AIRWOMEN HAVE PLENTY OF FUN AT OFF TIMES

Train for Baseball Schedule, Spend Leisure Time Reading and in Other Recreations at Jarvis.

By MARGARET ECKER, Canadian Press Staff Writer.

Jarvis, Ont., Aug. 3.—(C)—Evening on an R.C.A.F. station, and what do the airwomen do on their evenings off?

They have a lot of fun, if Jarvis is an example; even more fun, probably, than when they were civilian working girls or living quietly at home.

The airwomen were certainly didn't look regimented or standardized after dinner. They appeared suddenly in cute play suits and bright slacks with little resemblance to the young women who had gone about their duties at No. 1 Bombing and Gunnery School earlier in the day.

From 6:30 to 7:30 p.m. there was "P.T."—physical training—with Sergeant Kay Milligan directing. "It's fun, and it keeps down the waistline," said the sergeant who comes from Vancouver and who was a brilliant agriculture graduate of the University of British Columbia. "You eat so much better here that you need it."

After P.T., as the sun was slanting down across the lush Norfolk County countryside, the girls scattered to do pretty much as they wanted. Their time was their own till bedtime at 10 p.m.

Some members of the R.C.A.F.'s women's division got back into uniform and trooped off with the airwomen to the station movie that runs three times a week. As many as the courts would hold were playing tennis; others were playing badminton in the big gymnasium. And some, in sun suits, were lying on a sheltered piece of grass getting the last rays of the sun.

Over in a field there was a baseball game and an airman was coaching the girls for their league game against W.D.'s from Hagersville the next evening. Others were moving the portable Mary Poppins, of Winnipeg, in brown slacks and white sweat shirt, was catching.

The team's best roster is Airwoman Flora Glass, a cook from Calgary. In bright pink slacks and sweater she was talking a fine baseball game and a few members said they couldn't play without her.

Girls who take their fun a bit more quietly were reading or writing in the airwomen's recreation centre and some had been invited into the airman's mess where they were chatting and reading. When the girls came to the station, the airman voted that the girls should be invited to use the library as a common meeting ground. The arrangement does not seem to be a hardship on anyone.

Two nights a week the girls ask the men to the dining room. On Thursday there's a dancing party, and on Sunday, games and a sing-song. The library is a popular place in the evening. The airman and airwomen prefer to read humorous books and murder mysteries, said A.W. J. Spring, of Hamilton, the station's librarian.

But it's not all fun and games in the air station at night and there was plenty of work going on. Nemo Pennefather, Ottawa, was wandering about as duty airwoman, relieving the N.C.O.'s. Her job, she said,

TWO KILLED IN EXPLOSION AND FIRE IN PLANT

Officials of Sherwin-Williams Company of Canada Opening Probe into Cause of Blast Today.

Montreal, Aug. 3.—(C)—Officials of the Sherwin-Williams Company of Canada will open investigation today to determine the cause of an explosion and fire that caused damage estimated at $100,000 at the Linseed Oil plant here yesterday. Two men were killed by the blast.

Lucien Marier, 34, and Robert Baillargeon, 20, the victims, were at work in the "oil treating" section of the plant on the third storey when the explosion shook the building. Two brick walls—two feet thick—on the top floor of the three-storey structure were demolished. Flames leaped through the wreckage following the blast.

Marier was working near one of the oil-treating machines and was killed almost instantly; Baillargeon, who was fleeing to safety, was struck by flying debris and died in hospital.

Several other workers who were in the same section of the building at the time escaped with minor injuries, while those on the lower floors escaped unharmed. There were sixteen employees in the plant at the time.

Firemen from all parts of the city rushed to the scene in answer to the three-alarm call. The flames raged unchecked for several hours before being brought under control.

The Senate waited to give final approval to the money bills containing the estimates while the House debated the Alberta natural resources bill which would give the Province of Alberta full authority over oil leases. The leases were the property of the Dominion before the natural resources of the Province were transferred to the Provincial Government.

Attendance on the last day was sparsely. Barely more than thirty-five members in the House at one time as many had left already for their homes.

As in other war sessions the House is simply adjourned, not prorogued. While the time fixed for resumption is January 27 it may be called earlier by the Speaker should war conditions or any other developments require a meeting.

Judge Archambault, recognizing the proof of good faith and granting the benefit of the doubt to the accused, said "this should not be considered as giving carte blanche to subverters of the law, tending to cause trouble in the country."

AMERICAN FARM PRODUCTION TO ACHIEVE QUOTA

Farmers Have Been Aided by Unusually Favorable Weather and Crop Damage Has Been at Minimum.

Chicago, Aug. 3.—(C)—The country's first wartime agricultural production goal, calling for the greatest American farm output on record to meet United Nations' food demands, is likely to be achieved, an analysis by livestock, produce and grain trade experts indicated today.

The 1942 output of some commodities may fall slightly below that sought under the program assigned farmers shortly after the attack on Pearl Harbor, while some goals are being exceeded.

At least, the American production machine is over the hump in its effort this year.

Farmers have been greatly aided by unusually favorable weather, except in a few sections, and crop damage has been at a minimum. Furthermore, most field and pastures now are in good condition because of excellent precipitation to continue the drive toward even greater production in 1943. New agricultural goals are expected to be announced soon.

The Red Army declared today that it had repulsed the Germans in all the vital sectors except South of Rostov where "severe defensive" battles were being waged.

Even there, said the Soviet Information Bureau, Don and Kuban Cossacks from the Red Army of the Caucasus were savagely counter-attacking to stem the German advance.

More than 6,000 Germans were killed and at least twenty-five tanks destroyed in a single day along the curving 300-mile Don front, the Russians declared.

About 2,000 Germans were left dead on the field in a fierce struggle near Kletska, Northwest of Stalingrad in the Don bend, where the invaders were repulsed, the communiqué said.

Units of Don and Kuban Cossacks charged fiercely into the slowly advancing Nazi forces in the Kuchevsk-Saak region of the North Caucasus in what the communiqué described as a "successful counter-attack" and killed 1,500 Germans, it was reported.

Soviet long-range bombers and dive-bombers assisted the hard-fighting Cossacks by raining bombs on German tank and motorized columns, the Russians said.

In the Tsimlyansk sector, 120 miles upstream from Rostov, the Germans were said to have left 2,000 dead officers and men on the field after an attack, and a few miles away a detachment of Soviet marines was credited with killing more Germans.

The Germans were trying desperately and in some places successfully to force more crossings of the Don near Tsimlyansk and send over reserves to the units which have crossed to the South bank, the Russians reported.

South of the River, Red army units were dealing heavy blows to the Germans trying to widen their footholds, dispatches said.

Soviet bombers were reported active in raiding the pontoon bridges already set up by the Germans and Red army artillery units South of the river were making new crossings difficult and perilous.

The German plan in the Kuchevsk-Saak region appeared to be to fan out in all directions in an effort to cut off large Russian units to the East, West and South.

On the upper reaches of the Don at Voronezh, the Germans counter-attacked six times in an attempt to regain positions but were forced to retire, front dispatches said. The Russians seized two critically-important hills, it was reported.

The Germans were pouring every available tank and piece across the lower Don deeper into the Caucasus and were seeking to disrupt Soviet defense by dropping parachutists behind the Red army lines.

HUNS CLAIM TANK COLUMNS ADVANCE

Berlin (From German Broadcasts) Aug. 3.—(AP)—The High Command claimed today that one of its tank columns was approaching the upper course of the Kuban River in the Caucasus.

(The Kuban rises in the Caucasus Mountains. The "upper course," which the Germans said they were nearing, however, may refer to a bend in the river near Kropotkin. Kropotkin is forty miles South of Tikhoretsk, the junction of the Rostov-Baku and Stalingrad-Krasnodar railways. Kropotkin itself is a junction of a secondary railway from Krasnodar, an important oil centre, and the Rostov-Baku line).

Between the Sal and Don rivers to the Northeast, the communiqué said, the Germans were driving the Russians Eastward in the direction of Stalingrad, while to the West, Russian rearguards were being forced Southward from the sector of the Yeya River, which empties into Taganrog Bay near Rostov.

In the great Don elbow, said the High Command's bulletin, fresh Soviet counterattacks were frustrated, partly because of the work of Nazi battleplanes and anti-aircraft detachments. Two tankers and four freighters were sunk on the Volga, it reported.

Continued attacks by the Red Army at Voronezh, Volkov South of Leningrad and at Leningrad were said to have failed.

Mrs. Minnie Hallowell Bowen Passes On In Her 82nd Year

Life-Long Sherbrooke Resident Was Known Throughout Province For Her Work in Literature and in Church, Patriotic and Philanthropic Circles—Funeral to Be Held Here Tomorrow Afternoon.

Mrs. Minnie Hallowell Bowen, known throughout the Province of Quebec for her work in literature and in church, patriotic and philanthropic circles, died in the City of Quebec Saturday evening. Mrs. Bowen, who was the widow of Cecil H. Bowen, of Sherbrooke, was in her eighty-second year and had been in failing health for some months. She was a patient in Jeffrey Hale Hospital for many weeks, but returned a few weeks ago to the home of her son-in-law and daughter, Rev. Canon Charles R. and Mrs. Eardley-Wilmet, where she passed away.

Mrs. Bowen was born at "Hallowell Cottage," 202 Queen Street, in Sherbrooke on February 4, 1861, and lived there all her life, except for a short time after her marriage, until about three years ago, when she moved to Levis, and then to Quebec, to reside with her daughter. She played a notable part in the life and development of this city, and few women have been so prominently identified with so many organizations. With a charming personality, a brilliant mind and a great sense of duty, she combined outstanding executive ability and tireless energy.

Minnie Henrietta Bethune Hallowell was the daughter of John E. Hallowell, the first lawyer to practise in the village of Sherbrooke, and of his wife, Helen Maria Clark. The Hallowell family was of United Empire Loyalist stock, settling in Montreal after the American Revolution. Educated in private schools, Mrs. Bowen herself conducted a school in this city for some years.

On September 10, 1890, she married Cecil Hale Bowen, son of Lieut. Col. G. F. Bowen, Sheriff of the District of St. Francis, first mayor of the town of Sherbrooke and founder of the 53rd Regiment.

Soon after their marriage, they lived in Newfoundland, where Mr. Bowen was a civil and mining engineer. While there Mr. and Mrs. Bowen were instrumental in building a church in the absence of a clergyman, they conducted the services, and where they also did medical and social service work among the miners on Pile's Island. Later they resided for a short time in Coburg, Ontario, then returning to Sherbrooke, where they afterwards lived. Mr. Bowen predeceased his wife a few years ago.

Mrs. Bowen was perhaps best known for her literary work. She wrote many poems which were published in Canadian anthologies and in magazines and newspapers, and also published several collections of her own works. Her subjects covered religious, patriotic, nature and historical topics, and of particular interest to the Eastern Townships were several poems dealing with the legends of the Indians in the early days of this region. Her power and beauty of expression and richness of language won wide praise in literary circles throughout Canada, and she was a member of the Canadian Authors' Association.

A life-long member of St. Peter's Church in this city, she was a devoted member of the Church of

INSPECTION OF CARS URGED AS SAFETY MEASURE

Quebec Safety League Bulletin Emphasizes Maintenance of Motor Vehicles Becoming Urgent Matter.

Gerard Marchessault, President of the Quebec Branch of the Province of Quebec Safety League, said today that the weekly bulletin of the league issued to motorists urges the inspection of all cars by owners as a safety measure.

He said the bulletin states that with the present-day critical shortages of rolling stock facilities, gasoline and tires and the serious handicaps caused by traffic accidents to the full mobilization of resources, the maintenance of motor vehicles is becoming a most urgent matter for all car owners and operators.

The league has recommended regular inspections of automobiles as an accident prevention measure. Today the same precaution can be stressed from another angle, the conservation viewpoint, according to Mr. Marchessault.

Among the other things to be checked, states the bulletin, are the brakes, lights, wheels, steering and chassis alignment. Failure of the owner to examine essential parts thoroughly is no excuse after an accident, it is emphasized, and his greatest insurance against mechanical failure and damaging results is periodic examination by trained inspectors equipped with precision testing equipment.

Mrs. Donald Morrison, of Timmins, Ont., Received Injuries to Back in Week-End Accident.

When the automobile in which she was a passenger with her husband collided with another car at the intersection of King and Big Forks Streets during the week-end, Mrs. Donald Morrison, 24 Middleton Avenue, Timmins, Ont., suffered back injuries.

Following the accident, the injured woman was taken by Gaston Noury, 21 Banks Street, in his car to the office of Dr. H. D. Bayce, who treated her.

Police said that both cars were damaged in the mishap. The driver of the other car was Ernest Boutin, of Sherbrooke, who was turning from King Street onto Big Forks Street. The Morrison auto was proceeding West on King Street.

In the only other accident investigated by the police in the past forty-eight hours, an autobus and a car figured in an accident near the corner of King and Wellington Streets.

According to police, the driver of the machine was Cyril Stevens, 2011 Wellington Street, Montreal, and Raymond Labonte, 6 Wellington Street, was the operator of the bus.

Police said that the machine, West-bound on King Street, crashed into the rear end of the bus, which had stopped for a passenger. Both the car and autobus were damaged.

NORWAY'S KING IS OBSERVING 70TH BIRTHDAY

Haakon VII Remains Hale and Active Leader of Norway's Fighting Against Axis.

London, Aug. 3.—(P)—Haakon VII of Norway—the King who was elected to his throne—observed his 70th birthday today in exile from his Nazi-ruled realm but still hale and the active leader of Norway's fighting against the Axis.

Norway is a big contribution to the Allied cause and her King, as vigorous and alert as most men much younger, is one of the busiest of the rulers who have found sanctuary in Britain.

Most of Norway's 4,000,000 tons of merchant ships and the 30,000 men who sail them—all who eluded the German conquerors' grasp and many more who have since escaped—are serving in the Allies' cause.

Her airmen are growing in number in active service against the Axis and a small army is ready for the day to try to drive the enemy out of its homeland.

Hakon was drafted to be a Norwegian thirty-seven years ago. When Norway was separated amicably from Sweden in 1905, her throne—vacant for more than 600 years—first was offered to a Prince of Swedish royal blood who declined.

Then it was offered to Prince Carl, the second son of the then Crown Prince of Denmark who later became King Frederick VIII.

The Prince had a reputation as a progressive, democratic young scion of royalty. He answered that he would serve if the people of Norway really wanted him. He insisted on a plebiscite, which voted for a monarchy 259,563 to 62,264. He took the name of Haakon VII.

BEEF REPORTED AVAILABLE IN GOOD QUANTITY

End of Holiday Season and Impending Drop in Wholesale Prices May Again Complicate Situation.

Beef is available to the housewife and to the butcher in Sherbrooke today in almost any quantity or choice desired, but a recurrence of the recent shortage is possible, it was learned during the week-end. Representative dealers and buyers consulted were divided in their opinions, but many of them agreed that the end of the holiday season, combined with the impending drop in wholesale beef prices, may bring about further embarrassment to seller and buyer alike.

Last week's supply was termed "normal." But many butchers said that trade is slack with so many families away on vacation, and if sales were at their usual levels they would be unable to satisfy their customers.

Again, the decision of the War-time Prices and Trade Board to reduce the wholesale price of beef by amounts ranging from three-quarters of a cent to two cents, depending on cut, may cause the farmer to hesitate at offering his low-grade cattle to stockyards. It was pointed out to a Record reporter that higher grade cattle, destined for export would not be affected, since these are sold through the WPTTB at U.S. prices.

However, if the farmer decides to keep his lower-priced cattle off the market until the end of the period set by the Board expires, a new shortage will develop. It was explained. The reduced price, while sales, becomes effective today and no new prices will be set until August 23.

This period coincides, almost with the return of many holiday-makers, and it is possible that retail offerings after that may be again insufficient.

SIMON LAKE TO OFFER ANSWER TO SUB MENACE

Veteran Submarine Designer and Builder to Testify Before Committee Seeking to Step Up Aircraft Production.

Washington, Aug. 3.—(P)—Simon Lake, veteran submarine designer and builder, promised to lay before a Senate military subcommittee today the solution of the U-boat menace.

Lake, who said he had been called before a committee that has been seeking to step up production of aerial freighters, declared that as one of the inventors of the modern submarine he knew "what the Axis nations can do with it."

"For thirty years," he said, "I have warned that battleships, cruisers, destroyers, patrol boats of any kind, even airplanes, could not effectively stop its destruction toll of ships, their crews and cargoes."

"I say now that we have not yet seen the full fury of the submarines such as will probably descend upon us in the days to come."

Two other experts were invited to testify before the subcommittee today as Senator Charles McNary (Rep., Oregon) called for bold steps in starting to build big cargo planes in shipyards.

Chairman Josh Lee (Dem., Okla.) announced that William B. Ziff, a publisher of aviation magazines, who recently returned from a study of the R.A.F. in Britain, and Col. Hugh Knerr, U.S.A. (retired) would present their views. Col. Knerr was chief of the General Headquarters Air Force from 1935 to 1938, and pioneered in developing army cargo planes.

TWO MEN WERE ARRAIGNED ON THEFT COUNT

Eudore Pouliot, a soldier from Quebec City, and Armand Rivard, of Sherbrooke, were arraigned today before Justice of the Peace H. O'Bready, charged with breaking, entering and theft by night in connection with the theft of two one-hundred-pound bags of sugar and eight thirty-pound cans of jam at the Mont Notre Dame convent early Saturday morning.

The two accused men were remanded to Wednesday when they will appear before a District Magistrate.

They were arrested by Sgt. Edouard Moreau and several officers in a downtown hotel, twenty minutes after the offence. The men allegedly jimmied the convent furnace room window and carried out the sugar and jam by the door, which was reported by police to have been unlocked from the inside.

Police said today that they are continuing their investigation.

CIVIC HOLIDAY A LOCAL BREAK WHERE WANTED

Toronto Started Idea in 1869 and It Has Spread Through Ontario to Western Cities.

By The Canadian Press
War or no war a score or more Ontario cities and towns and a few in the Western Provinces will have their Civic Holiday on Monday. It will be a bank holiday, too, in those centres where the Civic Holiday is proclaimed but war industries will in most cases do "business as usual."

Nobody disputes Toronto's claim of founding Civic Holiday. Back in 1869, two years after Confederation, a denunciation of festive citizens convinced the City Council the workers of the day deserved a break in their labors in midsummer. Although one merchant is on record as saying such a holiday would "only foster idleness," the request was granted and the holiday has been proclaimed annually ever since.

The idea spread until Civic Holiday now is observed in many Ontario municipalities, also in Winnipeg, St. Boniface and Brandon, Manitoba and Edmonton, Alberta. Calgary takes a half-day during "Stampede Week" in July. There is no observation of the day as a holiday in the Maritime Provinces, Quebec or British Columbia, but Dartmouth, N.H., has a "Natal Day" August 5.

When Civic Holiday started, there was no Labor Day holiday the first Monday in September, otherwise the argument of the Toronto pioneers would not have had a leg to stand on. Labor Day started in 1894 both in Canada and the United States.

Lake, who said he had been called before a committee that has been seeking to step up production of aerial freighters, declared that as one of the inventors of the modern submarine he knew "what the Axis nations can do with it."

Did I tell you about the time my pal Sandy McPhairson went up to Aberdeen?

He sat in the train for three hours without saying a word.

Then the bloke opposite thought he'd start a bit of a conversation, and he said, "A very tiring journey, isn't it?"

"Aye," Sandy said. "And so it ought to be for three pounds fifteen and elevenpence!"

Clarence G. Blake, District Scout Commissioner and President of the Sherbrooke Boy Scout Association, said today that Canadian Boy Scouts, seeking preparedness in a new and dangerous game now an old story to Boy Scouts in Britain, will start a course on September 1, designed to fit them for air raid precaution duties, messengers and emergency medical unit helpers.

Scout Commissioner Blake is awaiting complete information from National Boy Scout Headquarters in Ottawa concerning the A. R. P. training for Scouts here.

Under the new plan, between 20,000 to 30,000 Boy Scouts fourteen years of age and over will be eligible for the new programme, according to John A. Stiles, Chief Executive Commissioner of the Boy Scouts Association of Canada.

According to word received here, Mr. Stiles said that the Association "wholeheartedly approves" a suggestion by Dr. R. J. Manion, Director of Civil Air Raids Precautions for the Pension and National Health Department that Boy Scouts participate more actively in A.R.P. work.

In a letter to Mr. Stiles, Dr. Manion said it is understood the boys must have written consent from their parents and that it should be made clear to "parents and boys alike that the Scouts may be called upon for hazardous duties."

Scouts taking part in the programme "must be at least fourteen years of age, have good eyesight and hearing, be resourceful, dependable and able to write plainly."

Scout leaders, club leaders, Scoutmasters, Group committeemen and Scout Commissioners will train under local A.R.P. authorities, assisting at the same time in training the Scouts.

Scouts on duty will wear the national Scout service arm band and their regular uniform. Bicycles, flashlights and other equipment will be supplied by the Association or by the Scouts themselves.

O God, Who art the author of peace and lover of concord, defend us Thy humble servants in all assaults of our enemies.

THE DANGER PERIOD

The war is now entering its period of greatest danger for the United Nations. The enemy is unquestionably preparing now to put forth his maximum effort. His failure to attain certain minimum objectives within the next few months will bring home to him the inevitability of his defeat. He can only avert his fate by crushing blows that will upset Allied plans, compel a revision of strategy, and serve certainly to prolong the war into the most ruinous and exhausting war in history.

The Axis could obtain that result by smashing through to the Caucasus, annihilating the Russian Southern armies in the course of his march, and by eliminating the British forces from Egypt and the Middle East. That appears to be the 1942 objective and there is no doubt at all that Japanese strategy is being closely co-ordinated with that of Germany. It may take the form of an invasion of Siberia or India in the hope of sapping Russia's resources or compelling a diversion of British and American strength to the Indian peninsula. But whatever the course to be followed, it must be accepted as certain that the full weight of combined Axis strength will be used in the very near future.

It cannot be denied that up to now the Axis has employed its strength with considerable effect. It has struck hard at the vulnerable ocean supply lines of the United Nations, and brought the Nazi hordes closer to the Caucasus, imperilled Egypt, and caused a substantial diversion of Allied shipping for the supply of India and Australia. To meet these strokes, the United Nations are hastily perfecting means to cope more effectively with the submarine threat, and are rushing all the reinforcements they can to the threatened points. They have gained valuable time as well by the valiant stand of the Russians and the bold action of General Auchinleck in Egypt. The present action in Egypt may possibly improve greatly the position in Africa. In Russia, however, the German pressure along the lower Don gives cause for anxiety. It has brought a reaction in Britain and America in the form of increased clamor for a second front although the leaders of the United Nations can be scarcely less anxious than the uninformed public to initiate action that will bring prompt relief to the hard-pressed Russians.

This is not a time for ill-founded optimism but rather for faith combined with all-out effort. We can feel confident enough about our chances for the long pull but it is important that the pull will not be too long. If the enemy is now about to exert his peak effort the time has also arrived for our side to do likewise. That is axiomatic and it only remains, therefore, to learn where and how that effort is to be made. There were danger periods in the last war when the outlook seemed much darker than now. If only the enemy can be halted short of his minimum objectives for this year, the turn of the tide will come and the initiative will fall into the hands of the United Nations, yet to achieve their maximum strength, to be used against a foe showing signs of exhaustion and decline. There is no cause to feel that this cannot or will not happen.

CAN WE DO IT?

Prosecution of a grave and critical war effort on the part of a democracy is not as simple and direct as the prosecution of an all-out war by totalitarian regime. In a democracy of long standing rival political parties have been built up and political antipathies kept flaring even in a grave crisis like that of the present.

In the House of Commons at Ottawa we recently have had some exhibitions of party intractability and these exhibitions are not in accord with the wishes and desires of the people as a whole.

As far as the majority of Canadians are concerned they are becoming deeply perturbed over the war outlook. What they would like to see at Ottawa is a body of men intent on co-operating in every possible way for the winning of the war and for the survival of our Dominion as a free nation. They feel that things are not as they should be at Ottawa, that there is too much factionary activity, too much playing of the old political game.

It ought to be possible for our Parliament to function on a co-operative basis in a time of grave crisis like the present. In fact nothing else will satisfy the majority of the people and nothing less is likely to serve our vital needs. It will require a great deal of give and take on the part of all groups. It will require a ready realization on the part of all Members of Parliament, from the treasury benches and the party leaders down to the most unassuming private member, that all the others are anxious most sincerely that our country shall survive and that our enemies shall be thwarted.

It is quite safe to affirm that the people of this country do not want a general election while the war is on and its outcome more or less in doubt. It is no time to beat the party drums when bombs are bursting in many parts of the world and when they may be bursting over Canada almost any day. The people of Canada do not want a bitter political fight on their hands when they are concerned only over the outcome of this gravest of all wars.

Co-operation among our leaders, our public men is the great need of this democracy in its struggle against totalitarian might. To obtain co-operation there must be an all-round spirit of toleration and a general disposition to give and take. We all are Canadians and we must stand together. We must not shrink at renunciations in a time like this. If we are not willing to forget our political antipathies and move forward together we may lose everything. The people of this Dominion have made a notable war effort, in many respects a truly remarkable effort, and they do not want to be divided into party groups hostile to each other. They want to press on as one people.

YOUR BIGGEST JOB

By Grenville Kleiser

To sell yourself to the best advantage it is obvious that you must have something worth while to sell. And that "something" is chiefly ability, character, and personality. Possessing these in high degree, you are fitted to command a place of responsibility in this world.

You don't want to grope your way along paths of uncertainty and discouragement. Of course not. You are ready to receive counsel that vitally concerns your usefulness, well-being, happiness and prosperity. And so these practical suggestions are submitted for your earnest consideration.

When you stop to think how few men succeed in life, you realize the importance of planning better, working more diligently and persevering longer under all circumstances. Practically every man in the business of selling himself. The product may be merchandise, legal knowledge, life insurance, medical advice, teaching, dentistry, religious instruction, service of one kind or another, but in every case the man must primarily sell himself.

A New York firm recently advertised for a salesman and stipulated as qualifications for the position character, sincerity and ability. The firm is of high standing in the financial world and knows precisely the type of man likely to succeed under its sponsorship.

Let us assume that you are an applicant for such a position. There are two vital questions for you to answer here: What have you to sell, and what do you expect to earn?

In this connection, personal questions are in order. Answer them frankly to determine your fitness for such a job.

Have you a pleasing personality? Are you a man of character? Do you readily make friends? What do people think of you? Are you well-groomed? Have you a good speaking voice? What financial experience have you had? Are you a good loser? Have you a salesmaking record? Describe your special ability. Can you accurately size up a situation? What success have you had already?

Answer each question specifically. What are you doing to increase your future as a salesman? Do you read books and magazines devoted to salesmanship? Are you studying new methods to increase your efficiency?

Do you like salesmanship? Are you ambitious to become the best salesman in your field? Do you let failure unduly depress you? Are you wide-awake to what others are doing?

If you can answer most of these questions in the affirmative, you have a good chance of securing such a position.

FRENCH PRESS

THE INFLATIONISTS DEFEATED

La Presse, Montreal. The advocates of monetary inflation are always at work. They are to be found even in the precincts of the Canadian Parliament and even in the ranks of members who are believed to support the Administration. Agassi, some of them profited by the Budget debate to publicize their theories anew and to demand that the Government give them a trial. Fortunately, the Prime Minister, the Right Hon. Mackenzie King, and his colleagues were on guard. Replying to the suggestion of Arthur Slaght, Liberal member for Parry Sound, that the taxpayers be relieved by the issuance of $1,200,000,000 of Bank of Canada notes, the Minister of Finance, Hon. J. L. Flanagan, affirmed that he would resign rather than take such a course. The "inflationists" are thus a long way from the means they propose. Let us not hold illusions: they will renew their attempts, animated by a zeal worthy of a better cause.

HAVE A SMILE

Turning round a corner rather too quickly, a taxi ran into a tradesman's cart, upsetting it and scattering its contents all over the road. Promptly a policeman appeared, and began taking particulars. "What's your name?" he asked the taxi-driver. "Michael O'Brien." "Indeed, and that's my name, too! What part of O'Brien do you come from?" "Cork." "Cork, is it? Sure, just wait you there a bit while I go over and charge that careless spalpeen with backing into you."

When Mrs. Goldberg became a widow, she inherited a banking account. Unable to write, she always signed her cheques with an X. One day, however, the cashier was surprised to receive a cheque from her signed with a circle. He called her attention to it. "Why, haven't you heard?" she asked. "I was married last week, and my name was changed."

A man went to his doctor and requested treatment for his ankle. After a careful examination, the doctor inquired: "How long have you been going about like this?" "Two weeks." "Why, man, your ankle is broken. How you managed to get around at all is a mystery. Why didn't you come to me before?" "Well, doctor, every time I say something is wrong with me, my wife declares I'll have to stop smoking."

Johnny (buying ticket in railroad station): "I want a ticket to New York." Clerk: "Would you care to go by Buffalo?" Johnny: "I don't know. I've never ridden one."

"I'm not half good enough for you."

"Why, Bill, you talk just like one of my own family."

Then there is the news of the professional golfer new a drill instructor in the army. He is said to find the old language extremely useful.

"His mind," says a novelist, "flops about like a dead fish." Flopping is unusual for a mind, and even more so for a dead fish.

"John writes that several of his friends in the senior class have got interested in fencing," said Mrs. Brown, putting down a letter.

"That's more than we could do when he was home," sighed Mr. Brown. The sight of a spade or post-hole digger always seemed to give him the jitters.

Voice (over telephone): "Are you the game warden?" Game Warden: "Yes, ma'am."

Voice: "Well, I am so thankful I have the right person at last! Would you mind suggesting some games suitable for a children's party?"

Two women were discussing disarmament. One had a small boy with her, and the conversation suddenly took a very practical turn. "To tell the truth," said the mother of the boy, "I don't want them to abolish the Navy just yet—not until my Johnny has had a bit more wear out of his new sailor hat, anyway."

PRESS COMMENTS

VIGILANCE NECESSARY

Windsor Daily Star. Many people fail to take seriously the warnings that have been issued against careless talk, simply because they cannot conceive that they may know anything that would be of interest to an enemy agent. This theory should be exploded by the words of General J. C. Murchie, Vice-Chief of the Canadian General Staff, in his warning of espionage activity.

The general impression of a spy is of some sinister person concerning himself solely with important state secrets. That is not the way the enemy organization works today. As General Murchie points out, its agents are chiefly engaged in collecting scraps of information, which they painstakingly piece together until they have a complete picture. Even the smallest word may supply them with the one minor fact needed to fill out the pattern, and that word may be dropped by a person who has not the slightest suspicion that he knows anything of military value. Ceaseless vigilance is the only sure safeguard.

THE "SECOND-FRONT EXPERTS"

Baltimore Sun. The very nature of the sort of discussion which thus goes on is proof, we believe, of the complete inability of the layman to have a definite opinion about it. He can see the need clearly enough. He can see the many advantages which would flow from such an undertaking. He can foresee the terrible effects of a failure to act. He might even make shrewd judgments as to the part which the shortcomings of our political leaders—their timidity, their lack of understanding, their addition to conservative rather than bold thinking—could play in the decision when it is finally made. But the layman cannot compute, on the basis of the information in his possession, the size of the army which would be needed if the proposed invasion were not to be a fiasco. He cannot know what the shipping needs would be, what air power would be required, what would be the best place to make the venture, and so on.

FARMING UNDER FIRE

Manchester Guardian. The story has often been told of the French peasant plowing on the outskirts of a battle of 1870, a reminder, as it was then held, that destruction was an affair of hours and the life of the land everlasting. In the award of a George Medal and two British Empire Medals to a farmer, his wife, and a woman farm-worker we have a reminder that under modern conditions it is the battle that may go on for days and the farm which may be under fire for weeks on end. The farm where those awards were earned is on the nearest English land to the Continent; the German guns on the Calais dunes can reach it and shell-holes scar its soil. The farm buildings themselves are described as "probably the most vulnerable in the country," and yet all through those tremendous days of August and September, 1940, when clouds of German aircraft swept over the Channel to bomb and machine-gun, the cutting of corn and the feeding and milking of stock were carried on without interruption, though the farmer and his assistants had at times to shelter under their tractor from machine-gun bullets.

RUBBER CRISIS IN NEW ZEALAND

Weekly News, Auckland. The rubber crisis which has developed among the United Nations since their principal source of supply fell into the hands of the Japanese is extremely serious, with no easy way out of the difficulty. Its effects will be world-wide. No country can afford to neglect any resource which will help to meet the needs of the armed forces. In the United States, where the reconditioning of used rubber has long been an established industry, the Government is undertaking a programme to reclaim 55,000 tons a year. In the light of such an example it may be asked whether there should not be official action, in New Zealand to gather up all the old rubber available with a view to its being used again. There is a plant in this country to handle waste, and use it to take out the available stocks of raw material. The problem is to get up discarded articles, and particularly to transport them to the works. It is not

McKENNEY ON BRIDGE

By Wm. E. McKenney, America's Card Authority.

MAJOR SUIT GAME GIVES EXTRA POINTS

The list of Life Masters in contract bridge was increased to 31 when Albert Weiss of Chicago accumulated the required 250 points. Weiss has long been acknowledged as one of the outstanding players of the Middle West. The event that put him over the top was the Northern Illinois four-of-four contest on May 2, and here is one of the hands that helped him win. The choice of contract, a risky four hearts instead of an easy five diamonds, was made because of the match-point value of the extra 20 for the major suit game. Several North players chose four hearts, but only Weiss made the contract.

The first trick went to dummy's ace of clubs. Next came the ace and a low diamond, setting up the suit. East led the queen of clubs. Weiss saw that this defence would cause trouble if the adverse trumps were not split 3-3. He decided to bank on the spade finesse instead of them, must be subordinate to that prime need.

Weiss now cashed the king and ace of hearts and led the ten. West, having been stripped of diamonds and clubs, could return only a spade or the trump. In either case Weiss was sure to get in to pull the last trump and then the diamonds could be cashed.

GIVE BIRTHDAY PARTY IN HONOR OF EX-RESIDENT

Mrs. George N. Macdonald and Mrs. Willis Macdonald Hostesses at Enjoyable Event at Milan.

Milan, August 3.—Mrs. George N. and Mrs. Willis Macdonald were hostesses at a surprise birthday party for a former resident, Mrs. Donald MacKay, now of Montreal, at Mrs. Willis Macdonald's home on July 18th.

Mrs. MacKay, who was spending a few days among old friends and acquaintances, was on that day a luncheon guest of Mrs. John Bailey.

Around three o'clock, Mr. Albert Murray drove up to Mrs. Bailey's to bring her and Mrs. MacKay to Willis Macdonald's. On their arrival the guest-of-honor was ushered into the living room, where over thirty of her friends had gathered to wish her a happy birthday. Mrs. MacKay, who was completely taken by surprise, was deeply touched by this token of love and respect, and expressed her gratitude in her usual sincere and gracious manner.

Mrs. MacKay, since the death of her beloved life companion, has been spending the winters with her daughters, but for several summers opened up her home here for a few weeks, where she and all members of her family were heartily welcomed by their many friends.

Mrs. MacKay, who is eighty-eight years of age, is enjoying fairly good health and has the sincere wishes of her friends for many more happy birthdays, in health and strength. After all enjoyed sandwiches, tea and some of the delicious birthday cakes, all joined in singing "There's a Land That is Fairer Than Day" with Mrs. Kenneth Macdonald at the organ, then Mr. Beatt, Student Missionary, offered prayer.

Before dispersing Mrs. MacKay asked for the signature of all who were present, a request that was readily granted.

Shorthand Course for Home Study

Chances do come in business, but only those who're ready can profit by them. A way to be ready is to learn a skill, shorthand, in your spare time.

Shorthand isn't difficult. You can learn it in simple home lessons. Then when an opportunity comes you're trained, ready to step in—with an advantage over unskilled workers.

In Pitman shorthand, you write symbols based on the sounds of words, instead of on their spelling. The word "pay," you learn, is a light starting stroke followed by a heavy dot. "Say" is a light curve and a dot.

There aren't many sounds in the language, so you soon master the symbols. And for common phrases like "in order that... as soon as," you have abbreviated time-saving symbols, easy to learn.

Then for regular practice each day—with someone dictating to you, slowly at first. Before you know it you'll be taking real office-speed dictation.

Our 32-page booklet gives the essentials of the famous Pitman system in easy step-by-step lessons. Includes exercises; abbreviated symbols for words and phrases; pointers to acquiring speed, accuracy. Helpful as an aid to a business college course.

Send 15c in coins for your copy of "Self-Instruction in Shorthand" to Daily Record, Home Service, Sherbrooke, Quebec. Be sure to write plainly your name, address, and the name of booklet.

OBITUARIES

MR. HENRY PARKER, ST. ISIDORE

St. Isidore, Aug. 3.—Mr. Henry Parker, of St. Isidore, passed away suddenly on the evening of June 12. He had been in poor health for some time but was never confined to his bed during that time.

Mr. Parker was the second son of the late Henry Parker and his wife, Margaret Moody, and was born in the Township of Newport on August 30, 1872, and had spent his whole life here and in the adjoining town of St. Isidore.

On December 12, 1900, he was married to Isabelle Lav, who survives him.

The funeral service was held on June 16, at St. Matthew's Church, Randolph, and was conducted by Rev. A. E. W. Godwin. The hymns "Abide With Me," "What A Friend We Have in Jesus" and "There Is No Night in Heaven" were sung by Mrs. Mona Masters, Mrs. Mamie Mathews and Mrs. George Loveland, with Mrs. Lloyd Hunt as organist.

Mr. George Hurd, of Sawyerville, had charge of the funeral arrangements.

The bearers were Messrs. Charles Montgomery, H. Sutton, C. Burns and R. Riddle.

Interment was in Maple Leaf Cemetery.

Those left to mourn besides his wife are three brothers, William and Allen, of Randolph, and Albert, of Eaton Corner; two sisters-in-law, Mrs. Maud Parker, of Jefferson, N.H., and Mrs. Margaret Bradley, of Barlett, N.H., and a host of nieces and nephews. An only sister, Annie, Mrs. William Law, predeceased him in 1920, and an older brother, Edward, in 1940.

Those from out-of-town to attend the funeral were Mrs. M. Bradley, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Chase, of Barlett, N.H., Mrs. A. Pines, of Willie House, N.H., and Mr. and Mrs. Burt Hill, of Stanstead.

DR. GEORGE F. LEROY FULLER, OF COWANSVILLE.

Cowansville, August 3.—Hundreds of citizens of the town and surrounding country, as well as from Magog, Sherbrooke and Montreal, gathered at Trinity Church, on Wednesday afternoon, July 29th, to pay a last tribute of respect to a beloved physician and friend, Dr. George F. Leroy Fuller, who passed away at his home, on Sunday evening, July 26th.

The Rev. John Peacock, assisted by Rev. F. T. Norman, of Montreal, officiated. Mrs. C. E. Hayes presided at the organ.

The casket was covered with the Union Jack on which lay the late Captain's hat.

A large number of Veterans formed a Guard of Honor as the casket was borne into the Church and also at the Cemetery entrance at Sweetburg.

The bearers were Dr. A. C. Paine, Dr. C. E. Hayes, Col. R. F. Stockwell, Charles Robinson, R. H. H. Sherry and Murray Rutter.

The floral offerings were numerous and very beautiful.

Interment was made at Christ Church Cemetery in Sweetburg, where rest the remains of his daughter, Madeline, and son, Harold, who passed away in infancy, and his parents, also a brother, Harold Fuller.

Surviving are his wife, the former Clara Belle Boyd, whom he married in 1903; two daughters, Adele, Mrs. Hardy, of Cowansville; Shirley, Mrs. Jean Dickson, of Montreal; two sons, Paul, with the Canadian Army Overseas; and Wetherall, who has just been invalided home from Overseas; one grandson, Dennis Hardy, of Cowansville; one sister, Margaret, Mrs. J. O'Halloran, of Westmount.

His sympathy is extended to the bereaved family.

He received his education at Cowansville High School, Berthier and McGill University, graduating in medicine in 1899.

Following graduation he spent one year in Concord, N.H. Returning to Cowansville, he engaged in the general practice of medicine, which he continued until a few months before his death. The only interruptions were the years of 1914-18 which he spent in the service of the Canadian Army Overseas, and again at the outbreak of the present conflict, when he again offered his services and was stationed in a Military Hospital in Fredericton, N.B., for several months, until ill health forced him to give up his work.

After receiving treatment in a New York hospital for a throat infection, he returned home, but suffered a relapse and for the past few months has been an invalid at his home here, where he was tenderly cared for by his wife and daughter, Adele.

Due largely to his skill as a Dominion-wide-known diagnostician, he was offered many tempting positions in larger spheres of labor but his love of country life, especially in the locality where he and his father had for so many years carried on, persuaded him to turn them aside.

His death is a great loss to the medical profession, his family and the community which he served so faithfully and well.

Among those present at the funeral from out-of-town were Mr. and Mrs. J. O'Halloran, of Westmount; Mr. and Mrs. Edward Boyd, of Westport, Conn.; Cpl. Ivan Dickson and Mrs. Dickson, Dr. A. Stewart, Dr. A. J. Campbell, of Montreal; Dr. S. Brown, Mr. William Jackson, Mr. S. McLaughlin, of Granby; Dr. Boulay, of Sutton; Dr. Douglas, of Knowlton; Mr. A. Robinson, Mr. B. Moressey, of Waterloo; Mr. P. E. McLaughlin, of St. John's, N.B.; Mr. W. H. Lynch, of Sherbrooke; Mrs. H. Tessier, of Montreal; Mrs. H. Pibus, of Magog; Rev. E. S. Reed and Mrs. Reed, of Montreal; Rev. C. Rollet, of Stanbridge East, Capt. W. S. Rodger, M.D., of Cowansville, A/C Wesley Morey, of Halifax, N.S.

DOUBLE SHOWER WAS GIVEN AT WAY'S MILLS

Held in Honor of Mrs. Clarence Davis, the Former Ethel Rider, and Miss Marion Perry.

Way's Mills, Aug. 3.—A double shower was given at the home of Mrs. Bernard Holmes on the evening of July 25 for Mrs. Clarence Davis nee Ethel Rider, and Miss Marion Perry.

Quite a surprise awaited them, when they arrived and saw so many friends and neighbors to greet them and spend a happy evening with the new bride and bride-to-be. Mrs. Holmes was assisted by Mrs. L. M. Gray and Mrs. Albert Davidson.

A mock marriage with Mrs. W. Pope as clergyman, Miss Meryl Pope as bride, Mrs. Freeman Sutton as groom, and Betty Parsons as tailor, caused much laughter.

Following this was the presentation of a lovely bouquet to the bride, after which she was sent on a hunting trip to find all her gifts. Mrs. Davis then thanked all for her gifts, and the bride-to-be was presented with a lovely bouquet and she was started on her rocky path, trying when possible not to step on any gifts as she wended her way along the path very carefully led by Mrs. Holmes. After returning to her seat of honor beside her friend, Mrs. Davis, Miss Perry also thanked her friends for her gifts. The gifts were then admired by all.

During the evening Mrs. William Horn gave a vocal selection, which was much enjoyed. A social chat and delicious refreshments served by the hostesses, assisted by the young ladies, made the evening pass very quickly and near midnight all departed to their respective homes leaving behind many good wishes for the young bride and the bride-to-be.

DODGERS MAINTAIN NINE - GAME ADVANTAGE

Yanks Add To Lead By Beating Browns Twice

Two-Run Homer by Tommy Henrich and Shutout Hurling by Ernie Bonham Account for Champs' Triumphs—Brooklyn and Chicago Divide Double Feature—Carl Hubbell Hurls Fifth Straight Victory for Giants.

Brooklyn Dodgers, who might not be so far along with their work had they met New York Giants more often, tangled with their hecklers from Harlem this evening in a contest that has generated more excitement in Gotham than any baseball battle since the last World Series.

This interborough brawl was just another Monday ball game when the schedule was drawn up months ago, but a chain of circumstances has transformed it into an important struggle, with Army Emergency Relief the principal beneficiary.

When the two National League rivals played for Navy Relief in the Dodgers' park in May, they took in about $60,000, a mark none of the other teams has touched. This time they'll have the major league spotlight to themselves when they start swinging at the Polo Grounds at 6:45 p.m. E.D.T. and they have promised to do even better by the Army.

The Giants helped the Dodgers preserve their nine-game lead yesterday by splitting a doubleheader with the second-place St. Louis Cardinals, which is all the Dodgers could do with Chicago Cubs.

It took the Dodgers ten innings to turn back the Cubs, 6-4, in the first game. Pete Reiser hoisted a long fly with the bases loaded to decide the issue. In the second game, Claude Passeau pitched one to a 7-6 triumph, but he had to have help in the ninth when the Dodgers rallied for three runs.

Carl Hubbell pitched the Giants to a 7-1 decision over the Cardinals for his fifth straight victory as Mel Ott blasted two home runs, one with the bases loaded. Then Mort Cooper tossed a four-hitter at the Giants and the Cards won, 3-2.

Cincinnati Reds clung to their one-game third-place margin over the Giants by splitting with Boston Braves. Al Javery blanked the Reds 7-0 on five hits in the first game, but Cincinnati took the second, 4-2.

Pittsburgh Pirates dumped the Philadelphia Phils, 4-2 and 3-2, and hopped over the Cubs into fifth place. In the American League, New York Yankees downed St. Louis Browns twice and stretched their lead to 12½ games over Cleveland Indians, who wrested second place from Boston Red Sox with the help of Detroit Tigers.

A two-run homer by Tommy Henrich led the Yanks to a 4-2 victory over St. Louis in the opener and Ernie Bonham blanked the Browns, 10-0, in the nightcap, although he yielded ten hits.

The Indians nosed out Philadelphia Athletics, 4-3 and 4-2, while the Tigers knocked the Red Sox into third place by four percentage points, taking the first game, 8-4, and the second by 6-2.

Washington's scheduled double-header at Chicago was postponed. In Saturday's games in the National League, the Dodgers gained on St. Louis by defeating the Cubs 9-6 while the Cards were splitting with New York, winning the first game of a double header 8-1 and losing the second 5-4 in 11 innings. The Phils nosed out Pittsburgh 2-1 and Boston beat Cincinnati by the same score in ten innings.

In the abbreviated American League schedule, Boston Red Sox defeated Detroit 9-8 and the Browns defeated the Yankees 7-3.

SAYS PRIDE OF YANKEES ISN'T TRUE PICTURE

Grayson Disagrees with Dramatic and Screen Critics Regarding Portrayal of Lou Gehrig.

By HARRY GRAYSON
New York, Aug. 3.—Catching the press preview of "The Pride of the Yankees," I commented, quite honestly, that I did not consider it an accurate portrayal of the life of Lou Gehrig.

I also thought the picture was weak in spots, especially at the beginning. I wrote as one well acquainted with Lou Gehrig and his phenomenal career. I was not alone. Well, the dramatic and screen critics have had a whack at "The Pride of the Yankees," and I find out that, while I may be able to tell a baseball from a squash, I don't know a thing about pictures—or adjectives.

From just one review: "Resonant script... meticulous production... cunning staging... curiously powerful unity... dramatic miracle... action fluent and cumulative... split-second timing of a world championship baseball team... brilliant showmanship... tremendous dramatic force... heroic dimensions... fascinating and irresistible overtones... emotional jolt... triumphant and moving screen biography... eloquent epitaph... real tribute to the American spirit... 10-to-1 it will not leave you unshaken... memorable... stunning."

Wonder if this bloke saw "The Birth of a Nation"? Samuel Olchin, tells a truer story of Gehrig than the picture portrays. In 1929, when I was at P.S. 66, in the East Bronx, "Lou" was at his peak, a figure in great demand at all sorts of big affairs. The year before he hit 47 home runs, batted .347. He hit .545 in the world series. The Yanks took four straight from the Cardinals.

"I did not know Gehrig, but I needed a name attraction to appear at the community center we were running at night at P.S. 66, trying to keep kids off the streets. I plucked up my courage and sent an invitation to Gehrig. I asked him to referee a basketball game."

"I hardly dared hope such an important baseball man would turn up at our little place, but on the date set, smiling and pleasant, he happened to be a very rainy night, so I was all the more surprised at his punctuality."

"Gehrig slipped and skidded in his street shoes, galloping up and down the court in our little school gym, trying to keep on top of the play. It was just a neighborhood test between boys of around 17 and 18. But by Gehrig felt imposed upon in being dragged out on a soggy night to handle a game where the admission was only a thin dime, he never showed it. He gave autographs to all the players, scribbled his name on every bit of paper shoved in front of him by young spectators."

"Before he left he came over and shook hands and told me he had a lot of fun and that it was a privilege to have paid us a visit."

Principal Olchin met the real Lou Gehrig.

PHIL'S MOUND MEN CAN'T EVEN BUNT
Philadelphia, Aug. 3.—Hans Lobert, who has a constitution of steel, says he almost gave up on his Philadelphia Phils this year. Old Uncle Hans has weathered hitless months, flagrant errors and poor pitching, but when he discovered not one of his pitchers could lay down a bunt in twelve straight games—well, that almost rang down the curtain. A persevering chap, Lobert is now teaching the mound s.a.f.f. to bunt.

George Christison Records Ace On Dufferin Heights Course

George Christison, Sr., of Lennoxville, is the newest member of the Eastern Townships golfers' "Hole-in-One Club," earning his membership yesterday afternoon at the Dufferin Heights Country Club, Stanstead.

The genial veteran, who learned the game many years ago at St. Andrews, Scotland, birthplace of the Royal and Ancient Game, when a braw young laddie, posted his tee shot into the cup on the third hole, the ball covering a distance of 155 yards from tee to hole.

As a matter of fact, George earned the ace the hard way, because on the first nine-hole round his ball rolled around inside the cup and then popped out on the same third hole. On the second nine, however, he made no mistake, and the ball stayed in the cup.

The hole-in-one was made with a "Scotch Bassy," which means an iron of some kind and the ball was a Kroffle. About eighteen or twenty players in the vicinity witnessed the shot.

Playing with George were Don Johnston, his partner in a foursome, and two Stanstead players, Wayne Campbell and Alan Pocock. George had 79, Johnston 77, Campbell 78 and Pocock 80. The Lennoxville and Stanstead clubs were engaged in a friendly match which the visitors won by a three-point margin.

Asked if he was planning to hold a celebration with Harry Fowles, the Lennoxville pro who made an ace last year, George said it would afford him great pleasure, provided Harry paid. Scots Wha Hae!

BEN HOGAN IS EXPECTED FOR CANADIAN OPEN

Montreal to Send Strong Contingent in Search of $3,600 in Prizes and Seagram Gold Cup.

By SCOTT YOUNG
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Fighters on the Merchant Navy Relief Fund card at Vancouver next Friday will pick up something new in purses—half cash and half savings certificates. . . . That system has been used in many tennis and golf tournaments during the last couple of years, but the spread to other games has been slow.

Golf gossip: Ben Hogan is expected to turn up for the Canadian Open although he hasn't sent in an entry yet. . . . It's good news to galleryites that Vancouver's Stan Leonard will be in the field for the $3,600 in prizes and the Seagram Gold Cup.

Montreal will send a strong contingent to the Open, four pros and seven amateurs. . . . The championship course, Mississauga, is not too tough for long, straight hitters but there is an almost stupendous amount of trouble available for duffers. . . . Speaking of duffers, S. Young toured the layout a few days ago. . . . We'd give you the score, except that the caddy stashed himself with a niblick and ran screaming into the Credit River on the 15th. . . . We never saw him again, and he had the card. . . . After the 15th comes a steep hill to the next tee, with an escalator (yet) to save one's life and legs.

Incidentally: Andy (Toronto Star) Lytle reports that Toronto Leafs paid only $3,750 cash for Burgess Whitehead. . . . Whitey probably will go to Pittsburgh at the end of the season at the $10,000 price specified in a working agreement between Pirates and Toronto. . . . Nice bit of profit, considering also that the former Giant is one of the biggest reasons for Toronto's success this season.

Irvin (Fort William Times-Journal) Rechtschaffen writes in about a peculiar play in the Lakehead Senior Baseball League—a play in which a base-runner touched five bases on an attempted sacrifice. . . . The batter bunted a blooper into the pitcher's glove. . . . The runner who had reached second, turned and sprinted back to first. . . . The pitcher threw wild trying to cut him off and the runner made third on the overthrow. . . . Then the umpire ordered him back to second because he was entitled to only one base on an overthrow. . . . The guy really earned the one-base advance, with all that sprinting back and forth.

Majeski's Bat Swings Often For League-Leading Newark

Third Sacker Pacing Regular Hitters in International Loop for Third Straight Week—Bisons Fall 7-1 and 7-4—Syracuse Bumps Toronto 4-1 and 2-0—Royals Split with Orioles.

Out of Staten Island, New York City's least populated borough, has come Hank Majeski, the hardest hitting third baseman in the International League.

Majeski is no giant, standing five feet nine, but he packs a big wallop in his 174-pound frame and for the third straight week Majeski is pacing the regular hitters in the Shughnessy Circuit.

Bears to a double triumph over Buffalo Bisons yesterday, 7-1 and 7-4. Majeski drove in seven runs on two homers and two singles. George Washburn turned in a five-hitter to annex the opener for the Bears.

Majeski iced the game with a fifth-inning two-run four-master. The second game was a pitchers' battle for four innings between Andy Sierra, of the Bisons, and Joe Page, in the fifth Gene Corbett drove in the first Newark run in Class "C."

With a homer but Majeski brought in the next four with a grand slam. The next four with a grand slam blow.

The up and coming Syracuse Chiefs, behind the brilliant pitching of Ewell Blackwell and Ned Andrews, defeated Toronto Maple Leafs twice, 4-1 and 2-0.

Rochester Red Wings split a bargain bill with Jersey City Giants, winning the lid-lifter on Harry Davis' three-run ninth-inning homer, 8-6, and losing the aftermath 4-1 as Ken Jungels dished out six hits.

Bob Chipman pitched a four-hit shutout over Baltimore Orioles in the first game of a twin bill to give Montreal Royals a 4-0 victory.

The Orioles evened things by taking the seven-inning second game, 6-1, as Joe Krakauskas came up with a six-hitter.

In Saturday's games, Jersey City took a doubleheader from Royals, 7-4 and 4-2, while Syracuse and Toronto split, the Chiefs taking the first game 1-0 and Toronto the second 2-1. Baltimore defeated Newark 8-4 and Rochester edged out Baltimore 6-5.

YESTERDAY'S STARS

Chicago, Aug. 3.—Phil K. Wrigley, owner of the Chicago Cubs, is willing to let his entire organization go to work for the armed forces.

The chewing gum magnate has offered to turn the Cubs over to Army and Navy Relief for the remainder of the season.

The funds can keep all profits. Wrigley will make up any operating deficits.

It is believed unlikely that either of the service funds will take up the proposal.
