MARINE DEPARTMENT WORK.

Changes in the Work for the Steamers of Mr. Tupper's Little Fleet—A Young Girl Drops Dead on New Year's Day—Taken to Quebec to Have His Leg Cut off—Other Notes.

SPECIAL TO THE HERALD.

QUEBEC, Jan. 4.—The Government steamship Harlaw, having returned to Halifax with the intelligence that no shipwrecked men are on Bird Rocks, dispels the last hope for the safety of Capt. Blouin and his crew. Their vessel left St. Pierre on the 5th October last for this port and has not since been heard of. Capt. Blouin and another of his crew belonged to St. John, Island of Orleans. There was also a man named Leveque of Seven Islands. The lost vessel is supposed to have had a cargo of liquors on board.

Coroner Beaulieu held an inquest Saturday afternoon at Deschambault on the body of Mathilda Paquet, aged 18 years. The deceased, daughter of Mr. T. Paquet, carrier of St. Alban, had been adopted by Mr. Mederic Proteau, farmer of Deschambault, where she resided. On New Year's day, in the afternoon, she left with several friends to visit her father. When there she took sick, returned home and dropped dead. The jury returned a verdict of death from pulmonary congestion.

The steamship Alert is to do the buoy and lighthouse service in the river below in place of the Druid. On information received that deceased had been suffering for some time from heart disease and had been attended by Dr. Guay, the coroner decided an inquest unnecessary.

DISCONTENTED WATCHMAKERS.

Three Thousand Elgin Men Threaten to Strike Against a Reduction of Wages.

ELGIN, Ill., Jan. 4.—The wages of the 3000 employees of the Elgin Watch Company have been cut from 15 to 60 per cent and they threaten to strike.

Several hundred of them walked out yesterday. The company has promised to make good the deduction from the wages of these next pay day, but the workmen are not satisfied with this promise.

It is asserted also that the employees of the Waltham Watch Company are about to strike against a reduction of wages.

Did the Duke Blunder.

LONDON, Jan. 4.—The Gladstonians are indignant at the tenor of the address in which Lord Hartington, hitherto leader of the Unionist forces in the House of Commons, bade farewell to his constituents of Rosedale on the occasion of his succession to the Dukedom of Devonshire. The unwritten law in such cases is that the new peer shall not interfere in any way with the contest between the rival candidates for the seat in the House of Commons which he vacates. It is contended by the Liberals that Lord Hartington violated this rule by making his address an election appeal pure and simple in behalf of Brooks, the Unionist nominee. If the Liberal nominee is defeated the question of unsavory Brooks on the ground of undue influence is likely to be raised in Parliament. The House is very jealous of its prerogatives and is quick to resent any dictation from the Lords.

The Czar and the Famine.

St. PETERSBURG, Jan. 4.—The Czar does not wish any widespread impression to go forth of the horrors of the Russian famine. Gen. Mansef, General of cavalry and aid-de-camp in command of the corps of the guard, joined with his fellow officers in a movement to give up their pay for a time for the relief of the sufferers.

The offer was communicated to the Czar, who, instead of receiving it with satisfaction, showed that he was offended, and said there was no famine, but merely a partial failure of crops, which was being relieved by the Government. As Gen. Mansef has stood high in the favor of the Czar, this expression of feeling is regarded as showing that the Czar considers the famine reports as reflections upon himself as an autocrat.

HOLIDAY WEEK IN BERLIN.

Gratuitous Torture—World's Fair—Grip—Looking for a Runaway Wife.

BERLIN, Jan. 4.—A barber in Potsdam, who also acts occasionally as a dentist, informed his customers that he would pull teeth gratuitously between Christmas and New Year's instead of giving Christmas boxes or New Year's gifts. His liberality was not extensively taken advantage of.

Rainy weather and warm temperature has characterized the climate from Christmas till the New Year, and appears likely to continue.

The official Gazette yesterday says "Industrial, artistic, and above all, agricultural circles in Germany are beginning to display increased interest in the Chicago World's Fair. Schleswig-Holstein, Oldenburg and East Prussia will send cattle and horses chiefly as specimens for breeding purposes, and negotiations have been opened for a special rate of insurance on these valuable animals. Agricultural machines for ploughing, sowing and reaping, and implements used in viticulture and horticulture will be forwarded to Chicago in order to complete the display of German agriculture at the World's Fair."

SUNK BY THE NOORDLAND.

Fifteen Lives Lost That Might Have Been Saved.

LONDON, Jan. 4.—The steamer Noordland, of the Red Star line, which left Antwerp yesterday for New York, collided with the ship Childwell, which was en route from Chili, loaded with saltpetre. The collision took place off the Belgian coast. The Childwell was crushed by the collision, and sunk soon after, only a part of the crew being saved. The Noordland was also badly damaged, but managed to run into Flushing with six feet of water in her hold.

Fifteen of the crew of the Childwell were drowned. The survivors, who were rescued by the British steamer Ipswich, of the Great Eastern line, claim that the Noordland, after crushing the bark, made no effort to help the crew, but hurried away from the spot as if afraid of sinking, leaving the crew of the wrecked vessel to save themselves as best they could.

Several went down with the bark and others clung to the wreckage, some later dropping into the sea through weakness before assistance arrived. When the Ipswich came up there was but one man remaining for the survivors to cling to, and this would not have held them long.

A rigid inquiry will be held as to the responsibility for the wreck and the reported inhumanity of the Noordland.

The Pope Wishes William II. Success.

Interests Contests in Toronto.

TORONTO, Jan. 4.—The mayoralty contest is over and Mr. Robt. J. Fleming has been elected mayor by a majority of about 200.

The contest has been one of the most remarkable in the municipal history of Toronto, seldom has so much interest been taken in an election and never before have every party and section of the communities been so divided.

The vote polled was the heaviest ever cast in a municipal contest in this city. The number polled for each candidate was: Fleming, 5540; Osler, 8204; McMillan, 4442; Beatty, 593. Three subdivisions have yet to be heard from, but they will not materially alter the result. Fleming received his strongest support in Ward 2, where he resides, and where he had a majority of over 400. Osler's main hold was in Ward 3, where he had a majority of 100.

A special feature of the election to-day was the vote on the Sunday street car question. A very heavy vote was polled, over 20,000, the result being that the proposal to introduce street cars into Toronto on Sunday was defeated by a majority of 400. The clergy of the city had worked hard against the Sunday car question and the result must be credited to them.

The vote on free school books was an interesting feature of the contest, and free text books were decided on by a majority of about 3000. Lady candidates appeared in every ward for the public school board and in three wards were successful.

Close Contest at Ottawa.

SPECIAL TO THE HERALD.

OTTAWA, Jan. 4.—The contest between Ald. George Cox and Ald. Oliver Durocher for the mayoralty to-day has terminated in one of the closest fights ever known, the result being that Durocher wins by less than 100 votes. The poll as it terminates to-night shows Durocher 2270, Cox 2188; majority for Durocher 91, but the returning officer has not polls from three places, and it is believed the majority will be slightly altered, but only a unit or so. The Protestant wards gave Cox a majority; the Catholics and French wards gave one to Durocher.

The aldermen elected are: Victoria ward—Crannell, Cunningham and Stewart; Dalhousie ward—Hewlett Hill and Peterkin; Wellington ward—Ashe, Campbell and Scribner; Central ward—Giff, Morris and Wallace; St. George's ward—Baldwin, O'Leary and Stroud; By ward—Develin, Larean and Stairs; Ottawa ward—Bingham, Champagne and Lemay; Rideau ward—Ford, Fraser and Hawkins.

The complexion of the council will be very little changed, the majority of the successful candidates being old aldermen, though some have been absent for a while from the council.

An Intemperate Preacher.

NEW YORK, Jan. 4.—The Rev. Thomas Dixon, jr., turned his attention to the New York Central Railroad officials in an address at Association Hall, Sunday. He pronounced the recent disaster as one of the most brutal and devilish performances within the annals of "railroad crimes."

If you say that Mr. Depew is not responsible for these murders," he shouted, "then who is? It is high time our Government defined clearly who is responsible for life on the public highways of this continent."

Then Mr. Dixon said the New York Central officials should be sent to the penitentiary for accepting fares and starting trains when they knew the road was blocked. He ridiculed the idea of Messrs. Depew, Webb, and Vanderbilt going to the funeral of some of the victims of the Hastings disaster and sending flowers to put on the coffins of those whom they murdered, and said these gentlemen should be tried for their lives.

It is Now a Case of Murder.

SPECIAL TO THE HERALD.

St. JOHN, N. B., Jan. 4.—Robt. Longon became delirious last night and died this morning at 4:10 o'clock. Lavinia Lindsay, better known as Mand Lindsay, is held on the charge of shooting him with malice aforethought and intent to kill, in her house on Walker's wharf on the night of the 15th December. Statements made by Mrs. Hunt and George Shephard, inmates of the house, and Longon himself, agree that the fatal shot was fired by Mand Lindsay. The house was of a reputable character, and all the persons present at the time of shooting were drunk.

METHOD IN HIS MADNESS.

Before It Was a Game of Bluff, But Now Mr. Chapleau Kicks to Some Purpose.

WON'T GO NEAR RICHELIEU.

The Contest in Richelieu County Must go on Without the District Chief's Direction or Assistance—Mr. Chapleau Makes a Big Bolt This Time and His Friends Say Morgan Has no Show.

SPECIAL TO THE HERALD.

OTTAWA, Jan. 4.—Mr. L. H. Tache, the ex-private secretary to Hon. J. A. Chapleau, is in town making arrangements for his removal to Montreal, where he will in future reside. In conversation with a reporter this morning, Mr. Tache said that there had been some truth in the story that he was likely to be a candidate at the election in Richelieu County. There was, he said, widespread dissatisfaction among the Conservatives of the county at the candidature of Mr. E. A. Morgan, who, it is claimed, only secured the nomination by "packing" the convention with his own personal friends. Senator Guvernment, Mayor Tailon of Sorel, and the Vanasse family, all staunch Conservatives, are strongly opposed to Mr. Morgan, and represent the position of a good half of their party in the county. Mr. Tache said he had been approached by some of these dissenting Conservatives and asked to run as an independent candidate. They assured him that if he would be a candidate that he would secure a good share of the Liberal support. He told them he did not desire to split the party, but if he were assured of Liberal support that he might consider the offer. "But now," said Mr. Tache, "the position has changed. Circumstances have arisen which warrant Mr. Brunet, the Liberal candidate, in remaining in the field with good prospect of success, and I have decided not to be a candidate. Both Morgan and myself would be beaten, and I would be blamed for having split the party and caused Morgan's defeat. 'I'm better out of it.' Mr. Tache did not hesitate to express the opinion that the Liberals would win at this election, and by a large majority. The dissenting Tories are inclined to blame Mr. Abbott for the difficulty. They say that Mr. Morgan impressed the Premier with his own idea of his importance and secured the promise of his support, which was apparently given without a consultation with Mr. Chapleau. The Secretary of State is naturally aggrieved at this action, and has resolved not to take any part in the campaign.

What's the use," said one of his friends this morning. "The county is lost to the party through Abbott's stupidity and Morgan's egotistical ambition. Chapleau does not ally himself to a lost cause. He will not take any share in the Richelieu election."

The report is revived that as Hon. John Carling is anxious to remain in the Cabinet, the Hon. Frank Smith will succeed Sir Alexander Campbell as Lieut.-Governor of Ontario.

There was a general strike among the iron workers of the Chaudiere this morning, and over 100 members of that union have stopped work because the master workmen refused to grant the nine hour system. The men organized six months ago, and at the time every employer in the city gave them a favorable reply for shorter hours, provided the system would not be introduced before the New Year. Until last week it was not known what stand the masters would take in the matter, when only Mr. Perkins signed the agreement. A joint meeting was held, at which the other masters refused to grant the request. Perkins' foundry, Sparks street, is not affected.

ANOTHER BOMB SENT FORTH

The Board of Control Puts Down Both Feet on Winter Racing.

DEATH AMONGST HORSES.

The L. A. W. Will Not Adopt the Cash Prize System—Daily Will Stay With Corbett—After Richardson—Mike Kelly Will Play in Boston—General Sporting News.

The Board of Control Sends Forth Another Bombshell.

The Sun says: The Board of Control, representing the Monmouth Park Racing Association, Coney Island Jockey Club, New York Jockey Club, and Brooklyn Jockey Club, sent its second bombshell into the winter racing camp on the heights of Guttenburg yesterday. The bomb was loaded with this announcement:

At a meeting of the Board of Control held this day the following resolution was adopted:

Resolved, That officials of courses racing in contravention of the resolution of D.C. 22, 1891, shall not be employed by the courses represented in the Board of Control.

W. S. VOSNUGH, Sec.

New York, Dec. 29, 1891.

Following is the resolution referred to: Resolved, That owners, their horses, trainers, and jockeys racing on any course north of Maryland or east of Ohio at which there is racing in December, January or February, or on more than 30 days in a calendar year, shall not be qualified to enter, start, ride, or have any license for the races of the associations represented in the Board of Control, but this resolution shall not take effect until Jan. 1, 1892.

While the action taken yesterday will not cause the excitement that followed the publication of the resolution on it, it will have an important bearing on several officials that perform dual duty at the winter and summer tracks. First comes the position of starter, which Mr. J. F. Caldwell fills better in many ways than any other man who has handled the flag in America. It is said on good authority that Mr. Caldwell is paid $150 per day for his services at Guttenburg, and $100 per day at the tracks represented by the Board of Control. As the regular season does not begin until May 15, if Mr. Caldwell relinquishes his post at Guttenburg on Jan. 1 he would lose far more than he would make on the other tracks during the legitimate season from May 15 to Oct. 15. The starter is the man aimed at, and great will be the curiosity to see whether the shot will bring him down.

Mr. Joseph Burke will probably preside in the judges' stand at Saratoga for the new association, and any spare time will be occupied by him at western tracks outside of the jurisdiction of the Board of Control. Whether Barney Aaron, who announces to the bookmakers all scratches and changes of weights as soon as they are made, and Jack Adler, who shouts the names of the placed horses with stentorian voice when their numbers are called, will come under the ban, is doubtful, as their salaries are paid by bookmakers who are really the financial life of the associations. In the main each association employs its own set of officials. The New Jersey police officers who preserve order at Guttenburg would scarcely expect to act in the same capacity in the State of New York.

Philip Dwyer, a member of the Board of Control, was seen at the St. James Hotel last night. When asked what he thought of the resolution he responded: "What do I think of it? Well, I was there when the resolution was passed, wasn't I? And it wouldn't have gone through if I hadn't been there, would it? Doesn't that show what I think of it? Guess it does," and Mr. Dwyer looked very much satisfied with himself.

"Do you think it will have the effect of stamping out winter racing?"

"Well, it looks that way to me."

Starter Caldwell was in the land of dreams when a reporter for The Sun called at his lodgings last night, and the attendants refused to arouse him.

The Reaper Amongst Horses.

In the horse world death rakes in young and old alike. He pays no favorites, and when on his rounds never hesitates, the famous and the unknown being visited with the same old hand familiarity that makes them equal. In 1891 a number of celebrities in the turf world have been rung down, and many that have earned honors in the stud have disappeared. Last week's returns show that Almont Rattler, Pilot Mambrino and Blackwood are among that number. "Blackwood! Why, we thought he was dead years ago!" somebody may say, and the old horse was practically dead to the world, although still in the flesh at S. Bailey's stable at Ticonderoga, N.Y. His fame belongs to the last generation of turfmen, and like Smuggler and many others, he outlived it. Blackwood was foaled in 1866, at Lexington, being bred by D. Swigert. He was got by Alexander's Norman, out of a mare by Mambrino Chief. As a youngster he was considered of but little account, and trotters were cheap in those days if they could not go well. He was taken up as a 3-year-old, however, and soon set the world on fire by trotting a mile in 2:31. This was a new world's record for 1869, and shortly after that John W. Conley purchased him for Harrison Durke, the price being $30,000. The mile that Blackwood trotted was his greatest achievement; still the chances are that if he had remained in Kentucky and been bred to Mambrino Chief mares or mares got by that horse's sons he would have ranked well as a sire. Proteine, 2:18, was his fastest trotter and few stallions got a better campaigner than the brown mare Sally Chorister produced to Blackwood's cover. Blackwood, Jr., also earned himself the title of the "Iron Horse from Tennessee" during the year of the centennial. He and Proteine are now dead, the best living descendant of the old horse that we know of being Sinter. He is out of Sue, the dam of Egthorne, Edge Hill, etc., and is owned somewhere in Ohio.—N. Y. THE WHEEL

The L. A. W. Will Not Adopt the Cash Prize System.

New York, Jan. 4.—It is a matter of considerable doubt in L. A. W. circles whether any change will be made in the existing rules of the league preparatory to the opening of the racing season of 1892. The cash-prize system, which recently agitated racing men, seems to have died out. The opinion that a cash-prize system is necessary for the welfare of the league is confined to the minority. The L. A. W. Bulletin, in speaking of the cash-prize system being adopted, says:

"Nothing of the kind is evident. No vote of the L. A. W. has had an uncertain sound on this question. A motion to adopt cash prizes in any meeting of the L. A. W. would be buried so deep that it would take a week to shovel it out. The attempt to disparage the L. A. W. and applaud the A. U. for the position taken on the amateur question is one that would not be made by one conversant with the records of the two associations."

The officials of the League of American Wheelmen, with one or two exceptions, say that they have never regarded the adoption of cash prizes seriously, knowing full well that it will be a long time before the league takes such a departure.

MISCELLANEOUS.

de Oro and Manning at Pool.

New York, Jan. 4.—Charles F. Hallett, backer of Charles Manning, the champion pool player of America, says that Alfredo de Oro, the Cuban, will arrive here early in February to play a match with Manning before the Manufacturers' Club, of Philadelphia, for a purse of $300.

Daily Will Stay With Corbett.

SPRINGFIELD, Jan. 4.—Jim Daly has agreed to train Corbett for the latter's next match. Daly, who is the stellar attraction with the "After Dark" company, which recently filled an engagement here and which until recently exhibited Corbett also, stopped over here a number of days and formed the acquaintance of Jack Foley, a local saloonist, politician, and boxer, who is known by nearly every prize habitué in the country. They became fast friends, going so far as to exchange jewelry. Mr. Foley received a letter today dated Terre Haute, Ind., from Daly, saying that he would leave the show in two weeks, having just agreed to train Corbett for the coming match at Madison Square Garden, New York, between him and Mitchell. Daly was in great demand, Mitchell also wanting him, and judging from the letters received, wanting him badly.

BASEBALL

After Richardson.

The make-up of the New York infield will depend largely upon the result of President John B. Day's efforts to get Denny Richardson back. That sterling player, it appears, has been assigned to the Washington Club by Messrs. Young and Phelps, who apportioned the players after the Indianapolis meeting. Mr. Day is not at all satisfied with the arrangement. He wrote to President Young yesterday protesting against it, and giving his reasons why Richardson should be allowed to play in this city. Pending Mr. Young's reply no steps will be taken to secure a second baseman. In the event of a failure to get Danny, it is quite likely that Manager Powers will try to work a deal with the Chicago Club, whereby Fred Pfeffer will be transferred to New York. Pfeffer does not want to play with Anson, and would undoubtedly welcome an opportunity to sign with Powers.

Mike Kelly Will Play in Boston Because No Other Club Wants Him.

Boston, Jan. 4.—It is a matter of surprise to Mike Kelly's followers that none of the big baseball clubs in the country would make a bid for the player whose release from the Chicago Club could not be purchased for less than $10,000 only a few seasons ago. They are still more astonished to learn that the Boston Club tried to unload him on some other club, but that no club would take him as a gift. They have just waked up to the fact that the king's power has gone. The baseball cranks will be crunker than ever when they learn that it was on Mike Kelly's account that Morgan Murphy, the popular young catcher, will not play with the Boston Club next season. In only one contingency did Murphy have any show of being a member of the Boston League team of 1892, and that lay in case Kelly could be untraded.

Kelly is under contract with Boston for 1892 and there was no room for a fourth catcher. It is said that the Boston Club would have been willing to take Murphy in place of Kelly could it have induced any club to take the latter, but at Indianapolis no club made any request for the player.

The Boston Club being thus compelled to retain Kelly, there is no room on the team for Murphy, and he is assigned to Cincinnati, where he will probably not be averse to going with Coniskey. Aside from Kelly's presence on the nine, the Boston cranks are very well pleased.

THE KINGDOM OF WOMEN

ARTISTIC EFFECTS IN SCREENS OF VARIOUS STYLES.

House Talk for Young Wives and Girls

Soon to Wed—Mrs. Langtry—Don'ts for Husbands—The Newest Fabrics—Owed to Women—A Little Queen's Duty.

A parlor without a screen is like a pretty girl without a lover, an anomaly difficult to account for. For the screen craze, like the plague of a few years ago, is not confined to a particular locality or peculiar to a particular kind of people. The woman who can't afford the French importation of gilded carving and tapestry takes a bit of China silk in a bamboo frame, sets the tottish things up in a dismal corner, and is convinced that she has not lived in vain. The mission of the screen is manifold, and well is its labor of love fulfilled. Dark corners are brightened, lovers' nooks protected, undesirable corners and passages concealed, and dreary wall spaces made glorious by the ubiquitous screen in some of its myriad expressions. Louis XIV., XV., XVI., and Marie Antoinette styles dominate the mode in the more expensive varieties. The general characteristics of these screens are that they have frames of carved wood overlaid with gilt, and have panels of striped silk, tapestry, or rare painting or embroidery. Their distinguishing differences are merely points of detail scarcely apparent to the uneducated eye. There is a marked increase in the voluptuousness, sensuousness of the curves and lines from the Louis XIV. period up to that of Louis XVI and his ill-fated Queen, Marie Antoinette. In the screens of the earlier period the outlines are simpler, approaching more nearly the integrity of the straight line, and more dignified in decoration. The panels are covered entirely with silk fitted smoothly into the frames. The lines bend more wantonly into curves as the next period approaches. Pensive and ornate embellishments of carving are introduced, cupids and faces of goddesses as well as leaf forms appear in the decoration.

MORNING HOUSE TALK.

"Ringers" for Young Wives and Girls Soon to Wed.

A novel fire screen on four feet, says the New York Times, has a long narrow shelf at the top for ornaments, and another near the bottom. The upper one is supported with a Moorish arch; beneath this and attached to the legs are two little brackets, the one high up and the other low down. On a rod at the back is a full curtain of silk. The screen is decorated in the style known as imitation marquetrie, of which specimens grow constantly handsome. "Crushed morocco" is a new favorite in the leather field. It is considerably more decorative than crocodile leather, being smooth and very pliable. It comes in beautiful shades—electric blue, water-green and heliotrope, and is fashioned into blotting books, pocketbooks, card cases and other small leather impedimenta is very effective.

It is perhaps not generally known that we get our custom of wearing orange blossoms from the Saracens, and that the Red Cross Knights always saw their brides thus adorned on the marriage day.

Sachets are keeping pace with cushions and pillows in size and variety. Bed sheets to hold night-dresses, and a cover with sheer muslin and trimmed with lace, put on very full, often in jabot effect. The narrow ribbons are much used in trimming these pockets, combined with the lace.

The Newest Fabrics.

Everything Russian is fashionable. Children wear Russian cloaks plaited like the muzhik's blouses, and the same idea is carried into evening wraps, the newest of which are of satin, with a wadded or fur lining.

New silks include many with raised stripes on a satin or repped ground, the stripes resembling cords sewn on the ground.

Among the new winter stuffs is a cloth which imitates Jersey webbing, and which will be very fashionable.

Contrasts in cloth gowns are frequent. For example, there are black cloth gowns trimmed with bias slashes lined with red collar, vest, cuffs, and belt, like ivory of red. Blue cloth forms the main part of another gown, with all the accessories of gray cloth or tan-color, and gray cloth is similarly combined with blue or heliotrope.

Poplin is announced as the coming fabric glaze, that is, changeable in two colors, as green with orange, black with red, etc. This fabric, which is only shown as yet in the shape of merchants' samples, is to be trimmed with silk of the two colors woven in it, one on the outside and the other for facings. Paris letter in Harper's Bazar.

Don'ts for Husbands.

Don't stay out late at night.
Don't withhold your confidence.
Don't think your wife is a servant.
Don't dole out a dollar as if it were a tax.
Don't think love has come to stay any how.

Don't try to run the household your way.
Don't think your wife can't keep your secrets.
Don't imagine that you are a superior person.

Don't grumble at your wife and the work she does.
Don't forget that your wife was once your servant.

Don't neglect to compliment your wife whenever opportunity offers.
Don't forget that husbands should be gentlemen at all times and under all circumstances.

Mrs. Langtry.

Any one who wishes to see what perfect physical development means in a woman should see Mrs. Langtry at her Majesty's this week as Rosalind sporting through the glades of Arden—light, agile, graceful in every movement, bearing herself with consummate grace and beauty. The great actress is a firm believer in physical exercises, and is herself a splendid fencer. Mrs. Langtry has favored us with her opinion regarding the value of physical exercises for women, and I give a few sentences from her letter received this morning: "I certainly believe," she says, "in physical exercise for women. I am more especially able to speak in favor of fencing, as I found it of immense value to my health and figure. It gives one a good balance, and, therefore, a good carriage." I have little doubt that not only the writer's fine physical development, but her good health, vivacity and abounding spirits are greatly due to the exercises by which she trains herself with unremitting ardor.—Dundee Telegraph.

THE WORLD OF FASHION.

THE VERY STYLISH COAT FOR LADIES THIS WINTER.

A Graceful Fan Bag—Warm-looking Rough Woollens for Street Wear—The Fashions in Jewelry—Used at Fashionable Tam O'Shanter for Boys and Girls.

The French blue cloth, which is going to be so popular this season and which is so generally becoming to women, is here developed in a three-quarter length coat. It is double-breasted, and where each frog would be, is a mink tail elaborately braided about with gold and brown cord. The cuffs are deep and braided, turned back, and have for their finish a mink tail. The collar is in harmony, the mink tails coming down on each side and showing the golden and brown braid arrangement between. Heavy brown gloves, stitched with black, are worn. The hat is a jaunty brown felt one, with an edge finish of brown velvet and gold braid, while its decorations are loops of gold ribbon and brown tips. Of course, this coat could be developed in a much simpler manner than this, and would be equally pretty, for, as I said in the beginning, it is the fit of the coat that gives the coat its style, and not the trimmings. In dark blue with no decorations whatever, or, if one wished it, a little black braid; in brown, perfectly plain, or else the being outlined with gold cord; in black with fur cuffs and collar (I mean an inexpensive fur), such coats would be in good taste anywhere.

For general use the all-black coat will be found most desirable, and it can, of course, be worn with a skirt of any color; the season's liking for black being so great, that a bodice, jacket or coat of golden-brown, garnet, olive, sapphire and navy-blue, with a skirt of any shade is counted in very good style.—Ladies' Home Journal.

THE VERY LATEST.

Warm-looking Rough Woollens for Street Wear.

The fashionable modistes who have recently returned from Paris commend warm-looking rough woollens for street dresses, such as vigogne woven in the wide diagonals that are sometimes of two colors, as light blue alternating with black; also fleecy camel-hair stuffs, both plain and figured, and serges that are very broadly striped.

THE MIKADO JACKET WAIST.

Very young ladies and girls in their teens will wear gowns of black and blue wool, interwoven with golden yellow, made with a pretty little Mikado jacket and girdled waist.

VIGOGNE GOWNS.

Street dresses of widely twilled rough vigogne come in bright shades of green and in the new light blue, trimmed with black velvet ribbon, with frogs of passementerie, and with black soutache edged with gold.

PASSEMENTERIES AND LACE BASQUES.

Sleeveless basques of black passementerie are worn over a colored silk waist with silk sleeves, and are trimmed with a fur collar band, and front border of black mink, sable, or black marten. The passementerie falls in coat-like tabs below the waist, while the silk is merely a round bodice.

DINNER COATS.

Thickly repped yet soft Muscovite silks and bengalies of light color are made up in striped basques called dinner coats, to be worn with a skirt of white or light-colored faced cloth bordered narrowly with fur.—Harper's Bazar.

Fashions in Jewelry.

Graduated bows, seven in number, of small silver beads and fastened with a square clasp are suitable for young girls. At night they look like pearl necklaces. Stained ivory is beautifully applied to a set of oyster forks. The forks are trident-shaped, though few in number, and have fish-hook terminations, a happy and sensible idea.

Small bows of blue enamel interspersed with diamonds are hung on a fine gilt chain to wear as a necklace. The bows are five in number and are graduated in size, the larger of course being in the middle.

Round thimble-shaped jars of cut-glass with silver gilt tops are used to contain salts. They are intended for rooms, which can be pleasantly perfumed, and invigorated by removing the cover for a few moments.

Old-fashioned sugar-sifters are coming into vogue. They are cylinders fully five inches high with cone-shaped perforated tops and are to be used pepper-box fashion. Chased and ornamented, they are an interesting addition to the table.

Circular earrings the size of 25 cent pieces are seen every few steps this fall. Sometimes they are set with good-sized diamonds with spaces of plain gold; again they are wheels of topaz, and again rings of reposed gold. They are a decided innovation on the unobtrusive styles of earring that have been worn for so long.

Loves and doves riot over everything that is used for lovely woman in her personal adornment—on her brushes, combs, hand-glasses, shoe-horns, parasol handles. The most dainty adaptation is seen on her card-case of white vellum and undressed kid. In the former the ornament is illuminated, on the latter is a raised ornament lightly touched with gold.—Jewelers' Circular.

In Buying a New Hat.

I like a new hat. I am still enough of a girl for that, and I like to see the girls in their pretty new hats; but I want to say this to them: Don't get a hat that is too fine for your frocks. Don't spend all your money in elaborate laces and plumes and fets, when a simple little turban, made of cloth like your frock, or a black felt suited in shape to your face, and trimmed with a wing or two, or some loops of ribbon, will not only be becoming, but will stand the winter's wear, and, by being brushed often, look almost as good as new.—Mrs. Mallon, in the Ladies' Home Journal.

And so on. Written comedians are pretty good stimulants to conversation, the dinner cards might be greatly historical, not too learned. A legend appropriate to the day, as "Lady Day," Michaelmas, New Year's and Christmas, Whitsunday, etc., all these are not a bad promoter of talk. Or one might allude to the calendar of dead kings and queens, or other celebrities, or ask your preferences, or quote something from the memoir, to find out that it is a birthday of Rossini or Goethe. All these might be written on a dinner card, and will open the flood gates of a frozen conversation.

Let each dinner give weave a net out of the dinner threads of her own thoughts. It will be the web of the Lady of Shalott, and will bid the shadows of pleasant memory to remain, not float "forever adown the river," not even toward "Towered Camelot," where they may be lost.

ADVICE TO BOYS.

Remember that Your Studying To-day will be Worth Money Some Day.

The boy who is wanted in the business world of to-day must be educated. If his parents cannot afford to give him a high school or college education, he must learn to study without the aid of a teacher in the early morning before business begins and in the evening after business hours. It can no longer be truthfully said that an education is out of any one's reach.

Our splendid school system, where one can study by day or in the evening, has put the priceless treasure of an education within the reach of all. The main thing, in the beginning, that I would impress upon boys is one of the great commandments: "Honor thy father and thy mother, that thy days may be long in the land which the Lord thy God giveth thee." The boy who respects his father and mother, who treats his sisters and brothers with loving kindness, has laid a good foundation for a successful career. You will do as your parents tell you, and that certainly will be to study. Don't be in a hurry to get away from your school books. The cares and responsibilities of business will come soon enough.

Go to school as long as you can, and remember, every hour spent in study in your youth will be worth money to you in after life. Read good books, the Bible above all. Make yourself acquainted with history. Study the progress of nations and the careers of men who have made nations great. If you have no library of your own, join one of the numerous associations to be found in all cities, where good, healthful books may be obtained. Study religion, science, statecraft and history. Learn to read intelligently, so that you may turn to practical use in after life the readings of your youth. Be sure you begin right. Do not waste time in reading trashy books.—Russell Sage in Ladies' Home Journal.

"St. George of Khartoum."

In the little English church, which stands amidst its roses and vines in the new quarter, is a wall tablet of red and white marble—the memorial of a great Englishman. It bears the following inscription: "In memory of Major-General Charles Gordon, C.B. Born at Woolwich, Jan. 28, 1833. Killed at the defence of Khartoum, Jan. 26, 1885." Above is a sentence from Gordon's last letter: "I have done my best for the honor of our country."

St. George of Khartoum, as he has been called. If objection is made to the bestowal of this title, it might be answered that the saints of old lived before the age of the telegraph, the printer, the newspaper, and the reporter; possibly they too would not have seemed to us faultless if every one of their small decisions and all their trivial utterances had been subjected to the electric light publicity of to-day. Perhaps Gordon was a fanatic, and his discernment was not accurate. But he was single-hearted, devoted to what he considered to be his duty, and brave to a striking degree. When we remember how he faced death through those weary days we cannot criticize him. The story of that rescuing army which came so near him and yet failed, and of his long hoping in vain, only to be shot down at the last, must always remain one of the most pathetic tales of history.—From "Cairo in 1890," by Constance Fenimore Woolson, in Harper's Magazine for November.

Good Work.

Mrs. M. Young, Sulley-street, Gray's street, London, Eng., was cured of lunacy by the use of the contents of one bottle of "St. George's Oil," after her case had been given up as hopeless. It has no equal.

IT IS SHREDDED NEWS.

THE CITY'S EVENTS TORN APART AND SEWED IN SMALL PIECES.

When First They Were Reported They Would Have Made Many Columns, But They Don't Now.

Order your winter suits and overcoats at M. J. Adler's, 47 Beaver Hall Hill. All the latest styles to select from.

The store of H. Christmas, 2266 Notre Dame-street, was broken into on New Year's morning and $200 worth of goods stolen.

It is reported that Hnd. Richardson & Co., leather merchants, have assigned at the demand of the Canadian Bank of Commerce.

A large variety of fine and inexpensive articles especially suitable for Xmas presents, at J. B. Williamson's, 1741 Notre Dame-street.

The Ladies of the Industrial Rooms acknowledge with thanks from the City and District Savings' Bank, per E. Murphy, president, the sum of $150.

The choir of the Church of St. John the Evangelist will give a concert in the school room on Thursday evening. A very interesting program is being prepared.

Messrs. Crathern and Caverhill, of this city, have registered as continuing their partnership in the hardware business for another year from the first of this month.

The total number of deaths in the city last week was 96: of these 1 died from iptheria, 2 diarrhoea, 3 bronchitis, 5 leucopneumonia, 10 pneumonia, 1 consumption and two grippe.

The General Hospital ambulance answered 578 calls during the past year. The largest number was in August, when 81 calls were made. The Notre Dame Hospital ambulance answered to 469 calls, July being the largest month with 55.

Donations Acknowledged.

The treasurer of the Protestant House of Industry and Refuge acknowledges with thanks: From Messrs. Crathern & Caverhill, $50; W. J. Buchanan, $10. The Board of Outdoor Relief acknowledges with thanks: From W. J. Buchanan, $10.

Iron Plate Fell on Him.

At 9.20 yesterday morning the General Hospital ambulance was called to McDonald's tobacco factory. Alex. McDonald, while working with some heavy iron plates, let one of them fall on his legs, resulting in concussion of both hips. He was taken to the hospital.

A Change in the Management.

It was the talk in insurance circles yesterday that the business in this country of the Royal Canadian Insurance Company of Montreal will be taken over by the Alliance Company of England. The manager of the company, Mr. McHenry, says the report is premature.

Another Big Failure.

J. Hudon, dry goods merchant of St. Paul-street, suspended payment yesterday with liabilities amounting to about $80,000. Of these the direct liabilities amount to about $20,000 and the indirect to close on $60,000. The firm had a good reputation but have had a hard struggle of it for some years past.

Swiss National Society of Montreal.

At the annual meeting of the Swiss National Society, held last Saturday, the following staff has been elected for the current year: N. M. F. Schmidt, president; S. Bormand, vice-president; F. Vallotton, treasurer, and J. Charrey, secretary. Committee for charitable purposes: H. M. Chenet and S. Cereda.

Sentenced by the P. M.

In the Police Court yesterday Edward Craven was given six months in jail for larceny. Celina Constantineau, charged with larceny, was acquitted. The trial of Wm. Jeff, charged with larceny, was postponed until Jan. 8. Joseph Archambault, Hermida Bresson and Napoleon Prevost pleaded guilty to the charge of being loose, idle characters, and were sent down for a month each. Joseph Hertuboise, for the same, was fined $5 or 30 days.

Stealing From the G. T. R.

Complaints have been made lately that goods were being stolen from the Grand Trunk freight sheds. Detectives Cullen and Lafontaine took the case in hand and last night arrested Barney Connolly, an employee of the company. He confessed to have taken 25 rabbit skins, 5 pieces of wadded cotton, some tobacco, etc. Most of the articles were found in his trunk at his boarding house on Bleury-street. The goods were taken from the Champlain sheds.

Arranging for the Election.

The City Hall was deserted by our worthy aldermen yesterday after mid-day. No council meeting, no committee meeting. A few enquiries as to the cause of this elicited the fact that the civic election campaign had commenced in earnest and all the aldermen were busy either in their own behalf or in the interests of some of their friends. There is just four weeks in which to do all the canvassing and speechifying and then the final battle will be fought.

Yesterday at the Recorder's Court.

There were 26 cases before the Recorder yesterday. Samuel Christie and Fred Peters were fined $5 or 15 days for fighting on Notre Dame-street. The same tax was put on Charles Smith for being drunk on Notre Dame-street. Alex. Bourke, who was arrested by Officer Griffin for fast driving on Bishop-street, was fined $20. George Robertson and George Burgess were fined $10 each for the same offence. The cases of Taurville and Uric Danereau, for fast driving, were adjourned until Thursday.

Work for the Revisors.

The board of revisors appointed to look after the civic voters' lists, met at 10 a. m. to-day and will sit daily till they get through the business in hand. This will be no sinecure as there are a large number of voters on the lists that are said to be disqualified. The city clerk has already received a list of 86 voters in one ward who are not residents of Montreal, but only visit the city occasionally as farmers, and who really reside in Berthier and other country places. When in town they put up at some of the hotels near Bonsecours market and on the strength of this claim to be entitled to vote.

December Fire Returns.

The December returns from No. 4 Fire Station show that the "laddies" had rather a busy time of it. The reel responded to 25 gong and two still alarms and laid on 7 streams. The chemical engine had 21 gong and two still alarms; the salvage wagon responded to 25 gong and two still alarms and spread 62 covers. The ladder was out 27 times during the month and was raised 26 times.

The following is the full return for the past year for this station:

1st responded to 331 calls and laid on 100 streams.

3rd salvage responded to 326 calls and spr. ad 780 covers.

Chemical engine responded to 228 calls and laid on 32 streams.

Ladder responded to 292 calls and was raised 266 times.

Last Year's Big Fires.

Mr. D'Amour, secretary of the Fire Committee, has completed the returns for last year, showing that the firemen responded to 811 alarms during 1891.

This is greatly in excess of any previous year the total for 1890, which was considered a heavy year, being 583. Of the 811 alarms given 646 were for actual fires, a large number of which were of little or no importance. There was only one fatal result during the year, that of a woman who was burned to death in bed in Carthage-street on Aug. 14.

Some of the largest fires of the year were: East Division—Jan. 14, R. White, Craig-street, at which the brigade was employed for six hours; April 20, C. P. R. workshops, five hours; April 27, W. D. McLaren's factory, Frontenac-street, one hour; Brionnet's saw mill and lumber yard, St. Catherine-street, 15 hours; Oct. 31, Hochelaga Cotton Mill, three hours; Nov. 23, Dupuis' lumber yard, St. Catherine-street, three hours; Dec. 28, St. Lawrence Sugar Refinery coal heap at Main-eauve, three hours.

Centre Division—Feb. 24, Bonsecours Market, four hours, when several firemen were overcome by smoke; March 8, Forter's stationery store, 258 St. James-street, when fireman Lussier was injured, three hours; May 24, Bonnet's and the Metropolitan Furniture Company, Notre Dame and Desbrosses-streets, five hours.

West Division—Jan. 3, varnish factory, St. Patrick-street, when the firemen were called out three times and worked 15 hours in all; Jan. 12, 751 Craig-street, Messrs Hughes & Stephenson, when the brigade was called out; Feb. 11, G. T. R. freight sheds, 14 hours; May 26, hay store, 65 Common-street, 14 hours; July 31, Lang's Biscuit Works, St. Maurice-street, 3 hours; Sept. 4, Day & Delois foundry, Ann-street, 1 hour; Sept. 26, Waters Bros, 767 Craig-street, 1 hour; Nov. 28, saw mill, Basin-street, 4 hours; and Dec. 16, 110 McGill-street, Thompson's shoe store, 3 hours.

UNDERWOOD'S LECTURE.

Subject—Influence of Civilization on Christianity.

The following is an abstract of the lecture given by Mr. B. F. Underwood at the Lyceum Theatre on Sunday evening.

Subject, "Influence of Civilization on Christianity."

Civilization is a very complex product, into which was entered a multitude of mental and moral forces. Religion is one of the sentiments of the mind and one of the institutions of society. There is the universal element of religion, common to all religious systems, and the special elements of each system. The character of a religious belief and its manner of manifestation are dependent upon the intellectual and moral condition of the worshippers. Whether a religion shall yield good results depends, first, upon the elements that compose it and second, upon the social evil and atmosphere in which the seed is planted. Christianity is not the same in England and Abyssinia. The moral teachings of the New Testament were a protest against Jewish formalism and pagan worldliness. But moral precepts never converted the Roman Empire. Paul's theology, elaborated by Augustine, became the Christianity of the Church. Confronted by paganism it bent to and assimilated pagan beliefs and rites and ritualism, and spread by representing the old faith under a new name. The religion became what it had to be in its peculiar environment on penalty of extinction. The unity of the empire was transferred to the church, which for centuries held together the divided elements of the empire. During the middle ages there was general ignorance in the church, monasticism, contempt for letters, &c. With the revival of learning, with study of Greek and Roman literature, with discovery of ancient coins, medals, and coins, and pursuits of the world advanced; independence of thought, the Reformation, science, great worldly enterprise followed. Men took thought for the morrow, tried to accumulate worldly possessions, avoided poverty, became self-reliant; ceased to believe they were liable to lose their souls by too much love of wife and children, or by having too fine homes; theological beliefs have become adjusted to secular conceptions of life. Theology has become modified. Men have become too humane to believe in the damnation of infants, or in the foreordination of millions to eternal torment. Revision is the order of the day even among Presbyterians. The forces of civilization have modified the teaching of Paul, Augustine and Calvin, have emphasized the primary value of the ethical elements of all religions, including those of Christianity, while ignoring whatever is practically abhorrent in these elements, such as the teachings of the New Testament in regard to submission to evil, the duty of servants, slaves, the subordination of women, the duty of obeying the powers that be as from God, etc. As with a constitution, so with a religious system, when the people have advanced beyond it, whatever is outgrown is ignored, or is interpreted so as to harmonize with the intellectual and moral demands of the time. Religious systems, like governments, are evolutions and are determined by intellectual moral and social conditions in which they prevail.

It there ever was a specific for any one complaint, then Carter's Little Liver Pills are a specific for sick headache, and every woman should know this. Only one pill a dose. Try them.

Other sufferers from cold in the head and catarrh have been promptly cured, why not you? Capt. D. H. Lyon, manager and proprietor of the C. P. R. and W. & O. car ferry, Prescott, Ont., says: "I used Nasal Balm for a prolonged case of cold in the head. Two applications effected a complete cure in less than 24 hours. I would not take $100 for my bottle of Nasal Balm if I could not replace it."

PAPINEAU ROAD MURDER.

JOSEPH PARON CLUBBED TO DEATH BY PARTIES UNKNOWN.

He Was Found Dying by a Policeman on New Year's Night and Died Yesterday Morning at the Hospital.

At 10.30 on New Year's night, while on his way home, Sub-Constable Chapman was told that a man was lying in Papineau-road, drunk or dead. He immediately went there and found a man in a sitting position near the gutter. The man had his mouth open, had several bruises in his face and was hatless. His left eye was badly swollen and closed. There was a large cut on his head and considerable blood on his neck. He was senseless.

The constable thought the man was dead, as he could feel no pulse beat or discern his breath. He at once ran for a cab and had the man taken to No. 3 station. Sergeant Choquette, who was in charge, received the sick man and telephoned for Dr. Bouchard. The doctor arrived shortly afterwards, put several stitches in the man's scalp and applied restoratives, but with no effect. It was thought the man was suffering from the effects of liquor. The reserve man, Auge, at the station nursed the sick man all night. In the morning it was found he was unable to move and he was taken to Notre Dame Hospital. At 6 o'clock yesterday morning he died, being unconscious from the time the officer found him.

His name is Joseph Paron, and he lived in Ontario-street. One of the sad features of the case is that he leaves a wife and four small children and the wife is now about to be confined.

Coroner Jones empanelled a jury yesterday afternoon. The father-in-law of deceased deposed that Paron left his house early on New Year's night, under the influence of liquor. The officer who found the man gave evidence substantially as above.

Dr. Laberge asked for an adjournment until the evening to allow him to make a post mortem examination. In the evening he gave the result of his investigation to the effect that he found the skull fractured, which caused hemorrhage of the brain, resulting in death, the result of a blow from a club received on the left temple.

The jury then returned a verdict of "murdered by parties unknown."

LIKE DICKENS' "EDEN."

Return of Malaria-Stricken Proteges of the Perry Land Company.

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 4.—About the middle of October last there arrived in this city from Chicago and the towns adjacent thereto about 75 strong, healthy men who had been induced to leave their homes and seek new fields in Honduras. They were in charge of Mr. Perry, of the Perry Land Company, of Chicago, and were bound for Patuca, Spanish Honduras, where the Perry Land Company had acquired an immense tract by concession from the Government, conditional on the proviso that the country be settled up.

On Friday night half of the settlers returned by the steamship Santo Oteri, and the tales they tell of a sterile soil, malaria and other drawbacks will have a tendency to deter others from following their example. The settlers are now on their way homeward and there only remains in the city one of the party, Dr. Emily Wadsworth, a woman physician. The climate has broken her health.

CHICAGO, Jan. 4.—The offices of the Perry Honduras Company, whose settlers are coming home disgusted, were closed yesterday. E. W. Perry is said to be in New York organizing another party to sail for Honduras at an early day direct from that port.

HUMBERT SANGUINE OF PEACE.

Italy's Ruler Sees no War Clouds on the Horizon.

Rome, Jan. 4.—King Humbert to-day gave an audience to Sig. Farina, president of the Senate, and Sig. Biancheri, president of the Chamber of Deputies.

The King expressed his confidence that Parliament would pass the commercial treaties recently negotiated between Italy and Austro-Hungary, Italy and Germany, and Italy and several of the other European powers.

Referring to the political outlook the King said that the situation in Europe justified the belief that Italy would accomplish the pacific labors in which she is at present engaged.

Deaths From the Grip.

ASHBURY PARK, Jan. 4.—Fully one-third of the population of Ashbury Park has been seized by the grip, and the doctors are kept busy night and day attending the sufferers. Several deaths have already occurred which can be traced directly to the epidemic. Revs. Dr. Chandler, E. Scudder, D. B. Harris and John Handley are confined to their homes by the disease.

AMUSEMENT NOTES.

Fanny Davenport's Production of Cleopatra—Gus Hill's Company Make a Hit at the Royal.

Though Montreal has had a week of heavy drama, with the close of the Bernhardt engagement, the Academy of Music was filled last night to witness Sardon's dramatisation of Cleopatra, with Fanny Davenport as the star and her own company of artists. Much has been said in praise of Fanny Davenport's conception of Cleopatra, and the theatre-going public of Montreal who looked forward to the present engagement and who attended last night's performance were gratified with its results. The cast of characters included the following:

Cleopatra.....Fanny Davenport
Octavia, sister of Octavius.....Ida Frohawk
Chairman.....Cleopatra's.....Annie Thornton
Antony.....Women.....Lillian Burke

Mark Antony.....Melbourne MacDowell

Fanny Davenport is an ideal Cleopatra. In order to look upon her figure divested of all the accessories to make it the accomplished and finished artist which she is. She is ably supported by Melbourne MacDowell, as Mark Antony. His splendid physique and manly bearing and voice materially aid him in his portrayal of his role.

The cast is a powerful one and much praise is due the support. Ida Frohawk as Octavia was a very creditable rendition, and Theodore Roberts, as Kephren, Cleopatra's slave, did justice to his part. The piece is superbly mounted and the scenic effects are the scene of modern mechanical devices. In the first act, where Cleopatra comes in her boat to meet Mark Antony, a mass of brilliancy and wealth adorns her cortege and made a most realistic effect. The crowning effects, however, were produced in the fifth act, when Cleopatra calls upon the God Typhon to descend in the clouds with the tempest.

The storm descended in all its fury and the audience witnessed one of the most pieces of scenic mechanism that has been enacted on a Montreal stage. The costumes are very handsome and in accord with the period of the play. A large and fashionable audience greeted the company and the management can be assured of a profitable engagement.

Fanny Davenport was the recipient of a very handsome floral basket.

Gus Hill's Novelty Company.

The Theatre Royal was crowded to excess last night with one of the most appreciative audiences that has ever filled the old favorite theatre. The attraction was Gus Hill's World of Novelties, which is one of the best organizations that has visited Montreal for some time. What tended also to pack the house to its fullest capacity was the fact that the M.A.A.A. had arranged to attend in a body and had chartered the whole of the orchestral seats. These however turned out to be insufficient to accommodate the number of members who continued to come flowing in till there was hardly standing room for them. Every available spot was used and the entertainment was not only enjoyed thoroughly but loudly applauded from time to time and the encores were numerous.

The great attraction was, of course, Gus Hill's marvellous performance.

CHICAGO, Jan. 4.—Alf Kennedy, the backer and manager of Billy Myer, the Streator "Cyclone," who defeated Jimmy Carroll at New Orleans last Tuesday, was in Chicago to-night with Myer, and had something to say regarding the challenge issued by Jack McAuliffe.

"Two days ago McAuliffe challenged Myer, it has been stated," said Kennedy, "for a side stake of $7500, to which the New Orleans Olympic Club added a purse of $10,000. When President Noel of the Olympic Club at New Orleans telegraphed the proposition I wired in return as follows: 'Time too short (Feb. 25). Besides, McAuliffe must pay us forfeits due $1000 before we engage in any further business with him. His past conduct has compelled me to ignore him. He is only bluffing. There is no forfeit and I consider him too much of a squelcher to make good. Please accept thanks for your generous offer.'"

Continuing, Kennedy said: "Knowing as I do that McAuliffe is a looking-glass fighter, insincere and bluffing, I intend to ignore him and all his bragging until he acts the man and discards the guise of a newspaper pugilist. I will take no notice of McAuliffe until he pays the forfeit he owes to Myer, when he (McAuliffe) backed out last January."

"The light-weight championship of the world," added Kennedy with the concurrence of Myer, "lies between Myer and Carney, and we are anxious to meet the pugilistic champion, forgetting that McAuliffe is alive. We'll meet Carney in either this country or England."

Barnett Leaves Sully.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 4.—Jack Barnett, formerly business manager for John L. Sullivan, severed his connection with the latter Saturday. Barnett states his action is due to an accumulation of grievances extending over five years, the time he has been with Sullivan.

ATHLETICS.

McNeil Lost Money on the Tug of War, But Will Try Again.

NEW YORK, Jan. 4.—H. McNeil, the big black-bearded Californian who dropped $10,000 in an endeavor to make international tug of war a profitable amusement in New York city, is a true sport. He might have quit the Madison Square Garden tournament when he felt the first shells of the "fro" which was to envelop him and leave him penniless, but that is not the kind of men they raise in the Golden State.

On Thursday, when he knew that all hope was gone and that if he continued he would drop the rest of his "roll," he said: "I'm afraid this is going to be a bad failure, but I'll keep the show going while I've got a cent. My principal regret is that the sport did not interest the public, for it's really a great pastime."

He walked into The Sporting Times office yesterday before his departure, and announced he was going to California to make another "pile," and that he would be back in April to try the New Yorkers again, win or lose. He said there would be lots of changes made in the rules, the principal amendment doing away with long pulls, and he was quite confident that the reconstructed tug-of-war would be a big attraction at the Garden then. He is certainly a daring and game man.

Ned Hanlan was to leave San Francisco on Tuesday evening, Dec. 22. According to The Call, if Peterson wanted to row him he would return in February and accommodate him.

Freedom, 2:29, the once champion yearling, is to come east in John Goldsmith's California string next summer. He is said to have improved wonderfully and to be marked as good for 2:12 next summer.

along and it took well. Besides this he garnered up a lot of minstrel talent in the company with him of considerably better quality than last year. He do not have to furnish all the fun as heretofore.

The performance was a good all-round minstrel entertainment, affording very hearty enjoyment to the audience.

Clara Morris at the Queen's.

Clara Morris, who will be at the Queen's next week, says an exchange, stands in the very front rank of her profession as an actress. Particularly in those roles that call for a display of intense feeling is she most successful. Her fame rests not upon any one play, for in Camille, Article 47, Miss Maiton, Odette, Renee de Moray and others the same degree of marked success has been achieved by her. She begins a week's engagement at the Queen's Theatre next Monday evening, appearing for the first time in Montreal. The repertoire for the week will be as follows: Monday and Thursday evenings and Saturday matinee, Sardon's Odette; Tuesday and Friday evenings, Camille; Wednesday and Saturday evenings, Renee de Moray. The only matinee occurs Saturday afternoon. A large and exceptionally strong company surrounds her.

with the make-up of the champion team for next year. Long before there were any indications of peace between the National League and the American Association, in fact, before the players left for their homes at the expiration of last season's contracts, the club management wisely secured the names of all the players who had made such a gallant and successful fight for 1892.
