EIGHTY-SEVENTH YEAR NO. 216. MONTREAL, SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 8, 1894. PRICE ONE CENT.

CONGRESS CONCLUDED.

LABOR MEN ELECT P. J. JOBIN, OF QUEBEC, AS PRESIDENT.

THE NEXT ANNUAL MEETING TO BE HELD AT LONDON, ONT.

Various Subjects of Legislation Dealt With at the Closing Session.

[Special to the Herald.]

Ottawa, Sept. 7.—The Trades and Labor Congress concluded its business this afternoon and will meet in London, Ont., next year.

Ottawa, Ont., Sept. 7.—The Trades and Labor Congress resumed its business at 9 a. m. again to-day. It was decided to urge upon the Quebec Government the necessity of appointing building and scaffolding inspectors.

The admission of Patrons of Industry was discussed and a number of propositions discussed.

On motion of Mr. Darlington, of Montreal, it was decided to admit representatives of the Patrons on the same basis as Trade Councils are admitted.

It was also decided to ask that the Government to give letter carriers to all towns having populations of 5,000.

When Congress adjourned at noon a lively discussion was going on over a resolution of Delegate Page asking the Legislature to pass a law authorizing the running of street cars on Sunday.

An amendment was moved to this by Delegate MacDonald asking Legislature to pass an act preventing all employment of labor on Sunday that was not absolutely necessary.

The following resolution was moved by Delegate O'Donoghue and seconded by Delegate Hetherall: "That it is inexpedient and inadvisable that any body or organization be accorded the right of representation in the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada not clearly and officially pronounced and in favour of a minimum rate of wages, the shortening of the hours of labor in all branches of industry and in opposition to the expenditure of public money in the aiding, encouraging, or bonusing of immigration from abroad to the Dominion of Canada."

The resolution was lost.

The following resolution was carried:

"Whereas the masses are interested in and bear their portion of the expenditure of all municipal moneys; therefore be it resolved that it be an instruction to the Executive Committee to petition the Legislatures of the provinces to so alter or amend the municipal act of the various provinces as to allow the entire electorate of the municipalities to vote on all money by-laws."

Another resolution was adopted to the effect that the Quebec Government compel factory inspectors to inspect all shops employing five persons or more, which duty has not been performed up to the present.

The Executive were instructed to press upon the several Governments of the Dominion the advisability of adopting a system akin to the cumulative or Hare-Spence system of voting in all public elections.

A resolution was adopted recommending a change in the Ontario statutes to the effect that the assessment of farm, garden or nursery property in cities, towns or villages, whether incorporated or not, be placed at a figure corresponding with what the property would freely sell at.

It was decided to ask the Ontario Government to amend the Factories Act by striking off the schedule attached thereto and increasing the minimum age of boys to fourteen years.

The Committee on Standing Orders recommended that the Congress record its approval of and its concurrence in all acts done and measures passed upon at previous sessions of the Congress and inconsistent with the action of the present session of the Conference.

This concluded all the business except the election of officers.

Vice-President P. J. Jobin, of Quebec, and Delegate Boudreau, of Montreal, were nominated for the presidency. Mr. Jobin received 23 votes and Mr. Boudreau 15, so that the former was elected.

For the vice-presidency, Delegates A. R. McDonald and P. M. Draper, both of Ottawa were nominated. Delegate McDonald got 31 votes and Delegate Draper, 9.

Delegate G. W. Dower, of Toronto, and Delegate Metcalfe, of Montreal, were nominated for the secretary-treasurership. Delegate Dower was elected secretary for the seventh time, the vote standing 34 to 5 in his favor.

Delegates E. A. Connell, Ottawa, Jno. Armstrong, and D. Carey, Toronto were elected as the Ontario executive.

Delegates H. L. Langevin, Quebec, N. Page, Hull, and Wm. Darlington Montreal; were elected as the Quebec executives.

Secretary Dower read a letter from the Winnipeg Labor Council of Winnipeg asking that the next convention be held there. A similar letter was read from the London Trades and Labor Council. Montreal, Quebec and Cornwall were also suggested as places for the next meeting.

A vote being taken, it stood as follows: London, 27: Quebec, 7; Cornwall, 3; Winnipeg, 2; Montreal, 1. Congress will therefore meet next year in London.

A few formal resolutions were passed, after which Mr. Beales vacated the chair and Mr. Jobin took the same. The latter made a forcible speech and closed by thanking the members of Congress for the honor conferred on him. This concluded the business of the Congress.

Canadian Secular Union.

Toronto, Sept. 7.—The Canadian Secular Union held the first session of its annual meeting to-night, Capt. R. C. Adams, of Montreal, in the chair. In the course of his opening address he referred to the improvement which had taken place in the law as to taking oaths under which affirmation was allowed instead of an oath on the Bible. He advocated the taxation of Church property and the freeing of Sunday from restrictions now existing.

LOTS OF MONEY.

THE FINANCE COMMITTEE VOTES $150,000 FOR VARIOUS PURPOSES.

WILL ST. GABRIEL RATEPAYERS BE OBLIGED TO PAY SCHOOL TAXES TWICE.

$60,000 Wanted for a New Fire Station in the West Ward—Reservoir Leaks to be Investigated.

The Finance Committee held its first meeting since the vacation yesterday afternoon. All the members were present and apparently not much disturbed by the threats of actions against them.

The question of over-expenditure was brought up by the City Treasurer, who presented a report. Mr. Robb said that since the first of August he had paid on pay lists an amount of about $30,000 in excess of the limit over which the City Controller could not legally accept warrants. But the stoppage of these payments would have entailed results so serious to the citizens at at large that he felt justified in making the disbursement. There were besides many tradesmen and contractors who were waiting for their money. They were, as a rule, very considerate, and part payments were advanced to them. However, it should be understood that there was no difficulty in procuring money. The revenue was coming in in excess of what was appropriated, and the only trouble was that the money was not legally available.

Ald. Rainville said that he believed the origin of the whole trouble lay in the extravagant expenditure of the Committees during the first four months of the year. He wanted an estimate of this expenditure.

The statement was ordered, and in the meantime Mr. Robb was requested to go on as he had done.

It was decided to have the revenue of the markets insured to the extent of 50 per cent. of their value at the cost of $300 per year.

Rev. Mr. Leclerc and M. N. Archambault, of the Catholic School Commissioners, appeared to ask that the school tax for the first six months of the year be paid to them now, as they were in need of money, and were legally entitled to the payment according to the opinion of the City Attorney.

Mr. Archambault also called attention to another and a very serious matter. Since 1889 St. Gabriel Ward has been annexed to Montreal for school purposes, and the School Commissioners of Montreal have been supporting the schools of that Ward. However, the City Treasurer has not been collecting the school tax. The old board of School Commissioners of St. Gabriel has continued to collect that tax, and has applied the proceeds towards paying its debts. After consultation with Mr. Robb, Mr. Archambault says that they had come to the conclusion that the city was authorized to collect the tax, and will do so this year.

But the school commissioners of Montreal are not satisfied with this. They want the old Board of St. Gabriel during the last to get the amount of the taxes collected by four years.

Will the rate payers be obliged to pay these taxes once more?

The Finance Committee did not undertake to discuss these questions, but referred the whole matter to the city attorney.

Ald. Beausoleil presented the report of the Health Committee recommending the addition of an electric plant to the Gregory Farm incinerator. He said it was an urgent matter as it was necessary to place this plant in position before the incinerator was completed, or else the cost would be much greater.

Ald. Prefontaine confirmed what the Chairman of the Health Committee had said, but Aldermen Savignac, Rainville and Smith objected to consider the report until it was sent regularly to the Council, and because any change in the specifications would mean that the city would have to accept the incinerator whether it was good or not.

Ald. Leclerc denied this. The electric plant would be entirely independent of the incinerator, and it would supply light for the Gregory Farm and the Water Works, which would mean a saving of $2,000.

After some more discussion, Ald. Beausoleil withdrew his report.

Ald. Prefontaine presented the report of the Roads Committee for paving St. James Street West with asphalt from Windsor to Mountain Street, at a cost of $24,000. The Sicilian Asphaltum Co. was ready to go ahead with the work on the same terms as it had done that part east of Windsor Street, and if the Finance Committee was ready to vote the money, the Roads Committee would go ahead with the work to-morrow. The report was approved, it being understood that the contractor will wait for payment until next year.

Permanent sidewalks will be laid along the same street at a cost of $7,500.

Ald. Prefontaine next asked for $24,000 to grade and macadamize Delorimier Avenue. It was decided to grant $15,000.

Next was the report to pave St. Peter Street from Notre Dame to Commissioners Street in asphalt, and scoria blocks were needed, at a cost of $10,000.

At this point Ald. Smith said it was perfectly ridiculous to vote money that way on the eve of winter.

Ald. McBride—"I object to your saying it is ridiculous as far as St. Peter Street is concerned."

The report was carried, and Ald. Stevenson said that moreover the street should be widened without further delay.

A sum of $1,678 was granted to the Health Committee to pay the extra work on the foundations of the incinerator chimneys.

Ald. Costigan did not mince matters. As Chairman of the Water Committee, he asked for $160,000 to lay water pipes. He was granted $53,219 for that purpose.

The reports for repairs to the aqueduct were next brought up, and $12,000 were appropriated to that object.

As to the repairs to the reservoirs for which more thousands are required, Aldermen Hurteau and Smith were appointed a sub-committee to investigate the matter.

Ald. Stevenson presented the report of the Fire Committee for an appropriation of $60,000 to build a station in the West Ward. He suggested the present central station might be sold, and the proceeds applied to pay the costs of the new station. "Well," said Ald. Hurteau, "we shall get the assessed value of the present station, and we shall then know what the net outlay will be. By next Monday we can consider the matter. Ald Stevenson went away much dissatisfied, threatening to resign and saying that he laid the whole responsibility on the Finance Committee."

Ald. Nolan was granted $1,400 to pay for the extras on St. Antoine Market.

The subject of the tenants' claims re the East End Station expropriations was next brought up, and it was resolved that a special meeting would be held next week to consider them.

After which the gentlemen of Finance adjourned having voted $150,000 as if the city had never known what financial stringency means.

BLAMED THE RAILWAY.

The Point Where Mr. Cregan was Killed Should Be Protected.

The inquest on the body of Matt Cregan, of 43 McCord Street, who was killed by G.T.R. cars on Wellington Street on Monday, was concluded by Coroner McMahon yesterday afternoon. Several additional witnesses were called, and one of them, a wire-weaver named Richard Hogan, swore positively that the bell on the engine was not rung.

Michael Cregan, son of the deceased, said his father had driven an express for about fifteen years. His sight was very good, but he was rather deaf. Still he would be able to hear the bell if it rang.

Richard Luttrell, agent for the Grand Trunk Railway Co., Point St. Charles, said that there was an arrangement between the company and the city authorities that no trains should run on the wharf during the daytime, but trains were allowed to run as far as McGill Street in the daytime.

The coroner having summed up, the jury were left to consider their decision and after about ten minutes deliberation they found that the accident was not due to the carelessness of the men on the train, but they blamed the Grand Trunk Co., for not protecting the track at the point were the accident occured by placing a gateway there.

CHAMBRE DE COMMERCE.

General Cadastre of Montreal—The New Building.

The first monthly general meeting of the Chambre de Commerce since the holidays was held yesterday afternoon in the Council room, 81 St. James Street. President H. Laporte was in the chair. The committee on the insolvency law and on the commercial museum reported progress. The latter reported that during July a preliminary report was sent to the Minister of Trade and Commerce, whose reply conveyed the impression that he was favorable to the scheme, and would do his best to promote it. The report on the summer excursion showed the receipts and expenditure just about balanced each other. The secretary was instructed to write to all members in arrears with their contributions. L. E. Morin, sr., gave notice of motion for the next monthly meeting that all members more than one year in arrears with their contributions be written off the list. Mr. Parizeau, M.P., demanded that correspondence should be resumed concerning a general cadastre of the city of Montreal. In regard to the purchase of the property at the corner of St. Lambert Hill and St. James Street, the President reported that some difficulties in the way of obtaining a clear title prevented the transaction being yet completed. The secretary was instructed to write to the Postmaster-General, complaining of the insufficient stamping of letters handed to mail clerks on trains. O. S. Perrault, Alfred Trudel, H. Dufort and J. E. Beaudry were admitted as members.

THE FRENCH WARSHIP.

Arrangements for the Reception of the Officers.

The Board of Directors of the St. Jean Baptiste Society held a meeting last evening at which it was decided that the President and officers will go on board the Neilly this morning along with the Mayor and representatives of the French colony to welcome the officers.

The French officers will be invited to attend Mass at Notre Dame on Sunday.

The French colony will give an entertainment in their honor at Sohmer Park, the profits to go to the French House of Refuge. The Acting-Mayor, Ald. Reneault, and the City Council will also give the visitors a drive to the Mountain top, and a lunch.

The St. Jean Baptiste Association may give a concert-promenade in the Monument National on Wednesday evening. The band of the Naiade is coming with the Neilly and may participate in this concert.

Admiral Maigret will not come to Montreal and it is the wish of the officers who are coming that no unusual demonstration be made in their honor.

Caughnawaga News.

The Indians of Caughnawaga received a visit yesterday from the Indian Commissioner Hayter Reid and were pleased with the attention he paid to them. Among other things Mr. Reid on behalf of the Government, contributed towards the necessary repairs for the reserve roads in the three counties of Laprairie, Napierville and Chateauguay and also for repairs to the boys' school. Mr. Reid also presented the Indians with a large British flag for their loyalty to the British Crown.

About 150 of the hop pickers who went to Cazaville with Louis Jackson at the head have returned, not at all pleased with the treatment they received.

It is reported in Caughnawaga that the Indian who committed the murder at St. Regis has been arrested.

Found Drowned.

Hugh Johnson, 50 years of age, a carpenter, has been missing from his home since August 31st. Yesterday morning the body of a man answering to Johnson's description was taken out of the river near the Dominion wharf, and in the afternoon it was identified as the body of the deceased by his widow. It is at present lying at the Morgue, where an inquest will be held this morning.

BUSINESS REVIEW.

LIKE AN APRIL DAY WITH ITS CLOUDS AND SUNSHINE.

The Features of the Week—The Wheat Supply—Failures and Bank Clearances.

New York, Sept. 7.—R. G. Dun's review says: The business outlook is much like an April day, with alternate clouds and sunshine. In some branches strong improvement still continues, while in others trade is diminishing. For some time to come, it is likely, conditions in different trades, and even in different minor branches of the same trade, may vary widely.

The Government crop report is expected to foreshadow a great loss in corn while other observers believe reports materially exaggerated, and estimates of the yield range all the way from 1,300,000,000 to 1,700,000,000 bushels. The wide uncertainty affects business prospects to some extent.

The change of duties has brought the Government during the week $4,243,593 in customs, which is less than many expected and receipts are rapidly declining, while internal revenue has dropped off to $2,147,582, of which more than half was actually received in the previous week. But by rescinding its order regarding deposits of gold here against notes delivered at interior points, the treasury has gained more gold in a few days than by the increase in customs receipts.

Of the aggregate volume of trade no exact measure exists, but payments through clearing houses for the first week of September were 7.1 per cent greater than last year, though 29.7 per cent. smaller than in 1892. Perhaps settlements on past business affects the record, but it also appears that commercial loans are not increasing and are limited, while western demands for moving the crops are much smaller than usual, indicating limited demands in other business there.

The iron manufacturer has materially increased its output since the coke trouble ended, but with the result that pig iron is weaker. At all Eastern and central markets the demand for finished products is somewhat disappointing and prices gradually tend downward.

Failures in August aggregate liabilities of $10,139,477, of which $3,172,330 were in manufacturing and $5,078,153 in trading concerns. During the week the failures were 215 in the United States, against 322 last, and 47 in Canada, against 25 last year.

BANK CLEARINGS.

New York, September 7—Bradstreets reports the total bank clearings at the principal cities of the United States during the past week as $794,382,538, an increase of 8.4 per cent. over corresponding week last year. Outside of New York the total clearings were $388,381,245, an increase of 20.5 per cent.

For the Dominion of Canada the clearances were: Montreal, $8,459,284, decrease 18.1 per cent.; Toronto, $3,946,267, decrease 35.0 per cent.; Halifax, 1,030,617, decrease 14.2 per cent.; Hamilton, 672,403, decrease 6.4 per cent.; Winnipeg, 769,426.

BRADSTREETS REVIEW.

New York, Sept. 7.—Bradstreets to-morrow will say: Special telegrams to Bradstreets from more important distributing points make it plain that in mercantile lines trade is fairly active, fully meeting earlier and more favorable anticipations in a majority of instances, and exceeding them in some. An increased number of interior buyers at large cities within the week has served to stimulate the feeling of hopefulness and, aside from the cotton mill strike in New England and distress in the Northwest, due to forest fires, the week has not brought unfavorable features. Staple prices tend upward, except for wool.

The grand total of 88,358,000 bushels of wheat available, United States and Canada, September 1, is 25 per cent. larger than a year ago and the heaviest stock ever held on a like date. The increase in American and Canadian available wheat stocks in August was 4,855,000 bushels, the largest August increase on record, with the exception of August, 1892.

The total number of business failures in the United States this week was 207, compared with 192 last week, and with 379 in the first week of September, 1893. In the corresponding week of 1892 the total was 146, and in 1891 it was 238.

There are 29 business failures reported in the Dominion of Canada this week, against 32 last, 27 in the week a year ago and 29 two years ago.

The Day in Wall Street.

New York, September 7.—The Evening Post says: There was less disposition to trade in stocks to-day than on any earlier occasion in the week, and except for some desultory hammering at the Granger stocks in the afternoon, nothing of consequence was done up to the close. The stock market has clearly enough "discounted" long in advance the trade revival now in progress elsewhere, and is at present waiting for a cue from some other quarter. In reality nearly all the the Stock Exchange's professional attention was bestowed to-day on the industrial securities, and of these the stock of the whiskey trust absorbed most of its interest. The existence of this morbid activity is a fair barometer of dead calm elsewhere in the market. The "news" on this interesting property assumed, as well it might, a somewhat more personal character to-day. To speculators in such stocks as this, the services of a private detective would be more useful than those of a student of statistics.

Nearly Killed.

G. Leonard, a little girl of 11 years, fell from a balcony at her home, 75 Rivard Street, last evening a little before six o'clock and nearly killed herself. The Notre Dame ambulance responded and she was taken to the hospital. It was discovered that she had injured herself internally as well as sustaining a badly bruised face and body. The little girl may die, and at a late hour last evening was in a critical condition.

Dropped Dead.

A. Lafond dropped dead suddenly last evening about five o'clock in the dry goods store of Filiatrault and Lesage, 285 St. Lawrence Main Street. He was removed by the Notre Dame ambulance to his home, 150 Rivard Street. The coroner was notified.

Killed at the Iron Works.

Hopewell, N.S., Sept. 7.—Neil Bearisto, of the Charcoal Iron Works, Bridgeville, met a sad death this morning while running a loaded car down the branch to the main line. A flat car following tore down the steep grade and collided with the preceding car. Bearisto was thrown from the car under the wheels and terribly mangled. The poor fellow died at 11.30 after suffering intense agony. Bearisto came to Pictou from Maine three years ago. He was about thirty years of age and was shortly to be married to a young lady from Bridgeville.

SOUTHERN RAILWAYS

Passing Into the Great Vanderbilt System.

Chattanooga, Tenn., Sept. 7.—From a thoroughly reliable source the Times is informed that the underwriters, as they may be termed, of the reorganization scheme of the Richmond and West Point terminal and the East Teanessee, Virginia and Georgia Railway Company, are none other than the Rothschilds, of London and Paris, and Cornelius and William Vanderbilt, of New York. The organization plan provides for $30,000,000 of new capital, to be used in heavier rails, new bridges, new equipment, terminals, extensions, etc. The Southern Railway Company has now acquired 4,500 miles of road. There is now very little doubt that the Southern Railway project is simply an extension of the Vanderbilt system into and through the South. This will be the greatest railroad combination on earth, bringing 25,000 miles of the best railroad property in America under the control of the Rothschild and Vanderbilt combination.

BURNING GRAIN.

The Warehouse of A. L. Hurtubise and Co. Seriously Damaged.

Ten minutes after the mystic hour of twelve o'clock last night one alarm followed by two others in quick succession rang for what promised to be a bad fire on the premises of A. L. Hurtubise and Co., grain, flour and provision merchants, at 42 Jacques Cartier Square. The Brigade responded promptly and surrounded the burning three-storey building from Jacques Cartier Square to St. Vincent Street. The fire started somewhere in the second flat but the cause is unknown and the watchman there had just gone his rounds. Smoke poured ont of the two upper stories of the building so densely that the firemen were badly hampered both before and behind, and the grain and provisions stored inside furnished fine food for the flames. Something seemed wrong with the firemen at the front, for streams were not effective, and falling glass frightened men and cut many, so that the fighting was hard. The ladders were utilized to the fullest extent in the top flats, but the flames were bursting out at the top as if no water was being poured on at all.

Mr. Hurtubise was on the scene, and said that property, building and stock were all his, and were fully insured. The loss was estimated at from eight to ten thousand dollars. The cause was probably spontaneous combustion. Flames spread into the warehouse of Dupuy and Co., importers of seeds of all kinds.

The damage there was very slight and mostly by water and smoke. The premises of M. Moody and Sons were damaged by water, smoke and fire to the extent of about $1,000.

Fireman Felix McKercher, of No. 7, who was doing duty for No. 4, cut his hand badly in five or six places and was removed from a ladder in front. Dr. Cotret was on hand and attended him.

J. Dagenais, of No. 6 ladder, was cut in the eye by falling glass and was also fixed up by the doctor.

Great alarm was felt among the guests of the Richelieu Hotel, as the flames looked fierce and threatening. Plenty of trunks were packed, and clothing was also removed from the premises.

The fire chiefs had all their men systematically arranged and worked every department to its fullest extent.

SIR HECTOR TO RETIRE.

May Not Seek Re-Election—Geo. De Boucherville's Death.

[Special to the Herald.]

Quebec, Sept. 7.—It is asserted that Sir Hector Langevin will not seek re-election in Three Rivers at the coming general elections but intends retiring from public life. Mr. Panneton, Mayor of Three Rivers, and Mr. Denoncourt are both spoken of as probable Conservative candidates.

Mr. George De Boucherville, brother of the ex-Premiers of the Province, succumbed to a second attack of paralysis at his summer residence on the Island of Orleans, last night. The deceased was eighty years of age. He had been clerk of the Legislative Council from 1867 to 1890, when he retired owing to ill health. He was the able author of "Une de perdue deux de trouvees," a French-Canadian romance, and of two or three other works.

The case of the Queen vs. Larken-Connolly and Co., is still proceeding before Judge Burbidge. Sir Hector Langevin was examined to-day for the defence.

A sailor of one of the French frigates named Jules Moisan fell from a yard and taken to the hospital yesterday. He received dangerous injuries and may not recover.

A High Compliment Paid to Canadian Banks.

Toronto, Sept. 7.—A special London cable to the Evening Telegram says: At the general annual meeting of the Bank of British North America to-day Richard Glynn, the chairman, said that the result of the last half year's business had been disappointing. It had been found impossible to lend money at paying rates. The balance sheets reflected the great depression which affected the entire North American continent.

A high compliment was paid to Canada concerning the way her commercial concerns came through the depression. The banks were a credit to the Canadian banking system.

FIFTY WEAVERS ON STRIKE.

TROUBLE AMONG THE EMPLOYEES OF THE GLOBE WOOLEN MILLS.

THEY COMPLAIN THAT A SYSTEM OF FINES REDUCED THEIR WAGES.

Reply of Manager Sommerville Who Claims that a few Malcontents Induced the Workmen to Quit.

The Globe Woolen Mills, situated at the corner of Ontario Street and Papineau Road may soon be obliged to close.

Yesterday fifty of the weavers went out on strike. The mills employ a great number of hands, but the majority of them have no grievance; only the weavers claim that they have a grievance. But if the weavers do not agree to return to work, it will entail as a consequence the loss of employment to all the hands of the mills.

At present the weavers have completed sufficient work to enable the other employees to continue on their machines, and if the difficulty can be bridged over in a short time, the mills may not be obliged to close.

One of the weavers, speaking to the Herald last night about the difficulty, said: "At the time of the strike, which took place at the Montreal Woolen Mills, on account of a reduction in the employees' pay, the Globe Woolen Mills decided also to reduce wages, but as the hands of the Montreal Woolen Mills Company returned to work, the hands of the Globe Woolen Mills decided to submit to a reduction of their wages. Lately the company has been exacting a scale of fines which had partly fallen into disuse, and this considerably reduced our wages and we considered that it was better for us not to work at all than to have to take smaller wages, considerably reduced by fines. Therefore we decided to strike, hoping that the mill-owners will be obliged very soon to accede to our demands, especially as our action in the matter will force all the hands to abandon work, on account of lack of material, which we are supposed to furnish."

THE MANAGER'S STATEMENT.

"We have no grievance" said W. Sommerville, manager of the company last night when seen by the Herald. "I did not know there was a strike. I only knew from the foreman of the weaving department that about 35 men did not return to work in the afternoon."

"Why did they not?"

"Well," he replied, "they were hoping for better things and may get worse. Times are hard, and if the men quit they are acting on the principle of cutting off their nose to spite their face. We could fill their positions to-morrow, but it is, at this juncture, unnecessary as our work will continue almost the same."

"Have you reduced wages lately?"

"No. The weavers are all paid by the piece and we kept the men on all last winter and intended to keep them on this year but in this case their action does not incommode us."

Asked if fines had been imposed on the workmen, he replied that all weavers were fined for imperfect work.

All large woolen factories had a scale of fines, and the results all depended upon the skill of the weaver. Their employees, he said, went out four years ago under similar circumstances, but they were glad to come back.

Mr. Sommerville claimed that the trouble was a few influencing a lot of other workmen to quit, and that his foreman told him some men wanted to work after lunch and the others urged them not to do so.

He claimed that the men had no grievance, and that the Company had made no alterations in their system of operating from past years. He paid a compliment to his French workmen by saying they were the most satisfactory, and indicated that Englishmen were the most troublesome. He thought the weaving department could stop now for a while and it wouldn't matter much, while better things are hoped for in the future.

A GREAT VAULTER

ROBERT WATSON, OF THE M.A.A.A., SHOULD WIN THE CHAMPIONSHIP.

IN RECENT TRIALS HE HAS EASILY BEATEN ESTABLISHED RECORDS

The Montreal Entries For the A.A.A. Games—To-morrow's Big Lacrosse Matches In Montreal And Toronto—Quebec's Coming Games —General Sporting News.

The M.A.A.A. has a wonder, in the person of a modest young Englishman named Robert Watson, who is one of the most remarkable pole vaulters in the world. He has been entered for the American championship games next Saturday and if he does not win without turning a hair it will be owing to a series of circumstances out of the ordinary run.

Mr. Watson was formerly a member of the Ulverstone Athletic Club, of which T. Ray, who held the English championship for pole vaulting in 1884, '5, '6 and '7, was also a member. He has been in Montreal since June last and has practised steadily at his chosen line of athletics since he has been here. His method of clearing the high bar is that which has been performed with no small success by others in the past. He takes off easily, very close in the poles and when the vaulting pole has come to a vertical position clambers up several feet in a most astonishing manner. In recent trials at the M.A.A.A. grounds he has cleared 11 feet 8 inches with comparative ease and it would be hard to say just how much he could do if he wanted to. The English championship was won last year with a vault of 11.02, and the American with 10.06, so that the performance of Watson may easily be seen to be remarkable.

It is understood that the A.A.U. changed its rules since last season in such a manner that Watson's method of vaulting is debarred, but be this as it may the M.A.A.A. forwarded his entry last night. Under the English and Canadian rules Watson's manner of vaulting is quite legitimate and it is to be hoped that he will be enabled to bring the American championship back to Montreal.

The other entries sent forward last night by Secretary Weldon of the M.A.A.A. are those of Jack Tees for the 220 yards and 440 yards, H. D. Carr for the 100 yards, and A. W. Gilford for the 440 yards and half mile. The games take place next Saturday.

THE WHEEL.

It Will Revolutionize Racing.

Speaking of improvements in bicycles, the New York Tribune says: There has not been any very great improvement, except in the specialty of tires, within considerable time past. One recently patented, but not yet put upon the market, will no doubt, when introduced, be the means of making many second-hand wheels cheap, unless, as is said, it may be attached to any first-class bicycle now in use, and so sold instead of being made the basis of an entirely new machine.

It is the invention of an exceptionally ingenious mechanic, named Bernard Granville, and is a new device for transmitting power from the pedals through a rod instead of a chain gear, and, by means of a series of pinions on the rod engaging with a cogged disk on the rear wheel, transforming power to speed, or speed to power, at the will of the rider and while in motion. A "worm" at the handle-bar causes the back-ward or forward moving of a spline so as to lock either one of the five pinions at will, applying the power near the periphery or the centre of the disk as desired, and so governing the speed of the machine, without any change in the rate of motion of the pedals. Thus the rear wheel may be made to turn once with one revolution of the pedals, giving increased power for ascending a steep grade; or three times to a revolution, enormously increasing the speed; or all the pinions may be unlocked and the pedals remain motionless while the machine is swiftly coursing down a hill; and there are intermediate gradations of speed, all under the easy control of the rider's thumb and finger.

H. E. Raymond, Chairman of the Racing Board of the League of American Wheelmen is of the opinion that under the rule this new machine could not be excluded from competition on the track, even though it made winning a foregone conclusion for its rider. That would not be the case, however, with another new invention—also built, but not yet brought out— which is to be propelled by the rider's arms as well as his legs.

THE RING.

Jackson Won't Go to Sioux City.

Chicago, Sept. 7.—"I shall pay no more attention to the Sioux City offer for a fight between Corbett and myself," Peter Jackson said last night. "There seems to be no tangible front to the delegation reputed to be at the head of the syndicate, if indeed, there is a syndicate."

"I have about given up hope of getting a match with Corbett," Jackson continued. "I journeyed across the continent at great inconvenience and expense, and my efforts went for naught. I was inclined at first to catch at the Sioux City offer, in something of the spirit that faint hope catches at any straw, but I know that Corbett has theatrical engagements far ahead and therefore will not make a match with me. Of course he will keep talking fight, because that serves to advertise his theatrical business. If the Sioux City delegation which is said to have left that place for the purpose of arranging for a fight has arrived, it seems strange that they could not be found. That they may have gone through to see Corbett first and have therefore passed me does not satisfactorily explain the matter to my mind. It rather convinces me, if anything, that there is nothing to the whole thing but fustian. I have done all I can to bring about a meeting with Corbett and that individual stands in the light at present of a champion who will not defend the claim to his title."

Green Defeats Spider Kelly.

San Francisco, Sept. 7.—George Green has won the championship of the Pacific Coast by defeating "Spider" Kelly in fourteen rounds at Como, just beyond the bounds of this city and county. Green had the better of the fight all the way through but did not follow his advantage by knocking Kelly out. In the fourteenth round the sheriff of San Mateo interfered and the referee awarded the fight to Green. Kelly has never been beaten, and it was generally believed he would retain the championship. Green fought Paddy Smith near Chicago last year under the name of Young Corbett. His coach was James J. Corbett. Green's instructor and Jim threw up the sponge in the 28th round.

Prof. Stevenson Wants a Fight.

Sporting Editor, Herald.

Dear Sir,—In perusing the sporting column of your valuable paper this morning, I noticed a paragraph signed "No. Bluff," in which it states that he is willing to fight Mr Glover or myself, and accordingly means business. If "No Bluff" will meet me in your office, I will see that he means "no bluff," for I will be ready to arrange a match with Mr Dick Guthrie to fight in four weeks' time. I will allow him six weeks' time to get in fix. An early reply will be gladly received by yours,

PROF. W. J. STEVENSON.

BASEBALL.

Brampton Has a Star Team.

Brampton, Ont., Sept. 7.—The following is the team the Excelsiors will play against the Shamrocks of Montreal on Monday:

Fallis, goal; Roberts, point; Heggie, cover point; J. Stewart, first defence; R. Stewart, second defence; Allan, third defence; Warbrick, centre; Milner, third home; W. Stewart, second home; K. Peaker, first home; E. A. Peaker, outside home; W. Dawson, inside home; Sam Charters, captain.

Reduced fares have been arranged for on both railways from Toronto and elsewhere.

Valleyfield Plays Square.

Valleyfield, September 7.—The Ottawa papers have been full of reports to the effect that Valleyfield Lacrosse Club were putting on a lot of dark horses for their Intermediate game with Ottawa on Saturday next. There is not the slightest foundation for the report. They will play the same team as has represented them all season.

Maple vs Elms.

The match on Saturday between the Maples and Elm Lacrosse Clubs will take place on the Elm grounds, Cote St. Antoine, corner Metcalfe and Western Avenue. Play will start at 3 o'clock sharp. This match will decide the championship. The Maples Committee picked the following twelve: A. E. Read, W. Findell, J. Dobby, F. Stephens, J. Chisholm, J. Murphy, J. Canfield, W. Hay, B. Day, P. Quinn, J. N. Kearns and C. MacKerrow. Captain A. MacKerrow.

Quebec's Team for Sherbrooke.

[Special to the Herald.]

Quebec, Sept. 7.—The Quebeccers left this afternoon for Sherbrooke, where they play the Sherbrookes for the lacrosse intermediate championship. They were accompanied by quite a number of friends. The team for this match is composed as follows: Copeman, goal; A. E. Swift, point; B. Murphy, cover point; W. Davidson, R. Davidson, D. Watson, defence field; M. Dinan, centre; P. Walsh, T. Hurley, A. Kennedy, home fields; T. Dinan, outside home; M. Murphy, inside home. Gingras having a sprained ankle had to be replaced by Copeman, of the juniors, in goal, and T. Hurley replaces Mulcair, who is no longer in the team. The junior, McManamee, will be spare man. Copeman proved to be a strong, quick, and cool goaler in the practicing games this week.

The topic of conversation among the amateurs is the great exhibition match on Monday between the Capitals, of Ottawa, and the winged Q. L. local team had a good training and showed much improvement this week.

It was feared that Watson, who is suffering from a serious blow he received on the hand in the recent match between the Shamrocks and Quebec, would not be able to play, but at all events he will appear on the field to-morrow at Sherbrooke and on Monday here.

LACROSSE.

Farnham will not Default.

[Special to the Herald.]

Farnham, Que, Sept. 7.—The local baseball team will go to Ottawa to-morrow to play their last schedule game notwithstanding the statement to the contrary as appeared in to-day's Herald. The Farnham's have not yet defaulted a game, and that is more than can be said about Ottawa, as they failed to show up at Farnham on August 11th. Although the team to-morrow will be composed entirely of local players they are confident of success.

To-day's Big Match.

To-day's lacrosse match on the M.A.A.A. Grounds between the Capitals and Montrealers will start at 3 o'clock instead of 3.30. The officials selected are: Referee, P. McKeown; Umpires, T. Butler and W. J. McKenna. The match will be one of the best of the season.

The Shamrocks Off.

The Shamrocks left for Toronto last night via Canadian Pacific. Harry Brophy, who will referee the match, was also on the train. The Toronto team is said to have been strengthened, and Rosedale should see a good game this afternoon.

The Crescents to Meet.

There will be a general meeting of the Crescent Lacrosse Club, Monday evening at 471 Craig Street. Business of importance will be brought up and the team are specially requested to attend.

A Local Crank's Views.

Sporting Editor Herald:

Sir,—Under the heading "Farnham's Unsportsmanlike Conduct" in to-day's news of the diamond you publish an Ottawa special calling our attention to the default of the "prospective champions" (Farnham) to Ottawa. While I emphatically agree with your correspondent, Farnham's action is certainly "unsportsmanlike," I just as emphatically maintain that a much better heading for the special would have been "Retaliation." These two teams met first in Farnham when after a brilliant game the local club won by 5 to 2. The rural team then went to Ottawa and were again victors by 15 to 14. Both games were as full of excitement as an egg is full of nourishment, and the ball cranks of Farnham all impatiently waited Ottawas coming. The best gate of the season was promised. But Ottawa defaulted, but now they set up a wild howl because Farnham has acted "unsportsmanlike." The travelling club pays all expense of a trip, while the home team cuts the coupons. Now the team deprived Farnham of a big gate, did they not? I think the M.P.'s would have displayed much better judgment had they not grumbled when paid off in the same coin they had no scruples in dealing out to Farnham.

Fleetwood Park Trotting.

New York, Sept. 7—There was nothing listless about the harness racing at Fleetwood Park to-day, whatever may be said as to the class of same of the horses engaged. The day's doing began with an an exciting episode when the first heat of 2.22 class was trotted.

Just as the field of horses passed the point of rocks closely bunched. Cocoon and King Darlington somehow came into collision, and Geo. H. Martin, who drove the stallion, was thrown violently to the ground. The horse ran away, dragging the sulky behind him at a furious rate, pursued by some mounted policemen, who finally succeeded in stopping him just after passing the wire. Martin was badly cut and otherwise injured. When Darlington started to run, Quarter Stretch who had been trotting in the lead, was set running by his driver in order to escape being run down by the runaway stallion and came the last quarter of a mile on a gallop. The judges raised a storm of jeers when they announced "no heat" as the result instead of placing the horses as required by the rules of the turf. There was such a vigorous remonstrance that the officials reversed their ruling and gave the heat to Quarter Stretch. This was, if possible, worse than their first mistake, as Eastview, who came in second, had trotted the entire course, while Quarter Stretch ran in from the three-quarters.

Racing at Gravesend.

New York, Sept. 7.—In spite of a meagre card, which was still further reduced by scratching, the attendance on this, the opening day at Gravesend, was excellent, but the contests were scarcely worthy of the name, the difference between to-day's races and those at the Sheepshead Bay meeting being most pronounced. Summaries:

First race, six furlongs—Stonenell, 123 (Simms), 1 to 5, won by two lengths; Correction, 119 (Littlefield), 4½ to 1, 2; Mendicant, 107 (Fox), 100 to 1, 3. Time, 1.15½.

Second race, one mile and a sixteenth; selling—Candelabara, 110 (Doggett), 2 to 5, won by a length; Miss Dixie, 97 (Isom), 12 to 1, 2; Song and Dance, 97 (Griffin), 20 to 1, 3. Time, 1.48¾.

Third race, Seashore Stakes; One and a half furlongs—Salvation, 103 (Lamley), 20 to 1, won; Silvie, 115 (Littlefield), 3 to 2, 2; Manchester, 118 (Taral), 2 to 1, 3. Time, 1.08.

Fourth race, one and a sixteenth miles—Patrician, 115 (Simms), even, won; Sir Knight, 112 (Doggett), 4 to 1, 2; Stone Nellie, 112 (Reiff), 60 to 1, 3. Time, 1.48¾.

Fifth race, five furlongs, selling—Golden Rod, 95, (Griffin), 1 to 2, won; Second Attempt, 100, (Pen), 25 to 1, 2; Cockade, 95, (R. Doggett), 15 to 1, 3. Time, 1.02.

Sixth race, six furlongs—Assignee, (Hamilton), 15 to 1, won; Wernberg, 100, (Griffin), 6 to 1, 2; Adelbert, 104, (Penn), 20 to 1, 3. Time, 1.14¾.

Why not get your old suit cleaned for Fall wear? There is one place in town where it can be made like new; where the cost is little and the results are profitable and satisfactory. Old worsteds are relieved of the domestic looking-glass appearance in shiny sleeves, etc. Frayed edges are neatly repaired, new linings inserted, patching done like new, and old clothes beautifully renovated. Where is that place? Don't miss the No. at 47 Beaver Hall Hill, old No. 39. The business is owned and operated by L. Weisburgh, whose prompt, polite and expeditious attentions to all patrons, has already developed a large and growing trade amongst all classes. Visit Mr Weisburgh and be satisfied.

The torture of dyspepsia and sick headache, the agonizing itching and pain of salt rheum, are removed by Hood's Sarsaparilla.

CHAPTER XXII.

She said no more, except by way of thanks, so the next morning I went across the road and began playing my new part of a tutor to youth.

The ice being broken between Mrs. Merton and myself, it was not long before I made opportunities for closer intercourse. Indeed, before a week was out, I was spending the evening at the opposite house, and that evening was the first of many.

What kind of a woman did I find my neighbor? Of course, she was not a lady, although in the course of her career she had picked up enough to enable her to pass muster fairly well. There was something about the woman to dislike—nothing, except her passionate devotion to her children, to like. Whatever may have been her life since she left Lady Estmere, that life was wrapped up in her son and daughter. It was because I praised, truthfully enough, the boy's talents that she admitted me into her friendship. So far as I could sum the woman up, she was a vain, somewhat bad-tempered creature, fearful, I am sure, that her low origin would be discovered.

She told me when, after a while, she began to be confidential to me, that her late husband was a lawyer, who died young, and left her with two children, and very little to rear them on. Whether she spoke the truth—whether she was ever married—is a thing I have not yet discovered, and having no interest in the discovery, shall not try to make it. She seemed rather curious to know something about myself, and, having no object in a concealment, I told her exactly where I came from, and the little I knew about my family. I was amused to find, from several little tokens, that her minute inquiries had been made because she had imbibed the perhaps not unnatural idea that her daughter's charms had induced me to introduce myself to her family circle.

The girl was a nice, quiet, well-behaved young woman, who played and sung very sweetly, but my heart was proof against all attractions, and Mrs. Merton must soon have been convinced that she had made a mistake in attributing my visits to her daughter's charms.

Then, I fancy, a spice of the old lady's maid vanity and coquetry made her wonder if it could be possible I came for her own sake. After all, she was not an old woman, and retained many traces of good looks. I must soon have undeceived her, and left her to fall back upon my interest in Charley as an explanation for my visits.

Perhaps Mrs. Merton wished to make me believe that she had at one time moved in good circles, for shs frequently mentioned the names of distinguished people, with whom she implied, rather than stated, she had an acquaintance in other days. These, no doubt, were persons whose existence became known to her while she served as Lady Estmere's maid. One day she said to me:

"You know many people in London, I suppose?"

"A great many."

"Do you know any people named Estmere?"

I could scarcely repress my start of astonishment. For a moment I hesitated how to answer her question.

"I know a Lady Estmere, and her son, Valentine."

"Those are whom I mean. What is she like now?"

"She is very good-looking, although her hair is quite white. Did you know her?"

"Yes, before I was married."

I said no more, thinking it was better to wait her pleasure.

"Is she happy?" she asked, after a pause.

"How can she be happy? Her husband left her years ago, and they tell me will never return to her."

"But great ladies get over that sort of thing, don't they?"

"I am not a great lady, Mrs. Merton, so can't say."

TAKING A FRIEND'S ADVICE

MR. THOMAS ADAMS TELLS THE HAPPY RESULT THAT FOLLOWED.

He Was Suffering From a Severe Attack of Rheumatism—Would Have Given Anything to Secure Relief—How a Cure Was Brought About.

(From the Brantford Courier.)

A brief statement in respect to the recovery of Mr. Thomas Adams, of St. George, will no doubt be of considerable interest to suffering humanity in general and particularly to those who may profit somewhat by the experience hereinafter set forth. Mr. Adams is a stone mason by trade and resides about a mile east of St. George. At present he is operating the Patten Mills and is well known and respected in the neighborhood. In order to gain all the information possible concerning the circumstances of the cure, a representative of the Courier proceeded thither to investigate the case. Mr. Adams was found at work in his mill. He is a man of about thirty-five, healthy and vigorous, a man whom one would not suspect of having had any ailment. When interviewed he cheerfully made the following statement:—"About three years ago when at work at my trade I contracted, through over-exposure, a severe attack of muscular rheumatism, which confined me to the house for three weeks, during which time I suffered the most excruciating pain, being hardly able to move. I was so bad that I could not lie down, had to just let myself fall into bed. When attempting to rise I had to turn over upon my face and crawl up, there being only one position from which it was possible to rise. I would have given anything at this time in order to secure relief. My first thought was to call in a regular practitioner, so I procured one of the best physicians in the neighborhood, but he did not seem to get control of the malady. After treating me for some time he left of his own accord saying he could do nothing for me. About this time a friend of mine persuaded me to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Finally, I decided to give them a trial, I soon experienced a decided improvement and was mending rapidly, the terrible pain left me and I had considerable relief and was able to get around with the use of a crutch. After the further use of the Pink Pills I was so far recovered as to be able to resume work and since that time have been free from the complaint. I do not now feel any of the soreness and stiffness of the joints, I can get right up in the morning and go off to work without any feeling of uneasiness whatever. I have every confidence in Pink Pills and heartily recommend them. I believe them a good thing to take at any time to get the blood into good condition and if I felt any illness coming on I would, instead of calling a doctor, send at once for a box of Pink Pills."

When strong tributes as these can be had to the wonderful merits of Pink Pills, it is little wonder that their sales reach such enormous proportions, and that they are the favorite remedy with all classes. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills contain the elements necessary to give new life and richness to the blood and restore shattered nerves. They are an unfailing specific for locomotor ataxia, partial paralysis, St. Vitus dance, sciatica, neuralgia, rheumatism, nervous headache, the after effects of la grippe, palpitation of the heart, nervous prostration, all diseases depending upon vitiated humors in the blood, such as scrofula, chronic erysipelas, etc. They are also a specific for troubles peculiar to females, such as suppressions, irregularities and all forms of weakness. In men they effect a radical cure in all troubles arising from mental worry, overwork, or excesses of any nature.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are manufactured by the Dr. Williams' Medicine Company, Brockville, Ont., and Schenectady, N. Y., and sold in boxes (never in loose form by the dozen or hundred, and the public are cautioned against numerous imitations sold in this shape), at 50c. a box, or six boxes for $2.50, and may be had of all druggists, or direct by mail from Dr. Williams' Medicine Company at either address.

MONTREAL, SEPTEMBER 8

THE MORNING EDITION.

Has a Larger Circulation than all the other Morning Papers of the Province of Quebec combined.

THE EVENING EDITION

which was first issued on the 11th of June has been a success from the start and is increasing in popularity and circulation daily.

THE COMMERCIAL SITUATION.

Since our last review the millinery openings of the dry goods trade have taken place, and were attended by large numbers of retail traders from different parts of the country. It devolves more upon the fashion editor than upon us to describe the variety of the styles that are to bid for feminine favor this season, but it can be said, without hesitation, that the new hats and bonnets are warranted to make a husband forget their cost when he sees one on his wife, and to make the young men think that home is nothing without a wife when he sees one of these millinery chef d'œuvres upon the head of his inamorata, for Cupid lurks frequently in a dainty hat, and beauty adorned is beauty multiplied.

From a practical standpoint the openings have been reported as a success, and as there is considerable activity now in other branches of dry goods also, merchants in this line of business are not without happy anticipations. The economy practiced throughout the country generally during the past year or two has undoubtedly left a good many homes in a state approaching Cinderella, who could not go to the ball for the same reason as Miss Flora MacFlimsey, and if the remarkable success with cheese, and the good returns from other farm products leave a surplus in the purse a good many will not longer ignore the advice of Polonius to his son: "Costly thy habit as thy purse can buy."

In the grocery trade there has been no new developement during the week, but the activity in teas and sugars, to which we have already directed attention, continues to encourage the trade. Coffee, canned goods and dried fruits share in the revival of business. The cable from Amsterdam reports the next Government sale of Java coffee as set for the 11th instant, with 22,000 peculs; brokers' valuation 51½c for good ordinary. The clearances from Santos on 1st Sept. were 12,000 bags and on 4th Sept. 44,000 bags. The present situation in New York is not encouraging to high prices. Afloats for the United States exceed 500,000 bags, and present indications point to an increase of 400,000 bags in the world's visible supply. Reports concerning the European rice markets state that prices are advancing, exports from the east having almost ceased, while the demand is increasing on account of a bad potato crop. Rice will apparently be "as eagerly sought after at high prices as it was totally neglected last year at low prices."

The market for pig iron continues firm with a scarcity of Scotch brands, Summerlee selling ex-ship at $20. The market for bar iron is in by no means so satisfactory a condition, prices being frequently cut, and small quantities being sold at the same rate as large. Tin plate has declined from 3d to 6d in England, and this has naturally affected the local market, especially as the demand from the United States that was expected did not take place.

At this season it is becoming possible to estimate the probable fall and winter condition of business, and to do so properly we have to turn most particularly to agricultural matters. The wheat crop has had a very good summer, and is being harvested in the Northwest for the first time before frost has touched it. Taking into consideration the various causes and influences at work to enable the Northwestern farmer to take his grain to market cheaper than heretofore, there is little doubt that, notwithstanding the low prices, the profits this year will be considerable. In the cheese trade there seems to be no falling off in interest. Prices have advanced steadily during the past month, and sales at 11c are now reported for September-October goods. The shipments for the season up to 31st August were 936,409 boxes, compared with 854,006 boxes for the same term last year, an excess of 82,403 boxes. It is generally thought that there will be a shortage in the fall make, owing to the drought in the West, but this opinion is not universal, although it is influencing the market. The apple trade is beginning to move, and will be active in a few weeks. It is currently reported that the English crop is poor, and although this is denied, the opinion seems well enough believed to lead to contracts being made at pretty high figures, while, at least, one dealer is transgressing the rules of the Fruit Buyers' Association by promising "the rise" also. In the hop trade there has apparently been an over-production this year, in view of the small foreign demand. On the whole, however, there can be little doubt that the agricultural community has had a very fair year, and that the country, as a whole, promises a good trade for the future.

That the promise is more than usually welcome cannot be doubted, in view of the very dull condition of the local money market, and the long continued falling off in the volume of bank clearings. The increase in the amount of cash on hand held by our banks indicates by its distribution rather an idleness of funds than a precautionary measure, as also to a considerable extent do the investments in securities other than commercial paper. The very serious decline in the net earnings of the Bank of British North America (which very wisely decreased its semi-annual dividend on that account) indicates also the pressure upon banks in respect of finding remunerative investments, but this does not indicate the real condition of affairs here. The Canadian market is rather better at the moment in this respect than those in which the bank does a large volume of its business. The Molsons Bank, for example, has declared its usual half-yearly dividend.

The local money market is, however, dull, and even the Stock Exchange this week has been quiet. The Robidoux-Clerk case still drags along, and it does not look as though the prosecution will win, if irratibility of temper is any indication of a weak cause. Mr. Robidoux might have spared the press the charge of being prejudiced to him. During the week the death of young Lepailleur, the Savings Bank embezzler, preached a sermon of great import to all young business men. Temptation can be resisted better at the outworks than in the heart of the citadel "Il n'est que le premier pas qui coute."

A PLAIN ISSUE.

It would be difficult to imagine a plainer message than that which Mr. Laurier has carried to the people of the Northwest. The attitude of the Liberal party towards the National Policy cannot be mistaken. It was declared before that policy was brought into effect; while it was still an airy figment of the vivid fancy of the meager Old Guard, which eighteen years ago represented the entire strength of the Canadian Conservatives. It has been consistently maintained through all that time, and has found no stronger support than in the showing of the policy itself. It was defined in accurate terms at the Ottawa Convention, and that definition has been the basis of every speech which has since issued from the lips of any duly accredited Liberal.

The Liberal leader and the Liberal party arraign the National Policy on the ground of its inherent worthlessness, as much as of its palpable and confessed failure. The material advancement of the Canadian people, along certain lines of endeavor and success, since the establishment of the National Policy, has been claimed by the Conservative party as a direct result of that policy. It has been argued on the other hand by the Liberals that that measure of prosperity has been won through the bounteous natural resources of the country and the energy and thrift of the people; in spite of the National Policy rather than by reason of it, and the truth of this argument has been attested by the obviously evil effects of the protective system, the elemental system of the National Policy, upon the fortunes of the masses of the people. Along many lines, where abundant prosperity should have followed the simple course of natural development, the country and the people have not advanced. In many other regards they have fallen back. But even if the period of the National Policy had been contemporaneous with a period of exceptional and individual prosperity; if there were such good ground for the argument that the National Policy had not retarded the progress of the Dominion, that fortunate result must be attributed to accident and there would still be reason in the condemnation of the National Policy; on the ground that, based as it is upon a principal at once fallacious and fradulent, it must remain potent for injury alike to fortunes and to morals.

It is an issue so grave, so fraught with good or evil to the energies and institutions of the country, that it cannot be obscured. If the Liberal party could not, on any other grounds, read clear its title to popular acceptance; it must stand near the people on this: that it has declared war to protection, with its entire train of privilege and corruption. The economic evil of the system is more clearly seen by the people with every day that finds them taxed for the benefit of a class, and for the benefit of that class alone. It has been condemned so loudly that the Conservative Government has confessed wrongdoing, and made at least a pretense of divesting it of some of its cruelty.

But important as is the economic evil, the moral evil is even more important, as being more far reaching and more generally demoralizing in its effects. "We do not pretend," says Harper's Weekly, discussing the situation in the United States, "that the protective system is the only source of political corruption. But we do affirm that we cannot, by legislative favors, enable industrial interests to make great profits without suggesting to enterprising and greedy persons that such legislative favors are worth buying; and you cannot encourage men sent by the people into legislative bodies to bestow favors of such pecuniary value without suggesting to them that a price might be put upon them. Thus the protective system offers every imaginable inducement and opportunity for corrupting on the one hand, and for being corrupted on the other. Therefore we affirm that while, indeed, the protective system is not the only source of political corruption, it is in a republic (and clearly in any country under popular government), the most systematic and the most powerful promoter of it. The longer the protective policy lasts, the more systematic and powerful will its corrupting influence become, until at last, as the American people have now witnessed, to their consternation and shame, it grows strong and insolent enough to defy with its arrogance and to baffle with its power even the expressed will of the people."

To the undoing of this great evil the Liberal party has pledged itself. That is a cause great enough to stand alone. The Liberal party has other arrows in its quiver, and they are flying home. But its great fight is on this theme: The National Policy has failed to do anything but make life in Canada harder to live than it should be; the protective system must be abolished. It would be too much to expect that local or sectional issues should not in many cases obscure this issue. But it is the issue on which the battle, now drawing very near, will be fought.

Sir Oliver Mowat is suffering from a bad cold, caught in a way down which elderly gentlemen go oftener to their deaths than by any other. He followed the body of his late lieutenant, Christopher Finlay Fraser, to the grave, stood in his bare head at the grave's edge, and went home seriously ill himself. This is one of the commonest features of the barbarity of the funeral as it has come down to us from our fathers. But it is improbable that so long as the funeral remains the only means to the testimony of the living to the worth of the dead, the danger will ever suffice to prevent the payment of such tribute as both custom and personal inclination dictate.

A WILD DREAM.

According to the Toronto Week, the proposal which will be discussed at the Waterways Convention this month is a "proposal to connect the Great Lakes with the Atlantic Ocean by means of artificial waterways of such depth and magnitude that large ocean-going steamships may pass, with their cargoes, from the Atlantic to the very heart of the great North-American continent, and return laden with the grain of the Western prairies." The Week does not agree that this is "a wild dream of some hare-brained enthusiast." It says that "everyone who gives a little attention to the matter must admit that such an enlargement of the existing canals, themselves almost world-wonders in their earlier days, is not only theoretically possible, but is after all but a question of money and labor, and engineering skill." There could be no conceivable project of a like nature which would not be a matter of "money, and labor, and engineering skill." But there are many such projects which are nothing but the wild dreams of hare brained enthusiasts. Of these the proposal that sea-going vessels should climb the canals to Toronto is one of the wildest, and if the organizers of the convention at Toronto think of confining the discussion within such limits, they should call the convention off now.

A new crime has been fastened on the Liberal leader. "With all his silvery eloquence", says our staid contemporary, the Toronto Week, "Mr. Laurier does not seem to possess the power of varying the form and language in which he clothes his ideas, to so great an extent as might be desirable in one who has the difficult task of speaking on the same topics night after night, in the presence of the ubiquitous newspaper reporter." This is even worse than eloquence or winning personality. If Mr. Laurier would command the attention of his audiences, he should say as little as Sir John Macdonald used to say on the platform and say it as badly.

"The tariff presents neither congruity nor unity of purpose; no general principles seem to have been applied. The tariff often aims at incompacible ends; the duties are sometimes meant to be both productive of revenue and for protection, objects which are frequently inconsistent with each other. Hence they sometimes operate to the complete exclusion of foreign produce, and, in so far, no revenue can of course be received; and sometimes, when the duty is inordinately high, the amount of revenue is, in consequence, trifling. They do not make the receipt of revenue the main consideration, but allow that primary object of fiscal regulations to be thwarted by the attempt to protect a great variety of particular interests at the expense of revenue, and at the expense of commercial intercourse with other countries."

The above was written 54 years ago in the report of a Parliamentary Committee which had been investigating the protective tariff then in force in the United Kingdom; but if written to order it could not better fit the National Policy. Its object is "to protect a great variety of particular interests at the expense of commercial intercourse with other nations."

Judge Archibald, revising barrister for St. Antoine Division, will be in his offices on Monday, Wednesday and Friday evenings from eight to ten, for the purpose of attending to the enrolling of voters.

Bankruptcy Sales To-Day.

Two prominent bankruptcy sales are, one at 2411 St. Catherine Street, of hats, caps, waterproofs, furs, etc. This is part of the stock formerly the property of William Samuels, and ladies and gentlemen are positively neglecting their financial interests by not attending. Store is open until 10 p.m. Call in and see for yourself. The other bankrupt stock now selling is one of dry goods, at Nos. 1865 to 1867 Notre Dame Street. This is the greatest dry goods sale ever inaugurated in this part of the city and thousands of ladies have visited it, the past week. The sale still continues. This store is open evenings also. Dress goods almost given away.

The Central Canada Exhibition at Ottawa.

In making various improvements at the Exhibition Grounds for the benefit of the exhibitors, the Directors of the Central Canada Fair have not forgotten the machinery men, whose territory is on what is called the Island. A special roadway is being made to the Machinery Buildings and the latter have been largely increased and improved. Judging by the entries received, machinery men have heard of the improvements made for their benefit, and the display will no doubt be far superior to any ever before seen in Ottawa.

THE CORN EXCHANGE AND HARBOR IMPROVEMENTS

CANDIDATES FOR THE BOARD GIVE THEIR VIEWS.

Robert Archer and John Torrance Think Plan 6 Sufficient.

A meeting of an unusual character in business circles was held in the Exchange Hall of the Board of Trade yesterday. Through the death of Charles H. Gould the Corn Exchange Association's representation on the Harbor Board has become vacant, and the meeting was called to hear the opinions of the probable candidates for the position on questions affecting the Harbor. The members of the Association present were: D. G. Thomson, President; W. W. Ogilvie, Jas. Allen, Robert Archer, John Baird, R. Eickerdike, H. A. Budden, S. Cookson, E. F. Craig, T. A. Crane, James Currie, C. B. Esdaile, R. M. Esdaile, John Fairbairn, Wm. Gear, O. M. Gould, J. E. Hunsicker, Edgar Judge, G. M. Kinghorn, Abner Kingman, Victor Major, Hospice Labelle, H. Mason, Robt. Meighan, Alex. Mitchell, Stewart Munn, H. E. Murray, A. G. McBean, Alex. McFee, M. T. McGrail, John B. McLea, Ewan McLennan, James S. Norris, R. Peddie, H. W. Raphael, David Robertson, Jos. Robillard, J. R. Ronald, R. T. Routh, Jas. Scott, J. Lionel Smith, M. B. Smith, Wm. B. Smith, Wm. Stewart, James Thom, A. G. Thomson, Geo. A. Thomson, T. S. Vipond, R. E. Wight.

President Thomson explained the object of the meeting. He referred to the fact that the Association's representatives in the past had been men of such commereial experience and great business ability as W. W. Ogilvie and the late C. H. Gould, and then laid the views of the committee of the Association before the meeting clearly and plainly. It was the opinion of the committee that until the present works are completed no further extension of the Harbor should be undertaken. It must be apparent to anyone connected with shipping and walking along the quays from West to East that there was a great amount of harbor accommodation which was seldom if ever used. A ship never had to lie at anchor in the stream for want of a berth, except it wanted some particular berth. "It is the opinion of your committee also that a reduction in harbor dues on both outward and inward cargoes in this port would be far more likely to increase the business of the port than any further harbor extension at the present time." The Government representatives on the Harbor Board are removable at will, and Mr. Thomson believed that the Corn Exchange should have the same right. The present representative will serve until August next, when there will be another election for a four years term. If before that time their representative failed to represent their views by voice or vote he should be prepared to resign on the demand of a majority of the Association (Hear, hear.)

A. G. McBean proposed Robert Archer. Edgar Judge, in supporting this proposition, referred to Mr. Archer's long connection with the Trade of Montreal, and the energy to which was greatly due that splendid building in which they were. Of three candidates mentioned for the position two were shipping men, and as the steamship interests was already fairly well represented on the Harbor Board he favored Mr. Archer's election.

Mr. Archer, in a very short and straightforward speech, defined his views. Everyone knew the importance of making the port charges as light as possible. This could not be done if a large debt was contracted, which would necessitate extra charges being imposed on ships or cargoes, or both. He was in favor of economy in every department, and of plan number 6, except for such modifications as the Board might deem necessary. He was against any extension till the necessity should arise, and also against any extension in the East End. He impressed upon the Association that he did not seek election, but had consented to allow himself to be nominated when asked by Mr. Kinghorn. He had no interest in the East End or in the C.P.R., no axe to grind, no party, personal or sectional interests to serve, and if he was elected he would do his best to faithfully represent the interests of the Corn Exchange Association.

A. G. McBean expressed his satisfaction at this declaration of policy.

R. M. Esdaile, while disclaiming the wish to say anything against Mr. Archer, did not think the shipping interest would be over-represented if the Association elected one of the other two gentlemen spoken of. He proposed Mr. John Torrance, and as that gentleman is out of town, he read a letter from him, of which the following is an extract: "I desire to state that I am heartily in sympathy with the plan known as number 6, believing firmly that it will provide for all the requirements for many years, and in connection therewith I strongly favor a dry dock which can be used by the largest steamers. I do not think the time has come for extensive improvements in th East End as in the scheme now before the public, and it would not be wise to burden the harbor with the cost until it is conclusively proved that the plan now being carried out will not provide all the accommodation necessary." Mr. Torrance points out that steamers will seek the West End, where the business portion of the city is, and that the extra cartage from the East End would be heavy.

The meeting concluded. The election must be held before the 29th inst.

THE ST. HENRI INCINERATOR.

To the Editor of the Herald:

Sir,—Some days since you published a letter of mine accompanying it with some comments and extracts from my report, had you published the statement which was attached to my report the extracts would have more intelligible to the general public and would have shown clearly what I reported to the Health Committee that it took 22 tons of coal per month to burn 55 tons of garbage per day, and not as reported by you in the first place that it took 22 tons of coal to burn 55 tons of garbage.

As such an impression would be damaging to Mr. Smith, I trust you you will put the matter right.

THE POLICE INVESTIGATION.

A Special Civic Committee Will be Appointed.

Ald. Prefontaine stated yesterday that he would move at next Monday's meeting of the Council that a special committee of the Council be appointed to investigate into the condition of the police force. If those who are attacking the force are not satisfied with that let them ask for a Royal Commission. The aldermen themselves would not declare that they are incompetent to hold an investigation.

ABBE PERRIN'S DESIRE.

He Wanted the City to Pay His Way to Washington.

Among those who called on Acting Mayor Reneault yesterday was the Rev. Abbe Perrin, the French priest who has been interdicted by Archbishop Fabre. He wanted to go to Washington to lay his case before Mgr. Satolli and he had been told that the Mayor could supply him with a round ticket to Washington. Ald. Reneault said that he was not sufficiently familiar with the jurisdiction of the Mayor to say whether he could give a ticket or not and he invited the Rev. gentleman to call again when Mayor Villeneuve is around.

A SENSATIONAL CASE.

The Brown Case is Expected to Furnish Interesting Evidence.

The famous Brown case is to be tried in appeal within a few weeks, at the close of the Criminal Assizes. Young Brown is still in town, and his friends have urged him to fight the case to the end.

Mr. Peers Davidson, of McGibbon and Davidson, who is conducting Mrs. Brown's case, expects that he will be able to produce sufficient evidence to do even more than sustain the judgment of Judge Dugas. Brown was sentenced to a fine of $50 and costs, or one month in gaol, but Judge Wurtele, who will hear the appeal without a jury, has the power to modify or extend the penalty. In the meantime a great deal of evidence has been secured, which will be produced at the coming trial, and there is no doubt but that it will prove one of the most sensational cases of its kind that Montreal has ever known.

NO ENCYCLICAL LETTER.

Rome, Sept. 7—Enquiries made by the Associated Press correspondent at the Vatican to-day regarding the statement published by a news agency, stating that the Pope is preparing an encyclical letter, to be addressed to the bishops and people of the United States, announcing the absolute supremacy of the Apostolic delegate in church matters in the United States, with the single right of appeal to the Pope, show that there is no truth in the story. The Pope's only present project is to publish, at an indefinite date, a Pontifical letter, exhorting the American Episcopate in favor of the Catholic University at Washington and advocating sending as many students as possible to that institution.

POISONED THROUGH MISTAKE.

A Sherbrooke Druggist Takes Medicine In the Dark.

[Special to the Herald.]

Sherbrooke, Que., Sept. 7—Sherbrooke's popular druggist, L. E. Mathieu, lies dangerously ill at his residence, the result of accidental poisoning.

Last night not feeling well he went home earlier than usual. About an hour later finding himself no better he got up in the dark and taking up a bottle containing what he believed to be a sleeping potion, he drank a dose of a very concentrated solution of morphine mixed with chloroform.

Dr. Camirand, Dr. Pelletier, and Dr. Rioux are attending and have small hopes of his recovery. Mr. Mathieu is well known in Montreal, where he resided for a number of years.

The River Accidents.

The Steamship Hamilton is still aground near Contrecoeur and will likely stay there for some days, as it will be necessary to remove most of the cargo before she can get off.

The Steamship Mereddio is off the shoal near Ile Ronde and will go into dry dock. She took in some water but the damage is not believed serious.

Liquor Men Organizing.

It is understood that the liquor dealers are to have a meeting at an early date to organize an association to fight the Dominion Alliance. One of the most important items which they will place upon their programme, and which was not originally intended for publication, will be an inquiry into the reasons why the Oxford saloon should be particularly chosen by the Alliance and "prosecuted" from year to year. There is a large-sized rumor that the liquor men will ask why the few saloons in the neighborhood east of University Street are allowed to exist without any trouble whilst the Oxford is attacked every year.

Mr. Colmor is looking into immigration and other business. The Civil Courts.

Judge Tait rendered judgment yesterday, in the case of J. Lefebvre vs. D. A. Beaulieu, dismissing plaintiff's action. Defendant, who is proprietor of a house rented to plaintiff, built a wing to the said house. Plaintiff alleged that it was uninhabitable; he asked that more repairs be made. The whole case depended on a question of proof, and the court held that plaintiff had not proved his case. Judge Tait condemned defendants, in the case of F. St. Jean vs. O.Rochon et al, to pay plaintiff $117.50.

An action for $6,000 damages has been taken by Eugene Rheaume against the Empire Tobacco Company. Plaintiff alleges that whilst working for defendants, a large piece of wood was thrown at him by a circular saw, causing painful wounds. He attributes the accident to the negligence of defendants.

CITY HALL NEWS.

ALDERMEN CANNOT GET SIDEWALKS PUT DOWN.

Street Improvements Chargeable to Capital Recommended.

Sidewalks formed one of the principal topics of discussion at the meeting of the Roads Committee yesterday. Aldermen Kennedy, Grothe, Reneault and Brunet all had their complaints to make in behalf of their respective wards.

Ald. Brunet gave an instance where five hundred children going to a school on Mary Ann Street had to walk through the clay. In one rainy week they would spoil enough shoes to pay for a sidewalk.

"Are we going to wait till the snow falls and makes sidewalks for us?" asked Ald. Reneault.

Ald. Prefontaine had only the same answer to give, "No money." The matter rested with the Finance Committee.

"Well, then, I will tell my constituents to go for the Finance Committee," said Ald. Reneault.

But a moment after there was a petition for a permanent sidewalk on St. Denis street, between Mount Royal and Carrier Street, and Ald. Prefontaine said they could recommend it to the Finance Committee. It would cost $13,399, of which the city would pay one half.

"How is this," asked Ald. Reneault. "When my constituents cannot get a plank."

Ald. Prefontaine said something about the difference between capital and ordinary expenditure, but Ald. Reneault would not be convinced. The recommendation was made, nevertheless.

The Montreal Street Railway next had its inning.

Ald. Reneault said that the motor men ran their cars bround the curve on the corner of St. Lambert and St. James, Street with such speed that they must be fools. Only yesterday a carriage full of people was nearly upset. It was resolved to write to the Company.

The Company wrote to complain that a Mr. Kerr, on Wellington Street blocks the track with his drays so that it is impossible to give a regular service Ald. Kennedy will confer with Mr. Cunningham about the matter.

The Company also wrote offering to pay its share towards asphalting St. James Street West, if the city will go on with that improvement. Left on the table.

Mr. St. George reported that it would cost $560 to erect a railing around the monument on Place Royale. It was referred to the Finance Committee.

The Citizens Committee of the Chenier Ronument asked for a site between the City Hall and the Court House. The members of the Roads Committee did not think that was a suitable place. Viger Square has been suggested, but Ald. Prefontaine said the first monument erected there should be to the memory of the donator of the square. It was decided to suggest Papineau Square as a proper site.

Mr. Rochon, who was suspended some time ago for criticising the aldermen too freely, was reinstated in his position of foreman. He apologized and promises not to do it again.

CITY HALL NOTES.

The roll for the annual expropriations of 1892 has just been signed by the commissioners. Small pieces of property have been taken over by the city in every ward. The total cost is $51,000, of which the interested proprietors pay one-half. The roll is now on view at the City Clerk's office, and complaints will be heard on the 1st of October.

The Health Committee will meet this morning at 11 o'clock to appoint two milk inspectors and to settle the question of civic hospitals for contagious diseases.

BREVITIES.

"The Famous Bowery Boys," of Lakeside, left last night over the Delaware and Hudson for a trip to New York and the principal big American cities.

Alexander Marino was sentenced to 6 months imprisonment yesterday morning by Judge Desnoyers for stealing some three hundred dollars worth of merchandise from the cars of the G.T.R. at Longueuil. The accused's house was handsomely furnished with his spoils.

The body of a man was found floating in the river, near Long Wharf, yesterday, and was taken to the Morgue. It appeared to have been in the water five or six days, and is supposed to be that of a man named Johnson, who was reported missing. An inquest will be held.

The inquest on young Lepailleur, who shot himself in a saloon on Chaboillez Square Wednesday evening, was opened by Coroner McMahon yesterday morning at the Morgue. Evidence of identification was given, and the bar-tender of the saloon was examined. The inquest was then adjourned until Wednesday.

A bartender named F.H. Gadbois, in the employ of Theolime Lanctot, saloon keeper, St. Catherine Street, was arrested by Deputy High Constable Lambert yesterday on a warrant charging him with stealing 60 cents. He pleaded guilty and was remanded for sentence. Gadbois was the confidential man and had full charge. His defalcations are supposed to reach up in the hundreds of dollars.

Wm. Brophy, the man who kicked up such a rumpus at 13 Anderson Street Thursday afternoon when he brutally assaulted Mr. and Mrs. Feeley, was up before Judge Desnoyers yesterday. He pleaded guilty and was remanded for sentence and enquiry.

TROUBLE FOR BULGARIA.

The Conflict Between the Prince and Fallen Minister.

Sofia, Sept. 7.—Much comment has been caused by the behavior of ex-Prime Minister Stambouloff at his examination yesterday, when he was arraigned to answer a charge that he had insulted and calumniated Prince Ferdinand. The former Prime Minister was held in 5,000 francs' bail, which was furnished for his appearance. As he was entering his carriage after leaving the court-room he was attacked by a man who struck him with a stick. The assailant was arrested by the police. Subsequently the mob had gathered, attacked M. Stambuloff and his friends with stones as they were driving away, and they would probably have been injured had it not been that the police intervened to protect them.

London, Sept. 7.—A dispatch to the Standard from Vienna, says that M. Stambuloff was rendered temporarily unconscious by the blow from the stick in the hands of his assailant. It is added that the conflict between Prince Ferdinand and M. Stambuloff is proving pernicious to both men, and that troubled days are in store for Bulgaria. The crisis, the Standard's correspondent says, will not pass without important changes, and people who are able to judge this, already consider the throne of Prince Ferdinand will be shaken to its foundation.

FATAL BOILER EXPLOSION.

Mill at Three Rivers Blown up and Lives Lost.

Three Rivers, Que., Sept. 7.—Mr. J. A. Gagnon's saw mills situated across the St. Maurice River here were wrecked this morning by the boiler exploding. Both ends of the boiler were blown out, and the building in which it was situated scattered for several hundred feet. The body of the fireman, Sam Beaumier, was found at a distance of a hundred feet, with the top of the skull blown off. He leaves a wife and three young children.

The following were badly scalded and otherwise injured: Philip Gaudet, Daniel Loranger, leg broken; Napoleon Sanstete, wounded by broken glass; Philip Mercier, Dolphis Rocheleau, Bundock father and son, severely injured about the face; Joseph Charbonneau, legs hurt.

The loss to the proprietor is very heavy, as the mill is quite new and had only just commenced to run.

LOST IN THE FIRE.

SAD FATE OF A RAINY RIVER HOUSEHOLD.

SIX PERSONS BURNED IN ONE GRAVE.

Western Settlers Lose Their Homes and All.

[Special to the Herald.]

Rat Portage, Sept. 7.—Bush fires are sweeping the whole length of Rainy River. Fort Francis was threatened, but the citizens have succeeded in checking the flames. At Barwick, Thomas Weston and Arthur Ion, have lost their houses, barns, out-buildings and all the contents.

On Friday afternoon the fire raged on the Grassy River Road. Mr. Gamsby's house was surrounded and caught fire. Mrs. Gamsby, with her daughter, aged 18, a son of 16, two little children aged two and four years, and a baby of six months, started on foot for Rainy River, three miles distant, by the corduroy road, through a narrow cutting. The corduroy caught fire and their escape was cut off. All six were suffocated and the bodies of all, except the mother, when found, were nothing but charred remains. Mrs. Gamsby was alive when rescuers arrived, but she died on Sunday. All were buried in one grave on Sunday afternoon. The father and one son were in the woods and escaped.

Gamsby came from Sturgeon Point and was getting on well, having erected a large log house this summer. Last fall one of his sons, a young man of twenty years, was drowned by the upsetting of his canoe in the Long Sault Rapids.

The houses and contents of Philip Dorton, James Robertson, Wm. Dormer, August Huhnsdorf, George Watts, Horace Thecker and others were destroyed.

Nearly all the settlers and Indians at the Sault and Manitou Rapids, have lost their hay crops.

Thomas Neston, of the Township of Shinston, lost his house and all his outbuildings and crop.

Henry Osler, of the Township of Morley, lost his house and out-buildings.

The country is so dry from want of rain that whole fields of potatoes have been burned and many thousand of dollars worth of valuable timber destroyed.

RAINY CITY IS SAFE.

Rat Portage, Ont., Sept. 7.—The forest fires along the Sault Rapids swept with fury on both sides of Rainy River. Millions of feet of pine were destroyed. All crops, building, horses and cattle are gone. No loss of life occurred on the American side, but the fire is still raging. Hannaford was safe at last reports. Fort Francis had a narrow escape. Twelve families at Grassy River Road lost everything and are in want. Rainy Lake City is safe.

WORST OVER AT HINCKLEY.

Pine City, Sept. 7.—The worst is over at Hinckley. Three or four persons were discovered in a cellar yesterday west of the town, but it is believed few additional bodies will be found anywhere in this vicinity.

BRIEF DESPATCHES.

Premier Crispi, in an interview with a delegation of deputies, declared that although Italy would not seek any further extension of territory in Africa, she would never retire from Kassala.

A despatch received in Paris from Fez, Morocco, says that the troops commanded by the Shereef of Lamerani, while en route to Marakesh with the object of subduing some rebellious tribes were completely routed at Tadla.

The Austrian army manoeuvres closed at Landskrom yesterday with four hours' brilliant sham-fighting, during which two entire army corps, and over one hundred field pieces were engaged. Emperor Francis Joseph was present.

The recent collision with Chief Nana's tribesmen at the mouth of the Beniw River, West Africa, during which several English subjects were killed or wounded, has decided the Government to send gunboats to suppress Chief Nana. The trouble arises out of the opposition of the natives of Benin to British traders.

It is reported here that the Nicaraguans are preparing an expedition, composed of four hundred men, which will be sent to Bocas Deltoro, in order to demand of the Republic of Columbia the surrender of the ring-leaders in the fight of July 5. The Nicaraguan authorities at Bluefields continue to make arrests. Two British warships are momentarily expected at Bluefields.

By means of a false key tha county jail at Milan, Mo., was cleared of all its prisoners but one about daybreak this morning. The principal escaping prisoners were George and John Hart, and C. P. Staught, forgers, and generally desperate men. In addition to unlocking most of the doors, they made their final exit through a hole cut by them in a heavy brick wall. Blood-hounds were placed upon their trail.

Rheumatism Cured

Mr. Byron Crandell

"In July last I was taken with rheumatism in its worst form. Local physicians treated me, but their remedies did not give me any relief. I was advised to give Hood's Sarsaparilla a trial, which I did. I take great pleasure in stating that two bottles gave marked relief. Continuing regularly with the medicine, I am now cured. While afflicted I was frequently obliged to use crutches. I cannot recommend Hood's Sarsaparilla too highly. BYRON CRANDELL, engineer at Water Works, Toronto Junction, Ont.

HERALD MARINE RECORD.

PORT OF MONTREAL.

A whisper was passed about the harbor yesterday that certain ships were leaving port bearing live stock cargoes, without the proportionate number of men required for their care. On the Herald's enquiry at the Cattle Inspector's Office, facts were revealed that squelched the report. "We are always on the safe side," said Mr. Pope, and he kindly opened his books which he claimed were open to all. "Four men are required by law for every 100 cattle spaces, and all the steamers as far back as you wish to reckon have had ample provision. For instance, steamship Barrowmore, with 725 spaces, took 32 men; steamship Pomeranian, 704 cattle, 29 men; steamship Baumwall, 413 cattle, 17 men; steamship Lake Superior, 519 cattle, 23 men; steamship Etolia to London, 274 spaces and 130 sheep, 17 men. All these by mathematical calculation have more than are demanded." Mr. Pope went to the trouble to go back over the season's shipping and not a single discrepancy could be found. Another question that has recently been discussed is what is the jurisdiction of the local cattle inspectors. Some steamers are loaded with cattle and hay for a voyage to a certain port; they leave here and go to Three Rivers or Quebec to load further. The point is, that after any steamer receives a certificate from the cattle inspectors for food and cargo, it is no longer under control of this port or its officials.

Lussier, George Reynolds, John Booth, T. McMann and George Beck were pall bearers. A party of police, the Veteran Firemen, the Fire Brigade and the Police band took the lead in front of the hearse. The Veteran Volunteer Firemen turned out well, among whom were Messrs. C. N. Sims, Wm. Cunningham, T. H. Waddell, D. Bickerstaff, T. Richardson, John Conway, Wm. Heelan, L. St. George, J. Beckingham, N. Jackson, J. Naud, Wm. Caldwell, John Craib, J. J. Cairns, W. Dawes, J. Haseley, P. Lehy, Joseph Lafleur, C. H. Brown, V. King, F. Grotz and J. Knox. Some handsome floral wreaths were presented, and carried in a carriage behind the hearse. The procession reformed after the service and proceeded along Centre, Wellington, McGill, Union Avenue, to Sherbrooke Street, and thence to Cote des Neiges Cemetery. A large number of friends followed the hearse. The party broke off at the corner of Sherbrooke and Union Avenue.

Two Waiters Drowned.

Toronto, Sept. 7.—John Minnis, of 314 King Street East and James Rivett, 52 Carr Street, both waiters, were drowned in Ashbridge Bay at five o'clock this morning. They and Bryan O. Furey, another waiter, were pushing off a boat to go duck shooting when the three fell into twelve feet of water. Furey got out with difficulty but the others sank. Their bodies were recovered.

CITY AMUSEMENTS.

Owing to the absence from the city of "Paul Pry," the regular theatrical letters will not be recommenced until next week.

KELLAR.

The last two performances by Kellar, the magician, will be given at the Queen's Theatre to-day—matinee and evening performances, closing a successful week's engagement.

"CROSS ROADS OF LIFE."

The "Cross Roads of Life," which appears at the Queen's next week promises same startling mechanical effects. On Wednesday evening the Shamrock Athletic Association will have a theatre party of Edmund Collier who makes his re-appearance with the company.

"PRODIGAL FATHER."

The "Prodigal Father," sparkling with wit and abounding in funny situations, will appear at the Royal next week. The play is changed in some respects from last year to allow the introduction of specialties, and to those who like the latter the play cannot fail to be more than satisfactory.

SOHMER PARK.

The management of Sohmer Park has secured a number of new and novel attractions at the Park for the coming week. To cyclists all over the world the names of W. D. Wilmot and W. H. Barber are known as the famous Wilmot Duo the originators of more styles of riding than any others. This will be their first appearance in this city.

HERRMANN.

Windsor Hotel,
Montreal, Sept. 7, 1894.

To the Editor of the Herald.

Dear Sir,—Through some little neglect on my part in my letter addressed to Mr. Duff, chairman of the Fresh Air Fund, regarding the benefit I am tendering that institution on my farewell performance at the Academy of Music, Saturday night. I somehow neglected to mention that Mrs. Henry Thomas, the manageress of the Academy, thought so well of the idea that she kindly wished to contribute her share of the 50 per cent. which is to go the fund, so I would hate to omit acknowledging her generosity.

If you will kindly publish these few lines as an acknowledgment of her kind offer, I shall consider it a great favor.

I am,
Yours very respectfully,
A. HERRMANN.

"M'FADDEN'S ELOPEMENT."

"McFadden's Elopement" continues to afford great amusement to the patrons of the Royal.

SHERBROOKE'S FAIR.

Last day of the Township Exhibition—More Prizes.

[Special to the Herald.]

Sherbrooke, Que., September 7.—The largest and most varied programme of attractions has been arranged for to-day which is practically the last of the exhibition, the weather is good and a fair attendance is present. It is American visitors' day and special trains are run from the principal border points. Up to noon several hundred people arrived from Vermont. In the ladies' art department Mrs. Limelin, of Montreal, acts as judge. Speaking to the Herald this morning she stated that the show of fancy work was particularly good this year. At 2 p.m. the third and last grand parade of prize stock took place in front of the grand stand.

The entries for the races are as follows: 2.34 class, Eva B., J. Smith; Mollie Fuller, A. M. Sawyer; Henry T., J. N. Jenckes; Smith Boy, J. Boast; Commissaire, J. Harkness; Gold Star, H. Ingraham; Hunter, J. Battles; Munroe, J. Richardson.

Sherbrooke, Que., September 7.—The tenth annual exhibition of the Eastern Townships Agricultural Association came to a close this afternoon after a most successful week. Over ten thousand people were present on the grounds during the day. At five p.m. a double balloon ascension was made by Prof. Walcott, of Boston, and Miss Louisa Bates, which terminated in a remarkably successful manner. An elevation of over 3,000 feet was reached when they both dropped nearly at the same time from the separate balloons. Miss Bates alighted just outside of the grounds and Prof. Walcott inside the grounds very near the central building. Crowds rushed to the spot to see him come to the ground and many narrowly escaped death from the fall of the disinflated balloon itself, which struck with terrific force near the parachute's position.

Mr. H. R. Fraser, Secretary-Treasurer of the Association, who has worked hard day and night for the interests of the Exhibition, is much gratified at its good attainment and decided success.

The races resulted in the following winnings:

2.34 class—1, Blacksmith Boy; 2, Eva; 3, Commissary; 4, Henry. Time, 1.28½.

SPECIAL AWARDS FOR RANGES.

The exhibit of John Burns and Co., of 775 Craig Street, Montreal, which is in the main building, consists of steel cooking ranges, in hotel and family sizes, and hand made copper ware for hotel and restaurant uses. Although not eligible for prizes according to the prize list, the judges saw fit to award this house a special bronze medal for the improved family range exhibited. This is an unusual honor, but the award is well deserved. The principal advantages of this style of range are: first an adjustable fire box, by which the fire may be confined to a large or small space, and secondly and consequently, the economy of such a device over all other ranges in the saving of fuel. Special awards were also made for the superiority of the workmanship of the copperware cooking utensils shown. These awards are but a few which the firm of John Burns and Co. now possess. They have always taken first prize wherever the products of their establishment have been exhibited, and they are entitled to the use of their motto, "For Economy, Durability and General Satisfaction we are Unexcelled." The firm have just completed an order for several ranges for the dining cars of the Canadian Pacific Railway and are known all over Canada as the most reliable and low-priced house in the trade. Their exhibit covers 41 feet of space, and is greatly admired. Mr. Thomas H. Burns is in charge.

FINANCIAL.

WILL RESUME AFTERNOON SESSIONS.

At a general meeting of the Stock Exchange held to-day it was decided to rescind the resolution providing that no afternoon sessions of the Board should be held during September. Afternoon sessions will be resumed on Monday next.

Friday, Sept. 7.

The local Stock Exchange closed the week fairly active and strong. Gas was the feature to-day, selling at 167½, an advance of 1¾ per cent. upon yesterday's closing price. Street Railway maintains its strength, old stock making a further advance of ½. Pacific was unsteady, advancing during the forenoon to 67, later falling back again to 66 on reports of weakness in London. Cable was ½ firmer. In Bank stocks a few shares of Merchants, Peoples and Montreal sold at firm figures. Money continues easy and in good supply, while the demand is improving.

To-day's highest, lowest and closing prices and total sales of actual stocks and net changes from yesterday's closing price for actual sales in the local market were as follows:

Sales.		High.	Low.	Close.	Chge.
60	Pacific	67	66	66
175	Cable	142¾	142¾	142¾	†½
100	Gas	167½	167½	167½	†1¾
393	Street Railway	156½	156	156	†½
297	St. R'y (new)	152½	152	152
42	Merchants Bank	165	165	165
8	Peoples Bank	125	125	125
7	Montreal	220¾	220¾	220¾

† Advanced. Total shares sold, 1,082.

Meredith and O'Brien's market letter says: The market to-day has been strong throughout and there is a returning activity in business. The room traders are again working for higher prices, but most of the transactions were apparently on commission orders. Gas advanced nearly two per cent. on the purchase of 100 shares, there being little stock offering to-day. We hear nothing new, but the greater interests are on the long side and any cessation of hostilities between the two companies is a bull card, and it looks as if the stock might advance over 170 before the dividend is declared. Cable is very firm and the market takes all stock offered. On the other hand Canadian Pacific is weak, in sympathy with London, but the trading is limited. The week's record is rather a poor one, with only four sessions of the Board it was only natural that business should be on a small scale, however the improved tone of the market in the past two days has induced the Exchange to reconsider its resolution on September half holidays and by a vote this morning it was decided to commence afternoon meetings next Monday. There is no change in the money market except perhaps a still more easy feeling. Rates for a strict call are 4 per cent. and plenty of money offering.

LONDON STOCK MARKETS.

London, Sept. 7.—The market for American securities showed a weaker tone this morning. Declines are as follows: Northern Pacific prefered, ½; St. Paul and L. & N., ¼; Balance of list, ⅛. New York foreign houses have been instructed to sell moderately on London account.

NEW YORK STOCKS.

Messrs. L. J. Forget and Co. have received the following by direct private wire from New York:

An active trader said last night: "My programme is about as follows: I look on the present advance as about exhausted. The St. Paul dividend declaration next Thursday ought to ward off the end of it. After that I expect a falling market up to near election time. The elections ought to make a good rally if the Republicans come out ahead. I think, however, that after an election rally we should have another decline. After that time I intend to be a bull again.

In spite of the extreme dullness, and of the bearish tendencies which are displayed in the operations of the traders, the market has shown a very firm tone. Distillers broke still further early in the day, and a good many contradictory, but on the whole disturbing, reports were put in circulation about the property. Sugar has been rather neglected throughout, and there was less than the usual amount of manipulation in the stock. The Railroad list was quiet at first, and later in the day, yielded a little to attacks by traders and Commack Brothers.

NEW YORK GOSSIP.

Messrs. Meredith and O'Brien's gossip by private wire from New York contained the following:

The London market is ⅛ lower, with not much doing abroad.

There have been no new developments in D. C. F. Some of the directors started for the West yesterday. There is no doubt that considerable long stock was dislodged yesterday.

There is a report that the Vanderbilts have an interest in Southern Railroad securities.

We look for lower prices.

Willet and Gray in their circular say that the Sugar Co. will probably declare their usual regular dividend on Tuesday, but it also says that Company will be brought to grief by the large importations of the foreign article.

Chicago special: The manager of a prominent independent whisky concern says: The trouble with the Distillers Co. is that it is now and has been for six months past short of money. The Globe Co. has a large stock of spirits, something like 18 million gallons.

A prominent man in the whisky trade says: I cannot see on what lines a receivership could be secured for the Distillers Co. as the main thing the Company owes is rebates, and they are secured by $2,500,000 bonds in Escrow with the Central Trust Co.

Chicago special: Every line will be represented at to-day's meeting of Eastern general managers. They all favor an immediate advance in rates and their rigid maintenance. There seems to be no doubt that such a resolution will be adopted. Transcontinental roads continue in session, but have reached no agreement yet.

Chicago special: The St. Paul report will show a small surplus above 4 per cent on the stock. President Miller says he thinks the report a good one for hard times. He declined to say a word on the general situation. Rock Island people are advising friends who hold Minnesota and St. Louis stocks to pay the assessments on the ground that the re-organization will put the property in a condition where dividends on the preferred can be easily paid. They say there is no doubt that present close relations with Rhode Island will be continued.

THE WEEK'S FLUCTUATIONS.

Friday, Sept. 7.

A great falling off in business, as compared with the week, has been the principal feature of last week in the local Stock Exchange. Values on the whole, however, were firm, and with a few exceptions, the active stocks show substantial advances. Gas advances no less than 4½ per cent. on the week, chifly on reports that differences between the rival Companies are to be amicably settled. Street Railway gains 2 per cent on old stock and 1¾ on new, on continued favorable reports of earnings, while cable is 1¾ per cent ahead in the week. Amongst the declines are Pacific 1, on weakness of the stock in London and Richelieu 1⅝. Money has ruled easy and plentiful all week.

The sales this week amounted to 3,173 shares of stock, and $6,500 bonds, as against 8,483 shares of stock and no bonds. Of bank stocks 166 shares were sold, as against 221 shares last week.

*"WHISKEY" IN TROUBLE.

New York, Sept. 7.—There is a rumor on the Stock Exchange that a receiver will be appointed for C. D. F. within the next twenty-four hours. The stock opened this morning at 16, broke to 14⅝, and at 11.15 a. m. had rallied to 15¾.

COMMERCIAL.

Friday, Sept. 6.

A well-known authority on 'Change, speaking on the wheat outlook in Manitoba, said: "My advices are all very favorable and I think that all the wheat in the Province will be stacked by Saturday night. The harvest weather has been excellent. Regarding the production, I think that the yield will even exceed the estimate of the Manitoba Government, which was 16,000,000 bushels."

The majority of dealers are not inclined to express an opinion on the probable wheat yield, but the estimates made have generally been materially less than what is expected by the Government. There is no doubt, however, that since the report in question has been issued, the crop has made considerable progress both in quality and condition.

Speculators think that if the State reports which have been recently issued are any criterion, it is safe to calculate on a material reduction in the coming Government report, from the August condition of 69.1.

Wheat in Chicago according to Meredith and O'Brien's report opened this morning at about top quotations and closed almost at the bottom. The early buying was by scattered short sellers but the outside support was lacking. The importation of two cargoes of Barley from Odessa to New York, the small exports from the seaboard and the larger estimates of local receipts for to-morrow, all exerted a bearish influence, and there was a general decline under the leadership of corn in which a number of stop loss selling orders were overtaken in hands of commission houses on the way down. Both wheat and corn will probably be healthier markets for the shake out and will recover all the easier if the bullish anticipations concerning crop conditions are confirmed by the Government report on Monday. Hog products lower in sympathy with grain under continued selling pressure for January deliveries by the leading local packing concerns.

The estimated receipts in Chicago to-morrow are: Wheat, 345 cars; corn, 270 cars; oats, 210 cars.

The receipts of grain in cars in Chicago to-day were as follows: Wheat, 206 cars, contract, 139 cars; corn, 337 cars, contract 354 cars; oats, 182 cars, contract 145 cars; hogs, 15,000.

The weather map to-day showed heavy rains in Iowa, Missouri, Michigan and North Dakota. Heaviest rainfalls at Bismarck, Lacrosse and Grand Haven, Eastern Nebraska, and lower lake region. Showers from Trace to one third inch, lowest bar central in Kansas and indications of rains in next twenty-four hours in southwest.

Chicago special: A dispatch from Washington says: Eugene Germaine, U.S. Consul at Zurich, Switzerland, has forwarded to the State Department, a report dated Aug. 24th, concerning the crop report of Hungary. It shows that the wheat crop is superior in quality but about 15 to 20 per cent. less than that of last year. The estimated crop is about 3,700,000 tons of wheat. A short crop is reported of rye, and one third of a crop of corn.

The following table gives the movement of grain and flour at given points:

	Receipts.	Sb'pm'nts

The receipts of grain and flour in Montreal to-day are given as follows:

Oats, bush	5,210	240	....	5,450
Flour, brls	1,850	....	....	1,850

Grain—While there is no increased animation to note in the grain market, a fair volume of business is passing, and prices on all the leading lines display considerable firmness. Peas probably head the list in point of demand, but as far as actual business is cotcerned there is practically little, owing to extremely small available supplies. Some of the trade are inclined to think that there will be a good deal bid this year. Several good sized purchases have been made at 56c West, middle freights, for export. Beerbohm today quoted 5s 1½d for Canadian peas in London. Oats steady at 33½c to 34c. A good late fall trade is looked for in barley, but at present there is little doing.

Wheat No. 1 hard	72c to 73c
Wheat, No. 2 hard	67c to 69c
Corn, duty paid	65c to 67c
Peas, per 66 lbs afloat	73½c to 74c

Rye, No. 2	52½c to 53c
Barley, feed	45c to 46c
Barley, malting	50½c to 52c

Flour—There appears to be a good deal of business doing in a local way for both Manitoba and Ontario flour, but there has been no new sales on export account. Straight roller flour is selling a little better. Strong bakers and Manitoba patents are also moving freely. Quotations are unaltered.

Spring patents	3.45 to 3.50
Straight rollers	2.95 to 3.10
Extra	2.50 to 2.70
Superfine	2.35 to 2.45
Fine	0.00 to 2.25
Strong bakers', Man	0.00 to 3.30
Strong bakers' M. best brands	3.35 to 3.40

Meal—The market does not show any important change, and business is on the whole rather quiet. Supplies are light and prices hold fairly firm.

Granulated and rolled, per brl	$4.30 to $4.40
Granulated and rolled, per bag	2.20 to 2.25
Standard, per brl	4.00 to 4.10
Standard, per bag	1.90 to 2.00

Feed—There is no apparent let up in the demand for bran and shorts, and with comparatively moderate supplies of both, prices are firm. Mouille is still in good demand and is in firm hands.

Bran	$15 50 to $16 00
Shorts	17 50 to 18 00
Mouille	20 00 to 21 00

PRODUCE AND PROVISIONS.

The receipts of produce and provisions in Montreal to-day are given as follows:

	G.T.R.	C.P.R.	Canal	T'tl.
Butter, pkgs	347	356	....	703
Cheese, bxs	2,887	1,650	....	4,537
Eggs, cases	940	196	....	1,136

Cheese—Despite the observations of the pessimistic element, the tone of the market remains remarkably firm, with 10⅝c to 11c rapidly becoming an established basis of values for finest Western cheese. There was considerable business done to-day, but the quantities taken were generally small; in fact it is extremely doubtful if a good sized block of cheese has been on sale during the week. There was comparatively little cheese sent forward, with most of the arrivals going into cold storage. There are not many new orders coming from the other side now, but, of course, this is not taken as an indication of a decrease in the consumption. The public cable to-day quoted fifty shillings. Private advices in some instances quote a shilling better, but fifty shillings is the figure frequently mentioned. The cheese situation in New York is referred to as follows by the Cull Bulletin: "The market continues very slow for large sized full cream cheese. A few specials under engagement were passed at 10⅝c, but that price was impossible to reach over the iron for cheese on its merits: in fact there were more sellers than buyers at 10½c, and that is certainly the extreme, though doubtful if really fancy could be obtained to-day below that figure. Really desirable lots of under-priced full cream are not plenty, and held relatively firmly."

Local values are:

Finest Ontario, colored	10¾ to 10⅞
Finest Ontario, white	10⅝ to 10¾
Finest, Townships	10½ to 10⅝
Quebec, finest	10½ to 10⅝

Cheese at Cuba, N.Y., sold at 10⅝c; 2,000 boxes going at that figure.

Butter—A slight improvement is seen in the general jobbing demand, but otherwise there is very little doing. There was quite a lot of butter moved out this week, all on old sales, however. Small jobbing lots of creamery were placed to-day at 19½c to 20c, and best qualities of dairy at about 17c. There is very little demand for Western dairy.

Finest creamery	19c to 19½
Townships, dairy	16½c to 17
Western	14½c to 16

Eggs—There is an over supply of undesireable stock on hand which is not very easily moved. A little business was done to-day at 9c, but really fresh stock commanded at least two cents more for single cases. Receipts are a little lighter than they were last week.

Provisions—While there is no particular increase perceptible in the movement, the demand appears to be a little better, more particularly for pork and lard. A few small lots of smoked meats have been sent forward for shipment during the past week.

Canada sh't cut mess, per brl	18.50 to 20.00
West, mess pork, new, per brl	18.00 to 18.50
Beef, extra mess, per brl	00.00 to 10.00
Beef, plate, per tierce	00.00 to 14.50
Hams, city cured, per lb	0.09½ to 0.11½
Bacon, per lb	0.10 to 0.12½
Lard, pure Canadian, per lb	0.08½ to 0.09½
Lard, com. refined, per lb	0.07½ to 0.08

CHEESE SHIPMENTS.

With no material alteration in the features which govern the market, shipments this week show a material falling off. They are heavier than this week last year, however, and promise in a few weeks to completely overshadow last year's. The cheese in cold storage practically awaits the convenience of its English holders, but dealers are generally inclined to think that the movement will commence in earnest, about the middle of this month. It is merely a matter of guess work to arrive at the amount of cheese in cold storage here, but the average of three estimates, made by leading shippers is 135,000 boxes. Freights this week have been fairly moderate, and space was generally easily obtained.

The increase in the shipment of butter does not carry any particular significance, as the lots sent forward represent old sales. In detail the shipments were: 49 packages to Liverpool, 320 pkgs to Glasgow, 2,126 do to Bristol, making a total of 2,495 packages, against 2,472 for the corresponding period last year.

The following computation of the week's shipments was compiled by Cunningham, Lemessurier and Co.

CANADIAN GRAIN IN ENGLAND.

Reviewing the situation for Canadian grain in London, L. Norman in his weekly circular says: "Manitoba hard wheat is firm, but in small demand. For parcel just shipped 23s 9d c.i.f asked, and for Sept.-Oct. shipment sellers ask 23s 10½d c.i.f., but buyers are slow to answer.

Hard Duluth—Firm. A fair business has been done during the week from 23s 6d to 23s 10½d c.i.f. Barley—Grinding qualities weak and lower to sell. The continued wet weather in England and Germany has further damaged the crop. Oats show no change. The tone on the spot and for shipment continues steady. Peas—Without change. New crop Canadian offering at 25s 3d c.i.f.; old crop at 25s 9d c.i.f., with buyers about sixpence less.

Hay—Imports of foreign continue liberal, but the abundance of grass in the country checks demand. Canadian, sound, delivered in London is offering at £3 18s 9d. For shipment sellers ask £3 10s 0d c.i.f., but no buyers.

BROCKVILLE CHEESE BOARD.

[Special to the Herald.]

Brockville, Sept. 6.—There were 2,614 boxes registered on the Board to-day, 1,481 being white and 1,133 colored. Offers were made of 10⅝c for both colored and white, but as factorymen wanted to contract, the business was very slow, only 40 boxes colored and 33 white being sold at 10⅝ on the Board. An effort was made to adjourn the Board for the season, but some factorymen wished to have the Board continued for a few weeks longer and so it was decided. After the Board adjourned factorymen trotted around and the result was that quite a number of cheese were sold on contract at 10⅝c for the three months. Owing to there being a number of fairs being held next Thursday it was unanimously decided that the next meeting of the Board be Friday the 14th inst.

Prof. J. B. Harris, of Antwerp, N.Y., attended the Board and addressed the meeting.

Mr. Harry Hodgson, of Montreal, is in town to-day, but kept closeted in the office with some of the factorymen.

BONSECOURS RETAIL MARKET.

Farmers offered the usual lines of vegetables and produce on the market this morning. Potatoes were offered freely, and farmers say that in most sections, potatoes will turn out a fairly good crop. Turnips will be light, however. There seems to be any amount of apples for sale, as the crop has turned out fairly well in nearly every district. The market was almost overstocked with California fruit, and prices under a comparatively small demand were a little lower. There was also a large quantity of Ontario peaches and pears on hand. There is a little better feeling in the poultry market. Receipts of ducks are increasing. In the upper hall there was a good attendance of sellers, with eggs and print butter plentiful. Both are held at slightly higher figures.

FRED. BURY CASE.

His Wife Prosecuting Him for Non-Support.

The case against Frederick Bury, brought by his wife for refusing to provide for her and her three-year-old child, commenced in the Police Court yesterday. Mayor Reneault yesterday was the Mrsf Bury disposed that they had been married in 1890, unknown to both of their parents. It was at the desire of her husband that the marriage had been kept quiet. When it became known her husband's father had suggested that she go and reside with some of her friends in Paris, so that her husband could finish his term as a dentist's student. He also paid her ticket, and fitted her out with clothing, but did not pay for her board while in France. She stayed there a year, and then returned home to Montreal, and had lived with her mother ever since. Had only received six dollars in three small amounts from her husband, but that was before she went to Europe. Had not received a cent since her arrival home.

The accused had on one occasion asked her to go and live with him, and said if she refused he would go back to his other girl, and he produced a telegram purporting to come from her asking him to meet her at the 4 p.m. train. She had refused to live with him, because from information received he was leading avery bad life, and she did not think he was a fit person to have charge of their daughter.

Cross-examined by Mr. Lanctot—Did not the accused write you a letter offering to allow you $3 per week?

Yes, he did, but I replied that it was hardly enough to keep myself and child. I also told his father the same thing, and since my return from Europe in October last I have never received a cent from her husband or his father. My husband was receiving an allowance of $15 per month from his father, and is receiving that sum at the present time. I may say that I once before took out a case similar to this, but the occused asked me to call on him at his office on Beaver Hall Hill, which I did. As he then promised to come to some arrangement and would consult his father, I withdrew it.

The Judge—Did anything come of that visit?

No, sir, as when I called upon him he coolly informed that I had lost my case in doing so.

The Judge—Then he played you a trick?

Yes, Your Honor, and I have never received a cent but have to work with my mother to support myself and child.

At the resumption after lunch Mr. G. Bury, father of the accused, was examined and deposed that he had done what was n his power to facilitate matters and had at one time allowed the plaintiff $25 per month.

The Judge—"Why did you not continue such a satisfactory course; it would have saved all these vexatious proceedings?"

"I was under the impression that the negotiations between my son and his wife would turn out satisfactory, but unfortunately they did not. All the mother of the plaintiff wanted, was my money, and her daughter to live with thom but not with her husband."

The Judge finally suspended sentence until Wednesday next, but expressed a hope that in the meantime the parties would come to some amicable agreement. He did not think the amount offered was sufficient to maintain a woman and child and thought the request of the plaintiff for $5 per week a very reasonable amount.

SPORTS IN GENERAL.

A Frank Confession of Defeat.

Says New York Town Topics: Mr. Goodbody of Ireland has quietly and neatly beaten all the American tennis experts at Newport excepting the champion Wrenn. Will our dedraggled bird of freedom kindly go the taxidermists? America has made a great show of itself in international sporting contests this year. What we must do is to stop talking and saw wood. The foreigners have beaten us clean through this summer and now we must buckle down to business. Next year there must be a yacht to beat anything in England, a college team that can top the Oxford and Cambridge crowd and a new tennis player that can play tennis.

Town Topics might also have noted that a Canadian four oared crew walked away from America rivals for the championship but then Canadian oarsmen have done this so often that no one expects anything else.

However, the open confession is a healthy sign, and perhaps American sportsmen may win something yet if they are good.

REVOLUTION FEARED.

Venezuela Believed to be on the Point of an Outbreak.

New York, Sept. 7.—The steamer Venezuela arrived from La Guayra, bringing news that affairs in Venezuela are shaping themselves for a revolutionary outbreak. Crespo, the president, was feeling very uneasy, and had strengthened the garrisons at various points. There were now 10,000 men posted at Carcas, and Crespo himself never leaves his residence unless surrounded by a cavalry escort.

It was reported that three hundred revolutionists had made a disturbance at Ciudad, Bolivar, but that nine hundred Governmental troops had quickly suppressed the uprising. The military forces at Porto Cabello and Villa Del Caro had been augmented greatly.

At Barquisimeto, in the Province of Lara, the headquarters of the revolutionists were located, and this point was regarded as a veritable hot-bed of revolt. No serious demonstration had taken place up to the time of the Venezuela leaving, but the whole country was in a state of unrest, and trouble was looked for.

OPENING UP.

We are daily opening up large shipments of Ladies' Fall Jackets and Capes, likewise Dress Fabrics, imported direct from all the leading European centres of fashion.

Long experience, ripe judgment, and trained taste, have been skilfully brought to bear in the personal selection of these deliveries by our buyers who expressly visit the old world's markets twice a year for this purpose.

This "Fall"

we have determined to out-pace all former records in low rates, and accordingly these goods will be offered to the public at prices to defy competition.

Furthermore,

"in the interval of waiting" for the finishing touches to be put to our new store on St. Catherine Street, we are still dispensing Removal Sale Bargains with a liberal hand.

No lady who desires to economise, and to make the most of her money, can afford to overlook these "chances" in Dry Goods. As they are likely to remain open only a few days at most, an early "search-expedition" throughout the various departments is counselled.

DECOYED FROM HOME.

A Witness in a Murder Trial is Missing.

Cassapolis, Mich., Sept. 7.—This place has a mystery which promises to rival in public interest, many think, the famous Cronin case.

Dr. W. A. Conklin, prominent in his profession and conspicuous in the affairs of his home city, has disappeared, and the evidence in the possession of the police links his disappearance with a conspiracy to murder him, and forever seal his lips from giving testimony in a murder case, where the story told by Conklin would have hastened a prisoner on the road to the gallows.

It was late on Monday night when a sharp pull at thr bell brought the physician to the door. The call was to the home of a well-known farmer, five miles north of the city. The doctor set out at once for the farm-house.

The doctor failed to return, and in the morning, Mrs. Conklin, who had seen another buggy follow that containing the doctor, confided her fears to her neighbors, and they informed the authorities. Searching parties at once set out in the direction taken by Dr. Conklin, and the first result was the discovery that at the farm-house where the physician had been directed to call there was no person ill. This at once caused the circumstances of the buggy following in the rrar of the physician to be associated with the mystery of his disappearance.

Dr. Conklin was the leading witness in a murder case to be tried in the eastern part of the State. His testimony was sufficient to brand the prisoner a murderer, and, with the latter's life hanging in a balance, a conspiracy might have been planned to thwart justice by another murder. A large reward will be paid for facts which will unravel the mystery.

METHODIST CONFERENCE

THE CHURCH HAS GROWN DURING THE FOUR YEARS.

TOBACCO QUESTION GOES TO THE TEMPERANCE COMMITTEE.

Interesting Statistics Presented to the Meeting.

[Special to the Herald.]

London, Ont., Sept. 7.—The work of organizing the Quadrennial Conference, of the Methodist Church of Canada, was fully completed this morning by the adoption of the report of the nominating committee naming the various committees for the terms. The adoption of the report occasioned but little discussion.

The Tobacco question, however, received another airing, when a compromise was reached that seemed to be unanimously satisfactory.

Briefly, it was resolved that the name of the Committee shall be the "Temperance Committee," with a clause providing that all memorials, petitions, etc., in regard to tobacco and its use shall be referred to the Temperance Committee.

Rev. James Woodsworth, Superintendent of Missions in the Northwest Territories, read a report of his labors in that field.

Rev. Dr. Sutherland, General Missionary Secretary, read the report of the Board of Missions. Reviewing the financial state he showed that the increase in the income during the past quadrennium, as compared with the preceding term, was $94,176, the increase in expenditure similarly compared being $128,539.

The financial depression of the past two years was given as a possible cause why the subscriptions were not larger, and the opinion was expressed that the time has arrived when negotiations shall be opened between the various Protestant bodies for

CONCERTED ACTION IN MISSION WORK.

It was stated that in regard to the French work there was little to say. The institution at Montreal is doing a good work and is fitted admirably for the purposes for which it was intended. There was in the report, a reference to the doings of the Women's Missionary Society. The Board expressing its dissent from the opinions sometime expressed that the work of the Women's Society is injurious in its effect upon the finances of the General Society.

The report of the Eastern societies of the Book Committee shows that there has been an increase in the business of the book room and Wesleyan departments during the quadrennium. The balance sheet of 1890 showed a deficit of $1,439.02, while at the present the business shows a surplus of $547.23 a gain of $1,986.25. The sales of the past quadrennium showed an increase of $6,003.55 in the profits over the preceding quadrennium. The total membership is now 260.953, being an increase over last year of 8,972, an increase for the quadrennium of 27,085, not including 8,093 catechists. The number of adults baptized shows an increase of 324 during the quadrennium. There were 30,313 marriages, being an increase of of 265. The number of churches, parsonages, schools and seminaries all show increases, not only in number, but in value. The number of ministers has also increased sixty nine during the year, and 248 during the quadrennium. There have also been large increases in the number of local preachers, exhorters and class leaders. The contributions for various connectional purposes, show an increase during the quadrennium of $88, 843. The amounts contributed for Ministerial support shows increase of $830,115, during the quadrennium.

There were also gratifying increases shown in the teachers and scholars who have joined the church and taken the total abstinence pledge.

The number of Epworth Leagues is 1,037 and the membership 47,125.

It was ordered that the thanks of the Conference be tendered to Rev. Dr. Stephenson, General Superintendent of the English Conference, for the present of a gavel made from a piece of oak taken from the pulpit occupied by Rev. John Wesley, in the Old City Road Chapel, now known as Wesley's Church, in London, England.

THE AFTERNOON S WORK.

London, Ont.. Sept., 7—There was a good deal of business of a miscellaneous character disposed of at the afternoon's session of the Quadrennial Methodist Conference. The report of the Commission on the boundaries of the annual conferences in Ontario and Quebec was read by the secretary of the Commission Mr. John J. McLaren. After reciting the circumstances that led to the appointment of the Commission and some of the considerations that had led to their conclusions, the Commissioners recommended four conferences instead of six as follows :

1. The present Montreal Conference, with the addition of Napanee and Tamworth districts and without the Nipissing and Sudbury districts.

2. The present Bay of Quinte Conference, less the Napanee and Toronto districts, but including the following districts from the present Toronto Conference: Toronto East, Whitby, Bradford, Barrie, Collingwood and Bracebridge, and Nipissing and Sudbury districts from the Montreal Conference.

3. The present Guelph Conference and the following districts from the Toronto Conference: Toronto Centre, Toronto West Brampton, Orangeville, Parry Sound and Algoma; also from the Niagara Conference, Milton district, less the following circuits: Burlington, Freeman, Waterdown, Millgrove and Freelton.

4. The present London Conference and the Niagara Conference less that part of the Milton district, assigned to No. 3.

As showing the relative standing of the proposed Conferences, the church population of each is given as follows :

No. 1, 42,288; No. 2, 52,918; No. 3, 49,-888; No. 4, 58,043.

The number of ministers in each is: No. 1, 248; No. 2, 286; No. 3, 280; No. 4, 291.

The number of missions is: No. 1, 75; No. 2, 61; No. 3, 45; No. 4, 61.

The number of stations in each where the salary is $1,000, or over is : No. 1, 28; No. 2, 24; No. 3, 30; No. 4, 32.

Rev. Dr. Sutherland read the draft of a number of proposed amendments to the constitution of the Missionary Society, and also proposals regarding a cognate subject, the Sustentation Fund. In many respects the proposed amendments are radical in their character, and there is a decided feeling apparently both for and against them. As a consequence a lively debate may be expected when they are formally brought up for discussion.

The draft of proposals for a Sustentation Fund recite that the work of the Missionary Society is being enlarged from year to year, entailing expenditure beyondwhat the fund is able to meet. It is therefore proposed to divide the missions into two classes, one to be called "missions" and the other "dependent circuits and stations." The former shall include the foreign work, the Indian work, the French work, the Chinese work in British Columbia and all dependent fields in any of of the conference or mission districts the income of which from circuit receipts during the past quadrennium has averaged less than $300 per annum. The second class comprehends all dependent fields not included in the foregoing classification of missions, the income of which last year, from circuit receipts, was $300 or over and less than $600.

A burst of applause greeted a proposal made by Rev. J. A. Cassidy, of Japan, that the General Conference lay before the Governor-General the fact that Methodist ministers in foreign stations where there are British Consuls are not authorized to solemnize marriages. The general effect of the motion was to pray that such action will be taken as will place Methodist ministers abroad on the same footing as other denominations. A Committee was appointed to draft a memorial to the Governor of the subject,

A slight breeze was caused by Rev. W. W. Shepperd rising to a question of privilege. In the morning Rev. Dr. Sutherland referred to the appointment of Mr. Shepperd to the Mission Committee as "inexpedient" and "unseemly." The point of Dr. Sutherland was that Mr. Shepperd as principal of the Muncey Institute, is an employee of the Mission Board. Mr. Shepperd took this to be an exception to his elegibility and claimed that he was on the floor of the Convention not as the employee of anybody, but as a regularly accredited delegate from his Conference, and as such was eligible to any office or position in the gift of the Conference. The matter passed over by the General Superintendent stating that he would not undertake to decide a legal question while in the chair. The Conference was the high court of Methodism and could make its own laws, in fact whatever it said was the law.

Rev. Mr. Torrance gave notice of a motion that was received with a good deal of laughter, whether from its quaint phrasing or because of its subject, did not transpire. It recited, in brief, that the title of "General Superintendent" is so general that it may be applied to a railroad or water works official, and as the title of "Bishop" was scriptural authority, the presiding officer of the quadrennial conference be hereafter designated as "Bishop."

Letter was received from Mr. Phillips, of Montreal, enclosing a memorial from the Christian Endeavor Convention held in Montreal last July. A number of other memorials were presented, notably one which gave notice of a proposal to expunge from the discipline the clause which prohibited the wearing of gold and the purchase and sale of human beings for profit. The large number of proposed amendments to the discipline led Judge Dean to introduce a notice of motion to the effect that the Conference should appoint a Committee to name a day of thanksgiving for having been enabled to "worry along" during the past few years with the dicipline as it is and that the proposer of the greatest number of amendments to the convener of the Committee.

There will be no session of the C nference on Monday that day being devoted to Committee work. This evening is devoted to a social session. The delegates and their wives being entertained by the Methodist ladies of London.

Denies He Was Drowned.

The young man Amedee Guillette, the friend of Lapailleur the suicide, who was reported by an evening paper to have drowned himself, turned up yesterday. He denies that he drowned himself.

The Cat Went Back.

A good story is told of a prominent citizen who has a liking for cats. During a recent trip to Europe he purchased a lovely Angola, which was his particular pet on board the vessel coming home. When the vessel arrived in port, the gentleman endeavored to take the cat off with him, but she tore his hat from his head, scratched his face, and finally bounded into the rigging, from which nothing could coax her. The Montrealer was therefore compelled to leave the cat behind him.

The Robidoux-Clerk Case.

The Robidoux-Clerk case was on again yesterday. Mr. Lowe finished his long answer to Mr. Robidoux's demand for a statement of stock transactions.

Mr. Robidoux—"Amongst all the shares bought by Mr. Clerk from March 1st, 1893, to June 30th, 1894, is there any share which to your knowledge has been bought for Mrs. Robidoux?" "Of course, I cannot tell."

Mr. St. Jean—"It is possible for any man to tell whether Mrs. Robidoux buys shares or not except her broker?" "No."

The enquete was adjourned until Monday morning at 10.30.

Causes of Fires.

The Fire Commissioners were busy yesterday in investigating a lot of small fires which have occurred during the past few days.

The first was that of Dr. J. T. Reid, 637 Wellington Street, whereby damage was done to the extent of $2,000, with $4,000 insurance. A lamp explosion was found to be the cause.

Children playing at bonfire was found to be the cause of the fire in a shed belonging to John Sivens, 41 Paris Street. Damages $400; covered.

A lamp explosion, also caused the fire at R. Bray's, 402 Seigneurs Street, the damages amounting to $150, with $700 insurance.

Mice were found to be the culprits who set fire to Wm. Brodeur's house 44 Visitation Street and caused $1,500 damages with only $800 insurance.

The last one inquired into was the one at Alfonse Dubord's 219 St. Charles Borrommee Street early this morning. It was found to be accidental, The insurance was $450 but the damage amounted to about $700.

This is Right.

The best place in the city to send ladies or gentlemen's clothes to be repaired, cleaned or dyed is at M. J. Adler's, 39 Beaver Hall Hill, (formerly 47).

Tourists wishing to visit the Saguenay will find the most delightful way to do so by taking the train leaving Quebec at 8.30 a.m. for Lake St. John and Chicoutimi, connecting there with the commodious Saguenay steamers, thus seeing that wonderful river by daylight, and making a round trip unsurpassed for scenic grandeur.

Emperor William's Little List.

Berlin, Sept. 7.—Emperor William made a sensational speech yesterday evening, at the State banquet, which followed the military manoeuvres about South Altonberg, at which entertainment the King of Wurtemberg was the principal guest. His Imperial Majesty had previously struck from the list of guests the names of Count Von Mirbach and Count Von Kanitz, as well as those of Generals Klitzuig and Sandditten. But the names of the generals were subsequently reinserted upon the list.

A Good Appetite.

Always accompanies good health, and an absence of appetite is an indication of something wrong. The universal testimony given by those who have used Hood's Sarsaparilla, as to its merits in restoring the appetite, and as a purifier of the blood, constitutes the strongest recommendation that can be urged for any medicine.

Hood's Pills cure all liver ills, biliousness, jaundice, indigestion, sick headache. 25c.

Good News for School Children.

Our juvenile friends will doubtless avail themselves of the opportunity which is offered them at "Clarke's Bazaar," 70 Beaver Hall Hill, by securing some of the rare bargains which this popular establishment is now offering in slates, pencils, scribbling books, copy books, ink, foolscap, etc., and as we have seen the bargains we can confidently predict an enormous rush during the next few days. We strongly advise all to patronize the firm, feeling certain that they will be well served and honestly dealt with.

Resigned The Office.

The following letter addressed to F. S. Maclennan, President of the Sir J. A. Macdonald Club fully explains the position of Mr. Crankshaw with the revising barristership and vice-presidency of a political club :

Imperial Building
Montreal, 14th Aug. 1894.

My dear Sir—Having received notice of my appointment to the position of Revising Officer for the Electoral District of St. Lawrence (Montreal), I feel bound to resign, and I do hereby resign my position as Vice-President and as a member of the Executive Council of the Sir John A. Macdonald Club because, although nothing would alter my determination to perform the duties of Revision, with the strictest impartiality, the office is one of such great importance and involves so many responsibilities that I think it best to free myself from anything that might be construed into an appearance of bias.

Yours sincerely,
(Signed.) JAS. CRANKSHAW.

THE LONE INN

A MYSTERY
BY FERGUS HUME
AUTHOR OF
THE MYSTERY OF A HANSOM CAB. ETC.

COPYRIGHTED 1894 BY THE AUTHOR

CHAPTER I.

If there be aught in presentiments, I was well warned by that first glimpse of the inn. The monstrous bulk of gables, sloping roofs and lean chimneys hunched blackly against the sky would have scared a bolder spirit than mine. All day I had walked under blue sky, between green hedgerows, with light heart and whistling lip. Confronted in the twilight by so sinister a scene, I felt qualmish. Ragged clouds dropped their fringes over sullen western red, around spread the salt marshes, evil in their desolation, and I, with chilled blood, stared at the lonely mansion dominating the outlook. Here, thought I, an adventure awaits me. The hour, the house, the scene, hint at romance, and that of the strangest.

So much were my spirits dashed by these ominous environments that it was in my mind to walk the farther 10 miles and shelter for the night at Marshminster. Yet some fate compelled my unwilling feet toward that inhospitable door, and almost before I knew my own mind I was knocking loudly. It opened while my hand was still raised for the final rap, and a handsome woman presented herself to my astonished eyes. What beauty did among the tombs I know not, yet there she smiled. Though handsome, she was not a lady and lacked the undefinable stamp of birth. At the same time she was above the commonality. Not a lady, not a servant, but something between the two. Her appearance confirmed the promise of romance.

"I have walked from Eastbury," said I, cap in hand, "and wish to put up here for the night."

"Marshminster is only 10 miles away," answered she, in nowise disposed to admit me.

"And for that reason I want a bed here. Twenty and more miles walking under a hot sun has wearied me considerably."

"I am sorry we cannot accommodate you, sir."

"This is an inn," I said, glancing at the sign.

"The Fen inn, sir," she replied, still smiling, "and full of guests for the time being."

"Full of guests in this locality! You must then entertain waterfowl, for I have seen no human being for the last 12 miles."

She made no direct answer, but shook her head and prepared to close the door. Piqued by the discourtesy and still more by the mystery of this reception, I was about to insist upon admission when my attention was attracted to a face at the near window. I recognized it as that of a college friend and waved my stick in greeting.

"Hello, Briarfield!" I shouted lustily. "Come and help me to a night's lodgings."

The girl was surprised by my remark, and, as I thought, changed color. She stepped aside to let Briarfield pass and exhibited further astonishent at the urbanity of our greeting.

"What wind blows you here, Denham?" asked Briarfield, shaking my hand.

"I am on a walking tour," I answered, "and hoped to have reached Marshminster tonight, but as it is 10 miles away and I feel weary I wish to sleep here. This young lady, however, says the inn is full of guests and"——

"Full of guests!" interrrupted Briarfield, looking at the girl. "Nonsense, Rose. I am the only guest here!"

"We expect others, sir," said Rose obstinately.

"You can't expect a sufficient number to fill the house," he retorted. "Surely Mr. Denham can have a bed?"

"I shall ask my father, sir!"

When she disappeared, Briarfield turned to me with a smile and asked a strange question.

"Now, I'll be bound," said he, "that you don't know my first name!"

"Felix."

"No! You are wrong. I am not the rich Felix, but the poor Francis."

"You see the result of being one of twins," said I impatiently. "If at college I could not distinguish between you, how can you expect me to do so now? I haven't seen either you or your brother for at least two years. Where is Felix?"

"At Marshminster."

"And what are you doing here?"

"Ah, that's a long story! If you"——

"Please to walk in, sir," interrupted Rose at this moment. "My father desires to speak with you."

"I have, then, to submit myself to the approval of the landlord," said I and forthwith entered the house, followed by Francis Briarfield.

The landlord, a lean, saturnine man above the common height, saluted me with a sour smile. In appearance and demeanor he was quite in keeping with that dreary inn. About him lurked a Puritanic flavor not ill suited to his somber attire and unctuous speech. He was less like an innkeeper than a smug valet. I mistrusted the man at first sight.

"I can give you supper and a bed, sir," said he, bending his body and rubbing his hands, "neither, I regret to say, of the first quality."

"Never mind," I answered, unstrapping my knapsack. "I am too tired and hungry to be particular."

"We have only lately taken up this house, sir," he continued, still bowing, "and things are a trifle disordered."

I glanced around. Despite the cheerful blaze of a fire, the room had a mildewed look, as though long uninhabited. Traces of hasty cleansing were visible in all corners, and in the dim light filtered through dusty panes the apartment had a singularly uninviting aspect. Again that premonition of misfortune came over me.

"I wonder you took up the house at all," said I. "You won't make your fortune in this locality."

The landlord made no reply, but muttering something about supper left the room. His daughter had already departed, presumably in the direction of the kitchen, and I found myself alone with Francis Briarfield. He was absently looking out at the window and started when I addressed him directly. I augured mystery therefrom.

"What's the meaning of these mysteries?" I asked abruptly. The horror of the place was already influencing my spirits.

"What mysteries?" demanded Briarfield in a listless manner.

"This inn has been uninhabited for some considerable period. A suspicious looking rascal and his pretty daughter have taken up their abode here with no possible chance of getting customers. I stumble on this castle grim in the twilight and find you here—you of all men—whom I believed to be in South America. Don't you call these mysteries?

"If you put it that way, I admit the mysteries, replied Francis, coming toward the fire. "I know little about the inn, still less about the landlord and his daughter. As to myself, I am here by appointment to meet my brother Felix. Came from London to Starby and rode from thence to this inn."

"Why meet him in this murderous looking house?'

"He named the place of meeting himself."

"And you?"

"I only arrived this month in England from South America. I wrote him from London, asking to see him. He appointed this inn as neutral ground for us to meet, so here I am."

"Why neutral ground? Have you quarreled?"

"Bitterly."

"You did so at college," said I, looking steadily at him. "Strange that such ill blood should exist between twin brothers."

"The inevitable woman," said Francis in a harsh tone, quite at variance with his usual soft speech.

"Oh! And her name?"

"Olivia Bellin!"

"I know her. Do you mean to say, Briarfield, that"——

"Hush!" he said, rapidly indicating the door, and there stood the girl Rose listening to our conversation. Her face was pale, and it was evident that the mention of the name had powerfully affected her. Seeing our eyes were on her, she apologized in a low, nervous voice.

"Your pardon, gentlemen," she said, placing a tray on the table. "I did not intend to interrupt your conversation. Allow me to lay the table for supper."

"First show me my room," said I, picking up my knapsack. "I am dusty and wish to give myself a brush up."

Rose nodded and preceded me out of the apartment. I glanced back and saw that Francis had returned to his old post by the window. Evidently he was watching for the arrival of his brother.

"When does Mr. Felix Briarfield arrive?" I asked Rose as we ascended the stairs.

"I don't know the name, sir," she said, with an obvious effort.

"You don't know the name?" I repeated, seeing she was lying, "yet Mr. Francis Briarfield is here to meet his brother."

"It may be so, sir. But I know nothing about it. Mr. Briarfield is a stranger to me, like yourself."

"It is to be hoped you received him more willingly than you did me."

My words fell on the empty air, for after her last remark she hastily departed. I mechanically attended to my wants and wondered what could be the meaning of the girl's attitude.

"She knows Miss Bellin and Felix Briarfield," I thought, "perhaps not personally, but at least their names. She is also aware of the intended visit of Felix to this place. I must find out from Francis the reason of that visit, and it may throw some light on the demeanor of Rose. I am glad I came here tonight, for that landlord is scarcely a person to be trusted. Certainly my presentiment of romance is coming true."

When I descended to the dining room, I found supper laid and Francis impatiently awaiting my arrival. A lamp was lighted, and for the first time I saw his face plainly. The alteration in his looks and demeanor since our college days was astonishing. Felix had always been the graver of the twins, and it was the distinguishing mark between them. Now the livelier spirits of Francis had calmed down to a subdued gravity which made the resemblance between them still greater. We seated ourselves at the table in silence, and he colored as he caught my earnest look.

"You find me altered?" he asked, with manifest discomposure.

"Very much altered and more like Felix than ever."

"I haven't seen him for over a year," said Briarfield abruptly, "so I don't know if the resemblance is still strong."

"It is stronger," I answered emphatically. "I saw Felix two months ago, and now I look at you tonight I can scarcely believe it is Francis and not Felix seated before me."

"We are alike to outward view, Denham, but I hope our natures are different."

"What do you mean?"

"Felix," said he, with marked deliberation, "is a thief, a liar and a dishonorable man."

"You speak strongly."

"I have reason to."

"The before mentioned reason, Briarfield," said I, alluding to the feminine element.

"Yes. By the way," he added feverishly, "you said Miss Bellin was known to you."

"In a casual way only. She is a society beauty, and I have met her once or twice; also her very silly mother. The latter is as remarkable for folly as the former is for beauty. Well, Briarfield, and what about Miss Bellin?"

"I was engaged to her."

"You are engaged to her?"

"I said 'was,'" he replied, with emphasis. "Now she is engaged to my brother."

"Of her own free will?"

"I don't know," said Briarfield. "I really don't know. When I went to Chile, I was her affianced lover. Now I return and learn that she is to marry my brother."

"What explanation does he make?"

"None as yet. Tonight or tomorrow morning he comes here to explain."

"But why here, of all places?"

"Miss Bellin is in Marshminster. Felix is staying there also, and in his letter asked me to see him at the Fen inn, as he wished to explain his conduct fully before I met Olive again."

"And you agreed?"

"As you see."

"In your place," said I meditatively, "I should have gone at once to Marshminster and confronted both. There is some trickery about this."

"You think so?"

"I am by nature suspicious," I answered. "Perhaps too much so. Yes, I think there is some trickery."

Francis frowned and glanced at his watch.

"It is now 8 o'clock," he said, replacing it in his pocket, "too late to go to Marshminster."

"Besides which," I added, "our worthy landlord has doubtless neither trap nor horse."

By this time we had finished supper, and Rose came in to clear away. Thoughtfully filling my pipe, I watched her closely. Undeniably she was a very beautiful woman and ill suited to her present occupation. Why a girl so handsome should bury herself in this lonely inn was a mystery to me. I felt sure that there was a purpose connected with her presence here, and that inimical to Briarfield. The landlord did not make his appearance, which was to me a matter of some relief. I disliked the fellow greatly.

Francis, smoking hard, sat staring at the fire and took no heed of Rose. Once or twice she glanced in his direction and looked as though about to address him. Catching my eye, she bit her lip and desisted. Finally she disappeared from the room, with manifest anger at not having accomplished her design.

"Strange," said I, lighting my pipe.

"What is strange?" asked Briarfield, looking up.

"That girl knows your brother."

"It's not impossible," he answered carelessly. "Felix always had an eye for pretty faces, and as he appointed this inn as a meeting place he has probably been here before. Rose Strent no doubt draws him hither by her beauty."

"That is not a compliment to Miss Bellin."

"I know it. Felix is a profligate scamp and will make her a bad husband. He shall not marry her," added Briarfield angrily. "I say he shall not marry her and make her life miserable. I'll kill him first."

"Man, man, think of what you are saying—your own brother!"

"My own brother—my twin brother," scoffed Francis, "is that any reason why he should take away from me the woman I love?"

"She is not worth regretting if she forgets you so soon."

"She has not forgotten me," he said earnestly. "I assure you, Denham, she loves me still. The last letter I received from her gave no hint that she wearied of me. As you say, there is some trickery about it. I'll have an explanation from Felix," continued he, striking the table with his fist, "or, by heaven, I'll kill him!"

"Where did you meet her?" I asked, ignoring this last remark, which was but idle.

"In town over a year ago," he replied, calming down. "She is, as you know, very beautiful, and her mother wished her to make a great match. I am comfortably off, but have not a title; therefore Mrs. Bellin would not sanction the engagement. Then I had to go to South America on business connected with my property. Before I left she promised to become my wife and swore that nothing should part us or render her false to me. See, here is the ring she gave me," he added, stretching out his hand, "this pearl ring. I was to be back in six months, and our engagement was to be made public. I am back in six months, and the first thing I hear is that she is to marry Felix."

"Did she write and tell you so?"

"No. But Felix did and asked me to meet him here before seeing her."

"Now, I wonder if this apparent treachery of Miss Bellin has anything to do with your twinship?"

"What do you mean?" asked Briarfield, starting up.

"You are so like in appearance," said I, "that no one could tell you apart. You have lived constantly together save for the last six months and know every action of each other's lives. It may be that Felix has passed himself off to Miss Bellin as you."

"Impossible! She would detect the deception."

"I doubt it, save by intuition. I assure you, Briarfield, that the resemblance between you is most perplexing. There is not the slightest difference. You dress the same; you have the same gestures; you almost think the same. It is scarce possible to tell which is which when apart. I thought tonight that you were Felix."

"It cannot be; it cannot be," he muttered feverishly. "Her own heart would tell her the truth."

"Did you tell Felix of your engagement?" I asked abruptly.

"Yes. I told him all."

"And when did you hear last from Miss Bellin?"

"Some three months ago. It was because she did not reply to my letters that I came back so soon."

"To whom were your letters sent?"

"To her, of course."

"Care of Felix?" said I, with instinctive suspicion.

"Why, yes," he said, with a sudden frown. "I did not want Mrs. Bellin to know of our engagement, so did not dare to write openly. Felix undertook to deliver the letters."

"He may have undertaken to do so, but," I added forcibly, "he did not."

"Denham!"

This story will be continued in the Evening Herald only. The next instalment will be printed on Monday afternoon.

WORLD-WIDE NEWS

ENGLAND.

The picture of the Queen, when Princess Victoria, which has just been discovered, is a colossal affair, standing, with its frame, some ten feet high, and measuring eight to nine feet across. It is in Heuss's best style, the coloring, although fifty-eight years old, being as bright as though only put on yesterday. Heuss, it is said, knew the old secret of pigment mixing, which may account for this. The figures of the Queen and her mother, the Duchess of Kent, are more than life size. The picture has been offered to Her Majesty, and the matter is to be referred to the Lord Chamberlain.

It is stated that the lady known by the stage name of Miss Mary Anderson, who has been residing at Tunbridge, is about to remove with her husband to London, where an interesting event is expected to happen.

It is open secret, says Answers, that Mr. Astor has lost forty thousand pounds over the Pall Mall Gazette during the last twelve months. Mr. George Newnes who owns its rival, the Westminster Gazette, is said to have come out even worse.

Lord Burton, of Bass' ale fame, lives at Glen Quoich, but he is kept informed of everything that goes on at Burton by a private wire laid from the lodge to the brewery. His Lordship never retires to rest without receiving an assurance from Burton that "all is well."

Lord Rayleigh, whose wonderful discovery of a new constituent gas in the atmosphere, was the sensation of this year's meeting of the British Association was born in 1842. He was educated at Trinity College, Cambridge, and graduated as Senior Wrangler and first Smith's Prizeman in 1865. Then he was elected at Fellow of Trinity, and held the post of Professor of Experimental Physics to his university, on several occasions being also one of the examiners in the Mathematical Tripos. Lord Rayleigh has received honorary degrees from Oxford, Dublin, and Montreal, and is an LL.D. of Cambridge.

The Prince of Wales's Britannia has won no less than £1,635 in prizes, exclusive of her Mediterranean successes, which equal another £900. A grand total of £2,535, though, from a monetary point of view, a mere trifle compared with the winnings of a successful race-horse, is a very large sum in the winnings of the racers of the sea. This will be exceedingly obvious when one learns the next best prize lists. Vigilant won £290, Satanita £110 of the big boats, and in the smaller classes Luna won £332, and Carina and Creole won £230 and £295 respectively. Such figures give a good idea of the splendid record of the Prince's boat, and it will be seen that her owner has every reason to be proud of her performances.

The latest sensation in fashionable society is the engagement of Lord Willoughby de Eresby, the eldest son of the Earl and Countess of Ancaster, with Miss Muriel Wilson, the youthful daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Wilson, of Tranby Croft. Miss Wilson, who is quite a young girl—she was still in the schoolroom at the time of the famous baccarat case—has been made much of in London society since her debut little more than a year ago. She is a charmingly pretty girl, whose dark picturesque beauty is always set off by the most becoming of dresses and large picture hats. Lord Willoughby, who is heir to considerable estates in Lincolnshire, graduated as an M. A. of Cambridge two years ago.

A stroy is current in club circles, where (says the Morning) it is discussed as being true, that a well-known legal gentleman the other night at a West-End hotel lost at cards a trifle of £40,000 to a foreign gentleman. The man-at-law, for reasons which occurred to him, declined to pay up. The winner passed over to Paris, whence he sent a couple of seconds to challenge the lawyer—who is reported to be a heavy player at Continental casinos—to a duel. The event, so it is said, is not likely to come off.

Toys and trinkets and keepsakes for the son of the Duke and Duchess of York are pouring in to White Lodge from loyal subjects. Among them are strange and curious things. A lucky sixpence arrived for him, tied with ribbons of the national colors of England, Scotland, Ireland, and Wales. It came from a crippled old invalid who, on reading about the baby's names, had put his best treasure, the lucky sixpence, in humble loyalty, at the feet of the child, and with it had sent a letter, a marvellous piece of phonetic penmanship, to signify his entire approval of Prince Edward's many names.

The London Post Office requires men to have every unsound tooth in their heads pulled out before they are eligible for employment as postmen. The other day an unfortunate girl clerk was condemned to have fourteen teeth extracted before she was eligible for promotion.

By the demolition of some old houses in Catherine Street, Strand, and in Drury lane, London, what may be regarded as a classic spot has been exposed to view. This is the old churchyard which Charles Dickens graphically described in "Bleak House," and which is approached by a narrow passage leading from Russell court. At the end of Russell court the gate through which Joe pointed out to Lady Dedlock the grave of his benefactor still hangs on its rusty hinges, although the graveyard itself has been asphalted over and turned into a playground. Some thousands of the admirers of Dickens's works, including a large number of Americans, have visited the spot within the past few weeks.

Miss Mary Ansell, the clever young actress who has entered into a life partnership with Mr. J. M. Barrie, has many talents in addition to her theatrical gifts. She is an accomplished horse-woman, and shows equal taste and skill in music and art alike. Mrs. Barrie has one eccentricity which should be viewed with considerable satisfaction by her husband: She likes to make all her own dresses and bonnets. It may readily be believed that Mr. Barrie will not attempt to thwart her in this harmless taste. One other peculiarity of this lady's is a strong dislike to smoking, and Mr. Barrie has heroically jilted his first love, "My Lady Nicotine," for this later and sweeter affection.

An English peeress, Lady Carlisle, is training an entire staff of women to take charge of the fine grounds of her extensive estate in York. Women gardeners and women florists seem to be women in the right places, yet these occupations are, only occasionally sought by women. It is interesting to observe that Miss Wilkinson, an English woman and one of the most successful women in the profession, should have recently received fresh and august testimony to her skill. Vauxhall Park, her work, and just opened by the Prince of Wales, has been pronounced by that accredited excellent judge to be one of the best pieces of landscape gardening he has ever seen.

It is good to know that fine work still has a market. Sir Arthur Sullivan's "Ivanhoe" will be performed for the first time in concert fashion during the coming season of the Dublin Musical Society, probably towards the end of May. A revised version of "Ivanhoe" is also down for production at the Royal Opera, Berlin, in the course of the coming season.

So young a singer as Mlle. Marie Delna has seldom had so grand a debut at Covent Garden, says St. Paul's. For this is the young lady who achieved such a splendid success as Marcelline in "L'Attaque du Moulin," the triumph of Sir Augustus Harris's opera season. She stayed, while in London, at the Hotel Diedonne, where I found her on the eve of her departure—a plump, charming girl, barely nineteen—thoroughly pleased at the idea of leaving town the next morning. At the age of thirteen, a painter, struck by her wonderful voice, induced her to take lessons. She went to Madame Laborde, who told her that God had not only given her a magnificent voice, but also the gift of using it; go, off and on, she studied, till at seventeen, she was offered the part of the Queen in "Les Troycns" of Berlioz, on condition that she would be ready to sing it in a fortnight.

IRELAND.

The Irish Independent states that Mr. Donatius O'Brien, formerly of Limerick, having written to the Lord Mayor of Dublin from America, sending twenty-five dollars as the beginning of a fund to raise a statue to Mr. Gladstone, the Lord Mayor has courteously returned the money. The Independent, of course, approves this action. The Lord Mayor, it says, "unmistakably and truthfully voiced the opinion of the capital of Ireland and of our countrymen who are not hopelessly sunk in the degrading slough of West Britonism."

SCOTLAND.

The favorite candidate for the chairmanship of the Scottish Fishery Board is Mr. Park, the Provost of Fraserburg, in Aberdeenshire, a town which may claim to be the capital of the Scottish fishing industry. The appointment is worth £800 a fiear. In scientific circles where a strong feeling exists in favor of Dr. J. Murray, the naturalist of the Challenger Expedition.

The neutrality of Great Britain toward the war between China and Japan was formally declared at the Marketation ceremony. Both of these young alities. The procession of heralds, pursuivants, and trumpeters, had an escort of the 2nd Battalion of the Black Watch headed by the regimental band and pipers.

For the first time in the history of Scottish Universities, two young women have received the degree of Bachelor of Medicine and Master in Surgery. They are Miss Marion Gilchrist, of Bothwell, and Miss Alice Lilian Louisa Cumming, of Glasgow. The University of Glasgow granted their degrees at the last graduation ceremony. Both of these young women have studied in Queen Margaret College, now the woman's department of the University of Glasgow. Three years were spent in the arts and four years in medicine, their clinical work having been taken in the Royal Infirmary and Sick Children's Hospital. As the University degree in arts was not at that time open to women, Miss Gilchrist took in arts the general certificate of Queen Margaret College. She now appears on the University graduation lists as the third in rank of the six candidates who took the degree of M.B., C.M. "with high commendation." There were sixty-one graduates, of whom five took honors, six high commendation, eight commendation and forty-two passes. Queen Margaret College was founded in 1883 by the Glasgow Association for the Higher Education of Women. In 1890 this college added to its faculty of arts a school of medicine for women, organized on university lines, and with the view of preparing for university degrees. The first two young women to receive this degree were heartily congratulated by a large assembly.

A party of Americans tramping over the hills in the grounds of Balmoral came suddenly upon an elderly lady sitting alone before a table and writing rapidly, says Cassell's Saturday. "Tell me, madam," said one, politely lifting his hat, "are we far from Balmoral?" "You are on the grounds now," said the lady; "and I greatly fear you are trespassing." They respectfully announced their attention of getting into the public road at the first opportunity. Thereupon the lady wrote a line and handing it to them said, smiling, "Here is a safe conduct if you meet a bailiff." "Victoria R." was all the slip contained.

The strange appearance of a number of small fishes lying on the ground at Reay, Caithness, after a very heavy shower of rain on the evening of Monday last week, fresh and beautiful as if newly taken out of their native element, created a good deal of wonder. The space on which they lay was circular in form, and about 10ft. in diameter. They fell more densely towards the centre, with most of the smaller fishes round the outer edges. In size they were from about 1 in. to 3 in. in length, all perfectly formed, and resembling very much

EUROPE.

Sensational news comes in a letter from Paris, which says: "Details are just now leaking out of a conspiracy whispered to have been entered into by thirteen leading Paris newspapers, with the Figaro at their head, to upset the Republic and place M. Bonaparte at the head of affairs as "Emperor." It was to be accomplished by a simultaneous call for a plebiscite at the natural end of R. Carnot's term of office. Caserio's ill-judged action, however, upset all calculations, and the strong man, Casimir-Premier, as he is now called, had time to entrench himself securely at Elysee.

The Carnot subscription opened by the French Women's Committee amounts already to more than 100,000 francs. The money is to be devoted to some charitable organization for widows with children.

Prince Bismarck's estates are heavily mortgaged to the amount of £150,000. Of his gross income more than £6,400 must be devoted every year to paying the interest on his debts. The old Chancellor has often remarked to his friends recently that his ambition to leave an unencumbered property to his children would never be gratified.

One of the most ingenious of recent inventions in the direction of utilising what had hitherto been regarded as useless, is that of Dr. Lehner, of Zurich, who, by chemical and mechanical means, practically supersedes the silkworm, and spins from raw material as cotton waste, jute waste, or wood pulp, a thread which even the expert eye can hardly distinguish from that obtained of the natural cocoon. The machinery is extremely simple, the method adopted by the silk-worm being followed as closely as possible.

M. Barthelemy - Saint Hilaire, the French Grand Old Man, and the sincere friend of England and enemy of the Franco-Russian Alliance, has entered upon his ninetieth year—but he has only lately changed his hour of rising from 4 a.m. to six because "my servants are entitled to a little rest." He has been a busy man for seventy years, and even now he corrects his proof-sheets without spectacles. He takes a light dinner at six o'clock, drinking only water, and retires shortly afterwards. "Do not listen to those who aspire to save money to rest," says he. "They are lazy bodies." He has nearly completed a biography in three volumes of Victor Cousin, which will be published in the course of the autumn. M. Barthelemy-Saint Hilaire, commenced this work about two years ago, immediately after having finished the translation of the complete works of Aristotle, upon which he had been engaged for more than half a century.

A man named Corbeau, who has been arrested in Paris is stated to have been leading a double life for a long time past. He is a person of superior education and polished manners. He inhabited a well-furnished villa at Montrouge. Aided by seven or eight others, he planned some audacious burglaries which puzzled the police. Among those robbed was M. Barre, of the Comedie Francaise, whose house was completely sacked. Corbeau drove in the Bois de Boulogne in handsome carriages, and was thought to be a man of independent fortune. His downfall was brought about indirectly by a woman. Going home the other day, after a brief stay out of town, one of his accomplices, a man named Charton found that the woman that he had been living with had gone away, taking with her all the furniture. Before long he discovered that she had fled with one of his accomplices, and he traced them to Bagings over a police station. There he threatened to kill his rival, who thereupon rushed down stairs and sought the protection of the police. This led to mutual accusations and the arrest of the two men, who were soon followed to prison by Corbeau and the other members of the gang. It is believed that Corbeau's private expenditure on his house alone has been £160 a month, and, according to Charton, the meanest member of the band received £100 a month as his share of the plunder.

Sarah Bernhardt's "mysterious corner," where she spends her holidays, is said to be Audierne, in Brittany. It is on the Bay of Biscay, about ten miles from the Point du Raz—the Land's End of France. The favorite seat of the "Great Sarah" is stated to be a rock which "can be reached by admirers willing to run the risk of a broken neck."

At the mountain village of Szczyrk, near Bielitz, in Austrian Silesia, about three weeks ago the two daughters of a mine owner, aged 8 and 11, declared that they had seen the Virgin Mary seated in the top of a beech tree at night. A number of persons began to watch the tree in turns night and day, until some one saw what appears to have been a phosphorescence in the highest branches of the tree, and, their fancy helping, thought they had seen the apparition. During a church service, the news was communicated to a great many persons, and since then whole processions have come daily to pray under the miraculous beech, to sing hymns, and to fasten pictures of saints to the bark of the tree. The priest of the parish attempted to stop this, but the peasants complained of him to the Consistory of Cracow. The danger caused by processions coming from cholera-infected districts, however, gave the alarm to the authorities, and the processions to Szczyrk were prohibited. The two little girls have been taken to a hospital at Cracow and placed under the supervision of the Sisters of Charity there. The number of visitors to the beech exceeded 2,000 every day. Now gendarmes are stationed near to turn visitors away.

A Bavarian lady, recently deceased, has bequeathed £2,500 for the furtherance of international peace. The interest of one-half of this sum is to go to the German peace society in Berlin; the interest of the other half is to be sent to the International Peace Bureau at Berne, for the encouragement there of the idea of a universal peace throughout the whole world.

At Saintes Assizes last Friday a young Englishman named Bernard Whittingham, described as the son of a general officer, was charged with the murder of his wife. She was the daughter of a pilot named Audon. The prisoner married her in London a year ago. The prisoner's father opposed the match, and told his son that he should disinherit him. The prisoner made a journey to London to inquire whether the marriage was valid, and then rejoined his wife. After an altercation between them, followed by an apparent reconciliation, the prisoner was heard to shoot his wife. His version was that he was showing his wife how to handle the rifle when it accidentally went off. The theory of the prosecution was that in order to avoid being disinherited the prisoner wished to get rid of his wife. Whittingham was convicted of murder with "extenuating circumstances," and was sentenced to 20 years' hard labor.

In Sweden the railway stations where meals are served are known by the simple but suggestive picture of a crossed knife and fork against the name of the station.

A sensational murder trial will commence shortly in Galicia, and will disclose a horrible story which is almost worthy of the Arabian Nights. The man to be tried is a small farmer, Adam Gavrido, who last year sold his year's honey to a merchant, Solomon Barb. The two met one evening to settle the bargain, and when a satisfactory arrangement had been arrived at they adjourned to a tavern. On leaving here they found that it was raining heavily, so the merchant went home with the farmer for the night. Barb became somewhat frightened, however, when he found that Gavrido locked him into his bed-room—the hay loft—and hurriedly left the loft and the house by another door. Meanwhile Gavrido's son came into the house, and went to the room which Barb had just left, where he settled down for the night. Barb, returning shortly after with a gendarme, found Gavrido washing his hands, which were covered with blood. On seeing them he turned pale, and shouted to the merchant, "But I have cut your throat this moment; how did you come back to life?" They then went to the hayloft, where they found Gavrido's son quite dead, with his head almost severed from the trunk.

A case of a highly sensational character has been occupying the Assize Court at Prosinone for some days past. The accused are Mario Carnevali, formerly cavalry sergeant, and his wife Penelope, and they are charged with the murder of the latter's first husband, an English engineer named Jones, and of an Italian named Ottavi. The female prisoner, a young woman of great personal attractions, fell in love in 1883, when only seventeen years old, with Carnevali, but was compelled by her mother to marry Jones. Jones, soon after the marriage, died suddenly, and the doctor expressed the opinion that he had been poisoned. An application was made for a post mortem, but the Public Prosecutor refused the necessary authority. Penelope then married Carnevali. In 1890 they left Rome and bought a farm not far from the capital. Signora Carnevali there formed a fresh intrigue with a Post Office official named Ottavi. Ottavi received a letter from Signora Carnevali admitting that she had poisoned her first husband, and proposing to do the same with Carnevali. Ottavi refused to be a party to the crime, and broke off all relations with the woman. The latter then wrote to Carnevali, confessing her intrigue, and declaring her readiness to die. Carnevali went to the Post Office and shot Ottavi dead with a revolver. He then gave himself up to the police. Signora Carnevali made a pretence of poisoning herself, but afterwards took to flight. She was arrested when preparing to leave for Greece. The letter she wrote to Ottavi is in existence.

The Hungarians are indignant with Count Nicholas Esterhazy. That nobleman gave a fine horse of his stud the name of Kossuth, and has announced that his horse is to run in the Budapest summer races. A Bulapest newspaper says:—"We will take an oath that this horse will not race in Budapest. It is true a certain kind of roast beef has been named after the Esterhazys, and an epoch has been named after Kossuth, but a race-horse shall not be called by that name."

An extraordinary duel has taken place in Brussels between two young men. They were enamored of the same young lady, who, after considerable hesitation, made her choice. The unsuccessful suitor challenged his rival to a duel, and proposed that each should be armed with a piece of rope, and that they should thrash each other as long as they could hold out. The challenge was accepted. The fight, however, had not been long in progress when the police came up and stopped it. Both "duellists" were covered with blood. The challenger had the worst of the encounter, his face being a mass of bruises.

UNITED STATES.

Prof. H. Morse Stephens, M.A., of Cambridge, England, has been chosen to succeed the late Herbert Tuttle as professor of modern European history at Cornell University. Prof. Stephens is a graduate of Oxford, and is in the foremost rank of the younger historians now carrying on the traditions of the Oxford school headed by Bishop Stubbs, Goldwin Smith, and the late Prof. Freeman. The appointment grew out of President Schurman's visit to England, among whose scholars and historians Prof. Stephens is well and favorably known.

A claim made that Albert W. Payne of Bangor, Me., who is eighty-two years of age, is the oldest lawyer in active practice in New England, is disputed by the Burlington, Vt., Free Press, which states that Daniel Roberts of that city, now in his eighty-fourth year, has been in active practice for sixty-two years.

Mr. Sacamon Rodman, whose eighty-fourth birthday was celebrated on the 29th of August at Old Town, Ill., by a dinner at which the leading men of Bloomington were guests, was a delegate to the first Republican convention held in Illinois, and he was the associate and political co-worker of Abraham Lincoln, David Davis, Jesse W. Fell, and other early leaders of the party in that state.

A Woman.

In herself she dwelleth not,
Although no home were half so fair.
No simplest duty is forgot,
Life hath no dim and lowly spot
That doth not in her sunshine share.

She doeth little kindnesses
Which most leave undone or despise,
For naught that sets one heart at ease
And giveth happiness or peace
Is low esteemed in her eyes.

She hath no scorn of common things,
And, though she seem of other birth,
Round us her heart entwines and clings,
And patiently she folds her wings
To tread the humble paths of earth.

Blessing she is—God made her so—
And deeds of weekday holiness
Fall from her noiseless as the snow,
Nor hath she ever chanced to know
That aught were easier than to bless.

She is most fair, and thereunto
Her life doth rightly harmonize.
Feeling or thought that was not true
Ne'er made less beautiful the blue
Unclouded heaven of her eyes.

She is a woman, one in whom
The springtime of her childish years
Hath never lost its fresh perfume,
Though knowing well that life hath room
For many blights and many tears.

CHILDREN'S CORNER.

HARE AND HOUNDS.

All About the Above Famous English Game for Boys.

Would you like to hear about a famous outdoor game that boys in England play? There, as in our own country, each season has its own sports. As soon as the warm, sunny days come, when the fields and roads are dry and firm, "hare and hounds" is the cry from boyish lips, and young hearts beat high for joy in the sunshine, and boyish feet almost spurn the earth as they prance along the highways and over the hedges, getting in training for their favorite sport.

It is confined principally to schoolboys between the ages of ten and sixteen, though often boys who do not belong to the school are members of the hunt, and very often, too, the little fellows are the best runners in the party.

The boys divide themselves into two parties, each having its "champion runner," and lots are drawn as to which of these runners shall be the "hare" in the first hunt of the season. Afterwards they go by turn. The rest of the boys are the "hounds," and the other champion is the huntsman, who marshals them to the "meet" (which is usually the school playgrounds), gives the signal for the start, calls them off by a shrill whistle when they get on the wrong scent, and, in fact, is master of the hounds. The hare is provided with a small, open satchel or pouch, slung across his shoulder, and filled with bits of white paper about an inch square, heavy paper that the wind will not carry away. It is the privilege of the small boys, who are too little to take part in the hunt to prepare these bits of paper, and for a day or two before a "run" they have great fun in preparing "scent," as they call it. The hare is also allowed five minutes "head start," and is allowed to choose his own course, but is obliged to scatter the bits of white paper at short intervals all along the way he goes, as they are his tracks for the hounds to follow.

The five minues given him he usually spends in seeking for some obscure place at which he leaves a little package of yellow or blue paper to denote the starting point. This may be some blocks away or up a side street or just around the corner. He had his choice and a free opportunity to seek it, as the hounds go within doors till the five minutes are up. Then the huntsman cries "Whoop! halloo!" and away they all bound hither and thither, seeking till they find the package of colored paper, which they are obliged to do before they can start. The finder must cry "Hark! forward!" Then off they go on the scent.

Sometimes so long a time is taken up in finding the starting point that the hare makes famous headway, and can double on his followers; that is, retrace his way for a block or two on the other side of the street (leaving the bits of paper all along, of course), or go round the block. If they are in the country he probably makes for the woods, goes in some distance, then turns back, perhaps, till he finds some leafy tree, up which he climbs and hides himself till the hounds have gone by. Anything to put them off the track.

When the hare has gone far enough and wishes to return especial care must be taken, as, if he is seen, the hounds can rush after him "cross lots" and woe betide him if he is caught! He is no longer champion, but has to give up his badge t unate catcher, and cannot even be one of the hounds till he has paid a certain forfeit, usually something good to eat.

If the hare gets successfully home to the playground the opposite party has to stand treat; so you may imagine how hard each strives to win. It is a capital game when played really according to rules, and English boys think the rules half the sport.

Modern Gold Mining.

The quartz is taken from the mine, sorted and then hauled to the stamping machine. Here the ore is crushed and pounded as fine as flour. It is then run through a sluice-box that contains quicksilver. As the water carries the ore over the "quick" it is taken up and held by the mercury and forms an amalgam. The quicksilver is then placed in a retort and brought to the boiling point. The "quick" passes out of the retort through a tube and is collected in a basin of water, and hardly a bit has been lost, while the gold remains in the retort in the shape of gold dust and is now ready for market. Only about fifty per centum of the gold is saved by this means and those who can or have ore rich enough to justify it send it to the smelters, where ninety-five per centum is saved.

The Prince's Bravery.

Did you ever notice that when one has been badly frightened why sound makes them jump? The crowned heads and rulers of state have been so badly scared of late by bombs, that when some one threw flowers into the carriage of the Princess of Wales the other day she started as though she had been shot. The Prince sprang up and stood before her, to save her life if possible.

A Little Linguist.

Not until January will little Fannie Erdofy reach the mature age of 4 years, and yet she is perhaps the most accomplished young lady of her age in New York. Fannie illustrates in her charming little personality the irresistible law of heredity. She speaks fluently four languages, and when it is explained that her mother writes and speaks six languages and that her father has a glib acquaintance with 10, besides numerous allied dialects, the extraordinary infant is accounted for.

Arthur Erdofy, who is a registry clerk and interpreter at Ellis island, was born 32 years ago in Budapest. His wife is also a native of the same ancient city on the Danube. He has the characteristic Magyar features as well as that special linguistic aptitude which distinguishes his race. He speaks English with great purity and has the further polyglot accomplishment of speaking Hungarian, German, French, Italian, Spanish, Greek (Romanic), Turkish, Finnish and that most turgid and difficult of all tongues, Basque. Mrs. Erdofy speaks fluently English, Hungarian, German, French and Slavonian, and so little Fannie has lived all her life in a philological atmosphere, where the air was thick with prepositions, adverbs and conjunctions. Instead of doll babies she played with irregular verbs, and the ablative absolute and the subjunctive mood have been familiar objects to her from her earlier infancy.—New York Press.

The Three "'Tentions."

"I was some time since," says a certain writer, "at a railway station waiting for a train. On the platform, seated on a form, were an old gentleman and two little children. I could not help hearing the remarks which he was making to them, which were spoken in a pleasant and loving manner.

"'Be sure,' said he, 'you do not forget the three 'tentions—intention, attention and retention.'"

We might apply these "'tentions" with much instruction in various ways, but children at school in particular may profit much by remembering them.

Let us take "intention" first. If a boy has a sum to work out or a lesson to learn by heart, he will not be likely to succeed unless he goes at it with a will or unless he "intends" to do it.

Secondly, "attention." If he is to succeed, a boy must withdraw his thoughts from tops, balls, kites and such like. He must not chatter with his schoolfellows, but he must for the time give his whole mind, or "attend," to the lesson before him.

Thirdly, "retention." It is of but little use to learn anything unless we remember it or "retain" it in mind.—Christian Work.

A Little Musician.

Only 5½ years old, Edna Grace Hain with her tiny fingers can bring 30 different airs out of a piano. She has learned them all in the last seven months. If a key invisible to her be struck, she can instantly sound the corresponding key of another piano. Let the entire keyboard be covered with muslin or cloth, not too heavy to muffle, and she still makes good music by striking keys which she cannot see. Her first stroke on the unseen ivory may be a mistake, but in a moment she hits the right key and then proceeds unerringly. She cannot read music or words, but thoroughly understands the scale, quickly distinguishes half notes and keeps good time. If she hears a strange air two or three times, she can make her piano produce it.—Philadelphia Record.

Wonderful Singing Baby.

Little Marion Dungan, the beautiful daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. K. Dungan of Pottsville, Pa., surpasses any record yet as a singing baby. She is but 17 months old, and her repertory is quite a lengthy one, consisting of "Little Birdie In a Tree," "My Nellie's Blue Eyes," "The Minuet," "Sunshine Will Come Again" and many more. Though unable to pronounce many words, she sings the tunes perfectly and keeps perfect time.—Philadelphia Press.

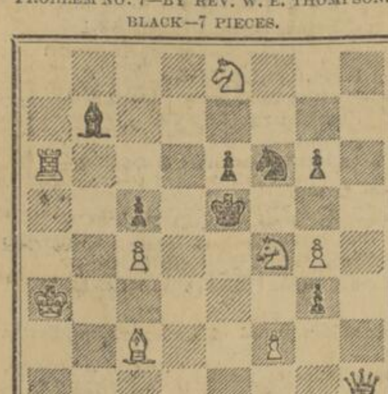
CHESS COLUMN.

olutions of problems and chess correspondence should be addressed "Chess Editor Montreal Herald." Solutions for publication on the following Saturday should be sent in not later than Monday.]

Problems.

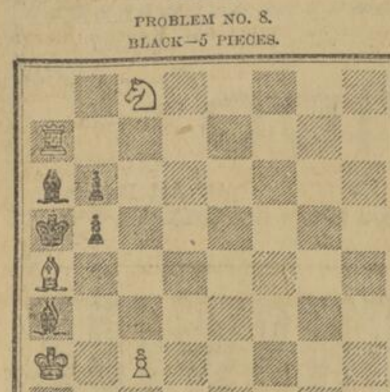
Solvers who never attempt anything more serious than a simple two mover, may satisfy themselves with No. 7 which is a puzzle in its way, but they should certainly make an effort to fathom the mysteries of No. 8 which is among the most easy of three movers and pretty enough to award perseverence.

PROBLEM NO. 7—BY REV. W. E. THOMPSON.
BLACK—7 PIECES.



WHITE—8 PIECES.
White to play and mate in TWO moves.

PROBLEM NO. 8.
BLACK—5 PIECES.



WHITE—6 PIECES.
White to play and mate in THREE moves.

Solutions.

Problem No. 3—Two mover, solved by Q—K R sq.

Problem No. 4—By Dr. A. W. Galitzky in two moves, solved by B—Q R 4.

Current solutions of Nos. 3-4 have been received from "Wandstein," "Blue Bells," Chas. H. Martin, F. E. M., A. McIntosh (No. 3 only), Montreal; Rev. Louis C. Wurtele, Acton Vale, and Wm. Stewart Lancaster.

Correct solutions of Problems 1 and 2 were received from Rev. Louis C. Wurtele too late for publication last week.

The Game.

As many local players are so fond of the Falkbeer, they should find the following fine game exceedingly interesting. It was played at Adelaide, Australia, in a match between Town and Country:

GAME No. 4.
FALKBEER COUNTER GAMBIT.

	WHITE. W. P. McArthur.	BLACK. J. M. Belcher.
1	P—K 4	P—K 4
2	P—K B 4	P—Q 4
3	Kt—K B 3	B—K Kt 5
4	B—K 2	B x Kt
5	B x B	P x B P (a)
6	Castles	P x P
7	B x P	P—Q B 3 (b)
8	R x P	Kt—B 3
9	P—Q 4	B—Q 3
10	R—R 4	Q—B 2
11	Q—K 2	Castles
12	B x P ch	Kt x B
13	Q—R 5	P—K B 3
14	QxKt ch	K—B 2
15	B—R 6	R—Kt sq
16	Kt—B 3	Kt—Q 2
17	Kt—K 4	B—K B sq
18	R—K B sq	B—Q 3
19	Kt—Kt 5 ch	K—K 2
20	R—K 4 ch	B—K 4
21	BxP	K—Q 3
22	PxB ch	PxP
23	R—Q sq ch and White wins.

(a) Inferior. Development by Kt—K B 3 is more to the point.

(b) Black could win the B by the ch at Q 5, but at the expense of his Queen, which would be lost by R—K sq after.

(c) A very pretty game, well played by White in every respect.

End games have an interest all their own, and an examination of the following position in a game recently played at Dresden between Blackburne and Winawer should prove profitable. It is a draw, but the art of extracting a draw out of an otherwise lost game is worthy of cultivation.

Position after black's forty-sixth move. White, Winawer—King K R sq, Rook Q B sq, Queen Q 2, Bishop Q 3, and pawns K 4, Q 5, and Q Kt 5. Black, Blackburne—King K sq, Bishop K B sq, Rook Q R 5, Knight K Kt 5, Queen K Kt 6, and pawns K R 5, K 4, Q 3, and Q Kt 3. Blackburne is playing for a stalemate.

Notes.

One is frequently asked, by those who are novices in the art of problem solving, if there are any rules by which they may be guided. Of course, there can be no hard and fast law laid down in the matter; but the following useful hints reprinted from the London Times may prove helpful.

1. The key is not a check or a capture; otherwise there would be no art about the position, and nothing to distinguish it from ordinary play.

2. Notice how very easily defended are any such moves.

3. Notice every piece on both sides and the uses of each for attack or defence. Every piece plays its part.

4. Notice carefully any pinned pieces, and, in this connexion, the position of each king.

5. Generally, dismiss at once the idea of proceeding by obvious lines of play.

5. The key may possibly—even probably—be a great sacrifice; it is certain to be an obscure move, which avails only on careful analysis.

7. Notice every possible move, especially every move Black can make in reply to your proposed key, particularly observing checks, by discovery, etc. If you have found a key, say, to a two-move problem which meets every possible defence, and only if you have done so, you have found the true solution.

"Beginner" writes to ask what is the best chess book he can get at a moderate cost, in the city, and also what are the opening moves in the Max Lange attack. Thebest little book weknow of for atyro, is "Chess" by R. F. Green, published as one of the "Club series." It can be had from almost all the principal booksellers in town at the cost of about 35c. The Max Lange Attack is as follows: 1. P—K 4, P—K 4; 2. Kt—K B 3, Kt—Q B 3; 3. B—B 4, B—B4; 4. Castles, Kt—B 3; 5. P—Q 4,—

The Central Club being anxious for a "boom," is arranging for an exhibition of simultaneous play, at its club rooms in the Hope Coffee House, by Dr. Pollock. The date is not yet fixed but will be published in this column as soon as decided on. Meanwhile F. J. Marshall is making his power felt at the club. On Wednesday night last he met seven members of the club simultaneously with the result that he won six games and drew one.

The rich man who sits down to a table loaded with the good things of this world and dare not eat them is to be pitied. But what about the many poor men and women who must daily earn their bread suffering with this terrible life-draining complaint—DYSPEPSIA? DR. A. T. SANDEN, Dear Sir:—I write to tell you of your Belt in my case. The pains from which I suffered at the small of my back, have entirely disappeared, and I feel much better in every way since I began to wear your Belt. When I commenced to use the Belt, I was troubled with dyspepsia, but it has now disappeared, and when I eat, my food, which formerly lay heavily on my stomach, now digests readily. This is all I have to say, but I hope it is such as to recommend the belt to people who read it. I know your Belts are all that you claim them to be.

SHOULD A BOY TRAIN?

The Advice of An Expert to the Growing Lad.

Whether a boy ought to train for athletic contests at all is a question I do not intend to discuss, further than to say that it all depends on whether he overdoes it.

I will take it for granted that the boy has decided to represent his school, or club, in some athletic games, perhaps a championship meeting, and I wish to caution him on some points that will make his course of preparation less difficult and rid it of the drawbacks that many people attribute to training.

No growing boy would try to do the work of a man, in shoveling coal or chopping wood, for instance, unless he had to. But give that boy a pair of spiked shoes and an athletic costume, and turn him loose on an athletic field, and, unless he has someone to advise and restrain, he will do the work of two fully-matured athletes.

I remember watching some preps exercising on the Berkeley Oval, near New York, a year or two ago. The trainer who is usually on the grounds was absent, and the lads had full swing. One of the boys who was training for the running broad jump tried, I am quite certain, not less than 30 jumps. Yet he wondered, toward the end, why he couldn't strike the take-off, or "get up in the air," and why each jump was an inch or two short of the one before? Another, who was training for the quarter-mile dash, ran that distance no less than three times while I was there—and I don't know what he might have done before I came. Both boys, of course, were completely fagged out and almost too tired to dress. Their overwork, except for stiffening their muscles for a day or two, did them no particular harm, for boys feel the effects of such exhaustion much less than men, and recover more quickly therefrom. But it certainly did neither any good, whereas one third the work they did—about the amount a grown-up athlete would have done—would have greatly benefited both.

The safe rule which may be laid down for the guidance of a boy in training is this: Never work until you are tired out. Always stop while you feel as though you still had a little left "up your sleeve." By following this rule, all danger of overtraining may be avoided, and when the day of the race arrives, the youthful competitor, instead of feeling weak and languid, will toe the mark as full of energy as a colt fresh from pasture.

When a boy begins to train, he of course begins to diet himself. He needs no advice on this point! He knows exactly what he ought to eat and drink to make muscle and develop the wind, for he has read in the daily papers what the oarsmen at Yale and Harvard live on!

Now this is a great mistake. The athlete who has attained his full growth has only to partake of such food as will replace the tissue lost in its daily exercise. The boy, from 14 to 18, however, has, in addition, to supply the wants of his growing body. Milk, potatoes and other articles of food with which the man can dispense are to the boy a necessity.

I know of a case in which the 15-year-old son of a professor at Princeton University undertook to follow out the dietetic regulations of the football team. No athlete was ever more conscientious about his training. He turned up his nose at soups, refused potatoes and other starchy foods, did without sugar in the little tea or coffee he drank, and ate his bread stale. He began to grow thin. His family was puzzled, but when he one day declined ice-cream his symptoms were regarded as serious, and the doctor was sent for. He soon discovered the cause of the young man's capricious appetite, and the course of training was brought to a sudden termination.

The best rule for diet for the boy is no rule at all. His every-day bill of fare will do very well. I would not deny him even pie or pudding if he were unhappy without these sweets, though on the whole it is just as well to leave pastries alone. Ice-cream, far from being bad for training, is, I think, very good—though I can remember the time when members of the baseball nine at Princeton were forced to surreptitiously hire small boys to buy their cream, which they ate under cover of darkness on the campus in order to avoid the watchful eye of the trainer. Tobacco and athletics will not go together in any case, and what applies to the man on this point holds good with even greater force with the boy.

It is the fashion now at the colleges to begin training for the spring races immediately after the Christmas vacation, As early as March the athletes get to work out of doors. Boys to whom the facilities for such early work are offered are very likely to imitate the older athletes. So far as the "gym" work is concerned, I think this is all right, provided the exercise taken be light and varied. One does not want to work off weight in the winter.

The outdoor work, however, I think, is a mistake. It is likely to result in strained muscles and tendons and severe colds. Nine of every ten boys breathe through the mouth while running, and the raw March winds inflame the membranes of the throat and bronchial tubes. It is much better to wait until the middle or last of April, when out-of-door work becomes a pleasure instead of a self-imposed task. If a boy will take the March risk, however, let him give the legs a thorough rub, jump out, take a spin and jump in again. He should breathe through the nose as far as possible. In spite of his precautions, the young athlete will be fortunate if he gets through the month without a strain of some kind. Complete rest of the injured part, and applications of hot extract of hamamelis or witch-hazel, are the best remedies I know of.

Strains are very serious matters for athletes, and too much care can not be taken to guard against them. Very important races are sometimes decided by the slight stretching of a muscle or tendon.

Curving a Baseball.

There are some people still left who refuse to believe that a baseball can travel out of the straight line between the pitcher's box and the home plate on its way to the catcher, says Godey's Magazine. It has been proved again and again that a ball can be "curved" by a now well known experiment. Two stakes are set up so that the pitcher, standing behind one, cannot hit a mark on the left side of the other in a straight line, the ball passing to the right of the first. Indeed a short while ago a noted college pitcher was offered $1,000 by an old gentleman if he could prove to his satisfaction that a baseball could be pitched in a curve. The pitcher at once set up two stakes and curved the ball around them in fine style. But the old gentleman insisted that the whole thing was an optical delusion.

Every boy knows how hard it is to bat an "out curve" or a "drop," and after he has struck out a few times wants no one to prove to him there is such a thing as curve pitching. The final twist given the ball as it leaves the hand makes a spinning motion, so that there is more resistance by the air on one side or the other, and the ball is forced out of a straight line by unequal pressure on one of its sides.

FITZSIMMONS AND CORBETT.

Many People Believe the Middleweight Could Give James a Good Argument.

During these days of wordy warfare between Champion James J. Corbett and Peter Jackson there are many people who believe that Bob Fitzsimmons, the middleweight champion of the world, could give Corbett the best argument he has ever had in the ring. Fitzsimmons has been called a pugilistic freak. He is so peculiarly constructed that he can do battle in the middleweight class, although he has the height and reach and—when he wishes to take it on—the weight of a heavyweight. He is built about the same as Corbett and has the same lightning quickness and is a shifty boxer and a good ring general.

About 3½ years ago Fitzsimmons landed in America practically unknown and without money. He came from Australia in search of the American dollar and pugilistic glory. He had defeated Dave, the Maori; Bill Slavin and Jim Hall before coming here, but had no reputation to speak of. Soon after he landed in Frisco, however, he proved himself a promising two handed fighter by whipping Billy McCarthy in nine rounds and Arthur Upham in five. He was then matched to fight Jack Dempsey for the middleweight championship of the world and $12,000. He easily bested the champion in 13 rounds at New Orleans, Jan. 14, 1891. Since then he has defeated Peter Maher, Jim Hall and Joe Choynski with comparative ease, although Choynski had him nearly out during their battle in Boston recently.

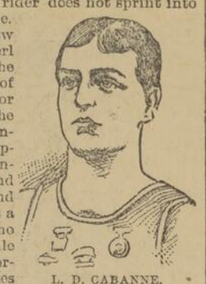
Fitzsimmons is a blacksmith by trade. He was born in Cornwall, England, 32 years ago and is 6 feet ¼ inch tall. When he fought Jim Hall for $40,000 in New Orleans March 8, 1893, he weighed 165 pounds and won the big purse in 15 minutes, but failed to get all the money. He is just Corbett's height and would weigh about 10 pounds less than Corbett in the ring. A meeting between Corbett and Fitzsimmons would attract as much attention in sporting circles as the long delayed battle between Corbett and Jackson.

Every Horse Has His Day of Defeat.

Defeat has come to all racing stars of the season. The idolized Domino met a Waterloo at Washington park and helped to make the event famous, says The Horseman. Dr. Rice succumbed ignominously at Hamline. Roy el Santa Anita failed to realize the anticipations of his trainer when he went on his "starring" tour in the east. These defeats were followed up at Saratoga by the beating of Dobbins. From this summary it will be seen that there is hardly a horse that comes on the turf that may not look for defeat. But, like the heroes of old, they may all live to run—successfully—another day.

Speedy L. D. Cabanne of St. Louis.

Hardly a week passes that some unknown bicycle rider does not sprint into national fame. One of the new stars is L. Dutherl Cabanne of the Pastime club of St. Louis. For some time past he has enjoyed considerable local reputation as a sprinter, wrestler and swimmer and more recently as a bicyclist who could ride his mile in the neighborhood of 2 minutes 3 seconds. He first attracted particular attention in class B circles this year at Toledo, where he was a close second to W. C. Sanger in the mile open and where he defeated John S. Johnson, Fred Titus, Julian P. Bliss, C. M. Murphy and E. C. Bald, five of the fastest men racing on the path today.



L. D. CABANNE.

The second day of the Toledo meet he won the one mile handicap from the 90 yards mark, was fourth in the one mile open and fourth in the quarter mile open. At Milwaukee Aug. 6 Cabanne and A. I Brown rode a half mile on a tandem in 59 seconds. Cabanne's greatest feat was performed in connection with Fred J. Titus of New York at Minneapolis Aug. 10. These swift riders had previously ridden a mile on a tandem in 1 minute 59 seconds and were anxious to lower their mark. They were well paced on the mile track of the Minneapolis Track association and succeeded in pedaling around the course in 1 minute 52 2-5 seconds, the fastest mile ever ridden on a wheel in the history of bicycling, with the possible exception of the horse paced and disallowed mile in 1:51 made by Michael F. Dirnberger of Buffalo a year ago.

JACK NAPOLEON AS A MASCOT.

He Wears a Stovepipe Hat and Glasses at the Big Bicycle Meets.

An interested spectator at many of the great bicycle meeets nowadays is Jack Napoleon, the remarkably clever bulldog owned by William F. Murphy, the famous Brooklyn racing man. Jack wears a stovepipe hat as jauntily and as airly as a Fifth avenue (New York) swell, and as he is doubtless somewhat nearsighted he is compelled to resort to the use of eyeglasses when he examines the entries on the programme or when he eagerly scans the riders as they come sprinting to the tap on the last lap.

Jack is very fond of a "dry smoke," too, for whenever he walks along the street or attends a bicycle meet he invariably has a very English looking brierwood pipe in his mouth. If the sport moves him to utter barks of joy as his owner wins a race or growls of rage if Murphy isn't in it at the finish, the fact that he has a pipe in his mouth doesn't bother Jack Napoleon at all. He barks or growls, as the case may be, regardless of consequences and the pipe, but he never fails to cling to the pipe.

When Jack was young and aggressive, he was considerable of a fighter and is the hero of many a hard fought battle in the pit, but he has long since retired from the arena and earns five good meals a day as mascot for his master and a well known bicycle race team. His potency as mascot is in no way interfered with by the fact that he is just 13 years old. Jim Corbett once offered Murphy $500 for Jack, stovepipe hat, glasses and pipe, but the Brooklyn wheelman scorned the offer. Jack's chum on the team is a monkey named McGinty, who sits on Jack's neck and rides through the streets as proud as a simian king.

THE WHEELING WORLD.

The entire surface of the Waltham (Mass.) track has been covered with the metalithic composition, making the track faster than ever.

America may well feel proud of Zimmerman, Wheeler and Banker, who win about all the races they enter in Europe nowadays.

It is reported that Bicyclist Zimmerman is going on the stage after his season ends in Paris. A bicycle race similar to the horse race in the "County Fair" will be a feature of the play.

The pope has declared that the bicycle is a proper vehicle to be used by priests for business or pleasure.

F. W. Shorland is now 24 hour champion of the world. He is an Englishman, and his record is 460 miles 1,296 yards.

Lady bicyclists of Findlay, O., have organized an antibloomer club.

In England a real live lord is seeking glory on the bicycle track. His name is Lord Bently, from which it is to be presumed that he is no more free from the "monkey stoop" than less lordly riders of the wheel.

In the great relay bicycle ride from Washington to Denver with the president's message the 2,037 miles were covered in 6 days 10 hours 37 seconds, one of the most remarkable feats of long distance riding ever performed.

Sam Jones on Horses and Sports.

"I want it understood," says Sam Jones, "that I do not oppose well bred horses, but I do advocate better bred men. Every sport in the United States, sold on his genuine merits, would not bring the tithe of what Nancy Hanks is worth. I wish we could have speed without sports, as thoroughbred men as we have thoroughbred horses, men who have the mettle and push and drive of the thoroughbred horses and yet none of the vices which blight and ruin character."

The Trotter Azote.

One of the most sensational young trotters of the season thus far is the bay gelding Azote, who has won nearly every race in which he started. He began his campaign in the 2:15 class at the Detroit Blue Ribbon meeting and easily disposed of 17 fast competitors in straight heats, taking the event into camp in impressive style and trotting the three heats in 2:09¾, 2:12 and 2:12¼.

In Cleveland Azote contiued his winning streak in the same class, defeating a field of 11 in straight heats, the fastest of which was negotiated in 2:10. In fact, his mark of 2:09¾ led the bettors to concede him the race before the field scored. In Buffalo Ellard, who had narrowly escaped beating Ryland T at Cleveland when the gelding king was forced to go in 2:07¾ to win, was looked upon as the equal or master of Azote, but the bay gelding mowed down his field with old time ease, and Ellard got no better than fourth money. Azote again won in straight heats, the best of which was trotted in 2:10¼.

AZOTE, 2 09¼.

In Terre Haute Azote found himself pitted against some of the stars of the 2:10 class, among which were Lord Clinton, Pamlico, Muta Wilkes and William Penn. Pamlico proved too speedy for Azote, but only after a stubbornly contested five heat race in which Azote took the first and fourth heats in 2:11 and 2:09¼ and Pamlico the second, third and fifth in 2:12¼, 2:15 and 2:10. Azote got second money and Lord Clinton third. Azote is by Whips-Josie by Whipple's Hambletonian.

RYLAND T, THE GELDING CHAMPION.

Once a Cattle Pony and Now One of the Fastest Trotters on the Turf.

Ryland T would never take a prize at an equine beauty show, but when he feels good he can trot until his rivals imagine they have heart disease. He is homely, moody, erratic and unreliable and looks about as much like the ideal champion trotter as an ash cart resembles a tally ho. One day he will trot with the steadiness of the proverbial clock and defeat the best performers on the turf. The next he will leave his feet at the slightest provocation and allow himself to be beaten and even distanced by some trotter who is hardly in his class.

"A moody, turbulent, ramshackled old freak" is what one well known horseman calls him, but all his faults must be forgotten when his wonderful performance in Cleveland on July 26 is remembered. On the track where Maud S made her famous world's record of 2:08¾ nine years ago Ryland T defeated such fast ones as the gelding king Lord Clinton, Ellard, Nightingale, Pamlico and others in straight heats in the remarkable time of 2:08¼, 2:07¾ and 2:08¾, thus breaking the race and gelding records and establishing his fame as one of the swiftest trotters the turf has ever seen.

Ryland T was bred near Eagle Rock, Ida., about 10 years ago. His actual age is unknown, and his sire, Ledger, Jr., is of untraced breeding. His dam was sired by Ulverson, a son of Lexington. He was branded like any other broncho and used as a cow pony until 1890, when he was entered in slow trotting classes and took a record of 2:30¼. In 1891 he won two out of seven races and secured a mark of 2:17¾. In 1892 he lowered his record to 2:11¼, but was so unreliable that barrels of money were lost on him. The Stewarts of Kansas City bought him for $1,750 and partially cured him of his eccentricity, and last year he won $7,000. All in all Ryland T is a unique equine character. It is never safe to bet on him and is equally unsafe to bet against him.

The Promising Pacer, Rubinstein.

Rubinstein, the great Ohio pacer C. J. Hamlin was recently alleged to have offered $42,000 for, is one of the handsomest horses on the grand circuit this season. He is 4 years old, and when he began the season he was eligible to the 2:28 class. He was not long in obscurity, however, for at Windsor, Ont., early in the season he made a record of 2:09¼ and lowered the Canadian pacing record, feats that made him the cynosure of all eyes in the harness horse world. A few weeks later at Detroit he negotiated a quarter in 28¼ seconds, thus proving that he was well worthy the earnest attention of such pacing stars as Mascot, the king, Robert J. and Saladin.

He is a beautiful bay, with a black mane and tail, and is as steady on the track as the proverbial clock. He is owned by Bailey & Laird of Williamsport, Ind., and Mansfield, O. If he continues to improve in speed, he will soon be a formidable rival for Robert J, Flying Jib, Mascot and Saladin. As Mr. Hamlin has two pacers that can defeat Rubinstein, the rumor that he offered any such sum as $42,000 for Rubinstein is probably unfounded. At the same time the handsome black pacer is one of the most promising side wheelers on the turf and will without doubt win a large amount of money before he is retired.

Side Hunts and Fishing Matches.

The too common practice of holding side hunts and fishing matches, in which a lot of men take sides and destroy life to learn which side can total the most points during a day, does not savor of true sportsmanship, says Outing for August. The most successful butchers win the stakes, usually a supper, and the two teams make merry and imagine that they are great sportsmen. Incidentally the game or fish of the district where the event comes off gets the worst of it. The spur of rivalry impels every contestant to slaughter as much as he possibly can, and the desire to score points encourages most unsportsmanlike methods. Very frequently in the side hunts points are allowed for birds which are not recognized as game and which might much better be spared. In any event, whether shooting or fishing, the amount of fun enjoyed is far from fair compensation for the damage done. No bird or fish should ever be killed merely to swell the count.

Champion Roberts and Uncle Sam.

When John Roberts, the English billiard champion, came to America last year to play return matches at English billiards with Frank Ives, who defeated him in London, he was compelled to pay $225 duty on the superb English table that he sent here ahead of him. The table had to be imported because there was no standard English table in America. The table was part of Roberts' professional implements, but it was taxed all the same, though Roberts said he would not sell it here. The English champion has just received back the amount of the duty from the treasury department, and the table is again on the other side of the water. From a financial standpoint Roberts' American visit was disastrous, but socially and professionally it was such a success that he says he is coming over here again.

The Great Four-year-old Dancourt.

Dancourt, the speedy young trotter who recently took into camp The Horseman's big stake aggregating over $20,000 for 4-year-olds at the Detroit blue ribbon meeting, was bred at Kalamazoo farm and is still owned there. His sire, Ambassador, was a colt trotter and finally made a record of 2:21¼. Dancourt's dam, Lowland Girl, was a campaigner and retired with a record of 2:19½. The advocates of pacing blood in the trotter can find solid argument in Dancourt's victory, for Lowland Girl is pacing bred, says The Horseman. She was got by Legal Tender, Jr., out of Fanny, by Blue Bull, and thus she combines the pacing families of Legal Tender, Davy Crocket and Blue Bull.

Dancourt's most formidable opponent was the mare Nemoline, by Jersey Wilkes. Both trotters are black, and both are directly descended from developed speed. Nemoline's grandsire, George Wilkes, was a campaigner, and her own sire was subjected to training as a colt, and so was his dam. Nemoline's dam, Nemesis, 2:28, was by Nutwood, 2:18¾.

The big stake was opened in 1890 and was guaranteed to be worth $12,500, but had such a patronage that it closed worth $20,355, of which Dancourt received $5,000 and The Horseman cup, valued at $1,000. Dancourt is owned by S. A. Browne & Co. of Kalamazoo. He took the first, fourth and fifth heats, the second and third going to Nemoline. The fastest heat was trotted by Nemoline in 2:15¼. Dancourt's best mile was done in 2:16, ½ and he took the last two heats in 2:17.

CONDENSED SPORTING CHAT.

Monroe Salisbury has bought a half interest in Alix, 2:07¾, and will campaign her along the line of the grand circuit.

W. A. Spink, the California billiard expert, will join the colony of American players in Paris.

The University of Pennsylvania baseball team played good ball this season, but lost about $1,000.

Old Raceland, who was recently shot to death, won $120,000 for his owner during a turf career of eight years.

Captain Hugh Baxter of the New York Athletic club is clearing 10 feet 9 inches in the pole vault for height these summer days.

On his arrival from Europe Corbett will be met by a representative of the Florida Athletic club of Jacksonville, who will offer him a purse of $35,000 to fight Peter Jackson.

R. A. Hickok, the New York schoolboy who recently threw the hammer 106 feet 9 inches, establishing a new school record for the running throw, will enter Yale next fall.

It is said that Michael F. Dwyer, the famous turf plunger, wept recently when old Raceland was shot.

Charley Kinsley, the well known road racer, has retired from the track.
