In the violence of the smash and the piling up of the cars, sixteen of the pigs were killed outright, as well as two of the cattle. The rest of the injured and frightened porkers made the locality hideous with their squealing and noise, as can be well imagined.

The pigs were let out as soon as the doors of their cars could be opened, and the cattle, which were all tied inside the car, were cut free and let out. Both cattle and pigs then made for the other side of the ditch, and the railway yardmen had a fine time as cowboys and pig-herders rounding up the animals in what is a veritable jungle of tall, thick-growing weeds, and holding them together until cars were prepared to receive them, with inclines by which they could ascend into them.

Part of the cabin of the engine was cut away so as to allow the westbound trains to go out, the first one getting through some time after ten o'clock.

It was eleven o'clock when the wrecking train arrived on the scene with the powerful crane and began the work of lifting the wrecked cars off the track and placing the tender and locomotive back on it again.

An investigation will be held by the railway officials, of course, in order to find out how the switch came to be left open.

The statement given out by the Grand Trunk was as follows: Second, 92, engine 1237, in charge of Conductor Laviolette and Engineer Brambley, was derailed this morning at the west end of the new yards at Turcot, and the engine and two cars were slightly damaged. An investigation will be held this evening. The inbound track was blocked, and it was necessary to use single track for traffic in both directions, thereby interfering with passenger traffic slightly. No one was injured.

The indictments against the many accused awaiting trial before the Court of King's Bench total 43 for this session, but, in a number of cases, two or three indictments are registered against the one accused. The list includes four m...der charges; two of attempted murder; two for wounding with intent to do bodily harm; and a number of theft, forgery, usury, assault and intimidation charges.

Those charged with murder are William George Biles, in connection with the death of Wentworth Moseby at Dominion Park in the early summer; Carlo Battista, as a result of the shooting of Salvatore Macaruso on July 22nd at the corner of Latour and St. Genevieve streets; Antonio Ferduto, alleged to have been responsible for the death of Louis Hotte, who was found dead with his throat cut in a side lane off Clarke street; and Domenico Bifanio, who was seen to shoot Louis Guay, proprietor of a restaurant, on Lagauchetiere street east.

The charges of attempted murder are against the Chinese, who are alleged to have done the shooting at 50 Lagauchetiere street west in July, which caused the wounding of Moon On. The Chinese held responsible are Lee Yok, Lee Yoy, and King Tung.

...at $12 per square foot the amount ...money involved in the transaction ...runs away up into the millions of dollars, as the Bleury street frontage is about 400 feet long.

Four more big skyscrapers are likely to be erected on Bleury street, south of St. Catherine street, next summer. Negotiations for the properties are well under way at the present time, and unless there is some unexpected development, next summer will see some big developments on that old thoroughfare. All of the new structures that are planned are for the east side of the street.

The Evans block, situated a little above Jurors street, will be the location of one; another will be almost opposite Dowd street; the third will be opposite Bernard street with the fourth, still unsettled, on the north east corner of Dorchester and Bleury streets.

Corner properties on Bleury street cannot be obtained now at less than $25 per square foot, while most owners hold them at $30. Inside blocks are being held at from $17.50 to $20 per square foot.

SCHOOLS ARE INADEQUATE

A shortage of school accommodation for Irish Catholic children exists in the east end of the city at the present time, and the situation, it was said to-day, is most acute in Maisonneuve. Children are walking the streets, with no places in the schools yet provided for them. It was said to-day that it was arranged to have two classes for Irish school children, one school in Maisonneuve, but these were inadequate, and many of the pupils would have too far to go. This arrangement, it is also said, has not gone fully into effect to the satisfaction of many of the parents.

It was suggested to a 'Witness' reporter that if any room existed classes should be opened in one or two Protestant schools for Irish boys, who, of course, would receive instruction from their own teachers and on their own curriculum.

'English teaching,' said an interested Irish ratepayer, 'does not receive the attention it requires in our schools, and something should be attempted at once to bring about its improvement.'

40,000 LIVES LOST IN CHINA

Typhoon and Floods Take Terrible Toll in Chekiang Province

Shanghai, September 10.—An immense loss of life is reported in mail advices which have just been received from Wen-Chow, in the Province of Chekiang. The Chinese estimates give the death roll as between 30,000 and 40,000 as the result of a typhoon combined with torrential rains, and high tides which occurred on August 29.

Great floods followed and the upper Wen-Chow River overflowed its banks and swpet over a vast area. The town of Tsingtian, about 40 miles to the northwest of Wen-Chow, was overwhelmed and 10,000 of the inhabitants were drowned. Various other towns and villages were destroyed and the prefecture at Chuchow, which is an important missionary station, was washed away.

The town of Chu Chow, where a mission station has been swept away by floods, is in a valley in the Ta Yu Ling mountains, seventy or a hundred miles back of the coast. The larger damage done by the freshet is in the lower valley, a stretch of the Ngen River, some two hundred miles south of Shanghai.

DROPPED 500 FEET

Another Double Aviation Fatality Occurs in England.

Oxford, England, Sept. 10.— Another double aviation fatality, the second within a week, occurred early this morning to members of the army flying corps, when Lieut C. M. Bellington and Lieut. E. Hotchkiss, both of whom had just been given a commission on probation, were killed while flying past Wolvercote.

The machine in which the officers were manoeuvring had passed over Oxford and had reached a point just outside Wolvercote, when the motor appeared to stop and the aeroplane fell to the ground, from a height of 500 feet, like a stone.

Ope account of the accident says that an explosion occurred while the machine was in the air.

The body of one of the officers was found in the river, and the other was picked up in a field. Both of the airmen had been instantly killed. Both were young men who recently had received their flying certificates.

A big battle in the army manoeuvres, in which a number of officers of the flying corps are taking part, commenced yesterday, and the newspapers this morning refer in glowing terms to the success of the aviation corps.

FILTHY CANS CONFISCATED

As a result of a visit paid to the various railway tations of the city twenty summonses were sworn out by the city milk inspection department today against as many milk dealers for returning milk cans unwashed to dairymen. Eighty such cans were found by the city inspectors. Sixty-nine dirty, old, dilapidated cans, unfit for carrying milk, were also seized. Some of these latter cans were on view in the food inspection office at the City Hall to-day. A smell of one of these cans revealed the fact that it contained some milk that was rotting. Practically all of the cans seized, it is believed, contained what is known as the poison bacteria. This gets mixed with fresh milk, and its effects are particularly disastrous on children, giving them intestinal troubles. These are quite prevalent, as shown by the returns of the health department for last week, which give intestinal diseases as the cause of 69 deaths out of 180 in the city.

ROUTINE REVOLUTION

Washington, Sept. 10.—The revolution in Nicaragua is on the wane, according to advices from Rear Admiral Southerland to-day to the Navy Department. The Admiral reported that the railway is now completely in the hands of the American landing forces, and that the uprising had dwindled to the proportions of 'the usual Central American revolution.'

AUTOPSY TO DECIDE CAUSE OF MRS. SZABO'S MYSTERIOUS DEATH

MRS. ROSA MENSCHIK SZABO, ON WHOSE BODY AN AUTOPSY IS BEING HELD TO-DAY.

New York, Sept. 10.—An autopsy to be performed to-day on the body of Mrs. Rosa Menschik Szabo was expected to determine whether any violence was used before she was drowned while boating on Greenwood Lake, with her lawyer, Burton W. Gibson.

After Mrs. Szabo's death, Gibson probated a will purported to have been left by Mrs. Szabo, in which she left her estate of $10,000 to her mother, Mrs. Petronella Menschik, and appointed Gibson as her executor.

The Deputy Consul-General of Austria-Hungary alleges that it was known that Mrs. Menschik was dead when the will was drawn, and that a woman was procured to pose as Mrs. Szabo's mother.

Mrs. Agnes Boyd, a stenographer in Gibson's office, is reported to have informed counsel for the Austrian Consul, that Mrs. Szabo brought letters from her brother to Gibson's office which gave the information that Mrs. Menschik was dead.

LACK OF FUNDS FOR HOME MISSION WORK APPALLING

Presbytery Debated Question of Jurisdiction of Taylor and Maisonneuve Churches, and Decided to Extend Term of Moderators to a Year.

Home missions took up most of the time at the forenoon session of the meeting of the Presbytery of Montreal, held in Knox Church to-day, under the presidency of the Moderator, the Rev. J. M. McAllister.

After the minutes of previous meetings had been submitted by the clerk, the Rev. James Patterson, and approved by the court, the moderator called upon the Rev. W. R. Cruickshank to read the report of the Board of Home Missions.

The report said that much good work was being done in Beloeil, where the Canadian Explosives Company had accounted for a large increased population. The present mission was being carried on in a tent, but the company had passed plans for the erection of a fully equipped schoolhouse, and had granted leave to the church to make use of that building until permanent quarters could be erected.

Much discussion centred round a request on the part of the committee asking the Presbytery to countenance an additional worker in Tetreauville district, which is situated near the Taylor and Maisonneuve churches.

Mr. Hood had been asked by the committee to canvass the district with a view to discovering the necessities of the Presbyterian residents there. While Dr. Manson, the new pastor of Taylor Street Church, was grateful for the work which Mr. Hood had done, he submitted that to ally a missionary in that district with the Maisonneuve church was to encroach upon the field over which his church bytery knew that the Taylor Church was having difficulty owing to the influx of French people into the district, and his session was inclined to resent the intrusion of another church into what they considered their own territory.

The Rev. R. T. Ballantyne submitted that there was more than enough work for both churches.

After a good deal of heat had been generated, Dr. Kelly in support of the Rev. Dr. Manson insisted that the money must be spent only after careful consideration, as the Home Mission work of the church was eminently the most important problem that was before the Presbytery. The lack of funds in view of the amount of work which was actually necessary was appalling.

Dr. Gibson suggested that the two ministers should meet in consultation, and decide what limits if any it was necessary to lay down to their respective spheres of labor. The motion was ultimately passed unanimously.

On a motion of the Rev. R. T. Cruickshank, it was decided that in the future the moderator would be appointed for one year instead of as formally for six months. The period of tenure of office was too short in view of the requirements which the moderator of the Presytery had to satisfy.

It was further decided before the court adjourned for luncheon that they would discard the old scheme of electing the moderator according to his turn on the Presbytery roll. In future they would make use of their statutory powers, and elect him regardless of any other question than his ability. ought to have jurisdiction. The Pres-

SUNDAY THEATRES

London Actors and Actresses Pass Resolution Against Sabbath Performances.

London, Sept. 10.—At a meeting of actors and actresses held here to-day, a resolution against the opening of theatres and music halls on Sunday was passed. There was nly one dissenting vote.

The question of opening the playhouses on Sundays has been much discussed lately as a result of the increasing business, attracted by the moving picture shows, which are open seven days a week.

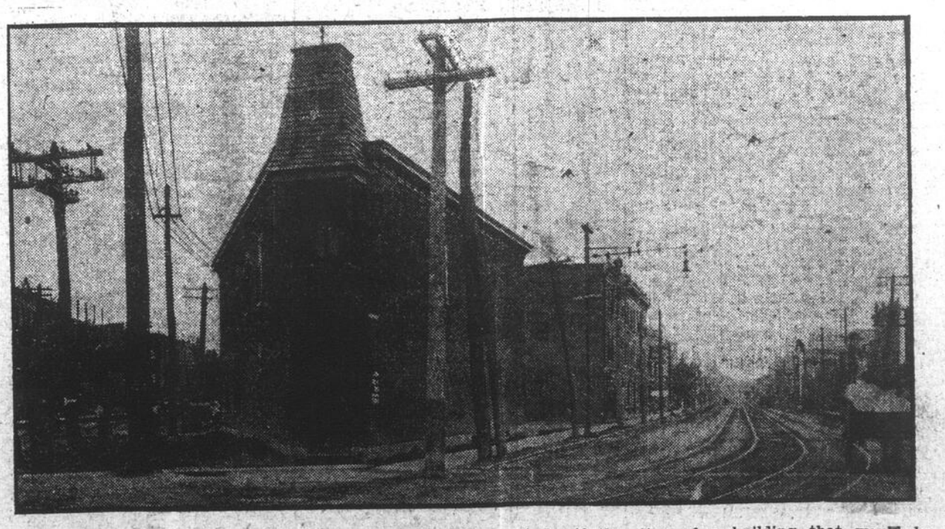

STRIKING CAR MEN

Situation Some at Duluth, With Threatened Outbreaks.

Duluth, Minn., Sept. 10.—The street car situation here this morning remained strained, with sympathizers talking of further outbreaks against the car company and the imported men. About fifty percent of the cars are running.

In a riot last night one driver was injured so seriously that he was unable to report for work to-day. Thirteen arrests were made during the disturbance. There were no strikers among the prisoners, and the police say that as far as could be learned, the union men took no part in the violence.

THE 'FLAT IRON' BUILDING ON THE SITE OF VERDUN'S NEW POST-OFFICE.

The site of Verdun's proposed new Post Office has been selected, and will come as a complete surprise to the residents. At last night's meeting of the council a letter was read from the Hon. F. D. Monk, Minister of Public Works, stating that the Government would be much more interested in the class of building they put up if the town would cede the site. The council decided to offer a lot comprising 7,800 square feet, bordering on five streets, Wellington, Lavallee, Mullarkey, Regina and Pacific avenue, which the Minister had already declared would be suitable for the erection of a building that would be a credit to the town.

The site of the new Post Office is at present occupied by a brick, erection known to Verdun people as the flat iron building from its supposed resemblance (in miniature) to the famous New York structure.

THE PICTURE BIBLE.

What Dr. Bruce Taylor Thinks Of It.

The Rev. R. Bruce Taylor, D.D., of St. Paul's Church, Montreal, was one of the clergymen who had a 'private view' of the handsomely illustrated Bible, which the 'Witness' will distribute commencing next Saturday. He writes:

'I have nothing but the heartiest commendation for the very beautiful illuminated Bible. There is no doubt that the pictures add immensely to the interest of the Bible, especially for young people and these pictures are really relevant to the text. The teachers' helps, in the appendix, are the work of men who are all experts. I have been reading their notes through and have been struck with their fairness of view as well as with their width of knowledge. I do not think I have seen any edition of the Scriptures more likely to draw young people to their study.

'Yours sincerely,

'R. BRUCE TAYLOR.'

NO NEW RECORD FOR CROP

Sir William Mackenzie Thinks Output Will Not Exceed Last Year's

Toronto, Sept. 10.—The Western Canada crop, while ...d not exceed that of last year, ...Sir William Mackenzie, ...the Canadian Northern Railway, in an interview last night. Sir William returned to Toronto after his annual trip of inspection to the West. This year he proceeded right through to the coast.

Sir William said that the new ...of wheat cut throughout the West, but no threshing had been done yet. This was bad, as the crop had been hampered by much wet weather, and the result would be that instead of the record crop prophesied, the crop of the West would only equal that of last year.

FEELING RUNS HIGH IN ITALY REGARDING DISPOSITION OF AEGEAN ISLANDS

Agitation Against Return of Territory to Turkey as Help to Conclusion of Peace—Garibaldi Cries Raised

Chiasso, Switzerland, Sept. 10.—Feeling is running high in Italy regarding the ultimate disposition of the Aegean islands which have been occupied by Italian troops in the war with Turkey. The agitation was initiated by delegates from the islands and by Greek emissaries, and is receiving the support of the Socialists and other extremists.

The agitators maintain that it would be shameful and dishonorable if Italy selfishly concluded peace by giving up the Aegean islands to Turkey on the ground that Italy merely aimed at the possession of the Libya region of Africa.

It is insistently and emphatically demanded that the 'islands shall not be returned to Turkish brutality and revenge.'

The Italian government is urged to insure for the islands an autonomous government to which, it is asserted, they are entitled by ethical, racial and political reasons.

Advances have been made to Ricciotti Garibaldi, the only surviving son of the Italian patriot, to organize and lead a body of 'red shirt volunteers,' similar to that which participated in the Greek war of 1897, to maintain the independence of the islands if Italy, for the sake of peace, abandons them.

So far Garibaldi has refused to entertain such an idea on the belief that it was premature and would be liable to cause complications.

SEAPORT BOMBARDED.

London, Sept. 10.—The Italian fleet has bombarded Scalanuova, a seaport in the vicinity of Smyrna, Asiatic Turkey, according to a despatch received in London to-day by a news agency.

CONTRADICTORY STORIES.

Vienna, Sept. 10.—According to the Constantinople correspondent of the 'Neue Freie Presse,' peace preliminaries havb been signed between Italy and Turkey, but will be kept secret until Parliament has been elected. No formal armistice will be concluded, but Italy will refrain from further attacks on the Turkish coasts and islands and Turkey will permit the gradual return of the expelled Italians.

A semi-official statement issued at Rome characterized as absolutely unfounded the reports that an agreement had been reached respecting the conclusion of peace between Italy and Turkey.

SERVIAN CABINET RESIGNS

Belgrade, Servia, Sept. 10.—The Servian Cabinet resigned yesterday. The resignation of the ministers was ostensibly because of the ill health of the premier, Dr. Milovanovitch. The real reason is believed to be the serious Balkan situation.

Recently the anger of Servians has been aroused against Turkey on account of massacres along the southern frontier of Servia by the Turks. The people have denounced the Turkish Government, and many of them have demanded that war be declared against Turkey. The Servian Government has had the situation under discussion, and a report has been submitted to King Peter, but no definite action has been taken.

BAITING MR. GAYNOR

New York, Sept. 10.—Ald. Curran, chairman of the aldermanic investigation, has made public a letter he has written to Mayor Gaynor, notifying him that the committee would proceed with its investigation into the police department, and declared 'no attempt to divert or intimidate it can succeed. Ald. Curran further informed the Mayor that he had instructed his attorney to bring suit for libel on the ground that the Mayor had made 'maliciously false statements' concerning him.

MAYOR WOULDN'T TESTIFY.

New York, Sept. 10.—Mayor Gaynor late yesterday withdrew his acceptance of the invitation to appear before the aldermanic committee which is inquiring into the police department. In a caustic letter to Alderman H. H. Curran, chairman of the committee, the mayor declined to appear unless subpoenaed or notified to do so, adding that he could not 'enter into any petty and partisan inquiry,' and asserting that in his efforts to lift government up he had never allied himself with any one who was not himself above reproach.'

'I do not see how I can expect the police to be honest when they see on every hand that even aldermen of the city are taking graft personally, or enabling corrupt go-betweens to do so,' declared Mayor Gaynor, in discussing the granting of licenses for news stands.

MAYOR WH. J. GAYNOR, ½

Now charged with making 'maliciously false statements.'

LEGATION OFFICER IN TOILS

New York, Sept. 10—Parry E. Nolan, of Washington, D.C., recently appointed secretary to the United States Legation at Panama, failed to appear in the police court to-day to plead to a charge of abducting 16 year old Marion McVikor, or New Port News, Va., and his cash bail of $1,000 was ordered forfeited and two detectives were dispatched to arrest him.

After declaring the $1,000 bail forfeited, the court fixed bail at $2,500 for Nolan when re-arrested, and paroled the McVikor girl in the custody of the Florence Crittenden Mission.

The arraignment was then declared postponed until Sept. 17.

Nolan was arrested last night on the complaint of the agents of the Old Dominion Steamship Company that the McVickor girl, whose father is reputed to be a prosperous business man at Glasgow, Scotland, had disappeared from the Steamer 'Jefferson' shortly after its arrival here on Friday.

The McVikor girl had been entrusted by her brother to the care of a stewardess on that vessel, with instructions to remain aboard until Saturday when she was to have sailed for Scotland on ticket purchased from the Anchor line by her father.

The couple were located at a fashionable Broadway hotel, where they had registered as H. E. Nolan and wife.

The girl broke down, and told the detectives that she had met Nolan aboard the vessel, and at his suggestion that she get a position in New York had changed her mind about going back to Scotland, and gone with him.

Nolan had nothing to say, and was held until this morning when a lawyer furnished cash bail for his appearance in court to-day.

M'GILL GET SHAUGHNESSY AS NEW COACH

The University Footballers Triumph Over Ottawa in Contest for Possession

McGill Football Club have got the better of the Ottawa Football boys, and managed to secure Frank Shaughuessy as their coach for this season.

Both clubs were making great efforts to secure him, but on Saturday night, Jimmy Lee, McGill's captain, and Allan Argue, their manager, fixed the matter up definitely with the coach and so after all the talk about Ottawa, being able to outbid McGill in trying to secure him has proved of no avail. Frank is not only president of the Ottawa Baseball Club this year, but also manager of the Fort Wayne Baseball Club. He holds a double university degree, and has coached football clubs for the past ten years. McGill boys are jubilant and have secured the house at the head of University street, near Mance, for headquarters for the football boys. The house will be fitted up to accommodate twenty-four men, and all the football clubs are to report there on Sept. 17th, the first practice taking place on that date at three o'clock. A letter containing the above particulars is being sent out to-day to all the football boys, and with such encouraging prospects before them a brilliant season is anticipated for the Red and White.

REV. FATHER ADRIAN DEAD.

Formerly Rector of St. Mary's and Director of Loyola College Here.

The death took place on Sunday in Charlottetown, P. E. I., of the Rev. Father Adrien Turgeon, S.J., formerly rector of St. Mary's College and also at one time director of Loyola College.

After filling important positions in the Jesuit Congregation in this city, Father Turgeon was transferred to Quebec, where he was in charge of the Jesuit house there until a few weeks ago. Failing health caused him to give up this position, and a trip was taken to the Maritime Provinces in the hope that it would restore him to health again. Father Turgeon was born in Terrenbonne in 1846.

The funeral service will be held at the Church of the Gesu on Wednesday morning at eight o'clock.

Neils Linden, 2836 Drolet street, had the distinction of being the first person fined by Mr. Duncan Robertson, in a special court in the offices of the Humane Society yesterday. He paid $5 and costs for having a gun and ten birds protected by the game act, in his possession.

Important State and National Issues Now in Hands of Electorate.

Haines, of Waterville, is the Republican candidate for governor.

LABOR MEN IN SESSION

Trades and Labor Congress at Guelph Breaks a Record

Guelph, Ont., Sept. 9.—Before the first session of the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada convention opened here to-day. Last year at Calgary there were 173 delegates. This year the credential committee stated that 300 delegates will be accorded seats and votes.

The first session to-day was largely a matter of pleasantries between civic officials and local parliamentarians welcoming the delegates to Guelph. President Parker, of Guelph Trades and Labor Council, opened the proceedings, being followed by Mayor Thorp and on behalf of the City Council.

The Hon. Dr. Reaume, the Hon. W. J. Hanna, the Hon. Mr. Crothers, Federal Minister of Labor; Mr. Hugh Guthrie, M.P., of South Wellington, and H. H. Scholfield, M.P.P. of South Wellington, took part in the opening ceremonies. This afternoon is an open date for the delegates, and a trip has been planned to the prison farm, where the Labor men will have a chance to hear the Hon. Mr. Hanna explain his pet hobby.

On Tuesday, the big convention will get down to business in earnest. The big meeting of the week is on Tuesday evening, when a representative from each province will speak at an open meeting in the armories, where the meetings are being held. J. Keir Hardie, Labor leader of the British House of Commons, will be the attraction for that evening, and will discuss labor conditions in Britain.

WILL U.S. INTERVENE?

No Confirmation at Mexico City of Militant Plans Credited to Mr. Taft.

Mexico City, Sept. 9.—The news emanating from Beverley, Mass., where President Taft's summer home is located, regarding possible armed intervention by the United States, has created intense interest, but beyond the expression of the opinion that Mexico is not yet unable to handle the situation, it is impossible to obtain anything definite from official headquarters.

Only one paper has published the despatches from Beverley. The others are withholding, as it is feared that such publications might excite the people unduly.

MURDER AND ATTEMPTED SUICIDE

Man Shoots Girl Dead Near Ottawa and Turns Gun on Himself

Ottawa, Sept. 9.—A brutal murder occurred at the village of St. Joseph d'Orleans, about 12 miles from Ottawa to-day when a man named Dupuis, while out of his mind met a young girl named Fontaine walking along the C. ORIENTAL DOCTRINES ARE NOT NEW

Rev. E. I. Hart Says Christianity Has Taught Every Truth of Bahai

The Rev. E. I. Hart, B.A., pastor of the Dominion Square Methodist Church, discussed the Bahai movement at his evening service Sunday. 'The East,' he said, 'has always been the birthplace of many lesser religious cults and movements that were meteoric in their career and lived but one brief day.' Referring to the address delivered by Abdul Bahai in St. James Methodist Church on Thursday last, he said that he was convinced that if the leaders had understood clearly the Bahai movement, a Christian church would not have been opened to the Oriental leader here.

Bahaism was, he said, in the opinion of some missionaries either a schism in the Moslem Church or an attempt to improve that faith that it might prove acceptable to the Christian. It was the modernist movement of the Moslem people. 'Bahaism is one of the highest expressions of this modern spirit at work within the Moslem religion. That spirit was revealed in the address of Thursday night. He spoke of Jesus as "His Holiness," a title that he gave equally to Abraham, Moses, Mohamet and his own father. Never once did he speak of Jesus as the Son of God or as the world's Saviour. The crowning relevation of God to men did not come through Christ, but through his own father, who died twenty years ago in Syria.'

Bahaism claims to be the last and final religion, universal in character, a faith of peace and brotherhood. Each of these features were of the Christian faith.

'I do not find a single truth in it that Christianity has not taught or is not teaching to-day. Long before this Eastern movement was heard of in Canada we had been teaching and practising them. There is not a feature of their social reform propaganda but has been and is being championed by men and women within the Christian Church.'

BODY TO BE EXHUMED

Gibson-Syabo Case Promises to Develop into Cause Celebre.

New York, Sept. 9.—To determine, if possible, whether death was due to any agency other than drowning, Mr. Rogers, the district attorney of Orange County, New York, will cause to be exhumed to-day the body of Mrs. Rosa Szabo, an Austrian woman who met death in Greenwood Lake while in a rowboat with Burton W. Gibson, a New York lawyer, now executor of her $10,000 estate. Detectives searched the row boat yesterday for a hatpin without avail, and the proposed autopsy on the body will embrace not only an examination for wounds, but a chemical analysis of the contents of the stomach.

Gibson had the body buried under the name of 'Mrs. Ritter,' in a cemetery near Jersey City, but he has expressed his entire willingness to have it exhumed. Pending the autopsy no action involving a homicide charge can be made.

According to the Austro-Hungarian consulate, detectives have found the woman who posed as Mrs. Rose Menschik, mother of Mrs. Szabo, and beneficiary under the will. She is said to be under surveillance. The contention of the consulate is that the victim's mother was dead at the time the will was draw and that, therefore, the waiver of citation purported to have been signed by Mrs. Menschik is a forgery. This phase of the case will be threshed out before the Surrogate, on Sept. 17, when a brother of Mrs. Szabo, now on his way from Austria, will testify as to his mother's death.

POINTE CLAIRE

Pointe Claire town council met on Saturday evening with all the members present with the exception of Alderman Miller to discuss the annexation of Valois and Lakeside. A by-law to annex two places was read the first time, the agreement providing that the annexed two places shall share equally with Pointe Claire in every improvement and that all water, drainage and electric light shall be installed within sixteen months. To provide this a loan will be made by the town, Lakeside and Valois agreeing not to object to such a method for raising the money to pay for the improvement. In the meantime a new valuation on property will be made in Lakeside and Valois to fix the same rate of taxation as in Pointe Claire.

FINANCE

The annual meeting of the Quebec Railway, Light & Power Company will take place to-morrow. Notwithstanding the manner in which the stock has been acting, it is stated that the report, in addition to showing the bond interest earned, will show at least a small amount earned on the common stock.

STOCKS SEEM STRONGER WITH WEAK PATCHES

The action of the stock market was somewhat jerkey yesterday, with movements mostly upwards, and in several cases effected with very little buying. Montreal Cotton rose 2 1-4 points, or less than 200 shares being traded in, while Power scored an advance of two points from 229. Crown Reserve worked higher, while the rest of the market was slightly firmer than has recently been its wont.

Quebec Railway was rather heavily dealt in, but it declined two points from 22, after which there was a rally.

New York, Sept. 9.—Wall Street.—Last week's bank statement, which further reduced surplus reserve to a very nominal figure, and the Mexican situation were held accountable for the comparative heaviness of to-day's market. Harriman's, which sold ex-div., and Reading, were mildly pressed for sale, with less pressure against Hill issues. Canadian Pacific rose on rumors that opposition to the stock increase had been overcome. Coppers, Chino excepted, and Steel were under restraint, in connection with the forthcoming statement of operations with for August. Among specialties Sears-Roebuck and Goodrich were conspicuous for gains of 6 and 5 points respectively. Bonds were steady.

Large Supplies of Money Available in London---Rise in C.P.R. on Berlin Buying

London, Sept. 9. — There was a plentiful supply of money available to-day. Discount rates were firm. The Bank of England secured most of the $3,700,000 new gold offered in the open market. The stock market was generally easy to-day owing to new issue fears and urofit taking prior to the settlement.

Consols lost three-sixteenths and home rails eased off despite the favorable Board of Trade figures for August. American securities opened steady and about unchanged. Trading was light during the forenoon and prices moved irregularly. Later Canadian Pacific advanced on Berlin buying, but the rest of the list scarcely mover. The closing was dull.

CROWN RESERVE WILL HAND OUT GOLD BRICKS

Complete New Machinery Will Do the Work—$500,000 of Gold is Already Blocked Out.

At a meeting of directors of the Crown-Reserve Mining Company held at noon yesterday, Mr. Sam. W. Cohen general manager, presented a report upon the McEnaney property in Porcupine which should prove highly pleasing to shareholders.

He pointed out that the ore in the vein at the 300 foot level now being worked has a value of at least $50 to the ton. The 200 foot level has been proved to a distance of 250 feet, and no stop is being made here.

The company is putting up a complete plant at the McEnaney mine which will be producing gold bricks by November 1, when they will operate on the $75,000 of ore now on the dump.

The lowest depth attained as yet is to 370 feet, and it is expected that the 400 foot level will be cut within a month.

The Crown Reserve Company has now blocked out ore to the value of a half a million dollars on the McEnaney, and this is only the beginning.

The work at the Crown Reserve mine at Cobalt is being pushed energetically ahead, and it is needless to say that this property continues to be the leader of the silver camp.

The arrival, welcome and reception of our Prime Minister on Saturday formed the main topic of comment on the Board of Trade to-day.

It seems to be generally felt that this country is now at the dawn of big events, and that it is opportune to consider all important political moves and give some attention to character study in connection with our responsible leaders.

The return of fine weather is having a cheering effect on 'Change where many are vitally interested in the success of the western and eastern grain crops, and the country's prosperity in general.

WORK ON PLANT CANADA CAR CO. IS COMMENCED

Fort William, Ont., Sept. 10. (Special).—On Thursday actual work on the construction of the big $1,500,000.00 plant of the Canada Car and Foundry Company at Fort William was commenced since which time Superintendent Shaw has had a gang of nearly two hundred men at work excavating for footings for the large main building which is to be nearly 2,000 feet long.

Excellent weather conditions for buildings have allowed of rapid headway being made and the management are pleased with prospects of having the huge structure in operation earlier than anticipated.

Porto Rico Figures.

The Porto Rico Railways Company, referring to an error it made in its statement of earnings published yesterday, points out that the Net Earnings for seven months of the year 1912 should read $195,148.66, instead of $195,248.66, which will change the next column to $23,693.01 instead of $23,593.01 decrease, making a percentage decrease of 10.82 instead of 10.78.

EIGHT CIGAR CO.'S PLAN BIG MERGER DEAL

A merger of eight cigar manufacturing companies, having a total annual output of something like 62,000,000 cigars, is now being planned, and the scheme will either be consummated or abandoned in the near future.

The companies involved are all Canadian companies, with factories in Montreal and elsewhere. The effort to bring about the amalgamation is being made in Toronto and in Montreal at the same time.

Smelting Co. May Soon Increase Its Dividend

Boston, Sept. 10.—The prospects for the earnings of United States Smelting, Refining & Mining for the last six months of 1912 are such that the directors at their next meeting are expected to increase the common dividend which is now at the rate of $2, or 4 percent per annum.

Last year the company received an average of 12.46 cents for copper, and 53.81 cents for silver. Copper is now better than 17 cents and silver over 62 cents.

C.P.R. REQUIRES $200,000,000 FOR NEW WORK

Winnipeg, Sept. 10.—Sir Thomas Shaughnessy, who is on a tour of inspection through the western provinces, is in exceedingly optimistic mood regarding the affairs of the Canadian Pacific Railway, and Sir Thomas is credited with the statement that all obstacles have now been cleared away and that the Canadian Pacific will go forward with its financial plan to raise money through inducement of valuable rights to the shareholders.

He estimates that $200,000,000 will be needed to double-track the main line between Montreal and Vancouver, and contracts for this will be let as fast as arrangements can be made.

GOOD NEWS ON 'SOO' STEEL CO. INCOME BONDS

The Lake Superior Corporation five percent income bonds, of which there are $3,000,000 outstanding, issued April 1, 1904, and due 1924, received their full five percent interest in 1907, and in 1910 and 1911 received 2 1-2 percent each year. Interest is not cumulative. Officials have been quoted as saying that the full interest would probably be earned this year and paid October 1 next.

Recent arrangements to refinance the company with a $30,000,000 bond issue will not disturb these bonds or the $5,800,000 first mortgage bonds. A note issue of $5,000,000, due last May, was refunded by sale of $5,650,000 of the new bonds. It is proposed to take care of the $2,500,000 notes due 1914 the same way.

PICTURES SHOW FINE EARNINGS

Statistics compiled in the United States show that in that country over one million people frequent motion picture theatres each day of the year, with the result that this class of theatres is showing very large profits.

The public, besides being the contributors to earnings, have been able to reap a part of the profits that have been made out of them by the formation of companies which are operating circuits in different cities; and it has been the success obtained by the latter that has resulted in the organization of a company by Montreal and Toronto interests, under the name of the Montreal Motion Pictures, Limited, with a view of establishing a chain of theatres throughout the different cities.

Iron Output in August Shows a Fair Increase

Figures given out by the 'Iron Age' show that last month's iron outtput in the United States was 585,000 tons above August, 1911, and 405,000 over 1910. While, however, production was 100,000 tons more last month than in July, it was then only equal to the May output, and fell below that of June.

The total for August was 2,512,431 tons, or 81,946 tons a day, against 2,410,889 tons, or 77,738 tons a day in July, when high heat and humidity were a handicap in all districts. Merchant furnaces increased their production to 21,582 tons a day last month, or by 2,000 tons a day, and steel works furnaces increased to 59,464 tons, or by 1,300 tons a day.

MONTREAL MOTION PICTURES LIMITED

Incorporated under the laws of the Dominion of Canada.

CAPITAL $100,000.00

Par Value of Shares $1.00 each.

OFFER AN EXCEPTIONAL OPPORTUNITY

The moving picture industry is one which shows larger profits than any other enterprise and has not reached its height.

Public sentiment is changing from the regular play-houses to the Motion Picture Houses, as a result of which bigger returns on the investment are being enjoyed by these institutions than any other form of amusement.

MOTION PICTURE STATISTICS

Statistics published in a recent issue of "The Theatre," a magazine published in New York City, gave the startling information that there was last year 6,246,000,000 paid admissions to the Motion picture theatres in the United States alone, and averaging each admission at 5c gives the staggering sum of one million dollars per day, and, figuring 300 days in the year, means that $300,000,000 were paid by the general public to the Motion Picture houses in the United States for the last year.

OUR PROPOSITION

The Montreal Motion Pictures, Limited, incorporated under the laws of the Dominion of Canada, capitalized at $100,000, par value of stock $1.00 per share, OFFERS FOR PUBLIC SUBSCRIPTION 75,000 SHARES OF THIS STOCK AT $1.00 PER SHARE.

This Company was formed for the purpose of establishing a circuit of Motion Picture playhouses in Montreal and in the leading towns of Eastern Canada. The circuit will include only theatres doing an established business and earning profits.

The Company has already acquired two of the finest theatres in the busy shopping districts on St. Catherine Street. Branch No. 1, "Le Passe Temps," St. Catherine Street, three doors west of St. Denis Street, which was opened on July 20th, and Branch No. 2, "The Colonial," St. Catherine Street, opposite Goodwins' Limited, which will be opened September 15th. These are conceded to be two of the finest motion picture theatres in Montreal, if not in the whole Dominion. "Le Passe Temps," which was opened on July 20th, has been running ever since and has made money from the day it opened its doors, and the "Colonial" wiah its seating capacity of 800, its beautiful interior decorations, its comfortable seats and superb ventilation, together with the magnificent programme that the management intend to produce, cannot help but reap the success enjoyed by "Le Passe Temps."

Options are also held on other play-houses, which are situated in the various busy and residential sections of the city. This Company will only take over the control of theatres doing a thriving business and showing big profits every week. Each of these theatres is earning big profits and no stock enterprise offered for public subscription recently has, in our opinion, the practically assured profits as has the Montreal Motion Pictures, Limited.

The general public has made the motion picture industry what it is today, and for the first time the public is offered the opportunity of reaping some of the financial benefits, which promise to grow more rapidly in the future than in the past.

EARNINGS AND DIVIDENDS

The Motion picture Industry has made millions of dollars for Syndicates who operate a circuit of theatres, and the Montreal Motion Pictures, Limited, will likely do the same for its shareholders within the next few years.

The most important feature of this enterprise as a gilt-edge investment is,—THE DIRECTORS HAVE DECIDED TO DISTRIBUTE QUARTERLY AMONG THE STOCKHOLDERS 75 PER CENT OF THE QUARTERLY NET EARNINGS IN THE FORM OF DIVIDENDS, THE REMAINING 25 PER CENT TO BE HELD AS A RESERVE FUND FOR ACQUIRING ADDITIONAL THEATRES WHENEVER A GOOD OPPORTUNITY PRESENTS ITSELF.

FILM EXCHANGE

The Montreal Motion Pictures, Limited, expects to operate its own Film Exchange, which in itself should net the Company handsome profits as well as materially lessen the average expense, and provide an opportunity of declaring bonuses every three months in addition to the monthly dividends.

Only the highest class of films will be shown in the Company's theatres, and in renting these films to outside houses good prices will be obtainable.

CONTRACTS.

The Theatres above referred to are purchased under contracts, dated August 30, 1912, by and between Arthur M. Hirsch and Jacob Rubin, as vendors, and Nelson H. Truett and Arthur F. Emerson, as Trustees for Montreal Motion Pictures, Limited, Vendees.

THE SEASON'S MILLINERY

Handsome Models at the John Murphy Company Limited.

Black and white is a smart keynote in the millinery display opened by the John Murphy Company, Limited, today, and velvet, moire, silk beaver, ospreys and superb ostrich plumage are commissioned in its development. The hats for the coming season divide generally into two main classes as regards size, the large picture shape and the small close-fitting chapeau. The former are of various styles, but all have some features in common, the low crown and elongated brim, and the rule is simplicity of trimming. This simplicity, however, goes hand in hand with elegance.

In the garniture of the best advance models, feathers of one kind or another are used almost exclusively, and of these the full, almost uncurled ostrich, Paradise, and other ospreys are in the ascendant. A very handsome model in black velvet, having the wide brim tilted a little at the back, is adorned only with a cluster of purest white ospreys waving over the crown and held in place by a jet buckle. The black velvet, which composes another handsome picture hat, is diversified with a flat plaited arrangement of black satin on the upper surface, and this hat, too, is trimmed with a white osprey extending out over the brim at one side. The white and black combination is carried out richly in one instance in a white satin brocade bound with black velvet, which is prolonged at one side into a Vandyke point holding a bunch of spreading white ospreys against the crown.

Moire is one of the new materials entering into the making of the autumn hats, combined with velvet or plush. Among the colored hats is one in a bronze velvet faced with moire, the brim rolled higher on one side than the other, and trimmed with a lovely thick long plume shading from champagne to bronze. A simple but effective little hat in black moire is faced with plush, and is trimmed at the back with a feather mount in a pale peach color.

One show case is given up to Parisian models showing the newest shade of red. It appears in a quaint little bonnet faced with shirred soft silk, and in another fetching little turban of moire encircled with striped ribbon and narrow black velvet, with a small bronze wing-shaped ornament in front. A large Georgette sailor is also of moire in this shade of red, faced with mole plush, which also forms the crown, against the front of which is posed a small bunch of goura feathers.

While pressed or smoothly covered shapes are in the great majority, the comfortable small draped toque is not overlooked. A dainty model of this kind is in soft white satin, rimmed with black velvet, the garniture consisting of two white chrysanthemum-like pompons of ostrich, one placed against the side and the other just apparently falling off, but where it comes charmingly against the hair when the toque is on the head. The 'Tam o' Shanter' crown is favored among draped toques. One model with the 'Tam' crown is in raisin-hued velvet, with high ostrich feather mount, shading from gray to the raisin color, at the left side.

Notable in the costume department is the new pannier style, developed in satin, charmeuse, silks, etc., for gowns for afternoon home and social affairs. In the pannier gowns everything depends on the draping, and the materials chosen are of the supple weave that lends itself to the draper's skill. One charming model is in taupe satin combined with ninon, and just a touch of relieving embroidery. In some models, the reviving fashion of accordion plaiting is seen in the skirt portion beneath the slightly bouffant side drapery.

A good deal of attention in the early autumn is centred on the tailored suits and long utility coats, the latter of which retain their straight lines, but with sufficient amplitude. Mixed woollens in warm, harmonizing tones are highly favored for these coats, and also for the plain tailored suits for general service. A handsome tailored costume for formal wear is shown in black couche velvet, having a slightly draped skirt and new sleeve also draped above the elbow.

BUILDERS AND BOILERMAKERS

Joint Conference in England To-day Has Shipyard Strike in Background

London, Sept. 10.—A national joint conference between shipbuilders and the boilermakers' society will be held at Newcastle to-day. The interests of several thousand shipyard workers are involved, with the possibility in the background of a national strike.

The national agreement between the Shipbuilders and the Boilermakers' Society expired yesterday, and the boilermakers now want a new agreement, doing away with compulsory arbitration and allowing strikes at will. The reason given for demanding this change is that the largest part of their work is piece work, and the boilermakers say that in case of dispute the job is finished before arbitration can take place.

The agreement embraced thirteen other unions, which have not broken away, but which will call for amendments in the agreement at the conference to-day.

The outcome is of special importance, as all British shipyards are crowded with work.

DYNAMITE INQUIRY.

District Attorney After Others in Plot to Hurt Unions.

Boston, Sept. 10.—A second investigation of the distribution of dynamite in Lawrence during the textile strike last January was begun yesterday by the Suffolk County grand jury. District Attorney Joseph C. Pelletier has expressed the opinion that persons whose names have not been made public were connected with the plot to discredit the striking mill operatives. The first grand jury investigation resulted in indictments charging conspiracy against William M. Wood, president of the American Woollen Company; Frederick E. Atteaux, president of a mill supply company, and Dennis J. Collins, a Cambridge dog fancier.

Mr. Munro, missionary from the Congo, in West Africa, is coming here to-day and will speak at the Welcome Hall about his mission. During his visit Mr. Munro will stay with Mrs. Farrell, 15 Overdale avenue.

The great chances of gain are balanced by the great chances of loss, and no one should invest in a very speculative property more than he can afford to lose.

TUESDAY, SEPTEMBER 10, 1912.

Mr. Pelletier, our Postmaster-General, seems to have been fully transformed by Mr. Borden from a 'Nationalist' into a true imperialist. He has ranged himself beside Sir J. Henniker Heaton as a champion of penny a word cablegrams. The veteran promoter of penny postage around the world, at a British Empire League function, said he believed that within ten years penny a word telegrams, with a minimum of twelve words for a shilling, would be the established custom. Mr. Pelletier has taken courage to expect this result as far as Canada is concerned, very soon.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier is about to visit North Ontario. There are abundant signs that from next year an unprecedented progress will be made in the opening up of Ontario's hinterland. Mr. N. W. Rowell, the Opposition leader in the Ontario Legislature, made the trip some weeks ago, and besides winning high opinions among the sturdy people of the northland, he and his colleagues doubtless learnt and saw much that they had not known or seen before. Sir Wilfrid will meet in the Cobalt and Haileybury district a type of Liberalism that, if on somewhat different lines, is not less robust than the type of Quebec. Northern Ontario Liberals are naturally not so close to the personality of the 'Chief' as are his compatriots, and would be much the better of knowing him.

Mr. Foster has already become famous as a maker of noble phrases. He has made another — one full of benediction for the Canadian people — one which neither he nor any of us will ever be allowed to forget. At the triumphal banquet at Ottawa he spoke to the Canadians, like the old prophets, in the second person plural. 'Rise to your opportunity! No longer are you on the back street; you can't put out your washing as formerly.' Here is a motto for Canadian politicians that may give them the manner of statesmen, that may even help them to think imperially. If our Canadian statesmanship has had a weakness about it as compared with that of self-contained nations, it has been in its parochial character. We have not been as a nation conscious of our relationship to our world environment. Our issues have been for the most part material and in a way sordid. We have been provincial, sectional, anything but national, to say nothing of imperial. Mr. Borden's dignified voice to us since his return has struck but one note. It has bade us rise to our place among the nations. After his homely but fetching and undying metaphor Mr. Foster rose to still higher prophetic adjuration to the Canadian people. 'Make yourselves 'strong! Keep yourselves pure! It is 'a call of God in the wide arena of 'nations — not for yourselves alone 'nor for your country, but in the interests of the world also we should never forget it.'

Mr. Keir Hardie, addressing the Trades and Labor Congress at Guelph, made the remark: 'The workingman's 'interests are all against war and the 'implements of war. What quarrels 'have the workmen of France, or Ger'many, with you, that you should dress 'up in a uniform and go out to shoot 'each other?' The member for Merthyr Tydvl speaks as another Scot, Thomas Carlyle, spoke before him. The working men have it in their power to prevent war, but they will need to guarantee that they will do so before they can bid defensive preparations cease. There is a German statesman coming to Canada to encourage the organization of a German Canadian league for the promotion of commerce between the two peoples. Could not Mr. Hardie devote his great energies to the formation of a German British working men's league for the vetoing of war. We understand that through his zeal and that of other strong leaders like-minded, the mind of both peoples is very ripe for such action. It is time that those who make the quarrels should be the only ones to fight.

A contemporary asks, well-meaningly, that those who frequently state that the early closing law, such as it is, has been beneficial to themselves, go before the newly appointed license commissioners and tell them about it. This raises a valuable point. Those who need the protection of the liquor laws cannot be looked to to lift themselves up, much less the community. Often they have not the will let even to desire the protection of such laws. Those who have benefited by the protection, such as it is, are not exactly proud of having received that assistance to greater comfort or more regular ways. It is the task of those to whom law making is committed to do what law can to protect the community from an evil that is like a cancerous growth, always trying to grow and by its growth poisoning and endangering the life of the community on which it lives. This evil which acts on a community just as though it was a living enemy has to have its tentacles kept pruned down by those in authority as close as the general sentiment of the people will allow. A government or executive which works on the opposite principle of allowing any evil tendency in the people as great liberty as the community will allow is an ally of vice. It is essential that governments and commissioners make themselves the advocates of those who are in bondage to the liquor habit and to the poor families dependent on them, as these will assuredly not appear before them to plead their cause.

By electing a Democratic legislature last time the State of Maine came very near to losing the prohibition law won for it by Neal Dow, and the honor of being the State which has longer than any other been continuously free from the open sale of liquor. In state elections Maine is bound to one party for its freedom from liquor, and cannot allow national questions to intervene, however strong its sentiment with regard to them. For one short term it took the risk of placing the Democrats in power. This was done during a time of national dislike to the course the Republican party was taking. It is very natural that after the suspense caused by the Democratic effort to repeal prohibition the State should go back to its own party. Never since the Civil War has Maine cast a single electoral vote for other than a straight Republican candidate for the presidency. The normal majority of the Republican candidate over his Democratic opponent in the last ten elections for governor is about twenty-five thousand. Beside this figure the three or four thousand votes by which the Republicans have won the governorship this year look more like an evidence of weakness than of strength. When that moderate majority comes to be divided, as it certainly will, between Mr. Taft and Mr. Roosevelt, it can hardly fail to leave a plurality in the State for Mr. Wilson.

SCHOOLS AND CHURCHES.

Like Montreal and other rapidly growing communities, the town of Verdun has often been puzzled over the problem of providing adequate school accommodation. With a limited revenue and a population increasing by thousands every year, it has been practically impossible to build schools fast enough to keep pace with the demand. This fall the situation was crucial, but it has been met with a promptitude that does credit to the energy and enterprise of the School Board authorities. Over four hundred pupils more than the schools could accommodate presented themselves for enrolment, and Mr. Geo. A. Ward, the secretary, immediately called the members of the board together. As a result of the conference, it was decided, on Mr. Ward's suggestion, to appeal to the Anglican, Presbyterian and Methodist Churches to permit the use of their Sunday-schools as class rooms until extensions to the Lasalle road school shall be completed. The response of the church authorities was both prompt and gratifying, and now the continuous education of the youth of Verdun is assured. This form of co-operation between the School Board and the churches is one that will be for the good of both, and other worried school authorities might well seek to make like arrangements.

Everywhere throughout Canada the log school house has been the Protestant church house of the pioneer. Everywhere it has been freely accorded without charge for religious services. The secular school houses of the country have been the cradles of almost all our Protestant communities, and are at the present time the outposts of Protestantism all along the border land where man is attacking and subduing to his use the forest and the prairie. In Montreal we had the other day the complaint of a parent that for a second consecutive year he had been refused admission of his son to a school on the ground that there was no room. The case is not unique. There is congestion. Worse than that, this congestion is almost certain to increase. New York, with its lavish expenditure, has not for years been able to build schools fast enough to accommodate the growing population. Where conditions are already serious it would seem only fair that the churches should do what they can to assist by returning the favor for which they are indebted to the school houses and offering such accommodation as they have in their school rooms for educational work at hours when they would otherwise be idle.

A POWDER FAMINE.

'There would be no ammunition for 'British guns in time of war should 'Great Britain's enemy cut off her 'supply of nitrates from Chili.' So ran the alarmist despatch. The statement was that of a chemist advocating the Norwegian process of procuring nitrogen from the air. There is nothing new about the scare, for the same statement was made years ago when the method was first worked in Norway. The only reason that it is now being spread broadcast over the world by the wires is that all the news agencies have at the moment a particular liking for this kind of news and the wires themselves seem to be 'greased' for the passage of anything that can possibly help along the war scare. It would be far more important, surely, to tell us that if Britain's bread supply or her meat supply or her supply of dairy products was cut off the people would be in a bad way for food. While such a statement would be of much greater importance it would be also just as newsy. The people have heard both alarms and been familiar with both for ages. It was not because of their novelty or their value, but only because there is at the moment a special call for that kind of news that these remarks were telegraphed.

The avidity of the agencies to transmit such news with a decided coloring was well illustrated in the incident of the item telling how the Scotch boy scouts were to be forbidden to land in Germany, when, as a matter of fact, they were received with open arms and most generously entertained. Again, a few days ago we had the startling news that the Honorable Sam Hughes had been refused permission to attend the German army manoeuvres, only to be denied the next day by Mr. Hughes himself. These are but samples of a great deal of flimsy and false news that is going. All this is of real moment to the world at large, and to Canada in particular, for it is not being done without a purpose. Fortunately, while the large papers responsible for most of it have been able to deceive their own readers, they have not been able to carry the support of their party's papers throughout the country to any great extent. Indeed, some of the Conservative press has done valiant work in showing up the fraud. For this reason it is not likely that the political effect designed for it, an emergency naval policy, distinct and apart from the serious, well-planned naval policy of the country, will now be attempted as a method of indefinitely postponing the announcement of a settled growing policy.

MUST MISS TORONTO.

Delay Caused by Detention of 'New Barmaid' Actor-Manager Affects Company's Plans..

After being in confinement since Friday morning as a result of a writ of capias taken out again him by Emile Recat, Alexander Loftus, actor manager of the 'New Barmaid' company, which played at the Princess Theatre last week, was released yesterday on furnishing $1,500 security. Recat is suing for $1,421.92 which he claims is due on a twenty week contract he had with the 'New Barmaid' company.

The troupe were able to leave the city yesterday but will not be able to fulfill their contract to play in Toronto this week. Instead they will go straight on and play in Ontario and west as far as the coast.

228,466,154 BUSHELS.

Regina, Sask., September 10.—The estimate of the department of agriculture of the crop of 1912, based on reports received from 1,800 correspondents, is as follows:

The total yield of wheat, oats, barley and flax is estimated at 228,466,154 bushels or an increase of 15,755,801 bushels over the crop of 1911. This was grown on an estimated acreage of 582,359 acres.

Wheat shows an increase both in acreage and in average yield. Oats show an increase in acreage but a slight decrease of the average yield, while barley and flax both show increases in acreage and in yields.

MAY COMPETE FOR AMERICA'S CUP.

Huntington, N.Y., September 10.—E. Mackay Edgar, who won the international motor boat trophy for England in the Huntington Bay races last week, is said to be looking longingly on the America's cup.

Mr. Edgar is a wealthy man, and is well able to stand the cost of building and maintaining a cup defender, even of the size of the last yachts, Shamrock and Reliance.

STUDENTS AS FIRE RANGERS

Toronto, September 10.—Complaint has been made to Hon. W. H. Hearst, minister of Lands, Forests and Mines by four students, who had been employed as fire rangers in the Mississaga forest reserve, and were discharged by the chief ranger. An appeal was taken to the minister, but the report of the chief ranger showed that the young men had not been attending to their duties and rather than run the risk which incapacity might involve, the chief ranger acted as he did.

Mindful of the criticism that has been made against students acting as fire rangers having a picnic rather than attending to their work, the minister decided to take no action.

MAINE FOR REPUBLICANS

Democrats Defeated on all Counts, But Contests Were Close.

PoPrtland, Maine, September 10.—Maine turned back to the Republican party in the state election yesterday, William T. Haines, of Waterville, being elected governor over Governor Frederick W. Plaisted, his Democratic opponent, who sought a second term, while the Republicans gained one of the two congressional districts lost to the Democrats two years ago. The new Legislature is expected to have a small Republican majority, although returns before midnight were not sufficient to show whether former Congressman Edwin C. Burleigh, Republican, or Senator Obadiah Gardner, Democrat, will be sent to the United States Senate for the term beginning next March.

Returns for governor from 550 out of 634 election districts gave Haines Republican, 66,121; Plaisted, Democrat, 62,127.

The corresponding vote for 1910 was: Fernald, Republican, 60,556; Plaisted, Democrat, 67,501.

These returns show a Republican gain of 9 per cent. and a Democratic loss of 8 per cent. If the same percentage is maintained through the state, Haines' election is indicated by about 3,750 plurality, compared with 8,660 given Plaisted in 1910.

Portland, Me., Sept. 10.—The political overturn in yesterday's Maine state election, in which the Republicans won back the governorship, secured three of the four Congressmen, and a sufficient majority on a joint ballot in the Legislature to assure the election of a Republican United States senator, became more apparent to-day with revised and additional returns.

William T. Haines, of Waterville, Republican, was elected governor by a plurality of 3,557 over Governor Frederick W. Plaisted, Democratic candidate, of Augusta. The vote, with 28 small towns missing, was: Haines, 70,072; Plaisted, 66,515. Two years ago the vote for governor was: Bert M. Fernald (Rep.), 64,672; F. W. Plaisted (Dem.), 73,425.

The missing 28 towns two years ago cast 751 votes for the Republican candidate and 846 for the Democratic leader.

The new Legislature will stand on a joint ballot—94 Republican and 78 Democrats, with ten districts yet to report. The State Senate will be made up of 22 Republican and eight Democrats, with one district missing. The House will be composed of 72 Republicans and 70 Democrats, with nine districts missing.

EUCHARISTIC CONGRESS

Great Ecclesiastical Assembly Opened at Vienna To-day.

Vienna, Sept. 10.—Under the protection of his apostolic majesty, the Emperor Francis Joseph, the twenty-third Eucharistic Congress to-day began its labors, which are to be continued until Sunday next.

Delegates and visitors numbering upwards of 150,000, and including representatives from Canada, the United States and South America, and from all the countries of Europe, have gathered in the city, which is decked with flags in honor of the great ecclesiastical assembly.

The Papal legate to the Congress, Cardinal Van Rossum, one of the youngest members of the Sacred College, arrived at the Austrian capital to-day from Rome. After a short service at the Cathedral of St. Stephen, the cardinal was driven in a state coach to the Hofburg, where he was received by the Emperor and by the members of the Imperial family.

The serious business of the congress will begin with a festival assembly in St. Stephen's to-morrow morning when the Papal brief will be read. Addresses then will be delivered setting forth the principles of the congress.

On Thursday there will be a pontifical high mass in the cathedral and communion masses in all the parish churches of the city. Sectional meetings for the discussion of various questions affecting the welfare and progress of the Roman Catholic Church will be held every day in the cathedral, and in some of the larger parish churches.

The last and crowning function of the congress will take place on Sunday morning, when an immense procession will march from St. Stephen's along the Ringstrasse to the Hofburg, where low mass will be celebrated by the Papal legate on top of the great entrance gateway. The Emperor and all the members of the court will attend the service, which will be conducted within the view of 50,000 persons.

G.T.R. CHIEF'S WESTERN TOUR

Official Statement Issued by Mr. Chamberlin

Mr. E. J. Chamberlin, president of the Grand Trunk system, issued today the following official account of his tour:—

We left Montreal on August 7th, going directly through to Chicago, where we attended meeting of the Terminal Board in connection with terminals for the Grand Trunk Western Railway in Chicago. From there we went to Winnipeg, where we spent a couple of days, and then took in the Grand Trunk Pacific west to the end of track, which is now at Tete Jaune Cache, the head of navigation on the Fraser River.

From Tete Jaune Cache we went down the river as far as we could go in one day and return, looking over construction work west of that point. The work from Tete Jaune Cache to Fort George is all covered, having about 25 steam shovels, 40 locomotives and other necessary equipment on the line, but it is impossible to say how early it will be completed, owing to the scarcity of what is known as 'common labor.' We should have 2,500 additional men on that section to properly man the equipment which is on the line. From Tete Jaune Cache we returned to Edmonton and travelled from there to Vancouver by the way of Calgary over the Canadian Pacific Railway. From Vancouver we travelled to Prince Rupert on the Company's Steamer, 'Prince George," and from Prince Rupert went into the interior 176 miles, which is the head of rail on the Pacific Coast.

The line is practically graded to Aldermere, but delay in track-laying is on account of erection of permanent bridges. The track should be at Aldermere some time in December, and we hope to have track sixty miles east of there, at what is known as the Bulkley Summit, in the early winter. This, like the east end, depends on common labor. Equipment, like steam shovels, engines, etc., is on the work sufficient to complete it by January 1st, but we should have 2,000 additional men in order to properly carry on construction, and these seem very difficult to obtain on the Coast.

Returning we visited Victoria, spending two days there, then came east to Edmonton by the Canadian Pacific via Calgary, taking in the Grand Trunk Pacific between Edmonton and Winnipeg. All the country needs is a little clear, dry weather, to allow harvest operations to proceed, giving the largest crop in the history of the country. Spent a couple of days in Winnipeg, then travelled over what is known as District 'F,' of the Transcontinental to Lake Superior Junction, and from there over the Company's Lake Superior Branch to Fort William.

The main line of the Transcontinental over this district to within six miles of Winnipeg is nearing completion. I should judge the entrance into Winnipeg ought to be completed about December 1st. At Fort William the company have very largely increased their yard accommodation for the handling of the grain traffic, having at the present time trackage at that point for 2,000 cars. The 2,500,000 bushel addition to the elevator is well under way, and should be ready to store grain the present season. From Fort William we travelled via the Canadian Pacific to North Bay. We left the Canadian Pacific at North Bay, and travelled over the Grand Trunk to Fort Erie and Suspension Bridge, for the purpose of looking over terminals at those points, especially at Fort Erie, where we hope to have additional facilities by the close of the season sufficient to prevent congestion which occurred last winter.

We have nothing in particular to say relative to newspaper articles which have appeared during our absence regarding the desire of the Government that we lease District 'F,' known as the McArthur Contract. The Contract between the Government and the Grand Trunk Pacific relative to the Transcontinental Railway provides that on the completion of the line we shall take a fifty year lease. It also stipulates that pending the completion the company may, if they desire, take over any section which has been completed, but it is obvious that any unit of the line would hardly be very profitable for the company to lease until the whole line is completed, or at least until they can get a direct connection with the Grand Trunk System and enjoy a through traffic. The question of leasing sections of the line when completed was brought up by by what is known as the 'old' Commission, and this company made the proposition at that time that we would take over any section of the Transcontinental which the Commission desired to have placed in operation, the Government taking the earnings and paying expenses; any profit or loss which might occur as a result of operation to go to Capital Account, i.e. if the operation showed a profit, Capital Account would be reduced accordingly, and if it showed a loss, Capital Account would be increased that amount. We have since renewed that offer to the present Commission, but have not received their reply to same.

The Grand Trunk Pacific Officials feel that this is a fair solution, and will enable people located along the line to secure the benefit of railway communication on a fair basis to the Government and the company. The statement which several newspapers of the country have made, that we did not desire to lease the line as we would then come under the control of the Railway Board as to rates, etc., could not have originated with the Commission, but in the imagination of the reporter. The Commission are well aware of the fact that our rates now between Fort William and Winnipeg are the same as those via the Canadian Pacific and Canadian Northern, and that tariffs were filled with the Board of Railway Commissioners.

CADETS OFF HOME.

Boys Pleased With the Good Times They Had in Toronto.

Toronto, Sept. 10.—Eighty-seven of the visiting cadets who have been at the Exhibition went west last night, three cars being attached to the Winnipeg train for their special use. They will visit Winnipeg, Calgary, Regina and Vancouver, after which those from Great Britain will return east, while the Australian and New Zealand contingents will embark on a trans-Pacific steamer for their homes on Oct. 4. Prior to the departure of the boys they were dined at the Walker House by the Exhibition authorities.

In a short conversation before the train drew out, an Australian and a couple of New Zealanders told what they thought of Canada. 'We think it's great now,' said they, 'but we're glad we are going home before the winter.'

None of the colonial contingent expressed a desire to stay here. 'Canada is a great country for a visit,' said they, 'but there's no place like home for us.' Some of the Old Country cadets, however, showed symptoms of a desire to remain here or come back again to live.

ANOTHER QUAKER GIRL.

The season has scarcely begun and two Quaker girls have visited us both in musical comedy and both at His Majesty's. Comparisons are, therefore, almost inevitable. But as a matter of fact the two little Quakeresses have little in common, so one does not by any means seem like a duplicate of the other. Both are dainty, clever and pleasing in all their work, and both are fair to look upon. There the similarity ends. It is in Miss Leila McIntyre that Montrealers are interested this week. She is, as the country papers say, 'in our midst,' and most an enlivening influence. She sings and dances well, and her babyish prattle and singing is as good as anything of the kind that has been seen here. The large audience last night clamored for more. Her air of thorough enjoyment did much to add to the quality of her work.

Her husband, Mr. John Hyams, is a bright comedian, whose work is free from vulgarity. His off-hand little comments, which in some cases might spoil a performance, rather add to the amusement. They are supported by a large company, with a setting as expensive as the stage of these lavish days calls for. Bachelor boys, boarding school misses, belles of the neighborhood, Quaker lads and lassies, Toy Town tinkers and other more or less grotesque figures chase one another in and out of sight without being too obtrusive. Of songs there is a-plenty, most of them well done. The title, 'Girl of My Dreams,' suits the performance about as well as any other, though there is none of the psychic mystery about it that the title might suggest to some minds. The plot is so little in evidence that even the principals joke about it, but the less plot there is the better the audience seem to like it. The managers give the people what they think they want. Whether they gauge the public demand correctly or not is proved by the box office. The box office report this week will doubtless be satisfactory.

THE KISS WALTZ

'The Kiss Waltz' drew a large audience to the Princess Theatre last night, an audience which feasted its eyes on pretty girls daintily dressed and the striking and unusual costumes of Valeska Suratt, the star of the caste. It was a two act Viennese operetta of the musical type with a little dancing and a few comedy incidents scattered through it. The flimsy plot was of the time honered variety — a jealous husband and a flirtatious wife, a newly rich man whose words and ways smack of the stable, his wife of ample proportions with social aspirations and a deep desire for a title, a dainty daughter of marriageable age, a long haired musician, over whom the ladies rave and Nella, Baroness Von Berneau, the star.

The chorus is a good one, probably above the average, evenly balanced, with good songs. Its defects are overshadowed by the attractive costumes of the singers. This is as would be expected as the two acts are laid in a hotel in the Riviera and the Villa Waldenberg. George Baldwin, the composer, has a splendid tenor voice, although Louise Richmond, the flirtatious wife and Edith Burke, the newly richs' daughter, made the musical hit of the evening in a delightful duet.

The work of the star, Miss Suratt could stand some revision quite easily, especially one of her dances. In fact her splendid stage appearance and her dazzling dresses are far more attractive than is her acting. She must look to her laurels or the prize for general popularity will be awarded to some other member of her company.

TWELVE-POUND SALMON.

The first grand prize for salmon trout in the $2,000 fishing contest, organized this summer by 'Field and Stream,' a New York publication, has been awarded to Mr. George W. Collier, of Bordentown, N.J., for a fish caught at Lake of Two Rivers, in Algonquin National Park, on Sunday, July 16. After a terrific battle, lasting nearly an hour, Mr. Collier succeeded in landing his salmon trout, which proved to be 12 pounds in weight, 30½ inches in length and 16 inches in girth. On the afternoon during the same trip Mr. Collier and two friends caught 15 trout that weighed together 35 pounds. Such a record is only one more proof of the unequalled opportunities for sport to be met with in Algonquin Park.

FATALLY BURNED.

Orillia, Ont., Sept. 10.—Miss Mary Leitch, aged 52 years, living with her brothers at Coulson, was fatally burned by the explosion of a lamp, which set fire to her clothing. Her burning clothing was extinguished by her brother, who then rescued his niece, Mrs. MacFarlane, who was ill in bed. Miss Leitch died while being taken to hospital.

PRINCE RUPERT LOTS.

Mr. A. E. McMaster, general agent of the Grand Trunk at Prince Rupert, reports that already purchasers of lots in the recent auction of property owned by the Provincial Government in that city have received offers at an increased valuation.

A RECEPTION INCIDENT.

Memory of An Old Friend Recalled to Mr. Borden by a Handshake.

Mr. Frank C. Howe, of Providence, R.I., describes his experience of the reception in the Windsor to Mr. Borden as follows:

'Mr. Borden was to the right as I approached with my young niece on my arm; my right hand outstretched Gallantly he waited till the young girl had disengaged her hand, then shook it. As he took my hand I whispered my name, adding, 'You knew my father, Mr. Borden.' Heartily yet tenderly he said, 'Indeed I did, and I am pleased to meet his son.' A link was formed between us, and I felt that he had loved the dear old man, and had shaken his hand later than I, for I was in California, when many years ago my father passed away in Nova Scotia, the home of us three.

G.T.P. SECTIONS NOT PROFITABLE

Mr. E. J. Chamberlin Speaks on the Superior Junction Difficulty.

FIFTY-YEAR LEASE.

Railway Offered to Take Over Section on Conditions, But Got No Reply.

Mr. E. J. Chamberlain, president and general manager of the Grand Trunk and G. T. P., and Mr. A. W. Smithers, chairman of the Board of Directors, arrived back in the city last night from their western trip. They state that good progress is being made on the construction of the line, but that there is a very great scarcity of labor for the British Columbia section.

Regarding the taking over of the lease of the section of the National Transcontinental from Winnipeg to Superior Junction, Mr. Chamberlain said:—

'The contract between the Government and the Grand Trunk Pacific relative to the Transcontinental Railway provides that on the completion of the line we shall take a fifty-year lease. It also stipulates that pending completion the company may, if they desire, take over any section which has been completed, but it is obvious that any unit of the line would hardly be very profitable for the company to lease until the whole line is completed, or at least until they can get a direct connection with the Grand Trunk system and enjoy a through traffic. The question of leasing sections of the line when completed was brought up by what is known as the 'old' commission, and this company made the proposition at that time that we would take over any section of the Transcontinental which the Commission desired to have placed in operation, the Government taking the earnings and paying expenses; any profit or loss which might occur as a result of operation to go to capital account, i.e., if the operation showed a profit, capital account would be reduced accordingly, and if it showed a loss, capital account would be increased that amount. We have since renewed that offer to the present Commission, but have not received their reply to same.

'The Grand Trunk Pacific officials feel that this is a fair basis to the government and the company. The statement which several newspapers of the country have made, that we did not desire to lease the line as we would then come under the control of the Railway Board as to rates, etc., could not have originated with the commission, but in the imagination of the reporter. The commission are well aware of the fact that our rates now between Fort William and Winnipeg are the same as those via the Canadian Pacific and Canadian Northern, and that tariffs were filed with the Board of Railway Commissioners.'

On the construction work from Prince Rupert eastward, 2,000 more men could be used, Mr. Chamberlain said, while as many more could be employed on the section from Edmonton Westward towards the coast.

Mr. Smithers said that he was well pleased with the solid character of the construction work. It was far ahead of any other transcontinental line in that respect. Mr. Donaldson's choice as western manager in charge of construction work had proven to be a good one. He had taken hold of the work in a very complete and satisfactory manner.

On completed sections of the G. T. P. trains were able to run 40 and 50 miles an hour. Mr. Smithers added, and that showed the splendid character of the construction.

They had gone to the end of the steel from both directions in British Columbia. The line could have been opened from Montreal to Prince Rupert next year, but for the labor scarcity. The opening, however, would be some time in 1914.

Among the various "Rough Finish" materials that will be extensively worn for Women's Fall and Winter Coats, the new Molliton and heavy Scotch Tweeds will be practically pre-eminent. BY CANAL TO NEW YORK

Dam Proposed for St. Johns, P.Q., to Raise Lake Champlain Water Level

A waterway connection between Montreal and New York was suggested by Mr. Howard D. Hadley, of Plattsburg, N.Y., in an address before the Atlantic Deep Waterways Convention at New London, Conn., on Thursday last. He said in part:

'If the question of deepening the Hudson River and developing the water powers of the Adirondacks is worked out in a wise, fair and reasonable manner, then the Hudson Champlain waterway connecting the Atlantic Ocean at New York City with the St. Lawrence River at tidewater in Canada will, in the near future become the most important inland waterway in North America. It is the only natural waterway through the Appalachian range of mountains. The distance between New York City, the metropolis of Canada, via this waterway is approximately 400 miles, and of this there will be less than 80 miles of artificial channel.

'Canada, our friendly neighbor on the north, is one of the most prosperous nations of the world, and has only just started to grow in wealth and population. The volume of trade between the United States and Canada, in spite of the heavy handicap imposed by inordinately high tariff walls, is already enormous, and rapidly increasing.

'A project is on foot to construct a dam near St. Johns, P.Q., which will raise the low-water level of Lake Champlain some three feet, and if this is brought about it will greatly reduce the present fluctuation between high water and low water, and render unnecessary a vast amount of dredging that otherwise must be done. Before this dam is built an agreement must be reached by the governments of the two countries.

'The advantages which will accrue to both countries as a result of the development of this great Hudson-Champlain waterway are so great, so varied and so obvious, that it seems certain the work will be speedily pushed to completion.'

Of Interest to Women.

The Witness' Daily Fashion Hint.

FELT HATS OF SIMPLE DESIGN FOR EARLY AUTUMN WEAR

Early autumn ushers in the felt hat. With the early days of September the woman who dresses well begins to think of doffing the straw and donning the felt hat. Illustrated are five new felts, all simple in design and smart in appearance. The one shown on the extreme left is of dark blue, with a scarf of cardinal red silk wound around the crown. The second is in black and white, the black forming a soft frame for the face. The model shown in the centre is a novelty, being of blue and white sponge, with a stiff ornament of white silk ribbon. Black beaver, with a cluster of red silk berries, goes to make up a chic little street hat. Black and white striped ribbon, caught in big bows, make the last hat, which is of white felt, extremely smart in appearance.

ADJOURNED FOR A MONTH

Royal Commission on License Act Will Hear Liquor Men Then.

SOME UNOFFICIAL ARGUMENT.

Alderman Lapointe Makes Startling Statements That Arouse Ire of Priests.

After a short session yesterday afternoon the Royal Committee on the revision of the License Act adjourned its Montreal hearing for one month, the exact date to be fixed later.

Abbe Desrosiers advocated the abolition of club licenses, and allowing one man to petition for only one liquor license. Mr. Justice Tessier asked if abolition of club licenses would not close the small door to open a larger one.

The Rev. Father Garant, a Redemptorist priest, urged that the transportation of liquor into prohibition districts by express companies and others be prohibited. He opposed any repeal of the early closing law, and advocated the stricter enforcement of the law and heavier penalties for violation.

Ald. L. A. Lapointe, secretary of the Licensed Victuallers, was asked if he had any representations to make. He said he was not ready.

Later he said he would present the objections to his association to various clauses of the License Act.

The adjournment of one month had been asked by Mr. Justice Lafontaine, president of the Ligue Anti-Alcoolique, who said that it was so soon after the holidays that his organization had not time to get together and agree on the specific amendments they wanted to the License Act.

A decidedly interesting discussion took place in the Court of Appeal room before Their Lordships entered to resume the session of the committee. It began when Ald. Lapointe arrived, and entered into a good-natured, jocular debate with ex-Ald. Carter and Mr. J. H. Roberts, president and secretary, respectively, of the Dominion Alliance. Gradually the talk became more serious and really argumentative. The secretary of the Licensed Victuallers asked what was the value of all the representations made to the committee by the temperance people during the morning session. It was all sentiment, he said, and every one had a different point of view, and who was to decide what point of view was the right one? Besides, people would get liquor some way or another. You could not prevent them. If they couldn't get it they would drink methylated spirits, as happened here lately, or they would take tobacco and make tobacco juice and drink it.

These and other stock arguments against temperance reform were used by Ald. Lapointe with great readiness. And the temperance men he addressed, answered just as readily.

Finally the Licensed Victuallers' secretary declared that out in the country in prohibition districts he knew of cases where liquor was sold with the knowledge of the priests.

This brought Abbe Desrosiers to his feet, and he launched vigorously into the discussion, and a warm debate ensued between him and Ald. Lapointe. Then another of the Licensed Victuallers joined Ald. Lapointe, and the debate spread around the room till the guard's call to order announced the entry of the commissioners.

During this preliminary discussion, Ald. Lapointe made the assertion that there were a thousand places, licensed and unlicensed, where liquor could be bought in prohibited hours.

AUTUMN MILLINERY.

New Ideas at the Season's Opening at Goodwin's.

The millinery rooms of Goodwins Limited presented a busy scene yesterday, on the occasion of the Autumn opening of new millinery. The large picture hat, it is evident, is to be with us again, not carried to extremes, but large enough to accompany gracefully the afternoon gowns for social affairs, while towards the other end of the scale are many smart little hats designed to be very comfortable for wear with the tailored costume. The large hats are inclined to be flat in proportion to the breadth; that is, the crowns are fairly low, and the trimming is put on quite flat. Some of the smaller hats are trimmed with more effect of height. The tendency to a narrow front and elongated back is characteristic.

Plush, of a soft rich quality, and silk beaver are very much to the fore, and velvet, as usual, composes the foundation of many shapes both of the picture styles and the smaller chapeaux. Moire has in many models taken the place of the smooth silks and satins, either as facing or in the composition of the hat proper. Handsome plumes, ospreys, Paradise plumage, and wings or feather novelties adorn the majority of the larger hats. Where ribbon is used in trimming it is put on in accordance with the idea of flatness.

While the hats fit well on the head, they are worn more on the straight line, not so entirely covering the back of the coiffure, and the change permits the reappearance of neck ruffs and boas. A large picture model in black and white, a combination which is considered as smart as ever, has the crown of black velvet surrounded by a plaited ruching of black and white tulle, and the brim of lace edged with the velvet on which rests a small black Paradise bird. Accompanying the hat is a ruff of the plaited black and white tulle tied with soft ribbon. A picturesque model, very appropriate for wear with one of the new old-fashioned gowns, is of black velvet faced with pale shell pink, the shape drooping quaintly on each side with a narrow black velvet ribbon from one side of the brim to the other under the chin. A large pink cabbage rose and two of the same order in black at irregular intervals on the brim constitute the trimming.

Very smart is a medium-sized hat of white moire, having the narrow and slightly rolling brim faced with navy blue plush. Along one side of the elongated crown is laid a snowy white plume, fastened in front under a small flat bow of white moire ribbon, held with a light oblong buckle of cut steel. Navy plush is also seen in a larger hat with gracefully drooping brim, faced with white moire. Two navy blue plumes, lying on the brim on either side of the crown, come together in front under a filigree buckle. A hat that would be effective with costume to match is of raisin-hued plush, draped on the upper surface, and trimmed with two ostrich feathers of opal shade.

The sailor order of hat has its representative in a model of white plush with slightly rolling brim, the crown being hidden under natural unbleached ostrich plumage. Taupe is among the favored shades, and a charming little toque, something after the Scotch cap order, has the brim of taupe plush, turned up against a crown of rose-pink moire, with a rose-tinged gray plume tucked in and drooping over one side.

THE FRANCHISE IN PORTUGAL

From the new Portuguese Republic comes the report that under the Electoral Law, just passed, a limited number of women in Portugal have been given the Parliamentary franchise. The same law puts a property qualification on the men, but so slight a one that manhood suffrage is practically established. However, the number of women enfranchised by this law will be comparatively small because of the age limit and educational test.

About a year ago Dr. Carolina Angelo, a woman who has since died, entered her name on the registry as a citizen. Her application for the vote formed a test case. The judge ruled that she was entitled to citizenship. By this legal decision women in Portugal were declared eligible for the franchise on the same grounds as men. By the new law, the Senate has now partially confirmed this legal decision by granting the vote to women over twenty-five years of age, who have passed a certain educational test.

WOMEN AS LEGAL ADVISERS

In three, at least, of the provinces of Canada the profession of law is now open to women. France has a number of women who have won unusual success as barristers, and the same may be said of the United States. But in England women are still forbidden to practise law.

According to a writer in an English periodical, it is not a legal enactment that forbids her, but a legal tradition and convention. No act of Parliament, this writer states, has ever been passed to prevent women from entering the profession of an attorney, a solicitor, or a barrister. 'But the existing lawyers of all grades are loth to admit them in their ranks; precisely as the medical practitioners of an earlier day objected to receiving Dr. Jex-Blake and Dr. Garrett Anderson as sister surgeons and physicians. Had prejudice prevailed then, would not much have been lost to the world? or had it prevailed a generation earlier still, when the prudes of her day tried to frown down Florence Nightingale? What Army nurses have done for the world we all know; what women doctors are doing many women will thankfully admit. May not the woman lawyer, the woman advocate, have a similar duty to perform to her sex and to the state? The need of these is akin to the need of women doctors. There is, in one field of work as in the other, a necessity for the sex specialist; the woman who can judge women more clearly and justly, deal with them more tenderly and efficiently, understand and heal their ills or their wrongs more readily, for being herself a woman. Poor young girls or wives, who shrink from entering a male doctor's surgery, or who tremble in the face of a Court composed solely of males, will often take new heart and hope from the presence and countenance of a sister woman, enlightened and sympathetic, with eye and brain thoroughly trained to search out her "case," whether legal or physical, and provide, if possible, a remedy. This fact alone may entitle the woman barrister to her brief; the fact that other women have need of her.'

THE ENGLISH BABY'S LAYETTE

The British baby of aristocratic birth is a royally garbed little creature, for whom no linen is too fine and no embroidery too costly. For it the choicest of the ancestral laces are brought forth and put into daily use.

In addition to the dozens of under slips, each one sheer as a fine handkerchief, and its hemstitch bordered linen nighties, garnished from throat to hem with needle worked vines, there are innumerable robes, so long and voluminous that when the nurse walks with her tiny charge nestling in her arms a foam of semi-transparent whiteness covers her figure from bust to feet and she appears to be moving from behind a cloud. And when this robe happens to be of antique eyelet embroidery, of Irish linen worked over with a fine vine in hand embroidery, or of linon latticed with real Valenciennes insertion or inset with medallions of old rose point and duchesse, the nurse is carrying a modest fortune in her arms.

In every well regulated English family is a christening robe of real lace, which sometimes is centuries old and of great value. But the baby is an almost equally magnificent spectacle when it takes its daily airing, for over a quilted, satin lined long coat of heavily corded white silk is a cloak of lace made from a deep flounce of duchesse, Irish, Valenciennes, d'Alencon, point de Venise, rose point or Carrick-ma-Cross, usually a deep bertha covers the sleeves and forms huge points that terminate near the hem of the little garment. Topping the cloak is invariably a cap made wholly of a matching mesh.—New York 'Herald.'

NEW EMBROIDERED COLLAR.

To give a new touch to the 'little' gown for home or some informal occasion, quite effective and charming is one of the semi-surplice collars, made from allover embroidery or lace, or, better still, of finest grass linen, with either embroidered scallop edge or a border of Cluny lace, applied with the least trifle of fulness. It is in reality a combination of collar and 'revers,' and is designed especially for wear with the popular surplice waist. The surplice effect of the waist crosses from the right shoulder and fastens at the belt line. The fairly deep round collar starts under the surplice section, as if coming from the right shoulder seam, goes around the neck without hint of front opening, and follows the inner edge of the surplice section, down the front, terminating in a point at the aforesaid belt line. The effect, while unusual, is decidedly in good taste, and one's igenuity may suggest many variants of it. Such a collar, with cuffs to match, would be the entire trimming necessary for a little afternoon frock of cashmere or soft silken fabric.

He is a specialist in dairy bacteriology and has written an excellent text book on the subject entitled "Bacteria Friends and Foes of the Dairy Farmer."

To the position of Assistant in Physics, left vacant by the resignation of Mr. Bates, Dr. D. W. Hamilton, of Fredericton, N.B., has been appointed. Dr. Hamilton is a graduate of the University of New Brunswick, holding the three degrees of B.A., M. A. and Ph.D. He graduated with distinction in natural science, receiving the Governor-General's gold medal. He was for three years Principal of the Kingston Consolidated School, and has taught science in the Provincial Normal School for several years. Dr. Hamilton is much interested in agricultural science and is resigning a more lucrative position to get in closer touch with such work.

In the Horticultural Department a new assistant has been appointed in the person of Mr. W. F. Aikenhead. Although of Canadian birth, Mr. Aikenhead has spent some years in the United States, where his father was engaged in market gardening. Mr. Aikenhead is a graduate both of the Maryland Agricultural College and of the Ontario Agricultural College, where he received special training in horticulture. He has also done considerable work for the Commission of Conservation. Mr. Aikenhead is well qualified for his present position, both by practical experience and by special education.

In the Animal Husbandry Department, Mr. Alex. R. Ness, youngest son of Mr. Robt. Ness, of Howick, Que., and a graduate of the College, has been appointed assistant.

The many friends of Prof. H. Barton will be interested to learn of his marriage on July 23rd at Rochester, N.Y., to Miss Mabel Loveridge, who has been for two years instructress in sewing, dressmaking and millinery in Macdonald College. Prof. and Mrs. Barton are spending their honeymoon in the old country.

It was Prof. Barton's intention to select new stock for the College herds during his trip to Britain, but the outbreak of foot-and-mouth disease will prevent his making any importations this year unless it be some horses.

The Physics Department has three men out in different parts of the Province making drainage surveys. These men report a live interest in drainage problems among the farmers, and Dr. Lynde is receiving appreciative letters from those for whom work has been done.

Prof. Snell, of the Chemistry Department, and Mr. Cutler, Instructor in Cereal Husbandry, attended the sessions of the Graduate School of Agriculture at the Michigan Agricultural College in July. Dr. Snell also spoke at the meeting of the National Education Association in Chicago on "Chemistry and Household Science."

SONS OF ENGLAND SERVICE.

Yorkshire lodge, supported by representatives of other Montreal lodges of the Sons of England held their annual church service on Sunday evening in the big tent on St. Antoine, regalia being worn, and the pulpit covered with the red ensign, the insignia of the order.

Dr. Martin, of Calvary Church, who conducted the service, referring to the keen sense of duty and love of home as being two of the characteristics of all true Englishmen, said the success of any nation depended upon the sanctity of the home. During his sermon he touchingly referred to the loss sustained by the lodge on the death of Bro. R. E. Heaver, whom God in his infinite wisdom had seen fit to call to the Grand Lodge above. The dead march being played at the conclusion of the service as a mark of respect, after which D.D. P. P. Bro. Jos. Gawne on behalf of the S. O. E. thanked Dr. Martin for the very appropriate service that he had rendered, the national anthem then being sung by all present.

MRS. BORDEN GLAD TO BE BACK AGAIN

A 'Witness' reporter had a few moments conversation with Mrs. Borden on her return.

'We had most enjoyable trips both outward and homeward, said the wife of the Premier.' 'I am a good sailor myself. Coming back on the R. M. S. 'Victorian' we had no fog nor saw any ice, though the captain told me that in an earlier trip he had seen 380 icebergs.

'Our stay in England was delightful, but I am pleased to get back to Canada again,' continued Mrs. Borden.

Talking of her love for both England and Canada she said

'I was born in Halifax, Nova Scotia, but my mother was a Cornish lady and lived in Cornwall. Many times during the past ten weeks I have been mistaken for an English woman. Visiting England was like going home.

'The wet weather in England did not bother us. We were so busy, but the weather during the first three weeks of July was delightful. My launching of the big vessel on the Clyde was most successful, as it glided magnificently into the water. Some friends told me that at one launching for some reason or other the vessel would not take to the water. After a while it was decided to go to lunch, and during luncheon the vessel launched itself.'

One of the New Features, which our readers are already praising, is the use of really good comic pictures. On Saturday the amusing adventures of Mr. Twee Deedle were commenced. They will be continued next Saturday and the following Saturdays as long as the series last. Yesterday we introduced two creations of one of the great newspaper artists, funny fellows who bear the classic names of Damon and Pythias. Their amusing and frequently incredible adventures will be continued to-morrow.

A ROMANCE OF THE FRENCH AND INDIAN WAR.

BY

PAUL LELAND HAWORTH

(Copyright, Little, Brown, and Co., Boston.)

SYNOPSIS OF PREVIOUS CHAPTERS.

On the eve of the French-indian war, George Washington, in company with Charles Randolph, a young Englishman, an Irishman, Baraby Currin, Jacob Van Braam, a Dutchman, and a number of Indians, is the bearer of a menacing letter from the British governor of Virginia to the Chevalier de Saint-Pierre, commander of a fort near Quebec, accusing the French troops of encroaching on British territory. The envoys are gallantly entertained by the Chevalier and his beautiful daughter, Alfrede, but Captain Reparti, commander of another French fort, shows hostility, and plans to surprise the Britishers; however, they receive a timely warning from Alfrede. Charles Randolph is given the captaincy of a company in the army, while Barnaby is made a lieutenant. The Chevalier de Saint-Pierre is summoned to Quebec for military orders, and Alfrede, who bids good-bye to the old fort, follows in company with her trusty servants. On the way they are taken captive by a squad of Indians, who over hear their plans, and Alfrede is on the point of being burnt to death when she is rescued by Charles Randolph. Banaby, and their company. Randolph escorts her to within sight of Fort Presqu'Isle, where she is discovered by Captain Reparti and his men. The captain discovers the whereabouts of Alfrede's rescuers, and he cunningly inflicts a great massacre at the British fort, and takes Barnaby's family prisoners. Randolph and his men set out and liberate the captives, but they are unable to find Barnaby's little boy. In a battle with the French, Randolph is wounded and taken prisoner by Captain Reparti. After his recovery he is conducted to Quebes, where he associates with the French nobility. Here, he again meets Alfrede.

CHAPTER XVIII.—Continued.

'He is extremely practical, and perhaps somewhat lacking in imagination. I recall that on our trip to Fort Le Boeuf—where I first had the happines pof meeting you —Captain Van Braam, Lieutenant Currin, and I would sometimes, upon reaching a mountain top, stand for several minutes exclaiming over the beauty of a river beneath. Washington would then be able to give us an intelligent estimate of the number of arable acres in the valley.'

'Has he no sentiment whatever?"

'I would not say that. He has, to my knowledge, been mildly in love a number of times with our own Virginian beauties; and in New York I learned that while he was in that city on his way to consult Lieutenant-General Shirley in Boston, he had an incipient affair with the daughter of one of the great patroons of the province. Under the influence of the gentle passion he has even been known to indite poems. The last verses of one such ran thus:

"Ah! woe 's me, that I should love and conceal.
Long have I wished, but never dared reveal
Even though severely Love's Pains I feel;
Xerxes that great, was 'i free from Cupid's Dart,
And all the greatest Heroes felt the Smart."

There is no man living I love and honor more, and I ought to say that all his verses were written when he was in his teens. Long ago he wisely perceived that he was intended for a soldier, not a poet. Got knows he has had enough since that time to make him grave!'

'Ho wdo you like the prospect the marquis holds out for you?' inquired Alfrede archly, after a pause.

'I ask no better fate,' he said, gazing ardently into her eyes. 'Only you must heed his warning, for I have something that could be broken —something not mendable and that only one woman in the world could break.'

She looked up at him from beneath long lashes ,and he knew that she understood. Her eyes fell. He noticed that her lips trembled, nor were his much firmer.

'I wept much over your letter about the litle boy,' she said ,after a silence. 'Terrible things have been done in this conflict by both combatants, though I fear that because most of the savages have been on our side my country will have most to answer for. I have done what I could, but, helas! I have learned next to nothing. Le Chat and he have disappeared. 'T is said by some that the chief is in the region of the Upper Lakes.'

'What does Captain Reparti say?"

'I have asked him twice. Once he pretended to have no knowledge. Another time he promised to redeem the child if I would grant him one request.'

'And what was that?' asked Randolph, half guessing the answer.

She hesitated. 'That I should marry him,' she said, looking down.

'Alfrede, that must never be!' he cried. 'Some time we shall find the child Before God, I would pledge my fortune for his ransom, but you must not do that.'

'Peace will come soon,' she said; 'perhaps then he can be found.'

'It cannot come too soon for me, but why do yo uthink it is at hand?'

'I can be frank,' she said, 'for soon you will see for yourself. New France cannot fight much longer. The court has deserted us. Oh, it is shameful! A hundred thousand men can be furnished to fight the battles of Austria and La Pompadour in Germany, but no troops and few supplies can be spared to save a continent for France. In spite of brilliant victories—won by the genius of Montcalm—we stand on the brink of ruin. Food is scarce; the suffering of the people in winter is pitiable. The colony is split into two factions. Vaudreuil, who is Canadian born, is jealous of Montcalm—the man who for three campaigns has kept us from destruction—and does all ehe can to thwart him. Alas! the governor has opportunities. Montcalm commands only the troops from France, and technically is subordinate to Vaudreuil, who, however, is fortunately afraid to take the field in person. Worst of all, the intendant, who in many ways is the most powerful man in the province, is the leader of a pack of wolves who are eating out the very heart of New France.'

A sound of laughter and of many voices came from the street. All ran to the window and looked out. From the direction of the palace came a dozen richly dressed men and women, their way lighted by servants in livery carrying flaming flambeaux. In front was an exquisitely gowned woman of great beauty, arm-in-arm with a short splotchy-faced man.

'Madame Péan!' said Toinette, in tones of disapproval. 'She has had too much wine.'

'Oui, La Belle Sultane,' said Lieut. Lusignan; 'but she cares not. She is lost to shame.'

'Who is the gentleman with her?' asked Randolph.

'That,' said Alfrede slowly, 'is Francois Bigot, intendant, and Evil Genius of New France.'

CHAPTER XIX.

THE HIRELINGS.

An hour later Van Braam and Randolph were on their way homeward. The night was clear but moonless, and from a ridge over which their road passed they could look down upon the broad shimmering Basin of Quebec and the distant shores beyond.

'Dose,' said Van Braam, pointing to some lights that twinkled far down the river, 'are in villas and farmhouses on de Isle of Orleans, vere in summer many families of vealth redire. Dose across de rifer and so much nearer are on Point Lévis. If dot dime efer comes ven an enemy addempts Quebec, it is dere he vill his patteries erect. He vill not dake de city py his pompardment, put he vill testroy it.'

'Do you think the town can ever be taken?' asked Randolph. 'Nature has done her best for it; and, to judge from the batteries I saw to-day, man also has been busy.'

'No blace vas efer so strong dot it vas impregnable, no more dan any voman vas broof against de vooings of de right shentleman,' quoth the Dutchman sagely.

'Hold!' exclaimed Randolph in a low voice, suddenly stopping short. 'Do you see that fellow skulking in the shadow of yonder trees? I would almost swear that he is following us.'

Van Braam stopped and looked back in the direction indicated. There was, in truth, a man in the shadow; but while they stood looking he advanced some distance in their direction, and the nturned down a side street so unconcernedly as to disarm suspicion.

'Doubtless his interest was mere curiosity,' said Randolph. 'I suppose your preparations before we started have made me unduly suspicious.'

'It vas no harm to pe vatchful,' said Van Braam.

They walked on and drew near the spacious convent of the Ursulines, from whose chapel came the peeling tones of a great organ mingled with the voices of the nuns celebrating midnight service for the safety of New France.

'De air of Quebec vas vid incense of vorship heafy,' said Van Braam, who as a descendant of men who held Leyden against the hosts of Alva, had no fondness for things Catholic. 'Briests and nuns vas eferyvere. If braying vas any goot, ve shall New France nefer gonquer, and no Frenchman vill efer so much as a liddle smell of burgadory daste. Somedimes I vas combletely dired of so much brocessions, so much braying. I vas not religious much, put often haf I longed to hear goot Dominie Heijn of Amsterdam breach once more.'

By the time Van Braam concluded his observations they were past the convent and were approaching the home of a bourgeois where a dance was in progress. From the open doors streamed shafts of light, and the strains of violins mingled with the rhythmical sound of many feet dancing a quadrille. Presently the violins were drowned by lusty voices singing a folk song:

'Malbrough s'en va-t-en guerre,
Mironton, mironton, mirontaine,
Malbrough s'en va-t-en guerre,
Ne sait quand reviendra.

'Il reviendra-z-à Pâques,
Mironton, mironton, mirontaine,
Il reviendra-z-à Pâques
Ou à la Trinité.

'La Trinité se passe,
Mironton, mironton, mirontaine,
La Trinité se passe,
Malbrough ne revient pas.'

'A gay and habby beoble,' said Van Braam contemptuously. 'Shoost like all Frenchmans. Vere Quebec to fall domorrow, dey vould laugh and sing and tance next tay like grasshoppers. Oh! pevare!'

There was reason for his exclamation. They had passed the scene of gayety and were abreast of a spacious garden filled with trees and shrubbery. Out of a dark gateway had sprung three men with drawn swords. It would probably have gone hard with the two friends had not the foremost ruffian, in his haste, stumbled over a proturberance in the rocky street and fallen in front of his companions, momentarily checking their progress. Van Braam, who was much quicker on such occasions than is usual in one so phlegmatic, drew his pistol, and, cocking it, shot the second man through the body.

'Bravo, captain!' cried Randolph.

He had already drawn his own sword, and now received the onset of the third ruffian. The stars furnished but feeble light, and it was only his fencer's instinct that enabled him to turn aside the furious thrusts aimed at him. His assailant was exceedingly tall and long armed, but soon showed himself an indifferent swordsman. After foiling the first attack, Randolph himself took the offensive. Presently, by a strong parade, he sent the fellow's weapon flying into the middle of the street, and in an instant had his own threatening the man's throat. Meanwhile the first ruffian, seeing the turn affairs were taking, scrambled to his feet, and, disregarding his companion's urgent cries of 'A moi, mon, camarade, en avant, to the rescue!' ran off down the street at such a pace that it was useless for the irate but weighty Van Braam to follow.

'What in the devil does this mean, you rascal?' demanded Randolph of his captive, whom he proceeded to seize by the collar ,at the same time keeping his point against the skin. 'Why do you attack strangers in this manner?'

'Mercy! mercy! seigneur, as you hope for heaven!' begged the man abjectly, showing that he was as cowardly as he was treacherous.

'Run him drough, tamn him!' exclaimed Van Braam vindictively.

Groveling upon the ground, the captive repeated his plea for clemency.

'You deserve to die, but I will release you on one condition,' said Randolph,—'that you tell me who instigated this attack.'

'Hélas!' the prisoner cried. 'I do not know his name. He is a heavy man with a vast wart on his nose. He was to give us each two hundred livres. We be poor men, seigneur, ruined by the war. Pity my wife and little ones!'

The man's voice had the ring of truth; but Randolph stood undecided whether to release him or turn him over to the watch, who, attracted by the shot, were running up. His indecision was resolved by the fellow's suddenly twisting out of his grasp like an eel and dashing off. A quick thrust would probably have brought him to the ground, but the Varginian mercifully forbore giving it, and also neglected to make use of his pistol, with which he might have managed to wing the fugitive.

Half a dozen of the watch now came up, bearing lighted flambeaux.

'Give up your weapons, messieurs,' said the officer in charge.

'Why?' Randolph demanded in French. 'We but defended ourselves against the ruffians.'

Van Braam also vigorously protested, insisting that it would be an outrage to arrest gentlemen whose only offense was that they had defended themselves against assassins.

Meanwhile two of the watch were turning over the fellow on the ground. He was quite dead, with a great bloody hole in his breast.

'Pardieu, c'est Le Rat!' cried one of them, after a look at the dead man's face. 'He will rob no more!'

The exclamation drew the attention of the other watchmen. A careful scrutiny convinced all that the body was indeed that of a celebrated highway man who had long been the terror of the city.

'Parbleu! messieurs les Anglais, this gives the encounter a different look,' said the officer apologetically. 'We owe you thanks instead of an arrest. The rascal has escaped us for months. He has committed half a dozen murders and twice that many robberies. You are free to go whenever you wish.'

Greatly relieved by the turn affairs had taken, Randolph and Van Braam bade the officer good-night and proceeded to their lodgings, carrying with them food for considerable reflection.

"BED-TIME STORIES"

THE WHITE KNIGHT.

(By Rev. J. G. Stevenson, B.A., of Beckenham.)

One fine morning when the spring was young, and the cowslips and primroses were beautifying the meadows, and old-fashioned mothers were giving new-fashioned children brimstone and treacle, the White Knight rode out from his castle in haste to see his little boy who had been ill, and so was staying with a brother knight some fifteen miles away. His horse was strong, and had been well fed before starting. So they made great pace, and all was happening as the Knight wished when suddenly from the wood above the road there came a cry. It was the cry of a child, and the White Knight called from below, 'Who art thou, little one?' And what ails thee?' 'Oh, Sir Knight,' came the tones of a choking little voice, 'my name is Marian. I be the little daughof the Count of Senlac. Also I am lost and I am frightened, and——' The words ceased, and there was a sound of great weeping that became louder still as the small girl emerged from the trees. The Knight dismounted and fastened his charger to a stone. 'How camest thou to be lost, little one?' he called, as he hastened up the hill. 'Please,' was the answer, in a more confident voice, for the little girl could see the Knight coming, 'I did get up early, and after my porridge I did wander forth in search of cowslips, and I did not notice, and therefore I am here.' As the sentence finished the White Knight reached the little maiden, and soon he was on his horse again with her in front of him; and though he was just aching to see his little boy, he rode two miles out of his way to the castle of the Count of Senlac. There he found great commotion and much lamenting because the little daughter of the house had been missing. And when he restored her to her mother the lady kissed her daughter eagerly and then curtsied low, and thanked her finder with many words. After he had refreshed himself the White Knight set out again, and the little girl and her mother bade him adieu at the drawbridge. As he rode away he heard the voice of the little girl saying 'Thank you, Sir Knight. Oh, thank you for being so good to a lost little girl.'

The White Knight was so anxious to reach his little boy that he decided to take a special short cut through a gorge in the mountain, because that would offer him a nearer way to the place where his son was staying. At certain times of the year this gorge was infested with fearsome beasts, and sometimes one particularly awful creature called the Great Roarer rambled abroad, and made a noise that killed everyone who heard it. The Knight knew all this, but his desire to reach his little boy quickly made him willing to risk anything. So he rode bravely into the gorge, smiling at his memory of the little girl's face as she waved him good-bye. All the way through the gorge he seemed to hear Marian's voice saying to him, 'Thank you, Sir Knight. Oh, thank you for being so good to a lost little girl.' He heard the words so plainly that he could hardly persuade himself that he had left her at her father's castle; and the memory pleased him much and made his journey light. As he drew near the castle where his son was staying the boy was watching from the battlements, and he rushed down and on to the road, and so met his father. 'You are late, father,' he said. The White Knight explained why. At the explanation his little boy turned white. 'Oh, father,' he said, as he took hold of his hand again, 'I heard only yesterday that the Great Roarer is abroad in the gorge. Wilfred, the huntsman, saw him and ran away for fear he should hear him roar. Why, here he is.' As the boy spoke Wilfred came running up all hasty and scant of breath. 'Tidings!' Great Roarer is abroad, and I have but just found two men who were dying from the sound of his noises.' 'And I,' said the White Knight, 'have just ridden through the gorge, and I heard him not.' Then he stopped and took off his helmet, and offered thanks to God. He just understood. The sound of the little girl's voice as she thanked him for being good to her had followed the White Knight all the way through the gorge, and had prevented his hearing the fearsome creature whom to hear would have been death. — 'Christian World.'

WHAT SAITH THE SCRIPTURES?

September 10.

Incline your ear, and come unto me: hear, and your soul shall live; and I will make an everlasting covenant with you.—Isa. lv., 3.

Our God will every want supply,
And fill our hearts with peace;
He gives by covenant and by oath,
The riches of his grace.
Seek ye the Lord while he may be found, call ye upon him while he is near.—Isa. lv., 6.

SELECTING IMMIGRANTS

Methods of East End of London Fund Explained to 'Witness' Interviewer.

The selection of immigrants is one of Canada's great problems. Authorities confess that it is a matter worthy of grave consideration whether or not many of our immigrants are worth the cost which is paid to procure them. In view of this, much interest centres on the methods which have been adopted by the East End of London Emigration Fund, as they were explained to a 'Witness' reporter on Saturday by Mr. A. B. Bennett, its hon-assistant secretary, who is on a tour of the Dominion.

The fund, which is entirely supported by voluntary contributions, was formed in 1887 by Canon Kitto, an East End Vicar, for the purpose of providing opportunities of emigration to those who had sunk beneath the high water mark of respectability.

As far as financial help is concerned, the society only lends a hand to those inhabitants of London who have been farm laborers at one time and have drifted into the city where they encounter difficulties of livelihood before which they fall down. The other class to which the society caters are those who have been carmen in London all their lives, but who have been submerged so far that they cannot recover themselves by their own efforts.

'It is worthy of note,' said Mr. Bennett, 'that in both these instances the beneficiaries are men who have been accustomed to horses and manual labor.

The fund has no lack of Candidates, so that they can afford to enforce very stringent rules of selection. They are allied to the Charity Organization Society who refer to them all cases which are likely to satisfy the conditions which they enforce, and a large number of recruits is obtained from the ranks of the friends and relations of those who have received the benefits of the fund.

The beneficiaries who receive financial help must in the first place be married men with families. 'In every case,' said Mr. Bennett, 'we absolutely refuse to consider the cases of single men, however, deserving in other respects. We feel that it is the married men who have first claim upon us and that is not the only condition, the married men must have families.'

In no case will the fund emigrate married couples who have not children, nor will they consider the application of anyone who proposes to leaves hiwe and family at home: 'You think it is a bad principle to support these?' asked the "Witness" reporter.

'I don't only think it,' vehemently declared Mr. Bennett, 'I am absolutely certain of it.'

After references regarding honesty and character have been examined by the referee's of the society the candidates are handed over to Mr. Otto Smith the Canadian Immigration Commissioner in London, and have to pass an inspection all the more searching because of the conditions under which they are recruited.

Regarding the success of the methods adopted Mr. Bennett said there could be no doubt, whatever, of the last three thousand immigrants handled by the society in the last three years only two have been deported.

Altogether, even after practicing these extreme cautionary methods, the fund has financed over twent-three thousand emigrants.

CONFIDENT OF SECURING HOME RULE.

Philadelphia, Sept. 10.—Michael J. Ryan, of this city, president of the United Irish League of America, yesterday received a letter from Mr. John E. Redmond, the Irish Home Rule leader, stating that his brother, Mr. Wm. Redmond, would sail from Ireland on Thursday of this week to attend the national convention of the League, to be held in Philadelphia, the latter part of this month, and declaring that so far as Great Britain is concerned the battle for Home Rule has been own. 'Our only embarrassment,' he said, 'is in the attitude taken up by a section of the people of Ulster.' Continuing, he says: 'This attitude will not, of course, prevent the passage of the Home Rule Bill, and my own strong belief is, that, after that measure has become law, with that strong common sense that characterizes Northern Irishmen, our present opponents will rapidly fall into line.'

FIGHT FOR LIFE.

Halifax, N.S., Sept. 10.—The Rev. Mr. Kinsale, Presbyterian missionary to foreigners at Sydney, received a telegram to-day to the effect that the Department of Justice might again consider the case of Harry Thomassen, convicted at Sydney of murdering a shopmate. Mr. Kinsale has interested himself on behalf of Thomassen, who stoutly maintains his innocence.

END OF GAELIC SERVICE.

Glencoe, Ont., Sept. 10.—With the departure of the Rev. Dr. MacDonald from Burn's Church, regular service in Gaelic will cease. The older members, who enjoyed and demanded the Gaelic, have been gradually passing away, and the attendance at the Gaelic service has become so small that with the reverend doctor gone, the regular Gaelic services will cease.

THE BISONS STOPPED THE HUSTLERS' ONWARD MARCH YESTERDAY.

Buffalo, N.Y., Sept. 10.—Buffalo put a severe crimp in the Hustlers' chances for the 1912 pennant by taking both ends of yesterday's double-header, much to the great sorrow of Manager John Ganzel. Beebe pitched shut-out ball until a finger was split stopping Hughes' drive. Ewing was as effective as Beebe, and the Hustlers lost 5 to 2. Frill pitched winning ball in the second, Rochester not scoring until the ninth.

New York, Sept. 9.—NewYorkwon adoub le-h eaderfro mBrooklyn bgkqk

New York, Sept. 9.—New York won a double-header from Brooklyn today by scores of 2 to 1 and 7 to 2. The first game was a pitcher's battle between Tesereau and Rucker. Tesereau allowed only one hit in the first seven innings, and that drove in Brooklyn's only run. Brooklyn filled thebases with three hits in the eighth, but could not get over the tieing run. New York won in the fourth on hits by Doyle, Becker and Murray, and daring base running.

Wilson practically won the second game for New York in the first inning when with two men on bases he hit a home run into the left field bleachers.

CHAMPION TORONTOS WILL NOT GO AFTER MINTO CUP.

Neither Will Proposed All-Star Team Take Trip to Coast This Year.

Toronto, Sept. 10.—The Toronto lacrosse team, champions of the Big Four, will not journey to the Coast after the Minto Cup; this is the final decision of the club management. On top of this comes the information that the proposed trip of an all-star team to the Coast is also declared off. Jimmy Murphy, who was looking after the latter team, cannot spare the time from business.

MEETING OF THE MONTREAL ENGLISH RUGBY FOOTBALL CLUB.

There will be a meeting of the members of the Montreal Rugby Football Club at the Windsor Hotel at 8 p.m. on Wednesday, the 11th of September. All members are requested to make a special effort to attend.

There will also be a meeting of the Board of the Montreal English Rugby Football Union at the same hotel on Friday, the 13th instant, at 8.15 p.m.

BLUE BONNETS.

A splendid programme is provided by the Montreal Jockey Club at Blue Bonnets yesterday afternon. The card is made up of seven races, with the Hochelaga Handicap as its feature, another handicap at one mile for Canadian-owned horses, as well as one for horses bred in the Dominion, and a steeplechase for three-year-olds over the mile and a half course. With the track in splendid shape and well matched fields entered in all of the events some keen sport should be witnessed.

The Hochelaga, which is a dash of six furlongs for two-year-olds, has attracted the pick of the younger division at Blue Bonnets, and a great race should be the result. The Rock Sand colt Rock View, owned by August Belmont, is topweight. He has been assigned 126 pounds and is asked to concede five pounds to Calgary, who has been conceded all season as a high class youngster. A meeting between this pair alone is worth going a long way to see. There are others in the race, however, which will probably prove strong factors in the struggle. Baregat's recent form has been good and he has improved right along. An effort was made by Dick Watkins to secure Butwell to ride this colt, but as John W. Schorr has Leochares in the race, he will have to ride the latter. George M. Hendrie has named his pair, Great Britain and Rifle Brigade, both good colts, and either of which may prove troublesome. On what they have shown and on recent trials, Calgary looks best and will probably win. Rock View should be second, with the Hendrie pair having the preference over the balance.

Hearts of Oak, probably the best two-year-old ever bred in Canada, is carded as one of those that will go to the post in the opening event. He will run coupled with Ondramida as the Giddings' entry. Hearts of Oak has been beaten but once this season. He was left at the post on that occasion. With any sort of an even break he will win this afternoon, as there is no question as to his class.

The second race is a selling affair, the conditions of which call for a dash of five and a half furlongs. The choice appears to be Anavri. The latter is a fast breaker and is very speedy. The going will suit him. Veneta Strome will probably run an improved race over her previous effort, and will be close up. Sal Volatile looks next best.

The third race is the mile handicap for Canadian-owned horses. Inspector Lestrade showed good form last spring and if he is anything near as good as at Woodbine and Blue Bonnets he will be troublesome. Long Ago will run coupled with Inspector Lestrade. Cliff Stream is a good looking colt and is evidently one of the improving sort. He may beat the balance, the best of which appears to be Amberite.

Three-year-old jumpers will be given their first opportunity of showing their merit in public this afternoon. The Tompkins pair, King Cash and Welship, are said to have worked and schooled well. This trainer always shows up clever material and his horses are always well schooled before they are permitted to sport silk. Kermath will ride the best of the pair. The Garth-Parr confederacy have three in the race, Julia Armour, Utmost and Red Squirrel and all three of them have shown up well. They have been well schooled at the other tracks down the line and are ready. Mike Daly will saddle Chocorua.

Detroit looks like a winner in the sixth. Danfield is very speedy, but a non-stayer. Malatine looks next best. Lad of Langdon, Herbert Turner and Lord Elam should be fancied as named in the seventh race. The former has not been running so well of late, but as he was always partial to the Blue Bonnets track, he may show to better advantage here.

Y. M. C. A. FIELD DAY

Fairmount Branch Showing Up Well.

The boys of the Y. M. C. A. at the North End of the city had a large number out on Saturday afternoon, and are planning to spring some surprises at the fifteenth annual field day of the association, to be held on Saturday afternoon, Sept. 14, at three o'clock, on McGill University grounds. With Drysdale in 100 and 200 yards, and Parkes in 440, high jump, running high and broad, and Walsh looking after the mile, there should be considerable points to the credit of the North-Enders.

Westmount Branch does not expect to do much in the senior events, but they have some promising juniors, whom Physical Director Miller says will give good account of themselves on Saturday. They have been getting their training in a quiet way at the different summer resorts, and while not being present at the handicaps this summer, think they will give a good account of themselves. In the 880 yards run, and 100 yards dash for juniors, Westmount looks good.

Mr. Johnstone, physical director of the Point, discussed with the reporter last week some record times, which, if they are lived up to on Saturday will not leave the Railway Branch very far behind in the struggle for first place. The shot put, mile run, 880 and 220, Physical Director Johnstone stated, there would be no trouble.

The Central Association will have twenty-five men and boys in competition, and have been practising faithfully during the past summer, at McGill grounds, doing constant work, and improving every week. These are the men to be relied upon to make a good showing at the field day.

A departure is being made this year in that the committee has decided to award three medals for each event. The list of officials has been carefully selected, and the games will be run off with promptness, the usual delays of an athletic meet being absent.

Good weather is the only thing that is needed now to secure an excellent afternoon's sport.

OTTAWA JOURNAL'S NEW EQUIPMENT.

A copiously illustrated copy of the Ottawa 'Evening Journal' comes to hand, published on the occasion of that journal's final inauguration of the new plant, which the proprietors have found it advisable to introduce after running their paper through the original one for over twenty-five years. The edition contains many appreciations of the 'Journal' by such prominent men as Sir Sandford Fleming, Chancellor of Queen's University, who remarks specially on the great strides the paper has made in the last few months. Interesting little appreciations are also written by two of the 'Journal's' quondam editors, Mr. John F. Dafoe, editor of the Winnipeg 'Free Press,' and Mr. Arthur H. A. Colquhoun, Deputy Minister of Education for Ontario. A full description of the new equipment has been written for this edition, and it certainly seems remarkably efficient. We have never seen better reproductions of photographs in any newspaper.

GAS ENGINES FOR SCHOONERS

Successful Experiment on Sailing Ships May Lead to Big Change in Fleet.

BARGES MAY FOLLOW.

New System is Said to be Cheaper and More Efficient Than Was the Old One.

The day of the pure 'wind jammer' in the port is passing. Already this summer two of the oldest schooners in the river fleet have added small gasoline engines to their equipment so that, when the winds are unfavorable, they are able to creep along to their port. One of the two, the two masted schooner, 'J. E. W. H.' passed through the canal yesterday afternoon, and attracted a good deal of attention by the way she moved down the river. A shipping man, with whom the 'Witness' reporter talked, said that the experiment had been so successful that he had heard that many of the barge owners were contemplating adding an engine to their boats at an early date.

The advantages of the engines, according to the mariner, were many. Barges so equipped could move around the port at any time without the assistance of a tug as their power was sufficient to move the craft slowly even with heavy loads, and even against the current. Then, too, he said there would be a great saving in money for the cost of towing through the canal, and in the harbor amounted to a big sum in a season. To pass through a lock the schooners must secure either a tug or one of the teams that are always available. This cost must and often meant, too, that the ship must wait until either a tug or horses could be procured. The new motive power would cost less, and be much more speedy. 'You can say that the day of the pure old 'Wind Jammer' is over; gasoline has ended them.'

CONFIDENCE MEN

Tricksters at Work Again Find the Usual Easy Victims.

Confidence men are getting in their work on unsuspecting foreigners who arrive in Montreal by the ocean steamship lines, and several complaints have been lodged of men losing considerable sums by handing the money over to crooks, who get away with it.

Joseph Raiscowitz was accosted by one of the gang, and advised to give up his roll and put it with that of this man, who put up the talk that it was unsafe to carry it in his pocket, intimating there were unauthorised persons looking to sneak it away from him, and that would be the last seen of his wad. Raiscowitz says he gave this man his money and saw him roll it carefully in another big wad, which he understood had been collected from different people for safe keeping. Later, he was informed that his money was as good as lost, and hustled to the Windsor Station, where he caught sight of his erstwhile friend. Constable Fillatrault was summoned, and the accused taken to police headquarters. He was remanded for enquete on Thursday.

DISGUISED AS MAN.

Hamilton, Sept. 9.—A woman disguised as a man tried to gain entrance into the United States on Thursday, but was detected by Black Rock immigration officials and sent back to Welland. She stayed there all night and came on to Hamilton, where she disappeared. Her disguise was almost perfect, but the inspectors detected her in time. She was passing under the name of John Young.

RECORD OF NAZARETH STREET MISSION HAS BEEN LARGELY ONE OF MIGRATION

Founded in Griffintown by a Scotsman Fifty-Three Years Ago, Has Had Many Homes, and Must Move Again Owing to Sale of Property to the C.N.R., and Migration of Population.

NAZARETH STREET MISSION, CORNER OF WELLINGTON AND NAZARETH STREET.

As announced in the 'Witness' of August 19th, the Nazareth Street Mission property, situated at the corner of Wellington and Nazareth street, has been sold to the Canadian Northern Railway for $15,500, and in a short time this portion, of what is known as the down town mission, will have to vacate their present premises and move to some other location. The history of the mission is a most interesting one; many who are now occupying important positions both in the church and business world having been at one time or another identified with the work carried on in that portion of the city.

MR. JAMES ROSS,
The founder, and for 45 years Superintendent of Nazareth Street Mission. Thirty-eight years an elder in Crescent Street Church.

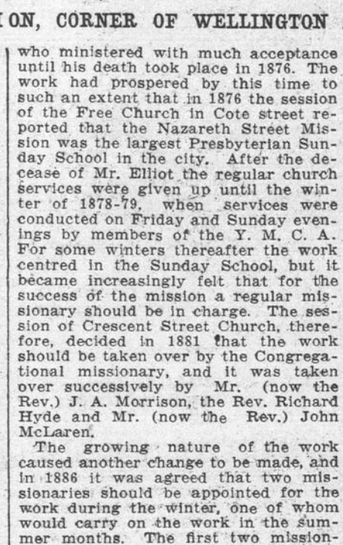

A little over fifty-three years ago a young Scotsman, who had only then arrived in Montreal, wishing to spend his Sunday afternoon in a manner helpful to others, set out to deliver tracts in the district now known as Griffintown. Entering into conversation with three young lads, and finding they had no Sunday School to go to, the young man promised that if one of their mothers would give him a room he would come on the following Sunday, and teach them himself. The room having been granted, on the next Sunday these three boys, with their teacher, the late Mr. James Ross, began a work which still continues, and is now known as the Nazareth Street Mission.

The record of the first ten years is largely one of migration. The room in which the class originally met soon became too small, and the class meeting was removed to a small day school on Dalhousie street. It removed from there to Ann street, and then to Wellington street, near the corner of Dalhousie. The next place of meeting was in a house on the corner of Wellington and Duke street, and afterwards over a bakery on Duke street, near Ottawa street. The increased attendance soon necessitated another removal, and the school then occupied 'Kings' building on Nazareth street, next door to the present building. Again the increased attendance compelled serious consideration, and it was agreed at the annual meeting in 1868, of the Free Church, Cote street (now Crescent Presbyterian Church) to take the work under its care, and to erect a suitable building. As a result, the present premises of the Mission were built, and the work transferred to them in 1870. Of the original trustees only one, Mr. David Morrice, is still alive and continues to take an earnest interest in the welfare of the Mission.

The work up to this time had consisted only of the Sunday School, but it was found that more was needed. Other meetings were organized, and in October, 1873, the Presbytery of Montreal decided to constitute the people worshipping at Nazareth street into a congregation with regular ordinances. This was accordingly done, and in 1874 the records show that there were fifty-five names on the Communion roll, and over three hundred scholars in the Sunday School. The first ordained minister seems to have been the Rev. Mr. (now Dr.) Torrance (Kingston, Ont.), who has now retired. He was succeeded by the late Rev. Mr. Elliot, who ministered with much acceptance until his death took place in 1876. The work had prospered by this time to such an extent that in 1876 the session of the Free Church in Cote street reported that the Nazareth Street Mission was the largest Presbyterian Sunday School in the city. After the decease of Mr. Elliot the regular church services were given up until the winter of 1878-79, when services were conducted on Friday and Sunday evenings by members of the Y. M. C. A. For some winters thereafter the work centred in the Sunday School, but it became increasingly felt that for the success of the mission a regular missionary should be in charge. The session of Crescent Street Church, therefore, decided in 1881 that the work should be taken over by the Congregational missionary, and it was taken over successively by Mr. (now the Rev.) J. A. Morrison, the Rev. Richard Hyde and Mr. (now the Rev.) John McLaren.

The growing nature of the work caused another change to be made, and in 1886 it was agreed that two missionaries should be appointed for the work during the winter, one of whom would carry on the work in the summer months. The first two missionaries so appointed were the Rev. J. H. MacVicar, B.A., D.D., now of St. John, N.B., and the Rev. Robert Johnston, B.A., D.D., now of the American Presbyterian Church, Montreal.

This arrangement was invariably carried out until 1910. Among the missionaries were the following well known ministers: The Rev. J. A. Dobson, B.A., B.D., of St. Giles' Church, Montreal; the Rev. J. D. Anderson, B.A., Beauharnois, Que.; the Rev. J. W. McLeod, Belwood, Ont.; the Rev. D. J. Graham, B.D., Fort Saskatchewan, Alta.; the Rev. Hector MacKay, B.A., London, Ont.; the Rev. George McGregor, B.D., Ottawa; the Rev. Ed. Turkington, Toronto; the Rev. Henry Arnott, Newcastle, N.B.; the Rev. Peter Henderson, M.A., Armstrong, B.C.; the Rev. George S. Mitchell, Oxford, N.S.; the Rev. Louis A. Wood, B.A., B.D., Ph.D., Hamilton; the Rev. Joseph Corduor, B.D., Drumbo, Ireland, and Mr. Robert Lindsay, Bay View, N.S.

THE REV. WILLIAM MERRILEES,
Missionary Superintendent of Nazareth Street Mission.

During the long period, from the inception of the mission in 1859 until the last day of December, 1904, the founder of the mission, the late Mr. James Ross, acted as superintendent of the Sunday-school, and later added to his duties that of superintendent of the mission and congregational missionary of Crescent Street Church. He was succeded by the late Mr. B. S. Auld, and on his death in 1908 the general supervision of the work was undertaken by Mr. A. S. Ross, who had been connected with the Sunday-school for about a quarter of a century. On the retiral of Mr. Ross in 1909 it was felt that the work should be consolidated, and in 1910 the complete supervision of the work was placed in the hands of the present pastor, the Rev. William Merrilees, then a student in the Presbyterian College.

To the foreign mission fields of the church the mission has given Dr. Percy Leslie and Mrs. Leslie, of Houan, China, and Miss McDougall, now the wife of the Rev. H. J. Keith, M.A., B.D. To the home mission field during recent years it has contributed Mr. James Cordner, now stationed at Mount Royal Vale; Mr. Charles McLaughlin, of Tetreauville Mission, and the present pastor. Another of the young men enters the Presbyterian College this year, and it is expected that he will be followed by others next year.

Of the many business men who have been teachers in the mission during

MR. A. S. ROSS,
Secretary of Nazareth Street Mission Sunday School for over 25 years.

the past fifty years, the following may be mentioned: Mr. Robert Munro, late of the Canada Paint Company, who was a teacher in the mission forty-seven years ago; Mr. A. M. Nairn, Mr. B. A. Gentles (Meldrum Bros.), Mr. R. L. Ballantyne, Mr. D. S. Bruce St. Lamberts), Mr. S. S. Bain, the Rev. Peter Mathieson, Mr. B. N. McCallum, Mr. J. W. McCallum, Mr. B. C. Logan, M.A.; Mr. Alex. Hyde (Quebec), and Mr. W. B. Hubbard, now of Glasgow, Scotland. Owing to the inadequate condition of the mission premises, the Boys' Club, organized by Mr. J. S. Jamieson, M.A., in 1908, had to secure outside premises, and are entering their own new commodious building this fall. For a similar reason the Girls Club had to do likewise.

At present the Sunday-school numbers 250, with a cradle roll of forty. The church members number one hundred and twenty-two, in addition to which there are many adherents. There are also a Chinese school with a membership of thirty; a Christian Endeavor Society, with seventy on the roll; a junior branch of the same society with a membership of eighty; a largely attended Band of Hope, a workers' prayer meeting on Saturday night to make preparation for the Sunday work, and a Dorcas Society. This latter organization, which is principally composed of teachers, some of whom were teaching the scholars thirty-two years ago, is a most important society in the district, as their work is chiefly that of serving for the poor.

The present minister, the Rev. William Merrilees, was born in Glasgow, Scotland. In his public school course he was dux and medallist in his final year. Mr. Merrilees took a prominent place in church work on the other side, being secretary to the Sunday-school and Dean's Court clerk in his church. He occupied a prominent place in the Good Templars and also the Loyal Order of Ancient Shepherds. Coming to Canada in 1907, he after a few months in business entered McGill University in 1908 and the Presbyterian College in 1909. He graduated from the latter this spring, winning the John Redpath scholarship, the Drysdale medal for church history, and other prizes.

The changing character of the district in which the Nazareth Street Mission is situated, the migration of the population westwards, together with the sale of the mission property, has made the erection of new premises necessary. Where the future site will be has not been determined yet, but it is possible that a new building may be erected in the growing working class district of Point St. Charles.

CARDINAL OBJECTED

Ordered Lady in Congregation to Cover Open-Work Waist.

Rome, Sept. 10.—The Cardinal Patriarch of Venice, acting on the Pope's orders, recently openly denounced the prevailing fashions in women's dress, especially tight skirts and transparent blouses, and threatened to expel from Church all immodestly dressed women.

Yesterday while the Patriarch was administering confirmation in St. Mark's, he noticed a fashionably dressed lady in the congregation wearing an open-work blouse. The Cardinal interrupted the service and sent a prelate to warn the lady that he would not continue unless she left the church. The lady indignantly expostulated, and pointed out that there were several paintings adorning the church representing scantily dressed angels and martyrs, but the prelate, not convinced by this argument, insisted that the lady should hide the transparency of her dress with a scarf. This, she unwillingly did, and the service was resumed.

CANADIAN NAVY

Senator Lavergne Wants Ships Built Here, and Also Repeats Allegiance to Reciprocity.

Winnipeg, Man., Sept. 10.—Speaking as a French-Canadian politician Senator Lavergne, here yesterday, on his return east from the forestry convention at Victoria, B.C., said that he and his companions would support a Canadian navy built in Canada, but at the disposal of the Empire when needed for Imperial defence. He prophesied that the Borden ship would be wrecked on the trade and naval issues, and said that within a few years the three Prairie Provinces would be lined up for reciprocity.

DOMINION EXHIBITION

Opened Under Happy Auguries at Ottawa Yesterday

('Witness' Staff Correspondence.)

Ottawa, Sept. 10.—Weather ideal, a day such as Ottawa has not seen for several months, and record breaking entries in all classes of exhibits, with every available foot of space in the many show buildings occupied, were the salient features of the initial day at the Dominion Exhibition here yesterday.

Although the exhibition dates from Sept. 5th to 16th, and no formal opening of the fair took place yesterday, the annual luncheon given by the directors, at which the Rt. Hon. R. L. Borden was the guest, really marked the official opening of the exhibition.

At an early hour yesterday morning one of the officials of the fair stated that there was no space left for more exhibits, and that they were obliged to refuse accommodation for many would-be exhibitors, some of whom were even turned away in the presence of the reporter. 'There are three hundred sheep running around the grounds, and we have no place to put them, but we are rushing up temporary sheds and hope to have them housed by night,' added the official.

In view of the fact that numerous large buildings have been erected on the grounds within the last two or three years, including the Howick Pavillion, Dairy building, Arts building, grand stands with exhibit apartments underneath, and the new Machinery building not yet quite completed, and since all this vast increase in exhibiting and demonstrating facilities has been afforded, the inadequate accommodation already so evident augurs well for the rapid growth and development of what has been formerly known as the Canada Central Exhibition, and this year, by virtue of the Government's grant of $50,000, is termed the 'Dominion Exhibition.'

The exhibits this year are highly representative of all parts of the Dominion. Live stock from points as far west as Winipeg, and from many parts of the Province of Quebec to the east are here, while all kinds of agricultural produce from ocean to ocean is in abundance.

The exhibit from British Columbia attracts particular attention, and well shows the possibilities of the fruit-growing industry, development of timber limits, and the mining of minerals in that 'Eden' province of the west.

The midway attractions fully measure up to all past features of their kind, and the forbidding of any vehicles whatever in this part of the grounds, or among the show buildings this year, insures the safety of the throngs of pedestrians moving about the grounds.

Although the typhoid fever epidemic in Ottawa is over, and very few new cases have developed in the last three weeks, the directors of the exhibition have taken an extra precaution to allay the fears of the visitors from outside by placing large bottles of pure spring water at convenient points all over the grounds for the free use of everybody. Another safeguard provided is the engagement of the Canadian Detective Bureau to spot pickpockets. This detective agency captured no less than seven last week at the Sherbrooke Exhibition before they had commenced operations, so that not one complaint was made at that fair regarding theft from the person.

A new feature of the exhibition was a booster parade held through the city streets last night under the direction of the civic publicity bureau. It proved to be one of the most spectacular processions ever held in Ottawa, including gaily decked vehicles carrying companies from special attractions at the fair, who set off fireworks as they proceeded along the streets; hundreds of automobiles, delivery waggons of Ottawa firms, many animals, such as elephants, Texas steers, broncos, a host of Indians, brass bands, etc.

If the splendid weather of yesterday prevails during the week, all indications point to this year's exhibition being a record one for Ottawa.

WILSON SCORES THE TARIFF

Declares that It Prevents Prosperity in the United States.

New York, Sept. 10.—Governor Wilson made two tariff speeches yesterday afternoon, one at the tariff exhibit and the other at an open air meeting in Union Square. At the tariff exhibit Governor Wilson said: 'We are preventing the prosperity of the United States, for you will observe that articles of American manufacture are sold much cheaper in other countries than we can buy them, which shows that America already is able to compete in foreign markets at the same time taxing ourselves.'

To his auditors in Union Square, Governor Wilson said:—

'I would hesitate to advocate radical reductions in our tariff schedule if I thought it would interfere with the prosperity of the average American, but I believe it will double and treble our prosperity.'

Governor Wilson declared that in the main protected industries paid less wages than unprotected industries.

He pointed to an advance of from 30 to 40 percent in the price of meat within the past ten years, while during the same period the price of meat in London had stood absolutely still.

REBEL THREATS

Will Destroy Railways That Carry Federal Troops, Says Leader.

Tucson, Ariz., September 9.—Emilio Camapa has served notice on the Southern Pacific officials at Tucson that he would destroy the railroad system in Western Mexico if the company persisted in hauling Federals. He began at once by burning a passenger train captured Sunday at Villa Kerde, on the branch line from Maco to Cananea, after allowing a coach of passengers to roll down hill into the Maco. He is now engaged in hitching an engine to the telegraph poles and pulling them down.

Marfa, Texas, September 10.—Ojinaga, Mexico, opposite Presido, Texas, is being attacked from two sides by 400 Mexican rebels. A party of United States officers left Marfa for the scene of the engagement early to-night. Marfa is fifty miles from the border.

VOTED $5,000.

BARGE SHIP'S NEW RUDDER

Interesting Operation in the Port Watched by Crowd Yesterday.

A big crowd watched Captain Castel, of the electric floating crane, ship a new rudder weighing seven and a half tons on the barge 'William Edwards' at the commissioners' wharf yesterday afternoon. The collier was damaged by striking the bank near the swing bridge at Lachine on Thursday last. The vessel had whistled for the opening of the bridge, but it was left closed until the captain, fearing that he would collide with it, sent his ship astern, and into the bank. For four hours he was fast there, entirely blocking the channel for the time. As a result his rudder was broken and unshipped.

After dry docking, the Hall Engineering Company repaired the damage and yesterday the injured barge was towed to the side of the crane to have the rudder replaced. The work began about 1.30 p.m., and in a little over two hours the ship was ready for sea again, the entire job being carried out without a single mishap.

DISCOVERED GERM.

Lincoln, Neb., Sept. 10.—Mr. H. H. White, state bacteriologist of the University of Nebraska, has discovered the germ which causes the mysterious disease that has been killing horses in Kansas and this state, according to a statement given out by Governor Aldrich yesterday.

CHINESE BRIGANDAGE.

Hong Kong, China, Sept. 10.—Robbery is rife in the southern provinces of China. A European, mistaken for the manager of a bank conveying money to Hong Kong, was attacked by armed Chinese in broad daylight yesterday on the main street of the Portuguese dependency of Macao. The governor of Macao has been appealed to by the inhabitants because of the inactivity of the police.

MAY HAVE CANAL FLEET

Small Towing Tugs May be Added to the Equipment of the Lachine Soon

A fleet of small tugs may be added to the equipment of the harbor for use in towing vessels through the canal, to take the place of the horses that are used for that purpose now. A 'Witness' reporter was informed this morning that plans for the new system were well under way, and that the horses would soon be released from their daily grind in the port. The tugs will be smaller than the majority of those now in the harbor and especially adapted for canal use.

For the change two reasons are given. The trade of the canal has grown to such proportions that the old method of handling schooners and barges is proving too slow; conditions demand some more speedy passage. Then too, it is thought that the new method will be cheaper than the one now in use as towing fees through the canal are heavy.

Special tugs are employed for towing in most of the large canals of the world, and their adoption here is but another evidence of the marvellous growth of the trade in the port of Montreal.

YUKON MONEY ORDERS.

Ottawa, Sept. 10.—The Finance Department has effected an important improvement in the conditions under which business is transacted between the Yukon and the other parts of Canada and the United States. By an arrangement dating back to January 1, 1905, the cost of money orders issued at post offices in the Yukon payable in Canada and the United States was double that charged elsewhere in Canada. The Post Office and Finance departments have recently been looking into the matter, and have re-arranged the agreement with the Bank of Commerce so that the business is done on the same basis as that which prevails in other parts of the country, no special remuneration being charged.

UPROAR IN COUNCIL OVER CONTROLLER AINEY'S CHARGE AGAINST SOME ALDERMEN

Accusation that They Were Causing Trouble Over Contracts in Order to Cast Discredit on Controllers Resented.

STREET RAILWAY DEMANDS THAT GRAND TRUNK TRACKS BE RAISED, AND THAT THE COMPANY BE GIVEN VITRE STREET, AND SUBWAY UNDER CANAL.

Paving contracts again were the stumbling blocks in the list of Controllers' reports at the meeting of the City Council yesterday, and after Controller Ainey directly made a charge that certain aldermen were causing trouble in these matters in order to cast discredit on the Controllers and provoked an uproar, confusion, and hot and hasty denials from Ald. L. A. Lapointe reports recommending the use of bitulithic material on Drummond, MacGregor, Cadieux, St. Urbain, Peel and St. Dominique streets. During the debate Mr. Rodolphe Brunet was a visitor.

The paving dispute was preceded by the reading of a letter from Mr. E. A. Robert, president of the Montreal Tramways Company, setting forth what was required in additional lines by the company to give an increased service commensurate with the gains in population. This letter took the aldermen by surprise, and Ald. Lariviere was the first to regain his poise, and he started right out to hit at the company. The matter was temporarily settled by sending the communication to the Street Railway Committee. 'It will cost a million dollars to give the company Vitre street alone as it asks, for that thoroughfare is too narrow for street cars, and would have to be widened?' said an alderman in talking about the letter after the meeting.

'I have been advocating the opening of Vitre street all the time,' said Ald. Ward. 'But let the committee deal with the matter.'

The writing of the letter was occasioned by a demand in writing made on the company by the aldermen to explain why it did not even reply to some of the resolutions passed by the city street railway committee for the presumed benefit of the service, as a foil to this communication, Mr. Robert sent this: 'In answer to your letter of the first of August, 1912, I would state that the conditions existing at present regarding transportation is that the trackage at the disposal of the company is practically the same as it has been for years, although the population has doubled and trebled, and some means must be devised to give the company more trackage if they are to be expected to handle the growing traffic.

The trackage between the Court House and Inspector street is wholly inadequate, and an additional street should be given the company, the only street that could apparently answer the purpose would be Vitre street, if opened and widened for double tracks between Place Viger and Inspector, or possibly to Windsor street. This would enable the company to relieve Craig and St. James streets by turning the north and south bound cars along Vitre. The traffic north and south is growing to such an extent that it is absolutely necessary to open two more double tracks streets to relieve Park avenue, St. Lawrence, St. Denis and Amherst. One street between Park avenue and St. Lawrence and one between St. Denis and Amherst streets would do this, and could satisfy the requirements for some time.

Guy street should be widened and properly graded so as to enable the company to establish another north and south artery to tap the back of the mountain. This could not be done as the street is at present, as the conditions as to grade, etc., are too dangerous to maintain an efficient service.

'The city should take steps to have a subway built under the canal, and the Grand Trunk tracks elevated so as to enable the company to give efficient service to the district south of the canal without the necessity of bringing the people by way of McGill street.

'Under present conditions a proper service cannot be given to this section, as delays at the canal and the Grand Trunk tracks make it impossible.

'The delays to the service during August at Wellington bridge were over thirty-two hours, and at the Grand Trunk crossing, St. Henri, about sixteen hours.

'I might point out that the recommendation made would also very materially benefit the general traffic of the city, especially the widening of Vitre street, the widening and grading of Guy street, the subway under the canal, and the elevation of the Grand Trunk tracks.

'As to the other streets required by the company to improve the service, the repeated demands of the company are already before the city, and have been put before it for a long time. We refer you to these demands.

'These suggestions, if carried out concurrently with such incidental improvements as may become necessary from time to time, would place the transportation problem in Montreal in a very satisfactory state for a considerable time, and should be undertaken at once.'

PAVING CONTRACTS MEET WITH OPPOSITION.

Following the disposal of this and other letters the council proceeded with the consideration of reports from the Board of Control. When the question of paving Drummond street with bitulithic material as recommended came up, Ald. Lariviere said bitulithic was no good, it was a failure in Boston, the Controllers should have accepted the material of another company which was also an asphaltic composition as bitulithic was, and that Ald. Giroux was of the same opinion. He, therefore, moved, seconded by Ald. Giroux to give the contract to the Warner Quinlan Company, which submitted bids to pave these streets with a composition of asphalt for seven to eight thousand dollars less. This material, he said, was just as good.

Ald. Mederic Martin also occupied much time in speaking against the report.

Ald. Macdonald asked if a letter in the press, saying that the city advertised for pavement by an asphaltic composition and ruled out all, but bitulithic was correct.

Controller Lachapelle said the advertisement was correct, it told the contractors to get the specifications from Mr. George Janin, city engineer, and these called for the use of bitulithic on certain streets.

'I have voted for bitulitic before,' said Ald. Giroux, 'but this does not say I am bound to endorse it.' He suspected the material in both cases is the same.

Aud. Menard wanted the acceptance of the lowest tender.

Ald. Boyd said that bitulithic gave good satisfaction in Westmount and unless some good reasons to the conrary were shown he would endorse the report.

Ald. Boyd.

Controller Lachapelle read from a book on roadmaking which recommended the use of bitulithic on hilly streets. It gave satisfaction in Boston. Bitulithic and the material of Warner Quinlan could not be the same, for bitulithic was patented, and the other was not. The patent protected the former composition. He said he reports the Controllers acted on the suggestion of the council of August 12 last, and were prepared to pave the street partly in bitulithic and partly in asphalt blocks. No deception whatever was practised in the advertising.

Ald. Ward said:--'Ald. Lariviere says that we are asked to vote for something that is no good, and almost in the same breath he asks us to adopt the the product of another company, which he says is of the same composition. We do not know anything about these asphalt blocks which he would use.

Ald. Ward.

Strong opposition to the reports of the Controllers was expressed by Ald. L. A. Lapointe who said that in Cleveland bitulithic was laid by the corporation on residential streets. He professed doubt as to what asphaltic composition and bitulithic were, and he proposed that the report on this material be sent back the Controllers with a request to ahev the city engineers test the two compositions, and tell the council the result. Ald. Lapointe also asked for a report on the streets already paved with bitulithic.

'Aldermen are hard to please,' said Controller Ainey, 'and they are not consistent. Other forms of patent paving material recommended by the Controllers in times past were rejected because the Council said it refused to make experiments. The Controllers were now submitting bitulithic alone. It is not an experiment, but aldermen turn round and blame us for not accepting the highest tender. This,' said he, 'looks as if the aldermen wanted to make the Controllers appear in an unfavorable aspect.'

Ald. L. A. Lapointe.

Several aldermen said 'No,' 'No,' and made a clamor.

'Controller Ainey cannot keep quiet,' said Ald. L. A. Lapointe. 'He is speaking to the gallery.'

'I am speaking for the public,' retorted Controller Ainey.

'Take another holiday,' advised an alderman; in tones sufficiently strong to be heard above the hubbub that was raised in the benches in the east end of the council chamber.

Controller Ainey resumed his speech with saying that when 'Mr. Rodolphe Brunet came before the Board of Control,' but he never got any further. 'Order,' shouted some alderman, and Mayor Lavallee ruled that the merits of the report must be discussed.

'I have the right freely to discuss this question,' replied Controller Ainey. 'I have the right to prove that an attempt is being made to prejudice public opinion.'

Controller Ainey said he opposed the lowest tender in this instance because it did not come up to the specifications. He was not moved by the interview of Mr. Rodolphe Brunet with him and his colleagues in favor of the cheaper material. Mr. Brunet was interested because he supplied asphalt to the lowest tenderers.

Controller Godfrey said that he was a resident of Drummond street and vitally interested in the material that would be laid on it, since he would be one of the proprietors who would pay for it. He received many letters and telephone messages from other proprietors asking for bitulithic.

The amendment of Alderman L. A. Lapointe sending this matter back to the Controllers, and asking for a report from the engineers on the chief merits of the materials in question was carried by the following vote:—

Ayes—Ald. L. A. Lapointe, N. Lapointe, O'Connell, Robinson, Prudhamme, Boyd, Garceau, Mayrand, Lariviere, Martin, Seguin, Giroux, Poissant, Blumenthal, Vandelac and Menard.—19.

Nays—Ald. Ward, Emard, Bastien, Deguire, Turcot, Drummond, Fraser, Stroud, McOonald and Judge.—10.

This disposed of the reports on the following streets.—Drummond, St. Urbain, Cadieux, MacGregor, Peel, and St. Dominique.

CHINESE PROTESTS.

A letter from the Christian Chinese Association was read: It said: 'We, the undersigned, deeply regretting the recent disgraceful occurrence in Chinatown so called, would hereby respectfully urge the proper authorities to take steps to prevent anw recurrence, first by the refusal of permission to any Chinese to carry a revolver, and more especially the disallowance in Chinatown of any form of gambling, as in our Canton Province, China, and this we earnestly beg as the truest friends of those concerned, for whom we also seek other means of moral uplift.

The Metal Polishers' Association protested against permitting the Montreal Tramways Company to reduce the number of car stops.

Alderman Blumenthal introduced his resolution asking the Controllers to put fire escapes on the City Hall. He also asked for an investigation of the conduct of individual members of the police force. He also asked that the general pay of policemen be advanced.

The following were named as members of a delegation to represent the city at the Annual Convention of the American Union of Municipalities at Detroit:—Ald. L. A. Lapointe, Ald. Boyd, and Ald Giroux.

Ald. L. A. Lapointe was elected to represent the city on the board of directors of the Canadian Autobus Company, which meets on September 13 to transfer formally stock to the city and transact other business.

MONGOLIAN REVOLUTION SERIOUS ; CHINA SEEKS RUSSIA'S HELP

London, Sept. 10.--A serious situation exists in Mongolia, according to a Pekin despatch to the 'Daily Mail.' Kobdo, in Western Mongolia, has fallen, and Altai is considered to be in great danger at the hands of revolutionists. The cabinet, at a secret meeting, has discussed the advisability of asking Russia to mediate between China and the Mongolians, who are said to be prepared to fight China to a finish if an attempt is made to establish Chinese rule in Mongolia.

Chinese reports, according to a despatch from Pekin to the 'Times,' say that the governor of Ili in the Province of Sinkiang, which borders on Mongolia, has been warned by the Russian consul that if Chinese troops were despatched to Kobdo to suppress the Mongolian rising Russian assistance would be given to the Mongolians.

ELOQUENCE AND PATRIOTISM AT BANQUET TO PREMIER

Ottawa, Ont., Sept. 10.--Rarely has a public man received such a spontaneous welcome as that tendered to the Right Hon. Mr. Borden, Prime Minister of Canada, by his fellow citizens of the Capital last night at a monster banquet in the Chateau Laurier. Patriotism rose to a high pitch and the enthusiasm was unbounded. Five hundred guests crowded the main dining room and acclaimed the Premier, who was in splendid form and who made a speech which was eloquent in form and intensely patriotic.

Notable speeches were made and an Empire touch was added to the assembly by the presence of Sir George Reid, High Commissioner for Australia in London, who had paid a high tribute to Mr. and Mrs. Borden while in London.

On the left of the chairman sat the Hon. Geo. Foster, the Hon. Robert Rogers, the Hon. Frank Cochrane, the Hon. J. D. Hazen, the Hon. Martin Burrell, the Hon. L. P. Pelletier, J. Ellis, M.P., and the Hon. Dr. Roche.

The banquet concluded with the singing of the National Anthem.

AUSTRALIAN TRIBUTE.

The Right. Hon. Mr. Borden rose and mentioned that they had with them a distinguished statesman in the person of Sir George Reid, High Commissioner for Australia, and proposed the toast of Australia. He said they were delighted to see the increase of emigration to Australia and would say 'God speed to Australia.' He would give a Canadian welcome to the representative of the great Commonwealth of Australia. (Applause.)

Sir George Reid, in reply, said there was not a part of the Empire except London, where a greater demonstration of loyalty could be seen than in Ottawa. He stated that the Canadian ministers represented lately the Dominion in a manner which elicited the utmost admiration of the British democracy. Great as was the triumph of Mr. Borden there was a greater triumph, that of Mrs. Borden, who represented the women of Canada. He said that demonstration would live in his memory forever, and in conclusion would say a word for that grand Canadian who represents Canada in London and 'May he live forever.' (Loud laughter.)

A HOME FOR HISTORY.

Amidst a remarkable demonstration Sir George Reid concluded by saying, 'Long live Canada.'

Mr. Hamnet Hill, chairman, then rose and proposed the health of Premier Borden. He said that Mr. Borden left for England an untried statesman, but returned with a name which would be indelibly marked in Canadian history. The cheers which greeted him last night were those of his devoted followers from coast to coast. Mr. Hill stated that the sun had set upon national apathy and that the days of long sounding phrases and meagre action were past.

The toast to Mr. Borden was received with great enthusiasm and for several moments the chief could not be heard.

After referring to his reception Borden stated that none of the he had seen moved him so the land of his birth. (Loud plause.) He stated that the rank and file of the Liberal pa as devoted to the interests of and that they were all Britis common end. (Loud applause.)

WOULD NOT MAKE STATEMENT.

He would like to say that he been received by every franke courtesy by the ministers of the er Country. Questions had be cussed of great importance and not for him to make any sta other than that already comm ed. Full information had not yet received in its final form; he that it would soon be received, but believed that the people of Canada would prefer that it would first be determined and then announced afterwards. (Loud applause.) The very existence of the Empire depended on the security of the paths across the seas, and under modern conditions that task was a serious one, but the British people would be stimulated by that task and those who imagined that the Mother of Nations was dead were much mistaken. The people who inhabit those lands across the seas were of the same sturdy stock as of yore and would be as faithful to their trust to defend the Empire as their forefathers before them.

The Premier stated the influence of Canada would always be for the peace of the Empire and the world. One not very cheerful spectacle after the progress of Christianity was that in 1912 Christian nations should be devoting so much of their energies to preparation for war, but so long as these conditions were necessary for the security of the Empire he believed that the people of the British Isles and Empire would be prepared to do their duty. (Loud applause.)

The Hon. Mr. Pelletier praised the Premier on the skilful manner in which he had avoided danger. (Laughter.) He was proud of the manner in which the good old province of Quebec was the firsst to welcome him. The time was past when one had to be of a certain creed and nationality to be a great man in Canada. (Applause.)

He felt that Canada had been dreaming for years, and that the noble descendant of Sir John Macdonald was now leading the Conservative party. (Applause.)

Mr. Pelletier stated that while there was a great duty to the Empire, yet there was a more sacred duty to make all the provinces of this nation truly Canadian from the Pacific to the Atlantic. (Applause.) There was no problem greater to-day, yet the successor to Sir John Macdonald would see to it that Canada would be one. (Loud applause.)

Mr. Pelletier also addressed the assembly in French, and also said that the interests of the Empire were too great that the capable despatches should be controlled by companies, and that he hoped soon that a still greater reduction in cable rates would come, and if Canada wished it he would see that the greater reduction would come. (Applause.)

EXPLORERS BRING STORIES OF UNKNOWN ESKIMO TRIBES

Seattle, September 10. — Vilhjal-mar Stefanssen, after spending more than four years in Arctic exploration, returned to Seattle yesterday by steamer from Nome, Alaska, and told of his probable discovery of the descendants of the Scandinavian colonists of Greenland, whod when trade was resumed in the seventeenth century had disappeared. Staffanssen and his companion, Dr. R. M. Anderson, of Forest City Iowa, made a valuable zoological and ethnological collection, which is now on the steam whaler 'Belvedere.' During more than four years Stefanssen and Anderson were together only nine months, as they could cover more ground by separating.

Stefanssen and Anderson went to the Arctic in 1908 by way of Winnipeg, Edmonton and down the Mackenzie river to its mouth. They were bound for Coronation Gulf, a region mapped as uninhabitated and which they had been warned to avoid. Stefanssen spent the first winter at the mouth of Colville River, Alaska; the second at Cape Parry; the third or Coronation Gulf, and Victoria Land; the fourth at Cape Parry.

On leaving the Arctic, he made a leisurely journey alone with a dog team from Cape Parry to Point Barrow, 1,000 miles, visiting all the Eskimo settlements along the coast. He left Parry March 22 and reached Point Barrow, June 13. The expedition made its headquarters for collecting at Bailey Island, a resort of whaling vessels east from the Mackenzie River. The feature of the collection, from a popular standpoint, are the skins, skulls and leg bones of ninteen barren ground grizzly bears ready for mounting. Only one barren ground grizzly is in any museum. It is supposed that bears of two species are in the collection.

Dr. Anderson found pottery farther east than ever before known, and also grass baskets. Of the so-called white Eskimos of Coronation Gulf, Stefanssen said: 'They were taller than the Greenland Eskimos, but not so tall as the Alaska Eskimos. They speak Eskimo, though I thought I detected some Norse words, and they lived in the typical Eskimo way. I visited thirteen groups of these people, who number probably 2,000 and saw 1,000 of them. Ten of these groups or tribes had never come into contact with whites, and not even a tradition of them. Two tribes had traditions of the Sir John Franklin expedition. An old man in one tribe had seen Richardson in 1848, and an old man in another tribe had seen Collinson in 1853.'

LAYMEN'S MISSIONARY MOVEMENT CAMPAIGN

Baptist Church Plan Will Come to Fruition Shortly.

Toronto, Sept. 10.—An extensive campaign in the interests of the laymen's missionary movement of the Baptist Church, covering the northern associations of the denomination, is being arranged by Mr. W. C. Senior, the secretary, with the object of introducing laymen's work into the country churches with the hope that it will gain the same hold as it has done among urban congregations.

At present the details of the campaign are in a very indefinite state, but Mr. Senior is working hard at the matter, and expects to have a programme ready within a few weeks. He is at present sending out letters to the various pastors and lead workers, outlining the proposed campaign, and inviting their co-operation in the work.

Preliminary meetings of the pastors and leading workers will probably be held before the campaign proper commences, with the object of discussing ways and means for conducting the movement in stated localities.

Mr. Senior, with an associate worker, plans to leave Toronto about October 1 for a tour of the northern associations, holding inspirational meetings in the various churches, and endeavoring to intensify the interest of laymen in missionary work and enterprise. The tour will last until Christmas.

WESTMOUNT WANTS JUDGE APPOINTED TO INVESTIGATE FIRE STATION DISCREPANCY

The upper level fire station at Westmount, according to the special committee appointed to investigate, cost $50,000, whereas the station was estimated to cost $25,000. At a meeting of the Westmount City Council last night the committee recommends that, in view of this large discrepancy, and the use of rumors which are afloat that plans were taken away during the inquisition, that the Lieutenant-Governor be petitioned to name a judge of the Superior Court to hold an investigation.

The committee found further, that the Fire Committee in acquiescing in or directing any additional work over and above that authorized, exceeded its authority; that the Fire Committee was misled by the city surveyor's monthly reports, and had nothing to indicate the excessive cost of the building; that the city surveyor should not have directed additions without authority from the Fire Committee and City Council; and lastly, that the building as directed is larger and has better accommodation than that originally designed.

The special committee reports that, after architects had prepared preliminary plans, and the estimated cost placed at $25,000, a request was made that the plans be amended, which was not approved by the Council. The city then undertook to build the station, plans and specifications being drawn up by Mr. H. D. Morrison. He estimated the cost at $26,000.

The report goes on to state: 'From the statements made by the parties examined, it is established that almost from the commencement of the work changes were made which added to the cost of construction, and whilst there is no record in the minutes of the Fire Committee authorizing the greater part of them, it is apparent that the members of that committee must have known they were going on.' These tenders amounted to $31,130.45, to which was added $2,387 for excavations. On January 9th the total cost of the building was shown to be $33,776.81, but in February, when the city surveyor was ill, his assistant in the monthly report named $42,362 as the cost. It was at this juncture that the Fire Committee reported to the Finance Committee, and requested the latter to take charge of the affair. Later reports of the city surveyor reported the cost at $44,381 in March, $55,661 in April.

'The cost as shown in the city ledger,' says the report, 'did not agree with the figures furnished by the city surveyor, and the committee had the city surveyor and city engineer go over the accounts together, with the result that the cost of the buildings as shown in the ledger is gross, $62,688.83, or, with certain deductions specified, $60,909.87.

The special committee, which was appointed on the 6th May of this year, consisted of Ald. John Hyde, Ald. W. K. Grafftey and Mayor Wm. Rutherford.

RAILWAY NEWS

In the Grand Trunk service the women are quite as active in all efforts towards self-improvement and mutual benefit as the employees themselves, and a fresh proof of this fact, were any needed, was given last week when the wives, mothers, and sisters of the men employed at the Battle Creek shops of the company held a meeting and organized what is to be known as the 'Woman's Auxiliary of Battle Creek Shops.' The object of this organization is to visit the sick and to render such assistance as may be acceptable. In a plant as large as this one there is always a certain proportion who are unfortunate and the ladies propose to help them in their difficulties. They will also procure flowers from members of the Horticultural Society and take them to those who are confined in the hospitals or in their homes. The society has the hearty support of all the employees who are greatly pleased with the movement, and are satisfied that many homes will be made brighter and more cheerful during the coming winter through the efforts of the 'Woman's Auxiliary.'

GOT 30 POUND MASKINONGE.

Among the many waters of Ontario Lake Couchiching on the line of the Grand Trunk is becoming quite noted for its big maskinonge, several of which have been caught this season. Last week a 30 pounder measuring 50 inches from head to tail was caught in this lake by two sportsmen after an exciting battle that lasted nearly a quarter of an hour. Two other lunge of almost equal size were also caught by a couple of other fishermen during the course of the week.

PRINCE RUPERT PIONEERS CELEBRATE.

Within the past two or three days early residents of Prince Rupert, the Grand Trunk Pacific's young but rapidly developing terminus, numbering about one hundred people foregathered at an 'Old Timers' banquet held in that city. Major Geo. W. Gibson presided over the assembly and the principal speaker was Bishop Duvernet, who in an interesting address reviewed the progress of Prince Rupert upward from the day of small beginnings.

EDMONTON MEN ENJOYED OUTING.

Mr. W. P. Hinton, General Passenger Agent of the Grand Trunk Pacific at Winnipeg, is in receipt of a communication from the secretary of the Edmonton Board of Trade, which body took their annual outing over the line of the G. T. P. a short time ago. They were away seven days, and thought the train service very satisfactory.

C. P. R. MEN PAY POLL TAX.

The C.P.R. car shop district at Calgary is proving a very lucrative source of revenue for the city license department, which has the work of collecting the poll taxes. Although the men working in the district received the poll tax notices with bad grace some time ago, they have surrendered to the inevitable after giving the matter saner consideration. The license inspector has now received a cheque for over $2,800 from the contractors who have the construction of the car shops in hand, the money having been deducted from their pay cheques. The men had each to pay $8.

TELEPHONED BIG DISTANCE.

C. W. McGonigle, of Seattle, has been conducting long distance telephone tests from Calgary on a line courteously loaned for the purpose by the Canadian Pacific Railway, using the line between Calgary and Vancouver, which is a distance of 644 miles. The tests were an unqualified success. Not only were the users of the two instruments able to hear each other distinctly, but the clicking of the instruments were entirely eliminated. The tests were conducted over a single wire with a grounded circuit, which adds to the success of the experiment.

DREAM OF LETHBRIDGE.

Despatches from Lethbridge state that inside of two years Lethbridge will be on one of the main through lines of the C.P.R. between Winnipeg and the coast, a line which will at least be co-ordinate with the present main line via Calgary. Through trains to the coast over the Crow's Nest line have been the dream of the people of Lethbridge for the past ten years, but it will only be by the linking up of the southern British Columbia branches that this will be accomplished. The company is now working on several branch lines in that part of their territory, and it is stated that both passenger and freight traffic will be passing from Winnipeg to the coast over the southern route before 1915. The Lethbridge-Weyburn line of the C.P.R. will play an important part in this programme for a second through line, and it is expected that this will be completed next year.

CONNECTING FREIGHT YARDS.

Finishing touches have been put to the concrete retaining wall the C.P.R. is building along Front street, from Bathurst to Spading avenue, at Toronto, to enable the railway to run a track up from the lake front lines into the new freight yards being built on the old Government House property.

FREIGHT TO GRAND FORKS.

According to the announcement of H. A. Dibblee, locating engineer of the Canadian Pacific Railway, the Canadian Pacific Railway has arranged a new freight route from Kingsgate to Grand Forks by traffic agreements with connecting roads and extensions of its own lines which will ensure an all-water grade route between these points.

TICKET AGENTS MEET.

After visiting Niagara Falls and the Canadian National Exhibition at Toronto, the members of the International Association of Ticket Agents have arrived at the Royal Muskoka Hotel, Muskoka Lake, over the lines of the Grand Trunk, for its 17th annual convention, which lasts three days. To-morrow the party, which numbers nearly 200, proceeds to Kingston over the G. T. R., and there embarks on a trip through the Thousand Islands, afterwards visiting Montreal on Thursday, via the R. & O., by which line they will also make the famous Saguenay trip.

TO SET ASIDE 'BUS BY-LAW

Westmount Resident Serves Petition on City to Prevent Establishment of Autobus Co.

At the request of Mr. William G. Shepherd, a resident of Westmount, and also a taxpayer and elector of Montreal, a petition was served yesterday on the city of Montreal and the Canadian Autobus Company, Limited, the purpose of which is to have the courts set aside the by-law adopted by the City Council on June 24th concerning the establishment, maintenance and operation of autobus lines in Montreal.

Mr. Shepherd also asks that the resolution of the City Council adopted on 14th August last and approving of a contract with the Canadian Autobus Company, Limited, and granting to the latter company an exclusive franchise for ten years, be declared null and void.

The petitioner claims that the city council had no power to grant a monopoly to the Canadian Autobus Company, Limited, for the next ten years. He further sets forth that the city of Montreal has no right to become a shareholder in the company and to appoint three members on its board of directors.

The contract signed by the city and the company provides that all differences shall be submitted to the decision of the Quebec Public Utilities Commission. The petition alleges that the commission has no jurisdiction over autobus lines nor over a company incorporated by a federal charter.

Another reason why the contract should be set aside Mr. Shepherd claims is a clause in the contract provides free passes for the mayor, commissioners and aldermen. Such a provision he alleged, is a violation of the city charter.

Mr. Shepherd further claims that the directors of the said Canadian Autobus Company, Limited, signed this contract, which practically gives stock to the extent of $600,000 free to the city of Montreal, without having a resolution of the shareholders of the company to authorize it.

According to the city charter, a delay of at least ten days must be given to the city of Montreal before the petition can be heard before the court. The petition is fixed for presentation to the Superior Court on September 23rd.

SCOUTS TO RESCUE.

Goderich Boys, After Struggle, Bring Drowning Child Ashore.

Goderich, Ont., Sept. 10.—While bathing in the river at the C. P. R. abutments yesterday, Willie Thompson, the seven-year-old son of William Thompson, nearly met his death. He started out in seven feet of water to cross to the other side. Finding it too far, he turned back. He became exhausted and sank.

He was noticed by Bruce Noble and Bob Clark, two Boy Scouts, who went after him. Noble was pulled under by the struggling boy, but managed to free himself and caught him from behind. With Clark's assistance, he was pulled ashore.

'KNOCKING DOWN' FARES ON RACE SPECIALS.

Toronto, Sept. 10.—Judge Winchester to-day made his first convictions under a new law, when he imposed fines of $100 and costs, or six months' imprisonment on J. J. MacDonald, Lorne Palmer, John Williams and William Wylie, former Grand Trunk conductors, who pleaded guilty to 'knocking down' fares on race specials. The charges were not of theft, but of a breach of the Secret Commissions Act, which makes it illegal for employees to receive money for neglecting their duty to their employers.

Frederic M. Davenport, of Oneida, N. Y., formerly State Senator, received the nomination for Lieutenant Governor. The above pictures show the Bull Moose candidate for Vice President, Hiram W. Johnson, Governor of California, addressing the Convention; Oscar Straus in the midst of enthusiastic delegates, and Frederick Davenport making an address.

GENERAL.

WHO IS THE AUTHOR?

A Subscriber, Ottawa, would like to know who wrote the verses, 'The Value of a Smile.' Each verse ends with the line:

'It's worth a million dollars, and it doesn't cost a cent.'

POPULATION OF SOUTH AMERICA.

A Manitoba Reader.—Could you give approximately the population of South America? I notice a returned missionary gives the population of Brazil alone as about 20,000,000. Ans.—The population of South America is estimated at in round numbers 35,000,000.

DR. CHINIQUY.

Eastern Townships—Would you kindly tell one of what religious denomination was the late Dr. Chiniquy after he left the Church of Rome; I have been told he formed a new sect or religion, and as some of my neighbors believe this, I would like to know if they are right. Ans.—Dr. Chiniquy became an ordained minister of the Presbyterian Church. He founded no new sect.

MUSIC OF 'LITTLE BROWN CHURCH.'

A Subscriber, who is eighty years old, kindly writes from Haydenville, Mass., to say that the music of 'The Little Brown Church in the Vale,' asked for by E.G., is contained in the book, 'Song Echo, by H. S. Perkins, published in 1871 by J. L. Peters, 599 Broadway, New York. Words and music by Wm. S. Pitts.

HOSPITAL TRAINING.

RAIN CISTERN SMELLING

Health.—The water in my rain water cistern every summer during the hot weather gets to have a very strong and nasty smell. What is the cause, and what the cure? Ans.—If the cistern is built of wood, the smell may come from decay of the wood, or it may come from decaying organic matter in the rainwater itself. Just a trace of permanganate of potash or a little alum will help to overcome the disagreeable condition.

ANOTHER FLAG INCIDENT.

C.C.—Mrs. K is an American citizen, living for the time being in Canada. She celebrated the Fourth of July by hanging up the American flag in her sitting room. The following day, a number of ladies,—Canadian citizens—met in this room as guests of Mrs. K. Were these ladies justified in taking offence at the unfolded 'Stars and Stripes'? Ans.—It would have been more courteous on the part of Mrs. K., if she wished to leave her patriotic decoration up, to have coupled with it the Union Jack, when entertaining her Canadian guests, following the public custom of international compliment. But very likely Mrs. K. did not think of this, and it must be supposed that no hostess would deliberately arrange her rooms in a way that would be offensive to her invited guests. The most dignified course for the Canadian ladies would be to take no notice.

FLOWERS OF THE WILDWOOD.

Miss Mary Rodger is cordially thanked for sending three poems asked for, one of which is the following:

Oh! the flowers that grow in the wildwood,
Have since dropped their beautiful leaves,
And the many dear friends of my childhood,
Have slumbered for years in their graves.
But the bloom of the flowers, I remember,
Though the smiles I may never more see,
For the cold, chilly blasts of December
Have stolen my companions away.

Chorus—
Oh, the flowers that grow in the wildwood,
Have lost all their charm now for me,
For the cold, chilly blasts of December,
Have stolen my companions away.

Oh, the roses may bloom on the morrow,
And many dear friends I have won,
But my heart can part but with sorrow
When I think of the ones that are gone.
'Tis no wonder that I'm broken-hearted
Nor stricken with sorrow should be,
For we have met, we have loved, we have parted,
My flowers, my companions, and me.

How dark looks the world, and how dreary,
When we part with the ones we have loved,
But there's rest for the faint and the weary,
And friends meet with loved ones above,
But in heaven I can but remember,
When from heart my proud soul shall be free,
Where no cold, chilly blasts of December,
Can steal my companions from me.

MOUNTED POLICE.

B.M., Manitoba.—To whom would I write to obtain a position in the Mounted Police? Ans.—Write to the Comptroller, Royal North-West Mounted Police, Ottawa, or to the Commissioner, Royal Northwest Mounted Police, Regina, Sask.

THE LORD'S COMING.

The following poem is re-printed at the request of Mrs. S. J. Clare, Thomasburg, Ont. The copy at hand has the following note attached: 'Mr. Moody closed one of his meetings in Montreal, in which he had deeply touched his audience by a wonderfully affecting portrayal of the Saviour's triumph over pain, sorrow, and death, culminating in His coming, by reciting Miss Porter's beautiful poem, "Coming." ' The lines are as follows:

It may be in the evening,
When the work of the day is done,
And you have time to sit in the twilight
And watch the sinking sun,
While the long bright day dies slowly
Over the sea,
And the hour grows quiet and holy
With the thoughts of Me;
When you hear the village children
Passing along the street,
Among those thronging footsteps
May come the sound of My feet;
Therefore I tell you, Watch
By the light of the evening star,
When the room is getting dusky
As the clouds afar;
Let the door be on the latch
In your home,
For it may be through the gloaming
I will come.

'It may be when the midnight
Is heavy upon the land,
And the black waves lying dumily
Along the sand;
When the moonless night draws close,
And the lights are out in the house;
When the fires burn low and red,
And the watch is ticking loudly beside the bed;
Though you sleep, tired out, on your couch,
Still your heart must wake and watch
In the dark room,
For it may be that at midnight,
I will come.

'It may be at the cock crow,
When the night is dying slowly
In the sky,
And the sea looks calm and holy,
Waiting for the dawn
Of the golden sun,
Which draweth nigh;
When the mists are on the valley, shading
The rivers chill,
And My morning star is fading, fading
Over the hill;
Behold I say unto you, Watch;
Let the door be on the latch
In your home;
In the chill before the dawning
Between the night and the morning,
I may come.

'It may be in the morning,
When the sun is bright and strong,
When the dew is glittering sharply
Over the lawn;
When the waves are laughing loudly
Along the shore,
And the little birds are singing sweetly
About the door;
With the long day's work before you,
You rise up with the sun,
And the neighbors come in to talk a little
Of all that must be done:
But remember that I may be the next
To come in at the door,
To call you from your busy work,
For evermore;
As you work your heart must watch,
For the door is on the latch
In your room,
And it may be in the morning,
I will come.'

So I am watching quietly
Every day,
Whenever the sun shines brightly,
I rise and say,—
'Surely, it is the bright shining of His face,
Beyond the sea;
For I know He is coming shortly
To summon me.
And when a shadow falls across the window
Of my room,
Where I am working my appointed task,
I lift my head to watch the door, and ask
If He has come;
And the angel answers sweetly,
In my home,—
'Only a few more shadows
And He will come.'

THE PERVERSE HEN.

J.B., Burgoyne, Ont., has supplied the selection asked for by a Toronto reader:

Once with an honest Dutchman walking,
About his troubles he was talking—
The most of which seemed to arise
From friends' and wife's perversities,
When he took breath his pipe to fill,
I ventured to suggest that will
Was oft the cause of human ill;
That life was full of self-denials,
And every man had his own trials.
'"Tis not the will," he quick replied,
"But it's the "won't" by which I'm tried.
When people will, I'm always glad;
'Tis only when they won't, I'm mad!
Contrary folks, like mine old hen,
Who laid a dozen eggs, and then
Instead of sitting down to hatch,
Runs off into my garden patch!
I goes and catches her and brings her
And back into her nest I flings her;

But sit she won't for all I say,
She's up again and runs away.
Then I was made, as mad as fire,
But once again I thought I'd try her.
So after her I soon made chase,
And brings her back to the old place;
And then I snaps her a great deal,
And does my best to make her feel,
That she must do as she was bid,
But not a bit of it she did.
She was the most contrariest bird
Of which I ever saw or heard.
Before I'd turn my back again,
Was running off that wilful hen.
Thinks I, I'm now a "used up" man;
I must adopt another plan;
I'll fix her now, for if I don't,
My will is conquered by her won't!
So then I goes and gets some blocks,
And with them makes a little box;
And takes some straw, the very best,
And makes the nicest kind of nest;
Then in the nest the eggs I place,
And feel a smile upon my face.
As I thinks "Now, at last I've got her,
When in the little box I've sot her";
For to this little box I did
Consider I must have a lid.
So that she couldn't get away,
But in it, till she hatched, must stay,
And then again, once more I chase her,
And catch, and in the box I place her.
Again I snaps her on the head,
Until I fear she might be dead;
And then when I have made her sit down,
Immediately I clans the lid on.
And now, thinks I, I've got her fast,
She'll have to do her work at last.
No longer shall I stand the brunt
Of this old hen's confounded won't!
So I goes in and tells mine folks,
And then I takes my pipe and smokes,
And walks about and feels so good,
That "wouldn't" yields at length to "would."
And as so oft I'd snapped the hen,
I took some "schnapps" myself, and then
I thought I'd see how the old creature,
Was setting on where I had set her.
The lid, the box so nicely fits on,
I gently raised—dunder and blitzen.
(Give me more schnapps and fill the cup)
There she was sitting—Standing Up!'

HAY-PAUNCEFOTE TREATY.

J.W.—Please give a synopsis of the Hay-Pauncefote Treaty between Britain and the United States. What is the principle involved? Ans.—The Hay-Pauncefote Treaty was negotiated in 1901, (signed on Nov. 18, and ratified by the United States Senate on Dec. 16), Mr. John Hay, United States Secretary of State, conducting the negotiations on behalf of the United States, and Lord Pauncefote, British Minister to the United States, acting for Britain. The Treaty assures to the United States sole control of the canal, and sole right of maintaining its neutrality. The United States, on the other hand, engaged to adopt substantially the same rule governing the equal rights of all nations in the navigation of the Panama Canal as govern the navigation of the Suez Canal. In view of the fact that the United States was then seeking to secure from the States over which the proposed canal was to be constructed the absolute cession of the territory through which the canal would pass, the further provision was incorporated in the treaty that no change in the sovereignty of the territory traversed by the canal should alter the principle of neutrality and of equal rights of all nations to enjoy the benefits of the canal.

WRECK OF THE 'KENT.'

Inquirer.—Please give date of the wreck of the East India steamship 'Kent,' and the circumstances. Ans.—The 'Kent,' an East Indiaman of 1,350 tons, left the Downs on Feb. 19, 1825, bound for Bombay. In the Bay of Biscay on Feb. 28, it encountered a terrific storm, and next day took fire. The 'Cambria,' bound for Vera Cruz, providentially hove in sight, and nearly all were saved. The 'Kent' blew up on March 2.

CEDAR FENCE POSTS.

J.T.—Should cedar fence posts, which are to be used for wire fence, have the bark peeled off all the way down; or, should the bark be left on the part which is to be inserted in the ground? Ans.—It is better to have the bark on, if the posts are to be planted as they are. Some advocate peeling the bark off all the way, and dipping the lower part in creosote.

THE USE OF 'WE' IN THE SINGULAR.

Doubtful.—Please explain the correct use of 'we' by a single individual. Is it not the prerogative of the sovereign, and of an editor? May a president of a national society use it in speaking and writing, (as, for example, 'We called on the captain,' etc.), when speaking of only one person, and that person not delegated to represent the society? Ans.—The plural form 'we' and its possessive and objective are used instead of the corresponding singular forms; (a), by sovereigns. The usage is said to have been begun by King John of England; (b), by editors, and under some circumstances, by other writers, to maintain an impersonal character, and prevent the egotistic appearance of the repeated 'I.' The use of the plural 'we' in the instance you bring forward would be rather bombastic.

JOHNNIE COPE.

Miss Helen Grant, Strasburg; Miss Mary Rodger, Motherwell; and Mr. M. G. Cameron, Sherbrooke, N.S., have sent copies of poem on 'Johnnie Cope,' as asked for recently.

Cope sent a challenge frae Dunbar,
'Charlie meet me an ye daur,
And I'll learn you the art o' war,
If you'll meet wi' me in the morning.'

Chorus—
Hey, Johnnie Cope, are ye waukin yet?
Or are your drums a beating yet?
If ye were waukin I wad wait,
To gang to the coals in the morning.

When Charlie looked the letter upon,
He drew his sword the scabbard from;
'Come, follow me, my merry men,
And we'll meet Johnnie Cope in the morning.

'Now, Johnnie, be as good as your word,
Come, let us try baith fre and sword;
And dinna flee like a frighted bird,
That's chased frae its nest in the morning.'

When Johnnie Cope he heard of this
He thought it wadna be amiss:
To hae a horse in readiness
To flee awa' in the morning.

Fye, now Johnnie, get up and rin
The Highland bagpipes mak' a din;
It's best to sleep in a hale skin,
For 'twill be a' bludie morning.

When Johnnie Cope to Dunbar came,
They spiered at him, 'Where's a' your men?'
'The deil confound me gin I ken,
For I left them a' in the morning.'

Now, Johnnie, troth, ye were na blate
To come wi' the news o' your ain defeat,
And leave your men in such a strait
So early in the morning.

'In faith,' quoth Johnnie, 'I got such fleg
Wi' their claymores and filabegs;
If I face them deil break my legs,
So I wish you a' a good morning.'

PREFERENTIAL TARIFF.

J.E.—1. Do Canadians have to pay duty on goods purchased in England? 2. What is meant by the Preferential tariff? Ans.—1. Yes, on most goods; there are a few classes that come in free. 2. It means that Canada admits goods from Britain on a lower tariff—33 1-3 percent less—than that on goods from other countries.

LEGAL.

ONTARIO.

NOTE AGAINST ESTATE.

A Subscriber, Baltimore, Md.—I hold a promissory note drawn in the Province of Nova Scotia, payable Jan. 1, 1914. The maker of the note recently died. Can I compel the executor of his estate to recognize my claim? If not, what steps should be taken? Ans.—Yes. You should notify the executor promptly, by registered letter, stating your claim against the estate and enclosing an affidavit verifying same; and in your letter you should ask him to acknowledge receipt thereof, and of the affidavit—enclosing, of course, a stamped envelope for such acknowledgment.

WIDOW'S SHARE.

Inquirer, Ont.—1. Am a widow. My husband died intestate. Left farm, stock, some money in bank. We had no children. What is my share of each? 2. If it had all been money in bank, what share could I claim? 3. Can I claim the furniture and other household goods? 4. Does his clothing belong to me? He had some sisters and brothers who survive him. Ans.—1, 2, 3 and 4. Your share would be in respect of the estate as a whole. You are entitled in the first place to $1,000 out of your husband's real and personal property remaining after payment of the charges thereon, and the debts, funeral expenses and expenses of administration, including succession duty, if any, and to interest on such $1000 from the date of your husband's death, until payment at 4 percent per annum; and then to one-half of the residue of the estate.

INJURIOUSLY AFFECTED BY RAILWAY.

————, B.C.—I wish to know whether I am entitled to any remuneration for loss which I have sustained through the tracks having been laid by the ———— Railway, a sub-division line to the ———— Railway, upon a street upon which I own property in the municipality of ————. This municipality, through a by-law, have given the ———— Railway running rights over the street. The track which they are now laying is about one foot above the level of the road, and it will be impossible for ordinary vehicular traffic to get over it, except at street corners possibly. It is also too narrow on either side for rigs to turn. I bought my land before the by-law passed. Will the railway commission do anything for me? Can I come on the municipality? What is the legal definition for running rights of a railway? Ans.—We would require much more information respecting the facts in order to answer the foregoing questions at all satisfactorily, and such further information could hardly be furnished by letter. We must, therefore, suggest your consulting personally a local solicitor.

THE DEVASTATED SECTION OF GHANOS FOLLOWING EARTHQUAKE

These pictures show scenes in Thrace, European Turkey, near Constantinople, following the recent terrific earthquake there. As a result of this great catastrophe 3,000 persons were killed, 6,000 wounded and 90,000 left without homes. In the town of Ghanos alone 127 were killed, 202 wounded and 622 houses destroyed.

In the house, which is shown in the above pictures as it looked following the earthquake, seven were killed and many wounded.

So destructive was the earthquake that little remains to be seen now of most of the quaint and unique, as well as in many cases, historic, dwellings of this section. Friends of the sufferers, however, as well as others, were prompt in caring for those who were left homeless and penniless.

This is only one of many such catastrophes which have occurred in the last decade. Between earthquakes and floods during recent years so much damage has been done and so many lives lost that it would not be a surprise to many to see a similar occurrence at any time in their own towns and cities.

40 THOUSANDTH NO. OF 'TIMES'

First Published in 1788 the 'Thunderer' Now Makes a Celebration

London, Sept. 10.—'The Times,' first published under that name in 1788, prints its forty thousandth number to-day.

To emphasize the occasion that journal issued an extra forty-four page supplement, dealing with the history of the newspaper. This special number has the first article of a series entitled, 'The Story of Printing,' being an illustrated review of the art from the time of Gutenberg down to William Morris and the present day.

The 'Oxford University Press,' it points out, is the only press that can produce a list of all its publication for 327 years. The progress of modern printing is also dealt with. To color printing six articles are to be devoted, and a similar number has been written on the fascinating subject of copper plate printing and lithography, as well as an account of many private presses. There is a plendid reproduction of a page from the Kelmscott Chaucer.

A special section is devoted to the newspaper press, and 'The Times' naturally has the pride of place here. An absorbing story is told as to how there came into being 'The Times' of to-day, which is a separate story and divulges the mysteries of organization about which there has always been much public curiosity.

OUTREMONT BOY SCOUTS WON THE SIR EDWARD CLOUSTON CUP.

The competition by the Boy Scouts for the Sir Edward Clouston cup at O'Connell's bath on Saturday, under the auspices of the Life Saving Society, was won by a team from the Outremont branch of the Scouts, consisting of W. Cunningham, A. Koerner, W. Russell, W. Macdonald, and under Scoutmaster Scarefield. The methods of the competition consisted of two styles of relief and the throwing the life line, the winners scoring many points over the other teams. The best showing made in the competition for throwing the life line was by young Hopkins, from the St. George branch. He was one of three out of twenty-four to throw within two feet of the mark. The teams to finish after the Outremont boys were Westmount Second, Westmount Third, Lachine, St. George and Y. M. C. A. last.

U.E.L. CENTENARY MEMORIAL DAY

Williamstown Honors The Brave and The Goed of Days Gone By.

Williamstown, September 20.—In the concluding ceremonies connected with the celebration of the centenary of St. Andrew's Church, Williamstown, Rev. Donald Ross, D.D., Professor of Apologetics, at Queen's University, Kingston, preached an eloquent sermon from the text Psalms 115-12—"The Lord hath been mindful of us * * * He will bless us." Rev. J. A. Macdonald, of Toronto, also delivered an address.

On United Empire Loyalists Day, the proceedings opened with the decoration of the graves of those who are buried in the cemetery connected with the Church. A large concourse of members of the congregation and friends from a distance marched to the cemetery, where, in front of the grave of the first pastor, Rev. John Bethune, Mr. Donald Macmaster, K.C., D.C.L., member of the British Parliament for the Chertsey Division of Surrey, England, who was born and spent his early days in Williamstown, delivered an address. Members of his own family are buried in the cemetery.

Rev. Mr. Govan placed a beautiful floral wreath upon the grave of the Rev. John Bethune as a tribute of veneration and esteem from the members of the congregation.

After the benediction, the 59th Regt. Highland Pipe Band played "The Land o' the Leal."

The visiting speakers and a number of friends were entertained to luncheon by Mr. and Mrs. Farquhar Robertson, of Montreal, at their summer home, the White House, which was the original Manse, built by the Rev. John Bethune soon after he became pastor of the congregation in 1787. The visitors were greatly interested in the quaint old building, which must have been regarded as of very spacious dimensions in the early da. when it was occupied by the reverend pioneer. While it has been kept in a perfect state of repair and is to-day as comfortable and convenient in some respects as a modern residence, great care has been taken not to detract in the slightest degree from the antique interest of the original structure. As host and hostess, Mr. and Mrs. Robertson fully maintained the traditions of their delightful summer home for true Highland hospitality.

The afternoon programme was carried out at the Manor House, the residence of Col. D. M. Robertson, M.V.O., another quaint old structure erected a hundred years ago. The people assembled on the beautiful lawn and the speeches were delivered from the verandah at the side of the house. There was a large gathering. Col. Robertson acted as chairman, and extended a hearty welcome to the visitors.

PENNY A WORD CABLES COMING

Hon. Mr. Pelletier Will Not Rest Until He Brings Price Down.

(Canadian Associated Press.)

London, September 10.—Sir J. Henniker Heaton spoke to-day in the highest terms in praise of Hon. L. P. Pelletier for the determination with which he fought here for state-owned cables in order to break up the cable rings.

Mr. Pelletier, he said, has the active support of the Australian and New Zealand governments in his efforts. The British Government for some reason or other does not see its way to adopt the proposal, but instead has joined in making overtures to the companies, in consequence of whch the three penny deferred telegram rate has been agreed upon.

Mr. Pelletier pressed for more than that. He wanted threepence a word for ordinary messages and a shilling rate for urgent and code telegrams, and, added Sir Henniker, he will gain his point, too, very soon.

To show the absurdity of the so-called deferred messages, Sir Henniker pointed out that the carrying capacity of cables to America was 325,000,000 words per annum, and only 25,000,000 words were sent. It was true there was a great rush of messages during a few hours every day, but one of the sixteen lines to the United States and Canada should be placed at the disposal of the non-code or non-urgent senders. Delay should never exceed a few hours. If all the cables of the world were destroyed to-morrow they would be reconstructed at a third of the cost. We were paying for abandoned cables, superfluous cables, watered stock, and all the plundering and blundering past.

He believed that a fair settlement with the cable companies would come to the establishing of penny a word telegrams, with a minimum of twelve words for a shilling throughout the world.

BANK OF BRITISH NORTH AMERICA

The accompanying illustration shows the facade of a new building designed by Messrs. Barott, Blackader & Webster for the Bank of British North America, to take the place of the present building at 140-142 St. James street. To many old residents, the existing building furnishes a link with the past, and its removal will cause regret, for it is a good piece of architecture, and, though now overshadowed by loftier neighbors, was in its day, one of the notable features of the street. The work of demolition will commence at once, and the bank expects to be in its new home by the fall of 1913.

The designs for the facade on St. James street show a rusticated base 30 inches high with grilled windows. A superimposed Ionic colonnade is surmounted by a pediment, in the tympanum of which is set a group of nine figures, representing agriculture, commerce, labor, etc., with a central figure holding a shield with the coat of arms of the bank. A vaulted vestibule leads into the main banking hall, which occupies the entire ground floor, except for a series of small offices along the front of the building, which will be used for committee room, writing room, manager's room, etc. The central portion of this banking hall, to which light is admitted through a clere story supported on 20 Ionic columns, will be 30 feet high, and the clerical space behind these columns on the two sides and rear will be 18 feet high, and lighted by skylights and through the windows at the rear of the building. The stone to be used in the banking room is Hauteville marble.

The upper four floors, including a mezzanine, are to be devoted to the various executive offices and departments of the institution. Until the new building is ready for occupation, the Montreal branch will carry on business in the Trust & Loan building, 30 St. James street, and the general manager's staff will have temporary quarters in the 'Herald' building on Craig street.

Lives Lost and Extensive Damage to Fishing Vessels Off Labrador.

St. Johns, Nfld., Sept. 10. — Wireless messages from Labrador tell of the havoc wrought by a hurricane which swept that coast last week. The reports indicate extensive damage to fishing vessels and in villages along the coast. One schooner was driven on the rocks at Cut Throat and four of the crew drowned. The greater portion of the fishing fleet is on the way from the extreme north of Labrador, a section dotted with islands exposed to the fury of the storm. Tragic news is expected from that section.

PEACEFUL INVASION.

Austrian People Throw Fruit and Flowers as C. P. R. Cars Pass Through.

The inauguration of the C.P.R. observation car service on the Austrian state railways made a great 'hit' and aroused remarkable interest all along the route, according to Mr. J. M. Hinton, of the London office of the C.P.R., who was on the special train with the 300 invited guests, upon the occasion of the opening of the service.

He gave this picturesque description of the first trip: 'As the train steamed into the station, the local band would be playing "God Save the King." The burgomaster or mayor and local dignitaries would offer an address to Mr. G. McL. Brown, the C. P. R. European manager. Village beauties in the picturesque costumes of their district, stood in front of the observation cars throwing fruit and flowers at the passengers. The village choir would beguile the time by their charming folk-songs. We were fortunate in having sunny weather during the whole of our trip. There was a profusion of laughter, gaily decorated crowds all along the route, and the beautiful mountain passes of the Austrian Alps will never be forgotten by those who had the good fortune to be present.'
