6 Katangans seated

CP from AP-Reuters LEOPOLDVILLE — Six Katanga deputies took their seats today in the national Congo parliament. They were expected to demand revision of the Congo's provisional constitution to relax the control the basic law gives the central government over Katanga and the other provinces. Nine more Katanga deputies were due from Elisabethville today.

Green reviews accomplishments

Says assembly session strengthened the UN

OTTAWA (CP) — External Affairs Minister Green says he believes the United Nations has been strengthened as a result of its last General Assembly session. "At the start, it looked like a disaster," he said Wednesday in an interview in his East Block office. UN Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjöld had just been killed in a plane accident and it seemed "there would be no possibility of getting anything through."

Election possibility a factor

Railway non-ops are expecting more government consideration

OTTAWA (CP) — With an eye on the federal election expected before long, the largest national transport union in Canada says railway workers may win "a little more consideration" from the federal government in the 1962 rail-labor contract talks. The Canadian Brotherhood of Railway, Transport and General Workers (CLC) sees the federal government—not the railways—as the real bargaining agent.

Engineers' strike vote in offing?

TORONTO (CP) — The Globe and Mail says the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers (Ind.) now is taking a strike vote of its 4,600 members that could lead to a tie-up of the Canadian Pacific and Canadian National Railways early next year. Ballots are expected to be tallied by the end of January, the newspaper says. Two weeks ago the union confirmed its executive had rejected a conciliation board's majority report in its contract dispute. A union spokesman said at that time the majority report would be passed along to union members without any recommendation from the executive. Polling of members on whether the report was to be accepted would take about six weeks, the spokesman said. ("Union sources were unavailable for comment on the newspaper's report.")

QUEBEC (CP) — Finance Minister Fleming remained in his post today when Prime Minister Diefenbaker recommended the appointment of one new member of his cabinet and the promotion of another.

Secretary of State Noel Dorian was named president of the Privy Council, an honorary post which has been vacant since Mr. Diefenbaker took office in June, 1957. Jacques Flynn of Quebec City, deputy speaker of the House of Commons since January, 1960, was named minister of mines and technical surveys.

Mr. Diefenbaker also announced the appointment of Leslie Frost, former Ontario premier, and Senator Walter Aseltine, government leader in the upper House, to be members of the Privy Council. The appointments entitle them to the prefix "honorable" for life. Speculation about cabinet shifts in recent weeks included virtually all the 22 ministers, most of the guessing centred on Finance Minister Fleming who, it was suggested, would be transferred to a less sensitive political post.

MEETS WITH FLEMING Mr. Diefenbaker met Mr. Fleming for 85 minutes in Ottawa Wednesday and qualified sources indicated afterwards that the finance minister would not leave the cabinet and might keep his present portfolio. The one cabinet vacancy was that of mines minister, the portfolio held by Mr. Comtois before his appointment Oct. 6 as the Queen's representative here. Mentioned in Ottawa to fill this gap were Jacques Flynn, deputy speaker of the Commons and MP for Quebec South, and Paul Martineau, the prime minister's French-speaking parliamentary secretary and MP for Pontiac-Témiscamingue.

Former Premier Leslie Frost of Ontario was among the prominent figures present. He arrived late Wednesday but said his role in drama would be a small one. It was reported he might be made a privy councillor—an appointment that would give him the title of "honorable" for life, and add prestige to his name in any campaigning he might do for re-election of the Conservative government next year.

Mr. Diefenbaker's trip here was made aboard his private railway car—which goes simply by the number 100. STAYS IN CAR The prime minister stayed aboard Car 100 overnight in Quebec's Palais Station. State Secretary Noel Dorian was at the station for the arrival and shook hands enthusiastically with Justice Minister Fulton and Health Minister Monteith.

To put line on dredge

BOSTON (AP) — The captain of a Canadian tug reported Wednesday night he was confident he would have a line on board the drifting dredge Cartagena by daylight. Four members of the tug's crew were put on board the Cartagena about two hours before the dredge's 10-man crew reached Boston on board the coast guard cutter Acushnet. Three of the crew are Canadians.

The dredge's crew spent three days on board the drifting vessel after it broke away from its tow in the stormy Atlantic Christmas Day. All 10 appeared uninjured when they docked. Nine were taken to a Boston hotel. Merlin Robinson, of Hattiesburg, Miss., who was saved from drowning by the quick action of two U.S. coast guardsmen, went to the U.S. public health hospital in Brighton for a checkup.

ADRIAN, Mich. (AP) — A man identified by state police as a 28-year-old ex-convict was held for questioning today in the human-torch slaying Tuesday of a 72-year-old retired minister at nearby Brooklyn. State police said the man held is Lynn E. Houck and that he was taken into custody as a parole violator.

After warning of war

Rival Laos groups plan meeting

CP from Reuters-AP VIENTIANE — Rival Laotian factions set up a conciliatory meeting today after neutralist leader Prince Souvanna Phouma warned a collapse of coalition talks here will lead to a full-scale war. Souvanna and his half-brother, Prince Souphanouvong, who heads the pro-Communist Pathet Lao, agreed to a dinner meeting tonight with right-wing Premier Prince Boun Oum.

The dinner invitation was twice refused by Souphanouvong, but he finally agreed after it was extended personally by Gen. Phoumi Nosavan, defence minister and strongman of Boun's pro-West regime. Souvanna issued his warning as hopes dimmed for successful negotiations on a coalition government following Boun's tough line at the outset of talks Wednesday. Souvanna and Souphanouvong, were given the brushoff by Boun Oum Wednesday when they arrived here for talks. But they remained in the capital under heavy guard. WONT BARGAIN Boun Oum challenged Souvanna's self-proclaimed neutrality and bluntly declared he was not prepared to bargain over cabinet posts in the proposed new government intended to ensure Laos's neutrality. Souvanna Phouma and Souphanouvong, whose military forces won control of more than half of Laos earlier this year, had come to Vientiane expecting to dicker with Boun Oum over the distribution of cabinet portfolios among their three factions. They already had agreed the 16-man cabinet would include four Boun Oum adherents,

Impossible to stop—Nehru

Invaded Goa after appeal from US

NEW DELHI (Reuters) — Prime Minister Nehru disclosed today that Indian troops invaded Portuguese Goa a few hours after the United States appealed to him for a six-month moratorium on the use of force. Nehru told a press conference the U.S. approach "came so late it was almost physically impossible to reverse processes already started."

The prime minister also disclosed the invasion was twice postponed and his government hesitated "almost to the end" over the use of armed action. Nehru said the U.S. approach was made Dec. 17 on the eve of the invasion through the Indian ambassador in Washington and the American ambassador here, Kenneth Galbraith. He said the U.S. in a "rather vague message" urged him to announce a six-month delay in the use of force pending efforts by "some powers to try to evolve a means to solve the Goa problem."

Rumors of jungle scandal

Tarzan and Jane under fire: where's marriage certificate?

LOS ANGELES (AP) — While said, "that the board unanimously feels the other way—that that tree all those years, were they living together in sin?" Rumors of such a jungle scandal are circulating in nearby Downey, where some restless natives may be trying to drum Tarzan books out of their elementary school libraries. Their suspicion: There is nothing to indicate Tarzan and Jane ever were legally married. The fictional hero created by the late Edgar Rice Burroughs has been through this sort of thing before. Once he was accused of being a dupe of the Communists.

Supt. Bruce Moore of the Downey school district said the trouble started when Board member Robert L. Ryan said he'd been told a librarian at one of the schools removed all of Tarzan books. Ryan said there had been vicious gossip about Tarzan's alleged inability to produce a marriage certificate. There were also complaints about the works of the late western author, Zane Grey, who was accused of injecting a little scarlet prose into his tales of the purple sage. "I can assure you," Moore ambassador in Washington and the American ambassador here, Kenneth Galbraith. He said the U.S. in a "rather vague message" urged him to announce a six-month delay in the use of force pending efforts by "some powers to try to evolve a means to solve the Goa problem."

Nehru said "if there had been any real thing to hold on to we would have tried our best." But he said to halt the planned invasion "with nothing coming out of it was not a feasible proposition."

Nehru said the U.S. official who approached the Indian ambassador in Washington "did not give much hope of results." But "India appreciated the anxiety of the United States to help solve the Goa problem."

Giant heroin trial

Eleven convicted on smuggling counts

NEW YORK (AP) — Eleven defendants charged with conspiracy in a $150,000,000 international narcotics smuggling trial have been convicted. A federal court jury had deliberated during a two-day period before returning its verdict Wednesday night. Judge William B. Herlands ordered all 11 held without bail pending sentencing Feb. 1. The 11 men were accused of being members of a ring which smuggled heroin into the United States in the last 10 years. Before sentencing, Judge Herlands said he will conduct a hearing on the same date on the question of whether wiretapping was used to gather evidence in the case. He did not elaborate. The trial took two months. It was a case marked by violence and death. TWO SLAIN Two other defendants named in the original indictment were slain. They were Albert Homes, shot to death last summer, and Albert Agucci of Toronto, whose strangled and burned body was found in a field near Rochester, N.Y., Nov. 23. Also, defendants Frank Caruso and Vincent Mauro jumped $50,000 bail while Salvatore Maweri jumped $10,000 bail. The two key prosecution witnesses were Salvatore Rinaldo and Matteo Palmieri, who turned state's evidence. They admitted that they had been accomplices in the narcotics ring. Found guilty were Charles Shiffman, Charles Tandler, Matthew Palmieri, Anthony Porcelli, Filippo Cottone, Robert Guibbone, Luigi Lo Bue, Joseph Valachi, Michael Maicello, Rocco Scopelliti and Vito Agucci. Agucci and Scopelliti are residents of Toronto.

Detection technique developed

Eleven convicted on smuggling counts

DENVER (AP) — The United States has developed a powerful technique for detecting nuclear explosions far in space—with at least hypothetical possibility of snooping on detonations set off at twice the 93,000,000-mile distance of the sun from the earth. This was related Wednesday by Dr. Herman Hoerlin, an Atomic Energy Commission scientist. He said that even in its present stage of development, the method could spot a 100-megaton explosion at a distance of 28,000,000 miles and a 20-megaton blast at 14,000,000 miles. The technique itself had previously been described but these were the first figures on its range. The method involves detection of a fluorescent glow in the earth's atmosphere produced by x-rays released by a nuclear explosion touched off high above the atmosphere. Molecules of air are caused to glow in much the same way a neon sign is lit up by an electric current passing through neon gas. PARTICLES MOVE FAST The glow is not visible to the human eye because the tiny particles of light—"brighter than those of the brightest aurora"—move too quickly for the eye to catch.

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP)—The continuing Berlin crisis was the subject of a thoughtful and clear analysis by NBC's news staff Tuesday night in a special program.

The increasing tensions and continuing incidents in the German city divided by the Communist wall was presented as another move in Soviet Premier Khrushchev's international chess game designed ultimately to neutralize Europe and isolate the United States.

Narrator Chet Huntley said that although Berlin now is the target, the game is to knock flourishing West Germany out of the NATO alliance.

The program emphasized the differences of opinions existing among the Western Allies and Khrushchev's shrewd exploitations.

The program's clear implication was that Allied reluctance to take a firm stand about the wall has shaken the confidence of the West Germans—just as Khrushchev hoped it would.

NBC's staff did a brilliant job of marshalling facts in a complicated situation and presented them in a cool authoritative style. They painted a frightening picture.

Last week's Defenders on CBS was an interesting departure into comedy. It was an amusing idea—a many-times married millionaire playboy found stabbed in his liquor cabinet.

The producer assembled five beautiful women and gave them some amusing lines to read.

All five—his ex-wives—had a hand in the murder. But the script writer was really stuck for an ending. The show, while offbeat, was not funny enough to make the audience satisfied with the burlesqued denouement.

By BOB THOMAS
HOLLYWOOD (AP)—It's nice to see Marie Wilson back in movies—and so much of her!

You can't say I don't cover the trends. When it was known that Marie would be taking a shower in Mr. Hobbs Takes His Vacation, your reporter was there, soap in hand.

It is the third nude scene I have covered this month, the previous participants having been Julia Meade-Toni Poston and Elsie Martinelli-Charlton Heston. This one had Marie and Jimmy Stewart caught in the steamy shower room. Like the others, it was good clean (sorry) fun.

Marie was wearing the traditional uniform for such scenes: The flesh-colored leotard. Normally such an outfit would satisfy all censorial objections, but on Marie it could get a theatre raided. Hence Koster had to admonish her repeatedly to hold the shower curtain where it would do the most good. Swirling clouds of carbon dioxide "steam" helped, too.

The scene had Stewart stumbling into the shower room late at night in a resort hotel. He encounters Marie, supposedly a decorous bird-watcher but actually a late-night tippler who is steaming out her giggles. Stewart struggles to escape, but the door knob comes off in his hand.

"I have decided that in the twilight of my career," he told me with a straight face, "I am going to do nothing but serious drama. This is it."

He resumed his dramatics, but the scene had to be re-shot several times. As Koster commented: "We see too much of Marie."

Mr. Hobbs Takes His Vacation is making up for an oversight. The films haven't been seeing enough of Marie in recent years. Her last role was as Marie Antoinette in The Story of Mankind, an episodic marvel made in 1957 and apparently seen by no one. At least that's what Marie thinks.

Before that it was Merry Me Again, a merry romp with Robert Cummings in 1953.

What has she been doing all this time? "Oh, I've been busy," she said. "I guess we've played 50-60 weeks in Las Vegas in the last few years. And everywhere else, too."

"We," consists of herself and Ken Murray, her longtime sparring mate of Blackouts. Their teaming appears to be over, with both taking the solo route.

If anything, Marie's figure is better than before—39-19-37½, her waist is three inches smaller than when she ruled as queen of the Blackouts during its seven-year Hollywood run, the hips shaved an inch. Everything else is the same.

And a pair of cuff-links

Waterville Cubs and Brownies showered with pounds of goodies

Forty pounds of goodies! That's what 29 members of the First Waterville Brownie and Wolf Cub packs went home with Wednesday night.

It was time for the annual Pinata Party at the Jubilee Hall in St. John's Anglican Church and youngsters ranging in ages from 8 to 12 years, got a taste of true Mexican fun.

Hanging from the centre of the hall was a huge peacock, sporting brilliant orange, red, mauve, purple and black feathers.

In its tummy was 40 pounds of candy — and one pair of cuff-links.

Waterville Cubmaster Fred Pessig started making the pinata last week.

He spent over 30 hours making the cast for the body out of old strips of cotton. He glued them together with flour paste and let it dry for a couple of days.

Using a color picture he took of a peacock at Granby zoo this summer Cubmaster Pessig decorated the bird in brilliant crepe paper colors. While filling the hollow bird with goodies, Cubmaster Pessig lost his cuff-links. "I put an armful of candies in the pinata tummy, pulled my arms out and noticed my

A pinata party has been held for several years at St. John's and each year the children look forward to the event. Waterville's first cubmaster, Warren Gale, had lived in how to make the pinata. Mr. Pessig has carried on the tradition. Over the years the pinata has taken the shape of a clown, a man's face and different species of birds.

"Next year, I hope to make the pinata in a shape of a satellite," Cubmaster Pessig added.

Watching the youngsters play the game was hilarious.

Forming a circle each youngster was given a number by Brown Owl, Mrs. L. Spafford. Standing in the centre of the ring, Cubmaster Pessig called a number.

The lucky youngster chosen was blindfolded and given a staff.

As the pinata bobbed up and down, manoeuvred by a pulley operated by an assistant, the youngster swung with the staff in the hope of hitting the bird.

Cub uniform shirts rode up, Brownie pigtails loosened, peacock feathers flew and children screamed in anticipation as time and time again contestants swung at the bobbing pinata.

Most of the time they swung at thin air. Finally one Cub struck the fatal blow.

But just as the pinata broke throwing candy everywhere, lights blew a fuse, plunging the hall into complete darkness.

The children kept scrambling for candy, but it's doubtful that Cubmaster Pessig ever found his cuff-links!

cuff-links missing," he said with a chuckle.

"Anyone finding a pair of cuff links mixed in with their candy, return them to me," he hollered at the top of his voice to the Cubs and Brownies.

"They're mine," he added.

Mexico for over 20 years. He enjoyed the pinata game as a youth and when he became cubmaster in Waterville several years ago, he introduced the game.

Before leaving Waterville, just four years ago, Mr. Gale showed Cubmaster Pessig

Five dead

Funeral held today for Bedford family

PHILLIPSBURG — (Staff) — A private funeral service is being held this afternoon from the Dion Funeral Parlor in Bedford for the five members of the Carr family who died when the car in which they were riding crashed through the ice on Lake Champlain between here and the U.S.-Canadian border December 26.

Only four immediate relatives of the family are expected to attend the service to be officiated over by the Rev. White of St. James United Church.

Killed in the mishap were David Carr, 29, of Bedford; his wife, Dorothy, 30; and their three children, Leslie, five; Stephen, three and a half, and Jacqueline, eight months. Apparently the family had visited relatives here and after lunch, Arthur Carr, David's brother, suggested the family go ice fishing on Lake Champlain before returning to their Bedford home.

Arthur Carr, owner and driver of the car had driven less than a half mile off shore when the car suddenly broke through the ice.

Arthur Carr grabbed his young daughter, Lee, and escaped.

His brother's family was trapped and drowned. An inquest into the deaths was held yesterday. A verdict of accidental death was returned.

Burial will be in the Phillipsburg cemetery.

Suspect held in theft

Sherbrooke Municipal Police today are questioning a 29-year-old Sherbrooke man in connection with the theft of a television set during the night.

A newly-bought television set was stolen out of the trunk of a car in the East Ward about 1 a.m. this morning, police said.

Early this morning, police picked up a suspect for questioning and are still holding him. They refused to divulge the name of the car owner.

Drawing held at Richmond

RICHMOND — (Special) — The Richmond and Melbourn Merchants Association held their annual Christmas cash drawing at the Myra Theatre Sunday when a total of $500 in cash was won by lucky shoppers of the holiday season.

Mrs. Raymond Carrier of Richmond was the top winner, taking $200. Four $50 winners were Raymond Ouellette, Roger Gagne, Paul Huard, Kartley Doyle and four $25 winners were Carmen Noel, Pierre Masse, Marie Goulet, and one unclaimed ticket completed the prize winners.

The association held the drawing to increase business in local stores.

Constable cleared of assault count

SWEETSBURG — Road officer Herbert McElroy, of the Cowansville Provincial Police was completely absolved of grievously assaulting a Montreal woman while he was in uniform last October 9, 1961 at Sugar Loaf Pond, Pottou Township.

McElroy, who had been suspended without pay from the police force since charges were laid by Mrs. Marguerite Groves, 37, of Montreal two months ago, is expected to resume his duties immediately.

He will also draw back pay for the two months he was off work. Dismissing the charges against McElroy Wednesday at the Sweetsburg Court House, Judge Patrick Delaney said: "There has been a lot of conflicting testimony during this trial. Mrs. Groves and her daughter claim you grabbed her while you and another policeman claim you never touched her."

"In spite of this conflicting testimony," the judge said, "I find you not guilty of the charges because I am giving you the benefit of the doubt." Judge Delaney said that someone was definitely not telling the truth. However, he was forced to accept the testimony of the officers because they represented law and order.

Mrs. Groves claimed that McElroy had grabbed her by the arms leaving several bruises when she refused him entrance to her house last October 9. She said McElroy was searching for Edward Driver and she would not let him into her house until he produced a search warrant.

Police investigating assault case

SOUTH DURHAM — (Staff) — Provincial Police are investigating the motive behind the assault of an elderly man here Wednesday night.

Harry Johnson, 74, who lives on the 9th Range in South Durham was attacked by a man carrying a club about 10 p.m. last night, police said.

Johnson was leaving his barn after feeding the chickens and was on his way to the house when the man jumped him, police said. He was beaten over the head and shoulders with a club until he fell to the ground unconscious, they added.

Police said that no attempt of robbery was made. They are now investigating a motive for the attack.

"Maybe the person who jumped Johnson had had an argument with him or had a grudge against him. It could be a number of things," said Sergeant Ralph Allen head of the Sherbrooke Provincial Police detachment.

Hospital drive tops objective

The Sherbrooke Hospital financial campaign for 1961 has once again exceeded its objective, Eric T. Webster announced Thursday.

The objective for this year was $50,000. Subscriptions as of this week amount to $57,564.96, he said. Mr. Webster expressed the gratitude of the campaign committee to all its supporters.

"Your continued generosity is tangible evidence of your determination to make very certain that the Sherbrooke Hospital shall continue to exert its influence for the good of our community," he said.

Wheel chair donated

A wheel chair was donated to the Queen Mary Veterans Hospital in Montreal by the Royal Canadian Legion, branch 14, and the 14th Royal Montreal Regiment.

The chair was given in memory of members of the 14th Royal Montreal Regiment, the 117th Eastern Townships Battalion and the 5th Canadian Mounted Rifles who gave their lives in World War I.

Pte. A. L. Crothers former member of the 117th now living in Littleton, Mass., made the presentation of the chair to the hospital along with his wife, Pte. Crothers is a member of the Royal Canadian Legion, branch 10, in Sherbrooke.

Park-school project agreement reached

By BERNARD BROWNRIGG (Record Staff Reporter)

City council met with the school commission at a dinner in the Queens Hotel Wednesday to discuss the possibility of a school-park and to discuss other school matters.

The park-school project was brought to the attention of city council by members of St. Jean de Brebeuf parish in the North Ward at the city council's last meeting.

Parish officials suggested the council meet with the Catholic Commission to discuss the possibility of including a park along with the plans of the Montcalm Grammar school to be constructed at Portland Boulevard and Frechette Street in the North Ward.

Mr. Thibault told the council it would be impossible to include the park along with the school because construction plans for the school are almost completed.

However, the council was given permission to build an outdoor swimming pool at the city's expense, Mr. Thibault told the Record Thursday.

He said the Sherbrooke school commission would like to see the swimming pool constructed inside the school but the council of education for the province of Quebec would not allow it.

The council of education also told the commission that it would not allow the swimming pools to be constructed at school commission expenses.

Mr. Thibault said he disagreed with the education council and that he planned to join forces along with city council and taxpayers "to fight to the end, so that we may be able to have swimming pools in our schools."

"Swimming is an important sport and should be practised in our schools as part of a physical education program," he said.

He said that swimming practice in school could save the life of a student or may even help the student save the lives of others.

The school commission agreed with the city hall that a representative be named to handle demands from recreational organizations for the use of school halls during weekends and holidays.

The representative would appoint members of organizations to keep order while the school halls are being used.

Our Farewell Message...

It has been our privilege to serve the public in this area since 1898. We have now closed our doors, and we want you to know how deeply grateful we are for your loyalty and friendship through the years. We are truly touched by the evident depth of your sentiment for the "old store". We hope that we will be remembered as one of the good stores of Sherbrooke.

We have opened an office at 74 Wellington Street North to complete the winding up of the affairs of the company. (The same phone number: LO. 7-6266). If we can be of any service to our friends or former customers, please feel free to call us here.

And so, as Rosenbloom's becomes history, we offer you our thanks, and our best wishes for the New Year and for the future.

Marriage of Inconvenience

A momentous year for Commonwealth

In terms of change and development, no year has been more momentous for the Commonwealth than the 12 months just past.

At the beginning of 1961, it seemed that the Commonwealth was ready to embark upon a new era of growth with the older and larger members — Britain, Canada, New Zealand, Australia and South Africa — acting as anchors for a number of new and prospective members.

But a number of events have occurred to bring a sharp halt to that trend.

The first was the withdrawal of South Africa from the Commonwealth; the second was Britain's decision to look into membership in the European Common Market, and the third is Britain's new Immigrants' Bill which will have the effect of limiting immigration of colored peoples to the British Isles.

There have been other disruptive elements, too — unrest in the Nyassaland Federation, embittered by charges against Sir Roy Welensky of helping the Katanga revolt; the break-up of the proposed West Indies Federation and the growing aloofness of Kwame Nkrumah and his country of Ghana.

These, however, have been but minor factors as compared to the three basic developments.

The South African issue broke the Commonwealth tradition of friendly, family relations. It set up Commonwealth countries as judges of each other, and made the Commonwealth into a sort of court.

The particular weakness of this arrangement was, and still is, that no Commonwealth member is entirely free of the same crime of which South Africa stood accused. The uneasy feeling has persisted all year that while the "right thing" was done, there was a form of discrimination practised, robbed and girded with fine-sounding moral phrases.

Britain's proposed entry into the Common Market has apparently brought out the worst in a number of Commonwealth countries, including Canada. The Canadian government has perhaps shown the rudest manners of all in dealing with this development. But Australia runs a close second with talk of a "sell-out." Here, feeling in Britain is at variance with feeling in the rest of the Commonwealth. The British view is that if Britain does enter the Common Market, it will not be very much different from Canada's trade patterns with the United States, and should not affect Commonwealth relations any greater. Prime Minister Macmillan has also given assurances, both publicly and privately, that Britain will not enter the Common Market if Commonwealth interests will be gravely jeopardized by ECM membership.

The new Immigrants' Bill hits hardest at the West Indies and India, who have both cried "color bar" loud and clear. Mr. Macmillan denies that color has anything to do with the bill, and it is entirely likely that this is an honest opinion, but the net effect is to alienate the affections of the colored countries of the Commonwealth whose voice is becoming stronger and more influential all the time.

None of this, however, need mean the break-up of the Commonwealth. The association is, after all, an extremely elastic one which allows for an unlimited amount of give and take by all parties concerned. It is no where stated that members may not disagree, or may not take steps in their own interests that others may dislike.

So long as the Commonwealth remains an informal grouping of nations with a common tradition, it will remain what its members want to be.

This may in time be no more than a few scattered trade concessions and a feeling of kinship similar to that held by cousins, but as everyone knows, cousins are good to have when the going is thick.

Newly married people often get along better when near relatives are far away.

Housing surplus growing steadily

Proposals for bolstering the sagging residential construction industry by reducing interest rates and other forms of government subsidy fail to recognize a fact of growing importance — that there is a substantial surplus of housing accommodation in many areas of the United States and Canada.

The urgency with which the owners of new apartment properties are seeking to attract tenants indicates that the acute housing shortage apparent following World War II has been replaced by a tenant shortage. In some districts, owners are maintaining their rental level but are offering prospective tenants one or two months free rent in return for a two-year lease. Elsewhere the owners are advertising free dishwashers, gas and electricity and even the use of swimming pools.

This surplus of new properties has had an important effect on slum clearance projects. As higher income families move into the ultra-modern premises, they leave older but very desirable properties vacant. As rent concessions are offered, families have a tendency to step into a higher housing bracket, eventually reducing the number bidding for slum properties.

Admittedly the housing surplus has not reached the level where the need of slum clearance projects has disappeared, but it may explain the reluctance of financial interests to invest large sums in developments which might come into competition with a type of accommodation of which there is a growing surplus.

Special holiday caution needed

The sorry record achieved by Canadians over the Christmas holiday period, which saw the accident death toll reach eighty-four, should serve as a grim reminder of the need of unusual precautions over the coming New Year holiday.

Only by a drastic cut in the death toll during the next few days can the overall list of fatalities be reduced for the holidays.

Safety is the responsibility of each individual. Safe practices in the home or on the highway or elsewhere must be carried out by each person. Unless each individual is prepared to do his or her own part in assuring his own safety, the fatality list is bound to climb.

The safety of one person cannot be effected by somebody else, except perhaps in the case of an adult charged with the care of a child or children.

Neglect of the simple rules of safety was responsible for the vast majority of the tragedies over the Christmas weekend.

Only by the observance of these basic rules, which largely involve the application of simple commonsense, can the New Year holiday toll be reduced.

Berlin crisis

August the most important month in Germany's post war history

The events of August 13 made 1961 one of the most important years in German post-war history. Although the Communist moves on August 13 were directed chiefly at Berlin, every German knows that Berlin was to serve only as a lever for Communist plans to turn right and freedom in the Federal Republic upside down.

"When the lights of Berlin go out, twilight will close over the Federal Republic," commented one observer. Why is it then that, despite crisis, faith and confidence dominate the life and thought of the people of West Berlin and the Federal Republic? It is undoubtedly because the free world will never allow the freedom of two-and-one-half million people to be jeopardized.

Indeed, the determination of free Germans since 1949 not to yield to the threats of the East, but to stand up for peace and freedom on the side of the West has never been in doubt. And one may be sure that behind them stand the silenced peoples of the Soviet Zone.

On September 17, five weeks after the erection of the wall in Berlin, the people of the Federal Republic elected their Government for the fourth time since 1949. The outcome was a sure indication of the Germans' refusal to be diverted from their path of freedom and right by the Soviet threats.

Although the election altered the relative strengths of the parliamentary groups, there has been in no way a change of political course. On the contrary, there can be as little doubt about the direction of Bonn's course today as there was before August 13. The aims of this course include:

- assurance of freedom for the Federal Republic and Berlin, and the restoration of freedom in the Soviet-occupied part of Germany;
- restoration of German unity in peace;
- strengthening of the free world, and solidarity with free peoples;
- co-operation with the developing nations on the basis of real partnership.

The present efforts towards European unity belong to the policy of strengthening the free world.

What are the motives behind this longing for a united Europe? They lie plainly in the recognition:

- that an egotistical, nationalistic policy is simply impossible today in view of the world's political, economic and cultural tasks;
- that a similar policy which was carried to its extreme once in Germany led only to catastrophe;
- that European peoples belong together by virtue of their historical unity and should never again be torn apart by hate and dissension;
- that freedom and human dignity can be defended from Communist threats by common effort.

It follows from the final point that this ideal of a united Europe is not synonymous with any wish of Europeans to separate themselves from the rest of the world. Much more, it is the desire for the world-wide co-operation of all free peoples.

(from The Bulletin of the German Federal Government)

But is this championing by the Germans of the cause of democracy, freedom and self-determination for all, of peace and co-operation not perhaps only a question of opportunism? In a year that has seen the Eichmann trial as a grim reminder of 1933-1945, it is understandable that this question should be raised.

The Germans know that the ignominy of National Socialism and its crimes are linked with the name of their country. They also know that this fact cannot be undone by the attempts at material compensation to which they are devoting continuing effort, or by their search for spiritual reconciliation. They are ready to face the past — are doing so.

Books like Eugen Kogon's "The S.S. State", which appeared only a year after the war's end in 1946, and the "Diary of Anne Frank" are still two of the most widely-sold books in the Federal Republic. William Shirer's "The Rise and Fall of the Third Reich", which appeared in its German translation some weeks ago has provoked broad discussions and also promises to become a best-seller here, like other books written on that ugly period of German history.

This and other evidences, far too numerous to mention in a single article, are proof that the Germans are constantly facing the past.

Indeed, much of German post-war history is characterized by the honest efforts of Germans to face the deeds done in their name by the dictatorship — and to establish a new course in a world that needs the efforts of every free people.

Far from being "opportunistic", this new course is much truer to the best German traditions than were the twelve years under Hitler. One of the most fitting acts of atonement for 1933-1945, as the Germans see it, is to be true once more to their long humanist past; and in so doing to help defend humanity against the forces that pose its greatest challenge in the present.

William Aberhart, the evangelist whose Social Credit theories seemed to many in Alberta the answer to hard times, had a favorite story about a capitalist knocking at the gates of Heaven and persuading Saint Peter to check whether he could be admitted. When the saint returned, the capitalist was gone — and so were the pearly gates. But this type of yarn has no lasting glory.

Perhaps time puts a particular gloss on humor but the modern voter exposed to too many election speeches must long for an urbane Laurier puncturing a demagogue and the sparkling MacDonald teasing an opponent or daring to say that the country preferred him drunk to George Brown sober. In those days, closer to the standards of Disraeli and Lincoln, politicians sought out humor, applied it as balm to their own wounds and salt to the bruises of their enemies.

Messrs. Diefenbaker, Pearson and Douglas, whatever sense of humor they possess, live in a time when laughter and spontaneity in politics are being smothered by the caution imposed by radio and television. Politics lose zest when humor and sarcasm become too gentle. We need more of the forthrightness of Samuel Johnson — "When you see a Whig you see a rascal. . . . The first Whig was the Devil."

Matter of Fact

The lemming, a mouse-like animal of Scandinavia, has the same troubles as the "woman who lived in a shoe." Lemmings have so many youngsters they "don't know what to do." Every few years lemming colonies get overpopulated. Starvation forces the little animals to leave home. Nothing stops their desperate march, not even the ocean. They jump right in, to their death — victims of their own "population explosion."

PROVIDES POWER

The Abitibi River in Northern Ontario provides 370,000 horsepower at hydro developments at the Abitibi Canyon, Island Falls, Iroquois Falls and Twin Falls.

REPORTING

OTTAWA — For a newsman, the great advantage of an Ottawa base is that 75 or 80 per cent of all the news of national importance happening in Canada can be covered from this capital.

Take the Contwoyto Lake story. That may sound like the place where Aunt Millie and Uncle Herb spent their holidays three years ago, but it isn't. Rather it's in the barren lands close to the Arctic Circle, where the discovery of gold has sparked a claim staking rush.

In principle I should dash off to Contwoyto Lake if I want to cover the gold rush, but in Ottawa such an energetic solution is not usually necessary. I pick up a phone and talk to government experts who have been there. When you consider that the mercury hit 30 below at Contwoyto Lake a month ago, with no intention of stopping on the high side of minus 60, there is much to be said for covering this story from Ottawa.

The gold rush started after Canadian Nickel Co. recorded 307 claims this fall on the basis of diamond drilling operations at the lake last summer that showed a substantial body of fair to good grade gold ore.

There are elements of poker in prospecting, with inter-company rivalries putting a premium on bluffing and holding one's cards close to one's vest. At Yellowknife, where Canadian Nickel recorded its claims, they chuckle appreciatively over what happened last summer to a local bush pilot and two spies of a rival company who tried to discover what the Canadian Nickel prospectors were up to.

Unable to locate the Canadian Nickel camp from the air, the pilot sent out phoney distress signals in the hope that the camp would reply and thus give away its location. But the Canadian Nickel men smelled something fishy and refused to respond. Then a storm came up. The plane's motor conked out and the pilot had to crash land. This time his frantic distress calls were genuine but he was like the boy who called "wolf" — he was ignored by the radio operator in the camp. The three spies had to wait by their downed aircraft until a rescue party arrived from Yellowknife.

As soon as claim-filing by the Canadian Nickel group disclosed the nature and location of the discovery, other mining companies sped their representatives in by chartered planes to stakes slams on all sides of the discovery. More than 1,000 claims have now been staked and filed, and the rush is still on.

With gold in the Contwoyto area, as anywhere, the problem is to find it.

Just how big the Contwoyto strike is, and whether the newly staked claims are worth the cost of the stakes that had to be flown into this treeless country, won't be known before next summer's diamond drilling. If the gold seekers win, Lake Contwoyto could become another Yellowknife, a city that grew from a similar discovery in 1935.

OBITUARIES

THOMAS A. BAGLEY, OF EAST ANGUS, EAST ANGUS — Thomas A. Bagley died suddenly at the Sherbrooke Hospital on Sunday, Dec. 3, 1961. He had been in poor health for the past year. Mr. Bagley, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Bagley, was born in Bury, Quebec. He was predeceased by his first wife, Jane Ride, Hatley, in 1945. Surviving are his second wife, Elizabeth Turnbull, and stepson, Robert Paintin; three children by his first marriage, Mrs. Grant Robb, Katherine, of Neapure; Mrs. Margaret Snow, Montreal, and John T. Bagley, St. Louis, Missouri.

then returned to this community, where they have since resided. They celebrated their golden wedding in 1952. Mrs. Cousins was a member of the United Church, of which she was organist for several years. A devoted wife and mother, she will be greatly missed in her home and by her friends and neighbors, in whom she was keenly interested. Left to mourn her loss are her husband; a daughter, Daisy, Mrs. Everett Rhines; a son, Ralph, of Montreal; several grandchildren; and two sisters, Alice, Mrs. Eugene Glazier, New Britain, Conn., and Bessie, Mrs. Homer Thompson, Vancouver, B.C. Many friends and relatives from out of town attended the funeral service, conducted at her home by Rev. John Stark. Mrs. Clarence McGill and Mrs. Percy Bloomfield, friends of the deceased, rendered two hymns, Rock of Ages and In the Garden. The bearers were John Neale, Clarence McGill, Graydon True and Russell Marsh. Interment was at Knowlton.

CHRISTMAS PARTY — The Sunday School Christmas Tree at St. Luke's Church, Waterloo was held last weekend. Singing and games entertained the large group of children, over a hundred in all. Santa Claus gave each child a gift. He was assisted in his work by Rev. G. Norris and Nelson Langevin, as seen in the photo, with the children, from the left, Bonnie Ewens, Richard Reed, John Owens.

A Masonic service was held at his home on Tuesday, Dec. 5. Family prayers were held at the house Wednesday, Dec. 6, followed by service at Christ Church, East Angus. Rev. Thomas Hardy officiated.

Bearers were Gerald Millmore, Waterville; Joseph Vogell, Cookshire; D. H. Learned, Allan Hall, Chester Damon and Carl Groenewold, of East Angus.

Interment was in the family lot at Hatley.

MRS. ALFRED RODELL, OF LENNOXVILLE. Mrs. Alfred Rodell passed away at the Sherbrooke Hospital on Wednesday, Dec. 6, 1961, after a few weeks' illness.

Omega Alice Fryer was born in Hammetton, London, England, in 1889. She was married to Alfred Rodell on May 29, 1910, and came to Canada in 1913. They lived in Waterville for two years, then moved to Lennoxville, where the family resides.

Mrs. Rodell was a loving wife and mother, of a quiet retiring nature, respected by everyone who knew her. She leaves to mourn, besides her husband, a son Arthur; a daughter, Ivy, Mrs. Sam Bauer; six grandchildren; three great-grandchildren; a sister, Mrs. A. Cornish; and other relatives here and in England.

On Friday, Dec. 8, at 2 p.m., the funeral cortege left the family residence on St. Francis Street to St. George's Anglican Church, where Rev. Archdeacon T. J. Matthews officiated at the service.

The bearers were G. H. Moffat, S. F. Abbott, J. G. Patriquin, R. R. Owen, H. Doheny and Lewis Evans.

Interment was in Malvern Cemetery.

IN CONGO

functions (that is, participate in the national parliament). The Congo's draft constitution—still to be ratified 18 months after independence—calls for a strong central government.

George Ivan Smith, senior UN representative in Katanga, said the Katanga provincial assembly will meet in Elisabethville Jan. 3 to debate the Kitona declaration.

As Tshombe manoeuvred, tensions remained high in Elisabethville. Katanga gendarmes Wednesday arrested seven Swedish soldiers of the UN force, charging members of Katanga's security forces had been seized since the informal cease-fire was reached a week ago.

The Rhodesian federation is not yet completely independent of Britain and does not have control of its foreign affairs or national defence. Welensky, however, has continually criticized the UN Congo force.

REACT CAUTIOUSLY

The UN reacted cautiously, a spokesman saying "we are not taking any military action to get them (the Swedes) returned because we do not want to upset the political situation."

An advance guard of Congolese soldiers was on its way to the UN Kamina base in north Katanga—the first Congolese unit attached directly to the UN Congo force.

Some 900 Congolese troops eventually will share control of Kamina with Indian, Swedish and Norwegian UN troops.

Meanwhile, the Rhodesian federal government Wednesday demanded an "impartial investigation" of reports of atrocities committed by UN troops in Katanga.

In its strongest attack yet on the UN Congo operation, Sir Roy Welensky's pro-Tshombe government also accused the UN of instigating a "propaganda war" against Rhodesia.

The Rhodesian federation is not yet completely independent of Britain and does not have control of its foreign affairs or national defence. Welensky, however, has continually criticized the UN Congo force.

The program follows: The Lord's Prayer by the classes; Jingle bells in French and in English; the classes; recitation, Francois Bonin and Beverly Stevens; a Christmas questionaire, answered by the little folk.

Group singing, with Mare Haselton and Harvey Stevens, taking the solo verses; rhythm number by the classes, each member holding a wreath, he had made; recitation, singly and in groups, Debra Jacobs, Marc Haselton, Laitia Laberee, Michel Masse, Cheryl Trotter, Laurilee Dustin, Martial Major and Jeffrey, and by Cynthia Hill, Ronald Couture, Kirk Entwistle, Mark Reed, Peter St. Armand, Robin White, Rodney Kerr and Francois Rouleau.

Motion song, by the girls, then the boys', carol and lullaby, by the classes. Cookies were served after which Beverly Stevens, Michele Racine, Lucille Dutil and Jean Delisle distributed gifts from the Reverend Sisters to each student.

The children sang, A Parting Word, and Mother L'Assumption voiced the appreciation of her and her assistant to the parents, who encourage the children, and for the gifts, and extended greetings for a happy season.

PARTY FOLLOWS REGULAR MEETING OF BORDER OES

STANSTEAD — After the regular meeting of Golden Star Chapter, Order of the Eastern Stars, a Christmas party took place in the dining hall.

A Christmas program centered around the Eastern Star was presented in a setting of candlelight and consisted of carol singing, readings and the Christmas story from the Bible.

Taking part in the program were, Mrs. Ivy Hatch, W.M.; U. E. Cargill, W.P.; Mrs. Violet Badger, A.M.; Patrick Deslandes, A.P.; Mrs. Lora Barlow and Mrs. Jessie Rogers, Assoc. Conductress, and Conductress; Mrs. Lillian Clark, Chaplain; and the Eve Star points, Mrs. Edith Selby, Mrs. Mabel Jenne, Mrs. Ann Trevall, Mrs. Selma May Martin and Mrs. Ethel Whitman. Mrs. Helen Johnston played the piano.

Lunch was enjoyed at banquet tables beautifully decorated by Mrs. Evelyn Colt, with red and white covers, Christmas ornaments and lighted candles, while the head table was centered with a bowl of baby mums. Mrs. Mirtie Walsh and Mrs. Ethel Whitman were in charge of the lunch.

The marshal, Gordon Johnston, distributed the gifts from beneath the gaily-decorated tree.

Plans were made at the business meeting to entertain the Masons and their ladies at a card party in the hall the evening of Jan. 27.

GREEN REVIEWS

a clear expression of world opinion. Twenty-four countries joined Canada in presenting strong resolution calling for a new program for measuring radioactive fallout and studying radiation hazards. This resolution was carried unanimously.

'CREAT HELP' Mr. Green said he believes the addition of eight neutral states to the 10-nation East-West disarmament committee will help committee negotiations "a great deal."

It is expected that the negotiations, broken off by a Communist walk-out in June, 1960, will resume in March at Geneva.

Mr. Green said that at the very least the presence of the eight new members of the committee, representing the world's main geographical areas, will help prevent any recurrence of a Communist walk-out.

He also said the United States has been taking a keen interest in disarmament proposals and has strengthened its team of experts in this field.

Mr. Green said any resumption of nuclear testing in the atmosphere by the U.S.—it is reported the U.S. will resume tests next spring over Christmas Island in the South Pacific—might affect disarmament negotiations.

Canada's view still was opposition to nuclear tests—by whatever country.

ISLAND BROOK — The Women's Missionary Society and Woman's Association met with Mr. and Mrs. Fred Burns.

The W.M.S. meeting was led by Mrs. Thomas Burns who opened the meeting with prayer followed by Scripture reading. The president also spoke briefly on commercialization at Christmas.

Then the meeting was turned over to Mrs. Franklin Kerr and the Christmas card list was drawn up. One bill was ordered paid. Many articles were sold from a sale table.

Supper was served a large crowd and proceeds were gratifying.

Mr. and Mrs. Mark Waldron, of Toronto, visited Mr. and Mrs. Fred Burns and Mr. and Mrs. Garfield Spaulding.

THE ART OF LIVING

The joyous welcome reserved for the father returning home from work... the bright smiles of his loved ones... his justifiable pride in providing the needs of a happy family... and the anticipation of a pleasant evening's relaxation. All these joys, large and small, can be repeated day after day, because the art of living... of good and happy living... is within the reach of everyone. A sense of responsibility and care for the happiness of others is incentive enough for the head of a family to preside in the home in an atmosphere of harmony and sobriety.

The Doctor Says

SELECT YOUR OWN CURE FOR WARDING OFF BOREDOM

I don't know how you feel about it but I'm getting fed up with these frantic efforts to treat senior citizens as if they were all entering into their second childhood. As it our society had made no advances since the time when Shakespeare defined our later years as a time when we become "sans teeth, sans eyes, sans taste and sans everything."

You have only to look at the faces on TV of most of the dancing couples, young and middle-aged, to get a visual image of that boredom which is "the great sickness of our age" in the words of Dr. Dana L. Farnsworth, director of health services at Harvard University.

Pleading for the achievement and preservation of mental health which he defines as a "state of mind in which people can carry on their activities with satisfaction to themselves with some sense of responsibility to others and without making nuisances of themselves to large numbers of other people," Dr. Farnsworth bids us to give meaning to the years that medical science has added to our life spans.

So many activities exist for self-satisfaction, and so much can be done to assist the less fortunate and to promote community welfare, there is little excuse for leading a life of aimless boredom. An existence that lacks meaning and purpose inevitably produces distressing symptoms such as restlessness, sleeplessness, depression, loss of appetite, irritability and the like.

To treat these symptoms with tranquilizers, pep-up pills, gland shots for rejuvenation and complex mixtures of vitamins and minerals is to add folly to folly. In my experience there are at least two excuses given for most of these retreats from reality. Neither is valid.

Just because you've never before read or studied or worked in a hospital or read to the blind is no good reason why you shouldn't start just because you've never had educational advantages is no reason you shouldn't help with some activity that doesn't require anything more than the teaching and application of some skill you've picked up during your wage-earning career.

Maybe it's just mowing the lawn at the hospital, waiting on table at an orphan's home, pinch-hitting as a den mother for a neighbor trying to hold down a job and still maintain her home or keeping an eye on a cook-out of Boy Scouts.

I don't mean to suggest any of these activities will add to your income. But they will cut down some of the money you may have been wasting trying to cure boredom with something that comes out of a bottle or is injected by syringe.

Coaticook SS presents special annual service

COATICOOK — The annual Christmas program by the Sunday School of Sisco Memorial United Church presented in the hall, was opened by the superintendent, Stanley Beerworth, who gave a word of welcome to the parents and friends, followed by a call to worship.

The program followed: Carol with Miss Irene Cromwell at the piano; prayer, Brian Cook; Christmas reading, Skippy Mayhew; carol, the group Christmas number, Mead Baldwin, Louise Baldwin, June Gosselin, Dusty Mayhew, Diane Luce; recitations, Mead Baldwin, Carol Johann, and Janet Edwards.

Group singing, Primary and Beginners Classes; playlet, The Meaning of Christmas, Eva Rose Baldwin as the Spirit of Christmas, Lane Mayhew, the Little Girl, Jean Johann as The Star, Linda Gill as the First Candle, Carolyn Cook as the Second Candle, Victor Peters as the Third Candle.

The offering of White Gift envelopes was received, the offertory prayer being given by Mr. Beerworth, followed by a hymn.

After the benediction, pronounced by Mr. Beerworth, Santa appeared and distributed presents from the large, prettily decorated tree and each boy and girl also received a candy bag.

CHRISTMAS SERVICE
The Christmas service on Dec. 24 featured three special musical contributions by the choir: In Excelsis Deo, by the young girls; Na-areth, an anthem by the full choir with the choir leader, Robert McAlpine, soloist; and a carol, Silent Night by the choir. Between the numbers were meditations by Stanley Beerworth.

OLD SYSTEM

In Denmark Soldier pipes have regained their popularity

COPENHAGEN (Reuters) — Long soldier pipes, a Danish contribution to the cult of tobacco, have regained popularity here in a new setting.

A favorite for years with tourists who visit Denmark, the pipes have become increasingly popular among Danes in recent months. The pipe-smoking, comfort-loving Danes say the soldier pipe—just over four feet long—is ideal for watching TV as well as a decorative addition.

The user rests the hand-painted porcelain bowl between his feet, so that the mouth-piece just reaches his lips. There is no smoke in the eyes, no distractions and no muscular effort.

The smoker can't light the long-stemmed pipe. Yesterday's rolled paper, or live coal from the fire, has been replaced by a dutiful match-wielding wife.

For bachelors, a shorter pipe, about 18 inches long, has been developed.

"The long pipe is purely Danish," declared Joergen Jensen, a pipe lover and collector. "The porcelain bowl cannot burn through, and many soldier pipes are still in use after more than 200 years of hard smoking."

USES CHEAP TOBACCO
A first look at the cavernous bowl—six inches deep and one inch in diameter—need not frighten smokers with visions of astronomic tobacco bills. A cheap tobacco is made specially for the long pipe.

A tradition which faded during the First World War, the pipes were once practically the only 'must' for a man joining the army. The new recruit's first call, after enlistment, was on to the local pipe-maker. For the bowl design, some chose the king, others their regimental coat of arms, or a picture of the recruit himself in uniform.

So firmly did the custom become established that when the Danish Royal Guards celebrated their jubilee some years ago with a parade, the sergeants—major marched along swinging their soldier pipes.

With the end of the first war, the long pipes were relegated to museums and attics, collected by a few enthusiasts, or sold to tourists.

Colfax Lodge turns meeting into festivity

KNOWLTON — Members of Colfax Rebekah Lodge, under the supervision of the Noble Grand, Sister Eleanor Roberts, held their annual Christmas party. Among the large gathering was Brother Sam Winkle, Grand Master of the Grand Lodge of Quebec, who following a short opening ceremony, granted a special dispensation to the Lodge to devote time to the party.

Carols were heard through the kindness of Mrs. Graydon Tibbits, who lent her record player and recordings, after which games were enjoyed.

Gifts were exchanged and Sister Roberts drew tickets on the doll and the turkey. The doll was won by Mrs. Wm. Stone, and the turkey by Brandon Mulroney.

It was announced that nearly $300 was realized from the two drawings and the banquet recently served to the Duck Farm personnel, which amount will be added to the Building Fund.

A delightful Christmas banquet was served, bringing a pleasant event to a close.

The hall and tables were decorated in keeping with the season, and a lighted tree, under which the gifts were arranged, added to the decor. Mrs. Tibbits was in charge of decorations.

Sunshine Soc. plans to join United group

BISHOPTON — The Sunshine Society met for its final session in the Sunday School room of the United Church.

The president, Mrs. C. R. Pashley, conducted the meeting, which consisted mainly of ordering the remaining bills to be paid and a few routine matters to be cleared up before joining the United Church Women.

The nominating committee reported all offices filled for the new unit and committees were appointed, to take office the first of the year.

The Christmas supper and sale report showed over $129 cleared.

The next meeting will be held at the Bishopton School, when all ladies of the congregation are urged to attend and help get the United Church Women's organization off to a good start.

Lighting system guides aircraft in soupy weather

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont. (CP) — Flying six miles high over the Lakehead one night in November, a Trans-Canada Air Lines pilot on a routine flight yelled into his microphone: "I'm being dazzled by a light."

At the Sault airport, 268 air miles away, chief radio officer Bill Shackleton answered.

"Would you mean these lights?" he asked as he flicked a switch that reduced the candle-power of a massive bank of 400-watt lights at the end of the major east-west runway facing out over Lake Superior.

The TCA pilot said yes.

Mr. Shackleton said it wasn't a freak sighting. He contends the lights can be seen from the Lakehead by planes if they approach at the right height and angle.

But this is unlikely to happen in future because the high-intensity beam will be used only during cloudy weather.

On this occasion it was being tested.

The lights are part of a system for guiding aircraft into the airport during soupy weather.

The Sault, often befogged because of its proximity to the St. Mary's River and Lake Superior, is the third Canadian airport to get the system.

The beam of light is sent down the runway and 15 miles out over the lake. It gives the line of approach. Another beam indicates the glide path.

Using the system, 20 aircraft that would normally have been

Shufelt-Serroul

FARNHAM, Que. — A pretty wedding took place at Grace United Church, Farnham, Que., on December 12th at 2 p.m. when Carol Ann Serroul, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Serroul of Sidney, Cape Breton Island, Nova Scotia, became the bride of Mr. Norman Russell Shufelt, of Amherst, Nova Scotia, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Shufelt of Farnham. Rev. Dr. S. R. Prince officiated and Mrs. M. J. Clark played the wedding music.

The bride who was given in marriage by Mr. Clyde Shufelt wore a white nylon over taffeta ballerina length dress. Her chapel veil was held in place by a crown of pearls and she carried a cascade bouquet of red sweetheart roses and white carnations.

Mrs. Marilyn Bayne was matron of honor and wore a ballerina length gown of midnight blue nylon over lace with matching feather headdress. She carried a cascade bouquet of pink and white carnations.

Miss Nancy Bayne was flower girl and was dressed in powder blue velvet with matching headdress and carried a nosegay of sweetheart roses.

Master Robert Vaillancourt of Fort William, Ont., was the ring bearer.

Mr. Earl Hesse of Farnham acted as best man.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the Blue Bird Hotel.

Mr. and Mrs. Shufelt will reside in Amherst, Nova Scotia.

Mom shops with stamps boosts Canadian business

A Toronto woman did her Christmas shopping last week without spending a cent. And she didn't go into debt.

Her list included a bedspread, bathroom scales, a metal patio table, an electric heating pad, a flying saucer, a hockey stick and puck, a 36 inch doll and a man's wrist watch—all Canadian made "name brand" merchandise.

She paid with a happy smile—and 15 books of discount stamps.

That's the way tens of thousands of Canadian women did their Christmas shopping. Critics of stamps claim that stamp collectors pay for their gifts in higher prices for goods sold with stamps. But stamp giving merchants urge customers to compare prices and they claim that all promotions, such as advertising, tape plans and stamp plans, are taken care of by the increased business they attract.

"At any rate it's a painless way to save and I don't see any differences in the prices I pay," beamed a woman who for ten stamp books collected a nice tablecloth and a double bed all-wool blanket.

Stamp giving stores state that 95 percent of all the merchandise redeemed by stamps is from Canadian suppliers, and that this amounts to more than $10,000,000 a year to Canadian manufacturers.

Back to class for you or you're 'dead'—socially

Let's face it. Nowadays if you aren't learning something new all the time you might as well be dead—socially that is.

It used to be that Mr. and Mrs. America could get together with their friends and spend the evening bragging about their children, grumbling about crab grass or the football coach with the losing team (depending on the season of the year), telling each other about their do-it-yourself projects, and discussing the latest movie or current favorite TV personality dominating the home screens.

But no more. Now to get a word in edgeways a couple has to discuss what they're learning. To get the floor conversationally they have to talk about the course they are taking in French or Spanish or, more impressive yet, Russian. Or they have to be able to discuss art or music at length and none of this "I don't know anything about it; I just know what I like" stuff, either. If they aren't studying painting or taking a course in music appreciation no one is going to listen to what they have to say.

They might be able to discuss a book—if it is long enough and technical enough—but not if it's a best seller that anybody might have read.

Best of all if they want to talk "books" is to begin with the statement: "I've been making a study of such and such . . ." and then go on from there. Making a study isn't quite as hep as taking a course—but almost.

So it's back to the books and the classrooms for Mr. and Mrs. America. It's not the social evenings that take the time these days—it's doing the home work in preparation for them.

Call any up-and-coming couple you know any evening but Saturday or Sunday and chances are the child who

ALDERSHOT CHAPTER, I.O.D.E.

A very delightful evening was spent by the members and friends of Aldershot Chapter, I.O.D.E. recently, when the December meeting of the Chapter was held. The first item on the program was a Sherry Party, followed by a buffet supper. The rooms were decorated in the Christmas theme, and gifts were exchanged following the supper.

At the business meeting which ensued, $100 was voted towards the House Account for the maintenance of the I.O.D.E. Home, and refreshments were ordered for the party for the pupils of the School for Retarded Children.

The Spinners Spree slated for Feb. 10 at the New Sherbrooke Hotel was discussed and Mrs. S. K. Barnes kindly offered to make corsages to be sold at the door as in previous years.

As third, Community Hall for Eskimos at Baker Bay in the Arctic was announced, and the members agreed to participate in this National Project.

The members were reminded that Jan. 24 would be Report Meeting, and the Secretaries and Conveners were asked to prepare their reports in time for the meeting.

After the meeting adjourned, a film was shown on last Spring's Fashion Show, and a Chinese Auction which ensued was the occasion of much merriment.

The evening's hostesses were Mrs. H. Durrant, Mrs. U. Ives, Mrs. George Smith and Mrs. R. A. Wheeler.

A shower of gifts was held for the children of the recipients of the Municipal Welfare baskets distributed each Christmas by the I.O.D.E.

New twist in tea towels

Although the advantage of thirsty terry cloth over smooth linen were appreciated way back in the 19th Century, we are only just beginning to appreciate the greater absorbency of terry towels to spend the task of dish drying.

When buying terry tea-towels make sure that they are both light and supple enough to make a good job of pot corners and the insides of jugs and glasses. At the same time, they should be of high enough quality to offer really superior drying abilities. Having made sure that the towel has long, soft loops, crumple as much of one corner as possible in the palm of your hand. You can hold 6 1/2 square inches of a terry tea towel comfortably in the palm of your hand. This means that a goodly portion of this towel can easily be twisted around the inside of a glass, drying it quickly to the very bottom.

Good quality terry towels are quite inexpensive . . . you can buy Canadian-made towels, in colourful attractive woven striped patterns for about 40 cents each, printed pattern about 59 cents each. Terry tea towels are economical, too. You'll probably find that you can dry as many dishes and pans with one terry dish towel as with two of a smooth-surfaced cloth. You do not separate terry towels for glasses, either. After a few washings, you will find them just as lintfree as the most expensive glass-drying cloth would be after a similar number of washings.

Like all cloths to be used for dish-drying, terry cloth towels need a few washings before they are completely lint free.

Many housewives like to add bleach to the water in which tea-towels are washed, and the tendency is to add more than is needed. The colours and patterns do suffer from the regular use of a mild bleach solution, and bleaching is not essential to the cleanliness and brightness of the towels. It would be advisable only to add a very little bleach to washing water for towels that have become discoloured through long use. A leading Canadian towel manufacturer suggests that you can keep towels bright-looking by occasionally hanging them outside where the sun and wind will freshen them.

High fashion ideas turn up on towels, too—and one of fashion's newest crazes is Roman Stripes. You'll find the tea towels woven in stripes of definitely bright colours that will add a lively touch, and in subtle-toned stripes that will blend well with any kitchen. And, of course, there's a fine assortment of interesting printed designs that will add a touch of individuality to the kitchen.

Expert shirt-washers give no-iron tips

There's no need to pamper a man's shirt of "Terylene." It is cotton counterpart and should be tossed in the washing machine along with the rest of the family's white clothing.

This is the word from people who should know: the technicians at the "Terylene" laboratories at Millhaven, Ontario, who have test-washed hundreds of shirts.

However, to be sure that a shirt will need no ironing after washing, and will remain sparkling white, the technicians have a few tips to offer. Before washing, heavily soiled areas such as the collar and cuffs should be sprinkled with detergent and rubbed briskly with the tail of the shirt. Detergent rather than soap is recommended. If the water is hard, as it is in most areas, soap-suds will leave a deposit that is difficult to budge.

Household bleach won't harm "Terylene" providing, of course, it is rinsed out. Through rinsing of any garment—whether bleached or not—is as important as thorough washing. Otherwise, clothes may look dingy.

If hand washed, the shirt should be removed from the water dripping wet. It should

Neat trick to file in a kitchen drawer

KAY SHERWOOD

Housekeeping is not the dull, every-day-the-same routine it's cracked up to be. There are surprises every day in the life of a busy homemaker, especially if she entertains a secret idea of ignoring a chore to read or write letters.

On a recent Monday morning, for example, I had thought I would see the children off to school and then finish a library book.

Imagine my surprise to find myself instead knee-deep in the tedious task of cleaning and straightening kitchen drawers.

Over the weekend they had slid from relative order to a jumbled mishmash of flatware, crumbs, sharp knives, corkscrews, Yo-Yo strings and mixing spoons. This was brought on by many hands trying to make light work of Saturday night party dinner dishes (my friends always stash tableware where they think it should go, never mind where it belongs), complicated by Cub Scouts determined to win points for "helping around the kitchen."

A fast look at the chaos was enough to reveal good reasons for dumping the drawers' contents, washing the insides and relining with fresh paper.

By coincidence I had recently learned from a friend of her successful way of "slip covering" the insides of kitchen cabinet drawers to make them easier to keep clean. This method takes longer initially, but the results should be worth the effort.

Instead of cutting paper just to fit the bottom of the drawer, the paper is sized to curve up the sides. Corners are mitered so that crumbs and soil can't creep under the liner, or stay in corners.

Lining material should be washable. It might be plastic-coated paper, self-adhesive plastic or similar material.

not be wrung for creases may form that might be hard to remove. For the same reason a shirt should be taken from the washer before the spin cycle starts. It can then be hung on a wooden or plastic hanger—a metal one might rust. Smooth the collar and cuffs and fasten the top button so that the shirt hangs straight. If the shirt is to be dried in an automatic dryer, it can go through the complete washing cycle, for any wrinkles that may be picked up during spinning will be eliminated by the dryer before they have time to set.

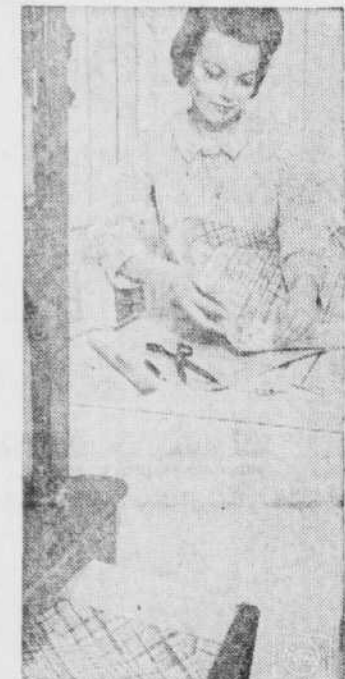

If washed this way, the shirt will be ready for wearing without any ironing. If the fabric is a blend of "Terylene" and cotton, even if it is bone dry a touch-up with a warm iron will suffice.

To make a liner, mark off the exact dimensions of the inside bottom of the drawer on the wrong side of the paper.

Draw a border around this three or four inches wide. (This margin forms the sides of the finished liner.)

Crease material sharply along the inner line. Fold and miter the corners, trimming excess material. Tape overlapped corner flat to the outside of the liner. When all corners have been mitered and fastened to form neat right angles, fit the boxlike liner into the drawer.

The smooth joining of sides and base leaves no place for dust to collect or crumbs to hide. For wide drawers (24 inches), I had to make the liner in two sections, because the paper wouldn't reach. I made two half-shells which met and slightly overlapped down the center. I taped overlap flat with mending tape.

If you use the self-adhesive plastic, don't remove the paper backing until just before you fit the liner in place. The adhesive will help the liner slides stick tight to drawer sides.

A nonadhesive paper liner may have to be anchored to a drawer's interior along the top edge of the front to keep crumbs from falling behind the paper.

An inexpensive casserole

ON A COLD WINTER DAY, there's nothing quite so good — or so easy — as a hearty meat-and-potatoes casserole.

Casseroles, which can be prepared hours or even days in advance, are a boon to the busy housewife. Just a toss of a salad, a last-minute touch to the dessert, and the hostess can relax with her guests or family while her main course bubbles in the oven.

Hamburger Bake is a casserole that will delight every member of the family. Its appetizing appearance will please the discriminating women who insist that food should look as good as it tastes. The combination of mashed potatoes and hamburger is a perennial favorite with men and boys. And for the hostess it is a treat to make, for instant potato flakes are recommended — she can forget about washing, scraping and peeling, and use flakes to get the same creamy goodness in three minutes. The topping of mashed potatoes goes on a tasty combination of freshly cooked green beans, tomato soup and hot pieces of lightly browned hamburger.

Tomato Au Gratin Pie is another casserole dish that is attractive, tasty and easy to make. It has a rich cheesy flavor that both children and grown-ups will love. This recipe recommends use of a package of high-quality Au

Gratin Potatoes, giving the housewife the same delicious result with a fraction of the time and effort.

HAMBURGER BAKE
1 medium onion, chopped, 1 lb. ground beef, 1 tsp. salt, dash pepper, 1 pkg. frozen green beans, cooked 1 can condensed cream of tomato soup) 1 envelope Instant Mashed Potato Flakes, 1/3 cup grated cheese.

Cook onion in small amount of hot fat until tender. Spoon off excess fat. Add meat and seasonings and brown lightly. Mix with drained beans and soup; pour into 1-1/2 qt. casserole.

Prepare potato flakes according to package directions. Drop in fluffs over meat. Sprinkle with grated cheese. Bake at 350° F. for 25 minutes. Makes 4 generous servings.

TOMATO AU GRATIN PIE
1 pkg. Au Gratin Potatoes, 2-1/2 cups boiling water, 1 tbsp. butter, 4 slices, bacon, cooked, drained and crumbled 1 small tomato, sliced thinly.

Combine potatoes and sauce mix with boiling water, butter and bacon in 1-1/2 qt. casserole. Place tomato slices on top so that they cover mixture. Cover and bake at 375° F. for 45 minutes. Serves 4.

Christmas services at Boundary churches

ROCK ISLAND — Christmas services were held in all the churches at the Boundary on Christmas Sunday and Christmas Eve, each featuring a special event.

STANSTEAD SOUTH CHURCH

At the 10:30 service on Christmas Sunday in Stanstead South church, five persons became members of the church, three by profession of faith, the Misses Beverly Dustin and Judith Holland and Mrs. Curtis McGivern, and two by transfer, Lucien Bilodeau and Mrs. Beatrice Planche. The choir rendered special Christmas music and the pastor, Rev. T. W. Tyson, chose as his sermon theme the Christmas Story from the Scriptures.

CANDLELIGHT SERVICE

At seven o'clock in the evening the annual Christmas Eve candlelight service took place in Stanstead South church with the full choir of nearly 50 voices singing the carols and anthems and the junior choir of 30 voices singing special numbers.

Selections were sung by the junior choir and Miss Penny Miller sang a solo. Rev. T. W. Tyson thanked everyone who had contributed to the Christmas service and all through the year, with their interest in the choir work, and also the leaders.

Members of the Young People's Society acted as ushers and distributed the candles. The Misses Christina Darby, Edith Davis, Wendy Rice and Lana Cross, the lighters, gave light from their candles to the first person in each pew and the light was passed from one to the other until all the candles, about 150, were lighted and the church lights were extinguished. By candlelight all joined in singing, Silent Night.

For both these services the church was filled with families and friends, many from a distance, who were home for the holidays.

The church was decorated with wreaths in each window, evergreens and poinsettias, and at the entrance doors was a large lighted tree.

At the morning service of the Universalist Church, Derby Line, special music was sung by the choir. The pastor, Rev. Gale Bascombe spoke on the Mature Christmas.

The traditional candlelight service was held at four o'clock on Christmas Sunday and was well attended.

The choir sang the anthems, with the junior choir singing during the candle lighting ceremony.

Mrs. Bascombe read the message of the Service of the Lights with the Misses Gail Bigelow, Mary Lee Webster, Terry Bacon and Winona Webster, the lighters. The ushers, Miss Webster and Lynn Stevens, lighted the candle of the first person in each pew. The church lights were extinguished for the singing of the last carol, Silent Night.

Darrel Drew, of Newport, a student at Crane School of Music, Potsdam, N.Y., was guest organist and played a composition of the Lord's Prayer prior to the offertory. Mr. Bascombe read a poem, expressed thoughts for 1961, offered prayer and read the Scripture from Matthew.

The church was prettily decorated with evergreens, poinsettias and lighted candles. A bouquet of roses were in memory of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Partlett from their daughter, Mrs. E. C. Grecco, Dr. Grecco and family of Sault Ste. Marie, and other flowers were from the Women's Society of the church.

CENTENARY CHURCH

A family service took place on Christmas Sunday morning in Centenary Church, Stanstead. Rev. A. M. Rose chose as his sermon topic, The Christ Family, Love Is a Little Thing. During the service the infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Curtis, of Stanstead, was baptized, receiving the names of Luke Alfred. The choir rendered Christmas selections and led the singing of the carols.

ANGELICAN CHURCH

The service of Holy Communion was observed in Christ Anglican Church at 11 p.m., Christmas Eve. Rev. A. L. Salt officiated. The choir led in the singing of the carols and rendered an anthem with Miss Susan Fisher singing the solo part.

CATHOLIC CHURCHES

Midnight Mass was observed in all the Roman Catholic Churches of Stanstead, Rock Island and Derby Line, with special music and the celebration of Holy Communion.

West Berlin launches a new cultural program

BERLIN (Reuters) — West Berlin hopes to become a centre of European culture and education to counteract its loss of importance as the show-window of the Western world since the closure of its borders with East Berlin.

An ambitious program launched by Professor Joachim Tibertius, the city councillor for culture and education, will include the development of universities, theatres, opera houses and broadcasting.

The aim of the project, Tibertius says, is to give students from abroad "the opportunity to study here and see for themselves the tragic reality of the divided city, the place where the battle is waged between East and West, between slavery and freedom."

Mayor Willy Brandt has given his support.

"As West Berlin can no longer be a show-window for my fellow countrymen in the East," he says, "it must be made a show-window of our will to survive."

ECONOMIC LINK

The cultural program will be linked with plans to stimulate the city's economy. Together, it is hoped, they will give the city a new sense of purpose and encourage West Berliners to remain.

With border tension abating, the exodus of West Berliners to West Germany already has slowed to a trickle.

Other plans under consideration include establishment of a "pedagogic centre" to attract education students and improved conditions for teachers, scientists and artists.

West Berlin's 10 theatres in the newly opened Deutsche Oper Berlin will receive higher subsidies to lure actors and singers of a greater calibre and stage better plays. Another theatre is being built.

SAWYERVILLE —

Mr. and Mrs. Orlay Olsson and family were Christmas guests of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Provis, at Lennoxville.

Miss Ina Cummings, of Montreal, is spending the holidays at her home here.

Mr. James Bailey, of Finch, Ont., spent the holiday weekend with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Bailey. Mrs. Margaret Bailey is spending the winter with Mr. and Mrs. Bailey.

Mr. Marvin Williams from the University of New Brunswick, Fredericton, is spending the holidays with Mr. and Mrs. Francis Williams.

Mr. and Mrs. Alden Learned and family and Mr. Arthur Learned, of Cookshire, spent Christmas Day with Mr. and Mrs. Harry French.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Berwick, Mr. George Berwick, and Miss Dorothy Berwick spent Christmas Day with Mr. and Mrs. Clinton French, at Flanders.

Mr. and Mrs. Ova Jespersen and family, of Hamilton, Ont., spent a few days with Mr. and Mrs. Peter Jespersen.

Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Noble, of Barrie, Ont., are guests of Mrs. Thelma Noble.

A BABY'S CURIOSITY — Sherbrooke's New Year's baby may not take as much interest in the surroundings at first as this baby does. However, it won't be long until Sherbrooke's first 1962 baby is examining its shoes and all the wonderful gifts it will receive from Sherbrooke merchants.

A veritable shower of gifts awaits the first baby born in a Sherbrooke Hospital in 1962.

Merchants of Sherbrooke have for several years now feted Sherbrooke's "first" with a variety of articles from baby blankets to milk strips to silver cups.

The lucky baby last year was a 9 pound 4 ounce baby girl born to Mrs. Luc Corbin, 113 10th Avenue North in Sherbrooke. The first baby was born at 12:50 a.m. January 1.

And, as most of her predecessors, she arrived at the Hotel Dieu Hospital. In the last 14 years 13 New Year's babies have chosen this hospital. The exception was the St. Vincent de Paul Hospital in 1955.

The friendly rivalry be-

Enjoy Skiing

By ANNE HEGGVEIT

Very young children cannot be told how to ski; they must be shown. The technical terminology of skiing is far over a youngster's head.

When a child is interested in something he will do his best to learn it or copy it. The parents can do so much to make the first few days on skis fun, and not an ordeal. When there are complaints of tiredness, cold hands or feet, take the child's skis off immediately and relax in the lodge or your home over a cup of hot milk or chocolate. The child who is pushed in this sport can lose interest very quickly.

The first demonstration should be how to hold the poles correctly, then how to navigate on the flat. The backyard is the perfect place. If the child seems to lose interest, stop and build a snowman. Forget about skiing for a while. Kick turns, climbing up a hill by side-stepping and the herring-bone are fundamentals, which should come before showing the child how to turn. At the same time let him get the feeling of sliding down a gentle slope. My first slide, I still remember vividly. Mom or dad would be there to catch me. On bigger hills my father would grasp me by the forearms just in front of the elbows and let me ride between his skis. In this position, the parent can easily correct the child's balance and teach him to stay over his skis at all times. (See illustration.) A parent should watch for signs of competitive temperament even at the early age of four. In my case this showed up when we used to leave the parking lot for the ski club. I always tried to reach the lodge before my mother, father and brother. It seemed like a real game and I enjoyed it. (TNS)

Bisons rally to post 6-4 win last night

BUFFALO (AP) — Buffalo Bisons saw a three-goal lead disappear, then come back to defeat Rochester Americans 6-4 Wednesday night in an American Hockey League game.

Cliff Schmutz scored the winning goal in the final three minutes and Chico Maki added an insurance goal into an empty net. Other Buffalo goals went to Aut Erickson, Barry Cullen, Dave Creighton and Brian Cullen.

Rochester goals were scored by Jim Pappin, two, and Dick Gamble and Gerry Ehman one each.

Queens to meet Michigan for hockey title

BOSTON (AP) — Queens University of Kingston, Ont., defeated Boston University 5-3 Wednesday night and earned the right to meet Michigan State Friday night for the 10th annual Boston Arena Invitational Christmas Hockey Tournament.

Queens extended a streak of seven games without defeat—five wins and two ties.

Queens starting line accounted for most of the havoc, with two goals by Bob Carnegie, Bob Redmond and Howie Green each scored one.

Boston University's Dave Mahoney accounted for two of the loser's tallies.

OHA has two leaders in scoring race

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series has two leaders in the scoring parade this week.

Pit Martin of Hamilton Red Wings is the league's top goal-scorer with 26 in 23 games along with 23 assists for 49 points. Montreal Junior Canadiens' Andre Boudrias has 18 goals in 24 games and a league-leading 31 assists for a share of first place.

Official statistics including Tuesday's game show Hamilton's Lowell Macdonald of Thornburn, N.S., holds third spot with 44 points on 22 goals and 22 assists, four more than Norm Dennis of Canadiens who has scored 14 goals.

Red Wings and Bears complete player trade

DETROIT (AP) — Detroit Red Wings of the National Hockey League and Hershey Bears of the American League have announced a straight player swap.

Wings obtained left winger Claude LaForge, 25, in exchange for right winger Al Johnson, 26.

LaForge will report to the Wings here in time for tonight's NHL game with Chicago Black Hawks. He will be making his third appearance with Wings. LaForge has scored 12 goals and 13 assists in 30 games for Hershey this year.

Johnson collected five goals and six assists this year with Detroit.

Boils knock giant Vasko to sidelines

CHICAGO (AP) — An epidemic of boils continues to plague Chicago Black Hawks of the National Hockey League.

Elmer Moose Vasko, giant defenceman, is the latest victim. Vasko was taken off the train Tuesday night and taken to hospital with a serious case of boils.

Club officials said Wayne Hillman was recalled from Buffalo Bisons of the American League to replace Vasko.

Vasko is the fourth Hawk to suffer from boils in the last few weeks. Others were centres Stan Mikita and Red Hay and defenceman Bob Turner.

Dupas jabs out decision over Virgil Akins

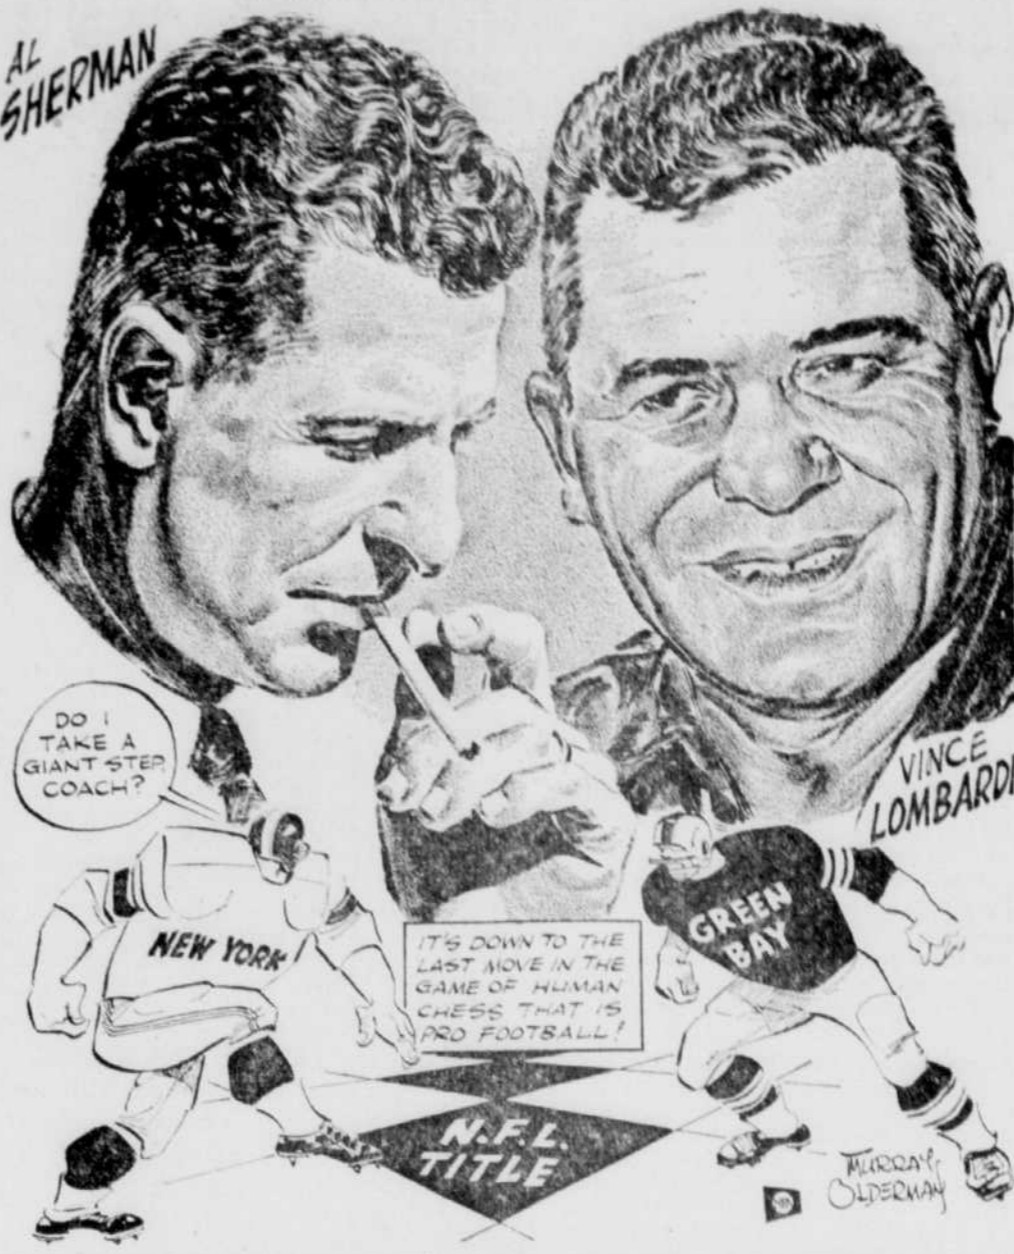

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Ralph Dupas is gleeful over the prospect of a New York television fight on the strength of his workmanlike, unanimous decision over Virgil Akins.

The New Orleans welterweight said after beating Akins Wednesday night that he had been promised a televised match with Gaspard Ortega Jan. 6 if he fought well against his veteran St. Louis opponent.

Dupas hooked and jabbed effectively at Akins during most of their 10-round bout before 3,086 spectators at Miami Beach Auditorium.

Dupas opened a cut over Akins' left eye and also had him bleeding from the mouth in the fourth round. The crowd was standing at the slugging windup. There were no knockdowns.

FINAL CEREBRATION

Giants plan no new strategy for Sunday

NEW YORK (AP) — What special preparations does a team make before playing in a National Football League championship game?

Allie Sherman, coach of New York Giants who meet Green Bay Packers this Sunday in Green Bay for the NFL title, says the only difference is the amount of time a team has to get ready.

"This is the third time we're going to play Green Bay this year and we are getting ready the best way we know how," he said Wednesday before sending the Giants out for their second-last full-scale drill at Yankee Stadium.

"You know, many people think that when you get in a little game the whole system must change, that you come out an entirely different team."

"Well, I'll tell you right now that we don't plan to unveil any new offence. We are going to go with what we have for that is what we know best. The success comes from execution and that is what we are stressing."

Sherman indicated he probably will go with the same lineup that finished the season, which would put NFL rookie

Packers and Giants evenly matched, individual performance may decide outcome, CBC to carry game over TV

GREEN BAY, Wis. (AP) — New York Giants and Green Bay Packers, set to collide here Sunday for the National Football League title, are about as closely matched as possible.

The last time the clubs met the decision was the result of individual effort. The victory went to the Packers and the nod for the big personal performance went to Jesse Whitenton, a six-foot, 190-pound defensive backfielder.

Whitenton gave the Packers the edge over the Giants in their Dec. 3 regular-season game in Milwaukee by grabbing the ball out of the hands of New York backfielder Alex Webster to set up Green Bay's deciding touchdown in a 20-17 victory.

The Packers won the Western Division title with an 11-3 win-loss record, scoring 391 points while holding their opponents to 223. New York won the Eastern Conference crown with a 10-3-1 record, scoring 368 points and giving up 220.

LEAD LEAGUE

Green Bay led the league in the regular season on points scored and New York was second. The Giants permitted the fewest points and the Packers were second.

The Milwaukee game saw the scoring pendulum swing from side to side. The first six times the ball changed hands, five scores were produced, two touchdowns by New York and two field goals and a touchdown by Green Bay.

The Giants added a field goal just before the end of the first half and it remained for the

Stan Benham returns to bobsled team

LAKE PLACID, N.Y. (AP) — Stan Benham, who announced his retirement after last February's world bobsled championships, has changed his mind and will lead the United States in a bid for a world title next month at Germany's Garmisch-Partenkirchen run.

"They told me there was no one else around who could do the job, so I figured that maybe I could help," Benham said Wednesday.

He will pilot the No. 1 two and four-man U.S. sleds in the competition.

At the bobsled run at nearby Mount Van Hoevenberg, last year, Benham finished second to world champion Eugenio Monti of Italy in the four-man competition.

Benham 40, said Chuck Pandolph of Saranac Lake, N.Y., will be his brakeman on both sleds. The other U.S. two-man sled will be driven by Gary Sheffield of Lake Placid and Gerry Tennant of Princeton, W.Va.

The other U.S. four-man team will comprise army personnel stationed in Europe.

Miami Beach, Fla. — Ralph Dupas, 148½, New Orleans, out-pointed Virgil Akins, 147½, St. Louis, 10.

The Eastern Townships Intermediate Hockey League resumes action this evening following a Christmas layoff. Sherbrooke Beavers travel to Granby to clash with the Vics while Montreal Olympics pay a visit to Drummondville.

The Montreal-Drummondville tilt is one which was switched earlier in the season when the Rockets played in Montreal when the Maurice Richard Arena was opened. Two positions should be determined this evening, third and fourth, by the outcome of the games.

These games will close out the 1961 half of the season as the league will resume only next Thursday taking the New Year's weekend off.

The Beavers will have only one game left to play in Granby following tonight's tilt and they will be out to avenge the defeat they suffered at the hands of the Olympics in their last game.

Hometown fans will remember that the Rockets romped to a 10-4 victory the last time that the Montreal team came to town.

Lou Poliquin, the coach, has made some changes in the Drummondville lineup, the most noticeable being the addition of Gaston Desy who played for the Sherbrooke Beavers before he was released.

The Olympics, on the other hand have a much better balanced club, and have been holding practices throughout the holiday season. It is possible that Georges James will be back in the lineup while they try to take advantage of this defenseman Claude St-Vincent, who is suffering from torn leg ligaments, is still doubtful.

Don Rogers may reach an agreement with the Beavers, holding practices throughout the holiday season. It is possible that Georges James will be back in the lineup while they try to take advantage of this defenseman Claude St-Vincent, who is suffering from torn leg ligaments, is still doubtful.

Aces host to Jets while Braves play Miners in tonight's action

Two games are on tap this evening in the St. Francis Valley Intermediate Hockey League. Rock Island Jets will travel to Magog to take on the Aces while Asbestos Miners will play host to the league-leading Richmond Braves.

Magog will be playing at home for the first time when they meet the Jets. The Aces are in last place in the league standings but this could be due to the fact that they have played only their games on the road. The Jets will not be an easy team to beat as they proved when they recently beat the Sherbrooke Beavers who are of intermediate "A" calibre. However, the cheers of hometown fans are bound to make a difference and a real battle should be witnessed in tonight's game.

In other action tonight Richmond travels to Asbestos which could see the Braves dislodged from the top of the league standings. The Miners are but one point behind the Richmond team and a victory for them would put them in first place.

Asbestos have shown the best offensive power of the league so far this year, having netted 34 goals in six games. This represents about six goals a game.

Rose Bowl leads field in big weekend of U.S. college football bowl action

NEW YORK (CP) — Canadians clustered around television sets for the Rose Bowl game, the biggest of the U.S. college post-season classics, may see a battle similar to the one Winnipeg and Hamilton recently staged for the Grey Cup.

Both Minnesota and UCLA rely mainly on a crunching ground attack—similar to the one that defeated both Hamilton's Tiger-Cats and Winnipeg's Blue Bombers in Canada's pro football championship clash this year.

But don't put the pass right out of the picture. Minnesota quarterback Sandy Stephens, an all-American, can throw on the option play as well as gallop. And although the University of California at Los Angeles also prefers to stick to the ground, it can go to the air if Minnesota's hard-to-move line needs loosening up.

Prospects are for a tight battle. The UCLA line is rated about as rugged as Minnesota's. The Rose Bowl contest at Pasadena, Calif., is one of seven top U.S. football clashes scheduled for the New Year's weekend. It will be the only one televised in Canada. The CBC will carry it starting with the 5 p.m. EST kickoff.

Three other bowl contests are set for Jan. 1—the Sugar, Cotton and Orange bowls.

Two all-star games and the Gator Bowl are to be played Saturday, ushering in the big football weekend.

Alabama, the Associated Press pick as the best college team in the United States, meets Arkansas in the Sugar Bowl at New Orleans.

The Cotton Bowl at Dallas, Tex., bringing together Mississippi and Texas, figures to be the closest contest. Both teams finished their seasons with 9-1 records.

The Orange Bowl clash at Miami, Fla., features Louisiana State University and Colorado. LSU is favored.

In Saturday's Gator Bowl at Jacksonville, Fla., Georgia Tech takes its strong ground attack and burly defensive line against Pennsylvania State. Penn also is likely to stay on the ground.

Some of the best college players will be featured in the two all-star games Saturday.

The East-West game at San Francisco boasts all-Americans Ernie Davis of Syracuse and Bob Ferguson of Ohio State to lead the east's backfield. Roman Gabriel of North Carolina State and Ron Miller of Wisconsin, two of the top college quarterbacks, will be masterminding things.

John Hadl of Kansas, an all-American quarterback, will be calling plays for the west. Texas Christian and Buddy Iles, another all-American, is expected to be the target for some Hadl tosses.

Rod Laver and Roy Emerson, after routing Italy, now await offer from Jack Kramer to join professionals

MELBOURNE (AP) — Australians Rod Laver and Roy Emerson completed a 5-0 rout of Italy in the Davis Cup challenge round today, then settled back to await professional offers from tennis promoter Jack Kramer.

Both are reported interested in joining the Kramer troupe for a swing through Australia beginning next month. Although Kramer hasn't spoken, he is expected to offer the two young Australians contracts similar to those accepted by Americans Butch Buchholz and Barry MacKay after Davis Cup competition last year. They were guaranteed about $30,000 for three years with the Kramer barnstormers.

Jacques Plante outstanding as Canadiens shutout Rangers 3-0

Masked marvel is reason why club is on top of loop, says Coach Blake, 15,925 on hand at Gardens for game

NEW YORK (AP) — Jacques Plante, Montreal Canadiens masked goalie, wrote another chapter in his netminding magic against New York Rangers Wednesday night when Canadiens blanked Rangers 3-0 in a National Hockey League game.

Rangers haven't beaten Plante the last 16 times they have faced him. They whipped Canadiens twice last season, both times with Charlie Hodge in the Montreal nets.

Bob Rousseau, Ralph Backstrom and Gil Tremblay scored for the league leading Canadiens. That was more than Plante needed.

Aided by a strong defence, he turned away every New York threat while a capacity Madison Square Garden crowd of 15,925 moaned. He had plenty of work. Rangers swarmed around the Montreal goal most of the game but never could break through.

The defeat snapped a three-game Ranger winning streak during which they had scored 19 goals. Time and again Rangers had good shots at Plante but he handled everything tossed his way. He stopped a sizzler by Ted Hampson with his shoulder and bent over in pain for 30 seconds after the block.

CAN'T CAPITALIZE

Rangers never had a player in front of the goal to take the rebounds when Plante blocked but couldn't smother and that hurt.

Rousseau scored at 2:04 of the second period when he skipped past the Ranger defence after taking a pass from J.C. Tremblay. He flicked the puck past Ranger goalie Lorne (Gump) Worsley.

At 10:02, Backstrom came out of a scramble in front of the Ranger goal and snapped the puck past Worsley. Bill Hicke and J.C. Tremblay got assists. Gilles Tremblay notched the final Montreal goal at 17:11 of the third period, skating in from the side after taking relays from Hicke and Jean-Guy Talbot.

Canadiens played without two of their mainstays, Boom Boom Geoffrion and Henri Richard, both out with injuries.

GUMP DESERTED

If it had not been for some fine work by Worsley Canadiens would have run up the score even higher. He was deserted by his defence many times and left to shift for himself. He had 27 stops to Plante's 24.

Rangers had the territorial edge all the way, except for the waning minutes of the third period. They buzzed around the Montreal goal but even on power plays they couldn't click.

J. C. Tremblay was knocked almost unconscious in front of the Montreal bench in the first period when Andy Bathgate threw a mighty check at him. He was on the ice for two minutes but he was only shaken up and 10 minutes later was operating at full strength again.

Johnny Bower and Glen Hall come up with fine jobs as teams are held to scoreless tie, Shack, Vasko out

TORONTO (CP) — Chicago Black Hawks and Toronto Maple Leafs played to a scoreless National Hockey League tie Wednesday night in a game that started off much in the manner of a gang war and ended on a tame and harmless note.

The one point gained by Hawks broke a fourth-place deadlock with the idle Detroit Red Wings. The second-place Leafs lost ground on Montreal Canadiens who shut out New York Rangers 3-0 at New York to put them five points up on Toronto in the leadership race.

Sophomore Dave Keon of Leafs missed a big chance for the hero's role with about two minutes remaining in the game when he broke in the clear with five Hawks down the ice. He had Glenn Hall at his mercy but the Hawk goalkeeper dropped to the ice in the last instant to make a one-handed grab of the puck right on the goal line.

The shutout was the third of the season for Hall and the second for Johnny Bower in the Toronto nets, and each made 30 stops.

LOOK FOR BLOOD

The teams went at each other from the opening face-off and for a while the crowd of 13,644 figured it would be a blood-letting night as the players did just about everything but dump each other into the box seats. Seven penalties were handed out by referee Dalton McCarthy in the first 20 minutes, but things quickly settled down and only three were called in the second session and none in the third.

This was the first NHL scoreless tie since Dec. 28, 1957, when Boston Bruins met the Hawks at Chicago. And it was the first scoreless game in Toronto since Dec. 4 that year in a match involving the Canadiens.

HAD TO BE GOOD

Both goalkeepers had to be spectacular at times to post their goose-eggs. In the opening period Bower did all sorts of contortions to hold out the Hawks who outshot Leafs 10-4. Hall made 10 saves in the second period against 12 for Bower and in the last 20 minutes the Leafs, with centre Red Kelly sparking the drives, peppered 16 at Hall while Bower got in front of only half that number.

The big play, however, was made by Hall on Keon's break-away. He cut in on Hall's left side and let go as he crossed in front of the net but the wily Chicago netminder sprawled to the ice and closed a small opening to grab the puck.

Kelly, Frank Mahovlich and defenceman Carl Brewer of the Leafs drove in for dead-end shots and for the Hawks, Bobby Hull, Stan Mikita and Ab McDonald whistled drives at Bower that seemed almost impossible to save.

Toronto played without winger Eddie Shack, out with torn knee ligaments and big Elmer (Moose) Vasko of the Hawks didn't make the trip to Toronto. He was stricken on the train en route with an attack of boils and returned to Chicago.

NHL STARS

Goalkeeper Jacques Plante of Montreal, who blocked 24 shots to lead Canadiens to a 3-0 shut-out win over New York Rangers.

'Jam Can' curling boon to youngsters

Curling is a game for all ages—including the small fry. Children as young as eight can learn the rudiments of the game, thanks to "Jam Can" curling which is easy to set up and can be enjoyed in any neighborhood.

It was on a mild March morning back in 1936 that the writer, fresh from a trip to Toronto and the first Brier triumph for his rink of sliding schoolmasters, returned to his classroom in Winnipeg to find to his utter dismay that the students had defaced almost all of the new desks in the room with chalk marks. Closer examination and a few discreet inquiries revealed that the kids excited by the good for tunes of dear teacher on the ice had tried to capture some of the excitement for themselves in his absence by chalking circles on the tops of the desks, then with pennies as curling rocks they had themselves a bonspiel. The ingenuity of the young'uns was a bit surprising, for to my knowledge curling was a game they had never witnessed. At the time it was still pretty well grandpa's prerogative.

Today dinner talk in curling season includes Bill and Mary who go to high school as well as Mother and Dad. But the chatter is now rubbing off on the small fry who are lately being inducted to the rites of the fraternity through the medium of Jam Can Curling.

During the past few winters dozens of letters have reached my desk asking for the rules, regulations, dimensions and equipment required for Jam Can play on ice. So here and now for communities interested in setting up this exciting outdoor game for the small fry let me pass on the specifications as forwarded by Principal H. G. R. Walker of Lakeview School, Regina, in which city to the best of my knowledge this intriguing miniature of the roaring game originated.

1. Age group—Grades 3 to 6 or ages 8 to 11. Stop there

2. Preparation of ice—Scrape snow to ground level then flood. One sheet of ice is 45 ft. long and 8 ft. wide. In Regina Principal Walker wisely delegated older students to make and maintain the ice for the kids in the lower grades.

3. Rings—Scratch into ice surface with 2½ inch nails driven through a 2"x4" board and rotated. (See diagram for dimensions).

4. Jam tins—4-pound tins. Round out bottom of empty can by pounding bottom (from inside) with a baseball bat so that it will ride down the ice more easily. Then pour fresh cement into jam pail until within an inch of the top.

5. Handles—Use 6 to 8 inch iron spikes. After bending insert when cement is soft and let cement harden, it is possible to play without handles. Kids can grasp top of pail with thumb and forefinger as long as tins are not filled too full.

6. Rules—Same as those governing adult curling.

7. Hacks—Don't bother snow bank or barrier at end of sheet of ice is sufficient.

8. Brooms—Any old broom will do—housebrooms and whisks included.

The diagram shows standard specifications for the rink.

Dave Bassett advances in squash tourney

TORONTO (CP) — Two Torontonians, a Montrealeur and an entry from Fredericton reached the semi-finals of the Toronto and district junior (under 20) squash racquets championships Wednesday.

Dave Bassett of the University of New Brunswick, who is favored for the title, advanced by default route over Ian Lind of Toronto. Bassett was Canadian junior champion in 1959.

Montreal's Dave Scarrlett handily defeated Terry Whelpton of Toronto 15-3, 15-1, 15-8.

Toughest match of the day was the victory of Doug Tilley of Toronto, who was forced to four games before defeating Harry Fauquier, former Canadian junior tennis champion, 15-10, 16-17, 15-11, 18-16.

Ring injuries take eight in 1961 season

NEW YORK (AP) — Eight boxers—five professionals and three amateurs—died of ring injuries around the world in 1961. Ring magazine says in a copyright article.

Of the eight deaths, four occurred in the United States. There were single deaths in Venezuela, Mexico, Australia and Italy.

Buckaroos finding trip through Prairies tough

Portland Buckaroos are finding a wintertime swing through the Canadian Prairies a frigid and frustrating affair.

The defending Western League champions dropped their second straight game Wednesday night, bowing 6-3 to Calgary Stampede.

In the league's only other action, St. Francisco Seals beat Spokane Comets 4-2.

All teams are idle tonight and the Bucks are hoping the day of rest after three days of travel will restore the form that has kept them on top of the Southern Division. Veteran Gordie Vejeprava got Calgary off to a good start with a pair of goals in the first period. He added a third to close out the scoring.

Other Stampeder goals went to Doug Barkley, Ron Leopold and Bert Fizzell. Art Jones, Jack Bionda and Doug Macauley shared the Portland scoring.

TEAMS TIED

The win sent the Stamps into a second-place tie in the Northern Division with Seattle Totems. They have 33 points apiece, nine behind Edmonton Flyers. The Seals, who blew a 4-1 lead and lost 7-6 overtime decision to Spokane Tuesday night, stiffened their defences at San Francisco Wednesday night.

The Seals in last place in the Southern Division, took an early 2-0 lead and saw it disappear before driving back for two more goals.

Bob Solinger, Nick Mickoski, Buddy Boone and Harry Pichirry handled the San Francisco scoring. Gene Mekilok and Bev Bell scored for the Comets, in second spot in the southern circuit. The rugged battle was featured by a melee in the second period. Six players pushed and shoved each other. Colin Kilburn of Spokane drew a 10-minute misconduct penalty for remarks to linesman Ralph Nattress.

N H L LEADERS

Standings: Montreal, won 19, lost 7, tied 8, points 46.
Points: Bathgate, New York, 46.
Goals: Provost, Montreal, 20.
Assists: Bathgate, 33.
Shut out: Sawchuk, Detroit, 4.
