MacRae was born in Whitby, Ont., in 1873, daughter of the late Mr. Caleb Rose and his wife the late Agnes Stein. As a young lady she came to Richmond with her parents in 1893 where they made their home. The family were members of Chalmers Presbyterian Church and the deceased sang in the choir there for many years during the pastorate of Rev. Dr. Kellock. She was the last surviving member of the choir.

She was united in marriage to Mr. Kenneth MacRae in 1896 and of this union a daughter and a son were born.

After the death of her husband in 1916, she, with her two children, moved to Toronto in 1918 to reside.

A number of years later her daughter Hazel was married to Mr. W. M. Pringle of Whitby, Ont., and Mrs. MacRae left to make her home with her daughter and son-in-law where she spent several years, after which she returned to the home of her son Andrew Stein MacRae at Toronto after the passing of his wife, remaining there up until the time of her passing. She was a frequent visitor to Richmond and Melbourne where she had many friends and was always interested in the welfare of the community.

She is survived by her daughter, Mrs. W. M. Pringle of Whitby, son Andrew Stein, Toronto, Ont., two grandchildren Sharon, Mrs. John Hill and Mr. Hill, and a grandson Kenneth MacRae, Toronto. She was predeceased by her husband, three sisters, four brothers and other relatives. She was the last surviving member of her family.

The remains rested at the Sherinnis Funeral Home, Toronto, until they were conveyed to Richmond by train on Friday, March 5, to the W. A. Storie Funeral Home, Gouin Ave., where they rested.

On Sunday afternoon, March 7, at 2:00 p.m. a service was held at the Funeral Home, Rev. J. VanderWal, minister of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Upper Melbourne, conducted the service and spoke comforting words to the family. Plans for service to be held in St. Andrew's Church was cancelled on account of the stormy weather. Mrs. Pringle and brother Mr. MacRae accompanied the body to Richmond.

The bearers were Wilton Pope, Austin Graham, Fraser Converse, Walter Coles, Gordon McKeage and Charles Abercrombie.

Interment took place in St. Anne's Cemetery, Richmond, beside her husband, Rev. VanderWal officiated at the committal service.

SUNDAY SERMON SUBJECT
FOR MARCH 28, 1971

The effect of one's thinking on his daily experience will be brought out in a Lesson-Sermon on "Reality" to be heard at all Christian Science church services this Sunday. "Hold thought steadily to the enduring, the good, and the true, and you will bring these into your experience proportionably to their occupancy of your thoughts," states a citation to be read from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy. Bible selections include this verse from Philippians: "Finally, brethren, whatever things are true, whatever things are honest, whatever things are just, whatever things are pure, whatever things are lovely, whatever things are of good report; if there be any virtue and if there be any praise, think on these things."

SUTTON — The annual meeting of the Sutton Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. Howard Bower, Thursday evening, March 11, with Mrs. R. Phelps and Mrs. G. F. Knights assisting Mrs. Bower.

Owing to the illness of the president, Mrs. Knights, the first vice-president, Mrs. Lillian Miltimore, was in charge of the meeting which was opened by all repeating the Collect and the singing of the Opening Ode and O Canada with Mrs. Bower at the piano.

Mrs. Miltimore welcomed the fifteen members present, also expressed thanks to Mrs. Russell for opening her home for the sale of remnants which was a success, a special thanks to Miss Marjorie Thompson who so kindly typed the programs to go to the printer's office, also for auditing the treasurer's books. The minutes were read and approved.

The motto for the month was "We believe in the hands that work, in the minds that think, in the hearts that love."

The correspondence was a nice letter from the president and a letter from Save the Children Fund.

The annual reports: Agriculture — Mrs. H. Lahue — Make and wear a corsage of vegetables. Demonstration on flower arrangements, sale of vegetables, new kind of tomatoes and corn. Flowers planted in front of Town Hall and in planter near the Post Office. Members attended the agricultural show at Place Bonaventure, Montreal.

Mining in Quebec-Citizenship — Mrs. R. Phelps and Mrs. Thos. Surtees and was read by Mrs. Surtees. In the light of the many earth shaking events which are taking place today this report of Citizenship will probably seem very trivial but in our own small way we hope that we have perhaps been able to scatter a little sunshine into a few people's otherwise dull days and in so doing have perhaps become better citizens ourselves. The following is an account of some of the activities for the year 1969-70.

In June this Branch was honored by the nomination of Mrs. J. Walter Westover as 1st vice-president of the Province. Sutton also had the honor of receiving 3rd prize in the play contest with an original skit written by one of the members.

In July the Institute entertained the Senior Citizens of the town which proved to be a very successful event and many tales of bygone days were enjoyed.

In November all contributed to the Poppy Fund and a wreath was laid at the cenotaph on Remembrance Day.

In December the president spoke with great feeling as she brought home to the members the line meaning of the words spoken at the opening service at each meeting.

Gifts were brought in for Cheer boxes at the Elementary School and a minute silence was observed for the safe deliverance of Ambassador Cross from the FLQ.

At other meetings articles have been read in connection with our Country's affairs as well as others in connection with good citizenship. Through the inspiration of Mrs. Carr and with the help of others a very cheery Christmas tree adorned the parking lot on Main Street.

It is with sorrow that the Branch lost a faithful and long standing member in the person of Mrs. Johanna Prentice. On the brighter side they were fortunate in welcoming a new member. Pennies are collected regularly for friendship and donations made to UNICEF.

Do you not all feel that we could do a great deal towards the anti-pollution cause if we made a start using more soap with the aid of washing soda in our machines and we might be surprised how clean our dishes will come with a good old bar of Ivory Soap. Our parents managed to keep us clean and shining with yellow soap and maybe a bit more elbow grease, but at least we could all go swimming in the brook.

Education — Mrs. H. H. Woodard — Education month was June, the outstanding feature of the year a chartered bus trip to Macdonald College to attend the Provincial Convention. The response of the members and their friends in the profitable day spent.

At one of the meetings Mr. Roy Seaman was the guest, he explained the courses available at the Regional School for adults and young people, also if there were enough interested in the various courses it might be advisable to have them given in the different communities. He stressed the need for continuing education, continual learning is a social responsibility as well as being good for our peace of mind.

The responsibility concerning the future of our organization, our community and our nation rests on the shoulders of each one of us.

Community Library was sponsored, also the travelling library made use of. Prizes were given in the Elementary School.

Bulletins received from the Department of Education Home Economics, Mrs. O. H. Baker and read by Mrs. Woodard. Demonstrations by Madame Benoit who gave a talk on Lamb and How to Cook It, besides answering several interesting questions asked by the members.

A demonstration was also held on the Art of Drying and Painting Weeds and Flowers and making winter bouquets. Many members have displayed quilts, rugs, smoking, knitting, crocheting and other handicrafts. Entertained Senior Citizens of Sutton at an afternoon tea and entertainment, a demonstration on the art of decorating cakes was much enjoyed. This branch has also had a membership in CAC.

Welfare and Health — Mrs. M. Vincent, read by Mrs. Russell — several articles were handed in for Cheer Boxes. Roll Call Name a Medical Discovery of Importance, donations to hot lunches for a child in school. Refreshments served at a Blood

Donors Clinic. Talk by Mrs. George Duval RN on First Aid in Our Homes. Literature Papers read by a convener, knitting for Red Cross, Mrs. James Flanagan, 23 pairs of socks, 1 pullover sweater.

Publicity — Mrs. Miltimore and Miss Flanagan, read by Mrs. Miltimore. All meetings published in newspapers, also to County Convener. Members are receiving the Macdonald Journal. Delegates attended County meetings and Provincial Convention with several other members of the Branch. Roll Call Name a County official or convener. Motto A Man's True Wealth is the good he does in this World. Federated news items were used at meetings. Attended the 60th anniversary of Dunham WI. Christmas tree put in planter at parking lot, also have a copy on How to Handle Publicity.

Treasurer's report by Mrs. D. Mudgett — Receipts were from collections, memberships, donations, cloth and ribbon sales, prize money, pooling of fares, auction sales, blood donors clinic, a total of $285.18, balance on hand at beginning of year $141.41 total $426.59.

Disbursements were for County dues, county projects, delegates to Macdonald College, picnic table, hot lunch program, Quebec extension Fund, Pennies for friendship, CAC subscription, programs for 1969-70, gifts for guest speakers, sick members and to a new baby, cards and postage, tucking on Ditty Bags, a total of $277.12 leaving a balance of $149.47 to start the year 1970-71.

Secretary report by Mrs. Russell — 10 meetings had been held with an average attendance of 19 members and 69 visitors entertained during the year. The two bus trips and entertaining the Senior Citizens were the highlights, nine Get Well Cards, two Birthday cards, three Sympathy cards and 15 letters were sent out, the surprise parcels at each meeting were enjoyed by all.

Mrs. Russell expressed her personal thanks to the outgoing officers for their splendid work and help during the past year and wished the new officers and their conveners all the best for their term of office. It was moved by Mrs. Westover and seconded by Mrs. Horn that these reports be accepted as read. Carried. Get Well cards were sent to Mrs. Hops of Austin, Mrs. Knights and Mrs. Phelps of Sutton.

Mrs. Westover took the chair for the election of officers which was presented by Mrs. L. Cooke and are as follows: Past President—Mrs. G. F. Knights; President—Mrs. Lillian Miltimore; 1st Vice-president—Mrs. H. H. Woodard; 2nd Vice-president—Mrs. Walter Horn; Secretary—Mrs. Bernice Russell; Treasurer—Mrs. Douglas Mudgett.

Mrs. Westover thanked the out-going officers for their good work done in the past and wished the new officers their help and conveners for the coming year a happy and enjoyable term together.

Mrs. Miltimore then took the chair as president and named the following conveners for the year: Agriculture—Mrs. Harley Lahue; Citizenship—Mrs. R. Phelps and Mrs. Thos. Surtees; Education—Mrs. Walter Horn; Home Economics—Mrs. O. H. Baker; Welfare and Health—Mrs. Myrtle Vincent; Publicity—Mrs. Lyle Bresee; Red Cross—Mrs. James Flanagan; Greeting cards—Mrs. Bernice Russell.

Mrs. Miltimore thanked the members for choosing her as their president and asked for the same cooperation as had been given in the past. Mrs. Cecil Carr gave an interesting report on the books she had purchased for the Sutton Library and will purchase more later on from the Branch Fund, name plates will be put on each book.

The first week in June will be the Poster Contest and this branch has given $25 towards the prizes.

Delegates to the County Convention on May 12 will be Mrs. Cecil Carr and to the Provincial Convention at Macdonald College will be Mrs. Lillian Miltimore.

The County President will be Hilda Hill, South Bolton, and she will make her official visit at the April meeting at the home of Mrs. James Flanagan with Mrs. O. H. Baker assisting.

DR. LAWRENCE E. LAMB

He Follows Lord Gladstone

War Vet, 86, Likes to Walk

Dear Dr. Lamb—Your column, Walking Is Help in Losing Weight, intrigued me. I am a veteran of many wars, totally disabled, almost blind, cannot drive, but I walk five miles a day.

Many years ago I walked the greater part of England. One day in the estate of the great Lord Gladstone, I was walking through the Sherwood Forest of Robin Hood fame and happened to hear an interview by a newsman. "Gladstone, at your age, 84, to what do you attribute your physical appearance?" Gladstone replied, "I eat only when I am hungry, I chew every bite 42 times, then I go out and chop down a tree."

I adopted this and a few think again of just what old age can mean. Your interest and activity points out how much fun the later years can be. Many people lead very active lives in later years. As a matter of fact, oldest-lived American, Sylvester Magee, was well at the age of 129 years. He also fathered a child at age 109.

Recently, a friend of mine, Dr. Crawford Adams of Nashville, reminded me of Thomas Parr who died in England in 1635 when he was 152 years old. Parr fell in love again at the age of 102, fathered a child and at age 120 he married for a second time. He still labored vigorously past the age of 130. He lived a simple life and worked regularly. In his last years, because of the fame his age brought him, he was years later in Nova Scotia I chopped down trees for winter fuel. The 42 times stayed with me and 15 years later, a doctor in New York advocated this and it became known as Fletcherizing. Today I still masticate my food.

My diet may interest you. For 30 years in the Far East I lived as the natives lived. Today, I live as they lived. Fish, fowl, vegetables of variety, little meat, lamb when spring, I walk as I did in England 70 years ago, in Japan in 1908, in Hong Kong and in China. Your name, Lawrence, brings memories. I knew Lawrence of Arabia, and at 86 I salute you.

Dear Reader—Thank you for an interesting letter.

Despite some of your problems, your letter makes me give a greater abundance in life and was free of work, which may well have something to do with my demise at age 152. We have a lot to learn yet about how long a healthy life can be maintained.

Dear Dr. Lamb—I was delighted to read that you approve of bicycling wholeheartedly. I would like to know, however, if bicycling can cause prostate problems.

Dear Reader—I hope not. I ride mine almost every day.

Dear Ann Landers: I am a mature 20-year-old who is in love with a 25-year-old man. My problem consists mainly of the past — both mine and his. I was going with a fellow my parents thought the world

The President thanked all who had helped with the World Day of Prayer Service.

Our next meeting will be on April 22, instead of 21, with Mr. Jack Garneau Jr. as Guest Speaker.

The Easter theme was used for the devotional, emphasizing The Resurrection. A poem, Eternal Spring, readings and prayer were taken from Church Bulletins. All joined in singing the hymn, The Day of Resurrection. This being one of the many Greek hymns translated by John Mason Neale 1818-1886 noting the great contribution he made to English speaking Christendom. It being March 17, with due homage to the patron saint of Ireland, the programme took on an Irish air.

In leading through the book, Hymns of the Church, companion to the United Church Hymnary, reference was made to Cecil Francis Alexander, the gifted Irish hymn writer and poetess. One example of her work could be the Apostles Creed being the basis for some of her beautiful hymns, thinking that through them, the young might learn the faith of the church.

Selections were played from Festival Folkmass by the Island City Singers. A modern version of the Lord's Prayer and Kumbaya.

A hymn from the new Hymnary was introduced, played and sung, namely Joyful, Joyful We Adore Thee. A poem Poetry of the People by Helen Penner was read. A musical quiz was to guess the Irish names in a few bars of music. By the number of fast correct answers, Irish music is still popular. A medley of Irish songs with everyone joining in the chorus. I'll take you home again Kathleen and Mickey Brannigan's Pup were solos by Mrs. Phillips.

Mrs. C. Phillips was in charge of and prepared the devotional and programme. Helpers were Mrs. Herbert Lassenba and Mrs. Lloyd Morrison. Pianist, Mrs. Douglas Mackay.

Supper was served to the members and a number of visitors by the hostesses Mrs. Clinton Smith, Mrs. Louise Dempsey and Mrs. Alice Wilson.

Atlantic 71

A great new way to Germany. Every day.

To get down to the real nitty-gritty, Atlantic 71 is obviously a convenient way to get to Germany.

We go there direct, every day, at a convenient time. We leave Montreal at 7:50 every evening to arrive in Frankfurt first thing the next morning.

But, there are other airlines that are convenient too. So it seems to us that we should be more than "just" convenient.

And that's what Atlantic 71 is all about. An all-out effort from all of us at Air Canada to make your flight exceptional. In comfort, care, convenience. With 747 service direct to Germany from July 6.

RETURN

29-45 day Economy Excursion return from April 1-May 31. Subject to Government approval.

Atlantic 71. You. And your travel agent.

From now on, he's an Atlantic 71 Information Centre. A goldmine of information and friendly tips. Ask him for our special tours, brochures and routings. And look for the Atlantic 71 symbol in his window.

We've eliminated the "where do I check in?" question.

Just look for the arrows identifying the Atlantic 71 check-in counter; you can't miss it. From there, our easily identified (and specially trained) Atlantic 71 people will smooth your way through tickets, baggage and boarding.

The people who'll look after you for Atlantic 71.

The tops. Because our most experienced people will fly Atlantic 71 this year. And by "experienced" we mean more than the way they mix martinis.

It's little things like recognizing (and overcoming) a first-fighter's shyness, the pillow that appears just as you're nodding off, the hair-of-the-dog for the over-hung, the reassuring word to the grandmother returning home after 40 years. These girls know their business and their business is you. Look for them in their sassy new pant-suits and for the striking Atlantic 71 insignia.

Preboarding: women and children first!

If you're travelling with kids, just let us know in advance and we'll meet you and assist in settling you and your brood comfortably ahead of adult passengers. Same goes for elderly passengers, of course.

We speak your language.

There's always someone on board who speaks the language of the destination.

And now, for the finer things of flying Atlantic 71.

Here's where all the expertise of Atlantic 71's executive chef comes into play. He's travelled the world to select menus specially for this year, from hearty breakfasts to truly gourmet dinners. And a wine selection that would delight and surprise even the most discerning "grape-buff".

To sleep or not to sleep.

After dinner there's always something doing! Your stewardess will turn on a whole library of newspapers and magazines, for starters. Life, Look, Reader's Digest, Playboy, Punch, Actualite, Der Spiegel.

And writing materials, post-cards, stationery, games people like to play. Challenge your neighbour to cards, bridge, cribbage, checkers or chess! Mind you, if you'd rather snooze away your spare time—pillows and blankets coming up!

We'll keep the kids busy too.

European holidays are great fun for kids, but let's face it—6 hours or more in a plane isn't always so. If eating "real neat" meals and drinking free soft drinks can't keep your youngster down—we'll turn on story-books, comics, games, and toys!

Maybe they can even meet the Captain, how's that? For babies, tuck them away in our safe 'n' snug sky cots. For diapers, baby food, bottles, bibs and baby paraphernalia—just ask your stewardesses (it'll save you packing them and you can pick up what you need in Europe).

Atlantic 71-fares that actually challenge charter.

Talking about kids (and you can work this out with your travel agent)—our new 29-45 day fares could possibly be cheaper than charter if you're flying with children under 12, and give you more freedom with departure times.

Atlantic 71 know how.

25 years of European experience have gone into the making of Atlantic 71 that's how long we've been flying from more places in Canada to more places in Europe than any other airline. So we're bound to know more about the Europe you want to know—ask your travel agent about our four packages! To London, Glasgow, Shannon, Paris, Frankfurt, Vienna, Zurich, Copenhagen, Moscow, Brussels and Prague with great connections to anywhere else.

AIR CANADA Come see what you've been missing.

Lost a button? 5 o'clock shadow?

Now you needn't pack a special toiletries bag just to freshen up before landing. Every Atlantic 71 flight carries individual personal effects—electric shavers, toothbrushes and paste, cologne, lotions, sewing kits, aspirin, you name it—and you'll get it. Pronto.

Even in Europe, there's Atlantic 71 help nearby.

In 24 cities throughout Europe, you'll find our special Visitors Bureaux. Just look for the Atlantic 71 symbol. Use it as a rendezvous point. Headquarters. To hold overseas mail. For hotel accommodation. Theatre tickets. Advice on shops. To contact English-speaking doctors or dentists. We're always there to help in any way we can.

Atlantic 71 in a nutshell.

It is a great new way to enjoy your transatlantic flight as much as your holiday in Europe! Because we think your holiday should begin when you get on your plane—not when you get off in Europe. So we've mentioned a few new Atlantic 71 features and there's more coming. Watch this space.

Social notes from Bedford

Mrs. Elizabeth Wright, Elizabeth Street, is a patient in Hospital Lagace.

The banns of marriage were published on Sunday in St. Damien's Church by the Rev. Father Despars between Roger Messier of St. Damien's parish, Bedford, son of J. Messier, Pierrefonds, and Miss Diane Chabot, St. Armand. This was the final time of asking.

The weekly meeting of the St. James Church Bridge Club was held on Wednesday afternoon, with Mrs. Richard Craighead as hostess, the prize for the highest score went to Mrs. H. P. Stone. The next meeting will be at the home of Mrs. W. B. Bradshaw.

The death took place on March 13th of an elderly resident of Bedford, Mr. Omer Fournier, who died at the age of eighty-one. A former resident of Pike River, Mr. Fournier had been a resident of Bedford for the past fifteen years living with his daughter, Mrs. Andre Poirier and Mr. Poirier at 123 Bridge Street. His wife died thirty years ago, leaving a family of ten children, seven daughters and three sons, which he brought up unaided. Two daughters live in California, while one is a member of the Sisters of St. Joseph. The funeral was held at ten o'clock on Wednesday morning for the Dion Funeral Home, to St. Damien's Church, the Rev. Father Despars officiating at the funeral mass. Interment was in the parish of St. Pierre de Veronn (Pike River).

The death took place on March 3rd of Mr. Alde Boudreau. The funeral was held on Friday at ten o'clock from the Dion Funeral Home to St. Damien's Church, the Rev. Father Despars conducting the funeral mass. Mr. Boudreau worked for many years on road maintenance for the CPR being stationed for some years in Sutton. On his retirement he came to Bedford to live. In addition to his wife he is survived by two daughters Mrs. Maurice Brouillette, Bedford, and Mrs. J. Cantin, Farnham. His only son died some years ago. Interment was in the Bedford Catholic Cemetery.

Miss Shirley Saurette has returned from Cowansville, where she underwent surgery, in the B.M.P. Hospital, her mother, Mrs. Georgianna Surette is a patient in Hospital Lagace.

Rev. Sister Charlotte Dery of the Sisters of St. Joseph stationed at Beloeil has been visiting her sister Miss Cecile Dery, who is a patient in Hospital Lagace, suffering from a stroke.

Mr. Eden Muir, Ste. Anne de Bellevue was the guest for the weekend of his parents Mr. and Mrs. Greig Muir.

Birthday party

SOUTH BOLTON — On March 12, Mrs. John M. Cameron celebrated her 87th birthday at her home.

On Sunday afternoon, March 14, all her children, two daughters, two sons, grandchildren, great-grandchildren gathered together to help her celebrate. She received nearly 100 cards and gifts of jewelry and flowers.

One gift of importance was a ring presented to her by her son, Albert, on behalf of the immediate family. Mrs. Cameron received many phone calls, one from Pennsylvania.

Lunch was served by the ladies, including a birthday cake made and decorated by her daughter Margaret.

Mrs. Cameron is well remembered for her cheerful manner and kind hospitality. She loves to have company and her door is always open to friends, near and far. One place she is greatly missed is at the organ in Holy Trinity Church, South Bolton, where she always played on Sunday.

Unfortunately she broke her ankle a few years ago and is now confined to her home, and is in a wheel chair.

Friends of Mrs. Gordon Bailey will be sorry to hear she is a patient in the Sherbrooke Hospital, where she underwent surgery on Wednesday, March 24.

JACOBY ON BRIDGE

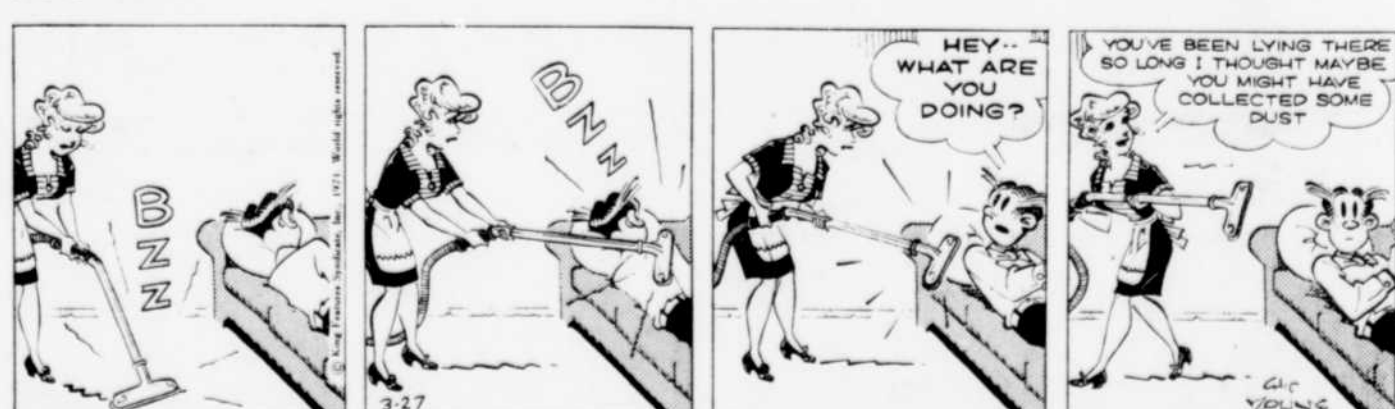

Everything will also be fine. However, if West plays low without study, the chances are the near expert will play dummy's jack. The defense will wind up with two hearts and three spades.
The expert goes at the hand in slightly different style. At tricks two and three he plays dummy's ace and king of clubs. East drops the 10 on the second club and now the expert continues with the three of clubs, plays his jack of clubs and makes his ninth trick with the nine spot.
What would the expert do if that 10 of clubs didn't drop? He would try to make the ninth trick in hearts, just as the near expert did.

L'Avenir

Friends here regret the death of Mrs. W. H. Richmond of the Wales Home, formerly of South Durham.

A Break in the Action

with SCOTT ABBOTT

Room at the top

With 10 days left in the 1970-71 National Hockey League season, the Boston Bruins and Chicago Black Hawks have had first place in their respective East and West Divisions wrapped up for almost a week. The only wonder is that they didn't do it sooner.

The Bruins earned the Prince of Wales Trophy — their first since Milt Schmidt and Cooney Weiland and the 1940-41 season — by being the best team in the NHL by a sizable margin. The Black Hawks won the Clarence S. Campbell Bowl — what do the winners sip from it, champagne or cream of asparagus? — by playing in the same division with 1967's expansion teams. If they were still in the East, they'd be battling fiercely with the New York Rangers for second place and a reprieve from meeting the Bruins in the opening round of the Stanley Cup playoffs.

That unhappy prospect faces the Montreal Canadiens. Still, it's better than fifth. The money is more — certainly enough to offset the loss of a week of the off-season.

That's all the Habs will miss, unless their goaltending improves phenomenally between now and the time the Stanley Cup Playoff Series "A" opens in Boston Garden Tuesday night, April 6.

What Ronnie Racette of the Sherbrooke Beavers of the Quebec Junior "A" Hockey League has said of his league's current playoffs — "There are enough good goaltenders around that anybody could win" — is true of the NHL, too.

Rogation Vachon, when he chooses not to be, is not a good goaltender.

There are indications that Vachon is experiencing the same late season tiredness this year that he felt last season when his third period snoozes cost the Canadiens a playoff berth. The team may have been crippled by injuries, but the fact remains that they lost fourth place to the Rangers in the goals-for column.

Make one tie anytime during the season a win or a one-goal loss a tie, and Montreal would have been in the playoffs yet again. What Vachon did was snatch third period snoozes that made one-goal wins ties and ties one-goal losses.

The Canadiens had Wednesday night's game against the Philadelphia Flyers when Vachon surrendered a couple of weak goals. Granted, Vachon may have been as aware as anyone that the game itself was an anticlimax to Jean Beliveau Night, but he should also be aware that it was games that were already won that cost the Canadiens a 1970 Stanley Cup shot.

Hardly this year

This is not to say that the team is in danger of missing a post-season activity again this year. Their third place finish is assured. But once bad habits of that type are started, they are difficult to break.

Last year Vachon was tired because rookie Phil Myre was deemed unable to carry the netminding burden under pressure after Gump Worsley went to the Minnesota North Stars. This year sophomore Myre, who was going to assume fulltime responsibilities to preclude the situation repeating itself, has played half as much as Vachon.

Now that their regular season disposition is determined the team should give Myre something to do between now and the end of the schedule.

There was a time — long ago, it seems — when the Canadiens were working for a collection of individual trophies at this time of year — the Vezina for Jacques Plante, the Art Ross Memorial for Jean Beliveau, the James Norris Memorial for Doug Harvey — but now they must look to the playoffs. And how familiar that is — coming from someone else. Punch Imlach of the third place Toronto Maple Leafs, sitting back, oblivious of the Canadiens' Prince of Wales prize, saying, "We're just thinking about the playoffs."

And they thought about them enough to take the Stanley Cup four years out of six between 1962 and 1967 when they finished first the grand total of once.

The Canadiens are unlikely to do as well. The Bruins have too much. And if the Habs do, by some unforeseen series of circumstances, manage to get past the Boston squad in the quarterfinals, who will be waiting in the next round but the Chicago Black Hawks — providing, of course, they eliminate the North Stars or whomever else they might conceivably play.

Any team that managed to survive best-of-seven series with both the Bruins and the Black Hawks would be more than softened up for the Rangers in the final.

A Stanley Cup in Montreal in 1971? Sure, if they ship it through here from the Hall of Fame in Toronto on its way to Boston.

Athlete's footnotes

The Beavers-CJRS Fan Club is planning a night in honor of star Normand Dube at the New Sherbrooke Hotel April 17. The affair will take the form of a dance featuring the presence of all the Beavers, not just the guest of honor. Serge Martel, director of sports for the radio station which has co-sponsored the fan club all season, says that Dube will be the recipient of gifts and mementos from Sherbrooke businessmen. It will be the latest in a string of honors for Sherbrooke's 1971 Sportsman of the Year.

The Sherbrooke Arena and Sports Palace will be the venues next weekend of the 1971 Quebec Minor Hockey Association championship playoffs. It will mark the third consecutive year the tournament has been held in this city, which speaks well for both facilities available and the hospitality of the people who put up — and with — the young hockey players.

The Sports Palace will play host to the Sherbrooke Auto-Expos April 16-18. The exhibition will have on display a wide variety of cars from conventional to extraordinary.

Germain Desourdy, general manager of Bromont Inc. has announced that Gilles Rousseau has been engaged as club professional at the Bromont Golf Club for another year. It will be his fourth straight. As assistants, the veteran professional will have Yvan Lecuyer and Bobby Rousseau, the Minnesota right winger who is no mean golfer.

Bob Lebel, QJHL president, is taking in all games in the current Beaver-Drummondville Ranger quarterfinal playoff series. One league executive has been assigned to each of the four series. Why has the president seen fit to view the one featuring the fourth and eighth place clubs? It could conceivably have something to do with the current crackdown on extracurricular activity in the Quebec league. It's no secret that the Beavers have a reputation as one of the rougher clubs in the circuit.

At GMIAA titlists

Pipers hope to get second shot

MONTREAL (SA) —

Alexander Galt Regional High School basketball Pipers meet John Grant High School of Montreal at Loyola College tonight in an opening round game of a four-team tournament that coach Wayne Nugent hopes will provide his club ranks higher in the province than recent results might indicate.

"We want to forget the Visser and prove we've got a good ballclub," Nugent says.

The favored Pipers dropped a 66-53 decision to Massey-Vanier Regional High School of Bedford in the title game of the annual Visser Trophy Playdowns in Lennoxville last weekend.

MVRHS and Alexander Galt, the top two teams in the tournament, were both meant to be at Loyola to compete against Rosemere High School, the Greater Montreal Interscholastic Athletic Association champions for 1970-71, and John Grant, ranked number two on the island despite not making it to the GMIAA final. Rosemere beat John Rennie High School of Pointe Claire 75-74 in the title contest.

Massey-Vanier, however, is hosting a zone playoff today and tomorrow to decide their regional berth in a provincial tournament next week in Three Rivers.

College Brebeuf, the top-rated CEJEP squad in Montreal, is filling the fourth spot in the Loyola tournament. They meet Rosemere tonight with the winners clashing tomorrow at 3 p.m. after the losers play the consolation final at 1 p.m.

"The boys are ready. They want a shot at Rosemere," says coach Nugent. The Pipers held as much as a nine-point lead on the Rosemere cagers at the Silverball Tournament in Hull.

Sweden, Russia clash

BERN, Switzerland (CP) — West Germany clobbered the United States 7-2 at the world hockey championships Thursday in a battle of the tail-enders.

Meanwhile, the unbeaten Russian and Swedish teams and thousands of ardent fans braced themselves for today's key clash between the leaders in the six-team double-round-robin tournament.

The Czechoslovakian and Finnish squads also play today. Then the teams move to Geneva for the final round of the tournament.

West Germany's victory was its first. After five matches, the U.S. and West Germany are tied at two points. The U.S. officially is last because of its loss to the team with which it is tied.

last month before bowing 53-41.

Before getting at Rosemere, however, the AGRHS squad must overcome a John Grant aggregation led by Al Borrie. "He's 6'9" and still growing," says Nugent. "He'll be 6'11" by the time the game starts."

Piper Albert Gass, 6'3", will be guarding Borrie. "Albert hasn't said much," reports Nugent. "He's been very quiet."

JUNIORS IN ACTION

Junior Piper coach Don Caldwell takes his charges to West Hill High School today for a game with the team that lost the Montreal championship to Loyola High School 49-40 in the final game.

"I thought they might win the whole thing," says Caldwell of the West Hill hoopers. "But I picked the wrong team."

"They're very strong though. They zone press a lot. That's what we've been working on lately."

The junior contest starts at 4 p.m.

MVRHS five hosts

COWANSVILLE (TS) — The newly crowned Visser Trophy champions, Massey-Vanier High School seniors, return to their basketball wars tomorrow, but in the words of coach Bill Busted, "everything is now just an anticlimax."

After conquering the highly-favored Alexander Galt Regional High School five last weekend, the locals' action now consists of taking part in the seven team Richelieu Association of Scholastic Sports Tournament. MVRHS is the host of this year's event — both boys' and girls' — which is slated to get underway at 9 a.m.

Among the teams participating are a couple which Busted feels will provide sufficient competition for his sky-high charges. These figure to be a club under the name of Honore Mercier and Howard S. Billings High School, which represents Chateauguay. The remaining schools are Chambly, County High School, Richelieu Valley, Regional High School, Lignery and Youville.

"Billings won this tournament last year, so naturally we figure them as one of the favorites," revealed Busted. "And the team they beat in the finals was Honore Mercier, so they're a good bet too," he added.

"As for ourselves, I think we have to be rated as a co-favorite," the coach offered in a burst of understatement. "We're still riding high after last weekend, of course, but the thing which impressed me is the fact that we managed to cut our turnovers from 35 to eight in that final game against Galt. This, along with our shooting made the difference."

Perhaps the finest indication of the locals' chances this weekend, however, is a piece of information offered by Busted. "In last year's tournament, we used only our second-string seniors and junior players and only lost by a point. We really don't fix that much importance on this tournament."

GIRLS GO

The Massey-Vanier senior girls are in the same position as the males in respect to a favorites' role. Their opposition provided by five other schools, namely Youville, Chambly, Lemoyne, Honore Mercier and Lignery, should be far too little to derail the powerful MVRHS senior squad.

Ski Club

MAGOG (CC) — The Mt. Orford Ski Club will get a financial boost this weekend when proceeds from the annual Cherbourg Classic are turned over to the association. The Cherbourg races, open to members of the club, are for fun but have a fine selection of trophies and other prizes awaiting the winners.

Claude Richer, President of the Cherbourg Hotel in Cherry River, sponsors of the event, outlined the Saturday races, which will be organized and managed by the Mt. Orford Ski School. After the races, those participating will attend a prize-giving party at the new hotel and lodge in Cherry River. The affair is scheduled to start at 5 p.m.

There's a new twist to apres-ski-life at Cherry River's new Cherbourg Hotel where skiers get together Wednesdays from 6 till 9 p.m. for a "ski bum party." Actually, it's a good name for a regular event that will attract the slab-sliders who like each other's company and, besides a good meal, the event holds in store sing-songs, folk music, and the like.

The idea for a ski bum party comes from Claude Richer, who with his wife spent a week touring New England ski centres. According to Claude, this sort of get-together is a big hit at most areas. It should do well here too.

Now that the Nancy Greene Little League schedule is ended in this region and Orford's Red Team picked up the championship, the squad's coach, Claude Tremblay, has decided to do something really big for the small racers. He has scheduled an invitation race for all boys and girls who were in the league this winter. They'll run on Saturday, April 3, at Orford, starting at 11 a.m. Claude has lined up a tremendous range of prizes, among which is a trophy he is offering the top skier. Anyone wanting information can call Mario Poderiesch at Orford, 843-6548; Claude Tremblay himself at 567-5391; or Pierre Legault in Montreal at 388-3719. Entries close March 30, and the fee per racer is only $1.

Sugarloaf in Maine, announced this week that they'll have special celebrations for Canadians during their spring skiing weeks. Besides specials on various services, they are also scheduling entertainment to appeal to Canadians.

Conditions were anything but ideal for the first day of Spring and the Fourth Annual North American Gelande held at Glen Ellen. Snow and gusty wind caused tremendous apprehension on the part of all the Gelande jumpers. Gelande is the English translation of the German word, Gelandesprung, which means terrain or bump jumping. A large field of competitors from a major portion of the U.S. competed for a total of only two major Gelande competitions in the U.S., holds great importance, particularly among professional instructors and ski patrolmen. For this event a large man-made snow jump was constructed near a steep landing hill, which enabled competitors to gain tremendous height and distance, and to perform exciting acrobatics while flying through the air. Points are awarded about evenly for both style and distance. Some of the more exciting maneuvers performed were the standard Gelande — the tuck position, the spread eagle, the tip drop, the flying edge set, and the Daphne walk.

The Mt. Orford Ski Club will have an end-of-season all-day party Sunday at the ski centre. It will go from opening in the morning and continue all day, featuring activities for all ages.

Frazier takes leave

NEW YORK (AP) — Heavyweight champion Joe Frazier walked into someone else's news conference Thursday night and said:

"It gives me a great pleasure to be here after my funeral." Frazier, who has been in a Philadelphia hospital for 10 days, referred to rumors which had Frazier in serious condition or even dead.

Frazier arrived at a news conference called to announce a fight-of-the-month telecast which will be launched April 24 with a title fight between Ray Anderson and light-heavyweight champion Bob Foster in Tampa, Fla.

Frazier said he drove Anderson from Philadelphia and that he comes and goes from the hospital as he pleases.

"I'm in the hospital to rest," said Frazier. "If I go home, I get calls and everything."

The champion said he will be released officially from the hospital Saturday and added that his blood pressure is normal. Frazier was scheduled to return to the hospital Thursday night.

Earlier in the day, Frazier got a pass from the hospital to go to New York to see his musical group perform.

Frazier received the OK for the 90-mile trip after his doctor, James C. Giuffre, said the champion is recovering from "athlete's kidney."

Frazier, who is the star of a musical group known as The Knockouts, won't perform. He'll just watch. He is scheduled to return to the hospital for final tests before being discharged.

Dr. Giuffre said the ailment is brought on by a combination of physical and psychological pressure which in turn affects the blood pressure.

Dr. Giuffre has been treating Frazier since March 15, seven days after he outpointed Muhammad Ali in 15 rounds in Madison Square Garden.
