TURKISH NATIONALIST FORCES HAVE ADVANCED Britain Has Refused To Withdraw Troops From Chanak

Turks Threaten Kum Kalesi, A Significant Key Position On South Side Of Straits

Reported that the Turkish Nationalists Have Already Seized the Town of Ez-Ine, on the Asiatic Side of the Dardanelles—Nationalist Move, in Opinion of Naval Experts, Will Enable the Turks to Prevent Free Ingress to the Dardanelles to the British Atlantic Fleet Units Which Are on the Way from Malta—Important Positions Involved Were up to Yesterday Occupied by the French and Italian Troops, and from Them the Heavy Turkish Batteries Can Command the Entrance to the Straits.

(Associated Press Despatch)
CONSTANTINOPLE, Sept. 22.—(12.45 p.m.)—Turkish Nationalist forces have seized the town of Ez-Ine on the Asiatic side of the Dardanelles, and are threatening Kum Kalesi, an important key position on the southern side of the Straits. The Kemalists were nowhere opposed.

The Nationalist move, in the opinion of the naval experts here, will enable the Turks to prevent free ingress to the Dardanelles to the British Atlantic fleet units which are on the way from Malta. The important positions involved were up to today occupied by the French and the Italians, and from them the heavy Turkish batteries can command the entrance to the Straits.

Ez-Ine, seized by the Turks, is a small town in the valley of the Meander River, in the Vigna district south of the Dardanelles, and is less than twenty miles from Kum Kalesi. The latter town, which the Nationalists are threatening, is on the waterway itself—almost at the entrance to the Straits from the Aegean.

Both places are within the zone of neutrality about the Straits, laid down by the Treaty of Sevres. It is uncertain from available data whether Ez-Ine is within the military zone of neutrality, proclaimed in May, 1921. There would appear to be no doubt, however, that Kum Kalesi is within this latter zone, against the invasion of which warning was issued in Constantinople yesterday by the British General Harington, the commander-in-chief of the Allied forces.

WILL REGARD ADVANCE AS DECLARATION OF WAR
(Associated Press Despatch)
CONSTANTINOPLE, Sept. 22.—Hamid Bey, Nationalist representative, was informed by General Harington, commanding the British forces here, that an advance by the Turks on the Straits meant a declaration of war against Great Britain and would be resisted with all vigor.

BRITAIN REFUSES TO WITHDRAW TROOPS FROM CHANAK
(Associated Press Despatch)
PARIS, Sept. 22.—Great Britain has refused categorically to withdraw her troops from Chanak, and has so informed the French Government.

GREECE WILL NEVER PERMIT TURKS TO INVADE THRACE; ABSOLUTELY NO DANGER OF A REVOLUTION IN GREECE

(Associated Press Despatch)
ATHENS, Sept. 22.—Greece will never permit the Turks to invade Thrace, which she considers part of her home-land and retention of which is "an essential preliminary condition to any peace conference." This declaration was made in a statement to the Associated Press by the Greek foreign office today.

"We have lost Asia Minor, but we must keep Thrace," said the statement. "That is an essential preliminary condition to any peace conference. Our army in Asia Minor, which has been fighting for ten years, was absolutely exhausted, but the Greek nation will never permit the Turks to invade Thrace, which we consider home territory."

"We have demobilized the (military) classes from 1912 to 1918, but the classes from 1919 to 1923 are keeping on a war footing, making a total army of 150,000 men available for Thrace should the Allies permit the Turks to cross to Constantinople."

"Unhappily we lack ammunition, artillery and general equipment. The Smyrna massacre speaks for itself. Greece is defending Christian civilization."

"Internally Greece is quiet. There is absolutely no danger of a revolution. Foreign reports of trouble are the outgrowth of the insistence of our troops that they be returned to Piraeus instead of being demobilized on the Islands. But these wearied men had no revolutionary designs; they only wanted to go home. We found that out when we sent our Athens army as a precaution to Piraeus."

"Immediately some of the returned soldiers exclaimed sadly: 'What are you treating us, wearied patriots, as enemies?' 'Our King remains because the people demanded him and want him. By what right shall any foreign nation interfere with the expressed will of the Grecian people?'"

STATED TURKS DETERMINED TO RECAPTURE THRACE

(Associated Press Despatch)
CONSTANTINOPLE, Sept. 22.—A pessimistic view of the present situation is taken in Turkish Nationalist circles here. It was declared yesterday that, unless the Kemalists received assurances and guarantees from the Allies within forty-eight hours that the disposition of Thrace would be settled in favor of the Turks, a serious situation would arise and it would be impossible to restrain the forward march of their army.

At the same time, however, it was stated that the Ankara Government would agree to negotiations and suspend the movement of its troops provided the European powers furnished security and guarantees as to Thrace.

Support for the neutrality of the Straits and the zone in the Constantinople sector occupied by the Allied forces depends, it is declared, on the reply to these demands.

MORALE OF THRACIAN TROOPS IS IMPROVING

ADRIANOPLE, Sept. 22.—Greece is apparently determined to defend Thrace at all costs. It is understood that every available division in northern Epirus and Macedonia will be sent to supplement the forces now in Adrianople.

French reports indicate that the morale of the Thracian troops is improving. Major-General Polymenakos, the new commander-in-chief, has inspired the soldiers with a new spirit.

In his order of the day yesterday he appealed to the men to retrieve Greece's lost military glory, declaring that political leanings must be forgotten in the face of common danger.

ATTITUDE OF THE BRITISH LABOR PARTY OUTLINED

LONDON, Sept. 22.—The attitude of the British labor party toward the present Near Eastern situation is succinctly set forth in a cable message sent today to the Australian and New Zealand laborites.

"British labor is opposed to any wars in the Near East, and believes the only way of averting it is by reference of the dispute to the League of Nations, in which Turkey, Russia and Germany should be included."

"We are strongly opposed to Great Britain acting individually, and demand a settlement by discussion and agreement."

MONTREAL, Sept. 22.—Inquiries concerning Hon. W. C. Kennedy, Minister of Railways, who is confined in the Royal Victoria Hospital here, this morning elicited the information that he had spent a fair night.

BRIG.-GENERAL DEVINS KILLED DURING BATTLE

Five Other Republicans Killed in Fight Near Sligo—Majority of Rebels Escaped.

(Associated Press Despatch)
BELFAST, Sept. 22.—Brigadier-General J. Devins, reported to have been killed with five other irregulars in a fight near Sligo Wednesday night, was the Republican member of the Southern Parliament for East Mayo and Sligo. He took a leading part in organizing the opposition to Arthur Griffith's meeting in Sligo last Easter Monday.

One of the dead Republicans has been identified as Brian MacNeill, second son of Prof. John MacNeill, minister of education in the old Dail Cabinet. Three of Prof. MacNeill's sons were active members of the Irish Republican army before the truce, and the surviving two are officers in the Free State army, one holding the rank of brigadier.

Brian was in charge of the irregulars who captured Ballina from the Free Staters a fortnight ago. He was an undergraduate at the National University and twenty-three years of age. The battle lasted four hours, and the majority of the Republicans evaded capture.

Brig.-General Sir Charles Harington, under whose presidency the Allied commanders in Constantinople met on Monday to discuss measures of defense.

LONDON, Sept. 22.—It is rumored that Premier Lloyd George offered his resignation at a cabinet meeting last week-end, but that it was refused.

Claimed Turks Are On Point Of Issuing An Ultimatum Demanding Evacuation Of Thrace Within Next Forty-Eight Hours

However, the Near East Situation Seemed a Little More Hopeful from the Viewpoint of Preserving Allied Unity—Probable that Date and Place of Peace Conference Will Be Settled at Meeting Being Held Today in Paris.

(Associated Press Despatch)
PARIS, Sept. 22.—The Near East situation seemed a little more hopeful, at least from the viewpoint of preserving Allied unity, upon the resumption today of the conference between Lord Curzon and Premier Poincare.

Disturbing reports, however, continue to come from Constantinople, and it is reported that the Nationalists are on the point of issuing an ultimatum to the Allies, demanding the evacuation of Thrace within forty-eight hours.

The Nationalists' representative in Constantinople is said to have informed the commander of the Allied forces that the earliest possible date should be fixed for the proposed peace conference, the repeated postponement of which had almost deprived the Nationalists of confidence in diplomatic means of settlement.

It is probable that the date and place of the peace conference will be settled at today's meeting, but it is not thought that the Allied statesmen will be able to do more than this, as it is becoming increasingly obvious that the other details will require closer consideration.

Even the question of the Straits of the Dardanelles, which at first appeared simple, offers great difficulties. While the disposition of Constantinople presents an easy problem, that of Gallipoli, as Ferid Bey points out to L'Oeuvre, is delicate.

"As to the Straits," said the Kemal representative, "we ask that foreign warships be not allowed to pass without our permission, otherwise our capital is unsafe."

Ferid Bey favors two sets of negotiations, one of a general character to restore peace between Turkey and the powers, and the other to be confined to settlement of the Straits' question, with Russia and other Black Sea countries participating.

U. S. APPROVAL OF RESTORATION OF PALESTINE

President Harding Signs Joint Resolution Adopted by Senate and House.

(Associated Press Despatch)
WASHINGTON, Sept. 22.—President Harding late yesterday signed the joint resolution adopted by the Senate and House expressing United States approval of the restoration of Palestine as a Jewish homeland. The resolution is said by Zionists to be practically in phraseology to the declaration of the British Government of November 2, 1917, recognizing and approving Zionist aspirations, since carried into effect in the Palestine mandate, recently ratified by the League of Nations.

MANSLAUGHTER CASE ATTRACTS LARGE CROWD

Court House Crowded to Hear Evidence Adduced.

A number of cases of alleged violation of the game laws were up for hearing before Judge J. H. Lemay, yesterday, and, in each instance, Game Warden Alfred Gendron laid the charge. After hearing the evidence, however, it was ascertained that there was no ground on which to proceed against the accused and they were all dismissed.

It appears that a party from North Hatley and Magog had gone out fishing and two of the members carried guns with them, but had only one bullet for each gun. Game Warden Gendron came upon the motor car in which the accused had driven up and found a jack inside. He contended that inasmuch as they had a jack in their possession they might have been inclined to use it.

The court, however, held that there was absolutely no evidence of violation of any law and dismissed the charges.

MANSLAUGHTER CASE. A number of witnesses were heard in the case of manslaughter against King and Ingalls who are charged with the death of Patrick Shevlin, killed in an automobile accident.

During the course of the evidence it was shown that the Franklin car was travelling at an excessive speed and eye-witnesses asserted that it was zig-zagging. It was proven that Ingalls was driving the car at the time of leaving Sherbrooke, while at the time of the accident, King was at the wheel.

The question of alleged intoxication was discussed at length and it was proven that two bottles of liquor were found in the Franklin car after the accident. One bottle was half filled with a cheap brandy while a bottle of high wine was still sealed. By standers, after the accident, gave evidence to the effect that the occupants of the Franklin car had a very strong liquor smell about them. It was also stated that immediately after the smash-up, Ingalls went to a neighboring house and fell fast asleep and that it was only with the greatest of difficulty that he was awakened.

The case was finally adjourned until next Thursday, the defence having another witness to examine.

OBSERVATIONS OF ECLIPSE WERE HIGHLY SUCCESSFUL

(Associated Press Despatch)
SAN JOSE, Sept. 22.—The observations of the eclipse of the sun at Wollal, on the northwest coast of Australia by astronomers from the United States, New Zealand and Canada, were "highly successful."

FRENCH GOVERNMENT TO DIRECT EFFORTS TO PREVENT WARFARE BETWEEN BRITAIN AND TURKEY

Premier Poincare Expected to Make Another Effort to Modify the British Attitude Toward the Turks, But It Was Believed He Was Not Very Hopeful of Changing the British Determination to Remain in Chanak—Will Exert All Possible Pressure to Keep Turks on Asiatic Side of Straits Until Peace Terms Are Fixed.

(Associated Press Despatch)
PARIS, Sept. 22.—The French Cabinet today decided that in view of the refusal of the British to withdraw their forces from Chanak on the Asiatic side of the Dardanelles, the efforts of the French Government should be directed toward preventing war between Turkey and Great Britain. To this end it was agreed immediately to send Franklin Bouillon to Smyrna.

M. Bouillon, who was the negotiator of the agreement reached at Angora between the French and the Turkish Nationalists, will urge upon Mustapha Kemal Pasha the necessity of remaining in Asia Minor until the peace terms are decided upon.

The French negotiator will probably leave today or tomorrow, and he hopes to arrive in Smyrna before the termination of the conference in progress there between Kemal and his governmental and military chiefs for the purpose of deciding whether to push on in the face of the British military and naval concentration or await the results of the peace negotiations.

There is considerable anxiety in the cabinet over the possibility of fighting between the British and the Turks, and in pursuance of his desire to play the role of mediator in the Near East, Premier Poincare will exert all possible pressure to keep the Turks on the Asiatic side of the Straits until the peace terms are fixed.

The latest reports received in official circles here indicate that Kemal is trying to keep his military leaders in check, but the difficulties of the problem are admittedly great. The French, however, still feel that the Angora leader can succeed.

The meeting of the Allied representatives here to consider the Near Eastern situation, which planned to resume its sessions at two o'clock this afternoon, was expected to fix a place for the peace conference and settle the date. An effort was made to draw up a tentative agenda, but it was thought this might prove impossible because of the refusal of Great Britain to commit herself in any way regarding the Turkish claim in advance of the conference.

Premier Poincare was expected to make another effort to modify the British attitude toward the Turks, but it was believed he was not very hopeful of changing the British determination to remain in Chanak.

When the conference met this afternoon Premier Poincare, Lord Curzon, the British foreign secretary, Count Sforza of Italy, and Lord Hardinge, British Ambassador in Paris, were present. Lord Curzon in fact presented the British decisions reached by the Cabinet in London yesterday including the declaration of Great Britain's determination that her troops remain at Chanak and her unwillingness to bind herself to peace terms in advance.

Premier Poincare, it was understood, continued his efforts to persuade the British to adopt a more conciliatory attitude.

according to a cable message received at the Lick Observatory yesterday.

Barter Replacing Money In Germany As A Result Of Serious Depreciation Of Mark

School Fees Being Paid in Rye in Some Districts—Braunschweig Physicians Announce that Patients Will Be Expected to Pay for Medical Attention in Produce at Its Pre-War Cost.

(Associated Press Despatch)
WEIMAR, Germany, Sept. 22.—Barter is replacing the use of money in various parts of Germany as a result of the serious depreciation of the mark.

The Weimar board, governing the agricultural schools at Triptis and Marksuhl, has fixed the tuition for the winter term in rye instead of in money. Thuringians will pay one and one-half centners (hundredweights) for the semester, and non-residents of Thuringia two centners.

The Saxon Thuringia Power Company at Auma has announced that it will gladly receive, instead of cash, ten eggs, three pounds of wheat flour or a quarter of a cent-

AGENT IS HELD RESPONSIBLE FOR PREMIUMS

Moneys Collected Must Be Turned in to the Company.

An interesting case relative to insurance was disposed of in the Superior Court before His Lordship Mr. Justice Gobeensy when John D. Kennedy and Henry Veuilleux, of the City of Sherbrooke, were jointly and severally condemned to pay to the Fireman's Fund Insurance Company of San Francisco, the sum of $782.23 with interest and costs from the time of the demande judiciaire.

The plaintiff, the Fireman's Fund Insurance Company, with head office at San Francisco alleged:

(1) That on or about February 16th, 1915, the defendant, John D. Kennedy was appointed agent of the plaintiff in and about the city of Sherbrooke in the District of St. Francis.

(2) That by agreement in writing, bearing date of February 26th, 1915, the said defendant John D. Kennedy and the defendant Henry Veuilleux and Robert Price did sign and execute a certain surety bond for an amount of $4,000 in favor of the plaintiff.

(3) That the conditions of the said bond and the obligation therein contained a clause that the said John D. Kennedy would promptly and immediately pay to the secretary of the plaintiff corporation or to such person or persons designated by the directors, all monies, notes, etc.

(4) That the said John D. Kennedy acting as agent for the said plaintiff did collect various sums totalling $782.23 and did fail to remit and pay over said amount to the plaintiff.

(5) That payment of the amount involved has been duly demanded from the defendant Kennedy and has been refused.

(6) That the defendant Veuilleux has been duly put in default to pay the said amount, more particularly by a certain letter dated March 8th, 1917.

(7) That for the foregoing reasons, the defendants are jointly and severally liable to the plaintiff for the said amount of $782.23.

DEFENDANT'S PLEA.
The defendant Kennedy stated that at the end of February or at the beginning of March 1917, the plaintiff, without cause or justification, summarily cancelled the appointment of Kennedy as agent for the plaintiff company and at the same time appointed F. J. Southwood of this city, who sent our circular letters to all insured of the said company, in Sherbrooke and Lennoxville, advising them not to pay Kennedy any amount held it was therefore impossible for him to collect from the insured the amount advanced and which he had paid for them to the plaintiff company. The defendant also declared he had not received an amount of $688.07 for which he held the plaintiff liable and responsible and which amount he claimed to be more than sufficient to compensate any sum of money which may be found to be due by Kennedy to plaintiff.

1847 ROGERS BROS. SILVERPLATE

Furnishing the home with silverware

ASK yourself these questions before you purchase silverplate: Is it attractive? Is it well known? Has it stood the test of years? Is it the best of its kind? Can other pieces be added later in the same pattern?

This year's celebration of the seventy-fifth anniversary of "1847 Rogers Bros." answers "yes" to the above questions. Time has proved its quality, its desirability—and a wide variety of "open stock" patterns has long been one of its distinctive features.

For any kind of a gift this year, "1847 Rogers Bros." is particularly appropriate. Remember the date, 1847, as a symbol of finest quality. Emphasize it when you buy.

See the attractive chests and gift box assortments at your dealer's. No extra charge for the colorful packages.

Colonel Francis Succeeded Lieutenant-Colonel and Colonel E. B. Worthington, C.M.G., who has been transferred to the 10th. Infantry Brigade.

A TIP FOR STREET RAILWAY SUPERINTENDENT. The attention of the street railway authorities is called to the habit of leaving on the glaring light at the rear of a running street car at night. This arises, no doubt, from the fact that the cars are not on a belt line circuit and, when reaching the end of their line and reversing direction, the conductor does not turn off the head-light, which on the return journey, becomes the rear-light.

QUEBEC CENTRAL RAILWAY CHANGE OF TIME. The following is a brief outline of the Quebec Central Railway Fall and Winter schedule which becomes effective Sunday, the 24th instant—

Miss Edith Webster, Bellevue Avenue, is spending a few days in New York. She is leaving there on Saturday for Jacksonville, Fla.

Mrs. J. B. Loring, of Chicago, who has been the guest of her brother, Mr. W. S. Armitage, Lower Belvidere Road, left this morning for her home, stopping at Richmond and Montreal during the trip.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Wilder Pierce and Wilder Pierce, Jr., left last evening for New York, on their way to Jacksonville, Fla. Miss Louise Webster accompanied them as far as New York.

The Misses Hunt entertained yesterday afternoon at their residence on Melbourne Street at a delightful bridge party of four tables in honor of Mrs. Herbert Irwin and Mrs. Ervin Wardman, of North Hatley. The prizes were won by Mrs. Gordon Hume, Mrs. H. E. Pawson and Mrs. J. B. Beach. Tea was poured by Mrs. E. O. Grundy and Mrs. J. P. Wells cut the ices. Among those present were Mrs. Irwin, Mrs. Wardman, Mrs. N. E. Brooks, Mrs. Worthington, Mrs. J. P. Wells, Mrs. E. O. Grundy, Mrs. J. B. Beach, Mrs. William Spier, Mrs. R. N. Robins, Mrs. A. F. Fraser, Mrs. Walter Tomlinson, Mrs. H. Bruce Fletcher, Mrs. H. E. Pawson, Mrs. W. P. Rapley. Among those who came in at the tea hour were Mrs. Green, of North Hatley, Mrs. Norton, of Ayer's Cliff, and Mrs. Montgomery.

Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Hovey, of Iroquois Falls, Ont., who have been spending the past few weeks in Sherbrooke as the guests of Mr. Hovey's parents, Mr. and Mrs. P. A. Hovey, Quebec Street, have returned home.

Mrs. E. Winn Farwell, Bank street, entertained at a very enjoyable bridge yesterday afternoon in honor of Mrs. Baldwin, of Andover, Mass. The prizes were won by Mrs. W. E. Paton, Mrs. H. H. McKee, Mrs. E. M. Adams and Mrs. H. R. Fraser. There was a special prize for the guest of honor. Tea was served in the dining room, the table being beautifully arranged with yellow marigolds. Mrs. E. M. Adams presided at the tea table. Among those present were Mrs. Baldwin, Mrs. E. W. Tobin, Mrs. J. T. Morill, Mrs. W. S. Fry, Mrs. W. E. Paton, Mrs. C. D. White, Mrs. J. J. Penhale, Mrs. H. R. Fraser, Mrs. E. M. Adams, Mrs. J. Harry Blue, Mrs. Asselin, Mrs. W. M. Langston, Mrs. H. H. McKee, Mrs. F. A. Baldwin, Mrs. Warren Grand, Miss Marion Poes.

"A MAN OF HIS WORD"

By Ruby M. Ayers.

CHAPTER XXXI.

Jean passed over the silver box mechanically. She looked at Pansy wonderingly.

"And—and—what did you do—then?" she asked in an awestruck voice.

Pansy laughed—not a very mirthful laugh.

"What did I do? Well, I married Tom Rutherford because he said he would pay my debts. He paid them, too, but he tried to make me swear never to play any more, and I wouldn't; and that did it! We had an awful life when we lived together—rows all day—so I cleared, and here I am! Poor old Tom."

She struck a match on a silver box and looked up at Jean.

"Don't you ever marry a man you don't care for," she said. "It's—it's—well, I don't know any word to suit it!"

Jean took off her hat and pushed the heavy hair back from her forehead.

"I think life is horrible," she said, suddenly, with a tremble in her voice.

Pansy threw the dead match into the fire.

"Oh, no, it isn't," she said. "Life is all right—it's we who make it wrong. Take my case, for instance! If I hadn't been such an obstinate little fool, I might have been the happiest woman in the world now; if I hadn't gone to that house that night, my—he would never had had that accident, and we should have been married, and..." She broke off dreamily, looking up at the little grey cloud of smoke that she had puffed from the cigarette.

smoke that she had puffed from the cigarette.

"And I should not be sitting here now," she went on, after a moment, "wasting my time giving you advice, which I know you won't take. I don't know what you mean," said Jean, defensively.

"I think you do," said Pansy seriously, though her eyes looked kind. "I think you do." She sat up and held out her hand to Jean with sudden impulse.

"I like you," she said, "though I can't help giving you sly little digs occasionally, and I'd like to see you happy. But there's only one man for you to be happy with—and his name isn't Gavin Dawson, my dear!"

She leaned back again with a rather self-conscious laugh.

"There! Now you may box my ears if you want to!"

But Jean only stood very silent.

Only one man! And he was not Gavin!

"Here Lillian," said Pansy suddenly. Jean half-turned; they could both hear Lillian's voice in the hall. After a moment she came into the room; she looked directly at Jean.

"What's this I hear about Gavin?" she asked sharply. "Dacre tells me there's been an accident..."

She was very pale; her eyes looked somewhat frightened; she was breathing quickly as she waited for them to answer.

It was Pansy who spoke.

"It's quite true! The poor dear was run over—he's been taken to a hospital; they sent for Jean, and she's just come back."

"He's not—not—dead, then?"

"No—no," said Jean quickly. She could not look at Lillian; something in the elder woman's eyes—in her voice—awoke a slumbering doubt in her heart.

Lillian had once loved Gavin.

"They're going to let us know from the hospital if there is any change," she heard herself saying mechanically. "I stayed as long as I could; then Mr. O'Neil came, and he made me come away. They have promised to let us know if anything..." She broke off; as with a little sound like a long sigh, Lillian fell fainting to the floor.

Dealer—Oh, no, sir, you are mistaken. He is so young he hasn't cut his teeth yet.

SKATING RINK WILL BE UNDER CONSIDERATION

Public Meeting Called for This Evening in Council Chamber.

Whether Sherbrooke is to have a skating rink or not will probably be decided this evening at a special meeting called to meet at the City Council chambers at eight p.m. daylight saving time.

The issue will probably be discussed in detail, and representatives from all the different communities are expected to be present to review the situation and offer suggestions for the raising of the necessary funds.

The matter is being seriously considered by members of the Rotary Club, the Board of Trade, the Knights of Columbus, the Y.M.C.A. and other organizations interested in the improvement of the city and anxious to provide suitable and healthy measures of entertainment for the younger generation in particular.

Tonight's meeting is a public meeting in every sense of the word, and each and every citizen is invited to attend the meeting and express his or her point of view and incidentally assist in the organization necessary to bring the campaign to a successful issue.

CITY BRIEFLETS

ORFORD W. A. HELD MEETING.

The September meeting of the Orford W. A. was held on Wednesday at the home of the president, Mrs. W. Matthews. The meeting opened with the usual devotional exercises. There was a good attendance of members, and much interest was taken in the work on the flannelette garments and quilts, which are being donated by this branch towards a bazaar.

The secretary read the minutes of the previous meeting, which were adopted, and the treasurer's report showed a good balance on hand. Donations amounting to $2.15 were received.

Mrs. Matthews served afternoon tea, assisted by Mrs. T. W. Veer. Mrs. J. M. Hamer invited the Auxiliary to meet at her home on October 18th.

Y.M.C.A. NOTES

A meeting of the physical committee of the Young Men's Christian Association was held in the building last night to meet the new physical director and consider the programme for the year. It was unanimously agreed that the classes would open Monday, September 25th, as follows:

Business men's class Monday and Tuesday from 5 to 6.

Industrial business men's class Tuesday and Friday from 5.30 to 6.30.

Young men's class Monday and Thursday from 8 to 9.

Business boys' class Tuesday and Friday from 7.30 to 8.30.

Senior school boys' Monday and Friday from 4 to 5.

Junior school boys Tuesday from 4 to 5; Saturday from 9.30 to 10.30.

Juvenile school boys Wednesday from 4 to 5, Saturday from 10.30 to 11.30.

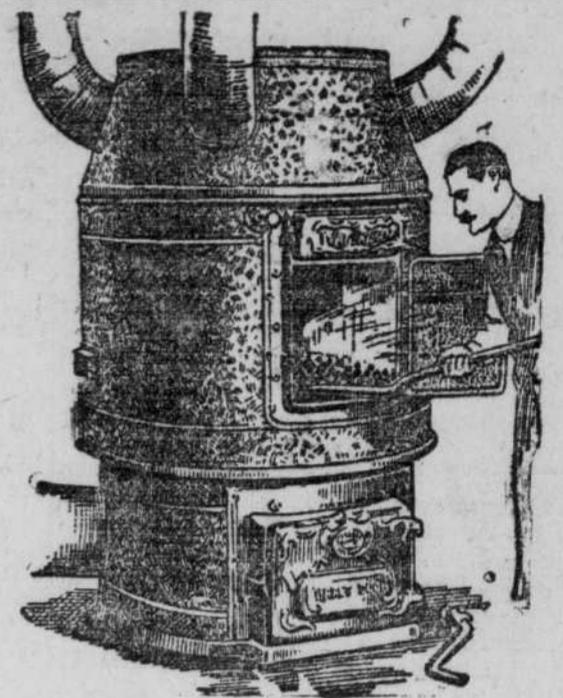

With these it is hoped to promote several basket ball leagues, including the Eastern Townships, Industrial, City and Junior, beside which there will be a number of exhibitions and open nights. In the swimming pool it is expected, through a club, to provide instruction for boys who cannot swim, and also to put on some swimming exhibitions. The prospects are that the association will this year carry one of the heaviest physical programmes it has ever attempted.

THE NEAR EAST CRISIS.

There is no doubt of the existence of a real threat of war in the Near East. The cloud which has so often hung over Constantinople and the Dardanelles is there today. Diplomacy may find a way out but in the interest of enduring peace, Britain cannot consent to the linking again of Turkey and Bulgaria and the closing of the Dardanelles, thus making a solid block of Turkey, Bulgaria and Russia which might well be regarded as a permanent menace to the very existence of European states. It is safe to say the British lion will not yield on this point and if the Turks come on in defiance there will be war.

The attitude of France, as viewed casually, seems rather difficult to understand as her interests are identical with those of Britain. She hesitates to antagonize the Moslem Turk and is bitterly opposed to the Greeks since they recalled King Constantine, the Kaiser's brother-in-law.

It is very likely that Britain and France are nearer together in the crisis than appears from news despatches. The former is firm with guns loaded, not provoking war, but ready to defend the fruits of a hard won victory. The latter is pursuing the ways of diplomacy and seeking to arrange a settlement. Thus both countries are contributing to the cause of peace. The Turk is made to realize what he will be up against if he decides to fight and at the same time he is being urged by a mutual friend to keep cool and act reasonably.

The Montreal Gazette, in an editorial, discusses very interestingly the friendship of Britain and France. In this connection, the Gazette says:

"Although at the moment France declines to take up arms with Britain in the Near East zone defence, yet it should not be overlooked, in the maze of conflicting statements set loose by over-zealous European press correspondents, that no distinct divergence of views exists between Great Britain and France. In fact, the joint notification sent to Kemal Pasha in the name of France and Great Britain may rule the final decision of the over-ambitious Turks, who see imaginary victories in the offing that would place the Crescent victorious in places where it is not desirable that it should be. The Turk in Europe is a menace, and it is up to the Allies to see that he never regains his original footing there. If Kemal is sufficiently foolish to plunge into a tide of blood he will have to take the consequences, as under no circumstances can he be permitted to lord it over the Dardanelles, with his seat of Government in Constantinople. Those people who talk so flippantly about the Turks being allowed to resume their former position in Europe know no more about the Balkans and the general European political situation than new born babes.

"A holy war is anathema; in fact, any war is distasteful, nor yet can the feeble nations of the world stand another war. Britain's friendship with France is a solid and enduring thing and nothing should be allowed to interfere with the unifying influence of Franco-British relations. Those who foresee the demise of the Entente Cordiale are doomed to disappointment; and those whose imagination leads them at times to attribute to Britain a desire for new friendships would do well to perceive that the maintenance of the old ones is the most desirable in the matter of foreign policy. There are far too many verbal pin pricks set loose by irresponsible mischief-makers in news despatches, and British journalists are by no means the least to blame in this regard. Right at the critical moment in the Near Eastern turmoil, a cloud of manufactured alleged ill-feeling is represented as existing, to the danger of the Entente Cordiale.

"It has been said that the true basis of friendship is identity of sentiment and difference of opinion. This perfectly illustrates the French-British position. An illustration which serves as a classic guide has been presented by Carlyle who, in speaking of John Sterling, declared: 'We walked westward in company, arguing copiously, but except in opinion not disagreeing.' The destinies of France and Britain are closely linked, and what counts is less the machinery of friendship than the spirit which inspires it and renders it storm-proof. The basis of Anglo-French accord now, as at all times, must be mutual knowledge. So that too great credence need not be attached to the alarmist reports circulated regarding a rupture in Franco-British relationships. The friendship of the two nations should be built on an enduring foundation, and British people always feel in this regard at the bottom of their hearts that nothing can well destroy, undermine or alter the deep devotion which they cherish towards the continuance of the Anglo-French understanding."

A LAW AGAINST GOSSIPS.

Everybody knows that of making laws there is no end, but if ever a law was justified and deserves recommendation to other states it's the one against slander which has been in operation in Indiana for a little more than a year. This act makes it unlawful for anyone to repeat a false and defamatory statement, even if it is repeated as the word of some other person, if the statement is such as might subject the victim to prosecution for a criminal offence or should injure him or her in reputation or earning of a livelihood.

Unless the person repeating the slander can prove he had good and sufficient grounds for believing it to be true he may be fined not less than $25 nor more than $100, to which a prison sentence of not more than sixty days may be added.

It is amazing what utterly baseless and unreasonable slanders are told every day by persons who believe themselves decent citizens and even persons of high standards. Surely some such law is needed to curb the onslaughts made on the reputations of innocent persons, and it is a matter of regret that they cannot be reached everywhere as the slanderous woman of an Indiana town was reached the other day and fined $25 for stating that two girls of her town were intoxicated. She pleaded guilty to the charge of repeating what she had heard someone else say, without any reason for believing it to be true.

TODAY'S A HOLIDAY.

September 22, 1922.

Feast of The Birds.

To Quimperle, in lower Brittany, the thousands from Paris are trooping today for a festival which curiously combines the secular and the religious, the Christian and the pagan. It is the calendar day of St. Maurice and since he is held in peculiar reverence in that part of France, today, the feast of the birds, will differ but little from ordinary concourses of the churchly.

There is this outstanding characteristic, however. Everybody in Quimperle carries around a caged bird. There are fowls of all descriptions, orioles, woodpeckers, larks, finches and canaries, and the swain is expected to provide one for his sweetheart, and the parents for their children. A fat hen, incidentally, is taken as quite as much a delicate token of affection as the most fluke-throated lark.

It is tomorrow that the fun begins. Wrestling matches between the champions of the Brittany villages, and the traditional games of the region enliven the morning. In the afternoon the dance strikes up. Everyone, good, bad, indifferent, rich, poor, of degree high or low, joins without reserve.

In the center of the arena are the musicians, with the ancient instruments of Brittany, the binion and the bombarde. A barrel of cider is within their reach, and they play prodigiously faster and faster, through all the day and evening. The dance takes on somewhat the nature of a bacchanale before the night is done, but all is to the credit of the dancers, and does honor to the good St. Maurice, so there's no complaint.

PARAGRAPHS

Happiness isn't so much a state of mind as a stomach condition.

After eleven p.m., the average husband is either in bed or in bad.

Class consciousness is something you get at the paying teller's window.

The only part of the nation's food supply raised by the middleman is the price.

When the vamp's soft arms lose their appeal, she can always rely on her firearms.

Even a soda fountain might put on the bum's rush if you tried to buy a milkshake on credit.

Mexico should take kindly to the Ford. She is accustomed to oil troubles and internal combustion.

At twenty she says she wouldn't marry for the world; but at thirty she marries for a small portion of it on a good residence street.

We shouldn't be too harsh. Adam might have lied to protect Eve if there had been any chance to get away with it.

When one neighbor plays a saxophone and another a phonograph, one reflects sadly that one might be happy with either.

The style makers say the short skirt isn't worn so much now, and this view can be sustained by any casual observer.

A wife doubtless has mental reservations when she has finished a day's hard work and expresses sympathy for her poor tired husband.

A dog has little troubles, no doubt, but he is under no obligation to be polite to people he doesn't like.

There are two classes of people: good people and bad people. And the classifying is done by the good people.

We have never gone on strike to avoid work, but we don't mind confessing that we are a conscientious objector.

Another trouble with our civilization is that one young man wishes to manufacture something and seven wish to sell it.

There's one consolation. So long as you are unable to obtain any coal, you needn't worry about the rapid advance in price.

PRESS COMMENT

STYLE WITH SUBSTANCE.

(Kingston Standard.)
The Earl of Balfour has said that he has no intention of writing his memoirs at present. It is to be hoped that he will do so, as they would not only be of intense interest, but a model of the highest literary style.

ALAS, TOO TRUE!

(Evening Post, New York.)
Germany's champion glider can stay up in the air three hours without motive power. Congress has beaten this record by seventeen months and twenty-one days.

KIPLING'S STATEMENT.

(Brooklyn Eagle.)
Rudyard Kipling is quoted in a talk with Claire Sheridan, the sculptor, as saying: "America has got the gold of the world, but we have saved our soul. Do you think that any one of us who have fought the war—who have lost children in the war—would change with one of them, for all their happiness and prosperity?"

This is a harsh judgment, and it is not the first that has come from Kipling since the beginning of the war. He was particularly bitter toward America before we entered the conflict. His "Damn all neutrals!" was especially directed toward this country. The war brought tragedy to the poet. He lost his only son. He has suffered personally, and felt deeply. He is not, perhaps, the best judge of America, but he is not the only one who has said in effect that America has lost her soul.

It does not follow that because America suffered less than Europe as a result of the great catastrophe that we have lost our soul. We have relative prosperity, but we are not conscious of any overweening happiness flowing from it. On the contrary, so far as we may judge, America seems unhappy over a lot of things, and the increase in national wealth does nothing to dispel the conscious lack of that contentment that bespeaks happiness.

But all this, it would seem, has nothing to do with saving souls or losing them. Saving one's soul and finding happiness are personal matters only indirectly related to big, impersonal things like war. And in this realm one person cannot in fairness judge another person, to say nothing of judging a nation of a hundred million souls as Kipling inconsiderately presumes to do.

Your Home

Have you placed the "guardian angel" of life insurance over your home?

A home protected by life insurance—covering the mortgage and the necessities of life—is one of the happiest places possible. There is no dread of the future; no fear of losing the home through forced sale should death occur to the bread-winner; nor is there any likelihood of the mother having to supplement a meagre income by working, nor of the children having to forego the advantages of an education.

The guardian angel of life insurance simply takes your place and "carries on." With a mighty three billions of dollars she is standing watch over thousands of Canadian homes, where the parents and children all live in the happiness that comes through the knowledge of adequate protection.

Life Insurance representatives are the great ambassadors to your home. They will be pleased to show you how simply and easily you can throw the "mantle of protection" around it.

NOTHING CAN EVER TAKE THE PLACE OF YOUR HOME. IT IS A WORLD IN ITSELF ABOUT WHICH EVERYTHING REVOLVES.

EASTERN TOWNSHIPS FARMER

RECENT INVENTIONS OF INTEREST TO EASTERN TOWNSHIPS FARMERS

(By C. J. Lynde, Macdonald College, Que.)

DRIVING ATTACHMENT

This attachment enables the driver to operate the tractor from the implement behind. The two upper reins pass around a drum to the steering wheel and guide the tractor; the third operates the clutch to start or stop it. Dayton H. Gilson, Rushville, Indiana.

CLUTCH CONTROL

One part of this control is clamped to the fender brace and the other to the clutch. It is moved forward by one cable to depress the clutch and stop the tractor, and back by the other cable to raise the clutch and start it. Paul H. Dasen, Ottosen, Iowa.

CLOD CRUSHER

The blades of this crusher break up the soft clods turned up by the plow, and throw the hard ones into the furrow where they are covered by the next slice. They leave the ground smooth and in good condition for planting. Claude C. Hood, Dore, North Dakota.

PLOW

The advantages claimed by this board are that the slots decrease the frictional resistance encountered by the plow, and at the same time increase the pressure, relatively, on the fingers and ensure their being cleared of earth and trash. International Harvester Co., Chicago, Ill.

HARROW CART

The driver here rides on a cart with three castor wheels, which is guided and pushed by the double tree. He is in front of the harrows out of the dust, and between the beams where he can guide them easily. Lewis F. McFarland, Wagner, South Dakota.

MANURE LOADER

The rows of teeth on the right hand part of this loader (not all shown) dig the manure from the pile and move it to the left on the underside. They are tripped to deliver it to the conveyor which in turn carries it to the spreader. Both parts are driven by a gas engine represented by the small motor. Bert A. McAllister, Wadsworth, Ohio.

VEGETABLE STORAGE

perly constructed, frost proof cellar should be available, with adequate ventilation to keep the temperature as constant as possible around 38 degrees F at all times during the storage period. By no means should a storage cellar become excessively damp, because excessive moisture favors the development of many of the common diseases attacking vegetables in storage, and more especially when in warm, ill-ventilated cellars. Moderate-sized, slatted bins or crates should be used for the storage of roots and potatoes, while cabbage can be stored on slatted shelves or in bins. Celery is usually stored in the root cellar. The plants are stripped of all rough leaves and placed in an upright position on moist sand, more sand being placed around the roots. However, where only small quantities of vegetables are to be stored for household use, and a basement is available, a compartment or room should be provided therein, of such construction as to exclude the heat from the furnace and with suitable vents in the wall to provide good ventilation. It is not advisable to store a great quantity of cabbage or turnips in the cellar of a dwelling house. A good earthen floor in the storage room is to be preferred to cement. Where an earthen floor can be had in a well constructed vegetable room, it is seldom necessary to store the carrots, beets, parsnips and potatoes in sand, because, as a rule, sufficient moisture will escape from the floor to keep the air moist enough to prevent the vegetables from withering up.

Onions require quite different conditions, while in storage, to the other varieties of vegetables. A dry, cool, dark room is best suited for this crop, where the temperature can be kept around 34 degrees F. By no means should onions be stored in a cellar, except where it is possible to maintain a dry, cool atmosphere. Squash and pumpkins should be stored in a dry, moderately warm room, where a temperature of 50 degrees F can be maintained. Particularly careful handling is necessary at harvest time if this crop is to be kept for any length of time. Place the squash or pumpkins on shelves or on a table, in a single layer.

Where Quality Means Most-Goodyear Tires are Used

They're very rough and tough

The man, who above all others needs to buy the best tires, is the automobile manufacturer.

The difference in price between Goodyear Tires and the cheapest tires would only amount to a few dollars per car.

But the difference in quality could easily ruin any car's reputation for tire mileage and trouble-free service.

The reputation of his car demands that the manufacturer secure the best tires. A great majority of the automobiles built in Canada are equipped with Goodyear Tires

Manufacturers who buy tires for thousands of cars have found that Goodyears give the lowest cost-per-mile. You will find the same thing true of your car.

4000 selected dealers sell them. A host of motorists use them

THE STORAGE OF VEGETABLES FOR THE WINTER

To Guard Against Loss While in Storage Is Sometimes Quite a Problem.

(Experimental Farm Note.) Winter storage of vegetables is an old question often discussed, but apparently not yet well understood. To store the crop seems a comparatively easy task, but to guard against heavy loss while in storage is sometimes quite a problem even for the most experienced growers. Some of the first and most important factors influencing the keeping of vegetables in storage are to see that the vegetables are free from disease, well grown, fully matured and free from injuries such as bruises caused by careless handling at harvest time. If these important points are kept in mind and carefully attended to at the time of selecting the material for storage, much worry and subsequent loss in dollars and cents will be avoided by the grower later on. For the storage of such crops as beets, carrots, potatoes, cabbage, celery, parsnips and turnips, a pro-

DEATHS REPORTED

MRS. HORACE S. COATES, BIRCHTON, Que., Sept. 22.—On Saturday, September 9th, 1922, Mrs. Horace Coates passed into rest at home in her sixty-eighth year. Mrs. Coates had been in failing health for some time, but was able to assist in the household duties until about two weeks previous to her death, when she was stricken with paralysis. Everything possible was done to restore her usual health, but in vain.

Deceased was the daughter of the late Charles Coates and Mary Ann Bagley. She is survived by her husband and two sons, Arthur Coates, of Lennoxville, and Stewart Coates, of Birchton; also two sisters, Mrs. Maria Paige and Mrs. George Carpenter. Her entire life was spent in this vicinity, where she was well known by a large circle of friends, who will miss her cheery face and hospitable manner. Mrs. Coates was a kind friend, a devoted wife and mother, ever generous and willing to help in every good cause, particularly the work of the church.

The largely attended funeral took place on Monday afternoon. The Rev. T. B. Moody officiated. The flowers, which were beautiful and abundant, were conveyed by a special car to the church and cemetery in charge of Mrs. F. A. Hodge. The bearers were Messrs. M. B. Hodge, R. A. Taylor, C. J. Lefebvre and F. A. Hodge. Interment was in the Eaton Cemetery. The out-of-town relatives who were present include Miss A. Mitch-

Stanstead College Notes

Stanstead College is again in full swing, the formal opening having taken place on Sept. 12th. This is the Jubilee Year of the College and an unusually strong and efficient teaching staff will spare no effort to make the record of the year a real climax to the fifty years of work.

The opening of the Bugbee Business College this year is quite promising. There is almost an equal number of boys and girls. They are mostly students with a good academic training as a foundation and there is every prospect of a successful year.

It is a pleasure to welcome on the staff again, Miss Bull, who proved, when here previously as a teacher, to be a most congenial member of the staff and a very efficient instructor.

SCHOONER WAS NOT ABLE TO REACH WRANGEL

Had Been Sent to Bring Back Party from Wrangel Island—Propeller Bent by Heavy Ice.

(Associated Press Despatch) NOME, Alaska, Sept. 22.—The schooner "Teddy Bear," which left here on August 18th with an expedition headed by Captain Joe Barnard to bring off the party sent by Vilhjalm Stefansson under the leadership of Allen Crawford to Wrangel Island last year, was bent here today with a propeller bent by the heavy ice in the Arctic ocean.

AGENT IS HELD RESPONSIBLE

It was further alleged that the income of the plaintiff while Kennedy was agent for Sherbrooke and Lennoxville, was about $3,500 of which Kennedy was to receive 17 1/2% commission. All this business was said to have been secured by Kennedy and it was after this had been accomplished that he was dismissed as agent of the Company, his books, documents and papers taken from his possession surreptitiously, while he was away from his home, and the agency given to another, without a cent of remuneration.

The defendant accordingly prayed that the defendant's demand be declared to have been paid and compensated for by defendant's own claim against plaintiff and asked that the action be dismissed with costs.

How John Parvin's Mortgage Was Paid.

JOHN PARVIN was a farmer living near Port Hope, Ont. He bought a farm for $6,000, of which amount he paid $2,000 cash and signed a mortgage for the remaining $4,000.

But the thought of this $4,000 overhanging his home made him uneasy. He feared the loss of the farm to his wife in case of his death.

One day he went to Port Hope. Here he met a North American Life representative and confided to him his doubts and fears. He was advised to take out a policy for $4,000 to cover his estate, which he did.

The second winter after this he was taking grain to town. The day was bitterly cold and he caught a chill. Pneumonia resulted. Inside of a week John Parvin had passed away.

His North American Life policy lifted the mortgage off that farm.

We have a booklet entitled "About That Mortgage," which gives full information on how to cover mortgaged property. Send for it to-day.

HOSPITAL CUP SEMI-FINAL TO BE REPLAYED

Garrison Replay Their Game at Beebe on September 30.

At a special meeting of the executive of the Eastern Townships Football League held at the Y.M.C.A. last night, two questions of importance were considered in connection with the recent semi-finals of the Sherbrooke Hospital Charity Cup.

East Angus protested the game against Sherbrooke when the locals won at East Angus by a score of 1-0, after thirty minutes overtime. The East Angus management protested on the grounds that the referee failed to give a penalty kick against one of the Sherbrooke players who handled the ball in front of his goal.

In the other semi-finals played at Beebe last Saturday, Beebe won 1-0 with the Garrison players leaving the field six minutes before the close of play. The Garrison protested the game, and an investigation showed that the official referee had failed to put in an appearance and a Beebe man had acted in that capacity. According to the Garrison statements, the referee had discriminated against them and a certain amount of rowdiness developed, which compelled the Garrison players to leave the grounds before the close of time.

The executive committee upheld the protest on the grounds that the full length of time was not played, while there was no official referee to handle the game, and that a Beebe referee should not have been used on the home ground.

The game has been ordered to be replayed on September 30th, as a result of which the final has been set back until October 7th.

MITCHELL CUP SERIES.

Efforts are being made to have the Mitchell cup series completed this week-end, and it is expected that a number of games will be pulled off today, with the finals played tomorrow. The St. Francis Golf Club executive committee is anxious to get a final return of the series in order to allow for the presentation of the cup on Saturday next, when an "at home" will be held. Golf and tennis trophies will be awarded.

YANKS FOUGHT UPHILL BATTLE TO BEAT TIGERS

Overcame a Five Run Lead to Down Detroit—Browns Nosed Out Washington.

(Associated Press Despatch) NEW YORK, Sept. 22.—By overcoming a five run lead and defeating the Detroit Tigers yesterday by 9 to 8, while the Browns were winning from Washington by 7 to 6, the Yankees today maintained their lead of three and one half games over the St. Louis club. It was the Browns' first victory in their last four games.

The Yanks have seven more games to play, while the Browns have six on their schedule. Thus if the New Yorkers win four of their contests, and the Browns win all of their games, the Yanks will win the pennant by one full game.

The Giants lost ground in their pennant fight when they dropped a second game to Pittsburgh by 6 to 1, and are now only three and one half games to the good. To make the pennant a mathematical certainty the Giants must win seven of their remaining eleven games. However, the Pirates, with eight games on their schedule, to nose out the leaders, must finish the season without a defeat, while the Giants win only five of their games.

The Cubs and Phillies, and Cincinnati and the Boston Nationals split double headers and Brooklyn won from St. Louis in other National League contests.

In the American League, the Athletics defeated Chicago by 6 to 1, and Boston took a swat from Cleveland, by 15 to 5, in the other games.

The Yanks open their final series at Cleveland today, while the Browns face the Athletics. Washington at Chicago and Boston at Detroit are other games in the American League today.

Double headers will be played between Cincinnati and Boston, and Chicago and Philadelphia, while the Pirates continue their series with the Giants at the Polo Grounds and St. Louis meets Brooklyn at Ebbets' Field in National League contests today.

PORTSMOUTH PLAY HERE TOMORROW.

With the baseball season drawing to a close, local fans will have only a few more opportunities of seeing the Sherbrooke boys in action. It is unanimously admitted that this year's team is one of the best which has ever represented the city, and their record is one to be very proud of.

The Portsmouth boys, having completed a strenuous season down south, are on their farewell trip through the Northern States and they are bringing up the strongest team they can lay their hands on. Bill Horne, of Holy Cross, will pitch in one game and Brackett will do the catching.

The locals have lost the services of Connie Granai who has returned to college but they still have Buckland and Hunt to carry them through and both pitchers are going strong.

The weekend games will be play-
