Five Homes Are Set Afire As Demonstrations Flare Up At Doukh Headquarters

More Trouble Expected Over Week-End — Jailed Radicals Stage Hunger Strike.

By JOE MacSWEEN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Krestova, B.C. — (CP) — Five homes were set afire early today in this headquarters of the Doukhobor Sons of Freedom.

It was the first of demonstrations expected this week-end in protest against the arrest of 148 men and women Wednesday for refusing to send their children to school and parading before them nude.

Earlier it was reported by a non-Doukhobor source that the recalcitrant sons "have gained 1000 recruits" since the arrests.

Commenting on the tense situation in the interior Kootenay Doukhobor country, the official said numerous meetings of the Sect are scheduled this week-end. He said the sect members hope to receive inspiration directly from God as to their next move in a battle with the provincial government over their children's attending school.

It is often after such meetings that the Doukhobors set out on fire raids, dynamitings and nude parades.

"A whisper in the ear of a man who is emotionally upset can have strange consequences," said the official, who once had his own "shack" burned by the people he was trying to help. "Hoping to receive a message from God, a man may be prompted by a rascal instead," he added.

Meanwhile, at Okalla prison farm near Vancouver, the 148 prisoners entered the third day of a hunger strike which they say will end with a "message from God."

They refused to eat supper Friday night. A prison official said, however, that the very old were taking a little soup "to keep them going."

The fast began when the Sons of Freedom were arrested at their tent village near Perry Siding in the interior after they staged a nude parade outside a school. They were taken to Okalla aboard a special train and charged with contributing to juvenile delinquency.

Many of those arrested had left good jobs to join the protest parade.

A manager of a Nelson, B.C., firm said: "Last week I had an efficient attractive girl working in my office. Few even guessed she was a Doukhobor. But the other day she walked into my office and said she was leaving. Today she's wearing a shawl."

The exact number of Freedomites in the province is not known but has been estimated at between 1,500 and 2,500 of the total Doukhobor population of 10,000. Officials said at times of crisis the Freedomites invariably gain strength.

An indication that authorities expect more arrests was seen Friday in an order to enlarge the facilities for the care of arrested Freedomite children at New Denver, north of here. Current 104 children are at a converted sanatarium there, being looked after by welfare workers and Doukhobor women while their parents are in jail.

Ernst Reuter Says Russia Is Wavering

By RELMAR MORIN

Berlin — (AP) — Ernst Reuter, mayor of West Berlin, says Soviet policy is wavering and he believes the powder-keg problem of a divided Germany will be settled without war.

"The day must come," Reuter said Friday in an interview, "when they (the Russians) realize they can't digest East Germany."

He said he couldn't gauge when that day will be, "but they are thinking it over now."

Reuter said he is convinced "the Soviets do not want a war, and can't afford one." The problem now may very well be for the West to find some face-saving solution for the Kremlin, he added.

The mayor is in a unique position to observe and analyze Soviet moves.

His city government stands as an island in a sea of Soviet-occupied territory. He has daily contacts with persons coming in from East Germany. Moreover, he has been a life-long student of Russia and the policies and methods of her rulers.

Reuter said that, since the death of Stalin and the June 17 uprisings in East Germany, "I am feeling much better" about the outlook here.

His line of reasoning is this:

1. The determination of the East Germans to be reunited with the West in unimpaired after eight years of Russian occupation. He believes that fewer than 10 per cent are true Communists, however many may be paying lip service to the Russians.

2. West Berlin is an impressive showcase for western economic methods. For the East Berliner, it is a bitter contrast to his own rom situation. This fact, plus nearly 4,000,000 food parcels given by the West, is steadily building pressure against the Reds.

3. The June 17 revolt was a direct result of such pressure.

4. Therefore, "the hope that they (the Russians) can use East Germany as a political platform for the conquest of all Germany is finished."

Reuter said the present western policies, if continued on a stronger basis, will bring success eventually.

He is opposed to any form of direct action:

"It is not our task to organize direct resistance. We need not send over agents and foment trouble. That is stupid and childish.

"We must go on helping the people there. They know that the food comes from the West. And so the difficulties of the Communist position in East Germany are increasing all the time."

Nobody could forecast, from day to day, how the Soviets might act, "but their policy is wavering."

Earthquakes Traced To Unstable Area

London— (Reuters) —The explanation for the wave of earthquakes that have swept an arc of destruction through the eastern Mediterranean lies in the geological development of the area millions of years ago.

When the mountains in this area thrust up from the seabed, weaknesses and geological faults were left underneath. Thus, while the inhabitants now live surrounded by blue sea and bright sunshine, they are constantly threatened with the possibility of a sudden shattering earth movement.

Thursday 40 persons were killed in Cyprus by a brief but violent series of tremors. Last month ten times that many died in the ruins of the Ionian isles off the coast of Greece. Still earlier this summer a series of death-dealing quakes killed hundreds in Turkey.

The eastern bight of the Mediterranean is what geologists call an "unstable area."

A geologist of the department of scientific and industrial research in London Friday traced history back over millions of years to explain what is happening.

"The mainland and islands near Greece are parts of a land mass which is of relatively recent formation," he said.

When he spoke of "relatively recent," he explained, he was talking in terms of geological time, not centuries but millions of years.

"Greece and the nearby islands were pushed into their present shape gradually over a period, say, 30,000,000 to 40,000,000 years.

This period of formation began only about 50,000,000 years ago."

This same period saw the formation of the Alps, the mountains of Turkey, the Himalays of India and the Rockies and Andes in North and South America.

"It was one of the greatest phases of mountain building in the earth's history. As each great mass was squashed up into the air it left underneath numerous faults and weaknesses which take a very long time to correct themselves in what we know as earthquakes.

"There is always the liability in these areas for something to slip beneath the surface. Year by year, century by century, tension builds up until suddenly one day something gives beneath the enormous strain."

Municipal Financing Is Difficult

Montreal —(CP)— Canadian towns and cities are finding it harder than ever to balance their books.

A report issued Friday by the Canadian Federation of Mayors and Municipalities said municipal costs are going up all the time, and revenue sources aren't flexible enough to meet the increases.

The report, which deals with municipal and inter-government finance, will be discussed by the Canadian and United States mayors at the International Municipal Congress in Montreal next week.

Crux of the problem, the report said, is that not only do materials and labor cost more, but new urban and suburban communities call for additional service.

New building has provided Canadian towns and cities with a higher revenue in property taxes, but not enough to fill the gap, and the towns' and cities' tax sources are not as flexible or sensitive as those of the provincial or federal governments.

"This lends force and argument to the recurrent demands of municipal representatives for an early examination by the federal and provincial governments of the very real financial problems that municipalities are facing," the report said.

"The main tax source of the municipalities does not respond to economic influences as quickly or in the same magnitude as do other

Dominion's Growth Cited To Lawyers

Quebec—(CP)—Canada's growth as a country which may make its own decisions was emphasized in separate speeches at the annual banquet of the Canadian Bar Association Friday night.

Lord Simonds, high chancellor or Great Britain, said no one could question that Canada was entitled to abolish appeals to the Judicial Committee of the Privy Council which he heads.

Prime Minister St. Laurent said Commonwealth countries are not prepared to give up their right to their own separate decisions in world affairs.

The statements came on the next-to-closing day of the CBA's 35th annual convention attended by 800 lawyers from all parts of Canada.

Today, the delegates will vote on a variety of resolutions which were prepared by committees earlier this week.

Speaking of the abolition of appeals to the Privy Council, Lord Simonds expressed regret they were abolished because until 1949 the appeals had provided Canadian and British lawyers wide opportunity to form friendships.

However, he said: "No one will question you were well entitled to your choice and no one will question the wisdom of your choice."

Speaking of the independence of Commonwealth countries, Mr. St. Laurent said these nations believe that any country, large or small, has a right to order its affairs in its own way, as long as it does not menace the freedom of its neighbors.

These ideals, which were based on understanding and co-operation, could be extended to the world with advantage to all nations, he said.

He added:

"We will not have stable and enduring peace in the world until we can achieve among all nations something of the mutual respect and understanding we are striving to maintain within the Commonwealth."

Lord Simonds, who received an honorary membership in the CBA from Mr. St. Laurent, the association's honorary life president, urged lawyers to "ensure the supremacy of law over arbitrary power."

Governor-General Massey, who attended, also was made an honorary member of the association.

Lord Simonds said it was up to lawyers to solve the "eternal problem of the reconciliation of freedom with authority and of liberty with order."

People have to put up with some restraint to their freedom, but there should not be unquestioned obedience to laws.

"That is the spirit of slaves," he said. "That is not the spirit of England and Canada."

Indians At Quebec

Jack Bowes Is On Mound For Sherbrooke Tonight

By ARNOLD BARON

On the willowy left arm of "Major" Jack Bowes rests a great deal of Sherbrooke Indians' hopes of returning to Municipal Stadium Monday night at least in a tie with Quebec Braves in their current playoff series.

Braves and Indians play at Quebec tonight and again Sunday afternoon prior to returning here for the fifth game of the "A" series best-of-seven semi-final for the right to meet the winner of Granby-Thetford for the Brouillette Trophy. Sherbrooke and Quebec are tied 1-1 in games following the first two playoff encounters in Sherbrooke.

Bowes will take to the hill at Quebec tonight and Windy Hall will be his backstop. If Quebec throws a righthanded hurler against the Indians, lefthanded hitter Dennis Luby will be in the lineup to play third base. Otherwise the lineup for Sherbrooke will be the same as in the first two playoffs. Al Pollard at first, Clell Hobson second, Bob O'Donnell shortstop, Jerry Del Gaudio at third, Jack Waters left field, Jack Castro centre field and Bob Diers in right.

Bowes, who is the all-time Sherbrooke strikeout king with 170 batters mowed down at the plate to his credit, won 17 and lost only three this season.

During the season the colorful southpaw has very rarely come up with a bad game, even in defeat, and most of his efforts have been superlative. His 17-3 record for this season puts him only one victory off the .857 all-time local pitching percentage, amassed by Lou Shapiro, who won 18 and lost three in 1950.

Who will pitch the Sunday afternoon game at Quebec? A great deal depends on the result in the Capital tonight. If Sherbrooke loses this evening, Manager Pinky May will come back with righthander John Cerbo Sunday afternoon.

Cerbo pitched a four-hitter in the opener here Wednesday evening when the locals defeated Braves 2-1, with two runs in the last of the ninth, after Braves had broken a scoreless tie in their own half of the final frame.

But if Indians win tonight, Manager May could come back with Danny Osinski Sunday afternoon or Bill Dailey. Osinski (18-7) was off Thursday evening and lasted only two and one-third innings against the heavy-hitting Quebecers. Dailey (6-1) worked one inning in relief, yielding one run. Indians lost the second 7-3.

Another problem that concerns both Quebec and Sherbrooke is whether or not the crack Quebec righthander John Ambrose will be available for further duty in the series. Ambrose blanked Sherbrooke for eight full innings Wednesday in the opener and yielded only two hits.

However, during the eighth, he snapped off a curve ball too sharply and pulled a back and shoulder muscle. Although he completed the frame, Ray Lague worked the ninth and Indians had more success with him. The locals got three hits and two runs—all that were necessary to win the ball game—off the reliever.

The rest of the Sherbrooke pitching staff is as follows: Len Nayman (10-5), Jerry Underwood (8-7) and Clyde Thomas (9-8). Nayman and Underwood worked in relief in the second playoff game and Thomas, who is a good hitter, has appeared mainly in relief roles this season and has helped in the outfield.

Sherbrooke and Quebec finished the season in a 9-9 deadlock and are now tied in the semi-finals. Manager May will have the locals shooting for two straight in Quebec or at least a tie prior to the fifth tilt here Monday evening.

Bob Diers, Indians' hard-hitting and fast right fielder, is going to be on television Monday evening.

Diers, who hit 26 home runs this year and batted in 107 runs, won the Player of Distinction trophy as the most valuable man in the Provincial League. This automatically makes him the local Player of Distinction too.

A ceremony is being arranged by the Calvert Company prior to Monday night's game at Municipal Stadium to present the silverware to Diers and televise this too. Part of the ball game may also be televised.

Hurricane Is Losing Force

Miami, Fla. — (AP) — The season's fourth hurricane weakened in force today as it spun 120 miles northeast of Bermuda into the Atlantic.

Named Dolly for the fourth letter of the alphabet, the hurricane was centred near latitude 33.3 north, longitude 63.3 west at 6 a.m. EDT, today.

It apparently was continuing to swing away from the U.S. mainland.

The weather bureau said Dolly has weakened considerably and highest winds are now estimated at hurricane force — 75 miles an hour — in squalls just east of the centre. Gales extend outward 175 miles in the eastern semicircle.

Movement toward the northeast at a slightly accelerated speed is expected for the next 12 hours. Some further decrease in intensity is likely but the area of the gales may spread slightly.

The storm developed near Turks Island at the eastern end of the Bahamas chain Wednesday morning. It veered northward to bypass land and missed the Florida coast by 500 miles or more as it whirled northward.

Poles Charge Kidnapping

Panmunjom. —(AP)— The Polish member of a four-country commission policing the Korean truce charged today that a Polish interpreter who fled to Freedom was kidnapped by American army officers and demanded his immediate return.

Jan Hajdukiewicz, a 28-year-old civilian interpreter, broke from a truce inspection team at a South Korean air base Wednesday and was given political asylum by United States officers.

The army won't say where Hajdukiewicz is now. There has been speculation that he was flown either to Tokyo or Oikinawa.

Maj.-Gen. M. Wagrowski, senior Polish officer in Korea, Saturday read a letter of protest at a meeting of the armistice supervisory commission.

The letter charged that Hajdukiewicz was kidnapped by U. S. officers and demanded his immediate return.

The letter was addressed to Gen. Mark W. Clark, UN commander, and was not submitted to the commission.

The commission took no action

Defence Budget Likely To Be About $2,000,000,000

By DAVE McINTOSH
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Ottawa — (CP) — Next year's defence budget is expected to call for about the same amount of money as this year's—around $2,000,000,000 informed sources said Friday.

This was the general outlook given by Prime Minister St. Laurent during the summer election compaign, and officials said there is no evidence to contradict that view now.

Pressure will probably be put on the cabinet to cut defence spending. Some other members of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization are talking along those lines. But any reduction in Canada probably would mean only a infinitesimal saving to the individual taxpayer.

Defence planners now are figuring out how appropriations should be divided, but the matter still hasn't been discussed by the cabinet, which makes the final decision on how much will be spent.

If there is no reduction next year, or only a relatively small one-say around $100,000,000 — there might be a substantial cut the following year. That is, provided the world situation doesn't get any worse. Officials said they can't make commitments that far in the future.

The government may try for at least a small reduction next year in view of the repeated opposition criticism during the election campaign of "waste and extravagance" in the defence department.

There are a few factors which would indicate a cut in defence spending. But there are more which point to no reductions.

Stockpiling of goods, such as uniforms and bedding, is nearly finished. An increased flow of ammunition and other hard goods is expected but stockpiling of these items is geared to immediately-foreseeable needs.

Defence construction is over the hump, indicating a smaller outlay for such things as factories and airfields.

However, these are the factors which indicate no reduction:

New aircraft, particularly the CF-100 allweather jet fighter, must be turned out on a big scale for home defence. NATO commitments have stripped Canada of her Sabre jet squadrons. The RCAF, key to Canadian defence, this year is getting 41.7 per cent of the defence budget. This percentage or the amount itself are unlikely to be lowered.

The navy shipbuilding program is behind schedule. Canda is charged with the anti-submarine role in NATO and must turn out more destroyers escorts and new equipment for them. The navy also will have to buy jet planes for the new carrier Bonaventure.

With its NATO and Korean commitments, the army will have to be kept supplied with plenty of equipment for some time to come. There would probably be no immediate let-down even if a peaceful settlement is reached in Korea.

The three-year, $5,000,000,000 rearmament program was launched in 1951, but all its goals are not expected to be reached by target date. That is likely to keep up defence costs at least another year even if world tension eases.

Lucille Ball Was Never A Communist

Hollywood— (AP) —Lucille Ball, television's top comedienne, never was a communist, says the House of Representatives un-American activities committee, even though she registered to vote as one 17 years ago.

The wide-eyed star of the popular "I Love Lucy" show freely admitted to committee investigator William Wheeler that she registered March 19, 1936, to vote for the communist candidates "because grandpa wanted all of us to."

But she emphatically denied ever being a party member.

"There is no evidence that Miss Ball is or ever was a party member," Representative Donald L. Jackson (Rep. Calif.), committee member, told a press conference Friday night.

Jackson explained he called the conference so that rumors implicating Miss Ball, 42, with communism could be scotched.

The same time she registered, Jackson said, she signed a nominating petition for Emil Freed, communist party candidate for the 57th California assembly district. He said this also was at the request of her grandfather, Fred C. Hunt, now deceased, and who, the actress said, made the political decisions in the family.

The actress was quoted by Jackson as saying that in addition to herself, her mother, Mrs. Desiree Ball, and brother, Fred H. Ball, all registered to vote communist in 1936.

Miss Ball's registration lapsed years later, records showed, because she failed to vote in 1938.

Testimony of communist party members of the 1930s corroborated

Premier Duplessis Tells Of Cost Of Forest Fires

Quebec. —(CP)— Forest fires this summer have cost the Quebec government almost $2,200,000 in salaries and equipment for firefighters.

That, said Premier Duplessis at his regular press conference Friday, was in addition to millions lost in timber and working hours.

Legislation to deal severely with violators of forest protection laws will be introduced at the next session of the Legislature, scheduled for Nov. 18.

"It would seem," Mr. Duplessis said, "that a minority does not understand the imperious duty of protecting our forests.

"It will become necessary unfortunately, to render more severe our legislation in forest protection matters to prevent disastrous destruction caused by the negligence and unconcern of a few persons.

Mr. Duplessis said the cabinet voted $1,250,000 under a special warrant to meet the unforeseen expense of fighting the fires.

The 1953-54 budget had provided for $900,000 for fire-protection expenses. The Quebec government shares with private forest protection organizations the cost of fighting forest fires.

Mr. Duplessis also announced the first town in Ungava's iron ore development will be called Schefferville, after Most Rev. Lionel Scheffer, apostolic vicar of Labrador.

The mining centre will be given legal existence by order-in-council in the near future under an act of the Quebec legislature which gave the cabinet power to appoint a town council and mayor for five years.

The town site, near Knob lake, will be the chief centre of mining operations of the Iron Ore Company of Canada near the Ungava-Labrador boundary.

Mr. Duplessis also said the government will take steps to solve the financial difficulties of Ville Jacques Cartier by placing the Montreal suburb under tutorship of the Quebec municipal commission.

Rita Hayworth Rejects Offer

Las Vegas, Nev.—(AP)—Rita Hayworth Friday night turned down a $1,000,000 divorce settlement from Aly Khan for support of their 3½-year-old daughter Yasmin.

"Nothing will make me give up Yasmin's chance to live here in America among our precious freedoms and habits," the film star told The Associated Press.

Her lawyer said Prince Aly had attached two conditions to the $1,000,000 offer: (A) Yasmin was to

Drummondville Is Applying For Radio Station Licence

Ottawa—(CP)—The boom in Canadian television was reflected in an announcement Friday that the CBC board of governors will hear six new applications for privately-owned television stations at a board meeting in Winnipeg this month.

The new applicants in Kingston, Kitchener and Peterborough in Ontario, Charlottetown and Saskatoon seek to join nine other private broadcasters licensed by the government on the board's recommendation to broadcast in other parts of Canada.

Television has undergone a phenomenal growth in the last two years since the CBC and private operators have become interested.

Although the CBC's Montreal, Toronto and Ottawa stations are the only ones yet broadcasting, nine private stations and three more CBC-owned outlets will go on the air within the next year.

The latter three will serve Halifax, Winnipeg and Vancouver while private broadcasters will cover Sudbury, London, Hamilton and Windsor in Ontario, Quebec and Rimouski in Quebec, Sydney, N.S., Saint John, N.B. and Regina.

The agenda for the Winnipeg meeting Sept. 24 includes hearings on:

1. New applications for radio stations at Kingston and Brampton, Ont., and Drummondville, Montmagny and Trois-Rivieres, Que. Three applications for Radio stations at Chicoutimi, deferred from the last meeting, also will be heard.

2. A series of applications for share transfers and recapitalizations.

3. Applications for more power by radio stations CFOR Orillia, Ont., and CJAD Montreal and the Windsor, Ont., television station under construction by Western Ontario Broadcasting Company, Ltd.

Brookland Company Ltd., composed of Senator W. Rupert Davies and Roy Thomson and Associates, seeks the Kingston and Peterborough television licences. Both men have newspaper holdings and the company has interests in radio stations CKWS Kingston and CHEX Peterborough.

The Peterborough applications is the first to come before the board on the ultra high frequency broadcast band. It calls for a station on channel 22 powered by 18,300 watts video and 11,000 watts audio.

Island Broadcasting Company Ltd., operators of radio station CFCY and headed by Keith S. Rogers, applied for channel 13 in Charlottetown with a power of 57,000 watts video and 27,000 watts audio.

New radio station applicants included Daniel Chantal, Drummondville accountant, for a 250-watt station; Roger Boulanger of Radio Alleghanys, Inc., Montmagny, for a 250-watt station; and F. Rufiange, Trois-Rivieres businessman, and C. Touture, former broadcaster with stations CKCV Quebec and CHLN Trois-Rivieres, for a 1,000-watt station.

Station VOWR, St. John's, Nfld., seeks a power increase from 500 to 1,000 watts and a change in its spot on the dial to 800 from 700.

London—(CP)—The chairman of a British cement company, George Earle, suggested in a letter to a newspaper that businesses devote 10 per cent of their welfare expenditure to raising the salaries of clergymen of all denominations.

AT THE GRANADA

From the pained expression on Jack Carson's face, it appears that he is about to be affected by that well-known "mal de mer" in this comedy scene from "Dangerous When Wet," new technicolor musical coming to the Granada screen tomorrow. Esther Williams and Fernando Lamas are Carson's fellow passengers in the boat.

The First Prov. Junior W. I. Camp At Olson's Pond Was A Successful Event

Bury, Sept. 12. — The first annual provincial camp of the Junior Women's Institute came to a successful close on August 16, having been blessed by good weather.

The girls 22 in all from different parts of the province spent four days in tents at Olson's Pond, under the leadership of Miss Campbell, of Macdonald College, Junior Supervisor of J.W.I. work and cunsellor.

Miss Campbell was assisted by Miss Bruneau swimming instructress, Mrs. Secord, R.N., camp nurse; Miss Mansell, Librarian, of the McLennan Travelling Library, and Mrs. Bernhardt the local counsellor, Mrs. Tarrant for the J.W.I. Bury, group, with her assistant, Mrs. R. MacLeod.

Activities at the camp included singing, folk dancing, swimming and hiking.

A treasure hunt arranged by Mr. Tarrant and David Phelmann occupied one afternoon. It ended with the finding of the treasure, two cases of soft drinks under the falls on the brook, where the group then ate their supper.

Before leaving for home, they sang for Mr. Tarrant "For He Is A Jolly Good Fellow," for his efforts in the treasure hunt.

The highlights of the rally took place at the town hall on Saturday evening, when the girls gave demonstrations of their work, in group singing, dramatics and square dancing, posters and hand work were on display including knitting and shell work.

Refreshments were served by the Senior W.I. to the girls parents and friends.

Camp broke up on Sunday, and everyone agreed that it had been a most worth while project.

Local girls taking part were Serena MacLeod, Ann MacLeod, Betty Bennett, Faith Olson, Isabella Taillon, June Olson, Marilyn Bennett, Joan Gilbert, Hazel Sylvester and Eileen Locke.

The outsiders were, Shirley Sweetman and Janice LeGrand, Port Daniel; Joyce Talbot and Joyce Copping, Warden; Pauline Foers and Lois French, of Athelstan; Shirley Westover and Johanne Kid. of Stanbridge East; Betty Cousens and Dorothy Davis, of Bolton, and Beverly Roberts and Helen Cameron, of Rawdon.

Though this was the first provincial camp, the local counsellor, Mrs. Tarant had conducted a camp for her group last year. Aided by Mrs. McLeod she had her girls in camp this year on Tuesday and everything oragnized for the new comers on Thursday. While in camp Mrs. Shirley Clarke the shell work instructress, for the girls last winter treated the camp to ice cream.

The group and counsellors appreciated the outside help, which they received from Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Olson, of the use of camp and grounds also to Col. Bishop, for his help in erecting and establishing the camp.

Puzzle Fans Cool Off, And So Do Answers

Heat wave, cold wave. It made no difference this week. The crossword puzzle stumped you all.

Probably many of you mothers, who usually are among the most faithful contestants, were pretty busy getting the kiddies ready for school. Whatever it was, we had one of the lowest responses in weeks to the contest, with only 1,016 replies.

Many of you came close, as usual, but there was always a word to stump you and this puzzle was one of the trickiest in a long time.

So now the prize is worth $40 and we hope that you will have better luck this week.

"Hope springs eternal," as one of you commented this week.

So, apparently, does poetry, judging from this contribution:

"I can't write verses, and
"I can't sing a song.
"When I do this puzzle I always get it wrong.
"A button's always mutton,
"A net becomes a pet,
"But I'm going to keep on trying,
"And I'll win the darn thing yet."

Or, as an Asbestos reader said:

"This I think is my 10th try,
"So if I don't win I shall not cry."

Another contributor suggested that the 26 letters in the alphabet are not enough to solve these puzzles, and added caustically, "Who said the English language was easy."

And, we almost forgot, Mack has returned with still another poem and, still better, an explanation of why people write poems. Or is it an explanation? Anyway, Mack writes:

"Don't ask me why people burst into eccentric metre over contests, etc. I love to play with words anyway. I suppose that is why I like the contest and send you such epistles each week.

"The Record should have a column for would be local poets we have!) It is a thrill, worth the effort of anyone, to be able to get one's words printed, and who knows, in poetry or prose, what things may be hidden away that could be well worth while."

Postal Worker Off To Calgary For Convention

Evariste Marquis left by train yesterday noon for Calgary where he will represent Sherbrooke and district at the Fourth Grand National Post Office Employees' convention being held this year September 16-17-18.

Mr. Marquis, who is serving his second year as secretary of the local post office employees' association, has been employed by the Sherbrooke office since his discharge from the army following the Second World War.

The convention, which will bring post office employees from as far west as Vancouver and as far east as St. John's, Nfld. will be held at the Pallister Hotel. The talks are expected to be centered on new working hours and higher wages for Canadian postal employees.

At present they are working 44 hours in a six-day week. Employees are now demanding a 40-hour week, five days a week and a raise in addition. However, Mr. Marquis explained the basic reason for his trip is to try and bring the 1956 convention to Sherbrooke.

COMMENTS ON PUZZLE NO. 15

Analysis of more difficult clues:

ACROSS:

4. FLIT is best. To FLIT is to fly or move which certainly means moving. A FLAT would only mean moving to those who lived in one and not to "most people".
7. RUM is best because all RUM is tasted and hence flavour is important. GUM is not as good since flavour applies principally to chewing GUM which is but a small part of the GUM in the world.
8. POLES is best. It is not the LENGTH OF ROLES which makes them tricky, but the demands they make on an actor's technique. Long POLES can be tricky of course.
13. WORKS is best. The clue specifies "literature". Literature suggests written WORKS, many of which are long. Long WORDS are quite common in the English language in ALL its applications and you would hardly specify "literature."
19. SHELL is best. MOST foods have a recognizable SMELL so why specify "certain edible creatures". The careful phrase "certain edible creatures" should be interpreted as a pointer to SHELL.
20. FACTS is best. Many of the FACTS are certainly unpleasant. It is very debatable whether the average criminal's FACE is notably more unpleasant than that of the average ordinary citizen although we would like to think it is.
26. KIND is best. The clue says "describes" a man. KIND describes a man. KING defines one.
27. CALLS is best. The clue says "may" If he CALLS for her he MAY have such ideas. If he FALLS for her he MUST have them. There is no "may" about it.

DOWN.

1. DUSK is best. Since driving through DUST can be very trying, and makes the car filthy, "MIGHT bother SOME people a LITTLE" is certainly an understatement. DUSK fits the clue wording however.
3. TOURS is best. It is only when you are enjoying yourself that TOURS seem to pass quickly. HOURS can pass quickly whether you are enjoying yourself or not as for instance, working against time.
6. TOE is best. Certainly every golfer must have a TOE but every golfer has at some time or other found himself without a TEE and note the clue says "always".
15. DEFINE is best. "Occasionally difficult" simply means "usually easy". Everyone knows that the process of refining is seldom an easy or simple one. This rules out REFINE but would apply to DEFINE.
16. DECKS is best. DOCKS are often well removed from wild waters, and might even be of the "dry" variety.
17. WEDDING is best. It is when a period of stress is definitely over that a man may sigh with relief, as may well be the case after a WEDDING, at which many a man is very nervous. WEEDING may be finished for the time being, but is never really OVER since there will be more later and is, furthermore, often a simple task. WELDING is not favoured.
18. SLIT is best as it is a word usually applied to a cut in some sort of fabric or soft material; SLOT to an opening in metal or similar hard substance. Since you only have a knife to work with, SLIT is the more apt answer.

Livestock Parade, Exhibits, Harness Racing, On 2nd Day Of Danville Fair

Danville, Que. — The last E. T. summer fair, the Danville Union Agricultural Fair, went into its second day yesterday and Asbestos-Danville residents kept the attendance high as hundreds turned out at the grounds.

With most of all Danville's business establishments closed yesterday afternoon to give their employees the opportunity to visit the 77th exhibition, few people were to be seen around town.

Most of them, and the children in particular, could be found walking around looking over the rides and sideshows and most of all enjoying the beautiful sunshine which got this year's exhibition off to a good start.

To many of us a fair is regarded as just another means of entertainment. But for the men and women who toil the earth on a farm, the fair provides for them the opportunity to show their products and at the same time enter the goods in competition in an effort to win recognition.

The annual cattle parade which is highly rated by Townships agronomes was the highlight of the fair yesterday. Although the parade has been called "cattle parade" it features livestock in general, and a car and truck procession which showed the latest models in the automotive industry.

This year the parade was led by J. D. Stalker, second vice-president. He was followed by Mrs. E. H. Taylor, gaily dressed in her western uniform riding her Palomino horse. Next came a saddle horse belonging to George Young, followed by that of Mrs. D. Smith of Danville.

Following the parade, the pacers and trotters returned to the track for two heats of harness racing. A. Dion's entry of Blue Mountain Brooke copped the last race and main event of the program. Another full card of racing is being presented this afternoon.

Performing nightly before the grandstand is the 7th Congress of Hollywood Daredevils which has earned an international reputation for being the most daring and thrilling driving show ever to perform on Canadian tracks. Driving their new 53 Fords these young drivers put their stock cars through dangerous paces going over ramps, and looping and more, to give the fair patrons plenty of thrills and spills.

Making a return appearance at the fair this year is the Asbestos Harmony Band which will supply music on the grounds all day. Tonight is also the night of the annual dance, which is enthusiastically attended by young and old.

Another interesting place to visit is the main building where the best of the county's handicrafts are being exhibited. This building shows a great number of exhibits ,a few being, children's handicrafts, ladies' department, and the crop displays.

To sum things up a good time awaits all attending the Danville Fair.

Chief Ore Supply Area

At the present time, approximately 80 per cent of this country's high grade iron ore comes from the Lake Superior reserves. This ore contains about 51 per cent iron and requires little or no processing. The supply, however, is dwindling.

London—(CP)—A painting that was purchased for 30 shillings $4.20 some years ago has been sold for £1,375 here. It is an Italian rural scene painted by Filippo Palazzi in 1862.

Kirk Hallam, England— (CP) — Civil defence workers in this Derbyshire town used £2 worth of chemicals and a dustbin lid for a recent "atom bomb" exercise. They got a big bang and an orange flash, but wind spoiled the expected mushroom cloud.

ETERNAL VIGILANCE

A baffling as well as a disturbing circumstance of the postwar period is the extent to which people appear to have accepted the continuance of arbitrary measures which are in effect a denial of individual freedom. This seems to be true with respect to both governmental and non-governmental agencies and bodies which without public protest have been democratically armed with powers often sharply undemocratic in impact.

At governmental level the tendency can be seen in the wide powers given administrative boards. At organizational level, the apparent willingness of people to surrender their rights as individuals is conspicuous in labor union constitutions as well as in labor legislation and in a considerable field of agricultural activity.

That it is not a healthy develpoment was properly emphasized last week by the president of the Canadian Bar Association. Speaking at Boston, Mr. Andre Taschereau told the American Bar Association that administrative boards in Canada are to an increasing extent replacing our law courts in the making of important decisions against which there is no appeal to the courts. He charged that administrative rulings and labor board powers in the extent to which they exercise arbitrary power are "threats to the freedom of the individual."

One dangerous immediate effect of arbitrary measures of the nature cited by Mr. Taschereau is a dwindling respect for the law. Not satisfied with the estabilshed order of things, people increasingly are inclined to take matters into their own hands. As a result even such a formerly sacred right as private ownership is no longer respected and more and more frequently orders of our courts of justice such as injunctions are openly flouted by associations and individuals.

The only effective remedy for this growing disregard for the rights of the individuals lies in a sharper public awareness of the dangers involved. The freedoms we now enjoy were only secured after decades of conflict and struggle. They can only be retained by constant watchfulness and uncompromising public and individual protest.

WHICH WAY SHOULD NELSON FACE?

Some citizens of Montreal are arguing spiritedly about a statue and discussing a mystery. According to the Kingston Whig - Standard, the argument began when someone observed that the Nelson monument in Jacques Cartier Square was facing the wrong way.

The victor of Trafalgar should face the river, the argument ran, because all other Nelson monuments face the water, while on this one the admiral stands with his back to the St. Lawrence. The mystery angle was contributed by The Montreal Gazette, which intimated that at one time the statue did face the St. Lawrence. It seems that a Scot named John B. Duncan, who visited Montreal in 1826, wrote a book about his trip to North America, in which he said of the monument: "It stands at the top of a pretty street at right angles to the river. His Lordship looks towards the river . . . but it unfortunately happens that the principal street of the city passes behind him, and he has consequently turned his back upon it and all that it contains."

What happened? Did some citizen of Montreal, swayed by civic pride, decide that Nelson should no longer stand with his back turned to the fair metropolis? We do not know, but we hope that some one discovers and makes public the reason for the turnabout. That should be done, for we feel sure that the change was not due to the same reason that influenced the decision as to which way a famous Andean statue should face.

The devout people of Chile wanted a statue of the Saviour erected high in the Andes, and in due course a beautiful and impressive monument ment was erected in the great mountains. It faced toward Argentina, according to one account, and the good people of Chile were asked the reason for this. Chileans are said to be as noted for having sense of the humorous as for genuine devoutness; they intimated that the statue could face only one nation, and it faced the nation whose people were more in need of watching.

POINTING UP AN ISSUE

Christian Science Monitor: Almost 40 years ago a respected professor at the University of Illinois, discouraged by his inability to provide for his later years, took a daring step. He purchased out of his meager savings a peanut and popcorn wagon which had become a part of the scenery around the main gate. And he resigned his university post.

To his startled colleagues he revealed that he had learned the peanut wagon was more remunerative than his professorship, and had come to the conclusion, why not! Under his ownership the business boomed. The professor obviously enjoyed serving the students. And, obviously, they enjoyed it too. He must have reaped greater satisfaction from the effect his venture had on the Legislature, the board of trustees, and public opinion. Something was done about teachers' salaries.

But this is a cause that must be fought for every few years. And every now and then someone, consciously or unconsciously, dramatizes the issue.. Just the other day a New Jersey high-school teacher resigned his $85 a week job to take another at $137.50.

We doubt that he will reap as rich intangible rewards driving a brewery truck as presiding over his classes—among them the knowledge that he was performing a service to his fellow men well worth while. We doubt that he will have as much fun as the professor selling peanuts. But his action, too, points up a lesson more easily read than words.

NOT PLEADING FOR BERIA

Where are all those so-called liberals, some phony and some just deluded, who a few months ago were organizing committees and signing petitions to save the atom spies. Julius and Ethel Rosenberg, from their just deserts? Why aren't they doing something for Lavrenti Beria, who has also achieved world-wide celebrity as a criminal and a spy?

The Rosenbergs were executed June 19. Only 11 days later the world was informed of the arrest of Beria, one of the triumvirate upon whom the mantle of Stalin fell, on charges that he had conspired against the Soviet Union.

Here was a wonderful opportunity for the apparatus that tried unsuccessfully to secure clemency for the Rosenbergs to agitate in behalf of Beria. First, they could have organized a Give Lavrenti Beria a Fair Trial Committee to Secure Justice for Lavrenti Beria. Finally, after the trial and inevitable conviction, petitions could have been curculated by the Save Lavrenti Beria From the Firing Squad Committee.

Nothing has been heard from Beria since his arrest was announced two months ago. He may already have been shot, or he may be undergoing preparations for a public trial, complete with confession.

But don't expect any of our confused liberals to came to his defence. That would not make good Communist propaganda.

CAUSES OF A BAD CRASH

Philadelphia Bulletin

Last June 12 a Greyhound bus left the paving on the Pennsylvania Turnpike and hit two parked trucks. Five people were killed. The Interstate Commerce Commission's thorough investigation of the crash followed, and the results are now reported.

They are of unusual importance. The finding is that the trucks were legally parked, though with poor judgment. But the bus driver, who had a previous good record, dozed at the wheel. The machine had just negotiated a long gradual curve and did not adjust itself into a straightaway.

The driver was an "extra", who was notified only three hours before departure time that he would be needed. In consequence, although he was off duty, he had had his last sleep some 14 or 15 hours before taking the bus out. Several more hours elapsed before the accident.

MAINTAINING OLD CEMETERIES

(Toronto Globe and Mail)

The select Committee of the Legislature, set up to consider revision of the Cemeteries Act, is to hold a public hearing in Toronto on Monday, September 14. Its terms of reference include an inquiry into the creation, investment and supervision of trust funds for perpetual care of cemeteries; the methods of selling cemetery plots, and methods of selling cemeteries in the Province, so as to prevent neglect.

This inquiry has arisen out of charges made during the last session of the Legislature that certain persons were making immense sums of money out of the unscrupulous sale of cemetery plots, without putting aside the proper amount of money to endow the care of the cemetery. Amendments were made during the session to close loopholes in the Cemeteries Act, but the matter is now to be dealt with more thoroughly. This is not the first time that such charges have been made. It may be hoped that an adequate system will be set up, so as to preclude speculation in cemeteries at any time.

The existing law is fairly complete with regard to public health requirements. The organization, care and responsibility of various types of cemeteries, especially those operated under municipal auspices, are amply provided for. But there are numbers of burial places throughout rural Ontario, usually containing the graves of pioneer settlers, which have been allowed to fall into a sad state of neglect as a result of weather or, too often, vandalism. In many cases, the title to these old cemeteries is uncertain. Descendants who might have been expected to take an interest have often moved away, or are themselves dead. The dilapidated state of these premises makes a very bad impression, and it is time something was done to deal with the problem.

It was dealt with once before. Following a survey made by Dr. J. W. S. McCullough, then Chief Health Inspector for the Province, the Henry Government in 1931 amended the Cemeteries Act to provide for the setting up of County Cemetery Commissions. One member of these was to be appointed by the Lieutenant-Governor-in-Council, and the other two by the County Council. Its duties were supervisory, and it had the authority to order any municipality to maintain a cemetery in proper condition. The legislation was widely approved at the time, but the succeeding Government did not support it. The relevant sections were finally repealed by Premier Mitchell Hepburn in 1938, and no arrangements were provided to continue the supervising function.

It would be well if the Select Committee investigated this former legislation and gave it serious consideration. It might be that many old-time cemeteries could be decently abandoned and the land returned to productive use according to the provisions of the law. But public opinion is generally against interference with the last resting place of the dead. In such cases, it should also be willing to support a measure of landscaping and simple maintenance to express the community respect for its founders and forebears. Many small places in Ontario deserve great credit for the way they maintain their cemeteries. It is a pity that others are less interested. Some sort of supervising body would seem to be necessary. The cost would be relatively small.

Life's Unfinished Furrows

By Rev. B. S. Murray, M.A.

Often I delight to watch a man with an old-fashioned plough, pulled by a team of horses, working in the field. Here is work that requires skill, resourcefulness, concentration of muscle, mind and will towards a single purpose. Here, too, is a man who must be fit, forward looking with a positive definite goal at the end of the furrow.

I remember detecting one furrow—unfinished. To my query as to why, that loquacious ploughman enumerated such logical reasons that I found myself drawing a parallel with life's unfinished furrows due sometimes to our looking back becoming too easily discouraged unready to practice self-denial permitting the ensnaring influences of worldly connections to the extent that the Voice of Jesus becomes inarticulate.

Attack Your Furrow

September, with the reopening of schools and colleges and the resumption of the Church's autumn program, is an appropriate time for us to think without confusion clearly about our unfinished furrows.

Take education for example. You can, if you will, finish that either by regular or correspondence courses. What of those promises you made your father and mother years ago? Are you standing by them now? And your confirmation vows; are you daily endeavoring to live as Christ's faithful soldier and servant committed to serve Him till the end of the day? If you are married, what of those vows?

Do the beautiful dreams of your early years still haunt you? And what of your work—does it thrill or bore you? Are you just making a living or a life? "Whatsoever we sow that shall we reap" is writ in the structure of life. So attack your furrow with faith in yourself and preseverance in your heart and God will help you.

There's Moses

Into each life some rain falls. And, when dreams go unrealized, prays unanswered, purposes frustrated, hopes blasted, many are impatient, cynical, even disappointed. We should not be for God's purposes end well, for sooner or later the fullness of time comes for everything.

In such a mood, consider Moses. His dream was unfulfilled, his ideal unrealized, his goal unreached. He had failed of his port? Yes, but we know now that it was more important for the old Israelite to reach God-like character than to reach the land of promise.

Then there's John the Baptist. And St. Paul. And a host of others who are perplexed by God's providences. It is evident that God's thoughts are not always men's thoughts. Man proposes—God disposes.

Another Chance

With the Flight of Time, many of us become increasingly aware that our best work is married, imperfect, unfinished. Fortunately we are encouraged by the thought that, with God, motives and purposes govern and determine the reward. If the motive is right and pure, the most bitter disappointment will turn in the end to the most joyous surprise. And whilst we view human life apart a segment by itself, God views the completed circle as it meets in eternity.

This long-range view encourages us to keep on believing that although earth's dreams may not come true . . . our ambitions go unrealized . . . our goals not reached . . . our ports not sighted, yet there is another chance. Another life where we can complete the furrow in the green fields of Eden known as the Evergreen Land—the land that is fairer than day. This is "the hope of glory" to which the Church of God bids us envisage here and now.

Plough On !

Do you see why the man with the plough haunts me? And, as he ploughs straight furrows challenges me to think "straight" in matters secular and spiritual. Standing by, you will find the Church with Her means of grace and a generous "supply" if needed.

Followers of the Master then, must stretch every nerve as they press with vigor on, aware of the perseverance of the good and the indestructability of the ideal. God, the Creator, is at work in our day. He expects us, with a holy passion for His Cause, to co-operate with Him and go forward as victors, heroes, conquerors. Expert ploughmen.

You dare not ignore those challenging words—"No man, having put his hand to the plough, and looking back, is fit for the Kingdom of God" (Luke 9-62)—which the all-animating voice of Jesus utters. You have no alternative but to keep on ploughing your furrow. You may not see the end of that furrow, but you dare not look back. Eternity stretches on before, beckoning us forward with a continued challenge! So plough on! Plough on!

DON'T BE A PIG, IS GOOD BRIDGE TIP

Stockbrokers have an inelegant but very true maxim: Sometimes the bears win, sometimes the bulls win; but the hogs never win. The same thing is often true in bridge. If the opponents double you at a contract that you like, beware of a hoggish redouble. It may warn the opponents to find a contract that is more to their liking.

West thought he could make four hearts and wasn't afraid of a runout to four spades. He failed to take into consideration the possibility that South would blossom forth at the level of five in the previously unbid diamond suit.

It wasn't actually a very difficult decision for South to make. West could hardly redouble four hearts unless he was ready to do good business against four spades. Hence North could not have exceptionally great length in spades. The bidding made it clear that North was extremely short in hearts. Obviously North was bound to have fairly good support for diamonds.

As it happened, the support was good enough to let South make his game contract in diamonds. It was a cinch to ruff the opening heart lead, discard a club on the ace of spades, take the ace of clubs and crossruff. East could get his ace of diamonds and a club trick, but no more.

WORLD DAY FOR ANIMALS

Dear Sir:

Since 1928, an increasing number of churches and ministers have been endorsing and observing October 4th.—dedicated to St. Francis of Assisi—as The World Day of Animals. Its spiritual object is to inculcate the Spirit of Love in the hearts of our brethren who are indifferent and cruel—directly or indirectly—to God's creatures.

So, once again, all Sunday school superintendents and ministers are asked to conscientiously observe this Christian Ideal in an appropriate way in one of their services on September 27th., or October 4th., or 11th, by prayer, or a hymn, or a talk. The more we personally know Christ within us the deeper our understanding and Love are for all creatures, and more sensitive we are to the cruelty and suffering inflicted by mankind, also more conscious of our duties involved in their well-being, and of our responsibility of being our brothers' keepers!

Yours faithfully,
E. Clifford Pratt,
Toronto.

THE MATURE PARENT

BEWARE OF WHOLESALE AND CHRONIC SELF-REPROACH

By MURIEL LAWRENCE

When Penny began to toddle, her father placed a gate above the porch steps. By latching it, her mother could leave Penny on the porch when she was busy in the house.

One morning, just as she'd installed Penny and her favorite wooden spoon on the porch, the telephone rang. It was her sister calling to demand the immediate return of the sewing machine she had borrowed. So anxious was Penny's mother to explain why she hadn't returned it that she forgot she had not latched the porch gate.

Penny fell down the porch steps, badly cutting her forehead. When the doctor came, he had to give her mother sedatives as well as patch up Penny.

Though the cut has long since healed, her mother still bitterly reproaches herself for the slight scar it has left. She can't look at it without thinking, "That's what a bad mother did to her child."

Actually, this is not the fact at all. It is what overeagerness by Penny's mother to justify herself to her family did to Penny. But this fault is only a part of the total character of Penny's mother. She has many assets of character as well as this fault.

Unfortunately, she never remembers them when this fault produces trouble. Instead, she goes in for blind, wholesale condemnation of herself.

The dependence of Penny's mother on her family's approval keeps her tense and anxious much of the time. She is always on the alert for criticism of her husband and of her training of her child.

Rather than make the fight to outgrow her dependence and correct the fault responsible for Penny's accident, she avoids the struggle by wallowing in total condemnation of herself as a "bad" mother.

As we are not gods, we cannot control everything that happens to Mary and Jim. So when they get hurt, let's beware of chronic and excessive self-reproach. If their hurt is due to some specific fault in us, let's know it and do something about it.

But let's never go in for wholesale self-condemnation. It always implies that we want to avoid our problems by exaggerating our helplessness and "badness."

Self- condemnation is often used by dependent people who dare not admit their need for reassurance. By abusing ourselves as "bad" parents to others, we can get them to say, "Oh, no, you're wonderful. This wasn't your fault." Why do we need this comfort? Why do we so dislike ourselves that we must deny ourselves our own kindly judgment and mercy for the

SHORT STORY

My Mistake

By Richard H. Wilkinson

3-Minute Fiction

Mrs. Luther was very smug. "Of course, darling, I know how happy and thrilled you are at being married. Phil is a nice boy. Dear me, I remember when Alvin and I where first married. I was just the same." Mrs. Luther sighed. "The illusion of youth. Dear me."

Beth Franklin tried hard to maintain a role of gracious hostess. "Were your illusions shattered, Mrs. Luther?"

"Shattered?" Mrs. Luther laughed and suddenly looked wise. "Well, yes, I suppose they were. For I did have illusions about my husband, darling, just as you have about your Phil. And then—" Mrs. Luther's lips tightened— "he strayed."

"How dreadful."

"Not dreadful, darling—fortunate. Oh, my yes. You see, Dave, my husband, is not naturally a woman chaser. He was frightfully upset and shamed. He promised to do anything if I'd only not leave him. To this day Dave is repentant. He'll do anything I ask. He is humble and grateful, and I declare I think I have the best husband in the world."

"I suppose it was fortunate, wasn't it?"

Mrs. Luther leaned toward her young hostess. "So fortunate, my dear, that I wish others could benefit by the same experience. Your Phil is very handsome, and Gretchen Carter is very beautiful." She smiled, "Well, darling, I simply must be going."

Beth sat down at a window, cupped her chin in her hand and stared out at the rain. "Gretchen Carter is very beautiful." What had Mrs. Luther meant? Mrs. Luther was bitter and disillusioned. ther was bitter and disillusioned. Poor Dave Luther. How dreadful it must be to be constantly under suspicion.

Two weeks later the Hempton Country Club held its annual Spring opening ball. Phil and Beth went with the Craigs. En route, Dorothy Craig said mischievously; "Keep your eye on that handsome husband of yours tonight, Beth. They tell me Gretchen Carter has bought the most seductive gown . . ."

Beth laughed. She strove for and maintained an attitude of indifference. Even later when she saw Gretchen Carter, blonde and gorgeous in a white, filmly gown that was truly seductive, she would nat admit that what Mrs. Luther or Dorothy had said was affecting her peace of mind.

She danced the first dance with Phil and then conscious of Mrs. Luther watching her from across the room, conscious of Dorothy Craig's mischievous glance, she deliberately ignored her husband.

It was quite by accident that toward the middle of the evening she saw Phil slip through the French doors out on to the terrace. Or was it accident? Certainly it wasn't accident that sent her eyes sweeping around the room till they found Gretchen Carter.

And then her heart stood still. Gretchen was moving toward the same French doors.

The orchestra swung into a foxtrot. Beside her, Tom Craig said: "My dance, Beth?"

"No," she said. "No, Tom. I—I've got a headache . . . Excuse me, please." And she moved away, swiftly, blindly. Without consciously establishing a destination, she made her way out on to the terrace, stood there in the dim light.

Abruptly she saw them—two figures silhouetted against the sky at the far end of the terrace standing close together.

Reason left her. Logic fled. Seized by an uncontrolable fury, conscious only of one desire—the desire to wreak vengeance on this woman who had robbed her of her faith, she sped along the terrace, cried out in sudden anguish and flung herself toward the filmy white dress and startled face of Gretchen.

As from a great distance she heard a masculine exclamation, saw a face in the dim light—and suddenly it was as if an icy cloak had engulfed her and was holding her close. For the face of the man who had been standing with his arm about Gretchen Carter was that of Dave Luther.

Provincial legislation restricted municipalities to raising only sufficient revenue to meet current budget requirements.

"Substance" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon to be read in Christian Science churches this Sunday.

This Lesson-Sermon teaches that a material universe and corporeal man are but fleeting counterfeits of God's creation, which is spiritual, perfect and eternal — the only true and imperishable substance.

The Golden Text is from Psalms: "For ever, O Lord, thy word is settled in heaven. Thy faithfulness is unto all generations: thou hast established the earth, and it abideth."

Bible citations include the following from Matthew: "Lay not up for yourselves treasures upon earth, where moth and rust doth corrupt, and where thieves break through and steal: but lay up for yourselves treasures in heaven, where neither moth nor rust doth corrupt, and where thieves do not break through nor steal for where your treasure is, there will your heart be also."

Correlative passages from the denominational text book "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy include the following: "Material beliefs must be expelled to make room for spiritual understanding. We cannot serve both God and mammon at the same time; but is not this what frail mortals are trying to do? That which material sense calls intangible, is found to be substance. Christianity causes men to turn naturally from matter to Spirit, as the flower turns from darkness to light. The testimony of the corporeal senses cannot inform us what is real and what is delusive, but the revelations of Christian Science unlock the treasures of Truth."

Beebe Q.W.I. Entertained The A.C.W.W. Delegates During Their E. T. Tour

Beebe, Sept. 12. — Forty-seven delegates from the Associated Country Women of the World Conference, held recently in Toronto, Ont., were entertained for brunch by the Beebe branch of the Q.W.I. on Friday, August 28, at 11 p.m.

Manners MAKE FRIENDS

"You really have to know Herman to appreciate this story," Sadie says to a roomful of people—and then proceeds to tell the story even though Sadie is the only person in the room who knows Herman. No one is rude enough to say: "Well, we don't know Herman—so maybe you'd better skip the story," but that's how everyone feels.

Moral: If you know beforehand that a story is going to fall flat, don't apologize and then tell it—just don't tell it.

International Community School Opens At Stanstead College September 22nd

Derby Line, Sept. 1 . — The International Community School opens at Stanstead College on Tuesday evening, September 22, with Lieut. Col. George R. Stephens, O.B.E., of Montreal, as a special speaker. The subject of his talk will be "The Role of the Press in World Affairs."

The opening evening of the school will also feature the registration for the various classes, short get-acquainted sessions of the Interest Groups, and an opportunity to meet with the others who are joining the school.

Lieut. Col. Stephens is a veteran of both world wars, the author of twelve books plus many stories and articles, film and radio scripts, and a true world traveler. He is well known throughout Canada as an outstanding speaker, and the executive committee of the school feels greatly pleased to have been able to secure him as an opening speaker.

The regular sessions of the classes will start on the following Tuesday evening, September 29, and there will again be an opportunity to register for those who were unable to be present on the 22.

INTEREST GROUPS

The Interest Groups this year contain some of the favorite classes of past years plus some newer ones, together making up a group that should be of real appeal to a good many people in the Boundary district.

French Conversation will again be one of the featured courses, and will be divided into two groups; one for beginners under the direction of Miss Catherine MacKenzie, and the other for those more advanced with a leader to be announced. This has proved to be one of the most popular courses in the school, and is non-technical, fun, and practical.

A course in English conversation for French speaking people has been added to the list this year, and the leader will be Rev. E. C. Amaron, D.D. This course will operate under the same general plan as the course in French, and it is hoped that there will be a large number enrolling.

The ever-popular "World Affairs" class will have two leaders this fall, Rev. E. H. Nickerson, of Derby, and Rev. Peter Farrell, of Beebe. This is the group that meets and talks over the news of the week, with an opportunity to exchange opinions and gain new ideas.

Another course new to the school this year is titled "Local History." Under the direction of E. J. Struthers, the members will explore the past of many of the communities around the Border. The most fascinating history is often that of your own home town, and this course will deal with that very subject.

Another course in French will be on nutrition, with Miss Eliane Fortier as director. Miss Fortier has had a great real of experience in this field, and the course should prove especially interesting to those who speak French.

One of the most popular Interest Groups last year was "You and Your Home," and this course will be given again this year with continuations of some of last year's subjects, plus some new ones. Mrs. A. E. Arkin is acting as director, and is arranging for special speakers on various subjects.

HOBBIES and HANDICRAFTS

This group of classes meet on different evenings during the week, making it possible for members of the school to choose the Interest Group they wish and to add one or more of the hobby classes at no extra charge beyond that of material used.

Forrest Orr will lead a group on "Recognition of Trees and Woods," and this course will not only have pictures and movies, but will more than likely make tours of nearby woods to learn more about the various kinds of trees.

A course in "Plastic Arts" has been planned by Miss Elsie McIntosh, and will feature movies, demonstrations and exhibits of various types of handicraft work. Something different, and something that should appeal to a lot it. This is another new class that should prove to be quite popular.

There will be another class in stamp collecting this fall, and the group last year found a great deal of pleasure and enjoyment in meeting together. The leader will be announced later.

SPECIAL EVENTS

The standard of quality set by Lieut. Col. Stephens as the opening speaker will be continued throughout the school sessions in the Public Assembly sessions.

The speaker on September 29, will be Professor H. S. Babcock of the University of Vermont, speaking on World Affairs, a talk sponsored by the Vermont Council on World Affairs.

October 6 will feature Stanley Ballard of South Burlington, Vt., with a talk and a demonstration of pottery making. His work was recently featured in "Vermont Life."

October 12 will see a still different type of public assembly, with Colonel, R. S. Chhatari, head of Chancery, Office of the High Commissioner for Pakistan, as the speaker. Besides the talk there will be an exhibition of currency and products of Pakistan, and moving pictures of this new country.

One of the best-known photographers in the State of Vermont is Mack Derrick of Orleans, and he will give an illustrated talk about his recent trip across the United States on the evening of October 20. There will also be an exhibition of pictures by local photographers on this evening.

A special Hallow'een party featuring ghosts and goblins is being arranged for October 27, by Mrs. Rivet, Rev. Peter Farrell and Harold Taylor. Something different and something you will not want to miss.

November 10 will see square dancing under the leadership of Rev. Carl Nelson as the feature of the public assembly session.

Dr. F. Kenneth Hare, well known locally for his visits with the McGill University Geography Summer School, will be the speaker on November 17, and his subject will be "The Whys and Wherefores of Weather." Another speaker everyone will want to hear.

Closing night will be November 24, and there will be special events for this evening.

EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE

The executive committee of the International Community School is chosen from residents from several of the communities in and around the International Boundary. The members for 1953 are as follows:

Victor B. Griffiths, Rock Island, president; Miss Gertrude Ketcham, Stanstead, secretary; Miss Madeleine Poisson, Rock Island, treasurer; Miss Aline Ricard, Rock Island, registrar; Mrs. Leslie Colt, Rock Island, assistant registrar; Rev. 158-Pound Baby Landed On Opening Day Still Largest Catch Of International Tournament As Wary Tuna Stay Clear

Wedgeport, N. S. — (CP) — Wary tuna stayed clear of the hooks Friday in the second day of the 10th International Tuna Tournament that saw many of the world's best anglers try waters 20 miles at sea in a desperate attempt to break the jinx.

Already the 158-pounder landed on opening day Thursday has been dubbed the Mighty Mite because another day like Friday would see the Sharp Trophy presented to Argentina, whose team captain, Pablo Bardin, landed the fish in 16 minutes.

The baby bluefin, the only catch, was caught on Soldier's Rip, the mile-wide stretch of turbulence where anglers on 20 blue high prowed boats trolled and drifted their herring and mackerel baits without getting a strike.

The other 10 boats, one from each team, which Thursday fished in Lobster Bay at the mouth of the placid Tusket river, tried their luck near Mud Island, eight miles seaward from the Rip, which is 12 miles from this Acadian village.

It was the first time the waters were fished during a tournament.

The mysterious tuna left the Rip when a hurricane swept up the Atlantic seaboard Monday stampeding schools of herring and mackerel to cleaner offshore waters. The Rip was made murky by sand and mud churned up from the shoal's bottom.

Tuna feed on these fish, which guides claim leave the Rip to keep sand out of their gills.

Competing are the British Commonwealth, The Netherlands, Cuba, Mexico, the United States, Venezuela, Chile, France, Brazil, and Argentina. Cuba is the defending champion. The Commonwealth team has members from Canada, England, Bermuda and South Africa.

Unlike most other game fish, the tuna's life story is a mystery. Governments and interested sportsmen spend thousands of dollars annually on tuna research, but still don't know where they go after leaving Canada's east coast waters.

The centuries-old puzzle of the tuna's origin and migration goes back to the days of the Greeks. Pliny, who saw them cavorting in the Mediterranean, made a stab at their origin. So did Homer. But 20th century experts have proven they were wrong.

The popular theory is that they spawn in the Mediterranean and then swim down the coast of Africa, across to the Caribbean sea and northward along the Atlantic seaboard, where they now are gorging themselves on herring and mackerel off Nova Scotia.

OLD TEAMMATES—NEW RIVALS: Above are shown Merrill (Pinky) May, left, and George McQuinn, managers of the Sherbrooke Indians and Quebec Braves, now locked in a 1-1 tie in the best-of-seven in the series of the playoffs of the Provincial Baseball League.

May and McQuinn were teammates on the power-packed Newark Bears of the International League in 1937. McQuinn later starred for St. Louis Browns and New York Yankees while May was an all-star third baseman for Philadelphia Phillies. Their ball clubs hook up in Quebec City tonight and tomorrow afternoon and return to Sherbrooke for the fifth game of the series Monday evening.

Players Allowed To Manage Giants

Chicago—(AP)—Manager Leo Durocher of New York Giants had a "school for managers" in full swing Friday letting the second of four player "pilots" direct the club against Chicago Cubs.

The idea is to "shake up" the sagging Giants for 1954.

The student "manager"—making all decisions except pitching assignments and changes—was shortstop Alvin Dark, following third sacker Bill Rigney, who directed the Giants to an even break against St. Louis Cardinals Thursday and Wednesday.

Dark also will guide the Giants against the Cubs Saturday. Catcher Wes Westrum will pilot the Giants in two games in Milwaukee. First sacker Whitey Lockman will be in charge of the final two games of the Giant tour at Cincinnati.

Durocher will take hold of the reins when the Giants, now fifth, 32 games behind the Dodgers, return to New York.

Durocher said the idea had the full blessing of Horace Stoneham, Giant owner.

Alouettes Drub Hamilton 17-0.

Montreal — (CP) — Montreal Alouettes humbled the league-leading Hamilton Tiger-Cats 17-0 in a Big Four football fixture Friday night.

The Alouettes showed a smart passing and ground attack while the Tiger-Cats were inept and poorly led.

This was the first defeat for the high-flying Tiger-Cats in league play this season. It also maintained the record for home teams. No team has yet been beaten in the Big Four in its own park this season.

Rochester Wins 18th Straight

Rochester Red Wings have already been crowned 1953 International League champions and their pilot, Harry (The Hat) Walker, named manager of the year but they apparently are determined to show that their climb from third to first place was no fluke.

Friday night, the Wings ran their winning streak to 18 straight —an all-time Rochester record—as they stopped Baltimore Orioles 9-2 and 3-0. The previous longest Rochester win-streak was 14 games, established in 1901.

The club's double triumph over the fourth-place Orioles expanded its lead over the idle second-place Montreal Royals to 7½ games.

Buffalo Bisons, in third position, defeated Ottawa Athletics 6-2 in 10 innings and seriously threaten to overtake the Royals for the second-best playoff berth. The Herd is only a game behind the Royals.

INDIANS FACE CRUCIAL TEST THIS WEEK-END

Pinky May and his Indians move down to the old Capital City today in what will be the test of the season for them. At present their semi-final series is knotted at one game each with the next two being played at Quebec this evening and tomorrow and the locals face a tough task in tangling with the Braves in their own backyard.

The Indians must win one of their next two games, which are being played in Quebec, or otherwise they will be facing elimination here Monday evening in the fifth game of the series. Manager Pinky May will send his ace southpaw, Jack "Major" Bowes, to the mound this evening in an effort to cop the important one, while tomorrow's starter is still in doubt.

In the first playoff tilt here Wednesday evening the Indians played like real champs but on Thursday night they were completely baffled by Al Dumouchelle who coasted to an easy victory. The Braves' chunky hurler had the locals eating out of his hand and only towards the end of the game did he get into any trouble but he managed to survive the test and emerged the winner.

In the first tilt it was a pitcher's duel the whole way and things didn't look any too rosy for the locals but Lady Luck dealt them in on things when Ambrose pulled a tendon in his throwing arm and Ray Lague was called upon to take over. The locals got to him in quick order and staged a ninth-inning rally to nip the game in close fashion.

On Thursday it was just the reverse and Braves took over right from the start as they had no trouble with Danny Osinski's offerings and built up a good lead but the Indians managed to threaten. We think that perhaps the youngsters were a little nervous Thursday as some of them were taking part in their first playoff and that was the big reason.

We look to May's squad to give the Braves a real battle this weekend and we won't be surprised if they come up with some good ball, which they are capable of doing. One thing certain is that the kids will be in their fighting until the last gun and that is something.

The Quebec team is a packed squad with plenty of experience compared to the locals but when it comes to fighting spirit we think that our Indians have plenty. So fans, don't count the Indians out yet as we are looking for a long series and so does George McQuinn, manager of the Braves.

The Gilette Safety Razor Company has just released a very interesting book entitled "Gilette World Series Record Book". It gives all the information on World Series games and at the same time diagrams of all big-league parks and a world of other information.

It is a very nice thing for baseball fans and we understand that it will be on the market very shortly. So fans, watch for the release as we are sure that all ball fans will want one.

St. Joseph Yankees and St. Pat's Indians are staging a real battle for honors in the Sherbrooke-Lennoxville Minor Baseball League playoffs. The series is now stalemated at two games each.

In the last tilt Wednesday the teams finished in a 5-5 tie after a very close game. The Indians copped the first and third tilts while the Yankees walked off with the second and fourth. So it couldn't be much closer than that. Next Tuesday the teams will meet again in an effort to try and determine the squad which will cop the Dr. Dupuis Memorial trophy, emblematic of the league championship.

It seems that it was only a few days ago that we were talking about hockey and playoffs but now the sale of season tickets has opened, and tomorrow Roger Roberge, Gilles Dube, Nils Tremblay and Tod Campeau will leave Montreal for the training camp at Sault Ste. Marie. So fans, that is a good indication that our summer is over.

Dick Nutter is in charge of the tickets and has a nice office up at the Arena and his phone number is 3-3445. So now is the time to think about making your reservations for the coming season. Last year reserve seat holders have until the end of the month to put in their bid, so don't wait too long.

We believe that congratulations are due to Bob Diers, the Indians' right-fielder, for winning the Lord Calvert trophy as being voted the League's most-valuable-player during the past season. This goes to show that although Bob failed to accomplish much on his home grounds, he certainly caught the eyes of the rest of the official scorers throughout the circuit. Congratulations, Bob, on behalf of the local fans.

Aureole Favored For St. Leger

Doncaster, England — AP — The Queen pinned her hopes on a big chestnut colt named Aureole today to round out her Coronation year in high style with a victory in the historic St. Leger horse race.

And from all indications she will be visiting the winner's circle a few minutes after the field gets away at 10:15 a.m. EDT, in this season's final turf classic.

Aureole is a 7-to-1 favorite. But he has disappointed the Queen and his backers on several occasions this season, especially when he ran second in the Epsom Derby and Ascot's King George VI and Queen Elizabeth stakes.

In those races Aureole finished behind the incomporable Pinza. But Pinza won't be running in the St. Leger. He came up with a bad leg during training.

The Queen will be in the Royal box with Prime Minister Sir Winston Churchill, another horse owner, as her special guest.

The St. Leger, first held in 1776, is over a distance of one mile, six furlongs and 132 yards. The winner gets first prize money of $39,888.

Two E. T. Middleweights Show Fine Form Defeating Montrealers; Next Card To Be Held In Sherbrooke

Burke Emery, of Sherbrooke, and Marcel Piau, of Windsor Windsor Mills, both emerged victorious against Montreal opponents last night at the Canada Paper Mills Arena in Windsor Mills.

Emery scored a second round knockout over Carl Blanket, who appeared as a replacement for Jack Forbes, when the latter was unable to appear due to an injury suffered in training. Blanket found out, much to his regret, that the hard-hitting Sherbrooke boy was too much to cope with.

The semi-final between Marcel Piau and Joe Kolleth, of Montreal, was the best bout of the evening. Kolleth, one of the toughest scrappers to ever show in this district, took a severe beating, but refused to go down. Piau scored very heavily with a smashing right hook that staggered the Montrealer several times in a battle that was action-packed from start to finish.

A six-round heavyweight match featured Graham Emery, of Sherbrooke, and Norman Charrette, of Lachine. This match ended in the third round when Emery seemed to run out of steam and was caught off balance with a series of hard blows to the mid-section that meant "finis" for the Sherbrooke boy. Emery had been leading on points up to that moment.

"Butch" Bousquet, of Magog, gained the nod over Gerard "Tarzan" Beaudet, of Sherbrooke, in another six-round bout. This scrap proved to be very popular with the fans as both boys threw caution to the winds slugged freely for the entire distance.

In the opening bout of the evening, Paul Gendron, of Asbestos, defeated Maurice Everett, of Sherbrooke. Gendron showed great improvement over his last outing when he battled to a draw with the same opponent.

Les Connor and Raymond Murphy, the promoters of several interesting boxing programs during the past year, stated last night that they plan to hold their next show in Sherbrooke in the near future.

Main, Willey In Davis Cup Doubles After Americans Walk Away From Rochon And Main In Opening Singles

Montreal — (CP) — The United States walked away with the opening singles matches of the Canada-United States Davis Cup tennis tie Friday, Tony Trabert and Vic Seixas gaining a 2-0 lead with victories over Henri Rochon of Montreal and Lorne Main of Toronto and Vancouver.

The Americans never ran into any real trouble in their matches, although Rochon forced Trabert, U.S. national singles champion, into extra games in the third set of his match.

Trabert downed Rochon 6-2, 6-3, 8-6, while Seixas defeated Main 6-1, 6-1, 6-4.

Friday's results give the U.S. a chance to clinch the North American zone final Saturday if Seixas and Trabert can take the doubles against Main and Paul Willey of Vancouver.

Announcement of the doubles line-ups came immediately after Friday's matches, but Laird Watt and Lawrence Baker, non-playing captains of the Canadian and U.S. teams, can alter their decisions up to an hour before playing time.

Rochon gave the 2,500 fans a thrill when he broke through Trabert's serve in the first game on the opening match, but the American came back to take the next two in a row, breaking through Henri's serve in the second on Rochon's errors.

Trabert using volleying in the second set to advantage. He broke Rochon's serve in the fourth game on errors and put away the set 6-3.

Both Trabert and Rochon, after holding their serves in the opening games, broke each other's service in the third and fourth games of the third set. Rochon took the lead in the fifth when he held his serve, and Trabert only managed to take the lead again in the 13th game when he caught the Canadian flat-footed with three placements in a row.

He took the 14th game for set and match with a volleyed placement from the net.

In the second match, Seixas played a forcing game, driving hard from the base line and moving up to the net for volleyed placements. Main who never seemed to settle down, was driven back from most of his infrequent sallies to the net by Seixas' angled passing shots.

Lorne, normally a steady player, was forced into errors by the American. Even when he came within match point, Seixas usually rallied to take the game.

Main scored 19 placements against Seixas' 22, and had far more errors — 76 to 51 — than the American. Main broke through Seixas's serve twice, each time in the third set, while the American broke Lorne's serve eight times. Seixas also aced Main three times, all in the second set.

In the third set, after the American had brushed past him 6-1, 6-1, Main got in a few good placements from the net, leaving the Wimbledon champion flatfooted. But superior play enabled Seixas to win the set, despite Main's rally in the eighth and ninth games when Lorne whittled Seixas' lead down from 5-2 to 5,4. Seixas took the match game from deuce on a net and an out by Main.

Milwaukee Keeps Its Hopes Alive

The handwriting is on the wall but all of a sudden the Milwaukee Braves can't read.

The stubborn Braves still seem to be operating on the theory that the National League pennant race is a two-team affair.

Brooklyn's dashing Dodgers descended upon the brewing centre Friday primed to wrap up their second straight flag. They needed just one more victory. The celebration was arranged and the brass flew in from Brooklyn headquarters for the whing-ding. They're still waiting for the party.

Out at Milwaukee's County Stadium Andy Pafko made the Dodgers realize that $50,000 was only money. He hit a home run with a man on base in the sixth inning and he won the game for the Braves with a 10th inning homer after two were out. The score was 9-8.

In the American League the top two teams both lost. The New York Yankees bowed to Detroit 3-2 in 10 innings and Cleveland lost to Washington 6-4. Chicago kept its mathematical pennant chances alive with a 9-4 verdict over Philadelphia.

In other games Friday the St. Louis Cardinals assured Pittsburgh of a last place finish with a 5-3 decision, Cincinnati edged Philadelphia 6-5 and Chicago won its seventh straight 5-2 over the New York Giants. The lowly St. Louis Browns stopped Boston 2-0.

Richmond Pulp Completes $5,000,000 Expansion

Semi-Chemical Pulp Mill First To Use Hardwood

One of the greatest industrial expansion and rehabilitation programs carried out in the Eastern Townships in recent years has been completed at Bromptonville, some six miles from Sherbrooke, where the Richmond Pulp & Paper Co. of Canada Ltd., has spent over $5,000,000 in the rebuilding of the plant operated for nearly half-a-century by the Brompton Pulp and Paper Company, Ltd., which it purchased in 1950.

The development program included the extension of the mill buildings, the installation of a modern, high-speed paper machine with all the auxiliary equipment required for its efficient operation and the construction of a new semi-chemical pulp mill to permit the utilization of the hardwood resources of the district to supplement the soft wood which has been the traditional source of supply for the mechanical pulp which has been the backbone of the Canadian newsprint industry.

This semi-chemical mill is the first to be installed for the purpose of producing pulp for newsprint, and may well mark the opening of a new era in the pulp and paper industry of this country, especially of the older mills who are finding it difficult in some cases to find sufficient quantities of soft wood in their mill areas, partially as a result of the indiscriminate cutting of the forest in the years gone by.

The mill uses spruce, birch and poplar, most of which is delivered by rail, although some truck shipments, mostly of hard wood, are received. The spruce is used exclusively in the groundwood mill and is barked at the plant. The birch and poplar go to the semi-chemical mill, and are received at the present time in a peeled condition. The economy of the mill is based on the use of hardwoods in the semi-chemical process. Because of its greater density, a carload of hardwood contains that much more fibre than a carload of softwood. In addition, the delivered cost of locally-grown hardwoods is low, and, of course, the yields of the semi-chemical process are much higher than by the sulphite process. Up to 35 per cent of the wood is turned into fibre as compared to about 50 per cent in the sulphite operation.

These three factors, high density, low delivered cost and high yields, contribute to make the semi-chemical mill operation economical. A ton of pulp made by the high-yield semi-chemical process from high density hardwoods requires much less than the two cords of softwood required in the sulphite process.

The semi-chemical process used at the Brompton mill consist of the unit operations of chipping, cooking at comparatively low heat and under comparatively low pressure in a rotary spherical digester, refining in a disk refiner and screening.

The semi-chemical plant has a potential capacity of 25 tons per day and is currently producing about 20 tons per day.

Part of the rail-delivered wood is received on the mill siding, but the major portion is received on a spur line of the Canadian National Railways across the St. Francis river from the mill, and dumped into the river for summer storage. There are two haul-ups from the river and one from the mill siding. A new Russell-Hipwell impeller boat has been added to assist the river haul-ups. Of the two river haul-ups, one goes to the mill, the other to an outdoor chain, suspended barking drum, the barked wood to be piled for winter storage.

The spruce received by rail comes mostly from the Abitibi region — the area, both in northern Quebec and Ontario, in the vicinity of Iroquois Falls — and has an average density of .42. The high density of the wood partially offsets the high cost of transportation. Some balsam is received mixed with the spruce, but this constitutes less than five per cent of the total.

Some wood is also imported from the Gaspe region and from New Brunswick.

Ingersoll-Rand all-welded trunion-type barking drum with a capacity of 30 cords per hour has been installed. From this drum, the barked four-foot logs are carried on a short chain conveyor past slasher saws which reduce the logs to two-foot lengths for the pocket grinders.

The old ground wood mill consists of 15 hydraulically-driven three pocket grinders. There are six lines of two grinders, using Norton stones, and one line of three grinders using natural stones.

The new groundwood mill uses two Waterous Great Northern magazine grinders using four-foot wood, and with Norton stones of 67 inches in diameter by 54 inches face. The grinders are powered by two General Electric synchronous motors, 2800 horsepower each running at 257 revolutions per minute and can produce 40 tons each per day.

The bull screens consist of two new Reener screens built by Sherbrooke Machineries Limited. These are of the vibrating type, with the vibratory motion imparted by means of a dynamically unbalanced flywheel its shaft running on a rubber bushing.

There is no outside groundwood storage. The slush stock from both groundwood mills join in a common header feeding three Cowan rotary screens, built by the Hydraulic Machinery Company, Ltd., of 110 tons per day capacity each. In normal operation, with both paper machines running, two of the Cowan screens are used with the third as a standby. The rejects from the screen are passed through a Haug refiner and returned to the bull screens. The accepted stock from the Cowan screens can go either to seven deckers or to wet machines, fourteen of which are mounted on the floor above the old groundwood mill, where the pulp is lapped for sale. The deckers consist of four new Hymacs, size 48 by 131 inches, and three reconditioned Waterous deckers. The thickened stock goes to the groundwood storage chest.

Most cooks to date in the semi-chemical mill have been made using poplar, although one or two experimental cooks of birch have been made with excellent results. Eventually, the two species will be cooked together, in varying mixtures, without having the wood segregated before hand.

The logs are received peeled, and are chipped in a re-conditioned Carthage four-knife chipper, the chips being screened over a Tyler chip screen. Rejects from the chip screen are broken up in a Jeffrey shredder. The accepted chips and chips from the shredder are conveyed to a bucket elevator which delivers them to a chip silo of sufficient capacity for twenty-four hours' storage. The same bucket elevator is used to bring the chips to the charging floor of the digester when required.

The digester is an insulated rotary spherical type, sixteen feet in diameter, and was fabricated at Biggs Boiler Works, Okron, Ohio.

Where surplus semi-chemical pulp is produced, it is disposed of to other mills making such grades as corrogating medium, which is used by Sherbrooke Paper Products, Ltd., in the manufacture of corrugated containers.

A liquor preparation unit is presently being contemplated although at the moment there is no liquor preparation as such at the Richmond Pulp and Paper plant. Appropriate quantities of the chemical required are dumped into the digester in dry form after the chips are added and a measured quantity of water from a Trident metering pump is introduced.

The digester is then sealed and the steam added. The digester rotates at one revolution every two minutes. A manual cooking cycle is followed, reaching a maximum pressure of 125 pounds per square inch and a temperature of 338 degrees Fehrenheit. The digester cooking cycle is approximately seven hours, including one hour for filling and one hour for dumping. At present there are three cooks per day, producing about 6½ tons per cook. When the cook is complete, the digester is relieved to atmospheric pressure and the cooked chips are emptied into a tank immediately below the digester. There is no liquor recovery. After drainage, the moisture content of the chips is about fifty per cent.

The chips are removed from the dump tank by a Stephen-Adamson conveyor and fed to the refiner by a variable speed screw conveyor above the refiner with an "overflow" back to the dump tank. The refiner used is a Sprout-Waldron 36, with a through-put of 25 tons per day. The chips entering the refiner are diluted with hot water (operating experience has shown that the hotter the dilution water the better the results) to a consistency of 6-8 per cent. The refined stock is stored in a chest, then screened in a "baby" Cowan screen, driven by a 40 h.p. motor. The screen plate has 0.045 perforations. In the screen headbox the consistency is further reduced to about 0.85 per cent. Rejects, which average less than 0.50 a.d. tons a day, are not recovered. The accepted stock from the baby Cowan passes through a Hymac gravity decker and then into a screened stock tank. Screened yield of the semi-chemical pulp averages about 72 per cent.

chines are operating, the semi-chemical pulp is used in slush form. It consistency is controlled by a Trimbley consistency regulator and it is then passed through a beater where purchased sulphite pulp is added. The mixed chemical pulps are then mixed with the groundwood pulp in a stock proportioner to form the furnish for the machines, which consist of about 85 per cent groundwood, 10 per cent neutral sulphite semi-chemical and 5 per cent purchased sulphite. It is believed possible that, as operating experience is gained, the sulphite now added will be entirely replaced by semi-chemical pulp.

When only one machine is operating, the semi-chemical pulp is lapped on four of the west machines, and sold, or added to the beater in lapped form with the sulphite.

The newsprint produced is of exceptionally high quality with a high mullen and tensile strength.

A new 172 inch machine (162½ inch trim) designed and built by Dominion Engineering has been added. With a design speed of 1500 f.p.m., the machine has a Reliance drive, a 90 ft. Fourdrinier wire, 44 inch couch, two press sections using rubber covered press rolls, and 48 60-inch dryers. The machine is designed to permit flexible operation, and will run at any speed from 400 f.p.m. to 1500 f.p.m. to permit the manufacture of products, other than newsprint, if desired.

The original newsprint machine, 162 inches wide with a 151½inch trim, has been exraising of the bird screens, and the installation of one new Bird tensively modified and is now running 1050 f.p.m. Modifications include a new mechanical drive, new press section, the screen. In additon, the calender stack and winder were thoroughly reconditioned.

The new mechanical drive features an eddy-current coupling manufactured by the Dynamic Corp., Cleveland, Ohio.

With this type of coupling there is no physical connection between the driving motor and driven roll — the coupling makes use of magnetic lines of force. The motor, a synchronous type, rotates at constant speed, and the amount of slip between the driving and driven members in the coupling can be very closely regulated, resulting in exceptionally even speed control. This installation is believed to be the first in Canada, and is the first on a paper machine of this size. It has proved highly successful.

The machine room has been equipped with a modern ventilation system supplied by Ross Engineering of Canada Limited.

To permit the installation of No. 2 machine, the machine room had to be widened. This was accomplished, and the travelling overhead crane extended, without shutting down No. 1 machine.

The modernization of the mill is not yet complete. In particular the wood room is due for some extensive revisions, including the installation of a St. Laurent sotting turntable. The semi-chemical pulp mill is so designed that it may be enlarged to produce double its present output with no structural changes required in building. Without enlarging the semi-chemical pulp mill, however, it is expected that the newsprint production will eventually reach 250 tons per day. Or, replacing some of the newsprint, No. 1 machine may eventually be used for the production of corrugating medium and liner.

The operations of the Richmond Pulp and Paper plant are under the immediate supervision of L. E. Fleck, vice-president and resident manager. G. S Mayhew is general superintendent, J. B. Scott, superintendent of the pulp mill, L. Hafford, superintendent of the paper mill, and R. Chapleau, woods superintendent.

Other executives at the Brompton mill are: B. C. Westgate, personnel manager; E. A. Boucher, purchasing agent, and T. D. Thorpe, chief accountant.

At the present time, there are approximately 325 employees at the mill.

JE ME SOUVIENS

It gives me a great deal of satisfaction to see the paper factory in Bromptonville once again in production. I wish to congratulate those whose initiative and civic spirit made this possible.

Our government, realizing the importance of this industry to residents of this Eastern Townships community, has granted this important company forest concessions to ensure an adequate supply of raw materials.

Our Ministry of Lands and Forests has, for a number of years, carried on an aggressive reforestation campaign that is already showing encouraging results. Owners of small timber lots are in a position to furnish a substantial part of the wood needed by this factory, due in part to their having followed reforestation advice made available to them by our provincial government.

Once again I wish to express my congratulations to those who made possible this project that is so important to the further economic development of the Eastern Townships.

Heaviest Forest Fire Losses On Crown Property

Virtually all of the lands caught in forest fire infernos this summer are public-owned, says a bulletin of the Canadian Forestry Association. "The losses," the association adds, "will not be recovered for from fifty to a hundred years, during which time the public treasury together with industry and employment must share the consequences."

"Over the past ten years," it is pointed out, "Canada's increasingly-valuable forest treasure has been sliced down by a total of twenty million acres through the fire-plague." This sacrifice represents an annual bonfire of almost 300 million cubic feet of raw material that furnishes the bread and butter of 366,000 Canadian workers. Measured another way, forest fires incinerate enough timber every summer to build 85,000 family bungalows. Added to this is immeasurable damage done to watersheds of lakes and rivers, which are the source of hydro-electric power and the chief magnet of the tourist trade. Only one time in six is a forest set blazing by lightning, according to ten-year records for all Canada. Most of the disasters are due to personal negligence while travelling in the woods and to careless burning-off of settlers' lands, the association says.
