

Skip Stan, at four score, sadly regrets he's no hippie

By RICHARD NUTBROWN
(Record staff reporter)

Man is entitled to three score and ten years if he lives a good life, according to the Bible.

"I'm a religious man," says Stan Gallinger.

Donning a Scottish curling tam, whimsically wrinkling an age-lined forehead, Stan readily admits he's "four-score."

"Don't you dare print I'm eighty," he said, "that would make me sound old. Besides if you print my age it could ruin my social life."

His hand ruffled over his chin, half out of habit and half in an attempt to hide a widening smile; "But if you say I'm four score, it's alright. Most people don't know what that is," he said.

Stan Gallinger, the oldest curling skip in the Eastern Townships, is not a prohibitionist and thinks gambling, poker-style, is great.

Seated for an interview in his happy confines of the Sherbrooke Curling Club, Stan wanted one point assured of before he began to recount his life. "My story must be written," he said seriously, "in a way which will help the game of curling grow in the Townships as well as at the Sherbrooke Curling Club."

Stan joined the Club in 1927 and has never missed a winter curling season in 41 years.

His involvement with the club is not only of long duration, it's also intense. Stan is often the first person to greet a visitor and the last person to wish him on his way when the visit is over. To many, Stan's hearty handshake represents the hospitality of a club and a community.

He is conscious of the ever-changing world around him, reminiscent of only the highpoints in his life and wishes he was 20 again. Smiling, he admits he'd let his hair grow long and be a hippie. Young girls in mini-skirts are great; "I like this new morality."

Returning almost half-heartedly to his age, he reiterated the point about being four score years.

You know what the Bible says about three score and ten years. Well after that, he says, you're like an astronaut, "you're in orbit."

Stan started his orbital plane in Lanark County, Ont., before the turn of the century. Moving around at a young age he was in Western Canada for 10 years before coming to Sherbrooke. He married and has a daughter and son, both married. His wife died 20 years ago and since then his daughter has moved to Toronto and his son to Detroit.

"You should have been at my 'four score' birthday last October," he said, "boy, was that a party". His love of wine, or is it rum, women and song were well catered to by the 90 guests in attendance.

Although he didn't want to, Stan retired 20 years ago. He admits, though, that collecting retirement pension

TODAY'S CHUCKLE — The cow is sacred in India while in the West we worship only the calf!

Your weekend weather

January thaw ending

The January thaw is over according to reports received this morning from East Angus weather watchers.

Temperatures will return to normal during the weekend with more seasonable highs averaging about 25 degrees forecast for the week. Outlook for Saturday is mainly sunny and cooler with a drop in temperatures behind the storm. In short it will be clearing up for the weekend.

Today's outlook becoming cloudy with a few sunny periods, occasional snowflurries today. High 32 and low tonight 20.

The Townships

Fire and accidents claim nine ET lives

FRIDAY, January 24, 1969 — Edmund Littler, retiring president and chief executive officer of the Walter M. Lowney Company, said at his testimonial dinner that expansion of Lowney's facilities in Sherbrooke could "very easily happen" because expansion plans are in the offing.

Mr. Littler was given a testimonial dinner at Le Baron Motel in honor of his 40 years service with the company.

Mr. Littler said that plans for expansion are underway and naturally, any new projects would include Sherbrooke.

The guest speaker at the dinner was Harry Foster, president of Foster Advertising, which has handled the Company's business for 25 years. He paid tribute to Mr. Littler by saying that during that time, he and Mr. Littler had always done business with only the shake of a hand.

Peter Koon Lee, 21, says he can't speak French or English.

He appeared in Court of Sessions and stumped the Crown prosecutor and Judge Roland Dugre when he would not enter a plea.

Mr. Lee is charged with vagrancy. He was picked up during the night of December 18, huddled in an apartment building corridor with no place to go.

Mr. Lee is, as he mumbled in court when he first appeared, "a Chinaman" and to the knowledge of the Crown, he has no relatives.

If he pleads guilty, Judge Dugre told Mr. Lee, with the help of interpreters, he would be free to go ... if he would leave Sherbrooke.

Thieves, sex...

SATURDAY, January 25 — Thieves broke into the offices of Sherbrooke Express and for the second time in two weeks, took an undetermined amount of material.

Charles Boisvert, a company spokesman, said some crates had been opened by the burglars but no one knew what had been taken. He said there were no signs of forced entry and it looked like the thieves had a key.

The building was broken into two weeks ago when a television and some auto parts were taken, he said.

A Sherbrooke OPP spokesman said he had no additional information on the case.

Four panelists spoke to a group of teenagers at Grace Chapel on Morality of Sex, Old and New.

About 35 teenagers listened to the panelists discuss various aspects of the new and old morality.

Ben Hannan, of the YMCA, spoke on going steady and the problems it presents. Dr. W. J. Klinck discussed social consequences with regard to the two moralities. Dr. Marjorie Fish spoke on the differences between the outlooks of men and women and Dr. Robert Paulette discussed medical aspects of sex morality.

...and politicians

SUNDAY, January 26 — With Premier Jean Jacques Bertrand scheduled to return to his desk Tuesday after an extended absence due to ill-health and Education Minister Jean-Guy Cardinal also expected back the same day from his controversial visit to Paris and London, provincial politicians are hoping that some degree of story may evolve from the state of confusion now existing in governmental circles.

The virtual chaos now existing politically is particularly disturbing to the Union Nationale supporters who find it almost impossible to decide how they should stand publicly on any issue.

If control passes to moderates in the caucus, separatism will lose much of its clamor as a campaign war horse.

Professor, policemen and burglar

MONDAY, January 27 — A French-speaking associate professor at Bishop's University, Lennoxville, said in Sherbrooke's French-speaking newspaper that he is being released from the university strictly because he is a French-speaking Canadian.

Dr. Jean-Paul Plante, who teaches French-Canadian literature in the modern languages department, says in the newspaper article he has been the subject of discrimination since he started at Bishop's.

Dean I. L. Campbell of the faculty of arts at Bishop's said about Dr. Plante's accusations of discrimination, "This is false. It just isn't true."

Dean Campbell said Dr. Plante is being released on a technical matter.

Four brave Sherbrooke police constables, who participated in the capture of four suspects accused of the armed robbery of the Canadian National Bank, Belvedere Street, January 17, were honoured at City Hall.

Constables Richard Waite, Jean-Guy Dussault, Denis Deschenes and Armand Chauvin were presented with $100 cheques and City of Sherbrooke cuff links.

The Civic Action League has also decided to honor the policemen who were involved in the gunfight with four men when the constables tried to arrest them.

The CAL will present the four policemen with $25 cheques and plaques, citing them for their bravery.

A man who decided he wanted to be rehabilitated after committing one hold-up and four burglaries was sentenced to two years in penitentiary by Sessions Judge Roland Dugre. Nil Maltais, 31, of Hamilton, Ontario, pleaded guilty to the armed robbery of $3,984 from La Patrie Caisse Populaire in 1966 and four burglaries of cash and material worth about $7,300.

Mr. Maltais tried to turn himself in for the offences to the Ontario Provincial Police but they wouldn't believe him, Michel Cote, Crown prosecutor said.

He said Mr. Maltais wanted to be rehabilitated and when he tried once more to surrender, the OPP didn't turn him away.

Fire kills seven

TUESDAY, January 28 — A mother and six of her seven children were burned to death early this morning in a fire which destroyed their country farmhouse located in the Township of Granby. The dead children ranged in ages from one month to 14 years of age.

The house is about three miles northwest from Granby.

The father, Maurice Sylvestre, and his 10-year-old daughter escaped the flames but the daughter, police said, is in critical condition.

The OPP will conduct an investigation.

A contract of $294,777 has been awarded to Canadian Vickers of Montreal, to construct a section watergate at the Kruger dam in Bromptonville to prevent St. Francis River Floods.

Last year, the government purchased the dam and it has been planning the construction of the watergate since March.

The watergate will allow technicians to release large volumes of ice and water to brake floods before the river overflows into Bromptonville, as it did last spring.

Eastern Township firms played a big part in the development of plastics over the years, Robert Calder, vice-president and general-director of General Plastics in Cookshire, told the Rotary club.

Mr. Calder described briefly the stages in the growth of plastics and demonstrated some of their uses.

He said World War II was the biggest development period for plastics.

Germany had developed a plastic to replace rubber in all instances by 1937, he said, while Canada lagged behind. It was the Eastern Township plant of Shawinigan Chemical that first developed plastic for the allies, he said.

Death, airport, Assizes

WEDNESDAY, January 29 — A Sherbrooke man was killed instantly when his small German car collided head-on with a Voyageur Provincial Inc. bus on Route 5-22 between Bromptonville and Windsor.

Police identified the dead man as Leo Peloquin, 28, of 1,200 Pacific Street, Sherbrooke. Police officials reported the accident occurred about 7:45 p.m. and said at that time, the pavement was dry.

The car had to be dragged to a garage in Windsor where the body was pried out of the car.

If Quebec province is to make the most of its opportunities its residents must unite in demanding the proposed international airport be located in the Drummondville area, Rene Levesque, leader of the Partic Quebecois said.

In urging the people of Quebec to unite in support of the South Shore site, the separatist leader warned that divisions among the Quebec residents may be used by the federal authorities as an excuse for locating the proposed airport elsewhere, with the result that this province would lose many of the benefits accruing from such a project.

Twenty men will be tried at the 1969 winter session of the Criminal Assizes, beginning next Monday and presided over by Mr. Justice William Mitchell. Charges range from fraud and bribery of a police officer to rape, armed robbery and attempted murder. The one woman, Mrs. Christine Helm, alias Ruth Church, who was to appear at the Assizes to answer a charge of illegal possession of counterfeit travellers cheques, died recently.

Jean Bilodeau, court clerk, distributed the roll and said, except for the cases now on the list, persons turned over for trial after preliminary hearings will appear at the summer assizes starting in September.

Another traffic fatality

THURSDAY, January 30 — One man was killed and three people injured, none seriously in a four car collision this morning on Route 5-22 between Windsor and Sherbrooke. Marcel Beaulieu, 24, of Sherbrooke was killed when his small German car collided with a car driven by Alfred Martel. Mr. and Mrs. Martel are in St. Vincent de Paul Hospital. Mrs. Martel is suffering from an injured leg but is listed in satisfactory condition. Mr. Martel escaped with facial lacerations. The third person has not yet been identified.

Richmond Provincial Police said that Mr. Beaulieu was pronounced dead on arrival at Hotel Dieu Hospital. The accident, they said, was caused by icy road conditions which caused the two vehicles to veer into each other. Two more cars collided into the pile-up but there was no more serious damage done.

STAN GALLINGER

cheques for 20 years isn't too bad. Prior to retiring he sold life insurance.

He remembers the early days of curling vividly. In 1927, he said, curlers owned their own irons. Irons, prior to the appearance of granite stones, are unique to the Eastern Townships and the Ottawa Valley area.

The irons, he said, weighed around 60 pounds and when a bonspiel was held, curlers had to carry their own irons with them.

"In those days," he said, "the only curling clubs in the area were in Sherbrooke, Lennoxville, Granby and Thetford Mines." He said the Granite stones came into use between 1948-52 at the Sherbrooke Curling Club.

"I remember when there used to be 12 big windows on both sides of the Sherbrooke Curling Club. In those days the windows were opened at night to let the frost in to freeze the ice. During the day the windows were closed to keep the sun's heat out," he said.

"You know, there used to be an old saying," he said, "anytime you wanted a thaw, start a Sherbrooke Bonspiel."

Stan isn't sure yet if he'll be in the up-coming E.T. Bonspiel but, according to Ken King, the bonspiel organizer, the senior skip hasn't missed one since its inception in 1948.

"Yes, I've participated in the ET Bonspiel for the past 21 years but this year I just don't think I can."

Stan admits, in a candid way, that age is catching up to him slowly.

"I can play two games a day," he said, "but after that I get tired."

Stan skipped a rink which won the ET once but said he couldn't remember the exact year. In one of the early spiels he said.

"There's one thing for sure, though," Stan said, "I'll be at the ET Bonspiel every day until it's over."

He referred to the fact that the Bonspiel brings a lot of old curlers to Sherbrooke, many of which he would never otherwise see again. There was a lot of fun here, he said, in reference to the ET Bonspiel, and there still is.

"I've curled all over," he said, "but the game is more sociable in the Eastern Townships than in any other part of Canada."

He said this is another great part of the game of curling. "After it's all over, the winner buys the rounds. They tell you what you did right and you tell them what they did wrong, or what they didn't do or should have done, or something," he said.

Stan's love of life is obvious in his avoidance of speaking of or experience with war. He is a veteran of World War One, having served with the Canadian Light Infantry.

"The Army straightened me up," said Stan humorously as he once again returned his conversation to curling.

He remembered the early days when one of the curlers in Sherbrooke had his own private railway car. He said curlers used to live in the car and take a chef along every time a bonspiel was out of town.

The game of curling has progressed a long way since the days which Stan recalls so well. But many of the aspects of the game will never change.

The cordiality, sociability coupled with a refined gentlemanliness while on the ice, are facets of the game which Stan readily admits will never change. "Curling," he said, "is a game which people from nine to 90 can enjoy and I've never heard of a curler needing a heart transplant yet."

Stan said he has loved the game for years and jokingly admits he has brought "a lot of loot home from bonspiels" over the last few decades.

This year's ET Bonspiel begins Sunday, Feb. 9, and will run for seven days. It will be interesting to see if Stan's decision not to play this year won't change in the coming week.

Cardinal against 'war'

QUEBEC (CP)—Education Minister Jean-Guy Cardinal said Thursday that "a war should not be started" over letters he signed in Paris during a five-day visit to France last week.

Mr. Cardinal told a news conference that the letters, which had been forwarded to Ottawa, did not involve "international treaties or agreements."

They were merely "letters of entente or intent."

Mr. Cardinal said the "substance" of the three letters was:

—Confirmation of a French offer to send researchers and professors to help organize the University of Quebec.

—Agreement by the French and Quebec governments to set up a commission to spur French investment in Quebec.

—Provision in the field of satellite communications for an exchange of technicians and continuation of studies on the possibility of a France-Quebec satellite.

The education minister could not disclose the contents of the letters because, he said, this was "not done" in diplomacy.

Mr. Cardinal said Quebec was prepared to discuss the letter on satellites with Ottawa. A federal-provincial conference scheduled for Feb. 10-12 in Ottawa might provide the opportunity for such consultation.

But he said "the other two letters are under the exclusive jurisdiction of Quebec."

Observers say minister used political caution

PARIS (CP) — Canadian observers say Quebec Education Minister Jean-Guy Cardinal showed considerable political caution during his meeting last week with President de Gaulle and other French officials.

One diplomatic observer, who had been watching the event with some apprehension, said Thursday Cardinal seemed to go out of his way to make sure no action of his could cause any conflict between Canadian federal and provincial responsibilities.

He said that de Gaulle, in his greetings and speech during a welcoming dinner, invited Cardinal, as head of the Quebec delegation, to make statements supporting de Gaulle's views on Quebec independence.

But Cardinal carefully emphasized that Quebec could find its place within a revised Canadian constitution.

Cardinal did sign three letters covering nebulous Quebec-French agreements dealing with joint planning on a satellite, investment and French help for the new University of Quebec. But the diplomatic observer suggested there was not much in the agreements. He noted what he described as more significant—that Cardinal did not go along with French government enthusiasm

In Paris Thursday, Canadian observers said Mr. Cardinal showed considerable political caution during his visit to France with Quebec Industry Minister Jean-Paul Beaudry.

A diplomatic observer said Mr. Cardinal seemed to go out of his way to make sure that he made no move that could cause conflict between Canadian federal and provincial responsibilities.

French President de Gaulle, in his greetings and speech during a welcoming dinner, had invited Mr. Cardinal to make statements supporting the president's views on Quebec independence.

Mr. Cardinal instead had emphasized carefully that Quebec could find its place within a revised Canadian constitution.

In Quebec City Thursday, Mr. Cardinal said no invitation to de Gaulle to visit Quebec had been discussed either "officially or unofficially." But he said the province would like France-Quebec meetings to be held annually at "the highest possible level."

Man arrested after slayings

BUFFALO NARROWS, Sask. (CP) — Seven persons were slain with an axe in this community Thursday and a 19-year-old Metis laborer is scheduled to appear in magistrate's court in Prince Albert today to face seven charges of non-capital murder.

Frederick Moses McCallum of Buffalo Narrows, 310 miles north of Saskatoon, was arrested shortly after the bodies of six members of the Thomas Pederson family and a house guest, all Metis, were discovered in their two-room house early Thursday. He was held here overnight.

Those killed were Mr. Pederson, 32, his wife Bernadette, 30, their children, Grace, 9, Robert, 6, Richard, 5, and Rhoda, 3, and John Baptist Herman, 48, of La Loche, Sask., the house guest.

All but Mr. Herman were slain in bed. His body was found on the living room floor.

Donald Pederson, 8, was in serious condition in a Saskatoon hospital with a skull fracture and possible brain damage. Police said the boy was struck on the back of the head.

Two daughters, Connie, 16, and Cynthia, 10, were staying overnight at a friend's home when the incident occurred.

RCMP Sgt. William Preston of Prince Albert, heading the investigation, said Thursday night the murder weapon was a single-bladed fire axe.

Sgt. Preston said police were called to the Pederson home by Rev. J. Darche, a Roman Catholic priest who said he had been telephoned by a resident of Buffalo Narrows. The caller was not identified.

Sgt. Preston said all victims bore axe-wounds, but he would not describe them. The bodies will be flown to Prince Albert for autopsies, but acting Coroner RCMP Cpl. William Semans said there will be no inquest.

Buffalo Narrows, a community of about 1,200 predominantly Metis people, is supported by hunting and fishing, as well as two fish-packing plants that serve a small fishing industry on Churchill and Peter Pond lakes which flank the community.

The multiple-slaying was the second in 17 months in Saskatchewan.

At Shell Lake, 200 miles south of Buffalo Narrows, nine members of one family were shot to death in August, 1967.

Victor Ernest Hoffman, 21, a farm laborer from Leask, Sask., was arrested Aug. 21, 1967, after an intensive manhunt. He was later committed to a mental institution after being found not guilty of the murders by reason of insanity.

The bodies of Mr. and Mrs. James Peterson and seven of their children were found in their farm home, about 60 miles west of Prince Albert.

Citizens plead with Drapeau

MONTREAL (CP) — Montreal is mourning the loss of Man and His World, but in a massive outpouring of civic emotion residents have pleaded with Mayor Jean Drapeau not to resign his office.

Business leaders Thursday agreed the city's decision to cancel the fair this summer removes immediately a major cause of Montreal's financial difficulties.

Lucien Saulnier, chairman of the city's executive committee, stunned city council Wednesday night with the announcement that Man and His World—successor to Expo 67—will not reopen for its second season. He said no definite decision had yet been made on the 1970 fair.

Then Mayor Drapeau said he is reviewing his position as mayor because a climate of austerity that is expected to dominate municipal policies for the next few years is dispossessing him of the instruments he needs to do his job.

Within hours the general public, through radio stations and newspapers, made clear it wanted Mr. Drapeau to remain as mayor of Canada's largest city. City hall was besieged with messages of support and admiration.

Army man

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Soviet Army lieutenant who borrowed a policeman's uniform fired the shots at a motorcade carrying government leaders and cosmonauts last week.

Almost unnoticed among the flood of telegrams mourning the end of Man and His World was a cheery cable from Bulgaria announcing that country's willingness to participate in the 1969 fair.

In a front-page editorial today, The Gazette says: "Montreal needs Jean Drapeau."

"He has become the mayor of Montrealers in all their infinite varieties. He has led Montreal into its cosmopolitan vocation. He has given the sophistication of the larger view."

One radio station received more than 300 telephone calls, the majority expressing support for the 52-year-old mayor.

While business leaders felt the closure of Man and His World got rid of a financial foe, they agreed there would be repercussions such as lost tourist and convention dollars and fewer jobs in Montreal.

Man and His World accumulated a deficit of $5,228,691 during its five-month run in 1968. But much of this amount was put into capital improvements and now will become a loss.

Rather than risk the possibility of losing another $5,000,000 in 1969 and placing an additional burden on taxpayers, the city sought—unsuccessfully, as it turned out—sufficient help from Quebec City and Ottawa.

Will consider

Fair's not on the top

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Trudeau said Thursday that the government would consider any Montreal offer to sell Man and His World, successor to Expo 67.

But he added in the Commons that such a project would not head the federal list of priorities and that Ottawa could not devote a substantial part of its budget to the re-creation of Expo.

He was replying to Andre Fortin (Creditiste-Lotbiniere) who asked whether the federal government would purchase Man and His World to keep it going.

Moments earlier, Gilbert Rondeau, Creditiste House leader, tried vainly to have the Commons set aside regular business for an emergency debate on the announced closing of Man and His World.

Mr. Rondeau said the closing is a "national disgrace" with "disastrous consequences for Canadian prestige."

Speaker Lucien Lamoureux ruled Mr. Rondeau's motion out of order on the ground that Man and His World is not an administrative responsibility of the federal authority.

News in brief Lashes back

QUEBEC (CP) — Jean Lesage lashed back Thursday at Labor Minister Bryce Mackasey for remarks made in the House of Commons about the Quebec Liberal leadership.

In a debate on unemployment Wednesday, Mr. Mackasey said the problem of finding work for newcomers to Quebec is complicated by uncertainty.

Important note

The Soviet leadership has sent an important message to President Nasser of Egypt on the Middle East crisis, the semi-official Cairo newspaper Al-Ahram said today.

It said the message from Soviet Communist party General Secretary Leonid Brezhnev concerned a meeting the Kremlin leaders held earlier this week on the Middle East. The contents of the message were not revealed.

More trials

BAGHDAD (Reuters) — More Iraqis will go on trial accused of spying for Israel and more public hangings could result, a government minister warned Thursday night.

Iraqi Information Minister Abdullah Salloum al-Samarrai said trials will start when an investigation is completed into reports that spies are planning more acts of sabotage. He did not say how many men are involved in the new investigation.

An airing

CORONADO, Calif. (AP) — The question of how much authority Cmdr. Lloyd M. Buecher really had over intelligence operations on his ship seems to be getting a thorough airing before the court of inquiry into the capture of the Pueblo.

The question came into focus as Lieut. Stephen R. Harris, in charge of the Pueblo's intelligence gathering mission, spent two hours in closed-door testimony Thursday and was ordered to return Monday.

Co-operative

QUEBEC (CP) — A committee of the St. Lawrence Shipowners Association has suggested formation of a co-operative to renew the St. Lawrence fleet, the association was told Thursday.

Maurice Desgagnés, president of the association, told its annual meeting that the committee had recommended that a co-operative fleet be administered by an autonomous management.

Hijacked

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — A National Airlines DC-8 with 63 persons aboard was hijacked off the coast of Louisiana today and ordered to Cuba, the airlines reported. It was the 11th commercial airliner hijacked to Cuba this month.

Nixon orders battle plan

PRESIDENT NIXON

Fight marauders, criminals

WASHINGTON (CP) — President Nixon, following up on his campaign pledge to declare war on crime in this city oppressed by "marauders and criminals," has ordered his attorney-general to draft a battle plan before this week ends.

Rumors are that the anti-crime program may carry a $1,000,000 initial price tag and call for an additional 1,000 to 2,000 policemen for the city that already has more policemen per capita than any other major U.S. city.

One source says it also will recommend a dozen or more additional judges—imported from other centres, if necessary—to eliminate the court log-jam that now permits offenders to commit a half-dozen or more crimes while awaiting trial on the first offence.

A justice department spokesman said Thursday work is going ahead "on an urgent basis," as the president instructed, but the report may not be ready until Saturday.

Although the escalation of crime is a national problem of increasing concern, the spotlight has been on Washington in particular since the presidential election campaign when a number of Republicans, even more volatile than Nixon, termed it the "crime capital of the world."

Thus, although the president is concentrating on this city, the program for law and order presumably will have broad national implications. The District of Columbia—unique in the U.S.—has its mayor and council appointed by the president and all budgetary matters must be approved by Congress.

But if Nixon and the justice department team hope to make Washington a model of law and order, it will be an uphill grind. Although the city is ranked eighth in the latest FBI figures on serious crime in U.S. cities, the rate of lawlessness here has been shooting up frighteningly.

Bank robberies alone ran at the rate of more than one a day in the first 20 days of this year.

Benson predicts a 'further period of strong expansion'

OTTAWA (CP) — A "further period of strong expansion" is in prospect for Canada this year, Finance Minister Edgar Benson predicted confidently Thursday night.

But at the same time he warned Canadians against trying to take too much from the economy.

Since the Liberals took office in 1963, he told the Commons, there has been such a "tremendous expansion" of the economy and "such a wonderful feeling of optimism" that Canadians have come to feel there is no limit to what they can ask of the economy.

They must realize they cannot take out more than they put in through increased productivity, or prices will be sure to increase, he said.

Mr. Benson's review of the economy climaxed a two-day debate, the first of the new "opposition days," pegged to Conservative and NDP motions of non-confidence in government handling of the economy.

Both challenges were easily beaten by the majority Liberal government.

HAD 35 VOTE MARGIN

Conservative motion, charging that the government is not presenting programs to achieve an economic growth rate that would reduce unemployment.

An NDP amendment, accusing the government of slowing down public investment and deliberately following fiscal and monetary policies designed to increase unemployment, was defeated 109 to 73.

Standing in the 264-seat Commons: Liberal 155, Conservative 72, NDP 21, Creditiste 14, Independent 1, vacant 1.

Today the Commons scheduled a cleanup program, including first reading of the government proposed estate-tax changes and accelerated handling of a bill to provide up to $600 in emergency advances to prairie farmers for drying damp and tough grain.

Mr. Benson tabled notice of the estate tax bill Thursday, and disclosed that the government has decided not to levy taxes on estates of under $50,000. In his fall budget Mr. Benson had set a figure of $20,000.

Debate on the non-confidence motions seldom struck sparks as their outcome was never in question.

Although the two-day debate marked the first test under new procedure rules of the opposition-days system, by which the opposition picks the topic for debate, interest lagged toward the end.

At one point Thursday only eight of the 107 opposition members were in the chamber.

Farmers seek changes

QUEBEC (CP) — Canadian farmers plan to seek a lowering of St. Lawrence Seaway shipping tolls and amendments to newly-legislated postal rate increases after adopting resolutions on the issues at the annual meeting of the Canadian Federation of Agriculture.

The resolutions were unanimously approved by representatives from farmers' associations across the country at the close of a three-day convention Thursday night.

The resolution dealing with the St. Lawrence Seaway says the waterway is of "immense importance" to the movement of Prairie farm produce to overseas markets. Prairie farmers would be severely affected by proposed toll increases.

It adds that the president of the St. Lawrence Seaway Authority "announced in a recent appearance before a committee of the House of Commons that the seaway intends to seek increases in tolls in 1970."

The resolution authorizes the CFA to oppose any increase in tolls and to "urge the federal government to work toward an actual reduction in charges" for use of the waterway.

The resolution on postal rates asks the government not to implement "as presently worded" Bill C-116 raising postal rates for newspapers and periodicals.

The impact of the bill on farm publications would result in in-

Introduce tax bill today

OTTAWA (CP) — Finance Minister Edgar Benson plans to introduce a new estates tax bill formally today, giving everyone exactly six months in which to consider and complete changes in their wills.

Mr. Benson, back-peddling from his Oct. 22 budget speech in which he initially announced changes in current death duties, told the Commons Thursday he proposes to make five main changes.

They are:
—The old rule that taxes will not be applied to estates of $50,000 or less will be continued.

—Executors of large estates tied up in property or business will have five years to make death-duty payments, thus easing the burden on family-owned businesses or farms.

—The higher exemptions for children spelled out in the budget three months ago will be continued, but estate-tax payers will be able to use the old exemptions until next July 31 if they benefit from them.

—Gifts of up to $2,000 a year made to trusts for minor children will be tax-exempt.

—The revised estate tax plan will not come into effect fully until next July 31, instead of being made retroactive to the last budget, Oct. 22.

Mr. Benson told reporters after introducing the new plan in the Commons that he hadn't retreated. But later he said the changes from his original plan had been brought about by pressure put on him by the Liberal caucus, and by individuals outside the Commons.

Features of the October plan being retained in the new estate tax-law are that there will still be a complete exemption of all moneys left by an individual to his widow.

FIRE AFTERMATH — Vapor rises from rubble after fire at Granby, Que., in which Mrs. Maurice Sylvestre and six of her seven children died Tuesday morning. Firemen said they arrived six minutes after the alarm had been sounded but the house was just "a ball of flame" and the roof had already collapsed. Mr. Sylvestre and a 10-year-old daughter Sylvie were taken to hospital with third-degree burns. (CP Wirephoto)

Unionists Taylor and Potvin plead guilty, post peace bond

The final two court procedures against leaders and members of the unions, who for six months struck against the Domtar Pulp and Paper Co., were quickly wrapped up Monday morning when Gerard Taylor and Clement Potvin changed their pleas to guilty and were each ordered to post a $1,000 bond to keep the peace for one year by Sessions Judge Jean Louis Pelquin.

Mr. Taylor, the strike director at East Angus who was scheduled to appear at a preliminary inquiry yesterday morning, and Clement Potvin, strike director at Windsor, pleaded guilty to charges of conspiracy to commit damage and deliberately taking possession and causing damage to Domtar's Windsor mill, Nov. 4.

Gerald Allaire, an associate of Pierre Fournier, who handled Domtar's case in court and who was not available for comment, said yesterday the company's counsel did not recommend a sentence to Judge Pelquin during the hearing.

Mr. Allaire said that the reason the case was heard at the abruptly called session on Monday rather than yesterday at the scheduled time was because the two accused changed their plea. A court official offered the explanation that part of the management-union agreement, which was delayed for several days because of disagreement on court proceedings, called for the earliest possible wrapping up of the criminal cases.

Mr. Allaire said he thought Judge Pelquin decided on the suspended sentence and the order to post bond because three other men facing similar charges had received the same sentence from Sessions Judge Roland Dugre. Charles Aime Ferland, Valere Dion and Mathias Pelquin received identical penalties Jan. 22, the day the strike ended.

Jail or conformity decision is 16-year-old's

Claude Prevost, 16, of Sherbrooke, was given a suspended sentence, ordered to post a $500 bond to keep the peace for two years and asked to make a decision to not spend most of the rest of his life in jail, by Sessions Judge Benoit Turmel yesterday. Judge Turmel, after he heard the boy plead guilty to charges of theft, said he would give him a chance because it was his first time in criminal court.

He noted that the boy had appeared before social welfare court before and told Prevost that he would have to make a decision whether he would conform with society or spend the rest of his life making repeated trips to prison and penitentiaries.

The youth's lawyer had asked

Judge Turmel to allow the boy to go free in the custody of his older brother, Andre Langlais, representing the Crown, said he thought the youth could be rehabilitated.

Tricotex leaving city, B. F. Goodrich transfers line

It was learned today that the Tricotex Co. Ltd., 2765 Prague Street, Sherbrooke, will be transferred to Granby. This information is subject to confirmation by company management although this news has been confirmed by other sources.

A 60,000 foot addition has been constructed at Granby and the Tricotex production line will be moved to this new section, probably in March.

Tricotex employs 30 people and is an affiliate of Burlington Industries Ltd. The Sherbrooke plant manufactured material for curtains, gloves, arnel.

It was also learned today that the B. F. Goodrich Canada Ltd. plant in Waterville will transfer the production of one of its product lines to the Toronto area and is planning expansion of another product group in Waterville.

Harry Krichew, Plant Manager of BFG in Waterville, said today the relocation of urethane production to the Metropolitan Toronto region of Ontario would probably take place in the last half of the year.

"Rather than over-expand our facilities in Waterville, we decided to realistically face the demands of the market place and locate in an area which is close to the majority of our customers," said Mr. Krichew. He cited customer service requirements, transportation cost and keenly competitive activity as reasons for the shift in location of this particular product line.

BFG Canada has a sizeable investment in the Sherbrooke-Waterville area and while BFG Officials could not disclose detailed figures, the company recently completed a major expansion including new offices, warehousing space and production facilities. The plant employs 400 in the manufacture of sponge rubber carpet cushion, automotive foam products, latex foam rubber cushioning and mattress cores and urethane foam cushioning.

Mr. Krichew said that plans call for the installation of additional carpet cushion production equipment in the re-arranged factory space made vacant by the move of the urethane production to the Toronto region. "We also anticipate further expansion in our latex foam rubber lines," he added.

Mr. Krichew could not estimate the number of employees affected by the transfer. "This will be worked out during the course of the year but I am satisfied there will be no long-term economic loss to the community," he said.

Beef revolution said survival need

Dr. Camil Barnard, director-general of the Lennoxville Experimental Farm, told the annual meeting of the Quebec Hereford Association at the New Wellington Hotel last night that the entire attitude of the beef farmer would have to be modified and rejuvenated if the industry was going to survive and prosper.

Dr. Barnard touched on many areas of beef business and suggested new ways to develop a better and more productive product.

He said that the purebred Hereford, Angus or Shorthorn is now registered and called a purebred because of its lineage, not its quality. He said that the purebreds should be judged on their quality and should be used in crossbreeding to improve commercial stock.

He noted that some producers of hogs are now allowing foreign blood into their purebred animals and if the quality of meat improves they maintain their status.

Dr. Barnard said that shows should be used to demonstrate to the public and inform them where their meat comes from and how it is developed.

He said that there should be only enough breeders to adequately service the commercial end of the business but they should have all the latest technical and theoretical machinery at their disposal.

Dr. Barnard thinks that it isn't a good idea to feed the stock feed grains. They should feed on the things that can't possibly be consumed by humans, he said.

Dr. Barnard said that the initial stage in making the transitions would be difficult but other agriculture had been forced to rejuvenate and in the long run it would be worth while.

At separate meetings last night the executive was elected. Bernard Methot of Les Fonds was re-elected president of the association. Art Bennett, Sawyerville, and Ted Tanner were re-elected vice-president and secretary. Albert Taylor was elected Canadian director. The directors are Mr. Methot, Mr. Bennett, Gerard Vaillancourt and Mr. Taylor.

Four-car crash kills city man

For the second time in 24 hours a man has died in a collision on Route 5-22 between Bromptonville and Windsor. Three people were also injured in the four car accident near the spot where Leo Pelquin, 28, of Sherbrooke, died instantly in a head-on collision with a bus Wednesday night.

Marcel Beaulieu, 24, of Sherbrooke, was pronounced dead on arrival at Hotel Dieu Hospital, Richmond Provincial Police said, after his small European car collided with an automobile driven by Eugene Gagne, of Asbestos. Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Martel who were in the car with Mr. Gagne were both injured in the accident and taken to St. Vincent de Paul Hospital. Mr. Martel suffered facial lacerations and Mrs. Martel, who suffered injuries to her legs, is said to be resting comfortably, by hospital officials.

Richmond QPP spokesmen said the accident was caused by the extremely icy condition of the road. Two other vehicles were involved in the accident, QPP said, when they collided with the pile-up. Paul Chouinard, of Sherbrooke, suffered no injuries and his truck was not damaged, and while Andre Pichaud escaped injury his car was heavily damaged, police said.

Polly's Pointers
Washing Suggestions
For Cotton Knit Shirts

By POLLY CRAMER

DEAR POLLY—Mrs. S. J. T. wanted to know if there was a secret to successfully washing and drying children's cotton knit shirts. My method is no secret but it keeps the shirts in my household neat and trim. I turn the shirt wrong side out and get the bottom edges, side seams and shoulder seams even. I then lap it over the line about two inches from the bottom of the shirt. Pin it with three clothespins, one at each side seam and one in the center. When dry the shirt is neat and smooth and requires no ironing. I have had 22 years of neat-looking shirts with no twists or crooked edges.—TESSEE

DEAR POLLY—Some of those "in the know" suggest shaping these shirts while they are damp. Let them dry on a flat surface.—POLLY

DEAR POLLY—I believe Mrs. S. J. T.'s trouble with washing cotton knit shirts is due to inferior material and workmanship and not her washing method. Try a better quality shirt and one with a label guaranteeing shape retention. They cost a little more but are well worth the cost. They maintain their good looks through scores of washings.—MRS. K. R. W.

DEAR POLLY—I want to tell Mrs. S. J. T. that she should wash her child's cotton knit shirts in cold water with cold water detergent. Don't wring them out. Hang on a child's plastic coat hanger to dry.—DIANE

Polly's Problem

DEAR POLLY—I have charge of fund raising for our high school girls' organization. I do hope some other students will give us some ideas about how they make money. Thank you very much.—BETTY

Cabbage Rolls, Swedish Way

By GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Food and Nutrition Editor

For a change, let's use a Swedish recipe for stuffed cabbage rolls. For very little effort, you will produce a dish that is not only delicious and novel, but also economical.

SWEDISH STUFFED CABBAGE ROLLS
1 1/2 cups warm water
1 (2 1/2- to 3-pound) head cabbage
1 1/2 cups margarine
1 cup dark corn syrup
1 cup medium cream or heavy cream

Melt 1/2-cup margarine in skillet; add onion; saute until brown. Blend ground beef, rice, egg, salt, pepper, sauteed onions, margarine and onions. Gradually add water; work mixture until spongy. Place in refrigerator.

Core cabbage and, under cold water, remove 10 large leaves. (Do not split or break leaves.) Cook leaves and rest of head in 2 to 3 inches boiling water in covered saucepan, until leaves are almost tender, 7 to 10 minutes. Drain and cool. Reserve separated leaves; chop remaining head of cabbage and blend with meat mixture. Place about 1/2-cup meat mixture in middle of each cabbage leaf. Fold sides toward center, then roll. Fasten with toothpicks.

Melt 1/2-cup margarine in each of two skillets. Brown cabbage rolls. Place rolls in one large skillet. Pour 1/2-cup syrup over cabbage; cover tightly. Simmer gently 40 to 50 minutes, turning frequently. Add cream and remaining 1/2-cup syrup; cook until cabbage veins are tender, about 20 minutes.

Coming events were discussed which included a rummage sale on Feb. 7 at 1 p.m.; bean and salad supper, March 6; birds nest tea, April 16; rummage sale, May 23 and a strawberry tea, June 18.

Following the benediction, the hostess, Mrs. Douglas Knapp, served refreshments assisted by Mrs. Raymond Leech and Mrs. Henry Leech Jr.

The next meeting will be on Feb. 5 with Mrs. Grace Sunbury in charge of devotions and Mrs. Guy Martin as hostess.

ST. MARY'S GUILD OF ST. PAUL'S CHURCH

The annual meeting of St. Mary's Guild of St. Paul's Church was held recently at the home of Mrs. Gordon Stuart. The president, Mrs. Hartley Graham, was in the chair.

Following opening prayers and the reading of correspondence, Mrs. Graham thanked the members for their assistance during the past year and then turned the meeting over to Mrs. Donald Eustace.

The treasurer, Mrs. Clarence Mayhew, gave her financial report for the year. In the absence of the secretary, Mrs. William Edgecombe, read a resume of the past year's activities. Nominations followed with the incoming officers being accepted on acclamation.

President, Mrs. Hartley Graham; vice-president, Mrs. Gordon Stuart; secretary, Mrs. Wayne Redway; treasurer, Mrs. William Stuart.

Following closing prayers, delicious refreshments were served by the hostess.

CAS director wants more sex education in schools

VANCOUVER (CP) — The new executive director of the Vancouver Children's Aid Society says there should be more sex education in the schools, with children starting to learn "as soon as they are able to understand."

"As early as possible, children should be made aware not only of the biological implications but the social implications of sex as well," said Daniel B. Fenney.

"It's up to the schools to give family-life education to children and enlighten them naturally about the responsibility of sexual involvement with each other."

"Sex should be taught in a natural and progressive manner, not because all of a sudden a child is 13 and should know."

Mr. Fenney, who came to Vancouver in 1966, was formerly executive director of the Ottawa and Sudbury, Ont., Children's Aid societies.

Personals

It has been announced by Maple Copse Chapter, IOOE, that the winners in the recently-completed bridge marathon were Mrs. K. G. Blaikie and Mrs. Everett Denison.

Jules Bosset, of Aylmer, was the best man. The ushers were Camille Sapena, brother-in-law of the bride and Trevor Hagen, of Ottawa.

The bride's mother was in a purple ensemble, gold accessories and a corsage of purple cymbidium orchids.

The mother of the bride-groom was in a gown of coral silk jersey with matching accessories, a mink stole and a corsage of pink Sweetheart roses and miniature mums.

The reception was held at St. George's Club. The bride's table was centered with a three-tiered wedding cake. Following the reception, Mr. and Mrs. Lardner left for a short wedding trip. The bride traveled in a turquoise blue ensemble trimmed with a fur collar, brown alligator accessories. The couple are living in Ottawa.

Knowlton Post Office makes box time change

KNOWLTON — (Special) — Commencing tomorrow the main front door of the Knowlton Post Office will be open permanently day and night.

This means that Post Office boxholders will have access to their mail boxes night and day, seven days and seven nights per week.

As a trial experiment, the Post Office is trying this with a view of giving better service to boxholders.

Commencing tomorrow also wicket service will close at 5:45 p.m. instead of 6:00 p.m.

Meetings held in Mansonville

MANSONVILLE — (Special) — A meeting of the Mansonville Branch of Quebec Home and School Federation was held January 21 in one of the classrooms of the Mansonville Intermediate School.

In the absence of the president, the vice-president, Mrs. Ross McNeil took the chair.

She opened the meeting with a few words of welcome to all. Minutes of a previous meeting were read by Mrs. C. R. Wall and approved as read.

Mrs. McNeil then asked Mrs. Thelma Cote to say a few words.

Mrs. Cote discussed Regulation 1 in case there were any new comers. Mrs. Cote also explained form of authorization. She then introduced the guest speaker, Mrs. Sheila Wilson, who is principal of the Gables School at Knowlton.

Mrs. Wilson explained the aims of education today and the reasons for the use of the ungraded form of education at the elementary school level.

Teachers, today, are searching for a better education for all children.

Mrs. McNeil expressed thanks to Mrs. Wilson for her discourse, after which an informal get-together was held while refreshments were served by some of the ladies of the local branch.

Mrs. Myrtle Pope, area vice-president of Waterloo Region of the Quebec-Sherbrooke Presbytery United Church Women, was special guest at a meeting of representatives of the Mansonville-Vale Perkins-Bolton Center groups of this district held in the Manse January 21.

The introduction of a unit system for the groups was thoroughly discussed, with Mrs. Pope as adviser.

Each group will report their decision after the next meeting.

Representatives from Bolton Center were Mrs. Donald Cousens, Mrs. Thomas, Mrs. Gaylor and Mrs. Barnes; from Vale Perkins, Mrs. Orma Jewett, Mrs. Ralph Knowlton and Miss Rita Mossa; from Mansonville, Mrs. Jerry Cabana, Mrs. E. J. McDonald, Mrs. Rupert Fullerton and Mrs. Harold Clark.

A delicious tea was served by Mrs. McDonald at the close of the pleasant afternoon.

The women of St. Paul's Anglican Church held their annual meeting January 21 at the home of Mrs. Leon Eldridge with a good attendance of members.

All matters of old business were satisfactorily settled.

The nominating committee: Mrs. Leon Eldridge and Mrs. Kate Bailey, were ready with a slate of officers for the coming year.

Mrs. R. H. Miller took the chair for the nominating committees' reports.

The results of the committees' reports were as follows: President, Mrs. Ray Gardner; vice-president, Mrs. R. Greenham; secretary, Mrs. Andrew Cote; and treasurer, Miss Marian Atwell.

These nominations were accepted unanimously.

The meeting was soon brought to a close with prayer.

At the close of the meeting, refreshments were served by the hostess, Mrs. Leon Eldridge.

The heads of committees will be selected before the next meeting, which will take place Tuesday, February 11.

A service for Christian unity was held in the Mansonville United Church at 8:00 p.m. January 26.

The call to worship was by Rev. Malcolm Eby, Pentecostal minister of South Bolton. The processional hymn was Christ is Made the Sure Foundation.

Prayers and leading in the reading of the Psalm were by Rev. Eby.

After the hymn, Jesus with Thy Church Abide, the Old and New Testament Lessons were read by the Wardens of the Anglican Church, Cedric Bailey and Rupert Fullerton.

Following the reading of the Lessons, Rev. McDonald took over the remainder of the service.

The theme of his sermon was Christians Unite which was followed by a prayer for unity.

The offering was disposed of as follows: Church envelopes went to the designated church, while loose offerings and Bible Society envelopes will go to the Bible Society.

Cribbage tournament is success

COWANSVILLE — (Staff) — The Royal Canadian Legion Branch 99, Cowansville, sponsored its annual cribbage tournament Sunday, January 26, with 44 players from the Eastern Townships and the Northern United States competing.

Players were from Knowlton, Dunham, East Farnham, Bedford and Frelighsburg, Quebec and Americans from as far away as Burlington, Vermont.

Bernard Richer, of Cowansville, won the A Flight championship when he defeated Mrs. M. Battley, of Knowlton, in the finals.

Mr. Bulldozer of Burlington, Vermont, won the B Flight championship defeating Mrs. Drinkwine, also of Burlington, in the final contest.

Ski centers start Nancy Greene league

To honor our most famous world skiing gold medal champion, Miss Nancy Greene, most Quebec and Ontario ski centers have started what is known as the Nancy Greene Ski League.

This is a racing school open to children from the ages of six to 13.

It is a giant slalom event. Ten members are chosen from each club and competition is between two clubs at a time.

At the end of the season, playoffs among the area or zone winners will be scheduled when trophies and prizes will be given to winning teams and individual members.

This league has been formed to teach youngsters to work together and make their contribution to and for the team.

Individual honors are of no consequence at this time, so youngsters learn the magic of working together and helping each other for the team.

For the first time, Sunday, January 26, at Bromont, two clubs met in competition, 10 youngsters from Owl's Head and 10 from Bromont.

When the giant slalom event finished, the team from Owl's

Head won by one point, 108 to 107.

Other events will be scheduled with different clubs throughout the season and parents as well as members of each ski club should encourage these youngsters in a fine sport.

Seafloor aquarium

Here, the performers are a flirty crew

NASSAU, Bahamas — An aquarium in the Bahamas might seem like bringing coals to Newcastle. The surrounding waters constitute one vast aquarium that has few equals in the world, and much of the bewildering variety of underwater life can be observed at no great distance from shore with the aid of snorkels. Why then the Seafloor Aquarium in Nassau, a privately supported enterprise that has cost to date more than half a million dollars?

The aquarium is endowed by the Johnson Brothers, makers of the exquisite turtle shell gifts that are a feature of Nassau shopping, and the reasoning behind the expensive undertaking is as follows:

In the first place, a large section of the aquarium is contained within natural open air tanks, built around reef structures, so that the teeming sea-life within can be viewed in surroundings that more than approximate the sea bottom.

The whole dazzling spectacle, that would take the snorkel viewer days to encompass, can be viewed in short order. This has particular attraction for the cruise tourists, who can spare only a few hours from their general sightseeing.

Certain dangerous species of underwater life, such as sharks, barracudas and moray eels can be viewed in close proximity — and in complete safety.

No one, even if he spent a month in the Bahamas, would ever obtain as comprehensive a picture of the teeming underwater fauna and flora of the West Indies as he can by a visit to the Seafloor Aquarium. For that matter, the aquarium authorities plan to import examples from other waters, a beginning having been made with the acquisition of a sealion from the Pacific, and a manatee, or seacow.

The stars of the aquarium are, however, and always will be the porpoises, those intelligent and vocal denizens of the deep who seem to have a special affinity for humans, who nuzzle up to their trainers like puppy dogs, and perform a variety of tricks for the visitors at his urging through the encouragement of a fish or two.

A bottlenose dolphin named

"Linus" is the favorite and the clown of the dolphin troupe, which includes a fellow male named Herman, and two maiden porpoises called Sparkles and Penelope. Four times a day, these brainy creatures go through their acts, which include whistling at the ladies, high-jumping and general acrobatics.

The sea-lion is a juggler. Nobody has found out yet what the manatee will do for a living: he is a fugitive from a Hollywood location unit making a movie off Lyford Cay, and at present is adjusting to life away from Janet Leigh, Tony Randall and Flipper, in the company of giant turtles and nurse sharks that are another feature of the picturesque lagoon that forms the outdoor aquarium.

In addition to the exhibits, which need the space of open water, there are giant reef tanks standing 20 feet high and are 35 feet in diameter. In these, coral reefs have been reconstructed to provide natural surroundings for hundreds of exotic fish that include parrotfish, stingrays, needlefish, houndfish, groupers, suckers, starfish, trumpetfish, pilot fish, eels, and many others sharing quarters with rock crabs, lobsters, sea anemones, sea urchins and a four-foot green turtle.

Special lighting has simulated underwater illumination, depicting the ocean floor at night. Another area, known as the diurnal section, receives its illumination from the sun. The deadly denizens are separated from the viewers by unbreakable glass, but otherwise every effort is made to simulate conditions exactly as they might be observed in shoal water, or in depths of 30 feet or more on the ocean bottom.

The whole is located in a park, two miles from downtown Nassau, containing a blazing collection of subtropical plants and flowers, including hibiscus, bougainvillea, poinsettia and the yellow elder, the national flower of the Bahamas.

The admission price to Seafloor Aquarium is $2.50 for adults and $1.25 for children over four, most of the proceeds going to new acquisitions and maintenance.

Tree dates

The oldest Czechoslovak oak tree is located in Peruc and dates from the 11th century. Its exact age will be determined only after it dies when it will then be possible to count the annual rings on its trunk.

TASTY BITE — A feeder's eye view of Herman, the performing porpoise at Nassau's Seafloor Aquarium. Here, Herman an eight-year-old male, jumps 22 feet to be hand-fed a fishy reward. The Aquarium offers four shows daily, featuring two porpoises and Ricky, a sagacious sea lion. A 600-pound manatee (seacow) is also one of the unique attractions of the recreational facility situated on West Bay Street, Nassau's main thoroughfare. (Bahamas News Bureau)

Bulgaria earns its place on map

Bulgaria is becoming known in the tourist world as the European country with the most variety and offering the most for the money.

Tucked away in the south-east extremity of Europe, its position at the crossroads of West and East gives it the best of both worlds. Besides, modern resort hotels and facilities are springing up everywhere in the midst of Roman ruins and relics of pre-Christian culture.

And many Canadian tourists are discovering a fact that experienced travel agents have known all along: that Bulgaria is just about the biggest bargain in a European tour.

The Black Sea resorts of this little country — about a tenth the area of Ontario — are the most popular holiday areas. But majestic mountain regions, colorful cities and towns, hundreds of spas, renowned architectural and historical features and excellent food are among the other attractions of which the hospitable Bulgarians are justly proud.

New faster planes have been put into service this year to bring Sofia, Bulgaria's capital, within a couple of hours flying time from most of the principal cities of Europe.

Bulgaria's Black Sea resort area has been compared with the French or Italian rivieras for natural beauty. The metropolis is Varna, known as the Queen of the Black Sea. From this city of historic sights, gardens and museums, 230 miles of beautiful beach resorts run both up and down the coast, broken only by dunes and green parklands. The sand is fine and golden, the water is a Mediterranean blue, and the beaches slope gently and evenly.

Over the past 10 years the Bulgarians have been busily engaged in building up-to-date hotels, restaurants and nightclubs along the whole strip. It is a point of national policy that each new building should be in a setting of natural beauty, and that there should be no crowding.

Golden Sands and Sunny Beach — to give them their names in English, are two of the best-known resorts. Besides fine hotels ranging from economy up to the deluxe categories, they both feature numerous restaurants — modern and folk — nightclubs, open-air theatres, sports facilities and other amenities.

Almost on Varna's doorstep in Drouzha — Friendship in English. Its hotels face a cluster of small rocky coves and beaches. Opening this season, Albena is a new resort north of Varna which, when eventually completed, will have 47 hotels. Many will have traditional style restaurants as well as nightclubs, cafes and bars. In addition there will be such attractions as a summer theatre, movie houses and an amusement park.

Complete resort villages have been built in two areas for famous French mass travel organizations. Club European has a self-contained holiday spot at Rousalka and Club Mediterranean the same facilities at Nesebar.

There are a number of other resorts tucked away in covers or set in green belts. All Bulgaria's Black Sea area, however, has in common a uniformly reasonable tariff. Single occupancy hotel rates, including full board, range from $12 a day down to $6.50. An exception is a brand-new North American style hotel at Golden Sands and Sofia where the deluxe rate, again with three meals, is $15 a day, certainly a bargain by our standards.

The Black Sea area season lasts from the beginning of May to late October.

Bulgaria's terrain is full of contrasts, and mountains and rugged regions cover about two-thirds of her territory. In winter heavy snowfalls provide good skiing, in summer the beautiful scenery, invigorating climate and fine facilities also attract thousands of visitors. Three mountain resorts are particularly popular: Borovets, Pamporovo and Vitosha.

Bulgarians claim to be among the longest-living and healthiest people anywhere. They credit the climate and the food, particularly that famous Bulgarian invention — yoghurt.

But man and nature have combined to provide for those not in perfect health. Nature has given Bulgaria more than 500 mineral springs said to be of medicinal value. Man has built health resort spas at many of these, and here again the charges are easy on the pocketbook. At the principal balneosanatoriums, as they are called, the single bedroom rate is the equivalent of $8 a day. This includes not only the room but dietetic meals, doctors' examinations and advice, laboratory examinations, mineral baths, physiotherapy and, in acute cases, medicines.

Different spas offer different types of water said to alleviate various diseases. Bankya, 12 miles west of Sofia, is recommended by the Bulgarians for nervous diseases. The waters of Hissar, 30 miles from Plovdiv, are said to be good for internal complaints. In the mountains southwest of Sofia Kyustendil has 40 hot springs claimed useful in the treatment of heart and rheumatic conditions.

Sofia, the nation's capital, is like most of the other Bulgarian cities and towns, old and rich in architectural monuments.

As in other great capitals of Europe, there are plenty of good hotels, restaurants and shopping facilities.

Turnovo, Nesebar, Koprivtica and Arbanasi are "museum towns," packed with history and relics.

Bulgaria has other tourist attractions, too, like scores of historic monasteries. Rila, for example, an hour and a half's drive from Sofia, was founded in the 10th century and is a treasure house of frescoes, carvings, manuscripts and icons. Backovo Monastery, near Plovdiv, was founded in 1083. The magnificent Russian Orthodox style church at Shipka Pass and the Boyana Church on the outskirts of Sofia are also well worth visits.

And, if you go in May or early June, the Valley of the Roses is a must. The area consists of about 7,500 acres of rose gardens, whence comes most of the world's supply of attar of roses.

Further information about travel in Bulgaria may be obtained from Grigor Giurov, director of the Bulgarian Tourist Office, 1550 de Maisonneuve blvd. west, Suite 210, Montreal.

Stag bridge

The oldest stone bridge in Bohemia is located at Pisek in southern Czechoslovakia and is known as the Stag Bridge. According to legend it was suggested that the bridge be named after the one who first chanced to cross it. This, so the story goes, was a frightened stag from the nearby woods.

Really big

Czechoslovakia's St. Wenceslas Crown contains 3.8 pounds of gold and 750 grams of pearls and precious stones. The most precious of the lot is the sapphire on the headband. It is one of the largest sapphires in the world.

Busy clock

In Jilemnice, Czechoslovakia, where skis were first introduced into Bohemia — in 1892 from Norway — the town hall clock strikes a total of 372,300 times a year. At every quarter hour it strikes the preceding hour and on each hour it strikes the time not once, but twice.

Music on Records

By Elisabeth Gustafson

STRAVINSKY: The Firebird, Petrushka; The Rite of Spring. Ernest Ansermet conducting the Orchestre de la Suisse Romande. London Ace of Diamonds 2-record album ABD-1.

The three Stravinsky ballets are given complete in this new two-record album. These are not the shorter orchestral suites generally used for concert performance. Here we get the true proportions of these famous scores. At the time of their first performances just before World War I, they were, in the preconceived minds of the bewildered public, infamous scores. When Le Sacre du Printemps was first given at Paris in 1913, the audience was thrown into an uproar. Stravinsky had not only broken through the conventions of the classical ballet with its set stage forms, musically he blew sky-high the accepted notions of what the grammar of tonality and melody should be. Rhythm was freed in the wildest sort of way from regular pulse. As someone said, Stravinsky pounded to pieces the "tyranny of the bar line." His first full-length ballet, The Firebird, broke up the orchestra men into convulsions of laughter. At the end of the premiere of Le Sacre du Printemps, the theatre exploded into a whistling, jeering mob. Police were called in and half a hundred defenders of the conventional Muse were arrested.

A dividing line had established itself between the nineteenth century and Modern music — at least, in stage music. Now, we accept the music as conventional.

But we listen with no less excitement. These older scores of Stravinsky are as vital as ever. They could not be put into more authentic hands than the hands of Ansermet who conducts the great triad of Stravinsky ballets in this new two-record album. Ansermet as a young man was intimately associated with the early performances, touring with the Diaghilev company; subsequently he established the music in the concert halls of the world. These new records are as vital and authentic as we are ever likely to get.

STRAVINSKY: The Rite of Spring; Fireworks. Seiji Ozawa conducting the Chicago Symphony Orchestra. RCA Victor LSC-3026.

Here again is Le Sacre du Printemps. This time the music is in the hands of a much younger conductor. Ozawa, until recently the leader of the Toronto Symphony. Here he is leading the Chicago forces. The performance of this version of Le Sacre is no less dynamic. The primitive rhythms build up with tremendous effect, the mastering of this intricate score (the time-signatures call for such impossible rhythmic shifts as 5-16, 11-4) is impressive, the engineering superb. Ozawa stresses the dissonant character of the score. Why shouldn't he? This is as sensually primitive music as has ever been written. Strange and significant to think that for such an effect we sophisticates require a mammoth orchestra with a battery of percussion instruments that knocks the eye and ear out. The original institutors of this worship of the earth and propitiation of the fertility gods, probably required nothing more than a few old bones and some dried bison skins.

On the occasion of his Inauguration on Jan. 20, President Richard Nixon was presented with an official, gold inaugural medal and Vice-President Spiro Agnew a similar medal in silver, bearing the serial number one.

These medals in bronze 2 1/2" and pure silver 2 1/2" in diameter are now available to collectors.

The obverse of the Nixon Inaugural medal bears a three-quarter portrait of President Nixon in bas-relief. The reverse has a reproduction of the crewel-work pattern, depicting the Great Seal of the United States, embroidered by Julie Nixon, for her father. The design also produces the wording, embroidered by Miss Nixon: "TO RJ - JN". Use of the crewel effect, as well as the introduction of a personal family touch in the design, sets a precedent in the 68 year history of Inaugural medals.

The medals have been produced by Presidential Art

Medals Inc., Englewood, Ohio. President Nixon personally selected sculptor Ralph J. Menconi to prepare the models for the medal. Mr. Menconi is well known for his portrait sculpturing and gained worldwide recognition for his Sir Winston Churchill, John F. Kennedy and Robert F. Kennedy Memorial Medals.

While in Miami recently I attended the Coin and Stamp Convention sponsored by the Gold Coast and South Florida Coin Clubs. The show attracted an attendance of approximately 3000, including collectors and dealers from across the U.S. and Canada. Among the many interesting exhibits, was one of early American money, including Indian barter money, by Joe Dan Osceola of the Seminole Okalee Indian Village. A wide range of numismatic material was offered by nearly 80 dealers. Silver bars made from melted down Canadian coins were being sold at $2 per ounce.

First regional race held in the national Nancy Greene Little League was run at Bromont last Sunday, when Orford's entries took the top five positions. Geoffrey Wilson, 12, was first with 60.4; Eleanor Gurd, 12, second with 61.1; Daniel Gosselin, 13, third at 62.9; Claude Chaput, 10, fourth with 67.4; and 12-year-old Sue MacAuley fifth with 68.2.

According to a release from Maurice Hauser, of Bromont, Owl's Head team won out 108 to 107 over his centre's entry.

The Nancy Greene Little League has been started in honor of our most famous world skiing gold medal champion, Miss Nancy Greene. Most of Quebec and Ontario ski centers have started their own Nancy Greene ski league groups, sponsored by the racing schools, and open to children from ages of 6 to 13.

Ten members are chosen from each club, and competition is between two clubs at a time. At the end of the season, finals among the clubs will be scheduled, when trophies and prizes will be given to winning teams, and individual members.

Purpose of this league is to teach youngsters to work together.

This new field will see a lot of activity, and is an excellent incentive for young racers.

February 8 and 9 are the dates of this year's Adams Memorial Ski Races, which will be preceded by a week of activities leading up to the competitions. The actual race weekend however, starts with a "non-stop" run of Three Creeks Friday at 1 p.m., then a civic reception at City Hall in Magog from 6 until 8 p.m. On Saturday, registration will be from 8 a.m. to 10.30 a.m., with the downhill on Three Creeks beginning at 11 a.m. A dance organized by the Mt. Orford Ski Club in the Orford chalet begins at 8.30 in the evening, and promptly at 9.15 that night, a ski patrol torchlight parade will be held off Mt. Giroux.

Sunday, Feb. 9, registration is from 8 a.m. to 9.30 a.m., with the first slalom run beginning at 10 a.m., the second scheduled for 1.30 p.m. Prizes will be awarded at 5 p.m. Sunday.

Heading up the list of social events being run in connection with this year's Adams Memorial Races is the Mt. Orford Ski Club dance being held Saturday evening at the Orford chalet from 8.30, when the Sharades orchestra will be in attendance. It's a ski-wear affair, which starts with a torchlight spectacle off Mt. Giroux.

VISION AND INDECISION

JOHN DIEFENBAKER
Brilliant instinct for timing

The 'Chief'

He was more sinned against than sinning

VISION AND INDECISION, by Patrick Nicholson; Longman's Canada Limited, 387 pages; $11.50.

Patrick Nicholson describes John Diefenbaker as a great tragic actor by temperament "commanding a brilliant instinct for theatrical timing as well as a talent for devastating mimicry and the ability to squeeze the last ripple of laughter out of every punch line."

For all Canadians who watched as "The Chief" enlivened the Ottawa political stage, playing all the roles from star to heavy to supporting actor, this volume of instant history will prove fascinating reading.

The author has chosen to spotlight what are probably the 10 most interesting years of Canada's history, the decade dominated by the Diefenbaker-Pearson feud. Vision and Indecision contains a wealth of behind-the-scenes stories about such issues as Diefenbaker's handling of the nuclear arms question, the so-called Cabinet revolt, the Coyne affair, Commonwealth relations and, of course, his frequent tilts with Lester B. Pearson. No punches are pulled in delineating Diefenbaker's mistakes in the handling of his friends, his enemies and the news media, but Nicholson's broad conclusions are that "The Chief" was more sinned against than sinning.

This well-documented and cross-referenced volume will be of inestimable value to historians of the future. But today's events ends with a dance at the Centre des Loisirs on St. Patrick Street, beginning with a "tourtiere" meal served from 5 p.m. Music will be by Taps Taylor and The Wall of Souls. Sponsors of this climax to four days of events, will be the Mt. Orford Ski Patrol and the Centre des Loisirs de Magog.

Marc Bruneau, director of the North Hatley Ski School is a newcomer to the Townships, but is already deeply involved in helping build the region's tourist industry. We are fortunate to have new people, with different approaches, such as Marc will introduce to this district.

Incidentally, Marc is also a registered member of the Canadian Ski Instructors' Alliance, not a director of CSIA, as implied in our ski edition.

The Glen Ellen Gelandesprung Championships are February 15 and 16. This is a pro race program with $450 in cash prizes.

Ski conditions took a beating in the Quebec area because of recent warm weather, but they are predicting snow for the weekend. Manoir St. Castin, Lac Beauport and Mont Ste. Anne are reporting thick bases, with all trails open and all lifts operating. Throughout the Townships the picture is very much the same, with spots of ice here and there, but generally well conditioned by mechanical procedures.

For the past two seasons, I carried a feature in this column, called, "Skiers Say", and it allowed me an opportunity to air the views of various readers. To resume that portion of this weekly effort, I'll quote three acquaintances who made the following comments.

"It's regrettable that some lifts are dabbled in grease or oil to the extent that they damage ski clothing." The second noted, "Some of the ski centre parking attendants need smartening up. Besides being undiplomatic, they are obviously lazy, borne up by the fact that frequently cars will leave, affording chalet-side parking for new arrivals, yet these late comers are forced to leave their vehicle a country-mile away."

To quote my third skier, I'll throw a bouquet to hill crews. He says, "It's a pity so few skiers realize that it takes workmen most of the previous night often to make good skiing possible on days like this." This was heard last Sunday at Orford.

The du Maurier International World Cup ski meet is being held at Mont Ste. Anne, Quebec, March 14, 15 and 16. The competitors will arrive in Quebec City Wednesday, March 12 and Thursday, March 13 will be devoted to practice.

Skiing has opened up many new fields of endeavor, including the winterizing of summer cottages, and the development of new country recreation retreats, many which are being promoted alongside ski centres. In the Eastern Townships, the prices on chalet-lots close to ski areas seem expensive compared to some municipal building sites, but by comparison with land at various US resorts, are quite reasonable.

LESTER PEARSON
Tilts with the 'Chief' were frequent voters of both sexes and all political persuasions will be entertained by lively detail about the personal aspects of Diefenbaker's triumphs and tragedies, including such tid-bits as what Churchill said when he learned Canada's Prime Minister didn't drink, "Dief's" favorite jokes, and what John and Olive thought of the New Frontier's lively parties.

If we are to believe the words of his mother, young John Diefenbaker announced at the age of six that he proposed to become Prime Minister of Canada. In his decision he was ably abetted by the capable women in his life.

He was raised in a matriarchal home and, throughout the lifetime of this man whom some supporters described as a "giant among pygmies," a dominant characteristic was his readiness to accept advice from women close to him, matched by his distrust of male counsel. In fact, according to Nicholson, what made John Diefenbaker what he was, since he married twice, were the three Mrs. Diefenbakers.

John Diefenbaker is usually thought of as a winner at the polls. In fact, he was a five-time loser in federal, provincial and municipal elections. In 1925 he made his first abortive attempt to dip his toes into the ocean of federal politics, but only succeeds in winning a seat in the House of Commons in 1940 at the age of forty-four.

In the intellectual, cultural and social revolutions that keep setting the world by the ears, it is good sometimes to realize that true, warm human relationships and true dignity have little to do with what one has or does but depends almost solely on what one is.

One of the most beautiful examples of this, from my experience, is the friendship between my mother and Mrs. Simon, our washwoman. Washwoman is not a title that lends dignity, but it is a word that could not detract from the dignity of Mrs. Simon. She was a gentlewoman. Soft-spoken, soft-smiling, immaculate in her neck-to-ankle black covered by a stiffly starched white apron, she washed clothes for her living and brought up and educated her family on the proceeds.

As her children matured and became financially successful, they wanted her to give up her work but Mrs. Simon's independence and pride kept her with "my families" until age itself made the demand and at last she worked only for my mother.

"Only I can do your fine embroidered properly," Mrs. Simon insisted and who was Mother to strip her friend of her pride.

But at last, even that was too much and then Mrs. Simon was dying. Mother sat by the hospital bed holding the older lady's hand.

"You are my oldest and dearest friend," Mrs. Simon said — her last words — "my oldest and dearest friend," and Mother mourned as one does for one's oldest and dearest friends.

There are some interesting new issues coming from various British Colonies and other members of the Commonwealth. Western Samoa will mark the Seventh Anniversary of Independence with a set of four stamps featuring ornamental plants of that country. This set is attractive and should be a popular one.

Bermuda will issue a set of four stamps Feb. 17, to honor the 50th Anniversary of Girl Guides. Guiding began in Bermuda as far back as 1913, although it closed and re-started in 1919. The first camp was held in 1920, and since then there have been camps throughout the island every year. In 1927 the Lady Asser Guide Hut was built. Mrs. Storrow, the great American Girl Scout leader, who gave "Our Chalet" to the World Association of Girl Guides and Girl Scouts, had a winter home in Bermuda, and in 1930 she entertained the Chief Guide and Founder there. A recent census taken of members shows that there are 97 Guides, 50 Rangers, 403 Guides and 472 Brownies in Bermuda.

A well designed set in large format will be issued by Antigua of Feb. 3 to commemorate the Tercentenary of Parliament. The four different designs make the issue most attractive and are printed by photogravure in multi-color. The Mace and value in each case are in gold and the Mace is in fact the "link" for the set.

Stamp collectors who like to have stamps-on-stamps will want the set from Gambia which marks the centenary of the first stamp from that country. This year is the "Year of the Cock" and Hong Kong will issue a set of two stamps which feature these birds in all their glory.

they may present a problem to mount, it is possible to do so with the acetate mounts. Some of the early booklets are not cheap but would seem to be a good investment if you are looking for this sort of thing in stamp collecting.

Christmas stamps are still arriving, long after the usual season, and it now looks as if many smaller countries are getting on the bandwagon and reaping their share of philatelic dollars from this popular topic. Some of the issues are beautiful and many include world-famous paintings of the Nativity scene. Several companies now make special pages for these stamps and it is possible to form a comprehensive collection for a small outlay. In looking at such a collection recently the Canadian stamps certainly did not add to its beauty. We have been promised better designed stamps and the Christmas stamps could be a good starting point.

We still have had no news from the various stamp clubs in the Townships and can only assume that all is well and that meetings are once again on a regular basis. The St. Francis Stamp Club meets the first and third Thursdays of each month and usually have a special event for each gathering. The Royal Philatelic Society of Canada will hold their convention and stamp exhibition in Toronto this year and advance publicity indicates that it will be a large show with a large number of exhibits and a well filled Court of Honor. Perhaps some of the clubs in the Townships will make up trips for their members in June to go to Toronto.

The annual Red Cross set from France is now available from your favorite dealer and you would do well to ask about the small booklets issued each year and containing a block of each value. These booklets are very attractive and although Cybernetics is the science and control of communication processes in both animals and machines. The word was introduced and popularized by Norbert Wiener, the mathematician, in 1948.

Berlitz can teach you a language faster. The trick is how we teach. At Berlitz you learn French the way you learned English — by speaking it. Which is a lot faster than getting it out of a book.

On February 10, when the course starts, you start right in with simple words like déjeuner lunch. After the first lesson, you start speaking easy sentences. Useful stuff like Qui est, cet homme? Who is that man?

And by the time the course ends,

April 18, you'll know enough French to get around. Quand nous serons mariés, où habiterons-nous, ici ou à Paris? When we are married, shall we live here or in Paris?

At this point it's only fair to warn you that only 8 people can join each French group course at Berlitz. (The course is $170). The same goes for our English, Spanish, German and Italian courses, which start the same date. So maybe you should call us tout de suite or in other words, right now.

Society's safe from slaving radicals

For the benefit of local administrators, faculty and hard-headed conservatives in general, who are worried about the dangerous implications of student activism at Bishop's University.

Ladies and gentlemen, you will be pleased to know that there is, in effect, no such thing as a radical existing anywhere on campus.

There are, of course, a number of malcontents about as can be expected in any such group. However, as far as solid honest-to-Abby Hoffman extremists are concerned, Bishop's is hardly a breeding ground for the revolutionary spirit.

Thus, secure in the knowledge that extremism is not a viable cult in our carefully cultivated atmosphere of Calvinism, we can dismiss repugnant thoughts of a nihilistic present and a chaotic future and let our minds drift in rhythm with the waters of the mighty Mississippi, back to the more civilized times of Queen Victoria and the day they penned the Royal Charter to which we owe our existence.

We came upon this comforting bit of knowledge at this week's meeting of the Conseil Centrale Nationale of the Union Generale des Etudiants de Quebec.

Anyone schooled in the cult of Westmount hippiedom which prevails at Bishop's, looks like Mr. Superstraight over there. Any Bishop's "radical" comes off like an arch reactionary when confronted with the hard-core new leftists who air their philosophies in the UGEQ forum.

the present student government is not functioning adequately. A committee is set up to examine the question. Every-boos addressed to the principal.

—At Sir George Williams University black students feel they are being treated unfairly. A meeting is called on the issue, the Dean of Studies' office is ransacked and the ninth floor of the main university building is occupied.

So, in reality, there is nothing to fear from local "militants". They may scream for changes in the university, but their radical outlooks have had little or no chance to be honed to the fine edge which will enable them to perpetrate any decisive stab at the administration.

Thus, the slow old philosophy of "Go Slow" may be practiced to the bitter end.

On another front, the recent decision of the administration not to renew the contract of French Professor J. P. Plante has become an issue out of all reasonable proportions.

Dr. Plante was popular with students and his impending dismissal was greeted with murmurs of discontent, but when some incompetent cub reporter with a nationalist chip on his shoulder dreamed up a racist issue, the situation became ludicrous.

The administration has a certain capacity for inanity, but that they would precipitate a racial crisis is inconceivable. The administration has not stated why Dr. Plante was dropped. However, Dr. Plante has not made any statement either.

Until the air is cleared and facts, rather than fancies, become available, the case should stand as it is.

Example:

—Bishop's sets up a commission to study the problems of the university in relation to the crisis in the CEGEP's, then immediately sets up another two committees to examine the implications of the findings of the first.

—A McGill delegate to the CCN declares his university is not serving Quebec society to its full potential. He proposes cancellation of a project to expand the commerce faculty in favor of expansion of the liberal arts program to accommodate CEGEP graduates both French and English.

—If the administration refuses to go along, "we're ready to launch the necessary demonstrations and sit-ins any time."

Example:

one argues heatedly about new proposals for an executive structure of the student government.

—A CEGEP representative at the CCN feels UGEQ as it is structured at the present time is not functioning adequately. He suggests the organization be relegated to a role as service organization, and that the lead in the educational movement be taken by local action groups who are more ready to commit themselves to occupations and other concrete moves.

Example: —A Bishop's group feels students are being treated unfairly because they are not allowed to have women visiting men's rooms in residence. A demand is fired off to the administration, a peaceful protest march is organized and the most serious incident consists of a few Claudio Monteverdi's "Orfeo" (1607), which has been called the first opera, continues to be performed today. The World Almanac notes. Although Peri's opera, "Euridice," preceded "Orfeo" by seven years, it is considered too feeble to rank as a first. Monteverdi developed the arioso, a singing style midway between speech and aria, and introduced string tremolo and pizzicato to heighten the sense of drama.

COOKSHIRE HIGH students are receiving the results of the only set of preliminary exams for this year, reports Dianne Merrill, High Times correspondent. March 28 to 30 are the dates set aside for the Grades 10 and 11 class trip. The hockey season is now underway. Cookshire High has a boys pee wee and intermediate team. Games start for these teams during the weekend. The senior team has been playing with boys from Bury and Sawyerville.

A 500 CARD PARTY will be held Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. in Ayer's Cliff High School, reports correspondent Elaine Butler. Proceeds will go to the prom committee who are working hard for the last prom at Ayer's Cliff High. Elaine congratulates the junior boys and their coach on the good showing in the tournament last Saturday.

IT'S CARNIVAL TIME AGAIN at Pope Memorial High. High Times correspondent Edith Bailey reports that the annual winter carnival begins on Wednesday with the crowning of the Queen and the two princesses. At noon, the teachers play the senior girls in a broomball game. On Thursday, the senior boys play the intermediate boys in a hockey match. An obstacle course will be held at noon for the students in Grades 1 to 6. On Feb. 7, the big talent show will take place in the afternoon.

The carnival will close Friday with a dance from 8:30 p.m. to midnight. Orchestra will be Prescott's. The Bury pee wee boys defeated the Sawyerville pee wees by a score of two to one on Monday.

Students' own - lock, stock and curriculum

TORONTO, Ont.—(NEA)—From Berkeley to Morning-side Heights in the States, the students are clamoring for greater control of the universities. In Canada they have their own—lock, stock and curriculum.

On the surface, the result would appear to be the dream world of any collegian who ever struggled out of bed for a 7:45 a.m. class, of the coed who raced to beat a dorm hours deadline, of test crammers, of campus lovers who parted stoically for the evening at her door.

If freedom reigns supreme in Rochdale, it is often interpreted as license by many accounts. Drug use is not uncommon, though perhaps only more openly so than on most campuses. For days one resident wandered through the halls, addled-brained from a bad acid trip. ("He went on mescaline three weeks ago and hasn't come down yet," explained another resident. "We just move out of his way when he comes by, and help him when we can.")

Sexual activity is fairly common, and accepted. "There are three of us living in our apartment," said one coed matter-of-factly, "three boys and three girls..."

There are no dorm hours at Rochdale College, where 800 students live in their own $5½ million, 18-story building that serves for living quarters, classroom space and recreation hall. There are few tests, since no one is qualifying for a degree.

And no morning classes. "Nothing really starts around here until afternoon," said Rochdale student Glenn McIver, "and it keeps going late into the night."

No classes, for that matter. Courses are referred to as "seminars," but attendance is not required. Anyone can start one, teaching it himself if he feels qualified, but more likely appealing to a sympathetic outsider to lead discussions without pay.

A seminar is a highly perishable item at Rochdale, because if it cannot maintain interest it dies a natural death. If applied elsewhere, such a process would undoubtedly ease the classroom shortage in most modern colleges.

"Our setup flows from the idea that nonstructural situations give interest and impetus to learning," said Bernie Bomers, one of the young innovators of Rochdale. "Students are perfectly capable of deciding for themselves what they want to study and how they want to study it," he says, and the theory is strongly supported by the student body.

"It's great," said Patti Chilton of Toronto, in a typical response. "You learn in whatever way suits you best. I attend some seminars, but I prefer to read something and then go talk to someone who knows more about it."

A course comes into existence at Rochdale when someone posts a notice on a bulletin board, telling when and where the first seminar will meet. A typical sampling on the board shows seminars that would not offend most college catalogues, with subject matter such as Canadian poetry, taxation, computers, and conversational French. Plus a few more that might not be found in traditional academia: "The Cuban Revolution," "Violence," and a seminar simply labeled "Sex."

A waiting list of hundreds now exists on the Rochdale records. Students pay an annual tuition fee of $25 plus rent.

"We're not an antiuniversity movement," says Bomers. "In fact, some of the campus radicals who want revolution are very teed off at us because we're so disorganized... because we're not against anything."

Rochdale operates on the idea that if a person is capable of deciding what he wants to learn, he is capable of deciding who warrants a following.

LENNOXVILLE CURLING CLUB:

The Sherbrooke-Lennoxville Men's Inter-club competition was held last week, with the Sherbrooke curlers emerging as victors. On the weekend, mixed curling was enjoyed by the club members. The ice was used this week for the Sherbrooke Ladies Bonspiel, and mixed curling is now being enjoyed by the members. Three local teams are entered in the Danville Men's Bonspiel. Charlie Warner, Mike Mooney, Dan Longeway and Bob Stafford leave Monday morning for Quebec City, representing the E.T. District in the British Consols Provincial finals.

SHERBROOKE CURLING CLUB:

The Annual Sherbrooke Ladies Bonspiel was held this week with 23 rinks participating. The finals were held last evening with the following rinks emerging as winners. Mrs. Knox and her rink from Heather won the main event for the second year in a row, and received the Ladies Sherbrooke Curling Club Trophy. Her rink defeated Mrs. Brosseau's foursome from Lennoxville by a score of 11-3. In the Bishop Memorial Trophy, Mrs. A. Kerridge's Sherbrooke rink defeated Mrs. S. Edgar's Border foursome 8-6, while Mrs. E. McDevitt's Sherbrooke quartet edged Mrs. F. Lord's team from Lennoxville by a score of 9-5, and received the Rand Trophy.

MAGOG CURLING CLUB:

Skip R. Langlois and his rink won the Molson Trophy last week while Skip H. Parker's crew won the Consolation event. The Magog Invitational Mixed is being held this week with 28 rinks participating. The finals are scheduled for tomorrow evening.

ICE CHIPS:

The School Boys Provincial finals are being played next week in Sherbrooke and Lennoxville. From all advance reports, this should be a very popular event and everyone should turn out and give the boys their support. The curling is of the best. We are very fortunate in having the finals in our area.

Sherbrooke High School will represent this area, earning this right by defeating St. Pat's High School. The SHS team is skipped by Bill Walker with Wayne Clowery, Steve Currier and Rick Jackson as the other team members.

EWA AULIN, as "Candy," seems unperturbed by the wild-eyed advances of Ringo Starr. Miss Aulin says there is little resemblance between her and the nymphet she plays in the movie. She wants to attend a university someday, marry and "have many children."

for your son?B.C.S. Boys are enthusiastic about learning.

And if they're not, we are helping them to become enthusiastic. Because, at Bishop's College School, our system is designed to help each boy to realize every facet of his potential. Here's how we do this:

We encourage active learning by guiding boys towards independent study. This way, they become academically prepared for the wider scope and greater freedom they will encounter at the University of their choice.

We have a system of houses small enough to give each boy personal attention and guidance in every aspect of his growing-up. He appreciates that discipline is the first step towards assuming responsibility.

In sports, we have competent coaching, and facilities and teams for every boy, whatever his ability and interest.

Our excellent facilities for learning French include a language laboratory, and the boys benefit from our location in a largely French-speaking part of Quebec.

Bishop's College School, an independent Boarding School, was founded in 1836. We have our own 450-acre campus near the University Town of Lennoxville, Que., about 90 minutes' drive from Montreal.

A number of scholarships and bursaries are available for boys of all ages, starting with Grade 7.

Close of fair will hurt

MONTREAL (CP)—The closing down of Man and His World is expected to have far-reaching effects on the Montreal business community.

Business leaders agreed Thursday the city's decision to cancel the fair removes immediately one of the causes—though only a small one—of Montreal's increasing financial difficulties.

However, they said, the decision announced Wednesday night will create repercussions such as a decrease in tourist and convention dollars, fewer jobs in the Montreal area and larger welfare payments.

They also felt the city was too hasty in deciding to chop the fair after its first season. They said the fair was being operated as any other business and no business is expected to show profits in so short a time. A three-year period would have been more indicative of its performance.

Montreal faced a deficit of nearly $27,000,000 late last year. It increased property taxes by 23 per cent in an effort to remedy this problem.

NOTICE OF A MEETING OF HOLDERS OF 6½% - 7% FIRST MORTGAGE BONDS, SERIES A, 1965 to 1974

Notice is hereby given that a meeting of the holders of 6½% - 7% First Mortgage Bonds, Series A, dated December 15, 1964, maturing from December 15, 1965 to December 15, 1974, (hereinafter called "the Bonds"), issued by A La Canadienne Limitee, (hereinafter called "the Company") under a trust deed executed by the Company in favour of General Trust of Canada, as Trustee, (hereinafter called "the Trustee"), on December 23, 1964 before Georges Sylvestre, notary, and registered in the Registration Division of the county of Wolfe under number 72911, will be held in Montreal, at SALON BERSIMIS of the Queen Elizabeth Hotel, 900 West Blvd., Dorchester, on March 3rd 1969, at 10:30 o'clock in the morning, (Eastern Daylight Standard Time) for the following purposes:

- to take cognizance of the financial situation of the Company and of its default under the said trust deed;
- to take cognizance of the steps taken by the Trustee in order to preserve the rights, interests and securities of the Bondholders;
- to receive the Trustee's report on its taking of possession and its subsequent administration of the mortgage property;
- to consider the opportunity of appointing and, if deemed advisable, to appoint by extraordinary resolution a Committee, to provide for the nomination, replacement and remuneration of its members, and to give them the power to do and perform all acts and deeds which may be found expedient and generally to delegate to them, in whole or in part, the powers of the holders of the Bonds in the event of default of the Company in conformity with the said trust deed, including the powers which the Bondholders may exercise at a meeting by way of an extraordinary resolution;
- generally to adopt any resolution and take any decision which may be considered advisable by way either of ordinary or extraordinary resolution on all matters which may be brought before the meeting;
- to adjourn the meeting from time to time for further consideration or any action on any of the matters above-mentioned.

All Bondholders, whether registered or not, may attend the meeting and vote either personally or by proxy appointed in writing.

In order to do so, holders of bearer bonds must produce either their bonds or a certificate of a bank or registered trust company or any other company satisfactory to the Trustee, to the effect that such bonds have been deposited with the latter and shall remain so deposited as long as the said certificate of deposit has not been returned to the said bank, trust company or other depositor.

All proxies and certificates of deposit must indicate the letters and identification numbers of each particular bond at which they pertained.

Forms of proxies and certificates of deposit may be obtained on application at the Corporate Trust Department of General Trust of Canada, 909 Dorchester Blvd. West, Montreal, Canada.

to Expo 67—accumulated a so-called deficit of $5,228,691 during its five-month run in 1968. But much of this amount was put into capital improvements, and now will become a loss.

Rather than risk the possibility of losing another $5,000,000 in 1969 and placing an additional burden on taxpayers, the city sought financial help from Quebec City and Ottawa to keep the fair going.

Lucien Saulnier, chairman of the city's executive committee, said positive advantages were to be derived from the operation of Man and His World for the province of Quebec as well as for Canada as a whole.

But since nothing came of these requests, the Montreal executive committee decided the financial risk of running the fair alone appeared to be too great. Although La Ronde, the fair's amusement area, will be operated, hotel and tourist officials felt it will not have the drawing power of the full-scale exhibition.

Effective April 1, 1969, postal rates for newspapers and periodicals will be increased to four cents a pound from 2½ cents. The cost will increase further to 4½ cents Oct. 1, 1969, and to five cents beginning April 1, 1970.

In other business Thursday, delegates approved a resolution requesting the federal and provincial governments to "enact laws forcing manufacturers of all synthetic foods to list ingredients contained in their products along with the percentage content of each ingredient."

DAIRY POLICY ENDORSED

The CFA also endorsed, with reservations, a 17-page resolution on dairy policy adopted last week at the annual meeting of the Dairy Farmers of Canada.

Opposition to the resolution was voiced by Quebec delegates who objected to clauses calling for payments of federal milk subsidies to be made only to those farmers who produce more than 30,000 pounds of milk in the 1969-70 period and 50,000 pounds in the 1970-71 dairy year.

Lionel Sorel, president of the 57,000-member Quebec Catholic Farmers' Union, argued that raising the minimum quota from its present 12,000-pound level to 30,000 and later to 50,000 would result in the extinction of thousands of small dairy producers.

Montreal livestock

MONTREAL (CP) — Prices for all classes of livestock were steady this week compared with last week on the Montreal markets. Demand was good with trading active.

Receipts (west-end and east-end): 1,226 cattle, 1,200 calves, 190 hogs, 25 sheep and lambs.

Choice steers 28.35-28.85; good 26.60-27.60; medium 25.25-26.50; common 21.25-25.

Good cows 19.21-20; medium 17.75-19.25; common 16-18; canners and cutters 12-16.75.

Good heifers 23.50-23.75; medium 21-23.75; common 16.50-21.75.

Good bulls 23-25; common and medium 18.75-22.75.

Produce quotes

MONTREAL (CP) — Agriculture department quotations:

Butter: Current receipts tenderable 92 points 64; 93 points 65. Canadian dairy commission government selling price 65.

FALCONBRIDGE NICKEL — Net earnings estimated for 1968 declined to $4.70 a share from $5.26 in 1967.

CANADAIR — The company said it expects to obtain all the Asbestos Corp common stock required under its share purchase offer and, that there probably won't be any extension of the offer beyond the Jan. 31st expiry date.

CANADA AND DOMINION SUGAR — Earnings in the fiscal year ending Sept. 30 next are expected to "break through $3 a share, although we are hoping to do better than that," Saxton Tate, managing director, said yesterday.

KERR ADDISON MINES — The company will start diamond drilling operations shortly on property of Donald Mines in the Noranda area of Quebec.

GULF CANADA — The company said preliminary engineering is under way for a "major" gas processing plant in the Strathcona area some 60 miles west of Red Deer, Alta.

Plans for the new plant follow a discovery in the Strathcona area by Gulf Canada, Amerada Petroleum Export Gas and United Bata Resources. The well had a flow rate of 27,900,000 cubic feet of wet sour gas per day under test. Gulf Canada has a 50 per cent interest in the well.

Card of Thanks

ALLEN — I wish to express my thanks for the beautiful cards of sympathy, the mass cards, and words of encouragement to me and to the members of the family, of my wife, Gertrude, who died suddenly. It is with regret that I cannot answer these condolences personally. Your thoughtfulness and kindness will always be remembered. Sincerely, ALBERT ALLEN and the HAMMAN FAMILY

ROSS — I would like to express my sincere thanks to my many relatives, friends and neighbors, for the cards, letters, and lovely gifts, also for being so kind to visit during my stay in the Hotel Dieu Hospital. When I arrived home I was presented with a "mailbox," many thanks to all who contributed to it or helped in any way. My special thanks to Dr. Bureau, Dr. Levesque, all the staff on the 2nd and 5th floor in extensive care. Your kindness will long be remembered. RAYFIELD ROSS Bury, Que.

In Memoriam

ALBERT HARVEY — In loving memory of a dear sister Helen Murphy Albert, who passed away Feb. 1, 1965, and also of our dear sister Margaret Murphy Harvey, who was called to rest, April 5, 1965. Ever kept in fond remembrance by, MAMIE AND GERTRUDE (sisters) ALLAN AND ALTON (brothers)

BARNETT — In loving memory of father and mother, Edgar and Rose (Turner) Barnett, who passed away on Feb. 2, 1942 and Oct. 15, 1923 respectively. Gone but not forgotten. BEN AND KATHLEEN (son and daughter-in-law) GORDON, BRIAN and ROGER (grandsons)

DOYON — In loving memory of our dear son and brother Joseph Anthony Philip, who passed away very suddenly Feb. 2, 1963.

This day is sad with deep regret, it brings back a day we will never forget. You left us without saying goodbye, but remembrance of you will never die. Still loved and sadly missed by, MOTHER

BROTHER AND SISTERS WILFRED, JOYCE AND FAMILY GAYBRIELLE, GERALD AND FAMILY ALBINA, HENRY AND FAMILY

MARTIN — In loving memory of mother (Leta) departed Feb. 1, 1961, and Dad, (Lee), Jan. 27, 1956. The Salvation of the Righteous is of the Lord, Psalm 37-39. THE FAMILY

Distinct gain

MONTREAL (CP) — Edwin A. Locke Jr., president of the American Paper Institute, said Thursday there was a distinct gain in the rate of return on investment in the pulp and paper industry in 1968 and that "projections for 1970 and 1971 are even more encouraging."

The second-year benefit to DHAS members was an increase of 500 lbs. milk per cow. Between December 1967 and December 1968, average production in the 121 herds which have now completed two full years on Dairy Herd Analysis Service went up from 10,085 lbs. to 10,596 lbs.

The first-year increase was probably more spectacular — about 1,500 lbs. per cow — but too few figures were available at the start to be sure.

Of course, this increase was not all clear profit. As the cows were fed more (3,100 lbs. meal each in 1967, 3,290 lbs. in 1968) feed costs went up. But the amount of the milk cheque left over after taking out the feed costs was still higher by $30 per cow. Looking at it another way, the feed cost per 100 lbs. milk dropped from $1.98 to $1.87 for these herds. Or if you like, you can think of the increase as a $10 return for every dollar invested in DHAS fees.

Other interesting changes took place in these 121 herds. Pounds milk per year for each worker increased from 238,000 to 249,000 lbs. The time required in the stable to produce a hundred pounds dropped from 91 to 85 hours. Size of the herds, surprisingly, increased very little — from 33.25 cows to 34.85 cows on the average.

While the amount of meal fed in the year increased by 190 lbs. per cow, the amount of hay and silage fed changed very little. Hay consumption was down from 2.22 tons, to 2.13 tons, while silage was up slightly, from 3.02 tons per cow to 3.12 tons.

One of the most striking examples of the change that can take place in a DHAS herd comes from L'Assomption County. One of the first members, this man signed up in July, 1966. At that time, he estimated his production for the previous year at 300,000 lbs. from 36 cows, an average of 8,300 lbs. per cow. In the year ending December 1968, DHAS had recorded 569,000 lbs. from his 38.3 cows, an average of 14,856 lbs. per cow.

When Dr. John Moxley was asked how such an increase was possible, he replied, "You must remember that milk production is ten percent hereditary and ninety percent management. No doubt this man did cull out his poorest producers. But I am sure that changes in his herd management, based on information that he had never had before, account for most of the increase. And when you look closer at that management, by far the most important part is the feed and how he fed it."

Using the DHAS data accumulated over the two years, Dr. Moxley is now sorting out just what part of the feeding program has made the most difference. "From the data we have analysed," he says, "it appears that it is the amount of meal fed. Each additional 100 lbs. means a 150 lbs. milk. Each additional ton of hay is associated with a 675 increase in milk, and each additional ton of silage adds 325 lbs. to production." When and how these feeds are used, as well as the quality, are all part of this management picture, Dr. Moxley adds.

The score board for the number of herds enrolled in DHAS now stands at 964 herds. Chances are good that it will reach 1,000 herds in time for the third birthday of DHAS at the National Salon of Agriculture, February 6-9.

This year, at the Salon, visitors to the DHAS booth will be able to compare their own herd management with the herds on the service. Two computer terminals at the DHAS booth, linked to the computer at the College, will turn out instant answers.

DO-IT-YOURSELF

There's no need to blow fuses

By MR. FIX

"There's no need to blow your own fuse over replacing a blown-out fuse in your home. Replacement is easy and safe if certain precautions are taken.

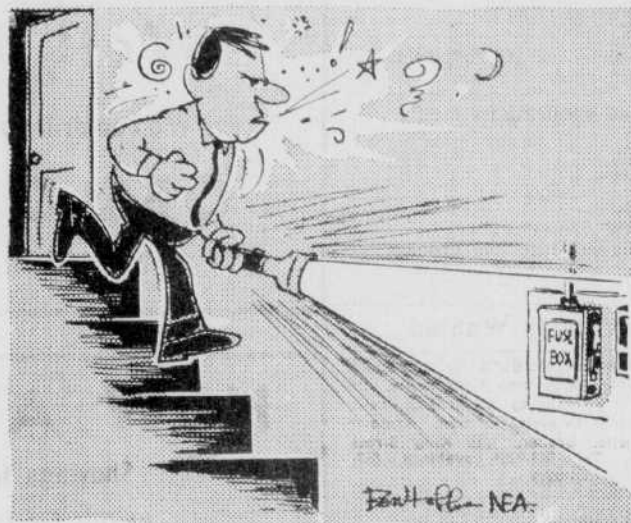

A fuse is a safety device. It operates like a safety valve. Too much current flowing through the wires and the fuse burns out, effectively stopping the flow.

Instead of being annoyed when a fuse goes, be concerned about finding out why it went. Generally it is just a matter of overloading — too many lights and appliances plugged into a single circuit. For example, most circuits are capable of carrying 15 amps, and the fuse in your box is so rated.

Roughly speaking, an amp is a little more than 100 watts and about 1,600 watts will fully load a 15-amp circuit. If the washing machine is using about 600 watts then you can have 10 100-watt light bulbs (or some such combination) going at the same time. But one more item and you have an overload and a burned-out fuse.

Another cause of blown-out fuses is a short circuit. The sudden surge of electricity through the short circuit causes the fuse to go. If it didn't, you would have a fire instead.

Do not use a fuse of a higher rating than your cir-

There's no need to blow your own fuse!

uits call for. Using 20-amp instead of 15-amp fuses will reduce the number of blown fuses but increase the danger of overheated wires and the hazards of a fire.

Keep replacement fuses handy. On top of or next to a fuse box is the best place. Know where the fuse box is. It isn't just bad luck that most fuses blow out at night. It's just that that is when you are using the most electricity.

Keep a flashlight handy. Don't try to replace a fuse in total darkness.

Know where the main switch is. It may be right there at the fuse box or it may be somewhere else. Pull the switch to "off" before you change any fuses.

Sometimes there will be cartridge fuse holders instead of a handle above the screw-in fuses. Pull these cartridge holders and you will cut off the flow of current.

The most common fuse is the one with a glass or mica window. The window will be blackened or the wire inside burned through in a blown fuse.

Never, never use a coin or foil underneath a fuse. You might as well have no fuse at all.

Farm policy now helps ET region

QUEBEC — An agreement designed to increase the appropriateness of agricultural research and provide advisory personnel with adequate information was made recently between the Department of Agriculture and Colonization's representatives in Quebec's agricultural region five and the directors of the research station of the Canada Department of Agriculture at Lennoxville.

Under the terms of the agreement, provincial agricultural specialists in the region may, on suitable occasions, attend meetings of the federal research station's staff to discuss new research projects.

In addition, Zenon Bergeron, who is in charge of agricultural extension in the Eastern Townships region will spend one day each month at the Lennoxville station. This monthly visit will ensure close contact between the two groups.

The parties concerned believe that the agreement will be conducive to a climate of mutual exchange on the professional, technical and economic levels, to better understanding of agricultural problems and improved extension service.

The department of manpower and immigration reported that 209,840 immigrants came to Canada in 1967.

South Africa's textile industry now employs 70,000 people and has an annual output valued at more than $406,000,000.

Breeders' meeting is scheduled for Feb.

OTTAWA — The 98th Annual meeting of the Ayrshire Breeders' Association of Canada will be held in historic Quebec City, Thursday, Feb. 20. It will be held at the Congress Inn (Auberge des Gouverneurs), Sir Wilfred Laurier Blvd., Rond Point, Quebec City. This is the first time, since the amalgamation of the two Associations in 1899, that an annual meeting has been held outside of Montreal or Toronto. Quebec City is most appropriate, not only because of its well known historic attractions but because of its location in the heart of French Canada where there are so many Ayrshire breeders.

Hon. Clement Vincent, Minister of Agriculture and Colonization, Quebec Province, will be guest speaker at the noon luncheon. He is a native of Ste. Perpetue, Nicolet County, where he was active in municipal and agricultural organizations. He was first elected as a Member of Parliament in 1962 and re-elected in 1963 and 1965. He was elected to the Quebec Legislative Assembly in June, 1966 and has served as a Minister since that time.

Six directors to represent the Province of Quebec for 1969 — 70 will be elected at this meeting. The election of directors will take place immediately before the adjournment for the luncheon, when the largest group of members are usually in attendance.

The nominating committee has proposed the following six members: Ulysse Bernier, Bedford; Clement Beauchemin, Vercheres; M. MacGillivray, Brome; Robert W. McFarlane, Howick; Napoleon Plante, Levis and Warren Ross, Sherbrooke.

The business meeting commences at 10 a.m. under the chairmanship of Archie Roy, Howick Que. President. Reports will be presented by the Secretary-Manager, J. Douglas MacKeechie, U. Bernier, Chairman, Breed Improvement Advisory Committee: William G. Reid, Chairman, Publicity and Sales Promotion; R. Trepanier, Chairman, National Sale and Extension Workers; William D. Paul and Adrien Garon.

The 16 member Board of Directors will meet on February 19 and 21 and will elect officers and committee members for the 1969 term.

Mrs. G. Knox wins L S C C Bonspiel

Close battles in all three final matches

Mrs. G. Knox and her Montreal Heather rink emerged winners in the main event last evening in the annual Ladies Sherbrooke Curling Club Bonspiel when they defeated Mrs. W. Brosseau of Lennoxville 11-3.

It was the third time the Heather foursome has won the Ladies Sherbrooke Curling Club Trophy and the fourth appearance for the rink in the Bonspiel. In the other events Mrs. A. Kerridge of Sherbrooke topped the Bishop Memorial Trophy while Mrs. M. McDevitt of Sherbrooke won the Canadian Ingersoll Rand Trophy.

Mrs. L. Morgan, ladies president, presided at the presentation of the trophies and prizes. Mrs. Morgan thanked the men for the use of the ice and clubhouse as well as the Lennoxville Club. She paid particular thanks to the members of the various committees for their help during the 'Spiel. Mrs. Morgan presented the main while Ron Bishop and R. Kniffin handed out the two other trophies.

In the main event Mrs. Knox opened the scoring with a big three and after three ends the score was 4-1 for the Montreal rink. Mrs. Brosseau's foursome just couldn't seem to get going. They were missing the important shot.

The Heather rink seemed content to pick up single points while holding off the opposition. After seven ends they were leading 9-1. Mrs. Knox missed twice in the next end and the Lennoxville rink picked up two points. With the score 9-3 the Knox rink snared two more for an 11-3 lead coming home. After tossing three stones Mrs. Brosseau conceded the game.

In the Bishop event between Mrs. Kerridge and Mrs. S. Edgar of the Border Club it was a closer duel and was decided only in the final end. After three ends the score was tied 3-3. They exchanged points in the next two ends but in the sixth Sherbrooke picked up two for a 5-3 advantage.

In the next end Mrs. Edgar's stone lost its turn but they still managed to count two. In the ninth it was one for Sherbrooke when Mrs. Edgar missed with an 8-5 count heading home. The Border rink got three in the house but Mrs. Kerridge came through with a nice shot allowing them only one for an 8-6 victory.

In the Rand competition between Mrs. McDevitt and Mrs. F. Lord of Lennoxville it was another close fight. The score was tied 3-3 after four ends. They exchanged points in the next two ends but Sherbrooke came back with a four-end and seau of Lennoxville walked off with a 13-5 victory over Mrs. G. Sylvestre of Sherbrooke.

In the Bishop Memorial Trophy Mrs. S. Edgar of the Border Club came through with a 10-6 win after nine ends. Mrs. E. Delisle of Sherbrooke got off to bad start and after three ends Mrs. Edgar held a 5-0 lead. The Sherbrooke rink got a sin-

In the other half it was nip-and-tuck between Mrs. I. Saunders' Lennoxville rink and Mrs. F. Kerridge of Sherbrooke. The Lennoxville quartet was having trouble with the "famous red stones" on the middle sheet and just couldn't control their shots. Sherbrooke held a 7-2 lead after five ends and picked up a three for 10-2 advantage.

Mrs. Saunders got three in the house and managed to hold on to count. In the next end Sherbrooke got one for an 11-6 lead. In the next end the skips kept changing stones in the house and finally when Lennoxville didn't have enough stones left the match ended.

The Rand semis was a little different. Mrs. Elliott of Sherbrooke got off to an early lead with a big four. Mrs. McDevitt of Sherbrooke came right back with three. The Elliott rink got another four but their rivals picked up two to reduce the margin. In the sixth end the match was settled as the McDevitt rink picked up a big five end and moved out front 11-8. In the next end they had four in the house again but this time Mrs. Elliott made a dead draw to cut them out and count one. The McDevitt rink got one more in the next end to lead 12-9 and that was how the game finished.

In the other semi-final between Mrs. P. McMurray and her Business Girls' rink they dropped a 7-2 decision to Mrs. F. Lord of Lennoxville. After five ends Lennoxville held a 5-1 lead. Sherbrooke got one but the Lord quartet came right back with two and a 7-2 lead coming home and the game ended that way.

Expos' John McHale turns down commissioner's job

MONTREAL (CP) — John McHale, president of Montreal Expos of the National League, Thursday ruled himself out as a possible draft candidate for the post of baseball commissioner.

McHale did so in a letter to the owners of the other 11 clubs in his own league and their 12 counterparts in the American League.

The letter said: "This is to thank you for your expression of confidence by your vote at the December joint meeting in Chicago. The 11-vote American League club support was greatly appreciated.

"As you recall, I said that commitments and responsibilities in the new Montreal franchise made it impossible for me to be considered, which precluded the National League from taking action on your vote.

"Rumor to the contrary, I find all the same circumstances still present.

"It is my hope that by clearly eliminating myself from further consideration, we will be able to concentrate on a candidate at the Feb. 4 meeting who is available and qualified to serve."

McHale had become a draft choice at the December meeting to appoint a successor to commissioner William Eckert. While the American League gave him 11 votes at its session, McHale left before the National League owners had a chance to vote.

Nine of 12 votes in each league are needed to elect a new man.

Dow Grand Prix champ Duhamel will defend his title Sunday

STE. AGATHE — 1968 Dow Grand Prix champion Yvon Duhamel will be the man to beat again this year when the 1969 version of the annual Quebec provincial motorcycle ice race championship is held at Ste. Agathe on Sunday (February 2).

Although the Canadian motorcycle champion's name does not appear on the preliminary entry list of 23 names released by organizer Terry Porter, Duhamel has given verbal assurance he will be on hand to defend his title when the action gets underway at 1:00 p.m.

And he says he will be back on the same powerful Jawa 500 that carried him to a handy victory over last year's hard pushing field in all three heats of the 500 cc expert competition and once again earned him the Ontario championship last weekend at Ottawa.

Organized by the Montreal Sports Motor Cycle Club, the Dow Grand Prix is one of the major activities of the Feb. 1-23 Laurentian Snow Festival. It is held on the circuit Ste. Agathe Lac des Sables ice track at Ste. Agathe des Monts.

Present and former champions are well represented on the 23 name official entry list. Heading the Montreal region representation will be 1968 Canadian junior ice race champion Dave Holland, past Canadian lightweight champion Ron Wheatley and 1967 Canadian junior ice race champion Bill Taylor.

Holland will drive Jawas in the 250cc and 500cc competitions and Wheatley will pilot Hondas in 100cc, 250cc and 500cc events. Taylor's Triumph 500 will be seen in the top category competition only.

Two Hamilton entries lead the list of nine Ontario competitors. 1968 lightweight expert scramble champion Maurice Fraser and veteran Jim Kelly, a long-time senior member of the Canadian Motorcycle Association. Both will drive Triumph 500's with Fraser bringing along a Suzuki 100 and Bultaco 250 for good measure.

Quebec is represented by an additional 10 entries, including 15 year motorcycle racing veteran Pete Dowden of Dorval. One New York entry appears on the official list. The well known Norm Robinson of Spencerport will drive a Bultaco 250 in the lightweight competitions.

SMCC organizer Porter predicts that past entries will bring the final field to close to 50 on Sunday.

The competition at Ste. Agathe is open to all CMA licenced drivers and events are scheduled in all CMA recognized classes plus the 100cc category for bikes equipped with standard, unspiked tires. Classes include junior, senior and expert heats in both the lightweight (250cc) and 500 categories.

Up for grabs will be $1,000 in cash awards and Dow class trophies.

Hunting and fishing in the E.T.

By NORM NICHOLL

Recently Glen Brown, MNA for Brome, took to the airways to present a plan for recreation to residents of the Province. While the plan was to be for those outside of regular organized sports he did however make mention of camping, and general outdoor sports. This I assume would also take hunting and fishing into consideration.

Now, Mr. Brown was very honest in the first few minutes of his presentation. He mentioned that such a plan if adopted would cost the residents money. Yet Mr. Brown didn't offer, to me at least, some answers to questions that have been asked for many years.

If we are going to pressure fishing areas more, what plans would be made to increase stocking of such areas to improve and maintain fishing?

Secondly, and related to camping and swimming, what steps are planned with regards to water pollution, its control and prevention? Or do Mr. Brown and the committee plan to have camp sites on the edge of lakes, ponds, rivers etc., and build swimming pools for swimmers similar to the one near Drummondville.

Thirdly, I assume that plans will also include more hunting. Presently all that is required is a permit to say one has passed a test to carry a firearm and a permit to hunt. Is it the intent of the committee to pressure for more stringent game laws? How is it proposed to maintain deer herds and marshes for waterfowl? If these basic facts were settled, I think that perhaps success might be in sight.

Also as an afterthought, what about snowmobiles? Your confreres on the opposite side of the assembly seem to have made things expensive for us, upping the rate of licenses... plus the increased cost in trailer licenses... plus a fee of five dollars to use parks that we have helped pay for.

Perhaps, Mr. Brown, if we stopped trying to project an image overseas both in France and England with our Quebec Houses some of the moneys used in such areas would go a long way in moving your plan into operation at a reasonable cost to residents of "La Belle Province".

Last May the Dept. of Tourism F and G banned the importation of salmonid (trout and salmon) spawn, a measure imposed to prevent the introduction of serious diseases into Quebec waters. Since then the Wildlife Service's modernized hatcheries have done an excellent job of supplying the demand from hatchery owners, fishing clubs and associations.

A breakdown of the 6,179,000 spawn provided to date. Speckled trout, 4,610,000; rainbow trout, 1,140,000; brown trout 192,000; grey trout, 177,000; splake, 25,000; salmon, 35,000. This represents an increase of 3,506,000 over 1967-68 sales of 2,673,000 spawn not counting the more than fifteen million needed for the requirements of the Wildlife Service hatcheries: trout and salmon, 5,500,000; walleye and muskellunge, 10,000,000.

The Hatcheries division produced enough spawners to supply the market for grey and brown trout, splake and rainbow trout had to be filled in the United States.

Sales at the Hatchery Division are now at their peak; the season which began in September, will end next April with the filling of orders for rainbow trout spawn.

Baseball rules committee meet in New York today

Baseball's hot stove league warms up a couple of degrees this weekend with a handful of awards dinners, a meeting of the major leagues rules committee and the annual free agent draft.

The nine members of the rules committee convene in New York today to discuss several radical changes, including a proposal to permit a team to pinch hit for the pitcher each time he is due to bat while allowing him to remain in the game.

Another proposed change would eliminate the four pitches to a batter given an intentional walk.

Detroit Tigers' southpaw Mickey Lolich, last year's World Series hero, will be honored at testimonial dinners in Houston tonight and New York Sunday night.

Lolich, who beat St. Louis three times in the Tigers' come-from-behind Series triumph, shares the spotlight with National League batting king Pete Rose at the Houston affair and will get the Babe Ruth Award at New York as the outstanding Series star.

The majors will conduct their free agent draft in New York Thursday.

Thursday, John McHale, president and part owner of Montreal's NL expansion club, sent letters to the owners of the other 23 major league teams asking that he be ruled out as a candidate for the commissioner's job.

Russians clobber Nationals 10-4 in wrestling contest

OTTAWA (CP) — The Russians clobbered the Canadians 10-4 in a hockey game Thursday night, but it might have been an arm-wrestling contest.

The Russians did it on muscle, as they have on the rest of their undefeated spree in Canada.

The Ottawa-based Eastern National Team sneaked off to a 3-1 lead in the first period, but the Russians Nats pounced in the second, outscoring their hosts 8-1.

They added two more without retaliation in the third. Although both teams did their share of bouncing in a game that featured 24 penalties, the Russians appeared stronger in relentless arm-and-shoulder pressure.

Because there was usually someone close enough to out-muscle them for the puck, the Canadians often found themselves in good position but they couldn't do much about it.

Ted Hargreaves and Jean Cusson scored in the first three minutes for Canada, and despite a 16-6 Russian edge in shots the Canadians were playing even hockey.

RAN OUT OF STEAM — By the second period they were worn down, and it was no longer a contest.

Valeri Kharlamov, Boris Mikhailov, and Yuri Moisey scored two goals each for Russia. Vladimir Vikulov, Vladimir Petrov, Alexandr Ragulin, and Boris Mayorov each counted once.

Terry O'Malley and Terry Caffrey scored the Canadians' other goals.

Denis Dupere and Evgeni Meishakov got minors, majors and match penalties for a fight in the second period. Two other fights, between Paul Cadieux and Evgeni Meishakov in the first period, and John Ferguson and Valeri Kharlamov in the third, netted a high-sticking major for Meishakov and minors for the others.

Russia picked up 13 of the penalties, and outshot the Canadians 50-22 before about 4,000 fans.

In the Russian room, coach Anatoli Tarasov was in a black mood over the refereeing.

"The Canadians will try in vain to have us play this rough style of play," the Russian coach said.

OUT OF SHAPE — Coach Red Bowness said the Canadians had stopped skating in the final two periods and "looked out of shape."

The Eastern team was augmented by five members of the Winnipeg-based Nationals—Hargreaves, Terry O'Malley, Gary Begg, Bill Heindel and goalie Wayne Stephenson. Stephenson played six minutes of the third period before injuring his hand.

Bowness repeated previous statements that the Russian sweep so far was not the end to Canadian hopes in the coming world competition.

Meanwhile, a last minute extension of the Russian tour to include a game with Canada's national team in London, Ont., tonight has drawn a threat of legal action from an Ontario Hockey Association senior club.

Officials of the Woodstock A's made the threat Thursday night after their game with the Canadians scheduled for tonight was cancelled so the Nationals could play the Russians.

The Nationals play a partial schedule against OHA senior clubs, but the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association ordered them to play the Russians instead.

The game in London is expected to attract a full house of 6,000.

Doug Pratt, Gardens' manager, said Thursday night tickets for the 4,745 arena seats were sold out five hours after they went on sale.

Standing room will be available for another 1,200 fans prior to game time.

France's Annie Famose breaks leg in fall at St. Anton

ST. ANTON, Austria (CP-AP) — Annie Famose of France, since the retirement of Nancy Greene the top woman skier in the world, broke a leg Thursday as the European ski circuit continued to take a heavy toll.

Miss Famose fell in practice for today's Kandahar races, breaking a bone above the left ankle and tearing the Achilles tendon.

Her team-mate, Francoise Maechi, and Rosi Mittermaier of West Germany, were also hurt in falls.

Henderson was injured in a downhill event at Megeve, France, Jan. 21, suffering a broken leg and fractured skull. He is expected to be fit to return home by the middle of February.

Henderson is one of three Canadians hurt overseas.

Judy Crawford, 15, of Ottawa, picked by Nancy Greene as the skier to watch, suffered an ankle injury.

Gerry Rinaldi of Kimberley, B.C., injured a knee when he went through a snow fence at about 50 miles an hour.

CRITICIZED CONDITIONS — At Raine, national alpine coach, returned to Canada Wednesday critical of overseas conditions.

"It wasn't bad, it was unbelievable," he said.

"The lack of snow made conditions such that in some places rocks and grass were showing. At Berchtesgaden the skiers had to get out six feet from the poles for snow."

"It got pretty rough on the coaches of all nations competing," Raine said.

In the meantime, Scott Henderson of Banff, Alta., a member of Canada's national team, was moved from hospital at Salanches, France, to Paris for surgery to his right leg.

Gauls reinstated, Vics edge Tigers 2-1, Beavers on road

St. Hyacinthe Gauls yesterday rejoined the Quebec Provincial Senior Hockey League after depositing the required $5,000 bond with league president Len O'Donnell.

St. Hyacinthe's shortlived retraction from the Provincial League lasted only four days, following Monday night's surprise announcement that the Gauls head executive believed that under the existing circumstances the team could not continue operations.

As a result of the retraction, the original $5,000 bond posted at the beginning of the season was forfeited to the league's coffers.

A new group of St. Hyacinthe hockey partisans led by immediate past president Michel Pothier, wasted no time in making a demand to have the Gauls reinstated. Tuesday a formal request was made to president Len O'Donnell and Wednesday the league executive along with representatives from the various clubs met in Sherbrooke to discuss the proposal.

St. Hyacinthe, under the new group, were prepared to pay a $1,000 fine if the original $5,000 bond was not forfeited. Being contrary to the league's constitution, the executive and member teams turned thumbs down on the proposition.

Pothier, in lieu of the league's refusal to accept his demands, then asked for a 48-hour delay. Yesterday Pothier and the new group decided to accept the league's ultimatum and rejoined the six-team circuit.

The next Gauls' encounter will be Tuesday night at the Sports Palace against the Beavers. Claude Savary, who coached the Gauls for four seasons, will be behind the St. Hyacinthe bench once again.

VICS WIN — In Provincial Senior hockey action last night in Granby, the Vics pulled a surprise upset as they edged the reigning Allan Cup champions, the Victoriaville Tigers, 2-1.

Pierre Lafond, scoring with less than two minutes left in the match, earned Granby the important win. Midway through the first period, Tigers' stalwart Clement Boudreau put Victoriaville ahead 1-0. Victoriaville held the lead until early in the final frame when John Faite beat Morrisette to tie the game 1-1. At 18:20 Lafond scored the winner.

BEAVERS ON THE ROAD — Sherbrooke Beavers, looking for their first victory this season in Chicoutimi, will meet the Saguenéens tonight in their second to last trip to the north country this year.

The Beavers have yet to win a game either in Chicoutimi or Victoriaville this season. On the other hand Chicoutimi has lost only one home game all season, the sole reason for their appearance atop the league.

Sherbrooke, in two previous trips to Chicoutimi, have lost both times while likewise Chicoutimi has dropped both encounters in Sherbrooke.

Sherbrooke, thanks to an astonishing rally in the third period Sunday night, downed the Granby Vics 6-4 on five goals in the third period. Chicoutimi, on the other hand, could take over the league lead tonight as the Tigers dropped a 2-1 decision to the Vics last night.

The Beavers return home Sunday night to meet Granby Vics once again. If the Beavers can win both weekend games they will be tied with the Gauls for fourth position. St. Hyacinthe remains idle over the weekend, remaining four points ahead of the Beavers.

If Sherbrooke can win both games then Tuesday night's encounter with the Gauls will be for sole possession of fourth place.

Prior to Sunday's game between the Vics and the Beavers, the St. Pat's Pee Wee Hockey League All-Stars, representatives of Sherbrooke in the Quebec Pee Wee Hockey Tournament, will meet a team from Windsor, starting at 6:00 p.m.

Flyers have one of those nights, lose 12-0, Bruins, Rangers win

Coach Keith Allen of Philadelphia Flyers probably wanted to go home after the first four minutes of Thursday night's National Hockey League game against Chicago Black Hawks.

Stan Mikita and Chico Maki scored for Chicago within the first four minutes with the Black Hawks playing shorthanded.

No doubt Allen and 13,005 fans at the Spectrum in Philadelphia realized the Flyers were in for a rough evening. And their fears were justified as the Black Hawks went on to win 12-0, the most one-sided defeat ever handed an expansion team.

Mikita opened the scoring against goaltender Doug Favell at 2:05 with Dennis Hull in the penalty box. Maki connected at 3:07 with Matt Ravlich serving a penalty.

The Black Hawks, who scored nine goals in their last outing, scored four more times in the first period against Favell. Bernie Parent replaced Favell and allowed three goals in each of the second and third periods.

PICKS UP SHUTOUT — Parent and Favell combined to make 37 saves while Dennis DeJordy of Chicago also made 37 to pick up the shutout.

The Western Division's most one-sided loss previously had been Minnesota's 10-3 defeat by Boston. The 12 goals were the most scored by one team in a game this season.

Jim Pappin led Chicago with three goals while Dennis Hull, Doug Mohns and Eric Nesterenko scored two each. Single goals went to Pit Martin, who also had four assists, Mikita and Maki.

Bobby Hull was held to three assists and is nine points back of Phil Esposito of Boston in the individual scoring race.

In other games, Thursday night, Boston Bruins moved eight points ahead of the runner-up Montreal Canadiens in the Eastern Division by outscoring Los Angeles Kings 7-5 and New York Rangers stretched their unbeaten streak to seven games by edging St. Louis Blues 4-3.

SCORES THREE GOALS — Esposito scored one goal and assisted on another to help Boston stretch its unbeaten string to 16 games. But the key performer for Boston was Derek Sanderson, with three goals.

The Bruins scored six consecutive goals—Sanderson's three and single tallies by Dallas Smith, Glen Sather and Johnny Bucyk. Ed Jovan scored twice for Los Angeles while Bill Flett, Lowell MacDonald and Gordon Labossiere scored once.

New York's victory before 14,736 at St. Louis allowed Emile Francis to remain the only undefeated coach in the NHL. The Rangers, who started their undefeated streak under the ailing Bernie Geoffrion, have five wins and a tie under general manager Francis.

Walt Tkaczuk, Bob Nevin, Vic Hadfield and Rod Gilbert shared the Ranger scoring. Gary Sabourin scored twice for St. Louis and Red Berenson once.

In activity off the ice, Pittsburgh Penguins and Oakland completed a six-player trade. Centre Earl Ingarfield, left winger Gene Ubriaco and defenceman Dick Mattiussi went to Oakland while forward-defenceman Bryan Watson, right winger George Swarbrick and defenceman Tracy Pratt went to Pittsburgh.

Al Grazys' Gaiters looking for win over Loyola and CMR when they take to the road

Al Grazys takes his ice show on the road once again this weekend and this time he is hoping his hockey Gaiters can pull an upset over league stalwarts, the Loyola Warriors while clinching a playoff spot at the same time.

The Gaiters tangle with the Loyola maroon machine Friday night in Montreal, then move on to St. Jean to do battle with the Cadets from CMR, who seem to have forgotten that they are the league doormats.

The Cadets recently spoiled RMC's playoff chances and gave Sir George a bad scare several days later.

The Gaiters skated all over the Cadets last time, but if their play continues to improve, the purple and white may be in trouble.

bie, especially if they stage one of their second half letdowns.

Loyola is another story. No one really expects the Gaiters to beat the Warriors, especially before their own frenetic fans. No one except the intrepid Al Grazys and his determined pucksters that is.

Last Saturday, in one of the most exciting hockey games on local ice this year, the Gaiters played the Warriors to a standstill for two periods before the roof fell in and they lost 5-2. If they can play the same way this time for the whole game, and capitalize on some more scoring opportunities, the story could be different.

"If we play as well as we did Saturday," said Coach Grazys, "and we get a few goals ahead, they'll have to start pressing and we could pull an upset. The players are confident and they're out to prove they're as good as Loyola."

All personnel will be on hand and healthy over the weekend as well. Centre Roger Taylor has a slight cold and will play, while Lennoxville homebrew Ron Desjardins is showing no ill effects from the cut over his eye he received in the game against Mac last Friday.

All top scores aren't earned in duplicate play. Sometimes they are the result of pure unadulterated luck.

Some five-card major bidders won't approve of the heart opening bid by Jake Winkman's pupil but it meets with our full approval. We see no reason to complicate our bidding by opening this sort of hand with a minor suit.

We don't approve of North's double. A simple overcall is better with this type of powerful two-suit hand. Your partner won't know how strong you are but it won't matter. Somehow or other you always get a second chance to bid and can take strong action then.

Anyway, North doubled. Winkman jumped to four hearts. He didn't hold any high cards but he wanted to do his best to shut South out.

He didn't succeed. South managed to find a four-spade bid and it was up to West to take some action with his good hand. Author von Elsner has Winkman suggest a double. West can't tell that his partner has bid with no high card points at all. He also points out that a double would lead to a five-heart call by Winkman sitting East and might even result in East and West buying the contract there.

However, the pupil passed. He opened the king of clubs and continued with the ace of hearts. Then he studied dummy's while and led a low diamond. Declarer fished but Winkman ruffed to hold South to his contract.

I turned out to be an absolute top score for our hero! Somehow or other North became declarer at four or five spades at every other table. East would open a heart. West would take one heart; then a club; then try to cash either a second heart or club, whereupon North would wind up making five spades.

Winkman didn't bother to point out that if East and West had staggered into six hearts they would have made it easily. It didn't matter. No one did make that bid.

Luck in duplicate can run both ways. You can misbid a hand and wind up with a top score if it turns out that your misbidding has brought you to a really lucky contract.

You can overlook the best line of play only to find out that the best line will fail and an inferior line will succeed.

Another form of bad luck is to have your opponents make some brilliantly successful play against you. If no one else makes that same play you can only congratulate your opponents if you feel equal to it, and go on to the next board.

Four spades appears to be ice cold. Any declarer worth his salt will decide that West needs the ace of spades for his opening bid. Then he will lead the 10 of spades from his hand; toy with the idea of letting it ride and then call for the king from dummy. A second spade lead will bump the ace and queen together and South will claim his contract.

Bridge expert Jake Winkman did not make four spades. He was kidded some but it wasn't his fault. It seems that East did a lot of thinking when his partner led the king of hearts at trick one. Finally, East decided that his partner might just hold the ace of spades as his side strength and that repeated heart leads would produce four tricks for the defense. East played the five of hearts at trick one and echoed with the three spot at trick two.

West led a third heart. His partner's play had indicated a doubleton. West was a trifle shocked when East followed to the third heart.

He wasn't half as shocked as poor Winkman. Winkman took his perfectly useless discard in dummy, ruffed in his own hand and led a low spade.

West wasn't too shocked to rise with the ace and lead a fourth heart. There was no way to shut out East's queen and down went Winkman.

1968 a successful year for Scotstown A. C. W.

SCOTSTOWN — The Anglican Church Women held their annual meeting at the parsonage on Jan. 16 with Mrs. W. H. M. Church as hostess. There was a good attendance.

Canon Church opened the meeting with prayer. Mrs. Roy Desruisseaux conducted the meeting.

Mrs. Basil Woolley gave the financial statement which showed a successful year. Money raised during the year was by voluntary giving, donations from former members and friends, quilts made and sold, proceeds from card parties and the annual Christmas tea and sale.

Mrs. Susie Wonnacott, apron convener and Mrs. Basil Woolley, fancy work convener, gave their reports and Mrs. Bea Atkin's report of the groups activities showed that the A.C.W. were hostesses for the Deaneys in the summer. Delegates attended A.C.W. meeting held out-of-town. Sick members and friends were remembered with cards and flowers on different occasions and flowers were placed in the church for special events.

Mrs. Roy Desruisseaux thanked the members for their loyal support during the year and asked Canon Church to take the chair for the election of officers, which are as follows: President, Mrs. Roy Desruisseaux; Vice-President, Mrs. Helen Hall; Secretary, Mrs. Bea Atkin; Treasurer, Mrs. Basil Woolley; Conveners, aprons, Mrs. Susie Wonnacott; fancy work, Mrs. Woolley; novelties, Mrs. Mick Goodin.

Canon Church congratulated the ladies on their successful year and thanked them for their fine support given the church during the year.

Money was voted to the conveners for supplies and the date of the Vestry meeting was set for Jan. 30 at the home of Mr. Harvey Parsons.

At the close of the meeting Mrs. Church served refreshments.

A. C. W. present new slate of officers for 1969

NORTH HATLEY — At the annual business meeting of the Anglican Church Women, held in the Community Hall on Jan. 15, Mrs. Walter Sutherland was elected president for the new term.

Reports of all committees reflected progress in all departments. The treasurer's report was received with much satisfaction. It revealed that the projects which had been achieved were within the Association's budget, and a comfortable balance remained with which to launch an enthusiastic program for 1969.

The president, Mrs. Richard Springins, and the secretary, Miss B. Odell, automatically retired this year, and the following officers were appointed for the ensuing term: President, Mrs. Walter Sutherland; first vice-president, Mrs. Carl Reed; second vice-president, Mrs. J. H. Whelton; secretary, Mrs. Arthur L. Eke; treasurer, Mrs. E. M. Detchon.

A new classification was added to the membership, in that provision is made for an associate group, to enable participation by those who cannot avail themselves of full membership, but who wish to support the work and endeavors of the A.C.W. The meetings of the A.C.W. are held on the first and third Wednesday of

Centenarian swinger

OTTAWA (CP) — When the capital's cheeriest centenarian received a telegram recently on her 100th birthday from Prime Minister Trudeau, she chuckled and said: "He's lively."

Mrs. Mary Taylor should be a good judge. Tending to be something of a swinger herself, she lived it up at a family party

New Year's Eve until 4 a.m. One of the reasons she is so active is her belief that "hard work never hurt anyone."

The former Mary Ann Walker was born in Edinburgh, Scotland, where she once had her own dressmaking business, and came to live with three daughters in Canada in 1952.

LARGEST ESTATE

The largest published estate ever left by a woman was $95,000,000 by the celebrated miser Henrietta Howland Green of New York.

FOUNDED EARLY

Beirut, Lebanon, flourished as a Phoenician seaport as early as 1200 B.C.

RESIST CHANGE

Heat-resistant glasses can be baked cherry red and plunged into ice water without breaking.

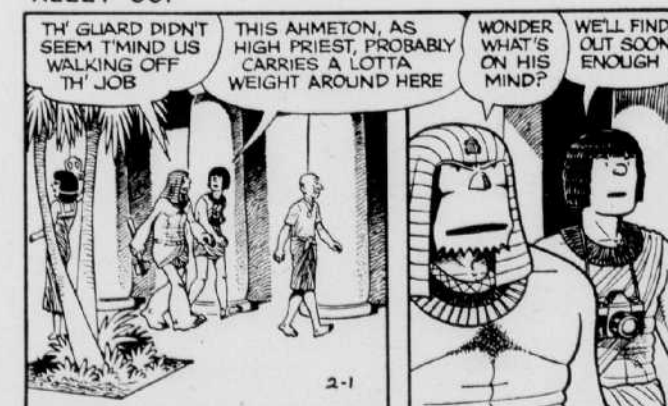

REMAINED QUIET

Acapulco, Mexico, the world-famous resort, was founded in the 16th century but remained a sleepy fishing village until a highway reached it in 1927.

MAKE CROSSHAIRS

The dark strands of the black widow spider's web make perfect crosshairs for surveying instruments, telescopes and gun-sights.
