NEW YORK MARCH 15.

Latest from England.—From our London Correspondent, we have received London Papers to the 25th of January, and Lloyd's Lists to the 22d inclusive. They were transmitted by the fast sailing ship Virginia, Capt. Fisher, which arrived at Norfolk on the 9th inst. in 37 days from Liverpool.

The British Parliament met for the despatch of business on the 21st January.

Imperial Parliament of Great Britain,
LONDON, Jan 21.

This days at half an hour after two o'clock, the Lord Chancellor entered the House of Lords and proceeding directly to the table, received the oaths as a peer of parliament. Soon after the noble lord retired for the purpose of putting on his robes, and returned to the house, accompanied by the arch bishop of Canterbury, the duke of Wellington, the earl of Harrowby, and the earl of Westmoreland, who with the noble and learned lord, acted as the royal commissioners.

The gentleman Usher of the Black Rod was then commanded to require the attendance of the house of commons at the bar, to hear the prince regent's speech read.

The summons soon after appeared at the bar, preceded by their speaker, when the lord chancellor, on the part of the commissioners, read the following speech:—

My lords and gentlemen—We are commanded by his Royal Highness the Prince Regent, to express to you the deep regret which he feels in the continuance of his Majesty's lamented indisposition.

In announcing to you the severe calamity with which it has pleased Divine Providence to visit the Prince Regent, the Royal Family, and the Nation, by the death of her Majesty the Queen of the United Kingdom, his Royal Highness has commanded us to direct your attention to the consideration of such measures as this melancholy event has rendered necessary and expedient with respect to the care of his Majesty's sacred person.

We are directed to inform you, that the negociations which have taken place at Aix-la-Chapelle have led to the evacuation of the French territory by the Allied armies.

The Prince Regent has given orders, that the Convention concluding for this purpose, as well as the other documents connected with this arrangement, shall be laid before you: and he is persuaded that you will view with peculiar satisfaction the intimate union which so happily subsist amongst the powers who were parties to these transactions, and the unvaried disposition which has been manifested in all their proceedings for the peace and tranquility of Europe.

The Prince Regent has commanded us further to acquaint you, that a Treaty has been concluded between his Royal Highness and the Government of the U. States of America, for the renewal, for a further term of years, of the Commercial Convention now subsisting between the two nations, and for the amicable adjustment of several points of mutual importance to the interests of both countries; and as soon as the ratifications shall have been exchanged, his Royal Highness will give directions that a copy of this Treaty shall be laid before you.

Gentlemen of the House of commons—The prince regent has directed that the estimates for the current year shall be laid before you.

His Royal Highness feels assured, that you will learn with satisfaction the extent of reduction which the present situation of Europe, and the circumstances of the British empire, have enabled his royal highness to effect in the naval and military establishments of the country.

His Royal Highness has also the gratification of announcing to you a considerable and progressive improvement of the revenue in its most important branches.

My lords and gentlemen—The prince regent has directed to be laid before you such papers as are necessary to shew the origin and result of the war in the East Indies.

His Royal Highness commands us to inform you, that the operations undertaken by the Governor, General in Council against the Pindaries were dictated by the strictest principles of self-defence; and that in the extended hostilities which followed upon those operations, the Mahratta Princes were in every instance the aggressors. Under the provident and skilful superintendence of the Marquis of Hastings the campaign was marked in every point by brilliant achievements and success; and his Majesty's forces, and those of the East India Company, (Native as well as European,) rivalled each other in sustaining the reputation of the British arms.

The Prince Regent has the greatest pleasure in being able to inform you, that the trade, commerce, manufactures of the country are in a most flourishing condition.

The favorable change which has so rapidly taken place in the internal circumstances of the United Kingdom affords the strongest proof of the solidity of its resources

To cultivate and improve the advantages of our present situation will be the object of your deliberations; and his Royal Highness has commanded us to assure you of his disposition to concur and co-operate in whatever may be best calculated to secure to his Majesty's subjects the full benefits of that state of peace which, by the blessing of Providence, has been so happily re-established throughout Europe.

The Commons then retired, and the House adjourned till five o'clock.

HOUSE OF LORDS,
Thursday, Jan. 21.

The lord Chancellor having at five taken his seat on the woolsack, and the Speech having been again read,

The Earl of Warwick rose, for the purpose of moving an answer to the speech. The house was called upon to pay their mournful tribute to the memory of her late Majesty, for the bright example she had exhibited during the long period of nearly sixty years.

Lord Salsburn seconded the motion.

The Marquis of Lansdown said, he felt much satisfaction in not being under the necessity of opposing the Address. But he thought certain topics had been omitted, which it would have been satisfactory to have seen noticed in the Speech.—He admitted that the withdrawing of the of the Army of Occupation from France had replaced that country in its proper state as a member of the European community. It would have added to his satisfaction had the Speech noticed the steps that had been taken at the Congress of Aix la Chapelle, on the subject of the total abolition of the Slave Trade, which could only be accomplished by the Right of Search being ceded. With respect to the Revenue, he admitted that there was a small surplus of two or three hundred thousand pounds on the Consolidated Fund, but that would be absorbed by the deficiency in former years. The Revenue, at present amounted to 53 or 54 millions, while the Expenditure of last year had amounted to 66 millions, thus leaving a deficiency of 14 millions, equal to the whole of the Sinking Fund. If the reduction of the expenditure amounted only to four millions, then four millions only of the Sinking Fund would be applicable to the reduction of the National Debt. No allusion had been made in the Speech to the system of the currency of the country, which he considered to be the most important of all questions in the present state of the country. Upon the face of the Statute Book indeed it appeared, that the Suspension Act would expire in the present year. But upon that point no man could possibly feel any degree of confidence. He wished for a distinct intimation on the subject of cash payments, and that the Public should know, as soon as possible, if they were to be again suspended. He should avert to one other topic before he sat down, and that was to the present state of affairs between this country and the United States. He learned from the speech, with pleasure, that our commercial relations continued the same, and he could not believe that the execution of the two unfortunate individuals, Arbuthnot and Ambriter, had been sanctioned by the American Government; a transaction in itself repugnant to the feelings of all civilized States.

The Earl of Liverpool had hoped that nothing in the Address would have disturbed that unanimity that it was so desirable should prevail upon the present occasion.

On the subject of America, he should state, that the act alluded to had been wholly unauthorised by the American Government, and at a proper opportunity a full explanation should be given to the House of whatever had taken place relative to that subject.

The question was then put, and the Address carried unanimously.

The Earl of Liverpool gave notice, that on Monday he should call the attention of the House to the part of the Speech which related to the Windsor Establishment.—Adjourned.

The Courier announces the death of the "Queen Mother of Spain," Maria Theresa, consort of Charles VI and the mother of FERDINAND the VII. Her Majesty, says the Courier, expired on the 4d inst.—This double calamity, the loss of a wife and a parent, within so short a period of each other, will be severely felt by the king of Spain.

Our papers also announce the death of the Queen of Wertemburg.

An extensive and alarming combination of Mechanics and artists, has taken place in England. Their professed object is to prevent any innovations of their rights and privileges by their employers. The number regularly enrolled, amounts, it is said, to upwards of 60, 000, which number was to be augmented the last week by a great body of men employed on the banks of the river. Delegates are appointed at every manufacturing town in the kingdom, and the subscription for each person is one penny per week, which, taken at at 60,000 amount to upwards of £240. weekly.

The following exhibits the average prices of Corn, in England and Wales, from the returns made up to the 16th January. Wheat 79 6d rye 50s barley 33s 11d Oats 35s 9d.

The London Monitor of the 24th of January in speaking of the funds, observes, that on the preceding day the money market was very high. In consequence of the favorable statement, made by the Chancellor of the Exchequer on Friday evening in the house of Commons, that no more money would be wanting, it was fully expected that a considerable advance would have taken place in the funds. However, consols commenced at 79 1/8 for the account, and afterwards went to 79¼ but finally left off at 79¼. Some unfavorable reports were circulated in the afternoon, but without any foundation, although they had the effect of throwing a damp upon the market; the first redemption for the payment of 30 per cent on the loan took place on Friday last; the next payment of 30 per cent, takes place on Friday next, and on the 1st of next month the payment on the Prussian loan is to be made.

The crown jewels, so long missing, were found at Buckingham House, Jan. 7th; no comments are made; the discovery was made by the Prince Regent. They were supposed to have been concealed by the King.

The total amount of the Queen's personal property is found to be but 140,000 pounds.—This is an answer to all calumny Of this 50,000l are in jewels, presented to her, on her marriage. Ld. Ellenborough's will is proved; his personal property is worth 200,000l The Courier under the 11th Jan. after a long neutrality on the great question, has come out with the strongest testimony of horror and indignation against General Jackson, for the execution or rather murder of Arbuthnot and Ambrister. It is hard to condemn him—(the Courier) he feels not only as an Englishman, but as a citizen of the world. These are threatning symptoms, when our friends speaks loudly and indignantly against us. Others have hitherto abused us—the Courier evidently with reluctance denounces Jackson

LONDON, Jan. 4.

It is understood that the Consorts of all our four Royal Dukes now abroad are happily advanced in pregnancy, and therefore there is the most gratifying hopes of securing the line of succession in the immediate issue of his Majesty. We hear with satisfaction, that the Duke and Duchess of Kent are to proceed to England previously to the Duchess's accouchment and surely it it would be a becoming defence to public opinion that they should all do so. when it is considered by what rigorous precautions the ancient practice of the realm has guarded the Royal Bed to England so as to give undisputed confidence to the people in the legitimacy to the Family. It is not fit that a Royal Duchess should bring forth a Prince that may be the future Sovereign of Great-Britain, in some solitary chateau of Germany.

LONDON, Jan 11.

Since the disastrous era of 1810, we do not recollect to have witnessed so many failures as have lately taken place. On Monday we were made acquainted with those of seven French houses; the next day, a leading member of this city, having as principal bank director and member of parliament, stopped payment. On Wednesday and Thursday other failures were announced, and on Friday one of the first houses in London, whose credit had never been doubted were obliged to suspend payment. This concern is said to have failed for £900,000 sterling; being the greatest failure since that of Fordyce in 1792 No failure ever excited more interest than this; the high reputation of this house for probity, has drawn forth much commiseration for its misfortunes.—To close, two other houses stopped payment on Saturday.

EXTRAORDINARY OCCURRENCE.

Extracts of a letter from Bavaria,

"We have witnessed here a superb funeral of the Baron Hornstein, a Courtier; but the result is what induces me to mention in it my letter.——Two days after, the workmen entered the mausoleum, when they witnessed an object which petrified them! At the door of the sepulchre lay a body covered with blood—it was the mortal remains of this favorite of courts and princes. The Baron was buried alive! On recovering from his trance he had forced the lid of his coffin, and endeavoured to escape from a charnel house—it was impossible! and therefore in a fit of desperation, as it is supposed, he dashed his brains out against the wall. The royal family, and indeed the whole city are plunged in grief at the horrid catastrophe.—[Morning Paper.

The Courier under the 11th Jan, after a long neutrality on the great question, has come out with the strongest testimony of horror and indignation against general Jackson, for the execution, or rather murder of Arbuthnot and Ambrister.

These papers are full of complaints made by the Englishmen, who have been enticed into the Spanish (republican) service; they suffer every hardship, cruelty and disappointment. Under the 15th, the Courier gives the arguments of our National Intelligencer, in defence of Jackson's proceedings. That is entirely fair. It is preceded with an extract from our paper, of the 11th Dec. which may be brought quite as unfair by others

SATURDAY, MARCH 27, 1819.

Our usual files of American papers have come to hand, bringing us London dates to the 25th and Liverpool to the 27th of January. We have also to acknowledge the receipt of the London Gazette of the 21st of January, politely forwarded to us by the Editors of The New York Commercial Advertiser and Spectator, and containing the Lord's Commissioners speech at the opening of the Parliament on the 21st. This, along with other accounts from England, will be found in another part of our paper. It appears from the opening Speech that the numerous negotiations and treaties which have been lately concluded, all tend to preserve that state of tranquillity so happily restored in Europe. The same document also intimates that the disturbances in the East Indies have been terminated under favourable auspices; and this is an event we have the more reason to congratulate our readers upon; as it will tend to stop the effusion of blood, with which that unhappy country has been so long deluged, and also produce a favourable effect on our Commercial pursuits in that quarter, which last circumstance has already begun to operate as may be seen, from the number of ships which have sailed for the East Indies, in the Cotton Trade. From the other parts of this document, the country appears to be in a flourishing condition, in as far as respects its internal state, and in its relation with foreign powers. The revenue from indirect Taxes for the year 1818, had exceeded that of 1917 by several millions; and as the late lamented changes in the establishment of the Royal family, together with the rigorous system of economising which they are pursuing, will admit of very considerable saving, we trust with the assistance of the sinking fund, Old England will again recover from her difficulties.

The principal proceedings in the Imperial Parliament, as far as they have come to hand, relate to the proposed answer to the Prince's Speech, and an Address of condolence to His Royal Highness on the death of our late Queen.—We also find the Marquis of Lansdown stating his opinions on the suspension of the specie payments, and intimating a desire that it should be brought again before Parliament, as the act expires this year. He, as well as Lord Liverpool, regretted that nothing had been done at the Congress of Aix-la-Chapelle to effect the total abolition of the Slave Trade; and the last mentioned Nobleman stated, that General Jackson's proceedings had been "wholly unauthorised by the American Government," and at a proper opportunity a full explanation would be given to the house of whatever had taken place relative to that subject. In this explanation there will no doubt be included an account of the murder of Arbuthnot and Ambrister, which the Courier appears to exclaim loudly against, and we may say with justice.

What course the American Government has employed to exonerate their favourite Champion to Ministers, and excuse his proceedings against these unfortunate men, we are totally at a loss to conceive. Nothing has been done by them to evince their disavowal of General Jackson's proceedings as far as we have seen. On the contrary, it appears by some of their papers, they are heaping farther honours upon him. A report is in circulation, that he is to be appointed Governor of the Floridas.

The Chancellor of the Exchequer in reply to a question put by Mr Hurt Davis of Bristol, intimated that it was his intention to propose a further continuance of the restrictions which prevent the Bank of England from resuming its payment in specie, until the 1st of March 1820. It also appears that a petition from the Landholders of Portland-shire, praying for a farther increase of the average at which corn may be legally imported into the country, has been rejected.

By the American papers, we find the important question as to the right of individual states to tax a branch of the United States Bank is decided in the negative: the supreme Court having given it as their opinion, that no such right can exist in the Legislature of any one State. We regret that the want of room, prevents our laying the whole discussions on this subject before our readers. The decision is highly important of itself, as it respects the bank; and in the course of the debates which preceded it, some important facts were brought forward, illustrative of the authority of the general government of Congress, and that of the separate States in the Union. It will be remembered, by many of our readers, that the Legislature of the State of Maryland, imposed a Tax upon a branch of the United States Bank, which was established within their State. The Bank resisted the paying of the Tax, and a Law suit ensued. In the Court of appeals in Maryland it was decided against the Bank and maintained that the State was authorized to Tax it, or any other institution, admitted under their sanction within the State The Supreme Court has ordered this sentence to be reversed, and a mandate to be issued, directing judgment to be entered for the plaintiff in error. On the part of the State of Maryland it was contended, that, "the powers of general government are delegated by the States, who alone are truly sovereign, and must be exercised in subordination to the States, who alone possess supreme dominion." From this they infer their right to tax any institution founded by their authority, or admitted within the state by their consent.

On the part of the Bank, it was argued, that the right of general Taxation was invested in Congress alone; and that as it had been proved, that Congress had the right to create this Bank, the right of Taxation as applied to it, could only be exercised by Congress. For it is well known, that the powers of Taxing may be so exercised, as to destroy, the object to which it is applied; and if this power be admitted as existing in the separate States' Governments, they would arrogate to themselves a higher power than that of Congress. The right to create always implying the right to preserve.

We are happy to learn that the projected Canal from St. Johns to Chambly, is about to be commenced this ensuing Summer. The shares by the last accounts are all taken up with the exception of 300; and what makes this account doubly gratifying, is the fact of the Province having taken 200 shares. This augers well. We are convinced that under the present state of commercial regulation between the Canadas and the United States, this Canal, if finished to-morrow, would not be a productive concern for the Stockholders; but when we see the Government coming forward to join in an undertaking of the kind, we may reasonably expect that these restrictions which have been so long the greatest bane to the improvements of Lower Canada, will be removed. In affixing the duties on those articles which are allowed to be imported from the States to the Canadas, a reference ought to be had to the state of our extensive frontier, and the facility it affords to smugglers, with the difficulty of detecting them in preventing their contraband trade. With this intention in view, we hope should any alteration be made in the present Tariff of duties, the Governor will see the propriety of making them as low as possible. By doing so, he will render the duties exacted more productive for the revenue, and at the same time give less temptation to smugglers to carry on their nefarious practices.

THEATRE.

On Wednesday evening, Mr. F. Brown made his appearance on the Montreal boards, in the character of Octavian, in the Mountaineers. In this play, Mr. Coleman has succeeded in drawing the attention rather from the variety of incidents and the coincidence of circumstances, than from any fine sentiment or richness of language, it may be said to contain. It is obviously written in haste, like several of the performances of that great author, and would admit of a great deal of polishing, and much more refinement in style. The more violent passions are the most predominant. The inveterate hatred of the Moor against all Christians, and his rage against his daughter for her elopement. The violent despair and madness of Octavian, in consequence of his thwarted attachment to Florantha, are passions which require no ordinary talents in an actor to portray to advantage. If he be inclined to rant, he may "split the ears of the groundlings," without so far "overstepping the modesty of nature," as in many other characters where the higher passions are depicted. But although this may make the ignorant stare, it will never attract the attention or ensure the applause of such as are able to judge of a well depicted passion, and can never find its way to the imagination through the force of "feeling nature." Mr. B. appears to have studied the part of Octavian with his usual closeness, and with the same happy result. His action at all times correct and chaste, was particularly so on this occasion; and his voice which is naturally toned so as to be raised to the highest climax without being harsh, renders him peculiarly well fitted to personify the wild despair, and deep sorrow of the crazed Octavian. His soliloquy at the cave, evinced at first sight his knowledge of the part he was to pourtray, and his ability to depict the prevalent passion of the character he had assumed. But it was not till the picture scene, and at his meeting with Florantha, that the superior splendor of his acting was evinced. When raised from the ground by Florantha and Roque, the expression of countenance was such as to please the most fastidious taste. Mr. B. has obviously studied his parts with classical accuracy, and at the same time does not forget the favorable impression from stage effect. This was evinced when conducting Sadi and Agnes to the cottage; and we have observed it on other occasions.

The other characters were supported, but with mediocrity. Some of the finest airs with which this drama abounds, were badly performed from the negligence of the singers, in not having previously practised with the music.

To the rapsody of nonsense which appeared in the last Courant, over the signature "A North Briton," we will not demean ourselves by making a reply; and he may rest assured, while he writes as he has done in this instance, he can only obtain one object, viz. a liberal share of contempt from all who see his productions. It is rather a novel mode of replying to a communication, by exclaiming against the paper in which it appears; and this leads us to suspect that a North Briton has more reason to be displeased with the workings of Scribleras, than that arising from barely reading them. Perhaps they came closer home to him than he wishes to admit; his threat of castigation would induce the same belief. We suspect he is in the habit of wielding the Birch.

TO CORRESPONDENTS.

We have powerful reasons for declining the insertion of Candidus, of which he may be informed if he chooses to call.

P. is inadmissible, although we give him every credit for his abilities. It would militate against the cause he wishes to promote.

VOL. 8 INDEX AT FRONT.

We are happy to see that Congress have turned their attention effectually to the abolition of the slave trade. An act has been passed by which the President is authorized to employ the armed vessels of the States to seek out and search vessels employed in this Traffic; and that whatever vessels shall be found employed in the transportation of slaves, shall be seized along with their effects, and all pertaining to them, and condemned and sold for the behoof of the seizers and the government. The negroes which are found on board of these ships shall be delivered to the Marshal of the District where they are landed, and a descriptive list of them transmitted by him to the President, who shall give directions for their disposal. The crew of the Slave ship to be delivered up to the civil authorities for prosecution. By this act we also find liberal bounties [illegible] to the vessels and crews as an encouragement for them to be vigilant in suppressing the slave trade.

We have every reason to felicitate our neighbours on this salutary regulation. While it evinces their wish to promote the cause of humanity and the happiness of that part of the human race to which it applies, we also consider it as a benefit in a political point of view. The Southern States have been for some years, kept in terrorem at the numerical superiority of the slaves over the white population; and now that they have obtained an accession of territory by the cession of the Floridas, slave masters and slaves moving southward, would no doubt encrease the numbers of the latter.

Among the numerous accounts of the expedition to explore the North Pole, we find one published by Captain Sabine of the Royal Artillery, a gentleman well known in this Country during the late war, and who accompanied the discovery ships as an Amateur.

To the Editor of the Montreal Herald.

SIR,

Statements respecting the proceedings which lately took place in the Court at York, in Upper Canada, have appeared in the public prints, which seem calculated to produce erroneous and injurious impressions. It is therefore deemed necessary to explain some of these proceedings, and to rectify what may seem to have been erroneously stated. By far the most important of the proceedings alluded to, as regards this country, was unquestionably the preferring of an Indictment by the Grand Jury of the Home District of Upper Canada, in the Court of Assize of that District, founded on acts alleged to have been committed in the Western District. The circumstance chiefly deserving of notice is, that the powers of Jurisdiction, exercised by the Court and Grand Jury on this occasion, are derived from a Statute which had no existence till more than two years after the acts in question are alleged to have been committed. This is a novelty in British Jurisprudence, well worth the serious attention of every admirer of the Constitution. You are requested to give insertion in your Journal, to a copy of the Statute above mentioned, which is subjoined to these observations, in order that the authority which gave rise to proceedings so unusual may be the better understood.

It has been stated in one or more papers, that Mr. Allan, being the only one among the persons accused in the Indictment within reach of process, was arraigned on the 27th of February, and having stated, that owing to his witnesses being dispersed, he could not say when he might be ready for trial; he was bound over by recognizances to appear at the next Assizes for the Home District. The fact is, however, that Mr. Allan was at York before the opening of the Court and during the Session, but was not arraigned till the 1st instant, when he exercised his lawful right of traversing for trial to the next assizes, without making any statement relative to the witnesses for his defence, and that, after this, when required to find bail, an affidavit signed by himself was read in the Court, being filed for the purpose of obtaining a mitigation of bail. From the feelings ascribed, in the accounts of proceedings at York, to "the Bench, the Bar, the Juries and the Public," it does not appear that Mr. Allan or any of the Friends of the Earl of Selkirk, are likely to enjoy extraordinary privileges in the Courts of Law at that place.

I am, your humble Servant,

OBSERVER.

COMMUNICATION.

LUMINOUS APPEARANCE.

Last Tuesday, at half after nine in the morning,
(As some weeks before a great sage had giv'n warning;)
A glimmering light was perceived through a pane
Of a garret, St. Paul Street, where lives one J. L——e:
The passengers all stopt to gaze at the sight,
And guess what had caus'd that unusual light—
Some said 'twas the Western Star which the wise,
Had predicted upon that same day should arise.
Another cried, nonsense! and swore he could tell,
A farthing rush-light from a Star very well;
And if such a spark could be call'd Star, why then,
That pigmies might equally well be call'd men.
But one who was better informed than his fellows,
Declar'd it was caus'd by the wind of a bellows;
With which a Smith puff'd, whom all people admire,
For the number of irons he has in the fire;
And who then was busy at mending a gun,
Which a grey headed Hunter came to have done.
That such an appearance had two years before,
In the very same spot seem'd a Sun to a score;
But proved to be nothing—and that he would bet,
This grand Western Light would as speedily set.

QUIZ.

LINES ON THE DEATH OF A YOUNG LADY.

Oh! could not Virtue's choicest blossom save
Their fair possessor from an earthly grave?
Ah no! for tho' the pitying Pow'r above,
Beheld the suff'rer with paternal love,
'Twas his decree, her transient pangs in this
Should be the entrance to a world of bliss.

BIRTH.

At St. Johns, on Tuesday the 16th ult. Mrs. WILLIAM M'CRAE, of the Custom House, a daughter.

On the 15th inst. Mrs. JOHN SANFORD, of a Son.

MARRIED

On Saturday last, by the Rev. James Sommerville, Mr. HENRY HOLT, of Manchester, to Miss ANNE, second daughter of Mr. William Ireland, of this city.

DIED.

Very suddenly on the 25th of January, at Fort George, Mrs. JANET GARRET, wife to Dr. Garret, Surgeon 70th Regiment.

At Laprairie, on the 14th instant, LEWIS WALTER BARBEAU, aged three years and eleven months, son of Lewis Barbeau Esquire, N. P. after a sickness of only forty-two hours.

ON DEATH

While others I confident and vain,
Nor death nor danger fear,
We would a lively sense maintain
That death is ever near.

Swift as the feather'd arrow flies,
And cuts the yielding air;
Or as a kindling meteor dies,
We'd we can say, 'tis there.

So pass our hasty years away,
And time pursues his race;
In vain we ask a moment's stay,
Nor will he slack his pace.

Great God on what a slender thread,
Our dearest hopes depend!
To-morrow may behold us dead;
This night our lives may end.

Eternal joy, or unknown woe
Hangs on each fleeting breath;
And yet how unconcern'd we go,
Tho' on the brink of death!

So waken, Lord, each active pow'r
Life's dang'rous road to tread,
That heav'nly joys may crown the hour
We leave these bodies dead.

BEAUTIFUL MORCEAU,

By a Cashmerean Indian.

When shall we three meet again?
When shall we three meet again?
Oft shall glowing hope expire,
Oft shall wearied love retire,
Oft shall death and sorrow reign,
Ere we three shall meet again.

Tho' in distant lands we sigh,
Parch'd beneath a hostile sky,
Tho' the deep between us rolls,
Friendship shall unite our souls,
Still in fancy's rich domain,
Oft shall we three meet again.

When the dreams of life are fled,
When its wasted lamps are dead,
When in cold oblivion's shade
Beauty, power and fame are laid,
Where immortal spirits reign,
There shall we three meet again.

Horrible Phenomena; Galvanism.—On the 14th of Nov. various galvanic experiments were made on the body of the murderer Clydsdale, by Dr. Ure, with a voltaic battery of 270 pairs of 4-inch plates. The results were truly appalling. On moving the rod from the hip to the heel, the knee being previously bent, the leg was thrown out with such violence, as nearly to overturn one of the assistants, who in vain attempted to prevent its extension!—In the 2d experiment the rod was applied to the phrenic nerve in the neck, when laborious breathing instantly commenced; the chest heaved and fell; the belly was protruded and collapsed, with the relaxing and retiring diaphragm; and it is thought, that but from the complete evacuation of the blood, pulsation might have occurred! In the 3d experiment, the supra orbital nerve was touched, when every muscle in the murderer's face "was thrown into fearful action." The scene was hideous—several of the spectators left the room, and one gentleman actually fainted from terror or sickness! In the 4th experiment, the transmitting of the electral power from the spinal marrow to the ulnar nerve, at the elbow, the fingers were instantly put in motion, and the agitation of the arm was so great, that the corpse seemed to point at the different spectators, some of whom thought it had come to life. Dr. Ure appears to be of opinion, that had not incisions been made in the blood vessels of the neck, and the spinal marrow been lacerated, the criminal might have been restored to life!

From the Glasgow Chronicle of Nov. 28.

Christians have long dishonoured themselves and have produced impressions on the minds of many unfavourable to Christianity, by cherishing a spirit of dogmatism, of bigotry, and of animosity. This unlovely, evil spirit has produced endless divisions. So far as this temper of mind is concerned, Christians seem at last to be undergoing a mental revolution. This remarkable age is already characterized by the decline, and there is reason to hope may soon be distinguished by the total extinction of bigotry and mutual hostility among Christians. General observations encourages the fond expectation. In many quarters promising symptoms make their appearance—We have been led into this train of thinking by information received, that in America and in Ireland, a reconcilliation has been effected betwixt the two bodies of Christians, called Burghers, and Antiburghers, into which the Secession Church has long been divided, and we have just learned that matters are in train for the formation of a union betwixt the same bodies in Scotland. The following resolutions upon this subject were, we understand, unanimously adopted by the Burgher Congregation in Lanark, which we lay before our readers as one proof of the truth of our remarks:—

1st. That the two bodies of Christians in the Secession, commonly distinguished by the names of Burghers and Antiburghers, have the same faith, observe the same modes of divine worship, exercise the same church government and discipline. Any difference of opinion, therefore which may exist among them about lesser points, cannot in the opinion of this meeting be a good reason why they should remain in a divided state.

2d. This meeting has learned that a union betwixt these two bodies of Seceders in British North America, and in Ireland, has been already effected, which happy event they fondly regard as a prelude to a union of the same kind in Scotland.

3d. If this meeting has been rightly informed, the union lately formed betwixt the Burghers and Antiburghers, in British North America, has been approved of and sanctioned by the Burghers and Antiburghers Synods in Scotland, and the United American Secession Church, Acknowledged by them both as a sister Church. Therefore in the opinion of this meeting, these two Synods, with the two bodies of Christians under their inspection are already virtually united in Church fellowship, and cannot any longer remain in a divided state without manifest inconsistency.

4th. This union is peculiarly desirable on account of important happy consequences, to which it will give rise. The Secession Church will increase in extent and respectability, her energies will be put forth with augmented effect, in spreading the knowledge of evangelical truth throughout the kingdom, and in affording relief to the Christian people suffering under the operation of the law, respecting Church Patrons. The reproach too of cherishing a spirit of bigotry and of dissention, which has taken upon her in consequence of unnecessary and improper divisions, will, by this proposed union, be in a great measure wiped off.

5th. Fully aware that it is their duty to keep the unity of the spirit in the bond of peace, and when union is lost to endeavour its recovery, encouraged moreover by the liberality of sentiment, which characterizes Christians of the present day, this meeting resolve to co-operate with all other congregations who may be willing to use measures for the attainment of this most desirable object, and they further suggest that to their opinions petitions from Sessions or from Congregations addressed to Presbyteries and Synods, under whose jurisdiction they may be placed, is a measure beneficial and powerful in its tendency, and likely to produce the happiest results.

6. While the union of the two great bodies into which the Secession Church has been so long divided is most desirable, on its own account this meeting fondly hope that their cordial reconciliation may provoke other denominations, holding similar principles, to follow their example, and may issue in a general union of all those who hold the truth as it is in Jesus.

FLORIDA

Proper is bounded by the Atlantic Ocean on the east; by the state of Louisiana and the Gulf of Mexico on the west and south; and by the states of Georgia and Alabama on the north. The principal rivers are, the Perdide, Escambia or Conechu, and Appalachicola, on the west; and St. Mary's and St. John's, on the east. Following the inflexions of the shores, Florida includes about 1030 miles of seacoast, but with few good harbours. To this latter feature in its topography there are, however, some exceptions: Pensacola Bay affords depth of water for frigates of the first class, with excellent anchorage, and is completely land locked. The mouth of the harbor, between point St. Rose and Fort Barancas, is narrow, and can be defended with great ease against Maritime attacks. St. Augustine is also favorably situated as a naval & commercial depot.

Some other havens exist, such as the mouth of the Appalachicola river, which might be made of importance in the hands of an enlightened and enterprising people.

In point of soil, except some narrow strips upon the stream, Florida is a barren or swampy country, and can never become covered with a dense population. It is not, however, from its soil, or from any great agricultural advantages, that can be expected from its acquisition, that the value of Florida ought to be estimated as an integral of the U. S. This cession will terminate one of the most destructive and inhuman tragedies that ever has been acted upon our borders. Since 1809, Pensacola, St. Marks, and St. Augustine, with many other places on the long sea border of Florida, have been the nominal appendages of Spain, but the real receptacle of spies, incendiaries and illicit traders. Magazines of munitions of war, to supply the most ferocious of the human race with the means to carry death amongst the women and children of our southern border; this blood stained drama is closed.

GERMANY.

The direction of the Bible Society of Frankfort on the Main, have sent a letter to the Emperor Alexander, with the first annual Report, to which the Emperor made the following reply in his own writing:

To the Direction of the Bible Society of the free city of Frankfort, on the Maine—

"The letter from this Direction, accompanied by the account of the celebration of the first anniversary, was handed to me in due time. As the members of this respectable and salutary institution are desirous to commune with me concerning their exertions and the happy results in the sacred cause of humanity—I take pleasure in acknowledging my thankfulness, and to express the sentiments which animate me.

The diffusion of the Book of the Divine Word, among all nations of the earth, this new Revelation of the invaluable Grace of God the Saviour towards the human family, evidently aims at the completion of the sublime work of salvation. Happy he who is instrumental in it; for he gathers fruit unto eternal life, that he who sows, and he who reaps may rejoice together.

I do not merely say, that I have found this subject worthy of my attention; I say more; by this as my own sacred duty I am penetrated, because on it essentially depends the temporal and eternal felicity of those whom Providence has confided to my care.—The Most High, in the clearest manner works in this thing. And not in Europe only and in the whole extent of the Rusian Empire is the name of Jesus Christ, our Saviour and Master glorified, but it begins to be glorified even in the remotest parts, and in all languages of Earth.

The Bible Society of the free city of Frankfort, on the Maine has already distinguished itself by the order with which it contributes towards the dissemination of the word of eternal life. Its report is an undeniable proof of its zeal.

It is very pleasing to me to be able to declare my respect towards this Society in general, and particularly to the members of the Direction

From the National Intelligencer.

It is not always the subject of most importance that is most discussed among the people, nor the measure of the government the most beneficial, that is most approved. The most important measure, probably, which has been before Congress the present session, a bill which has passed the Senate, and is now before the House of Representatives, for abolishing the credit on all sales of Public Lands after October, 1820. The amount due for the sales of public lands, all, be it recollected, from the people of the transmontane states, has gradually swelled, since the year 1811, from four hundred and fifty thousand to seven millions five hundred thousand dollars, and is rapidly encreasing. Already has the passage of acts by Congress, to defer the time of payment for the accommodation of purchasers, become almost a matter of course and, at this session, some of the purchasers have even asked that the interest on these deferred payments should be wholly remitted.

The relation of debtor and creditor between the people and the government, is one of great delicacy, and too far extended, might be one of great danger to the peace, if not to the existence, of one of the parties. The debtor, too often indulged, will find it a grievance to be at length called on to pay the amount of his debt. Being aggrieved, or thinking himself so, which to the present case would amount to the same thing, it is to be feared he will seek a relief, by violence, from the burthen the law would impose on him.

Under present circumstances, there can be no ground for any such apprehension. Seven or eight millions of dollars is not an amount sufficient to produce so deplorable a state of things as, for instance, is witnessed in some of the states, in which the Legislature dares not refuse to pass an annual act of indulgence to those whom it has permitted to purchase its lands on a credit. But, with prospective views, we consider the measure of abolishing the credits as a wise one, not only to check a wild spirit of speculation in the Public Lands, but also to avert what at least tends to evil.

The effect of a debt of two or three hundred millions, owing exclusively from a particular section of a country to the government, would be, confessedly, to be deprecated; and any one who will take his pen and calculate how soon, by arithmetical progression, the amount of arrears due for public lands would reach this vast amount, will find that, under the present system some who read these lines might live to realize
