OFFICE OF THE
ASSOCIATION FOR THE EXHIBITION
OF THE
Industry of all Nations.

THE ASSOCIATION FOR THE EXHIBITION OF THE INDUSTRY OF ALL NATIONS give notice that the Exhibition will be opened, in the City of New-York, on the 2d day of May, 1853.
The Municipal Authorities have granted to them the use of the Reservoir Square, and they are proceeding to erect thereon a Building worthy of the purpose to which it is to be devoted.
The Association desire to make the Exhibition, in fact as well as in name, a Representation from other countries as well as their own, of Raw Materials and Produce, Manufactures, Machinery, and Fine Arts.
To this end they have made arrangements with CHARLES BUSHEK, Esq., late Commissioner of the Austrian Empire at the Industrial Exhibition of London, whose skill, experience and high character offer the most satisfactory security to Contributors from abroad.
Mr. Buschek is the authorized Agent of this Association, for all countries other than the Continent of America, and as such has received its instructions.
All communications from Contributors abroad must be addressed to him at "The Office of the Exhibition of the Industry of all Nations in New-York, No. 5 ... ," and he will state to them the nature of the powers given and authority conferred, and will also explain the great inducements offered by this Enterprise to European Exhibitors.
This Association will correspond with all persons in the United States, the Canadas and British Provinces, the West Indies and this Continent generally, who may desire to contribute to this Exhibition.
All such communications must be addressed to "The Secretary of the Association for the Exhibition of the Industry of all Nations, New-York."
The Association is now ready to receive applications, and it is desired that they be sent in immediatly. Due notice will be given hereafter when the Building will be ready for the reception of articles.
Applications for the admission of Objects to the Exhibition must represent intelligibly their nature and purpose, and must also state distinctly the number of Square Feet, whether of Wall, Floor or Counter, required.
Machinery will be exhibited in Motion—the Motive Power to be furnished by the Association—and applications for the Admission of Machinery, to be so exhibited, in addition to the general description and the requisition for space must set forth the amount of Motive Power required.
The Association deem it proper to announce that Paintings in Frames will be exhibited.
As, notwithstanding the magnitude of the proposed Building, there must, necessarily, be a limitation of space, the Association reserves the right to modify or reject applications, but, in so doing, will be governed by strict impartiality, looking only to the general objects of the Enterprise.
The Association also reserves the right of determining the length of time, not to exceed in any case one season, during which objects shall, severally, form part of the Exhibition.
Exhibitors are requested to designate an Agent to whom their contributions shall be delivered when withdrawn from the Exhibition.
Prizes for excellence in the various departments of the Exhibition will be awarded under the direction of Capable and Eminent Persons.
With this statement the Directors solicit the co-operation of the Productive Intellect and Industry of their own and other Countries.

ROOFING.

S. M. & C. M. WARREN—Cincinnati, Ohio.
C. M. & H. M. WARREN—St. Louis, Mo.
WARREN & BROTHER—Buffalo, New York.
WARREN & BURNHAM—Philadelphia.

THIS Roofing, which has been in extensive use in the principal cities and villages in the United States for many years, is now offered to citizens of Montreal and vicinity at a far less cost than any other roof now in use. Its most important advantages are its being perfectly Fire-Proof and Water-Proof, its great durability, and its economy of construction requiring an inclination of only one inch to a foot, it presents great advantages over any other Roof in cases of fire and for drying purposes; besides, making a very important saving in the several building materials used in constructing Gable Walls and High Slope Roofs, as well as a saving in the labour of erecting these parts of the building.
The great advantages of our Roofs in cases of fire and for drying purposes alone, are sufficient of themselves, independent of their economy of construction, to induce their adoption in any city.
We have abundant testimonials in favour of our Roofs, from Insurance Companies, Architects, Builders, and Proprietors of Buildings, which the public are invited to examine at our Office, Mechanics' Institute Building, No. 46 Great Saint James Street.

ANIMOS NOVITATE TENEBO. OVID.

TUESDAY MORNING, AUGUST 17, 1852.

THE GOVERNMENT OFFER TO THE SUFFERERS BY THE FIRE.—No one can have passed through the burnt district of our city, without feeling a full sense of the misfortune which has fallen upon the community, as well as upon the individual sufferers, by the calamity of last month. A city is made up of population and residences. If the residences be destroyed in a rigorous climate like our own, the population must very speedily depart or means must be taken to restore to them the shelter of which they have been deprived. The revenues, too, of numerous proprietors, dependent upon rents for their living, have been suddenly cut off, and until their property is restored, they must suffer grievously from their loss. Under these circumstances it is plain that unusual measures of assistance from the community ought to be afforded for the restoration of an important city. Not that charity should be granted, for that belongs only to the destitute. Men, with heads and arms are not the proper subjects in Canada for eleemosynary contributions. And if this be true merely of the strong and healthy, it is doubly so of those, who are still the proprietors of some small landed property, though the value of their land may have been sadly reduced by destruction of the buildings upon it. Whatever charity may be rendered by the voluntary offerings of the affluent, we repeat that none ought to be expected from Government whose mission is not that of almoners, and who can like princes only be liberal at the expense of those whom they govern; including the very poorest, whom modern systems of taxation never fail to reach. What is to be hoped from a Government therefore, after such a calamity as lately fell upon us, is present and immediate relief to those who are reduced to positive distress, and afterwards such advances, or such facilities for obtaining advances as may enable all to receive loans at the lowest rate of interest, which circumstances will admit, while due precautions are taken to prevent what is meant for temporary aid from becoming a charge to the entire community. It would not perhaps become a citizen of Montreal, at this moment to complain of what has been heretofore done in other cities. Yet it is plain that bad management may deprive those who are to be relieved of very much of that which ought fairly to belong to them, while the country at large is made to give where it was only intended to loan. If the aid be given by way of debentures issued to the sufferers and to be negotiated by them, there is always reason to fear that they will lose for the profit of speculators. The fact of a large mass of any securities being thrown upon a limited market, is in itself sufficient to depreciate their value; but this depreciation must be still greater, when such securities are held by the needy, the ignorant and the inexperienced, such as make up the mass of our suburban proprietors. The proposal now made by the Government, if assented to by the Corporation, will prevent him who may receive aid from suffering from any shave in the shape of a discount. He will not be the nominal holder of a debenture for £100, on which he will have to pay interest for £100, and principal at the end of the term, and yet find that, he can only render it available for £85, so that his six per cent interest comes in the end to nearly 8 per cent. We conceive that, considering the character of the greater part of the borrowers, the offer to manage the whole negotiation, so as to place in their hands the net amount for which they are to be charged, is one that must be looked upon as in the highest degree advantageous. It would be so, if the rate of interest and terms of payment were more severe; but the advantage of the offer is increased, when it is considered how much better the conditions are than any which are usually exacted in private arrangements, where the best security can be given. It may safely be said that the man in the best credit in the city could not obtain money upon such easy terms.—To test this question more nearly, we need only ask what rate of yearly interest would be thought fairly remunerative by an intending purchaser of real property. Certainly no buyer would choose to invest at less than an expected annual return of eight per cent. Now here is a proposition to advance a very large proportion of the funds to be invested in the rebuilding of the property, at a rate of yearly payment, not greater than the most moderate rent, with the further benefit that the property is clear at the end of twenty years. Indeed the terms of repayment—a terminable annuity for twenty years, with annual payments calculated at 8 per cent on the amount of the loan—amounts to this, that the builder enjoys the property put up with this money, for twenty years, at less than the usual rent, and then becomes the absolute proprietor, without the outlay of a sixpence. In considering this part of the case, we speak of the loan as though it would cover the whole cost. Of course the reasoning is only applicable to the extent which the loan is to go, viz., three fourths of the whole. So far, there is nothing that will not, we presume, meet with ready acceptance among the parties interested. But there is a whole sea of difficulties in the practical carrying out of the scheme, which have yet to be noticed. If the lenders and the guarantors are to be secured, it must be by taking care that no one shall obtain loans without adequate security. It will first be necessary to ascertain that the titles of borrowers are clear of all doubt; and it will next be important to know that a sufficient margin in value is left over the loan, to cover any probable depreciation which may result from a forced sale, on failure of the lender to make good his obligations. This may, perhaps, lead to considerations in some cases, whether the style of building be adapted to the locality, and similar questions which will readily present themselves to any practical man. How far these questions relating to distribution can or ought to be left to the discretion of the Commissioners, and how far they may be governed by rules to be laid down by Parliament, are very knotty points, indeed. It is evident, that however much or however little is left to the discretion of the Commissioners, there must be enough to furnish ample ground for cavil at their proceedings when they act uprightly, and like ample ground for favoritism, if they are disposed to prostitute their powers. Our own opinion is, that for their sakes, as well as for the public welfare, their duties should be defined as strictly as the case will admit, and that the most stringent means should be taken to compel the performance of what is prescribed to them. As to the appointment of the Commission, there seems to be much doubt as to whom it ought to rest with; but this is of little moment, if we can only secure that they shall do their duty, and as it can never be intended that their decisions shall be the subject of revision by any body interested in the manufacture of political capital, all that we can hope for is, that these men, who must be irresponsible, as to any reversal of their determinations, shall have their irresponsibility narrowed to the closest limits. There will be room for jobbery, do what we may; let us try to render it as little as we can. We confess, that the number of the commissioners seems to us badly chosen. It is a great chance if any two men can be found so disposed to judge alike, as not to frequently differ upon the very numerous points they will have to decide. We would rather have one man; but if this be thought to commit too much power into single hands, we would have three, so as to be secure of a determination within the Commission, and prevent appeals, which must be accompanied by currying of favor and granting of obligation. We confess, too, that however just the opinion that those who incur pecuniary responsibility ought to control the expenditure of the money, we can foresee some practical evils that might arise from the appointments of different commissioners being made by different authorities. When joint expeditions have been undertaken by an admiral and a general, the two commanders generally contrived to quarrel for the honor of their respective services. We much fear that a Corporation appointed Commissioner and a Government Commissioner might do the same, for the honor of those they would regard respectively as their principals. But there surely might be men hit upon, whose appointment would be agreeable to both the high contracting parties, and in whom the citizens would confide, no matter with whom the appointment might nominally rest.

The medal and vote of thanks from the Royal Humane Society, London, which, we informed our readers a short time ago, had arrived for Mr. John George Gundlack, as an acknowledgment of the generous daring and humane conduct shown by that gentleman last December, in saving a human being from an untimely and dreadful end, at the risk of his own life, was presented to him by Sir James Alexander, at the Office of W. E. Holmes, Advocate, on Monday, at 2, P.M. When presenting them, Sir James said:—"Mr. Gundlack,—You must doubtless, be highly gratified at this mark of the appreciation, by the Royal Humane Society, of your manly efforts last fall. These (the vote of thanks and the medal) will be gratifying to your friends, and on public occasions, the medal will be a mark of distinction you may well be proud of. It will be an additional inducement to employ your services wherever you may offer them, and a pleasing relic to hand to your children and theirs' after them, exciting in them a noble emulation of your deeds. I trust it may also induce in you further exertions, wherever a similar opportunity may present itself, and induce others to follow your bright example."

Mr. Gundlack replied briefly, thanking Sir James for his kind services, and begging of him to convey to the Royal Humane Society his best acknowledgements for the honor they had that day conferred upon him.

THEATRE ROYAL.—The performances on Saturday evening, being for the benefit of Mr. Davidge, the house, as we expected, and were glad to see, was crowded. We shall not say how many years it is, since we saw Liston, the original Paul Pry; but we are satisfied that even he could not excel the inimitable comicality of Mr. Davidge's impersonation of the simple-minded, good-natured, but inquisitive old intruder. The audience were manifestly of our mind as to the beneficiary's merits, whose almost every word and gesture they greeted with applause and laughter. On the dropping of the curtain, one vociferous call for Mr. Davidge proceeded from Boxes and Pit, and, on his reappearance on the stage, he was greeted with a perfect shower of bouquets. He addressed the audience in a few words of acknowledgment for the favor with which his efforts to please had uniformly been met, during his engagement in Montreal; and congratulated them and his friends, Messrs. Corbyn and Buckland, upon, what he believed to have been, the eventually agreeable results of the season—even hinting, in his character of Mr. Pry, that he had heard these gentlemen had realized quite a "little fortune" by "the transaction", although all his endeavours to ascertain the exact figures had, hitherto, been unsuccessful! Mr. Davidge's remarks were received in the same excellent spirit which dictated them—the universal sentiment being evidently, in the words of the old leave-taking toast, "Happy to meet; sorry to part; and happy to meet again!"

Last night a numerous and fashionable audience again filled the Boxes and Pit—the evening's amusements being for the benefit of that very accomplished actress, Mrs. Maeder. The performances were entirely successful, but closed at too late an hour for further notice this morning.

DROWNED.—On Sunday morning, in landing from the Quebec steamboat, a Norwegian emigrant named Thosten Nelsen, from Seery, near Christiana. He was rolling his baggage ashore, when the barrow overset, and threw him into the water. The policeman did his best to save him with his life preserver; but it is supposed that he was stunned by striking the wharf. Upon his body was found £40, which the Coroner, through the kindness of Alex. Simpson, Esq., was enabled to forward by a cash draft to his widow, Sigré Rieri, who had preceded him to Milwaukie. The Coroner's Jury returned a verdict of accidental death by drowning. There was some difficulty about the language of one of the witnesses, which had to be given through two interpreters. Deceased was a Lutheran, and was buried by Dr. Bethune.

A young man named J. B. Gervais, a carter, was standing on the wharf, awaiting the arrival of the Jacques Cartier, when he was seized with an epileptic fit, fell into the water and was drowned. Verdict accordingly. The deceased left a father and mother, who were depending upon him.

MRS. PELBY'S WAX-WORKS.—We have been requested to announce the arrival in Montreal of this extensive and, if we can judge by the unanimous voice of our Boston contemporaries, admirably executed exhibition of wax-statuary—the subjects being illustrative of Scripture history. Mrs. Pelby brings with her recommendations from the Mayor of Boston and from the Roman Catholic Bishop of that city. Her fame as an artist stands as high among our neighbours as that of Madame Tussaud does in Europe, and we have had the pleasure of seeing a large and beautiful gold medal presented to her by the Mechanics' Association of Massachusetts, besides a silver one by the American Institute, in testimony of their appreciation of her taste and skill as an artist. Mrs. Pelby has leased the Odd Fellows' Hall in Great St. James' Street, where the exhibition will, in a few days, be opened to the public.

DESERTION.—We find the following in the Ogdensburgh Daily News of Friday last:—

Eight British soldiers, consisting of a Sergeant Corporal and six men, forming an Artillery Company, and attached to that branch of the British service stationed at Quebec, appeared here yesterday, stating that they had been ordered to the Fort at Prescott as a re-inforcement; but passed over the river some miles above, before reaching Prescott or reporting themselves to the officer there is charge. They were fine looking young men, and sold or exchanged their uniforms, which can be seen in some houses about the town. They circulated a variety of rumors, and "spun" some queer "'yarns" as to the intention of sending them to Prescott in consequence of anticipated difficulties with the "Yankees," growing out of the fishery question; and they said a good many humourous things about this question altogether. They left for parts unknown in the afternoon.

The Treasurer of the Montreal Protestant Orphan Asylum acknowledges, with thanks, the receipt of Five Dollars from H. Allan, Esq., being a fee paid to him as an arbitrator.

A SILVER MINE.—We learn from the Sherbrooke Gazette of the 14th instant, that Mr. Orvis Ball, of Hately, discovered recently, near the Railroad, north of Sherbrooke, a rich and extensive vein of silver ore, from a specimen of which, weighing only one pound, he obtained pure silver of the value of a quarter of a dollar. "We understand,' says our contemporary, "that Mr. B. has taken steps to obtain from Government the right of working the mine."

THE NATIONAL MAGAZINE—NEW YORK.—We have received the first number of this Miscellany from Mr. John Armour. It is very neatly got up, and presents the usual variety of magazine history. The price is but $2 per annum.

We would direct the attention of our readers to Mr. Galarati's advertisement. From what we have learned of this gentleman, we have every reason to believe that he is fully competent to teach the French, Italian and Spanish languages, with all of which he is perfectly familiar; and that his residence in Montreal will prove of essential service to those desirous of requiring a correct knowledge of them.

AUSTRALIA.—We have been requested to state that the "Clipper Ship," the William Frothingham, advertised to sail on the 20th August, from New York to Port Philip and Sydney, will not leave until the 25th instant.—See Advertisement.

PROTECTION.—The following is Sir John Pakington's reply to the address to Her Majesty, from the Mayor and citizens of Toronto, praying for alterations, favorable to Canadian exports, in the Imperial Customs tariff:—

[No 44.] DOWNING STREET, 16th July, 1852.

MY LORD,—I have the honour to acknowledge the receipt of your Lordship's Despatch No. 38, of the 6th May, transmitting an address from the Inhabitants of Toronto to the Queen, on the subject of the Trade between Great Britain and the Province of Canada.

Her Majesty's Government having examined into the facts upon which the allegations are founded, do not find that the grounds of complaint urged by the Petitioners, of want of favor by the existing tariff are so borne out by those facts as to call for interference on the part of the Crown. Of all the articles of Canadian produce which are exported from the Province, and which are calculated to enter into the trade between it and the United Kingdom, the only duties chargeable are, on hams 2s per cwt., and these, when of foreign curing, pay 7s per cwt.; butter, the duty on which is 2s 6d per cwt., while foreign butter pays 10s per cwt.; cheese, which pays from Canada 1s 6d per cwt., pays from foreign countries 5s per cwt.; corn, of various kinds, and flour, pay the nominal duties of 1s per qr., 4¾d per cwt., whether of foreign or colonial production; fruit pays an ad valorem duty of 5 per cent; wood, which, when brought from foreign countries, still pays (square timber) 7s 8d, and deals, &c., 10s per load, but of colonial growth, only 1s for square, and 2s for sawn timber; and fish, which, of foreign taking, pays 1s per cwt—comes free of duty from British possessions.

It would appear from the tenor of the petition, that although great complaint is made of the absence of favour shown by our existing tariff to the productions of Canada, the great disadvantages of which the petitioners complain arise from the want of reciprocity on the part of the United States, which disadvantage, however, it must be manifest, is beyond the power of Her Majesty's Government, or of the British Legislature to remove.

It appears from the contents of a volume exhibiting "The Trade and Navigation of the Province of Canada for the year 1850," which has been presented by your Lordship's command to the Provincial Legislature, that the value of goods imported in that year from the U. States amounted to £1,648,715, while the exports to those States amounted to £1,237,700, to which sum it is stated "20 per cent may be added," probably as the amount of goods that crossed the frontier without entry at any Custom House, thus raising the value of exports to £1,4[illegible], while it admits of great doubt, considering the geographical conditions of the two countries, whether the allowance here mentioned is sufficient to make up for the irregular trade to which convenience as well as the desire to avoid the payment of duties, would lead the people on both sides to have recourse. It must indeed, be most difficult to present any statement correctly showing the trading intercourse of two countries so near to each other, provided amply with facilities for the conveyence of goods and produce, and where such great distances must necessarily intervene between Custom houses planted on either side the frontier. For these reasons, therefore, it has not been in my power to advise Her Majesty to accede to the prayer of the address; and your Lordship will accordingly apprize the Mayor of Toronto, in order that he may make the result known to the gentlemen who have signed the document.

I have the honor, &c.,
(Signed) J. S. PAKINGTON.
To the Right Hon. Earl of Elgin.

MR. PAPINEAU.—The member for Two Mountains addressed a large meeting of his friends last evening, in the Concert Hall of the Bonsecours Market. We understand that there was some misunderstanding about the use of this Hall being granted for the purpose of this meeting, owing to the fact that the committee by whom the arrangements had been made, had made their engagement with the lessee of the Hall, instead of with the civic authorities. As it had been considered injudicious to lend the Hall for the purpose of political meetings, especially after dark, there was a disposition on the part of some members of the Corporation to refuse its use. At a meeting of the Council, however, yesterday morning the management of the affair was confided to the Mayor, and in the belief that no danger to the public property could arise from this meeting, and considering the fact that the Hall had been engaged, His Worship determined not to intefere.

MONTREAL AND NEW YORK RAILWAY.—We understand that this line is now so far advanced on the South side of the St. Lawrence, that it is proposed to run a train eighteen miles over the rails this morning, by way of a trial trip. The ferry is already, we believe, in operation from Lachine to Caughnawaga.

The American Railroad Journal, in allusion to the arrangement recently made by our Government for steam communication between this country via the river St. Lawrence and Portland, remarks:—

"We look upon the arrangement for the line of steamships already referred to, as a most triumphant vindication of the soundness of the Portland and Montreal project—coming as it does from entirely disinterested parties. It will be so regarded everywhere; and, while it will add vastly to the revenues of the road, it will effect equally beneficial results in the increased confidence and credit secured to it. A line of steamers between Europe and America, is a subject of world-wide interest; and a railroad which is identified with such line, at once advances to a most conspicuous position among the leading projects of the kind in both hemispheres.

A vast bonus has been considered necessary to secure such a line. The strength of the position of the Portland and Montreal line in reference to the European trade and travel, has enabled it to secure the advantages, without burdening it with the cost of contributing largely to support a line of steamships. The Atlantic and St. Lawrence road is an excellent structure. All its works are upon a scale commensurate with the design of the road. By waiting patiently a little longer, we have no doubt the expectations of the projectors of the road will be fully realized."

The same Journal in another place, says:—

"We also learn that it is the intention of the (Canadian) Government, as soon as Parliament meets, to adopt such measures as will secure the early construction of the Sault Ste. Marie Canal, thus connecting Lakes Huron and Superior by a navigable water line. This undertaking has long occupied the attention of both the Canadian and United States governments, and there now seems to be every probability that our efforts will be anticipated by the superior sagacity and energy of the Hon. Francis Hincks, the head of the Canadian Cabinet. We congratulate the Canadas upon a fact so creditable to them and mortifying to us.

"This national improvement will open at once the rich mines of lake Superior and the adjacent country, to the enterprise of the world. These mines will then be brought within 48 hours time of New York and Boston, by a route passing through a fine agricultural country, the beautiful and picturesque Manatouline islands, and along the shores of our great inland sea, abounding in copper, silver, iron, lead, &c., &c. We have always regarded this as one of the most interesting parts of this continent, and when it shall be fairly opened to the business world by means of the above road and the Sault Ste. Marie canal, we shall expect to witness a tide of emigration, industry and capital flowing in that direction, with the same hopes and propects of fortunes that now attract to California and Australia. Canada has fully caught the internal and improvement spirit of the United States, and she has almost equal resources for development."

THE ROWLAND HILL'S PLEASURE TRIP TO THE SAGUENAY.—We have much pleasure in giving insertion to the following acknowledgment of Capt. Ryan's kind attentions to his passengers, signed by about sixty gentlemen; and we have no doubt had it been usual for the fair sex to take a part in such proceedings, the number would have been doubled, all on board seeming to have been highly pleased with their worthy Captain's exertions for their comfort. The address was presented to Capt. Ryan by Mr. Chabot, M.P.P., in the presence of the assembled passengers: and the compliment was acknowledged and responded to in a very becoming and happy manner. It may be proper to add that, after Captain Ryan's first trip, he was presented with a Telescope, which has ever since been a source of great amusement to succeeding passengers:—

To Capt Ryan, &c., &c., &c.

Steamer Rowland Hill,
August 11, 1852.

SIR,—We, the undersigned, on a pleasure excursion on board the steamer Rowland Hill to Ha! Ha! Bay on the Saguenay River, and back, avail ourselves of this opportunity of acknowledging your gentlemanly manners, and expressing our thanks for the kindness with which we have been treated during the trip, and beg you to accept of our cordial wishes that the success you have met with since the beginning of such excursions may be continued.

Signed by 58 passengers.

PLANTAGENET WATER.

NOTRE DAME STREET,
Montreal, August, 1852.

To Mr. Charles Larocque, Proprietor of the Plantagenet Springs.

Sir,—Having now for some time used the Plantagenet Spring Water, I consider it to be as well a duty I owe to the public as in justice to yourself, to state that I have derived the most essential benefit therefrom. I can state, from my own experience, that, whether in good health or in sickness, immediate benefit is derived from the use of the water, and I know of no other remedy which I would exchange for it. Change of air, and going to watering places, may be all very well; but give me your Plantagenet Water before them all. Trusting that the sale will go on increasing, and that every one else will be benefitted as I have been, believe me to be

Yours, obediently,
JOHN LEVEY.

CORRESPONDENCE.

To the Editor of the MONTREAL HERALD.

Sir,—It is long since Barbula poured forth chapter upon chapter upon beards, for public information, and what has been the result? Are the men going to give themselves (h)airs? Has Barbula done any good in the character of another Joab, holding the public, Amasa like, by the Beard, while administering a sly dig in the ribs? There aint, I flatter myself, a neater or handsomer person promenades Notre Dame Street of nights than myself, and this I say not as a boast, but to show that in that case made and provided it is necessary for me to maintain my position in in the front ranks of "the fashion." Well, you see, as the great oracle of human nature observes, the question is with me "To be or not to be." Is fashion to make its politest bow on this introduction? and are we males, seeing the winter is coming on apace, to cultivate our own fur, or are the chins of our beaux still to nestle in minx boas? Yes: are we to raise a superlative crop, and dispense with the razor; or still "keep down on the mouth" by this persevering mow round about it?

The thing has to be begun, and ought to be simultaneous to be effective. The public being dead against it just now, one of himself can't beard public opinion in the matter; but, as union is strength, a band coming out at once would be successful. Certainly the example of a couple of hundreds would have such an imposing weight in this community, that our citizens, for the sake of peace, as well as respect to our numerical strength, would quietly swallow a profusion of hair round their mouths and throats, and suffer the cultivation of the moustache—aye, under their very noses. There is little doubt upon my mind, but a strenuous effort would so paralyze public opinion, that it might be bound by a—hair.

Beards, it has been proved to a demonstration, are of ancient cultivation, and that fact is fully borne out by myself and the few friends I have consulted, who have traced their first visible appearance to about the year 16, not A.M., but M.A. (that is to say, man's age.) My friends Black Beard and Long Beard discussed the subject, which discussion would be unprofitable for the public meantime, and the ultimate result was to fix the aforementioned end. The latter who wears spectacles and is a litttle short-sighted, making later, and the former earlier, the period when the first symptoms can be discerned of this "indispensable" breaking skin. This startling fact must be conclusive to any one with half a desire for an ornamental "mug," and yet notwithstanding the earnest desire on every hand, expressed on every tongue, visible on every face, to have the manly appendage, so inconsistent, so coquettish is the nature of man, that no sooner does it actually shadow forth its coming on the cheek and lip, than the affair comes to a head—the fortunate youth, half affrighted at his own visage, procures a sharp instrument, locks himself up in a room, and seizing the offending culprit by the hair, after the manner of female belligerents, cuts short all his difficulties along with his whisker and moustache. Vile movement! If so be that we have beards naturally, why treat them so unnaturally. If surreptitious means were taken to procure the covering of hair which throws its shade upon the constant and closely shaven chin with dark distinctness, then indeed we might feel ashamed of the acquisition. Such, however, is not the case, and the favor which nature at length bestows upon the youth, who frets and fumes until its appearance, it is shameful to treat in such a barefaced manner, cutting itself and company. No: Beards must be cultivated—not a doubt of it—and I mean to stir up public attention with the barber's pole (which is a long pole) until I poll the suffrages of the entire community, and, in military phrase, carry the day at the point of the—subject matter in hand. I am bound to do it, for the sake of my position in rank No. 1, and, in anticipation, I am scraping away three times a day, in order to have a "stunner."

I am, Sir,
Yours, respectfully,
MENTOR.

Montreal, August 11, 1852.

UPPER CANADA.

MELANCHOLY SUICIDE.—On Monday night last, says the Hamilton Gazette of the 12th instant, an elderly woman, a stranger, and who gave her name as Mrs. Gregory, committed suicide by drowning herself in about two feet of water, on the south side of Cook's Wharf. She had only been ten days in the city, having come up from Montreal in the steamer Highlander. She was neatly dressed in black, and wore her hair plaited. It appears that in the morning she had paid away all the money she had to the landlord when she stopped, leaving a balance due to him; after which, not being able to procure work, she went into a Mrs. Gordon's, and getting a pen and ink, she wrote a letter to her daughter, enclosing a letter which the daughter had previously sent her, in consequence of some family difference, which apparently was caused by the deceased leaving home. The letter was opened by H. B. Hull, Esq., Coroner, before the jury, and was the only clue which could be got as the cause of her committing the rash act. Although the deceased had spent all her funds, yet she was possessed of sufficient extra wearing apparel and other things, which if disposed of would have enabled her to have paid her board for some considerable time; but from a sentence which she wrote at the top of her daughter's letter, it was supposed that private troubles was the more immediate cause of her rash act. Verdict temporary insanity. The letter which the deceased wrote, and which will be forwarded to the family, is directed as follows: Mrs. Woodward, 6 Great Russell street, Bloomsbury, London, England.—Toronto Colonist.

OVER THE FALLS.—We lately stated that a Miss Skinner committed suicide by throwing herself over Niagara Falls. A Niagara correspondent of the Springfield Republican gives the following account of the recovery of her body. "She had divested herself of all of her clothes, and a letter was left, saying the people would never see her again. I regarded this report as one of the thousand roorbacks, manufactured to order in such places, for the purpose of putting money into the purses of the people around. But this proved to be no fiction, for in the presence of an hundred people, she was fished for in the eddy close by Table Rock, for a full hour, yesterday morning. During this hour, this sight was horrible to behold, the body appearing to be tossed up by some invisible power below, discovering to the crowd her head and shoulders, with her long tresses streaming around them, while again it was drawn under from sight. She soon appeared with her limbs up, or some other portion of her body, only to be drawn back by the remorseless power, and after describing a few momentary gyrations, to be tossed again and again, like a cork, out of the water. Ropes were thrown a long time with nooses, but she eluded all such efforts, for by the time ropes were thrown for her, she was under water and distant two rods from the shore, where boats cannot live an instant. Finally, she was thrown at by a sturgeon spere, and brought to shore. She was terribly mangled, nor would she be recognized by any who had known her."—Ib.

BROCK MONUMENT.—We understand that the Brock monument committee, have awarded the premium of £25 for the best design, for the re-erection of Brock's monument, on Queenston Heights, to Mr. Thomas, architect, of this city.—The design chosen is a column standing on a pedestal, the whole surmounted with a statue of the Hero. The entire height of the column and pedestal will be 185 feet. We congratulate Mr. Thomas on his success, and the country on the prospect of the monument's being soon re-built.—Ib.

Sheriff Rutton, writes to the Colonist on the subject of Cholera:—

After a good deal of experience in 1832 and 1834, I have not a doubt that Cholera is taken from the breathing in a mephitic atmosphere, and by this alone. This atmosphere, in the day time, by the heat of the sun and the winds, is diffused abroad and becomes so dissipated that little danger is to be apprehended from it, but as it becomes condensed at night our cellars and the lower parts of our buildings are filled with it, and as there is no means of removal or ejection from the vicious mode of building, being without chimneys or flues of adequate capacities, and especially in our cellars where they are most needed there it lies to receive an additional quantity next night, and so on till the whole of the lower part of the building becomes a mass of putridity.

Let the people open their cellar windows upon any two opposite sides at least, (if they have no windows make them,) so that there may be a free circulation through that pestilential reservoir during the day time, closing them up at night—cover up all surrounding wet places, and stagnant pools, with common earth—use lime every day in the water closets—closely seal up all the registers where the proprietors are foolish (I might say criminal) enough to have hot air machines—open every chimney and flue in the building, keeping up fires in them, if possible, at night—and, above all things, sleep in the upper stories or even attics of their dwellings, eat as they are occustomed to do, and they need have little fear of the cholera. It is breathing the air from our cellars, and that which floats near the surface of the earth at night, immeasurably aggravated by the filthy manner in which we live, breathing over and over our own and each other's breath, which developes this disease, and lays the foundation for nearly all our other ailments.

The duty of the corporation is to create foul air shafts, of sufficient capacity, over the mouth of all sewers, about sixty feet high, and keep fires in them; this will cause a downward drought through the sewer, and will of itself go a long way toward ventilating the whole city or town. At present there is always a strong drought up the sewers, and by the heat of the houses the mephitic air drawn up the drains, and thus our dwellings become redolent with the putridity of our sewers.

A WIFE WANTED!—The Toronto Patriot has the following curious advertisement:—

HYMANS' PORCH, August 7th, 1852.—Wanted a HUMAN HARP, encased in form of WOMAN, ornamented with gems of truth, purity, and worth, adorned with emblems of health, and virtue and religion, to welcome, with notes of sympathy, a fond companion within the portals of CUPID'S ELYSIUM.

TRADE AND COMMERCE.

From Alexander Borrowman's Circular.

QUEBEC, August 14, 1852.

The deficiency in tonnage arrived from sea, to this date, as contrasted with last year, is 182 ships, 78,033 tons, to which must be added 12,-000 tons short in new ships built last winter and loaded to date, as compared with the previous one, making in all about 90,000 tons short of last year.

Freights.—Several vessels of large tonnage were fixed, last Saturday, at 32s 6d for Liverpool, and 32s 9d @ 33s 6d for Clyde; one of smaller size at 34s 6d for Sharpness Point. Yesterday two small vessels were placed, one at 35s, for Sunderland, the other at 97s 6d for deals to London. Nothing offering at present for charter.

White Pine.—By the Supervisor's return of the 10th, there had been measured 18,607,539 feet; with later arrivals, and what was not then completed measuring, it is computed that nearly twenty millions have arrived to date this year, with the prospect of fully two millions yet to come in. Good rafts of large average are enquired for, and have this week been sold readily on arrival at from 6½d @ 7d for averages of 70 @ 80 feet, with the culls thrown out, a method now very generally adopted at this port. In some of the rafts which have brought the best prices, the quantity of culls, and most frequently the largest sticks, have been found so heavy as to materially decrease the average of the raft, which in future will probably be guarded against, by fixing a price at the time of purchase, dependent on the average of the raft when the culls are picked out and put aside. There remains unsold several rafts of large average, but inferior timber, which are not at present enquired for; nor are rafts of from 55 @ 60 (although good sound timber) at present very saleable. Several rafts of small and very inferior, brought down early in the season remain unsold; a good part has been lately worked off for local purposes. For White Pine, in shipping order, little enquiry is made, being held at 4½d @ 5d for 50 feet average, larger rising in value, as average increases.

Red Pine.—Very little has yet arrived, manufacture last year little exceeding one and a half million: at present only enquired for in small parcels for shipment, and held at 8d @ 8½d for 40 feet average.

Elm.—Some rafts have been sold this week at 8d @ 8½d for an average of 38 and 43 feet, while smaller average, along with white pine rafts, has brought 7¼d @ 7½d. In shipping order 9d @ 9½d is asked for 40 feet average.

Tamarac, is still held at 5d @ 6½d for flatted, and 6d @ 8d for square, according to size and quality.
