RUSSIANS LEAVE HERE FOR MONTREAL

SENSATIONAL STORIES OF ALLEGED ILL-TREATMENT IN QUEBEC—OVERCHARGED.

From what could be learnt here last night, the stories which have appeared in Montreal papers with regard to the treatment received by a number of Russian immigrants who have been in the city and district for some time and many of whom have now taken the road to Montreal are grossly exaggerated. According to a Montreal story some sixty of these men reached here yesterday with heart-rending tales of misfortunes alleged to have been encountered here and between Quebec and Montreal. It was said that they had been robbed of whatever money they had when they arrived here; that they were half starved and that many of them had insufficient clothing. Also that four of them had committed suicide on the road after leaving here. Yet another charge was that those men, numbering about two hundred, had been here without work since May.

The bulk of these men arrived here on May 14th, and 19th. That they were overcharged by the employment bureaus is admitted. The bureau which seems to have been the chief offender is said to be run by a man named A. Damours. These bureaus, which are licensed, are only allowed to charge a fee of one dollar, but it seems that they charged the Russians from $3.50 up, on the ground that they required something for expenses such as tickets for sending the men to railway construction, etc.

A number of these men were employed for some six weeks or so by Mr. M. Connolly, who is the contractor engaged in the construction of the Quebec aqueduct at Loretteville. At the most, it is said, that the employment bureau could only claim the sum of $1.60, the details being a fee of one dollar, fifty cents for sleeping accommodation for two nights, and ten cents for train fare to Loretteville. But the contractor stopped four dollars of their wages. Whether a sum of two dollars was included on this and charged up as having been due to the sub-contractor is not quite clear.

Mr. Charles Smith, who is acting for the Russians, said over the telephone last night that he had succeeded in getting a refund of the excess money charged in the case of the Russians who had remained over, and that he hoped to be able to do the same for the others who had gone from here to Montreal. It had been rendered difficult, however, as the Russians spoke neither French nor English and there was the possibility that some of them might get paid twice over. He had received a letter from Montreal today from Mr. Alexander, a Russian from Ontario, who has been helping the Russians, asking him to act for the rest. While here the immigrants were looked after to a certain extent by a man from East Angus, and Mr. Smith does not credit sensational stories from Montreal, though he admits overcharging on the part of the bureau and says the Russians became disgusted, possibly because of their comparative helplessness.

ONE MAN ONE VOTE

WINNING IN ENGLAND

London, July 14.—The bill to abolish plural voting at elections in the British Isles passed its third reading in the House of Commons tonight after a motion to reject the bill had been defeated 293 to 222.

This bill passed its first reading on April 8 by a vote of 303 to 107. It embodies the principle of "one man one vote."

MRS. PANKHURST AGAIN IN TOILS OF THE POLICE

FREE FIGHT STARTS WHEN CONSTABLES ARREST MISS ANNIE KENNEDY.

London, July 14.—Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst, the leader of the suffragettes, and Miss Annie Kennedy, one of the most ardent of the militants, are again in the hands of the authorities. Against the orders of the court they appeared at a meeting of the Women's Social and Political Union this afternoon, where Mrs. Pankhurst announced that she would die rather than submit to the government.

STARTS FREE FIGHT.

The police undertook to arrest both women. Mrs. Pankhurst fled from the building and attempted to make her escape in a taxicab. She was pursued by a detective who eventually captured her.

The arrest of Miss Kennedy precipitated a free fight in which well dressed men and women engaged in hand to hand fighting with the police. Umbrellas and sticks were freely used. The police succeeded in forcing Miss Kennedy into an automobile and drove her to Holloway jail. Several other arrests were made.

Sylvia Pankhurst, who was released last night from Holloway jail because of her hunger strike, courted re-arrest by addressing an enthusiastic meeting of militants at Bromley tonight. She said she intended to disregard the terms of the license and openly defy the government on every possible occasion.

Much surprise was occasioned among the suffragettes that no attempt was made to arrest her.

NORTH GREY ELECTS A CONSERVATIVE

MR. CAMERON IS CHOSEN FOR ONTARIO LEGISLATURE BY 278 MAJORITY.

Owen Sound, Ont., July 14.—By a majority of 278 North Grey today elected Colin S. Cameron to represent it in the legislature. It was the vote in the town of Owen Sound that defeated Mr. John McQuaker, the Liberal candidate, as the town gave Mr. Cameron a majority of 290, while in the rural parts Mr. McQuaker had a majority of 12.

SIR JAMES SPEAKS.

Toronto, July 14.—On hearing the returns from North Grey tonight Sir James Whitney said:—"It is a magnificent victory and a very far-reaching one, indeed."

Hon. W. J. Hanna (over the long distance telephone from his home in Sarnia):—"The electors of North Grey did what anyone would have expected. They were fully acquainted with the issues and the work of the government, and the hypocrisy of the leaders of the Liberal party, who went into North Grey to agitate the electors. There was no mistaking, from the time the electors got busy, what they were going to do."

Mr. N. W. Rowell made this statement on the result:

"My information convinces me that the result in North Grey was due to open combination between the Whitney government and the liquor interests, with unlimited financial resources at their disposal. For the sake of Mr. McQuaker, who was an exceptionally fine type of candidate, and the workers who stood so valiantly by him, I regret the result. The loss of the seat, however, will have its compensations if it helps to awaken the people of the province to the undoubted fact of an offensive and defensive alliance between the Whitney government and the liquor interests. When the people realize that this combination exists I don't believe that they will stand for it."

BRITAIN RETAINS EMPIRE TROPHY BY GOOD MARGIN

AUSTRALIA SECOND, CANADA THIRD IN IMPERIAL SHOOT AT BISLEY.

Bisley Camp, July 14.—The Canadian scores at 900 yards in the Empire match were:

Private A. Denholm, Winnipeg, 43; Col. Sergt. Perry, Vancouver, 43; Lt. F. A. Steck, Truro, 38; Sergt. A. G. Bullock, Toronto, 43; Staff-Sergt. A. Freeborn, Hamilton, 42; Pte. W. Hawkins, Toronto, 46; Lieut. F. Richardson, Victoria, 39; Capt. C. R. Crowe, Guelph, 38. Total: 332.

The other scores were: Great Britain, 360; Australia, 355; India, 293.

At one thousand yards the totals of the Canadians were:

Denholm, 34; Perry, 46; Steck, 30; Bullock, 34; Freeborn, 45; Hawkins, 41; Richardson, 42; Crowe, 28. Total: 310.

The grand totals is as follows:

Great Britain 2,210
Australia 2,120
Canada 2,073
India 1,923

Great Britain thus retains possession of the trophy, having won it in 1910.

BOLD ROBBERY IN LOWER TOWN

SNEAK THEIR LIFTS $320 IN FRENCH GOLD FROM BROKER'S OFFICE

A bold robbery was committed yesterday noon in the Lower Town, when a sneak thief entered the office and snatched a bag containing $320 in French gold and notes from the counter of the brokerage office of Mr. James Macnider, corner of St. Peter and Antoine streets, and succeeded in getting away with his plunder undiscovered. Nevertheless, he was shortly afterwards arrested and $309 of the amount stolen recovered.

Mr. Macnider had previously exchanged the French money for Canadian currency, and after he had accommodated the parties with the exchange, went into his back office to put away some of the money in his safe, leaving a small bag on the outer office counter containing $320 in French gold and paper money. He had hardly turned his back when a sneak thief entered his office and seeing the bag on the counter made off with it unobserved.

Mr. Macnider on returning to the office from the back room, was surprised to discover the money gone, and was at a loss to know how it could have disappeared, as he saw no person enter or leave, or even hear a footstep in the office.

He immediately telephoned for Detective Walsh, who hastened to the scene, and was informed of the robbery, but not even the least clue could be given to guide him in apprehending the thief.

Whiskey Led to Capture of Thief.

Detective Walsh, deeming that the thief might be addicted to liquor drinking, immediately started in to hunt his game, and after visiting several saloons in the Lower Town without success, proceeded along St. Paul street, and on entering one saloon on that street learned that a stranger had been there offering French gold in payment for a drink. The man did not stay long, however, but from there entered Mr. Goodness's store, where he bought a hat for which he paid a with 20-franc gold piece.

But even here Detective Walsh failed to get his man, but by dint of inquiry found that he had made inquiries about the departure of C. P. R. trains, which caused the detective to rush to the Palais Station, place two police officers at the ticket office wicket, and arrange with the ticket clerk that should any persons offer a French gold coin in payment for a ticket, to give him in charge of the police. He then returned to the St. Paul street saloon to try and obtain a good description of the man he was after, and had hardly took his departure, when the individual accompanied by a hobo companion, in a happy frame of mind, sauntered up from the docks and re-entered the saloon.

The property stolen led to had Detective Walsh without success; telephoned the nearest police station, and two constables arriving in answering to the summons, were told to place the man under arrest, as Detective wanted him for robbery.

The police arrested the man, who was later with his companion, conveyed to No. Police Station, and on being searched, $309 of the stolen money was found in his possession.

In the meantime Detective Walsh recognized the prisoner as Jack Reilly, an individual who was arrested some 19 months ago in Quebec for robbery, and condemned to serve two years in the penitentiary. Reilly made no attempt to hide his identity, inform-

DETECTIVES ARE IN QUARANTINE, THEIR MAN FREE

FOLLOWED HIM ACROSS THE ATLANTIC, ONLY TO LAND AT GROSSE ISLE.

After a chase from St. Petersburg to Hamburg, and across the ocean on the Canada liner Wittekind, two Russian detectives who were in pursuit of Jan Zukligi, a Socialist suspect, are chafing today in the quarantine at Grosse Isle, where 335 of the Wittekind's passengers are detained for smallpox which broke out on the trip across. The rest of the passengers, which include the man shadowed by the detectives were landed at this port Sunday and the vessel proceeded to Montreal to land her cargo.

FOLLOWED ACROSS OCEAN.

It is said that Zukligi, who had been a political prisoner, and who was pardoned about a year ago, was suspected of being once more in league with the Socialists, and several traps were set for his capture. It soon became necessary for him to flee the country, and he escaped across the German border, with two government agents always at his heels. Booking passage on the Wittekind only the day before she started, Zukligi thought himself secure, as he was with over twelve hundred steerage immigrants.

The two detectives boarded the boat just before she left Notre Dame, Holland, which is her last European port of call. It was of course impossible for them to arrest the man once he had escaped the boundaries of the Russian Empire, as he was wanted for a political offence, but the sleuths had been detailed to shadow him wherever he should go after reaching Canada.

On the trip out, a little boy contracted a disease which the medical examiner at Grosse Isle pronounced smallpox, and the entire section of the steerage in which the child was, was put into quarantine for an indefinite length of time. The man wanted was lodged in the opposite end of the ship and thus escaped.

FOURTEEN KILLED AT LOS ANGELES

SEVERAL TORONTO PERSONS ARE KILLED WHEN ELECTRIC TRAINS COLLIDE.

Los Angeles, July 14.—Fourteen persons are dead as the result of the wreck at Vineyard Station last night when two Pacific electric trains collided. The number of injured was said to exceed 150. Several of these are in a precarious condition. Two bodies, those of a man and a woman, have not been identified. The list of dead includes Edward Murray, Toronto, Canada; Nellie Murray, Toronto, Canada, nose broken.

Officials of the Pacific electric road asser, that the blame for the disaster lies between conductor Emil Bartholomai standing train and Motorman Joseph Forrester of the one that crashed into it. The conductor insists that he waved a red lantern in front of Forrester's train in plenty of time for the latter to have stopped had he heeded the signal. Forrester, who was found today at his home, only slightly injured, declared he did not see the lantern until within a few feet of the standing train. The distance was too short, he asserts, and his brakes failed to stop the train. Before the State Railway Commission, officials of the road stopped a train of care of the same type within 500 feet. A coroner's inquest will begin tomorrow.

The Weather

Toronto, July 14.— Showers have occurred today in Quebec and also locally in the Maritime and Western Provinces, while in Ontario the weather has been fair and the strong winds have subsided.

Forecasts:
Lower St. Lawrence and Gulf: Fresh north-westerly winds; fair and comparatively cool.

FOUR-YEAR-OLD BOY KILLED BY AN AUTO.

Toronto, July 14.—An inquest was opened today into the death of the four-year-old son of Isaac Jolly, of Kingston Road, who was instantly killed yesterday afternoon when struck by an automobile, which, according to the police, was driven by A. L. Patterson, of Milton. The little fellow was walking along the Kingston Road, near West Hill, with two companions, and the automobile, it is said, travelling at a high rate of speed swung as it passed and struck the boy, throwing him to the side of the road.

BIG TRAIN STRIKE IS NOW AVERTED

TWO HOUR EXPERIENCE AT WHITE HOUSE RESULTS IN SATISFACTORY AGREEMENT

Washington, July 14.—Representatives of the 80,000 conductors and trainmen of eastern railways, who have voted to strike for higher wages, and managing officers of the railroads agreed at the White House today to submit their differences to arbitration under the provisions of the Newlands-Clayton Act which President Wilson and Congressional leaders promised to make law by tomorrow night. In the meantime, no strike will be declared, officials of the employees' brotherhoods agreeing to an armistice until Wednesday night.

This victory for arbitration over the strike was the result of a 1-1/2 hour conference at the White House between President Wilson and Congressional leaders, both Republicans and Democrats, the presidents and managers of the railroads and representatives of the Brotherhood of Trainmen and Conductors. The agreement not only averted, temporarily, at least, the strike which threatened to tie up railroad traffic generally in the east, but smoothed out differences of opinion that had arisen in both Houses as to the cosmopolitan of the board of mediators and provided a permanent commission to deal with railroad disputes.

REOPEN WINDSOR CASTLE TO THE GENERAL PUBLIC.

London, July 14.—The tradespeople of Windsor have been complaining for some time of the serious losses they have been suffering since the State apartments were closed as a precaution against the militant suffragettes. The King, as a result, has issued instructions that the Castle shall be reopened today. Detectives will accompany all visitors to the church.

The Oracle was played out this morning. "I haven't a thing to say today," he said. "A person can't always have ideas. You have to leave some one else do the talking for you once in a while. Isn't it funny the way your mind dries up occasionally and there you are without an idea in your head. It's mostly always just when you want them to. Now, for instance, here I am; I want to tell you something new, but I can't think of a thing to talk about. O well, if the weather acts up to indications, which are bright, I may brighten up myself by tomorrow and tell you something worth while."

The Oracle is very human in this failing. We all are at a loss for ideas sometimes. An exchange of suggestion helps a lot. If you can't think of what to give that friend for a birthday, for instance, come in and let us suggest something. We'll be glad to be of any aid to you.

Today we would ask you to look at our boxes of HIGHLAND LINEN.

This is a good linen, in five different colors, retailing at 35c a box. See it in our window.

QUEBEC, TUESDAY, JULY 15, 1913.

PROFESSOR LEACOCK'S VIEW.

In an amusing article written for the London National Review Professor Stephen Leacock of McGill University discusses the situation produced by the Senate's rejection of the Borden Naval Bill.

Mr. Leacock thinks that at first sight the situation with regard to the ships is very dispiriting and it appears quite wrongly as if the advance of Imperial After reviewing the consultations with the British Admiralty and subsequent events, Mr. Leacock says that last "midwinter found us busy in our Parliament, sitting up all night on our benches, still saving the Empire, with hot water bottles at our feet

But, in spite of all this, the writer does not think that the broad current of the Imperial movement is arrested in its flow. These above-mentioned events are but the impression on the surface.

But in quieter and lower circles, let us say among the farthest of Western Ontario, the lumber shanties of the Georgian Bay, the barber-shops of Toronto, the "Empire" meant at best a brand of cigar, a hotel or a new form of celluloid collar.

It is not pleasant to know that when this ship steams away she will be carrying with her Canada's contribution to Imperial defence in the shape of this piece of silver, and that men will be able to point to it and say, "That is all which Canada has given."

The situation is summed up by the Standard in the following words:—

Pieces of silver have played important parts in the history of the world. Our Lord was sold for thirty pieces of silver. Canada's desire, and wishes, and expressed intentions have been sold for the pieces of silver which the Laurier Liberals hoped to gain by forcing an election and regaining power.

THE TRAGEDY OF BULGARIA.

Rage and disappointment among the Bulgarians at their loss of practically all of the fruits of their victorious war against Turkey could be and was foreseen at the time of the armistice and the conference of the ambassadors in London.

With that fine army largely decimated Bulgaria found herself at the close of the war practically where she was at the beginning. In the division of the spoil she got nothing which anybody capable of appraising values could think would compensate her for her expenditure of blood and treasure.

The time was surely one for coolness and patience and for the diplomacy which knows how to watch and wait. But Bulgaria, smarting under a sense of loss and injustice, was incapable of these qualities.

But in quieter and lower circles, let us say among the farthest of Western Ontario, the lumber shanties of the Georgian Bay, the barber-shops of Toronto, the "Empire" meant at best a brand of cigar, a hotel or a new form of celluloid collar.

Comment of The Press

Thomas Edison says there will be no poverty in the world one hundred years from now. This must be good news to the man who is walking around looking for a job today.—Saskatoon Phoenix.

Not why there is a strike, but why there are so few strikes at Johannesburg is the wonder. When men are engaged at $3 or $4 a day in mining gold worth hundreds of dollars, strikes for a better division of the profits are not unnatural.—Toronto Mail and Empire.

The case of the Quebec gypsies who told the farmers' fortunes while they made their own by stealing stock, reminds one of the story told by Mark Twain of the pair of adventurers who used to hold meetings down in Mississippi, one telling stories to the auditors while his pal stole their horses.—Ottawa Citizen.

Preocious as is the latest musical marvel, the 11-year-old violinist, Duci Kerekjarte, he has had many predecessors even more precocious, both as players and composers. Sir Charles Halle was only 4 when he first played in public; Hummel made his first appearance at the age of 5, Mozart at 6, Chopin and Rubinstein at 8. Mozart began composing when only 5, whilst Samuel Wesley wrote a march for one of the Guard regiments at the age of 7. Sir Edward Elgar was 12 years old when he composed his first music for a child's play—a shameful lack of precocity!—London Chronicle.

Somewhat incongruous is the mingling of the anniversary of Perry's triumph over the British at Lake Erie with the celebration of the centennial of peace between England and the United States. For the two are in mutual antipathy, and the praise service to the God of Hosts that marks the Perry centennial cannot be made to comport with the lullaby that naturally accompanies the sweet repose of the dove of peace.

PIECES OF SILVER.

The Kingston Standard calls attention to the fact that the Dreadnought given by New Zealand to the Imperial navy will arrive at the Pacific Coast this month and the people of Vancouver will present it with a piece of silver "suitably inscribed."

BELLADONNA KICK THE INVENTION OF A DOPE FIEND

STEERING PLASTER IN WATER GAVE HIM A BRACING ATROPHINE COCKTAIL.

San Francisco, July 14—For originality and effectiveness, the undiscoverable prisoner at the Ingleside County Jail who created the "Belladonna Kick" deserves a tablet in the hall of fame of alcoholia.

Dr. G. F. Brackett, who looks after Jailer W. H. Woodall's "hypos" — which is the cypher code form of speech for "hotheads," cryptic for dope fiends and which is plain English means victims of the drug habit, was called upon lately to serve out belladonna plasters for a prisoner who said he had a bad pain in his back.

The next day two or three other "hotheads" developed cracks and sprains and aches and pains, all located in the region of their backs and all demanding treatment by belladonna already treated had relapsed seriously, liberally plastered.

A little investigation disclosed that the first prisoner who obtained a belladonna plaster had taken it off his back and steeped it in water, thus mixing a cocktail which, containing as it did, quite a quantity of atrophine, gave him what the "hop head" loves to feel, namely a "kick"—a thrill for his jangled nerves.

The other "hypos" discovered his "kick" and was soon in the same condition as the first.

secret, or else the artist communicated it to them. Hence, the sudden and violent contagion of pains in the back and the demand for the belladonna plasters.

GLIMPSES OF OLD QUEBEC

From the Files of the CHRONICLE, July, 1813 and 1883.

THIRTY YEARS AGO TODAY

Sad Drowning Case.

News reached town last evening, thirty years ago, that Mr. G. Deblois son of Mr. E. Deblois, of Beauport, an employe of the cutter's office, was drowned yesterday morning at St. Michel. It seems that the deceased went down the river early in the morning with Mr. Lapointe, advocate, in his yacht. While the latter was anchored in about 12 ft. of water, and Mr. Lapointe was preparing breakfast in the fore-castle, Mr. Deblois jumped into the water for a swim. He was apparently attacked by cramps, and Mr. Lapointe seeing his critical condition put out in a skiff to lend assistance, but unfortunately just too late to reach him before he disappeared from view. Mr. Lapointe dived after his friend several times, but was unable to recover the body.

6 Lord Lansdowne On Canada.

At this time, thirty years ago, Lord Lansdowne was presented with two addresses by Liberal associations in his county, congratulating him upon his appointment as Governor General of Canada. The short reply which his Lordship made ought to be sufficient to show that he will go to the Dominion with the right aims before him. Whilst expressing doubts as to his capacity for the post, he declared that he should proceed to Canada determined to do his best to maintain those ties of loyalty and attachment which bound the colonies to the Mother Country, and which he believed were stronger between no other colony and the Mother Country than that over which he should have the honor to preside.

Sir Charles Tupper.

At this time, thirty years ago, the following is from the Liverpool Courier: "The Hon. Sir Charles Tupper, K. C. M. G., C. B., arrived at Liverpool, per steamer Caspian, en route for London, to assume the duties of the position of High Commissioner of Canada. Sir Charles still retains his seat in the Canadian Cabinet as Minister of Railways and Canals."

A HUNDRED YEARS AGO TODAY

Funeral of Captain Laurence, of the Chesapeake.

Halifax.—Garrison Orders: A funeral party will be furnished consisting of 300 rank and file, with a proper proportion of officers, and to be supplied with three rounds of blank cartridges each man; to inter the remains of Captain Laurence, late of the American frigate Chesapeake, from the King's Wharf, at half-past one o'clock p.m. The band of that corps will attend. The officers of the garrison will be pleased to attend the commandant there, to march in procession, wearing a piece of black crepe round their left arm. Orders equally indicative of respect for the deceased were also given to the senior officers of the navy.

Captain Broke, of the Shannon.

We are happy to learn that Captain Broke, of the Shannon, is in a fair way of being shortly restored to the service of his King and Country. At the same time we are sorry to report that Lieutenant Ludlow, late First of the Chesapeake, died of his wounds, at His Majesty's Naval Hospital.

Admiral Warren's Squadron.

A letter from Bermuda says that four and five thousand troops have sailed for the Chesapeake, where it is said Warren intends to retaliate every attempt to blockade Canada, his intention is to blockade the entire American coast from Rhode Island to the Mississippi River. By the arrival of Warren's squadron at Providence we have the following account. The enemy's force was imposing, upwards of 20 vessels of war, some of the largest size, a number of smaller with transports, made a formidable appearance, and from 3 to 4 thousand men could be landed. Not the smallest symptom of apprehension appeared among our people, all were cool and collected, rather wishing the attack, and we feel confident that if the enemy did approach nearer or make the attempt he will meet with a warm reception.

KAISER LAUGHS AT CARTOONS

CARICATURES BY AMERICAN ARTISTS REALLY PLEASE EMPEROR WILHELM.

Berlin, July 14.—The impression generally prevailing in Germany that Emperor Wilhelm becomes incensed every time he sees himself caricatured is quite erroneous. It is in the class of popular misconceptions concerning the German Emperor, and has no foundation, in fact.

On the contrary, Emperor William finds much amusement in these caricatures, and he has made an extensive collection of them, to which he is constantly adding.

He makes selections from foreign papers as well as German, and has many American cartoons of himself properly indexed and classified. The signatures of the best American caricaturists are about as familiar to him as they are to most American newspaper readers.

The Emperor began this collection by acquiring a book of caricatures on himself by a Frenchman named Carteret. The sale of this volume in Germany was prohibited by the authorities immediately it appeared, but the Emperor hearing of this restriction, sent for a copy, looked it over, and then ordered the prohibition removed. Carteret's sketches are the nucleus of his collection.

Up to the time of this incident the German comic press, more out of fear than reverence, had avoided all direct representation of the Emperor, but after the Carteret episode German caricaturists became bolder.

In 1895 Kladderadatsch astonished its readers by publishing a caricature of His Majesty as a cuirassier, the face consisting of an interrogation mark, in which the features of the Emperor were plainly discernible.

Since then the German press has added many specimens to the Imperial collection, many of them by no means complimentary to the royal subject.

FIGHTING IN CHINA.

London, July 14.—Heavy fighting is reported all around Kin-Kiang, province of Kiang-Si, on the Yang-Tse-Kiang, saks a Peking despatch to the Daily Telegraph. The fighting is the result of the occupation of the by northern troops. The outcome has not yet been learned, but should success attend the Kiang-Si troops, who number 9,000, civil war, according to the despatch, will be inevitable.

ODE TO THE FISHERMAN

I sing the foolish fisherman, who whips the purling brooks,
 And travels many weary miles to find them;
 Who spends a youthful fortune on his rods and lines and hooks,
 And has to get a guide to help him mind them;
 Who longs for fish so keenly that he gladly risks his life
 Without a thought of mother, children, bank-account or wife.

He spends his days in putting all his fingers on the blink,
 And patching up the parts his hooks have mangled;
 Or else he's slipping on a rock and falling in the drink,
 Or climbing trees to get his line untangled.
 He is skilful, he is thoughtful; he is resolute and bold;
 But seldom does he catch much else except a heavy cold.

He spends his nights upon the ground, with rocks beneath his head,
 And lets the frigid evening breezes chill him;
 On rising in the morning, he is very nearly dead,
 And wonders why exposure didn't kill him.
 The food he eats would ruin the digestion of a goat;
 At home, if he should eat it, he would need an antidote.

A million flies and midges chew his ears and neck and face,
 Thus helping him to lose that tired feeling;
 The blisters come in clusters on each unexpected place;
 And sunburn starts his ruddy beak to peeling.
 These transient imperfections so disorganize his mug
 That any friends who saw him would mistake him for a thug.

And yet, misguided fisherman, I sing my song in vain
 Against your painful sort of recreations;
 For, come next year, you'll take your rod and whip the brooks again—
 A subject for the gayety of nations.

And I, if I could concentrate the necessary pelf,
 Would also grab a week or two, and do the same myself.
 —Kenneth Roberts, in the Boston Post.

INTERCOLONIAL TRAINMEN GET MANY CONCESSIONS.

Moncton, N.B., July 14.—The joint committees of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen and the Order of Railway Conductors for the Intercolonial System held a satisfactory session with Mr. F. P. Gutelius, general manager of the Intercolonial here this evening. A number of the demands of the men have been granted outright, while in other matters Mr. Gutelius has offered a compromise which will be considered by the trainmen.

The committees express themselves pleased with the treatment accorded them by the new general manager. He assured the committees that no reductions would be made in either the number of passenger crews nor in the number of men in each crew. This knocks on the head the proposal of Mr. Brady to reduce the number of crews on some of the trains, and it also ends the trouble caused by an alleged proposal to take a brakeman off each crew of a train carrying a train agent and compelling the conductor to do part of brakeman's work. It is understood that train agents are shortly to be taken off altogether as unnecessary to the service.

In regard to the question of increased mileage, Mr. Gutelius offered the men an increase in wages aggregating $30 per month to conductors and $20 per month to brakemen, provided they agree to make the increased mileage. This proposition is being considered by the committee, which will remain here a few days for that purpose.

A number of other matters were dealt with, such as granting of $300 back time to a brakeman on the Prince Edward Island Railway who was discharged for alleged political partizanship, a charge which he was able to disprove.

THE FUTURIST.

George Luks, at a luncheon at Snerry's, was talking about the "futurists." "It is astonishing what they can get out of the human figure," he said. "Look at the 'Nude Descending a Staircase.' Why, it resembles a conflagration, or a ship, or a soap works, or anything you please." "It's like a beautiful girl who waited on a friend of mine to pose. She had such a fresh, sweet, modest air that my friend blushed and stammered: 'But what—er—what do you pose for?'" "She shrugged her pretty shoulders." "Oh," she said, "anything you like—landscape if necessary."

Father Healey's Eloquent Sermon at Grosse Isle

Following is the complete text of the sermon delivered by the Rev. Father Healey, Sunday afternoon, on the occasion of the annual pilgrimage of the A. O. H. to Grosse Isle. As several of the members of the Ancient Order expressed the wish to have the discourse given on the occasion appear in print, and thus be read by many lovers of the Old Land, whom the threatening weather kept from the celebration, Rev. Father Woods, Rector of St. Patrick's, has kindly acceded to their request and given the Chronicle the manuscript copy of the sermon.

Father Healey's Sermon.
My Dear Friends:

Gathered together today within the shadow of this great granite cross which loved hearts have erected in memory of well-loved dead, we are performing a sacred duty—the duty of remembrance in solemn prayer of those many brave and loyal sons and daughters of Erin whose bodies rest beneath the sod on this bleak, rocky island of the St. Lawrence.

When memory takes us back to those sad, sad days of '47 and we picture to ourselves the scenes which this desolate spot must have witnessed—a parallel picture presents itself to the mind—the picture of the Jews, the chosen people of God, languishing in exile in Babylon, far from home and cherished friends—among the tyrant and the stranger.

In the 136th Psalm of David—the Royal Singer tells us in language pathetic of how the remembrance of their native country stirred the hearts of those captive people of Israel. Let us hearken to his words:

"Upon the rivers of Babylon, there we sat and wept; when we remembered Zion. On the willows in the midst thereof we hung up our instruments. For they that led us into captivity required of us the words of song. And they that carried us away, said 'Sing ye to us a hymn of the songs of Zion. How shall we sing the song of the Lord in a strange land? If I forget thee, O Jerusalem, let my tongue cleave to my jaws, if I do not remember thee; if I make not Jerusalem the beginning of my joy.'"

How unenviable the lot of those children, beloved of the Almighty, as they lived out the wearisome days of their long exile in wailing and sorrow. Lift for them meant no longer the sweet innocent hours of laughter and peace and content and rest. They weep, they lament, they groan and sigh, they are heart-broken, prostrate with grief—and why? Because they are exiles; because they are far, far away from their own true home, the well-loved scenes of so many sacred joys. Ah, how mournfully the days of that captivity dragged on. Nevermore can the heart-sick exiles hope to breathe in the air of freedom, the favored breezes born of their native shores. No longer can they taste the food of their childhood home; hence, the bread of the stranger, though sweet to the taste, is like gall and wormwood to the heart. The streams that flow by Babylon's banks cease not to murmur their softest songs; yet, harsh and discordant seems the burden of that song to the ears of the exiled ones—for no ways does that music's voice speak to them of home. The scenes of beauty upon the banks of Babylon may be wild and picturesque and fair to look upon in all their rugged grandeur—but oh, they have lost all charm to the eyes of the children of Juda who look and look in vain to catch but one glimpse of the sunlit splendor of their country's shores.

Such, too, my friends, must have been the sorrow, the heart-ache, the bitter thoughts and soul-racking experience of the exiles of '47, cast here upon this island, hovering between life and death, ravaged by the bitter attack of the fever, languishing in poverty and misery—far from the fair spot of green beauty and fresh charm set as an emerald gem in the deep blue of the ocean—the little Isle of Erin—sweetest spot this earth's vast domain—the spot they called their home.

Oh, how those fever-stricken sufferers must have sat here and wept and gazed with eyes all tear-flooded and hearts all torn with grief—gazed, gazed, out across the broad track of this mighty river, back over the path that had brought them here, to catch, perchance, one glimpse more of Erin's green-clad, sun-kissed shores, one glance more before they bowed their heads and died.

If Memory could but recall to us the plaintive cries that went up from the fever-polluted lips of Erin's stricken children who died upon this Island, and now rests beneath its sod, would we not hear once again, with but little change, the heart-gripping words of the Psalm of David poraying the lamentations of the exiled sons and daughters of Juda upon Babylon's banks. Listen, and perhaps, Memory will touch once again with Fancy's fairy fingers the long neglected chords of bygone sorrows, and, from out the silent, cloistered halls of the mystic Past will resound again the saddening dirge of the stricken pilgrims of Erin as they lay dying on the St. Lawrence's consecrated shores.

"Upon the banks of the St. Lawrence, there we sat and wept; when we remembered thee, fair Erin: Upon the shores of this land we lay down our instruments, for they that met us in our exile required of us the words of song; and they that met us, said: Sing ye to us a hymn of the songs of Erin. How shall we sing the song of the land of Erin where in a strange land? If we forget thee, O Isle of our childhood, may our right hands be forgotten. May our tongues cleave to our jaws, if we do not remember thee; if we make not our country the beginning of our joys, the last fair words of our dying lips, the last sweet thought of our minds, the last hope of our sorrow-stricken hearts."

Have we the courage, my friends, or the heart to linger long over the scenes that this dreary, rocky waste must have witnessed in those trying days of '47? Fellow countrymen of ours—men and women of old Ireland, tender children from the land of the Shamrock, huddled together like cattle, plague-stricken, fever-infested, and breathing in the pestilential air that rose from these barren rocks like a very cloud of the wrath of God, dying here by the thousands, far from home, from loved-ones, in the land of the stranger, unknown, unbefriended, with no consolation of this earth, and no anchor of hope to cling to save the deep, heart-wound, sterling Catholic Faith that is Erin's birthright and Erin's brightest jewel in the diadem of her Heavenly Glory!

When they bade farewell to the sainted shores of their Island-home, they left that treasured love-spot a prey to the dread ravages of famine. But a star of hope had appeared on the horizon and beckoned them away from all that life held dear for them in Erin—away from that loved country now stricken by the pangs of a nation-wide hunger. The star of hope went before them out across the broad ocean and was to rest above a land of promise, above a land where all was plenty, all was peace, all was contentment—a land where liberty's rights were sacred, where religion's altars were revered, and the heart of man might be at rest, secure from tyranny's demon grasp and the iron rule of hatred and persecution and death. Lured on by the bright rays of that star and the wondrous promises its glittering beams portended, our people left Ireland by the thousands and rushed eagerly to the hospitable shores of Canada and the United States.

How the ship fever struck so many down on that voyage across, how so many many died aboard ship and were hurled into the sea as the last place of burial, how so many thousands were taken from the vessels in a pitiable condition, and placed here on this bleak island to die and be buried in the fever-trench, in matter fresh in the memories of all. Can our hearts be so unfeeling as not to melt at the thought of what those poor people received in place of what they expected. They expected a new home to replace the famine-afflicted scenes of their childhood, and they received a plague-stricken shelter on a rock-bound island. They expected to amass great wealth and live in ease and comfort and they were cut off by death almost before they had set foot on the land, teeming with promise. They looked for peace and power and plenty, and they received naught but misery, fever and death. They expected to be able to spend their future days consoled by religion's sacred rites and faith's unflinching treasures, and they were forced, we might say, to die far from the bright portals of the church they had dreamed of, and planned to attend and love for many a year. All that these loyal hearts expected to receive in the land of golden harvests, of fabulous wealth, and untold opportunity was denied them—and in its stead was given them nothing but sickness, misfortune, fever, anguish and the tomb.

My friends, today we are assembled near this spot made sacred by the remains of so many hallowed dead. The great granite cross that the deep, undying generosity of a noble, truly Catholic Society has erected here over the resting place of so many of our loved ones, speaks to us in silent, pleading words of what this day's memorial service means. It speaks to us, first of all, in words of sorrow and tells us "Remember the consecrated dead." The arms of that Cross are stretched out in a wide embrace to take to its heart all those who sleep here the sleep of the just. That Cross is the symbol of the faith that made bright and easy the sadness of the death of so many fever-stricken sons and daughters of Erin. That Cross is the symbol of another Cross, rough and coarse and wooden, which witnessed our Redemption by Christ's sacred blood. Through the lips of this great Granite Cross that first holy Cross speaks to us today and tells of the deep red drops of saving Blood that trickled down its sacred side. It tells us of the sanctity that immortalized that Cross which felt the touch of Christ's sacred members as He lay thereon in agony. It tells us of the consecration that Cross received from the imprint of the hands and feet and sacred thorn-crowned Head that were pressed so close to its favored wood for three long hours. By all the treasured memories of this great Memorial Cross cries out to us today and bids us, for the sake of Christ and His eternal love, be mindful of our dead.

Those that lie here are, so to say, sanctified in their death, for their sufferings were intense, and their torments of soul and body deep and lasting. In Christ's abiding Faith had they ever lived. For His dear sake, and His alone, they endured here sufferings unparalleled. The bitterest torments heralded their death here on this fever-doomed island-rock. But the faith of the cherished shrines of their own fair Emerald Isle was as dear to their hearts in its final beatings as it ever was in days of greatest peace and prosperity. For Christ they had lived and toiled and suffered. For His sake now they are to die—and in the shadow of His sweet Cross they rest in calm and in joy, secure for all time from the blight of error and the bitter taint of deadly sin.

O Cross of Christ—take tongue today and speak. Cry out to Hibernian's children here present in faith and loyal affection. "Remember your dead." Let not the remembrance of those who lie here cold and still be the remembrance of but one day in the year; no, but let that remembrance be the daily memory of a life-time. Let the prayers of your hearts be offered up every day for those buried here. Let the words of the Church be ever on your lips—"Eternal rest grant to them, O Lord. Eternal rest, and let perpetual light shine upon them, and may their souls rest in peace through God's mercy forevermore."

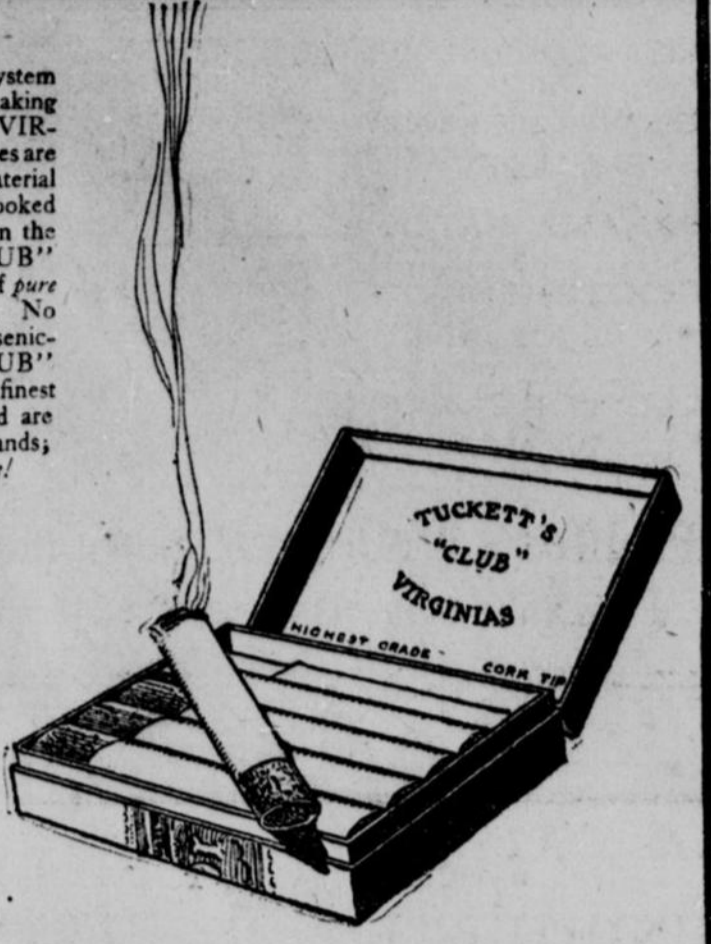

Let us heed once more the message of the massive Cross that greets the eye of every emigrant arriving at our shores. To each fresh stranger seeking the shelter of our loved land, to each and all of us today, that Cross on this Island of so many sweetly-sad recollections cries out a weighty message. It speaks to us of Faith in God—May that faith be as green and as bright in our hearts as the green grass of the fields, the green foliage of the trees that mantle the wooded shores of this majestic River, the green flag that waves over us and proclaims us as lovers and followers of the Faith of a Patrick, a Columbkil, a Columba and a Lawrence O'Toole.

That Cross speaks to us all of a Trust in God—a Trust as great as the trust that smoothed the dying pillows and soiced the last lingering hours of those holy ones who passed away here in the days of '47. That Cross speaks to us all of the unchangeableness of our Belief and our Church. Though all else may change, our Church changeth not. Though all else may fail, our Faith will fail us not. Though all else may deceive, our God-crowned Church will deceive us not. The Faith that made the fever patients of '47 die with the smile of God's countenance upon their lips, the peace of Heaven upon their brow, and the sun-light of the Divine Presence within their hearts, is our faith today, our faith tomorrow, our faith forever.

May we always heed the lesson of that Cross. May we bear away with us from this hallowed shrine of so many sainted memories, the recollection of this day, and the meaning of its memory. May we hold fast the faith of our ancestors through storm and shine, through peace and combat, for weal or woe, in life and in death, until the radiant portals of God's Home of bliss will be our reward for clinging to that faith which is our forefathers' proudest boast and truest pride. May we cleave to our hope in God as to the anchor of our soul that will bind us in all things, close to one another in the peace and charity of true Christian brotherhood and close to the heart of God in the undying bond of holiest love. May we above all cherish deep in our memories our departed dead, those especially who lie buried here, so many hundred miles away from Erin so far away from the home of their adoption, buried on the bleak shores of this desolate Island with naught to shelter their memory save the great Granite Cross, and none to sing Requiem of sorrow over their remains save the sad changing waters of the mighty river as it hurries on in its flight towards the Sea.

May we in conclusion find a fitting thought in the words of the great Irish Bard and sweet world-singer, Thomas Moore. These words of one of his Irish melodies I have taken the liberty to change slightly to make more appropriate to this time and place and the occasion we commemorate—

"It is not the tear at this moment shed,
Where the cold turf has long been laid
O'er them,
That can tell how beloved were the souls that have fled,
Or how deep in our hearts we deplore
them,
'Tis the tear through many a long day
wept,
Through lives by their losses all shaded;
'Tis the sad remembrance so fondly kept
When all lighter griefs have faded:
'Oh, thus shall we mourn, and their memory's light,
While it shines through our hearts,
will improve them,
For worth shall look fairer and truth
more bright,
When we think how they lived but to love them,
And as buried saints the grave perfume

SO rigid, so unremitting is the system of scrutiny enforced in the making of Tuckett's "CLUB" VIRGINIAS that thousands of Cigarettes are discarded every day for slight, immaterial imperfections which would be overlooked by even the critical smoker. Even the paper in which Tuckett's "CLUB" VIRGINIAS are rolled is made of pure rice paper imported direct from France. No chances are taken with ordinary arsenic-tainted papers. GREEKS HAVE CAPTURED 82 GUNS, 10,000 PRISONERS

London, July 14—The Daily Telegraph correspondent with the Greek army says that the Greeks to date have captured eighty-two guns and ten thousand prisoners.

A Belgrade despatch to the Telegraph says that the Serbian invasion of Bulgaria has been successful, but was confined to the district between the frontier and the Pirot-Kustendil line. The Servians are advancing and making good progress.

The Daily Mail's correspondent with the Servians sends the following despatch:

"There has been no fighting since Wednesday. The weather is wet and the roads heavy. A Russian photographer who visited the scene of the Kivolak battle found evidence of the Bulgarians having encircled, mutilated and burned wounded Servians."

The Constantinople correspondent of the Mail reports long negotiations between Turkey and Roumania and believes an understanding has practically been reached. Roumania wants five torpedo boats, which Turkey is willing to lend on condition that Roumania supports her.

10 MORE GROCERS IN SPICE CASES

MAKES TOTAL OF 21 SO FAR SUMMONED FOR SELLING ADULTERATED GOODS.

The local inspector in the employ of the Department of the Interior, who is investigating the food stuffs sold by Quebec grocers, has taken out ten more actions against city storekeepers charging them with selling adulterated white pepper and ground cinnamon. This will make 21 city grocers summoned by the inspector, three of whom have pleaded guilty. They claim, however, to have sold the goods in good faith, as they purchased them from the wholesale houses in the condition afterwards sold to their customers at retail.

The bulk of the grocers summoned will appear at the Police Court on the 20th instant, and it is said that they will contest the charge.

INDECENT ASSAULT.

A man named Morin, aged 40 years, was arrested yesterday, charged with indecent assault, and when brought before the Police Court pleaded not guilty. The case was fixed for a hearing at a later date, and the accused gave bail to be on hand when wanted.

POLICE COURT.

A carter arrested for crossing the car tracks on the Harbor Commission property, instead of going by the regularly appointed crossing, was condemned to pay $1 and costs in the Police Court yesterday.

A young man from Montmorency, accused of causing a disturbance at the Falls on Sunday was fined $1 and costs.

LAKE ST. JOHN RAILWAY PASSENGER TRAIN DERAILED

The passenger train on the Quebec and Lake St. John Railway, which left Chicoutimi yesterday morning was derailed near Chambord Junction, on the Chicoutimi branch of the line, near Roberval, and the train held up for repair to the track until 6 o'clock last night, and is only expected to arrive at Quebec this morning at 6.30 o'clock.

Inquiries from the company elicit the information that the train left the track by a spreading of the rails, and except for a severe shaking up of the passengers, no damage was done to the train property and no person injured.

GOVERNMENT BUYS VALUABLE LETTERS

MANUSCRIPT COLLECTION IS SOLD BY ABBE DABOIS FOR $8,240.

The Abbe Dabois, formerly principal of the Normal School, Montreal, has arranged to sell to the Dominion Government collections of manuscripts by the Hon. John Neilson and De Sa laberry, at the price of $2,240. Of the 11,621 different manuscripts acquired privately by the Abbe, only 1,075 pass over to the Canadian archives the collection dating from 1795 to 1848 but the government have included in their purchase the works of the greatest value. The list includes sketches of celebrated Canadians, by Henry Morgan, nine letters of Baldwin (1822-44), letter of Judge Bedard (1804-29), 66 valuable letters of John Bennett, of York, Upper Canada (1795-1833); 21 letters of Robert Christie, the historian; 31 of Robert Gourlay, the journalist; 31 of William Lyon Mackenzie, who took a prominent part in the rebellion, and 34 by Papineau.

Many of the letters are of great political and historical interest, and the Abbe finds great pleasure in perusing their contents.

In addition to the manuscripts, Abbe Dabois has a large collection of books in English, French and Indian, the first ever printed in Quebec and Montreal. The first printing was done in Quebec in 1764, and the Abbe has many books printed in the following year. The Abbe believes his own collection is more numerous and more valuable than those owned by Laval University or by the Dominion Government. He is in no hurry to sell them, believing that year by year they will increase in value.

BOY SCOUTS HOME FROM LAKE TAMARACOUTA CAMP.

The delegation of Quebec Boy Scouts that attended the Boy Scouts Camp at Lake Tamaracouta returned by the Steamer Canada on Saturday, after a very pleasant visit.

This camp, presented to the Scouts by the late Col. A. E. Whitehead, of Montreal, consists of 300 acres, and is situated in the heart of the Laurentians, the country and climate are ideal for a Scout camp.

The entire camp was under the charge of the Provincial Secretary, E. R. Patterson, the Quebec detachment being under Scoutmasters C. W. Wigg and F. A. Ross.

The boys not only thoroughly enjoyed themselves, but worked hard, passed examinations, and gained the following badges:

Second-class: H. Sewell, T. Lane, A. White, C. Goodnoh, B. Brehaut, W. Ross;

Marksmans badge: G. Simmons, E. Wiggs.

Handyman's badge: Edgar Wiggs, Lorne Wiggs.

Interpreter's badge: Lorne Wiggs, H. Sewell, W. Ross.

Swimmers badge: Edgar Wiggs.

Missioners badge: Edgar Wiggs.

Before the camp broke up, a letter signed by all the boys, and forwarded to Lieutenant-Colonel W. M. MacPherson, thanking him for his great kindness in allowing the boys to travel to and from Montreal on the Steamer Laurentic and Canada.

GROCCERS DISCUSS CARTAGE SERVICE

ANNUAL CONVENTION OF THE WHOLESALE GUILD OPENS AT BOARD OF TRADE.

The Wholesale Grocers' Guild of the Dominion of Canada opened their annual convention in the Quebec Board of Trade rooms yesterday morning, with delegates from every part of Canada in attendance.

Mr. Archibald Miller, of the Quebec firm of Whitehead & Turner, President of the Guild, presided at the meeting yesterday, and the delegates present were: Messrs. Gerald Fitzgerald, of the F. J. Castle Co., Ltd., Ottawa; J. B. E. Letellier, Quebec; Armand Chaput, of L. Chaput, Fils & Co., Ltd., Montreal; J. M. Dillon, of A. M. Smith & Co., London, Ont.; J. A. Beaudry, Secretary Retail Merchants' Association, Montreal; Wm. Turnbull, of E. Adams & Co., Ltd., London, Ont.; A. E. McLean, of K. P. Ritchet & Co., Victoria, B.C.; S. C. Burton, of Cameron & Heap, Ltd., Regina, Sask.; W. G. Craig, of W. G. Craig & Co., Ltd., Kingston; G. R. Lloyd, of Macpherson, Glass & Co., Hamilton, Ont.; Arthur Desrochers, of Lalonde & Desrochers, Ltd., Montreal; Joseph Ethier, Montreal; C. A. Langlois, of Langlois & Paradis, Quebec; E. E. B. Rattray, of Drouin Freres & Rattray, Quebec; F. L. Innes, of Dominion Canned Co., Ltd., Hamilton, Ont.; H. Blouin, of E. & G. Blouin, Ltd., Toronto; Z. Hebert, of Hudon, Hebert & Cie., Ltd., Montreal; W. C. Cross, of Hall & Fairweather, Ltd., St. John, N.B.; H. C. Beckett, of W. H. G. Gillard & Co., Hamilton, Ont.; Villebon Garant, of Gagnon & Garant, Ltd., Quebec; P. J. Bazin, of Naz, Turcotte & Cie., Quebec; Hon. R. Turner, of Whitehead & Turner, Quebec; Jos. Winfield, Hon. Secretary Quebec Local Guild, Quebec; and R. R. Wilson, of Campbell Bros. & Wilson, Ltd., Winnipeg.

Welcomed By Mayor.

The convention was in session yesterday morning when His Worship Mayor Drouin entered the meeting room and welcomed the delegates to Quebec. Messrs. Z. Hebert in French and the President, Mr. Arch. Miller and Mr. Burton in English, acknowledged the compliment.

The meeting is private, as the business under discussion only concerns questions of the trade. It was later given out, however, that one of the questions discussed was the cartage problem in Montreal, which is of great importance to the trade in general.

For years the railway companies have been responsible for the transportation of all goods shipped and carted from the warehouses to the various freight depots, and had their own cartage agencies for the accommodation for the trade of Montreal.

Recently the railways notified the business people of Montreal that they intended to discontinue the service, and advised the trade that they would have to provide their own cartage service for the future, etc.

In the meantime the wholesale trade of Montreal is at a loss to know that they are to transport their goods to the railway freight depots in Montreal. They do not object to a raise in the cartage rates if the railways will only continue the service.

A special committee was appointed to study the question and if necessary deal with the railway companies.

One of the members of the Guild discussing the situation said: "As it is the conditions of shipping freight through the sheds in Montreal is extremely vexatious. The companies are short-handed in clerks and labor to handle the goods, and teamsters often have to wait an hour before they can be relieved of their loads of merchandise. Should the companies cease to take charge of the cartage, as they propose, business will suffer to a terrible extent, which we want to avoid, even if we must pay the price."

During the afternoon session, a photographer was introduced to the meeting and took a picture of the delegates in convention. Later in the afternoon, Mr. J. B. E. Letellier invited a number of the visitors to go with him and inspect the harbor improvements in progress.

This noon the visiting delegates will be the guests of the Quebec members of the Guild to a luncheon at Kent House.

BAZAAR AT ST. CATHERINES.

The Church Fair for the benefit of the church at St. Catherine, Rouen County, is now on.

Rev. Father Jolicoeur, parish priest, and organizer of the bazaar has done all what could possibly be expected, to make a success of this event, therefore, it is to be hoped that a great number of persons from Quebec and surrounding places, will go to St. Catherine's, and give a good encouragement.

In order to accommodate the public the Quebec and Lake St. John will run trains to Lake St. Joseph Hotel, on Tuesday and Thursday, leaving Quebec at 5.10 and 6.15 p.m., stopping at all intermediate stations. Returning a train will leave Lake St. Joseph Hotel at 11.00 p.m.

Saturday, the 19th inst. trains will leave Quebec at 1.45 p.m. and 5.10 p.m., for Lake St. Joseph Hotel. To accommodate persons desiring to return to Quebec the same evening, a train will leave Lake St. Joseph Hotel at 11.00 p.m.

For further information regarding fares, departure of trains, etc., apply at the Ticket Office, Canadian Northern Station.

THE LAND IN DENMARK.

Recently the authorities in Wisconsin sent a commission to Denmark in order to investigate the conditions in that country. Their report is instructive because it shows that the solution of the agricultural problem is to give the producer the entire product of his labor. Much of it was formerly a bleak waste of sand dunes. Only the eastern part of the

LAWYERS A MENACE TO JUSTICE

By FREDERICK TREVOR HILL.

Author of "Lincoln, the Lawyer;" "Decisive Battles of the Law, &c.;" Member of the New York Bar. [Copyright, 1913, by the New York Herald Company—All Rights Reserved.]

THE American Bar Association at its last meeting in Milwaukee was vastly disturbed by the discovery that certain negro lawyers (among whom was an Assistant United States Attorney General) had been admitted to its fold, and its Executive Committee promptly unseated them.

There was apparently nothing in the private character or the professional conduct of any of the excluded attorneys which disqualified them for membership in the association. The only objection urged against them was that they had been elected upon the supposition that they were white men, but the sufficiency of this objection was instantly challenged.

The result was that, after a heated discussion and strenuous efforts on the part of Attorney General Wickersham, the action of the Executive Committee was reversed and the colored advocates were restored to all their rights and privileges. A resolution was then passed to the effect that in future the color of each candidate for membership should be avowed by his sponsors, and with this sop to the opposition (and the dignified resignation of one of the reinstated counselors!) the incident was declared officially closed.

Facts Warrant Attention.

It seems unfortunate, however, in view of the apparently growing distrust with which the American public is coming to regard lawyers and their practices, that the association did not see fit to carry the matter a step further. Unless all the signs of the times are at fault, there is a crying need for some authoritative legal body to consider what qualifications (other than color) are essential for members of the legal fraternity in the present day and generation, and what measures, if any, should be taken to maintain the standards of the honorable profession of the law.

Certainly the facts warrant attention. Take, for example, the conditions prevailing in the city of New York.

During the year 1910 there were 551 complaints against attorneys filed with the Association of the Bar of the City of New York, and in that city there are at least three other bar associations to which similar complaints may be properly addressed.

In 1911 there were 838 such complaints filed with the same institution—an increase of fifty-two per cent—and its Grievance Committee, which is charged with the duty of investigating the conduct of attorneys, was forced to enlarge its facilities for handling the heavy increase of this ugly business. Indeed, it was soon found necessary to assign two entire floors in the association's annex in Forty-third street for the accommodation of the committee, whose office staff now includes a prosecuting attorney, two assistants, two clerks, two stenographers and two office boys. Nor is the end yet.

549 Complaints.

Up to August 1, 1912, at least 549 complaints against attorneys have been filed with this one committee, and at that rate there is every prospect that no less than a thousand complaints will be recorded against members of the Bar before the close of the current year.

Now if these figures applied to the whole city they would be grave enough, but when it is remembered that this Bar Association confines its activities exclusively to the boroughs of Manhattan and the Bronx they are absolutely startling. What do they mean?

There are no exact statistics showing the number of practicing lawyers in the city of New York, but the combined membership of all the bar associations in the five boroughs does not exceed six thousand. It is extremely doubtful then if there are anything like six thousand attorneys in active practice in the two boroughs of Manhattan and the Bronx; probably there are not more than four thousand. But, assuming that there are six thousand, the record indicates that this year will see an official complaint of some kind filed against every sixth practitioner of the honorable profession of the law within those narrow limits.

Of course some of the complaints are frivolous and others are downright blackmail. But they cannot all be dismissed upon such grounds. Their very number is significant. No complaints are considered unless they are reduced to writing, and it is a serious matter for any layman to prefer written charges against a lawyer. Indeed, it is sometimes extremely difficult to persuade an aggrieved client to take such action, and every lawyer of experience knows that many of the gravest offenses are, for this reason, never reported. Moreover, it is exceedingly difficult for a layman to present legal proof of his charges, even when he does make them. And yet in spite of the dangers and difficulties the number of such complaints is on the increase. This one fact reflects a condition of affairs—a dissatisfaction on the part of the public—which challenges the attention of every thoughtful member of the legal profession.

Why is the conduct of the Bar being more and more called into question every year? Is it because the standards of the profession are being lowered? Is it because the Bar is not protecting itself and the public by properly disciplining its own members?

Inclination for the role of moral censor have long closed their mouths and are fast closing their eyes to the dubious performances of the legal braves and other "limbs of the law."

No one wishes to provoke the "holier-than-thou" sneer, or to open himself to the charge of claiming to be better than his associates. The result is that the honest and honorable majority have gradually schooled themselves to take the most charitable view of the disgraceful juggling of the minority or to condone them by silence.

That this is a fair statement of the case, witness the attitude of the New York County Lawyers' Association—a highly respectable body almost three thousand strong. This organization has a well selected Discipline Committee, but its policy for years has been to confine its functions to the investigation of public scandals connected with the practice of the law and to leave each individual practitioner to his own devices. Indeed, it has repeatedly pronounced that it will not undertake any espousal in regard to its brethren, declaring that "it does not consider it to be its duty to prow around and try to discover delinquencies for the purpose of discipline," and that it will adhere to this rule until the association as a whole shall otherwise direct.

Delays Destroying Confidence.

Sufficient to say that the association as a whole has never otherwise directed. Meanwhile the official complaints against "the brethren" are steadily increasing, and there are other ominous signs of popular restiveness and dissatisfaction with the Bar throughout the whole country.

Now, of course if the legal profession had no public function, neither its discipline nor its standards would be matters of the slightest importance to any one outside of its own ranks. But it has a public function. Its members are officers of the courts, responsible in no small measure for the administration of justice. And with the administration of justice in this country the public is profoundly discontented.

Delays, technicalities, trickeries and other mockeries of the law are fast destroying the popular confidence in the courts. It requires no expert eye to detect the maladministration of the law and the practical denial of justice which is threatening the very foundations of our government. The man in the street is well aware that something is radically wrong with the legal machinery. He does not know what it is, but the plainest figure in sight is the judge on the bench. Therefore he is the first object of attack, and there is consequently a formidable and growing popular demand for the recall of judges.

For our sins we may have to experiment with this form of mobocracy. Indeed, in their resentment, the American people may actually destroy the whole judicial system before they discover that the real source of the trouble lies elsewhere. But public opinion is beginning to concentrate on the Bar, and there is reason to believe that before our temples of justice are brought down about our ears the guilty persons will stand remorselessly exposed.

Too Many Legal Technicalities.

It is not necessary to "prow around" to procure evidence of the responsibility of the Bar for the intolerable delays and monstrous perversions of the law. Go into any court room where a calendar is being called and listen to the flood of shams and falsehoods which inundate the Bench. Do the decent, self-respecting majority of the Bar protest against this disgraceful exhibition and combine to protect the Bench? They do not. They are not going to sit in judgment on their peers or "pry into their professional conduct." Let the judges take care of themselves!

What is the result? From the moment a calendar judge enters his court he is practically fighting single-handed to prevent "officers of the court" from clogging the wheels of justice! No lawyer of experience will deny that to-day the chief business of a judge in charge of court calendars is to force attorneys to try their cases. It is not the Bench that procures the postponements which exhaust and impoverish the litigant. It is the unscrupulous element of the Bar which has so long enjoyed immunity that its practices almost have the sanction of custom.

Why, if "deception of the Court" were really a cause for disbarment the ranks of the profession could be thinned on every call of a metropolitan court calendar! But unless this deception take the form of a carelessly drawn affidavit—amounting to perjury—the tricksters not only go unpunished, but they actually lose no standing in the profession.

Examine the sheaf of legal documents that is accumulated in nearly every litigation long before the cause is even within hailing distance of a trial and note what it contains. Anything that has to do with the merits of the case? Scarcely a word! It is composed of motion papers, orders, appeals from orders, demurrers, interlocutory judgments, notices, bills of particulars, cross-motions and countless other iniquities of practice and procedure.

In plain English, the facts in a lawsuit are almost buried under a mass of technicalities, trickeries, obstructions and counter obstructions, before there is even a chance of their being investigated, and if they ever do come to light the odds are that they will be twisted beyond recognition in some legal trap.

Let us examine the report of 1911 and see what became of the 838 complaints filed with the Bar Association in that year. The record is extremely suggestive of the classic "Ten Little Niggers."

"Ten little niggers going out to dine, Big Bear ate one and then there were nine."

Of the 838 complaints 731 were dismissed as being without merit, 107 were seriously considered, 77 were deemed to justify the taking of testimony, 38 were reported as fit subjects for prosecution in the courts, and 22 resulted in official disbarment, suspension or censure. Eight hundred and thirty-eight complaints and only 22 upheld!

Verily the mountain labored and brought forth a mouse!

But perhaps this was an exceptional year. Let us see what the first seven months of 1912 show. Thus far there have been 549 complaints and the total disbarments, suspensions and censures amount to exactly 19!

Now all this indicates either that a great mass of libel and slander is being heaped upon the Bar every year or that its standards of professional conduct does not measure up to the expectations of the public, or that its discipline is, to say the least, ineffective.

Let us see if an analysis of the disbarments, suspensions and censures during the present subject.

Of the nineteen disciplined attorneys six were disbarred for conviction of crime, which of itself works disbarment; five were disbarred for offenses of a criminal character, one was suspended for two years for stealing his client's money, another was suspended for one year for practically bribing a witness, and six were censured. For what were the censures administered? Well, in three instances the gentlemen stole their clients' money ("conversion" is the official term, but "stealing will continue stealing"); two of the other gentlemen presented false affidavits to the court (committed "near perjury"), and the remaining one made a false certificate as a notary (committed "near forgery"). One would think that these were rather serious offenses in officers of the court. But like the contained lady who, when her nurse "threw the lady into the 'airy,' merely shook her finger at Mary," the Court contented itself with admonishing the delinquents by saying "Naughty! Naughty!" in official tones and leaving them to continue the practice of the law.

If this is a fair sample of the discipline of the Bar throughout the country—and it is a fair sample—it would seem that attorneys who do not actually commit crimes are practically immune from any real punishment at the hands of their peers.

Work of Grievance Committee.

For this the Bar Association of the City of New York is not to blame. It maintains a busy bureau of complaint and its Grievance Committee is composed of conscientious gentlemen of high standing, who work hard without compensation at a thankless task. But the truth is that there is no strong sentiment within the profession favoring the maintenance of strict discipline. It is utterly useless for this or any other disciplinary committee to arraign attorneys on charges involving dishonorable tactics, unethical methods, or even gross professional improprieties as long as charges based on crime result in nothing more serious than official reprimands.

Doubtless the courts would be more severe with offenders if there was any evidence of a desire on the part of the Bar for the purging of its rolls. That the vast majority of the profession does desire this cannot be doubted. There are just as many honest and honorable men at the Bar to-day as there ever were, and they can control the sinister element at will. But a mistaken leniency to the profession and a natural dis-

ANNUAL BANQUET OF QUEBEC FRENCHMEN

SONS OF LA MERE PATRIE
CONCLUDE CELEBRATION OF NATIONAL FETE.

The French colony in this city, which celebrated their national feast this year in a most enthusiastic manner, brought their festivities to a most successful issue when about 150 citizens, including a number of ladies, sat down to a magnificent banquet given at the Kent House last evening, by the Quebec French Colony.

Previous to the banquet there was a drawing of a tombola organized by the Society, and for which over 30 valuable prizes were given. Shortly after 8 o'clock the guests entered the large dining hall, where the banquet took place, and immediately set to work discussing the elaborate menu which was presented to them by Mine Host Knight, who certainly surpassed himself on this occasion.

Mr. Lucien Borne, Sr., the Dean of the French Colony in this city, presided, having on his right Mr. St. Victor, President of the Society and French Consular Agent in this city and on his left Senator Choquette, while among others at the table of honor were Hon. Mr. Delage, Speaker of the Legislative Assembly, Ald. Verret, representing Mayor Drouin, Mr. Landrieu, Mr. Nap. Lavoie, Mr. D'Hellencourt, Dr. Art. Leclerc, Mr. J. E. A. Pin, Dr. Morin, Mr. Rippe, Chief Trudel and Mr. Borne, Jr.

When cigars were reached, toasts were in order, the chairman acting as toastmaster and proposing the health of "The King," which was royally received, the guests singing the National Anthem, accompanied by the 8th R. R. band, which performed during the evening a splendid program of national and popular airs, which were thoroughly enjoyed and applauded.

In proposing "The President of the Republic and France," Mr. D'Hellencourt made a very eloquent address to which Mr. St. Victor replied in his usual able manner.

"Canada and the Province of Quebec" was the next toast and full justice was rendered to it by Senator Choquette and Hon. Mr. Delage, who were called upon to respond.

Mr. Rippe proposed the health of the City of Quebec, and Ald. Verret replied.

Mr. Pin, Secretary of St. Jean Baptiste Society, responded to the health of that Society, which was proposed by Mr. Borne, Jr.

"The French Societies and sister Societies" was proposed by Mr. Burtin and to the toast of L'Alsace-Lorraine, Messrs. Madier and Ruhlman responded in a very happy manner.

"The Ladies" and "The Press" were not forgotten and suitable replies were made. The happy gathering broke up shortly after 1 o'clock this morning, when all returned to town highly pleased with the evening's entertainment and the courtesy displayed by their hosts.

The committee to whom the success of the banquet is due, was composed of the following members of the Society: President, Mr. R. Landrieu; Treasurer, Mr. Eug. Tardivel; Committee, Messrs. L. Lewis, L. Depyre, and R. Ledus.

FRENCH COLONY OBSERVES FETE

MONTREAL FRENCHMEN HAVE THREE-DAY CELEBRATION
BECAUSE OF DESCARTES.

Montreal, July 14—The French colony in Montreal today celebrated the 124th anniversary of the storming and destruction of the Bastille, in Paris. In Paris the national fete is always kept up for three days, and in this city this year that example has been followed, largely, owing to the presence of the cruiser Descartes in the port. The arrangements for the fete was made by L'Union Nationale Francaise, and they comprise religious, social and convivial events. In the chapel of the Sacred Heart in Notre Dame Church a special Mass was celebrated by Archbishop Bruchesi. The sermon delivered by Father Coster recall how inseparable true patriotism is from religion and how the great names in French History have been bound up with the church. When Maisonneuve founded he did so by celebrating a Mass.

For French-speaking Protestants there was also a service conducted in the St. Jean Presbyterian Church corner of St. Catherine and Cadieux streets, at which Rev. H. Jollet, was the preacher.

ing Detective Walsh that he only served 18 months of his time, and was released last month, when he when he made his way to Quebec, though this city is not his home.

He also admitted having committed the robbery, but said the man with him was perfectly innocent, and he only had met him a few moments before his arrest, and had asked him to the saloon to have a drink.

Speaking of the robbery of the bag of money from Mr. Macnider's office, the prisoner said it was an irresistible cinch. All he had to do was to walk in and lift the swag from the counters, and leave the premises.

Keilly will be brought before the Police Court this morning and is expected to plead guilty, and return to the penitentiary after his short liberty for a long term of years.

SOUNDS FROM A RAINBOW.

It seems incredible that a beam of light could be made to produce sound, but such a thing can be done. A ray of sunlight is thrown through a lens on a glass vessel containing lamp-black, colored silk or worsted, or any like substance. A disk having slits or openings cut in it is made to revolve swiftly in this beam of light, so as to "cut it up," thus causing alternate flashes of light and shadow. When one places his ear to the glass vessel he hears strange sounds so long as the flashing beam falls upon the vessel.

A still more extraordinary effect is produced when the beam of sunlight is made to pass through a prism, so as to produce what is called the solar spectrum. The disk is turned and the colored light of the rainbow is made to break through it. Now, if the ear be placed to the vessel containing the silk or other material, as the colored lights of the spectrum fall upon it, sounds will be given by the different parts of the spectrum and there will be silence in other parts.

For example, if the vessel contains red worsted and the green light flashes upon it, loud sounds will be given out. Only feeble sounds will be heard when the red and the blue parts of the rainbow fall upon the vessel. Other colors produce no sounds at all.

Green silk gives out sound best in a red light. Every kind of material gives more or less sound in different colors and no sound at all in others.—Harper's Weekly.

PORFIRO DIAZ LONGS FOR MEXICO

EX-PRESIDENT OF REPUBLIC HOPES THAT PEACE WILL BE ESTABLISHED SOON.

Paris, July 14—Porfirio Diaz, ex-President of Mexico, feels the call of home and longs for the time when he can return to a tranquil country.

The voluntary exile enjoyed his months in Egypt; the visit to Rome was interesting and his stay in Nice would have been agreeable had not every mail brought letters and newspapers describing the distress and disturbance in Mexico.

From Italy the former President and Senor Diaz came to Paris, and they are now living in pleasant rooms near the Arc de Triomphe, with a small staff. Diaz has a secretary and valet and his wife a maid. They drive out every day in their own motor.

Limantour, Diaz's former minister of finance, lives a few doors away and often looks in to see him, and Senor Delanda, ex-minister to France, calls frequently. A good many Mexicans living in Paris or travelling call on the retired president and deplore his absence from Mexico.

Whenever Diaz says anything on this subject, however, it is to declare that he will not go back until the country is quiet and in the hands of a stable government. This, he believes, soon will be the case, and he has even mentioned the late summer or early fall as the time when he could possibly go home to a peaceful old age.

Although seemingly quite well, Porfirio Diaz does not today give the impression of a man who could ever again enter active affairs. Whirl strong for his 82 years, his hands tremble and he is easily tired.

Paris, the asylum of fugitive presidents and exiled kings, affords him few amusements. The days pass in hope of an early return home. Nevertheless, Diaz has a living interest in public events. He is punctilious in replying promptly to all letters, and he receives all callers who have the least claim upon him, with pleasant cordiality.

PRESIDENT'S DAILY PAPER.

English Airman Flies Over From Paris With the Latest News.

London, July 14—Mr. Robert Slack, the Nottingham aviator, flew from Paris to London during President Poincaré's visit to England, bringing with him the French morning papers for M. Poincaré.

He left Paris at 4:45 a.m. flying in a Morane-Saulnier monoplane, and owing to shortness of petrol came down at Folkestone at 9 a.m. It was very cloudy and gusty weather and at Headley, near Epsom Downs, Mr. Slack, not having seen the ground for some time and not knowing his whereabouts, made another descent. Thence he flew to Hendon without adventure, arriving at 1:40 p.m.

Mr. Slack's most trying experience was when his gauge glass, which records the consumption of petrol, broke, and the contents were blown into his face. He was nearly blinded, and when he landed at Hendon he bore the marks of the mishap in a series of black and blue patches on his face. This incident happened when Mr. Slack was flying over Folkestone at a height of 3,000 feet, and while he was engaged in pumping petrol from tank to another.

The newspapers which Mr. Slack brought with him were sent by special motor car to Buckingham Palace, addressed to King George and President Poincaré.

The flight of Mr. Slack from Paris was an incident in an aviation scheme for honoring M. Poincaré's visit to London. The visit of the French President to the Institut Français at Marble Arch was made the occasion for a competitive procession of decorated motor cars to Hendon.

BUTTER FROM THE BUFFALO.

The Government agricultural chemists of Bombay and Bengal recently published a paper on the milk of some breeds of Indian buffaloes. As buffalo milk is extensively used in India, the records of the experiment have been received with considerable interest. The Indian Agriculturalist says on the subject:

"It is known that buffalo milk is richer than that of European or even Indian cows, and hence the buffalo is valued highly as a butter-producing animal. Most of the data on record, however, seems to be for the buffalo in other countries than India. F. Strohmeyer analyzed the milk of buffaloes in Transylvania and found a high percentage of fat (one 9 per cent); he did not notice and essential difference in the butter produced from cow's milk.

"A very complete examination of the composition of the milk of the Egyptian buffalo was made in 1890. The next analysis was that made by Mr. Leather in India, who summarized by an extraordinarily high proportion of butter fat, 7 and 8 per cent being common, and in one case close on 10 per cent was found. Buffalo milk is white and the butter is also milk sugar and mineral matter correspond very closely to those of cow's milk. "The latest investigations were carried out during a period of 15 months on a number of buffalo cows belonging to the Poona civil dairy, and confirm all previous results. The experts say that given suitable conditions, the Indian buffalo stands out from the best breeds of milking cows as a producer of butter fat."

"I AM SATISFIED I COULD NOT LIVE

If It Were Not For "Fruit-a-tives,"
The Wonderful Fruit Medicine
Fenaghvale, Ont., Jan. 29th, 1910.
"For thirty-five years (and I am now a man over seventy) I have been a terrible sufferer from Constipation. No matter what remedy or physician I employed, the result was always the same—impossible to get a cure. About 2 years ago, I read the testimonial of Hon. John Costigan regarding "Fruit-a-tives" and I decided to give them a trial. I have used "Fruit-a-tives" ever since. They are the first and only medicine that suited my case. If it were not for "Fruit-a-tives," I am satisfied I could not live."

JAMES PROUDFOOT.

Mr. Proudfoot is one of the prominent farmers of Prescott County and has been Treasurer of Caledonia Township for years. "Fruit-a-tives" is sold at 50c a box, 6 for $2.50—trial size, 25c. by dealers or from Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa.

A CHALLENGE.

We defy all the real estate firms of Lauzon to prove the contrary of what is affirmed here.

The lots of the Parc Levis are the nearest to the dry dock, the church, the convent, college, the Intercolonial station, and the Ruel factories than the lots of all other firms.

The Parc Levis HAS FOR ITSELF ALONE the advantage to adjoin the government land and to be crossed from one end to the other by the aqueduct of the town of Lauzon.

There are others who are selling lots a mile away from our property. Be careful in choosing your lot, and secure one nearest the Dry Dock.

IMPRISON OFFICER FOR GETTING MARRIED.

Berlin, July 8.—The pay of a German lieutenant is not sufficient to support a family, and the army regulations, as is generally the case in European countries, forbid an officer's marriage without his superior's consent. This permission is only given when a bride with a stipulated minimum dowry is found. Former Lieut. Hermann Bauer, of Dasseldorf, who is still in active service but at a time when his application to be permitted to resign had been handed in, married without the army authorities' consent. He was just sentenced to six weeks' imprisonment in a fortress.

GEOLOGISTS HAVE WHIRLWIND VISIT

WERE ENTERTAINED TO A LUNCHEON AT KENT HOUSE AND RECEPTION AT LAVAL.

So far as it is a question of Quebec the visit of the geologists in connection with the Twelfth International Geological Congress is over and done with. A party of about 68 who come from all parts of the world reached Levis yesterday morning. They spent the morning examining the rock formation at Levis and then took the ferry to Quebec where they boarded the cars for Montmorency Falls. There they were entertained to a luncheon at the Kent House. Sir George Garneau, chairman of the local reception committee, presided, having on his right Dr. Adams, President of the Congress, and on his left Mayor Drouin. After the luncheon was over Sir George Garneau made a well chosen speech of welcome. Dr. Adams responding for the Congress, Dr. Strachan for Great Britain, M. Terrier for France, and Dr. Weiskand for Germany.

In the afternoon the visitors spent some time in examining the ground at Montmorency and then returned to the city where they took a drive around Sillery.

In the evening they were the guests at Laval University, where a special reception was held in their honor. Among those present were the Lieut-Governor, Sir Francois Langelier, attended by his A. D. C., Captain Victor Pelletier, Mgr. Begin, Mgr. Amédée Gosselin, Rector of Laval, Mgr. Paquet, Abbe Lafamme, Alderman J. Cote, representing the city, Abbe Guimont, and many others.

The guests were received in the reception room by Sir Francois Langelier and Mgr. Gosselin and were then escorted through the various departments of the University, showing especial interest in the splendid collection of portraits and other paintings and in the museum. After that a move was made to the gardens which were decorated for the occasion and where the band of the R. C. G. A. rendered an excellent program.

HOME RULER WORE LILIES ON SATURDAY, THE 12TH.

A curious and amusing mistake was made last Saturday by a well-known Quebec gentleman, who is at the present time residing somewhere on the South side of the river. The gentleman in question is one of the keenest possible advocates of Home Rule and anti-Orangeism. While motoring into Quebec on the anniversary of the Battle of the Boyne Water, it appears that his wife saw some very nice-looking lilies on the side of the road and asked him to get her a bouquet of them. This he did, and put one in his own buttonhole, entirely oblivious of the day—for, if he had remembered the significance of these flowers, he would certainly have shunned them as the pest. It was, therefore, not until his arrival in Quebec that he was called to account by some of his friends who feared that he had turned renegade, much to his disgust. It is needless to say, as soon as he realized what he was doing, he at once laid no time in rejecting the lily.

HOW TO MAKE HAT ORNAMENTS.

There is a fad for extra trimmings fastened either at the front side, or back. Malines, laces, braids, silk, crepes, velvet, and velvet ribbons are all used in the construction of these new and strange ornaments. They are a great advantage to the economical woman, as small scraps of material may be used for many of them.

Short lengths of lace from which motifs may be cut and afterward suitably wired will result in a handsome trimming effect. A long quill may be made of several thicknesses basted together. A heavy silk-covered wire is wound with a strip of the maline for its entire length, and tacked along its centre lengthwise of the folded maline.

Small maline pompons mounted on stems of wire wound with maline make beautiful ornaments. To make, fold the maline into many thicknesses and then cut into circles; then fold and tack at the middle with a strong thread.

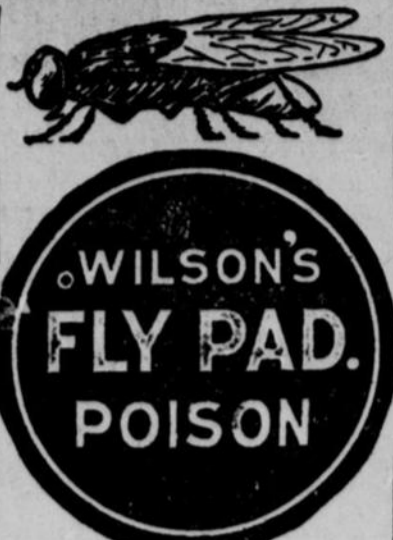

An ornament made of white hemp braid imitates a large white wink. It is cut from wide braid, or made by sewing narrow braid row upon row. It is edged with white grosgrain ribbon laid on in plaits and finished with a wire wound with ribbon.

THE POWER OF WOMAN.

Mrs. Arthur Dodge, at a dinner in Washington, smiled at the uproar recently created by her attack on the suffragettes.

"Why should woman clamor for the vote?" said Mrs. Dodge. "Hasn't woman, modern woman, got enough influence over that voting animal, man, without needing the vote in her turn? You know what they say about woman and love?"

"Every woman with one sweetheart they say, has several—the man as he is, as she thinks he is, and as he virtuously hopes to be some day. But along with this trio of sweethearts the modern woman, the twentieth-century woman, has a fourth—the man he will have to be."

Ask your Druggist or Grocer to show you the new plan for killing all the flies in your house or store in one night, and have neither flies nor fly killers about in the daytime.

BRAKEMAN HAS LEG CUT OFF

THOMAS DUBE FELL FROM CAR IN THE C. N. R. YARDS YESTERDAY.

In the yard of the Canadian Northern Railway at Limoilou yesterday morning, Thomas Dube, brakeman, had one of his legs almost ground off. Dube slipped off a car, his leg going under the wheels. Four cars passed over it. When picked up it was found that the limb was only held to the body by a shred. He was at once sent to the Hotel Dieu, where scant hopes were held out for his recovery. The victim is about thirty years of age and unmarried.

A Western man prominent as an educator, tells of a trip on a far western stage coach. He sat beside the driver and tried to engage him in conversation, but the driver was silent, and almost surly. The stage stopped for dinner at a little eating house, and when it rolled away again the driver talked and told stories and acted like another man. Later he explained the matter:

"I didn't take a shine to you this morning," he said, "because I thought you was a gospel fellow, but when I seen you eating pie with a fork, I knowed right away that you was a gambler."
