SPRINGTIME IS BLOSSOM TIME

Blossoms are the order of the day both in Westmount and in Canada's Capital City as it marks its annual Tulip Festival. Not only are more than a million tulips in bloom in Ottawa, but flowering shrubs in increasing numbers are adding their touch of beauty to the scene.

RMR demonstration moved here from Verdun for 'security'

A military display and survival demonstration by the RMR in Westmount scheduled to take place on the grounds of Verdun City Hall last week was cancelled at the last minute in the interests of security. It was finally held Tuesday night in Westmount Park.

The Verdun demonstration was postponed by the Royal Montreal Regiment after Mayor O'Reilly expressed concern with the magnitude of the demonstration and after consultation with the police.

Mayor O'Reilly had no objection to the RMR parading through the streets. "But when I learned of the extent of the program and the delicate situation which exists all around us, I decided against using the park in front of the City Hall for the purpose." Verdun police have recently been kept on the alert by bomb scares.

The Demonstration in Westmount Park was the first of a series planned to be held at various locales on the Island of Montreal. The motive for these demonstrations, primarily recruiting, also takes into consideration that fact that in 1964 the Regiment celebrates its 50th anniversary, and will receive new Colors from the Princess Royal.

Tuesday's programme started with the arrival of a contingent of the Regiment from the St. Catherine street Armoury. The first event, an arms drill, followed.

An attack demonstration was then given, the program concluding with a National Survival Rescue exercise.

The Regiment provided a static display of signals sets, medium and light infantry weapons, and light rescue equipment now in use.

Mayor Drury, Aldermen, at open meeting

The Annual Spring Meeting of the Westmount Municipal Association will be held at Victoria Hall on Tuesday, May 21, at 8.15 p.m. Open to both members and non-members, the meeting will feature discussion of current local problems, "rather like an old-fashioned Town Meeting," according to one official.

Westmount's Mayor and Aldermen will be present to answer questions.

Tax rate unchanged

City raises property valuations

Westmounters will soon find their properties worth more on City valuation rolls, but with few exceptions should pay no more in taxes than previously.

A newsletter prepared this week stated that Westmount is presently contemplating changes in valuation rolls to conform to the desires of the Montreal Metropolitan Corporation. The City anticipates that the mill rate will go down, with a re-assessment, in order that tax revenues may remain at levels comparable with the past, according to budget requirements.

Under Provincial legislation adopted in 1961 respecting the Montreal Metropolitan Corporation, every municipality on the Island is required to deposit with the Corporation a certificate showing the total valuation of taxable immovables in their municipality.

The Corporation was empowered to make adjustments to ensure that valuations had been determined on the same basis and principle as those used in the preparation of Montreal's roll.

Prime purpose of the legislation was to ensure equalized assessments, it was reported.

Westmount has retained the consulting firm of Warnock Hersey Appraisal Company to study property values in view of the legislation and assist the Board of Assessors.

The new roll is due to be completed by about the end of July.

By law, property owners are given 30 days to enquire and submit a protest, if they desire.

The newsletter announced that the City was arranging for specially qualified personnel to be at City Hall during the 30-day period to discuss individual problems.

Two robberies at stationery

A Greene avenue store has two broken windows this week as a result of two robberies, but the man held responsible for at least one of them was apprehended by an alert Westmount Police Constable.

Constable K. Goodfellow, checking the rear of buildings on Greene avenue Tuesday night noticed a broken window beside the delivery entrance of Hill's Stationery, 1217 Greene. Alerted by a scraping noise, he discovered a man hiding behind boxes a few feet away. He was surrounded by a litter of plastic tapes taken from a shelf underneath the broken window.

Charged with breaking and entering, the man will appear today before Municipal Court Judge A. McT. Stalker. He has not yet entered a plea.

Pool, bath house set for opening

The Westmount Municipal Swimming Pool and the new bathhouse are due to open June 1. An earlier opening is possible, but not likely due to unsettled weather and the need to gather a staff, a City official explained.

Construction work, on the bathhouse which began this winter, is almost completed. The new facilities will provide sections for men and women, each accommodating 200 participants.

Nine dressing cubicles will be available in the women's section, with 56 coin operated lockers for those who wish to safeguard valuables and clothing. Wire bas-

Attendance up at ice rink

Attendance at Westmount's Artificial Ice Rink increased by almost 12,000 this winter over the previous year, it was reported this week. Skaters and hockey players were not drawn particularly from the natural ice rinks as attendance there also increased by 4,508.

Use of facilities for hockey increased by almost 13,000 in February from the same month last year.

MAY 18 to 25

By ERIC NEAL

Gardens explode into colour this showery week when tulips and other bulbs put in their spring show. Forsythia and trilliums bloom in the Laurentians. Lilac blooms in the south, as do choke cherries, wild plums and apples.

Days bright, relatively warm and misty with heavy dews into mid-week then windy with showers and some thunder. Drizzle and flurries in the north. The warming trend will give a wide temperature range of 30 - 80° F in the south and 25 - 65° F in the north and east.

Mainly sunny and warming rapidly for the end of the week. The transition from cool to very warm is always quite sudden. Fishing fair, dawn and evening.

City to rebuild Park ponds

Construction work may start in July on renovation of ponds and water courses in Westmount Park, it was announced this week. Plans for the construction will soon be submitted to City Council.

"The main objective is to restore the ponds which have deteriorated with age, and which, in early days, constituted a water course which drained into a ravine at Western and Lansdowne, and flowed down through the Glen," the Westmount newsletter stated.

The City has retained the firm of MacFadzean and Every, specialists in landscape, architecture, park and recreation planning, for the work.

Other contemplated projects in Westmount Park, it was noted, are the replacement of many trees and improvement of the lighting system.

The men's section will have approximately the same facilities. Showers are located in both.

A special feature of the new bathhouse is the sun deck on the roof, providing an observation platform.

Participants in pool activities must carry the standard recreation department identification card which is required for admission to all local facilities.

Cards may be obtained at the Artificial Ice Rink, Monday through Friday, from 9:00 a.m. to 5 p.m. Applicants are required to furnish two pictures of themselves: 1½ x 1½, together with proof of residence in Westmount.

Director Harper on civil defence seminar

A Westmount Civil Protection Organization will soon be formally established. City Council last month approved $7,000 for purchase of emergency equipment as required by law and Director of Public Safety, E. C. Harper is this week in Arnprior near Ottawa, taking a week's seminar in "orientation" procedures.

Sponsored by the Canadian Civil Defence College, under the Department of Health and Welfare, the course provides detailed training in survival planning, emergency communications, survival techniques, radiation determination, and related fields. It includes a course in the handling of peace-time disasters.

RCAF parade in Westmount Park

The Annual Parade and Inspection of RCAF 11 Wing Headquarters Units (Auxiliary) will be held on May 26, 1963, on the south east side of Westmount Park.

The parade will be followed by a march past, with the reviewing stand positioned directly in front of Melville Presbyterian Church.

Group Captain H. J. Everard, DFC, CD, will take the salute during the march past.

Westmounter Dr. D. N. Bridges, 5010 Sherbrooke street west, was honored Wednesday by Sir George Williams University, receiving an honorary life membership. Mrs. Bridges represented her hospitalized husband.

The noted Canadian psychologist and "favorite" of several thousand Georgian University students, has announced his retirement from the full time faculty this year. He is 78.

One of his books "Psychology, Normal and Abnormal" has been the entré to psychology for thousands of students, over 100 of whom have gone on to distinguished graduate careers in the field.

Rotary seeks service club building at World's Fair

The Westmount Rotary Club proposed Wednesday that all service clubs in Montreal get together and contribute towards the cost of a building for the World's Fair.

Addressing the weekly luncheon meeting of the Club, president Bill Clark said that the building could be used as a hospitality centre and information booth during the Fair and later turned over to an appropriate charitable agency.

With all clubs on the island contributing, a permanent building could be built at small cost to each club, he added.

Guest speaker at the meeting was Andrew Charles Kovats, Chief Engineer Communication Department, Northern Electric, who outlined his experiences and impressions as an immigrant to Canada.

"The atmosphere of genuine freedom struck me at the very beginning of our residence here," he said. "After moving into our first home, I asked the landlord for a report form to confirm our new address to the police. I could hardly believe that such a report was not required at all."

Mr. Kovats said he was astonished to hear that he could move freely all over Canada and accept positions, if he wished.

"Canada with its great personal freedom, democratic way of life and excellent capacities, has the potential for securing a cultural and economic level equivalent to and even better than any other nation."

Obituary

Hugh N. Baird, 85 prominent executive

Funeral services were held Wednesday for Hugh Northcote Baird, former chairman of the board and chief executive of National Steel Car Corporation Ltd. He died Monday at the Montreal General Hospital following a lengthy illness. He was 85.

Born and educated in Montreal, he moved to Winnipeg at the turn of the century and was a partner in Baird and Botterell, grain merchants. He was president of the Winnipeg Grain and Produce Exchange in 1909-10.

Mr. Baird joined National Steel Car in 1924, five years after its organization. He became a vice-president in 1928 and was elected to the board of directors in 1929.

He was appointed chairman of the board and chief executive in 1942. He retired in 1952 and had been living quietly since at his home at 10 Rosemount avenue, Westmount.

Mr. Baird was a director of International Paints (Canada) Ltd., and a former director of Canadian Dredge and Dock Company Ltd., Toronto.

He was a member of the Mount Royal Club and the Manitoba Club in Winnipeg, and was a former member of the St. James' Club, the Royal Montreal Golf Club and the Laval-sur-le-Lac Golf and Country Club.

Active as a youth in the Lachine Hockey and Rowing Clubs, he continued to participate in sports in Winnipeg, where he refereed some of the early Stanley Cup games. He also was a golfer and a fisherman.

Mr. Baird is survived by his wife, the former Lillian Edith Pinder, whom he married in 1903; a son, Jack N. Baird; two daughters, Mrs. David MacLaren and Mrs. Corry Ross; and six grandchildren.

the night before through a similar rear window. A small amount of cash was taken. The window was boarded up the next day.

It is not known if the two robberies were committed by the same man.

Figures issued by the recreation department showed a total of 60,752 participants for 1963 at the Artificial Rink.

Winter roads take high financial toll

Maintenance of winter roads by the Westmount Public Works Department during 1962 ran to a cost of $318,000, considerably beyond the previous year's figure of 278,000. P. A. Ouimet, Commissioner of Public Works reported this week.

"This expenditure is reflected in the amount of snow disposal at the melting ponds, he said in the annual report. Approximately 169,000 cubic yards in contrast to 72,000 in 1961 were melted. Another 58,000 cubic yards were moved to snow dumps, approximately 8,000 cubic yards less than the previous year.

The salting of roads showed a marked increase, it was reported. 4,870 tons were spread, whereas 3,100 tons were used the previous year.

Major projects of the Public Works Departments during the year were the building of the second snow melting pond at The Glen and the construction of an outdoor swimming pool.

Alderman Ouimet reported that studies are in progress with consultants and city engineers concerning long range plans for reconstruction of the City Yards on Bethune street and also for eventual construction of new sewers to tie in with the Montreal system.

Drury to meet McNamara

QSPB re-elects Mrs. G. H. Montgomery

Westmounter opposes World's Fair site

A Westmounter is currently leading the fight of the Quebec Society for the Protection of Birds against the selection of St. Helen's Island as site of the World's Fair.

Mrs. G. H. Montgomery, 4689 Westmount avenue, re-elected president of the Society, at a meeting in the Atwater Library said that letters of protest have been sent by both the board and by individual members to the Prime Minister, members of Parliament, and the fair commission.

She stated that although the whole area is an important nesting place for birds, "more important than the main island are the smaller islets of the area, including Moffat Island, site of a large colony of ring-billed gulls and common terns."

"The area was regarded as so important, that it was included in the Heron Island Sanctuary by the Federal Government under the Migratory Birds Convention Act and it is, of course, unique in being situated virtually in the heart of a great modern city."

Another important step in the field of conservation taken by the Society, Mrs. Montgomery said, was an attempt to discourage the indiscriminate spraying of elms with DDT which causes a high mortality rate among birds. She noted that both Toronto and Montreal and most of the other local municipalities have terminated their spray programs.

Re-elected as vice-president of the Quebec Society for the Protection of Birds was Dr. I. A. McLaren and Miss R. B. Blanchard. Miss G. E. Hibbard was re-named honorary secretary treasurer; Miss Abbott, honorary secretary.

Second ladder truck for City

A second ultra-modern ladder truck was received this week by the Westmount Fire Department.

The 100 foot Merryweather ladder is the twin of one purchased in March which has undergone extensive testing at the Stanton street station.

The cost of each is about $50,000.

Featuring the most up-to-date safety features and controls, they will replace two of the City's older trucks, one of which collapsed at a fire last year. The other is rented.

WE SAY Traffic safety and responsibility

FOR all the talk and campaigning against automobile casualties and traffic accidents, the figures seem to go up and up. Westmount is fortunate that its accident rate has not increased as alarmingly as that of many other municipalities; nevertheless, it is up, according to the General Manager's Report for January, February and March.

There have been 75 more accidents reported in the past three months than in the same period the previous year. Each year, the same pattern prevails.

Perhaps this is because the number of cars, population, and miles travelled are all climbing. It is quite likely that proportionately the killing and maiming is coming down.

Be that as it may, it is encouraging to see Westmount making careful studies of traffic problems at potentially dangerous intersections, installing new lights or making other changes when necessary.

The municipality, however, can only provide the right facilities and the law enforcement to promote safety. It does not end there.

The ultimate responsibility lies with the individual through a healthy mutual regard between motorist and motorist, motorist and pedestrian.

YOU SAY Reader ponders armed robberies

Sir,
In last week's Examiner I read of another armed robbery in Westmount this time at a Kensington avenue home. This is the third I have heard about this year in Westmount.

According to your paper, police officials stated "that this armed holdup is not connected with others that have occurred in recent months in this area." These are the burglar type — there is no connection between the robberies.

I do not know, of course, if this was an accurate quotation, but I must assume that it was. The Examiner has quite a good reputation, as far as I know, in getting these matters straight.

All I would like to know is this: How can the police possibly "know" that this armed robbery is not connected with others. I have a great deal of confidence in the Westmount Police, but I wonder if they are not just assuming too much.

Doubtful.

the Shrine Circus, and in the east end you have the Hamid-Morton Circus, both playing at the same time.

It seems as though there has been a definite lack of planning and co-ordination somewhere along the line when two — count them! — circuses are booked into town at the same time.

Proceeds from both go to worthy causes, but we believe the Shrine Circus takes the edge: their funds go to the Shriners Hospital for crippled children, and it's pretty hard to beat that for the cause.

Why, it would almost seem as though there is a circus war on — like you see on television.

Farfetched? Maybe!

But the point is, both circuses know they will not get full benefit from the crowds.

Who suffers?

Why the crippled children, of course.

And we can't afford to let that happen.

Last Saturday L. N. Buzzell, presented the Buzzell Award to Youth Minister Paul Gerin-Lajoie at the closing banquet of the Quebec Federation of Protestant Home and School Associations, at the Sheraton Mount Royal Hotel, the federation recommended some progressive changes in the educational system of Quebec: That a ministry of education be created with a minister responsible to the government and to parliament; that educational authorities concerned give urgent consideration to the setting up and financing of junior colleges. He urged that salaries paid to teachers be comparable to salaries paid to persons of equivalent training and responsibility in industry and commerce; that French speaking teachers be made available to Protestant schools.

He said that Grade XII should be instituted throughout the secondary school system; that a medical examination certificate be required for every child entering school; that the Protestant Committee be asked to consider means of employing French speaking Roman Catholics to teach French in our schools; that delegates determine from their local associations how many French and English Canadian families are prepared to work out an interchange of students on an interprovincial basis providing visits between young English and French students to each others' homes.

Minister Paul Gerin-Lajoie has had ample opportunity for varied experience in the field of education in his professional work as a lawyer.

Report favors 'mixed development' of stores, offices and apartments in City

This is the twelfth in a series of reports on Westmount's "master plan" for redevelopment of the city between Sherbrooke street and the southern limits.

The planning firm of Bland, Lemoyne and Edwards spent eight months on an intensive study of the lower area of Westmount in order to provide "a sound basis for regulation to preserve the unique character of Westmount and, at the same time provide for its orderly redevelopment."

Much of the new zoning by-law, approved by City Council is based on information given in the report. Future planners will draw heavily from it.

Of all the zones in the southern area the commercial and industrial are the most complex the report stated. Collectively they form a continuous band of development from one end of the City to the other including parts of Sherbrooke street, nearly all of St. Catherine street and Greene avenue, and the entirety of Victoria avenue, Atwater avenue and St. Antoine street.

Other than the area west of Victoria avenue from Western avenue to St. Catherine street, the area abutting Hillside avenue and the area about Selby street, the pattern of zoning is determined by street frontages and rear lot lines often adjoining service lanes. Separate to these zones there is the area including the railway and property immediately adjacent to its southern flank between Glen road and Hallowell street where the industrial nature of the area is independent of the City proper.

Commercial use predominates

"With the expected increase in commercialization of southern Westmount a closer examination of the existing conditions is necessary. By determining a hierarchy of uses it is possible to analyze the combined zones as to the predominant uses of each building. Where shops exist at street level the buildings have been classified as having this particular predominating use; in a like manner offices and light industries on the premises govern the nature of the building."

Only where the building is entirely devoted to residential purposes is it considered as such, even though in many instances there are dwellings over shops and offices. In large apartment houses where shops or offices are not yet conspicuous, or important within the building, the residential use predominates."

There are two main reasons for this selection of predominant uses: first, to show the extent and nature of commercialization or industrialization throughout the combined zone; and second, to illustrate the fact that in effect the zone does not exist as a different entity to adjacent uses in many districts. Although the overall zone is not dedicated solely to non-residential uses the emphasis is on the development of shops, offices and industries in particular places.

It can be seen that shops are concentrated in well-defined areas and do not exist continuously along the available street frontages. Other than small groupings of office buildings there are no areas that have earned this precise description even though the two main shopping streets have numerous offices as their secondary use. As is known very few light and service industries exist in Westmount and the amount of available land for such development has remained unexploited for the most part.

Located sporadically throughout the zones are buildings of public use which are allowed in all zones where civic institutions and places of assembly are required. It would appear therefore that a certain amount of subdivision of districts with different uses and characters already exists and that they should be designated for preservation or expansion accordingly.

Long after shops have been introduced into previously residential streets there has remained a local population inhabiting dwellings between and over the commercialized portions. Other than the central business districts of Montreal most shopping streets have two populations, the daytime and nighttime. Economic reasons have necessitated the dual function of the commercial streets.

Mixed development more common and acceptable

A lack of demand for total commercialization of a building has forced the exploitation of the upper floors of old and new buildings for residential purposes. In some cases the conversion of dwellings into offices occurs where the locations are favorable; but in the larger and newer buildings the process is restricted by the need for residential accommodation, which initiated the construction of the building. Because of the suitability of southern Westmount for multiple dwellings and commercial premises, mixed development in zones and in buildings has become increasingly more common and acceptable.

"Mixed development in an organized manner assists in locating offices away from the central district of Montreal and stimulates the provision of living accommodation within the inner part of the metropolis. The modern tendency to develop whole city blocks or large portions thereof provides ample opportunities for the combination of uses. The value of land and the advantages of urban living are both increasing at a rate that favours the comprehensive development for large lots in areas situated close to the desired amenities of big cities."

Students Stratford bound in September

By DAVID L. SMITH

A number of Grade Eleven students at Westmount High will leave school only one week after its opening in September. They will miss two school days, but should learn quite a lot just the same as they attend two plays at the Stratford Shakespearean Festival.

Through special arrangement, a reserved coach will be provided and the group will be able to travel directly to Stratford without changing trains in Toronto.

The students will be free until Friday evening, when they will see Timon of Athens, directed by Peter Coe.

Saturday afternoon, they will attend a performance of Troilus and Cressida, directed by Michael Langham. After the performance, the group will board the train for the return trip to Montreal, arriving about 9:00 Sunday morning.

While in Stratford, boys will stay at the YMCA, girls at the YWCA. The participants will have free time all day Friday, and Saturday morning.

During this time they may view the Festival Exhibition, see the town or possibly read material on the plays. I say 'possibly' now.

Mr. Bernard and Miss Smith of the English Department will

R. A. Spiers is guest speaker

supervise the excursion; however, students will be expected to take care of themselves and look after buying their own meals.

The cost of transportation, accommodation, and tickets is $30.00. A deposit of $20.00 and preferably the whole amount must be made this week. Along with the deposit, parents must return a form giving their permission for their child's participation and the students must submit a form agreeing to obey the instructions of the group advisors.

We received fair warning: unruly conduct on the trip will be reported in the student's permanent record.

During the summer the students will read the two plays to be seen; it is hoped and in September, the teachers will make a few remarks about them so that the venture may have considerable educational value.

The school hopes that this may be the first of many such trips.

Jodoin to open meeting

Claude Jodoin, president, Canadian Labor Congress, will be guest speaker at the opening day luncheon session of the Canadian Histadrut 5th National Jubilee Convention, taking place in the Sheraton-Mount Royal Hotel, Montreal, Sunday and Monday, May 19 and 20.

Mr. Jodoin, who graduated from the ranks of the International Ladies Garment Workers Union, strong supporters of the Histadrut, is a former recipient of the Histadrut Humanitarian Award.

The Humanitarian Award is made by the Histadrut to an outstanding Canadian citizen, particularly for his or her work on behalf of Israel. Other recipients include such people as the Right Honorable John Diefenbaker, MP and Samuel Bronfman.

The Child Health Clinic has 363 families under supervision, it was reported, contrasted with 334 in 1962.

The Health Department conducted 461 medical examinations in schools this year and corrected 34 defects.

Library re-established in 1840 as Montreal booms

By 1840 the "Old Order" in Montreal was ending. The provinces of Upper and Lower Canada were united. There was rapid recovery from the economic distress and political troubles of the past decade, and the tide and immigration had again set in.

A new act of Incorporation remodelled the city's government; a regular police force was formed; and a Board of Trade was being organized. Work was resumed on the city's first line of docks; the completion of the Welland Canal was being undertaken and plans to enlarge the Lachine Canal made — all aiming at the improvement of water communications upon which Montreal's importance as a centre of trade was based.

At the same time a new era in transportation had begun, for the first steam railroad in Canada was being successfully operated between Laprairie and St. John's.

It is significant that among the many enterprises then being promoted to foster the development of the city, one of the first to receive attention was the re-establishment of the Mechanics' Institution.

Increasing commercial and industrial activity indicated anew the need for adequate training in the practical sciences, such as the old institution had provided. Consequently a public notice was issued, asking all those interested to attend a meeting in the schoolroom of Mr. John Bruce on McGill street February 7, 1840, to consider ways and means of re-establishing the Institution.

John Bruce's schoolroom popular.

Mr. Bruce's was "a school in which a number of our prominent citizens received their first rudiments, and same their only education." It was one of the most popular meeting places for various societies and congregations, but few gatherings within its walls could have had such enduring and far-reaching results as had that which decided to continue the interrupted work of technical and scientific education.

The Chairman of the meeting was Mr. John Redpath, an outstanding contractor and industrialist, recognized as one of Montreal's first citizens.

Mr. Joseph Fraser acted as secretary and preliminary arrangements were made for organizing a society which might be united with and carry on the work of the original Institution of 1828.

Reorganization details were completed at the meeting of March 16, held in the Free School Room, corner of St. Joseph and St. Henry streets. The course of study as formulated by the Mechanics' Institution was to be followed by the new organization, which it was unanimously decided to call "The Mechanics' Institute of Montreal."

John Redpath heads Institution

Officers were elected, with John Redpath as president, vice-presidents were Mr. Benjamin Holmes, Cashier of the Bank of Montreal and Mr. Joseph Fraser, who had been one of those chiefly responsible for the success of the re-organization proceedings.

Mr. Robert Scott was elected Treasurer, Dr. D. A. Hall, Corresponding Secretary, and Mr. Eben Wedgall, Recording Secretary. Four trustees, three auditors and a committee of twelve were also elected.

The first duty of the officers was to arrange for the purchase of books and apparatus of the old Institution and frequent meetings were held with those still in charge of this property. During May the Institute using the building of Mr. Mullins on Commissioners street had begun classes in technical subjects for the benefit of the sons of the members.

The value of similar courses for the apprentices and workmen employed in the city's various industrial enterprises was at once realized. Accordingly, night classes were established for those who were unable to

The progress of the Mechanics Institute in Westmount, which is now called the Atwater Library has closely paralleled that of the community which it serves, and a study of its growth provides many interesting sidelights on the development of Montreal.

This history was compiled and written by T. Miles Gordon of Montreal who did considerable research among old records, minute books and newspaper clippings.

This is the second of a series.

attend during the day. In these classes the original subjects taught were reading, writing, art, arithmetic and French and architectural, mechanical, and ornamental drawing.

Thus the workman was able to obtain an elementary education and at the same time complement the practical experience of his daily work with theoretical knowledge so necessary if he were to advance in his career and play a worthwhile part in the industrial development of his community.

The world was then rapidly being industrialized; important technical inventions were being given practical application. The pioneering work of the Institute at that time thus became a vital factor in promoting the progress and prosperity of Montreal.

Another aspect of this early activity has perhaps never been fully appreciated. (Continued on page 9) this mortal must put on immortality." Expository selections from the Christian Science textbook will include: "Either here or hereafter, suffering or Sci-old man with his deeds must be put off" ("Science and History of library . . .

The founding of the Institute and its establishment of night classes for workman was one of the first organized efforts in Canada to extend the benefits of practical education to adults. Only in recent years has the idea which the Institute represented won Dominion-wide acceptance with the foundation of the Canadian Association for Adult Education.

20 pounds of wax candle

Those pioneer classes, of course, operated under many difficulties. Indicative of the conditions existing at the time is an interesting item in the minutes of March 29, 1841: "Mr. Hose laid on the table a sample of wax candle and was authorized to purchase 20 lbs. for the use of the Institute."

The Institute did soon extend its activities within its own sphere. The idea of holding an annual Mechanics' Festival met with enthusiastic approval, and the first of these was held in the hall of Ste. Anne's Market on February 16, 1843.

These festivals were really diminutive industrial exhibitions, with the addition of vocal and instrumental music and addresses. They not only attracted the interest of most of the city's mechanics, but were largely patronized by the citizens generally.

Thus, they served to keep the aims of the Institute prominently before the public, and created a most favorable impression of the work which was being accomplished.

For many years these Festivals were held in the old Bonsecours Hall and later in the Institute's own hall, where they were well attended and continued to reflect great credit upon the achievements of the members.

Increasing attendance soon made it necessary to seek larger quarters for the Institute's classes, at the same time suggested the advisability of erecting a permanent home for the Institute.

In May 1843, classes were transferred to a house on St. Urban street, formerly occupied by the Montreal Ladies Benevolent Society. An option was given the Institute of purchasing this property and adjoining lots for $1,500 by the owner, Mr. Alex M. Delisle, but this was not taken up.

Next year another move was made — to premises occupied by Mr. Thornton on Fortification Lane. It was here that in 1845 illuminating gas was first installed in the lecture and reading rooms of the Institute.

The original incorporators of the institute were: John Ostell, Thomas W. Guin, William Footner, William Telfer, Charles Garth, Andrew Cowan, George Dickenson, John Fletcher, William M. Muller, John Lambert, John Hilton, James Morice, William Watson, Charles Shrimpton, Donald McEvan, James Turners, John George, and Joseph Busby Brindson.

Three years after incorporation the Institute moved again — this time to premises belonging to Mr. Berthelet on Great St. James street, adjoining the Ottawa Hotel.

The Canadian Cancer Society, as part of its educational programme, makes available and distributes 59 different English-language and 15 French-language films. It also makes six films available to doctors. Contributions to the Society's appeal for funds pays for this programmes, as well as supporting 94 separate cancer research projects and assistance to cancer patients.

WEST END GROUP of the Women's Auxiliary of the Grace Dart Hospital presented an automatic tilting table, for use in the Physiotherapy Department, and a number of special arm chairs to the Hospital Tuesday evening at the annual meeting. The West End Group is not a large group, but an active one, and the equipment was purchased with the proceeds from many small projects. The tilting table was donated 'in memoriam' to the late Mrs. D. K. Gowans, who was secretary-treasurer of the group since its inception six years ago. Mrs. Sydney A. MacSween, retiring chairman, made the presentation. From left to right: Mrs. K. E. Norris, newly-elected chairman; Mrs. Sydney A. MacSween, retiring chairman; Dr. Th. Korthals, medical superintendent of the Hospital; and Miss M. O'Brien, director of nursing.

Thomson and Mrs. David L. Benzie were in attendance.

Dale, immediate past president, will preside at the tea table.

Members of the West End Group of the Women's Auxiliary of Grace Dart Hospital were recently entertained at a luncheon at the home of the chairman, Mrs. Sydney A. MacSween. A short meeting followed when plans were discussed for the presentation of a program by members of the West End Group at the annual meeting of the Auxiliary on May 14 at the Grace Dart Hospital.

The stated monthly session of Oasis Temple, No. 46, Daughters of the Nile, will be held in Victoria Hall, Sherbrooke street, west, Westmount, on Monday, at 7:30 p.m., with Mrs. F. T. A. Griffiths presiding at the meeting.

Since 1957, when Mrs. MacSween, at the request of the former Medical Superintendent, Dr. Stewart Allen, organized the Auxiliary and subsequently organized the West End Group, an impressive list of furnishings and equipment have been given to the hospital each year by the West End Group.

ORT—Casablanca Group marks 15th anniversary

One of Montreal Women's ORT's largest and most productive chapters is celebrating the fifteenth anniversary of its inception with a luncheon taking place in the home of Mrs. Monroe Abbey, 519 Clarke avenue Westmount, on Wednesday, May 22 at 12:30 p.m.

Organized by a group of three women, this chapter has grown to a present membership of over hundred. Originally named "Group 7," this chapter chose Casablanca for its banner when Montreal Women's ORT decided a number of years ago to change the numerical titles of its chapters to more significant names symbolizing the various cities where ORT schools operate. This group chose Casablanca, where ORT's technical school fulfills a very important mission of training annually hundreds of children from below average homes in one of the worst Jewish ghettos in the world, the renowned Casablanca Mellah. Here in a fenced in area, situated in the busiest area of the city Jews live in mud huts partly underground with no lighting or sanitary conditions. The underground huts are a prerequisite in that country since a Jewish home must never cast its shadow on a Moslem's home. In Casablanca, ORT also operates with great success its first venture of a technical school for deaf and dumb children.

To honor the fifteenth anniversary of the founding of the Casablanca Group, Mrs. Louis Fitch who is a charter member of ORT, has written and will commentate in a tribute to the founders and past presidents of the group. Mrs. S. Laddie Kert will assist. The candle-lighting ceremony will honor Mrs. Leon Cresthol, founder of ORT in Canada, Mrs. Bruno Van der Walde, Mrs. Louis Fitch, Mrs. E. Roskies, Mrs. Jules Roes, Mrs. Max Weissler and Mrs. Sam Levy the present president. Also to receive tribute in this ceremony will be Mrs. L. Klineberg, senior member of the group and mother of the national president of ORT, Mrs. A. B. Bennett of Toronto, also Mrs. I. A. Kaufman, the first life member of ORT and mother of Mrs. S. Laddie Kert.

Entertainment for the Luncheon will feature Miriam Ben Ezra, well known interpreter of Israeli folk songs, and Misha the pianist from Sascha's Orchestra. Committee-in-charge includes Mrs. M. Rosner, co-ordinator, with chairman Mrs. L. Weinman; patrons, Mrs. Max Weissler and Mrs. G. Charlap;

The leaveners used in baking act as lifters. They expand the flour framework of batters and doughs so that the finished product will be light, porous and digestible. The most common leavening agents used are yeast, baking powder, eggs.

'Stern College Month'

Stern College for Women is one of the schools in the largest University in North America under Jewish auspices.

With the co-operation of the affiliated Sisterhoods, the Montreal Chapter aspires to give an annual scholarship to a worthy deserving Montreal student.

Tea Time Topics... English muffins made in Canada

By Millicent Hickmore

ENGLISH MUFFINS, at one time Britain's most popular baking products, is being introduced here by Harrison Brothers, the POM Bakers. Baked with an exclusive all-butter formula, these muffins literally melt in your mouth.

They offer wide scope for inventing delicious recipes to serve at every meal. At breakfast they are especially tasty when toasted and buttered then topped with eggs, bacon or jam, jelly or honey. At other meals English muffins are good partners for Chicken à la King, Eggs à la Benedict, asparagus and Hollandaise sauce, and for making individual sized pizza pies.

POM's exclusive all-butter formula gives a delicate accent to gravies, sauces, purées and a variety of cheeses and meats, including hamburger or minced beef in delectable "muffinburgers".

English muffins will stay fresh and delicious for at least 5 or 6 days if kept chilled in the refrigerator. They will retain their freshness practically indefinitely in the refrigerator freezing compartment or the home freezer.

Harrison Brothers are noted for their excellent quality in the baking industry, and throughout Montreal.

Baking has long been a Harrison family tradition. The founder, Dent Harrison, Sr., came to Canada from York-shire, England, 75 years ago. The one-man bakery of that time is still a family business. Harrison Brothers is headed by the son of the founder, Dent Harrison, Jr., and the grandsons of the founder, Bill, Craig, Cliff and Ross Harrison.

ST. LEO'S ATHLETIC AWARD WINNERS

St. Leo's Academy honored their young athletes at the Annual Awards Banquet last Friday. Pictured from left to right are, Roger Lefebvre; Mr. D. Bedford, vice-principal; John Inglis; Jimmy McMahon; Paul Stubbs; Mr. Andy McGillis, coach and athletic director. The boys in the picture won awards for athletic prowess.

St. Leo's honors Athletes at Annual Award Night

ST. LEO'S athletic social held last Friday evening in the academy hall, was voted by all present as a most enjoyable evening and for the award winners a profitable one also.

It was a lively young group of boys and girls and they more than made up in spirit, what they lacked in numbers.

Among the invited guests were Msgr. Edward J. Lapointe, Father Willard, Father Campbell, Mr. and Mrs. James McMahon, Mr. and Mrs. John Dunne, Mr. and Mrs. Dave Bedford, Mr. and Mrs. Dave Farrell, Mrs. Paul Brault and Mrs. Andre Lefebvre.

Msgr. Edward J. Lapointe in a few well chosen words, congratulated all the boys who participated in the schools sport programme and offered a vote of thanks to those who help make sports possible.

Coach Andy McGillis breezed through the brief ceremony of awards, with all trophy winners given a fine ovation.

Manager honored

The following students received awards, Mike Farrell, Jimmy McMahon, John Inglis, Bob Brault, Roger Lefebvre, Kevin Cooney and Paul Stubbs.

Jimmy Fennell, manager of St. Leo's junior hockey team, was presented with a football as a token of appreciation from his coach and players on the team, for a job well done.

An interesting sidelight was the presentation of a huge and colorful cake to coach Andy McGillis from his junior hockey players. It was coach McGillis' birthday, a very timely gift.

With the athletic social, now but a pleasant memory, the decks are now cleared for the Spring sports programme that includes softball and tennis.

Social sidelights

John Inglis adding a few new steps to his dance, routine, with the goalkeepers twist . . . Thanks to Bill McKay, for a fine job in handling the music and novelty dances in big league fashion . . .

Old boy Bill McNally a welcome visitor among the young fry.

It took Mrs. Farrell, Mrs.

Lefebvre and Mrs. Brault an hour to prepare the cake plates but it only took about five minutes for the gang to demolish them when they were passed around.

The party committee wish to express their appreciation to these three ladies for their help. Coach Andy McGillis made a

Nobody's perfect

A semipro baseball team was playing a prison team recently. A prisoner doing a live broadcast over the public address system described a long ball hit to the center fielder, who was an inmate.

"He's going back, back, back for the ball, but now he has passed it — and is still running!" barked the astonished announcer.

The sequel to the story is that they picked up the escaped center fielder two days later. His explanation: "I misjudged the ball."

of the fine looking young girls in attendance was worth the price of admission alone . . . Roger Lefebvre, St. Leo's fine junior defenceman, who made few wrong moves during the hockey season, more than little baffled by dance steps . . . Kevin Cooney and Peter Wilson came up with prizes as winners in the novelty dances . . . Some sort of a prize should have been given to Pat Fennell for covering the most mileage on the dance floor. That's it folks, see you at the St. Leo's 1964 Athletic Social.

WE HAVE A SUNNY DISPOSITION IN AND OUT OF DOORS

Vermont issues fishing guide

A detailed guide to the best fishing in Vermont is now available to vacationers.

Locations for a dozen favorite Vermont species to whet the angling appetite of both lake and stream enthusiasts are contained in the new, two-color folder, just compiled by the Vermont Fish and Game Department.

A large guide map spots areas of fish distribution. The folder also contains information on state camping sites, fishing access areas, river obstructions, Long Trail shelters and other valuable material.

The handsome, illustrated folder gives suggestions for lake, pond and stream fishing in the Green Mountain State. Other sections note some of the fine canoeing and camping areas to be found and licensing information.

Vermont offers vacationers more than 400 lakes, 8,000 miles of permanent streams and countless thousands of acres of mountains and woodland open for public recreation.

This year Vermont's trout season begins April 27 and runs through September 30. The season for warm water species, except black bass, also opens April 27.

For a free fishing guide kit, write, Vermont Development Department, Desk FK, Montpelier, Vermont.

Kuentz has a way with Vivaldi

By Giveon Cornfield

When the Paris Chamber Orchestra, under the leadership of Paul Kuentz, toured Canada and the U.S. two seasons ago, they captivated all hearts of their audiences. The orchestra had boldness and virtuosity, precision of attack and execution, and a dedication of phrasing that brought out the most subtle of nuances.

One of the most outstanding items played then was Vivaldi's set of four concerti from "Cimento dell'armonia e dell'invenzione," op. 8, better known as "The Four Seasons." This was available on the French Club National de Disque, and of all the many many versions available of this work, this was certainly one of the finest.

A new set of three albums by Decca presents another of Vivaldi's milestones of the concerto repertoire — L'Estro Armonico, op. 3.

The 12 concerti in this set, so exquisitely crafted that no less a giant than Johann Sebastian Bach used some of them as models. They explore new avenues in the concerto medium, every one individually presenting fresh ideas in the combination of musical instruments.

In the set, there are works for string orchestra with one and two violins, four violins, two violins with cello, four with cello — a never-ending variety of color and melody, refuting statements by people like Dallapiccola and Stravinsky, who belittled Vivaldi's inventive genius.

To this new set of concerti, the Paul Kuentz Orchestra bring their formidable talents, aided and abetted by a superb engineering job, the end result being an invaluable addition to any record library, especially to lovers of fine Baroque music. (Vivaldi-L'Estro Armonico, op. 3. Decca Stereo DL-710070-1-2 in 3 volumes. For mono, omit the 7).

Stansteaders hear good philosophy

J. Roger Flumerfelt, Montreal, manager of London of Canada Insurance Group, former International president of the Junior Chamber of Commerce and a great worker among the youth, was guest speaker at the Alumni meeting of Stanstead College, Stanstead, Que. held last Saturday evening.

Mr. Flumerfelt based his talk on the cycles of time and the changes it brings; he gave a challenging talk on four simple principals which can be applied by anyone for everyday Christian living:

- There can be no peace without order.
- There can be no order without law.
- There can be no law without the ability to enforce that law and,

- You have no ability to enforce a law unless you have the desire.

Sutherland Stewart presided at the annual meeting which followed a steak dinner, served in the College dining hall. Eight resolutions were presented and approved. A bursary, the Alumni Association 1963 project, was presented to the College Headmaster, Edward Cayley, for use of a worthy student to further his education at Stanstead.

Remarks were spoken by Mr. Cayley and by Philip Scowen, chairman of the College Executive Board.

Annual election

Mr. Sutherland was re-elected as Alumni president. Other officers re-elected and elected are Geoffrey Newman and Miss Betty Boyd, vice-presidents; Miss G. Copland, secretary; Miss G. Ketcham, treasurer; Alan MacMillan, general membership secretary; Joel Bonn; Editor of newsletter; Area chairmen, Jean Charlibois, Montreal, Mrs. Edith Warner, Sherbrooke, Jacques Paradis, Ottawa.

LCC cadets to be inspected

The Lower Canada College cadet inspection will take place tomorrow afternoon at 2.30 p.m. Major-General F. J. Fleury, General Officer Commanding, Quebec Command, will make the awards, at 4.35 p.m.

Refreshments will be served in the LCC gymnasium following the ceremonies.

Safety tips outlined

Each year, more than 63,000 Canadian homes are damaged by fire — an average of 170 fires every day. Property loss is estimated at $28,000,000, according to the All Canada Insurance Federation which represents 220 competing fire, automobile and casualty insurance companies in Canada.

Of the 400 Canadians who will die in residential fires each year, about half are children. Home fires can be prevented and the Federation offers these precautions, especially applicable at this time of year.

- Remove matches and other inflammables from the pockets of winter garments before storing.

- Clean out attics, basements, sheds, garages and other areas where rubbish may have accumulated.

- Use non-inflammable fluids for cleaning floors and clothing; do not use gasoline or similar volatile fluids.

- Oily rags, or rags soaked in turpentine or other fluids, should be destroyed or kept in sealed metal containers.

- Winter heating materials — oil, kerosene, etc., — should be kept at minimum level during summer months.

- Chimneys and furnaces should be cleaned thoroughly.

- Check fans, air conditioners and similar summer appliances for frayed cords or loose connections.

- Remove accumulated leaves from eaves and around base of homes.
