

Elie Zaor dies

MONTREAL (CP) — Elie Zaor, Canada's third heart transplant patient, died today after suffering a stroke.

The stroke was the second setback suffered by Mr. Zaor, 58, since he received his new heart Aug. 30.

A bulletin issued by the Montreal Heart Institute said the patient died at 9 a.m. "on the 11th post-operative day."

"His progress seemed favorable until yesterday when he suffered a stroke, after which he never regained consciousness."

"The transplanted heart performed very satisfactorily until the very end."

In a bulletin issued Monday night, the institute said Mr. Zaor had suffered a "cerebral accident secondary to pre-existing arterio-sclerosis" late Monday. It said his heart, pulse and respiration remained stable.

The first reversal suffered by the Turkish-born resident of Sherbrooke, Que., was an "acute thrombosis"—a blood clot. It was removed in an operation performed two days after the transplant operation.

He was reported recovering normally. By Wednesday he had taken his first steps out of bed. The institute said then that no further bulletins would be issued unless developments occurred.

The family of the widowed father of five went to the hospital as soon as they received news of his "dangerous" condition.

Daughter Irene, 24, who was in Montreal, was the first to arrive at the institute Monday. The four other children were driven from the family home in Sherbrooke by cousin Dewey, a lawyer.

Dewey Zaor said in an interview prior to his departure that Mr. Zaor's condition appeared "not too good."

"The doctors told (his daughter) Irene he is in great danger, but he still has a 50-50 chance," he said. "Personally, it sounds as if it isn't that good."

The hospital refused Monday night to explain further the meaning of "cerebral accident" or discuss any other aspects of Mr. Zaor's condition.

Within 24 hours of receiving the heart of Aime LaMothe, 38, of Sorel, Que.—who had died from a massive brain hemorrhage—in the operation performed by the institute's surgical team headed by Dr. Pierre Grondin, the patient was chatting with doctors and nurses.

But before another day had passed he was back for emergency surgery for removal of the blood clot which had formed in a "previously-existing small aneurism" of the abdominal part of the aorta, the institute said.

The aneurism, a ballooning of weakened tissue of the artery, was removed during the operations and replaced with a graft of dacron.

Dr. Grondin's team also performed Canada's first two heart transplant operations.

The first patient died June 1. Gaetan Paris, 49, who received his new heart in mid-June, was sent home Aug. 29. He was back in hospital briefly during the weekend after suffering minor injuries in a car accident, but was released after a check-up.

Mr. Zaor is one of 50 persons who have undergone heart transplant surgery and 23 are surviving.

News in brief

Negroes prow

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP) — Small groups of Negro youths roamed a section of the South Side for more than seven hours Monday night and early today, hurling rocks, bottles and debris at passing automobiles.

Four persons were reported injured in the outburst that came in an area hit by a similar, but brief, disturbance Sunday.

Kill 34 Cong

SAIGON (AP) — United States marines killed 34 North Vietnamese troops in two clashes Monday just below the demilitarized zone and uncovered a large cache of ammunition and supplies.

Five marines were killed and 23 wounded in the two battles within two miles of each other just north of the marine outpost known as the Rock Pile, U.S. headquarters reported.

Trudeau dines

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Trudeau dined Monday night with about a dozen prominent Canadian businessmen in the second of a series of private chats about wage and price restraints.

He had a similar dinner last Friday for labor leaders.

The guest list was not made public. It included three members of Mr. Trudeau's cabinet, and "a couple or so" of senior civil servants. The total number was about 15.

Bomb royalty

LONDON (AP) — The British government said today that the investiture of Prince Charles as Prince of Wales will take place despite a growing wave of bombings by Welsh home-rule extremists.

"What must be made clear is that acts of violence must not be allowed to determine policy," said George Thomas, secretary of state for Wales.

Job security

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York City board of education says it will offer a plan for job security to the teachers' union in an effort to end a strike which virtually paralysed the 1,100,000-pupil public school system when it began Monday.

Schools Superintendent Bernard E. Donovan said Monday night the board has drawn up "a firm offer of agreement"

TORONTO — (CP) — Techniques that researchers hope will provide breakthroughs in the age-old struggle against disease were described at a scientific conference Monday.

DeGaulle raps allies for Russian occupation

PARIS (AP) — President de Gaulle today denounced as "condemnable" Russia's occupation of Czechoslovakia. But he also placed part of the blame for the intervention on the United States and Britain.

De Gaulle acknowledged that the Soviet bloc invasion has set back France's policy of pursuing conciliation with the East.

Even if "this policy is momentarily thwarted, it is the right one," he declared at a news conference.

The French leader traced the division of Europe back to the 1945 Yalta agreements concluded with the Soviet Union by the United States and Britain, with France absent.

"These agreements delivered to Soviet domination Eastern and a part of Central Europe, thus cutting the Continent in two," he said.

He then suggested that the Soviet-American-British accords at Yalta made the Soviet intervention in Czechoslovakia possible.

TAKES FIRM STAND

At the same time, de Gaulle dealt forcefully with domestic, social and economic problems which followed the mass student and worker uprisings last May. Though promising a broad reform program, he made it clear that he would tolerate no further internal disturbances.

"Any threat of violence must be broken or repressed," he affirmed.

In his 75-minute dissertation on the affairs of France and the world, the president broke into frequent bouts of coughing. He sipped mineral water and at one stage took a cough drop. But the coughing persisted.

Medical supplies are now entering Nigeria

Lagos (AFP) — Food and medical supplies now are flowing in significant quantities to the millions of war refugees in areas controlled by federal Nigeria.

But in spite of the massive land, sea and air operation, it still is obvious that only the fringes of the problem are being touched.

No one knows how many people are being helped or how many are dying behind the federal lines and in the bush.

A report from a voluntary relief team in one of the hardest-hit areas says:

"Conditions here are terrible. Many are far too weak to survive."

One member of the team stopped his car to move a three-year-old child sitting in the middle of the road.

CHILD ALL BONES

He said that as he picked the child up, he "felt the bones were going to fall apart."

A Dutch Red Cross team working in the Nsukka area reports that in three weeks, it visited 12 villages and treated more than 6,000 patients.

At the moment there are about 120 foreign volunteers working in the field.

A West German Red Cross team is expected to leave soon for the Aba area, and another is expected to arrive in Lagos shortly.

End to Lakehead strike is seen as negotiators continue talks

OTTAWA (CP) — As the possibility of a legislated end to the Lakehead's crippling grain handlers' strike moved closer, company and union negotiators talked until 2 a.m. EDT today and were to meet again at 10 a.m.

Parliament gathers Thursday amidst a growing outcry to legislate an end to the strike which has blocked wheat shipments through the Great Lakes since July 18.

Neither union nor company spokesmen commented following Monday's talks under the guidance of labor department mediators D. S. Tysoe of Vancouver and William P. Kelly.

the department's chief of conciliation. The talks began at 9:30 a.m.

Labor Minister Bryce Mackasey said in an interview he has no immediate plans to introduce legislation to end the strike as long as the parties keep talking.

However, if the talks broke off "I will not hesitate to introduce the appropriate legislation."

A FRESH OFFER?

Sole development at Monday's meetings was reported to be a fresh offer by representatives of the elevator companies involved in the dispute. However, spokesmen for the parties declined to confirm whether such an offer was made.

The strike, in its 54th day, has tied up elevator grain-drying operations at a time when wet crop conditions prevail on the Prairies, necessitating such treatment.

This dampness problem plus the blockage of wheat movement out of the Lakehead has prompted some observers to predict Parliament will bring in strike-ending legislation next week if needed.

The union is seeking a wage increase of $1.06 over two years in the basic $2.50-an-hour rate. The companies have offered 52 cents over 28 months.

Que. faces economic tasks

By CUTHBERT JONES
(Record Staff Writer)

Important as constitutional reforms may be, the prime challenge today to the people of Quebec today lies in the economic field, Paul Gerin-Lajoie, Liberal MLA for Vaudreuil-Soulanges and the provincial party's constitutional expert, told the members of the Reform Club at a gathering last night.

Mr. Gerin-Lajoie's address to the Liberal workers concluded an active day in Sherbrooke during which he met with the officials and students of the University of Sherbrooke, made a series of radio and television appearances and was guest speaker at the Richelieu Club dinner.

Explaining that his visit to Sherbrooke marked the opening of a series of meetings throughout the province at which he proposed to outline the major problems facing Quebec, the former Education Minister declared that the economic difficulties held top priority, over-ranking the constitution reform issue.

Several recent events, he said, showed either the disinterest or incapacity of the people of Quebec and particularly the French-Canadians in regard to the economy.

He cited the statistics which showed Quebec had the highest rate of unemployment, exceeding even the Maritime provinces, the sale of the Centre de Psychologie et de Pedagogie and the reduction of technical education.

Mr. Gerin-Lajoie expressed the opinion that constitutional changes would bring no improvement in the economic field.

However he believed that constitutional reforms were required by Quebec for reasons of national prestige, for advancing public education and to meet practical problems of everyday life.

His option, the MLA declared, was clearly federalist: A decentralized federalism, especially in the five fields of social security, manpower and professional training, immigration, radio and television and international powers.

This federalism, he suggested, could be strengthened by using the mechanism of consultation.

"One can imagine," he said, "different tendencies in the possible ways to satisfy the different aspirations of the provinces."

"For instance, instead of a special decentralization for Quebec, one can imagine that decentralization is the general rule and that the return of certain powers to the federal government becomes the special case."

The first step towards constitutional reform, he declared, should be to determine the degree of decentralization and of co-ordination necessary to permit Quebec and Ottawa to effectively fill their role for the welfare and progress of the people of Quebec.

But, he stressed, the vital thing at the present time is to make the best use of the powers now available to fight the plagues now ravishing society — chronic unemployment, underemployment, insecurity, sub-standard housing and the lack of organized recreation.

The speaker was introduced by Andre Charpentier, president of the Reform Club, and thanked by former Labor Minister Carrier Fortin.

Czech chief talks with Reds

MOSCOW (CP) — Czechoslovakia Premier Oldrich Cernik began talks today with Soviet leaders expected to centre on Russian aid for the faltering economy of his occupied country and on the continuing defiance by the Czechoslovak press.

Cernik, accompanied by Deputy Premier Frantisek Hamouz and Foreign Trade Minister Václav Vales, was met on arrival at the airport by Soviet Premier Alexei Kosygin.

Czechoslovak sources said the delegation would stay for several days.

Kosygin and Cernik began talks almost immediately.

In Prague sources said the talks are expected to deal with future plans for Czechoslovak trade and also with compensation by Russia for damage caused during the invasion by Warsaw pact troops Aug. 20.

The economic nature of the talks was underlined by the makeup of the Soviet delegation at the first session today in the Kremlin. Tass, the Soviet news agency, said the Soviet government was represented by Kosygin, Deputy Premier Nikolai Baibakov, Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko, Mikhail Kuzmin, first deputy foreign trade minister, and a member of the state planning committee, Nikolai Inozemtsev.

SEEK BIG LOAN

The Czechoslovaks for some time have sought a big loan from the Soviet Union, and the Russians have also half promised compensation for all damages caused by the invasion.

The Czechoslovak Communist party newspaper Rude Pravo says that the "arrival of foreign troops paralysed production in heavy industry." It estimates production losses during the first week of the occupation at more than $227,000,000.

Rude Pravo complains that the Soviet Union and some of its hard-line allies did not meet their obligation to supply certain raw materials to Czechoslovakia.

The Czechoslovak premier arrived in Moscow as Soviet displeasure at the muted but continuing criticism by the Czechoslovak press of the Warsaw pact occupation emerged clearly into the open.

The Communist party newspaper Pravda says "denigrators of socialism, conspirators and inciters" are still working

Says may reduce the American forces in Vietnam next year

Vice-President Hubert H. Humphrey predicts some reduction of United States forces in Vietnam may be possible by early next year and says substantive Vietnam peace negotiations may be under way by January.

The Democratic presidential candidate also accused Republican opponent Richard M. Nixon Monday of demonstrating "confusion" over the nuclear non-proliferation treaty up for Senate confirmation.

Nixon, taking a day off from campaigning, said in a statement the United States should use its "enormous material wealth and power and ability" to aid starving Biafrans in the Nigerian civil war.

In other political developments:

—Prospects that former Kentucky governor A. B. (Happy) Chandler would be named third-party candidate George C. Wallace's vice-presidential running mate faded amid hints his civil rights record is an obstacle.

—Senator Edward M. Kennedy (Dem. Mass.), says Humphrey and his vice-presidential running mate, Senator Edmund S. Muskie of Maine, "are best equipped to handle the problems facing the nation." Kennedy said he'll have more to say about the campaign as time goes on.

Humphrey, expressing optimism over exploratory peace talks in Paris, told a group of Philadelphia students Monday he believes "substantive negotiations" may begin before the U.S. presidential inauguration in January.

He also said "I can safely predict" that barring unusual developments the United States will be able to begin removing some troops from Vietnam while peace negotiations are still under way.

"But I would think negotiations or no negotiations," he said, "we could start to remove some of the American forces in early 1969 or late 1968."

State Secretary Dean Rusk disagreed in Washington that the timing of U.S. troop reductions could be forecast at this time.

Humphrey said Nixon's statement that he has doubts about some provisions of the treaty against spread of nuclear weapons while supporting it in principle demonstrates "a confusion" and the kind of world leadership Nixon would bring.

Nixon's statement on Biafra urged President Johnson to give all the imagination, attention and energy he can muster to the problem and said this is no time to "go through channels or observe the diplomatic niceties."

That was a reference to blocks by both the Nigerian and secessionist Biafra governments against shipment of food to the starving Biafrans. Referring to U.S. wealth and power, Nixon said:

"There is no better case in which we might invest that power than in sparing the lives of innocent men and women and children who are otherwise doomed."

West didn't bid four spades with any idea that he would make the contract. He knew that he couldn't go down more than three tricks and probably not more than two. In any event he had 100 honors to cut down the penalty.

Actually he would only have been set one trick because all he would lose would be two hearts and his minor suit singletons.

Most players would have doubled with the North hand but North was pretty sure that his partner had raised to three no-trump with a long minor suit as his secret weapon. In that case North felt that his partner might well be able to make the minor suit game.

South figured out just what was in his partner's mind. Obviously North did not have anything in spades, otherwise he would have doubled four spades. In that case all North's cards would be working for South so South bid five diamonds.

East doubled on general principles. He felt that if South could make five diamonds he was entitled to get double prize.

West held the first trick with the king of spades. Had he shifted to a heart he would have beaten the contract but West saw no reason to lead anything but a second spade.

This gave South a chance to make the hand and he proceeded to do so. He ruffed in, cashed the ace of trumps, led a trump to dummy's king, ruffed dummy's last spade just in case East held another to lead, led a trump to his queen to get rid of East's last trump and passed the seven of clubs to East for an end play.

East could lead a club or a heart but either would give South the rest of the tricks.

Lennoxville Council seeks more control of building bylaws

Lennoxville Town Council last night agreed to a notice of motion by Alderman Hector McLeod in reference to the town's building bylaws to see that no business establishment can undergo construction or renovation until Council has approved or denied the request.

Alderman McLeod further stipulated that in this case apartments could be called businesses. The article, he said, is needed because of the lack of explicit zoning laws.

Mayor Cecil Dougherty agreed with the proposal but said Council should first see if the article is an amendment to the Town's building bylaws. Alderman McLeod welcomed Mayor Dougherty's proposal and added that "the proposal will give Lennoxville a controlling hand in this matter".

Mayor Dougherty told Council it should ask for legal help to see if the proposals could be implemented under some other article in the Town's building bylaws.

"Any amendment to the building bylaws", said the Mayor, "must be brought up at a public meeting and as a result, to save time the Town should first know whether or not the proposal is already an article in the building bylaws".

If the amendment is not in the building bylaws and if there are enough objectors, a referendum vote is needed, said the Mayor. He said he agreed to Alderman McLeod's suggestion because Lennoxville is growing; Council should exact some authority in this field.

A delegation of parents from the Queen Street area in Lennoxville met at Council last night to request the placing of a man to replace stop signs at school crossings.

The delegation said stop signs do not always stop cars, or, frequently, the cars that do stop remain stationary for only a matter of seconds and then proceed through the crosswalk. The placing of a man, they said, at the intersection during the hours when the children are arriving and leaving would be much safer.

One of the delegates cited the example of a child killed in Windsor. He said the child was killed only a few feet from the school yard while attempting to cross a street. As a result, he said, the Town then decided to station a man on the intersection where the accident occurred. "I don't want one of our children killed," he said, "before measures are taken."

Mayor Dougherty agreed and ask Council to undertake a survey to see how many pedestrians use the crosswalk. Alderman McLeod, Police and Fire Committee chairman, said the matter should be a joint effort between the school and Council.

Mayor Dougherty referred the matter to committee chairman McLeod.

PRECIOUS RESOURCE — Throughout Canada, September 15 to 21 has been declared National Forest Week. Yesterday members of the

Urges speedy garbage pickup

Ald. Romeo Quintal yesterday made an urgent appeal that garbage pickup service must be made on a weekly basis even if it means paying employees overtime.

Mr. Quintal stressed it would be worth additional overtime pay for the men as it would cut off the flow of complaints from outraged citizens. Other aldermen backed up the young alderman's proposal.

In the past there have been reports of tardy garbage collection.

In other business, council voted approval for the transfer of the following budgetary appropriations for waterworks services:

—Maintenance of equipment for ozonation works $1,000

—Maintenance of major

pipes
—Cleaning of pipes $2,000
—Total $2,500

School crossing guards will now see their $1.50 per hour salaries hiked by 10 cents. This boils down to an additional $2 a week.

City Red Cross helps

The Lachance family, who yesterday were forced from their St. Elie d'Orford home by fire, are temporarily being cared for by the Sherbrooke Chapter of the Canadian Red Cross. The Red Cross have clothed and fed the disaster stricken family of six. The owner of the fire gutted house, Gerald Lauzon, of 2860 Des Ormes Street, in Sherbrooke, moved his family into his home until the family can be relocated.

Council will study and meet with Sherbrooke Transit officials to discuss the feasibility of extending bus service to the eastern extremities of the city. A number of citizens living on King Street East are strongly in favor of such a move.

Tied in with this suggestion is the possibility of having bus service for the University of Sherbrooke students across Jacques Cartier bridge.

The knotty, and tiresome question of tenders for city equipment came up at Council again yesterday. Aldermen are at loggerheads whether council should ask for tenders based on equipment suggested by city engineers, or whether the tenders should be thrown wide open for all comers?

Council met with engineers Charland and Ferland yesterday, but they didn't come to a concrete decision.

Jury to decide on breaking and entering

Twelve male jurors are to decide this morning whether or not Andre "Chico" Martel, 22 of Sherbrooke, is guilty of attempted breaking and entering and possession of burglary tools. The jury heard six witnesses yesterday during the first trial of the Assizes' September term.

Martel did not testify and the defence, represented by Montreal lawyer Pierre Bedard and Yves Lafontaine of Sherbrooke, produced only one witness, Jean-Claude Beaudoin, accused by the Crown of being Martel's accomplice in the crime.

Martel is accused of trying to break into the Gerard Roy clothing store situated at 55 King West in Sherbrooke on the night of May 12.

Crown Prosecutor Andre Langlais received Judge William Mitchell's permission to proceed with both accusations against the accused simultaneously.

Mr. Langlais' first witness, Rejean Longpre, 19, a Sherbrooke student, told the Court he was employed at the Premier Theatre as an usher on May 12, a Sunday, when he finished working at 8 p.m.

He said he walked out of the Premier and noticed two men inside the entrance of the Gerard Roy store which is near the Premier.

He explained that one individual was facing the door and seemed to be tampering with the lock. The other, he said, was standing near the window. He identified the accused, Andre Martel, as the man acting as a watchman for the man tampering with the lock.

He explained that he told the theatre's cashier of the situation and she called the police to investigate.

Under Mr. Bedard's cross-examination, Mr. Longpre admitted he couldn't positively identify Martel as the man he saw watching because he looked at the man in the entrance sideways so he wouldn't be noticed.

The next witness, Laurent Dame, 19, another theatre usher, corroborated his colleague's testimony.

He said Mr. Longpre called him to show him the scene. He described it as follows: one man bent over the door, the other was standing near the entrance opening. He said he watched the two men at the store entrance for four or five minutes.

The police arrived and one man fled, he said, while the other walked towards a policeman.

After a lengthy cross-examination, the witness said he wasn't certain who was tampering with the lock nor who was watching.

However, asked later by Mr. Langlais, Mr. Dame said if Martel was the man he saw at the scene of the alleged crime, he was the one watching the street.

Jacques Thibault, 29, a Sherbrooke police constable, was the Crown's Star witness and he positively identified Martel as the man he saw at the entrance of the store.

He said he received a call in his patrol car at 8:11 p.m. and was on the scene one minute later.

He saw two men in the entrance of the Gerard Roy store. One of the two men, Jean-Claude Beaudoin, walked towards him, he said, and he brought Beaudoin to the patrol car for questioning.

When he returned to apprehend the other man, he fled up King Street and escaped.

At the police station, Constable Thibault explained to the Court, he looked at police mug shots of Sherbrooke men with police records and he identified Martel as the man who fled.

Mr. Bedard said he felt that a policeman with seven years experience, who said he recognized Martel from times he had seen him in town, should not have to see mug shots to identify him.

Constable Thibault said he had to see the pictures "to give the face a name."

He said Constable Maurice Samson, who worked with Constable Thibault at the time, found a pair of vise-grip pliers in Mr. Beaudoin's inside coat pocket.

At the station, Constable Thibault told the Court, Beaudoin admitted after questioning that he was with Martel or "Chico" as he called him, at the store. Mr. Thibault said there were scratches and marks on the lock to Mr. Roy's store.

Mr. Bedard's aggressive cross-examination couldn't shake Constable Thibault's positive identification of Martel. Constable Samson corroborated his colleague's testimony and confirmed that a nail file was found near the scene of the alleged attempted break-in on the ground.

Mr. Roy testified his lock had been tampered with and that tiny pieces from inside the lock were found on the ground. The key did not fit correctly either, Mr. Roy told the Court.

It had never been difficult to unlock the door before, he added.

This ended the Crown's proof. Mr. Bedard called Jean-Claude Beaudoin, 32 of Montreal, to the stand.

Mr. Beaudoin, accused of the same two charges as Martel, asked for and was accorded the protection of the Court.

He said on the night of May 12, he was slightly inebriated and went for some aid near the LaSalle Hotel.

He said he met Martel in front of Mr. Roy's store and they stopped and "chatted" for four or five minutes.

He explained he knew "Chico" but they were not intimate friends.

Mr. Langlais, determined to question Mr. Beaudoin's credibility before the jurors, revealed the witness's long criminal record dating back to 1955. He also exposed, to the severe objection of Mr. Bedard, that the witness was living with a common-law wife.

This ended the witnesses' testimony and Mr. Bedard rose to present his summation to the jury and the Court.

He argued mainly that three of the Crown's witnesses couldn't positively identify his client as the man they saw on May 12.

Council to study new zoning map

City Council tabled an urbanism committee report yesterday afternoon and decided to study a new, amended zoning map of the city's Duvernay section pencilled out by a municipal engineer.

The map follows on the heels of a request to engineer Jean

Marc Nadeau from the urbanism committee calling for a new zoning plan that would attempt to comply with the wishes of Duvernay area residents.

On August 27, the property owners turned "thumbs down" during a meeting with the urbanism committee on suggested zoning amendments.

The committee has called for Council to give strong backing to the new, amended zoning plan.

Under the proposed plan the Duvernay sector would contain:

- tenement buildings
- duplexes
- two-storey apartment houses
- three-storey apartment houses
- apartment buildings of unlimited height
- parks, churches and schools
- commercial areas.

In other areas of the urbanism front, Council accepted a committee recommendation to study "the puzzle" of Bowen Street South.

Sparked by a letter from Mrs. Florence L'Heureux, a decision must be made as to whether Bowen Street South from Chailoux to Hall Streets comes under residential or commercial zoning laws.

In a letter to city council Mrs. L'Heureux explained that presently this portion of Bowen Street South is "commercial for certain property owners and residential for certain others".

Following the committee's guideline, council refused a request by Caisse populaire Notre-Dame du Rosaire to allow a five place parking lot instead of the stipulated six under present municipal legislation.

Real implications of St. Leonard school row

Perhaps the most regrettable feature of the St. Leonard school dispute — more important even than the racial discord which may result from the argument — is the use of young children as pawns in a battle between opposing groups of adults.

It is obvious that the 100 or more youngsters who locked themselves inside the school in protest against the proposals to use the building for an English-language school did not act on their own; they must have been prompted by their parents or at least had the consent of adults before undertaking any such action.

If the parents had not approved the sit-in by the pupils it would have been a simple matter for them to force the young people from the building — unless parental authority in St. Leonard has been more seriously undermined than in other parts of Canada.

By using teen-agers to spearhead the unilingual demonstration, the trouble makers placed the authorities in an almost untenable position.

The only alternative to yielding to the demands of the protesters would have been the use of force, calling in the police to remove the students bodily.

It is easy to imagine the public reaction to any police action against a group of youngsters.

Unfortunately more is involved in this incident than just what group should occupy a certain school.

At the very time they should be receiving lessons on the importance of maintaining law and order, the children are being given a practical example of just what may be accomplished by the resort to violence.

Instead of learning the values of justice and respect for the rights of others, they are being indoctrinated with the idea that might is right.

Having tasted the fruits of violence, it is almost inevitable that they will resort to even more serious forms of trouble making in the future when they suffer some real or imagined grievance.

Keep your nose to the grindstone and you'll get stoop-shouldered.

Welfare plan revision

In its report on poverty in Canada, the Economic Council of Canada breaks little new ground.

Much of what it says has been said before by other groups, organizations and individuals, as a result of which the federal government launched its great "war on poverty" some years ago but the tone of the Economic Commission report indicates that the progress in the direction of easing the position of the economically depressed is more apparent than real.

Prime Minister Trudeau himself has said much about the "just society," to which he gives a high priority.

But he also has committed himself to balancing the budget and it is difficult to see just how he can implement such proposals as a negative income tax for people with low incomes, a guaranteed minimum income, improved housing and better living standards for Eskimos and Indians without unduly increasing taxes.

One suggestion by the Council is that existing anti-poverty programs be co-ordinated and that there be a long-term evaluation and reappraisal of all government and private policies bearing on poverty.

Following on this it suggests that all social welfare programs, especially those like family allowances started years ago, be studied as to their value in today's society.

This might lead to the abandonment of applying such programs universally and concentrating on assisting those who need assistance the most.

By directing welfare programs to the unfortunates, the amount available for their relief would be expanded to reasonable proportions without too much of an additional burden on the public treasury.

The PRAYER FOR TODAY FROM The Upper Room

Be renewed in the spirit of your minds, and put on the new nature. (Ephesians 4:23-24, RSV)

Peace preaching pastor has town up in arms

WOODBRIDGE, N.J.—(NEA)—Jesus Christ has been reduced to second billing at the Woodbridge Methodist Church these days. Instead, the eyes of the congregation are fixed on Theodore Seamans. He's the church pastor and apparently the most unpopular man in town.

Along Main Street, where his red brick church is located, Seamans is a dirty word. Most people turn sour at his mention. Some feel Satan himself never stooped as low.

"He's no good," says a drug store shopper.

"Awful," responds a housewife.

"I think," adds an auto dealer, "he's ruined his church."

Seamans' sin is that he has bloodied his nose in the new politics. Nobody minds the man having an opinion or two, residents say, but "the silly fool thinks he's got the answer to every problem there is."

Town resentment apparently runs deeper than politics alone. Seamans is being condemned mostly because he doesn't conform. He's one of the new breed of American clergies, the damn-the-white-collar ilk, and has offended the established traditions of his religion and his town.

He is, for one thing, a white flag pacifist. He says he would not hurt a man who was raping his wife, much less fight for his country. He says America should disarm, unlock, love its enemies and hope for the best.

He is also against anything remotely competitive: The war in Vietnam, the military, the draft, the bomb, the Republicans, the Democrats, the capitalistic philosophy.

And what makes his fellow citizens especially angry is that he utters his objections from the pulpit. Hardly a sermon passes that the minister does not condemn napalm, big business, prisons, police and the idea of the virgin birth.

Then, to etch his opinions even bolder, he spreads them on the church bulletin boards. There is a large photograph of a pillably war-scarred child; there are profusions of clippings lamenting this and that; there are the posters heralding the Wednesday evening antidraft meetings.

"He just beats us over the head with it," says one parishioner. "It's like he's saying: 'Well, I'm head of the church and I'll do as I please'."

There are those in town who predict that Seamans will not be the pastor much longer. The minister himself says things look bad.

Sympathy for his activities, never very widespread, has diminished to the starvation stage. Local groups have picketed his services, a petition of 150 names has called for his ouster and newspapers have socked him in print.

Service attendance is drying up. Once 250 people would pack the pews on the Sunday morning; now the average is 75. Seamans says "most" of the congregation has withdrawn its support of the church and is praying and paying elsewhere.

Church income is running $400 a month below normal; Seamans has cut his salary from $7,800 to $6,600; the organist, the choir director and sexton have all been dismissed; to cut down on fuel bills, only small areas of the chapel will be used next winter.

"Everything," says Seamans, "is closing in on me."

Still, the minister refuses to retreat from his convictions and has increased his actions as an activist.

He belongs to the American Civil Liberties Union, SANE, the NAACP, the Clergy and Laymen Concerned About Vietnam, and the Birdwatchers, a local citizens group formed to "combat John Birch Society influence."

As for his opinions, he promotes them with more gusto than ever.

Disarmament? "I think we should do away with all arms and just say to the Russians: 'O.K., Russians, come and do with us what you will.'"

Free enterprise? "Capitalism is competition. That means we can't love each other as much as we should, because we are working against each other."

Government? "The administration is like a religion. The flag is the altar. The Declaration of Independence, the Apostles Creed, Johnson is the saint."

Patriotism? "People who don't like themselves have to cling to something besides self for identification—the church, a country or a flag, for instance."

Seamans' words, however, do not accurately mirror him.

Inside his dimly lit church, he belies his notoriety. He is a slight, well-groomed, outwardly happy man, who admits the possibility he could be wrong.

He speaks in platitudes, complex phraseology, generalities. At 38 and the father of four children, he gives the impression of trying to combine the passion of youth ("Yeah, man, that's my bag!") with the wisdom of experience ("I've learned never to force my opinions on other people").

He wears sport shirts. He finger-brushes his moustache. He is ornamented with a surprisingly tasteless medal which combines a religious cross with a ban-the-bomb symbol. He smiles. He uses profanity.

His "bag," as he calls it, is that he loves everybody and he wants everybody to love everybody. His vision is a world without any aches. His purpose is to be himself and to help everyone else be themselves, too.

In presidential race

Unions plan record intervention

WASHINGTON (CP) — Trade union leaders are preparing what may be a record-sized intervention with men and money in the campaign for the Nov. 5 United States presidential election.

Behind the move are apprehensions about the siren song to the blue-collar worker from two presidential candidates, Republican Richard Nixon and Alabama George Wallace, heading a third-party threat.

Organized labor pitched in heavily for the Democrats in 1964 and helped crush Republican Barry Goldwater's bid for the presidency.

Fears then of white backlash—an anti-Democratic party vote by whites hostile to Negroes, Negro demonstrations and Negro gains—did not materialize to any degree.

But today, there is far less certainty just how the 18,000,000 members of American trade unions will vote. With their families, they represent about one-third of the American voting population.

The Republican convention which picked Nixon for a second presidential try adopted little of the traditional labor platform favored by George Meany, president of the 13,000,000-member AFL-CIO.

Meany said later the appeal for law and order—a key one in the Nixon strategy and even more important in segregationist Wallace's speeches to cheering crowds—"can be corrupted into a pretext for tyranny" unless related to social justice for American under-privileged.

Vice-President Hubert Humphrey's Democratic nomination at the tumultuous Chicago convention showed an active role for labor delegates.

These reflected Meany's unswerving support for President Johnson's policy on the Vietnam war and helped defeat a softer plank. From the time President Johnson announced he would not run again, Meany and the AFL-CIO generally had been for Humphrey.

The AFL-CIO committee of political action is concentrating on a $750,000 voter registration drive among union members. It has begun attacking Wallace as a racist.

and for anti-union tactics. The violence at Chicago, and evidence that many American voters feel the police head-breaking was justified, has been a disconcerting symptom of blue-collar hostility north and south to protesters of all kinds, white and black.

President Roy Siemiller of the big International Association of Machinists told his annual convention subsequently—in Chicago—that all union members are "pretty sick of rioters, looters, peaceniks, beatniks and all the rest of the nuts" he said seek to destroy the U.S.

"But if union members let their emotions over rule their reason, if they reject liberal pro-union candidates for demagogues who offer nothing more than hard-nosed hatred and low wages, we will end up with a government that is not only racist but anti-union."

Meany himself to the same convention backed the Chicago police action. However, the Machinists, the 1,500,000-member United Auto Workers and the 1,000,000-member United Steel Workers are among those preparing a special pamphlet for the South which hits Wallace hard as anti-Negro.

Readers say:

Hike in postal rates adds insult

Dear Sir:

It was with consternation and regret that I learned of the increased postal rates, and the possible implementation of higher postal rates on magazines and newspapers. The Government now collects 50 cents to $1 on all subscriptions coming into Canada from the U.S.

Kierans should be asked to resign as this is adding insult to injury to the Canadian public. The Canadian public was not only inconvenienced by the recent postal strike, but it cost individual companies possibly thousands of dollars, directly or indirectly.

In some instances invoices and bills had to be delivered by salesmen, thus devoting time to this task instead of deriving more income for their companies by increased sales. This would have increased Government income also by increased sales tax on products and income tax.

And the strike might have been averted had the government asked to be given a chance at this critical time.

Furthermore, the government was supposed to lead the way in reducing the cost of living. Instead of that they are adding to it. We were supposed to have elected a young government with modern ideas. This legislation is reverting to the ancient system when the weighing of articles consisted of placing a weight on one end of the scale and adding the product to the other end of the scale to make a balance, instead of modernizing and streamlining the post office department and thus defraying expenses, instead of increasing rates. Any fifth grade student could help balance the budget by making the public pay the deficit.

The government derives more income, directly or indirectly, from the Post Office possibly than from any other department.

For instance a newspaper or magazine may bring in hundreds of dollars in tax revenue by a person noting an advertisement announcing a new automobile, home comfort product or other article and purchasing this item, as government revenue is derived from sales, and this is their life blood. The more sales, the more income for the Government through income tax and all the other taxes; also putting into circulation money, on which the government collects taxes each time the dollar is exchanged for merchandise, ad infinitum.

Raising the rate on Christmas cards will deprive handicapped persons, school children and others of a little added revenue which would be helpful to them and on which the government would collect tax when the money was spent and put into circulation.

This is also infringing on Provincial rights as some provinces collect sales tax on Christmas cards, etc. at the whole-sale level, and volume of sales will be decreased; several sales outlets already being forced to give up business due to decreased revenue as postal rates are too high; thus causing more unemployment, and loss of revenue to the government due to tax and circulation of the dollar put into circulation by the individual, etc.

I could go into further detail, but this would take up added space in your valuable newspaper. So thanking you, Mr. Editor, for the space to express my views.

I remain,
DON KILGOUR

Trudeau has right animal traits

VALLETTA, Malta (CP) — Dr. Desmond Morris, author of The Naked Ape, says Prime Minister Pierre Elliott Trudeau shares with the late president John F. Kennedy special "animal qualities" that give a politician the power of leading men.

In history these qualities have been turned to both good and evil purposes, says the anthropologist whose best-selling book traces the animal characteristics man has inherited from his prehistoric ancestors. He believes both Jesus Christ and Adolf Hitler possessed them.

Morris, who has retreated to a 22-room Roman villa to write his next book, defines these qualities as a certain presence accompanied by the right behavior and mannerisms through communication.

"It's behavior in such a way that it makes people react," he said.

"It's a matter of gesture, posture and expression—how a hand is used, how the head is moved and even how a man walks.

"Two men can both say something intellectually brilliant but the way one man says it can be totally different from the other. It's the way it is put across, the sounds, phrasing and tone of voice.

Sapphires and rubies are both gem varieties of the mineral corundum.

"We feel you an' Pop are being derelict in your concern for Canadian Unity, by not keeping US home in sympathy."

Farnham fits needs of airport centre

BEDFORD — (Special) — A meeting was held recently in Farnham in connection with the choosing of a site for the new international airport by the federal government.

A number of sites have been suggested, but it is felt that Farnham possesses many of the needed facilities. A major factor is its situation, away from the congestion of the city, where the noise of the planes would not be a detriment. Bedford is close to Montreal, and with the closing of the Farnham military camp, there is sufficient quarters for the airport.

Yves Forest (MP Brome-Missisquoi) spoke in regard to the advantages of the Farnham site, along with, Alfred Croisette, MLA for Iberville.

Among the mayors of the various municipalities who attended the meeting, thus signifying their approval of the project, were: Louis Kelly, parish of St. Athanase; R. W. Craighead, Bedford; Jacques Marcoux, Marieville; Roland Desourdy, Cowansville; Laurent Neveu, St. Césaire; Jean-Paul Lasnier, Ste. Brigitte; Romeo Guerin, St. Ignace de Stanbridge; Georges Dallaire, Clarenceville; Jean - Paul Villeneuve, Sabrevois; Roland Lussier, St. Gregoire and Jacques Benoit, Mont St. Gregoire (the parish).

The following were appointed as members of a committee for the region, to advance the claims of Farnham as a suitable site for the international airport: Mr. Forest, Arthur Audette, mayor of Farnham; Roland Desourdy, Cowansville; Laurent Neveu, St. Césaire; J. B. Luneau, secretary-treasurer; R. W. Craighead, Bedford; Gerard Harbec, Farnham (alderman); Michael Monat, mayor of Iberville.

A civic reception was held by Mayor Arthur Audette and the aldermen, at the conclusion of the September 3 meeting.

A bilingual kindergarten opens its doors today

By JOHN McCAGHEY (Record Staff Reporter)

KNOWLTON — (Staff) — In the midst of the education turmoil in St. Leonard, another hopeful look to the future of French-English harmony becomes a reality here tomorrow when a bilingual kindergarten opens its doors.

The kindergarten will have approximately 47 English-speaking and 20 French-speaking students. Costs will be borne by the French and English school boards of Knowlton on a pro-rata basis.

The children will have the option of studying either in English or in French and bilingual classes will be held.

Mrs. Marie Tessier, a completely bilingual teacher, has been engaged to start the project and another completely bilingual teacher is to be named shortly.

The children will be transported to and from classes by school buses. There will be two morning classes from 9 to 11:30 and one afternoon class from 1 to 3:30. A second afternoon class will be added if future enrollments create the need.

Parents can still have their children enrolled.

Jean-Marie Tetrault, chairman of the Commission Scolaire de Knowlton, said children in the area served by the commission are eligible to attend the classes.

On the English-speaking side of the ledger, children who would normally attend Knowlton High School will be welcomed to the kindergarten, with the exception of those living in Leadville, Highwater, Mansonsville, Knowlton's Landing and Vale Perkins.

They will attend the kindergarten at the Mansonsville Intermediate School.

Parents in the area have welcomed this bilingual innovation which will be continued next year when the Cowansville Regional High School, the first jointly owned by French and English school boards, opens its doors.

The Sutton schools open doors again

SUTTON — (Special) — With Brome Fair over, Sutton schools reopened on September 3.

For Canadians of French origin the Boys' College, the convent and the large - private school for girls on Academy Street provide adequate educational facilities. All have excellent teachers.

Sutton High may not function many years longer as an institution for upper grades, for it will be demoted to an elementary school status as soon as the new modern regional school is completed at Cowansville. A recent report said that in the future there may be as many as 3,500 students.

Right now, however, Sutton High is still going strong, with a sizable enrolment, with a large Grade XI, and of course many in the other grades.

Principal Bruce Kerwin reports three new teachers on his staff. They are: Mr. Quigley as science teacher, Mr. Fairchild, for history and English for senior grades, and Mrs. Kenneth Sherrer as teacher of Grade IV.

Stanbridge East

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Schoolcraft, Richford, Vt., were recent guests of their cousin, Mrs. Burt Laycock and Mr. Laycock.

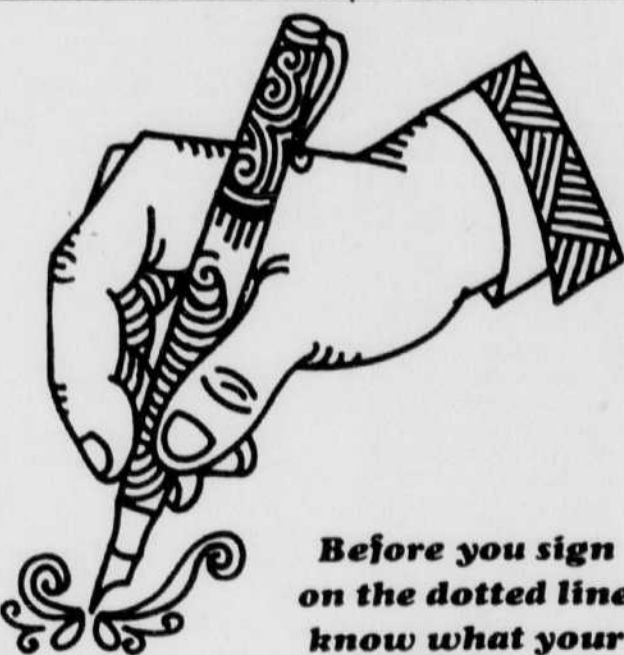

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Titmore have returned recently from St. Catharines, Ont., where they spent two weeks with their daughter, Mrs. Doris Legatt and her family.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Brown have returned home after spending three weeks vacation in England, visiting relatives.

They aren't so different from adults

TORONTO (CP) — Children in an art gallery aren't so different from adults. Show them an abstract painting and they're apt to announce scornfully that they could do that. Show them an environmental work such as a giant hamburger of sailcloth and foam rubber and they clown and make jokes about where the mustard is.

With a child, though, there is a chance you can catch his imagination with the work, whether he ever decides to like it or not. If you can do that, you may have opened a door for him to a new and exciting interest. At least, that's the approach taken by the volunteer tutors at the Art Gallery of Ontario.

Mrs. J. G. Gibson, who has been taking tours through the gallery for 10 years, says children seem to respond best to questions that challenge their first reactions.

"Grown-ups only take a tour because they want to, and you can often just go through your spiel. You have to get the interest of kids and that can be quite difficult, because usually they're forced to come. Sometimes if they've come from a distance, they do everything in the city in a day."

Amsterdam, tourists' last stop before heading home

AMSTERDAM — (N.E.A.) — What would you suppose is one of the more surprising attractions that surprising Amsterdam offers the American tourist?

A nice, new airport complete with one of the largest duty-free shops in Europe, that's what. It's a good reason why Amsterdam (and Shannon, with another duty-free store) is for many tourists the last stop before home.

Oddly, the more popular items include liquor, cigarettes, transistor radios and other glossy, discounted consumer goods which are about as representative of Europe as genuine synthetic plastic wig boxes are of East St. Louis, Ill.

Sure, wooden shoes, tulip bulbs and Dutch chocolates are still popular souvenirs from The Netherlands, but the real money is more often spent at the airport. Which makes one wonder why some Americans even bother to take the truncated, three-week "grand tour."

Says an English friend, who confesses a certain animosity toward tourists of any nationality:

"I have the solution to it all," he grumbled. "The British government ought to turn the Isle of Wight (which sits in the English Channel off the British coast) into a sort of Disneyland East."

"You know, they could build a half-dozen or so Hilton Hotels, have plenty of ice water and soft toilet paper, good plumbing, souvenir stands and a lot of natives running a round in peasant costume. The Isle would be sanitized, sterilized and air conditioned. Oh, yes, why not a big bowl over it like your Astrodome?"

"And then tourists could come, get their sampling of Europe and go home, satisfied."

It was only a matter of time when Hollywood decided the American tourist would make a swell subject for a movie. So "If It's Tuesday, This Must Be Belgium" is currently being filmed in Europe by David Wolper for United Artists.

It's about a group of first-time visitors who "do" nine countries in 18 days, which isn't especially unusual. The film, naturally, includes all the stereotypes—the World War II veteran searching for old battlefields, the lady who spends all her time in her hotel room writing post cards, the chronic complainer ("We always have ice water in America"), the lady who is always getting lost, the souvenir hunter and the camera nut.

ENGAGED — PENELOPE LEE and DOUGLAS WAYNE MCTAVISH, whose engagement is announced. The bride-elect is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. Lee of Orford Lake and the prospective groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd McTavish of Georgeville. The wedding will take place Oct. 5, at St. George's Church, Georgeville.

BEAUTY BRIEFS

New Leg Make-up

The new leg make-up that simulates various degrees of tan should be very popular this summer, especially when the temperatures soar into the clammy high areas. On a sticky, hot day bare legs or open-work stockings certainly feel cooler.

Cosmetics Are Personal

Cosmetics are a personal thing, and teen-agers should make certain to use them that way. Most girls realize the danger in using another's comb, brush or powder puff, but think nothing at all of trying on a friend's lipstick. Be more fastidious in the future.

DEAR POLLY—Is there any way to clean that well-known brand of luggage that is like a molded shell covered with vinyl, so it will retain its original appearance? I also have a white plastic purse that needs cleaning and imagine the same treatment would work on it, too.—CAROL

DEAR POLLY—I saw the following idea at a Franciscan Brothers school and thought it a good Pointer for the home. There was a painted outline for each tool that should be hanging on a piece of perforated hardwood. In this way the tool user could see just where a tool belonged when returning it and also knew at a glance if tools were missing and what they were.

A cheery, welcoming sight for a child's birthday party is to tie a cluster of balloons to the front porch rail or to a brick at either side of the front door. They are there until the children are ready to go home and then the balloons are handed out. These clusters look like bunches of huge flowers.—MILDRED

DEAR POLLY—I want to help Mrs. R. L. H. with ideas for first anniversary (paper) gifts. I found the matching decorated paper plates, paper cups (hot and cold) and paper napkins most useful. They saved me a lot of dishwashing during the hot summer months after our June anniversary. Perhaps our most remembered gift was a gift certificate for two dinners at one of our better restaurants. This provided a night on the town for a pair of newlyweds who did not want to unbalance the budget for a fancy anniversary dinner.—MRS. G. D. J.

DEAR POLLY—We planned a whole party around a paper anniversary. Exaggerated paper corsages and boutonnieres were made of facial tissues for the couple and their "king and queen" chairs were decorated with paper posies.

As to presents, there were monogrammed notepaper, a paper dress for the "bride" and paper hankies for the "groom." Personalized gifts were a scrapbook of the wedding story and memories. However, the most perfect present possible is a pretty paper check.—DOTTIE

About Bonded Fabrics

Bonded or laminated fabric commonly refers to two or more fabrics joined together by an adhesive. Foam-bonded materials offer insulation, wrinkle resistance and stability. Some bonded fabrics eliminate the need for separate lining and make alterations easier. Care instructions are particularly important for bonded fabrics.

Hunt for bodies

BRADORE BAY, Que. (CP) — Search and rescue units of the armed forces, hampered by thick fog, continued to comb the Gulf of St. Lawrence shoreline Monday for the bodies of six persons missing and believed killed with three others in the crash Friday of an Otter aircraft.

Three bodies were retrieved during the weekend by search parties.

Police said the plane crashed in heavy fog while attempting a landing at nearby Blanc Sablon after picking up passengers from coastal communities.

Still missing Monday were Edna Sinclair of Old Fort, Que., Rodney Nadeau of St. Paul's River, a three-year-old daughter of Albert Wellman of Old Fort, the four-year-old daughter of Hubert Nadeau of St. Paul's River, pilot Lester Best of Goose Bay, Labrador, and his co-pilot, Sam Soreman, whose home town was not given.

The recovered bodies were identified as those of Raymond Thomas of L'Anse-au-Clair, Nfld., Mrs. Eric Thomas of St. Paul's River, and Mrs. Dan Bursey of St. Augustine, Que.

Police and volunteers were assisting the rescue units on the ground.

The aircraft operated by a Quebecair subsidiary, Northern Wings Ltd. of Sept-Isles, Que., had been missing since 5 p.m. EDT Friday when it crashed near the Quebec-Labrador border.

Leonard Hobbs of Bradore Bay, a settlement five miles from Blanc Sablon, said in a telephone interview there were no survivors.

Mr. Hobbs, one of the searchers, said the plane came down in fog so thick the pilot could not see where to land.

"Nobody saw the plane crash because visibility was down to zero in fog."

Edmonton to have first rapid transit

EDMONTON (CP) — The Alberta capital will have Western Canada's first rapid transit system by 1971—if it can find trains and track.

Council decided recently Edmonton "needed a balanced transportation system with rapid transit to complement existing and planned freeways." It approved expenditure of $5,000,000 in 1969 to develop the first stages of a system expected to cost more than $50,000,000.

Edmonton is negotiating with Canadian National Railways for right-of-way leases and will bid next month on 44 electric cars that served as surface transportation during Expo 67 at Montreal.

"The negotiations with CN regarding the actual leases for right-of-way are almost complete," said city commissioner Stanley Hampton in an interview. "It remains to be decided just what this will cost."

Bidding on the Expo express cars was scheduled to open Sept. 4, but was postponed because, as a Montreal spokesman put it, "of the number of parties interested in bidding."

WANT HALF PRICE

The 100-seat cars, which travel at 60 miles an hour, cost $100,000 each and city officials said earlier this year they hoped to get them for about half that price. The picture may have changed, however, because of the potential demand.

Losing the bid would probably mean considerable delay while specially-built cars are ordered. The city wants to have the rapid transit system operating within three years.

"We're reaching the stage where downtown congestion at rush hour is as bad as any city on the continent," said Mr. Hampton. Edmonton has 180,000 registered vehicles and at 5 o'clock in the evening, they all seem to be in the heart of the city.

Metropolitan Edmonton's population is 420,000 and is expected to reach 700,000 by 1980. The population of the downtown core is about 80,000.

The coils of a rapid transit system have been on the grill for several years, but it wasn't until last March that speculation about the Expo express fanned the flames.

Following a cost analysis study, implementation of the system was recommended by Mr. Hampton.

COPYING CLEVELAND

He said the Edmonton system will be "virtually a carbon copy" of one in Cleveland.

Construction of the high-speed transit facility will be in three stages, starting next year.

The first stage will utilize more than five miles of CN surface right-of-way. Details of this were still in the final planning stages, but Mr. Hampton said there would be no joint use of rail lines.

This stage will involve north-east and northwest Edmonton and the downtown area. It is expected to cost $15,000,000. Mr. Hampton said he expects the city will allocate $5,000,000 more during each of the next two years for this.

In the second stage, links will be laid between the west end of the downtown region, across the high level bridge over the North Saskatchewan River and into south Edmonton which includes the University of Alberta.

Recover bodies

ST. HIPOLYTE, Que. (CP) — Police have recovered two unidentified bodies and are searching for two more presumed buried beneath the rubble of a hotel destroyed by fire Sunday near this Laurentian community 35 miles north of Montreal.

Discrimination

MONTREAL (CP) — The St. Leonard school commission was accused Monday of discriminating against immigrant children by imposing all instruction in French while providing education in English for those of "Anglo-Saxon origin."

The charge was made in a plea to the Superior Court by lawyer Claude Armand Shepard at the close of a hearing on a petition presented on behalf of two dissident commissioners who seek an injunction to bar implementation of the unilateral policy for the Montreal suburb's elementary schools.

Smuggling

MONTREAL (CP) — Smuggling activities are on the increase as Quebec's province-wide liquor strike drags on and Quebecers seek out supplies in Ontario, a police officer said Monday.

Insp. Paul Champagne, in charge of the Montreal division of the provincial police alcohol squad, said his department has seized more than $200,000 worth of liquor since the start of the strike against the Quebec Liquor Board last June 26.

Gilles Gregoire

QUEBEC (CP) — Gilles Gregoire, leader of the separatist Ralliement National, made a brief appearance Monday at the Quebec parliamentary press gallery in his new role of parliamentary correspondent.

Earlier, Mr. Gregoire, who will write daily for Journal de Quebec and Journal de Montreal, had tried to get interviews with Acting Premier Jean-Jacques Bertrand and Opposition Leader Jean Lesage. Both were absent at the time.

NEW MANAGER — A new manager will replace Gaston Perreault recently appointed supervisor-methods with Eastern Area Commercial Department. It will be George Mikan, formerly Bell Canada's manager in Theford Mines. Mr. Mikan attended the International School of Geneva, and studied at the Graduate School of Commerce in Lausanne, Switzerland. In July 1956 he joined the Bell Telephone Company of Canada. He served with the Commercial Department in Montreal and St. Jerome. While working with Bell Canada's Public Relations in Montreal, in 1965, he was entrusted with a brand new project which he completed in 1967: The Panorama of the Telephone Progress. Mr. Mikan has a well rounded experience which no doubt will prove an asset in his future contacts with the Granby population.

Trudeau won't change deGaulle

PARIS (CP-Reuters) — Whatever French President de Gaulle's policy is toward Canada and Quebec, it is not likely to change because there is a French-speaking prime minister in Ottawa.

At his news conference Monday the president was asked whether he would "modify" France's policy with regard to Quebec now that Pierre Elliott Trudeau is in office.

"Certainly not," de Gaulle said, without elaboration.

But de Gaulle made it clear he does not think much of federations such as those of Canada and Nigeria.

De Gaulle has been accused by some of supporting separatism in Quebec ever since his now-famous call of "Vive le Quebec libre" during his short-visit to Canada last year.

The president has never given direct support to separatists. But he has dealt directly with the province of Quebec on a number of matters and caused some anger in Ottawa.

Monday, he came out as close as he has ever come to such support.

ANSWERS QUESTION

He answered this question early in his conference: "Mr. President, it is well known that Franco-Quebec relations are in wonderful shape. However, during the last months, a fresh situation has appeared in France.

Moreover, Canada has elected a French-speaking prime minister from Quebec who is reported to have shown a desire, not official, to meet you. Do you think that these events may modify France's policy with regard to Quebec?"

The "fresh situation" in France in the question, submitted in writing in advance, evidently applied to the May-June strikes in France and the economic measures that followed.

De Gaulle held out the possibility of eventual French recognition of Biafra, the breakaway Eastern region of Nigeria.

While he was on the subject he made his criticism of federations.

Sherbrooke Winter Fair planned

This year's Sherbrooke Winter Fair will be held on the Exhibition Grounds on October 7, 8 and 9. There will be classes for the three Beef Breeds, Aberdeen Angus, Hereford and Shorthorn cattle. Classes for pure bred sheep and swine, market cattle, market lambs and market hogs will also be on display.

Further, in the Agricultural Division there will be sections for field crops, vegetables, fruit and Christmas trees. The classes for pure bred cattle, sheep and swine have been arranged according to the regulations issued by the Federal Livestock Branch. The prizes offered are approximately the same as in 1967.

All livestock will be on the Exhibition Grounds by Monday noon, including the Calf Club beef calves. Judging competitions will be held on the afternoon of October 7. The junior banquet will be held Monday evening and the junior showmanship competition in the Arena. Also a big Bingo Monday evening in the Sports Palace.

The sale of market livestock is on Wednesday afternoon at 2:30 p.m.

Prize Lists will be mailed to all former Exhibitors this week. Write to the Secretary, Arena Building, Sherbrooke for copy of the Prize List.

Closing date for entries is September 30.

Poor wiring

MONTREAL (CP) — Police say poor wiring in an incendiary bomb may have saved the lives of at least two families early Sunday when a detonator exploded at the rear of a Quebec Liquor Board outlet in north-end Montreal.

A two-pound stick of dynamite, together with a jar of jellied gasoline, had been wired to a board with a clock, a battery and a detonator cap.

The incendiary bomb was placed in a garbage can at the rear of the strike-bound QLB outlet and set to go off at 2 a.m. EDT.

KINNEAR'S MILLS — On Sunday, Aug. 25, at Candlish United Church, Kinnear's Mills, built in 1873 and officially opened in 1874, where on August 25, two stained

The windows, presented for dedication by Mrs. Nesbitt, were dedicated by Rev. Gary Stokes.

Robinson and Mr. and Mrs. Duffett Savage, Lennoxville; also Miss Dorothy Montgomery, East Angus; and Mrs. C. Montgomery, St. Eustache.

These beautiful windows added much to the appearance of the church. In 1966 other stained glass windows were installed in memory of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Montgomery and Mr. Charles Montgomery.

Recently an attractive alcove was erected over the doors to protect them from the elements.

These doors were given by Mrs. Austin Scott, of Lennoxville, in memory of her uncle, Mr. James Moore and his wife, Margaret Henderson Moore.

These doors also represent fine workmanship on the part of the late Raymond Frizzell, of Lennoxville.

The history of this village church dates back to the early settlement of Leeds, when it was first a Presbyterian Church. A log building was erected in 1842 but prior to that services were held here. The present building, which is the one used for worship now, was built in 1873. It was Presbyterian until Church Union came in 1925. The building has been kept in very good repair and throughout the years many memorials have been erected.

The church bears tribute to the early residents, who through much hard work and courage built homes and a place to worship. Many of these are buried in the adjoining cemetery. Descendants here, as well as many who have moved away from the community, have a spot in their hearts for this "little white Church in the Mill".

Long hair and short skirts,
An endless array, they come, they go
And through the winter months

But once you've passed,

RESOLUTE, N.W.T. (CP) — An explosion shatters the high Arctic stillness, and a column of dirt and water rises dramatically from the flat, treeless landscape.

Somewhere in the general area of the blast, on the northern half of Melville Island, a drilling crew will go to work next March, hoping to tap what one consultant describes as the largest untapped oil and gas basin in the Western Hemisphere.

The report from J. C. Sproule of Calgary, which followed extensive surveying of the area, led to the formation of Panarctic Oils Ltd., a consortium of the federal government and 20 oil companies—19 of them Canadian-controlled—in December,

Mr. and Mrs. David Hibbard have returned to Cobourg, Ont., after spending two weeks with the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Hibbard, also her mother, Mrs. George Soutiere and Mr. Soutiere and family, Rock Island, as well as other relatives in the area.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles New-

1967. This is Panarctic's maiden effort.

Exact location of the well will depend on the results of more than 1,500 explosions, set off by seismic crews which began their tests in mid-April and will continue until the end of September. When evaluation of the tests is completed in Calgary, they will have covered about 1,500,000 acres.

FLY IN RIG
When the site is decided, a drilling rig will be flown, a section at a time, to Melville Island, 1,500 miles north of Edmonton, and drilling will start as soon as it is erected.

The contract to drill the well has been awarded jointly to Commonwealth Drilling Ltd. and Hi-Tower Drilling, both Calgary firms.

The government holds a 45-per-cent interest in Panarctic, which has total capitalization of $20,050,000. The largest private investors are two Canadian Pacific subsidiaries, Canadian Pacific Oil and Gas Ltd. and Cominco Ltd., each with slightly more than nine per cent.

Its exploration permits, stretching in a 700-mile arc across the upper Arctic islands, total 44,137,000 acres. Three wells drilled in the area before Panarctic's birth proved unsuccessful.

In preparation for the Melville Island operation, Panarctic is developing a staging area on the eastern side of the 16,141-square-mile island at Rae Point. A barge, on its way from Resolute, 180 miles east, will be frozen into the ice for the winter.

A second barge, loaded with cement, drilling mud and other chemicals, will be unloaded the site by stevedores flown from Montreal, who will live in portable prefabricated housing.

TEST ALEXBOWS

The barge will then be ballasted with sea water in order to test its alexbow, a device similar to a snowplow which is designed to clear shipping lanes by lifting ice and throwing it to the side. Alexbows have been tested in the St. Lawrence Seaway and the Great Lakes, but never in the Arctic.

Alexbow-equipped tankers would overcome the chief disadvantage of conventional ice-breakers by removing loose ice which might damage ships' hulls and propellers.

Panarctic vice-president John Godfrey said if the alexbow is satisfactory, the Rae Point staging area could be moved farther north, closer to the intended drilling sites.

He also said the company plans to extend seismic operations next year to Bathurst Island, about 100 miles east of Melville, and islands of Ellef Ringnes and Amund Ringnes, 250 miles to the northeast.

Early "Electricity"

The Greeks gave amber the name "elektron," since they found that a amber, when rubbed briskly, could pick up straws and small bits of paper.

Beebe social notes of Mr. and Mrs. George Cruden.

Dr. and Mrs. Guy Lapierre were called to Montreal, due to the death of his father, who had been a surgical patient in a hospital there for a few weeks.

mains a patient in the Sherbrooke Hospital.

Mrs. Walter Smith entertained several retired school teachers of Stanstead County at her home. An enjoyable social afternoon was concluded by the serving of tea and light refreshments. Attending were ladies from Magog, Ayer's Cliff, North Hatley, Georgeville, Stanstead, Rock Island and Beebe.

Mrs. Allan Smith and daughters, who have been guests of Mrs. Smith's mother, Mrs. W. Young and her mother-in-law, Mrs. Walter Smith, has returned to Fabreville. While here, Mrs. A. Smith visited Mr. Walter Smith, a patient in the Hotel Dieu Hospital, Sherbrooke. Mr. Allan Smith, who had been in Quebec City for several days spent the weekend here and also visited his father.

Beavers season ticket sale opened by Mayor Nadeau, Ray Carpentier signs

Mayor Armand Nadeau officially opened the sale for season tickets for the Sherbrooke "Beavers" Hockey Club yesterday when he signed his contract to purchase the first ticket of the sale.

Guy Roy, chairman of the ticket committee and his two assistants Georges Roy and Joe Guertin, paid a visit to the City Hall yesterday morning to sell Mayor Nadeau the first ticket. Fans interested in securing their tickets for the season can now contact the Sports Palace.

Real Veilleux, general manager of the Beavers, announced yesterday that Raymond Carpentier had signed a contract to play in Sherbrooke this year. Carpentier performed with New Haven in the Eastern Hockey League in the United States last year.

Carpentier was recommended to the club by Jackie Leclair, who had signed as player-coach earlier. He is originally from Rouyn-Noranda and is a forward. He stands 5 ft. 11 in. and is 28 years old. At present he is an insurance adjuster and hopes to be able to find such a position in Montreal.

Coach Bruce Cline hopes to have around 30 players report to the training camp on Wednesday, Sept. 18. Manager Veilleux and Coach Cline have made numerous travels throughout the Province in an effort to sign players to try-out form and so far have done well.

Carpentier, although he has signed with the Beavers, must secure his release and transfer from New Haven. Last year he tallied 44 goals and chalked up 79 assists in 58 games.

He plays centre and finished as the second scorer in the Eastern League.

At present Carpentier is following a special adjuster's course in Atlanta but Manager Veilleux has hopes he will be on hand next Wednesday for the training camp.

Carpentier had a try-out with Memphis of the Central Hockey League. He was offered a professional contract by Minnesota but turned it down preferring to remain as an amateur and work as well.

Upshaw saved day for Braves, Dodgers wallop Cards 10-1

George Stone welcomed cousin Cecil Upshaw with open arms Monday night and saved a victory for Stone and the Atlanta Braves.

This time, the Braves beat San Francisco Giants 2-1 as Upshaw rescued Stone by putting out two unwelcome hitters in the ninth inning.

Meanwhile, Los Angeles Dodgers drove Larry Jaster out with eight runs in the second inning, and went on to wipe out St. Louis Cardinals 10-1.

It was only their second victory in nine decisions against Jaster, who shut them out a record five straight times in 1966.

TOP THE PIRATES
Elsewhere in the National League, Clay Dalrymple's two-run single sent Pittsburgh away mad as Philadelphia Phillies topped the Pirates 8-7 in 15 innings.

Houston was rained out of a doubleheader at Cincinnati in the only other games scheduled.

Rookie Bill Sudakis turned the Dodger-Cardinals game into a rout after Jaster was gone. He climaxed the big noise in the second with the first grand slam homer of his career, off reliever Dick Hughes.

With Jaster still around, Paul Popovich had singled home two runs and Wes Parker doubled for two more.

Don Sutton held the Cardinals to six hits to run his record to 8-14. Jaster, who was 2-0 against the Dodgers this season, fell to 9-12.

The victory was the sixth in seven starts for Los Angeles and helped them past the idle New York Mets and out of the league cellar. The loss, on the other hand, was not all that bad for St. Louis, which still lowered its magic number for clinching the pennant to six as the second-place Giants lost.

WELCOMES UPSHAW
Rookie Stone took care of the Giants with a four-hitter until he welcomed Upshaw with tired arm with one out and one on in the ninth inning. Upshaw responded by striking out Jim Hart and Dick Dietz, and Stone had his sixth victory against three losses.

Joe Torre singled home Atlanta's first run in the opening inning and another scored on a double play in the second, offsetting Willie Mays' 19th homer in the fourth.

Dalrymple gave the boot to Pittsburgh after reliever Bruce Dal Canton opened the door by walking the bases loaded.

The Pirates almost got back in when Chris Cannizzaro tripled in a run in the last of the 15th, but Chris Short struck out Maury Wills for the final out.

Louis Tiant chalks up another victory as he whiffs 16 Twins, Tigers win 6-0

Chalk up one more strike for Minnesota's G-Whiz Kid . . . and put the rest on Louis Tiant's side of the tally sheet.

Tiant struck out 16 Minnesota batters Monday night and breezed to his 20th victory of the season as the Cleveland Indians trimmed the Twins 6-1.

One of the Twins' five hits off the husky right-hander was a home run by Graig Nettles . . . the rookie outfielder's fifth in four games.

Tiant, who has lost nine, became the fifth 20-game winner in the majors and climbed within five strikeouts of team-mate Sam McDowell's season high of 253.

MATCHES RECORD
Nettles, ninth Minnesota player to hit homers in four consecutive games, matched ex-Twin Jimmie Hall's club record of five in that span.

The American League's top three sluggers also homered, Frank Howard, the major league leader, slammed No. 40 in Washington Senators 6-2 victory over Baltimore Orioles; Boston's Ken Harrelson cracked No. 34 in a 6-4 10-inning Red Sox nod over Oakland Athletics.

Detroit's Willie Horton hit No. 33 as the league leaders

Twins after Nettles' first inning homer. He struck out the side three times and fanned 14 through the seventh before tapering off.

The 27-year-old Cuban ace is Cleveland's first 20-game winner since 1962, when Dick Don-

HOMERS IN THIRD
Howard helped the lowly Senators drop second-place Baltimore eight games off the pace with a bases-empty homer in the third after Ken McMullen's three-run first-inning shot shook up loser Gene Brabender.

Harrelson and Reggie Smith tagged 10th-inning homers off Oakland reliever Diego Segui after helping the Red Sox send the game into overtime. Both singled and scored on Russ Gibson's eighth-inning double, tying it 4-4.

Lolich, 14-9, limited the Angels to a third-inning single by Aurelio Rodriguez and an eighth-inning double by Tom Satriano as Detroit reduced its pennant magic number to 10.

Horton hit a two-run homer in the first inning and Mickey Stanley and Al Kaline smacked successive solo shots in the third, chasing California starter Dennis Bennett.

MONTREAL (CP) — Six of Canada's top water skiers left here today to participate in the North and South American championships at Bogota, Colombia, next weekend.

Four men and two women make up this country's contingent, along with coach Clint Ward of Hudson, Que., and judges Roger Codere of Sherbrooke, Que., and Lynn Ward of Hudson.

The men's team is made up of Andy Murrison, Toronto; George Ahlans, Kelowna, B.C.; Jean Perrault, Sherbrooke, Que.; and Brian Muirhead, Winnipeg.

Arthur Ashe Jr., wins US Open singles title downing Okker

FOREST HILLS, N.Y. (AP) — Arthur Ashe Jr., is the new titan of international tennis, but he's still not happy.

He has, he says, two more outstanding goals. He wants to help the United States get back the Davis Cup from Australia. And he wants to find his proper place in the seething black power struggle.

"I won't be satisfied until we get back the Davis Cup," said the Army lieutenant from Richmond, Va., who posted a 14-12, 5-7, 6-3, 3-6, 6-3 victory over Tom Okker of The Netherlands

Monday for the men's singles crown in the U.S. open championships.

The skinny Negro also won the national amateur crown two weeks ago at Brookline, Mass. — a double slam that may not be duplicated for years.

He automatically became a strong candidate for No. 1 world ranking among both amateurs and professionals.

"While I've been winning here, the Australians have been running, jumping and hitting two-on-one," Ashe said, referring to a favorite tactic of Aussie Capt. Harry Hopman in putting two men against one in practice. "They're getting ready for us—we've got to get back that cup."

Would winning back the Davis Cup give him more satisfaction than his victory in the U.S. Open?

"IT GETS TO YOU"

"Sure, it would," he said. "Out here, I play for myself. In the Davis Cup, we play for the country. The umpire doesn't say, 'Advantage Ashe.' He says, 'Advantage, U.S.A.' That gets to you."

Ashe, 25, and the man he had to beat in the semi-finals, Clark Graebner, head the team that will invade Adelaide, Australia, at Christmas time for the Davis Cup challenge round—granting the Yanks get by their last hurdle, the inter-zone final.

The Aussies, their strength bled by pro raids, will try to defend with Bill Bowrey and Ray Ruffies, two outsiders who did not compete here.

The United States next must play the winner of the series involving India, Japan and West Germany.

Ashe's victory in the Open ended a long, hard climb to the top. As a youngster, he was not permitted to play on Richmond park courts because of the color of his skin. He was befriended by Dr. Walter Johnson of Lynchburg, Va., who also helped Althea Gibson become the queen of women's tennis.

WINS COLLEGE TITLES

Arthur, a quiet, mild-mannered youngster, attended UCLA on scholarship, won the national collegiate title and championships on clay, hard courts and grass and became America's top Davis Cup ace.

But he never felt—because of his color—that he was ever really accepted.

"I am more at ease in Europe than in this country," he said. "I am treated better everywhere than here."

He said that now he has won world recognition for his tennis, he feels an obligation to help his race in their current black power struggle.

"I am black. I am caught up in it," he said. "You might call me a moderate militant. I'm not for killing people or bad violence but when you see your fellow black people hit with sticks and molested by cops, it builds up in you until you have to do something."

"Once, I never looked back. Now I am forced to look back. If you plan for the future you have to study the past."

SAY DECK STACKED

The Telegram in an editorial said: "Well, it was in the cards. . . . The deck was stacked. The selection committee was heavily weighted with representatives from the Montreal area and undoubtedly the demonstrated ability to handle a world-wide event like Expo had a strong carry-over."

"But it's a shame," Dick Beddoes, in The Globe and Mail, wrote: "It must be said, to the credit of the COA authorities, that they went through the formality of listening to Mr. Allen's lucid plea. They clapped and said 'hell of a speech, Bill, and we'll be glad to see you at the Montreal Olympics in 1976.' Then a majority of them went off and obediently marked their ballots for M. Drapeau."

The Star, in an editorial, said: "This lopsided representation is the result not of a conspiracy but of the poverty of Canada's amateur athletic associations. Because the Canadian Olympic Association headquarters is in Montreal, they find it economical to appoint representatives who live there or near there."

"We shall just have to be good sports and wish Mr. Drapeau good luck with this projected Grandson of Expo against the stiff international competition he must still meet."

Toronto after losing bid for Olympics plan new development

TORONTO (CP) — The tears were dried Monday and Toronto, which lost to Montreal in its bid to play host to the 1976 Olympic Games, will go ahead with plans for a massive development of sports facilities.

"We'll be the city that's known as the sports capital of the nation," said William Allen, Metropolitan Toronto chairman.

Montreal won the backing of the Canadian Olympic Association to be the site of the games should they be awarded to Canada by the International Olympic Committee.

Of the 39 voting members on the committee, 20 are from the Montreal area and 19 from the rest of Canada.

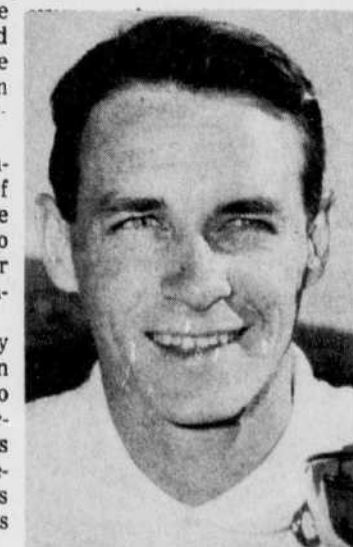

"We're still going ahead with everything, including the new stadium," Allen said.

"The only difference is that we don't have to tilt our plans now to suit the Olympic committee. We can build to suit ourselves. And if interests in Toronto want a domed stadium, we now are in the position to talk about it—we weren't before."

Allen's attitude of "we didn't especially want the Olympics at the beginning, but we didn't want Montreal to have it by default," was not generally reflected on Toronto columns and editorials.

Bob Pennington in The Telegram, wrote:

"The only valid question now is how will the rest of Canada react to the clearly outrageous verdict of an, at best, incompetent jury? Will the temptation to the screws on a profligate province overcome all considerations of national pride? I hope not for this is one case where the dangers of non-acceptance season, making the tournament one of the programs on the ETGA calendar.

Besides opening the tournament to local and regional amateurs, it is hoped that the event will draw a number of known sports figures from the area.

Bateman and Henrick given good chance in Carling golf tourney

MONTREAL — Quebec's chances of seeing one of its two representatives, Trevor Bateman or John Henrick, come home with the top prize in this weekend's Carling Canadian Golf Tour championship, are more than excellent if Moe Norman's comments concerning Bateman at the Willow Park Open in Calgary carry any weight.

Norman, the country's top pro money leader, had nothing but praise for Bateman after watching the young assistant turn in rounds of 67, 68 and 71 and then go on to defeat veteran Stan Homenuik in supplementary play for the $20,000 tournament title.

The 25-year-old assistant to Jack Archer at Montreal's LaSalle club has never lost confidence in his ability to play winning golf. His performance in last week's CPGA-Quebec championship gives Bateman a right to expect a win at Toronto.

Bateman, who has finished in the money in every event he entered this year, will be one of a select 12 Canadian pros after the gold in the $15,000 tour championship, Friday, Saturday and Sunday at the Toronto Board of Trade Country Club in Woodbridge, Ontario.

Quebec's other representative, John Henrick, earned his entry to the Carling tour finale by picking up 51 points and $2,074.50 in regular circuit competitions. Henrick, who plays out of the Champlain club in Brossard, earned the 1967 Quebec Open championship at Arvida.

Joining Bateman, Henrick and Moe Norman, winner of the Saskatchewan Open, in the battle for the $3,000 first prize will be Millar tournament winner Wilf Homenuik of Winnipeg, Alvie Thompson of Thornhill, Ont. (Manitoba Open winner), Wayne Vollmer of Vancouver (Alberta Open winner), Bill Wakeham of Victoria (B.C. Open winner), Bob Breen of Woodbridge (Atlantic Open winner) and Stan Homenuik of Dauphin, Man., Vaughn Trapp of Victoria, Len Harvey of Regina and Bob Cox Jr. of Quilchena, B.C., all of whom qualified with points earned in circuit events.

POTS ACE — Gerry Doyon of the Sherbrooke Country Club is seen accepting from Lynn Maysenholder, local representative of Labatt's Brewery, a trophy for his hole-in-one. He potted his ace at the ninth hole at the Country Club. He used a six-iron for the 144-yard hole. (Record photo: Gerry Lemay)

Prevention of Frostbite More Effective Than Cure

By WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.

Q—I work for a frozen food company. In the freezer room, which is kept at 0 degrees, I take off my gloves to open the cartons. The fingers of my right hand are always cold and numb even when I'm off duty. Is there any remedy for this?

A—Prevention is more effective than attempts to remedy the chronic numbness brought on by continued exposure to frostbite. Every effort should be made to protect your hands. Why not wear your gloves and use instruments to open the cartons? It also helps to avoid the use of tobacco.

Q—My arms get numb at night even when I'm not lying on them. My doctor says I have an extra or cervical rib that is pressing on the artery leading to my arms. He advises having the rib removed.

I would like your opinion.

A—A rib attached to one of the vertebrae of the neck is usually found on only one side and is seen more often in women than in men. Numbness of the affected side is a common result and is best treated by removal of the extra rib.

Q—My fingers feel numb. My doctor says it is poor circulation. What can I do for it?

A—There are various causes of impaired circulation. They can't all be treated in the same way. One of the commonest causes is hardening of the arteries. If this is the cause in your case, you should avoid smoking. Large doses of niacin may also be helpful. A wide variety of other drugs is used, depending on individual circumstances.

Q—What would cause a painless tingling sensation just above my knee?

A—Tingling in any part of the body indicates an irritation of the sensory nerves supplying the part. The cause of the irritation may be obvious but more often is hard to find.

Q—How does myeloma affect a person? Is there any cure?

A—In this disease, tumors form in the bone marrow of the ribs, vertebral column, collarbone or skull and cause pain, anemia and collapse of the involved bones, especially the ribs and spine. Such prescription drugs as melphalen (Alkeran) and urethane are given for relief but as yet no cure has been discovered.

Q—I have had an ovarian cyst for over two years. It causes some pain daily. What can be done for it?

A—Because ovarian cysts may become cancerous, they should be removed.
