

THE WEATHER

A cold front was to have passed through the Townships sometime this morning, bringing with it showers and thundershowers. Passage of the front will be accompanied by a rapid drop in temperature, followed by gradual clearing tonight and overnight with a high today of 22 to 24, an overnight low of 8 to 10. Tomorrow's high of 12 to 15 will be accompanied by sun with cloudy periods and plenty of wind from the northwest. The long-range forecast for Wednesday, Thursday and Friday is for sun, wind and temperatures below normal all three days.

Bus crash claims 11 seniors

ST. HYACINTHE, Que. (CP) — Quebec's third major bus tragedy in less than a year has claimed the lives of 11 elderly persons.

Their chartered bus slid off a long, wet curve of the Trans-Canada Highway on Saturday and slammed into a concrete overpass near this city, about 60 kilometres east of Montreal.

The bus was carrying 49 members of a golden age club home from an evening of harness racing.

The accident left four of 39 survivors in hospital with injuries.

The senior citizens, all belonging to a club in nearby Victoriaville, Que., had chartered the bus for an outing to Montreal's Blue Bonnets Raceway.

CHECK FOR DEFECTS

Quebec transport department investigators and provincial police are checking the 1966 General Motors bus for mechanical defects and preparing evidence for a coroner's inquiry.

In Canada's worst highway accident, 40 persons, mainly physically or mentally handicapped, died Aug. 4, 1978, months ago when the brakes of a chartered bus failed on a steep hill and it plunged into a lake near Eastman, Que.

The owner of the Eastman bus, Gilles Bolduc, is awaiting trial on charges of criminal negligence after a coroner concluded the vehicle had not been properly maintained.

Less than a week later, another crash in St. Sauveur, north of Montreal, killed three schoolchildren and injured a number of others on their way home from a day in the country.

A report commissioned by Quebec Transport Minister Lucien Lessard after the accidents found 2,500 buses on Quebec's road unfit.

Police said indications are that bad luck and bad weather were to blame for the latest crash.

DRIVER SURVIVES

Bus driver Jacques Sauvageau, 42, who remains alive, apparently lost control of the bus when it entered the curve, travelling in the right-hand lane and under the speed limit of 100 kilometres an hour.

"The bus started hydroplaning and there was nothing the driver could do but brake," police spokesman Ronald Brunet said.

"It had been raining since about dinner time, and the highway was slippery."

The bus displayed a certificate indicating the vehicle underwent mechanical inspection and was found in good condition four days before the crash.

A 43-year-old East Angus man lost his life Saturday evening as he was walking across Route 112 in front of Auberge Royale, the area's lone highway fatality.

Fernand Laramée was killed instantly at 8:20 p.m. when he was struck by an automobile near the centre of the road. An earlier car barely missed the man at the brink of the hill at dusk but the second vehicle, travelling in the opposite direction, couldn't avoid the pedestrian in time.

Elsewhere, Sherbrooke Police reported eight people received minor injuries since Friday evening in five accidents within city limits. Numerous other accidents also occurred, as well as a couple of arrests for drunkenness.

A survey by The Canadian Press from 6 p.m. Friday to midnight Sunday night local times showed 51 traffic deaths, seven drownings, one death in a crash of a light airplane and one person killed when struck by lightning.

Cookshire bakers display their baking talents at the sixth Annual Cookshire Bread Festival. Over 20,000 attended the two-day event on the weekend. Visiting photographers were given ample opportunity to get a shot of the 'bread man' at right, and visitors' taste buds were overwhelmed, no doubt by masterpieces such as those pictured directly above.

COOKSHIRE RISES TO HOST FESTIVAL

By NELSON WYATT

COOKSHIRE — Nobody was loafing here this weekend as over 20,000 people rolled into town to take part in the sixth annual Bread Festival. With Quebec Police Force (QPF) agents and private security officers guiding the steady stream of traffic down the main street to a suitable parking spot, the festival basked in two fun-filled days of about 80 degree temperatures.

Guilford Robinson of Magog, told The Record that he's been a dedicated Festival goer since the first year. "It's amazing what they manage to do every year," he said, "and well worth coming to." He went on to point out that the Festival was "great" and that sales of toast and maple syrup "were going strong."

A rousing parade kicked off the festivities on Saturday night with four bands and majorettes, several horse drawn floats and 25 antique cars leading the way. From there, it was on to the unveiling of the giant bread and an outside dance, to the music of the Arcancon Orchestra.

Sunday also provided something for everyone with wheelbarrow races, skeet shooting and horseshoe pitching to entertain the crowds while the Bread Festival's Rue des Artisans gave them a place to spend their dough if they so chose. However the fun didn't stop there and theatre, music and large supplies of French toast and freshly baked bread — baked right before your eyes — were on hand.

One of the star attractions, was a crusty-looking gent attired as a giant loaf of bread. A must for shut-terbugs, he never appeared flaky but was always ready with a floury comment.

A flour-blowing contest was another main event, as was the provincial bread slicing tournament. Last year's champ, Marie Geoffroy was out to defend her title but lost this year to another adept blade, that belonging to Armand Geoffroy.

The organizers of the event, which began as a tourist attraction, beamed in the success of the two day long festival and saw their

Oil sands: Choice is bleak

EDMONTON (CP) — An oil company executive presented Canadian governments with a stark choice today — abandon hope of getting large tax revenues from oil sands development or give up the struggle for energy self-sufficiency.

Massive oil sands projects need financial incentives, said R. J. Giguere, manager of new energy resources for Amoco Canada Petroleum Co. Ltd., in a paper presented to the United Nations conference on heavy oil and oil sands.

"Oil sand production cannot be regarded in the same way that conventional oil production is viewed as a prime source of government revenue."

"This may not be as palatable politically in the short run but the alternate, a country bankrupt or fully dependent on imported energy, is more undesirable in the long run."

One major problem, he said, is that the thick, mineral-rich oil from oil sands or heavy oil deposits needs special treatment before it is suitable for refining.

EXPECT LESS REVENUE
"Government should not expect as much revenue per barrel produced from oil sands as that produced from conventional oil."

"Nature did not give the oil sands the same virtues as conventional oil. It is simply going to take time, energy and money to give the oil sands what nature did not."

He said it costs $2 a barrel just for the fuel used to raise the temperature of extremely heavy oil to the point where it flows like conventional light oil.

"The $2 figure represents fuel only. It does not begin to cover the cost of the investment or a return on the investment required to generate this heat and effectively deliver it to the oil sands."

Speak French, Scowen tells English

REED SCOWEN... reflections on the future

The Quebec Language law "violates history" by denying a right that English Quebecers have acquired to use and receive services in their own language, says Reed Scowen.

But the Liberal MNA for Notre Dame de Grace warns that the English must speak some French if they wish to live full lives in the province.

In a 55-page document entitled Reflections on the Future of the English Language in Quebec, Mr. Scowen emphasizes as well the need for Quebec anglophones to recognize the primacy of the French language in Quebec.

He presented his report to the public yesterday at a news conference at Liberal party headquarters.

He stressed that it reflects "a personal point of view" and is not intended to represent Liberal party thinking. Two English-speaking Liberal MNAs had differing reactions to the report, George Springate criticizing it and Harry Blank praising it.

Mr. Scowen said he will turn the document over to the political commission of the Liberal party, so that it may consider the possibility of setting up "... a policy for the party on the future of the English language in Quebec."

Central to the report is his argument that "the English language is a useful and enriching asset for the whole collectivity (Quebec). In some fields, notably economic and technological, it is a 'lingua franca' which facilitates communication on a world-wide basis."

At the same time, Mr. Scowen points out in his summary of the study "... the future of the English language in Quebec cannot be made secure unless those who use it are able to believe that it must always remain the second language, and act on the basis of that belief ... English Quebecers ... must accept, in some sense, a part of the responsibility for ensuring the health of French as our first language."

The former executive director of the Pepin-Robarts Commission on National Unity writes that Quebec's 900,000 anglophones have three choices now in French: assimilation, exodus or some form of resistance.

"Most have chosen to 'remain and resist assimilation.'"

Mr. Scowen terms the language

European vote reflects swing to right

BRUSSELS (AP) — Christian Democrats and Socialists were running neck and neck today in returns that showed a swing to the right in the election of the first European Parliament chosen by direct vote of the people.

On the basis of almost final results from six of the members of the European Economic Community and computer projections for Britain, Ireland and the Netherlands, which complete their tallies today, the big gainer was the conservative bloc. The Socialists had sharp losses and the Communists slight gains.

The Christian Democrats or the Socialists may emerge as the largest single bloc in the new Parliament with the Conservatives placing a strong third and the Communists fourth. No single faction will get a majority.

The returns also indicated support for the concept of European unity. Followers of the late President Charles de Gaulle in France and the Labor party in Britain, two groups in which opposition to European unification is strong, suffered sharp losses.

Voter turnout in the five states where voting took place Sunday — West Germany, Italy, France, Luxembourg and Belgium — was far higher than in Britain, Ireland, the Netherlands and Denmark, which began the world's first multinational balloting on Thursday.

More than 90 per cent of the voters turned out in Belgium and Luxembourg, where voting is compulsory. The turnout in Italy was 85.9 per cent, down from the 89.9 per cent who voted in that state's national elections June 3-4. It was 66.5 per cent in West Germany and more than 62 per cent in France.

The initial showing Thursday ranged from a low of 32.1 per cent in Britain to about 58 per cent in Ireland and the Netherlands and just less than 50 per cent in Denmark.

PEI Acadians call for more French schooling

CHARLOTTETOWN, P.E.I. (CP) — The Acadians of Prince Edward Island celebrated the 60th anniversary of their association, the Societe St. Thomas d'Aquin, during the weekend with a call for more

French-language education. Rev. Pierre Arsenault, who stepped down as society president, said French-speaking Islanders were facing "the most serious challenge of our history," which was to preserve a cultural group with three centuries of tradition against assimilation by the English majority.

The society presented P.E.I. Premier Angus MacLean with a petition bearing 2,380 names, 70 per cent of them Acadian, asking for the right to education in French, a network of French schools and a separate French-language education department.

"It's the first generation of assimilated (Acadians) who are against more French in the school system," said Paul Gaudet, of Ste-Anne College in Pointe-a-l'Église, N.S.

French-speaking parents, he said, were even against increasing the number of courses given in French at the province's sole mainly-French school in Willington.

Forest sprayed despite protests

TORONTO (CP) — Despite protests from a women's group, the Ontario ministry of natural resources planned to spray 18,000 acres of forest north of Kirkland Lake, Ont., with an insecticide that a Newfoundland surgeon says has been linked with a fatal disease in young people.

Spraying with the insecticide Matalcil to kill the spruce budworm was to begin today 30 kilometres north of the town.

Carolanne Hunter, director of a drop-in house and advisory service for women in Kirkland Lake, said the spraying should be postponed until more is known about the chemicals.

Dr. William Thurlow, a surgeon from Gander, Nfld., said an ingredient in the insecticide, aminocarb, is as toxic as strychnine and is linked with Reye's syndrome, a fatal disease of the brain and liver in young people.

Thurlow said that Matalcil defeats its purpose because, in addition to attacking the budworm, it kills wasps, spiders and birds — natural predators of the budworm.

BREAD FESTIVAL

year's worth of organizing efforts bear obvious fruit. Though the heat of the day was oppressive, organizers reported that the only real problem they encountered was that some people chose not to take advantage of the spacious parking facilities offered and decided to park on nearby streets. Other than that, though, the weather and the events combined provided to make the sixth annual Cookshire Bread Festival a fun weekend for everyone.

Oh well, as they say — nothing says lovin' like something in the oven.

News Briefs

Kidnapper was lonesome

ST. CLOTHILDE, Que. (CP) — Police were searching late Sunday for a "lonesome" kidnapper whose efforts came to naught when he fell asleep in front of the woman he had just abducted from a holiday trailer near this town, about 30 kilometres south of Montreal.

Police said an armed man burst into the trailer where Monique Gingras, 26, and her husband were camping early Sunday morning.

CIA caring for defectors

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Two Soviet musicians who defected in Tokyo and flew to the United States were taken from their aircraft here and a CIA spokesman said: "They are under our care."

Except for a fleeting glimpse at San Francisco International Airport, it was not known today where the two Russians had gone in the United States.

The U.S. embassy in Tokyo said the two, members of the Leningrad Philharmonic Orchestra, were in love and planned for a year to seek asylum in the West.

West-coast longshoremen settle

VANCOUVER (CP) — Longshoremen at seven West Coast ports could be back on the job late this week following intensive negotiations that ended with a tentative contract settlement early Sunday.

The 3,500 longshoremen, whose week-long strike has halted vital shipments through major British Columbia ports, are to hold ratification votes by Thursday, union president Bob Peebles said Sunday. Meetings are to be held today, Tuesday and Wednesday.

Police seek girl's killers

MIDLAND, Ont. (CP) — A Penetanguishene, Ont., girl who died after being stabbed, run over by a car and beaten had been picked up by her killer a few minutes before she was to meet friends and return home, provincial police said Sunday.

Elizabeth Whelan, 14, was last seen walking along a Midland street Friday night at 11:45 p.m. She was to meet friends at midnight.

Her body was found by a passer-by at 4 a.m. Saturday under a stolen car on a country road six kilometres northeast of Midland. Police believe the killer or killers walked south from the area where the car was found.

legislation "in many respects a bad law" which will "strangle the English language community over time."

He proposes that Quebec anglophones draw up a "list of conditions for survival."

The key to such a list, he contends, is the maintenance of "institutions which could be used by those whose first language was English, regardless of their ethnic origin and which would also be accessible to those whose first language is French but who wish to make use of them (subject, of course, to such limitations on access to those institutions as the majority might impose)."

Proposing his own list, Mr. Scowen includes:

—A network of accessible English-language schools, CEGEPs and universities;

—A network of accessible English-language hospitals, doctors, health and social services;

—The opportunity to use the English language in the national assembly, the commissions related to it and in its tribunals;

—The possibility of communicating with the government in English;

—Access to jobs with the proviso that "a knowledge of the French language should be essential for those who work in Quebec;

—Access to English-language news media, entertainment and cultural institutions;

—A resolution of constitutional guarantees, both for their real value and for their symbolic effect.

This "survival list" should be implemented through such channels as voluntary groups and political parties, according to the report.

Voluntary groups like Positive Action, Participation Quebec and the Council of Minorities should act to bring Quebec anglophones together to present "a common front."

Political parties should be presented with suggestions such as his report contains, he says. Suggestions would be better made to the Liberal party of Quebec, which "still has this issue before it," than to the Parti Quebecois, which "appears to have settled the matter with the clear statement 'There is no further question of a bilingual Quebec.'"

Among Mr. Scowen's other proposals to his party:

—The English language be given the status of "a second official language";

—A greater English-language presence in the provincial civil service;

—The adoption of a general declaration on the status of the English language to serve as a basis for policy development;

—The establishment of a special subcommittee to develop, in consultation with all Quebecers, a policy for the party on the future of the English language in Quebec.

George Springate, MNA for Westmount, reacted to Mr. Scowen's study by saying he would like to see the status of English improved "rather than limiting" the rights of the community to a second official language, as proposed by Mr. Scowen.

"The common thread running through the study," Mr. Springate told radio station CJAD, "is that it is looking at minimum standards for English, and I don't think our rights should be limited."

But the MNA for St. Louis Harry Blank, described himself as "pleasantly surprised" by Mr. Scowen's study.

"It's a really good report on what the English can hope to have here in Quebec," he said.

"It says the community has certain rights and that they should be respected. It's really to the point."

Noting that the Scowen report suggests the English community needs to have its own educational and health institutions, Mr. Blank pointed out their internal communications must be in French rather than English under Bill 101.

These institutions must operate in English "in the true sense of the word," he said.

Crosbie mocks Jamieson return

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP) — A $15-million agreement has been signed to give this city the facilities it will need to grab a slice of the potentially-lucrative ship repair business, John Crosbie, the federal finance minister, said Sunday.

The agreement provides for installation by CN Marine Ltd. of a synchrolift at its drydock, a mandatory facility if the yard is to repair Canadian and foreign ships involved in the offshore fishery.

A crowd of 1,500 heard Crosbie describe Liberal leader Don Jamieson as "Ayatollah Jamieson Khomeini" who had come back to Newfoundland as the second choice after losing his cabinet job with the defeat of the federal Liberal government May 22.

"Now he has discovered... that the Shah went out in 1971. The Shah Smallwood is gone. We don't want another Shah here in Newfoundland."

Khomeini defends Islam message

TEHRAN (AP) — Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini, seeking to quell clashes between his Moslem followers and rival groups, said Sunday that Islam was the basis of the revolution that toppled the shah and not nationalism.

Khomeini, in a speech to government workers reported by the official Pars news agency, was quoted as saying: "In the pre-revolutionary and post-revolutionary period, everyone has endeavored for an Islamic cause."

Iranian couple flogged

TEHRAN (AP) — Three persons, including a man and woman accused of having "an illegitimate relationship," were whipped in the town square of the north Iranian city of Shahsavar on the Caspian Sea, the newspaper Ayandegan says. In addition to the flogging Sunday, the couple received 18-month prison terms, the newspaper reported. The third person was identified as a policeman, but it was not known why he was whipped.

Trident protesters busted

BANGOR, Wash. (AP) — Ten Canadian anti-nuclear protesters were charged with trespassing Sunday and booked into Bremerton city jail after scaling the fence at the Trident nuclear submarine base here.

They were later released with letters warning of a $500 fine, six months in jail or both if they enter the base again.

Killer wants to fry

BOWLING GREEN, Ky. (AP) — A 29-year-old Kentucky man, charged with two counts of murder in the December slayings of a young woman and her three-year-old son, has asked to die in the electric chair.

Sherrill Harston of Scottsville had his lawyer file pre-trial motions Friday in circuit court, changing his plea to guilty from not guilty, and asking for the death sentence.

Kentucky has four prisoners on death row. The state's last execution was in 1962.

Harston is charged in the deaths of Diane Marcum and her son Antony. State police said the boy died of a skull fracture or drowning and that his mother died of strangulation. Mrs. Marcum's body was found Jan. 4 on a bank of the Barren River. Her son's body was found a week later.

Shah, coterie move to Mexico

MEXICO CITY (AP) — The shah of Iran and his wife have moved to Mexico from the Bahamas. The deposed monarch says they will be here for several months.

Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi, Empress Farah and two boys in T-shirts and blue jeans arrived in Mexico City on Sunday with five aides, a Great Dane and a French poodle. They came in a jet belonging to a Mexican bank. One of the boys was believed to be a son of the royal couple.

Acid rain threatens forests

QUEBEC (CP) — Quebec's forests are threatened by a high concentration of acid in the rain that falls on much of the province, says one industrial researcher.

The rain, tainted by industrial air pollution from Ontario and the east-central United States, could be doing serious damage to the fertility of the province's soils, biologist Raymond Brouzes said during the weekend.

Alcan talks break off

CHICOUTIMI, Que. (CP) — Conciliation talks between negotiators for Alcan Aluminium Ltd. and 7,000 striking smelter workers broke off for the second time Sunday with no end to an 11-day work stoppage in sight.

After the breakdown, the company said in a statement that no date has been set for further talks and Jean Halle, president of the Federation of Aluminum Unions, denounced the day's negotiations as a "session of management hypocrisy."

'This Polish Pope' ends tour

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope John Paul II returned to the Vatican from Poland, leaving behind a groundswell of hope among Polish Catholics that his triumphant homecoming strengthened their church in its continuing battle with the Communist regime.

In an emotional close Sunday to the nine-day visit, one million or more Poles turned out for a farewell mass in a park in Krakow, the pontiff's former diocese.

B.C. helmet laws in quandary

VANCOUVER (CP) — A provincial court decision which ruled B.C.'s helmet laws invalid has left policemen in a quandary.

Bikers who took advantage of the ruling and hot weather to remove their helmets during the weekend found police in various cities were approaching the problem differently.

Police in Vancouver and the Fraser Valley didn't ticket bareheaded riders, but police in Victoria, Kelowna and Penticton did.

Prisoners suing government

EDMONTON (CP) — Sixteen prisoners are suing the provincial government for $1.6 million damages following a riot May 11 at the Fort Saskatchewan Correctional Institute.

The statement of claim, filed June 1, asks damages from Alberta Solicitor-General Graham Harle, jail director Terry Downie and the Crown.

Also named are John Smith and John Doe, pseudonyms for prison guards the convicts say assaulted prisoners at the jail.

School-board election polls open until 7 p.m.

By NELSON WYATT
SUTTON — Voters here go to the polls today to decide who will represent Ward five on the District of Bedford Regional School Board. Two candidates are contesting the seat, incumbent Norman de St. Croix and Renate Reindler, a local housewife.

Contacted late last week, de St. Croix told The Record that he is seeking renewal of his three-year mandate because he feels that "there is still a lot of work to be done." De St. Croix, who has worked with the bargaining unit negotiating the new teachers' contract and who was involved in presenting the views of anglophones on educational reform contained in the Green Paper on education, is a local businessman in Sutton and has two children in Sutton Elementary School.

The 38-year-old vice-chairman of the DBRSB said that at the present time he feels that among the most important concerns facing school board officials are the proper use of both human and material resources in the face of a declining school population. He added that the Adult Education program should also reach its full potential as many more people are taking advantage of it and "it has a great future".

The key, he said, is to provide a balanced and better program with innovative ideas to provide a quality education for the pupils.

Candidate Renate Reindler told the Record that the reason that she is seeking the school commissioner's post is because she feels that there is room for improvement in the present set-up and because she feels that the mother is more interested in a child's education because the woman of the house has more to do with the child's upbringing.

Mrs. Reindler, who has been involved with a private nursery school and has taught at a Montreal college, has two children, with the eldest entering elementary school in the fall. She says that her campaign has received "fantastic support from the people in Sutton" and she feels that she can provide a good liaison between the school board and the parents. Mrs. Reindler added that she also intends to work to keep area schools open in the face of declining enrollment.

The polls will be open until 7 p.m. tonight with voting taking place at the Sutton Elementary School on Highland Avenue.

Voters in Ward four of the Lennoxville District School Board will be going to the polls today to decide who will be representing them for the next three years as school commissioner on the LDSB.

Incumbent Jean Warnholtz will be squaring off against Magog Township resident John Castle for the post. Mrs. Warnholtz, the mother of seven children who have passed through the system "that I am presently serving" told The Record in a telephone interview that if re-elected, she will continue to do her best in her job but with renewed fervour after a show of support by the electors.

Having served on a number of school board committees including the Professional Improvement Committee, the French as a Second Language Committee and as chairperson of the Princess Elizabeth Elementary School Committee and as Vice-Chairperson of the Alexander Galt Regional High School Committee, Mrs. Warnholtz has lived in Magog for 27 years. She is also currently a director of a Youth Hostel that "seeks to serve the needs of both French and English youths and helps them to develop into well balanced citizens."

Saying that her experience is an asset, Mrs. Warnholtz said that she will continue to seek the solutions to the problems and issues that arise concerning education.

Mrs. Warnholtz added that so far the communication between her area and the board has been good and that she has established good relations with the schools and the teachers.

Her opponent, 48 year old Chartered Accountant John Castle has cited preservation of quality education in the light of declining enrollments and the allocation of Ministry of Education grants so that they can be used to their utmost as his main concerns during the campaign.

"People need assurance that all available funds are being obtained from the Ministry of Education," he said in a recent interview.

"This is especially necessary at a time when government rules for the roles of all school boards are changing and even the basis of taxation may be completely changed. People need to be informed and to be able to inform their school commissioner of their views so that they can be properly represented on those matters at school board meetings."

Castle said that he will endeavour to inform the electors in the Ward on problems, issues and choices in the matters at hand, where the tax dollars are being spent and will strive to preserve the quality of education for the children. He stressed that he is available for consultation and says that this is one of the ways to improve communication between electors and the school committees and the Board.

The father of two sons, Castle has served on the Galt School Committee, was Co-Chairman of the Galt-Richmond Parent Committee and was a member of the Joint Committee of Butters, Dixville and the ETRSB for special education for the mentally handicapped.

Voters can cast their ballots at the Princess Elizabeth Elementary School, the Georgeville Community Hall and the Austin Town Hall until seven p.m.

Cookshire pipe work approved

COOKSHIRE (NW) — Town Council agreed at their regular session to allow Canadian Pacific to install a drainage pipe under their railway tracks, and will defray the cost of the move by charging a rental fee for the use of the land.

MADemoiselle BOZO: Home is where the ham is.

From Little House by Katharine Snow

We noticed the raccoon at about ten o'clock the other morning. She had climbed into the big maple facing the lake just outside my "writing room" window.

Fascinated, my son and I watched her root about and finally settle her enormously fat and furry self in the lowest fork of the tree, just out of reach. As we watched, she noticed our movements at the wide window and fixed bright, black eyes on us for a few moments before burying her head deep in her soft fur and dozing off to sleep.

My son immediately raced off to the camera shop for a film and returning, camera ready, made his cautious way across our patio to get closer to the tree. The raccoon opened sharp little eyes and watched alertly every move of his approach, but she did not move nor show any undue sense of alarm. She allowed him to get within a few feet of her perch but exhibited some displeasure at the clicking sound of the picture being taken.

As the day progressed, we began to worry a bit about our friend. She seemed quite unafraid of us, in fact unaware of any danger at all and she showed no sign of moving.

About four o'clock in the afternoon, I was telling one of my neighbors about her visit. She said at once, "It must be Mr. Gaudet's pet. She probably got out of her cage." I immediately phoned Mr. Gaudet who lives across our road. He was greatly concerned. He told me that, indeed, he had a pet raccoon and asked me to stay on the line while he went to check the small tree house where Bozo was living in happy captivity. He returned to the phone to tell me that the cage was empty and that he would be over at once.

He arrived, armed with a long, looped belt of soft leather, a pair of heavy gloves and a good supply of Bozo's favorite foods, cooked ham and almonds. He told me that this raccoon had been his pet for nine years. He had found her as a baby and had built a large cage for her in one of his trees. She had, apparently, left her home only once before, about two years ago. Mr. Gaudet feeds her every evening around seven o'clock and although she might spend part of the afternoons roaming about the grounds, he told me that she always managed to be at home for dinner!

"Of course," he said with a smile, "now it is springtime for Bozo, as it is for everyone!"

All the time he was speaking to me, Bozo regarded him solemnly. He approached the tree and her recognition was instantaneous. Her little ears pointed upward and as he addressed her in caressing French, she stretched a small paw down to touch his outstretched hand and brought her face down close to his. She accepted the offered food graciously. I think that she might have come all the way down to him at this point had not my eager son chose the same moment to snap a picture at close range. Bozo retreated furiously in obvious displeasure.

We finally realized what Mr. Gaudet was too polite to tell us -- that we were the cause of the animal's nervousness and obstinacy. The clicking sound of the camera indicated an alien presence and she growled at us in angry reproach.

We came indoors and continued to watch the drama from the big window. With infinite patience, Mr. Gaudet coaxed and assured her, but Bozo refused to budge. We watched him place an almond between his lips and raise his face to the tree. Bozo reached down and gently took the nut!

After nearly an hour of fruitless persuasion, he decided to leave her alone for a while and come back later. He returned twice during the evening. It was a dismal night, cold and raining, but the foolish raccoon would not come down. Even Mr. Gaudet's patience was exhausted and he went home.

My son was up at daybreak to look out at the maple and to come storming upstairs to tell us that Bozo had left. We were all much concerned. This small animal had been kept as a pet for so many years that we feared for her survival should she have taken to the woods.

Not to worry. This evening Mr. and Mrs. Gaudet walked over to the small tree house and there, serene and innocent was Mademoiselle Bozo. On hearing the happy news, I ran across to see her. She was then eating her supper, but before snuggling down for the night, she gave me a glance from her bright, beady eyes, half regretful, half defiant -- after all, home is where the ham is!

Asbestos sample isolated

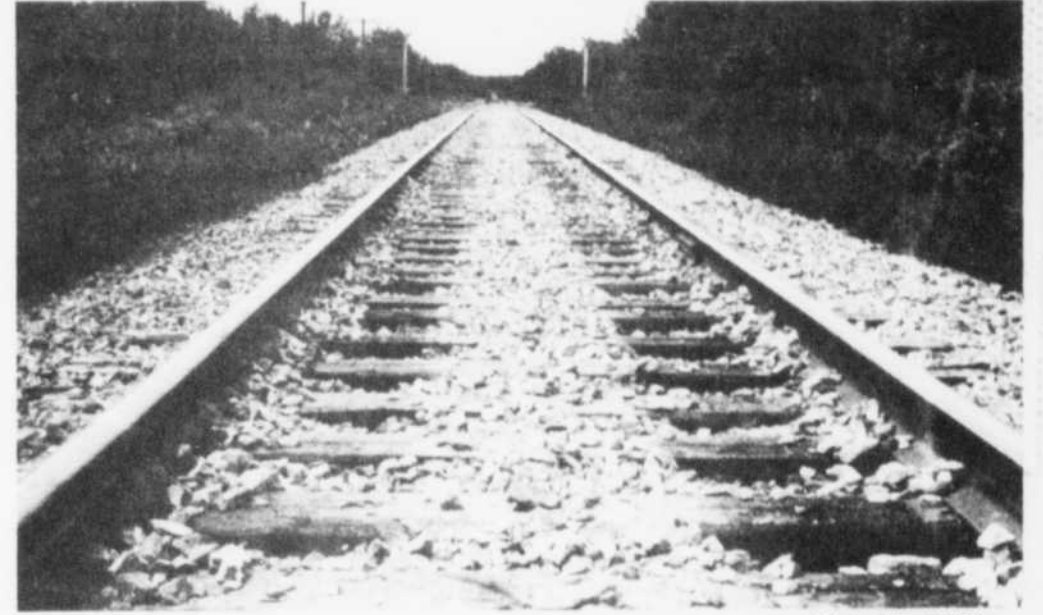

By MERRITT CLIFTON
BRIGHAM — In keeping with their March 9 promise to federal environmental officials, current Canadian Pacific Railroad rebalasting appears to use iron ore tailings, rather than asbestos from the Black Lake mines.

Work with iron ore tailings from the Hilton Iron Company commenced Friday along the CPR subdivision from Brookport to Foster. Use of asbestos tailings on the adjacent Adirondack Subdivision last summer has touched off at least five private and governmental investigations into air and water pollution, in response to widespread public outcry. Asbestos fibers entering drinking water are considered a cancer hazard. While the new ballast is dominantly low-grade iron ore, preliminary testing has revealed some unnatural presence of asbestos. Five pounds of freshly-dumped ballast collected at the Lawrence Road grade-crossing Friday afternoon proved to be chiefly iron pyrite, or 'fool's gold', coated with a substance resembling Portland cement. However, supplementary samples gathered at the same site after leveling and tamping operations Wednesday included one five-inch-long, seven-ounce chunk of raw asbestos, and four lumps of medium-grade coal. The cement-like coating on the iron pyrite, broken down, revealed a fibrous pattern similar to that of the rocklime-and-asbestos-dust solution used last year. Speculation is that asbestos cement mix rather than pure Portland cement was used as a coating. Since no other lumps of raw asbestos were found within several hundred yards of that one, this is suspected to have been lodged in the equipment last year, shaking loose with the coal.

On the other hand, CPR denied using asbestos last year until November, despite numerous similar finds. CPR officials at the Farnham yard were unavailable for comment. Environment Canada expects to collect samples of their own soon for detailed analysis.

Ballast work in progress on the Brookport-Foster subdivision, at the Brookport end, just beyond the Lawrence Road crossing.

CP rebalasting sticking to ore tailings?

Marois: Better volunteer links needed

By NELSON WYATT
SHERBROOKE — Closer links of communication must be established between volunteer service groups and the government, Social Development Minister Pierre Marois told about 115 volunteer service workers gathered at the CEGEP de Sherbrooke for a day-long conference Saturday.

Speaking on the importance of volunteer action groups in the province and the links to be established between them and the government in order to provide more efficient services to the public, Marois also said that certain changes in the service setup -- such as decentralization -- must be explored because of the major changes that have occurred in Quebec society in the last 16 years.

Marois said the input of suggestions and ideas would help to achieve these alterations and therefore improve the service.

In a brief interview following his 20-minute speech, which included a question-and-answer period with the audience, the former labor lawyer told The Record that he felt that there were several problems in the present social service system today. Besides the lack of communication between the services and the government, he said that there were also some problems with financing but, he added, the government is already taking steps to remedy this.

Marois, in commenting further on the need for better communication links, said that the input would also be vital in developing more responsive social, economic and cultural policy. He said some decentralization moves had already begun in such areas as fisheries, in the Gaspé, and with the Workman's Compensation Board, in an effort to bring the government back to the people.

Questioned about the establishment of the new federal Department of Social Programs, headed by Brome MP Heward Graffey, Marois said that this was another example of the duplication of services between Quebec and Ottawa.

"I think that it is impossible to live like this for very long," he said, "and that it is impossible to solve the citizens' problems if we continue like this. That is why there will be a referendum and Quebecers will have to make a choice."

Though he declined to estimate a closer date for the referendum than the fall or spring, he continued, saying, "If we live in a civilized society, we must develop a tough fight against poverty. One in five Quebecers are now living under the poverty level. We're presently getting a family allowance from Ottawa and a family allowance from Quebec and so on. How do you want me as Minister of Social Development to develop a full and complete guaranteed minimum income policy in a situation like that?"

"I'm a little like the guy that goes to work. I've got the hammer but another guy has the nails, I've got the saw but someone else has got the lumber. What kind of a house will that give us?"

"Let's put our tools in one basket, either at Ottawa or Quebec so we can develop. All we want to do is live on an equal basis and control our laws and our financing."

The meeting was basically a pooling of information by volunteer service workers, following three months regional meetings on how to take the volunteer service setup from an individual basis to a collective basis that would show people how to rely on themselves in due course. About 80 per cent of those attending the conference were from the Townships region while another 20 per cent were from the Quebec City or Montreal area.

Ten workshops were also staged during the day, to examine the value and impact of volunteer action and the importance of organization in it. The group met under the auspices of Citaide.

Townships talk

World premiere

Festival Lennoxville is having the world premiere of "The Murder of Auguste Dupin" on July 13th. It is an adaptation of one of Edgar Allan Poe's masterpieces. Friday 13th seems to augur well for theatre-goers with a penchant for hair-raising situations! Revolving sets and lavish costumes give the play eye appeal, and Richard Ouzoulian's expertise provides the finishing touches to the evening's entertainment.

The Sherbrooke Hospital has taken advantage of the premiere to invite the public to attend their special theatre night on July 13th. There will be a block of centre aisle seats reserved for you, at special prices. Tickets are $7 each. For those wishing to dine with their guests, before curtain time the buffet will be open from 6:30 on, and the all-inclusive price is only $15. Those who cannot come in person may call Robin Heilig at the box office (563-4966) and she will mail them out. Some are available at the Hospitality Shop. The deadline is June 27th, and tickets are limited. Make your reservations early, and we're looking forward to seeing you at the Festival.

Projects get YOC funding

OTTAWA (NW) — Two area projects have received funding from the Canadian Commission for International Year of the Child. "Tom Pouce", a project carried out by a group of volunteer women to provide free distribution of layettes and clothing to needy mothers in Sherbrooke has received a grant of $1500. They also wish to sponsor field trips for 100 school children in their community.

In Freilighsburg, $1200 has been awarded to encourage the participation of the local youths in various hockey and ringette teams. The season terminates with a banquet and trophies given to the winning teams.

Nearly 30 percent of the projects that received funding are aimed at recreational activities for children while 20 percent are concerned with educational activities. Child participation as well as the opportunity for a learning experience is stressed while projects with a strong multicultural emphasis and that provided a service for handicapped children caught the imagination of the funding committee. Out of 850 applicants for funding, 187 grants totalling $396,400 were approved.

Coop-Air plans day

SHERBROOKE (FJM) — Coop-Air de l'Estrie, in collaboration with Kino Quebec, has organized a free day of activity for the whole family on June 17 at Mont Bellevue in Sherbrooke. The day's object is to instruct people in how to use a compass and read a map in order to find one's way in the woods.

Registration will occur from 8:30 to 9:30 a.m. and participants will be given a map and a compass. From 9:30 to 11 a.m., people will be instructed on their use. From 11 a.m. to 1 p.m., people will be able to try to follow a route marked out on the map; there will be two possibilities - one for experts and the other for beginners. Afterwards participants will be given a booklet on the use of map and compass and invited to have a light lunch which will be available at no charge. For further information call Coop-Air de l'Estrie at 569-6822.

Luge festival planned

MAGOG (ME) — The Eastern Townships Regional Luge and Bobsled Association has planned the "Quebec Summer Luge Festival" for Magog on the weekend of St. Jean-Baptiste.

The event, staged with luge sleds equipped with wheels, will take place on a course set up along St-Ours, St-Alphonse and St-Charles Streets in Magog June 23 and 24. The City has agreed to close these streets during the races.

A clinic will take place all day Saturday, June 9, to outline the details of the event. The meeting takes place at the Magog City Hall, commencing at 9:30 a.m.

Registration fee will be $10.00. Couples in particular are encouraged to join the Association - both male and female lugists are already enlisted.

Further information may be obtained from Yvan Roy at (819) 843-6501, 3607 or from Bertrand Beaudoin at (819) 569-9234, 569-9731.

KEITH SPICER COMMENTS

New West awareness growing with Tory victory

VANCOUVER — Suave and crafty, intergovernmental affairs minister Claude Morin is premier Rene Levesque's quarterback for winning Quebec's independence a yard at a time. In securing at the weekend their party's grassroots blessing to fake a lateral pass on sovereignty-association, the Morin-Levesque tandem would do well to take another look at the western end of the Canadian field.

For on May 22, Canada witnessed more than a switch from Liberals to Conservatives; more than one from "French" to "English." It was the eclipse — partial but dramatic — of central Canada by the New West.

How could this fact shape Parti Quebecois strategy?

First, it must bring home to Messrs. Levesque and Morin the four — (or for B.C., five-) region reality of a Canada which PQ theorists still try to force into a rigid English-French mould. It is not a monolithic "English Canada" that is now in Ottawa's saddle. Even with almost equal seats from Ontario, it is Joe Clark's western Tories who have taken the ascendant.

Second, the western team will speak to Quebecers in an ethnic motet of voices that on several issues cultural (broadcasting, publishing, films) will argue themes far from narrow English causes. Some Tories, bright and civilized men such as new Transport minister Don Mazankowski, will surprise by their sense of fair play for French-speakers.

Third, the rise of western power coincides with a revolutionary shift in economic weight to Vancouver, Calgary and Regina. Starting about a decade ago, the move of lenders, investors and entrepreneurs to the west from Montreal and Toronto has turned into a tide.

With 28 percent of Canada's population, over 31 percent of her Gross Domestic Product and now more Ottawa seats than Quebec, the west generates enough economic news to feed a small archive of new business magazines and to draw correspondents or stringers from national and foreign newspapers.

This bread-and-butter clout gives the west a fourth characteristic for pequisite planners: optimism. Since taking power, Rene Levesque has been facing a tough government in Ottawa but a tired and often fatalistic one.

The PQ regards Clark as a mediocre mind, with little grasp of Quebecers' spiritual subtleties. This may be true. But Clark (added to our new western Governor-General, Ed Schreyer) symbolizes a sense of potential and a frontier simplicity which for a while at least could change the climate, though not the challenges, of federal-provincial dealings.

Up to a point, even ill-informed conciliation might upset pequisite appreciators more than the Liberals' lucid — but martyr-making — confrontation.

The hardest change for the PQ may come from the mood of westerners outside government. For the past decade of perceived "French power" in Ottawa, westerners' feeling of not counting in parliament enormously amplified otherwise marginal anti-French opinion.

Western outbursts against bilingualism and a vicious anti-Trudeau sentiment have delighted Quebec's separatists. It was not up to them to point out that fear of French rested greatly on poor federal PR, and hate of Trudeau on eastern-rigged freight rates, resource policies and tariffs — and on the former PM's not invariably endearing personality.

Already since the PQ won power in November 1976 anti-French backlash is becalmed. The New West Levesque and Morin must now deal with is taking its lead from open-hearted elites such as the Calgary-based Canada West Foundation (which foresees a better deal for Quebec as well as the west) and the Calgary-born Canadian Parents for French (10,000 members in 28 cities nationwide).

With the confidence of power long denied, a more relaxed, generous and more Canadian west seems likely to emerge. This will make it tougher for the PQ to continue defaming all English Canadians as Westmount Rhodesians or as petty regionalists in a wagon train encircling Alberta's Peter Lougheed.

On the other hand, for a Parti Quebecois now still more visibly frightened to ask a clear question on independence, and talking of clinging to office for a full five-year term, the New West could offer an unhoped-for chance to restructure Canada radically.

Last week, Mr. Morin avowed he was thinking of opening a western office for Quebec, possibly in Calgary. To inform both westerners and Quebecers, this idea makes sense — especially if it helped revive the useful visits that PQ ministers made here in their first year of office.

Mr. Morin loves to smirk at the "realism" of English Canadians who will, he claims, be forced to buy association with an independent Quebec. He remains suave and crafty. But he could now earn from the take-charge west the same compliment of realism.

Ugly situation

Treasury Board President Sinclair Stevens' announced two-month freeze on public-service hiring is a magnificent gesture, but surely it's dangerous to leave restraint measures up to deputy ministers and managers, public servants themselves?

The freeze announced Friday was not unexpected following the Tory election promise to pare 60,000 jobs from the civil service within next three years, but we were hoping it would be done in a manner which would see a branch of the auditor-general's office examine the manner in which departments were run.

Some of the more politically-inspired programs, such as the bilingualism training scheme, will be the first to feel the axe, as they already had under the Liberals half-hearted spending cuts a year ago. But within established departments, the last to be hired — usually the hardest workers — will be the first to go, and the upper levels of the Canadian civil service — the area begging for cuts — will go untouched.

Freezes and appeals for restraint of the sort imposed by Mr. Stevens can turn into witch-hunt activities at the drop of the hat when left to the devices of lower-echelon individuals. It would be sad, indeed, if this gesture was turned into an ugly situation through lack of control.

Historic event

Medical history was established at the Royal Victoria Hospital in Montreal last week when a team of doctors using highly sophisticated micro-surgery techniques gave an 11-year-old Long Island resident use of a leg which was otherwise useless.

It is heartening to note that medical skills and services now transcend international frontiers, possibly setting an example for international relations.

If countries can get together to heal the sick, and there have been classic examples of interchange, there is little if any reason why diplomacy can't follow the same course and result in peace.

This may, perhaps, prove to be a strange preamble to the crux of this editorial — Cowansville is going to have a Main Street after all!

The spinal cord of the town was severed in 1972 despite vociferous opposition to the then incumbent Mayor Roland Desourdy. He had a whim of iron and the project went through under the guise of urban renewal.

Some priceless buildings went under the wrecker's hammer and a shopping centre was erected. The patriarch of the town for almost twenty years decided to withdraw his name from nomination in 1974 when he was succeeded by Rosaire Raymond.

Mayor Raymond bided his time for four years until he had a progressive team with him when they approached the provincial government with a view to reopening Main Street.

With provincial endorsement it expected, council will go to tender at the earliest possible moment. Plans are prepared and, even including the construction holiday period, we might see a 'mini-miracle' by the time Brome Fair rolls around.

Miracles are not only created by the supernatural, but often by humans. Our congratulations go out not only to the doctors at the RVH but to the Cowansville town council.

Letters

Editor:
 The following is an open letter to Ms. Pauline Barnes:

Dear Ms. Barnes:
 On behalf of the Advisory Committee for the June 16th seminar with Dr. Camille Laurin, we would like to clarify the following points.

First of all, our identity. We are 24 English-speaking Townshippers, some of us native to this area, others not. We come from Asbestos, Cowansville, Dunham, Granby, Lennoxville, North Hatley, Ste. Edwidge, Sawyerville, Sherbrooke, Stanstead, Sutton and Waterloo.

We find ourselves together because, of the approximately 45 people approached by the Communication-Quebec (Sherbrooke) office to participate on the Advisory Committee, we are the ones who said "yes".

Our experiences and backgrounds differ, as do our interests and points of view. There is, however, a common bond which unites us, and which has prompted us to work together as a consultative body to assist Communication-Quebec with the organization of this seminar.

As individuals, and as a group, we share a definite concern for English-speaking Townshippers, for our past (the presentation of our history, in terms of buildings, monuments, and written accounts of our past), our present and our future.

We claim no exclusive right to represent English-speaking Townshippers, which brings us to the second point we wish to clarify, that of "who's invited?"

Over 300 personal invitations have been extended to individuals who the Advisory Committee felt should take part in the seminar because of their community involvement, and because of their concerns about the issues to be discussed on June 16th.

At the same time, we were quite aware that this could not hope to be a fully representative group, that we were sure to miss people who would want to participate.

It is for this reason that we extended an open invitation to the public by means of an advertisement which appeared on page 11 of the June 1st edition of the Sherbrooke Record.

While the number of participants in the Workshop sessions must be restricted because of limited facilities, we would like to point out that the closing plenary session, at which the day's discussions will be summarized and presented to Dr. Laurin and the other ministers, is open to the public and an announcement to this effect will appear, as planned, in the Sherbrooke Record, the Stanstead Journal, the Townships Sun, and on C.K.T.S. Radio, within the next few days.

Yours truly,
 The Publicity
 Sub-Committee of the English-speaking Advisory Committee

The Bible is a miracle book

Editor:
 I enjoy reading the letters from some of your readers and I learn quite a bit from them, although I do not agree with some.

I believe the Bible is a miracle book that tells us why we are here, where we are going when we die, what we must do to be saved, and that the Holy Spirit is a person is History. Man by his reason would never know that the Creator of the Universe is a triune God, but it is revealed in Holy Scriptures: Father, Son and Holy Spirit. When John the Baptist baptized Jesus in the Jordan River, the Bible says, the Holy Spirit came like a dove from heaven, with the Father's voice saying, "This is My beloved Son in whom I am well pleased."

Henry Sturcke writes that there is no soul in a man, that we are only bodies, the same class as animals. Did you know that an animal shows no compassion? In the world of nature, the lion, the fox, etc. shows no mercy. Only man, who was created in the image of God, shows mercy. When God created man for he will sin against Thee, but mercy said O, God make him and I will go with him and I will never forsake him. Then God made man and said to Him, O man thou art a child of mercy, go and deal with thy brother.

The Bible teaches that there are three persons in the Trinity, and the Holy Spirit is Co-equal with the Father and Son. If we conceive God as self-conscious and loving, we cannot help conceiving of Him as embracing in His Unity some form of plurality.

But did you know that the Holy Spirit convinces a person that if he is a sinner, and needs to be saved, that Christ is the only way to God? Incarnation of God the Son and the out pouring of the Holy Spirit, is ample proof of the Deity of the Holy Spirit.

Did you know that the believer would be without hope were it not for the fact the Holy Spirit comes to dwell in the heart of the believer at his conversion? The Holy Spirit helps him to pray, comforts and prepares him for heaven.

Nuke bomb how-to story triggers witch hunt

by Jack Anderson and Les Whitten

WASHINGTON — Not content with a court order forbidding Progressive magazine from printing an article on the "secret" of the H-bomb, the government has sicked the FBI on the author of the article. It has turned into a full-scale criminal investigation.

This latest government attack on the press is intended to determine whether the Progressive reporter, Howard Morland, used classified information in his article, "The H-Bomb Secret: How We Got It, Why We're Telling It."

Under the Atomic Energy Act of 1954, communication of restricted data is a felony punishable by up to 10 years in prison and a $10,000 fine. So the FBI investigation is no laughing matter for Morland.

Morland insists that his article was written from publicly available sources and authorized tours of nuclear power facilities. In fact, one of the points of the article is that the government itself has been responsible for giving away the secrets of nuclear technology. This is the real, embarrassing "secret" the government doesn't want the public to learn.

The only other piece of journalism subject to prior censorship on "national security" grounds was the Pentagon Papers in 1971, and the Carter administration's action in the Progressive case is frighteningly similar to that of Richard Nixon eight years earlier.

In both cases, the government chose to go after those who made politically embarrassing material public — instead of punishing the officials responsible for the follies that had been disclosed.

There is an important distinction, however, which shows how far down the road toward government intimidation of the press we have come in the last eight years: Daniel Ellsberg admittedly leaked classified material, Howard Morland used nothing but unclassified material in his article.

Once a federal judge, Robert Warren, issued an injunction forbidding publication of Morland's article, the government quite properly sent FBI agents to visit the dozen or so persons who had received advance copies, to make sure they had returned the articles as the court ordered.

But the criminal investigation of Morland is another matter. To Theodore Jacobs, director of the Project for Open Government, it smells of harassment. "This is a repetition of the process used in the Pentagon Papers case, where criminal prosecution was brought against Ellsberg," Jacobs told our associate Gary Cohn. "The criminal investigation is equally unjustified in his case."

The heart of the matter, as Jacobs pointed out, is the "chilling effect" such harassment will have on reporters and their sources. No one likes to be interviewed by the FBI. "People will be frightened to talk to reporters," Jacobs said.

And that, apparently, is a situation that Jimmy Carter, like Richard Nixon before him, would be happy to see.

No Thank You: President Gerald Ford had the politician's eye for the proper gesture. Back in 1975, he decided it would be nice to send personal greetings to the 39 crew members of the ill-fated merchant ship Mayaguez.

After being captured by Cambodian gun boats, they had been rescued in a daring and bloody raid by U.S. Marines. Ford considered the incident a feather in his political cap, and wanted to milk it for a little extra publicity by sending letters to the supposedly grateful crewmen.

But the letters were never sent. Confidential National Security Council documents reveal why: Five crew members, far from being grateful, were so sore at the government for not warning the Mayaguez of its danger that they had filed damage actions. Under the circumstances, NSC advisers warned Ford that the presidential letters might backfire.

'Operation Condor' American taxpayers are financing the systematic torture of hundreds of narcotics suspects by Mexican police, the Village Voice will report in its next issue.

The program, called "Operation Condor," gets $12 million a year from the State Department, in addition to its initial supply of equipment, which included more than 30 helicopters, remote sensing devices and telecommunications systems. More than 2,000 suspected "narcotraficantes" have been arrested under the Condor program. But a study conducted by a human rights group showed that 90 per cent were peasants and juveniles, forced to sign confessions under torture.

The worst part of it is that officials in our Drug Enforcement Administration have known about the torturing. The Voice reports that DEA agents have been instructed to "leave immediately when the torture begins."

Washington Whirl: An unintended side effect of the law limiting individual political campaign contributions to $1,000 was to make rock musicians one of the hottest political weapons in the country. Jimmy Carter raised $350,000 (plus federal matching funds) with the Allman Brothers and the Marshall Tucker Band. California Gov. Jerry Brown raised $160,000 in a single concert.

Freshman Sen. Carl Levin, D-Mich., is now planning to introduce a bill to set a limit on rock concert contributions. He calls it the Linda Ronstadt Amendment.

Lame Spectacular Bid falls short in Belmont

NEW YORK (AP) — Spectacular Bid stepped on a safety pin in his stall and several hours later joined the list of Triple Crown casualties by losing the Belmont Stakes.

Spectacular Bid, winner of 12 successive races, including the Kentucky Derby and Preakness, finished third in the grueling 1½-mile race Saturday after fading in the stretch.

He had been the 1-5 favorite of the crowd of 59,073.

William Haggin Perry's Coastal, with impaired vision in his right eye, won the $269,000 race under Ruben Hernandez, 3¼ lengths ahead of Golden Act, who was a neck in front of Bid.

Coastal, who had raced only three times this year and had not been nominated for the Belmont, was clocked in 2:28.3 for the distance and paid $10.80, $4.80 and $2.10.

Golden Act, ridden by Sandy Hawley of Mississauga, Ont., returned $5.40 and $2.10. Bid returned $2.10.

Completing the order of finish of for these three-year-olds who carried 126 pounds were Screen King, King Celebrity, Gallant Best, General Assembly and Mystic Era.

Back home in Baltimore on Sunday, trainer Bud Delp said the pin had dropped in the straw while a groom was removing protective bandages.

Delp said he arrived at the barn about 5:45 a.m. and discovered Bid was lame, "but you can't win the Belmont Stakes by staying in the barn."

He said the pin had gone about an inch into the left front foot, causing the colt to favor it during the running of the 111th Belmont Stakes, third leg of thoroughbred racing's Triple Crown.

FOOT WAS BRUISED
Delp's son Gerald said that after the shoe was removed, the foot was bruised and bleeding. But he said it had nothing to do with the pin puncture.

Revelation of the injury took some of the heat off Bid's jockey, Ronnie Franklin, 19, who had been criticized by some riders for taking the colt to the lead too soon.

After the race, Angel Cordero, who rode General Assembly to a seventh-place finish in the field of eight, crowed: "Every turkey has his Thanksgiving."

Asked when he thought Bid was beat, Cordero said: "When they put the boy (Franklin) up."

Galt-Richmond team wins Plessisville track meet

By STEPHEN McDOUGALL
PLESSISVILLE — Last Saturday morning, some Eastern Townships Regional high school track teams met in Plessisville to determine which students would go on to compete at the Provincial Championships in Laval on June 26, 27 and 28.

Among the seven competing school board teams were combined squads from Richmond and Alexander Galt Regional High Schools, Polyvalentes from the Sherbrooke and Magog areas, and schools from the Yamaska, Bois Francs, Carignon and Miller regions.

The games were an hour late in starting and were almost cancelled because of the rain, which drizzled throughout the day. Despite a poor track (according to Galt coach Brian Heath) and the weather, and the loss of time, some 300 students showed up and all scheduled events took place.

The big feature in the meet were the 12 distance and five hundred runs, ranging in distance from 60 to 3000 metres.

In total point standings, The ETRSB board, made up of Richmond and Alexander

Galt schools, finished first, with the L'Estrie board, encompassing Sherbrooke and Magog schools, coming in second place.

Heath said he felt pretty confident the Eastern Townships team could win the Provincials. "We came in second place three times and once in first place in past years. I think our region is pretty strong this time," he added.

The following students from AGRHS qualified for the upcoming Provincial championships: Garry Harder, Torry Karr, Peter

The following students from Richmond Regional school qualified for the championships: Martha Smith, Carolyne Ruddy, Debbie Dunkerley, Dorothy Vaitekunas, Jill Rick, Lorry Day, Marc Quig, Pierre Gauvreau, David Quig, Stanley Kerwin, and Robert Webb.

With just five laps to go in the men's 3000-metre run, Gilles Provencher leads the pack. Provencher won with a time of 9:22 seconds.

BILINGUAL HARMONY GRACES MEET

PLESSISVILLE (SM) — It was for most people, a normal school sports event for a summer weekend, even though the rain kept most parents and spectators away. The arena of Plessisville was at the far end of the regions taking part in this event, the town being 75 kilometres northeast of Richmond. Most people don't want to get up at six o'clock in the morning to see their daughter or son run, jump, or throw against some 300 other kids, especially if they live in St. Hyacinthe or Drummondville.

As the sprint and long-distance runners pushed the ground against their feet, you could hear bilingual cheer calls:

"Louche-pas, Jocelyn, t'es capable! Cours, Cours..."

"C'mon Dorothy, run! Go for it!"

But one thing one did not find here were any forms of racial slurs amongst French and English. The important thing on most minds at this meet were how they could improve their performance, not what "Frenchy" or what "Maudit Anglais" they could beat.

"The attitude here today is much better than it was seven or eight years ago," said Jeff Dunn, Richmond Regional phys. ed. teacher and coach. "There is more camaraderie here today."

"It used to be that there was a lot of mistrust amongst the two groups," said Dunn, explaining that some students could not hold down prejudices when the point score was close.

"If somebody's javelin came an inch short of the winning distance, it would just happen to be that the official was French and the participant English, and blame was sometimes pointed at the official rather than consider an inability or a mistake," Dunn recalled.

The competitive standards were quite high this year, according to Dunn, adding that he felt this region of the province was one of the strongest.

"The team formed from this meet will be composed of students from both languages," concluded Dunn.

AGRHS track coach Brian Heath didn't see the language to be any barrier, and felt that the meets across the province "are getting smoother every year."

As far as both coaches were concerned, the school sport meets were nothing more than a way of getting out for some self-improvement and to meet people.

As Heath concluded, "these are not adults competing, these are young adolescents. They aren't so prone to prejudices."

Our man Loney wins Ontario pike fishing derby

An anxious, excited throng lined the shores of scenic Loughborough Lake on Sunday June 3, straining to view every cast, as entrants competed in one of Eastern Ontario's most talked about, prestigious, fishing derbies.

The Pike Derby has been held for almost a decade on the tranquil waters of Lake Loughborough, which is situated on the Perth Road, some 15 miles north of Kingston. Participants hail from such diverse locales as Petrolia, North Bay, Toronto, and other Ontario centres; from Sherbrooke, and Lennoxville, Quebec; and from American cities such as Los Angeles, Pittsburgh, Omaha, and New York.

This year's most successful entrants were Sylvanus (Syl) Apps, Jr., well-travelled, former centreman for the Pittsburgh Penguins, currently on the roster of Los Angeles Kings, and anxiously awaiting the mid-June NHL protected lists, as the four WHA teams will be drafting NHL players; former hostelry magnate John T. Mercer, who is now making some concrete additions to the Limestone City's business community; and Richard Loney, Champlain College English professor, sometimes journalist, and Bruin-fan-in-mourning.

For only the third time in the nine year history of the Derby, a shocking sweep was registered, after 11 hours of frantic fishing and merciless sun beating down on lobster-red shoulders. Catching the first fish, the largest fish, and owning the greatest aggregate number of the finny critters constitutes a sweep, and Loney's brilliant piscatorial feat marked the second time in three years that his skill was rewarded with the grand trophy — one which is only slightly less traditional than the Stanley and Grey Cups in the annals of Canadian sport.

The L.L. Derby was saddened this year to learn that the tradition of a shore lunch of delicious vintage chili-con-carne, begun in 1976, would be curtailed in 1979, in favour of cheese and ham sandwiches. Competitors were anxious, at the awards ceremony, that this Chili tradition be maintained in future years.

A novel note was struck at the pre-Derby Rules Committee Meeting, when John Osborne, formerly of the North West Territories, was allowed to chair the meeting and act as convener of the often-contentious, occasionally mirthful, festivities which arbitrate over previous Derbies. Unfortunately, breaches in etiquette and fishing camaraderie transpire at even such a brotherly event as the Loughborough Derby.

Highlights of the 1979 event included the excellent work of guide John T. Mercer, who was diligent in keeping the undergrowth along the shores of Loughborough under control with the precision-casting he is noted for. Syl (overboard) Apps broke precedent this year in remaining aboard his craft for the duration of the day's labours.

"Lobster" Loney was given a close run for the most-incinerated award, by Apps and Mercer; and until the many rolls of official Derby film are developed, the other elusive award for cinematography will have to be decided at the Tenth Annual Derby Meetings in May, 1980.

The Derby Sponsors Committee is hopeful that sports-oriented breweries, particularly Molson's and Labatt's, will be able to make a trophy contribution to this great fishing event which not only has adopted "Light" ale and "Blue" as official Derby beverages, but which links Ontario and Quebec in this inter-provincial cultural event. Preparations are now under way for the Deca-Derby of 1980, and the 12 months will quickly pass and the fervor of Derby X will be felt in Eastern Ontario.

PRESENT IT!

It is so much easier than asking to be reimbursed.

Do you have your Quebec health insurance card? Please check and make doubly sure! This is most important because from fall 1979, it will be obligatory to present your card whenever you require medical services.

If you do not have a card, or fail to present it, you will have to pay the costs incurred then apply for reimbursement from la Régie de l'assurance-maladie du Québec. This will apply in all cases with the following exceptions:

- if the beneficiary is less than one year old;
- if the beneficiary, at the time medical attention was received, required emergency treatment;
- if the beneficiary is aged more than 14 and less than 18 years of age and medical services were received without parental authorization;

- if the beneficiary is resident in a home or is a long-term patient in hospital;
- all other cases determined in accordance with regulations.

Application forms are available at hospitals, pharmacies, local medical centres or the office of a professional in the field of health.

Stork Shower held

BISHOPTON — On May 27, the home of Mr. and Mrs. Alan James was the scene of a happy event when Mrs. James, assisted by her sister, Mrs. Judy Gilbert, entertained at a stork shower in honor of their sister, Mrs. Morris Bennett.

On her arrival Elizabeth was presented with a novelty corsage and escorted to a table heaped with gifts, which she was assisted in opening, by her mother, Mrs. Donald Clarke and aunt, Mrs. Gordon Clarke.

A delicious lunch was served by the hostesses, assisted by Mrs. Ronnie James and Miss Lisa Gilbert. There were over forty guests present.

Mrs. Bennett thanked her sisters for the shower and all her friends for the many lovely and useful gifts.

Crafts workshop to open

A barn crafts workshop and boutique is opening on Route 243 between Mansonville and Highwater.

Oriette Constantineau, who teaches crafts in St. Lambert, will move her looms, yarns and other equipment to the Barn Studio for the summer months, and offer three courses of five days duration in weaving, quilting or macrame. These courses will commence June 25, July 16 and August 20.

A variety of mini-courses, including sandal-making, tapestry, place mats and hammock weaving, macrame, string weaving of chair seats, finger weaving, weaving of belts or bell pulls, will be offered on Saturdays, commencing June 30.

Ms. Constantineau has been in charge of the crafts program for the city of St. Lambert for the past eight years, as well as teaching courses for Champlain College in St. Lambert. She received her training in Europe, the Middle East and the United States, and has recently participated in the "Teachers for Adult Education" program at Algonquin College in Ontario. Her works have been exhibited in the United States.

Crafts, such as woven clothes, quilts, wood crafts, jewelry, pottery, paintings, plants, planters and country crafts made by residents of the community, will be on view and for sale to the public.

"Studio Oriette", the workshop boutique, is located on the property of D'Arcy McGovern, near Highwater. Joyce McGovern is looking for a variety of crafts in the community to be displayed in the store, thus, encouraging the participation of local artisans.

The store will be open from mid June until the end of August from Tuesday to Sunday 9:30-17:30, and weekends only in September.

For further information, call 292-3545 on weekends, or Ms. Constantineau, 1 (514) 465-4897.

Ignorance leads to mistreatment

TORONTO (CP) — Women often receive the wrong medical treatment because they don't know enough about their bodies, says a New York doctor.

Dr. Niels Lauerson said in an interview many women referred to him have been mistreated by being subjected to unnecessary surgery or advised to undergo unnecessary surgery.

Lauerson estimated 30 to 35 per cent of the women he sees have been mistreated.

The operations most often performed unnecessarily are hysterectomies (removal of the womb) and operations to correct a falling womb and to remove cysts on ovaries, he said.

To help women obtain proper treatment, Lauerson has written a book which he describes as "a handbook, a textbook of information to dispel ignorance and myths."

The book, It's Your Body, is a 562-page paperback designed to be a practical guide. It explains how the female body works, what can go wrong and how to keep it working well.

SHOULD ASK DOCTOR

He also outlines what to expect during a physical examination and the questions to ask the doctor.

Lauerson, 40, is Danish and attended medical school in Copenhagen before doing postgraduate studies in New York, California and England. He now is an associate professor at the New York Hospital-Cornell University Medical College.

He said he wants women to participate in their health care by knowing how to look after themselves and how to discuss their health knowledgeably with their doctor.

Lauerson said a woman should be on the alert if a doctor suddenly suggests surgery for a condition she has never suffered from previously and should get a second opinion.

"My book is not only for women. Men are really starting to care about their wives and girlfriends today. But men really know very little about a woman's body."

The menopause is one area shrouded in myths, he said. Women should not expect to be incapacitated. He suggests vitamins, exercise and proper diet to cope with the body's changes.

"So many books like this are condescending and dry. I wanted to write a book as factual as a textbook, but in layman's language that would be interesting and non-chauvinistic."

HEALTH

Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Lifestyle change can help

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I am a 73-year-old male who has experienced irregular heart beats (or extrasystoles) for 15 years. I've been having annual physical examinations and each time my doctor assures me that there is nothing that I should be concerned about. Nothing that I do, not even physical exertion, causes the skips. Recently my doctor prescribed a tablet of Inderal each day. I thought Inderal was used for high blood pressure. Mine's on the low side — usually about 110 over 80.

Is Inderal the kind of medicine that I should be taking? What is it supposed to do? Is there a better medicine? Or do I need any medicine at all?

DEAR READER — There are many different types of irregular heart beats. They can occur in individuals without any heart disease at all. If you were to take continuous heart tracings on anybody, in the course of a day or two you would see some irregular heart beats, or skipped beats as people sometimes call them.

I observed these in all the astronauts because we had records on them for hours and hours at a time while they were being studied in space chambers and in other conditions. I also saw them in many of the healthy members of the Air Force flying population. They can be caused by heart disease as well. To use the other end of the spectrum, the onset of a heart attack may be associated with extra beats.

The only way you can determine the significance of extra beats in a specific individual is through a medical examination. If they occur sporadically in a young, healthy individual, they're not likely to be very important. But if they're noticed for the first time in a person who is having chest pain and other difficulties, they are probably part of that process and can be quite important.

To help you I'm sending you The Health Letter number 6-12, Heart Irregularities, Skipped Beats, Tachycardias to help you sort out this problem. Other readers who want this issue can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Send your request to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

A person with recurrent skipped beats should not smoke or use any coffee or beverages containing any caffeine. He should maintain a regular exercise program if his health permits and avoid any digestive disturbances. Indigestion seems to trigger such attacks.

Inderal is used to calm the electrical activity of the heart muscle — really it neutralizes or decreases a person's sensitivity to adrenaline. Of course, excess adrenaline formation can be released as a result of emotional stress, even from getting excited while watching your favorite football game on television. It is also used to lower blood pressure. So it's correct to use it in either or both conditions.

There are a number of other medicines that can be used to control irregularities of the heart if they're needed. The choice of the proper medicine depends upon the kind of irregularity, what it shows on the electrocardiogram and whether it is really bothering you or causing symptoms. Correcting one's life style sometimes solves the whole problem. (NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSN.)

Ann Landers says....

Find yourself another therapist

Dear Ann Landers:

Recently you ran a letter about some children whose mother forced them to eat. I agreed with your answer and would like to recite my own experience in the hope that such parents might realize the lifelong anxieties they may be instilling in their children.

When I was four, my mother made me sit at the table until I finished everything on my plate. Many times I spent hours in the dining room facing cold food. When we ate in a restaurant, I was yelled at and punished when I didn't clean my plate. I vividly recall the times I vomited after forcing myself to eat so as not to be "bad" or "waste food". ("There are children starving in India.")

I am now in my 20s and have a fear of food — fretful that if I eat I'll vomit.

I tried therapy only once. The therapist told me my problems are not rooted in my childhood but in my teen years when the symptoms first became apparent. He refused to let me explain in detail what I'd been through, so I never went back. The problems are still there but I'm trying to overcome them alone. Any suggestions?

Gagging in Gainesville

Dear G.:

In every field you will find competent and incompetent people. Unfortunately your first therapist was a lemon. For heaven's sake don't give up. Find yourself another therapist and work at getting well.

Dear Ann Landers:

It blows my mind that I am writing to Ann Landers. I never thought it would happen to me, but sooner or later you get us all.

I'm a 22-year-old male whose best friend married five months ago. Since their wedding I have been a house guest several times. They live about 40 miles from here. I find myself strongly attracted to the young bride. I'm afraid it's blossoming into something more than friendship.

Last weekend we went for a walk. I confessed that I was falling in love with her. She said the feeling was mutual. We are both concerned about this terrific attraction we seem to have for one another and would like your advice.

Feeling Guilty

Dear F.G.:

My advice is to visit the newlyweds a lot less often — and stay in a nearby hotel or motel. If you are not dating a few women in your own town, I strongly recommend it.

Dear Ann Landers: I read in your column about that man Mr. Eugene Jerome Dupuis Jr. in Tulsa, who named all his six children Eugene Jerome Dupuis Jr., just to prove YOU were wrong. (Apparently he wrote to you several years ago and asked if he could name both his newborn twin sons, "Jr." You replied, "Sorry, only one Jr. to a family." The man's wife has since had four more children, three of them girls. They are ALL named Eugene Jerome Dupuis Jr.)

Didn't that father consider the confusion in birth records, social security numbers, marriage certificates, bank obligations, bills, newspaper and magazine subscriptions, etc.? How can the government permit such foolishness?

Goggled-Eyed In Garden City

Dear Goggled:

Thank the good Lord the government CAN'T tell us what to name our children. They are telling us enough already. Mr. Eugene Jerome Dupuis is within his legal rights. I agree, however, that his children are going to face some difficulties later in life.

Dear Ann Landers: I will be entering the hospital soon for an operation. I dread it. It's not the operation I fear, it's much worse than that. You see, I have an upper plate. The thought of taking my teeth out in front of all those people in the operating room is humiliating to me. I don't think I can do it.

Can a person conceal the fact that he has dentures or would it be unsafe? A quick look at the postmark will tell you this is no phony letter from Yale. Please take me seriously. I need an answer right away. — Upset In Long Island

Dear Upset: It would be dangerous to try to keep your dentures in your mouth during surgery.

Coffee lovers face inflation

NEW YORK (AP) — North America's love affair with coffee, its most-popular hot beverage, is rapidly getting more expensive with the latest U.S. price increases likely to show up on grocery shelves within a month.

Major coffee roasters in the United States announced Thursday they are raising the wholesale price of ground coffee by 25 cents a pound to $2.83.

That is the second increase in five weeks. The first was a 15-cent increase. Wholesale coffee prices now are 16.5 per cent higher than on May 1.

Consumption of coffee dropped sharply as prices climbed to record levels in 1977. But consumers began drinking more coffee last year as prices dropped.

While the latest increases likely will be passed along to consumers in some form, they might be hidden in higher prices for other food items since many supermarkets offer coffee as a loss-leader to attract customers.

The new frost struck Brazil last week, sending green coffee prices soaring on commodity exchanges even though the frost will affect next year's crop and have little, if any, impact on the crop now being harvested.

ASTRO-GRAPH

Bernice Bede Osol

Your Birthday

June 11, 1979

This coming year will be one of many opportunities for you. One in particular, involving your home, you have worked very hard to bring about.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Money matters are your potential trouble area and need supervision today. Stay close to home and attend to things in a sensible manner. Find out more about yourself by sending for your Astro-Graph Letter. Mail $1 for each to Astro-Graph, P.O. Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify birth sign.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) A personal relationship is under more strain than usual. Harsh words are close to the surface. It's important to be forgiving and cooperative.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Only your best efforts will be acceptable today, so put your nose to the grindstone and don't try to sweep anything under the rug.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Avoid the company of any acquaintances with whom you run the risk of having opposing views. An uncomfortable social situation is likely to arise.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Don't plan too challenging a schedule for today. You tend to be more of a loner and will desire to do things in your own way and time.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Rather than let someone drag you into an argument, seek a way to find a middle ground acceptable to both you and the other party. It can be done.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) This is not the time to spend beyond your means. Rather, it would be wise to trim unnecessary frills from the budget wherever possible.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Don't block your thoughts with reasons why something can't be done. Use your imagination to figure out how you can accomplish your purpose.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Something you've neglected may demand to be taken care of today. You're going to have to clear it up before anything else can be accomplished.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Group endeavors may take patience and cooperation on your part today. Exercise both or you'll rock the boat and bring everyone down on your neck.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Duty calls today. Even if you find it difficult to heed, you must place it above your own interests or an important contact could be lost.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Running around in circles today could be the result of your lack of planning. Organize your time and thoughts.

School committee meets at PEHS

MAGOG (CG) - The May School Committee meeting was held at the Princess Elizabeth Elementary School recently. Those attending were T. McElreavy, Judy Jolliffe, Judy Kellock, Brenda Dezan, Winona Patterson, Tom Bean, Lesley Hyndman, Clement Forest, Bruce Shearer and Helen Belliard. Mrs. Boulos and Mrs. Theoret will attend the meeting which will take place at the school on June 12. Mrs. MacLaren will also attend to discuss the new French Program for the next school year.

The parents did not attend the French workshop. It was discussed for the personnel of L.D.S.B.

The fee structure for rental of school facilities was discussed and recommendations will be made through the vehicle of the Parents Committee.

The responsibilities concerning the operation of the cafeteria will be reassessed by the Home and School.

It was decided by Mrs. Kerr and Mrs. Dustin that the Fun Fair will be held either in the fall or next spring.

Mr. Auger submitted a request to the School Board regarding the consideration.

The School Commission have organized a meeting on June 16 at the Alexander Galt Regional High School. The guest speaker is the Honourable Camille Laurin. The public is urged to attend.

Academic achievements are to be recognized at the Graduation Tea. A large trophy will be given for achievements in athletics. Home and School will get awards for the 12 students who excel academically. Mr. Bean will get samples and a choice will be made early in June. It was decided that the trophies will be similar to the athletic one.

The annual report will be compiled by Judy Kellock and Judy Jolliffe.

Three organizations have made requests for school facilities during the summer months. They are the South Shore Softball League, The Brownies and also the "March for Third World Countries". It was agreed to make the necessary arrangements.

The principal, Tom Bean reported on QASA spring conference in Quebec City. He attended workshops on "mainstreaming", social studies programs and the French program. The first two were good, however he noted that the French was poor.

The reports on teachers are being written. Letters will be sent to parents requesting that their children dress properly for school.

Mrs. Hyndman reported on the PAPT meeting. There will be a liaison committee to keep the school committee up to date. Museumobile was very successful, also the badminton tournament.

The grade 6 enjoyed a play at the A.G.R.H.S. Mrs. Atkins' class will have an exchange with Thetford Mines. Mrs. Magwood's class leave on June 11 for New Brunswick. They'll travel by rail and are scheduled to visit many interesting sites. The class raised a large sum of money.

L. Gagne will go to Ottawa again to observe the French program. Several teachers took the Provincial French exams. Mrs. Beaudoin is doing a nutrition session. A track meet will be held in June and a basketball clinic was held at Galt and attended by a team from here.

The Home and School reported there are now 300 Block Parents in Magog. A conference will be held in June and more parents are urged to take an interest in this program and become a block parent.

It was suggested by Pauline Dumas that the elections be held in the fall instead of in the spring to be concurrent with the School Committee. A report will be forwarded from this year's group. Everyone was favourable to this suggestion.

The next school committee meeting to be held at the school on June 12. Parents are welcome to attend. A discussion will take place concerning the French program.

Mansonville residents enjoy trailer trip

Mr. and Mrs. Merton Bailey of Mansonville, accompanied by Mrs. Garth (Eileen) Eldridge of Montreal and Mansonville, have recently returned from a two week trawling trip through Indiana, Kentucky and Tennessee. They attended the 105th annual session of the Indiana Grand Chapter, O.E.S., in Indianapolis.

Mary Bailey is a Grand Representative of the Indiana Grand Chapter in the Grand Chapter of Quebec, and Eileen Eldridge is Associate Grand Matron of the Grand Chapter of Quebec. They were guests of Don and Virginia Miller in New Castle, Indiana, for the first night, setting up their trailer on the Millers' property. Virginia Miller is Mary's counterpart in Indiana, representing Quebec. While there, they visited the birthplace of Wilbur Wright and attended a Smorgasbord dinner at the Community Hall.

While attending the meetings in Indianapolis, they camped at a KOA campground outside the city limits. They attended the three days of the Grand Chapter, held at the Shriner's Murat Temple, including Vesper Service, the Grand Representatives' "Light of Love" Luncheon, the Harvest of Friendship Banquet, a performance of song and dance by the 26th Street Singers, the Ball in the beautiful Egyptian Room, regular business meetings and the Installation of Officers. Other sightseeing in Indianapolis included a tour of the Scottish Rite Cathedral, which has been called one of the architectural wonders of the world, the City Museum and the Indianapolis Speedway.

Later, they continued on through Kentucky to Nashville, Tenn., where they enjoyed the Grand Ole Opry, several shows at Opryland Park, a visit to the Upper Room, and the Parthenon, which is the only exact replica in the world of the Parthenon in Athens, Greece. On the way home, a couple of days were spent visiting Hershey and Reading, Pennsylvania.

On their way to the United States, they stopped at Island Lodge, Ottawa, Ont., to visit former Mansonville residents Mildred Bradley and Lillie Traver. A most enjoyable afternoon was spent with Mildred and Lillie, who appear to be in good health and who wish to be remembered to all their friends in the Townships.

Lill Traver celebrated her 103rd birthday in March, at the home of her grandson Keith Bradley, in Ottawa.

Nelson Lodge No. 9 Church Service

PHILIPSBURG (GLK) - On Sunday evening, May 27, the members of St. Armand Masonic Lodge, Nelson No. 9, held their semi-annual Church Service in St. Paul's Anglican Church, Philipsburg, when they were joined by Masons from other neighboring Lodges.

A large congregation attended, with wives, families and friends joining them for this service which proved to be one of the most successful services to date.

A most impressive sermon was delivered by the Rev. G. Sandilands, rector of St. Paul's, assisted by the District Chaplain, Rev. Keith Eddy, pastor of Philipsburg United Church. The lessons were read by W.M. Norman Cook and I.P.M., Guy Martindale.

The choir, composed of Masonic brethren, with P.D.D. Gordon Wade as organist, led in the singing of the hymns.

The offering, which was to be given to Camp Garagona in Frelighsburg, was received by P.D.D., G.M. Fred Knight and P.S.G.W. Arthur Lackey.

Lodges, other than Nelson No. 9, represented at this service were Stanbridge No. 9, Waverley, No. 82, Sutton, No. 39, and Bedford, No. 60.

Following the service, a social hour was enjoyed in the church hall with refreshments served by members of the Anglican Guild. A vote of thanks was extended to the ladies, by Norman Cook, Master of Nelson Lodge No. 9, for this pleasant social hour where many renewed acquaintances and met friends of former years.

Your Birthday

June 12, 1979
Unusual opportunities involving your work or career could be offered you this coming year. Don't discount them just because they don't come from conventional sources.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) You'll accomplish a lot more both for yourself and for others if you get off by yourself where you won't have a bunch of people looking over your shoulder.
CANCER (June 21-July 22) Although you may not have planned it, today could turn into more of a social event than a workday. Look for the unusual to turn things around.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) The speed at which you accomplish things makes this a very productive day. You know what needs doing and you're willing to apply yourself.
VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) That mental lift you were looking for is forthcoming today. Fun things will be happening because you run into exciting and invigorating friends.
LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Something important to your basic needs that might have been hanging fire will suddenly be ready to be closed quickly.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Be on your toes. You may have an opportunity today to make a fast change in direction regarding an interest you're pursuing that will be just what you needed.
SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) It'll take more than a shrewd head to outdo you today. You're sure-footed and can react to most situations at a moment's notice.
CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Your mood today will be geared more toward light and fun activities than toward those that are on the serious side. It'll be a nice breather.
AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) You should be able to clear up a situation that you have left held you back when the competition is suddenly eliminated today.
PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Exhilarating pals could turn this into a fun day for you. Respond to spur-of-the-moment invitations.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Something good could pop out of left field today. Don't sit back on your duff. Act on it. You can only come out on top.
TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Being around other people stimulates your creativity today and ideas could pour from you. If you think any of them are worth trying, put them to work.

Oswald: "Here is an Easley Blackwood hand that really shows the importance of planning your play at trick one."

Alan: "It is a grand slam contract so it is really important for declarer to stop and think."

Oswald: "Easley points out that any unthinking declarer automatically discards a diamond on the ace of hearts at trick one. After that careless start, the bad club break leaves him one trick short."

Alan: "The discard of the ten of clubs is a sure-thing play. South draws trump, cashes his ace-king-queen of clubs, gets to dummy with a trump, leads a club from dummy, ruffs it to drop West's jack, gets back to dummy with the ace of diamonds and finally gets to discard his other diamond on that last club."

Oswald: "Maybe East should have made a Lightner double of seven spades and hoped that West could guess to lead a club."

Cournoyer, Larouche among unprotected names

MONTREAL (CP) — Several familiar names to National Hockey League fans were left off the protected lists and will be available during the expansion draft Wednesday.

At that time the four clubs from the defunct World Hockey Association that will bring the latest expansion by the NHL to 21 teams — Quebec Nordiques, Winnipeg Jets, Edmonton Oilers and Hartford Whalers — will have a chance to stock their clubs with those players left unprotected by their current NHL employers.

Exempt from the draft are first-year professionals. No NHL team can lose more than four players in the draft.

The Stanley Cup champion Montreal Canadiens, with a vast pool of talent, did not protect captain and long-time right winger Yvan Cournoyer. He underwent surgery to repair an injured back for the second time early last season. He is listed as a free agent.

Forward Pierre Larouche, a former 53-goal man with Pittsburgh Penguins, was another prominent member of the Canadiens not protected.

LIST DEFENCEMEN

Four defencemen, Rod Langway, Rick Chartraw, Gilles Lupien and Bill Nyrop were also available. While the first three saw action as Montreal won its fourth consecutive Stanley Cup, Nyrop left the club during training camp last fall.

New York Rangers, Stanley Cup finalists, made goaltender Wayne Thomas available, along with defenceman Jocelyn Guevremont and forward Pierre Plante. The Rangers rivals, the Islanders, left veteran defencemen Gerry Hart, Pat Price and forward Jude Drouin off their list.

Chicago Black Hawks did not protect assistant general manager and former defensive great Bobby Orr and defenceman Keith Magnuson.

NEWMAN FINISHES SECOND AT LE MANS

LE MANS, France (AP) — Film star Paul Newman, one of the oldest rookies in professional racing, finished second at the Le Mans 24-hour road race Sunday.

Newman was driving a Porsche 935 turbo with Dick Barbour of San Diego and West German Rolf Stommelen. They came close to beating the winners, brothers Don and Bill Whittington of Fort Lauderdale, Fla., running a similar car with another German racer, Klaus Ludwig.

Don Whittington said Newman's success "is sure going to take some of the limelight from us."

But Newman said that may keep him from the race in the future.

"My racing here places an unfortunate emphasis on the team — it takes it away from the people who really do the work," he said.

Although Newman said Barbour and Stommelen did most of the racing — in tough conditions with hours of pouring rain — Barbour said: "Newman is a real professional. He lapped as fast as we had all planned throughout."

As hundreds of cameramen vied for Newman's smile, he shook his head, exhausted, and admitted that the flamboyant atmosphere at Le Mans was not for him.

"If I don't come back next year," he said, "that'll be the reason."

RACING SINCE A TEEN

Newman, 54, has raced as an amateur since his teens, and had looked forward to this race as a chance to prove he was a serious driver.

Reds sweep Expos

Phil Niekro beats Phillies despite flu

"I don't know what it was," the Atlanta pitcher said after shaking off a virus to hurl the Braves to a 10-3 National League baseball victory Sunday over the Phillies.

"I just felt real terrible. Every time I tried to crank it up, it just flattened out."

Niekro, 40, used his off-speed pitches and knuckleballs to pitch his eighth complete game of the season and raise his record to 7-9.

In other National League games Sunday, Cincinnati Reds slipped by Montreal Expos 3-2, Houston Astros downed New York Mets 5-3, San Francisco Giants stopped Pittsburgh Pirates 7-4, Chicago Cubs clobbered Los Angeles Dodgers 10-3 and St. Louis Cardinals nipped San Diego Padres 3-2.

On Saturday, New York blanked Houston 4-0, Chicago dumped Los Angeles 5-3, Cincinnati walloped Montreal 7-1, San Francisco beat Pittsburgh 6-2, Philadelphia clobbered

Weekend baseball

Atlanta 9-3 and St. Louis whipped San Diego 7-4.

A's BEAT JAYS

In the American League on Sunday, Baltimore Orioles nipped Texas Rangers 5-4, Chicago White Sox blasted Milwaukee Brewers 13-3, New York Yankees downed Kansas City Royals 10-4, Oakland A's walloped Toronto Blue Jays 12-1, Detroit Tigers took a 10-7 decision from California Angels, Boston Red Sox blanked Minnesota Twins 5-0 and Seattle Mariners beat Cleveland Indians 5-2.

On Saturday, Boston downed Minnesota 12-6, Kansas City edged New York 9-8, Toronto blanked Oakland 5-0, Baltimore nipped Texas 4-3, Chicago defeated Milwaukee 6-2, California whipped Detroit 9-1 and Cleveland shaded Seattle 4-3.

ALLOWS EIGHT HITS

Niekro, a right-hander, allowed eight hits in continuing his mastery over the Phillies, against whom he was 4-0 last year. Niekro now boasts a 21-12 lifetime record against Philadelphia.

Shortstop Pepe Frias and first baseman Mike Lum both drove in three runs for the Braves. Frias singled home two runs in the first, doubled home another in the third and delivered his third run of the game by singling to centre in the seventh and coming home on Lum's second homer of the season.

Jack Clark and Darrell Evans both collected three hits and drove in two runs each to lead San Francisco over Pittsburgh. Giants reliever Gary Lavelle, 4-2, shut out Pittsburgh over the final three innings for the victory.

Astros 5 Mets 3

A two-run single by Craig Reynolds highlighted a four-run fourth inning that lifted Houston past New York. George Throop, 1-0, the second of three Houston pitchers, was the winner. Joe Sambito pitched the final four innings and picked up his fifth save as the Astros won for the 10th time in their last 12 games.

Reds 3 Expos 2

Cesar Geronimo drove in two runs with his first homer of the season and a double, and Dave Concepcion added a run-scoring double to carry Cincinnati past Montreal.

Reliever Doug Bair, who retired the Expos in order the final two innings, originally was declared the winner under a provision that allows the official scorer discretion in awarding the victory if a pitcher works briefly and ineffectively.

However, the scorer later reversed himself and gave the victory to Tommy Hume and credited Bair with a save.

Cubs 10 Dodgers 3

Bill Buckner slammed a bases-loaded triple, a home run and a single, driving in five runs to power Chicago's victory. Dave Kingman walloped his 20th home run for the Cubs and added an RBI single. Ivan DeJesus had three singles and scored three times for the winners.

Borg wins tourney, Pecci fans

PARIS (AP) — Bjorn Borg held on to his title, but it was Victor Pecci who won the fans at the French Open tennis championship.

For 30 minutes in Sunday's final, Borg of Sweden looked vulnerable. He led Pecci of Paraguay 2-0 in sets and 5-2 in the third, but then the defending champion's machine-like precision and clay court brilliance suddenly cracked.

Pecci with a flurry of brilliant volleys won the next three games and eventually the set.

Borg, 23, regained his composure in the 10-minute break between the third and fourth sets and saved his fourth French Open crown.

Fans raised Pecci to their shoulders and paraded him in front of the cheering crowd. For two weeks he had wowed spectators by beating higher-ranked players in the $485,000 tournament.

Pecci upset Italy's Corrado Barrazzutti, American Harold Solomon and Guillermo Vilas of Argentina en route to the semifinals.

BACKED UNDERDOG

When Pecci broke Borg's serve to make it 5-3 in the crucial third set, the crowd tried to bolster the underdog with cries of "Pecci, Pecci."

Pecci said afterwards the match had given him a big lift for Wimbledon later this month.

Borg earned $39,000 and became the first player to win this clay court classic four times since it moved to Roland Garros stadium 51 years ago.

In the French Open junior tournament, Ramesh Krishman of India took the title by downing Ben Testerman of the U.S. 2-6, 6-1, 6-0 on Sunday.

short notes...

Lenn hockey registration

LENNOXVILLE (ME) — The Lennoxville Minor Hockey Association is holding early registration this week for next winter's season. Players may be registered at the Lennoxville Town Hall Wednesday and Thursday evenings, June 13 and 14, from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m.

The advance registration is being held in order to give the LMHA executive more time to prepare a full and satisfactory program for 1979-80. Since this is the "Year of the Child", the LMHA is stressing participation in all categories.

NASL roundup

Sockers 4, Drillers 0

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Yilmaz Orhan scored his first two goals of the 1979 season Sunday night as San Diego Sockers broke a three-game North American Soccer League losing streak with a 4-0 victory over Edmonton Drillers.

The Sockers, who now are 6-9, scored the only goal they needed when Orhan connected at 8:02 with assists from Walker McCall and Leonardo Cuellar. San Diego made it 2-0 at 12:59 when Julie Veeve scored with an assist from Orhan.

It remained 2-0 until Orhan connected again at 47:35 with Cuellar being credited with his second assist. Cuellar completed the scoring with a 20-yard shot at 63:58.

The Sockers attempted 24 shots to 12 for the Drillers. San Diego goal-keeper Alan Mayer was credited with three saves in recording his fourth shutout of the season. Edmonton goalkeeper Jan Endeman was credited with nine saves.

Lancers 2, Fury 1 (OT)

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — Rochester's Harmut Huhse, a recent Lancer acquisition from West Germany, took a deflected pass from Mike Stojanovic and booted it into Philadelphia Fury's goal Sunday, leading his team to a 2-1 overtime victory in North American Soccer League action.

The play, with 4:55 left to play in the second overtime period, was the first goal allowed by Fury goalkeeper Keith Van Eron in 226 minutes.

Van Eron was beaten as Huhse, playing in his fifth NASL match, beat two Fury defenders to make a 10-yard point-blank shot into the goal.

Huhse scored his first goal at 13:36 into the match, when he took a pass from Renato Cila at the top of the penalty box and sent it past Van Eron from 25 yards out.

Bobby Unser snaps slump

TRENTON, N.J. (AP) — Bobby Unser broke a three-year victory drought Sunday, sweeping both ends of Championship Auto Racing Team-sanctioned Trenton Twin-Indy.

Unser, whose last victory came in the 1976 Ontario 500, finished 1.5 seconds ahead of his brother Al in the first leg of the twin 100-mile races around the 1½-mile oval.

He was six seconds better than runner-up Wally Dallenbach in the second race.

Driving his PC-7 Cosworth Ground Effects racer, Bobby Unser won both $9,405 first prizes in grabbing his sixth and seventh wins at the speedway here.

Unser earned the pole position in the second race after posting his first-leg win in 49:50, averaging 129.68 miles an hour. He led for 66 of the 67 laps in the second race, momentarily losing the lead early in the first lap to Gordon Johncock, who finished third and fifth respectively.

Ex-Leaf Garland dies in crash

MONTREAL (CP) — Scott Garland, 27, a forward with Toronto Maple Leafs until traded to the Los Angeles Kings organization last June, was killed in an automobile accident during the weekend.

Garland of Regina was killed when the car he was driving on a freeway blew a tire and spun out of control, police reported.

The 6-foot-1, 185-pound centre who also played right wing and defence, was part of a five-player trade last June between Los Angeles and Toronto that sent Dave Hutchison and Lorne Stamler to the Leafs in exchange for Garland, Brian Glennie, Kurt Walker and a second-round draft choice.

Garland played most of last season with Springfield Indians, the Kings' American Hockey League farm team. In 45 games with the Indians, he scored 11 goals with 20 assists and 114 minutes in penalties.

He also appeared in six games for the parent Kings, coming up with an assist.

Garland spent the 1975-76 and 76-77 seasons with the Leafs, appearing in a total of 85 games and scoring 13 goals with 23 assists.

After breaking his collarbone in the 77-78 training camp, he finished the season with Tulsa Oilers of the Central Hockey League.

Caponi Young wins LPGA

MASON, Ohio (AP) — Donna Caponi Young reflected on her career after winning her first Ladies Professional Golfers Association championship.

"It's a big impact on me; I'm not over the hill; I can still win a major championship," said the woman who has done it three times, adding the LPGA to 1969 and 1970 U.S. Open crowns.

Her final-round, two-underpar 70 gave her a 72-hole total of 279, nine-under-par over the Nicklaus Golf Centre course. That was three shots better than runner-up Jerilyn Britz, 73 — 282, over the 6,313-yard course.

"I'm 34 and I feel like I really haven't reached my potential yet," said the winner of 14 tournaments in 15 years.

Bean breezes to golf win

ATLANTA (AP) — Andy Bean turned the Atlanta golf tournament into the easiest triumph on the PGA tour in three years and concluded:

"No doubt, that's the best I've played in a long time, if not the best I've ever played."

"It was ridiculous how good he played," said Joe Inman, the runner-up who finished eight shots behind Bean who had a closing five-under-par 67 Sunday for a course-record 265, 23 shots under par.

It was the biggest total under par since Johnny Miller captured the 1975 Tucson Open with a 25-under total and the biggest margin of victory on tour since Ray Floyd won the 1976 Masters by eight shots.

"For once, I guess, I thought a little bit and kept myself out of trouble," said Bean, who carried a five-shot lead into the final round after a record-setting 61 Saturday over the hilly, 7,019-yard Atlanta Country Club course.

PICKED FLAT TARGETS

"I picked out targets to get a flat lie, even if it was 20 or 30 yards short of where I could hit it."

The reward was a $54,000 first prize and his fifth tour victory.

"I just wish Andy Bean hadn't come here," said Inman. "Why can't he be like Jack Nicklaus and skip the tournament before the U.S. Open?"
