World News In Brief

Tokyo, Aug. 4.—(AP)—United Nations sources in Tokyo said tonight a U.S. navy observation plane with five men aboard was shot down off the Siberian coast Saturday by a Soviet fighter plane.

Navy headquarters here refused to confirm or deny the report. It said only "we are leaving this to the chief of information of the navy in Washington. No announcement will be made here."

U.N. sources said the plane — type undisclosed — was hit as it made a routine weather flight.

Far East Air Forces headquarters denied any of its planes had been involved in such an incident.

Cairo, Aug. 4. — (CP) — A prince, a colonel and an ex-cabinet minister were named last night as Egypt's temporary regency council to act for the baby King Fuad II, son of the abdicated Farouk.

They are Prince Mohamed Abdel Monem, a second cousin of Farouk; Mohamed Bahei Aldin Barakat, independent politician and former minister of education, and army Col. Mohamed Rashad Mehanna, minister of communications in the new reform government.

The half-year-old King Fuad, who would not in any case become the ruling monarch for years to come, is with the exiled Farouk and his family on the Italian isle of Capri.

Ventersburg, South Africa, Aug. 4—(Reuters) — Premier Daniel Malan's administration may stiffen its racial-segregation law in an effort to stamp out the growing defiance campaign being staged by the colored population.

Justice Minister Charles Swart told a public meeting here the government will not hesitate to introduce new legislation.

The number of colored people serving jail sentences for deliberately breaking laws—mainly using white-only entrances at train stations—is mounting daily throughout South Africa.

The campaign is organized by several colored peoples associations and is aimed at winning reform of "unjust color legislation."

New York, Aug. 4—(AP)—The United States' blue ribbon liner, the United States, sailed into New York harbor today about 11 hours ahead of the Queen Elizabeth's scheduled arrival. But there was no indication that the ship's had raced in their first simultaneous crossing.

The new U.S. superliner had overtaken the pride of Britain's merchant fleet last Thursday morning off Bishop's Rock at the southern tip of England.

Earlier that day, the two vessels had sailed within minutes of each other from France—the Elizabeth from Cherbourg and the United States from Havre.

34 To 50 Persons Killed In Collision Between Two Buses Near Waco, Texas

Heavy Toll Caused By Fire That Swept Buses After Early Morning Crash.

Waco, Tex., Aug. 4.—(AP)—Two greyhound buses crashed head-on near here just before dawn today and burst into flaming death traps. At least 34 persons — possibly up to 50 — were killed.

It was difficult to count the dead because many bodies were so badly burned they fell to pieces on being moved. The buses themselves burned almost to rubbish.

The collision occurred about 6 a.m. EDT about seven miles south of here on heavily-travelled highway 81, a popular Dallas-Austin route.

Hours later, burned shoes, parts of purses and their scorched contents, luggage tags and other clues to identity of the victims still were being carefully combed from the blackened wreckage.

Twenty bodies were brought to a funeral home here and 14 to funeral homes in Waco.

"One of the buses burned down to a rubbish pile," said Sam Wood of the Waco Times-Herald. "The other was almost as bad. When they pulled the smashed buses apart, the wreckage just fell to pieces."

Waco police officer Sam Johnson, one of those earliest at the scene, estimated the dead at 50. He said only one negro man escaped from one of the burning buses.

Both buses remained upright, even after their blackened shells were forcibly separated by wreckers. The Waco Times-Herald said there were up to 67 passengers in the two vehicles.

The known dead included the two drivers — M. B. Herring of Waco, driving a south-bound bus which had left Waco a few minutes before the crash, and Billy Malone of Waco, a relief driver, whose bus was about to reach Waco.

Uniforms of soldiers, airmen and some sailors marked many of the dead and injured as servicemen.

Police chief Jesse Gunterman said officers had not been able to determine the cause of the accident. He said Malone had just topped the crest of a slight hill. That section of the highway has no curves.

Four hours after the crash highway department bulldozers were shoving the wreckage into both ditches to clear the lane for traffic.

Six ambulance companies from Waco, Temple and James Connally air force base answered the call for help, police said. At least 10 ambulances went to the scene.

Reports on the number of dead in the 6 A.M. EDT crash still varied from the original 50 to around 30 with as many as 65 injured.

The second bus, northbound, was reported to have carried from 20 to 25 passengers.

Johnson said the buses going south usually carried a heavy load of service men from Fort Hood, 30 miles south of Waco, on weekends.

Compton funeral home officials here said they had "four or five bodies" but had not been able to enter the burning bus to reach the other dead.

A funeral home employee said: "At least 20 persons are still in there."

The weather was clear and no immediate cause for the crash could be given. It occurred on the heavily-travelled U. S. highway 81 which runs between Dallas and the state capital, Austin.

Many servicemen from army and air force installations at Austin, Fort Hood, and San Antonio use the southbound buses to return to their posts after week-end leaves.

Queen Mother Is Observing Anniversary

QUEEN MOTHER ELIZABETH

Windsor, England, Aug. 4.—(Reuters)—Queen Mother Elizabeth today celebrated her 52nd birthday at an intimate family luncheon party at the Royal lodge here.

With her were Queen Elizabeth and Princess Margaret, and her two grandchildren, Prince Charles and baby Princess Anne.

The Duke of Edinburgh sent birthday wishes from Helsinki where he attended the Olympic Games. Other congratulations poured in from every part of the Commonwealth.

In London, a 51-gun salute boomed out from the Tower of London in her honor.

This birthday of Queen Mother Elizabeth will be a quiet occasion compared to the festive family parties held in former years when King George VI was alive.

The Queen Mother now spends much of her spare time in the gardens she and the King had planted at Windsor. She has also been up to Balmoral in the Scottish Highlands, where the King used to enjoy hunting grouse and deer.

Occasionally, accompanied by her younger daughter, she attends a concert or play.

She often baby sits for Queen Elizabeth, looking after Charles and Anne while their mother attends to state affairs.

Oslo, Norway, Aug. 4—(AP)—A state banquet tonight for 80-year-old King Haakon VII ends a two-day national birthday celebration in which thousands of Norwegians enthusiastically displayed their affection for Europe's oldest reigning monarchs.

Bordeaux Is Returning To Normal

By ROMEO MAGERA
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Montreal, Aug. 4.— (CP) —Order returned slowly to Montreal's Bordeaux jail today, replacing the upheaval and riot that held sway during the week-end.

Most of the 500 prisoners who broke out of their cells Friday night leaving a trail of destruction were back behind bars, their cell doors repaired and reinforced with extra locks.

The prisoners set a score of fires and clashed with police and guards in skirmishes that left at least a dozen convicts injured.

Today, clean-up squads were at work in the rambling jail on the outskirts of the city's north-end limits for the second time in three months.

The first outbreak came in May and the pattern was the same in both instances, the convicts running loose after smashing cell block master locks. Then followed fires and clashes with police.

Officials maintained secrecy during the week-end but police lifted the clock enough last night to say the riot was "officially over."

The statement said only: "The riot is officially over. No further disturbances are expected. All prisoners who were transferred to police headquarters in Montreal will be back in their cells before noon."

Tension remained high during the week-end. Police removed from the jail the ringleaders in the disturbance.

The prisoners, all in for short terms of less than two years, staged another demonstration Saturday, lighting more fires and clashing with police and guards, but this demonstration was short-lived.

Cause of the outbreak was reported to be the quality of food—the same reason given for the out-

Thousands Of Dollars Loss Is Caused By Fire In Parliamentary Library

By HAROLD MORRISON
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Ottawa, Aug. 4. — (CP) — Firemen fought for five hours early today to stamp out a stubborn, two-alarm blaze which broke out in the dome of Parliament's historic library. Water damage to a valuable 500,000-book collection was expected to run into hundreds of thousands of dollars.

Two firemen were overcome by smoke and a third suffered a deep scalp wound caused by a falling brick as they fought to quell the fire in the stone-and-glass dome of the 140-foot-high grey-stone building.

They worked feverishly to prevent another disaster such as the one which struck 36 years ago when fire gutted Parliament's centreblock and left only the library standing intact. Seven lives were lost.

At one time, the richly-ornate circular library took on the appearance of a storm-wracked lake with tons of water, like tiny Niagaras, plunging in from the rooftop to drench the three galleries of books lining the oaken walls and cover the mahogany-and-birch inlaid floor with four inches of water.

Banks of sawdust were piled at entrances to prevent the water from trickling into centre block corridors to which the library is connected.

Crews manned mops and brooms to drive the swirling waters through a door to parliamentary lawns, but soon tired. The murky waters seeped through vents to the basement below sweeping over other stocks of books which filled basement shelves.

The fire and deluge of water put a temporary halt to the library's work and it was a question of whether the books could be dried and restored in time for Parliament's reopening next November.

The blaze broke out about 1.45 A.M. EST. Believed caused by a short circuit in electrical firing, it set off an automatic sprinkling system and a protective-service fire alarm.

At the same time, R.C.M.P. constables, making the rounds, noticed smoke in the structure which faces the Ottawa river behind the Peace Tower. The fire department, called to the scene, rang in two alarms in quick succession about 1:52 A. M.

Firemen hurried to cover reading desks and book shelves with canvas as water was poured on the blaze at the rate of about 250 gallons a minute.

Shortly after 3 A.M., district chief Maynard Dolman suggested the army be called out in a last-minute effort to save the books from a disastrous soaking. Commons protective staff officials figured it would take too long to get platoons of army men into shape to get the books out of the library. The drenching continued for more than five hours.

A great many of Canada's most precious books and manuscripts are stored in the basement of the Supreme Court building, but some of the books in the library were irreplaceable first editions.

Ernest Bilodeau, assistant librarian, said the water would not destroy the books but would cause damage which might make restoration difficult or impossible. He said there were many fine volumes in the building.

Felix Desrochers, the general librarian, was on vacation at St. Charles, Que., at the time of the blaze. F. A. Hardy, his associate, who had spent years in building up the collection, was in hospital, preparing to undergo an operation. He entered hospital just a few hours before the blaze began.

The library, holding one of the most comprehensive book collections in Canada, was used mainly by Members of Parliament and Senators. But it also was to help form the nucleus of Canada's national library. Many of its books were to be transferred to

Boycott By Negroes Is Suggested

Washington, Aug. 4— (AP) —A Negro member of Congress yesterday suggested a Negro boycott of the Democratic and Republican parties in the November Presidential election.

Adam Clayton Powell Jr., New York Democrat, told a Harlem mass meeting the Negro was "sold down the river" at the national conventions.

Powell said "Uncle Toms"—a reference to the title character in "Uncle Tom's Cabin," usually meaning a Negro who is a yes-man—had "spearheaded the sabotaging of civil rights planks in the platforms of the two major parties."

He said the Negro has enough votes to control the outcome of the Nov. 4 election and "just will not go to the polls at all" unless pledged an "acceptable" platform.

Powell has a date, within the next 10 days, to discuss civil rights with Odlai Stevenson and his Democratic vice-presidential running mate, Senator John J. Sparkman of Alabama.

Civil rights was also the topic of a statement issued last night by 16 Republican leaders, among them key backers of Gen. Dwight Eisenhower, Republican candidate.

The statement said the fair employment practices commission with enforcement powers and similar laws will be accelerated by a Republican victory.

The Democrats' 1948 civil-rights plank, strong for an F.E.P.C. which could enforce decisions on job discrimination against Negroes and other minorities, caused the southern revolt then. It was carefully worded this time by platform-drafters trying to seal the north-south rift.

The Republican civil rights plank endorses "federal legislation to further just and equitable treatment in the area of discriminatory employment practises."

Heavy Rain Needed In Many States

Chicago, Aug. 4—(AP)—Scattered and generally light showers pelted in vain today at the drought which has gripped southern and eastern United States.

New England awaited rain predicted for tonight, hopeful that the weather bureau is wrong in its estimate of not to exceed an inch of moisture.

Where it came, the rain was too little and, to a considerable extent, too late to wipe out crop losses which might surpass $1,000,000,000. Estimates from four of the dozen or more hard hit southern states put their losses at about $600,000,000.

The department of agriculture designated Maine and Massachusetts, South Carolina, Georgia, Alabama, Mississippi, Tennesse, and Kentucky, and parts of Arkansas and Missouri as disaster areas. The designation expedites federal financial aid to farmers and dairymen.

The rest of New England and at least six other states—North Carolina, Virginia, Florida, Kansas, Pennsylvania and New Jersey—report varying degrees of drought damage.

In Tennessee, where many trees are dying and farmers are trucking water from cities to their livestock, one man summed up his plight:

"Corn's gone, cotton's going, and if anybody throws a cigaret on the lawn my house will be gone, too."

South Carolina reports 63 per cent of its corn, 61 per cent of pastures, 63 per cent of hay and seed crops and 40 per cent of its cotton have been damaged.

Major Blow Struck By U.S. Planes

By ROBERT B. TUCKMAN

Seoul, Korea, Aug. 4.—(AP)—The United States Fifth Air Force said United Nations fighter-bombers struck in two massive waves today at a key North Korean military headquarters near the Red capital of Pyongyang and left it a flaming wreckage.

U.S. air force and Marine planes hit the headquarters northwest of Pyongyang with more than 275 sorties. The first wave struck at noon and the second in the afternoon.

The air force said U.S. Sabre jet pilots intercepted elements of 63 Russian-made MIG-15 jet fighters and destroyed one Red fighter and damaged another.

This raised to 1,022 the number of MIG's destroyed, probably destroyed or damaged since the start of the war, the air force reported. Latest addition to the list was a MIG damaged today in a fight between four Sabres and 10 MIG's.

The air force said the first wave of fighter-bombers dropped 3,500 gallons of flaming gasoline and 185 tons of high explosives. Pilots then sprayed the area with 15,000 rounds of 50-calibre and 20-millimetre ammunition.

This first strike of 190 sorties reported destruction of 39 buildings, one anti-aircraft gun and four machine-guns. The air force said 12 buildings were damaged and many fires started.

There was no report on the results of the second raid.

The air froce said No. 1,001 was the MIG destroyed in a noon battle between two Sabre jets and seven Red fighters over North Korea today.

The air force did not break down the 1,001 figure.

On the ground, U.S. second division troops smashed a Chinese charge against heavily fortified positions atop Old Baldy hill. Half the attacking Reds were killed.

A reinforced Chinese platoon of about 50 men was caught under murderous artillery fire and a spokesman reported 20 to 25 Reds were killed.

Except for this scrap, the second division sector around Old Baldy was reported quiet although communist artillery and mortars pounded allied positions.

Munsan, Korea, Aug. 4.—(AP)—U.N. and communist staff officers today agreed on most of the wording in a proposed Korean armistice draft, including a paragraph dealing with exchange of war prisoners.

The number of prisoners to be exchanged still is blocking a truce.

The main armistice negotiations, discussing that, recessed Sunday until Aug. 11 by mutual consent.

Pusan, Korea, Aug. 4. — (AP) — The 1st battalion of the Royal Fusiliers arrived at this South Korean port today for combat duty.

Nearer the front, British Commonwealth division headquarters announced the 1st battalion of the Queen's Own Scottish Borderers will leave Korea sometime this month after more than a year of combat duty.

The battalion of Royal Fusiliers left Britain June 20 only a few months after returning from 30 years of continuous service overseas.

The battalion first went to India in 1922, where it spent the first 17 years of its long overseas service. During the Second World

Mossadegh Given Free Hand In Iran For Next 6 Months

By NATE POLOWETZKY

Tehran, Iran, Aug. 4—(AP)—The Iranian senate today gave initial approval to a bill granting Premier Mohammed Mossadegh unlimited powers to rule this near-bankrupt country with a free hand for six months.

But the upper house offered unexpected opposition to a government bill ordering confiscation of the personal wealth and property of Ahmed Qavam, forced out of the Premiership two weeks ago by wildly demonstrating Mossadegh followers.

The lawmakers passed the confiscation bill without trouble on its first of three readings. On the second reading, however, only three of 26 senators present stood up to signify approval.

The bill then was sent to a senate commission for possible revision. The legislation calls for Qavam's fortune — estimated by some lawmakers at 500,000,000 rials (about $16,000,000)—to be divided among the survivors of persons killed in the street fighting which resulted in his overthrow. More than 20 police and soldiers died in the clashes.

Five million rials (about $160,000) would be set aside for Qavam's wife and 10-year-old son.

Qavam's whereabouts have been unknown since Mossadegh swept to power July 21. One rumor is that he has fled the country. The independent weekly Donya speculated today the missing politician actually is hiding in the home of a senator in Tehran and the government knows it but is unwilling to violate the senator's immunity by entering his house.

The paper said, however, Mossadegh had pledged to arrest Qavam as soon as the upper chamber passes the bill granting him full government powers.

All but one or two of the 68 deputies in the lower house (the Majlis) yesterday rose to affirm the far-reaching measure when it came up for a final reading.

The aged Premier will have a free hand to push through a drastic program he says is needed to ease the country through its present economic crisis. Iran has been headed for bankruptcy since the giant British-run oil industry was nationalized last year and production frizzled out. Mossadegh has said his program will include resumption of oil production.

Though the bill gives Mossadegh unlimited power over nearly every phase of Iranian life for the next six months, his actions come up for parliamentary review at the end of the period.

In yesterday's debate, Majlis deputies loudly demanded anew the ouster of American military and technical aid mission in Iran. One deputy, Moatamed Damavandi, charged that U.S. officers here to supervise the American military air program only provided propaganda for the United States and an excuse for retaliation against Iran by Russia.

Damavandi complained that the U.S. point four program of technical aid for agriculture had not brought in the millions which were promised. And he suggested that irrigation wells being dug under American supervision actually were being placed in strategic places to supply water for American soldiers in case of war.

Geneva, Switzerland, Aug. 4—(Reuters)—Princess Ashraf Pahlevi, twin sister of the Shah of Iran, arrrived here today from Tehran, en route to the United States for an indefinite stay. She is reported to have been banished from Iran because she opposed the policies of Premier Mohammed Mossadegh.

There has been speculation in the last week that Mossadegh decided to exile the 30-year-old Princess because he felt she encouraged the Shah to cross Mossadegh and set up the now fugitive Ahmed Qavam as Premier in his place. A wave of street fighting ousted the Shah's man and returned Mossadegh a few days later.

By The Canadian Press

At least 16 persons were killed in eastern Canada during the week-end.

A Canadian Press compilation today showed that, with the homeward rush of civic holiday week-end traffic still to come tonight in Ontario, highway deaths have been comparatively few.

Ontario listed nine fatalities since Friday night, New Brunswick three, Quebec two and Nova Scotia and Newfoundland one each.

Eight persons died in traffic accidents and five by drowning. Quebec highways were free from fatal accidents while two persons were drowned in that province.

Three persons were killed on New Brunswick roads.

At Toronto a woman was killed by a freight train while crossing tracks during a thunderstorm. A St. John's, Nfld., girl was electrocuted when she touched an electric warming pad while taking a bath.

Manila, Aug. 4. — (AP) — Provincial officials on Masbate island have imposed a 20-cent "locust tax" on every male from 16 to 60 to raise funds for fighting swarms of the crop-destroying insects. The Philippines news service reported the locusts and army worms are so bad there is a threat of a food shortage on the island, off the southern tip of Luzon.

Alberta Voters Choose Next Government Tomorrow

Edmonton, Aug. 4. — (AP) — Alberta voters tomorrow choose their next government.

After a mild five-week election campaign, the voters will decide between the Social Credit government, in power for 17 years, and 122 other candidates.

Both the Liberals and C.C.F. are running enough candidates to form a government. There are 60 seats at stake and the Social Crediters have nominees in them all.

A 61st seat was filled by acclamation. Provincial secretary C. E. Gerhart was declared elected in Acadia-Coronation, in southeastern Alberta, when a C.C.F. opponent didn't make the closing time for nominations July 22.

This is the first election since Alberta's oil wealth became fully apparent. The government's handling of oil and natural gas resources, particularly the money coming from oil, has been the chief issue of the campaign. Opposing speakers pictured the government as hoarding millions while the municipalities staggered under an ever-growing load of debt.

All parties came out with programs to help the cities and towns keep pace with the demands of growing populations.

Another centre of contention was the government's decision to export surplus natural gas. The Liberals and C.C.F. said this would encourage gas-consuming industries to locate outside the province.

Premier Ernest C. Manning, heir of Social Credit's Alberta founder, the late William Aberhart, is one of two of the original 1935 Social Credit ministers still in office. He is 43.

The Liberals have a youthful leader, too. J. Harper Prowse, former Edmonton newspaper man who got into politics during the war as an armed forces' member, heads a slate of 55. He is 39.

C.C.F. chief is Elmer Ernest Roper, born at Ingonish, N. S., and head of an Edmonton printing firm. At 59, he is leading 41 candidates.

The Progressive Conservatives have 12 candidates in Edmonton and Calgary, Led by M. E. (Ted) Manning, no relation to the Premier, they hope to pick up some of the 13 seats in the two cities. Their last success was in 1935, when two members were elected.

A thorn in the side of the government is a group of independent Social Crediters, some of whom have not followed the official party in its swing to financial orthodoxy from the radical fiscal policies on which its first election sweep was based.

There are six such candidates, including a former minister of education. R. Earl Annsley. Others are A. V. Bourcier, Lac Ste. Anne, and Arthur Wray, Banff-Cochrane.

When the Legislature was dissolved, the government had 49 of the 57 seats. There were three Liberals, three independent Social Crediters, and two C.C.F.

International Red Cross Lashes Out Against Reds

Toronto, Aug. 4—(CP)—The International Committee of the Red Cross, target of persistent communist attacks, lashed back today.

A 9,000-word report to the 18th international Red Cross conference says the Red Cross was prevented from aiding Russians in German prisoner of war camps during the second world war because the Soviet Union barred the Red Cross from its camps.

The report, written by Paul Ruegger, president of the all-Swiss organization, says Germany first provided a list of its Russian prisoners—300 names written in pencil—but later refused to continue because no news was sent in return from Russian camps. It indicates conditions are the same in North Korea, which has turned away all Red Cross representatives.

The committee says the suggestion for an investigation of communist charges that United Nations forces have used bacterial warfare in Korea came not from the I.C.R.C. but from the United States government. The committee started to name a tribunal of Swiss scientists, to be augmented by others from non-combatant Asian countries but the entire plan for a probe was dropped because North Korea refused to have anything to do with it.

The Russian, communist Chinese and North Korean delegations have claimed at the conference that the I.C.R.C. is a tool of the U.S. government, since Washington had only to suggest an investigation and the I.C.R.C. acted.

"It might just as well be claimed," says the report, "that the I.C.R.C. is in the pay of the government of North Korea, since it was sufficient that this government should refuse this investigation for the I.C.R.C. to abandon it."

The failure to get co-operation from some nations for humanitarian works was not a failure of the Red Cross, but a failure of civilization.

The 25-man committee, heart of the Red Cross movement, listed each communist charge and replied to it.

Among the main communist charges and the I.C.R.C.'s replies:

The I.C.R.C. whitewashed German concentration camps: the report states that almost to the end of the war Germany stubbornly forbade access to concentration camps and that the I.C.R.C. finally did discover names of some prisoners and sent 750,000 parcels to them.

The I.C.R.C. did not put an end to concentration camp horrors: the committee notes that the most powerful nations of the globe took six years to achieve this.

The I.C.R.C. depend for its finances on the Anglo-American bloc: the committee states its work is financed by voluntary contributions. Any nation can give. From 1939 to 1951, Switzerland contributed 33.7 per cent, Japan 14, Britain and the United States a total of about 15 per cent. "Is it the fault of the I.C.R.C. if certain countries have not shown generosity with regard to its work?"

The report notes that though the Soviet generally tolerated I.C.R.C. delegates in Germany after the Second World War, Dr. Otto Lehner, one of the most famous Red Cross workers, and his colleagues were taken to Russia and interned in a camp for several months.

Newfoundlanders Study In Toronto

By KAY REX
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Toronto — An experimental course at the University of Toronto School of Social Work has brought 24 Newfoundlanders here to study welfare and incidentally to see life in central Canada.

The 21 men and three women are welfare workers with the eastern province's Public Welfare Department. This advanced course was organized for them at the request of Newfoundland's Minister of Public Welfare, Dr. Herbert L. Pottle as a natural follow-up of training they took in St. John's.

"The minister felt it desirable that welfare workers with the department have more continuous training," said Prof. John S. Morgan of the school of Social Work, director of the course. "Secondly, Dr. Pottle is anxious that his staff have real contact with the rest of Canada."

Mornings the students attend lectures on such standard topics as case work, interviewing and legislation.

Afternoons they frequently visit neighboring welfare agencies. Already they have attended a session of Toronto Juvenile Family Court, visited the Girls Training School, at Galt, Ont.

Stuart Godfrey, Newfoundland's Assistant Deputy Minister of Welfare, is here as a member of the group. He also acts as information officer when discussions turn to welfare problems peculiar to Newfoundland.

Juvenile delinquency, he explained, is perhaps less of a welfare problem in Newfoundland that is in other parts of Canada. Communities are close-knit and small. Church and school have woven strong ties.

On the other hand, housing has become a difficulty in St. John's and also in the rapidly growing industrial centre of Corner Brook.

"What to do with the able-bodied unemployed," was another problem in a province where the scattered population largely was dependent on seasonal work such as fishing.

Enthusiasm for welfare work runs high in this new province. Seven hundred persons have applied for the 70 openings in the Public Welfare Department since it was organized two years ago.

Workers were given preference if they had been teachers or worked in related fields because they would have had experience in dealing with people.

Women were kept pretty much in St. John's, not through any discrimination but because living could at times be rugged in the outports where many a welfare worker did his visiting by boat or dog-team.

A basic in-training program was set up by the department, but after two years the minister wanted his staff to have further training. As a result the six-week course was opened this summer.

BRESSETT'S CORNER

Mr. John V. Knutson accompaned by Mr. L. Rosenbloom, of Sherbrooke, attended the Rotary meeting at Hanover, Mass., held in Dartmouth College.

Doctor Urges More Research On Heart

Dublin — During a recent session of the British and Irish Medical Association, Dr. Richard Schilling of Manchester, England, said heart disease is "the disease of our times." He urged continued research into "that most fatal of conditions" on a national, Commonwealth or world scale.

The Manchester physician said death from heart disease from 1940 to 1949 had doubled in the age group of 15-44.

Dr. Donald Teare, Britinsh Home Office pathologist, discussing some 18,000 post-mortem examinations he had performed since the Second World War, told the group suicide was at the top of the list of unnatural deaths.

Suicide was followed in order, he said, by road, industrial and domestic accidents. Coal gas poisoning was responsible for more than one third of the suicides. Dr. Teare had dealt with 14 cases of men shooting themselves but none among women. Suicide by barbiturare drugs had been responsivle for 220 deaths among women and none among men.

It was stated at the meeting that Portugal, Finland and Ireland have the highest figures for tuberculosis as percentages of total deaths at young adult ages.

The session also emphasized that in the United Kingdom cancer is on the increase and the rates for women are higher than for men.

Canada's area is 30 times that of the British Isles.

Elephants have been known to live to an age of 120 years.

Attempting To Pass Hay Wagon, Taxi Meets Car In Head-On Smash; 10 Hurt

The business of passing vehicles on the road proved costly for a taxi driver from the Garthby area, his five passengers, and four persons in another car on the road to St. Denis de Brompton Saturday night.

All ten persons were injured in the head-on collision and were taken to hospital in Sherbrooke.

The seven-passenger taxi, a 1948-model Dodge sedan, and the car it met, a 1935-model Ford coupe, were almost annihilated in the collision.

Taken to hospital by ambulances of H. N. Brien and Gerard Monfette were: taxi driver Jean-Paul Frechette, 20, of Coleraine; Mrs. Stanislaus Rodrigue, 71, Bishopton; Clairette Gravel, 22, Bishopton; Mrs. Lionel Gregoire, 26, Coleraine; Rejeanne Cote, 20, Coleraine; and Gedeon Dupuis, 55, Coleraine.

The above were all passengers in the taxi and were taken to the Hotel Dieu.

Patients at the Hotel Dieu also are: Nelson Langlois, 37, of Four Pines; Mrs. Langlois, 37, his wife; their 10-year-old son Albert Langlois and their daughter Therese Langlois, 11.

Frechette suffered a fractured wrist and lacerations and was released after treatment Saturday.

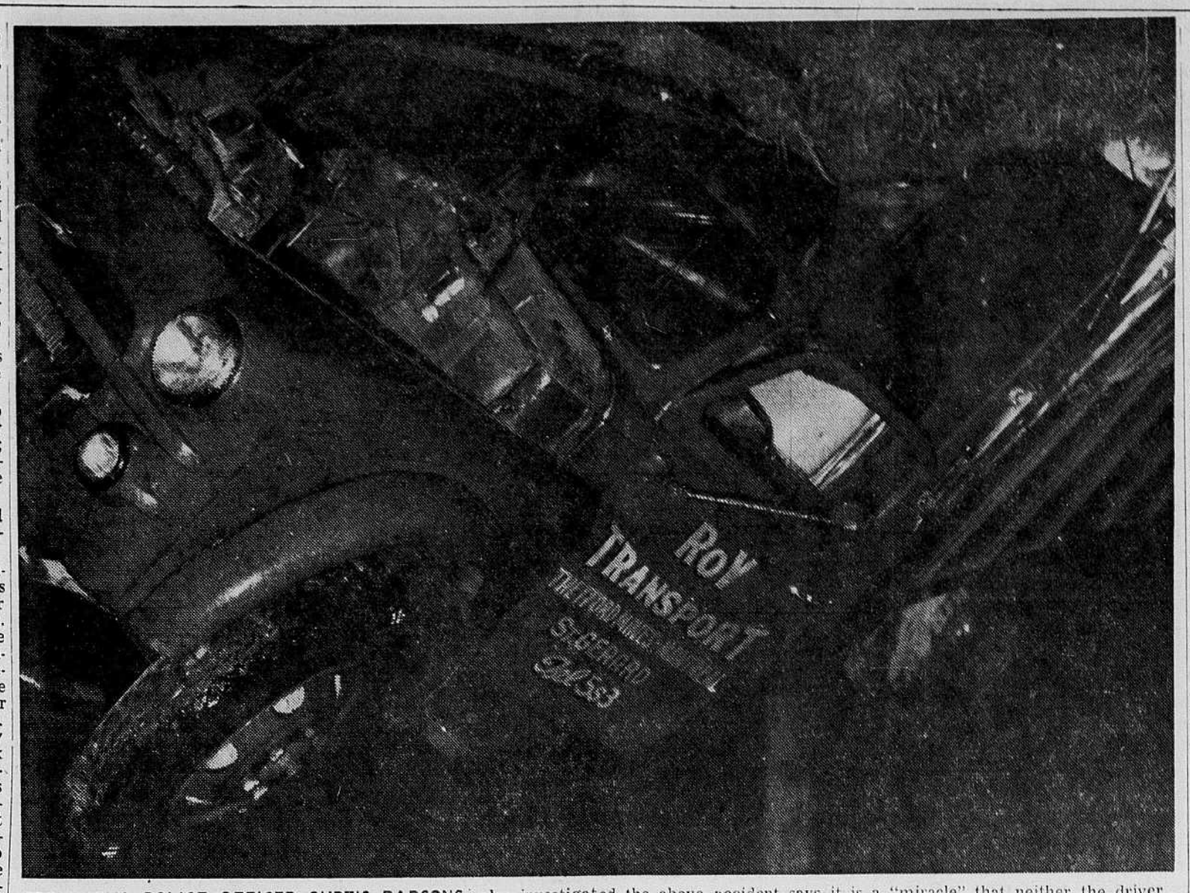
Mrs. Rodrigue received an injury to one of her legs. Miss Gravel is receiving treatment for a fractured wrist and lacerations. Mrs. Gregoire received probable fractures of face bones and shoulder injuries. Miss Cote was released after treatment for knee injuries as was Mr. Dupuis after treatment for feet and leg wounds.

Mr. Langlois suffered probably fractures of his nose and cheek bones while his wife has four broken ribs. Young Albert Langlois has a fractured skull, facial lacerations, fractures to his right wrist, right hip and probably fracture to his left arm. He is said to be progressing well, however. The little girl is being treated for lacerations to her body and face.

The mishap occurred three miles from Route five on the road to St. Denis de Brompton, near Kee Brook.

Sgt. Henri Cantin, head of the Provincial Police traffic squad in Sherbrooke, who investigated with Traffic Officer Ernest Cote, says that the taxi was attempting to pass a hay wagon. When the cab straightened out after passing the vehicle it met the other car head on.

The accident occurred about 7.15 o'clock Saturday night. The taxi was proceeding to the Lake while the car was headed towards Sherbrooke.



PROVINCIAL POLICE OFFICER CURTIS PARSONS who investigated the above accident says it is a "miracle" that neither the driver nor his companion were killed in the truck, let alone escape injury as they did. This week-end accident occurred on a hill on the other side of Ascot. Driver Armand Roy of Thetford Mines tried to apply his brakes but they failed him. He lost control of the vehicle and it tipped over into a ditch. His companion, a man named Fortin, was also unhurt. (Breton Studio photo)

Jordan Plans End Of Titles

Amman, Jordan, Aug. 4—(AP)—The kingdom of Jordan was reported today planning to follow Egypt's lead in the abolition of the titles of Bey and Pasha.

The secretary to Prime Minister Tewfik Abul Huda said the cabinet had decided on the abolition at a meeting yesterday and the action would take effect after it is approved by the regency council.

Previously the two titles had been awarded by the King. Abul Huda himself is a Pasha.

Local reaction to the abolition was reported generally favorable.

Egypt's new army-backed government abolished the two titles after promising sweeping governmental reforms and forcing the abdication of King Farouk, but the effect of the de-titling is as yet unknown.

"Hatless Parade" Worries Designers

By MURIEL NARRAWAY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

London—The increasing number of distinguished women raily joining the "hatless parade" is one more headache for Britain's hat designers.

With the hat trade "a shadow of its pre-war self," manufacturers claim it is bad for trade when such women-in-the-news as Sarah Churchill, the Prime Minister's daughter, arrive in London—hatless.

Add to that such a prominent personality as Queen Mary attending a private showing of "Here's to the Memory," a film scrapbook of the last 50 years—without one of her well-known toques— and Film Star Ann Todd shopping in London's west end in black suit, pearls and not hat, and it may be admitted manufacturers have some thing to worry about.

Each summer since the end of the second world war, more and more well-dressed women have been shedding their hats with their winter woollies. Those who once would not dream of going without a hat, now are constantly seen with out one.

Take for instance, the two Lascelles Brides, Lady Harewood and the newly-wed Angela Dowding, wife of Gerald Lascelles. Lady Harewood and her one-time Mannequin sister-in-law. Both prefer no hats except when convention demands it.

Many society women, actresses and mannequins are lending conviction to growing belief that a smart hair-do is best even without a hat, by appearing hatless in well-known West End haunts that would have frowned on such temerity in 1939.

Teen-agers follow the lead such fashion setters as Film Stars Jean Simmons and Elizabeth Taylor, both of whom like short cuts and no hats. This type of hair-style is perhaps the greatest enemy of hat salesmen. With hair-dressing prices rising and short cuts requiring constant attention, there is little money left for hat-buying, on most teen-age budgets.

The smooth line of such precision-cut coiffures as the Economy Cut, one of the latest styles by West End Hair-dresser Raymond almost makes a hat unnecessary. With centre parting, the hair waved gently over the ears to taper at the nape in short-cut swirl curls, this style remains smart in any weather.

Latest figures show that the hat trade has dwindled to half its pre-war strength. The output of summer straws has fallen to 69,000 dozen from 788,000 dozen in 1935.

Manufactures predict that as long as the short hair cuts stay in fashion, hat sales will not rise.

July Set Records For Low Rainfall And Temperature

The month of July, 1952, set all-time low records for rainfall and temperature, it is noted in the meteorological data report of the Dominion Experimental Station at Lennoxville.

Only 1.36 inches of rain, compared with an average for the month of 4.08 inches, fell last month and that is the lowest amount of rain to fall in a July in the 38-year history of the Station. Temperatures last month ranged from a cool 33 degrees on July 30 to 97 degrees on July 18. The low temperature is the lowest of record for a July day here. All-time high thermomenter reading for July is 99 degrees, a mark reached way back in July, 1921.

Average temperature last month was 71.5 degrees compared with an average of 66.82. Total sunshine for last month was 296.3 hours compared with an average of 242.2.

Course Teaches Proper Reading

Vancouver — University of British Columbia has set up a course to help people with "painful crippled reading habits."

Under direction of Margaret Sage, students are given tests to determine intelligence, aptitude, personality and reading ability. From this data the course is worked out.

First step usually is reading of a film projected on a screen which flashes a phrase at a time with speed varying from 100 to 500 words a minute.

The students views these films several times a week until he can master 400 or 500 words a minute with ease. After each viewing he writes an examination testing his understanding what has been read.

Another test is the teachistoscope, or flash meter, which projects whole sentences on the screen for split seconds.

Judge Says Crooks Like It In Prison

Gloucester, England— Raglan Somerset, a Gloucester magistrate, believes he has discovered the reason why many criminals return to prison time and again.

The British lock-ups, he claims, are simply far too comfortable.

Speaking at a conference of law-enforcement officers here, Mr. Somerset said it was almost certain the food and living conditions generally available to prisoners were a considerable improvement on what they got at home.

He agreed prison reforms within reason should be introduced but sentimentality should not be tolerated where crime is concerned.

"It raises a big lump in the throat of a sentimentalist," he said, "But it only makes a large hole in the pockets of the rest of us."

Dr. Louis Gagnon, district coroner, has called an inquest for today.

Strip-Tease Makes Comeback In Japan With Back Brushes

By FRED SAITO

Tokyo.—(AP)—"They're as fickle as feathers in a high wind," the strip show director sighed.

He wasn't talking about his lovely ladies, but about the unpredictable Japanese who made the strip tease a national fad after the United States occupation deserted it for a thing called "swords-woman dramas" and now are swinging back to a modified strip show.

Ken Murai, 28-year-old director of the "France Za" (Za is Japanese for theatre), says the old form of the strip tease hit its peak in 1948. It was something new in kimono-clad Japan.

Japanese flocked to the huge burlesque houses throughout Japan to watch in deadpan fascination as the gals "took them off." But, Murai said, the show lost its popularity after reaching a logical conclusion and losing its power to shock.

Then came the rise of the swordswoman drama. This was a Japanese development that flattered Japanese marital spirit.

A beautiful feudal maiden, beset by thugs and bullies, would bear incredible misfortunes with the patience of Gautama Buddha. Finally, when pushed too far, she would snatch a razor-sharp Samurai sword and cut down her tormentors like a field of ripe rye.

In the later years of the occupation, this probably flattered Japanese pride, Murai said. When Japan became independent April 28, audiences lost interest.

Four months ago five theatres in Tokyo were showing swords-women. Now they've all gone back to the strip show—the new form, that is.

Instead of acres of sun-tanned Japanese skin, the shows now are more like farces played by girls wearing the least the law allows. The law here, while liberal, does insist the girls wear SOMETHING.

"Now a strip director has to use every ounce of resource to keep the audience," Murai declared.

He said one of his competitors tried to appeal to what he called "The Peeping Tom" instinct. He ripped out clusters of seats here and there in the theatre and installed tiled Japanese bathtubs—each tub complete with a pretty, G-stringed Japanese girl already in hot water.

The customers were urged to volunteer to scrub the lady's back.

The audience soon got tired of this too and in desperation the director had the girls take off the G-strings just before they hopped into the tub.

That brought the customers, all right, but it also brought the police who promptly arrested the bathers and the director.

Despite the seemingly light work, it's a hard life for the strip-tease girl in Japan. Instead of presenting a single star, the management features bare beauty by the dozen.

One theatre advertises a full 100 stars—an impressive sight, but a condition spreading the wages thinner than a teaser's veil. The average stripper gets 15,000 yen a month (about $40).

That isn't enough to keep a single woman in Tokyo. Many single strippers trudge off to work afterwards at extra jobs in cabarets and photo studios. Many others are married.

Backstage in a Japanese strip show theatre weary young ladies are found curled up all over the place in long, shapeless sleeping kimonos, trying to catch a nap between acts.

Not a well-turned ankle in sight.

Men Are Fined, Lose Licenses For Drunkenness

Two men, arrested over the week-end for driving while under the influence of liquor appeared before Magistrate Patrick Delaney in court here this morning and received sentences of $50 and costs each and had their drivers' licenses revoked for three months.

Fernard Trottier, R.R. 2, Victoriaville, and Oliva Dubois, of Windsor Mills were the men. Both pleaded guilty.

Trottier was arrested at Richmond yesterday by Provincial Police Officer Arthur Denault. Dubois was arrested in Sherbrooke, also yesterday.

Army Enlistees Get University Degrees

London — A scheme to attract young men of high academic and scientific ability to the technical branches of the British regular army has been initiated by the war office. Selected candidates between the ages of 17 and 20 will qualify.

Those recommended will be granted national service commissions as second lieutenants after serving six months in the ranks. Following a further six months of regimental duty they will be assigned to the Military College of Science where they will study for a degree in general science or engineering.

Successful applicants will receive antedated regular army commissions after two years at the Military College and be required to serve at least five years after completing their degree course.

War office spokesmen said the course was being introduced to meet increased demand for technical staff as well as liaison officers possessing highly-specialized training on guided missiles and other scientific subjects.

Garage And House Levelled In Fire

A Saturday evening fire destroyed the home and garage of Georges Brulotte on the fourth range at St. Elie d'Orford.

Mr. Brulotte received burns to one of his arms but after first aid by firemen was fit again.

The fire, cause of which is unknown, originated in the garage situated at the north side of the frame home and quickly spread, burning both garage and home to the ground.

Firemen from Sherbrooke's No. 1 station under Director W. P. Donahue and Acting Lieut. Henri Foucault responded to the call at 5.18 and returned to their post at 6.50 o'clock Saturday evening.

Preparations Near Completion For Annual Fair At Richmond

The Richmond County Agricultural Society's annual Fair is slated to begin its three day run on August 14 and promises to be the biggest and best in its 96 year history.

A total of $8,428 in prize money, first class entertainment and a large number of livestock entries all point to record attendances for this year.

The Fair program is a full and varied one. First class grandstand acts by Hamid and Son, a new and modern midway, and horse races every afternoon and evening headline the daily events.

Grand parades of livestock exhibits will be held on Friday and Saturday afternoons in addition to the regular program.

The Sherbrooke Regiment Band will be in attendance both afternoons and evenings on all three days.

The directors of the Fair have spared no efforts in their aim for a high standard in all departments of the fair. Expenditures amounting to $4,000 have gone into improvements to the buildings and grounds, including the construction of a new horse barn and a roof over the grandstand stage.

The officers of the Richmond County Agricultural Society are as follows: A E. Dyson, president; A. T. Smith, 1st vice-president; Henry Fowler, 2nd vice-president; Miss Antoinette Linahen, secretary-treasurer; W. E. McIver, auditor.

Heavy Loss Is Caused By Boundary Fire

Stanstead, Que., August 4.—Fire of unknown origin destroyed a sawmill belonging to Ernest Roy, of Stanstead, early Saturday morning, with the loss estimated at between $30,000 and $35,000.

Two buildings, machinery and a quantity of lumber were lost.

Mr. Roy, who carried no insurance on his mill, said that he cannot estimate his loss exactly, because it will depend to a great extent on how soon he can rebuild, and how much time will elapse before the plant can start producing again. He has been in business for the past five years and employed from 10 to 12 men.

Firemen from Derby, Rock Island and Stanstead were on the scene shortly after the fire broke out at 6 a.m. and remained there for a good part of the day. The mill was located in the centre of the town of Stanstead.

NATIONALISM AT SHAPE

The thorn of nationalism is plaguing the smooth working of Supreme Headquarters, Allied Powers in Europe. It seems that the NATO powers require a superman with the persuasive tongue of a Laurier, the affability of a Roosevelt, and the patience of a De Gaulle to keep harmony among the French, Germans, Greeks, Turks, British, American and Italians. Even General Eisenhower was forced to agree to the national demands of the member nations.

A particularly awkward moment occurred last February when Greece and Turkey refused to have their forces serve under an Italian commander. The Italian leftist press made much of the issue which it interpreted as a slur upon the Italian people. Actually an Italian general was named to the southern ground command and the claims of the Turks and Greeks were still under consideration when Eisenhower left for the United States. It was announced a few days ago that SHAPE was compelled to agree finally to splitting up the southern ground command into two divisions, an eastern division including Greek and Turkish troops under an American general, and a western division under an Italian general.

Another split in the southern command, this time in the naval sphere is still unsolved. The British have refused to assign their Mediterranean fleet to the operational control of the United States admiral, Robert B. Carney, who has been appointed Commander of Allied Forces in Southern Europe.

The three major SHAPE departments are northern, central and southern European commands. Each is under a commander responsible to General Ridgway. This splitting of the southern department into two elements is the price that must be paid in attempting to fit together into one super-organization nationalities with historical prejudices. These nations refuse to submerge these prejudices, but the necessity of having them as members of N.A.T.O. is so compelling that some sacrifice of effective organization must now be made in favor of national traditions.

Splitting of commands means more red tape, more deputation of powers and a further distance between General Ridgway and the actual men and machines manning the area under question. Whether in time of emergency SHAPE with its huge bulk will be able to act quickly and effectively remains, we hope, never to be seen. Every instance, however, of its deference to the demands of national pride and feelings is accompanied by a corresponding reduction in its overall effectiveness.

JUVENILE DELINQUENCY

It is almost a truism to say that juvenile delinquency is the fault of parents rather than children, but making that statement does not solve the problem. Indeed, comments The Printed Word, it suggests that the problem is close to being insoluble, parents as a class usually being a stubborn lot, prone to resent outside interference with their methods.

Delinquency, in either youth or adult, is principally carelessness about the rights of others. Training is some kind is necessary for most human beings before a workable compromise is arranged between what is due to others and what is due to oneself. In so far as home training is defective in establishing this compromise, the parents may be held responsible for the failings of their children. Once the basic principles of good conduct have been taught, it seems only fair that the child should be left to make his own mistakes and suffer the consequences. Otherwise he is a perpetual juvenile, and has a fair chance of becoming a perpetual delinquent.

If it is true that there has been an increase in juvenile delinquency in recent years, it might be considered whether another group besides the unfortunate parents could be found to shoulder some of the responsibility. One such group is composed of the advocates of the welfare state. A boy or girl who has been trained to respect property rights must receive quite a moral shock on realizing that much of the business of government is concerned with chiselling away most of the benefits that private property is supposed to confer on its owners.

PRESS COMMENTS

POST OFFICE A LAW UNTO ITSELF

Toronto Telegram

Among the bureaucrats of Ottawa, none are more absurdly autocratic than those of the Post Office. These stiff-necked gentlemen bow neither to law nor to reason. In their domineering complacency they are a law unto themselves and do not hesitate to nullify the effect of statutes by regulations of their own making.

In the latest exhibition of the Post Office throwing its weight about, the Postmaster General, in effect, usurps Mr. Abbott's functions and imposes a tax upon advertising. This he does by the issue of a brand new regulation which declares that where a section of a newspaper is devoted entirely to advertising, instead of being charged postage in bulk at four cents a pound the section shall be charged two cents an ounce for the first ounce and one cent for each additional ounce to each separate address.

The Postmaster General has not been deterred from taking this action by the fact that Parliament has very definitely said what the postage on newspapers shall be, setting one rate for their non-advertising content and another rate for the advertising content. The Postmaster General's regulation doubles the rate on advertising set by Parliament.

The protext on which he has so decreed is that the Post Office Act confers upon him power to make regulations for the classification of mail. Ignoring the fact that Parliament has already dealt with the postage rate on newspaper advertising matter, and ignoring the impossibility of publishing a large issue of a newspaper in a single section, the Postmaster General has made the extraordinary ruling that where one section of a newspaper is devoted to advertising that section is not part of the newspaper and is to be charged double postal rates. The absurdity of this ruling is seen in the fact that, were it possible to print the same paper in one section, the same advertising would carry only half the postage the Postmaster General now collects.

It would be no more absurd for the Postmaster General to rule that if a letter is written on two sheets of note paper it must carry double postage. Upon what meat do these, our Caesars, feed that they have grown so great?

TORY LEADS SOCIAL CREDIT

Victoria Times

The Social Credit party has done well in choosing Mr. W. A. C. Bennett as its leader. He is the only man among its members-elect with parliamentary experience. Moreover, it is probably more due to his initiative than to that of any other person that the Social Credit party has emerged in its present form in this province and its present strength in the legislature.

Mr. Bennett has always been an able man. He is by no stretch of the imagination a disciple of Social Credit. He joined that party in rebellion against the Progressive Conservative leadership of Mr. Anscomb.

So far as Mr. Bennett represents the Social Credit in British Columbia, it is essentially a rebellion against the Conservatives. That position, of course, does not exist elsewhere in Canada.

To all intents and purposes, Social Credit here will be headed by a life-long Progressive Conservative who had no experience, or possibly interest, in Social Credit up to a few months ago.

DIK-DIK IN THE NEWS

Port Arthur News-Chronicle

The current news has been telling about a prospector having been missing in the vicinity of Atigogama Lake and the old Dik-Dik mining property.

The names Atigogama and Dik-Dik have not been much in the news lately but in the gold boom of the early 30's they were quite prominent, as some residents will remember.

Atigogama Lake is almost directly north of Jellicoe. Dik-Dik was a spectacular discovery from which an amount of exceedingly high grade gold ore was taken in surface operations and shipped by sled over the Winter roads to Jellicoe and thence to a mill.

The name Dik-Dik is that of an animal resembling a deer, native of South Africa where the owners of the property once operated.

PROFITS OF METERS

Lethbridge Herald

The Herald has always opposed the installation of parking meters in Lethbridge.

We will continue opposition to making people pay for the use of the streets which they have already paid to build by the installation of these curb bandits. If the time should come when an ironclad undertaking that is enforceable can be made between the city and the taxpayers whereby off-street parking lots would be made available from the "profits" of the meters, then we might reconsider our stand.

FILL THE STREETS

Toronto Globe and Mail

There are 300,000 registered motor vehicles in Greater Toronto area which regularly use Toronto's traffic facilities. If stood bumper to bumper they would make a solid line far longer than the sum total—578 miles—of Toronto streets. In order to have motion they would need several times that distance.

So there are vastly more motorists trying to use the streets than there are streets to be used.

British Cabinet Postpones Action On Transport Bill

By EDWIN S. JOHNSON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

London, Aug. 4—(CP)—The British cabinet has postponed a showdown with belligerent Socialists over implementation of the controversial transport bill which would decentralize the country's nationalized railways and return road haulage to private enterprise.

Capt. H. F. C. Crookshank, leader of the House, announced that the bill will be re-introduced as the first business to be dealt with after the new session is opened by the Queen in October. To have proceeded with second reading now, he said, would have involved delay in the normal summer recess and prolonged the present session until the end of the year.

The postponement came as a surprise to opposition forces who had already launched a country-wide campaign against the proposed legislation. Labor's spokesmen in Parliament have also warned that road haulage will be re-nationalized if their party is returned to power.

Meanwhile, the Government's decision to go ahead with its transportation plans brought ominous rumblings of discontent from the powerful railway unions. Talk of strike, however, was tempered with an appeal from leaders of other unions for cool heads and reasonable restraint.

James B. Figgins, secretary of the National Union of Railwaymen, publicly threatened the government with widespread industrial action to prevent the transport bill becoming law.

"We will demonstrate to the Conservative party that it cannot treat with contempt the workers of Great Britain," he said.

"We will not only fight politically, but if necessary I hope we will fight industrially—not only with the strength of our organization but with the strength of the whole British trade union movement and the Labor party."

Mr. Figgins' attack was made in support of an N.U.R. conference resolution denouncing the transport bill as a major threat to the national welfare "and ultimate realization of an efficient transport structure." He maintained the bill was an undustrial issue as it affected the living standards of the workers.

Subsequently Mr. Figgins explained he had not intended to suggest a complete general strike, but a stoppage by the transport workers.

"The effect, however would be the same," he said. "If transport stops, all industry stops."

But N.U.R.'s official mouthpiece, the Railway Review, took issue with Mr. Figgins over the use of industrial action for political purposes. Said the publication: "Leaders must be strong not through industrial action but through a cool and intelligent assessment of the situation. The days are gone when demogogy, fiery orations, stamping perorations, shouting and emotional stimulation can masquerade as leadership."

And from Sir William Lawther, president of the 725,000-strong

Jacoby On Bridge

By OSWALD JACOBY

GUESSING WILL OFTEN HELP IN BRIDGE GAME

Sometimes a bridge player has to guess, but it's often just a brainstorm. At any rate, that's what happened to East in the hand shown today.

South could have defeated the opponents at four hearts, but he thought it was far safer to go to five clubs. He expected to be set one or two tricks, but his honors were sure to reduce the penalty considerably. It was too risky to let the opponents have a chance at game and rubber with their contract of four hearts.

Against South's intended sacrifice of five clubs, West opened the king of diamonds. East played the discouraging three, and West hastily shifted to the queen of hearts. East overtook with the king of hearts and then wavered.

As East explained later, he knew that South had one more red card, but he couldn't tell whether it was a diamond or a heart. He was afraid to lead the wrong suit for fear that South would ruff and then run the rest of the tricks. As it happened, he "guessed" wrong, by laying down the ace of diamonds.

South ruffed with the ten of clubs, drew three rounds of trumps ending in dummy, and led the ten of diamonds through East. This play was fortunate enough to pick up West's nine and therefore established two diamond tricks in dummy.

South ruffed out the queen of diamonds and returned the jack of spades. West covered with the queen and dummy won with the king. Now South could discard the losing heart and the low spade on dummy's good diamonds, after which it was a cinch to roll in 11 tricks.

East's "guess" was, of course, nothing of the sort. It was perfectly safe for East to lead a high heart. If South ruffed the heart, he could do nothing to dispose of any diamond loser he might hold.

It was true that East couldn't tell which suit to lead to win an immediate trick, but this was not important. The diamond trick could not turn away, but if a heart trick could be won, it had to be taken at once.

The Record Short Story

A VICTIM OF HIS ART

By WYATT BLASSINGAME

Patrolman Thomas O'Connor strolled south through the park, trying to look as casual as though this were any other time of the day. But actually it was six minutes after five — which meant Nora would be off work now, already out of the building, and starting to walk home through the park. Maybe. She often came this way though it was a long walk. Because if she didn't, the Lord alone knew when O'Connor would see her, what with her working in the daytime and he at night.

He thought of the sergeant who had put him on night duty, and swore silently. He thought of Michael Byrne, who didn't work at night, who didn't work at all, unless you could call singing work, and he swore again. He thought of Nora, who had red hair and a red mouth, plus other wonderful attributes, all appreciated by Mike Byrne, as well as himself. He sighed.

Ahead of him some kids got their football lodged in a tree. O'Connor got it down. He retrieved an old lady's dog. He pulled a young lady of 4 out of a mud puddle and held a handkerchief for her to blow her nose. And now it was 23 minutes past 5 and he decided dismally that Nora must have gone home by bus.

Then he saw the car. It was a blue convertible with the top down and Nora sat in it between Mike Byrne and Sol Haman, who was Mike's agent. Mike was driving and he pulled over to stop in front of O'Connor.

"Howya, Flatfoot?" Mike said.

"Canary," O'Connor said. He looked at Nora. The wind had blown her hair and the sun tangled in it.

"You're beautiful," he said. "Even between these two—and informally dressed."

"The tuxedos," Sol said, "are since I got Mike a engagement singing in the Cliff House. We are on the way, as of now."

"The Cliff House is probably swank enough to live it down," O'Connor said.

"Big time," Sol said. "Mike is big time now."

"Too bad these fads never last," O'Connor said. He leaned an arm on the side of the car, looking at Nora, "I'm off duty at midnight, Sugar. Suppose I—"

She said, "I'm sorry, Tom. Mike asked me to go up to the Cliff House with him. I'm on the way home now to dress."

"But we'll think about you," Mike said. "Though not often." He laughed and swung the car into the traffic.

O'Connor looked dismally after them. Since high school he and Mike had courted Nora, and Mike had had advantage enough always, looking, as he did, like some movie hero. After school they had gone on the force together; then a radio station heard Mike sing with the police quartet, and hired him. He'd had a daytime program when O'Connor went on the night force. But now—

He thought of Nora wearing one of those strapless evening gowns, sitting at a table in the Cliff House while Mike, with a spotlight turned on him, sang to her. And Nora was a good girl, a wonderful girl. But impressionable.

Well, maybe Mike would be a flop at the Cliff House.

Mike was a hit. His contract was extended for the summer. His radio program was increasingly popular. He made guest appearances, and Nora went with him, if they were after her working hours. O'Connor was still on the night shift and about the only way he could talk to Nora that Summer was by telephone.

"The only time I see you," he said to her, over the phone, "is when you ride by with that bum in the afternoon. And after I've listened to him all day on the phonograph. My own kid sister is a drooling fan."

"He's certainly popular with the women," Nora said.

"I know," O'Connor said.

In October, Sol asked O'Connor one morning, "How'd you like some special duty, Tommy—and do a friend a good deed?" They were in Antonelli's pool parlor and Sol put a nickle in the juke and Mike's voice began to tell of a cold, cold heart. "I got him signed for the Palace," Sol said.

"I get the news from my kid sister," O'Connor said. "You'd think she hadn't known the bum all her life. He opens Monday."

"That's when I want you for the special duty," Sol said. "I already spoke to Sergeant Overmyer." He steered O'Connor to the window, away from the poolplayers. "Confidential, Tommy, I hire 10 girls from an agent for actresses. When Mike leaves the theatre they will give him the rush. For autographs. Souvenirs. Pull off his tie, his hat." He winked at O'Connor. "So maybe some photographers from the papers will happen to be there. Next day Mike is bigger news than Tony Bennett."

"What do you want with me?"

"For the pictures. Trying to keep back the mob, only not doing it so well as maybe some other cop might."

"No," O'Connor said.

"For a friend," Sol said. "Also, it's better than walking dogs in the park."

O'Connor thought about it.

"Could I get a pass for my kid sister? She's nuts to hear the guy."

"Sure," Sol said. "Tell her to scream when he comes on stage."

"I won't need to tell her," O'Connor said. "But I will."

Saturday morning he phoned Nora, but she and Mike were driving to Westchester.

"I've got a pass for Mike's opening," he said. "I guess he's already given you one."

"I'm going to be back stage with him. He says he wants me there—for luck."

"Yeah . . ." O'Connor said. "Well, I'll see you then. I'm bodyguarding the bum."

Monday night he stood in the wings with Nora beside him and watched. When Mike went on the audience cheered and screamed. "Two minutes, twenty-five seconds," Sol said. "Tony Bennett gets only two minutes, forty seconds."

"Maybe the extra 15 seconds was for being able to sing," O'Connor said.

Nora put her hand on O'Connor's arm, looking up at him. "Mike can sing. Really. His voice is improving all the time."

"Why not?" O'Connor said. "What else could it do?"

She smiled at him and he wanted to kiss her. "The way you talk. Only you don't fool anybody. Mike has been your best friend since grade school."

"Sure," O'Connor said. "He's a good guy. Only——" He raised his hand and touched Nora's cheek with one finger. It was soft and warm under his touch.

"I guess he's an artist, too. And I'm a cop." There was a knot in his throat. "But still I—you—"

"The last number," Sol said. "Take a look to the door, Tommy. The cameras oughta be there."

When it was over Sol and Mike and Nora came down the corridor together. O'Connor stood just inside the door. "They're waiting," he said.

Sol turned to Nora. "You keep back a little. Mike don't want his picture too much with one girl."

Nora looked at Mike. Mike was facing the door head up, wearing his professional smile. Said said to O'Connor, "Open her up," and O'Connor pushed open the door.

There was a massed scream. O'Connor had a glimpse of a wild surge of female faces; then the wave hit him and he was swept back on it, buried in perfume, shrieks, bobbysox, and bosoms. He heard Sol shouting for a taxi. He saw Mike's face rise out of the mass of girls into the glare of a flash bulb like a man washed up in the surf and going under again.

He got a glimpse of Nora caught in the storm and fought his way toward her, crowding her back against the wall for protection. Over his shoulder he saw Mike, hat gone, coat riped, dive desperately through the window of a moving taxi. The tumult ebbed.

"I suppose we're safe now," O'Connor said. But he still kept his arms around Nora.

Her hat was askew, her hair loose about her face; her dress was torn at the throat and one eye looked as though it might be black tomorrow. "What——" she asked, "happened?"

"Sol got more than he bargained for. That was the real thing. There's no doubt about it: Mike is a hit."

Nora still stood as though dazed. "It's been getting worse when he sang, but—not like this."

"You said he was improving," O'Connor said. "This is probably just the beginning"

"You mean—wherever he goes? From now on?"

"Or worse."

"How horrible!"

"The price of his success," O'Connor said. "But it's what he wants."

They found a taxi and, in it, in the quiet, Nora said, "You know, Tom, for a moment I thought I saw Mickey, your kid sister, in that mob. But she wouldn't——"

"It doesn't matter," O'Connor said. It had cost him a week's pay to get tickets for all of Mickey's

Pusan, Korea, Aug. 4.—(AP)—Police and troops have been advised to prepare for possible communist guerrilla interference tomorrow in South Korea's first popular election of a president and vice-president.

A government spokesman said reports had been received that the communists had ordered guerrillas to disrupt the election.

The republic has 8,218,000 eligible voters.

Syngman Rhee, 77, the nation's first president, is considered certain to be returned to office.

Originally the president was elected by the national assembly. But Rhee, using public pressure and police, recently forced the assembly to change the constitution to provide for the popular election.

Rhee has made no campaign speech. Since his is the only name and face known to the bulk of the voters, his three opponents are given little chance. They are Cho Bong Am, vice-chairman of the national assembly; Hugh Cynn, former ambassador to the U.S., and Lee Si Yung, former vice-president.

There are nine aspirants for vice-president. Six are classed as Rhee supporters but Rhee has endorsed no one.

Lee Bum Suk, who as home minister directed recent arrests of Rhee's political opponents in the fight with the assembly, was nominated by the dominant Liberal party, Rhee's own.

Other vice-presidential candidates include Ham Tai Yung and Louise Yim, the only women candidate.

Dr. Clarence Ryee, director of the office of public information, estimated that 90 per cent of the eligible voters would ballot at 5,893 polling places. The polls will be open for 12 hours beginning at 7 a.m. tomorrow (6 p.m. Monday EDT).

Fairly complete returns are not expected until Friday.

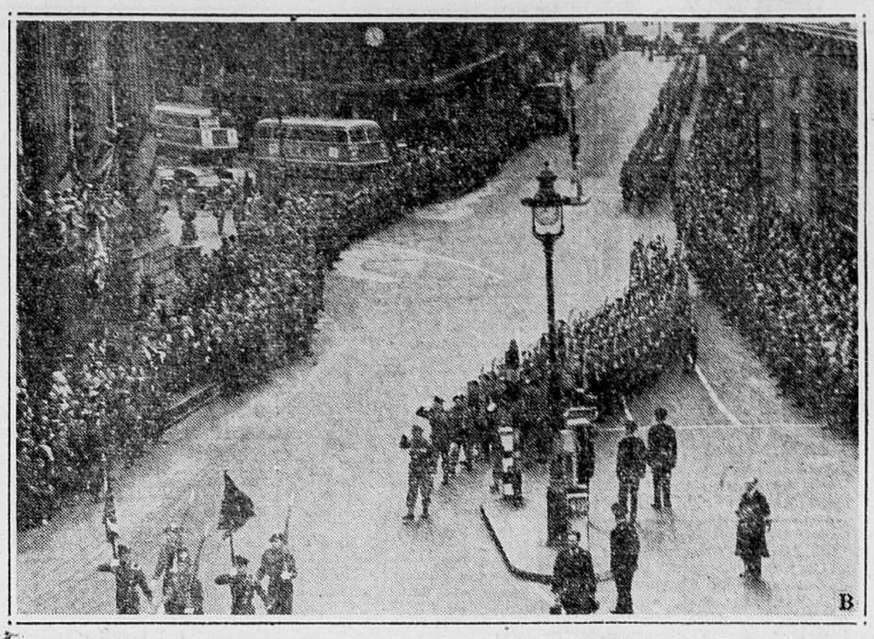
Korea-Bound Battalion Is Honored After 30 Years Overseas Service



THE RED CARPET was rolled out by the ancient City of London for the 1st Battalion of its own Royal Fusiliers, home in England for the first time in 30 years, but already under orders to proceed to Korea. Pictured are the Fusiliers as they passed the Mansion House of the Lord Mayor of London, exercising a right they won long ago—the honor of marching through the City with fixed bayonets. The fact that the battalion has been overseas 30 years does not mean that individual soldiers have been away that long—they have had leave and left the regiment during that time—but it does indicate how generations of British boys have been used to long periods of foreign service.

Customs Minister Jack T. Watts warned importers who placed orders without obtaining licences that they face "forfeiture of their goods and other penalties."

Alberta Voters Choose

There will be four additional seats in the new House. A redistribution bill revamped the electoral map, added the new seat of Bonnyville, gave Edmonton seven members instead of five, Calgary six instead of five, and substituted Lac La Biche for the former Beaver river constituency.

Polls open at 9 A.M. and close at 6 P.M. in the country, at 7 P.M. in the cities. In Edmonton and Calgary the election is decided by proportional representation, a complicated procedure which in Calgary last election needed 19 counts to decide the issue.

Outside these two cities, there is the single transferable vote wherever there are more than two candidates. Under this system, the low man's second choices are distributed among the leaders until one candidate has a majority over all others.

However, in 20 seats there will be straight two-candidate contests, meaning the issue will be decided on the same basis as elections in most other provinces. In 20 other ridings there are three candidates and in seven there are four nominees.

Edmonton is the mecca of party leaders. All four are running in the capital, which four years ago returned three of them—Premier Manning, Mr. Prowse and Mr. Roper. The fourth leader, M. E. Manning of the Progressive Conservatives, was not a candidate in the last election.

break in May.

A number of officers remained on duty at the jail but a police official said they were being used as standbys and emphasized no further trouble was expected.

One spokesman said damage was not expected to be as high as that in the May revolt when it was estimated around $500,000.

Another similarity in the two outbreaks was the fact that both Catholic and Protestant chapels were left untouched by the rioters.

OBITUARIES

MR. CARLYLE WINSTON BATES, OF LENNOXVILLE

Mr. Carlyle Winston Bates passed away very suddenly at his late residence, 25 Academy Street, Lennoxville, on Wednesday, June 18.

Mr. Bates was born at East Angus, on September 16, 1906, the son of Frederick Bates and his wife, Nellie Ward.

He lived at East Angus, Waterville and Lennoxville. Mr. Bates was a farmer, until about two years ago, when ill health forced him to retire. Although of a quiet and retiring nature, he was always ready to lend a helping hand to others.

Surviving him is his sister, Miss Bernice Bates.

The funeral service was held in the chapel of Blake's Funeral Home, on Friday, June 20, conducted by Pastor M. S. Fisher.

The bearers were Frank Knutson, Edward Deacon, Victor Sims, Arnold Deacon, Percy Wilson and William Loomis.

Interment was made in Greenwood Cemetery, Waterville.

the national library once this structure was built.

The Parliamentary library was built in 1865 and took six years to complete. It is a squat circular affair with an inverted ice-cream-cone top and slanted copper-sheathed roof that added to the fire-fighters' difficulties. In the centre of the library is a white, life-sized statue of Queen Victoria. This was saved from a drenching by a cover earlier erected by workmen who had been replacing windows in the dome and feared the valuable statue might be damaged by falling glass.

DRUMMONDVILLE

Some 300 fishing enthusiasts took part in the first Fishing Marathon at Brome Lake which was organized by the Yamaska Conservation Association under the direceion of Messrs. Rene Paquette, Peter Gunter and Roy Atkinson. Participants came from all parts of the Eastern Townships, including Montreal, the following are the first prizes awarded: Black Bass, Arlie Muirs, of Waterloo; Pike, Ed. Cox, of Sutton; Grass Pike, Wilfrid Charland, of Granby.

The health of the nation is important and the health of our children is particularly so, for they hold the hope of the future in the palm of their hands. With this thought in mind the Drummondville Playgrounds Association made it their business to cater to some 250 youngsters gathered in Woodyatt Park adjoining the Southern Canada Power House here recently. Professor Bruno Rouleau, of St. Frederick College, acted as chief instructor for the children's benefit during the day's festivities and recreation in the open, and was well rewarded by the happy, smiling faces and the shrill cry of children's laughter while at play.

English Summer School Closed On Saturday

"We will all be back next year," was agreed by the teachers and scholars of the Summer School held during July, at the College Du Sacre Coeur, Park avenue, when they parted company on Saturday.

The English Summer School, sponsored by the Department of Public Instruction for French teachers in the district, conducted by English teachers on the staff of "Le College Classique," Quebec City, including Mrs. Harold Fisher, head teacher, Miss Susan McKenna, Miss Christine Fitzmaurice, and Miss Margaret Whealan, held their closing on Friday evening.

Arranged by Mrs. Fisher, the teachers—pupils for July--presented with surprising success, an interesting program opening with "O Canada" and followed by other English songs in chorus, recitations, skits, a debate and a humorous sketch written by the performers.

Most of the teachers have scarcely any contact with English speaking people and are therefore faced with the difficult task of mastering pronunciation. On this point they bent their efforts and achieved notable progress at the end of a short month of study.

The pupils were congratulated by Mrs. Fisher, who also thanked them for their co-operation, and small prizes were awarded to those having attained highest points. The teachers were also thanked for their interest and devotion and each was presented with a compact.

Mrs. Fisher, on behalf of her companions and the students, said they were loud in praise of the hospitality shown to all by the Sisters, and the scenic beauty of Sherbrooke and the vicinity, which they had thoroughly visited and were looking forward to returning next year.

As a small token of appreciation, Rev. Sister St. Romuald was presented with a box of gladioli for the chapel, and other gifts from both teachers and pupils.

Rev. Sister Superior expressed great satisfaction at the way in which the school was conducted.

She said it had proved a very pleasant experience for all the members of the community and invited the same group to come back next year.

The French teachers who took advantage of the English Summer School were from Nicolet, L'Avenir, Island Brook, Drummondville, St. Zephirin, St. Malo d'Auckland, St. Elie d'Orford, Montmorency, Montmagny, Papineau, Lemesurier, Asbestos, Black Lake and Montreal.

MARRIAGES

COX—MOLWAY

Rock Island, Que., Aug. 4. — Christ Church, Stanstead, was the scene of a pretty wedding on Saturday afternoon, July 19, at three o'clock, when Marion Beverly, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Molway, of Rock Island, became the bride of Mr. John Cox, of Rock Island. The Rev. F. W. Mitchell officiated and the wedding music was played by Mrs. Peter Leckie-Ewing. The church was decorated with a profusion of summer flowers and the guest pews were marked with sprays of flowers and white tulle bows.

The bride, given in marriage by her uncle, Mr. H. B. Lyons, wore in a floor length gown of white nylon and lace over bridal satin, fashioned with a full skirt of nylon and a fitted bodice of Chantilly lace, with a round neckline and cap sleeves, with matching nylon mitts. Her veil of tulle illusion was held in place by a coronet of seed pearls and she carried a cascade bouquet of American Beauty roses with white satin streamers. Her only ornament was a triple strand of pearls, the gift of the groom.

Miss Elaine Chamberlain, bridesmaid, was in a gown of blue taffeta, fashioned in similiar style to that of the bride and she wore a matching hat and carried a colonial bouquet of multi-colored sweet peas.

Mr. William Pope was best man and the ushers were Mr. Erwin Taylor and Mr. Rodney Bowen.

Mrs. Molway, mother of the bride, was attired in a frock of navy blue sheer with which she wore white accessories and a corsage of American Beauty roses.

Mrs. Lyons, aunt of the bride, was in a frock of champagne color lace o er taffeta, and she wore grey accessories and a corsage of American Beauty roses.

The reception, held immediately following the ceremony, took place in the parish hall where summer flowers were used to decorate. The bride's table was covered with a lace cloth and centered with the wedding cake, made by Mrs. Lyons, and decorated in white and silver by the Sisters of the Ursuline convent, Stanstead. A miniature bride and groom topped the cake which was flanked by white tapers in silver holders and vases of sweet peas and pansies.

Rev. Mr. Mitchell proposed a toast to Queen Elizabeth, and Mr. Pope, the best man, proposed a toast to the bride.

Later the couple with their family and numerous friends gathered at the home of the bride, on Lee Street, where they viewed the numerous and lovely gifts.

Later Mr. and Mrs. Cox left on a motor trip to the White Mountains and New England States, the bride travelling in a navy blue and white dress with white accessories.

On their return Mr. and Mrs. Cox took up residence in Rock Island.

Mrs. Cox attended Stanstead College, is a graduate of Bugbee Business College, and she is employed at the local office of the Eastern Townships Telephone Company.

Mr. Cox is employed at the Union Twist Drill Company, Butterfield Division. During World War II he served overseas with the Canadian Army for five years at which time he was a prisoner of war for one year.

DOROTHY DIX

Too-Loud Radios

Offenders Usually Don't Realize They're Noisy

DEAR MISS DIX: Is there a remedy for people who play their radios so loud and so long at a time? Are they just trying to let everyone else know that they own a radio?

FRANCES

ANSWER: Most people who play their radios too loud simply don't realize the volume of noise they are creating. A radio that seems reasonably quiet to the listener can be absolutely blasting to an outsider. Perhaps if you brought the matter to the attention of the offenders, they would co-operate by tuning down.

GIVE HIM A CHANCE

DEAR MISS DIX: I am very much in love with Keith. The other night he told me he wasn't sure if he wanted to go with me or not. He's sure he likes me, but he doesn't know how much. Should I continue going with him?

A. S.

ANSWER: If Keith wants to go with you simply on a friendship basis, why not go along with him? Perhaps something more serious will develope; if it doesn't, you'll just have to bury your affections and begin all over later with another boy. However, since you care so much for Keich, it's worth a chance.

DEAR MISS DIX: Two weeks ago I met a boy who says he really loves me. I cannot truthfully say I love him, but I do like him a lot. He's 17, I'm 15. My parents seem to approve of him, too. Last night he came over and gave me a wrist watch. I know my mother wouldn't let me keep it. Should I keep it secretly or return it to him?

B. L.

ANSWER: Neither you nor the boy can be the least bit sure of your feelings for each other; first, because of the extreamely short period of acquaintance, second, because of your youth. Most emphatically you should return the watch. It is too valueable a gift to be accepted under the circumstances and furthermore, don't ever keep a present that your mother doesn't know about.

DEAR MISS DIX: In March I became engaged to a boy I know eight months. We were to be married in April, but his father died and the wedding was delayed until August. Now the boy thinks we should wait until November, when he will be out of the army. My friends say he is trying to back out of the wedding. Do you think so?

M. M.

ANSWER: You cannot reasonably expect a boy who has lost a parent to continue with all his plans just as if nothing had happened. The emotional upset alone would be enough to make him want a postponement of the wedding; and there are probably practical complications as well. Don't add to his troubles by being unsympathetic and ornery. Try to see his position, too. Waiting until November won't entail too great a hardship.

DEAR MISS DIX: Two months ago I met a boy whom I liked very much. He comes to see me two or three times a week. Now he tells me he has a girl friend in another town and expects to marry her some day. Since I love him very much, do you think there is a chance of my getting him away from her?

PATSY

ANSWER: You are foolish to care for a boy who shows such deceitful character and, if you could get him, you'd be more foolish to take him! He has proven himself fickle to the girl he intends to marry—what do you expect him to do to you? He is incapable of true affection or loyalty to anyone; don't waste your love or time on him!

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: Although I am only 14, I have been going out with girls and boys who are older than I. I am never deprived of the privilege of going out and doing the things they do. Occassionally they take a cigarette and offer me one. I usually accept. Do you think I am doing right?

GRACIE

ANSWER: Nothing look sillier than an adolescent waving a cigarette around. Aping the privileges of one's elders is not the best way to enjoy one's youth. Aren't you taking advantage of mom and pop's good nature by doing things you know they would not approve? They extend liberal privileges to you; why not be satisfied with them and behave like a sensible 14-year-old?

The Flying Saucers Are Back

By HARRY G. BARNES
Written for NEA Service

Washington. —(NEA)— Shortly after midnight on July 19, Ed Nugent called me over to the radar scope and laughingly said: "Here's a fleet of flying saucers for you."

As it turns out now, Ed could very well have been stating an absolute fact.

I am a senior air route traffic controller for the Civil Aeronautics Administration and was in charge of the air route traffic control center that particular night at National Airport. Briefly, part of our jobs is to constantly monitor the skies around the nation's capital with the electronic eye of radar for purposes of controlling air traffic.

Our shift had been on duty about 40 minutes. Eight men were on this particular shift. It was a normal night for both flying and weather. The sky was cloudless, no storms were approaching. Air traffiic was light, as usual for that period. I think those facts are important in connection with what came later.

The "things" which caused Ed to call me over to the scope were seven pips clustered together irregularly in one corner. The scope is 24 inches in diameter and the pips show up as pale violet spots. Ordinarily they represent aircraft in the air. The radar we were using scans a 70-mile radius.

The seven pips indicated that the objects, or whatever they were, were in the air over an area about nine miles in diameter, 15 miles south-southwest of Washington. We knew immediately that a very strange situation existed. First, from all the information we had at hand, we knew that the spots were not aircraft —at least not friendly aircraft.

That left three possibilities, enemy aircraft, some unexplained flying objects or something wrong with the radar. We tracked the seven pips for about five minutes and quickly determined that they were moving between 100 and 130 miles per hour while we could observe them.

RADAR TRAFFIC CONTROLLER Harry G. Barnes (right) at Washington's National Airport tells fellow-controller Richard Thomas how he tracked mysterious objects on radar July 20.

But their movements were completely radical compared to those of ordinary aircraft. They followed no set course, were not in any formation, and we only seemed to be able to track them for about three miles at a time.

The individual pip would seem to disappear from the scope at intervals. Later I realized that if these objects had made any subdenbursts of extremely high speed, that would account for them disappearing form the scope temporarily. Our radar is only designed to track known types of aircraft or objects in the air at speeds known to all of us.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Harry G. Barnes, who wrote this eyewitness account of tracking "flying saucers" on radar exclusively for NEA Service and The Record, has been with the Civil Aeronautics Administration for nine years. For the last five years, he has been working on radar traffic control.

After five minutes of watching the strange pips, I asked Jim Copeland and Jim Ritchey, two experienced radar controllers, to check our observafions. They confirmed our findings. Then I called the airport control tower to see what the radar showed there. The radar operator verified the same thing instantly.

At this time I notified the Air Force of our observation. This is a regular procedure but some parts of it are secret and I am not at liberty to explain it in detail. But we kept the Air Force informed of subsequent observations which continued for approximately the next six hours, until after daylight when we could no longer distinguish the objects from other aircraft.

Early Sunday morning is an especially busy time for both private flying and military reserve flying.

Before notifying the Air Force of our findings, our technicians had carefully checked the equipment to make certain that it was operating perfectly.

These are the important events of the next six hours:

During the first hour the objects had moved over all sectors of our scope. That meant that they had been over the restricted areas of Washington, including the White House and Capitol.

At the first opportunity Ritchey contacted Capital Airline pilot Captain S. C. Pierman, a veteran of 17 years of flying. Shortly after taking off, Ritchey asked Pierman to look for the objects we were watching on the scope. He agreed to do this.

All of a sudden his voice came over the radio, which we could all hear, with the words:

"There's one, and there it goes."

He described it as just a bright light, moving fasher than a shooting star at times.

His subsequent descriptions of the movements of the objects coincided with the position of our pips at all times while in our range.

During the next 14 minutes he reported that he saw six such lights. He said they had no tail, no recognizable shape and were just bright lights in the dark sky.

Each sighting coincided with a pip we could see near his plane. When he reported that the light streaked off at high speed, it disappeared on our scope, for the apparent reason I cited.

While he was giving us reports of his sightings, he was on a course from Herndon, Va., to Martinsburg, W. Va.

Some of the other pilots we contacted reported that they were unable to see the objects. I had the distinct feeling that some of them were just unwilling to discuss the subject over the radio.

However one other commercial pilot did flatly confirm seeing a light off his left wing which we saw as a pip on the scope. He was coming in for his landing and the tower scope reported the same radar sighting. The light disappeared on our scope and from his view about four miles before he touched his wheels down.

During the whole period of observation we could detect no pattern to the movement of these objects. However, they did seem to become most active around the planes we saw on the scope. We did not see the pips in any recognizable formation at any time.

The radar we were using does not show altitude and it is faintly possible that the objects could have been in a vertical formation without our recognizing it.

At one time toward daybreak we counted 10 objects over Andrews Field, just outside of Washington. We sighted seven originally. Most of the time we could count eight of them.

The only recognizable behavior pattern which occurred to me from watching the pips was that they acted like a bunch of small kids out playing. It was helter skelter, as if directed by some, innate curiosity. At times they moved as a group or cluster. Other times as individuals over widely scattered areas.

Other than some information in connection with our communications with the Air Force, which is classified, the above is a complete factual description of the important events which took place during those six hours. These facts I have set forth in my official report to CAA.

Speaking personally, and not officially for CAA, I would like to make these additional comments:

Radar is strictly an electronics device. It has no imagination. It reports only what it "sees." The equipment was in perfect operating order during that period.

There is no other conclusion I can reach but that for six hours on the morning of the 20th of July there were at least 10 unidentifiable objects moving above Washington. They were not ordinary aircraft. I could tell that by their movement on the scope.

I can safely deduce that they performed gyrations which no known aircraft could perform. By this I mean that our scope showed that they could make right angle turns and complete reversals of flight.

Nor in my opinion could any natural phenomena such as shooting stars, electrical disturbances or clouds, account for these spots on our radar.

Exactly what they are? I don't know. You now know as much about them as I do. And your guess is as good at mine.

1952 OLYMPIC GAMES END WITH SENSATIONAL U.S. VICTORY

Chalk Up 111 Points On Final Day To Edge Russia; 65,000 Ou Hand As Games End; Britain Wins Equestrian

Helsinki, Aug. 4.—(CP)—The Olympic torch was extinguished yesterday and the great white Olympic flag with its five interlocking circles was hauled down — end of the brilliant international sports festival in which the United States came from behind with a sensational rush to snatch the unofficial team leadership from Russia.

Britain won its only first place in the games by taking the Prix de Nations, colorful equestrian event that traditionally closes the solid two weeks of competition.

Chile placed second in this final event — a severe test of horsemanship over high barriers — and the U.S. was third.

This brought the total points for the U.S. to 614 against 553½ for Russia in the unofficial standing.

There were 65,000 persons in Olympic Stadium when the flags of 70 nations that sent 5,780 athletes to Helsinki appeared in a final parade and the call was sounded for the youth of the world to reassemble in Melbourne, Australia, in 1956.

The drama and record-breaking that have been a daily part of these games since July 19 were climaxed Saturday in the tremendous surge of point-scoring by the U.S.—111 points in the single day to wipe out Russia's lead that has lasted 12 days.

The U. S. defeated Russia 36-25 to retain the basketball championship, won an all-important first in the men's 1,500-metre swim, scored a triple in the women's high-diving competition and topped all this off with a blazing five-for-five performance in the boxing finals.

The winning of five gold medals in boxing by any country is an Olympic record in itself and the deluge of championships ended the boxing-title famine that had plagued the U. S. since the 1932 games.

The U. S. entered Saturday's last full day of competition trailing Russia by 24½ points. The standing then showed Russia, competing for the first time in the games and trotting out a capable, sportsmanship-conscious band of athletes, with 523½ points. The U. S. had 499.

The whittling down of the lead started with the basketball final. The U. S. team, made up of players from the Peoria, Ill., Caterpillars and the University of Kansas, found it had its hands full in what turned out to be the lowest-scoring game of the entire tournament, 36-25. Previously in the round-robin tournament the U. S. had romped off to an 86-58 victory.

An hour after the basketball final, the U. S. aquatic stars took over the job of piling up more points.

Once more Olympic pool became the scene of renewed record-breaking by Australia, U. S. and Hungary on this final day, an unbelievable climax to a record-smashing week.

In the 11 events on the full Olympic swimming program, Olympic records were broken no fewer than 72 times during the week.

The U. S. missed the championship in the men's 200-metre final because John Davies of Australia swam his field dizzy in setting a record of two minutes, 34.4 seconds. But Bowen Stassforth of the U. S. came in second, while Herbert Klein of Germany, world record-holder at the distance, surprisingly had to settle for third.

Then little Ford Konno, from Honolulu, swam to a spectatular victory in the men's 1,500-metre final and the 10 scoring points put the U. S. ahead in the standing. Konno had to set an Olympic mark of 18:34 in overtaking and then cleanly beating out Japan's great Shiro Hashizumo, who placed second. Brazil's Tetsuo Okamoto was third and Jim McLane, adding three more points for the U. S., was fourth. Seven of the eighth racers broke the old Olympic record.

It was almost the same story in the women's 400-metre free-style final in which the first five finishers were under the Olympic record.

Valerie Gyenge and Eva Novak were too strong and powerful for the others and placed one-two for Hungary. Evelyn Kawamoto, University of Hawaii student, and Carolyn Green fourth to give the United States more scoring points.

The big triple came in the women's high diving, won by Mrs. Patricia McCormick with 79.37 points. It was the second gold-medal performance for the 22-year-old California housewife who earlier in the week won the springboard diving championship.

Paula Jean Myers of the U. S. placed second and Mrs. Juno Stover Irwin of the U. S., third, with 71.63 and 70.49 points, respectively.

Nicolo Pellissard of France was fourth and Phyllis Long of Britain fifth. Tatjana Vereina's sixth-place finish gave Russia one point in the standing.

The U. S. boxers, winding up the day's program Saturday night, outdid the smimmers and divers.

The 50 points piled up by the five-title-winning leather-pushers were just icing for the point-leadership cake. Russia scored 24 points in boxing—five points for each of the two Russian semi-finalists. There were 20 semi-finalists from countries other than the U.S. All five American semi-finalists were negro boxing stars—won their semi-final matches.

The American champions are Nate Brooks, flyweight; Charlie Adkins, light welterweight; Floyd Patterson, middleweight; Norvel Lee, light heavyweight, and Eddie Sanders, heavyweight.

The others are Pentti Hamalainen of Finland, bantamweight; Jan Zachara of Czechoslovakia, weatherweight; Aureliano Bolognesi of Italy, lightweight; Zygmunt Chychla of Poland, welterweight, and Laszalo Papp of Hungary, light middleweight.

The Olympic silver loving cup, awarded the outstanding boxer in the tournament, went to Norvel Lee. The 27-year-old veteran from Washington drew rave after rave from other boxers, officials, coaches and trainers.

Lee, a picture fighter who boxes in the classic stand-up style, gracefully fought his way to a unanimous decision over wild-swinging Antonio Pacenza of Argentina.

In the only other encounter in the finals between an American and a Russian, Charlie Adkins won over Viktor Mednov in the light welterweight class.

The only other Russian to reach the finals was Sergej Scherbakov, conquered by Ziggie Chychla, the classy Polish fighted who won by a unanimous decision.

The only knockout victory in the finals was scored by Floyd Patterson, who flattened Vasilo Tita of Romania in the first round.

H. Von Blixen-Finecke of Sweden won the three-day military equestrian event individually and Sweden won the three-day team title. Germany was second and the U. S. a surprising third.

Hungary won both the water polo and soccer championships.

Nationalism To Destroy Olympics, Says Prexy

Helsinki, Aug. 4. — (CP) — Avery Brundage of Chicago, new president of the International Olympic Committee, said yesterday "excess nationalism" threatens to destroy the Olympic Games.

Brundage obviously was referring to the bitter battle between the United States and Russia for the unofficial team honors. Olympic heads disapprove the practice of an over-all team championship on the basis of a 10-5-4-3-2-1 distribution of points for the first six finishers in each event.

Brundage told an informal press conference:

"If these games degenerate into a national competition we'll have something different from what we're supposed to have.

"If this becomes a giant contest between two great nations rich in talent and resources, the spirit of the Olympics will be destroyed.

"The Olympic Committee is greatly disturbed by this emphasis on nationalism. We don't know what we can do about it but we plan to study it to the fullest.

"Already we have made formal resolution asking newspapers to abandon their strew on team competition and emphasize individual competition which is the real Olympic purpose."

Tass, official Russia New Agency, said yesterday Russia does not propose to make any team tabulations of its own.

Black Hawks May Train At Sherbrooke Arena

Calgary, Aug. 4 —(CP)— A tie-up making Calgary Stampeders of the Western Hockey League the number one farm club of Chicago Black Hawks of the National Hockey League was announced Friday.

Stampeders supplant St. Louis of the American League as top Hawk farm club.

The new deal means Stampeders will have first call on all players not selected for the parent team at the Black Hawk training camp, expected to be at Sherbrooke, Que.

Stampeders became the second Western League team to get top rating in National League farm systems. Earlier, it was announced Edmonton Flyers will be the number one farm of Detroit Red Wings.

Russian Women Top American Rivals 176-63

Helsinki, Aug. 4—(CP)—American men outpointed their Russian rivals 551 to 377½ in the Olympic Games but women from the U.S. were behind the brawny girls from the Soviet Union by 176 points to 63.

Both countries had big representations of both sexes in track and field while American men outscored the Russians 224 points to 57 in track sports, the American girls were outpointed 70½ to 11 by the Russians.

Both Russian men and women outscored their rivals in such sports as gymnastics and greco-roman wrestling, little known in the U.S. and where the Americans had little or no representation.

The Russians scored 188 of their total of 553½ points in men's and women's gymnastics, and another 56 points in greco-roman wrestling.

Les Lear, Champagne Charged With Assault

Calgary, Aug. 4—(CP)—Coach Les Lear of Calgary Stampeders football team and linecoach Ed Champagne reserved plea and were remanded to Aug. 7 when they appeared in court Saturday charged with assault occasioning bodily harm.

The charge was laid by Mel Embree, negro end trying out for the Western Interprovincial Football Union team. Bail was set at $100.

Charges against Lear, 34, and Champagne, 29, were laid Friday. Embree said that Lear and Champagne asked him to come to the dressing room following a practice Thursday and offered him a contract.

Embree said the amounts in the contract were half what he was previously offered and he refused to sign. He said Lear and Champagne then "jumped" him, knocked him down and Lear allegedly kicked him in the eye and body.

Alberta Names Entry For Women's Golfing

Edmonton, Aug. 4—(CP)—Alberta Saturday named its entry for the Canadian Inter-Provincial Women's Team Golf Championships, completing the six-team line-up for the tournament which opens here Thursday.

The other five squads — British Columbia, Saskatchewan, Manitoba, Ontario and the defending champion Quebec—named their members earlier for the 36-hole title match.

Dodgers And Yanks Return To Form Winning Sunday Doubleheaders; Red Sox Shut Out By Detroit Tigers

The Brooklyn Dodgers and the New York Yankees, who have had a tough time winning lately, appeared to be back in form today.

They both swept doubleheaders Sunday and increased their league-leading margins.

The Dodgers whipped Chicago's Cubs, 3-2 and 9-1, to move 6½ games in front of the runner-up New York Giants who dropped a pair to lowly Pittsburgh, 7-0 and 10-8.

The Yanks picked on the St. Louis Browns for 6-1 and 6-4 triumphs, while the second-place Cleveland Indians beat the Philadelphia Athletics, 4-1, but dropped the nightcap, 9-2, to fall three games behind.

The Philadelphia Phillies continued to close in on third place in the National League with a 6-0 whitewashing of the St. Louis Cardinals. The Boston Braves and the Cincinnati Reds halved a twin bill, the Braves prevailing, 7-4, in the first game, and the Reds, 4-0, in the second.

Boston's third-place Red Sox lost ground in the American League as Detroit took a 6-0 single game. The Washington Senator-Chicago White Sox doubleheader was washed out in the ninth inning of the curtain-raiser with both teams still scoreless.

A pair of veterans sparked the Dodgers. Roy Campanella broke a 2-2 tie in the ninth inning of the opener with a bases-loaded single, and Duke Snider led a 14-hit attack in the after-piece with a triple and a homer good for four runs.

The Yanks triumph in the opener was the ninth for ex-National Leaguer Johnny Sain who yielded only six safeties and a single walk. His mates made the most of a like number of hits which included solo homers by Hank Bauer and Gil McDougald. Jim Dyck homered for the Brownie run.

Jim McDonald had a 6-0 shutout going into the last of the ninth in the second game, but the Browns put over four runs before Joe Ostrowski finally got the fire cut. He was the third Yank hurler, the other being Johnny Schmitz.

Murry Dickson, beaten in six innings by the Giants on Saturday, took over in the fourth inning of the first game when Paul Lapalme loaded the bases in the fourth frame, got Bobby Thomson to hit into a double play and went on to continue the blanking of the losers. The second game was called on account of darkness after the Giants put over seven runs in the sixth inning.

Bob Feller looked like the star he once was in hurling Cleveland to their opening game victory, but his performance was overshadowed by the A's Carl Scheib, an ex-reliefer, who stifled the Indians later on three hits, half the number Feller gave up.

Luke Easter hit his 15th four-bagger for the Indians in the opener and Larry Doby slammed his third in as many days in the windup. Gus Zernial belted his 19th round tripper with one on in the nightcap as the A's put over seven runs in the seventh inning.

Ex-GI Curt Simmons tossed his fifth shutout in 10 wins as the Phils moved to within 3½ games of the third-place Cards. Granny Hamner belted a three-run homer.

Although giving up eight hits, including a two-run homer by Ted Kluszewski, Warren Spahn captured his tenth win in 21 decisions for the Braves, but improving Bubba Church salvaged a split for the Reds with a steady six-hitter.

Hard-luck Art Houtteman allowed the Red Sox a measly four safeties to snap a five-game Tiger losing streak. Matt Batts hit a roundtripper as Houttemann, the American League's losingist pitcher won his sixth against 14 setbacks.

Connie Marrero and Billy Pierce were hooked up in the scoreless duel at Chicago, but after waiting an hour and eighteen minutes after seven and one-half innings, another cloudburst in the ninth prevented play completely.

Rookie outfielder Dusty Rhodes maintained his impressive home-run pace Saturday, delivering the game-winning blow as New York Giants edged Pittsburgh Pirates 4-3.

The homer, with one on base, was the eighth in 11 games for Rhodes at the Polo Grounds. The Giants were trailing 3-2 when he hit it. Shortly afterwards, the game was called in the sixth because of rain.

In another National League game lefty Harry Perkowski coasted to his 10th victory as Cincinnati Reds supported his eight-hit pitching with a 13-hit assault to beat Boston 8-3.

The game between Chicago Cubs and Brooklyn Dodgers was called in the fifth inning with the Cubs at bat and leading 4-0.

A five-run outburst in the eight hinning—topped by a grand-slam homer by Connie Ryan—gave Philadelphia Phillies a 6-2 win over St. Louis Cardinals.

In the American League, New York Yankees took it on the chin again when St. Louis Browns beat them 11-6. Cass Michaels collected four hits, drove in three runs and scored three times, Yogi Berra hit his 22nd and 23rd homers for the Yankees.

Philadelphia Athletics nipped Cleveland Indians 6-4 with Allie Clark hitting a two-run pinch-hit homer in the ninth for the winners. Gus Zernial clouted his 18th homer for Philadelphia and Larry Doby hit his 22nd for Cleveland.

Dom DiMaggio's grand-slam homer in the first inning started Boston Red Sox on the way to a 10-5 victory over Detroit Tigers. Winning pitcher Dizzy Trout and rookie Dick Gernert also homered.

Eddie Robinson was the big wheel in Chicago White Sox 6-1 triumph over Washington Senators. He drove in four runs with a double, a single and his 19th homer.

Moncton And Saint John Drop Out Of Maritime Major Hockey League; August 31 Set For Final Decision

Charlottetown, Aug. 4. — (CP) — Moncton Hawks officially withdrew from the Maritime Major Hockey League and Saint John Beavers forfeited their franchise by not attending a league meeting here Saturday.

The other teams — Halifax St. Mary's, Charlottetown Islanders, Sydney Millionaires and Glace Bay Miners — said they would remain in the league but made plans for a shorter schedule and lower salaries.

Moncton spokesman G. N. Roberts said Hawks hoped to re-enter the league when they — got their "second wind." Both teams have options, however, of applying for readmission until Aug. 31.

The executive held up a $1,000 bond posted last year by Saint John, league champions, pending settlement of a Halifax claim for its share of the last playoff game. Jimmy MacDonald said St. Mary's have not been paid nor had they received a statement of the gate receipts.

New Glasgow hockey officials, who earlier expressed intention of applying for admission to the league, were not represented. But another meeting was slated for Glace Bay Sept. 14.

Secretary Chris MacAlden was asked to draw up a 70-game schedule, 20 less than last season. One delegate suggested two home games per week until Christmas and three games every two weeks for the remainder of the season.

President J. Elliott Hudson asked clubs to bring suggestions to the next meeting on how to enforce a player' salary limit to $3,000 a season, excluding playoffs.

The executive decided to advertise for referees in a hockey publication and asked the clubs to forward names of local men who would be able to act as linemen.

Delegates adopted a player waiver rule that no player could be sold to another league unless other clubs had waived on him. The last-place club would be given first priority. The waiver price was set at $250.

Roy Duchemin of Sydney asked to make the waiver price $10. He said his Sydney Millionaires would not charge another club for a man they did not want.

The two teams will play three 36-hole foursomes Tuesday with six 36-hole twosomes Wednesday.

Tom Riddell of Beaconsfield and Joe Leblanc, of Whitlock, both former provincial champions, also made the team with scores of 222.

Fourth member of the team, which this year goes to Vancouver for the inter-provincial matches, will be the Quebec amateur champion, still to be decided.

Canada's Point Total In Olympics Helped largely By High School Youngster; Places 24th In Games

Helsinki, Aug. 4.—(CP)—If it hadn't been for a couple of sharp eyed marksmen, especially a high-school youngster named George Genereux, the point accumulation for Canada at the 1952 Olympic Games could have been lost in a fair-sized ant hill.

Canada placed 24th and scored a total of 30 points — five less than at the 1948 games in London for a 20th place tie.

But 10 of the 30 points at the games in Helsinki came on the brilliant gold-medal victory of the Saskatoon sharpshooter in the clay pigeon trapshooting. Glimour Boat of Toronto added three more points by placing fourth in the small-bore, prone-position section.

Boa missed a third-place bronze medal because the Olympic jury reshuffled its scoring cards, erased its orginal posting and said it was sorry but Boa was fourth, not third.

When it is considered that this was the first time Canada has sent a rifle team to the Olympics in 20 years or more—and there was some discussion as to whether riflemen should go this time—the importance of their contribution to the point scoring is plain.

The biggest disappointment was the track and field squad—both the men's and women's sections.

Canada had no points in track and field until almost the last event of the last day of that branch of the games. Then the men's 1,600-metre relay placed fourth. That meant three points in the unofficial standing, which is based on 10-5-4-3-2-1 for the first six places.

Canada's paddlers collected seven points—a second place by Ken Lane and Doug Hawgood of Toronto in the 10,000-metre Canadian pairs and a fifth place by Norm Lane of Ottawa in the Canadian singles.

The scoreless rowing team competed under a terrific handicap. Its shells were damaged en route to Helsinki and team emmbers rowed in make-shift or strange boats.

The muscle men held up their end. Seven points were collected by the weightlifters. Gerry Gratton of Montreal placed second in the middleweight division—"robbed of first place," his mates said—and Dave Baillie of Montreal was fifth in the heavyweight class.

The story of the rest of Canada's full team of 111, competing in 13 sports, is pretty much negative, so far as outstanding accomplishment is concerned.

The basketball team, with a good pre-Olympic build-up, was bounced out of the tournament in successive games.

The boxing team didn't cause any consternation. Len Walters, Vancouver featherweight, got as far as the quarter-finals.

In an interview with the Canadian Press a few days before the Games closed, A. Sidney Dawes of Montreal, president of the Canadian Olympic Association, said Canada's track and field performances were "most depressing," but he added:

"We didn't make a disgraceful showing and, over all, our performances weren't bad. It isn't correct to say that we are weaker in track and field than other countries. In all our sports we seem to place in the middle and I should like to see at the top."

Compared with other leading countries of the Commonwealth, Canada is the poor cousin, not only in wealth of points at Helsinki but in accomplishment since 1948.

At the games in London, Australia finished 13th with 85 points; in Helsinki 11th with 97 points.

Four years ago South Africa and Canada were tied for 20th place with 35 points. This year South Africa finished 14th with 67 points.

Even little Jamaica showed progress. In 1948, Jamaica was 22nd with 29 points; this time 20th with 39 points.

Here's how Canada's point scoring this year compares with the team's showing at London:

	1952	1948
Shooting	13	x
Canoeing	7	14
Weightlifting	7	5
Track and Field	3	14
Yachting	0	2

(X-no competitors in shooting in 1948).

No other points were scored in all other sports in which Canada competed at both London and Helsinki.

Real Delight Cops Beverly Handicap

Chicago, Aug. 4.—(AP)—Calumet Farm's Real Delight, ridden by Jockey Eddie Arcaro, won the 15th running of the $27,700 Beverly Handicap at Washington Park Saturday in one of the tightest finishes the winning pair ever experienced.

Real Delight, the three-year-old daughter of Bull Lea, achieved victory by only a head over a 45-to-1 shot, Aesthete. Clarence Hartwick's Sickle's Image finished third.

The triumph gave Arcaro his 28th stakes victory of the season. The win was Real Delight's seventh consecutive stakes victory and her ninth triumph in 10 races this year, her only season of racing.

ALMOST 4,000 PERSONS WITNESS REGATTA AT LITTLE LAKE

Daniel Mignault Gains Permanent Possession Of Gingras Auto Trophy; Louise Gaudet And Miss Emond Tie

One of the most successful regattas in the history of the Little Lake Canoe Club was held yesterday afternoon at Little Lake Magog.

Blessed by fair weather and with approximately 4,000 persons looking on, more than 200 entries gave a four-hour display of aquatic skill, brawn and pulchitrude that will long be remembered in the annals of district water sports.

Individual start of the regatta was Daniel Mignault who for the third straight year won the Gingras Automobile Company trophy and retains permanent possession of that as the senior aggregate winner.

Louise Gaudet and Pierette Emond finished in a dead heat for the women's high aggregate and will share the Jean-Paul Perreult trophy for six months each. This is Miss Gaudet's second time as winner.

The junior high aggregate went to Georges Emond and Jules Tanguay was winner of the high total for juvenile events.

After the events, which included all water sports from swimming and canoeing to parachute jumping and deep-sea diving, an open-air supper was held at Notre Dame de Liesse Church in aid of the parish and presided over by Rev. Henri Tremblay.

The day concluded with the presentation of trophies at the New White House Hotel where a dance was held.

The following were responsible for the program: Advisory committee, Mayor Emile Levesque of Sherbrooke, Georges Deslongchamps, Alphonse Genest, J. A. Archambault, Dr. A. A. Mignault, Mrs. Charles Mignault, Jean Emond, J. Gingras and J. A. E. Montmigny.

Organization committees: publicity, Bertrand Jacques, Jean Chartier, Len O'Donnell; program, Louis Hebert, Guy Levesque, president of the Canoe Club, Maurice Proulx; buoys, Jacques Genest and Jean-Guy Dion; registration, Pierre Tanguay, Yolande Chevalier and Madelein Emond; starters, Mayor Levesque and Pierre Levesque.

Master of ceremonies, Henry Delorme; reception, Pierre Levesque and Maurice Proulx; assistants, Yolande Chevalier, assistant to secretary Pierre Tanguay; and Madeleine Emond, assistant to treasurer Bertrand Jacques.

Judges: Valmore Olivier, J. A. Archambault, Georges Tanguay, Godfroy Cote, Dr. Armand Ledoux and Yvan Lanctot.

It was announced that next Sunday a regatta would be held in aid of the parish by members of Our Lady of Divine Love Church. The Little Lake Magog Canoe Club hopes to assist in a regatta at Drummondville in two weeks, sponsored by the Drummondville baseball club.

Monique Lapierre thrilled the large number of spectators with a parachute leap into the lake from a Tiger Moth piloted by Irenee Bergeron. The deep sea diver was Guy Denoncourt.

Assisting at the presentation of prizes were Maurice Gingues, M. P., Mayor Alphonse Genest of Deauville, Mayor Levesque, Ald. Sylvio Rousseau and members of the Canoe Club committee.

Toronto Sailing And Canoe Club Wins Canadian Canoe Association Regatta; Montreal Places Second

Mooney's Bay, Ont., Aug. 4— (CP)—Toronto Sailing and Canoe Club won top team competition honors at the 52nd Canadian Canoe Association Regatta Saturday and captured the coveted Burgee—emblematic of regatta supremacy.

The club compiled a total of 40 points, winning seven firsts in the two-day 21-race card, placing second in two others and drawing one third.

It was the first since 1913 that the Toronto Club have won the Burgee—a huge triangular pennant—in the championship classic, held annually on this Rideau River course near Ottawa.

Montreal Grand Trunk posed the only threat, chalking up five firsts, one second and six thirds for a total of 33 points. Toronto Balmy Beach trailed in the third spot with 16 points.

Grand Trunk and Balmy Beach were co-defending champions. They tied last year with identical scores of 22 points.

Toronto Island Canoe Club and Radisson Canoe Club of Three Rivers, Que., tied for fourth place with 14 points. Montreal Cartierville Boating Club was fifth with 13.

Sparkplug of the Toronto Sailing Club's victory was 24-year-old Lloyd Rice, who alone collected 17 points on three firsts and a second, and then teamed with other club members for three other firsts.

Rice won two of the four opening-day 10,000-metres events on Friday. On Saturday he won the senior double blade single in a kyak and placed second in the half-mile senior single behind young Don Stringer of Sudbury, Ont.

He finished the half-mile senior double blade single ahead of Ken Butler of Toronto Island and Les Erdei of Grand Trunk in that order, to shave 27 seconds off the course record with a winning time of 3:43.2.

Rice also teamed up with Don May, Glenn Watson and Don Allen to win the senior four in 3:41.3.

He was in the winning Sailing Club's half-mile war canoe and later teamed with Bill Brown to win the junior double blade tandem.

In the junior double blade tandem, Rice and Brown finished the half-mile course in 3:51.6 for a course record. The previous record was 4:00.

One other record was shattered Saturday—in the ladies' quarter mile exhibition war canoe. Radisson of Three Rivers, Que., captained by Paul Badeaux, broke the course record of 1:50 by one second and upset Winnipeg, captained by A. R. Ladd, defending champions who came home second.

The ladies' event did not count in team standing.

Pat Way and Art Williams of Ottawa Rideau Canoe Club provided the big upset in the one-mile senior double blade tandem, Rideau's first win in that event.

They stroked in one boat-length ahead of Cartierville's Vince Ramsay and Bruce Gregor-Pearse.

The only major dispute of the day came in the final event—the half-mile war canoe. Coming into the final lap, Montreal Excel and Toronto Sailing boats brushed together. Captains of the crews involved protested. They went into an hour-long conference with officials in the club house.

Outside the 400 paddlers taking part in the regatta waited impatiently for the result and struck out with a chant of "we want the results."

First place went to Lachine, Que., captained by Ron Skeats, and second place to Toronto Balmy Beach, captained by Jim Mossman. The Lachine victory snapped a five-year winning streak by the Beaches.

St. Hyacinthe And St. Johns Cop Week-End Tilts; Drummondville And Quebec Split Their Fixture

St. Hyacinthe Athletics and St. Johns Canadiens boosted their Provincial Baseball League standings Sunday, both winning week-end twin bills.

The Athletics trounced Phillies 6-0 at Granby and then went home to St. Hyacinthe to beat them 6-5. The Canadiens took the Yankees at Three Rivers 2-1, and in the second game at St. Johns beat them 7-4.

Meantime, Quebec Braves and Drummondville Cubs split their home-and-home series, the Cubs winning the first game 6-2 and the Braves the second at Quebec 7-5, Wotychowski of the Athletics pitched a no-hit game at Granby, while the St. Hyacinthe batters piled up their total of six runs with a single run in the third and five in the fifth. The Phillies erred four times.

In the second game at St. Hyacinthe, the Phillies couldn't get started until the seventh inning when they got three runs which they followed up with one run in both the eighth and ninth. It wasn't enough to beat the Athletics who scores singles runs in every inning except the first, seventh and eighth.

At Three Rivers it was the Yankees who took the lead with a single run in the second inning. The Canadiens came from behind with single runs in the seventh and eighth to win. Later at St. Johns, the Canadiens added up two runs in the first inning, four in the fourth and one in the eighth for a clean sweep.

At Drummondville, the Cubs piled up all their six runs by the end of the fifth inning, while the Braves got their two in the ninth. At Quebec, the Braves had their seven runs by the close of the fifth, while the Cubs bagged all their five runs in the seventh.

Saturday, the Yankees beat St. Johns Canadiens 5-3 at Three Rivers, the Phillies took St. Hyacinthe Athletics 4-0 at Granby. And the Cubs defeated Quebec Braves 2-1 at Drummondville.

Canada Wins Doubles Saturday To Sweep Davis Cup Tennis Tie From Mexico; Meets U. S. This Week-End

Montreal, Aug. 4.— (CP) —Canada took the two final singles matches in first-round North American zone Davis Cup tennis play with Mexico to make a clean sweep of the five matches.

The victory, won Saturday with a triumph in the doubles, enables Canada to advance into the zone finals against the United States here next week-end.

In the first match of the afternoon, Lorne Main defeated Mario Llamas, Mexico's No. 1 player, 6-4, 3-6, 6-8, 6-4, 6-1 and in the second singles encounter, Brendan Macken defeated Manuel Galeana 6-2, 6-3, 6-4.

Main, from Vancouver and Montreal, slammed back everything the wiry Llamas had to offer in the first set but the cagey Mexican took the next two by playing a purposely soft game.

Main plays better on a hard service and Llamas made a point of not giving him anything he could slam back.

The 21-year-old Main regained control in the last two sets, forcing Llamas to play a powerful game.

Main kept his service four times and lost it three times, during the 6-8 third set, while Llamas kept his five times and lost it only twice.

The Macken-Galeana match was not nearly as interesting from a spectator's point of view.

The heavy Mexican usually plays a steady game, but he became erratic in the first set when Macken slammed back everything he had to offer.

He steadied in the last two sets, and it wasn't until the seventh game in both cases when Macken was able to break his service.

At one point, Galeane aced Macken twice and handed him another that he was barely able to get his racket on. Then he turned around a game or so later and doublefaulted twice.

When he had Macken in trouble, it was bectuse of his booming serve.

Macken put his seven years of Davis Cup experience to work and downed Galeana in workmanlike fashion. Time and again he kept a rally going in centre court, drew Galeana out of position, and chalked the point with a cross-court placement.

Pedro Vega, Mexican playing captain, was to have played, but he stepped down in favor of Galeana.

Friday, Main defeated Vega and Macken defeated Llamas. In doubles Saturday, Main and Henri Rochon downed Llamas and Galeana.

Jack Spencer, fourth man on the Canadian team, did not see action.

Snead Shoots 17-Under To Cop 72-Hole All-American Pro Tourney; Tommy Bolt Finishes In Second Spot

Chicago, Aug. 4— (AP) —Sam Snead overwhelmed par, a torrential downpour and a Tam O'Shanter jinx yesterday for a smashing seven-under-par-65 and a winning 271 total, 17 under standard for the 72-hole route in the All-American Pro Tourney.

Snead's closing 32-33 on Tam's drenched par 36-36—72 layout snagged first prize of $3,420, his first top All-American booty in eight tries since 1941.

He used only 11 strokes on yesterday's first four holes, bagging an eagle and three birdies. After that the race over Tam's flooded acres was strictly for the runner-up swag of $2,360.

Tommy Bolt, the 54-hole leader from Durham, N.C. finally staggered home in the damp gloaming with a 74 to take second money with 279, eight strokes behind Snead.

Cary Middlecoff, of Memphis, 1952 leading money-winner, shot a final 70 to share third spot at 280 with Wally Ulrich of Austin, Minn., and Jack Burke, Huston, Tex., who closed with 69's.

In sixth spot with 281 was Doug Ford, Harrison, N.Y., a 80 shooter yesterday, while National PGA Champion Jim Turnesa of Briarcliffe Manor, N.Y., was seventh at 282, winding up with 70. U.S. Open Champ Julius Boros of Kid Pines, N.C. was far down the line at 290, ending with 75.

Far down on the list yesterday were the two remaining Canadian hopefuls. Stan Leonard of Vancouver shot 71-72-80-78—301 and Pat Fletcher of Saskatoon totalled 316 with 74-81 -80-81. Rudy Horvath of Windsor, Ont., withdrew after the first round.

Montreal Royals' Ability To Win Close Ones Pays Off; Take Two From Bisons; Chiefs Edge Ottawa

Montreal Royals' ability to win the close ones continues to be a major factor in their campaign to make a runaway of the International League race.

The Royals stretched their first-place margin to 6½ games yesterday by nipping Buffalo Bisons by identical 3-2 scores in a double-header at Montreal. They won 12 of their last 16 games.

Joe Lutz's long fly in the 10th inning scored Carmen Mauro with the winning run in the opener as Mal Malette went the distance for his 10th victory. Lefty Tom Lasorda bested Al Yaylian to record his 11th triumph in the seven-inning nightcap.

Syracuse Chiefs maintained a half-game hold on second place by edging Ottawa Athletics 4-3 in 11 innings. A mistake by third baseman Jack Conway paved the way for the winning run. He made what he thought was a third-out force play at third on a ground ball only to find that there had been men on only second and third base and no one on first. The winning run scored on what could have been an easy out at first.

Toronto Maple Leafs broke out an eighth-inning tie with an unearned run and then scored three times in the ninth to beat Baltimore Orioles 8-4. Pete Pavelick, Billy Demars and Buzz 'Bowers homered for Toronto while Roy Weatherly smashed his 20th and Russ Kerns his 14th for Orioles.

Rochester Red Wings emerged from a four-game losing streak to beat Springfield Cubs 6-4 in their final meeting of the regular season. The Cubs have won 12 and lost 10. Reliefer Jack Crixian made his 40th appearance of the season to save Fred Hahn's fourth victory. Larry Ciafftne hit a three-run homer and a bases-loaded triple in the first and second innings to account for Rochester's six runs.

In Saturday action, Baltimore beat Toronto 5-3, Syracuse edged Ottawa 5-4 and Springfield beat Rochester 5-2.

Sports Roundup

By GAYLE TALBOT

New York, Aug. 4. — (AP) — One wo the best ways to make a great deal of money is to buy a horse like Bull Lea, the head sire at Calumet Farms, and then hire a small armored truck to carry you in to the bang now and then when the stuff begins to clutter up the living room.

What you do is go to one of the yearling sales and bid a little higher than anyone else for the colt you have in mind, just as Calumet did. You can afford to be generous under the circumstances and go perhaps as high as $14,000, that being the figure for which Bull Lea was knocked down at the 1936 Saratoga auction, to which he was sent by Coldstream Stud.

After this initial outlay, about the only expense will be oats, and up to now the sons and daughters of Bull Lea have earned in the neighborhood of $7,250,000. In one year alone, 1948, the old boy's progeny brought home $1,334,027, which is the record. Calumet has never regretted the purchase.

Bull Lea's favorite son, Citation won $1,085,760, making him the first and only millionaire horse. Another, Armed, stands third in the all-time winning list. Others, such as Bewitch, Coaltown, Faultless and Hill Gail, recent winner of the Kentucky Derby, are high on the list. Almost every time you look up some Bull Lea product, ridden by Eddie Arcaro, is running off with a $100,000 stakes.

Despite the golden harvest he has produced, Bull Lea probably would be the first to admit that he was no Man O'War in his running days. Fact is, he won only a paltry $94,825, and was so undistinguished that his stud fee at one time, in 1943, was only $250.

But soon after that his children began to run over other horses, and Calumet not only raised the price in a hurry but became very particular about what mares Bull Lea associated with, other than those of the Calumet set. Since 1949, when he led the money-winning series for the third straight year, the figure has been $5,000 for socially acceptable visitors,

As may be readily imagined, a Bull Lea foal is handled with extremely tender care from its first moments and lacks for nothing except a governess. What few reach the sales can be counted upon to fetch around $25,000 apiece, so it may be seen that Calumet is conferring a financial favor upon any breed improver fortunate enough to obtain Bull Lea's services.

In Providing the late Warren Wright with the world's greatest racing stable and bestowing upon his much unneeded money, the wonderful old stallion also has made wealthy men of Calumet's father-son training team of Ben and Jimmy Jones.

Granby Postal Boxes To Be Checked

Granby, Que., August 4.—Granby has been asked to check up on the local letter boxes found on the houses with a view to improving them. The main complaint is that citizens are not protecting themselves, the boxes are in such a deplorable condition.

The Postal Service is of vital interest to all citizens and this improving of the service rests in part on the population.

In checking up on the house boxes it was found that they did not offer the necessary protection to the correspondence, due to the fact that they did not lock. Many were wrongly placed and a large number of homes had no boxes at all.

The Post Office Department only has in view the interest of its patronts and is is hoped that this demand will receive prompt attention.
