IMPORTANT!

Remarkable Restoration to Health of Well Known Canadian whose Cases were Given up as Incurable.

From the few of the hundreds of letters we have received from those who have been restored to health and strength by the use of that wonderful discovery, Paine's Celery Compound, we make a few extracts. We hope that the thousands of Canadian men and women who are suffering from nervous and wasting diseases, will profit by these true and plain statements of facts.

D. S. Davidson, of Montreal, suffered for years with nervous dyspepsia, pain in his back, and sleeplessness. He tried doctors without relief, was losing flesh rapidly, and had about given up heart when he commenced the use of Paine's Celery Compound. "Now," he says, "I am a new man. I sleep well and my food does not hurt me."

Mr. Jas. Johnson, 302 St. Charles Ber-more Street, Montreal, was weak and nervous, had no appetite, and could not rest at night. His nerves were soothed and strengthened by Paine's Celery Compound, and he soon became well and strong.

Annie Gourley, of River Beaudette, P. Q., found the Compound a certain cure for weakness, and now feels as well as she ever did.

A customer of Harrison Bros., drug gists, Hamilton, Ont., told them that he was entirely cured of nervous weakness by the use of two bottles of the Compound, after everything else had failed.

The little child of Mrs. G. E. Meredith, 76 D'Arcy St., Toronto, was cured of St.
Vik's Dance by Paine's Celery Compound

METEOROLOGICAL OFFICE,

TORONTO, Ont., Dec. 2, 11 p.m.
The depression which was over Lake Superior last night has moved to the Gulf of St. Lawrence and another has moved quickly from the far west the lake region, bringing rain. The high area in the northwest is spreading southward and eastward, with colder weather.
Minimum temperatures—Calgary, 38°; Qu'Appelle, 26°; Winnipeg, 10°; Toronto, 41°; Montreal, 35°; Quebec, 38°; Halifax, 45°.

Probabilities.

Lakes—Fresh to strong northeast to north winds; cloudy weather, with rain, turning to snow; lower temperature.
Upper St. Lawrence—Northeast to northwest winds; cloudy weather, with rain and snow; turning colder.
Lower St. Lawrence and Gulf—Northwest to north winds; mostly cloudy and colder, with light snow.
Maritime—Fresh to strong winds;
mostly cloudy, followed by rain to-night.

Agricultural Club.

ROXTON FALLS, Dec. 2.—Chas. Thibault, advocate, made an eloquent speech here yesterday about the organization of an agricultural club. The meeting was most enthusiastic.

Closing Canal Navigation.

ALBANY, N. Y., Dec. 2.—The canals were closed for the season at midnight on Saturday. All boats reached tide water in good season. Contractors are already at work lengthening the locks between Schenectady and Pattersonville.

No Foundation for the Story.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Dec. 2.—Walker Blaine denies absolutely that the State Department has received any intelligence of the refusal of Hypolyte to recognize United States Minister Douglas. He dis-credits the rumour as wholly without foundation.

Woman and Four Children Cremated.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Dec. 2.—A fire in Gustave Gross' bakery and dwelling, northeast corner of Second and Huntingdon streets, early this morning, destroyed the shop and dwelling, and one woman and four children were burned to death.
Three other adults were seriously burned.

A New Found Salt Mine.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Nov. 2.—Akron capitalists boring for gas at Wadsworth, near Akron, have struck a vein of salt over one hundred feet thick. The bed is half a mile down but the company, which already controls 8,000 acres in the vicinity, will commence operations.
They claim that they will produce salt for one dollar per ton.

Railway Collision.

CHICAGO, Dec. 2.—At about 1.30 o'clock this morning two freight trains on the C. M. & St. Paul road collided near Ogden and Western avenues. Fireman Wm. Dyer and John McWilliams each suffered from crushed legs and internal injuries and will probably die. Both engines and several cars, including two loaded with cattle, were wrecked.

Three Children Burnt to Death.

FRANKLIN, Ky., Dec. 2.—Yesterday afternoon Squire Downey, a coloured man living near this city, and his wife went to visit a neighbour, leaving their three small children in charge of the house.
In their absence the house caught fire and burnt to the ground. All three of the children perished in the flames.

Steam Ferry Boat Burned.

BALTIMORE, Md., Dec. 2.—The new transfer steam ferry boat Groton, recently purchased by the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad Company, was burnt at sea last night while on her way to Baltimore from New York. The Thames River, a companion boat, came up and took the captain and crew off the Groton. The Groton was valued at $60,- 000.

Wreck on the Railway.

NEW YORK, Dec. 2.—At an early hour this morning a collision occurred at Bloods on the western end of the New York, Lake Erie and Western Railroad, which resulted in the wrecking of two engines and two loaded freight cars. The accident was caused by an eastward bound train running into a westward bound train the latter was backing on a siding to let the passenger pass. No one was hurt.

MANCHESTER MEN

Give an Enthusiastic Reception to Mr. Gladstone.

LANCASHIRE APPROVAL OF THE PROGRAMME

A Series of Reforms That Will Start a New Era.

THE LIBERAL TRIUMPH IN EN-GLAND.

"What Lancashire Says to-day All England Says To-morrow."

LONDON, Dec. 2.—Probably no one of lower rank than royalty has ever been honoured with a reception so genuinely enthusiastic as that given to Mr. Gladstone by the citizens of Manchester, without regard to politics, upon his arrival here this morning, accompanied by his wife and son, Mr.
Herbert Gladstone, M. P. Nearly all the available hotel accommodation was secured long ago, and last night and this morning the appearance of the streets of the town gave the impression that a fête or a country fair was in progress. Some time before the train was due the street about the station itself was occupied by the numerous deputations who received him and a strong detachment of police, who kept the platforms clear and made a way for the traffic about the station. Mr. Gladstone and his party, upon alighting from the saloon car which had been placed at their disposal, made their way to the open carriage, and as the leader of the Liberals appeared outside the station he was greeted with prolonged and deafening cheers. His way through the streets was a veritable triumphal progress and he was forced to ride most of the distance bareheaded, in deference to the shouts of welcome arising on every side.
A like demonstration was accorded him when he arrived at the Free Trade Hall this afternoon. The number of applications for tickets of admission greatly exceeded the capacity of the hall, which is not one of very large size, but was chosen so that Mr. Gladstone might not strain himself in speaking so that a vast multitude might hear him. His address was listened to with the greatest attention. He was in the best of health and spirits and everyone was delighted with the vim and enthusiasm with which he maintained his buoyancy and effectiveness throughout.
He spoke fifty minutes and there was not one in the packed hall who would not gladly have endured the discomforts of his contracted position had he prolonged his address another hour. The event was unquestionably the greatest that Manchester has ever witnessed, and the crowd, even when carried away by their enthusiasm they broke through the police cordon at the station and impeded Mr. Gladstone's carriage, maintained the utmost good nature and unani-mity of purpose to do honour to the distinguished visitor.

THE SPEECH.
Mr. Gladstone said that since 1855 there had been an enormous stimulation of the public mind upon the question of dwellings for the poor, the enfranchise-ment of lease holders, the matter of legislation for the benefit of the crofters, a shorter duration of Parliament, disestablishment of the church in Scotland and Wales, regulation of the currency, modifying the status of the House of Lords and provisions for direct Welsh and Scottish home rule, all of which questions must be dealt with by future parliaments. He referred with some feeling to his approaching eightieth birthday as an event which made it impossible that he would have a direct interest in many future reforms.

The Turkish Government was again before the public through the recent and pre-arranged transactions in Crete and Armenia where incidents had occurred requiring the bringing of them home to the conscience of the British people. He sincerely hoped the Government would indulge in the use of no honeyed words in dealing with Turkey in matters involving human life, liberty and female honor, and concluded his address by predicting a sweeping Liberal victory at the next election.

ELECTRIC LIGHTING OF LONDON.

Security for Life Required.

LONDON, Dec. 2.—The St. James Gazette devotes a long and earnest leading article to the subject of electric lighting, taking pains to call the general attention to the disastrous results of the system to human life in American cities where it is supposed, or at least claimed by American electricians, that the method of illumination has reached a point nearer perfection than in any other country. With this situation confronting the people of London they have reason to fear that similar disasters were in store for them and the Gazette emphasized the importance of exhaustive scientific legislation on the subject, resulting in a code of laws governing the matter, as a pre-requisite to the grant of permits to companies desiring to engage in the business in London. To neglect this precaution, it asserts, would be criminal.

THE CRONIN TRIAL.

CHICAGO, Ills., Dec. 2.—When Judge McConnell's Court opened this morning in the Cronin case Mr. Forrester proceeded to offer evidence contradictory of the testimony of Conklin regarding the knives, said to be Cronin's, which were found in Dan Coughlin's possession.

August Loewenstein, a tailor on Clark street, near Washington, testified that on April 27th Dan Coughlin bought a pair of trousers at his place, they were not a good fit and one of his men altered them. Coughlin waited in the store for them and then put them on.
After changing his trousers the ex-
-detective took all the articles he had carried in the old trousers pockets and transferred them to the new garment. Among them were two knives. Witness was shown the knives put in evidence Friday and declared them to be exactly like those he saw that day. He noticed them particularly in the store, because he wanted Coughlin to let him take one and he would not. Witness said to the best of his judgment they were the same knives.

On the cross-examination witness insisted that the date was April 27, Cough-lin's name was not on the books because it was a cash transaction.

Ex-Detective Loewenstein, Coughlin's partner, swore that he recognized one of the knives as the one Coughlin had carried for a long time, the other one he was pretty sure of but not positive.

After a slight delay Judge Wing resumed his argument for the defence.

Judge Wing said as he ended Saturday so he began to-day with the danger and untrustworthiness of circumstantial evidence. After dwelling for some time on this point he for the first time referred to the testimony against the suspects. That part of it given by Saloon-keeper Nieman was picked up and the side favourable to the defence shown to the jury. The reluctance of the witness to positively identify Coughlin and Kunze as the ones who had come into his saloon on the night of May 4 was argued upon at great length, and inasmuch as the witness had not been certain of the men there was not, in the speaker's mind, any reason to believe that he was certain of the date. Continuing on this line he argued that Nieman not being certain and the Hylands on the other hand being most positively certain, the testimony of the latter should receive the credence of the jury. "On the night of May 4 P. O'Sullivan was in his home," exclaimed the attorney, "if you do not believe it then you must set aside the testimony of the entire household with which O'Sullivan lived." Attorney Wing then took up Dan Coughlin's alibi and declared it was all right. He said that it had been charged that the witnesses had committed perjury. "If such was the fact why don't they indict and prosecute the perjurer?" Next the speaker proceeded to belittle the evidence of "Major" Sampson offering the "Major's" tough character as his weapon.
In this fashion the speaker continued to dispose of the numerous phases of the trial. The suspects paid strict attention to every word. They seemed to drink in each sentence with the eagerness of a weary traveller in the desert.
Dan Coughlin was the most attentive of the five. Regarding the identification of Coughlin and Kunze by Mertes and the identification of Dinan's horse, Judge Wing had considerable to say about the similarity of description of different individuals. He maintained that no reliance was to be placed on either identification. He cited the case of Tascot who, he said, had been duplicated a hundred times during the past year on account of the minute description furnished by the authorities.

The idea of a sane man, while suspected of murder, carrying for two weeks in his pocket the knives of the murdered man was, in Attorney Wing's mind, too ridiculous a proposition to be entertained for a moment. The conspiracy and its relation to Camp 20 next claimed the advocate's attention. "The case of conspiracy must be established by the State beyond a reasonable doubt," he said, "either such a case must be proved or the trial must be dropped and the prisoners discharged," and the only proof that such a conspiracy did exist was by circumstantial evidence, and circumstantial evidence of a very flimsy nature. I have heard of many cases of conspiracy but never have I heard of a case so absurd as this one.
There is nothing to show that a conspiracy existed. It may be true that factions existed in the society, that Cronin led one faction and somebody else another, but the only thing that can be made clear is that some men disliked Cronin for his stand on certain points. The assumption that the murder of Dr. Cronin had been decided upon at a meeting of forty persons, many of them intimate friends of the doctor, and for no other reason than that he had read a report of a trial in another camp, the speaker characterized as nonsense and absurdity, and asked the jury could they as men believe it.

"As to the white horse hired from Dinan, the attorney continued, "was it likely that a man who was contemplating murder would have hired a horse from a place at which he was known? It has been frequently asked why, if Coughlin's connection with the white horse was innocent why hasn't the man been brought back and why hasn't the man come back. I wish he had come back, but the State with all its resources had been unable to bring him back, and neither has the defence. As for the man himself there is little reason why he should come back. It would have been too risky a thing to do with a prosecution able to identify anything and anybody. The man would have been identified by Mrs. Conklin. He knew it and stayed away."

At this point the Court adjourned until to-morrow, when Judge Wing will continue his address and Attorney Ingham begin for the State.

Increase in Quebec Timber Dues Revenue—U. S. Wheat for Montreal—Lumber for Quebec.

OTTAWA, Dec. 2.—Hon. James Royal Lieut.-Governor of the Northwest Territories, arrived here to-day.

The Quebec Government's Forest Rangers, Ottawa district, met at Hull on Saturday, when it was announced that the increase in the revenue of the district for timber dues reached $300,000.

Owing to the close of navigation the C. P. R. is transporting from boats to cars at Prescott, Ont., 25,000 bushels of American wheat destined for the Montreal market.

Mr. Alonzo Wright, M. P., has been seriously unwell for some time past.

Mr. E. Prout, of the Emery Lumber Company of Wabnapeca, Ont., is here arranging with Mr. G. A. Honston, district general freight agent of the C. P. R., for the transportation of a large quantity of square timber from Sudbury to Papi-neauville. The shipments to that point every year by the C. P. R. reach two million feet of pine timber. The timber is placed in the Ottawa River at Papi-neauville, whence it is rafted to Quebec.

Hon. Wm. McDonnell has received an invitation from Rev. Principal Grant, of Queen's University, Kingston, to attend the semi-Centennial celebration of the establishment of the University, which is to be held in Kingston on the 18th of December.

Capt. J. L. Murphy and Mr. O'Sills, of the Upper Ottawa Towing Co., Pembroke, and Capt. Goulet, of Aylmer, are in the city negotiating with the recently incorporated Ottawa River Improvement Company for the transfer of the steamers and other plant owned by the first named company to the latter. The Upper Ottawa Towing Company own seven steamers and Capt. Goulet owns two. It is likely that all these will be transferred to the Improvement Company, of which Mr. G. B. Greene is the general manager and which is authorized by Parliament to construct or purchase piers, booms, slides, dams, etc., on any part of the Ottawa river between the heads of Chats rapids and the Quinze rapids for the purpose of facilitating the transmission of timber or sawlogs.

An officer of the Canadian Customs at present in the city has been investigating the extent of the opium traffic in British Columbia, and as the result of his investigation it is shown that the United States revenue is losing at the rate of half to three-quarters of a million dollars annually in the duty on opium smuggled into the United States from that province. There are, he says, thirty-seven refining factories at present in operation in Victoria, each of which pays a municipal license of $500 annually. The fact that the quantity of crude opium imported for refining purposes into British Columbia increased from 5,000 pounds in 1880 to 1,000,989 pounds last year shows how profitable the trade has been.
It is estimated that a quantity of crude opium imported last year would produce 50,000 pounds of the refined article. The officer in question says that 5,000 pounds, only of the refined product would supply all the demands for home consumption and the balance of 45,000 pounds of the surplus product of the British Columbia refineries would have to be disposed of in a foreign market. Investigation shows that this was disposed of in the United States. The fact that no return of any refined opium having been exported was reported to the Canadian Customs officials clearly indicates that it was smuggled out of the country. The United States returns, he says, only show that seventy-seven pounds of refined opium was imported into that country last year from Canada. It is, therefore, clear that the 450,000 pounds, the surplus product of the British Columbia refineries, was supplied across the border, the duty on which would have amounted to $450,000, paying at the rate of $10 per pound. In making this calculation he says that only the quantity of crude opium which actually paid duty and was reported to the Canadian Customs on being imported was taken into consideration. The quantity smuggled into British Columbia, he believes, would reach 100,000 pounds more, which, when refined, would increase the quantity of refined opium for which a foreign market had to be found to about 100,000 lbs. The Dominion Government as a matter of self-preservation in checking the rapidly increasing opium habit which is reported to be going on in the country, and with a view to assisting the United States Government in putting down the smuggling traffic as far as it lies within their power, is endeavoring to impose restriction which the business could not profitably bear. The idea of imposing an excise duty on all the opium refined in Canada of say from $3 to $5 per pound has been suggested as the most likely remedy for the existing evil. The refineries, as in the case of distilleries, would be under the surveillance of excise officers, and by this means it is contended that if it did not succeed in cultivating the manufacture it would contribute in the way of excise duty in the vicinity of half a million dollars to the Dominion revenue annually.

Inquest—Queen's Bench—Accident to an Immigrant—Narrow Escape of the Railway Passengers.

QUEBEC, Dec. 2.—The Coroner held an inquest at Lorette this morning on the body of Marie Leagrie, aged 46, wife of Pierre Savard, farmer, who died suddenly on Sunday morning. The verdict was death from apoplexy, caused by indig-estation.

The December term of the Court of Queen's Bench, appeal side, opened this morning. Chief Justice Duron presided. There are some eight cases on the roll for argument.

This morning an immigrant named Rowley, from, booked for Nanaimo, B. C., fell down the steps of the ferry steamer pilot and broke one of his legs in two places. On the arrival of the boat at this side he was conveyed to the waiting room of the company and Dr. Debois summoned to set the fractured limb. He was afterwards removed to the Marine Hospital.

Yesterday afternoon as the English mail special, consisting of three cars and an engine, was leaving the St. Charles station, about twenty miles below Lewis, for the latter place, the baggage and first class cars became derailed by the wheels jumping the track and following a switch line. The engine and Pullman remained on the steels. None of the passengers were injured with the exception of being terribly shaken up. Mr. D. Fairman, mail clerk, had a narrow escape, his car being badly smashed. He received quite a shock. Fortunately the speed of the train was not very high or else the accident might have been more serious. The two derailed cars were considerably smashed. When the news of the casualty reached Quebec a special train was made up and despatched to the scene, when the passengers and mails were transferred and conveyed to Quebec, arriving here about 9 o'clock last night.

Hudson Bay Railway Bonds—Revenue Returns for the Port of Winnipeg.

WINNIPEG, Man., Dec. 2.—A bill has been filed by the Hudson Bay Railway against James Ross, Donald D. Mann, H.
S. Holt and the Imperial Bank to restrain them from dealing with $374,000 worth of bonds of the plaintiff company on the ground that they were obtained by fraud. The bonds were placed by plaintiffs in the Bank of Montreal in 1887 to secure the performance of a contract between the plaintiffs and defendants, Mann, Holt and Ross, for the construction of forty miles of the road that is now built, and they were to be handed over by the Bank of Montreal to defendants when the forty miles were completed according to contract, and on its passing Government inspection and being completed in such a way that plaintiffs should receive the land grant on that portion of the road.
The fraud charged is that defendant represented the road was completed according to contract, had government inspection, and the government were ready to hand over the land grant when the road was constructed. On these representations, an acknowledgment of indebtedness from plaintiffs was obtained by defendant, on which they got the bonds handed over to them by the Bank of Montreal and deposited them with the Imperial Bank for safe keeping.
About three weeks ago they served notice on plaintiffs that they intended to sell the bonds unless they were redeemed within thirty days, and the plaintiffs applied and obtained an injunction.
A writ has been issued against defendants claiming three hundred thousand dollars damage for breach of contract in connection with the construction of the forty miles.

HALIFAX HAPPENINGS.

Revenue Returns—Divorce Case—Is it an Engagement?

HALIFAX, N. S., Dec. 2.—The inland revenue receipts at Halifax last month were $26,601, a decrease compared with November, 1888, of $2,300.

The case of Jeffrey vs. Jeffrey was tried in the Divorce Court to-day. The parties belong to Bridgewater, and have been married for twenty years. Anna B.
Jeffrey sues for a divorce from Charles Jeffrey, on the charge of drunkenness and brutal conduct. Judgment was reserved.

A special to the Echo from New York, says: Mrs. Turnure denies that her daughter, Jeanne, is engaged to be married to Prince Victor Duplep Singh.
The Turnures occupy a position of the highest social importance, and reside in a palatial establishment on Fifth avenue, with a coat of arms over the entrance. Prince Victor was the guest of the Turnures a short time ago at Lennox, the supremely fashionable watering place. He rode, danced and flirted with Miss Turnure, who is a beautiful and clever girl and a great horsewoman. He was undoubtedly very much devoted to her. The Turnures are millionaires and have a palace at Lennox as well as in New York. Lawrence Turnure is a wealthy lawyer and Miss Jeanne is conspicuous in the highest society. Some think the engagement is real notwithstanding the denial.

Riot at a Bull Fight.

CITY OF MEXICO, Dec. 2.—Spectators at a bull fight in this city yesterday became disgusted because the bulls refused to fight. They showed their displeasure by pitching chairs into the arena, and the police and soldiers were powerless to stop the disturbance. Many of the audience were struck and injured by boards being hurled against them. Before the disturbance was quieted the spectators had knocked out the sides of the plaza, torn out its floors and left it in a wrecked condition.

DIVIDENDS DECLARED. Bank of Montreal semi-annual 5 per cent. payable Dec. 2.

THE HERALD OFFICE, Monday Evening, Dec. 2, 1889.

There was not much life in the market for local stocks to-day and the volume of business continues light.

The day's sales amounted to 622 shares, as follows: MORNING BOARD. 6 Bank of Montreal at 22 1/2.

The closing figures are as follows, compiled by Messrs. D. L. McDougall & Co., No. 11 St. Sacramento street—

Table with columns: Stocks, Values of Shares, Buyers, Sellers, Opening, Closing, High, Low, etc.

The following are to-day's quotations compiled specially for THE HERALD by Messrs. W. L. S. Jackson & Co., No. 1761 Notre Dame st. (P. O. Box 906), Montreal.

Table with columns: Posted, Actual, Sterling @ days, Demand, Cables, Commercial, Documentary, France (Paris) Long, do. Short.

New York Stock Market.

This market opened very weak and some stocks showed a decline of 2@4 points, but after some of the weak holders were shaken out there was an improvement, and the feeling at the close was firmer.

Messrs. Macdougall Bros., 69 St. Francois Xavier street, report the following fluctuations and sales to-day—

Table with columns: Stocks, Values of Shares, Buyers, Sellers, Opening, Closing, High, Low, etc.

*Ex-div.

[SPECIAL TO THE HERALD.]

New York, Dec. 2.—Money closed at 6 per cent, the lowest rate; the highest rate was 15. Exchange closed steady. Posted rates, $4.81@4.86; actual rates, $4.80@4.81 for 60 days and $4.85@4.86 for demand.

TEAS.

Messrs. Russell & Co., Shanghai, Oct. 25th, as follows: Black tea.—Since departure of last mail on the 18th inst, there has been a moderate business transacted in Consou. In rates current there is no change to notice.

HARSH PURGATIVE REMEDIES are fast giving way to the gentle action and mild effects of Carter's Little Liver Pills.

PRODUCE AND PROVISIONS

Breadstuffs.

MONTEAL, December 2, 1889. FLOUR.—The local flour market is for the present lifeless. There is no quotable change in prices, but the demand is very light, principally for the city trade, which is steady, as stocks in consumers hands are low.

Wheat.—Receipts, 465 cars; shipments, 456,000 bushels. The market was steady to strong. Oats.—Receipts, 162 cars; shipments, 200,584 bushels. The market was strong and high.

Feed.

There is a good demand for bran at $13.00@14.00 per ton; shorts, $15.00@16.00 per ton; moulins, $21.00@23.00 per ton.

Grain.

Peas are in demand for export via Portland, and sales are reported at 56c@60c per 60 lbs. along the line at various points west of Toronto.

PORK, LARD, &c.

The market is quiet but firm for pork. Lard is moving freely at our quotations. There is no Montreal short cut offering yet.

Dressed Hogs.

The settled cold weather the end of last week brought out some hogs, and dealers here claim to have bought in the West, equal to a little less than $6 laid down here.

Eggs.

There is a good demand and prices are unchanged at 16c@18c for lined, 20c for fresh.

Poultry.

The offerings to-day are heavier and there is a good demand for chickens, turkeys, geese at steady figures.

Dairy Products.

BUTTER.—The butter market is without any new feature; prices are not in any way changed. There is a good demand for all offerings of choice table butter, but other grades are slow of sale.

CHEESE.—The English markets are called sixpence firmer at 55 shillings per cwt.

Wheat.—Options were fairly active to-day, closing 1/2@3/4 higher. Spot lots closed firmer. Spot sales No. 2 red, 83c@84c; No. 3 red, 81c; No. 2 Northwest, 83c; No. 2 red winter, Dec., 83c; Jan., 85c; Feb., 84c; March, 87c; May, 89c.

WAR BETWEEN CANALS AND RAILROADS

New York State Boat-Owners Organize to Resist Unjust Discrimination.

New York, Nov. 28.—An association has been organized to fight the railroad interests, which are said to threaten the utter ruin of the Erie Canal traffic.

The forwarders, boat-owners and others interested in the canal have long been in a state of rebellion against what they claim are the unjust acts of the railways, which they claim also control the canal, to the great injury of the state and this city.

There was a preliminary meeting of the association Tuesday a ternoon at No. 10 South street, and Capt. M. Depew was elected president of the new organization, which has been formed for the purpose of presenting the members' grievances to the people and to the legislature.

The newly-elected president of the organization, Capt. Depew, tells briefly the grievances existing. He charges that excessive wharfage rates are charged by the city of New York, that the grain elevator rates and the insurance rates are unjust and illegal, and that discrimination in favour of the railroads against the canal is unfair to boat-owners and to the people of the state.

Hoaxing the Irish Police.

LONDON, December 1.—The Irish Nationalists are enjoying themselves over the trouble they have caused the police at Limerick by making ostensible preparations for extensive meetings in honor of the "Manchester martyrs."

They have kept the entire constabulary of the district in a ferment of doubt, guards being out day and night. The discomfiture of the bobbies as the conviction slowly dawns on them that they are being hoaxed is described as something pitiable.

A Plain Statement.

CABLE LETTER.

A Crisis in Parties at Hand in England.

St. Petersburg With a Cold in Its Head.

Martin Tupper Gone to Reap the Fruits of Proverbial Philosophy—How the Pope Stands—Stanley and Emin Bey.

LONDON, Nov. 30.—Next week a great and momentous forward step will be taken in British politics, the influence of which will be felt for years to come. Its crowning feature is to be a speech, and one would think at first blush that speeches enough had been made already and that it was an exaggeration to attach that great importance to any new oration from whatever source, but it is true that Tuesday's speech at Manchester will mark a distinct epoch in the public history of Great Britain and Ireland. Mr. Gladstone, standing on the threshold of his eighties, is to define the whole position of the Liberal party toward not only Irish home rule, but disestablishment, the abolition of the House of Lords, electoral reform, ground rent, taxation, free education, and the entire list of political aspirations which burn here in progressive minds.

No such pronouncement has been made since the Home Rule bill was beaten in the summer of 1886. The Liberal party has existed since that defeat as a mere formless combination of Tories, embracing Whigs, Liberals, Radicals, Democrats and Parnellites, with no definite programme and no bond of cohesion save a general recognition of Gladstone's leadership. More by the folly of their adversaries than by their own aggressive strength this motley opposition has won victories and increased its prestige until the time has arrived for it to assume the organization and responsibility of a dominant party. Very probably another twelvemonth will see it in power.

The activity and enthusiasm at Manchester, where the preparations are making for Monday's and Tuesday's great meetings of the Liberal Federation, could not be greater if a general election were coming next week. Nearly two hundred peers and members of Parliament are to surround the Grand Old Man on the platform, and huge overflow meetings will be held, not only in Manchester, but all through that crowded twenty miles' radius of Lancashire suburbs, which holds a bigger population than London contains. I am told that England has never seen such a vast political gathering as this, of which Manchester will be the focus within the next sixty hours. It cannot be doubted that its effects will be felt everywhere throughout these islands.

The exposures made in these dispatches some months ago of the Vatican's duplicity in sending Mgr. Persico to Ireland only to serve as a mask for the adoption of an anti-Irish policy which he was all the while vigorously protesting against, and the general expression of opinion that the Vatican had never seen such a vast political gathering as this, of which Manchester will be the focus within the next sixty hours. It cannot be doubted that its effects will be felt everywhere throughout these islands.

However that may work, there is facing us the present result that the Irish members, backed up by their home-constituents, are now for the first time ready to join hands with the Radical wing of English Liberals in something very like a democratic programme. Rome's ultra astute tactics are credited here with having played the leading part in the transformation of Brazil into a republic. Her much too fine Italian hand has been doing much the same kind of work in Ireland, where for the first time the political feelings of the people are an incentive to, rather than a drag upon, the progressive action of the British democracy.

To be candid, the Papacy is just now in a very delicate, not to say discredited, position politically. There was a great notion in Vatican circles when the result of the recent French elections became known of securing an alliance with the moderate Republicans, who had won such a conspicuous triumph. It was true that all the more ultramontane French prelates had done all they could to prevent this triumph and abet Boulanger and the enemies of the republic generally; but Rome was quite willing to forget this and cultivate friendship with the power she had vainly sought to destroy. Of course, the plan was to use this power as an offset against the Italian Government, and for the first few weeks after the election there seemed a chance that this scheme would succeed; but better counsels have prevailed. King Humbert has publicly expressed a desire to resume the old untrammelled relations with France, and he said this welcome thing in so kindly a way that the republic is already holding out her hand in responsive amity.

Even more significant, perhaps, is the agreement of all the nations represented in the anti-slavery conference, now sitting in Brussels, not to invite the Vatican to send any delegates at all. When it is remembered that Cardinal Lavergne was the prime mover in the agitation which led to the summoning of the conference, one may well credit the reports that the Vatican is simply aghast with rage and amazement at this studied affront. But it is really something more than an affront; it is an indication not altogether unwelcome that European peoples are tired of being estranged and set by the ears year after year by the plots and intrigues of a little group of Italian clerics, whose only ambition in statecraft is to restore their authority in the city which has over and over again repudiated them and their works.

If it pleases American Catholic dignitaries to pass resolutions about the restoration of the Pope's temporal sovereignty, nobody in Europe will mind it very much; but they ought to understand that the Pope, as a politician, has not a single friend in Europe, and what is more, neither deserves to have any nor ever again will have any.

If the present Pope lives three or four years longer, it is not at all impossible that a strong party will have arisen in the meantime disposed to make Cardinal Gibbons Pope and move the whole Papal establishment over to America. Even now there is considerable speculative talk about this in responsible Catholic circles, where it is clearly recognized that Italian narrowness, bigotry and insincerity are suffocating the church. A party more of the present sort of thing will turn people's attention to this possible alternative outside of Rome.

St. Petersburg is suffering from a curious epidemic of influenza. The type is as inexplicable in its way as was that queer epizootic complaint which ran its course among American horses some fifteen years ago. Practically everybody, from palaces to the lowest hovels, catches this strange disease, which, though not fatal, lasts three or four days and causes great annoyance. Over forty thousand cases have already been medically reported in St. Petersburg alone, with the result that many mills and factories have had to close, and it is difficult to get cabs on the streets. The malady is now reported as appearing in Moscow and in far Siberia, and everybody is depressed over the unaccountable thing.

Naturally the chief interest of the week throughout the Old World has been in the flood of Central African literature which heralds Stanley's approach to the sea. There is such a mass of these letters, and they reveal such a portentous variety of novel facts and wild experiences that thus far there is not much to collect comment on the episode as a whole. The most attention has undoubtedly been attracted by the remarkable letter sent by the Mahdi's Lieutenant, Omar Saleh, to Emin Pasha, announcing that his colleagues, Slatin and Lupton, also Christian Governors of provinces, had become Moslems, and urging him with great kindness to follow their example. It is the first authentic statement of what Mahdism means which we have had from the inside, and is on its merits a most striking piece of Oriental rhetoric.

There is a quite prevalent notion here that Stanley might much better have left Emin alone. The latter did not at all want to be rescued, and is returning haggard, worn out, and almost blind from the privations of his long and terrible march. Yet Stanley, in these earlier letters, scolds him sharply for his manifold shortcomings, and evidently has an unpleasant story to reveal when he gets back to civilization. Rumors come to-day from Wady Halfa that the Mahdi is dead. If true, it is not likely to make much difference in the prospects of the Sudan. Omar Saleh seems to be a very able man and to have done most of the fighting thus far, and no doubt he would carry on the business at the old stand.

Old Martin F. Tupper's death calls forth a whole cloud of obituary articles, all giving a few lines to the kindly purity of his life, and the rest to kindly ridicule of his work. No doubt it was highly ridiculous, but critics who regard his former great popularity as a sign that public taste has improved seemed to forget "Mr. Barnes of New York" and "The Mystery of a Hansom Cab," which within the last few years have been read by hundreds of thousands where Thomas Hardy or Henry James is read by hundreds. Tupper never received but $400 from America, but it is estimated that if he had had a copyright he would have got fully half a million. For many years he enjoyed a princely revenue from his English publishers, considerably in excess of the profits accruing to Tennyson, the Brownings and Longfellow all put together.

Most visitors to Windsor will recall that quaint, antique portion of the White Hart Hotel which is pointed out as the Old Garter Inn, and which seems undoubtedly to be the same structure which Shakespeare knew and more than once referred to. Unfortunately there are so many of these visitors that the White Hart is going to be enlarged into a modern hotel, and the ancient relic of Falstaff will be demolished to make room.

Many persons are much agitated by the current rumors that the Emperor William intends being crowned in the Roemer in Frankfurt. This historic site was the scene of most of the imperial coronations of the old Holy Roman Empire after Charlemagne's Aix-la-Chapelle was abandoned, and the custom was maintained up to the time of Francis I. of Austria. Heretofore, that is, since Prussia was made a kingdom, the Hohenzollern monarchs have been crowned at Konigsberg, and the late Emperor William, though proclaimed ceremonially at Versailles, was never crowned Emperor, I believe, anywhere. Young William's notion of reviving at Frankfurt all the medieval splendor and significance of the ancient empire is picturesque, no doubt, but it could scarcely please his friend of Austria, who still bears the empty title of his Hapsburg ancestors, and it scarcely seems likely that he will carry it out.—Cable to N. Y. Times.

TACITLY DROPPED.

The Canadian Gazette (London) says: "It is also gratifying to be able to believe that the whole question of Canada's relations with the United States is receiving the careful attention of the Governments both of this country (England) and the United States."

BEGINNING TO SEE.

Mr. Powderly recently remarked: "I'm not talking tariff this year, but it seems to me that the policy of protection is a wrong on labour."

This is a great change in the views of the Grand Master Workman, and further indication of what the workmen of the United States think is found in the following extract from the Chicago Tribune:

While the manufacturers feel that the majority of the workmen are going over to the free-trade side and declaring that they believe it would be better for their interests if they had cheaper goods.

THE CHIEF LAW CLERK.

Now and again Sir John Macdonald makes a good appointment. The appointment of the Hon. Wm. McDougall as Chief Law Clerk is, or will be, or would be, as the case may be, one of these.

THE MORMONS IN CANADA.

There is an uneasy feeling about the settlement of the Mormons in Canada. It is assumed that they will limit themselves to one wife each and avoid conflict with the law.

THE IMP. FED. FAD.

CANADIAN GAZETTE: Major-General Laurier went ever further, and emphatically asserted that they in Canada demanded and insisted that they should be citizens of a common Empire, and not merely subjects of the British Empire.

We cannot approve of the tone of this remark concerning Principal Grant—there is something that smacks of flippancy about it—but it is satisfactory to hear that the League has abandoned the idea of Canada's delegating a portion of her self-government to a council in London.

At the Imperial Federation meeting at the Mansion House Lord Rosebery made a very sensible speech, in which he said:

The adoption of any single plan the League resisted for three reasons:— 1. The extreme slowness with which public opinion in the United Kingdom moves towards any organic change;

2. Our institutions, rooted in custom and tradition, are not suited to any sudden introduction of a new element; and 3. The natural Colonial jealousy of paternal interference.

Yet despite these facts there have, Lord Rosebery added, been sundry schemes put forward, and these stand thus:— 1. An Imperial House of Lords, which, however, the Colonies do not want.

2. An Imperial House of Commons, which also the Colonies do not want, inasmuch as it must affect their local autonomy, and which also the House of Commons itself does not want.

3. An Imperial Privy Council, which, however, would necessitate the unsatisfactory infusion of the representative element into a non-representative body.

4. A Zollverein, or Customs Union, which, however, is not practical, inasmuch as "the doctrine of Free Trade are far too deeply rooted in this country to leave room for any general assent."

Where, then, asked the speaker, shall be sought the practical and real form of Imperial Federation? In nothing else than the periodical renewal of the Colonial Conference of 1887—a Conference which really inaugurated Imperial Federation. There are, however, these necessary conditions:—

1. The Councils must be periodical. 2. They must be composed of the best men available in the Colonies and Mother Country, and be invested with all the dignity and authority of which this Empire is capable.

3. Their task must be the production not of statutes but of recommendations. Regular Consultative Colonial Councils are, in short, to mark the next step forward. As to the subjects for discussion, here are a few:—

1. Imperial defences. 2. Postal and telegraphic arrangements. 3. Social problems, in the discussion of which the Mother Country may learn from the Colonies, and the Colonies from the Mother Country.

The recommendations of so representative a body could not be ignored, and as for its practical issue, it is only through the medium of such a business conference that any closer scheme of Federation can come about. If no such scheme is in time evolved, "then you may be perfectly certain that, whatever your views and whatever your exertions, Imperial Federation in any form is an impossible dream."

Canada has improved on this proposal for a council. We already have Sir Charles Tupper and he is more than "periodical"; he is perennial. When not negotiating a treaty with Spain he can attend to all Canada's official business in London, and on special occasions our Cabinet at Ottawa, can always find one or two of their number ready for a trip. And a conferring council in London whose recommendations "could not be ignored," is alarmingly like the thin edge of an Imperial council whose orders we should be obliged to obey. Now we take it that the determination of the Canadian people is to ignore anything that does not meet their views. If they will not obey Tupper in all things, Lord Rosebery may rest assured that they would snap their fingers at his Australian and South African equivalents. If anything is to be done towards materializing the Fad the first step will be to obtain the consent of England to a differential rate of duties in favour of the Colonies. We are not prepared to say that this will effect the desired object, but we feel sure nothing else will. And the sooner the League abandons theory and gets down to business the better for its scheme, for otherwise the first news it will hear, as Uncle Remus would put it, will be that a reciprocity treaty has been arranged between Canada and the United States. The Imperial Federation can then be rescued only with a laddle.

THE OTHER OX BEING GORED.

It is astonishing what an amount of "Henry Georgism" is developed by the first heavy snowstorm of the season. People who in a general way never give any thought to theories about the taxation of vacant lots, suddenly rush to the opposite extreme and would, if they could, in a sudden access of wrath do away with both the vacant lots and their proprietors. It is about the second day after the storm when this view of the question strikes a man. Orders have been issued for proprietors or tenants to clean up the fronts of their houses and having been fairly complied with, the rubber-shod citizen is complacently plodding his way homeward, when suddenly he finds himself mid-leg deep in a snow-drift, and then sees he is passing an unimproved lot where it seems to be nobody's business to keep the sidewalk clear. In summer these lots afford excellent dumping grounds and abiding places for the departed feline and other domestic garbage. They also are fine lurking places for the deadly malaria and the playful sand-bagger, but the citizen is accustomed to these little inconveniences. In winter, however, when floundering through a snow-drift or plunged ankle deep in a puddle of snow-broth, he quietly breathes an anathema and studies up the question of taxation.

Can nothing be done in this matter? Cannot the Corporation send men to clear all these neglected sidewalks, charging costs against the owners? If there is no such power, a by-law should speedily be passed conferring it.

The Star says:— Were the principles to which the Conservative party is still true, best exemplified in the Tanneries Land Swap, or in the long era of railway hoodlum by which the Provincial treasury was robbed of millions? And whenever it may be will the Gazette point out wherein these principles differ from the principles of the party now in power.

Perhaps the characteristic principles of Quebec Conservatism came out in the atrocious tax imposed upon commercial corporations. But it is otherwise supporting the Conservative candidate in Rimouski all the same.

The Ottawa Citizen must not be hurried, but still an anxious public awaits the publication of that interview with Mr. Bowell. It need not occupy much space. All that is desired to be known is, why the order confining certain coasting trade to Canadian vessels, in imitation of the general rule enforced by the Americans, was limited to British Columbia instead of covering all Canadian ports. Come, out with it; time is on the wing.

WHAT OTHERS SAY. TRUST MONEY IN ENGLAND. The question of the investment of trust funds in Colonial securities is now being made the subject of inquiry by a committee of gentlemen to whom it has been referred by the Chancellor of the Exchequer.

The committee is made up as follows:—Sir Charles Tupper, High Commissioner for Canada; Sir Graham Berry, Agent-General for Victoria; and Sir Francis Dillon Bell, Agent-General for New Zealand, representing the Colonies; Mr. Muir Mackenzie, representing the Chancellor of the Exchequer; Mr. Greene, a director of the Bank of England; Mr. H. Jenkins, Parliamentary Counsel; Mr. John Bramston, of the Colonial Office; and Mr. E. W. Hamilton, of the Treasury.—Canadian Gazette.

APPRECIATED ABROAD. THE MONTREAL HERALD has shown commendable enterprise in its "Dominion edition" illustrative of a trip over the Canadian Pacific Railway from ocean to ocean, which reaches us by this mail. The Herald's reporters have travelled from Halifax to Vancouver in search of commercial information, and the result is a vast amount of information of great value to commercial men. From the various articles may be learnt what is being done in the various centres of trade, where and how business has increased, the extent of trade in the various lines, the imports and exports of the several centres, together with an account of the banking, insurance, railway, and canal business of the Dominion.—Canadian Gazette.

SQUIDS. —She (between the acts)—"Where are you going?" He—"Out to see a man for a moment." She—"Is he going to buy it, or are you?"

—Mr. Newlytt—"I can see that baby will be a great city leader when he grows up." Mrs. Newlytt (delighted)—"O, do you? Why?" Mr. Newlytt—"He gives a sawi every night."

—Farmer Squeashead (observing a metropolitan daily on the counter of the village store)—"What! Ain't that air paper busted up yet? Why, I quit takin' it fifteen years ago."

—Patient—"How is it, doctor, that the medical fraternity seldom contract contagious diseases, even during an epidemic?" Physician—"Oh, they frighten the diseases away."

—Willie—"Mamma, you've put up a job on me." "What do you mean, my son?" Willie—"You told me I mustn't seem to notice Uncle Geehaw's table manners. Why, he had his got into my own! I had an awful strain' kind of a cough you've got, mamma."

—Mistress (to new girl)—"By the by, Bridget, I forget whether I told you or not when you came, but I do not allow my kitchen girls to have any followers." Bridget—"Yes, I told me when I came, Mrs. Chucksley, an' I haven't forgot. I drove Mr. Chucksley out av the kitchen last night wid a dipperful of bilin' water, mumm."

—"Do you know," said Algernon, "your face reminds me of a mirror, for I can see nothing in it but the truth." "O," said Gertrude, "I thought you were going to say that when you looked in my face you expected to see your own."

"Eh!" said Algernon, and then a great light came into his eyes, and he cried: "If you would be my own!" "I will," said Gertrude.

THE TELEGRAPH WAR.

The celebrated telegraph case, which has caused considerable interest among the legal fraternity, was continued before Judge Cross yesterday.

Mr. Lacoste, in giving his final address for the defence, gave an exhaustive review of the whole case, in which he mentioned the many points which the defence claimed in their favour and which the plaintiffs had failed to upset.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR UNION.

Proceedings of the Second Day of the Convention.

The second day's session of the Christian Endeavor Union was opened yesterday morning by an early prayer meeting held in the American Presbyterian Church at 7.30 a.m.

The afternoon session opened with a discussion on committee work, followed with a song service, after which an interesting paper was read by Miss Henderson, entitled, "The Work of the Social Committee."

The closing meeting of the convention of the Christian Endeavor Union was held last evening in Erskine Church, which was crowded with people.

MECHANICS' INSTITUTE.

The annual meeting of the members of the Mechanics' Institute was held last evening in the Institute, on St. James street. The attendance was small.

The treasurer's report read showed the receipts to have been $34,977.12, and the disbursements $34,871.63, leaving a balance to be carried forward of $105.49.

Mr. Perry moved that the report be left over for a future meeting; there were a lot of details that required to be looked into, and one thing was patent to anyone of common sense, viz., that the institute required a little renovation.

Mr. Brown wanted to have a detailed statement of the expenses of the Point St. Charles branch, but the secretary had left it at home.

The election of officers next ensued, with the following result:— President—W. Rutherford.

A motion of Mr. Perry's to remove the lamps in front of the Institute was negatived on being put to the meeting.

A vote of thanks to the retiring officers and to Mr. Irwin, who had been elected chairman in the place of Mr. Rutherford who had to retire, brought the meeting to a close.

ALDERMEN OUT WEST.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Dec. 2.—The Montreal civic excursionists received an informal reception from the St. Paul Chamber of Commerce.

Mayor Grenier, in the course of his remarks, expressed the greatest admiration for the push and energy displayed by the citizens of St. Paul.

IRISHMEN CELEBRATE THE FESTIVAL OF SCOTLAND'S PATRON SAINT.

It would seem rather unusual to see Irishmen celebrating the festival of Scotland's patron saint, but just such a celebration was held last evening in the hall of St. Patrick's Church.

The lecture throughout was a most interesting one and in it Father Callaghan showed his keen insight into the nature of the Scottish people.

To-morrow afternoon the train starts for Duluth, and it has been decided to go thence to Winnipeg and home by the Lake Superior route.

A Stock Company Formed to Purchase His Arkansas Land.

The purpose of the promoters of the company is to purchase 5,700 acres of land in Arkansas belonging to Jefferson Davis, ex-President of the Confederacy.

For the purpose of relieving Mr. Davis of this financial embarrassment a mass-meeting of citizens of Mississippi was held at Jackson last summer and a stock company formed.

"I am not so sure about that," replied the man who was occupying the seat with him.

"I have no doubt it is a fairly good medicine in its way," broke in the other.

"I know all about Dr. Jenkinson's nostrum, sir. I know exactly what it's made of."

"You do, hey?"

"Yes, sir, and I know Dr. Rybold's Extract is made from precisely the same formula, only from pure materials instead

CITY AND SUBURBAN

A branch of the C.M.B.A. is being organized at Waterloo. GERMAN flannel morning wrappers, plush-trimmed, for $5.75, at S. Carsley's. Dr. Guerin has resigned his position as Professor at the Victoria Medical School. The proprietors of St. Antoine street are agitating for the widening of that street. A storekeeper on Murray street has been fined $75 and costs for selling liquor without a license. Archbishop Fabre and the clergy of the Cathedral will begin their annual retreat to-morrow evening. Two men have been arrested who are said to have made a confession relating to the recent Ross burglary. Mrs. Michael Monahan, of Windsor Mills, has three cows which during last season brought her 495 lbs. of butter. The old town hall and prisons at Coaticook have been sold by auction. The former brought $1,150 and the latter $200. The principal objection to Alderman Archibald's return is put down as due to a want of interest in the progress of the ward. The steamer Berthier is aground on McCarthy Point at Sorel, and the water must rise two feet before it can be put afloat again. THE NEW UMBRELLAS at S. Carsley's are worth special inspection. Magnificent assortment of presentation umbrellas at very low prices. The visiting governors to the Notre Dame Hospital for the week beginning December 2nd, are Messrs. H. K. Gray and H. E. Desrosiers. A married man has been arrested at St. Albans, P.Q., at the instance of a servant girl, who charges the defendant with breach of promise. Five novices and one of the Sisters of the Lachine Convent left last week for Victoria, B. C., where they will establish a branch of their order. Judge Gill has rendered judgment in favor of plaintiff for $845 in case of Pierre Bottonnay against the Atlantic and Northwestern Railway Company. A number of caribou have been killed in the vicinity of Winslow. Four have fallen within the past few days before the rifle of a settler named Leblanc. It is said that an action has been entered against La Presse by Mr. J. L. Turgeon for publishing an article which he claims casts reflections on his character. E. F. Dale, formerly manager for the Morkills in Sherbrooke, shot himself fatally on Monday last week. He has been for some time mentally depressed. Mr. Stearns, who is spoken of as a probable candidate for St. Antoine Ward, is said to favor the widening of St. Antoine, St. James and Notre Dame street west. CARDUEN Jackets.—S. Carsley's stock of men's carduen vests and jackets is the most complete. All sizes up to the very largest made, and prices are extraordinary low. The number of patients treated at the Montreal General Hospital for the week ending December 1st, 1889, was: Outdoor patients relieved, 602; indoor average daily, 153. For first-class dyeing and cleaning try the Empire Dye Works, 24 Phillips' square. Parcels collected and delivered in any part of the city free. Thomas Highmore, manager. Telephone No. 4793. The police consider the by-law prohibiting the removal of dangerous icicles after nine o'clock in the morning an improper one, as it is claimed that they often form in the early part of the forenoon. Desirable Present is a nice Desk. Largest stock, best designs. Lowest prices. Every Desk guaranteed. Inspection Solicited. H. NICHOLSON, Telephone No. 1891. Messrs. Cooper, Fairburn & Co., of this city, have received word that a Toronto contractor who is largely indebted to them, has been arrested on a capias in order to force the defendant to make an assignment. In an account of an accident to a man who was crushed between the buffers of two cars he was coupling at St. Therese, it was stated that the accident happened on the Grand Trunk, whereas it really occurred on the C.P.R. DELICIOUS—Such is the verdict given by smokers as to the taste and quality of Monette's mixture. For a cool smoke and solid comfort it cannot be rivalled. Corner St. Sulpice and Notre Dame streets, opposite French Cathedral. The case of W. McLea Walbank against the Governors of the Protestant Hospital for the Insane, to compel them to submit to experts, the plans which he furnished for that hospital, was commenced in the Superior Court yesterday. The Treasurer of the Protestant House of Industry and Refuge acknowledges with thanks $125 from the Irish Protestant Benevolent Society, per Mr. T. Sutton, treasurer, being the amount donated at their annual meeting. The Treasurer of the Protestant Hospital for the Insane has much satisfaction in acknowledging the following new and unsolicited donations:—John H. R. Molson, Esq., $5,000; Mrs. John H. R. Molson, $5,000; E. E. Shelton, Esq., $500. Mr. Ludger Perrault's barns, at Kingsley, containing his winter stock of fodder, having been burned down, Cure Blondin called a meeting of his parishioners and the result was that they all set to work and rebuilt the barns in less than a week. The French papers publish a story of the horrible treatment of a girl of 13 in the Quebec suburbs by her father and step-mother. They say that the girl has been beaten without cause until her body is covered with bruises, made to eat in a corner by herself and has never slept in a bed for two years. Mr. F. Wolferstan Thomas, the treasurer of the Protestant Asylum for the Insane, has received three handsome subscriptions to the building fund, $5,000 from Mr. John H. R. Molson, $5,000 from Mrs. John H. R. Molson, and $500 from Mr. E. E. Shelton. These subscriptions were all unsolicited. La Semaine Religieuse, Archbishop Fabre's official organ, reproduces the lengthy resolutions passed by the International Sabbath Observance Congress, which met in Paris in September last. One of the resolutions treats the question from a hygienic and the other from a social point of view. A meeting of the congregation of Erskine Church has been called for Wednesday night for the purpose of discussing the advisability of moving the church further west, and thus take in a large area of Presbyterianism at present virtually unprovided for. It is understood that an offer has been made by a syndicate for the present building and site, which will also be laid before the meeting. MARCHING TO VICTORY.—Attacks the lurking enemy that secretly destroys the internal organs and saps the foundations of life, health and happiness. Drinking St. Leon freely will quickly drive all dread enemies from out the system completely. St. Leon Water Co., No. 54 Victoria Square, E. Massicotte & Co., managers for Montreal and district. Telephone 1422.

A PRELATE'S CERTIFICATE. We received in the Quebec newspapers a high recommendation in favor of St. Leon Mineral Water, which reads as follows:— It is with pleasure I certify that St. Leon Mineral Water is an excellent remedy for dyspepsia. I have used it many years and derived very much benefit from it. I strongly recommend this water to the public. MGR. M. E. METHOT, Doctor of Theology.

This marvellous beverage for sale by all leading druggists and grocers, and wholesale and retail by St. Leon Water Company, 54 Victoria square, 5 Place d'Armes, 39 St. Lawrence Main street. MASSICOTTE BROTHER, City Manager. Telephone 1432.

THE CHRISTMAS GLOBE. The Toronto Globe has issued a Christmas number which is superior to anything of the kind which I remember to have seen in Canada. Its illustrations are excellent, and the illuminated cover is artistic and beautifully executed. The Canadian scenes of sport and travel and recreation generally are, mirabile dictu, not in snow and ice, but in wood and by stream. The stories are good, that capital narrator, Mr. Geo. Thompson, being one of the contributors, and the whole thing is conceived with the idea of attracting the attention of the young as well as of the grown up. Indeed, some of the prettiest illustrations of the many in the number is of our little folk. Accompanying the bound number are two handsome colored lithographs. The issue is a credit to Canada and to the enterprise of the Globe, and deserves the success which we trust it will secure.

THE CITY'S DEATH ROLL. There were 89 interments in the city cemeteries during last week, 69 in Cote des Neiges and 20 in Mount Royal. The causes of death were as follows:—

Table with 3 columns: Cause of death, Total, and Percentage. Includes Diphtheria, Typhoid, Cholera infantum, etc.

Table with 2 columns: Age group and Total. Includes 1 to 4 months, 5 to 12, 1 to 3 years, etc.

THE ART GALLERY. The following pictures will be shown in the Loan Exhibition of English works to be held in the Art Gallery next month. The great picture of the Gallery will be that tremendous work of Mr. Watts, which was engraved for the London Graphic a year or two ago called "Love and Death." In strong contrast to this is the "Danae" of Burne-Jones. Among the imported works are two pictures by Cecil Lawson, spoken of as the modern Turner, one representing a quiet, the other a stormy sunset, both most striking works. There are three works of masterly breadth by Ellis, a very feeling Highland scene called "Lonely Life" by Hugh Cameron, called the Scottish Israelite, a remarkably high tribute of praise, "Sunset over St. Peter's" by McWhirter, a splendid specimen by Alfred East, recently in Montreal, who could not be left out of any collection of first-class English work, two London city scenes by Logsdail, who makes a specialty of that sort of thing, a landscape by T. H. Oakes, two scenes from Scott's novels by the great Orchardson, the "Nymph Enone" by Calderon, also by Leighton, Fildes, Gow, Hood, Moore and others of equal name. There will be a private view for members on Friday.

THE LATE MR. ROGERS. We regret to see by the funeral notice in this paper that one of the old landmarks of this city has been removed. Mr. George Rogers, for many years a member of the firm of Rogers & King, iron founders, died at his residence, 167 Mansfield street, on Saturday, passing peacefully away in his ninety-second year. He was born in the County of Monaghan, in the north of Ireland, in the year 1798, and left that country for Glasgow, Scotland, where he worked at his trade as a moulder in some of the largest foundries in that city. He emigrated with his wife to Canada and settled in Montreal in the year 1832, finding employment with Ward Bros., Eagle Foundry, now owned and continued by Geo. Brush & Son. He left their employment to become foreman moulder for the late Hon. John Molson in St. Mary Foundry, being considered at that time to be the best loam moulder in Canada. When Mr. Molson retired Mr. Rogers and Mr. Warden King became the lessees of the foundry, buying the stock and patterns, and under the firm name of Rogers & King continued the business until 1856, when they removed to the present foundry on Craig street near Bleury street. Mr. Rogers retired from business in 1870, being then 72 years of age. His name has been long a familiar one in the community, in the whole of Canada, and particularly in connection with the Canada Presbyterian Church. A liberal subscriber to all its schemes, he also contributed to the building funds of many of the churches in the Dominion. The Erskine Church and Stanley street Church received large contributions towards their building funds, and the Montreal Presbyterian College claims him as one of its originators and largest subscribers. He was for many years an esteemed elder of Lagache street and Erskine churches, under the pastorate of the late Dr. Wm. Taylor, and when the "hive off" took place in the latter church he joined Stanley Street Church, where he also was inducted into the eldership. The local charities of the city, as well as the poor and needy, will remember his name with gratitude. His family all died young. He leaves a widow by his second marriage to mourn his loss. His funeral will take place from his late residence, 167 Mansfield street, on Tuesday, at two o'clock p.m., to Stanley Street Church, thence to Mount Royal Cemetery. Mr. Warden King, his late partner, and Mr. Wm. Greig, book-keeper for the firm for over twenty-eight years, are trustees of his estate.

AMUSEMENTS. CARLETON OPERA COMPANY. The Carleton Opera Company, who are coming to the Academy next week, when they will produce Offenbach's sparkling opera, "The Brigand," deserve well of our music-loving public. Their singing and acting seems to have delighted their audiences everywhere they have appeared, judging from the press notices. The chorus is large, the costumes beautiful, and the scenery is said to be gorgeous. "THE BLUE AND THE GRAY." Shook and Collier's military play entitled "The Blue and the Gray" opened to very large audiences at the Theatre Royal yesterday. From all that has been heard of it and from many of the lithographs which precede its production one would imagine it to be of the blood and thunder type, but those who witnessed it yesterday saw a bright, clean, well written melodrama, in which there are many situations which appeal to the sympathy of the audience without being in the least coarse or overdrawn. The play opens with the interior of a New England home and the departure of Mark Stanley for the war. Then follows the home of the heroine in Mississippi, and the search for her father, who is an acknowledged leader of a band of guerrillas. Mark is in charge of the soldiers, and in spite of the growing love for the daughter, captures the father. A sentence of death is passed upon him, but with the aid of a faithful old negro and his daughter he escapes and brings back his men to battle with his enemies. A realistic battle scene follows, and finally the play ends with the uniting of the blue and the gray and everyone is made happy. As Ruth, Miss Margaret Pierce has a difficult role. She is unlike most actresses who appear in a similar character, and makes a success of the part through her simple and unassuming acting. She is conscientious in all she undertakes, and makes a character out of Ruth Peyton which is really charming. Mr. W. H. Murdoch as Captain Stanley is a clever actor, and looks and speaks his part admirably. No better man could be got for the part of Uncle Josh, the old negro, than Mr. J. W. McAndrews. His success is not in the lines which have been written for him, but in the capital imitation of both voice and gesture which have made him famous as a negro impersonator. The humor of the play is supplied by Messrs. Ryan and Thompson, as the Irish corporal and the Dutch sergeant. It is sufficient to say in conclusion that the members of the company are all good. The orchestra played some particularly good music yesterday, especially the selection in which Mr. C. Bagg gave a piccolo solo. MISS LULE WARRENTON. On Thursday, the 12th inst., Miss Lule Warrenton, the Shakespearian reader, will make her bow to the Montreal public at the Victoria Rifles' Armory. She will give readings from "Macbeth," "Romeo and Juliet" and "Henry VIII." Her entertainment is given in costume and will be under the auspices of and assisted by the Irving Dramatic Club, who will contribute Blanche's capital costume farce, "The Garrick Fever," to the programme. The proceeds will go to St. Margaret Nursery. EDWARD LLOYD. ENGLAND'S TENOR ENGAGED TO APPEAR IN MONTREAL IN THE SPRING. The famous tenor, Edward Lloyd, is to sing here in April, the fact which will doubtless please the patrons of music who desire high-class art. There can be but a few only who have not heard of this vocalist, and to those we may say that Mr. Lloyd is the principal English tenor to-day, and his arrival in Montreal will be awaited with considerable interest.

Not Only For Man. I can say that your Hazyard's Yellow Oil is the best thing I ever saw for croup, coughs, colds, cuts or burns, and it is good for man or beast. Miss E. M. Hopkins, Claremont, Ont. Yellow Oil cures rheumatism, neuralgia and all pains.

Reception of Dom Pedro. LONDON, Nov. 30.—Great preparations are going on in Lisbon, both military and civic, for the reception of Dom Pedro of Brazil. Both Royalists and Republicans are earnest in their desire to pay a personal tribute to the ex-possessed ruler of Brazil, who is beloved by all. But though no friction is likely to occur between the political factions on that occasion, it is pretty generally conceded that the Republicans at some not distant day will cause a test to be made of their strength.

RESOLUTION OF CONFIDENCE. Ex-Lieutenant-Governor of Massachusetts, Mr. J. A. Harwood, of Boston, offered the following resolution at the annual meeting held January 23rd last, which was unanimously adopted by the members: Whereas, The reports read at this annual meeting of the Mutual Reserve Fund Life Association indicate unmistakably the growth of the business success, and security of this Association, and establish beyond question the certainty that the principles underlying the plan of insurance adopted by this Association are bearing the fruit promised by its promoters to a degree that is highly gratifying to the policy holders here assembled; therefore, be it Resolved, That we assert our confidence in the management of the Association and hereby extend to Mr. E. B. Harper, President, and to one and all connected with executive duties, our grateful recognition and thanks for their intelligent services in our behalf.

ELEVEN AND A GIANTESS. Six Feet Eight and Still Fond of Her Dolls.

A little while ago German papers were full of accounts of a "Riesen-Madchen," a child of eleven, who was being exhibited at Berlin. Men like Prof. Dr. Virchow and Dr. Schmidt, the Pull Mall Gazette informs us, wrote scientific treatises concerning the enormous size of her bones; the comic and theatrical papers had said about the gigantic woman sitting on the floor and playing with dolls and toys, and the daily press brought many a tale and many an anecdote concerning Elizabeth, the infant phenomenon. A few weeks ago this girl arrived in London, and walked for the first time about among the astonished crowd of comparative pygmies at the Westminster Aquarium.

"An hour before her first public appearance (writes a lady representative of the Gazette) I made my way through a thick black fog, overhanging the region of St. Stephen's, to pay a call of welcome to the Russian giantess. She was not in, I was told; had gone home to 'get something to eat,' but we went back in a few minutes. 'How does she manage to go home without being mobbed?' I asked the Secretary, into whose office I had been led, through labyrinthine rooms and passages. 'She drives,' was the reply, 'for it would never do for her to show herself in the streets.'

"But can she get into a cab, the entrance to which is so very strait? I continued, remembering that I had seen portly old ladies and gentlemen, who made no pretense whatever at being in any way gigantic, gain the inside of the elegant four-wheeler in a manner which is vulgarly termed 'broadside on.'

"She does not go in a cab, but in a large 'brougham,' I was informed, and then we chatted on about Aquarium entertainments, of which as yet I knew only what I had seen in passing through the large hall below, which looked the more cheerful, with its hundreds of gas flames, for the funeral gloom outside. Occasionally a wave of music came up to the quiet little back room, or the voices of the Bijou singers, whose small, glittering figures were flitting across the stage. Presently the Swedish Nightingale came in with a fluttered little speech, half in German, half in Swedish, and a few minutes later her glorious voice, a nightingale's voice indeed, as heard as she delighted the audience with her rendering of 'Home, Sweet Home.' Then the door was thrown open, and a youthful 'butcher' announced, in a somewhat awe-stricken voice, 'The Russian Giantess.'

"A gentleman entered, as I found afterward the interpreter of Elizabeth, and her two relatives, neither of whom knows a single word of any language but Russian. I thought he was rather a fine-looking man, the clever linguist, who talked Russian, French, English and German with perfect ease and fluency, but his figure seemed to shrink and shrivel up before that which next appeared in the doorway. 'Ye gods, what a woman! I thought as in dumb amazement I sat and gazed at the towering figure before me. She was wrapped in a long brown ulster, and her face was overshadowed by a broad-brimmed simple felt hat, an enormous hat, as I noticed when afterward she had put it on a table beside her. Behind her came two more men, the uncles of the girl, both typical Russians, who only wanted a sheepskin and top-boots to represent the Czar's faithful servant, the humble monk. She looked shy and awkward, the giant child, as she stalked about the room, divesting herself of her coat and hat, and some what nervously twisting a red silk handkerchief between her great shapely hands. What a band of dwarfs we looked as we gazed up at her, though there was not a person in the room who, except for her presence, would not have been considered of at least medium height.

"When she had settled down in a wide armchair, I brought my chair close to her, and quietly addressed a few words to her. I meant them to sound as if I were speaking to a small maiden of twelve, but I am afraid I did not quite succeed. However, at the sound of her native tongue, a spark came into her dark eyes, and she turned quickly to me with a sweet, shy smile, while her two friends also drew nearer, with evident delight at hearing their own tongue through the confusing babel of sound.

"'You have been out,' I began for want of a better subject, 'out in the fog, have you not?' 'Yes,' she replied, 'out in a carriage.'

"'Do you ever walk out?' 'No; why should I? I can drive,' she replied, and as she said so she began to frown and pout. Evidently it was not a congenial subject. Consequently I tried another. 'What a charming dress you are wearing; did you do any of the embroidery yourself?' I said, touching the sleeves of her picturesque national costume. She shook her long auburn curls—natural curls they are, and of a very beautiful color.

"'But you want some beads and a headress, a kokoshnik, to complete the costume, do you not?' 'Yes, my beads,' she cried in a childlike excitement, as the idea of her finery flashed across her head, and immediately they had to be produced and tied round her neck.

"'And I do want a kokoshnik; but they won't give me one,' she said, her red lips forming again into a pout—a real childish pout, which has nothing whatever of the affected mannerism which goes for childlike behavior on the stage. 'Nonsense, nonsense,' interrupted the uncle, who evidently stood in wholesome dread of his fair niece's temper, of which he told me, in a murmured 'aside,' 'she is a good girl, but she is obstinate, fearfully obstinate. How can a child wear a kokoshnik?' he went on. 'You are not a woman; you are only a little girl. Wait till you grow up, and then you shall have a kokoshnik, like other women.'

"'But why do you not wear your hair in a plat, as all the Russian girls do, and have it tied at the end with ribbons, red and blue and white?' 'I have not enough hair,' she said, 'and it looks pretty with curls.' It was here suggested that she should let her hair hang quite loose when she went down into the hall. 'No,' she cried, 'it's ugly; it hangs over my face; I want a ribbon; I won't have it all down.'

"But look into the glass, it looks well like this," was urged, and again, as any child would do, the towering woman gave over her head a shy, quick glance at her image in the glass, and then, as if ashamed of such vanity, the blood rushed into the clear, olive skin of her face, and she put her two big hands before her eyes. I have never seen such hands; when, presently, she became a little more confidential, she held one of them out to me for a friendly shake; it lay like lead between my own hands, and felt as if, with quite a gentle pressure, it might break every bone of an ordinary human hand. The feet are more enormous still, and not as well-shaped as the hands. Looking down at them I could not help thinking that thus an elephant must appear if he were made to wear bronze-buckled shoes. Yet, enormous as she is, Elizabetha Philippovna, is not one of the fat giantesses the very sight of whom is as repulsive as that of a prize animal at a cattle show. She is pretty, too, with the brunette prettiness of the Slav woman, and her brain, though not developed in accordance with her body, is in good working order. The giantess can read and write, which is more than can be said of the majority of Russian village children, and when I asked her she had got on at Berlin, she said, 'Oh, the end it was not bad, because I could speak a little German.'

"'Could you say, "How do you do?" in German?' and "Thank you?" when people had bought your portrait?' 'Yes, I said, "Wie geht's Ihnen" and "Danke sehr." What must I say in English? Tell me.' After being informed, she tried again and again, and whispered to herself, 'How do you do?' and "Thank you," all she thought she knew it, when we had a satisfactory rehearsal.

"Meanwhile Elizabeth's uncle had told me something concerning the history of the child. To begin with, she was nothing whatever of an infant phenomenon. Her parents are both of medium height, her five brothers and sisters are children of average size, and until the girl was four years old she was in no way different from the rest. Then suddenly she began to grow, to the amazement of everybody down in the little country town of Krassnokutsk, on the Don, and now, when she is six feet eight inches in height and weighs 300 pounds, she is still growing at the rate of an inch every two months, and since she is only twelve years old, she may possibly go on at the same rate for some years to come. Till she was ten she remained at home, and had since then been exhibited in Russia and at Berlin, when she has come to London to give receptions at the Aquarium.

"Before I took leave of my mighty friend—for she had become quite friendly—some of the gentlemen tried her strength by attempts at making her rise from her chair. She leaned back and smiled with sparkling eyes, then took the proffered hand and sat immovable, pull as they might. Then we turned the tables; a gentleman sat firmly down, the girl came up to him, and grasped his hand in the muscular grip of his left, but in a moment she was once clasped in his own. Presently several pressmen came in, and once again the giantess turned into a bashful, gawky girl, as, mute and motionless, she stood before them. One gentleman of a somewhat short stature stepped boldly up to her as she came in, looked high up into her face, and said in Russian, "Good-bye," (evidently imagining that he was saying "How do you do?") She laughed right out at this, showing two rows of gleaming white teeth, and her two relatives lost for a moment the forlorn look which sat on their faces and joined in the merriment.

A LITTLE GIRL'S MISTAKE. Little Lizzie may not have made such a mistake after all, when she told her playmate that mamma was ever so much better since she began taking "Golden Mocha" Discovery. Lizzie meant Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, but her mother's restored sufferer has felt that the discoverer was worthy of a gold medal. Better than all the medals, is the consciousness that thousands of cases of Consumption, "Liver Complaint," Kidney Diseases, and diseases of the blood, have been cured by it. Lizzie's mamma was one of a countless army who have learned by experience the virtues of the "Discovery" for diseased livers and consequent impure blood. It cures all Skin, Scalp and Scrofulous Affections, Salt-rheum, Tetter, Erysipelas, Boils and kindred ailments. It is the only medicine of its class, sold by druggists, under a positive guarantee that it will benefit or cure in all cases of disease for which it is recommended, or money paid for it will be refunded.

After the "Duke of Diamonds" Cash. BERLIN, Nov. 30.—The Queen of Saxony and the Duke of Cumberland will sue in the French courts to nullify the will of the late Duke of Brunswick, on the ground of insanity and the fact that the Geneva court ignored certain clauses.

A Crown for His Aged Brow. BERLIN, Nov. 30.—The Emperor has sent to Count Von Moltke a crown of brilliants and the decoration of the Order of Merit with a letter, saying: "Fifty years since your return from Turkey that country has given you the same order which is just received, furnishing proof that the name of Von Moltke is still remembered and respected in Turkey."

Maugled by the Cars. CHATHAM, Ont., Dec. 1.—Last night, about 9 o'clock, a young man named E. Cowan, aged about 25, employed on the C.P.R. engineering staff, was run over by the Grand Trunk local train which leaves here shortly after 9. After bidding farewell to some friends on the express going west he stepped from the platform on the other track and was unaware that the local was in motion. She struck him on the head, knocking him under the cars. Nearly the whole train, composed of about a dozen cars of freight, passed over both legs. He was carried to a neighbouring hotel, where the railway physician amputated both legs above the knees. As he is a young man of good constitution, it is hoped he will pull through. He was going to leave for England in a few days.

WHEN THE FORTY-SECOND HIGHLANDERS HAD THE WORST OF IT. When the Forty-second Highlanders, or Black Watch, landed in Calcutta in the end of 1857, they were marched to the Scotch Kirk on Sunday in their full dress, with kilts and bonnets, to the great admiration of the public. But the mosquitoes from the large tank near the kirk smelt fresh blood, and invaded the sacred building, and soon found their way to the unprotected parts of the Highlanders' legs, especially about their naked knees. For a while the men endured it bravely. Then one soldier, and next another, began to slap at the mosquitoes, until so many of them were fiercely slapping at their knees that the noise overwhelmed the preacher's voice, and he stopped his discourse, so that the men could be marched away to their barracks.—Longman's Magazine.

HINTS FOR BALDHEADS. Now as to the treatment for incipient baldness, thin spots and so forth. This, according to Good Housekeeping, is what an eminent physician said to a gentleman who consulted him for the first named trouble.

"Have you been accustomed to wash your head in soapy water?" asked the doctor.

"Yes, every morning," was the reply. "Well, that is the cause of this bald place; stop washing and begin brushing your hair. Use a bristle brush for fifteen minutes every morning and night. You may not notice any improvement for a year, perhaps not for two, but be assured you will have a fine crop of hair and never grow bald if you pursue this course.

As fifteen minutes seems a very long while the vigorously moving a hair brush hither and thither over the surface of your head, it would be well to inveigle one's friends into assisting, wouldn't it?

If the hair is falling out, remember that it is owing to an unhealthy condition of the scalp. First cut off about two inches of the hair, next wash in clear, cold, soft water, rubbing dry with a crash towel? then begin the fifteen minutes' brushing process, and in a few weeks you will see the tiny spires of new hair coming all over your head. Beware of being tempted to the use of any nostrum whatsoever, no matter how plausible the advertisement thereof; all are more or less injurious—generally more, as you will find out to your sorrow if you begin the use of them.

MARTIN FARQUHAR TUPPER. Martin Farquhar Tupper, poet, prose writer, and author of "Proverbial Philosophy," died yesterday in London in the seventy-ninth year of his age. He was born in London in 1810, educated at the Charterhouse and at Christchurch College Oxford, where he took the degrees of B.A., M.A., and D.C.L., and was afterward called to the bar, although he never secured or attempted to secure any legal practice at any period in his varied career. His first poem of note, "Geraldine," was published in 1838, and had no wide circulation. "Proverbial Philosophy" came from the press a year later, and, though not successful at the first, finally secured a very strong hold upon a large class of English and American readers, and passed through 40 editions. It is estimated that over a million copies of this work have been sold, and with its title, the name of Martin Farquhar Tupper is inseparably associated in the mind of the average reader. "Modern Pyramid," (1839); "An Author's Mind," (1841); "The Twins: A Tale," (1841); "Crock of Gold," (1844); "Hactenus," (1848); "Surrey, a Rapid Review of its Principal Persons and Places," (1849); "King Alfred's Poems in English Metre," (1850); "Farley Heath," (1851); "Hymn for All Nations in Thirty Languages," (1851); "Ballads for the Times," (1852); "Herat, A Tale," (1853); "Probabilities, An Aid to Faith," (1854); "Lyrics," (1855); "Stephen Langston; or, The Boys of King John," (1858); "Three Hundred Sonnets," (1860); "Hides and Reverses of Eoap Smith," (1861); "Clithara Lyrics," (1863); "Raleigh, His Life and Death," (1866); "Washington, a Drama," (1870), among his other publications in book form. Interspersed with these he has produced a very large number of fugitive pieces and lyrics, so that it may be said that his busy literary life covered nearly forty years. As late as 1886, however, he issued another book, "My Life as an Author," which was intended to summarize as well as to complete his career. A little later he paid a visit to America and received ovations everywhere from his admirers. He wrote a poem on the Charleston earthquake, and is said to have been actively interested in American affairs during his last years. The Queen has wired her sympathy to the family of the late Martin Farquhar Tupper, whose obsequies will take place at Albany on Tuesday next.
