INTERESTED — The above picture shows the School officials listening to Dr. Marchesseault, pediatrician at the University medical centre, explain to them how the University medical centre plans to assist the schools in their campaign for better health services to the students and public.

Schools, medical centre to co-operate

SHERBROOKE — (BSL) — The English-speaking schools of the Eastern Townships and Bedford regions will be working in close co-operation with the pediatric department of the Sherbrooke University Medical Centre.

Twenty-five teachers and administrators of both regional school boards were guests at a meeting with nine members of the Medical Centre's pediatric department yesterday morning.

The meeting was held to introduce the schools to the facilities and plans that the Medical Centre is offering for the young. Among the Medical Centre's service will be a clinic offering free assistance to all students referred to it by the schools.

In the process of organization is a team of doctors and a nurse who will take care of all the needs of a family.

They will concentrate their activities on the family as a whole and attempt to solve all their medical and psychiatric problems. Their services are expected to begin early in November and if the group is successful other such groups will be formed.

The pediatric department will also try to assist teachers with drug and sex problems that may occur at the schools.

Present at the meeting from the regional boards were: Mr. J. A. Turpin, nurse Claire Shipway, Sr. Mary Donaher, Dr. Fish, Mr. Harry Brown, Mr. Bob Enright, Mr. and Mrs. Hayward, Dr. Demers, Lois Begin, Mrs. Hazel Rogers, Mr. Mike Sernum, Mr. Joseph Gallagher, Mr. Bruce Taylor, Father Gagnon, Miss Carol Dunn, Mr. John Karpluk, Mr. V. Student demonstrations against Bill 63 resume

SHERBROOKE — (MSL) — Students of the University of Sherbrooke and the Sherbrooke CEGEPs are continuing their protests against the now famous, or infamous, Bill 63 for the fourth consecutive day.

Highlights of the festivities planned for today are a teach-in, a meeting to decide the formalities of Friday's march on Quebec city, a march from the cathedral to the University.

The day's activities were scheduled to start at 11:30 this morning with some 15,000 University, CEGEP and secondary school students scheduled to leave the Cathedral on Marquette street and proceed to the university where a meeting will be held to decide on the formalities of the march on Quebec city tomorrow where they will join an expected 50,000 marchers from throughout the province.

The major event of the day is scheduled to be a teach-in on Bill 63 which the entire population is invited to attend.

A number of people have been personally invited as honored guests, the list including Mayor Armand Nadeau, a teacher from the law faculty at the University, Mr. Robert Lemieux, Mr. Drouin of the St-Jean Baptiste Society, Pierre Bourgeois, Real Fournier and Claude Pichette, professor of economics at U. of S. The students have been requested to invite their parents to the teach-in which will in the opinion of the organizers be an eye opener to the public.

Another activity planned for today is the broadcasting of a television program originating from the University also pertaining to Bill 63. There are also several radio broadcasts planned throughout the day.

After Friday's scheduled march on Quebec city there are no other demonstrations planned. Friday will be the determining factor in the progress of the students protests throughout the week.

Wednesday's events included a meeting at 9 p.m. in the Grande Salle of the University, the distribution of approximately 40,000 pamphlets explaining Bill 63 to the general public of the Eastern Townships, a meeting with Michel Chartrand and a morning session to inform the students on the planned evening recreational activities and a film.

At 9 a.m. yesterday morning the students committee d'action held a general information meeting to tell the students what was going on in the province as far as Bill 63 was concerned, what the activities in Sherbrooke had brought about and what they should do to further show their dismay with Bill 63.

It was proposed at this meeting and accepted by all 1,500 students that the students would deliver a pamphlet to the people of the Eastern Townships explaining the bill and showing them what they thought to be wrong with the bill.

A spokesman at the AGEUS office on the campus said that 40,000 of these pamphlets had been distributed throughout the Townships. The cities where the most pamphlets were distributed are Sherbrooke, Drummondville, Victoriaville, East Angus, Coaticook and Magog.

The second feature of the day's demonstrations occurred when the students of the University received the visit of Michel Chartrand, head of the Montreal section of the CNTU and a top member of the Parti Quebecois. Mr. Chartrand arrived at the University at 10:30 a.m. and met and talked with the students assembled in the Grande Salle for about an hour and then left.

Mr. Chartrand's visit marks the third visit of a top member of the Parti Quebecois to the university in the past three weeks.

The first was the visit of Jacques Parizeau who talked with the students on October 11 at a noon talk-in. Mr. Parizeau is a recent convert to the P.Q. and is an economist.

The second visit was by Dr. Claude Laurin, Monday, who talked with the students in the Grande Salle of the University. Mr. Laurin is a psychiatrist and also a top official in the P.Q.

At five o'clock yesterday another meeting was held to inform the students that recreation would be held in the Grande Salle starting at 8:30 p.m. and would have as performers the cream of Quebec's Chansonniers, Leon Sonneau, Michel Cote, a renowned pianist, and Andre St-Hilaire. After the performers ended their concert a film was shown "Le Spectacle des Chansonniers".

Thieu later commuted the sentences to three years in all.

A communique from the president's office Wednesday said the amnesty was granted to mark South Vietnam's National Day Nov. 1.

Earlier Wednesday the government released 88 Viet Cong guerrillas held prisoner, among them 63 women, in what was called a humanitarian gesture.

Party heads decry activities of teachers in demonstration

QUEBEC (CP) — Premier Jean-Jacques Bertrand Wednesday accused teachers of leading students into the streets to demonstrate against the Quebec government's language legislation.

Mr. Bertrand's indignant attack on teachers was echoed by Opposition Leader Jean Lesage, who said: "Leave the children alone."

The two political leaders raised their voices against teachers in the Quebec national assembly following a brief student demonstration in front of the legislative buildings Wednesday.

Bill 63 is the government's language legislation, aiming to make French the priority language in Quebec while retaining the freedom of parents to choose the language of school instruction—French or English—for their children.

During the question period Emilien Lafrance (L—Richmond) asked the government if it intended "to tolerate passively the boycott of classes in all schools of Quebec during the entire week."

Mr. Bertrand said the government has information that "at the present time it seems that it is the teachers who are leading the groups of students" and the nature of Bill 63 was not being discussed.

The premier said he watched the Wednesday demonstration from his office window overlooking the assembly grounds. "From my office I saw young people walking on the grounds, youths 12 and 13 years old and others who appeared younger. I am convinced these children do not know why they marched on the legislature."

Premier Bertrand invited school boards "to warn the teachers." He said their role is not to organize marches, "especially during class hours."

Minister urges freer information

OTTAWA (CP) — Transport Minister Don Jamieson, a former broadcaster, came down heavily Wednesday in favor of opening the flow of information from government.

Mr. Jamieson, who spoke during the throne speech debate in the Commons, said a more open policy would help eliminate the "enormous amount of mumbo-jumbo" that now goes to the public.

Unnecessary restrictions on information were a factor in confused reports, he said.

Mr. Jamieson spoke as a vote approached on a Creditise non-confidence motion calling on the government to introduce a "plan of guaranteed minimum income" for Canadians.

If an open policy was to be successful, much would depend on the news media, Mr. Jamieson said. The public itself would have to use sound judgment in assessing reports. And MPs would have to point out mistakes rather than endure them in silence.

The government in the throne speech last week promised a discussion in Parliament of information policy, always secretive, in the British tradition of government, in Canada, Mr. Jamieson said it should be the reverse.

The eight-day throne speech debate, which goes into its fourth day today, again dwelt heavily upon inflation.

WANTS DEFERMENT — This was also the focal subject of the question period, in which Opposition Leader Robert Stanfield urged that the government have the steel industry defer price increases until the prices and incomes commission has completed an examination of the reasons for the increases.

Finance Minister Edgar Benson replied that if the government was going to defer price increases, it might also have to defer wage increases. The steel increases followed wage increases.

Later, during the throne speech debate, the Conservative finance critic, Marcel Lambert (Edmonton West), said rising costs, prices, wages and interest levels have created an "inflation psychosis" in which Mr. Benson's policies lacked credibility.

Mr. Lambert repeated the Economic Council of Canada's warning that fiscal and monetary restraints now may not do much to contain inflation and may do actual harm in the future because of a lag effect. Would the effects of Mr. Benson's measures be felt just when they weren't wanted?

NEEDS TO MEET — Mr. Jamieson said the government is trying not only to manage the affairs of the present but to meet a public need for leadership and goals.

"Oriental fatalism" was the description applied by Richard Southam (PC—Qu'Appelle-Moose Mountain) to the government's attitude toward the falling prices and shrinking markets for western wheat.

Mr. Southam reminded the Commons that in the three wheat provinces "whole communities and thousands of families are anticipating bankruptcy."

Farm receipts in Saskatchewan were down nearly 40 per cent from last year, he said.

Montreal protest orderly

MONTREAL (CP) — A crowd of demonstrators estimated unofficially at 12,000 broke up quietly Wednesday night, ending this city's second consecutive mass protest against a provincial government language bill.

On tap for today is more of the same.

The demonstrators had gathered at Lafontaine Park in east-end Montreal for a final rally which followed a giant march from city hall to the Chamber of Commerce building.

The march was highlighted by the burning in effigy of three civic and provincial administrators in front of the Montreal Chamber of Commerce building; Premier Jean-Jacques Bertrand, Justice Minister Remi Paul and Lucien Saulnier, chairman of Montreal city council's executive committee.

From there, the marchers, mostly young people, filed in orderly fashion the two miles to the park. They stayed about half an hour, listening to brief speeches and burning Mr. Bertrand in effigy again.

MORE OF SAME — Protest organizers—representatives of the Front du Quebec Francais—invited the demonstrators to come to another rally scheduled for 7:30 p.m. today.

The demonstration got under way from several points in the city Wednesday night and by the time all the groups converged on city hall for a scheduled demonstration there, the crowd was estimated at close to 25,000.

At one point, a main thoroughfare was packed for 10 blocks.

City hall was prepared. Floodlights covered the building from top to bottom. Police were on hand and so were waist-high steel fences to hold back the crowds.

New threat by Trudeau

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Trudeau warned labor and management Wednesday night to get behind the government's fight against inflation or "we might have to consider new policies, not only in relation to prices and incomes but to taxes and tariffs."

Lack of co-operation could generate higher unemployment, he said.

"When the federal government is deliberately restricting its activities in areas of important economic and social priorities, does it make sense that private enterprise should be expanding its outlays and activities in areas of marginal value to society as a whole?" he asked.

"In such circumstances the government might well have to increase the pressure of restraints on the private sector."

Organized labor "must recognize that the public expects it to be conscious of the interests... of the country at large," as well as its own members.

Mr. Trudeau, addressing the final session of the national tripartite conference on labor relations, said the recent organized labor reservations about the anti-inflation inquiry of the prices and incomes commission "has not, to put it mildly, been encouraging."

SEEK A CONSENSUS — "I trust that this is not the final word from the leaders of organized labor and I believe that the prices and incomes commission will be continuing its efforts to seek a consensus on ways to reduce the rate of increase in prices and incomes in the months immediately ahead."

Notes for the prime minister's address were made available in advance of delivery.

"If the representatives of organized labor, as well as management and governments, do not agree to play their part in this undertaking," Mr. Trudeau said, "they must share responsibility for the consequences which will result, one of which may be increased unemployment."

The prime minister said he agrees with John Kenneth Galbraith, the U.S. economist and author, that the alternatives facing the Canadian government in the fight were wage-price restraint or intolerable unemployment.

Mr. Galbraith spoke to the conference earlier in the week.

WILL SHOW SURPLUS — Mr. Trudeau said the federal government has effectively and substantially restrained its demands on the economy. For the first time in 13 years, the federal budget would show a surplus.

"In our budgetary accounts, we have gone for a deficit of $566,000,000 last year to a surplus in excess of $250,000,000 this year."

"In the national accounts we have moved from a deficit of $67,000,000 to a surplus of over $575,000,000," the prime minister said.

Last year total net borrowing on the capital market exceeded

$1,000,000,000. The government intended to make no net demand on the market in the fiscal year ending March 31.

The government had directed government departments and agencies to constrain their growth in spending.

Vietnam prisoner amnesty

SAIGON (Reuters) — South Vietnamese President Nguyen Van Thieu has announced an amnesty for 310 political prisoners including jailed Buddhist youth leader Thich (Venerable) Thien Minh.

The 49-year-old Buddhist monk was sentenced in March to 10 years in prison on a charge of harboring Viet Cong guerrillas and five years on a charge of illegally possessing weapons.

Thieu later commuted the sentences to three years in all.

A communique from the president's office Wednesday said the amnesty was granted to mark South Vietnam's National Day Nov. 1.

Earlier Wednesday the government released 88 Viet Cong guerrillas held prisoner, among them 63 women, in what was called a humanitarian gesture.

Here is another hand from "Hold Our Bridge Hands" by Charles Solomon and Bert Wilson. It is a problem in dummy play that involves the loser-on-loser play.

South is in a normal four-heart contract. The defense starts with three rounds of spades. At the table, South studied for some time and finally ruffed with the queen. This established West's jack of hearts as a sure trick and, since declarer lost the diamond finesse also, he missed his contract by one.

It would have been equally unfortunate to ruff with the 10. West would make his jack of hearts right away and South would complain about his bad luck.

As we have pointed out many times in this column, South was unlucky. He didn't have to find West with three hearts to the jack and the king of diamonds, but North was more unlucky. He had to sit as dummy and watch his partner throw game and rubber out the window.

All South had to do to make his four hearts was to discard his four diamonds on the third-spade lead. This would get rid of his losing diamond while he was losing a spade trick. Now a fourth spade lead wouldn't hurt him, since he would be able to ruff that trick in dummy.

He would have given up a potential overtrick as a small premium for insurance on his contract.

Your Horoscope

JEANE DIXON

FOR FRIDAY, OCT. 31, 1969

Your birthday today: Now you begin a year of being a workhorse. You do the major creative part of the work, and then pass along the gains. Make a firm resolution to save a dollar for every 10 you collect. Emotional or romantic fulfillment is not hindered by all the turmoil and upheaval. Today's natives are noted for their unlimited capacity for strong-willed action.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): You have to ration your time so as not to slight any of the numerous obligations you have.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Relatives and neighbors are easily upset or even angered. Later it turns out it's not because of what you want to do but the idea of your telling them what to do.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Optimism is great, but do not let it serve instead of judgment and evaluation. Quick moves are not readily understood. Conference may show you a flaw in the offer.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): For the moment act as if you had no personal plans, no special private goals. This keeps the way open while all visible programs suffer defeat solely for the sake of expression of opposition.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Expect resistance to your proposals in proportion to the pressure you offer in selling the ideas. Let others handle tools and heavy equipment today, particularly if you are not used to doing it.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Well-meaning friends get in the way of all ventures today, with uncertain results. Keeping your own counsel from start to finish will be of great help. Purely social activity is not important enough to justify touching your reserves.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): No natural law says that only Librans mediate, so let other people help you arbitrate. Business and career actions are of great potential for future profit if you can avoid diversion for purely personal concerns.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Let comments bounce off you today unanswered, and you will wind up in a much stronger position than ever. Only hard, steady work gets the results out.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Concentrate on study, artistic, abstract or philosophic angles, rather than using a great deal of physical energy. Let others carry the responsibility for a while; see if they can.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Your views may be overly conservative in the eyes of the people who know you. Let them talk you into a careful experiment, but do not argue past a reasonable point, or commit more than a minimum to the experiment.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Your theories lead you into trying a business expansion. It is all too easy to obligate yourself and your enterprise for more results than it can deliver.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Turn your back on commercial considerations and cultivate relations where you care about the people involved. There is much to learn and project for future growth together.

Defeat Brown Motion

QUEBEC (CP) — The national assembly of Quebec Wednesday voted 48 to 25 against a motion by Glen Brown L.—Brome to establish a committee to promote tourism in the Eastern Townships.

Mr. Brown said the Eastern Townships, where his riding is located, are a particular asset to Quebec because of their bilingual character, which he said would attract many tourists.

MONTREAL (CP) — Claude Wagner, Liberal member of Quebec's national assembly for the Montreal-area riding of Verdun, has received telegrams from five other Liberal members urging him to contest the party leadership.

Mr. Wagner, former provincial justice minister, is regarded as a likely candidate to succeed Opposition Leader Jean Lesage. He is to announce his decision at a news conference Friday.

Announced candidates for the leadership, to be decided at a special party convention in Quebec City Jan. 16-17, are Pierre Laporte, party house leader, and Robert Bourassa, member of the national assembly for the Montreal riding of Mercier.

MONTREAL (CP) — Hospital workers in four city institutions took part in work slowdowns Wednesday to protest drawn-out contract negotiations.

Raymond Couture, strike director for the Confederation of National Trade Unions, said essential services are being maintained at all hospitals.

The slowdowns involved both nurses and non-medical personnel, who have been involved in contract negotiations with the province government for 18 months.

The 46,000-member National Federation of Services, a CNTU affiliate, is to take a strike vote today. However, Mr. Couture advised against a general strike in a speech Tuesday.

Richmond Trade Board week

RICHMOND — (WL) — The Richmond-Melbourne Board of Trade in celebrating its 75th anniversary of founding, held a banquet Saturday past, in the Notre Dame School hall to which some 250 members and friends, attended.

A word of welcome was extended the gathering by Georges Henri Brouillette, who acted as master-of-ceremonies for the evening.

Michael O'Donnell, president of the local Board, spoke of the changes made in the town over the course of the past 75 years, noting that there was a past and immediate need for houses to accommodate the several thousand workers who worked locally, some who have to travel great distances, daily, to work.

While industries were willing to build here, this handicap was a disadvantage to local trade expansion.

Compton old people's home project approved

QUEBEC — Hon. Claude Gosselin, Minister of Lands and Forests and Member of the National Assembly for Compton, announced Wednesday that the project to erect a hostel for aged people at Compton has received the green light from the Minister of the Family and of Social Welfare.

Welfare Minister Jean-Paul Cloutier in effect has assured the chairman of the provisional committee for the hostel that the project has been placed on the priority list for the 1970-71 fiscal year. The capacity of the future hostel will be about 40 beds.

Mr. Gosselin, expressing his pleasure that the area would get another institution for the aged, stressed that undertaking of the program for developing homes for the aged had met with unprecedented success in all parts of the province.

The Compton MNA also expressed his thanks to the government authorities for their readiness to listen to the

Donald Byers, a lawyer of Montreal, the invited guest speaker, in his opening remarks spoke of the morbid and hate which existed in our modern society while technically the world was expanding and advancing. "Accordingly it is the business of every Chamber to work-out this international problem."

Mr. Byers denounced the passivity of a small group of our population who were further inspired on by the publicity given them.

"It is our right and place, as honest citizens, to use such rights and vote when the time comes for our leaders, as we see fit."

"We have to understand the youth of today. And, to aid them in their economical problems — to build them into better citizens — not destroy them."

"To this end we must choose leaders who can face-up to the situation in educating our youth, and, to work hand-in-hand with them in exchanging ideas."

Other invited guests present were Paul Emile Daigle, president of the Asbestos Chamber; Ronald Gibbs, president, Danville Chamber; Robert Rivard, president, Arthabaska Chamber; Jim Aubert, president, Victoriaville Chamber.

The success to this banquet,

Paul Delaney introduced the speaker while Mr. Jean Smith was called-upon to thank, Mr. Byers.

Others called upon to address the guests were Mayor Roger Trudeau who welcomed those present, on behalf of the Town; Roland Dugre, representing the president of the Quebec Provincial Chambers brought words of success to the Richmond group and congratulated the Board on the goodwill which was evident in this Board which is comprised of English and French members.

Jean Fusey, Regional president in his remarks said, "If the Richmond-Melbourne Chamber is one of the oldest founded in the Province, by its activity, it is one of the youngest."

Past-presidents who attended this 75th anniversary celebrations were Alfred Geoffroy, George W. Ewing, Judge Gaston Desmarais, now of Sherbrooke; Romeo A. Marcotte, Mayor Roger Trudeau, B. W. Armatage, Dr. Jean Smith, R. "Bob" Simpson, Paul Delaney, Donat Cloutier, J. Hector Arsenau, Claude Brouillette.

Other invited guests present were Paul Emile Daigle, president of the Asbestos Chamber; Ronald Gibbs, president, Danville Chamber; Robert Rivard, president, Arthabaska Chamber; Jim Aubert, president, Victoriaville Chamber.

The success to this banquet, and, the week's program entertainment was due to the efforts of Lucien Cormier, Claude Bouillette, Ivan Gagnon, Dr. Jean Smith, Paul Delaney, Jerome Desmarais.

Arab guerrillas and Lebanese troops swapped machine-gun and mortar fire across craggy mountain ridges near the Syrian border Wednesday.

A bubble of hope for a ceasefire burst late Wednesday night when the Lebanese government denied it had asked for one. The main guerrilla group Al Fatah had said earlier in Amman, Jordan, that it had accepted a Lebanese proposal for a 24-hour halt in hostilities.

Fatah guerrillas and the Lebanese army have been locked in combat for two weeks. Efforts to get them to the conference table have bogged down because of the guerrillas' demand that Lebanon give them complete freedom in carrying out strikes against Israel.

In Cairo Wednesday night, Hassan Sabry el Kholy of President Gamal Abdel Nasser's staff said Lebanon had agreed to limited "freedom of action within the country" for the adult to act as buffer between Youth and Age.

Community meeting held to discuss teenage recreation, sports in area

Mr. Joyce said in part that the problems would differ as towns did not have identical situations, but not to allow discouragement to take control. There was certain to be disagreements and differences of opinions but if these things could not be met in one way, they could be certainly settled in another. Another matter, but by far from the least, adults are disturbed about the problems teens face today BUT the disturbance does not go deep enough that they are willing to be involved.

Mr. Joyce said there were three major questions to be solved: WHY, WHERE and WHO. When these three were solved other matters would fall into line. He did agree with Mr. Thomson on all points, especially on the necessity of an adult acting as liaison between YOUTH and AGE.

Miss Cynthia Clark spoke very well on behalf of the Mansonville Teens, of whom a half dozen were present. She said that their greatest difficulty was to find a place which they could consider their own. She has found a certain amount of laziness among the teens, they like to have things done for them, and do not appear willing to do for themselves. They had the support of a few parents. As there is such a large rural community surrounding the village, young people from the outlying districts must be drawn in as well as the French teens.

The matter was brought up that when the Regional School becomes settled in a routine, there is a possibility of recreation and sports there; but

Bilingualism essential for export industry, QAMA holds

QUEBEC — (CNW) — "A formula must be devised to enable certain regions and certain economic activities to operate normally on a bilingual basis regardless of what other centres and other sectors of the economy may pursue by way of a language policy in keeping with their own aspirations and cultural objectives."

This proposal for a bilingual language policy is one of the key recommendations of the brief from Quebec's Asbestos-mining industry to the Gendron Commission on the status of the French language and on linguistic rights in Quebec.

Quebec Asbestos Mining Association General Manager Paul A. Fiteau submitted the 3,000-word document here Wednesday. Also in attendance were F. P. Smith, president, Bell Asbestos Mines, and M. J. Messel, president, Lake Asbestos of Quebec, both directors of the QAMA.

The QAMA groups the province's seven Asbestos mining companies operating in the Asbestos and Thetford Mines areas of the Eastern Townships where the fibrous mineral has been produced for 90 years.

Of the industry's 6,000 employees, the brief points out, 95.9 per cent are French-speaking. In all, 99.9 per cent of hourly-paid employees and 80 per cent of salaried personnel are French-speaking. Unilingual French-Canadians make up 67 per cent of the Asbestos mines' work force while bilingual French — or English-Canadians account for 30.7 per cent.

Unilingual English-Canadians represent only 2.3 per cent of employees, the brief reports.

The QAMA points out that, up to supervisory level, French is the general working language of Asbestos mine and Mill workers. "English-language blue-collar workers," it is stated, "must have an acceptable knowledge of French since it is impossible for them to work solely in English."

The brief shows that the Asbestos industry maintains a completely bilingual policy with regard to collective bargaining negotiations and contracts, job descriptions, in-plant bulletins, instruction manuals and other communications.

It offers free language courses to all employees seeking to better their French or English.

Because Asbestos-mining is essentially an exporting industry and since English is the language of international commerce, the industry's technical, middle-level or senior management personnel in Quebec must have or acquire a knowledge of English, it is pointed out.

The brief reports that 98 per cent of the Asbestos fibre produced in Quebec (1,372,000 tons in 1962) is shipped out of the province while 95 per cent of it leaves Canada.

And, the brief adds, of total 1962 exports of Asbestos fibre, 775,000 tons went to English-speaking countries while a further 290,000 tons were sold to countries around the world where English is the second language.

"Trying to negotiate in French on these major world markets is an exercise in futility," the QAMA declares in its brief. "All evidence points to the fact English is the language of international trade."

The brief also stresses that, in Quebec's Asbestos industry, English unilingualism is a serious handicap for any employee whose job entails constant communication with French-Canadians.

Bilingualism, the brief concludes, "is a positive and valuable asset for French — and English-speakers alike."

Among its other conclusions, the Quebec Asbestos Mining Association brief states: "If the province seeks to promote industrial development, it must grant primary, secondary and service industries the means to communicate with markets in North America and overseas. English, the brief contends, is the universally recognized language of international trade."

Such a policy in a "hospitable sociological environment" would not reduce the utilization of French. On the contrary, it would achieve increased use of that language and "leave a dynamic imprint on the Quebec community at large."

Reversal of a bilingual policy would swiftly lead to a "discriminatory and pernicious isolationism" and a greater lag in the economic and cultural development of Quebec.

The Quebec Asbestos Mining Association also suggests, as a means for preserving and strengthening the use of the French language in Quebec, the introduction of compulsory and intensified French instruction throughout the existing English school systems. Such a step, in the QAMA's view, would enable all Quebec school-children, irrespective of ethnic background, to acquire a working knowledge of French by the time they graduate from high school.

Lebanon denies bid for ceasefire talk guerrillas.

Fearful of Israeli reprisals, however, the Lebanese concession grants freedom only "provided this does not contradict with Lebanon's security and sovereignty" over its own territory.

Kholy's statement through the Cairo-based Middle East News Agency followed a day of meetings between Egyptian officials and a Lebanese delegation.

The statement also said Egypt had agreed to mediate between Lebanese authorities and the guerrillas.

Two hours after it said it had accepted a ceasefire, Al Fatah accused the Lebanese army of firing on a Palestinian Red Crescent ambulance in eastern Lebanon. The government denied the charge at the same time it denied offering the ceasefire.

Trudeau and consensus

Prime Minister Trudeau has made much to do about seeking and listening to the opinion of all Canadians, with dialogue, feedback and consensus being the favored words around Ottawa.

The idea is not a bad one but the trouble is that Mr. Trudeau and his courtiers have not paid too much attention to those feedbacks that disappoint them. Farmers out West will attest to that as will the mayors of municipalities and critics of the Company of Young Canadians, to name but a few.

The latest specific back-of-the-hand treatment of a consensus feedback resulting from a dialogue is the Prime Minister's decision to send a diplomatic representative to the Vatican even though he publicly admits that the vast majority of the people he has talked to or heard from are overwhelmingly against the move.

There is no questioning that the Prime Minister of Canada holds almost dictatorial powers and can do pretty well what he wants to.

But the question arises as to why the Prime Minister should bother to take part in a dialogue when he seldom takes heed of opinions contrary to his own, or why people should be bothered to participate in these dialogues.

The Prime Minister claims that he decided to go against the consensus of opinion because he believes that most of those who were against sending an ambassador to the Vatican were members of well-known and well-organized "pressure groups".

Perhaps he is right but are not most of those favoring such a diplomatic move also members of one of the world's best-organized and most powerful pressure groups?

Our secretary is tops in the field when it comes to punctuation.

Paint as house heating

Something new in the way of home heating has come from Britain's Paint Research Station which says that the idea of spraying electric heating on walls is now becoming commercially feasible.

According to the announcement, a special paint can be sprayed on the walls and an electric current passed through it. Researchers claim the main advantage is that a large area radiating gentle heat is better than a small source of intense heat — and infinitely better than the open fire places used to heat so many English homes.

But, as might be expected, there are some problems, one of which is the color of the paint that must be applied. Electric current apparently prefers black, which is not exactly what most people have in mind for their living room walls. Another is the extra cost involved because of the need of a special transformer to cut down voltage.

That is something like saying that the helicopter is the answer to the traffic jam problem — if only they could figure out a way to build one for $3,000.

Those paint research experts had better figure out a way to match the rainbow in radiant wall colors.

Counting chickens before they've hatched is now done by computer.

TODAY in history

With the motto "Better to live a day as a lion than 100 years as a sheep" Italian Fascist leader Benito Mussolini took power 47 years ago today—in 1922. For 20 years after his takeover, the one-time peasant imposed his will on a nation of 40,000,000. In the closing days of the Second World War "Il Duce" was slain, April 28, 1945, by anti-Fascist partisans and his body was hung in public.
1847—H. W. Longfellow published Evangeline.
1948—With the capture of Mukden, Communist Chinese forces gained control of all

Second World War Twenty-five years ago today—in 1944—British troops took Kozane, southwest of Salonika, in first sharp battle with retreating Germans in northern Greece; Lord Louis Mountbatten's forces announced they had opened an attack in northern Burma along the Myittha-Bhamo road into Japanese-held territory; RAF bombed Cologne and Berlin by night.

By-election result held as rebuke to de Gaulle

The by-election defeat suffered by Maurice Couve de Murville, former premier of France, is being interpreted in some quarters as primarily a rebuke to former president de Gaulle, whose policy ideas the beaten candidate had championed for many years.

L'Aurore of Paris, an anti-Gaullist newspaper reflecting right-wing views, says that if Couve de Murville had won the Sunday by-election in the Paris suburb of Yvelines, the outcome would have signified clear-cut approval of Gen. de Gaulle's "stupid behavior towards Canada."

A victory for the ex-premier also would have indicated electoral backing for de Gaulle's policy of severing French military connections with NATO, chopping arms shipments to Israel and toughening relations with "our natural Anglo-Saxon allies," comments L'Aurore.

Interpretations differ, however, concerning what effect the defeat of Couve de Murville, who also was de Gaulle's foreign minister for a decade until 1968, will have on the general's successor as president, Gaullist Georges Pompidou.

Pompidou may benefit. Victory for Couve de Murville would have returned to the centre of French affairs a pillar of

PANASONIC

Something to work with.

Our Model RS-790S is a pro. So it'll put you in business. Fast. And simple. And the RS-790S is a 4-track stereophonic tape recorder that'll make you flip over its Automatic Reverse System. Because you'll never have to flip over another reel again. The RS-790S turns its sound around on its own. Without missing a beat.

And the RS-790S delivers a 30 to 20,000 Hz response at 7 1/2 ips. With a signal-to-noise ratio of more than 52 dB, and a recording system with an AC bias of 90KC. Which all means you get some pretty big sound.

The Panasonic RS-790S has a lot of other features you'll enjoy working with.

Like 3-speed Dual Capstan Drive. And twin 7" oval dynamic speakers. And two very sensitive VU meters. So you don't become sensitive about your recordings. And a headphone output. Plus pause control, sound-on-sound and sound-with-sound for pro-like recordings. And a 4-place digital counter.

The machine is good to work with. And it comes from Panasonic. A company with 2,500 scientists and research engineers. And 60,000 technicians in over 80 factories. And 4,500 products that sell in 120 countries. A company that innovates a lot.

Go to any Panasonic dealer and ask to see our tape recorders. All of a sudden, work becomes play.

Boy Scouts receive honors

DERBY LINE — John Barker, MC for the Court of Awards, Troop 89, Boy Scouts of America, said at a gathering in the hall of St. Edward's Parish on Oct. 24, "this troop is one of the finest in the State of Vermont." It is because the troop has two Eagle Scouts, the highest honor in American Scouting and two more are climbing fast to the top. The Eagle Scouts are Bruce Muir and Randy Wheeler, the two climbers are Brian Davis and Steve Farrow.

It was a wonderful gathering of Scouts and their families, all of whom enjoyed a fine supper provided and served by interested mothers of the boys. Arthur S. Judd, Jr., chairman of the Troop committee, welcomed the assembly. Invocation was by Father Joseph Connolly, pastor of St. Edward's parish.

Following supper, Mr. Barker introduced the head table guests: Father Connolly; Father Kane, of Michaud Memorial Home, Derby Line; Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Earle; Mr. and Mrs. James Stevens, Jr.; and Raymond Petelle. Mr. Barker expressed appreciation to the women who provided the supper, especially Mrs. Milton Porter, Mrs. Harvey Gardyne, and all who assisted them.

The program was in the charge of Scout Master Milton Porter and Assistant Master, Harvey Gardyne. It was opened with the advancement of the colors and Allegiance to the flag.

Mr. Harvey, in his opening remarks, quoted the words of Martin Luther King, "I have been to the Mountain Top" and said, "Scouting is something like this the trails are rough from the base to the summit but beautiful once at the top. However, one can't remain at the top, one must go down and help others."

He paid tribute to the parents who have done and do much to encourage and to help. Mr. Gardyne and Mr. Porter, with Raymond Petelle, presented awards.

Brian Davis received Citizenship in the Nation; Wood Carving; Wood Working; First Aid; Personal Fitness; Safety and Poultry Keeping. Steve Farrow received Citizenship in the Nation; Stamp Collecting; Reading; Home Repair; First Aid; Recruiter Strip and Fishing.

Other awards were in Journalism to Bruce Muir; French Interpreter's to Danny Martin and John Fregeau. Automatic safety, to Craig Bedard; Rifle and Shotgun Shooting to Bruce Muir; Firemanship to Craig Bedard; First Aid, Craig Bedard; Recruiters to Bruce Wheeler, Donald Blais, Steve Dow and Danny Martin; Gold Quill award, Scott Judd and Gordon Quigley; Horsemanship to Scott Judd.

Second Class to Steve Dow, Jeffrey Leavens, Gordon Quigley, Charles Gardyne, Donald Blais, Mike Pare, Scott Judd, Gordon Colby, First Class to Dennis Chenette; Life to Brian Davis and Steve Farrow; Silver Palm, to Bruce Muir. The last three awards were presented to the boys' parents, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Davis, Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Farrow, and Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Searles, who in turn presented them to their boys.

"Few troops our size are able to have Eagle Scouts," said Mr. Gardyne. "Bruce Muir," he said, "is a true example of Scouting. As an Eagle Scout he has left the mountain many times to help others."

The Silver Palm award requires an additional five badges over the 21 for the Eagle and Bruce had over the required number.

Bruce Muir and Randy Wheeler delighted everyone with the showing of slides taken at the National Scout Jamboree in Idaho during the past summer, attended by the two boys, each of whom narrated in a most interesting way. Mr. Porter showed slides taken on summer hike experiences at Mount Lafayette in New Hampshire's White Mountains, the October Father and Son hike at the same place and the Mount Mansfield trip.

Comments of Mr. Gardyne were also interesting as he told of the requirements each Scout must have before earning badges. Eleven Scouts received their full year service stars, Craig Bedard, his third; Bill Gardyne, his fourth; and Bruce Muir, his fifth.

Mr. Gardyne also noted two more added to the Assistant Scoutmasters list, Arthur Dow and Robin Bertrand. Mr. Dow will be working with the Deer patrol and Mr. Bertrand with the Flaming Arrow.

Father Kane gave the benediction to end another highlight of Scouting in Troop 89, Derby Line.

Mr. and Mrs. M. Lynden and Mrs. Wilfred Holley, Port Colborne, Ont., spent a week guests of Mr. and Mrs. Mervin Corey and Mrs. Gerald Corey. Thanksgiving guests of Mr. and Mrs. Morley Cockerline were Dennis and Marilyn Cockerline, Montreal, and Jon Cockerline, Bishop's University.

Mrs. Ruby Edgerley, Hartford, Conn., was also their guest for a few days. Mr. and Mrs. Herman Miller have moved to their home in Stanbridge East, which they purchased from Mr. Marc Hebert. Miss Dolena Nicholson, Montreal, spent a recent weekend with Mrs. Frank Corey and Miss Jeane Corey. While here they attended a Gaelic Stanbridge Ridge English service in Bethany Presbyterian Church, Milan, conducted by Rev. Donald Gillies.

THE SHELBORNE RECORD, THURS., OCT. 30, 1969 5

WHY a strike in the Hospitals?

IS IT BECAUSE

the hospital employees benefit from total job security?

no employee is laid off if the hospital decides to consign a service to an outside contractor (contracting out);

no employee is laid off if a number of hospitals decide to consign a service to the same contractor (ex: community laundry).

- Is it because the hospital employees benefit from a period of retraining with full salary in case of technical changes?
- Is it because certain union leaders give false impressions to hospital employees which lead them to believe the requirements of their job will be arbitrarily changed at a moments notice?

- Is it because the hospital employees who actually have one and a quarter days sick leave per month of service will now benefit without cost from:

a salary insurance which guarantees their income for six months for each period of disability.

PLUS

a sick leave bank of six days per year payable each year if not used.

- Is it because hospital employees could benefit from a supplementary pension plan in addition to the Provincial pension plan?
- Is it because each hospital employee will receive within sixty days of the signature of the collective agreement the money which is due to him retroactive to July 1st, 1968, an average of $600?

THE NECESSARY MONEY (SOME $55 MILLIONS) IS AVAILABLE

- Is it because agreement has been reached on nearly all the clauses of the contract?
- Is it because hospital employees will have to pay $0.75 for a full course dinner or supper at the hospital?
- Is it because many employees in nursing care could become nurses due to a period of training while receiving 80% of their salary?

NO - really, the strike is unjustifiable! THESE OFFERS ARE REASONABLE!

Along the boards...

By Ted Anderson

Positional play pays off as was shown by the Cornwall Royals in last Friday's 7-3 win over the local Beavers. Very few passes found their men out of position. Their goalie, Smith is one of the best.

Beavers' defence still needs strengthening. They still have trouble getting the puck out of their own zone. With their 6-2 win Sunday, the forwards are beginning to knit together and are back checking more.

Some of the incidents on the ice in the third-period brawl were anything but sportsman-like. This kind of activity won't help the attendance. Sunday's crowd of over two thousand shows that junior hockey is catching on and with a little more hockey and less brawling, it will improve.

Had a chat with Doug Harvey Sunday. Doug is really a modest chap and one of the finest one could meet. He was very much impressed with the Sports Palace, saying it was better than he imagined it was.

Bishop's made it five in a row Saturday with their 23-0 win over Loyola. They should have no trouble taking top honors this season.

The McGill Redmen rose to the occasion Saturday, trouncing Queen's 21-3. Coach Tom Mooney silenced his critics with this big win.

It is good news to hear that the Sherbrooke Alouettes will carry on again next season. With a little more support the ball club should again prove a good summer attraction.

Danny Gullivan is starting his eighteenth year of broadcasting the Canadian home games. Hockey fans across the nation wait for this familiar voice on Saturday evenings. He is tops in his field.

Russ Jackson's running and passing was a big factor in Ottawa's report win of the Eastern C.F.L. title. If the Argos beat Hamilton in the sudden-death game on November 9th, they will have another shot at stopping Jackson, something they have failed to do in three tries this season.

Chicago's first win was a big one last Saturday and without Bobby Hull, the team seemed to be up for this one. Five goals and not one from Stan Mikita. Stan is still looking for his first goal.

Canadiens bounced right back Sunday against New York. They play some of their best games on Madison Gardens ice.

Pete Mahovich is certainly fitting in well in the Canadian organization, his three goals on Saturday and his big tally on Sunday proves that he is going to be a good man to have around.

...focus on the Beavers

The Verdun Maple Leafs skaters. In goal, they have coached by Claude Labassiere are the visitors tonight at the Sports Palace.

They have in their line up young Normand Cournoyer, brother of Yvan of the Canadiens, Mark Lemay, Steve Jones, Serge Martel, Pierre Fontaine, Ken Oliphant, Alain Huppe and Wayne Altomere — all fast

The Beavers will be without the services of Bruno Landry who has been suspended for three games but Jean-Denis Royal will be back on defence. Bruno Isabelle along with Michel Lefebvre, Denis Dussault, and Gaston Boulanger will see plenty of action.

The Beavers travel to Laval on Sunday and on Tuesday night, take on Rosemont. Thursday evening, they return to the Sports Palace when the league leading Sorel Black Hawks will be the visitors.

Habs bow to Minnesota; Leafs snap Bruins' streak

MINNEAPOLIS (CP) — Minnesota North Stars marred a National Hockey League milestone for Jean Beliveau of Montreal Canadiens by scoring a 4-1 win Wednesday night.

The win was marked by aggressive skating and sharp goaltending by Cesare Maniago.

Beliveau became the sixth player in NHL history to play in 1,000 games. But the personal achievement by the 38-year-old star went for naught as far as the final score was concerned.

The Canadiens, in losing only their second game in three seasons to Minnesota, turned in a poor performance after going ahead 1-0 in the first period on a goal by Christian Bordeleau, his first of the campaign and third in NHL play. He beat Maniago, under heavy pressure at the time, gunning the puck by him out of a scramble.

But that was it for Montreal as the North Stars, behind a roaring near-capacity crowd of 14,038, tied it at 1-1 early in the second period and then went ahead to stay late in the same session.

Ray Cullen rammed home the tying goal, converting Bill Goldsworthy's rebound right on top of the netminder Rogation Vachon. Danny Grant, Minnesota's rookie of the year, shot the North Stars in front 2-1 as he lined a 35-footer by Vachon with Montreal's John Ferguson in the penalty box.

The North Stars turned it into a rout in the third period when Goldsworthy found an open net at 4:25 after Jean-Paul Parise's shot drew Vachon out of the net.

Nanne swept in the fourth goal at 16:46 as the pressing Canadiens were caught down ice.

TORONTO (CP) — Toronto Maple Leafs snapped Boston Bruins' unbeaten string at seven in the National Hockey League Wednesday night with a 4-2 win before 16,485 fans.

Boston ran into a hot Marv Edwards in the Toronto goal and the 34-year-old rookie stopped 40 of 42 shots, many from close-in drives.

Murray Oliver, Jim McKenny, Ron Ellis and Dave Keon scored for the Leafs and Ken Hodge and Wayne Cashman for the Bruins.

Keon's goal in the third period was the most spectacular of the night. He took a pass from Floyd Smith at the Boston blueline, skated past Dallas Smith and then went in to beat Gerry Cheevers, who twisted to his right but was too late to stop the fleet Leaf centre.

The goal gave the Leafs the 4-2 lead. Bruins pressed in the third period with Bobby Orr and Tony Esposito taking several close-in shots that Edwards had to be sharp on.

WIN AT HOME

The Leafs, with three wins, three losses and a tie, have had more luck with Edwards in net. He has been in goal for all three home-ice wins.

In the first period, Hodge scored immediately after the opening faceoff and then Oliver took a pass from Mike Walton a minute later to tie the score.

Jim McKenny, a rookie Leaf defenceman-forward, scored his second goal of the season in the second period on a long shot that hit two players and deflected past Cheevers.

Ellis scored on a short back-hand shot in the third period to put the Leafs ahead 3-1, but Cashman narrowed the margin two minutes later, batting in the puck from a scramble in front of the Leaf net.

At one time in the third period, the Leaf defence took four open shots and missed on all chances. On two occasions, Orr fell to block the shots.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Detroit's Gary Monahan scored his first National Hockey League goal and Wayne Connelly tallied less than two minutes later to open the final period and spark the Red Wings to a 5-2 victory over Los Angeles Kings Wednesday night.

Wing Bruce MacGregor opened the scoring at 10:29 of the first period but Eddie Joval connected on his first goal of the season to knot it 1-1 at 12:05.

Veteran Gordie Howe, who required four stitches to close a gash in his upper lip in the early minutes of the game when he fell and was accidentally cut by a stick, broke the deadlock on a power play goal at 16:01, converting a Frank Mahovlich pass.

POLICEMEN'S RALLY — The Sherbrooke Policemen's Association car rally last night over the puzzling roads of the Townships proved to be a gigantic success with 38 braving teams participating. The rally which was 62 miles long ended with a social gathering at the Sherbrooke Arena. The team of Mr. and Mrs. Camille Vachon won the rally. The Record's modest team of Dick Spalding and Bernie St. Laurent took home a gallon of Antifreeze for their 31st position. Among the participants, we recognize from the left: Sherbrooke Police Department director Edouard Moreau, CJRS radio station top man Rene Ouellette, Municipal Judge Pierre Beaudry, Normand Mercier, and Jacques Testulat, respectively vice-president and president of the Police Association, organizers of the rally.

Canucks negotiating to meet requirements

VANCOUVER (CP) — President Cyrus H. McLean of Vancouver Canucks of the Western Hockey League confirmed Wednesday the club is negotiating with a United States company for a deal that will pave the city's entry into the National Hockey League.

However, he said Medior Investment Corp. of Minneapolis is only one of six groups that the Canucks are dealing with in an effort to meet the NHL's franchise requirements.

He would not name the other five groups.

Negotiations with Medior, he said started Monday, continued Tuesday and are to resume Friday.

Medior president Tom Scallen, 44, of Minneapolis, expanded into the sports entertainment field three years ago. The company's best known asset is the Shindad and Johnson Ice Follies.

UNKNOWN FIGURE

Acting for the Canucks are McLean and director Coleman E. Hall who has been brought in as an adviser. The identity of the Medior representative has not been released.

The NHL announced Sept. 11 that it planned to expand the league from 12 to 14 teams for the 1970-71 season. Applications and a $1,750,000 down payment on the $6,000,000 franchise fee are due Dec. 1.

McLean said the move to seek outside financing was initiated after the NHL learned the Canucks were the instigators of a compromise plan involving three other expansion candidates—Cleveland, Buffalo and Baltimore.

Had the league accepted the plan it would have had to admit four cities instead of the proposed two, but with each paying $3,000,000 for a franchise instead of $6,000,000.

The NHL rejected the proposal and moved to find new owners who would be willing to pay the $6,000,000 franchise fee for the Canucks.

Sport briefs

NEW YORK (AP) — Tom Seaver of New York Mets, the major leagues' top winning pitcher with a 25-7 record, Wednesday was named winner of the National League Cy Young Award as the outstanding pitcher in the league. Seaver received all but one of the 24 votes.

Phil Niekro, Atlanta Braves' knuckleball artist, received the other vote. He had a 23-13 record.

Seaver, 24, who led the Mets to their first pennant and World Series championship, was the first Met ever to win the award and the first New Yorker since Whitey Ford of the Yankees in 1961.

The 1968 winner was Bob Gibson of St. Louis Cardinals.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The case of the purloined mask was solved just six hours before face-off.

Reviewing the previous episode: the face mask worn by Los Angeles hockey goalie Gerry Desjardins disappeared over the weekend from the National Hockey League Kings' dressing room at the Forum.

There was no chance of having a replacement made before Wednesday night's game against Detroit Red Wings. So the Kings' management offered a $25 reward, two tickets to a game and no questions asked for return of the mask.

Wednesday, a man returned the mask saying he found youngsters in his neighborhood playing with it two days before masks become fashionable for Halloween.

Until the return, Desjardins, 25, was faced with the possibility of going maskless in the game for the first time since he was 16.

The Kings plan to have a second mask made and lock it in the company's safe.

WINNIPEG (CP) — Gordon Jukes, a director of Hockey Canada, said Wednesday he has received a telegram from Moscow requesting accreditation for 45 Soviet journalists to cover the 1970 world hockey championships in Winnipeg and Montreal.

Clair named Coach-of-year

EDMONTON (CP) — Frank Clair, who has never missed a playoff berth in 14 straight years with Ottawa Rough Riders, was named Canadian Football League coach-of-the-year for the second time Wednesday.

Clair, a native of Hamilton, Ohio, expressed regret at not attending the dinner because of pressure of work at Ottawa.

Clair was also named coach-of-the-year in 1966 when Ottawa captured first place in the Eastern Conference with 11 wins and three setbacks. They defeated Hamilton Tiger-Cats 72-17 in the two-game total-point final but lost the Grey Cup to Saskatchewan Roughriders three weeks after Clair won the award.

He has directed Ottawa to an 11-2 record in the EFC this season with one game remaining in the 14-game schedule.

Eagle Keys, with Saskatchewan for the last five years, was named coach-of-the-year in 1968. Jerry Williams, now head coach of Philadelphia Eagles in the National Football League, captured the award in 1967 while coaching Calgary Stampeders.

Other winners have been Bud Grant, Winnipeg Blue Bombers, 1965; Ralph Sazio, Hamilton, 1964; Dave Skrien, British Columbia Lions, 1963; Steve Owen, Saskatchewan, 1962 and Jim Trimble, Hamilton, 1961.

REMEMBER WHEN...

Quarterback Nobby Wirkowski fired a 43-yard forward pass off a triple reverse play in the last seconds of an Eastern Football Conference game 15 years ago today—in 1954—and sent Ed Al Pfeifer over for the winning major as Toronto Argonauts beat Montreal Alouettes 30-24. Argos had started the last quarter with a 24-6 lead only to see Alouettes tie it up on three converted touchdowns.

Last week's winner was Mr. Aubrey Stone, North Hatley.

DOCTOR'S MAILBAG

Periodic Checkups
Are Wise Precaution

By WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.

Q—For some time I have been getting short of breath on mild exertion. My doctor says my electrocardiogram (ECG) is inverted. He prescribed Peritrate which I have been taking for a year. Could I have an impending heart attack?

A—An inverted T wave on an ECG is usually a sign of heart muscle damage. This, plus the fact that you are taking a nitrate, suggests coronary heart disease and the need for periodic checkups by your doctor.

Q—What is congestive heart failure? How serious is it?

A—When a heart valve leaks the heart must work harder to pump the blood. When it reaches its limit, there is a backing up of blood and waterlogging of the tissues, with shortness of breath. This is congestive heart failure. It is a serious condition but it can often be corrected by surgical repair or replacement of the diseased valve.

Q—I am a housewife, 26. My heart has been enlarged since I had rheumatic fever as a child. Last year I had pericarditis. Could I have a normal pregnancy?

A—Some women with this condition go through a normal pregnancy but they are at a far greater risk than a woman with a normal heart. A successful outcome requires the combined skill of a heart specialist and obstetrician working as a team. They should be consulted before you attempt to conceive.

Q—My husband, 60, is in good health except for a slightly enlarged heart. He is not taking any medicine but the doctor checks his heart every two months. Does he need to be seen that often?

A—Enlargement of the heart is usually due to rheumatic heart disease or a high blood pressure of long standing. The victim can live a long and useful life if he follows his doctor's advice, has regular checkups and reports any unusual symptoms to his doctor promptly. What interval between checkups is best for your husband would depend on several factors and should be left up to his physician.

NOTE: In a recent column I recommended "The Official AMA Book of Health" as a paperback family medical guide. I am informed that this book is out of print. You may still be able to get another excellent paperback, "Home Medical Encyclopedia" by Dr. Paul Kuhn, published by Fawcett Publications, Inc., Greenwich, Conn.

(Newspaper Enterprise Assn.) Please send your questions and comments to Wayne G. Brandstadt, M.D., in care of this paper. While Dr. Brandstadt cannot answer individual letters, he will answer letters of general interest in future columns.

Before you get into too much hot water, read this...

Fact 1: You can buy a family-sized, Cascade electric hot water heater for much less than other types of water heaters.

Fact 2: The average family (4 persons) uses less than 40 gallons of hot water a day. (So why pay for the over-ability to heat 2,000 gallons per day?)

Fact 3: If your family is NOT average, and you have peak hours of extraordinary hot water use, a 60-gallon CASCADE is more than enough for your needs.

For example, let's suppose you do a big wash, bath two children, and use up another 10 gallons in various ways all in one hour. Let's even rush things and have you take a bath, too. (And leave the tap running a bit!) All in that same hour. Have you any idea how much hot water you will have used?

Would you believe:

one big washing — 28 gallons three baths — 30 gallons odds and suds — 10 gallons

Total: 68 gallons (That's all!)

And our 60-gallon CASCADE would supply 73 gallons of good hot water during that hour.

Fact 4: For most of family-users, however, our CASCADE 40 (40 gallons) is all the hot water heater they need.

Facts 5-6-7-8: The CASCADE is very economical, because it's designed to supply family needs, not a carwash!

The CASCADE is very practical. It's so compact, you don't need a special room or compartment for it.

The CASCADE is extra-safe. Flameless. Worry-free.

The CASCADE is extra-clean. Odorless. Leaves no deposit of any kind.

However you figure it, the CASCADE is the most logical, efficient and thrifty hot water heater you can possibly buy.

Ask your local supplier for the exact Cascade electric water heater for your needs. Or call the Sales Department of Hydro-Québec.
