Forces suffering say PC's

OTTAWA (CP) — Progressive Conservatives attacked the government Thursday night for allegedly not providing the armed forces with adequate men and equipment.

Their speakers in the Commons said the forces are suffering from the neglect of successive defence ministers and now are not able to fulfil their commitments.

Patrick Nowlan (PC—Annapolis Valley) said the forces are unable to adequately patrol the coasts and that shifts, changes, reversals and retreats of Liberal defence ministers of the last 10 years have left the forces despondent.

New Democratic speakers attacked the government and the Conservatives, whom Stuart Leggart (NDP—New Westminster) said are sabre rattling. He said Canada must get out of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO) and Andrew Brewin (NDP—Greenwood) said Canada should get out of the North American Air Defence Command (NORAD).

The remarks were made during a debate on the estimates of defence expenditures for the 1974-75 fiscal year.

Defence Minister James Richardson's remarks in the debate largely were reiteration of statements that the force has been reduced by about 3,000 persons because of inflation. He repeated that he is looking for an elite force that is better equipped but smaller than the 83,000 authorized strength.

CUT WHAT TASKS?

Because the size of the force has been reduced, the tasks must be reduced, he said. But he gave no indications what these reductions will involve.

It was true the military needed more money but it had to stay within a budget. Despite Conservative claims, spending on equipment was increasing, although not as fast as he would like.

He said Canada should appreciate that the services provide more than just fulfilment of their four main commitments: Sovereignty, defence of North America, NATO and peace-keeping.

The taxpayer benefitted through everything from the payroll spent by personnel in a community to vocational training, cadet programs, environmental and other assistance and even contributions to such sporting events as the Pan-American Games and the Olympics.

But Allan McKinnon (Victoria), Conservative military critic, Mr. Nowlan and other Conservatives were not impressed.

Mr. Nowlan said because of spending restrictions the forces aircraft are not patrolling the Atlantic as often or as far as in the past and joint exercises with U.S. troops have been stopped.

'MINISTER A FRAUD'

"This minister is a fraud as he pretends Canada is fulfilling its four stated objectives," he said. If a "country can't patrol its own borders it cannot survive as a state."

He said the minister must stop being an apologist for the government and stand up for the forces.

Mr. Richardson was singing that old song and yet the forces still were poorly equipped.

Don't forget time change

Sure, it just seems like yesterday when we shifted to daylight saving time... but the summer has flown. This Saturday night, October 26, is the time when clocks should be turned back to standard time. Turn it back one full hour, so that you will be on time Sunday morning. Only consolation is that you gain back that sleep hour you lost in the spring.

Government posts surplus

OTTAWA (CP) — Despite sharply higher spending, the government has posted a $598 million budget surplus for the first half of fiscal 1974-75, financial department figures showed Thursday.

The surplus is more than seven times the $82 million surplus in the same period last year and seems to show results of an effort to curb spending programs.

In the same April-September period spending in all federal departments was up by more than 25 per cent—$11.135 billion, compared to $8.8 billion a year earlier.

Revenues from taxes investments and other sources were $11.733 billion in the six-month period this year, compared to $8.882 billion a year ago.

Treasury Board President Jean Chretien told a Commons estimates committee recently that federal departments have been instructed to live within existing budgets and virtually all requests for supplementary funds had been turned down since August.

DOUBTS EXPRESSED

Nevertheless, there were doubts expressed that spending restraint accounts for much of the surplus.

Sinclair Stevens, Progressive

Conservative finance critic, said he believes the government is still reaping more in taxes than it planned because of inflation's tendency to push incomes into higher tax brackets.

"I would like to think the surplus is due to a more responsible attitude on the part of the government with regard to spending," he said Thursday.

"But I suspect the surplus is due to an overrun in their revenue generation, largely out of the pockets of personal taxpayers."

Payroll deductions of personal income taxes were up to $3.661 billion from $2.711 billion last year. Another $1.232 billion of income tax was collected by other means, up from $1.041 billion last year.

Corporation taxes rose to $2.068 billion from $1.739 billion in the first half last year.

In addition, new revenues from oil sales provided a total of $732.1 million that was not available in the past. The revenues came from oil export charges that were levied for the first time this year.

Edward Broadbent, New Democrat leader in the Commons, said the budget surplus is excessive and should be spent imaginatively in ways that would be anti-inflationary.

Housing needed a "massive infusion of capital" to increase supply. Use of the surplus to finance housing for average- and low-income people and for native peoples "would be an extremely effective way to bring down prices."

The NDP parliamentary leader also suggested that some of the surplus be set aside for winter works.

INDUCTION CEREMONY — Mr. Justice William Mitchell was installed as the new chancellor of Bishop's University in a ceremony held there yesterday. He succeeds Brigadier John Price. Shown above are president of the corporation of Bishop's

Bishop's honors four outstanding citizens

LENNOXVILLE (RH) — Bishop's University honoured four outstanding citizens at convocation ceremonies yesterday by bestowing on them the honorary degree of Bachelor of Civil Law.

The four, Professor Max Beloff of Buckingham, England, Dr. Dennis Healy, Principal of Bishop's University, Dr. A. Hollis Marden, a retired businessman, and Mr. Thomas Francis O'Connell, Director of Libraries at York University, were so honored because of their accomplishments in a diverse fields. The university's new Chancellor, Judge William Mitchell conferred the degrees on the four during convocation ceremonies at that university yesterday.

In his speech before the degree was presented to Professor Beloff, Gerald Etienne Tucker said that the honor was given because "Bishop's University, in its beleaguered quest for excellence, recognizes the scholarly and personal distinction of Professor Beloff, and his singularly active role in attempting to create Britain's unique independent university — the independent in that it proposes not to receive government monies and so will be free from the tiresome and officious importunities of the state."

Professor Beloff, Principal of the University College at Buckingham, is a Fellow of the Royal Historical Society of Arts in England. He received a B. Litt. and an M.A. from Oxford with first class honours in the School of Modern History. Moreover, he is a fellow of Nutfield College, and a Fellow of All Souls College in England.

The second to receive the honorary degree, Mr. A. Hollis Marden, was awarded the Bachelor of Civil Law because of his outstanding work in fund-raising for community and health projects.

Mr. Marden, now 81, was praised by speaker Alexander

Paterson yesterday as "an inspiration to others — a rebuke to the hesitant, the excuse-maker, the evader, the selfish."

Mr. Paterson went on to describe Mr. Marden as "a dedicated man — but a firm, good-humoured, sensible, determined one, and always showing confidence that persistence and common sense must win in the end."

Mr. Marden's accomplishment have included the establishment of a business to employ the handicapped graduates of the MacKay centre in Montreal. He became a member of the board of the School for Crippled Children in 1947, and later became president of that organization. He was responsible for the merging of the MacKay Institute and the Crippled Children's School which occurred in 1960, and went on the raise — almost single-handedly — $2,500,000 towards new facilities to house the newly-merged institution.

Next honored was Dr. Dennis Healy, principal of Bishop's, who was introduced and commended by speaker Anthony Preston.

Mr. Preston remarked that the degree was being awarded due to Dr. Healy's "experience and tactful approach which have done much to cherish the high regard in which this university is held by the government, business, and academic establishments."

He added that Dr. Healy remained "unswayed by the more garish lights of meritricious change, and, secure in his position as chairman of the Canada Council's Committee on Graduate Studies, "Dr. Healy and his sane approach to scholarship has left his mark upon this place."

Dr. Healy, originally from Ireland, has been a member of the faculties of the Universities of Alberta, Long Island British Columbia and York.

Finally the honorary D. CL degree was awarded to Mr. Thomas Francis O'Connell, Library Director at York University.

Originally from Boston, Mr. O'Connell was educated at Boston College and later on, Columbia University.

After beginning his library career at Harvard University, he was persuaded to accept a post at York University in Ontario, where he is still in charge of the library there.

Ogden Glass, who introduced Mr. O'Connell, pointed out that Mr. O'Connell was responsible for a twentyfold increase in the number of volumes in that library.

He went on to say that the honour was being bestowed for what "Mr. O'Connell has done in Canada and for Canada," and added that the award is given because of "his vision, conviction, leadership and sheer ability which created a library magnificently conceived and magnificently housed."

Alumnus now chancellor

LENNOXVILLE (RH) — An alumnus of Bishop's University, Judge William Mitchell, was installed as the new chancellor of that institution at the convocation ceremonies which took place there in Centennial Theatre yesterday afternoon.

Judge Mitchell, who will be succeeding Brigadier John Price in the post, comes to this position after many years of affiliation with the university. He was elected president of Bishop's University Corporation in 1971, after having served as an elected trustee with the school, and after having been chairman of the building and executive committees there.

Having served as a member of the Superior Court Bench for the District of St. Francis, he studied law at McGill University after attaining his Bachelor of Arts degree at Bishop's.

He has served many institutions in the Eastern Townships aside from Bishop's — among them Bishop's College School, where he acted as chairman of the board, and as president of the Wales Home in Richmond.

Judge Mitchell is married and has five children.

CINEMA TICKETS FOR DONORS — Andre Lachance, director of the University of Sherbrooke cultural center is shown presenting Celia Dumont with one booklet of tickets to be given to all the blood donors at the three upcoming Red Cross clinics in Sherbrooke. Carry out raids

MONTREAL (CP) — About 50 heavily-armed Quebec Provincial Police officers carried out a series of raids Thursday in the Montreal area as the search continued for five men, described as extremely dangerous, who escaped from a maximum-security federal prison Wednesday.

The officers raided a number of homes of relatives and friends of the escaped convicts during the day but "so far nothing has turned up," a QPP spokesman said.

"I've always felt there's been a desperate need for stability in the CEGEP system."

With the exodus of Turley, McGrath, Sewell, Groeneweg and Gauthier, the CEGEP has been virtually stripped of its original administration, although it has been in existence for fewer than four years.

Ash announced he was to meet members of several representative bodies on campus today, in an effort to explain the recent developments. He said also he plans to return to the St. Lambert campus next week to seek recommendations from the same bodies about selecting a successor to Gauthier.

Patty Hearst could be near

SAN FRANCISCO (Reuter) — A television reporter said Thursday night she has been told that kidnapped newspaper heiress Patricia Hearst was seen 10 days ago in an unidentified town on the U.S.-Canadian border.

Marilyn Baker, a reporter for television station KPIX, said she was told this by former underworld figure Mickey Cohen of Los Angeles, who said he tracked down Miss Hearst through his underworld contacts at the request of Miss Hearst's parents.

Miss Baker, author of a recently published book on the Hearst kidnapping, said Cohen refused to identify the border town where Miss Hearst was seen, but said she was no longer there. There was no indication of which side of the border the town was on.

The FBI which has co-ordinated the hunt for Miss Hearst since she was kidnapped by the revolutionary Symbionese Liberation Army on Feb. 4 refused comment on the story.

Miss Hearst, 20, later apparently joined her kidnapers, took part in a bank raid and a number of other robberies, and now is being sought as an armed and dangerous fugitive.

EXPLAINS ROLE
Cohen appeared on Los Angeles television Thursday night to explain his part in the hunt for Miss Hearst.

He said he was approached by Miss Hearst's father five months ago to see whether he could help through his underworld contacts.

The Los Angeles Times says that Patricia's parents, Randolph and Catherine Hearst, recently flew to Los Angeles for a dinner meeting with Cohen.

Cohen said he organized a number of meetings during a period of several months with black underworld figures in Los Angeles. They tracked down Miss Hearst and said they were willing to organize a raid to get her back.

"They knew where she was and had access to her," Cohen said.

But Cohen said they warned him that violence might have to be used in seizing her.

He said he had discussed this question with the Hearsts at the Los Angeles meeting.

At this point, he said Mrs. Hearst said she was scared about her daughter being found because she felt she might have to serve 20 to 30 years in prison.

"It took me by surprise that they didn't know what they were doing," Cohen said. "I wouldn't have any part of bringing her in to do time."

Cohen, the leading figure in Los Angeles gangland until 1960, served 11 years in prison for income-tax evasion.

He said that after his talk with Mrs. Hearst he told his black associates to drop the scheme.

The development marks the second time in less than one month that the St. Lambert campus has been rocked by a resignation in its administrative ranks. Adrien Groeneweg, former director of student services, withdrew from the administration to assume responsibilities

Search moves to Sherbrooke

(BS) — Sherbrooke Municipal and Quebec Provincial Police this morning at 6:30 a.m. surrounded a Goyette Street apartment building acting on a tip that escaped prisoners from St. Vincent de Paul Penitentiary were hiding within. However, the search did not turn up the fugitives.

The men, described as extremely dangerous, escaped from the Montreal maximum-security federal prison Wednesday.

The fugitives are Richard Blass, 29, Jean-Paul Mercier, 29, Pierre Vincent, 29, Edgar Roussel, 28, all with previous escape record, and Robert Frappier, 27.

Champlain loses another administrator

By MICHAEL ISAACS
Record Reporter

ST. LAMBERT — Champlain Regional College today lost the services of its fifth administrator in five months.

Guy Gauthier, director of the CEGEP's St. Lambert-Longueuil campus since its inception in 1972, tendered his resignation Wednesday, effective at 5 p.m. today.

According to Champlain director-general Brian Ash, the decision was partly the product of disagreements between Gauthier and himself, although he claimed Thursday he had not requested Gauthier's resignation.

"I would say the majority of the problem arose before I came here," Ash added. "During that time, actions were made which brought about a situation in which it is difficult for Guy to cope with the developing situations on his campus."

Gauthier was not available for comment. The position of campus director will be filled, on an interim basis, by Andre Milbers. Ash said Milbers is director of student services on the Lennoxville campus of the college.

The development marks the second time in less than one month that the St. Lambert campus has been rocked by a resignation in its administrative ranks. Adrien Groeneweg, former director of student services, withdrew from the administration to assume responsibilities of an instructor on the campus. Earlier this year, in May, the college lost the services of three administrators: Frederick Turley, the CEGEP's first director-general; Raymond McGrath, coordinator of research and development, and former director of the Lennoxville campus; and David Sewell, director of student services on the Lennoxville campus.

Ash observed that the stream of resignations has caused him some concern. Claiming the situation is not unique to Champlain, he said: "The reasons for the trend can be attributed to the conditions of intense pressure on people of relatively limited experience. I've always felt there's been a desperate need for stability in the CEGEP system."

Brokers said comments Wednesday by Paul W. McCracken, Treasury Secretary William E. Simon's economic adviser, that the country was entering a "sharp" recession from which it would not emerge before mid-1975 helped spur stock prices down in early emotional trading.

Prices then recovered slightly after noon when Chrysler Corp., surprising some Wall Street seers, decided to pay its regular quarterly dividend despite current losses.

However the Dow index began to recede again until shortly before the close, when the Federal Reserve Board released figures showing a $3-billion rise in the money supply during the week, and the New York Federal Reserve said business and commercial loans at big New York banks had fallen by $390 million in the latest week.

RCA Corp., down 1/4 at $10 3/4, led the NYSE's most-active group. A 112,900-share block crossed at $10 1/2, off 1/2. Carrier Corp., up 1/4 at $7 1/4, was in fourth place, helped by a 155,000-share block which traded at $7, down 1/4.

Gold was higher, aided by higher bullion prices abroad and strikes at some South African gold mines. Homestake Mines gained 5 1/2 to $45 1/2 and ASA Ltd. 5 1/4 to $82 1/2.

CHRYSLER UP

Chrysler, up 3/4 to $10 1/4 on its decision to maintain its dividend, bucked the industry. General Motors fell 1/4 to $33 and Ford 1/4 to $31 1/4.

Earnings reports affected several companies. Zenith, which reported a $3.6-million loss for the quarter, fell 1/4 to $ Procter & Gamble lost 1/2 to $83 1/2; its quarter net equaled $1.28 a share, versus $1.05 last year. Texaco, whose quarter profits rose 23 per cent over 1973, was steady at $22 1/2.

Sucrest was the percentage gainer, up 1 1/4 to $7. Sugar companies have been reporting big gains.

The NYSE's composite index fell .44 to 37.10, and the Amex market-value index lost .98 to 67.61. Houston Oil and Mineral, despite sharp third-quarter profit gains, fell 1/4 to $22 1/2 to lead the Amex volume list.

Gold could be up and down

The prices of gold bullion and some gold shares have dropped considerably from their 1974 highs, and at least one analyst expects more uncertainty in the near future.

Canadian Business Service of Toronto says legalized gold ownership for Americans, scheduled for the end of the year, theoretically will increase the potential demand for the metal.

"However, the change may not be sufficient to reverse the generally downward course that gold's price has followed during the past seven months."

Japan legalized private gold ownership recently and it produced no perceptible rush on the metal.

No one knows how much gold is already held in Europe or Canada illegally by Americans, the service says.

"And just as the increase in demand may fall short of expectations, the change in American laws concerning gold ownership may expand existing supply channels or be accompanied by new ones."

More than one American commodity exchange is gearing up for futures trading in gold following legalization. Ownership of gold futures is a far more practical means of hedging against inflation than physical ownership of the metal.

"If investors individually decide to take profits on their bullion holdings for re-investment in gold futures, the price of the metal will be under severe pressure."

Another possible depressant in bullion prices stems from the mortgaging of monetary holdings that some countries, notably Italy, may undertake in order to pay for oil, and limit the speculative attraction of gold.

PRICED TOO HIGH

Depending on the approach, the recent price of $155 an ounce for gold "is either slightly or grossly high" relative to other commodity prices which have risen seven-fold since the Depression.

Gold was around $20 an ounce in 1933 before the U.S. government raised the price. On this basis, gold "should" sell today for $140 an ounce.

Gold was around $24 an ounce in the 1924-1926 period, which is more comparable to 1974 by any economic yardstick, the service says.

Since commodity prices have risen about 380 per cent as measured by the Dow-Jones Index of Future Prices gold should sell today at about $90 an ounce.

"Under any circumstances, gold bullion and stocks seem to face more negatives than positives in the foreseeable future," says Canadian Business Service.

It recommends holding gold shares for sale when the price recovers and purchasing selected industrial shares while the price is low for long-term capital appreciation.

Digest "expects to stay"

MONTREAL (CP) — Reader's Digest says it expects to stay in Canada.

E. Paul Zimmerman, president of Reader's Digest Association (Canada) Ltd., said Wednesday in his annual report to shareholders:

"No responsible government in my judgment is going to punitively restrict an operation that has Canadianized itself and done the thing properly in Canada, as Reader's Digest has."

The federal government has said it might consider eliminating tax concessions to the magazine's advertisers if Reader's Digest (Canada) cannot prove it serves the Canadian interest.

Mr. Zimmerman reported net income for the fiscal year ended June 30 of $1,463,180 compared with $1,756,745 the previous year. Per-share earnings dropped to $1.52 from $1.84. Net sales were $30,843,077, up from $28,532,628.

Mr. Zimmerman said the reduced per-share earnings resulted from increased cost of product and sales material and an interruption of postal services late in the fiscal year.

He said the magazine now reaches 6,000,000 Canadian readers each month and sales of English-language special books have increased in the last fiscal year.

Mr. Zimmerman said the reduced per-share earnings resulted from increased cost of

Automaker feels recession

DETROIT (AP) — The head of a major auto maker has agreed with an economic adviser to the United States government that the country is in a recession, with plant closings and unemployment the possible penalties and easier money a recommended relief.

"Recession is here in the automobile industry, recession is here in the building industry," Lynn A. Townsend, chairman of Chrysler Corp., told a news conference at which he also said Chrysler may close its big Jefferson Ave. plant here.

"I would say recession is here in the country," Paul McCracken, an economic adviser to the U.S. administration, said. "I think we are probably in the early stages of what could turn out to be a V-type recession."

That means a recession which is sharp but brief and looks like a V on a graph, in contrast to prolonged declines in economic activity, McCracken said in a Washington interview Wednesday. He indicated he thought the worst would be over by mid-1975.

McCracken said U.S. unemployment could approach seven per cent and the decline in economic output about four per cent next year.

Townsend said that recession and slack demand have superseded inflation as the auto industry's key problem.

"We have been in a program here where apparently the opinion has been that we can control inflation by dampening down consumer purchasing," he said.

"I think it has gotten to the point that we should direct our efforts at stimulating the economy through consumer purchasing, rather than further depressing it."

The news conference came one day after Chrysler, No. 3 in the U.S. auto industry, announced an $8-million loss on third-quarter sales. Chrysler showed an $11.2-million profit in U.S. and Canadian vehicle sales, but that was offset by a $19.2-million loss in overseas sales.

Union demands that CRTC move

MONTREAL — The Quebec Federation of Workers (FTQ) called yesterday for the Canadian Radio and Television Commission (CRTC) to hold a public meeting to determine whether Telemédia-Sherbrooke intends to reduce regional programming on Tele-7.

Fernand Daoust, FTQ secretary-general, demanded the CRTC intervention after alleging the Telemédia administration has attempted to camouflage its real intentions under guise of the present labor conflict.

The conflict, which has kept 99 employees of Tele-7, CHLT-FM-AM and CKTS off the job, entered its fifth month earlier this week.

The FTQ joined several groups, including municipal councils and socio-cultural associations, in appealing to the CRTC for investigation of the situation.

Bergeron for tunnel project

SHERBROOKE — If elected to the sole councillor's seat in the center ward, Romeo Bergeron will strive to involve the ward's buildings in the recently-announced federal-provincial building renovation project, according to a press communication received from the candidate's election committee.

Bergeron will also seek to find solutions to the present downtown traffic problems, and will make efforts to continue the street and sidewalk reparation and replacement program. Further, the communication stated, the candidate will attempt to gain council approval for a project which would link Camirand and Dufresne Parks by a tunnel under the Canadian Pacific Railroad tracks, in the hope of expanding opportunities for children without exposing them to danger.

Other features of his program include focusing of the provision of sports, leisure and recreational facilities for all segments of the center ward population.

Under the heading "commercial area projects", Bergeron lists such concerns as development of the King-Belvedere-Marquette-Couture streets area as an administrative center for municipal services and departments; continuation of the downtown revitalization project; relocation of the railroad tracks; rapid solution of the traffic and parking problems.

Organized corruption network

QUEBEC (CP) — Quebec Justice Minister Jerome Choquette said Thursday that alleged misappropriation of funds by government officials administering the northern region of the province may be part of an organized network and not isolated cases.

Mr. Choquette said it was unlikely that a thorough investigation would have been necessary if it was not thought that more than isolated cases were involved.

The justice department announced earlier this week it is carrying out a "complete and general" inquiry into corruption among civil servants employed by the Direction Generale du Nouveau Quebec.

The department said it intends to analyse procedures and administrative measures "so that corrections can be made."

A Quebec Provincial Police spokesman said the first step in the investigation, which consists of the seizure of documents, is to be completed next week.

Britain's 'Social Contract' already showing faults

LONDON (CP) — Less than two weeks after Britain's general election, dangerous cracks are appearing in the much vaunted "Social Contract," the wage-control scheme that was the principal plank in Prime Minister Harold Wilson's successful election campaign.

With Britain already facing the second-worst inflation in Europe, after Italy, the country now is being swamped by a flood of wage demands ranging up to an incredible 107-per-cent increase demanded by some construction workers.

The opposition parties, alarmed over Britain's future as investment and balance-of-trade figures plunge and unemployment rises, take little satisfaction from the apparent vindication of their campaign predictions that labor's Social Contract would hold together only until after election day.

Indeed, it is no secret that the representatives of one million construction workers deliberately held back on the 87-to 107-per-cent wage demand during the election campaign because of its gross incongruity with the intentions of the Social Contract between Wilson and the unions.

Nevertheless, Wilson still remains outwardly confident that Labor's rapport with the unions will serve the country better than the spirit of confrontation of the last Conservative government that led to last winter's state of emergency and three-day work week.

While the construction men's bold bid to double their pay has taken the limelight, there are dozens of other hefty wage demands in the pipeline. The accumulative effect, some economists suggest, probably would make nonsense of the Social Contract, and plunge Britain deeper in to the economic crisis that all politicians now agree is the worst since the Second World War.

Already central Scotland is in the grip of sweeping strike action. But it's a pretty sketchy control—"not worth the paper it isn't written on," as one Tory candidate chided during the election campaign.

"I"-motivation vs. the common good

By Tom Tiede

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — If the ultimate lesson of Richard Nixon's presidency was that Americans court disaster when they place their destinies in the hands of one man, there is nothing to suggest the lesson has been learned. Barely two months after Nixon's departure, here we are again, 210 million of us, looking desperately to his successor to find a way out of the troubles we are in.

If this truth weren't so serious, we could chuckle at the irony of it. In 25 years as a congressman Gerald Ford voted on more than 4,000 bills, none of which he authored. He may be a good and decent fellow, as his trumpeters never cease to remind the subjects, but his brilliance as an imaginative pathfinder has small history.

If we face up to it, the nation's material problems may be aggravated by a more serious national spiritual problem. Inflation is not Public Enemy No. 1, citizen dependency is. Americans have lost their grit. Where once the country defeated crisis by common effort, today it simply looks to Washington for help.

To his credit, President Ford recognizes this. His speech to Congress concerning the economy was not so much the outlining of a program as a plea for the resurrection of the American spirit. "Unless every able American pitches in," he said, "Congress and I cannot do the job." The words are the wisest on democracy since Gandhi said that good government is no substitute for self government.

But how will the people respond to this admonition to help themselves? The optimists think affirmatively. George Romney, for instance, former governor of Michigan, believes the ability of the nation to roll up its sleeves is not dead but only dormant. He says government has so meddled in the lives and livelihoods of the people that the self-help spirit has suffered degeneration, "but it's still there."

Romney recalls the spirit fondly. During World War II he served on the Automobile Production Board, one of many voluntary private agencies which then acted as liaison between wartime needs and industrial capabilities. "Hitler told his people what to do, but they didn't always do it. Over here we decided what to do ourselves and we did it. This was one of the advantages we had in that fight."

Now chairman of the National Center for Voluntary Action, Romney believes the self help advantage can be readapted for the current battle. He says there are some 45-million Americans who regularly volunteer to help their neighbors or nation, and there's "no reason" why they and others can't mobilize to help the economy too.

The Romney thought is nice, but it may be unrealistic as well. Men have always found it easy to be governed, as columnist Max Lerner has written, "what is hard is for them to govern themselves." The recent past indicates Americans seldom take action unless it is mandated action. No doubt due to the government meddling Romney mentions, citizens seem to feel that if something isn't law it isn't anything.

Moreover, the mood of the times, with its risks and confusions, tends to pull people asunder for singular pursuit rather than bring them together in common effort. The sentiment these days is not what's in it for us, but me. Everyone wants to get his — the farmer, the trucker, the consumer — and when they don't they slaughter their herds, or block the highways or boycott the stores in protest. To hell with the common good, as a dairyman has said, "I'm worried about No. 1."

There is no argument that this "I"-motivation trend is folly of the most dangerous sort. The price of citizen disunity is further government intervention. What people won't do for themselves, officials will do for them, usually badly.

Therefore, despite the odds, the hope is Americans will rally to the latest call for shared effort. As Theodore Roosevelt said years ago to a citizen confused as to his role in democracy: "Do what you can with what you got — but do it!"

The Way Of Our Fathers

Thanksgiving falls on different days in the United States and Canada, but its meaning is the same in both countries. It is a day of general thanksgiving, with its origin — in the rural, pioneering environment of 18th century New England — as a thanksgiving for harvest. It is as North American as Deadwood Dick.

But the first North American thanksgiving dates back beyond even the first Thanksgiving Day. It dates to the early 17th century and is recorded in Governor William Bradford's history "Of Plimoth Plantation," 1623. It reads in part:

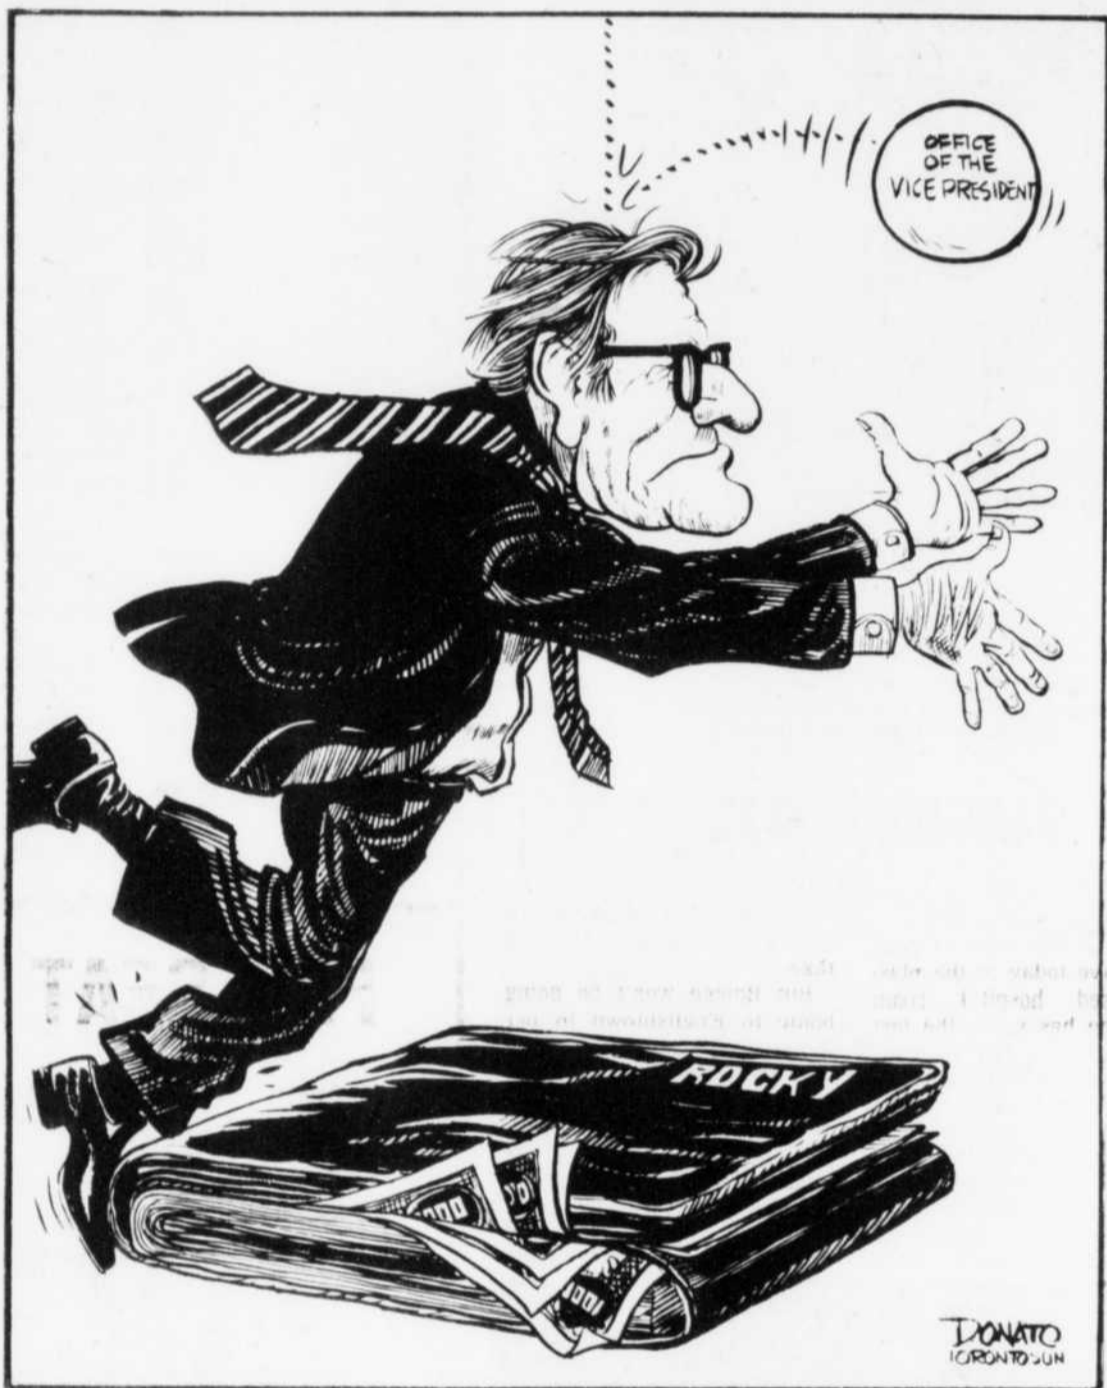

"Notwithstanding all their great paines and industrie, and the great hops of a cropp, the Lord seemed to blast, and take away the same, and to threaten further and more sore famine unto them by a great drought which continued from the 3. weeke in May, till about the middle of July, without any raine, and with great heate (for the most parte), insomuch as the corne begane to wither away, although it was set with fishe, the moisture whereof helped it much. Yet at length it begane to languish sore, and some of the drier grounds were parched like withered hay, part whereof was never recovered. Upon which they sett a parte a solemne day of humiliation, to seek the Lord by humble and fervente prayer, in this great distresse. And he was pleased to give them a gracious and speedy answer, both to their owne and the Indians admiration, that lived amongst them. For all the morning, and for the greatest parte of the day, it was clear weather and very hotte, and not a cloud or any signe of raine to be seen, yet toward evening it begane to overcast, and shortly after to raine, with such sweete and gentle showers, as gave them cause of rejoycing, and blessing God. It came, without either wind, or thunder, or any violence, and by degrees in that abundance, as that the earth was thorowly wete and soked therewith. Which did so apparently revive and quicken the decayed corne and other fruits, as was wonderful to see and made the Indians astonished to behold; and afterwards the Lord sent them such seasonable showers, with interchange of faire warme weather, as, through his blessing, caused a fruitful and liberrall harvest, to their no small comferte and rejoycing. For which mercie (in thank conveniente) they also sett aparte a day of thanksgiving."

The United States has made much more of Thanksgiving since then, and we in Canada have made much more of it too. Which is strange in a way, because if there is now much more to give thanks for, there is also much less. But Thanksgiving is typically North American in this too. It is not necessary for a day to have much relation to its origins for us to continue to celebrate it, as if time had stood still and we were still living in the days of our fathers.

Even in the days when the social and economic structure of North America was almost entirely rural there was not always an obvious relation between the harvest and the celebrations of thanksgiving that attended it. The puniest harvest was deemed worthy of celebrating in the most grandiose way.

Nobody said, "We've only got little potatoes and poor ears of corn this year; let's pass up Thanksgiving." The pioneer agriculturalist would search through his corn and potato crops until he found a few good ears of corn and some big potatoes, so that the day could be celebrated in style.

Perhaps we have something to learn from this on Thanksgiving Day 1974 — that failure as well as success is a part of life and that, notwithstanding failure, there still remains much for which to give thanks. This was the way of our fathers. In terms of the realities of today's world, not all of which can be gauged as success, it may have something to commend it as our way too.

Kissinger's control

WASHINGTON — For the past five years, U.S. foreign policy has been almost totally dominated by one man — Dr. Henry A. Kissinger. Inside sources, with secret documents to back up their story, have told us how he has manipulated the diplomatic strings.

Throughout the Nixon years, Kissinger steadfastly maintained to inquiring reporters that he never recommended policy to the President unless his views were solicited. He merely presented "options," he vowed, and left it to the chief to make the decisions.

It was said President Nixon would retire to the solitude of the Lincoln sitting room or to his secluded office in the White House annex, where he would pore over his options. After much agonizing and scratching on yellow legal pads, he would emerge and announce his momentous decisions.

This is not, according to our sources, how it happened. They say Kissinger seldom failed to give the President his personal recommendations and Nixon seldom failed to take the advice. As a former Kissinger associate put it succinctly: "Nixon agreed with Henry on the things he knew about, and he trusted Henry on the things he didn't know about."

The pattern was set early in 1969 when Nixon gave the National Security Council staff a pep talk. After a few general remarks, according to several eye witnesses, he nodded toward Kissinger. "Henry and I are going to end the war," the President said, with a sly smile. "We want you fellows to take care of the rest of the world."

Our sources say Nixon then launched into a furious and vulgar assault on the State Dept. Foreign policy was going to be handled by the White House, he declared, and not by the "striped-pants faggots" at Foggy Bottom.

There was a collective gasp from the two dozen NSC staff members. President Nixon, with his penchant for saying the wrong thing at the wrong time, had forgotten that the majority of his audience had come to the White House from the foreign service.

Thereafter, Kissinger set up his own private State Dept. in the basement of the White House, where he directed every aspect of the decision-making machinery.

He presided over the National Security Council, which determined overall policy. He controlled the supersecret Committee of Forty, which plotted covert activities. He also headed the Washington Special Action Group, which assembled to manage crises.

The secret minutes show that Nixon seldom attended these crucial meetings and waited for Kissinger to fill him in. The two men conferred together frequently.

Sources who occasionally were called into their private meetings say Nixon and Kissinger apparently didn't engage in deep, intellectual discussions. They talked about world issues in terms of personalities and they were often vulgar, ripping into foreign leaders with crude, sometimes cruel, remarks.

When Kissinger travelled abroad, he kept the President informed with cryptic personal messages. Only the two of them understood some of the references.

A typical message from Kissinger in the Middle East, as recalled by a source who saw it, reported: "Met with Number One. Discussed options. He agrees in principle."

Most of Kissinger's recommendations to the President were submitted formally in secret memos, which were guarded as closely as nuclear secrets. Very few of Kissinger's associates are aware such documents exist.

We, however, have seen some of them. A typical Kissinger-to-Nixon memo would be typed on White House letterhead and stamped SECRET.

Kissinger would begin with terse background information and then outline his "recommendations."

At the bottom of the page were two blank lines, the leftmost marked "Approve," and the other "Disapprove." Almost never, according to our sources, did Nixon initial the "disapprove" space.

Usually, a series of "tabs" followed on plain white paper. These took up specific issues, expressed in blunt, candid language. Each tab contained "approve" and "disapprove" lines.

The crowning touch would come when Nixon called in his Cabinet or other associates to brief them on his foreign policy decision. As he spoke to them, he invariably consulted a "talking points" paper prepared, of course, by the ubiquitous Dr. Kissinger.

Kissinger's personal memos and talking papers guided Nixon on the Vietnam War, the invasion of Cambodia, the South Vietnamese invasion of Laos, and scores of other initiatives around the world.

Our sources could recall only one major issue on which Nixon vetoed Kissinger's recommendations. That was the decision to bomb Hanoi and mine Haiphong Harbor in May 1972. In that instance, Nixon overruled all of his chief advisers, including Kissinger.

Kissinger's domination of foreign policy has continued into the Ford Administration. Indeed, President Ford had scarcely been sworn in before he assured the world that Henry Kissinger would stay on. Like Nixon before him, Ford leans heavily on Kissinger for foreign policy guidance. Our sources say, in fact, that Ford has not overruled Kissinger yet.

Footnote: Kissinger has some brilliant diplomatic achievements to his credit, including temporary peace in the Middle East, detente with the Soviet Union and rapprochement with mainland China. But there have also been a few disasters, such as the India-Pakistan war, Chile, Cyprus and the aborted "Year of Europe."

Don Oakley

You can teach an old dog new tricks

By Don Oakley

It may be true, as the Pennsylvania Dutch saying has it, that "we get too soon old and too late smart." But it is not true that getting older necessarily means losing whatever smarts you have.

The commonly held belief that we hit a mental peak at about age 17 and then go downhill for the rest of our lives is a myth, says Dr. Lissy F. Jarvik, a professor of psychiatry at the University of California in Los Angeles.

Citing several studies, including her own, of intellectual functioning among aging populations, she maintains that generally there is no decline in knowledge or reasoning ability, not only into the 30s and 40s, but into the 60s and 70s as well.

One continuing study has been following children who are now adults in their 40s. No decline in intellectual functioning has been observed. Another study has followed college students who were first tested at the time of World War II. These people are now in their 50s, and no decline has been found.

The most common complaint of older people is that their memory is not as good as it used to be. But when learning takes place under laboratory conditions, there is equally proficient learning between young and old people and memory is also often equal.

Much of what we call loss of memory, says Dr. Jarvik, may be due to inadequate learning in the first place, possibly caused by such factors as hearing difficulty, impaired vision, inattention or trying to learn too fast.

In addition, she says, mental deterioration among older people is often a symptom of depression. Mental alertness can often be restored simply by supplying counseling, psychotherapy or antidepressant medicine.

There is also a stereotyped idea about older people and loss of memory, says Dr. Jarvik, and old people are as guilty of it as young ones.

For instance, when an older person puts something somewhere and can't find it later, we say it is "because of age." Ah, but when a young person does the same thing, some other excuse is offered and the failure of memory is ignored.

Anniversary of strength

It probably isn't on your calendar, but October 17 is Credit Union Day.

For those not numbered among the 48 million credit union members around the world, a credit union is a financial cooperative, a group of people who save, invest, borrow and lend their money for mutual benefit.

The movement began in Europe in 1850 and crossed the Atlantic to Canada at the turn of the century. A New Hampshire church parishioner organized the first credit union in the United States in 1909.

With high savings interest and low-cost loans, the non-profit credit union extends reasonable credit to the workingman. Since the members of each organization are united by some common bond — employment, church or fraternity membership, etc. — a loan is usually easier to secure and more apt to be repaid quickly.

Most credit unions today provide a full range of financial services, including even home mortgages and insurance. The movement's initial nickel-and-dime image has long since given way to potent financial clout. In America alone, 28 million members count assets of more than $30 billion in 23,000 credit unions.

In these financially uncertain times, more and more people are finding wisdom in turning to each other for help. The Credit Union movement today celebrates an anniversary that testifies to its strength.

There is a certain abomination that is used in connection with not opening four-card majors. It is what is popularly called the short club. This is not to be confused with the artificial club systems like the Vanderbilt, the Neapolitan and the Precision. It is just a sort of non-descript club opening, with three small or a doubleton.

South can make a grand slam in hearts, if he just pulls one round of trumps and then crossruffs. Six hearts will make if he takes two rounds of trumps. If he pulls all East's trumps, he will hold himself to five.

However, South never opened four-card majors. Most five-card majorities would make an exception and open one heart, but South was going to rise and fall with a silly short club.

Everything might have been fine if good old West hadn't stuck in a nonvulnerable four-spade bid. North wasn't going to be shut out. He Blackwooded but settled for a six-club bid, in spite of South showing both missing aces.

East was too happy to double. He just waited and collected three trump tricks.

Golden Age Club

LENNOXVILLE — The Golden Age Club enjoyed a fall foliage drive, when 47 members and friends toured by bus through various parts of Vermont and New Hampshire, stopping for lunch at Littleton, N.H., and on their return changed their route for added interest. Much credit was due Mrs. Pearl Damon of Birchton who was in charge of the arrangements.

This club meets every two weeks in the Gertrude Scott Hall, Church Street, and at their last meeting all were pleased to welcome Dr. and Mrs. A.B. Lovelace who were calling on friends before leaving their cottage to reside in St. Lambert for the winter months.

At this meeting, all took part in a delectable Thanksgiving supper, specially planned by Mrs. Donald McElrea.

Dr. Lovelace spoke briefly to the members, whom he has kept in close touch with, as he was the organizer.

Nine-year-old leaves sterile cell

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Nine-year-old Bobbie Archer takes leave today of the plastic-enclosed hospital room where she has spent the last five months.

Since May 19, she has eaten, slept and played in a room at the Albany Medical Centre barely large enough to walk around in.

"It's a little jail, a cell," says Dr. Hilaire Meuwissen. The air flows in only one direction, whisking away any bacteria. The walls are washed down daily. Her toys—any objects she touches—are sterilized. All her food must be cooked and her milk boiled. Everyone who enters her cubicle must don a surgical mask, cap and gown, even her mother, Mrs. John Archer of Englishtown, N.J.

Bobbie suffered from aplastic anemia, a rare disease affecting the bone marrow, where the human body produces blood. She was easily susceptible to infection; she bled at the slightest bump; and she needed frequent blood transfusions because her blood wouldn't clot.

But a transplant of bone marrow last summer from her seven-year-old sister, Karen, appears to have been successful, her doctors say. Bobbie's blood count is back to normal and she can leave her cubicle. She might have left earlier had she not come down with chicken pox from a virus her doctors believe she brought into the room five months ago.

Bobbie made clear in talking with reporters Monday her feelings about her long isolation. "I just don't like it in here," she said. "All that medicine I have to take which I don't like and I have to take."

But Bobbie won't be going home to Englishtown to her parents and her two sisters and a brother—not yet anyway. Her doctors still fear infection from young children.

Instead, Bobbie will go to "convalescent parents" in Delmar, near Albany. How long she'll stay "will depend on how fast her immunity (from infection) comes back," said Dr. Ellen Moore, who performed the bone-marrow transplant. "Probably somewhere between one and two months."

W.H. & F.M. meeting

BEEBE — The W.H. and F.M. Society met in the church parlor with an average attendance of members and two guests. A quilt was tied before the business session.

Mrs. E. Woodard called the meeting to order in the usual manner and also conducted the devotions, in the absence of the leader, Mrs. Batchelder.

Routine reports, Mrs. E. Middleton replacing Mrs. Ruth Ashman as treasurer.

Correspondence included the Prayer call; a notice regarding the increased rates for the Mission Magazine. It was decided to subscribe for the magazine as a group project.

The usual donation was made to the Christmas in October Fund, also the gift to Miss Sylvia Whitman, a Missionary in Japan.

Following adjournment of a business session a bring and buy sale was conducted.

Cards were signed for three birthday celebrants and one member who is in hospital.

Hostesses Mrs. Middleton and Mrs. R. Wilson served light refreshments when a time of fellowship was enjoyed.

Natural childbirth safest way

Evidence mounts that less anesthesia with childbirth improves chances for healthy babies, reports the October Reader's Digest. So now more and more doctors encourage the teaching of a safer, more satisfying way to have a baby.

Natural childbirth—birth with a bare minimum of drugs—has come of age. Once a specialized movement, or cult, it is now vastly changing the experience of having a baby for hundreds of thousands of couples.

An increasing number of hospitals now sponsor some kind of childbirth course (from intensive instruction to simple hospital orientation). In some classes teachers show cutaway models or slides of female anatomy, teach nutrition, demonstrate special exercises to be used during pregnancy to increase oxygen flow to the fetus, and pass along tips on how to be sure that labor has begun. There are normally half a dozen two-hour classes, and during the last half hour of each the pregnant women can often be observed sitting Buddha-like on rugs, their husbands giving orders like drill sergeants and timing them as they practice the rhythmic panting and blowing that will help them endure contractions.

Why is this happening? In part because today's young woman considers the memory of the moment of birth of her child to be precious. But the main reason hospitals are sponsoring childbirth education is the more serious aim of bringing babies into the world live and healthy.

Research increasingly confirms that medication given a mother in labor diffuses through the placenta to the fetus. Even "harmless" anesthetics can lower the fetal heart rate. And even pain-killers such as Demerol that leave the mother conscious can delay the newborn's instinct to breathe. Stronger drugs can diminish oxygen supply and slow the delivery, possibly causing brain damage. So doctors today appreciate that when the mother is awake, aware and controlled, chances for a healthy baby are better, and the mother's recovery is quicker.

Ann Landers

Leave 'fat city'

Dear Ann Landers: Can you stand one more open letter on being fat?

Dear Everyone: I am heavy and I know it. Don't tell me. All you do is remind me of something I'm trying to deal with. You have no way of knowing how I feel because I hide my hurt behind humor. (Fat people are so jolly!) But I'm really sensitive about my weight and doing everything I can, including therapy, to find out why I eat so much.

Part of it is the tremendous anger at people like you for not accepting me as I am. I swallow that anger every time I put food in my mouth. And another thing—I don't understand why you think you have the right to tell me how I should look. If I told you you needed a nose job, wouldn't you feel hurt?

So, please stop offering me $5 for every pound I lose, or a trip to Europe if I lose a ton. And don't tell me how pretty my face is. Thanks—Living In Fat City And Trying Like Hell To Move

Dear Trying: If you really want to move, you will. There are no permanent leases in Fat City, only long-term rentals for those who have neither the desire nor the determination to live in a healthier and happier neighborhood. Good luck. I'm sure you'll make it.

Dear Ann Landers: I've asked several people in the medical field about those new shots to lose weight (They contain the urine from pregnant women.) All I get are vague answers.

Some of my friends are taking them once a week at $15 a pop, and they are losing weight. I'm disturbed because only two doctors in this area will give the shots, yet my sister is taking her teenage daughters to get them.

The shot enthusiasts are the same people who go to spas, "fat farms," seek out the fad diets, and have taken pills (until they got gooped up and had to quit). In each case they put all the weight back on.

When I ask why only two doctors give the shots, the answer I get is, "The medication is in short supply." What about this, Ann? — Interested And Worried

Dear I and W: The shots you are describing are called human chorionic gonadotropin injections. The reason so few doctors will give them is because they have not been approved by the Food and Drug Administration.

There is no valid evidence that these shots have any effect, except psychological. If there is a weight loss it's from the 500 calorie-a-day diet that is supposed to be part of the program. I've said this so many times I'm beginning to sound like a broken record, but I'll say it again—the only sensible way to lose weight and KEEP it off is to go on a diet (under a doctor's supervision), exercise regularly (I walk, walk, walk), or join a "Group" if you need emotional support and can't do it alone.

Dear Ann Landers: The poem you printed in your September 9th column entitled "Heaven's Very Special Child" appeared in a book compiled by my husband, Reverend John A. Massimilla and myself, entitled "This Is Our Life." The book is available for $1.00 and was written out of concern for mentally retarded children and their parents. Our mailing address is P.O. Box 256, Magnolia, Delaware 19962. Will you please so inform your readers? Thank you. — Edna Massimilla

Dear Edna: Glad to set the record straight. Thank you for writing.

Do you feel awkward, self-conscious—lonely? Welcome to the club. There's help for you in Ann Landers's booklet, "The Key to Popularity." Send 35 cents in coin with your request and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 1400, Elgin, Ill. 60120.

Dr. Lamb Pain followed medical tests

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB—Would you please explain what caused my problem? I am a male in my 50s and have atherosclerotic heart disease. The doctor took four tubes of blood to be tested and then gave me a breathing test. I couldn't complete the breathing test because I had chest pains and my left arm went numb. I got weak all over and everything went dark for a little while. That was three days ago. I'm still weak and my head swims when I raise up too fast.

Could this have been from the blood he took or the breathing test with my heart disease? My blood pressure is normal. I take Isordil, Atarax, Zylorin and nitroglycerin. Any information you can give will help.

DEAR READER—The first problem is deciding just what the chest pain and arm numbness really was. Since you already have heart disease it is tempting to assume that the pain was caused from insufficient blood to your heart muscle or, specifically, heart pain related to heart attacks. The doctor would need to have tests to be sure about this.

You can have discomfort in the chest without having a heart attack. Overbreathing can sometimes cause a faint-like reaction and numbness in the arm. This is not dangerous, but can be downright disconcerting. Also, an episode of heart pain or insufficient blood to the heart muscle can cause a faint-like reaction as you describe.

The blood drawing should not have caused this problem. If your level of anxiety was very high that could have been a factor. However, I'm sure with your diagnosis and the other medical problems you have, in view of your medicines, that you have had blood drawn on many occasions before.

Some breathing tests are fairly strenuous and may have precipitated the problem for you. In that case it is likely that you already were close enough to such a problem that it was just waiting to happen, and it was a good thing you were in the doctor's office when it occurred.

In short, it will require a bit more knowledge than you have to decide just what has caused your problem. But, I doubt that you can really blame it on your tests. Rather, you were pretty lucky to be where you could have immediate medical attention when the problem arose.

DEAR DR. LAMB—Is diethylstilbestrol, which is often prescribed for women as a female hormone, the same as the hormone that is given to cattle to fatten them? Will it cause women to put on weight? Is it the same as estrogen?

DEAR READER—It is the same hormone, sometimes called DES. It is used in fattening cattle, particularly steers, being readied for market. These neutered males will get fatter while on the hormone since it feminizes them.

The same hormone, called stilbestrol, is used for women, but since it is used to replace needed hormone in most cases it does not cause fattening. It may be regarded as a synthetic estrogen, somewhat different chemically from the real thing, but having the same effect.

Send your questions to Dr. Lamb, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019. For a copy of Dr. Lamb's booklet on menopause, send 50 cents to the same address and ask for the "Menopause" booklet.

Raymond-Powell wed

MR. AND MRS. POWELL

On Saturday, September 21, at 3 o'clock, the marriage vows of Miss Beverley Raymond, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wellington Raymond of Lennoxville, and Mr. Thomas Fredric Powell, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Powell of Waterville, were solemnized at St. George's Anglican Church, Lennoxville.

Archdeacon Meade officiated at the double-ring ceremony. Mrs. Eva Pennington played traditional wedding music.

The guest pews were marked with white satin bows. The church was decorated with yellow mums.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a floor-length gown, of white embroidered flowered polyester, fashioned on empire lines. It had a wedding ring collar, long full sleeves, a ruffled bodice and a train flowing from the empire waist. It was trimmed with applied flowers and seed pearls. Her shoulder length veil, of tulle illusion, was draped from a cap of embroidered flowered polyester and trimmed with seed pearls. She carried a bible covered with the same material as her dress, with red sweetheart roses and pinocchio mums, hanging on white streamers from her bible. Her only jewellery was a pair of cultured pearl earrings, a gift from the groom.

Miss Dawn Wark, a friend of the bride, as maid of honor, was in an empire style floor-length A-line gown of yellow embroidered flowered polyester, trimmed with seed pearls. She carried a prayer book covered in the same material as her dress, with green carnations and baby's breath on green streamers.

Miss Sharon Raymond and Mrs. Gloria Gilbert, sisters of the bride, and Mrs. Susan Pegg, sister of the groom, as bridesmaids wore gowns of green embroidered flowered polyester, styled identically to the maid of honor's. They carried a prayer book with yellow carnations, baby's breath and yellow streamers.

They all wore semi-circle caps of embroidered flowered polyester trimmed with seed pearls.

Little Joanne Gilbert, niece of the bride, was flower girl. She wore a floor-length gown, in yellow, identical to that of the maid of honor. She carried a white wicker basket of yellow and green carnations with white mums and yellow and green streamers.

The ring bearer, little Geoffrey Gilbert, nephew of the bride, wore a brown plaid sport jacket with brown pants. He carried the marriage symbols on a white satin heart shaped cushion.

The bride and attendants dresses were all made by Mrs. Wellington Raymond, the bride's mother.

The groom was attended by one of his brothers, Mr. Murray Powell, and the ushers were Mr. Billy Powell, Mr. Ross Powell,

Triplet babies baptized

STANBRIDGE EAST—A unique and happy occasion took place at the United Church on Sunday, Oct. 13, when the triplet children of Mr. and Mrs. Graham Neil, received the sacrament of baptism, with the pastor, Rev. Keith Eddy, officiating.

The two daughters and one son of Mr. and Mrs. Neil received the names: Heidi Trineer Neil, Abby Trineer Neil, and Scott Trineer Neil.

This was the first time during his ministerial career, that Rev. Eddy had had the pleasant experience of baptizing triplet babies, and also the first in the history of the Stanbridge East United (formerly Methodist) Church, that such an occasion had taken place.

At the close of the service, Mr. and Mrs. Neil entertained family and friends at dinner.

Word has been received of the death in Toronto, of a former resident of Stanbridge East, Mr. Harry Cheek, aged 88 years, who was the father of Mr. James Cheek of this place.

Engagement

Mr. and Mrs. Hubert C. Aleksa, of Lennoxville, are happy to announce the engagement of their second daughter, Linda Krytyna, to Steven Ellery, eldest son of Mr. Ellery Caunter of Montreal and of Mrs. Laureen Caunter, also of Montreal.

A late December wedding is planned, at the Lennoxville United Church.

Sherbrooke Hospital Nurses Alumnae meets

The Sherbrooke Hospital Nurses' Alumnae Association held its last meeting of the year recently at the Norton Annex.

Mrs. Gerald Frost, president, conducted the meeting, there being 10 members in attendance.

Due to the success of the past two social evenings, it was moved by Mrs. Gerald Bryant and seconded by Mrs. Alex Savage that we try to make this an annual event to be held, if possible, on the first Saturday of October.

Mrs. James Atto commented that the late Mrs. Charles Bartlett's nursing pin and medal are now on permanent display in the hospital showcase.

It was moved by Mrs. Atto and seconded by Mrs. Bryant that, for this year, the E. Frances Upton Bursary Fund be utilized in assisting Sherbrooke Hospital nurses who might wish to register in forthcoming short term specialty courses. It was felt that more individuals would have a chance to benefit from this bursary. This was unanimously agreed upon. Those interested in more information should contact members of the alumnae executive.

Mrs. Erwin Watson will head the nominating committee which is to present its slate of officers for 1975 at the annual meeting on Tuesday January 21st.

Mrs. Dorothy Taylor has offered to hold this meeting in her home which is at 488 Argyle Street.

Being no further business the meeting was moved to be adjourned by Mrs. Watson.

Delicious refreshments were then served by the hostesses Miss Thelma Gratham and Mrs. Watson. The doorprize was won by Mrs. Atto.

All Saints' Guild

BEEBE—The All Saint's Anglican Guild was held at the home of Mrs. Mildred Tyler, in Derby, Vt., with Miss Verda Stratton as hostess.

Miss Rachel Shelden, president, opened the meeting, followed by a short devotional period.

The secretary's report was approved as read. The treasurer's report was given by Mrs. R. Curtis.

A discussion on the Christmas sale to be held in the council room, November 23 was quite lengthy. Drawing for an electric frying-pan will be held during the afternoon sale from 3-5 p.m.

The round robin was won by Miss R. Shelden.

Business session was adjourned and delicious refreshments were served by the hostesses and a very pleasant social hour spent.

wedding, September 27, the couple was given a reception at the Country Inn, by Mr. and Mrs. Albert Powell, the groom's parents.

The evening was filled with dancing and joyous music by Albert Nutbrown's orchestra.

A delicious lunch was served and made by the Powell family. That night was also the 33rd wedding anniversary of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wellington Raymond. It was also Connie Pegg's sixth birthday, niece of the bride and groom. Both parties were presented with cakes.

WI meetings

The Waterloo-Warden W.I. meet at the home of Mrs. W. Copping on Oct. 2nd with 11 members and 1 visitor answering the roll call, "Something I am thankful for".

Miss Alice Ashton gave the report of the semi-annual county meeting held at Granby.

Pennies for friendship were collected. The CARE package donated by Mrs. Lennie Benoit was won by Mrs. Mary Sicard, ways and means, 31 pennies collected from each member for goblin night, W.I. pens were sold. A penny fair was held which was very successful.

Mrs. May George, agriculture, "we will be eating insects in 25 years to stay alive." Miss Alice Ashton, education, "Bishop's enrollment low this year", O Canada to be revised" Mrs. W. Copping, "citizenship", Canada has dotted the land with Indian names, Mrs. Bessie Smith read from the C.A.C. "Magazine selling in Quebec misleading".

Plans were made for a card party to be held on Oct. 18th at the Waterloo elementary school.

The hostesses Mrs. May George and Mrs. Dorothy Bazinet served refreshments.

The next meeting will be held on Nov. 8th at the home of Mrs. Mary Sicard at Warden.

DUNHAM — A regular meeting of the Dunham W.I. was held on Oct. 4th at the home of Mrs. Quigley.

The President Mrs. W. A. Doherty was in the chair and the meeting was opened with the Creed being repeated in unison.

Ten members answered the roll call by naming a country they would like to visit and why. There was one visitor present. We were pleased to have Mrs. Laduke with us after a long absence through illness.

The minutes of the previous meeting were read and approved.

The correspondence consisted of two letters, one from the Cowansville Volunteer services telling of their activities during Volunteer Week. The members were reminded that there is still a need for volunteers. The second letter was an appeal for funds from the Heroes Memorial school committee. Donations would be used for their Fall Fair and other projects. This was tabled until the next meeting.

The convenors reports were next in order.

Under Citizenship — Mrs. J. Harvey read a letter from Save the Children thanking us for the Handi Bags sent and asking us for our continued support of this project. Mrs. Harvey also stated that wool for knitting for Canadian Save the Children could be obtained from Miss Hoskins, a teacher at Heroes Memorial school. Mrs. Harvey read an article entitled "Revised O Canada." The Government plans to bring in legislation confirming "O Canada" as the national anthem with a slight change in wording.

for Education — Mrs. C. Martin read Jugle Loughouses like High Risers on edge.

Mrs. R. Selby for Home Economics gave a cookie recipe. A discussion then followed on "Monster" dough its uses etc. As all the other convenors were absent no reports were given.

Under new business it was moved by Mrs. J. HARVEY and seconded by Mrs. R. Selby that we send our usual donation to the Service Fund.

The tea money for this month is to be sent to the Northern Branches.

Mrs. Laduke thanked the members for cards sent her when she was in the hospital and for a gift she had received.

Some members were asked to supply cards to drive children for the UNICEF collection. This will take place the weekend of the 28. Mrs. J. Harvey, citizenship convenor, was asked to make any other necessary plans.

Our delegate to the semi-annual meeting held in Dunham gave a very informative and interesting report.

The convenors were reminded to send interim reports in December.

A "500" party is to be held Oct. 28 in Cowansville. The Home Economics convenor was asked to solicit food for this event.

Mrs. Elsie Doherty was asked to contact the members not present as regards a bus trip to the Salon d'Agriculture Oct. 31st.

It was decided to have a silent auction at our next meeting which will be at the home of Mrs. Bidner.

As there was no further business the president adjourned the meeting and refreshments were served by Mrs. Quigley with co-hostesses Mrs. C. Harvey and Mrs. J. Harvey.

—SAWYERVILLE — The Women's Institute held their general meeting on Oct. 2nd with 14 members and 14 guests present.

After formal opening Mrs. Donald Laroche, Pres., welcomed the Bury and East Clifton Branch members.

The Roll Call - A child's question I could not answer, was responded to, quoting some true questions asked by children, such as What is Inflation, Who made God, Isn't it alright to tell a lie sometimes. These queries prove how active a child's mind really is and make one realize how very important it is to answer wisely, remembering always that they look to their elders for right guidance.

The minutes were read and approved and reports from all departments presented.

Publicity reported on the excellent Membership Conference held at Kinnear's Mills Sept. 29, hosted by Megantic County W.I. and joined by Compton Co. members. The drive to this picturesque part of our Eastern Townships in this colorful season was a joy.

Twelve gold W.I. pens were received and sold.

The meeting adjourned at 10 p.m., followed by a Programme in charge of Mrs. Griffin and Mrs. A. Robinson, consisting of making handicrafts - artificial flowers, corsages, pincushions etc. samples of which were on display, and all patterns and materials required to make these novelties were on hand.

This table was soon the scene of diligent workers and lovely articles were completed by those participating; all felt it was not only fun but that they had learned a new art. Mrs. Griffin excels in this work.

Cards were played by others, until the call to the inner man was summoned and delicious refreshments were served, convened by Mrs. Alvin Nugent.

Numerous table prizes were given, which added to the program. Next meeting on Nov. 6. New members most welcome.

SUTTON — On October 10 the regular Women's Institute meeting was held in the Fraternal Memorial Hall dining area with Mrs. Alfred Lengacher Jr. and Mrs. James Cowan as hostesses.

Mrs. Slangen called the meeting by welcoming all present, thanking the hostesses and their helpers.

The Mary Stewart Collect and Opening Ode were repeated.

The roll call was answered by sixteen ladies telling of a kind deed that had been done for them.

The motto The Joy of this World when you have summed it up is found in the making of friends.

The minutes were read and approved.

The treasurer's report was read, having $105.05 in bank.

Three members paid into the birthday box, namely Mrs. Natalie Patton, Mrs. Alfred Lengacher Sr. and Mrs. Harley Lahue. Greetings were sung to them.

Convenors: Agriculture — Mrs. Lahue, paper on agro Code Granby, which she had attended with the Senior Citizens.

Home Economics — Mrs. Phelps, Paper on Thanksgiving fare held in Knowlton over the weekend.

Publicity by Mrs. Miltimore read by Mrs. Natalie Patton, market on WI Rose.

Two cards were signed by all and sent to Mrs. Vincent and Mrs. Hunt.

The members were invited to join in with the bus going to Montreal on October 31st, sponsored by Fortville WI. Eight will go from Sutton WI.

Mrs. H.H. Woodard gave a nice report of the semi annual convention held in Abercorn in September.

The members are invited to Knowlton Landing for the convention on May 15, 1975, and the semi-annual convention at the same place.

Sutton won 1st prize on knitted doily done by the president Mrs. Slangen.

Mrs. Woodard ended her report by reading a poem. Let us ever give our loyalty each and understanding and support to Women's Institute co-operation. Think of yourself as a link in a chain which is our organization. It is the strong links that we need and if we have them our organization will grow and flourish and we in turn will reap the benefits of membership in the Women's Institute. May we all be better minded to put into action our better impulses dedicated anew to our motto "For Home and Country".

Mrs. Slangen thanked Mrs. Woodard for this wonderful report and message.

A trip is being planned by the president in November which all are looking forward to.

Mrs. Lahue held two contests on birds, fish and other animals. The winners were Mrs. George Patton and Mrs. Rupert Phelps.

The meeting was adjourned to meet November 14.

A delicious lunch was served and during the social hour Mrs. Lengacher Sr. held two guessing games, the weight in ounces of one dozen beautiful rolls won by Mrs. Slangen, Mrs. Woodard and Mrs. Cooke; 2nd - How many beans in a jar? Winners were again Mrs. Slangen, Mrs. Woodard and Mrs. Russell.

Thanksgiving Reunion

BURY — It has been the custom for several years for the members of the Parsons family to meet at one or another of their homes on Thanksgiving Sunday, to spend a pleasant reunion and this year was no exception, when the gathering took place at the spacious home of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Thompson in Orleans, Vt.

A beautiful fall day and a lovely drive through the glorious autumn foliage added in no small measure to the pleasure of the day.

Some 50 guests took advantage of the occasion to attend, these represented four generations, all of the immediate family with one exception, Mrs. Myra Mayhew of Valleyfield, were present, and every family was represented by at least one family or couple.

At the lunch hour a bountiful smorgasbord was served with generous contributions from each family.

When all had partaken of the wide variety of delectable food, a prettily decorated candle lit birthday cake was brought in, honoring the 6th birthday of Master Neil McPherson. The birthday song was sung by all, after which Neil blew out his candles and the cake was served.

Among the guests were Mrs. Nellie Parsons, mother, grandmother and great-grandmother, aunts Mrs. Kathleen Herring of Huntingville and Mrs. Verna Parsons, Mr. and Mrs. Lynn Parsons, Mr. and Mrs. Barry Parsons, Mr. and Mrs. Barry Parsons and baby Ricky, Mr. and Mrs. Stuart Dougherty and Miss Joyce, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Rowell, Brian and Robin, Mr. and Mrs. Jeff Tribble, all of Bury, Mr. Allan Rowell and friend Mr. Wayne Witt of Waterloo, Ont.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Parsons, Scott and Shawn of Cookshire, Mr. and Mrs. Lyle Rand, Lennoxville, Mr. and Mrs. Royce Rand, Kevin and Karen of Milby, Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Leavitt, Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm McPherson, Dawn, Steven, Betty and Neil of Knowlton, Mr. and Mrs. Percy McKelvey of Montreal, Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Varden, Sharron, Gary and Julie of Pointe Claire, Mr. and Mrs. Robt. Umph of Dollard des Ormeaux, Mr. and Mrs. Leon Michaud and David of Berlin, N.H., Mr. Elton Thompson, Sawyerville and Mr. Geoff Whitley of Lennoxville.

The youngest member present was 10-month-old Ricky Parsons, son of Bary and Wanda Parsons. Several pictures were taken of the group.

With ample space both inside and out, to play, the young children were free to enjoy themselves, while the older members visited and discussed their various interests and problems.

During the afternoon a telephone call was received from cousins Walter and Agnes Weir of Barre, Vt., expressing their regret at not being able to attend explaining the reasons why.

A happy day came to an end all too soon.

Ascot Corner Cemetery news

After a summer of keen interest, hard labour, pulling together, anxious finances, enthusiasm and generosity, the Ascot Corner Protestant Cemetery, is now renovated, to become a dignified resting-place for loved ones.

This project, taken on by a few interested relatives, and friends, became a reality, at a meeting held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Kinnear, East Angus, recently.

An Organization was formed, headed by Mr. Charles Rolfe, who was unanimously elected as president, with Mrs. Gordon Sims as secretary-treasurer.

Next summer, God willing, "the boys" hope to do a bit more work, with fingers crossed for continued financial support "trickling" in.

A big THANK YOU to all who have helped in any way.

Hunting and fishing in the Townships with Norm Nicholl

Deer hunters of the Townships will take to the woods tomorrow for the week of deer hunting available to them this year. The only change in regulations is that only deer with antlers may be taken.

Once again this year the Wildlife Service ask hunters' co-operation by stopping in at one of the stations which will be located in the following areas: SHERBROOKE, in the parking area of the Palais des Sports; BIRCHTON, in the yard of the garage at the intersection of routes 27A and 29; MAGOG, in the yard of the Tourist Office near the C.P.R. station. The information gathered from examination of deer taken will be used for studying the physical condition of deer in the area.

Hunters be sure your ammunition and firearms are in good condition, especially if you plan future hunting trips in any of the controlled hunts. Article 58 states that Conservation and Wildlife Officers have the right to retain all firearms in poor condition and under powered as the hunting regulations. This year many hunters taking part in the controlled hunts found this out.

Those of us who are opposed to the government take-over of large portions of the area as parks, watch for the new wrinkle, the take-over in the name of conservation of deer.

The 1974 moose kill up to October 9th was: Bulls 1,959; Cows 1,135; Young 269 for a total of 3,363.

NHL-Russian in '75

CHICAGO (AP) — The National Hockey League's board of governors Thursday discussed the possibility of renewing a series with the Soviet Union in 1975 or 1976.

President Clarence Campbell said the one-day session was mainly devoted to "house-keeping" including work on a constitutional amendment dealing with termination of franchises.

The board also reviewed operation of the Oakland franchise, California Golden Seals, purchased by the league from Charles Finley last February.

"The substance of the discussion is that we're still seeking a purchaser, but the period of operation hasn't been long enough to assess the situation," Campbell said.

Regarding the NHL-Russian series, Campbell said there was no target date and it was being studied by a consulting committee.

It's just in the exploratory stage, but the main thrust is for 1975-76."

Campbell said the board reviewed results of exhibition games with the World Hockey Association and also playoff regulations which would be updated by a special committee.

Blood pressure on upswing in Africa

KINSHASA, Zaire (AP) — Muhammad Ali raised some blood pressures Thursday when he jumped from an eight-foot high ring, lost his balance and fell to his knees.

"I thought, it's going to be Christmas in Zaire," said Gene Kilroy, Ali's business manager, thinking of another postponement of Ali's fight with heavyweight champion George Foreman, scheduled locally for 4 a.m. Wednesday (10 p.m. EDT Tuesday in Canada).

The fight originally was set for Sept. 25 but had to be postponed when Foreman suffered a cut over his right eye during a sparring session Sept. 16.

"It was nothing, he's not hurt," said Angelo Dundee, Ali's trainer.

Ali then entertained spectators and press by comparing his boxing record with that of the unbeaten Foreman in an effort to show that he has met many tougher opponents.

Foreman followed Ali's workout and then talked with reporters for the second time this week. The champion has been following the policy of twice-a-week news conferences for several weeks.

Foreman disclosed that he has been passing time by writing.

"I've been doing some writing on what's happening to me day by day," he said.

Asked if he was thinking of doing a book the champion replied: "I may just have my kids read it to find out about their father."

As usual, Foreman was asked to predict the outcome of the fight.

"I hope I knock him out," Foreman replied.

"When I knock people out no one gets hurt. They just don't know where they are but they don't get so cut and battered."

LENNOXVILLE (BP) — Five Bishop's University teams see action this weekend, with only two matches being played at the local camp.

The football squad faces McGill at the BU stadium at 2 p.m. tomorrow in their last regular scheduled O-QIFC contest. The hockey Gaiters, meanwhile, are just beginning their upcoming stint of games as they oppose the University of Quebec-Trois-Rivieres Patriots at the W.B. Scott Rink at 7 p.m. Saturday.

The soccer Satans head off to Loyola for a game there this afternoon at 4 p.m., while the Bish-Champlain field hockey contingent will play in the Quebec Open Field Hockey Tournament on St. Helen's Island tomorrow.

The basketball guys also start their exhibition season this weekend, as they meet Dawson College in Montreal at 8 p.m. tonight.

The gridgers will have their hands full with the Redmen on Saturday and will try to break a two game losing streak, the second game of which was against McGill last week when they clobbered the Gaiters 41-0 in Montreal.

McGill at Bishop's tomorrow

McGill, who has no possible chance of making the playoffs, would like no better than to put a berth out of the reach of the Bishop's team, a long-time rival.

Bishop's is now in third place with a shaky one point advantage over Carleton and Loyola, both tied for fourth spot with six points each. If BU loses the game, they still have a good chance of making the playoffs, but the chance might be fruitless, according to Gaiter coach Bruce Coulter.

"We need a good game to get the guys ready for the playoffs," he said, "and a good turnout would really help us...the team is having a hard time right now. If we don't do well against McGill, then we probably wouldn't do too well in the playoffs."

It looks like the Gaiters will make the playoffs, but if they lose, both Loyola and Carleton have to win their respective contests.

Loyola is taking on Wilfred

Laurier, the second place club in the west division, while Carleton faces Ottawa, the second best team in the east division of the league. But upsets have been known to happen, especially this season, and only on Saturday night will the final standings show who does make the semifinals.

The hockey team will have the opportunity to show off two things on Saturday evening. First, the renovated surroundings for the rink this year, and secondly, the home BU club that will play there.

Eleven veterans are back for the '74-75 edition with another 15 or 16 other players coming out to the training camp.

Back from last year's team are Dave Dussault, Steve Connor, Mike Paul, Ted Moysey, Jim Moysey, and Dane Mitchell, all forwards who have retained their speed, agility and-or roughness from last season's style. Nicky Stevens, Jim Darling and Paul Iggulden make up the returning defencemen, and should handle the chores adequately. Kim Ellis is returning in his goaltender capacity.

Warren Miller from the Lasalle Junior B team, is one of the more promising rookie defencemen. Also trying for the passing grade are Yvon Emond, Ed MacNeill and Bill Doherty. Vanier College grad Tom Moser, currently nursing an ankle injury suffered in practice, looks good enough to fill one of the forward slots. The other beginning forwards in the Gaiter camp are Don Anderson, Bill Robinson, Dave Murray, Jim Little, Mike Whitworth, Shaun Ashton and Warren MacDougald. The last three mentioned are Champlain graduates.

Stan Pepin, Mike Lanigan and Dave Jones are hopefuls for the goalie positions, along with Ellis, but only Pepin has made the majority of the practices. All the other three players are involved with either soccer or football. Pepin will start against UQTR in tomorrow's game.

"We have a long way to go before we can show any semblance of being in contention," said coach Al Grazys, "but we can work the kinks out... I see some good potential out there."

The Gaiters have lots of time to work out those bugs in their play, with an eight game exhibition schedule ahead of them before the regular season begins on Nov. 20 at Bishop's.

Take part in the Bishop's University double-header on Saturday, the football game at 2 p.m. and the hockey game at 7

Vachon tops in Kings win

If any doubts remained in Punch Imlach's mind about Rogatien Vachon, they should be gone now.

It was Imlach who several years ago, when he was still coach of Toronto Maple Leafs, downgraded Vachon, then a member of Montreal Canadiens, calling him a Junior B-grade goalie.

And it was Imlach's Buffalo Sabres who bombarded Vachon with 55 shots Thursday night and still lost 7-2 against Vachon and Los Angeles Kings.

In Thursday's only other NHL match, Boston Bruins tied St. Louis Blues 4-4.

Bulwer-Birchton Rifle Club opens

On October 22, the Bulwer-Birchton Rifle Club opened with a "Bang." Anybody wishing to join, using 22 sporting rifles only, are very welcome. It is held every Tuesday night at the Bulwer Community center from 7:15 p.m. till 10:00 p.m.

There are lady doctors, lady bus drivers, lady taxi-drivers, etc., and we are looking for lady shooters. So how about it "gals"? Won't you come and try to beat the "guys" at their own game. You will also meet old and new friends.

The executive is as follows: president, Don Johnson of Lennoxville, secretary, Doug Pinchin of Bulwer, treasurer, James Barton of St. Elie D'Orford.

Bulwer Rifle Club scores are as follows: Renald Nadeau, 100 - 10x; C.C. Pettit, 100 - 8x; James Barton, 100 - 3x; Jim Lee, 99 - 4x; Barry Deadman, 98 - 2x; David Johnston, 96 - 1x; Jeff Alden, 93 - 1x; Doug Clement, 93 - 1x.

Don Kozak scored three goals and assisted on scores by Bob Berry and Yuhua Widing to lead the Kings scoring before a home crowd of 9,305.

Widing had two goals and Bob Nevin, 36, scored his sixth goal of the year.

Gil Perreault, with his seventh goal of the season, and Jerry Korab scored for Buffalo.

Gary Bromley faced only 16 shots in the first two periods in the Sabres goal but gave up five goals and was replaced by Rocky Farr who faced another 15 shots in the third period.

Vachon, who now has given up only five goals in four games, faced 21 shots in each of the last two periods.

The win moved Los Angeles into the lead in the Third Division, with 11 points out of eight games.

At Boston, the Bruins earned their second tie in as many nights by pulling the goalie in favor of an extra attacker in the last minute of play.

The Bruins now have only two wins and three ties in seven games.

On Wednesday night, Boston outshot Pittsburgh 42-40 but had to rally a 5-5 tie.

The Bruins had a 47-24 advantage in shots Thursday night but still had to rally from a 2-0 first-period deficit and gained the tie on Bobby Orr's goal with 34 seconds remaining and goalie Ross Brooks out for an extra attacker.

Boston coach Don Cherry said St. Louis goalie John Davidson "was fantastic, but I'm beginning to wonder if it's the goalies or us."

"We had 89 shots in two nights, but we didn't put it in. Two nights in a row we've pulled the goalie and scored. Wow. How many times do you see that?"

Pierre Plante scored twice for the Blues who now are only two points behind co-leaders Chicago and Vancouver in the Second Division.

Tonight's schedule has Philadelphia at California, Minnesota at Atlanta and Kansas City at Vancouver.

Boundary children working for UNICEF

BOUNDARY — Hallowe'en and UNICEF go hand-in-hand together and have for the past few years. Everyone knows what UNICEF is all about and that the coins the youngsters collect in their UNICEF Hallowe'en containers goes to help youngsters not as fortunate as themselves in other lands.
This year, in conjunction with Sunnyside school students, under sponsorship of Stanstead North Women's Institute, with Mrs. Miriam Osborne, the convener, Canadian school students will be visiting homes in their school district on October 31.
At the Derby Line Elementary School, the children will be sponsored by Edwin Earle, a noted Derby Line Village citizen.

These children will be visiting the homes in their school district which covers a good deal of Northeast section of the County.
It is hoped all people will be generous in their donations when the children call. Or if preferred, one may make donations to Mrs. Osborne, Stanstead or to Edwin Earle in Derby Line.
Hallowe'en is a great night for the youngsters, and police, both sides of the border, are asking motorists to be especially careful in driving their vehicles for the children will be wearing masks which may make it difficult for them to see. This is their night and some may not be quite as careful as usual, as they dart from house to house and across streets.

Auction held at Piggery

Not every day the sun shines, but on Sept. 14th everything was perfect. The Piggery was festive as a fair. The steps were piled with flowers and plants. Fresh bread filled the air with fragrance. Vegetables colorful as a painting, tempted. Home-cooked food, jams and jellies vied with each other.
The flea market tables added zest, with antiques, jewellery and quilts. Donkey and pony rides charmed the children. Hot coffee, cheese and corned beef sandwiches fed the hungry.
The main event was the auction, Mr. Oley Young conducted it with dash and good humour, which left the crowd marvelling at his skill. Treasure after treasure quickly found a new owner. The pace was tremendous.
Credit also must be given to his co-workers and all those who kept everything on the move.
Between 11 a.m. and 6 p.m. everything disappeared and the results were beyond our fondest dreams. $4,500 was netted. We had budgeted for a $6,000 loss, so this amount was very gratifying.

Our efforts can now be concentrated on the 1975 season. How best we can do that is of prime importance. To give theatre that will please and satisfy our conscience is a challenge we hope to meet.
Would you like to help with the season campaign, attract groups, keep the countryside supplied with folders and posters, be a telephone girl, sew a fine seam, do carpentry, gardening etc? they are jobs all-important and all-necessary to a smooth season. If you would, please write. We'd like to hear from you.
We thank everyone who helped, donated and came to the auction and made it such a success.
It was a fun day, a heart-warming day, one we won't forget for a long time.
We hope to see you all at the theatre in 1975.
