

Ormstown To Call Meeting Regarding Operation of Skating Rink For Season

Lack of Community Interest Makes Operation of Rink Each Year More Hazardous

Ormstown To Call Meeting — A general meeting of the Ladies Auxiliary of the Community Centre with the Directors was held at the Community Centre Club rooms Sept. 27th, at 8 P. M. when the president Mrs. M. A. Gartschore presided.

The minutes of the previous meeting were read and also the treasurer's report.

The Ladies executive of the Auxiliary were anxious to express their thanks and appreciation to all who donated food, money, and time to the Dining Hall at the Ormstown Fair, in June.

An account of the operation is as follows.

A motion was made to donate $25.00 to the Barrie Memorial Hospital from the Ladies Auxiliary treasurer to pay $60. for paint to give the curlers for redecorating the Club rooms.

After considerable discussion re Monument for park, it was unanimously voted that a recommendation be forwarded to the Community Centre, that the war memorial be erected forthwith.

The prospects of a rink this year are poor. It was felt by those present that the discouraging attendance at Meetings and evident lack of Community interest made the operating of the rink each year more hazardous.

It was suggested that a campaign for memberships to help defray the deficit incurred by the rink and to further park development might be of benefit.

The directors are calling a general meeting in the near future, for the purpose of discussing the problems of the skating rink and a membership campaign. The Ladies Auxiliary urge each and every person interested to make effort to be present.

Remember, whether you are a member or not, your help and co-operation are needed to support the Community Centre.

Man Loses Leg in Forage Harvester

Caught in Auger While Trying to Prevent Blockage

A bad accident took place Friday afternoon at the farm of J. H. Williams, Ormstown, when Stewart Wood, an employee of Mr. Williams, became caught in a forage harvester causing his right leg to be cut off six inches below the knee.

Mr. Wood has been working for Mr. Williams, driving one of the trucks for the summer. On this particular day, he had been loading the harvester with forage.

It seems that he had backed up to the feeder and raised the dump of his truck. The corn would not flow into the auger machinery. He then climbed up on to the load to push the corn down. Seeing another driver waiting to dump his load, he asked the second driver to raise the dump a little higher, and he did so. The second driver heard a shout and looking around saw Stewart Wood caught in the harvester. He immediately stopped the harvester but not before the machine had cut off part of the young man's leg and fractured the bone between the knee and the hip.

The young man was rushed to the Barrie Memorial Hospital, where he will remain for a few weeks. Eventually he will be able to wear an artificial limb.

The young man does not know how he became caught in the machine. The second driver did not see him until after he heard the shout. It is thought that Mr. Wood might have taken a weak turn or fainted, there-by falling into the machine.

Salvation Army Campaign Closes Short Of Its Objective

The Salvation Army Campaign ended on Thursday, September 30, $848.25 of the objective of $1500. has been collected to date, with 14 of the 45 collectors reporting. Last year's total was $1659.05.

The committee would appreciate that all of those who have not handed in their reports do so at the earliest possible time. It is hoped that the reports to come will have sufficient money to send the campaign over the top again this year.

New Gasoline Depot Being Built on Highway 4

Imperial Oil Company Limited, of Montreal, has bought a piece of property 150 feet by 150 feet from the farm of George L. Monique on Highway No. 4, about 2½ miles from Huntingdon.

The company is building an Esso Gasoline depot for their Imperial Oil agent for Huntingdon District, Louis M. Parent.

The company is installing five large tanks which will hold more than 15,000 gallons of Imperial Esso Gasoline. These tanks are called inground tanks, that is, they are sunk into the ground for better fire protection. An electric pump above the ground will pump the gasoline from the inground tanks into the tank trucks of Mr. Parent, which service the Huntingdon District including Ormstown and down to the line at Brysonville. A small warehouse is to be built at the same time to store drums of oil.

When these tanks are built, which should be within a month, weather permitting, the Imperial Esso tanker trucks will be able to haul Esso gasoline regularly from Montreal East to the new depot on Highway No. 4. Mr. Parent will not have to worry now about shortage of gasoline in his tank trucks, and he will not have to make the journey to Montreal for gasoline to replenish his reserves in Huntingdon.

Disastrous Fire on Friday Night

Fate again hit "Springburn Farm" on Friday, October 1st, 1954 when all barns and crops were completely demolished by fire. (Middle picture) The same barns were severely damaged by a terrific wind-storm, January 14, 1950. Lower picture shows barns as before the disastrous fire. Top pictures show fire as it was late in the evening and practically just the hay and grain left burning.

Fire at "Springburn Farm" Friday Represents Great Loss to W. Harkness

Second Time in Four Years That Major Loss Has Been Suffered — Roof Was Blown Off Barn During High Wind

A most disastrous fire occurred on Friday evening, October 1st, which completely demolished all the farm buildings on the farm of Walter Harkness, on Route No. 4, Huntingdon. This farm was originally owned by Mr. Gilbert MacMillan and is well known throughout this district. The residence was saved by the fact that the fire did not reach it although it is comparatively close to the other buildings. It was a calm evening, and if a wind had been blowing, it is quite possible the house may have been lost also.

The fire started at about 6:50 p.m. and is believed to have been caused by a short circuit in the electrical system. It was noted by several farmers along this part of Highway No. 4, that the electric lights went off for a few seconds just around 7 p.m. One farmer in the vicinity told a Gleaner reporter that he continued with his milking for a few minutes after the incident and upon going out of the barn noticed the glow which was caused by the fire. At the time of the fire, Mr. and Mrs. Harkness were both in the barn finishing the milking of the remainder of the cows. Mr. Harkness was in the milk house, returning to the cow barn and saw the fire in the horse stable. He immediately called to get the cows out of the building and managed to get them all out with the exception of one bull and three calves. The latter perished in the blaze. Mr. Harkness had four cows to be milked when he noticed the fire and strange to say practically all the farmers along the road had a like number, when they noticed the fire.

Wm. Tannahill, Jr., who lives on the next farm west of "Springburn" was carrying two pairs of milk to the milk house when he saw what he thought was an unusual light at the Harkness barns. He emptied one pail of milk and stepped out of the milk house to take another look. He heard a roar and saw a fire and immediately jumped on a tractor near at hand and headed for "Springburn" with all other hands following in quick order. Bill Tannahill immediately started hauling away the major farm implements from the implements barn. He said it seemed a long time before help arrived, although it may have only been four or five minutes. The neighbouring farmers achieved great success in this respect. Wm. R. Tannahill, Sr., a man known to have heart trouble, but who was always a very fast worker, performed a great service as did all the other farmers. It is to be hoped Mr. Tannahill suffers no ill effects from the excessive strain he subjected himself to at this fire. The farmers saved every major farm implement other than an old plow that operated with a Fordson tractor and part of a double wagon. A manure spreader that was out of the buildings yet not far from the barns seemed likely to suffer fire damage from the excessive heat, so during the raging fire a tractor was hitched onto it and it was hauled to safety. The milking machine and installation and a great many of small tools used about a farm were lost and undoubtedly other losses of this nature will turn up because the "Springburn Farm" buildings were very well equipped including two motors and everything

Life on Rubber Plantation Told by D. Cottle, Constable

Huntingdon Rotary Members Hear Most Interesting Talk at Monday's Meeting

Liberia, Africa, and the obtaining of latex for the Firestone Tire and Rubber Company was the subject of a talk by Mr. Don Cottle, Constable, N.Y. Mr. Cottle, brother-in-law of John E. Kelley, "Mr. Malone", and was introduced by him to the Rotary Club. Mr. Cottle spent ten years working for the Firestone Company in Liberia and his story was about an ordinary day's routine work and some of the customs of Liberia. Many questions were asked about the natives and in all cases Mr. Cottle gave the answers and many brought forth quite a chuckle.

The Firestone Company owns 100,000 acres of land in Liberia and of this area 75,000 acres is planted to produce latex for rubber tires, etc. Each white man employed, and there are about 600 such white men, will be expected to take charge of the labour required to care for 2,000 acres of trees.

Liberia is a peaceful land, but has much sickness such as malaria, leprosy, sleeping sickness, etc. The native huts have thatched roofs and snakes are quite likely to be found crawling in and on the roofs. The natives are musically inclined and these rhythm-minded folks like to play drums.

Each white man employed is in charge of 2000 acres of the rubber plantation. As helpers he will have 5 native headmen, under them will be 5 native headmen and each headman will have some 30 boys or men to do the actual collecting of the latex. The latex is a liquid and looks about like milk. It varies in quality as does milk. As the latex is gathered it is put into a pail that will carry 32 quarts of the liquid.

The employees are paid according to the task to be performed, not by the day or hour, otherwise nothing would be accomplished, for the natives would shirk work beyond imagination. The rubber trees are void of branches for about 7 feet from the ground. Down two sides of the tree the bark is cut and to gather the latex an angle cut of the bark is made so as to reach the opposite slash on the tree and here a small spout is placed to run off the latex into a small receptacle.

The bark is not slashed deep into the tree for there is an actual surface bark left on the tree representing about 3 mm. of thickness. Each boy will be expected to care for 250 trees. He will gather his quota of latex per day between the hours of 6 and 7:30 a.m. His 32-quart bucket may be brim full and he will swing it on a stick over his shoulder and come down the mountainous hills to the headquarters and not spill a drop.

As the morning gathering is checked in it is weighed and if correct the boy will receive his remuneration, which will be 25 cents. Should his quota be short or of poor quality he will receive 13 cents.

For a white man to live in Liberia, it means he loses his natural energy by the end of a year in the country. Facilities to make life happy for the 600 whites are provided, but the climate gets the better of you and you just submit to the lakadastical life.

The country has a great number of snakes that can be rated as real bad, bush calves, elephants and leopards are all numerous.

The Rubber Company has built many roads for their trucks, so auto driving is quite satisfactory. Liberia, you might say, lives off the companies that operate in the land and also from the white men sent into the country by these companies.

Their religion, if you wish to so term it, hinges on that of Buddhism and Medicine Men. When a man dies, the natives will go to a white man and ask him for a sheet. A grave is dug, the deceased and his belongings are wrapped in the sheet and put into the grave, and they stand about the grave and think how well off is the deceased.

Applications Received to Build Houses on New Somerville Street Extension

Valleyfield Man Has Purchased Nine Lots With Intention to Build Houses

Huntingdon Town Council held a regular meeting at the County Building, on Monday evening, with a full council present and Mayor Leo Cappiello in the chair. The minutes of several adjourned meetings and a special meeting were read as well as a number of bills passed for payment.

Mr. Carriere from Valleyfield and Mr. Earl Fournier of Huntingdon, made application to build houses on the new extension of Somerville Street which will run from Beaudette to Dalhousie Street. They asked that sewer and water be laid on the street and the council told them that if they would guarantee three houses, this would be done. Mr. Carriere has purchased nine lots on this street and intends in course of time to erect houses on each of the lots. Mr. Fournier is ready to start building operations immediately and that gravel will be put down to provide a road to the lots while building.

Mr. Oliva Brains made application to convert a house into a double tenement with an outside staircase. This was granted.

Mr. Y. Leduc requested that gravel be placed in front of his house on (Continued on page 7)

Opening and Distribution Of Prizes Hemmingford High School

The annual School Opening was held in the Hemmingford High School auditorium on Wednesday evening, September 29th, when the 1953-54 prizes were awarded.

Mr. H. A. D. Somerville, chairman of the School Board, conducted the evening's program which opened with "O Canada", followed with prayer by Rev. Holmes. The chairman introduced members of the staff assisting parents and pupils that they were always ready to cooperate in every possible way. He also stressed the need for greater care when pupils are entering and leaving buses, and urged motorists to respect safety rules at all times.

Five students from Grades Ten and Eleven participated in a Public Speaking Contest. The judges' decision was brought back later in the evening by Frank Deery. He congratulated all in their choice of topic and quality of speeches. He regretted the absence of male contestants' support, but hoped this was only temporary. All are grateful to Mr. Henry Pare for his unflinching interest in this worthy project.

Mrs. Fred Greer commented on the School Fair, urging pupils to increase number of exhibits and parents to show greater interest by attending.

BEING INTERESTING NOTES OF NEWS IN COMMENT FORM

Little Marilyn Bell certainly provided us with a subject much more scintillating than Red-hunting and lung cancer when she swam into the newspapers of America.

Some of us can remember back to 1926 when another young girl—the 19-year-old daughter of a New York butcher—created much the same sensation when she swam the English Channel in something over 14 hours. It wasn't as long a swim as Marilyn's, but Gertrude Ederle captured the imagination of the world at a time when some young ladies were still expected to occupy their idle time playing croquet and making pearl chowder, while college flappers in jazz garters were hoping to change it all.

Those who are first are bound to walk in the light of publicity, and it is another leaf in Canada's laurel wreath that Marilyn will be remembered for her 32-mile crossing of Lake Ontario, along with Gertrude Ederle and such people as Charles Lindbergh, who was the first to fly the Atlantic alone; Edmund Hillary, who was the first to reach the top of Mount Everest; and Roger Bannister, who was the first runner to break the four-minute mile.

This seems to be a great era for young women in Canada. Ottawa's Shirley Thomas has ridden to highest honors in international horsemanship contests. Barbara Ann Scott has carried Canada's banner to the heights in ice skating, and Marlene Stewart, the Ontario golfer, is a champion among women golfers the world over.

Perhaps croquet wasn't much of a game, anyway. And who ever thinks of pearl chowder these days? Maritimers take their sea weed very seriously. And well they should, since the dulse from Atlantic beaches is filled with iodine and other medicinal minerals, and their Irish moss is a universal ingredient for custards and puddings.

Inlanders will hardly believe that dulse is a confection for children who live by the sea. They are forever confusing the purple sea weed even think dulse is a type of insulation for houses. But if there is any laugh it certainly isn't on the folks in the Maritimes. A place in the Annapolis Valley of Nova Scotia, where hurricane Edna destroyed half the apple crop, is already compensating dulse for the loss of Upper Canadians (they still use the term down there). And a very interesting observation has been made among the sheep of the rocky coasts. This may support the notion (voiced by Rachel Carson in her famous book) that the real secret to health, happiness and longevity lies in the sea around us.

These sheep—at a place called Mud Island—are a unique lot. They have come for generations from the same family strain that may originally have been placed on the island as food for ship-wrecked sailors, back in the woolly days of sailing ships. The interesting thing about it is that the sheep of Mud Island feed mostly on sea weed. According to conventional husbandry, the island is over-populated by sheep. Yet they thrive splendidly, are prolific and are entirely free of disease. To boot, their wool is a little better than wool from mainland sheep.

Canada's last remaining burlesque theatre—the Casino—which toured strictly to films when the touring Toronto Musicians' Association and the American Guild of Variety Artists placed a ban on all outside entertainers coming into the country, is back in business again.

The Casino's return to legitimate theatre and "banned in Boston" edgy acts (a drawing room name for strip-teasers) was co-incident with the opening of the second season of Toronto's Crest Theatre, a playhouse which is as moral as the Casino is immoral.

The Crest is a unique venture in Canada. We have precious few theatres in this country—two or three at the most—and it was with considerable risk that young Murray and Donald Davis acquired the lease of the suburban Crest filmhouse last year, for the purpose of presenting 40 weeks of play acting a year.

The Davis boys are from a fairly well-to-do leather family of Newmarket, Ont. (where the Massey-Harris company was founded). They are both actors of sorts, and their sister, Barbara Chilcott, who starred this year at the Stratford Shakespearean Festival, is quite a good sort of actress.

Estimated budget for the theatre is $4,500 a week, which does not leave much margin for profit. The theatre has only 830 seats and stages seven performances a week. Five thousand shares have been offered in the enterprise at $10 a share, and through this and exceptionally fine patronage during its first year, there is great hope that a Canadian Repertory company can be established and operated in Toronto. Canada has none at present, with the exception, perhaps, of the Grand in London.

The first play of the current season at the Crest was the premiere of Robertson Davies' comedy, "A Jig for a Gypsy".

While the Davis brothers are figuring ways and means to survive, I am prompted to recall how many times I have heard Canadian actors lamenting the fact that the government does not subsidize efforts to establish a Canadian theatre.

Although none of us wants his tax money to go toward isolated experiments in amateur theatres, it is by no means absurd to suggest that a nation of Canada's size and prominence should foster its cultural development.

The Norwegian Theatre has been subsidized by government for more than 30 years. As a result, the classics (and what Norwegian does not know that Ibsen revolutionized the European theatre?) are uncommonly popular in Norway. Classic plays are scarce on Broadway because it costs $60,000 to put on a one-act play, and there is certainly no money in Canada to gamble on a new approach to a limited audience, not as long as radio soap stories continue to sell soap.

And, if you are a life insurance policyholder, you also have the satisfaction of knowing that you have participated in this program designed to bring the blessings of good health to all!

Gift to Club
The first animal auctioned was a heifer calf which had been donated by Allan Wilson, President of the Club. The proceeds of the sale to go to the Club to be spent on Club activities. This calf, Clear Brook Gloria, is by Burnside Dignity and out of Clear Brook Gloria 3rd., with a record of 10,401 lbs milk, 412 lbs. fat, and it went at $85.00 to J. G. Wilson, St. Valentin, Que. However, Mr. Wilson immediately redonated the calf to the Club, and it was finally sold at $95.00 to R. R. Ness & Sons. The Club funds were therefore increased by an amount of $180.00.

Tops of Sale
The top priced animal of the sale, at $300.00, was the bred-heifer Cherry Bank Emma 4th., consigned by P. D. McArthur & Son. This daughter of the champion Cherry Bank Golden Anchor, and a Buttercup on both sides of her pedigree went, quite reasonably, to Clement Beauchemin, Vercheres, Que. Mr. Beauchemin also purchased two other full sisters, both bred and consigned by J. Grant Whyte—Elm Manor Royal Elva at $225.00 and Elm Manor Royal Floss at $182.50, their sire was Cherry Bank Royal Philip.

The next high priced animal was Pine Knoll Sylvia, a bred-heifer consigned by Vanliet Bros., Lacolle, Que. This sister, both bred and consigned by J. Grant Whyte—Elm Manor Royal Elva at $225.00 and Elm Manor Royal Floss at $182.50, their sire was Cherry Bank Royal Philip.

Whistling Buttercup, consigned by Hugh Burnett, at $197.50; Ashdale Babe, consigned by M. J. Wallace, at $192.50; River Junction Nettle, consigned by G. M. S. Goundry, at $190.00; Thorn Brae Phoebe, consigned by William E. Anderson & Son, at $185.00.

J. Earle Ness purchased on behalf of Harold L. Brock, Waterloo, Que., at $65.00 the baby (September 2, 1954) heifer calf, Balquhitter Ruth, consigned by Archie Roy. This calf is by Rottenrow Remarkable and from a dam with three over 10,000 lbs. records including one at 12,082 lbs. milk, 515 lbs. fat, 4.2%.

We understand that Mr. H. L. Brock is a new recruit to Ayrshires. District Purchases
The district purchases were as follows, the names of the consignors being given in brackets: Balquhitter Dairy Queen (Archie Roy) $200.00, (her newly dropped heifer calf by Rottenrow Remarkable went at $40.00 to R. R. Ness & Sons); Kensington Leona (J. M. Wallace & Son) $162.50; Hazelburn Snowflake (Wallace Merson) $160.00; G. M. S. New Drugs For High Blood Pressure

Several drugs developed in the past few years give the 16,000,000 high blood pressure (hypertension) victims in the United States a better chance of living with a condition which, if allowed to go unchecked, can lead to severe heart, brain and kidney damage and even to death.

Two of the new drugs have proven particularly valuable in the control of this disease. One is a refinement known as reserpine from a crude root used for centuries in India for a score of ailments.

The second drug is hexamethonium chloride, a compound discovered in Europe which was administered only by injection until an American pharmaceutical firm succeeded in producing it in tablet form.

Reserpine is believed to lower blood pressure by its calming effect upon the central nervous system. It slowly lowers mildly elevated blood pressure. The drug has few side effects and it has been useful in mild cases or as the initial treatment in severe cases—largely because of its tranquilizing effect upon the patient.

Hexamethonium chloride, the single most potent drug available now, operates on the "roadblock" concept by preventing the transmission of pressure-raising impulses across key nerve centers. It lowers blood pressure quickly in most cases and often relieves many of the disturbing symptoms associated with advanced high blood pressure.

Most promising results for the patient are now being reported by physicians using the two drugs together. It appears that the calming effects of reserpine make it possible to obtain the marked reduction in blood pressure brought about by hexamethonium with low doses of the latter drug. Physicians report that this new method minimizes side reactions and permits greater comfort for the patient.

Although the primary cause of high blood pressure is unknown in 90 per cent of cases, when the disease is diagnosed early, the patient can often be helped by a general slowing down of activity and perhaps by diet. In severe cases, surgery, in which certain nerves are cut, has helped some patients. Drug treatment, however, is the most widely accepted method once the physician considers the condition a serious medical problem. Not only is this method effective, but it is less disruptive to the patient than dieting and considerably less drastic than surgery, which can't be undone even when it doesn't work.

Ormstown AH Club
The Howick-Huntingdon Ayrshire Club sale, held at Ormstown, Que., on September 29, brought in a total of $5,761.50 for the 33 head sold.

The eleven young cows and newly calved heifers, (with two of whom were their newly dropped baby calves), were sold for a total of $2,160.00 or a general average of $196.36. The 12 bred heifers brought in a total of $3,261.50 or a general average of $186.83.

The sale was generally managed by Archie Roy, Secretary of the Club, with J. Earle Ness as cashier and Francois Boulais, Secretary, Quebec Ayrshire Society, and several directors of the Club in general assistance.

Thomas P. Whittaker, Brandon, Vt. was auctioneer. Douglas A. Ness was also in the box in connection with the pedigree announcements, etc.

Moderate Prices
Generally, with but three or four exceptions, the cattle offered were of a good commercial type and even considering present-day conditions they mostly sold at fairly moderate prices. In the case of the exceptions we have referred to, they were all well above the average type and under ordinary conditions they would doubtless have made much higher prices.

Twelve head, or approximately one third of the animals offered, went to outside points, the balance remained in the Club area.

Gift to Club
The first animal auctioned was a heifer calf which had been donated by Allan Wilson, President of the Club. The proceeds of the sale to go to the Club to be spent on Club activities. This calf, Clear Brook Gloria, is by Burnside Dignity and out of Clear Brook Gloria 3rd., with a record of 10,401 lbs milk, 412 lbs. fat, and it went at $85.00 to J. G. Wilson, St. Valentin, Que. However, Mr. Wilson immediately redonated the calf to the Club, and it was finally sold at $95.00 to R. R. Ness & Sons. The Club funds were therefore increased by an amount of $180.00.

Tops of Sale
The top priced animal of the sale, at $300.00, was the bred-heifer Cherry Bank Emma 4th., consigned by P. D. McArthur & Son. This daughter of the champion Cherry Bank Golden Anchor, and a Buttercup on both sides of her pedigree went, quite reasonably, to Clement Beauchemin, Vercheres, Que. Mr. Beauchemin also purchased two other full sisters, both bred and consigned by J. Grant Whyte—Elm Manor Royal Elva at $225.00 and Elm Manor Royal Floss at $182.50, their sire was Cherry Bank Royal Philip.

The next high priced animal was Pine Knoll Sylvia, a bred-heifer consigned by Vanliet Bros., Lacolle, Que. This sister, both bred and consigned by J. Grant Whyte—Elm Manor Royal Elva at $225.00 and Elm Manor Royal Floss at $182.50, their sire was Cherry Bank Royal Philip.

Whistling Buttercup, consigned by Hugh Burnett, at $197.50; Ashdale Babe, consigned by M. J. Wallace, at $192.50; River Junction Nettle, consigned by G. M. S. Goundry, at $190.00; Thorn Brae Phoebe, consigned by William E. Anderson & Son, at $185.00.

J. Earle Ness purchased on behalf of Harold L. Brock, Waterloo, Que., at $65.00 the baby (September 2, 1954) heifer calf, Balquhitter Ruth, consigned by Archie Roy. This calf is by Rottenrow Remarkable and from a dam with three over 10,000 lbs. records including one at 12,082 lbs. milk, 515 lbs. fat, 4.2%.

Rural Fire Fighting Equipment Is Great Need

ALMOST a year ago, discussion was held on the matter of trying to provide some system of fighting fires in the rural areas which would be a means of cutting down losses in farm fires. These talks progressed up to a certain point and then they seem to have faded. It is our opinion that this matter should be revived with greater intensity and the project viewed still further.

A great loss was sustained at the fire on Friday evening at W. Harkness farm on Route No. 4 (the old Gilbert Macmillan property). All the farm buildings situated in front of the house were lost in the fire as well as the majority of the contents and some animals. The people had to stand helplessly by while these fine buildings fell prey to the hungry flames. Sympathy was all there was to offer. Some say that even had there been fire fighting equipment available, nothing could have saved the place. However, we feel that had such equipment been on hand, at least some of the buildings would not have been a total loss. It may not be possible always to save everything, but even if a portion is saved, the loss is less severe and fire less disastrous.

In almost every case of farm fire, the same story has to be told, nothing could be done to save anything. As far as manpower was concerned, there was all that could be needed gathered at this fire and the highway was considerably blocked by the cars bringing the people to the fire. In this way then, there was plenty of help. The next need was that of water. The river in this case was not too far distant and with a fire engine equipped with a water tank, a relay system of trucks carrying water could have kept up a nearly constant stream to fight this fire. The reason that talks bogged down was that of the need for water at rural fires. It was left for a party to make a survey of all water sources in the area to be served and to obtain shortest routes to such water supplies. It was further suggested that farmers be advised to make water holes on their farms in order to have an adjacent supply of water in case of fire. The fire truck would carry probably 500 to 1,000 gals. of water to be used as soon as it arrived. This tank would have to be kept supplied either from the water hole or through farmers hauling water in milk cans and barrels by truck or similar conveyance to the scene of the fire, or both. In case of a nearby supply such as a river or a stream, a booster pump would be hooked up and keep the tank on the fire truck supplied.

If concentrated effort was made to get these particulars and Provincial Fire Commissioner could be convinced that it was workable, it is almost certain that some help would come from that direction. In fact the assistant commissioner said he would like to see such a fire fighting system put into being. It would have much to do with cutting down losses in the case of farm and rural fires. It would mean that booster pumps would have to be placed in strategic places to go to a fire on immediate call. This would be followed by the big truck to assist in other ways such as with extra equipment and the force pump on the truck. We also feel sure that no one in the rural areas would protest an extra mill or two on their taxes to help defray the cost of such equipment. They would have the added feeling that in case of fire at least something might be saved, if the fire could not be entirely controlled.

It is to be hoped that further study will be made of the subject of providing some means of fire fighting equipment for the rural sections and that in the not too distant future such equipment will be available.

Thanksgiving - 1954

VIEWING the past summer from the angle of the man of the soil, it might be said that we have not much to be thankful for. Since Thanksgiving is usually connected with bountiful harvests and what not, possibly the greatest harvest we have had this summer is that of wind and rain. It pays under circumstances that have prevailed this summer, to take a look beyond our immediate surroundings and consider what has happened in other parts.

For instance, in the Nova Scotia apple growing districts loss to the extent of an emergency was suffered through the tornadoes which swept through the areas. Looking toward the west, just as far as the Province of Ontario, we find the heat wave considerably cut down on the crops there. Further west, grain crops have suffered in many ways to reduce yields and quality. In our own area we have suffered through continual rainfall and cool weather. In all cases the weather is at fault for the conditions which have tended to cut down the harvest results.

In our district what we need is just the right amount of rain and sunshine to ensure that crop yields will be just right in quantity and quality. The past summer is regarded by most as perhaps the most unusual of any summer for long long years. Several times records have been broken for low temperatures. While rain is usually considered to be the most important for the growing season, during this summer it has actually been a deterrent in many ways. For some reason much of the growth has been slow and the result has been that many root crops have tended to rot from the excess moisture. However, there is much that we can be thankful for. Those terrible wind storms have passed us by, while causing considerable havoc and expense wherever they struck. We reaped a tremendous hay crop while in other parts it burned up due to the heat. The grain that was threshed was of generally good quality according to reports. It would appear that there will be no shortage of feed for our cattle. We have not suffered from floods as was the case in some parts earlier in the year. While the vegetable crop may not be anything to write home about, the general condition of the people can be said to be good. We have not had as much unemployment as we might have had. Oh yes, there is much to be thankful for and we believe we should meet this thanksgiving with a spirit that will equal any of the more abundant years. At the same time we could offer a little prayer for those who have fared worse than we. Some people have lost their homes, their relatives and friends, due to the weather. Others have lost their crops entirely and with them their means of sustenance during the next few months. If we look still farther afield, we might notice that wars have ended and we do not have to fear for the safety of the members in the armed forces. We might also be thankful that at last a solution has been found to bring agreement on defence matters in Europe. It also looks as if at least a step has been made toward bringing about a solution of problems of controversial nature between Quebec and Ottawa.

Yes, despite all that looks black, we do have much to be thankful for and there is no reason why Thanksgiving, 1954, should not be celebrated as fittingly as those of the past.

Will The Meeting Solve The Difficulties?

AFTER beating about the bush and supposedly sending messages by various roundabout means, Premier Duplessis has finally done the proper thing and called Prime Minister St. Laurent direct by phone to arrange a meeting. The Prime Minister readily agreed to meet Mr. Duplessis somewhere in Montreal on Tuesday (the place and time have not been divulged). It could not be expected that Prime Minister St. Laurent would accept any proposals that were not coming direct from Premier Duplessis in an official manner. Hints given out in newspaper and to persons, could not possibly be accepted. However, it does not take long to arrange when the proper channels are used.

We must commend Premier Duplessis for finally taking this step and arranging for a meeting between himself and the Prime Minister. He must be taking the matter quite seriously at last and have humbled his opinion to make such a decision. It is to be hoped that having gone thus far, he will go still further at his meeting with the Prime Minister and at least arrange for a possible agreement. In the minds of the electorate of Quebec, the stand taken by the Quebec Government is becoming a trifle ridiculous. It is well known that Quebec was granted certain privileges under the constitution that were not granted other provinces of Canada, but this did not decree that the Province of Quebec was to be separate and apart from the rest of the country. All other provinces have rights of autonomy and these other provinces have accepted agreements with the Federal Government. They have lost nothing in the way of their provincial rights as far as can be seen. Why, then, should the Province of Quebec stand to lose by being co-operative? The agreements made are only temporary in nature, they have not formed part of the constitution as this would call for a complete revision of The British North America Act. It is possible, that under present day conditions such a revision should be made. What was suitable when the original agreements were reached, is possibly not suitable today. But this could not be done without the full sanction of all the provinces and then it may take years to actually accomplish.

We cannot convince ourselves that the autonomy of Quebec is in any serious danger and the Prime Minister has assured Premier Duplessis that he need have no fears on the matter. By refusing to co-operate with the Federal Government, the Quebec Government is actually depriving the people of Quebec of certain privileges that would help them in many ways. The recent decision to collect income tax could have been avoided and with far better results if the Quebec Government would only co-operate with the Federal Government. By imposing the income tax, the Quebec Provincial Government has worked a hardship on a large number of Quebec taxpayers. While it is perfectly within the right to do this, it cannot be expected that the Federal Government would extend a special privilege and allow this province to deduct the entire amount from the Federal tax. The law allows for a maximum deduction of five per cent. It is this latter controversy that has caused so much trouble of late. The Federal Government cannot be blamed for its attitude, for every time the Federal Government has tried to do anything for the Province of Quebec, it has been refused, or a definite 'no' has been given to any co-operative effort.

It is hoped the meeting will bring forth good results and in place of ill-feeling between the two governments, that a friendly atmosphere will come about.

Random Glimpses of The Past Taken from Gleaner Files

— 1919 —

January 16 — The box social held at Mr. William Parkam's was a success, the boxes selling from three to six dollars each by auction. One hundred and thirty-five dollars was taken in altogether.

January 23 — Howick — Ice and wood are being harvested abundantly the weather and roads being favourable. Stones are being deposited near the approaches to the Allan's Corners and Turcot Bridges with the intention of macadamizing the portions that are almost impassable in the spring and fall.

The last consignment of made-up work to be sent by the Howick group of Red Cross workers, consisting of two large boxes filled with valuable garments, etc., were shipped to Montreal on Thursday. Great credit is due the many willing workers who spent so much time at this very important work.

Ormslow — The Borden Company have completed filling their icehouse for the season. The ice put in is of the poorest quality for some years.

Huntingdon — Ice cutting is going on. It is rather thin but sound and free from snow. The charge is 4 cents per cake 18 by 20 inches if taken on the river or 8 cents if delivered. Last year it was 5 cents per cake.

One of the stores in Huntingdon lists a number of five-cent specials which includes 2 hair nets; 2 cards of mending wool; a ball of Irish crochet cotton; good pearl buttons and fancy trimming buttons.

February 6 — Howick — The Howick Village financial statement reports the taxable property as about $228,000 and the untaxed $27,000. There are 117 ratepayers and a population of 410.

Huntingdon — Sunday was Canademas day. As a means of fortelling weather, the winter is to be long or short it was unsatisfactory to the curious for if the bear left den in the forenoon the rascal would declare it was more than half over for the day was cloudy, if he prolonged his nap until the afternoon, he would resume his sleep for he could see his shadow in the bright sunshine.

Feb. 2 — Marine — On Friday, we had a fall of sleet in the forenoon that made a good bottom for sleigh roads. The heavy fall of snow during the rest of the day gave lots of shovelling on foot paths and in front of buildings. Since Friday, the temperature has fallen below zero and is keeping there mornings and nights. The wind has drifted the snow and the roads are heavy for hauling.

Beauharnois — There has never been such a winter for coasting as this winter, not only do crowds gather on the hill back of the town but there are several slides from the river bank. The bank is steep enough to give a good start and the sleigh is carried out far over the ice. The young people have had a most healthful and enjoyable time.

Weekly Review

Scotsman For Ever - Pantless

By LEWIS MILLIGAN

"Edinburgh-born Douglas Scourrah has become New Zealand's most famous postman — simply by refusing to wear pants." Thus begins a news item from that island down under. It is explained that when he took his job while on a visit to New Zealand, the Scotsman applied to the Government for permission to wear the kilt. He said he had not bought a pair of trousers for fifteen years, and had worn kilts since he was a child. At first the Government insisted that all postmen, including Mr. Scourrah, must wear the uniform, but later relented. Mr. Scourrah, who identified his name as of North of Ireland origin, said he had bought his attire, a familiar sight in Auckland, for $50 nine years ago and intended to wear it.

This reminded me of a story told by Ian MacLaren of an incident that occurred while he was on a lecture tour in New Zealand. After one of his lectures on Scottish characters, a member of the audience in full highland costume came up to him, grasped his hand with a firm grip and said: "Aye, mon, we are a mighty people!" To which the lecturer modestly returned, "Aye, my friend, but we have our faults, of course." "Such as?" "Well, they're not worth mentioning!" declared the highlander.

Exiled Scots in Canada do not insist on wearing the kilt in their regular avocations, and it is very probable that few of them ever wore such a garment, unless as members of a local Highland regiment. But occasionally one turns up pantless at an annual dinner of the St. Andrew's Society or the Burns Club. Even Canadian Scots of the second and third generation have been known to appear on those and other occasions in full tartan regalia, complete with the sporran, as a proud salute to their forefathers. I know one high court judge in Toronto who has the complete outfit and who will eagerly don it at the slightest Caledonian provocation.

When I was a reporter on the old Toronto Globe, which was then dubbed "The Scotsman's Bible," I was frequently assigned to report the regular meetings of the Scottish societies in the city, of which there were many formed by newly arrived immigrants. In addition to the Caledonian, the St. Andrew's and the Burns societies, there were separate groups representing almost all the countries from which the immigrants came, and they all seemed to be homesick to a man and woman. There was never a meeting at which a soloist didn't sing, "Oh, I'm longing for my ain folk". I covered the monthly meetings of the Burns Society so often that they made me a member and later their president. I was the first Sassenach to hold that position, having been born over the border, but they tolerated me because of my mixture of Scottish and Welsh Celtic blood. Moreover, I could claim, like Mr. Scourrah, to have worn the kilt as a child and was thus initiated into highland clan. But I never acquired a Scottish accent, which was the "password" to inner Scottish circles and to some jobs in those days, especially where the foreman was a Scot.

A rich, rolling burr on the tongue was a great asset with Presbyterian ministers preaching for a call, and it was said that some of them cultivated the accent for that purpose. At least you could understand what they were saying in the pulpit, for they pronounced every word distinctly, which is more than can be said of either Scottish or English preachers in these days. There is nothing worse than a Scotsman from Glasgow trying to preach with an Oxford accent; his speech sounds like a mixture of Hungarian and Chinese. After listening to such a preacher recently I asked an elder what kind of language was that? He replied, "That's the language of the Garden of Eden." He was referring to the Gaelic, of course; but I doubt if the old Gaelic of Zorra or of Cape Breton could have understood a word that preacher was saying.

Thanks, Mr. Scourrah, for this diversion. Scots, wha hae!

The Week At Ottawa

OTTAWA, (CP) — The political life of the capital stirred suddenly from its summer doldrums last week with two announcements, that Parliament will convene early in January and that the Prime Minister, St. Laurent and Premier Duplessis of Quebec would meet this week to discuss the ranking taxation dispute between the two governments.

The opening day of the new session is expected to be Jan. 13 or 20. Mr. St. Laurent announced he and his cabinet did not consider an earlier meeting necessary. However, Parliament could be called earlier to meet unforeseen circumstances.

Progressive Conservative leader Drew immediately criticized the decision. He said he was "greatly disturbed" by it, and that Parliament should immediately attend to a number of "vitally important subjects" such as unemployment, falling exports and national revenue, and international developments in Europe.

"It is imperative at this time that the government recognize the right of the people of Canada to have these vitally important problems considered and dealt with by their chosen representatives in Parliament," Mr. Drew said.

Although the last session began in mid-November, it sat 139 days, a modern record. One of the new session's first business likely will be a government attempt to amend procedural rules to speed up business in the Commons. The Progressive Conservatives are opposed to one suggestion for a shorter time limit on speeches.

Among the session's top issues will be immigration, veterans benefits, defence and taxes.

Montreal Conference

Whatever the outcome of the St. Laurent-Duplessis conference in Montreal on Tuesday of this week, the vexing problem of federal-provincial tax relations undoubtedly will be a continuing topic for parliament.

The Montreal conference is viewed as a milestone in the troubled course of tax relations between the federal and Quebec governments. Mr. St. Laurent is the advocate of federal-provincial tax agreements under which every province but Quebec has temporarily yielded to Ottawa its constitutional right to collect personal and corporation income taxes in return for federal grants. His stand is that the agreements promote national unity and spread Canada's wealth more evenly across the country.

Mr. Duplessis has for years said yielding of Quebec's taxing rights would be to fetter provincial autonomy. Ever since he refused, in 1946, to renew similar wartime tax agreement with Ottawa he has charged that the arrangement would bring a centralization of power in the federal government that would destroy the rights of Quebec's French-

Canadian population. The same argument of Quebec's rights has been used in rejecting federal grants to university and co-operation in the trans-Canada highway project.

Defence Line — A new move to strengthen North America's defences against air attack from the north was announced.

Canada and the United States said they will start planning immediately on a third radar system — a "distant early warning line across the far northern part of North America."

The first east-west warning chain was Pinetree, now operative across the heavily-populated boundary areas. The other is the mid-Canada line, now well advanced in construction across the country, approximately along the 54th parallel. Part of it consists of the so-called McGill Fence of automatic and semi-automatic warning stations.

It was thought probable that the far-north line, because of its isolation, will include the McGill Fence type of equipment.

Textile Tariff

Tariff board hearings continued this week on the Canadian textile industry's bid for increased tariff protection against imported British Woolen goods.

The industry opened its case last week with the claim that under present tariffs — a maximum 50 cents a pound — British imports made with lower-price labor threaten the existence of Canadian mills.

Mayor Leo Capello of Huntingdon, Que., said that "without exaggeration" his textile town is in danger of dying. T. F. Barnett of the Renfrew, Ont., board of trade unemployment in his town is "pathetic."

The industry's case is supported by the textile towns and textile unions. However, Canadian groups such as farm organizations, retailers and the Winnipeg Grain Exchange, have joined the British industry in opposing any tariff increase.

Farm groups say the move may strike at Britain's ability to sell in Canada and thus at her ability to buy Canada's exports, such as farm produce. The Retail Merchants Association of Canada last week said the Canadian industry should try to improve its efficiency, rather than seeking higher prices for its goods.

The board chairman, Hector McKinnon, at one point suggested that some of the industry's woes may be due to growing competition by synthetic textiles, instead of merely British competition.

Mr. King's Spirit

The capital was still puzzled over the statement by a retired New York Times reporter — on a nationwide CBC broadcast — that he commuted with the late Prime Minister Mackenzie King from beyond the grave.

Percy J. Phillip, a friend of Mr. King who died in 1950, said the contact took place last June as he sat on a bench near the former prime minister's summer home at Kingsmere, Que., north of Ottawa.

He related details of what he said was a long conversation with Mr. King, who was known to have been interested in spiritualism. Mr. Phillip said he hardly believes the story himself. But he knew he had gone through an unusual experience. CBC chairman A. D. Dunton, asked whether he felt Mr. Phillip was pulling someone's leg, said the CBC would take responsibility for the broadcast and added that what Mr. Phillip said "should be looked at very carefully."

Fire knows no favorites. It attacks rich and poor, young and old, strong and infirm alike. Only one person is safe . . . and that is the careful person. Keep fire away from your home, your loved ones. Be on your guard all the time and you'll be safe all the time. Check your wiring. Watch that accumulation in your basement. Keep paints, oils and other combustible materials under proper care. Don't throw lighted matches into ash trays. Don't smoke in bed. Be careful. Be safe from fire!

MATCHES—Put out lighted matches and cigarettes and never throw them away when lighted. Use safety matches and keep them away from children.

RUBBISH—Eliminate unnecessary accumulation of rubbish. Never keep rubbish in cellar or attic.

KEEP EVERYTHING CLEAN

SMOKE PIPES AND HEATING APPARATUS — Have them cleaned, repaired and checked once a year. Safeguard all heating equipment and appliances from surrounding combustible material.

NEVER OVERHEAT

SMOKE OUTLETS—Never plug any smoke outlet with rags or wood or any other inflammable material.

ASHES—Use only steel containers. Never throw them away while they are hot.

GASOLINE, BENZINE, NAPHTHA—Never keep in the house they are highly dangerous.

ELECTRICITY—Replace worn and frayed electric cords. Do not use a lamp cord as an extension.

Never use 15 amperes on standard circuit. Never use a cent as a fuse.

Always disconnect your electric iron before you leave it.

FLAMEPROOF decorations only should be used in all public places.

BURN oily rags because they are a danger in the house.

REMEMBER: A clean house, well kept, is seldom visited by fire.

Lucky to get out alive!

Too bad they gave fire a place to start!

This fire, like most home fires, was preventable. It started with a sparking chimney, one of the 9 places where most home fires start. Here are all 9:

- "junk" in cellar, attic or closets
- overloaded electric outlets
- frayed electric cords
- ordinary extension cords on heaters, irons
- smoking in bed
- not squashing out cigarettes
- flammable cleaning fluids
- matches left near children
- chimneys that spark

If any of these 9 fire hazards exists in your home - the next home that burns may be your own! Get rid of your fire hazards today! - you'll sleep better tonight!

 Galloping School a Success
AUBREY-RIVERFIELD—On Friday evening, Sept. 24th, forty teenagers and young people from Dundee, Huntingdon, Howick and Ormstown attended the school in Huntingdon United Church.

The school opened with a singing. Gerald Duncan, president, welcomed everyone and expressed thanks to Mr. Beal and his teenagers for their kind co-operation.

Mr. R. C. Bunbury in giving the inspirational address, said that he was happy to help with the school. Dick built his talk around the theme "Blessed is the nation whose God is the Lord". He urged us to take time each day to express thanks to God for the many gifts he has given us through the medium of grace at meals, and prayer.

The Drama Workshop was led by Mrs. L. McFarlane, of Riverfield. Mrs. McFarlane reviewed some one-act plays that might be used in a agings and young people from Dundee, Huntingdon, Howick and Ormstown attended the school in Huntingdon United Church.

He urged us to take time each day to express thanks to God for the many gifts he has given us through the medium of grace at meals, and prayer.

The Drama Workshop was led by Mrs. L. McFarlane, of Riverfield. Mrs. McFarlane reviewed some one-act plays that might be used in a drama festival, gave constructive hints on staging and make-up. One student in this workshop was heard to say, "Mrs. McFarlane certainly knows what she is talking about".

Charlie Scott, 1st vice-president of the Montreal Presbytery Y.P.U., led a work shop on Recreation. Charlie gave helpful suggestions that could tie in with the themes of a regular meeting, Faith and Evangelism, Stewardship and Training, Citizenship and Community Service and Missions and World Outreach.

Miss E. McKell and Mr. Stewart Hewlett led the 3rd Workshop on Programme Planning, which included ideas on debating, Bible baseball and personal devotions.

Recreation was enjoyed by the whole group which was followed by delicious refreshments served by Mr. Beal and his committee. The teenagers of Huntingdon United Church are to be complimented on the very fine way in which they worked together in this respect, this being their first attempt to cater to a large group.

A most enjoyable evening came to a close with a very impressive installation service conducted by Rev. Mr. Beal. The following were installed: Rev. I. Johnston as councillor; Mr. Gerald Duncan, president; Miss Mary McKell, secretary-treasurer; Mr. Kenneth Coleman of Dundee as representative of the Dundee Young People.

On Saturday fifty were in attendance at Howick High School. The inspirational address was given by the Rev. R. H. McColl. Mr. McColl likened the Church of today to Bible times and he encouraged us to practise family devotions daily. He impressed us with the fact that if the world is to be conducted as God desires it to be, the change must start with "you and I".

The school continued along the same lines as at Huntingdon. Delicious refreshments were served by the Howick Young People. The school closed with this thought presented by Miss C. McKell —

"There's work in the world that each can do.
 But no one else can replace you.
 You can help another to share his load.
 Or strengthen the path that he must go.
 You can help the weak, as well as the strong.
 But each must fashion his own life's song.
 The choice is yours, you hold the key
 To make life discord or harmony.
 So work with God to make things go.
 The world is yours if you will it so.
 But remember that each of us, woman or man,
 Has work to do in God's just plan".

The Rev. Mr. Edwards led in prayer. Taps brought a second happy evening to a successful close. Both evenings were conducted by the South Shore Executive of the Montreal Presbytery. It is hoped that our next event may be a Drama Festival in the New Year.

Time did not allow us to hear about caravanning and the 1954 School of Alcohol Studies. It is hoped that we may encourage the high schools to do something to educate the children to be aware of the alcohol problem, and with this paragraph from "Then and Now", by Pickett:

"Education must be the foundation for freedom from alcoholic oppression, but education without action is futile. Let us therefore learn the truth, speak the truth, and act the truth".

Miss Mary McKell of Riverfield left on Saturday for Dearborn, Michigan, to spend the holidays with her aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred McClenaghan.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Orr, Hilda and Alvin, of Barrington, were recent guests of Mrs. R. McKell and family.

When she had returned home and earthly hopes had failed, it seemed well that such a personality could advance into a higher and wider sphere — that of the "Many Mansions".

Wedding
CLARK-JONES
 On Saturday afternoon, September 18, 1954 at two-thirty o'clock in St. Luke's Anglican Church in Hemmingford, the marriage of Celine Dulic, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Jones, of Farnham, Que., to Mr. Henry Lyall Clark, son of Mr. and Mrs. Willis H. Clark of Hemmingford, Que., took place. The Reverend Donald Andrews officiating. Mr. L. R. Barkes played the wedding music. Jills and white gladioli were used to decorate.

The bride, who was given away by her father, wore a portrait gown of lace and tulle over taffeta, the lace body had a stand-up collar and tapered sleeves ending in points over her hands, the full skirt was appliqued with lace and seed pearls, ending in a chapel train. Her fingertip veil was held in place by a lace coronet embroidered with seed pearls. She carried red roses.

Miss Nancy Jones, as maid of honour for her sister, wore shell pink taffeta, Miss Audrey Clark, sister of the groom, wore shocking pink taffeta. Their dresses had tulle overskirts, and were fashioned after that of the bride. They wore matching picture hats and carried nosegays of white carnations.

Little Miss Betty Latour, niece of the bride, as flower girl, was in a frock of shell pink taffeta. She wore a pink tulle bandeau and carried a miniature nosegay of white carnations.

Mr. Damon H. Shaw acted as best man for Mr. Clark, and the ushers were Messrs. Marcel L. Latour, brother-in-law of the bride and Glen A. Clark, brother of the groom.

Mrs. Jones, mother of the bride, was in a navy crepe printed with pink, a pink velour hat, matching accessories and a corsage of pink carnations.

Mrs. Clark, the groom's mother, wore a gown of forest green crepe trimmed with velvet, a matching feather hat and accessories. Her corsage was of Johanna Hill roses.

The reception following the ceremony was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Marcel Latour, sister and brother-in-law of the bride.

Later, the happy couple left on a motor trip through the Laurentians, Eastern Townships and northern United States. For travelling, the bride chose a softly tailored blue tone tweed suit, a soft-toned pink velour hat, toring accessories and a corsage of pink carnations.

Among the out of town guests attending were: Mr. and Mrs. Richard Jones, parents of the bride, Mr. and Mrs. R. Sorel, Mr. and Mrs. S. Jones, Miss Jean Jones, and Miss Nancy Jones of Farnham; Mr. and Mrs. W. Friend of Delson; Mr. and Mrs. L. McClenaghan, Mr. and Mrs. R. I. Davies, Mr. and Mrs. P. Budd, Miss Marie L. Grant, Mr. and Mrs. S. Hawkins, Mrs. A. Latour, Mr. and Mrs. R. Beaulieu, all of Montreal; Mr. and Mrs. P. Pury of Ormstown; Mr. and Mrs. T. Phair, Miss Barbara Phair, Miss Judy Phair and Mr. Tommy Phair of Plattsburg; Mr. and Mrs. R. Perrault of Cookshire; Mr. and Mrs. G. Linn, Miss Audrey Clark of Sherbrooke.

Ormsdown
 St. Paul's United W. M. S. On Tuesday afternoon, Sept. 21st, the regular meeting of the Woman's Missionary Society was held in MacDougall Hall Mrs. A. A. McNeil presiding.

Mrs. A. Marshall had charge of the Devotional Period.

At the close of the business meeting, the Guest Speaker, Miss Helen MacDougall from B.C. gave a very interesting account of the Naramata Training School for leaders, in which she teaches and is also Secretary. This School trains young people to be leaders in church and Sunday School work so that they have a good christian foundation, also for the ministry. Many make sacrifices to attend these classes but after attending, christianity seems to put friendship on a different basis. The Bible takes on greater meaning and the church likewise.

A new channel is opened up, a purpose and a place in life. All kinds of work and handicrafts may be learned. By a record player several speakers were heard explaining the work carried on in this school.

Mrs. Alfred Greig expressed everyone's pleasure in hearing of this Missionary work and thanked Miss MacDougall.

Covey Hill
Obituary
 The late Mrs. W. A. Churchill At Covey Hill, on September 10th, after a long illness, Cora Greeg Blair, the wife of W. A. Churchill, passed peacefully away in her sleep. Born in Franklin Centre, Que., she was the daughter of the late Alexander Blair and his wife Elizabeth Anthony, and the last of their family of four, her three brothers having died a number of years ago. She leaves to mourn her loss, her husband, only son Aaron, her daughter-in-law Gertrude, and two grand-children, Shirley and Carol Churchill, also three sisters-in-law.

Mrs. Churchill taught school for several years, and in 1905 graduated from the Montreal General Hospital school of Nurses, practising her profession until August, 1913.

The funeral service was held on Sunday afternoon, Sept. 12, at the Covey Hill Union Church, where friends from Vermont, Elgin Dundee, Malone, Montreal, and Clarenceville were present in the very large concourse of people gathered to express their respect and sympathy in the death of one so widely known and highly esteemed.

Mr. J. McFarlane, Presbyterian pastor, officiated and during his discourse referred with deep feeling to the departed member of his congregation.

The hymns chosen were the 23rd Psalm and "The Old Rugged Cross," and Miss Peggy McKay sang a solo, "Good night and Good morning."

The pall-bearers were Geo. Gowdey, Kenneth Sample, Lewis, Clarence, Willard, and Roy Blair, and the flower-bearers were Beatrice Barr, Wellington Potter, Ferguson Moore, and Keith Curran. The floral offerings were very numerous and beautiful.

Interment was made at the church cemetery.

The sadness pervading our community when Mrs. Churchill's death was announced was shared by a neighbour in sorrowful dismay.

"Covey Hill without Mrs. Churchill!" The cool head and warm heart which distinguishes the most successful public servants were possessed by Mrs. Churchill. To this class she rightfully belonged by reason of the way in which she freely gave of her professional nurse's skill and experience in relieving cases of distress in her neighbours' homes. In her own home she was a devoted wife and mother and her insight into practical affairs made her a helpful counselor in the comprehensive farm system of her husband and son. Endowed with tact and a keen sense of humor she had a genius for making friends. Among the her latter gracious hospitality included her pastors and their families, making their sojourn here a happier one.

When after a long and trying illness her spirit faced a drastic operation the hopes and fears of many friends mingled in the tension of their anxiety. Later

Apple pie... coming up

A KING-SIZE apple pie weighing over a hundred pounds was recently baked for the Washington State Apple Blossom Festival. The specially built aluminum pie pan — the largest ever made — measured eight feet across.

Made up wonder how all a pie you'd get if all the apple pies baked in one day on regular-size aluminum pans were put together. And that brings to mind all the different aluminum cooking utensils used today in homes and hospitals and restaurants... No wonder Canada is stepping up her production of this light, bright metal to one and a quarter billion pounds a year! Aluminum Company of Canada, Ltd. (Alcan).

Fire At Springburn Farm
properly stored according to the season of the year. By about 8.30 p.m., the buildings had been completely destroyed by the flames and only the large quantity of feed and grain stored in the barns and silos was left to burn. The threshing of the 1954 crop of grain had been completed not long ago and it is believed that about 700 bushels were lost in the fire. It is also estimated that there were about 4,000 bales of hay. During Friday, corn harvesting had been the order of the day and some of this was still on the racks and had been hauled to a safe distance. The total fire loss on Friday last is not known, but it is contended by farmers that it would take twenty thousand dollars to erect a barn that might be somewhere near the equal of the one lost, plus the cost of all that was contained within the barn. The fire insurance carried was commensurate, but will represent half the cost of the erection of new barns. A real neighbourly spirit was displayed on Saturday morning by the

Earl C. Wilson.
I wish to express my sincere thanks to the Bandmaster and all the members of the Huntingdon Citizens Band, to the members of the 61st Ack-Ack, Valleyfield, and all who were responsible for the surprise party given in my honour. Thanks also to the employees of Leach Textiles for their generous gift of money presented to me.

XVI: Nature's Great Factory

Have you ever visited a factory? Possibly not. There are factories in most towns and cities, where men work with machines to make things for stores to sell and for people to buy.

The factory that I remember visiting made blankets. When first you entered, you could see the bundles of wool and the barrels of dyes and other chemicals which were to be used in making the blankets and cloth.

ing food. She is just preparing it for you to eat. The eggs and butter and flour that went into the cake were food when she began.

Nature's "food factory" is very tiny. You need a microscope to see them. But, when you think about it, you begin to understand how they work.

The parts of a leaf factory are very tiny. You need a microscope to see them. But, when you think about it, you begin to understand how they work.

The factory I visited used wool and dye to make blankets. These wonderful "leaf factories" use simply earth, water, air and sunlight to make all the world's food!

The food that is made is sugar and starch. The plant can then change these into any other kind of food that it needs.

Food made in the leaves often is stored in other parts of the plant. It is the part of the plant where the most food is found, usually the root.

CANADIAN WOOL TEXTILE INDUSTRY VICTIM OF CHANGING WORLD CONDITIONS

When James Rosamond opened a wool cloth mill at Morphy's Falls in the Ottawa Valley in 1945 it is doubtful whether he realized that he was founding one of Canada's proudest, and later most unfortunate, industries.

Rosamond moved the art of making wool textiles from the settlers' home into an industrial plant and then for more than 100 years the industry developed with Canada, experiencing normal ups and downs but generally growing in stature.

The Ottawa Valley remained the hub of the industry, but it spread out from Nova Scotia to British Columbia and the names of towns like Carleton Place (formerly Morphy's Falls), Perth, Almonte, Renfrew, Arnprior, Appleton, Hespeler, Brantford, Lachute, Sherbrooke and Huntingdon became synonymous with fine woollens.

Through good times and bad the industry served the country well. Peak production was reached in the period 1948-1950. During World War II mills provided millions of yards of service fabrics, and in the immediate post-war era worked hard to meet the heavy accumulated demands they were expected to fill.

The future was thought to hold promise. By 1950 the industry had some 16,000 workers in 200 mills and 146 communities and as a traditional Canadian industry was well-established in the mainstay of the district.

But then the industry became caught in an economic trap which had been set inadvertently fifteen years earlier, but which was only sprung by changing world conditions.

The stage was set in 1935 when the Canadian government in the to London at the Tuesday, Sept. 21 luncheon at the Valleyfield Rotary Club held at the Chateau.

He spoke of the important part played by those who have the heavy responsibility of piloting planes. His talk was most interesting. He was introduced by Mr. Harold Dando and thanked by Mr. Maurice Perron.

Messrs. Leo Georges Perron and Peter Stanger each received a rose for their birthdays.

Twenty-five employees of Shawinigan Water and Power Co. were given awards on September 16. They are the Valleyfield Operation and Maintenance group under the direction of Henri Houde, Sub District Superintendent.

Each period without an accident they are given an award and after three consecutive periods which was on this occasion, each member of the group was given a silver tray.

The Ontario and Quebec Industrial Position Association held a joint meeting in Ottawa, on the 23rd, 24th and 25th of September. Several scientific papers were being discussed and visits were made to the different plants.

Dr. C. L. Roman attended these meetings accompanied by Mrs. Roman who was royally entertained with the wives of those attending the Convention.

Branch 62 of the Canadian Legion at Valleyfield held their annual golf tournament Saturday, Sept. 25th. Due to weather the turnout was not as large as last year, but the competition was keen. Prize presentations by President F. Smith took place at the Legion Hall, on Victoria Street, during the evening.

More than one hundred Rotarians and their wives met at the Huntingdon Chateau, Monday evening, Sept. 20, the occasion being a reunion of the Rotarians of District No. 250. The speaker was M. A. C. Wilkinson, of Montreal.

From Valleyfield were Mr. Allen Walsh, Mr. Percy Clark, Mr. and Mrs. Emmons McDonald, Mr. and Mrs. Gerard Belanger, Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Perron, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Andre Meloche, Mr. and Mrs. Leandre Roy, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Lefebvre and the President, Philippe and Mrs. Malouin.

From Beauharnois, the Mayor and Mrs. Armand Poupart, Mr. and Mrs. Willie Poullot, Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Kirby, Mr. and Mrs. Laplante and others from Massena, Plattsburg, Malone and Chateaugay.

Mr. Wm. Ramsay, a pilot with Trans-Canada Airlines, took his listeners on a voyage from Montreal Chateaugay, N.Y., were recent Sunday guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hope and family.

Mr. Bill Bowker of Montreal spent a recent week-end with his friend, Mr. Jim Barr.

Mr. and Mrs. David Forrester attended the wedding of her niece, Miss Eleanor McCaig, to Mr. Jasper Lamb. The marriage ceremony took place in St. Paul's United Church, Ormstown, recently. Mr. and Mrs. Norman MacLellan and girls spent a recent week-end at their summer home. Mrs. Doreen De La Hay, Miss Jean McCrimmon of Montreal and Mr. Jeff Power of Manchester, England, were among their guests.

course of establishing tariffs on wool cloths entering this country from Great Britain, set a maximum duty to allow easy access to this market for a few English fabrics then considered in a "special" category.

The blow began to fall about 1950 when increasing costs of raw wool, labour, chemicals, machinery, etc., showed most wool cloths into the bracket previously considered "special." Effective rate of the tariff on imports competing with Canadian cloths was greatly reduced and the duty no longer came anywhere near equalizing the wide differential in Canadian and English waxes.

With most of their wool cloths entering Canada under a greatly reduced rate of duty English mills have been able during the past three or four years to take full advantage of their lower labour costs and shipments here have increased in volume to take 40% of the entire market.

Every yard of English wool cloth has taken away from the Canadian industry and it workers. Twenty-eight mills have been closed. More than 6,000 people have lost their jobs and not all those remaining are working full time.

Hardest hit have been Canada's little "woollen" towns—in Renfrew the two mills that were the backbone of the town economy have closed, in Almonte employment dropped from 400 to about 45, at Carleton Place one mill closed and another is operating part-time, and in Huntingdon employment dropped from close to 700 to just over 200.

One of the casualties has been visitors on Sunday, September 26, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Watterson, Dundee. Recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. Allan Ritchie were Mr. and Mrs. Eber Ferguson of McKeesport, Penn. While here, the Fergusons accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Ritchie, enjoyed a few days' visit to Quebec City.

Mrs. James Tootle, Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Tootle of Montreal, were visitors on Wednesday, September 22, at the Smiles home.

MONTREAL—I know the inside story... The husband of a friend of mine lost everything. His business failed; his savings went. Desperately, he cashed his insurance policies. And then, in three months, he died. Friends wondered how his widow could manage... Thankfully she told me that her husband, during his prosperous years, had bought her a GOVERNMENT ANNUITY... backed by the resources of the Canadian Government. It is bringing her an income for life! There's a truth in this story for everyone... The best way to ensure an old age free from financial worry is to buy a Government Annuity! I'd like to send you a booklet about them—FREE! Write to me—Byrnie Hope Sanders, 1411 Crescent St., Montreal.

sans. The program started with the Call to Worship by Stanley Myatt, then a hymn, "Jesus Loves Me". The prayer of invocation was given by Marlene Leggett; a Scripture reading by Judith Rowat; a hymn, "There is a Happy Land"; Scripture reading by Glen McIntyre; a prayer of Thanksgiving by Bobby Poirs; Scripture reading by Jimmie Ross. The senior classes sang an anthem, "Hide God's Word in your heart". The pastor, Rev. James Barr, gave the prayer followed by the Lord's Prayer by Joan Tallon. The offering was taken up by two Junior boys, Freddy Ross and Lindsay Watson, and will be used to help needy Church Schools and Christian teaching for many boys and girls. At this point several of the pupils gave a recitation of parts of the Bible which they had memorized, and certificates were given out. These include Muriel Waldie, Audrey Arnold and Beverly Johnston, Beginners; also Beverly Murtha, Junior, and Beverly Arnold, Senior. May Ross also received a Beginner's Certificate. Three Junior girls, Judith Rowat, Lois Carrigan and Beverly Murtha were given beautifully bound copies of the Bible.

Attendance pins were given to Ruth Ross, a bronze pin for 1st quarter, and May Ross, a silver pin for 3rd quarter. Prof. James Barr gave a short message to the children from the theme, "So shall ye be my disciples". He told the story of God's call to Samuel, and succeeded in holding the children's attention, which was exceptionally good as there were so many small children gathered together.

Appeal of Wilbert Coffin, 43-year-old prospector against his conviction and death sentence on a charge of killing one of three United States bear hunters, is scheduled to be heard in appeals court this month but it is likely the case will be postponed.

Coffin's appeal is on the roll of cases, court officials said, but the five-man court is expected to adjourn the case to a later term when it comes up for hearing.

Coffin was found guilty of killing the youngest of three American hunters found dead in the Gaspé bush last year.

Eight Quebec bushland towns that decided to build their own highway into the Lake St. John area have asked the roads department to help finish it.

The towns - Desbiens, St. Andre, St. Francois de Sales, Lac Edouard, Lac Bouchette parish and village, and Chambord Parish Village - started last June to build an 88-mile highway from La Tuque on the St. Maurice river to Chambord, near Lake St. John.

They said they've already paved four miles of new road, improved many other sections and put up a 60-foot bridge. New work is running into difficulty and government help is needed, they said.

The villages said the highway is so vital to the Lake St. John area's economy they decided to build it themselves to save the roads department money and get an early start.

They raised money for the road by holding dances, card parties, "highway night" and raffles, as well as voting money from municipal treasuries.

Observations

Written specially for The Huntingdon Gleaner by Robert G. Sellar, Grenoble, France

Denmark — South Sealand. Denmark is a very rich country in regard to dairy farming and also in the vast numbers of castles and historical shrines. To the south of Copenhagen, is a stretch of land known as South Sealand, one of the richest dairying sections of Northern Europe. Within this region are the famous Danish Red Dairy Cattle, a large red-brown animal which though it is considered to be quite delicate in regions where it is cool, however due to the balmy climate of South Sealand, the animal thrives and gives large quantities of milk which is exported all over Europe. The average Danish farm is 30 acres, and there are some 200,000 farms. A large farm is 150 acres while estates or manors number from 2000 to 3000 acres. However, there are few manors left in Denmark due to the fact that these large manors are expensive to operate and there are very few men in Denmark with the money to carry on a farm of that size. The average farm of 30 acres up-to-date. There are from 10 to 20 head of milking cattle which are milked by modern milking machines. All the buildings of the farm are built in a square about a large, open courtyard. The farm house usually faces the road. Beside the house, is usually a small neat flower garden. There are also boxes and pots of flowers decorating the exterior walls of the house. The farm buildings

Old Fashioned and Beautiful Scenes In Denmark

Upper left hand corner — This is one of the few remaining windmills in South Sealand, Denmark. This particular windmill is used for grinding grain. The house in the foreground is owned by the proprietor of the mill. It is like the average country home, many flowers and shrubs with a very clean appearance. Upper right hand corner — This is one of the oldest buildings in the little town of Koge. The building was built sometime after 1500 as there are crude carvings on the woodwork. Left centre — These are the farm buildings of an average Danish farm of 30 acres. Notice the white plaster walls with the moss and turf roofs. Right centre — In Denmark, in the old days, the bakes ovens were built outside the house, that is the housewife was able to fill her oven from the inside. The oven looks like a large stone that has rolled into the wall of the house. The roof that is built over the bake oven is to shade the water and the elements which could cool the oven when baking bread. Lower left hand corner — This is a typical village graveyard beside the white plastered church. The plots are always kept neat and in order, usually bordered with a low growing shrub. There is very little grass permitted to grow. The white areas on the ground are white crushed limestone from the nearby chalk and limestone mines at Falske. Lower right hand corner — Two views of the Danish Red dairy cattle. The animal is red-brown in colour, about the size of a Guernsey. This breed has no horns, at least any of the many cattle that I saw, had no horns.

are of white stucco and the roofs of turf and moss.

Besides cattle on the farm, there are also a few litters of pigs. In Denmark, there are twice as many pigs as cattle (9 million pigs, 4.5 million cattle). For interest in further statistics, there are approximately 30 million chickens in Denmark.

The chief crops harvested, oats, maize and sugar beets. Another crop which was developed during the German occupation was rape, or wild mustard, as cattle feed. It seems strange to see field after field of mustard since wild mustard in the district is considered more as a weed than a cattle feed.

The average Danish Red Dairy cow gives about 8000 lbs. milk at 45-300 days. It is cross-bred with Shorthorns for beef as well as Aberdeen Angus. Much of the breeding is done by artificial insemination by cattle societies. The average good bull calf for breeding purposes costs 40,000 — 50,000 Kroner ($6,000 — $7,000) while a full grown bull is worth 125,000 — 150,000 Kroner ($18,000 — $22,000), which is a large amount of money in Denmark.

90% of the milk in Denmark is handled by the co-operative societies. This is interesting when it is considered that there are some 1,600 dairies in the country of which 1,300 are owned by the Co-ops. Co-ops are also credited with increasing the use of farm tractors in Denmark, since the war. In 1945 there were 5,000 machines and this year (1954) there are over 60,000 tractors being used.

South Sealand contains many beautiful and ancient towns and castles. There is Koge which is a small town over 700 years old. One of the oldest buildings is the 13th century church, which is actually within the present church. The tower of the church is the light-house tower for the bay of Koge. The houses in Koge are interesting periods of architecture. Some of the houses have plain braces supporting the heavy beams thus denoting that the house was probably built before the 16th century. Other houses have carved braces (built after the 16th century), but as the carving became progressively better, the later the period of construction after the 16th century. All the streets with the exception of the main highway are of cobble stones with no real sidewalks. What sidewalks there are, are actually the road being higher the side, to permit the water to drain to the centre of the road where the sewers are.

Near by Koge is the Vallo Castle. It is one of the several large estates which are actually called incorrectly nurseries, but not in the religious sense. Instead, these estates are homes for rich elderly unmarried noble ladies. Each noble lady has a large flat of 5-7 rooms in which she and her servants live. At Vallo Castle, the ladies travel about the estate in horse-drawn carriages. The large farms on the estate are extremely profitable and each estate is nearly self-sustaining.

Like all countries of the world, Denmark has much trouble with erosion. One of the best examples of the damage that can be done by water eating away at the land, is the Hoffrup Church which was built 150 feet inland from the sea during the 14th century. During the hundreds of years after the construction of the church, the water ate into the chalk cliffs until in 1929, the chancel of the church and the cemetery fell into the ocean. Fortunately the erosion was noticed about 1910. At that time it was decided to build the present church which is a few hundred yards inland from the old church. Inside the old church there are a few pieces of frescoes dating from about 1450.

Nearby the Hoffrup Church are the largest chalk mines of Denmark, the Fakse Mines. It is from this mine that the water ate into the favourite building material is mined. However it is not actually a true marble like the marble of Italy or Spain.

Nearby the Fakse Mines is the beautiful Gisselved Castle with its small beach lakes and the picturesque canal. The grounds are well landscaped with many fine gardens as several avenues of trees. The Castle built in 1547, 30-40 years before the Reformation, and as a fortress. However it was turned into a rich estate when the rich noble women spend the rest of their days in peace. Instead of living in large flats as the women do at Vallo Castle, each noble lady has a small house or cottage which is in the large park about the castle. A descendant of the original family lives in the castle.

Throughout the countryside of Denmark, the little village churches are very easily seen because their peculiar shaped towers which are not exactly square, nor are they round. Most of the churches in Denmark are Lutheran.

This Week In Quebec

QUEBEC (CP) — Prime Minister St. Laurent denounced the doctrine of his native province's Union Nationale government Saturday in another round of a growing Federal-Provincial political war.

In a speech more than a week ago Mr. St. Laurent linked the unfavorable reception to Canada's growth behind the Iron Curtain in with that of certain people in Quebec. In another speech in Quebec City Saturday night Mr. St. Laurent said the Federal government will never recognize a single province as more important than the entire country.

Speaking to a group of 300 Liberal organizers, Mr. St. Laurent said: Federal-Provincial taxation agreements are here to stay despite Quebec's refusal to accept them; the Federal government will not allow full deductibility on the new Quebec income tax; the Federal government through its grants to education is not infringing on Quebec's autonomy.

He talked of Quebec's refusal to participate in the Trans-Canada highway, injected a reference to the administration of Quebec's liquor laws and suggested that Provincial autonomy — a difficult thing to understand — was being bounced politically in Quebec while extravagant road building costs was not being talked about.

Observers said the speech would signal an all-out fight between the Prime Minister and Premier Duplessis who Friday dealt lightly with Mr.

eran since the Lutheran Church is the Royal church. Many of the churches are of 12th, 13th and 14th century construction with frescoes decorations in the interiors dating from the 15th and 16th centuries. Many of the frescoes are interesting because the artists who painted them were usually villagers who had little or no ability for painting. Many of the frescoes have only recently been discovered because for many generations, layers of white plaster had hidden these works of art. With the discovery of the frescoes, it was discovered that some of the frescoes were about subjects that are considered to be very immoral. Thus in some of the churches the authorities were asked to replaster these immoral scenes.

Near Copenhagen is the Westminster Abbey, and the Windsor Chapel of Denmark. It is the Cathedral of Roskilde where most of the Danish kings and queens are buried. Roskilde up to the beginning of the 15th century, was the capital of Denmark. However with the times of King Christian the Fourth, the capital was moved to the present site, Copenhagen.

The Cathedral of Roskilde is quite colourful and yet at the same time very somber. The pews are painted in green, red and blue as are the pipes of the organ. Over the entrance of the nave is the clock made in the year 1500, with movable wooden carvings. The carvings are of St. George fighting the dragon, and the horse falls on the dragon. There is a figurine of a young girl which strikes the half hours and one of a man who strikes the hours on the bell. Around the cathedral are numerous chapels in which are the coffins and tombs of the different royal families of Danish history. The most recent chapel contains the bodies of Christian IX and his queen; Frederick VIII and his queen, and the Mother and Father of the present Queen of Denmark.

On one of the chapels and on one of the granite pillars are several marks indicating the heights of the royal personages who have visited the Cathedral. The marks include those of Peter The Great (Russia) and the Duke of Windsor.

St. Laurent's first speech, Sept. 2. "I would have cut that part out of my speech," said Mr. Duplessis. Mr. St. Laurent's words "stirred unfavorable reactions everywhere, and for cause," he said.

Mr. Duplessis referred to the Union National victory last week in the Compton by-election, "in his (Prime Minister St. Laurent's) native riding" where the electors "did not believe that Quebec politicians were inferior to the masters of Moscow."

A statement is planned by Mr. Duplessis on the latest speech by Mr. St. Laurent. Union Nationale party spokesmen said.

In effect Mr. St. Laurent in his speech placed the welfare of his party on the outcome of the battle. If Quebec found Federal policy in taxation a bad policy, "it can vote against us," Mr. St. Laurent said.

For the third time Quebec has rejected Federal grants to institutions of higher learning in the province. Premier Duplessis announced Friday. He released an exchange of letters with Justice Minister Garson, acting as finance minister, in which the Federal government reminded Quebec of the grant, amounting to about $2,000,000 a year — and to which Quebec said no.

Federal grants are interpreted by the Union Nationale government as an infringement on Quebec autonomy.

Husky Jacques Amyot who has been swimming in competitions 16 of his 29 years entered the cool, swift waters of St. Lawrence River at Ste. Anne de Beupre early Sunday morning and swam 21 miles upriver to Quebec City in seven hours and one minute. The feat had never been performed in Quebec and it brought cheers from more than 5,000 persons lining Quebec harbor to greet Amyot, who swam most of the course in a steady downpour of rain. His prize: $600 from business establishments and friends.
