Following Wilson's charge of Communist acts

UK seamen's strike settled

LONDON — (AP) — Britain's 45-day seamen's strike was settled today.

The executive of the National Seamen's Union voted 29 to 16 to call off the strike after meeting all morning at their south London headquarters.

The decision followed by less than 24 hours a charge in the House of Commons by Prime Minister Wilson that Communists were pressuring the seamen to prolong the dispute for political motives.

Wilson tells about Communist pressure

LONDON (CP)—Prime Minister Wilson charged Tuesday there was a Communist attempt to take over the seamen's union and destroy the government's wage restraint policy.

Wilson named Ukrainian-born, Canadian-educated Bert Ramelson, national industrial organizer of the Communist party, as the key man in the Communist pressure operation on the union executive.

The only mildly surprising names were those of two members of the seamen's union executive, who Wilson said were not Communists but were influenced by Communists and dominated the executive. They are Joe Kenny, 35, of Liverpool and Jim Slater, 46, of South Shore.

John Gollan, Communist party secretary, called the prime minister's charges Red - baiting propaganda of the most shoddy kind.

ADMITS MEETING

Ramelson admitted in a BBC television interview that he had met with Kenny during the strike, but would not say how often. He said he would not presume to advise the seamen on how to conduct their strike.

He said his role as Communist industrial organizer was to work for labor solidarity and to try to convince public opinion that the government's policy of trying to hold back wage increases was "a disaster."

Kenny said it was "an impertinence" to suggest he was influenced by Communists.

Wilson made his statement during Commons debate on extending the government's emergency powers.

He said Communists he named had met during the strike to decide policy and seek to influence the union executive.

Despite the fact there were few Communists in the union and none on the executive they had succeeded in getting Communists elected as chairmen of the strike committees in London and Liverpool, the country's two largest ports.

The vote of the union leadership indicated that a hard core of militants were still holding out for better terms but had been beaten down by the moderate element.

When the end of the strike was announced, there were angry demonstrations outside union headquarters.

"The initial reaction in shipping circles is one of relief," said a spokesman for the shipping federation.

The seamen went on strike for a 40-hour week.

ACCEPT FINAL OFFER

The shipowners' final offer of a cut in the working week to 48 hours—with 40 hours promised next year—was accepted along with 48 days annual vacation, four fewer days than the seamen now receive.

A spokesman for the union said the executive did not discuss Wilson's charges, although it must have been in the background.

"The whole discussion has been based on the present situation and the industrial dispute, together with the final offer," the union spokesman said.

The strike - ending resolution contained a formula to "adjourn strike action" for a year pending the report of a government court of inquiry into working conditions at sea.

The union, in calling the strike, had demanded an immediate 40-hour week. Working 56 hours, seamen average $42 a week.

The strike has tied up nearly 900 ships in British ports and 27,000 men have been idle.

ACCUSED OF PROLONGING STRIKE — Bert Ramelson, British Communist Party Industrial organizer, was accused by Prime Minister Harold Wilson yesterday of being the central figure in an operation to prolong the seven-week British seamen's strike.

UK Communists leap into publicity light of Wilson's charges

LONDON (CP)—The Communists today made the most of the publicity glare provided by Prime Minister Wilson's charge that they are trying to seize control of the seamen's union.

The Morning Star, formerly The Daily Worker, came out with headlines accusing Wilson of a shoddy smear and "a cock-and - bull McCarthyite rigamarole."

The newspaper says unionists will not bow down to Wilson's decisions "just because he is prime minister."

Communist leaders, named by Wilson Tuesday in the seamen's affair, gave out statements right and left and appeared on numerous television and radio programs to give their own views on the prime minister's charges.

But the man named by Wilson as the Communists' central figure in the union "takeover bid" was "definitely unavailable" to the press to give an extended report on his own background, a Communist party spokesman said.

National newspapers ran Bert Ramelson's photograph describing him variously as 54, 55 and 56 years of age. Some still maintained he was Canadian-born, though the curly-haired Communist party national industrial organizer told reporters Tuesday he was born in the Ukraine and went to Canada with his emigrant parents at the age of "12 or 13."

Described by one highly-respected newspaper as the "whiz kid" of the Communist party, Ramelson still speaks with a strong East European accent. He has been in Britain since 1939.

His father was a fur dealer who came from the little Ukrainian community of Cherkassi. They settled in Edmonton where young Bert showed brilliant scholarship. He got a law degree from the University of Alberta and what he describes as the chief justice's gold medal.

Admitted to the Alberta bar, he later joined the International Brigade in the Spanish Civil War in 1937, became adjutant of a machine-gun battalion and by his own report was wounded twice.

Martin's dinner for Russians turns into row on Viet Nam

OTTAWA (CP)—External Affairs Minister Martin and Dmitri Polyansky of the Soviet Union's hierarchy clashed at a government dinner Tuesday night when the Soviet official launched a bitter attack against United States actions in Viet Nam.

Mr. Polyansky, first deputy chairman of the Soviet council of ministers, said in his attack that Canada and other nations should halt U.S. "interference" in the Southeast Asian country.

Mr. Martin, who earlier paid compliments to Mr. Polyansky and the Soviet Union, was angered by the speech which contrasted sharply with the general atmosphere of goodwill marking the dinner till then.

Mr. Polyansky, head of an 11-man delegation touring agricultural and other establishments here, said the U.S. had entered a "house that did not belong to it" thousands of miles from Washington ad is destroying Vietnamese towns and villages, roads and bridges and industrial projects, poisoning the crops and burning forests. . . ."

Not a single Vietnamese bomb has fallen on U.S. territory or killed or maimed an American "old man, woman or child," he said.

Is any other proof needed that the Vietnamese are the victims and the United States the aggressors, he asked.

"It is the duty of all governments, parliamentarians and public figures to see to it that foreign interference in Viet Nam be halted, and that the Vietnamese people, like any other people, be given an opportunity to decide their domestic affairs by themselves."

Although Mr. Polyansky placed the duty upon all countries, Canadian officials interpreted the speech to be directed against Canada, which has sent retired diplomat Chester Ronning to the North Vietnamese capital of Hanoi several times to determine whether negotiations on the Viet Nam war are possible.

Canada is a member of the International Control Commission for Viet Nam, along with India and Poland9

Mr. Polyansky's speech shocked the audience of 150 ministers, MPs and diplomats gathered at Ottawa's Rideau Club. External affairs officials expressed astonishment that the remarks were made on Canadian soil and at a dinner given by Mr. Martin.

MARTIN PRAISES U.S.

The external affairs minister replied with strong praise of the United States, saying it is Canada's "great neighbor" and has made an "enormous" contribution to resisting aggression and promoting peace.

Mr. Martin declined any extended comment on the Russian's speech.

Job insecurity said cause of labor unrest, not pay

MONTREAL (CP) — Automation, dislodging men often beyond the age of re-training, is the greatest single factor in North American labor unrest, John Turner, federal minister without portfolio, said here Tuesday.

"Anxiety over job security and fear of unemployment is the prime cause of industrial dispute in North America today —not wages or working conditions," he told the St. George Kiwanis Club.

The Montreal St. Lawrence-St. George member of Parliament said the bargaining table, where contracts are hashed out, is obsolete. He warned against premature government involvement in a strike, which "destroys the basis of free collective bargaining."

With reference to so-called illegal strikes, he said:

"Strikes cannot be settled just by passing a law. No law is going to compel a man to work if he feels he is being unjustly treated."

Montreal freight men back to work

MONTREAL (CP)—Some 600 freight handlers employed in Montreal harbor returned to work today, ending a nine-day walkout that had piled up 500 freight cars in the port.

The men, members of the Brotherhood of Steamship and Railway Clerks, Freight Handlers, Express and Station Employees (CLC), agreed to return to work after ratifying a joint offer by the CNR and CPR Tuesday night.

National Harbors Board officials said earlier that activity in the port had been seriously affected by the walkout. The freight handlers left their jobs June 20, two days after longshoremen in Montreal, Trois-Rivieres and Quebec City ended a 39-day strike.

Some of the men returned to work Tuesday night.

'Highly successful' says McNamara

US bombs Hanoi-Haiphong

WASHINGTON (AP) — Defence Secretary Robert S. McNamara said today U.S. planes hit Hanoi-Haiphong oil depots today to make North Viet Nam's infiltration of the south "more costly."

He portrayed the raids as highly successful.

McNamara said "every effort was made to prevent harm to civilians and to prevent destruction of non-military facilities."

He told a broadcast and televised press conference the decision to strike the petroleum facilities was made by President Johnson on his recommendation and that of State Secretary Dean Rusk.

McNamara said "the decision to strike these targets was made to restrict and make more costly the enemy's infiltration" of South Viet Nam.

Another objective, he said, was to "save the lives" of the South Vietnamese, Americans, Australians and South Koreans fighting in South Viet Nam.

The action, McNamara said, was a response to a swift and rising North Vietnamese buildup in South Viet Nam which has converted the fighting there into a "quasi-conventional war operation."

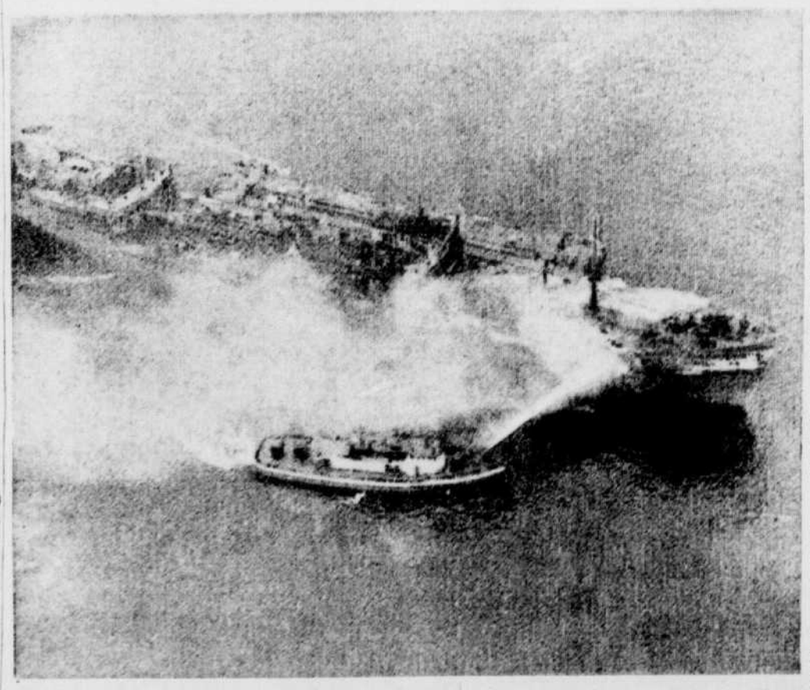
That buildup, he said, has made the North Vietnamese forces and their Viet Cong allies increasingly dependent on truck movement of heavy supplies, increasing the strategic importance of fuel.

McNamara said more than 60 per cent of North Viet Nam's oil storage facilities were in the three target areas hit.

One American aircraft, an F-105, was lost in the attack, he reported.

Other defence department sources said that prior to today's devastating strikes only 15 per cent of North Viet Nam's petroleum facilities had been knocked out in recently intensified raids.

Tanker burns again in New York



JINXED SHIP BURNS AGAIN — Fire boat shoots streams of water at burning British tanker Alva Cape anchored off Brooklyn today after the ship exploded and caught fire, twelve days after she was involved in a collision that claimed 33 lives. Three men were reported killed in the latest mishap.

(AP Wirephoto)

NEW YORK (AP)—The hard-luck British tanker Alva Cape exploded and burned Tuesday at a Brooklyn anchorage in an uncanny encore to tragedy. She was involved less than two weeks ago in a harbor collision that claimed 33 lives.

The U.S. Coast Guard counted four men dead this time, with three others missing.

Once again it was the volatile naphtha cargo aboard the 11,252-ton British ship that exploded and sent flames flaming anew in her fire-scarred hulk as she lay in Gravesend Bay, just off shore.

After flying over the ship in a helicopter, Mayor John V. Lindsay said he would seek the Alva Cape's removal from the harbor as a continuing menace.

The coast guard, meanwhile, ordered the Alva Cape's tanks flooded with salt water and an inert gas, to neutralize the remaining naphtha.

Fire Chief John O'Hagan said the latest explosion and blaze occurred when oxygen mixed with the naphtha being pumped from the Alva Cape in high temperatures. The mercury hit a high of 101 degrees Monday and 93 degrees Tuesday.

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — What happens when an eight-year-old girl has lunch with Batman? The results can be unpredictable when the girl is Dina Burke.

Dina (pronounced deena) is the daughter of Paule Burke, the star of television series 12 O'Clock High. The lunch had its inception when the actor and his wife were attending the recent SHARE benefit, at which an auction is held to raise funds for disturbed children.

Amid the fur coats and jewelry, auctioneer Dean Martin offered up another item: "What am I bid for Batman?"

"I thought I had just been asked to donate a cape or something like that," crime fighter Adam West explained. "But I guess Martin had an idea of his own and he offered me up for auction.

"I didn't quite realize what was going on until I visited the Burkes' table afterward. I noticed they were kind of looking me over; I felt as if I were a slave block. I found out later that they had bought me."

PRICE WAS $1,000

Indeed Burke offered a $1,000 donation if Batman would have lunch with his daughter. "Sold!" said Martin and West was committed.

The $1,000 lunch took place at a cafe opposite Pathe Studios, where Batman has begun filming its second season. At first Dina declined to sit next to West.

"I don't like you," she announced.

"Why not?"

"Because you never let the Penguin win," said Dina. She took a place next to West after he agreed to treat the Penguin (Burgess Meredith) more kindly.

Dina worked up to her luncheon partner, who has a way with kids, especially eight - year - old girls; he has one of his own. Dina admitted that her schoolmates had been excited about her lunch and asked her to bring back autographed photos for them.

While Dina sipped her drink, West told a reporter, "I've started the second season, working all day and rehearsing into the night for my first big personal appearance at Shea stadium in New York.

"I'm getting close to $150,000 for the show and I want it to be good."

That should evoke a rush of memories for the movie buff. All those wondrous old films: Camille, Waterloo Bridge, Broadway Melody, Johnny Eager, A Yank at Oxford, etc., etc.

And what about these titles: Wicked Woman, Society Doctor, Georgeous Hussy, Her Cardboard Lover, Times Square Lady, etc., etc.?

All these films and many more were made by Taylor during the longest contract ever fulfilled by a Hollywood star. He signed with MGM in 1934 when he was Spangler Arlington Brough, just out of Pomona College. His exclusive contract ended in 1958, but he remained until 1961 on a non-exclusive basis.

Now he's back playing in a western, Return of the Gunfighter.

At 54, Taylor's face is a bit more seamed, but his figure remains a trim 175. The famous Taylor hairline, widow's peak and all, is the same as ever.

WAS LIGHT

"I was skinny as a rail back in my early days here," he recalled. "I think I weighed 150 pounds when I made Camille. I had to sweep Garbo into my arms and carry her and I almost didn't make it. Those petticoats she was wearing must have weighed 50 pounds."

Whereas he started his career as a romantic leading man, Taylor has specialized in westerns in recent years. He did his stint in television with his Detectives series, which lasted three years. Now he prefers to stick to features.

"I just want to make enough money to pay my bills," he said. "That usually amounts to a couple of pictures a year. And I try not to plan them during the fishing season."

Fishing is almost another profession for Taylor. Luckly his wife, the German beauty Ursula Theiss, shares his love of angling. The couple and their two children spend vacations on the Colorado River, where they keep a cabin cruiser.

"That's where we're heading as soon as this picture is over," he said.

Kinnear's Mills U.C.W. meets

KINNEAR'S MILLS -- Mrs. Victor Lowry entertained the U.C.W. at her home on June 9 with a good attendance of members. The group was pleased to welcome a former member, Mrs. Thomas Watts, who recently returned to her home, after spending a few months in Valcartier.

It was decided to send a sunshine basket to a member who had been in the hospital. Members were reminded of a U.C.W. workshop to be held in Quebec City and several hope to attend.

Definite plans were made for the annual July supper. Articles are being made for the sales-table. A donation of two girls hand-made dresses were received from Mrs. C. Montgomery, St. Eustache.

Gladys Nugent, Shirley Carmichael and Bessie Guy reported on the annual meeting of the Quebec - Sherbrooke Presbyterial which they attended in Sherbrooke. A discussion on the salient points in the reports followed.

The ladies are to meet shortly for an afternoon of quilting in the church hall.

The next regular meeting will be an evening meeting in July. Mrs. Lawrence Allan will be hostess.

About Television

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP) — Dark Shadows, ABC's new serial, moved into position Monday and while it takes more than one episode to really appreciate this type of program it has the mark of a welcome change from formula soap opera.

The costumes of the principals are contemporary. Our first glimpse of the heroine showed a pretty, young girl in a turtleneck sweater and a teased hairdo. But the language and settings—dashing surf, a misty half moon and dark shadows — suggested the shutter-flapping, creaking-door novels of another generation.

All this is deliberate since the series is billed as " a Gothic tale." It starts with the heroine, Victoria Winters, musing on a train rushing through the night to Collinsport on the Maine coast, "My journey is a beginning. . . ."

Then we cut to an enormous hilltop mansion where Joan Bennett gazes from a window, looking terribly sad and aristocratic. She is a Collins of Collingswood in Collinsport. There also is her brother, who has all the airs of a bad one.

HIRED AS GOVERNESS

Victoria, it appears, has been hired to be his young son's governess.

The Collins clan is terribly rich and social. You gather this because they are arguing in a large drawing room with an enormous fireplace and ancester portraits on the wall.

Some rather sudsy plot lines already are appearing, however. There's a grim, mysterious stranger who warns our heroine to keep away from the Collins family. And there's something funny about Victoria's background. She's a foundling who was brought up in an orphanage. And the Collins grande dame—Miss Bennett—has been a recluse for more than 18 years.

The first show got pretty far away from the usual daytime soaps. It does, however, have a slight Peyton Place feel about it.

Jane Kean, once part of a popular nightclub act with her sister Betty, has been signed to play the TV wife of Art Carney in next season's 10 musical versions of The Honeymooners in Jackie Gleason's shows. The role originally was played by Joyce Randolph.

ALIENATION SICKENS

The World Health Organization says that the isolation of individuals in a seemingly hostile environment produces mental disturbance, and that this underlies many of the effects of urbanization.

Magog retailer says textile strike crippling the economy of the region

MAGOG — (Special) — A spokesman for Magog's retail merchants said here last night that the 11-week old strike of textile workers at the Dominion Textile plant here has had a crippling effect on the city's economy.

He said the strike is bringing hardships to many.

Rolland Dion was speaking at a meeting called by the retailers to hear union representatives describe their views on the strike.

However, after a CNTU union official, Jean Champagne of Montreal, delivered an hour-long tirade against the company, many of the merchants left the meeting.

Another one of the merchants, told the gathering after he had listened to union explanations that it was obvious company representatives had to be heard from as well.

After his speech, during which he urged that government pressure be brought to bear against the company, Mr. Champagne had anti-company literature distributed through the audience.

In the discussion that followed, many of the retailers asked why the strike in the Magog area had not yet been settled, when textile workers in some other mills, CLC affiliates, had ended their strike and were back at work.

The meeting adjourned after three hours without any definite decisions being taken. The merchants had hoped to be able to obtain some basis for negotiation from the union which they could take to the company themselves.

Finds paying one's fare on city autobus is simple, clean and automatic operation

By CLAUDE LABRECQUE
(Record Staff Reporter)

SECOND IN A SERIES

This is the second in a series of impressions, that I, as a new resident and reporter have gleaned from living in your city.

The article is written freely, just as one might gain impressions, while on a bus, or walking on the street, or having lunch. As such it is meant to be offhand, but not without, it is hoped a certain freshness of insight newness often brings.

As a reporter for this newspaper, I was called upon to do a story which involved my travelling to a part of town called the West Ward. This was in the evening, and since I was at my leisure, I decided, to reach my destination by city bus. Happily, the policeman from whom I asked instructions to get to Denault street knew how to get there and explained it to me in a clear way.

Now all I had to do was get there.

Ha! It was with a little apprehension that I mounted the steps of No. 38 bus at the corner of King and Wellington, thinking ahead to the messy affair of inquiring into the price of one ticket, and the price of many, then of comparing to find the most economical buy, wondering all the while if I wouldn't be holding up a long line of grumbling habitues.

No such bother! The bus was practically empty and I was able to inquire of the bus driver how far off my stop was and where to get off. "How much is the fare?" I asked looking at the strange looking toll box.

"20 cents just put 'em in there" he indicated. So I painstakingly inserted one dime and two nickels into the gizmo, and heard the "ping-ping,' ping-ping" which announced musically my having accomplished what in some city buses is a real operation.

Montreal city buses are bad that way. The price for several tickets is usually some clumsy amount and the drivers have to fiddle with change and watch "faking" in the boxes while a long line of hot and worried people look on. Not in Sherbrooke. Here it's one clean, honest, automatic operation.

I had the chance to catch a glimpse of the much talked about University of Sherbrooke campus on the bus ride. I had no idea the grounds and buildings were so vast. Some parts seemed to be quite modern too, but I couldn't see too well from where I was sitting.

After I had done my interview I took the bus back to town. It was a fair ride, not comparable to a daredevil bus ride down North Vancouver's bus route but rather racy all the same. Especially as we practically slid down King street for the Wellington stop.

"I guess you don't stop this easily in the winter" I said to the driver.

"No" he said, grinning.

I wasn't grinning though as I stepped briskly down and into a large man who nearly rolled over backwards.

"I'm sorry sir," I said embarrassed, trying to help him stand up straight again.

"T'aint nauthing, kiddo," he said in what was surely a Southern drawl.

"I wasn't looking where I was going," I explained.

"No, kiddo. It's my fault, I was just wandrin' round maself, not lookin' nowhere, yah see I'm on my vacation and.."

"You're a stranger then," I affirmed, feeling less of a stranger now.

"Yep, I just come up from South Bluff.

So he talked on for a long while about how he liked to vacation in Canada and how

Unitarian minister

Civil rights marcher discusses the South

By GERALD BARR
(Record Staff Reporter)

The great weapon in the cause of civil rights in the American South is public attention, a Unitarian minister from Tennessee said in an interview here this week.

Rev. Kenneth Torquil MacLean, who is the minister this summer at the North Hatley Unitarian Universalist Church, said the people who work for the cause of civil rights are tremendously conscious of the force of public opinion.

His home church is in Knoxville.

Mr. MacLean has been involved in two civil rigths marches and in a voter registration project in the town of McCone, Mississippi. The marches are both well-known civil rights demonstrations, the march on Washington and the last leg of the now famous Selma march from Selma to Montgomery, Alabama.

Mr. MacLean said that the problem much of the time for civil rights workers is to keep the public attention long enough to be able to make some gains. Public knowledge of their work is usually their advocate and their protection, he said.

Mr. MacLean told about his experience in the march to Montgomery, the state capitol of Alabama. Mr. MacLean went to the march in reply to Dr. Martin Luther King's call for clergy from all over the country to join the demonstration. The call was issued by Dr. King after the death of Unitarian minister James Reebe following a beating he received in Selma.

After receiving the call for clergy, Mr. MacLean drove to Birmingham to a Unitarian church there that was acting as a coordination center for the marchers. He was told by the minister of the church that they had received threats of bombings as reprisal for their activities. Though the bombings were not carried out, explained Mr. MacLean, it was not a threat to be treated lightly, Birmingham has a history of forty bombings. He said not one person has yet been brought to trial for any of those crimes.

From Birmingham the marchers were transported to outside Montgomery to join those who had come from Selma. Mr. MacLean went ahead of the marchers with some others to form a line around the speakers' platform and prepare for the others.

He described Montgomery as seeming something like a city under siege. Nationalized state troopers lined the streets along which the marchers were to come, and lines of state troopers were formed between the governor's mansion and the area where the demonstration was to be held.

"One's imagination was working overtime" said Mr. MacLean, "there was always the spectre of violence and never knowing quite what to expect." At Montgomery there were about forty thousand people at the rally. It was very much like the Washington march, said Mr. MacLean, except for one major difference that stood out in his mind. The rally of the Washington march was staged in front of the Lincoln Memorial. "In Washington", he said, "behind the white columns in front of us was Lincoln, in Montgomery, behind the white columns was George Walace."

The great success of the Sl-ma-Montgomery march in terms of its effect upon the passing of the civil rights bill, said Mr. MacLean, was almost certainly due to the death of James Reebe. Reeb's death, he said was a "clear and simple price-tag" for the civil rights bill.

He said that absolutely

Presidential report reviews activities of Rotary year

In his final address to the Sherbrooke Rotary Club retiring president Clarence Blake last night said he appreciated the co-operation received from each member of the club.

Reviewing this year as president he said, "In the majority of cases our committees have heard, and to them and their chairmen my appreciation for their efforts. I think you will concede that we have had well balanced programs along the four avenues of service, perhaps predominantly community service.

"Circumstances have necessitated dealing with non - recurring projects such as Centennial Rose and Expo Passports. There were also other events of an unusual nature deserving mention, i.e., civic night and the recognition of the heads of our various Chambers of Commerce and service clubs in the area. The musical evening was a fitting tribute to the long and outstanding service of Wright Gibson and three of our members received long service awards for perfect attendance.

"We were honored by the visit of a representative of Rotary International, and out inter-club activities were increased by the observance of our 47th Anniversary as well as our successful participation in the first District Golf Tournament.

"On the occasion of the 25th Anniversary of our Air Cadet Squadron, suitable recognition was given to two of its leaders who have served with the Squadron since its foundation.

"New direction and special emphasis was given to the difficult program of Vocational service and additional committees were named on account of Rotary Foundation, extension services, and the revision of our constitution. These are continuing tasks which all be completed at appropriate times.

"During the year we purchased a piece of land for the Dixville Home for retarded children and contributed to the cost of a new car for the Victorian Order of Nurses."

Following his speech Mr. Blake turned the gavel of office over to the new Rotary Club president, Herb Simons. Mr. Simons said that he accepted the post of president of the club with honor and considered it a privilege to serve the club as its 47th president.

Mr. Simons told the members of the club that he had no particular project in mind for his term of office. But he urged each member to become involved in Rotary.

Lorne Thompson director of committees responsible for programming, fellowship, attendance, luncheon and music spoke briefly.

John Gautier, director of committees, in charge of Rotary information, classification, finance, sick visiting, and magazine and public information said that more new members are needed, preferably young men from the community.

Wilf Crowley director of committees in charge of crippled children, camp maintenance youth, Air Cadets, and Little League baseball reported that Little League spent its $400 allotted budget on uniforms and other essentials.

Forty-seven crippled children were looked after during the year with 10 cases in progress and 11 other children are being sent to camp.

The fourth regional science fair was held Mr. Crowley reported, at the University of Sherbrooke.

Club treasurer Lindy Lindskou gave a financial report which included expenditures for $17,800 spent on crippled children and youth work.

Classroom accident action is dismissed

A Superior Court Judge has rejected a damage action taken out by two people for two different amounts against the Roman Catholic School Commission of Sherbrooke in connection with an injury their 18-year-old son sustained in a physical fitness activity.

Jeanne Gagne sued the school commission for $18,600 and her husband, Laurentien Lauzon sued for $11,207.

According to the testimony Denis Lauzon, a student at the Ecole St. Francois, was in a class room supervised by gymnastics teacher, Jacques Belanger. The students were using a trampoline between 8:30 and 10 a.m. April 8, 1964.

The youth wanted to try out a somersault but he lost his balance and fell on the floor, head first. He was immediately taken to hospital.

The two plaintiffs claim that the trampoline was installed in a room other than the gymnasium, that the exercise was a difficult one and they alleged that the accident was the fault of the teacher, Jacques Belanger.

The school commission, however, claimed that Denis Lauzon was one of the best students on the trampoline. Furthermore, Jacques Belanger was a fully qualified gym instructor. The defendant claimed that Belanger committed no folly as to surveillance.

Judge Evender Veilleux ruled that young Denis' accident was unfortunate but his parents did not show sufficient evidence to point out that the school commission committed an error.

Judge Veilleux quoted Judge Taschereau in the case of O'Brien versus the Attorney general.

Judge Taschereau ruled in 1961 that "One cannot evidently exaggerate the standard of perfection which is required of a teacher. He did his work well, and is therefore free of any civil responsibility if he showed that he did all he reasonably could."

Judge Veilleux ruled that there was no negligence on the part of Belanger. He also stated that Denis Lauzon had been working on the trampoline for two years prior to the incident.

The judge stated that the accident was one that could occur in any physical fitness activity.

The case was rejected with the plaintiffs sharing the court costs.

Four members of Tortelier family perform in JMC season's opener

By SUSAN WEARING
(Special to the Record)

MAGOG—A preliminary gala concert was given at the JMC camp at Mount Orford on Saturday night.

Four members of the amazing Tortelier family presented an unusual interesting and very satisfying programme of music for two cellos, violin, and piano in various combinations. The "Concert a deux violoncellos" by F. Couperin was played by Paul and Maud Tortelier with a perfect blend of instruments and spirits. Paul Tortelier produces a brighter, more forceful tone than his wife. Her tone is darker and mellow but equally supple and sensitive.

They have a wonderful sense of style, capturing the spirit of the dances beautifully. This was also apparent in the "Sonate pour deux violoncellos" by G. F. Handel, a noble, majestic piece on a grander scale. Their playing of this was perhaps the most impressive part of the programme. In it they were joined by their daughter Pau at the piano. One was impressed by her involvement in the music, and the three of them, in the slow movement, produced pure poetry.

Three charming "Pieces en concert" by J. P. Rameau were well-played by Jan Pascal, Pau and Maud Tortelier. A fuller, more rounded tone from the violin would have improved the overall balance. Jan Pascal played the "Introduction et Rondo Capriccioso" by Saint-Saens with plenty of fire and brilliance as well as apparent ease, although his tone tended to be slightly edgy, giving the impression of shallowness.

"Trois Etudes" for cello by Paul Tortelier were played by Mme Tortelier. These required some intense playing and contained some beautiful writing but were fiendishly difficult to play. Much of the writing was in the upper register, which is pretty hard to get at, and there were some treacherous leaps.

Pau Tortelier proved to be an excellent musician, both in the role of accompanist and in the realm of chamber music. She has a fine sense of balance between the parts, good control and well-balanced tone.

The size and accoustics of the hall make it ideal for this type of intimate playing. The Tortelier family will be staying at Mount Orford during the remainder of the camp. We will be looking forward to hearing from them again.

Gas sale to be probed

A meeting is scheduled for this afternoon between the secretary of the city's industrial commission and a Quebec gas company.

Robert Belisle of the industrial commission said today that he would meet with Quebec Propane Gas to discuss the sale of the city's distribution system.

The company has offered to open negotiations in view of an eventual transaction. Mr. Belisle is to find out what the company plans to do.

Mr. Belisle said that no offer has been made by the company as yet.

The city gas system serves 6,000 subscribers. During 1965 the gas department incurred a deficit of $68,663.

Old arias unchanged over the years

The artists change but the melodies linger on.

New faces appear on the political stage at Quebec City but somehow or other the arias sung by the participant in the melodrama following the shift in parliamentary power follow the same old refrain.

The new star sings a woeful tale of the provincial treasury being bare, of the new Government finding itself weighed down with the tremendous burden of commitments made by its predecessor in office of which the public had no idea.

Now occupying a secondary role, the former Premier solemnly declares that really the newcomer does not know his part, that if he did know it he would find the situation nowhere near as critical as it was being painted, that the new prima donna is simply seeking to create among the audience an atmosphere favorable to further increases in taxation and the provincial debt.

Perhaps the operetta was staged prior to the turn of the century when the Liberal began their long term of office, but their 33 years of continuous power prevented any repetition of the opus until the advent of the Union Nationale in 1936.

In that year the new Premier, Maurice Duplessis told the people that the treasury was empty, that there was a mountain of unpaid bills and that he must borrow $50 million at once to clean up the situation. Provincial revenues that year were a tremendous $38 million.

Three years later when the Liberals re-med office, Premier Adelard Godbout had a long face when he sang of Old Mother Hubbard and the empty cupboard despite an increase in taxation returns to a million dollars weekly. The UN soloist, naturally, insisted that there were plenty of bones for the poor dog if his successor wanted to hunt them up.

When power reverted to the Union Nationale in 1944, the same numbers were offered from the stage but by different singers.

And in 1960 the incoming Premier, Jean Lesage, declared that many of his programs could not be implemented without increasing taxation, despite a pledge to lower levies, because the province was near bankruptcy. The outgoing Premier sang about the people being betrayed.

Have you heard these tunes lately?

It's sad, but when a bore gets tight, his tongue gets loose.

Flag desecration penalty unneeded

Most Canadians will unite with Ovide Laflamme, Liberal MP for Quebec-Montmorency, in condemning desecration of the Maple Leaf Flag.

Regardless of their feelings at the disappearance of the Red Ensign as the flag of this country, even its bitterest foes have come to accept the Maple Leaf Flag as the flag of Canada and are prepared to give it respect. They will condemn any move to bring it into disrespect, whether by separatists or anyone else.

But few will agree with Mr. Laflamme in introducing a bill in the House of Commons providing severe penalties for separatists and other demonstrators who burn or tear flags in protest.

Respect for a national flag cannot be engendered by law and the application of penalties even when the acts of desecration are designed to stir up "revolts, protests, hate or disorder" as contained in Mr. Laflamme's proposed amendments to the Criminal Code.

In the final analysis the national flag is only a symbol of the country for which it stands and until a person learns to respect his country he cannot learn to respect its flag.

The readers say:

Hospital upsets politician, not patient

Dear Sir:

I had a letter written to you about the remarks of Mr. Allard about discrimination, and that French Canadians were not spoken to in their own language at Queen Mary Veterans' Hospital, and after reading the letter you published, written by Comrade Royea, I decided to add to his remarks, but he covered practically everything I was writing about.

I am a total disability pensioner and have spent on the average, five to six weeks of each year, since 1949, as a patient at Q.M.V.H., and I can say I have had to talk French numerous times to be understood on the wards and especially at the administrative office at Q.M.V.H.

I did not complain about this, but Mr. Allard is complaining, but for whom? Some dissatisfied 'Zombie' I cannot see an active service veteran complaining about such a trivial matter. I believed it would have been better election 'bait' for Mr. Allard to have made a stand on increased pensions for our Hong Kong and other veterans. He is strangely quiet in Ottawa when veterans' welfare comes before the House, but there is where he should make his statements to the press.

I will add further regarding the percentage of the doctors not being able to talk French, I believe that there is a plan, maybe the Columbo Plan, under which foreign doctors are trained at Queen's Mary's, because I had two of three doctors, who treated me last April, one was from India, one was from Spain (he talked better French than English), and the chief neurologist was originally from England (he did not speak French). A good percentage of the nurses could talk very little English, and several orderlies could not speak or understand English.

So! I say that if Mr. Allard has any comments to make, he should ask patients who have spent a lot of time at this hospital over the years, before telling the press about the so-called 'discrimination' of our French Canadian comrades. He is just 'stirring' up a 'pot' that is already 'boiling' and should have sense enough to take it off the 'fire.' If it were left up to the War Veterans, the Separatist tendencies would disappear in Quebec. I am sure that Mr. Allard could put his talents to better use, instead of 'widening the gap' between French and English speaking Canadians. We have enough agitators in the Province now.

I hope you will have the space, Mr. Editor, to print this letter. Thanking you very sincerely.

I remain,
Very truly yours,
'ACTIVE SERVICE, 1939-45'.

matter of fact

The length of the runway on an airport is dependent upon the density of the air and its height above sea level. When the temperature is high, for example, the density of the air is relatively low and the aircraft needs a longer takeoff run. The airport at Denver, Colo., at 5,000 feet, needs much longer runways than sea-level airports. Most big commercial jets need at least 8,500 feet for takeoff.

Americans are spending between $375 million and $500 mililon yearly on vitamin tablets, mineral supplements, and the like. It calls for a high sense of public duty on the part of a government official to puncture this ballooning market by imposing labeling regulations that tell buyers, in effect, that most of them don't need any of these things.

Dr. James L. Goddard, commissioner of the United States Food and Drug Administration, has done just that. In six months from now, when the new rules he has issued becomes effective, all multivitamin and supplementary mineral products sold to the retail trade must bear this frank message:

"Vitamins and minerals are supplied in abundant amounts by the foods we eat. The Food and Nutrition Board of the National Research Council recommends that dietary needs be supplied by such foods. Except for persons with special medical needs, there is no scientific basic for recommending routine use of dietary supplements."

The public needs the protection of the new rules. The huge market for vitamin products has been built up largely through floods of misinformation surrounding the little tablet. People have been too easily persuaded to buy it by popular magazine and newspaper articles, by advertising, and by what they hear on radio and television.

Buyers have also been confused by new mass marketing techniques. The impersonal selling system of today's big stores speaks no warnings. More and more the consumer must depend upon the label for information and counsel.

Governmental efforts to shield the consumer from pressures to buy what has little or no value are to be warmly commended. But they cannot do everything. The buyer must do something for himself. That something is to use the information provided him, and act intelligently.

UK's new gun seller appointment recalls Europe's mystery man

By TOM A. CULLEN

LONDON -- (NEA) -- The British government's appointment of a super arms salesman to sell military hardware abroad has touched off an uproar on the extreme left.

Prime Minister Harold Wilson is accused by leftwingers of having sold out to the "merchants of death." The newly appointed government weapons salesman is said to be a "vulture" and a "vampire."

He is 45-year-old Raymond Brown, head of an electronics company which has been a pace - setter in the export drive. Ordinarily Brown's go-getter qualities should endear him to the left wing of the British Labor party, but the pacifism of the 1930s is so deeply ingrained among them that Brown is regarded with suspicion and distrust.

The objection to Brown's appointment is due partly to anti - Americanism. The leftwingers are afraid that he will sell British arms to the United States for use in Viet Nam. The Wilson government, on the other hand is anxious to make American sales.

"We feel perfectly free, indeed anxious to sell arms to the United States," says Denis Healey, the British defense secretary. "And we would not seek to impose any limitation on the use of the arms we sell."

The Left has countered by dragging out the ghost of Sir Basil Zaharoff, the so - called "Mystery Man of Europe," who made millions selling to European powers half a century ago.

However, whereas Zaharoff represented private interests, Brown will be boosting the arms sales of private manufacturers in order to help the government's export drive. Brown, as a government agent, will be guided in his deals by British foreign policy. Zaharoff's only guide was his pocketbook.

Brown would do well to study the Zaharoff dossier, in the opinion of defense experts, in order to learn what pitfalls to avoid, as well as to gain useful sales tips.

Sir Basil Zaharoff was a sinister sort of Batman of World War I vintage, minus tights and cape, and minus Robin. He sold guns, battleships and planes to all comers. He bought up Cabinet ministers, opposition newspapers.

Yet almost nothing is known about his early life, other than the fact that he was born in Constantinople in 1849 of a Greek mother and a Russian father. He delighted in surrounding himself with mystery.

The philosophy of the arms salesman was defined by George Bernard Shaw in "Major Barbara" as "selling arms to anyone who offers an honest price for them, without respect of person or principles."

Zaharoff was the master of the two-way sell. His first big deal came in 1888 when he persuaded the Greeks to buy a submarine, the first one ever sold. The ink scarcely dry on the contract, Zaharoff then took the fast train to Constantinople, where he talked the Turks into buying two.

But the subtlety of the Zaharoff technique lay in the individual approach, which today's arms salesmen might study profitably. Once he chatted with a senior Slav officer, scarcely mentioning the sale of arms.

Then he said, "A cigarette, major?" and offered a gold case containing one cigarette and one tightly rolled enormous banknote. After a brief further discussion, the major asked, "Could I have another cigarette?" The deal was done.

Zaharoff was also something of a ladies' man. It was by ingratiating himself with a dancer that he was introduced to a Russian grand duke and artillery orders.

Again, on a train trip to Spain in 1889 he met the woman he was to marry 35 years later, the Duchess of Villafranca, who was a cousin to the king. She helped him to secure an order running into millions.

But he remained an enigma to the very end when, a frail little man with a silvery goatee, he was seen scooting about Monte Carlo in an electric - driven chair. Through his connection with the Vickers Co. he made at least $60 million out of World War I, yet when he died in 1936, at the age of 87, his English estate was valued at exactly $540,680.

Zaharoff was knighted by the British government, which also gave him the Order of the British Empire and the Order of the Bath. The French government awarded him the Grand Cross of the Legion of Honor.

Oxford University even made him an honorary Doctor of Laws.

US may draft bedbugs

By ROBERT COCHNAR

WASHINGTON — (NEA)— A whole new career in service to his country may be open to the lowly bedbug, thanks to the U.S. Army.

Army scientists have been working with these unfriendly insects and have discovered they can tell when human beings are in their neighborhood.

But let the Army describe its newest weapon:

"The apparatus is an experimental device known as a Whole Insect Personnel Detector. Inside an accordionlike instrument is a small wire container housing four to six bedbugs hungry for human blood.

"As the walking soldier works the accordion in and out he fills the chamber with air, thus exposing the bugs to the atmosphere of the vicinity. If a human is near, the bugs will sense the effluents and react vigorously.

"An electronic pickup attached to the bug cage is connected to an amplifier at the waist of the soldier which produces an audible signal in the earphones when the normally quiescent bugs sense the human effluents."

Scientists figure soldiers in Viet Nam should be able to use the bugs to detect Viet Cong guerrillas. How the bedbug will be able to tell the enemy from the friend is another matter.

Finding Viet Cong has always been difficult, but one wonders whether a squad of American soldiers will be willing to stake its collective life on the ability of a couple of bedbugs.

On the other hand, this discovery offers tremendous possibilities for other little creatures hitherto considered to be of no particular military value.

The grasshopper, for example.

Scientists might figure out a way to alter the pitch of the rasping sound the grasshopper makes when it rubs its legs together. Placed in the hands of friendly troops, the grasshopper might emit sounds recognizable by other friendlies. Sort of like a radio set, but lighter.

And what about the bat?

This airborne sonar system—it uses high-pitched squeaks to tell where it's going at night—might be adapted for military use.

A long string, say, could be attached to a bat leg. The other end could be placed on a reel which would be held by a soldier. The soldier simply unwinds the bat at night and follows it.

But knowing the craftiness of Viet Cong, it is conceivable they may invent devices to neutralize the Army's front-line bat and bug defenses.

Take the Whole Insect Personnel Detector. Some clever Viet Cong will, no doubt, discover that bedbugs become sleepy when exposed to honeysuckle or dandelion wine, or something.

This shouldn't alarm the scientific-military establishment. The bedbug, after all, might well become as important a scout and sentry as members of the K-9 Corps were during World War II.

Hand-picked soldiers might take courses in training and handling hand-picked teams of bedbugs at the U.S. Army School of Entomology.

The bugs, at the same time, would have to go through courses in obedience and military discipline.

The PRAYER FOR TODAY FROM The Upper Room.

Neither give place to the devil. (Ephesians 4:27).

PRAYER: Father God, help us to mold our lives to Thy pattern. Teach us the humility to know that we are never perfect, but can be better than we are. Help us to grow in grace and knowledge of Christ to better serve Thee and our fellowmen. In the name of Jesus, who promised that what we asked in His name would be granted. Amen.

Granby Kiwanians use meeting to clean up picnic grounds

GRANBY — (Special) — On Tuesday, June 21, the Granby Kiwanis club met at the Granby Social Club where a short business meeting was held with the president, Willie Desnoyers, in the chair.

Following the short business meeting and dinner, which was at 6:30 p.m., several Kiwanians and with the assistance of several Key Clubbers adjourned to the picnic grounds on the Abbottsford Road to cut the grass which was very long, it being the first time it had been tended this summer. Within two hours the grounds looked like proof of the adage, "Many hands make light work."

July 5 will be grass cutting day again so it will be good order for the holiday months of July and August. Volunteers will be called upon, again.

During July and August the Granby Kiwanis will visit La Colonie de Vacance while the boys and girls are there. It is suggested that any member of Kiwanis who has not visited this camp go this year to see what these young people have done during the summer months and realize what has been done for the underprivileged children of Granby.

Chairman Tom Tait has released the results of this year's campaign for Easter Seals, believed to be an all time high with a net figure of $2,499.32. This gives the Quebec Easter Seals Society the amount of $1,249.66, with the rest to be used locally. The Granby Kiwanis thanks to Tom and Kathleen Tait for the fine result achieved.

Says Canada missing space boat because of the lack of money

TORONTO (CP)—A Montreal space researcher said Tuesday Canada could put a man in space before the year 2000.

But the country has no space policy and is missing many opportunities for that reason, said Dr. Gerald Bull, director of McGill University's Space Research Institute.

He said Canada "can do a tremendous amount . . . with the type of budget we can afford. We could have a space project that would include a man in space. I don't think it would bankrupt the government. . . ."

"We are not talking about $7,000,000,000 a year — perhaps something in the order of $500,000,000."

• Dr. Bull said in an interview space research could give Canada:

—An Arctic radio - television satellite system that would give reliable radio and television reception to the Far North;

—A navigation - type satellite that could examine precisely the geography and mineralogy of the country;

—A communications satellite that could transmit mail from coast to coast in half an hour.

Dr. Bull heads the high altitude research program (HARP).

Canada has shared the costs of the HARP project with the United States Army for the last two years, but recently decided that the current fiscal year would be the last in which it would help pay HARP's bill.

HARP makes use of obsolete naval guns to launch payloads into space. The eventual goal is to place a payload in orbit.

Urges fraudulent advertising control

CALGARY (CP)—The Retail Merchants Association of Canada called for stronger federal laws against fraudulent advertising Tuesday and said control should be given to federal combines investigation officials.

The association's annual convention passed a resolution saying the Combines Investigation Act should be changed to give its director powers similar to those of the U.S. Federal Trade Commission.

It said false advertising "is often discovered in the announcements of sensational bargains, closing out sales, fire and smoke damage sales . . . discount catalogs and phoney auction."

The convention also passed a resolution seeking repeal of a section of the Combines Act which prohibits manufacturers setting prices and designating dealers who may sell their products.

It said the section discriminates against brand-name manufacturers while allowing chain stores, department stores and co - operatives to "maintain prices on their own private brands."

Also approved was a resolution opposing give - aways by savings, trust and "other similar companies" to attract depositors. It described such offers as "detrimental to the retail trade."

In another resolution, delegates attacked "confusing" packaging, particularly of food and drugs. It asked manufacturers to co-operate voluntarily in ending such packaging and labelling.

Among other resolutions passed was a call for federal establishment of a marketing advisory council to provide a voice for independent merchants.

The accident was investigated by Const. Marc Heroux, of the Quebec Provincial Police, Granby.

The anniversary cake centered the dining table, which was arranged with an ecru hand-crocheted-cloth. The cake made by Mrs. Bowen, was decorated by Mrs. Gaston Mongeau in white with gold and 50 numerals and topped with gold bells, tulle and numeral.

The couple was presented with a corsage of white carnations sprayed with gold and a boutonniere by their three granddaughters, Sharleen, Sheila and Susan Bowen.

During the social evening, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Davis came in for a share of the celebrations and were completely surprised when they were extended good wishes and presented with gifts to mark their 16th wedding anniversary.

With Sharleen playing the guitar, Sheila and Susan sang their grandparents' favorites, Whispering Hope and This Land Is Your Land, as well as other selections.

Mrs. Bowen had the home prettily decorated with spring flowers.

Among the guests were Mrs. Cedric Hastings, North Hatley, who had been bridesmaid at the wedding fifty years ago. The best man Howard Hills, was unable to be at the celebration, as he is a patient in the Sherbrooke Hospital, where his wife is also a patient.

Foster Guild and W.A. hold joint meeting

FOSTER — The meeting of St. James Guild and W.A. was held in the parish hall.

As the recording secretary, Mrs. T. Ligget, has resigned, the minutes were read by Mrs. Clifford Taylor.

Letters and cards were read from the Rev. T. J. W. Ligget, Mrs. Ligget and Miss Gloria Ligget, thanking the Guild and W.A. for gifts at the time of Mr. Ligget's retirement as rector.

Appointment of a committee to act as an Altar Guild was left in abeyance, with the understanding that members of the two Guilds would arrange for flowers for the altar and preparation for the monthly service of Holy Communion.

A more complete report of the business sessions of the Conference will be given at a later date.

Mrs. Armstrong thanked Mrs. Rexford for the interesting report.

The next meeting will be held in September, after the usual summer recess.

Girl Guides And Brownie News

DANVILLE

The 2nd Danville Guide Company journeyed to Cookshire on June 18 to visit Maplemount, and to present to the boys and girls there the toys which they had collected.

The Guides had the privilege of touring the comfortable home and grounds, then enjoyed a game of baseball, after which the children and Guides were served cold drinks and cookies, while Miss Healy, the Lieutenant, and the car drivers enjoyed a cup of tea in the dining - room.

Before leaving for home Wendy Williams, Company leader, presented the toys to the children, and Debbie Williamson, Patrol leader, expressed the thanks of the Company for their hospitality. One pretty little blonde girl made a pleasing speech of thanks for the gifts.

On the same afternoon the 1st Danville Brownie Pack enjoyed its annual Revels, held this year at the French Protestant Camp at Richmond. Games, handicraft and swimming were enjoyed, and lunch was served by the Asbestos L. A. A highlight of the afternoon was the presentation of the plaque to Mrs. Moreland for the Richmond Brownie Pack, who won the competition this year.

The Danville Brownies were accompanied by Mrs. Wesley Walker, Tawny Owl, and two of the Rangers, Kathy Walker and Marlene Perkins, as well as several of the mothers. These events bring to a close the activities of both the Guide Company and the Brownie Pack until fall.

Red Sox dump Yankees, Twins edge Indians, three games tonight

Red Sox 14-6 over Yankees Twins 9-7 against Indians were the scores in games in the Sher-Lenn League last night. Tonight three games are slated, Orioles travel to Lennoxville to take on the Yankees while at the Parade Grounds Red Sox meet the White Sox and Senators clash with the league leading Tigers. All games get underway at 6:30 p.m.

Yankees took a two-run lead in the top of the second inning against the Red Sox. The lead was short lived as the Sox came up with four runs in their part of the frame.

The Sox got six more in the third and added four more in the last of the fifth. In this inning Richard Aubry hit a home run for the Sox.

Yankees' other four runs came in the top of the fifth on hits by Warner and Roy coupled with three bases on balls.

Indians, the hard luck team in the league, lost another close one as they went down to a 9-7 defeat agaist the Twins. Indians have been in all the games they have played but have been beaten by the odd run.

Indians got off to a 3-1 lead in the bottom of the first inning. The Twins came up with one in the top of the second. Indians also got one in the second and each team went scoreless in the third.

The teams exchanged runs in the remaining innings but the Twins just had enough to take the game although a rally by the Indians, in the last of the sixth, just about tied up the score.

The Twins won out on the long end of a 9-7 count. Walks again were the Indians' bogey as they gave out eight free passes.

Provincial League action:

Als stumble on fumbles, hot crowd in Thetford

Tables were turned in two Provincial Baseball League centers last night in the ninth innings of both tilts, and some players are still wondering just how everything happened.

In Drummondville, Sherbrooke Alouettes couldn't force extra innings with the Royals after tying the game 4-4, as two singles and as many fumbles gave the Royals a 5-4 decision and the Als their second consecutive loss.

Meanwhile, fans and players from Thetford Mines know just what happened in the Thetford Stadium, and all the blame for their 4-3 loss to Plessisville was placed on the little man in the blue shirt standing behind first base.

The Miners, trailing by one run in the ninth, had one out, and a man on first and third when Gingras hit to shortstop. In the opinion of the many fans, the second out of the double play which ended any further action on the field was poorly called.

Their reaction to Umpire Dussault's call was so strong that about 80 per cent of the 1000 fans waited for him after the game. Police were called to the scene.

Granby Cardinals whitewashed the Acton Vale [illegible] in the latter's stadium last night while in Quebec, the Indians dumped Lachine Mets 5-2.

Back in Drummondville, the Sherbrooke Alouettes scored two runs on four consecutive hits in the first inning and then added two more in the top of the eighth to tie the match 4-4 as Drummondville notched the column with three in the second inning and one more in the fifth.

The winning run was scored in the ninth when Lilas Poole, Sherbrooke's catcher, couldn't contain two wild pitches from Claude Groulx.

Jim Ridley and Fantuzzi each had three hits for the Royals, which, coupled with the home run of Sam McWhorter, was outstanding in the offensive, while Sherbrooke's best was Luke Lamboley.

Kenny Kaiser, former second baseman for the Sherbrooke squad, is a free agent no longer. When released by the Alouette management, Kaiser had tated he would like to be with Thetford. He was in uniform last night against Plessisville Braves.

He was released from Sherbrooke making room for Adrian Zabala Jr.

LADIES NIGHT IN SHERBROOKE

With the Sherbrooke Alouettes heading back into the Municipal Stadium for another home game, members of the promotion committee have decided to plan another arrangement — this time for the ladies.

Last week's 'Baseball Week' was termed as such a huge success, that tomorrow night all ladies entering the stadium will receive a carton of soft drinks, compliments of the Alouette team, in cooperation with a local soft drink agent.

Granby Cardinals will be the visiting team, gametime 8:30 p.m.

Work is long and tedious for 'Grand Circuit a go-go'

The success or failure of any major project is not dependent solely upon the day's activities, but also upon the unceasing and self - sacrificing efforts in preparation for the actual event.

The Grand Circuit Molson, highlight of the Sherbrooke Summer Festival sports program, is the major project of the Sherbrooke Auto Club, and if the members are to reap what they sow, the harvest should be hundredfold.

One individual of the Sherbrooke Auto Club has been working with a 'limited' staff for the past eight months on the Grand Circuit to be held at Jacques Cartier Park Sunday.

Gilles St. Pierre, 28, Steward of The Meet, was appointed to this position in late October of 1965, and from that time on, his theme has been 'Grand Circuit a go - go'.

In an interview with The Record, the chief organizer outlined the many tasks and duties involved to insure the smooth operations and success of such a venture.

"We had to draw up the plans according to the specifications of the Canadian Automobile Sports Club, and as a result of certain rules governing this type of competition, Jacques Cartier Park has been renovated," he says.

The track used for the trials and race has been widened from 12 feet to 28 feet, a staff of 200 persons had to be found, and various materials and different types of equipment must be at the site. In order to have the maximum of safety for the more than 15,000 people expected for the race, a 7,000 - foot snow fence will be erected all along the roadway, a 360 bales of hay and 300 sand bags will dot the course, offering a softer landing than that of a cement wall, should a car veer out of control.

There is a possibility of an overpass, to be situated near Salls Street, permitting onlookers to cross over from one area to another. This has yet to be constructed, however it solves the problem of accommodating a wandering curious crowd.

Among the many other problems that demanded early solutions were the training of 100 track marshals, setting the awards and prizes, handling all correspondence, arranging press conferences to promote the circuit, and still keeping the financial ends tied within their budget set down by their sponsor, Molson's Brewery.

Gilles St. Pierre brought 16 men to a marshal clinic at St. Jovite in the month of May, worked with his immediate staff setting the awards at $2,000, and has travelled extensively for newspaper, radio and television interviews. His wife, Martha, has acted as his private secretary, replying to all correspondence.

In speaking of the Grand Circuit Molson, Chairman St. Pierre said that the roads are presently being paved, the safety precautions made ready, and the paddock area set up.

The safety measures include the cordon of track marshals, the snow fence and a St. John Ambulance brigade. It was also noted that organizers and sponsors of the race are heavily insured for any accident, whether to an entry or to a spectator.

The coverage is $250,000, for any one accident to a person, with $500,000 for any accident.

Yes, preparations are long and tedious, and present a great many worries to Steward of the Meet and his charges.

And there was yet another worry on Gilles' mind during this time of achievement and frustration. But that has been erased just recently.

His wife, Martha, gave birth to a six pound, eight ounce boy last week. Rene is a brother for two - year old Dominique.

Speed as controlled sport receives support of mayor

Even though Sherbrooke's Mayor Armand Nadeau has recently urged a crackdown on speed in the city, there is still tremendous support emitting from City Hall for the Grand Circuit Molson, part of the Sherbrooke Summer Festival.

"There is reckless speed, and then there is speed as a controlled sport," said Mayor Nadeau in a telephone conversation, speaking with reference to yesterday's story in The Record about speed crackdown.

"I hope that the population of Sherbrooke, and also of the Eastern Townships will support this wonderful thing," continued the mayor. "It is a coming sport, exceptionally interesting, and we hope we can develop it each year to soon become an international affair."

The mayor pointed out that the difference of the two 'speeds' can be seen in the type of cars. These are not bazoos that are entered in the Grand Circuit, as it's a king's sport, and most important of all, it is controlled, he said.

Drivers beware!

It's better to leave the speeding to the 'experts' on a track made for such vehicle manipulation. A city street is not such a course.

Manuel Santana meets Davidson in semi-finals while Drysdale and Ralston meet at Wimbledon

LONDON (CP)—Manuel Santana, darling of the Spanish tennis aficionados, and South Africa's Cliff Drysdale Tuesday reached the semi-finals of the Wimbledon men's singles and braced themselves for the attack on the 11-year stranglehold Australians and Americans have had on the world's premier tennis title.

Santana, the reigning U.S champion and seeded fourth here, defeated Ken Fletcher, the happy-go-lucky, globe-trotting Australian, in a 6-2, 3-6, 8-6, 4-6, 7-5 thriller, the best singles match of the tournament so far.

Drysdale, seeded seventh and a losing semi-finalist last year, was the surprise winner, 9-7, 6-2, 6-2, against Tony Roche, the left-handed Australian who won the French and Italian titles earlier this year.

In the semi-finals today, Santana plays Owen Davidson, the unseeded Australian who beat Roy Emerson Monday after the defending champion injured his shoulder in a fall, and Drysdale plays Dennis Ralston of the United States, the sixth seed and the other losing semi-finalist last year.

After his defeat Monday, Emerson predicted the 1966 title would go to Santana. If it does, the Spaniard will be the first European to win it since Jaroslav Drobny in 1954.

Santana, a firm favorite with the Wimbledon galleries, plays the typical European game of artistry allied with delicacy rather than the power game the Australians and Americans have made their own.

Tuesday, he needed all his artistry in the two-hour 15-minute match that see-sawed as the packed centre court gasped and cheered.

In the battle between the Spaniard's spin, slice and sublety and Fletcher's power, Santana kept his nerve and it was eventually the Australian, who now lives in Hong Kong, who cracked in the tense atmosphere of the final set.

SCORES UPSET

By contrast, the Roche-Drysdale quarter-final was an anti-climax. Roche, seeded No. 2 here, had been expected to meet Emerson in the final, but Tusday he folded after startling well and narrowly losing the first set 7-9.

Defending champion Margaret Smith of Australia and her great Brazilian rival, Maria Bueno, both moved into the women's singles semi - final round in quarter-final matches Tuesday.

TEXAS WEDGE

The pros have a name for a putter used from a few feet or less from the edge of the putting surface. They call it the Texas Wedge. If your lie is good, the Texas Wedge gives a better chance of getting the ball up or in than a chip that you feel unsure of.

Before attempting the Texas Wedge shot, be sure the surface in front of the ball is clean, — free of twigs, pebbles and debris. Take the regular putting stance you favor at address.

Hit up on the ball, not down on it to give the necessary overspin to keep the ball on line. The follow through should be the same distance as the backswing.

Since the fringe from which the Texas Wedge is played will be considerably slower than the green, it is well to try to hit the ball past the cup. Just how far, of course, depends on the speed of the fringe and the green.

Willie Mays displaces Williams as No. 3 home run hitter, clouts his 52nd as Giants top Cards 7-1

Ted Williams, one of the most feared sluggers in baseball history, doesn't mind being passed in the all-time home run derby by Willie Mays.

"I'm very happy for him," Williams said in extending Mays congratulations for displacing him as the game's No. 3 home run hitter.

Williams, scheduled for induction into the Hall of Fame next month at Cooperstown, N.Y., played for Boston Red Sox from 1939 until his retirement in 1960. Despite hitches as a marine corps flyer in the Second World War and the Korean conflict, he batted .344 and hit 521 homers.

Mays passed Williams by cracking his 522nd career home in San Francisco Giants' victory over St. Louis Cardinals Monday night. The Giants' spectacular centre fielder now trails only Babe Ruth 714 and Jimmy Foxx 534 in career homers.

Mays made it 523 when the Giants' topped the Cards 7-1 Tuesday night.

Righthander Bobby Bolin held the Cards to two hits and the National League-leading Giants remained four games ahead of Pittsburgh Pirates.

Meanwhile, the Pirates downed Houston Astros 4-3, Jim Bunning pitched a two-hitter for Philadelphia as the Phillies nipped New York Mets 1-0, Cincinnati Reds dropped Los Angeles Dodgers 3-1 and Atlanta Braves whipped Chicago Cubs 4-2.

The Giants jumped ahead early, scoring two runs in the third and two more in the fourth. Mays' two-run homer in the eighth capped the scoring.

Bob Veale scattered eight hits for the Pirates. Run-scoring singles by Roberto Clemente and Jose Pagan in the fifth inning put Pittsburgh in front for good as Veale blanked the Astros over the last six innings.

Bunning, who pitched a perfect game in New York two years ago, allowed the Mets only two singles, in the fifth inning, and got the only run he needed on Bill White's two-out homer in the seventh.

Ernie Terrell gives away two rounds but wins lopsided decision over New York Doug Jones at Houston

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—Ernie Terrell of Chicago, World Boxing Association champion, Tuesday night gave away two rounds on low blows and still won a lopsided decision over dogged New York Doug Jones.

Terrell's next opponent may be Cleveland Williams, the Houston heavyweight on the comeback trail after a serious wound from a highway patrolman's gun.

Williams appeared on the card Tuesday night when Terrell won a unanimous 15-round decision over Jones before 9,346 fans who paid $102,165. Cleveland proceeded to beat up Ted Herring of Houston so badly he got a technical knockout early in the third round.

Williams' manager, Hugh Benbow, already has offered $50,000 to Terrell to fight his boy. Terrell also has a $75,000 offer to fight Canadian George Chuvalo, the man he defended his title against the first time last November.

Jones was bitter about Terrell's holding tactics in the late rounds — something the crowd booed lustily. Jones said it was a wrestling match, not a boxing match.

The second and 14th rounds were taken away from Terrell for low blows. Before the referee, Ernie Taylor, could even rule on the second foul,

Athletics still rolling, nip Orioles 4-3, Tigers blast Angels

Kansas City Athletics never had it so good.

The Athletics, perennial American League tailenders under a succession of frustrated managers, continued their upswing under new pilot Alvin Dark Tuesday night by ambushing first-place Baltimore Orioles 4-3.

The victory was the fifth for the Athletics in their last six starts. They are eighth in the American League standings, nine games below the .500 mark but only one-half a game behind New York Yankees who lost 5-3 to last-place Boston Red Sox.

Dark has his club on the move. After losing 15 of their first 20 games, the Athletics have gone 30-29 since May 8.

In other games, Detroit Tigers clobbered California Angels 15-3, Minnesota Twins blanked Cleveland Indians 4-0 and Washington Senators beat Chicago White Sox 4-1.

Ten Kansas City players have departed since spring training—including 1965 favorites John Wyatt, Wayne Causey and Ken Harrelson—but Dark is getting mileage out of newcomers Danny Cater (White Sox), Roger Repoz (Yankees) and Jim Gosger (Red Sox).

Cater and Gosger each doubled in a run against the Orioles in the first inning while rookie Chuck Dobson (14-6) and relievers Ken Sanders and Jack Aker checked Baltimore on six hits.

Mike Hershberger's sacrifice fly after singles by Bert Campaneris and Gosger added a run in the fifth and Sander's run-scoring single in the sixth wound up the Kansas City attack.

Home runs by George Thomas and Mike Ryan, coupled with five Yankee errors, helped the Red Sox down New York behind the six-hit pitching of Jose Santiago, who survived two home runs by Mickey Mantle.

Mantle smashed a two-run homer in the first inning and hit the ninth of the season with the bases empty in the eighth.

Willie Horton paced a 20-hit Detroit assault with two singles and a homer, driving in five runs as the Tigers climbed within 2½ games of the league lead. Jake Wood knocked in four runs with three singles while Al Kaline and Norm Cash also homered for the Tigers.

Camilo Pascual and Al Worthington subdued Cleveland on five hits as the Twins rolled to their fourth victory in a row. Tony Oliva, Cesar Tovar and Harmon Killebrew produced Minnesota runs with a homer, triple and double, respectively.

The Senators breezed past Chicago as southpaw Mike McCormick scattered five hits and belted a homer. Don Lock cracked a three-run homer for Washington while Bill Skowron had a homer, double and single for the White Sox.

Cardinals to stage tryout camp

GRANBY — (Staff) — St. Louis Cardinals, of the National Baseball League, will be holding their tryout camp at the Granby Stadium, Laval Street, July 13.

Tim Thompson, former Montreal Royals catcher, and now a scout for the St. Louis organization, will attend the camp, scouting the better talents there. He will be assisted by Barney Smith.

All baseball prospectives 16 years of age and older who seek a chance to demonstrate any possibilities in this sport are asked to present themselves at 9 a.m. with uniform, glove and shoes.

The camp was held last year, in affiliation with the Granby Cardinals, of the Provincial Baseball League.

Rotarians will have a canteen on the fairgrounds, offering lunches and beverages. Paul Rexford, of Newport, will be the show judge.

American entries will be welcomed, and further information may be obtained by contacting Howard Majury in Rock Island, or Stuart Cass in Ayer's Cliff.

A pony will be drawn as a grand prize.

No team has two players named to All-Star squad but Giants may replace injured Ron Santo

NEW YORK (AP)—No more than one player from any team was named Tuesday to the starting infields for the All-Star baseball game in St. Louis, July 12. But an injury to third baseman Ron Santo of Chicago Cubs may result in two San Francisco infielders playing for the National League.

Santo was selected for the NL along with first baseman Willie McCovey of San Francisco, second baseman Joe Morgan of Houston and shortstop Leo Cardenas of Cincinnati.

The American League will open with rookie first baseman George Scott of Boston, second baseman Bobby Knoop of California, shortstop Dick McAuliffe of Detroit and third baseman Brooks Robinson of Baltimore.

Santo edged Jim Ray Hart of the Giants, 151 votes to 125. However, the Cubs' star suffered a fractured cheekbone when hit by a pitched ball in Sunday's game against New York Mets and underwent surgery Monday.

Morgan is another doubtful starter. He suffered a broken knee cap last Saturday. Closest to the Astros' second baseman in the voting was Jim Lefebvre of Los Angeles.

Presumably, substitution will be made if Santo and Morgan are unable to play. NL manager Walt Alston of Los Angeles will have to ask. Sam Male of Minnesota is the AL manager.

The Orioles' Robinson was the leading vote - getter on both starting infields, collecting 257. He and McAuliffe were the only repeaters from last year's starters.

McCovey topped the National League with 214 votes. The starters were selected in balloting by players, managers and coaches in each league.

Rigoletto resumes with tentative pact

MONTREAL (CP) — Verdi's Rigoletto was performed at Place des Arts Tuesday night after settlement of a wage dispute between the touring Teatro Regio di Parma and impresario Sam Olan.

The agreement is described as only a stop - gap measure to solve the payment dispute which resulted in the cancellation of Monday night's performance.

Dr. Giuseppe Negri, director of the company, said Monday the troupe had been advanced only $6,000 of $57,000 owed.

Mr. Olan said enough money was being held by the Montreal Trust Company to pay the performers in full and "all they had to do to get paid was to complete all their appearances as scheduled."

He said the new agreement provides that performers will be paid every day until the end of their stay in Montreal. Mr. Olan said he had lost some $100,000 because expenses were higher than expected.

JOHNSON OFFERS AID

Meanwhile, a personal representative of Premier Johnson said Tuesday the government is prepared to absorb part of the deficit—now well in excess of $100,000—if the promoters default on further payments.

The justice department said an investigation launched into the conflict early Tuesday likely would be suspended. The investigation turned up no evidence of fraud.

Mr. Olan told reporters much of the difficulty laid with Lauret Baranes who handled advance arrangements with the Italian troupe. Mr. Olan claimed he had been "taken by a man with no business experience".

Mr. Baranas said later he has "absolutely nothing to be ashamed of."

The troupe cancelled an engagement in Toronto starting July 4 because only 18 per cent of tickets were sold.

THE QUEBEC SCENE

Johnson, Favreau discuss meeting

QUEBEC (CP) — Premier Daniel Johnson said Tuesday that he and Guy Favreau, president of the Privy Council, met Sunday night and discussed an eventual meeting between Mr. Johnson and Prime Minister Pearson.

"We discussed nothing in depth, but there was a question of an eventual meeting with Mr. Pearson. No date was set," the premier said, just before Tuesday's session of the provincial cabinet.

The three-hour talk, staged at the premier's Montreal home, ranged over a wide variety of subjects including Quebec - Ottawa relations.

"I strongly doubt that the federal government will admit the principle of two nations, and the writing of a new constitution," the Union Nationale party chieftain told reporters.

Mr. Johnson reaffirmed his intention of being uncompromising in dealings with Ottawa. However, he said the dealings will be held in the best climate possible, if Ottawa will accept certain basic principles.

Mr. Johnson said the prime minister had wisely chosen in sending Mr. Favreau to meet him. Mr. Favreau "is one of my very good friends."

The Privy Council president is responsible for federal-provincial affairs in the Pearson cabinet.

Demand raises

MONTREAL (CP) — Two groups of teachers employed by the Montreal Catholic School Commission made public Tuesday demands for substantial salary increases and the hiring of non - Catholic teachers to teach special subjects in the commission's schools.

The two groups include 7,000 members of the Alliance des Professeurs Catholics de Montreal and 1,500 members of the Federation of English - Speaking Catholic Teachers.

Salary increases called for range from 10½ to 15 per cent for every teacher over a two-year period.

The teachers' present collective agreement expires Aug. 31.

Lesage to fish

QUEBEC (CP)—Jean Lesage, former premier who now is opposition leader, is to leave hospital next Thursday, ending a visit for a checkup and observation. A spokesman for Mr. Lesage said the opposition leader, who entered hospital June 17, is in excellent condition. Mr. Lesage has said he plans to go fishing when his hospital visit ends.

Students brief

QUEBEC (CP)—L'Union Generale des Etudiants du Quebec (The Quebec General Students Union), Tuesday called on the provincial cabinet to establish "a coherent and dynamic policy toward education."

The plea came in a brief to Education Minister Jean-Jacques Bertrand and Michel Masse, minister of state under the same portfolio.

"Currently," said the brief, "development of university level teaching in Quebec has no planning whatsoever.

Blames apathy

MONTREAL (CP) — Lord Chalfont, British minister of state for foreign affairs, said Tuesday night there are many reasons why the countries of the world can not agree on disarmament, but one of the principal barriers is public apathy.

Speaking to the English-speaking Union of Montreal, Lord Chalfont said politicians and the people who elect them do not really care enough about disarmament.

UNITARIAN

nothing in the south in the area of civil rights has changed without insistent pressure. Most of the major civil rights successes, he pointed out, had occurred during times of dramatic crises. He illustrated the point by citing the recent Meredith incident in Mississippi, a march that has become a major civil rights success. "James Meredith went on his walk through Mississippi to prove that the negro no longer had anything to fear," he said, "and now we see that he was wrong."

Mr. Maclean did not agree with the criticisms often leveled at Martin Luther King to the effect that he had become, for the most part, ineffectual in the contemporary civil rights movement.

He said he believed that while it was difficult to gain a proper perspective to evaluate the effect of Martin Luther King due to the immediacy of the movement, without Dr. King's ability to articulate a philosophy of non-violence, it would not have become the crucially important idea that it is now in the various civil rights organizations.

Mr. MacLean talked about the controversial Student Non-violent Co-ordinating Committee. Some claim that the organization is on its way towards becoming an instrument of "black nationalism."

He said that he was sympathetic with S.N.C.C. and recognized the great effort given to the civil rights cause under dangerous conditions. "But", he said, "when S.N.C.C. threatens to become a segregated movement, then I think it's legitimate for the white liberal to part company with them. My feeling is 'good luck' but that this is not a movement that civil rights is about."

this year he had decided to vacation in the Townships having heard from a friend that it was a friendly part of Quebec (Fewer separatist bombs, maybe) Eventually he asked what I did.

"I work for the Sherbrooke Record.....

"Oh my" he interrupted, "do you do recording"?

"Yes, I do recording" I said writing down on a slip of paper what he had just said for this article.

Family dinner and reception marks anniversary of Stanstead couple

STANSTEAD — On the occasion of the silver wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Slack, they were guests of honor on June 11 at a family dinner and later at a surprise reception.

The dinner at The Cabana, in Magog, attended by their sons, Stephen and Tony, and daughter, Cathy, and Mr. Slack's parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Slack, Ayer's Cliff.

The reception was held at the Stanstead Frontier Branch, Royal Canadian Legion, Memorial Home, where approximately 100 relatives and friends gathered.

On arrival the guests of honor were presented with a corsage of carnations, and a boutonniere by Tony and Cathy. They were escorted by the three children to chairs at a table. The table and the hall were decorated with spring flowers and silver numerals.

Peter Channell and Michael Oliver were in charge of the guest book.

Arthur Langevin was emcee. Music for dancing and group singing was provided by Ed Styles, Richard Styles and David Bessant.

Mr. and Mrs. Slack and three children, Mrs. Hector Channell, sister of the bride of the silver years, bridesmaid at the wedding in 1941, Mr. Channell, Kenneth Oliver, a brother of the bride, and Mrs. Oliver, formed the receiving line.

As a part of the entertainment a mock wedding took place, the humorous script being written by Mrs. Sidney Farrow. The bride was portrayed by Jack MacDonald and the groom by Mrs. Jack Keeley, the best man was Jack Keeley, the mother of the bride, Mrs. Galeon Sisco, the minister, Mrs. George Hatch, flower girl, Keith Armstrong and ring bearer, Mrs. Doris Belanger.

Peter Channell and Michael Oliver presented their uncle and aunt with a silver covered box, filled with congratulatory cards and currency. They also received many other gifts for their home on Willow Lane.

Refreshments were served in the flower decorated upstairs hall, The table was centered with an anniversary cake decorated in white with pink roses and inscribed, Alice - Howard - 1941 - 1966. It was flanked by white candles in silver holders.

Mr. Slack and Alice Oliver were married on June 14, 1941. For a short time they resided in Montreal until Mr. Slack enlisted during World War II. Since his discharge they have been residents in Stanstead, where Mr. Slack has a business.

Guests attending the reception were from Colebrook, N.H., Waterville, Sherbrooke, Lennoxville, Holland, Newport, Magog, Beebe, Three Villages, Ayer's Cliff and Tomifobia.

Missisquoi WI groups present varied program

DUNHAM — A successful and varied evening's entertainment was presented in the Parish Hall by the four branches of the Missisquoi County Women's Institute, on June 11, to a large and appreciative audience.

The first item was a one -act play entitled, Diet Begins Tomorrow, staged by the Fordyce Branch. It was a humorous description of how women keep, or dont't keep, their resolutions about dieting. Parts were taken by Mrs. Syberg, Mrs. Williams, Mrs. Dustin, Mrs. Hauver and Mrs. Lewis.

Another one - act play, Birds of a Feather, was produced by the Dunham Branch. It depicted the struggle between two hostile young women for their grandmother's patronage, and the surprise Grandma sprang on them at the end. The Actresses in this play were Mrs. Fernihough, Mrs. Paul and Mrs. Yates.

The Gay Nineties Fashion Show, staged by the Stanbridge East Branch, was particularly quaint and appealing. Mrs. Primmerman, Mrs. Creller, Mrs. Stote, Mrs. Gage, Mrs. Dussault, Mrs. Larocque, Mrs. Tremblay, Mrs. Corey, Mrs. Shephardsonand Mrs. Tait modelled costumes of a bygone age, while the commentator, Mrs. Rhicard, also in period costume, told their history.

A skit, The Juniper Junction W. I., was put on by the Cowansville Branch. The play was written by a member of the east, and was an amusing parody on women's meetings. The cast included Mrs. Brown, Mrs. Smith, Mrs. Phelps, Mrs. Jenne, Mrs. Bibby, Mrs. Miner, Mrs. Haines and Mrs. Gibson. Also the Misses Symons and MacIntosh.

Intervals between the four items were filled pleasantly by musical selections: duets by Mrs. Williams and Mrs. Syberg, with Miss Beattie at the piano, solos by Mrs. Junior Harvey and piano selections by Miss Pamela Doherty.

The adjudicators, Miss Hassell of St. Helen's School, Miss Primmerman of Cowansville High, and Mr. Douglas, Sutton, decided that the Dunham play, Birds of a Feather, was the best offering of the evening. The play will be put on at the provincial convention at Macdonald College later this month, in competition with plays from other counties of the province.

Entertain for wedding party

DERBY LINE — After the Batchelor - McLean wedding rehearsal on June 10, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Batchelor, parents of the groom, entertained at their home at a buffet supper. The dining table was arranged with a floral center and pink tapers.

The bride gave to the groom a marble desk set and the groom presented the bride with a fine gold chain and a gold and pearl droplet. Their gifts to the attendants were personal.

A toast was propsed to the bride and groom who were married the following day.

CLEAN POOL WATER REMOVES DANGER OF INFECTIONS

By Wayne G. Brandstadt, M.D.

Outdoor swimming, whether in a pool, lake, river or ocean is attracting ever-increasing crowds. This very fact increases the danger of infections unless precautions are taken to keep the water clean. In pools, public or private, this requires filtering and chlorinating the water and cleaning the bottom.

The pool filter should be checked at least once a week to make sure it is working and the chlorine content should be tested daily.

Many owners of home swimming pools prefer iodine or bromochordimethyl hydantin to chlorine as a disinfectant, because they are less irritating to the mucous membranes.

The eyes, ears, throat, nose and nasal sinuses are the parts most likely to become infected. The sources of the infection may be rain that has fallen through air that is not as clean as it looks, drainage from the soil and germs from the bathers themselves. Fortunately, this pollution is subjected to extensive dilution, the germ-killing rays of the sun and the disinfecting action of the oxygen in the air.

If so-called swimmer's ear—an inflammation of the outer ear canal due to bacteria or fungi — catches up with you, gentle flushing of the canal with a solution of acetic acid and alcohol is often all that is needed to clear it up. A person with a perforated eardrum should not risk such an infection by swimming without waterproof earplugs.

Q—I am a housewife. My eyes burn and water and the doctor has not been able to help me. What do you advise?

A—In many cases such eye discomfort is caused by rubbing salt from the fingers or eyebrows into the eyes or by a hypersensitivity to the soap or cosmetics used. Another frequent cause is a high level of air pollution but this would also cause you to have a chronic, hacking cough. If soothing eye drops have failed and if switching to a plain white unscented soap and avoiding cosmetics on the lids or near the eyes does not give you relief within two weeks, thorough checkup by an allergist would be advisable.

Q—My eyes feel fine all day but at night they feel like they are full of sand. There is no matter coming from them. What could cause this and what should I do?

A—You have conjunctivitis. Try applying cold, wet compresses for 10 minutes two or three times in the evening. For possible causes and further treatment see the preceding question.

Pink and Blue shower honors Danville lady

DANVILLE — Mrs. Ernest P. Lockwood was pleasantly surprised on June 15 when, accompanied by Mrs. Douglas McNeil, she arrived at the home of Mrs. Ernest Frost on an errand, to find her two daughters, Sandra and Heather, there to greet her, as well as about 20 friends.

Heather presented her mother with a large basket of gaily wrapped gifts. Mrs. Miller presented a corsage of pansies to the guest of honor.

Small vases of pansies were on the lace - covered dining - room table, centered with a shower cake in the form of a baby in a cot, with a bow of pink and blue ribbon at one corner.

Refreshments were served by the hostesses, Mrs. Maynard Perkins, Mrs. Gordon Miller, and Mrs. Ernest Frost, assisted by Mrs. Frost's daughters, Karen and Irena.

DUNHAM —

The Dunham U. C. W. met at the Church June 14. Mrs. Martin, in the absence of the secretary, took the minutes of the meeting. Miss Helen McElroy took the devotional. The group decided to hold a hot dish supper on July 21 at which time there will be a sale table. Arrangements were made to have the church and Sunday School room cleaned. Following a study period from the book God and His Purpose, with Rev. Mrs. Erney, refreshments were served.

A DOMINION DAY MESSAGE

CANADA'S 99th BIRTHDAY

JULY 1st — 1966 —

Ninety-nine years after the Confederation Fathers brought together the scattered Provinces and two people into one country, the creation of Canada which began as a supreme act of faith, was approaching fulfilment. In nine decades, Canada has walked boldly from the colonial dependence to the full sovereignty and responsibilities of an independent nation. Her strength, as she faced the future, lay in the stability of her parliamentary government, the diversity and vitality of her people and the richness and beauty of the land that cradled them from sea to sea.

Canada, in the words of her eminent historian Arthur Lower, sought and found a new consciousness, a "national spirit" in the land which gave her birth: "in the little ports of the Atlantic Provinces, in the flaming autumn maples of the St. Lawrence valley, in the portages and lakes of the Canadian Shield, in the sunsets and the relentless cold of the prairies in the foothill, mountain and the sea of the west and in the unconquerable vastness of the north."

Balance of $132 is reported by East Angus W.I.

EAST ANGUS —The June meeting of the Women's Institute was held in the recreation room of the Protestant school on June 16, with Mrs. A. Ratcliffe, Mrs. J. Heyes and Mrs. R. Knapp as hostesses. One visitor was present.

The treasurer, Mrs. M. Bishop, reported a bank balance of $132.50. She also stated she had received a cheque for $43.75 from the county treasurer to go towards expenses when they travel to Macdonald College with their winning play. The cheque was turned over to Mrs. W. Coates, who was driving the ladies to Macdonald.

The secretary turned in $10.55 profit on the sale of 34 Expo '67 tickets. It was agreed that this money goes into the special travel fund, in charge of Mrs. R. Joyce.

Correspondence included a letter from Mrs. Mayhew, Scotstown, congratulating the group on coming first in the plays, and a letter of thanks from Mrs. J. B. Lewis, convener, for Christmas stockings received. Mrs. Bernard reported that she had sent 14 stockings to the Save the Children Fund.

It was moved that a cheque for $45 be given to the delegates, Miss D. Shattuck and Miss E. Waldron, to cover expenses at the convention at Macdonald College.

Mrs. Bishop read a list of Prime Ministers of Canada and members of Parliament for Compton County, since Confederation, received from A. Struthers, which will be used in this year's W. I. exhibit at Cookshire Fair.

Mrs. W. Coates asked if the branch would consider giving a special prize at the Cookshire Fair. After some discussion it was decided to donate $5 towards prizes in the Junior Department, to be used where needed.

Members taking part in the play, had a final rehearsal.

Refreshments were served by the hostesses.

STE. ANNE DE BELLEVUE — Prof. L. C. Raymond, one of Quebec's prominent agriculturalists, died on Saturday, June 11, at his home here, at the age of 77 years.

A native of Bloomfield Station, N.B., Prof. Raymond obtained his high school training at Saint John, N.B., and received his B.S.A. in 1912 with the second graduating class in Agriculture at Macdonald College.

After working as a farm demonstrator in the Eastern Townships he joined the Macdonald department of agronomy in 1913 and was with it until, after a period of post-retirement teaching, he was made professor emeritus in 1959.

During these years he rose from lecturer to assistant and then associate professor. In 1946 he became chairman of the department and in 1947 professor of agronomy. He served overseas in World War I from 1916 to 1918 and took study leave to obtain his master's degree in genetics from the University of Wisconsin in 1924.

At Macdonald, Professor Raymond taught a series of courses in crop production, genetics and plant breeding. He published numerous research and extension papers in scientific and farm journals and was especially well known for a 64-page farm bulletin on pastures for Quebec which was published in English and French by the provincial agriculture department and widely distributed among farmers.

Professor Raymond was active in a number of professional societies. He was a charter member of both the Agricultural Institute of Canada and the Canadian Society of Agronomy and a member of the American Association for the Advancement of Science.

What to do?

Lynda Bird Johnson to fend for herself

WASHINGTON (AP) — Lynda Bird Johnson feels that graduating from college means "losing a lot of security."

The U.S. president's 22-year-old daughter says she's frankly procrastinating about her big decision: What to do next?

If you think her problem is that much-publicized romance with actor George Hamilton, think again.

Lynda is trying to decide whether she should look for a job—"but I don't know what doors are open to me"—or go back to the familiar world of the University of Texas for a master's degree in her major, history.

"I've got to start fending for myself," she said in an interview. And that doesn't sound like a girl with true romance on her mind.

Lynda is tired of fielding questions about her romance with the tall, handsome, suave, 26-year-old movie actor, George Hamilton. Almost as tired as he is back in Hollywood.

WEARS HIS RING

She wears Hamilton's gold friendship ring with a blue stone. They've been dating almost every weekend since last November and now it's rumored they'll rendezvous on a summer vacation in Europe. But both insist they're not engaged. They just "respect and admire" each other.

For Lynda, this romance at least has brought her from gawkiness to glamor. She's blossomed forth into a world of false eyelashes, makeup, wigs, arched-eyebrows and klieg light publicity that outshines the White House.

For George, it's brought him enough attention to make him "a very hot property," to quote a Hollywood press agent.

Lynda is just having a "terrifically gay time," is the way Mrs. Johnson put it.

Studious Lynda got her bachelor of arts degree from her mother's alma mater, the University of Texas, June 4, with high honors in history, classics and government courses.

Lynda's graduation gift from her parents is a two-month trip to a half-dozen countries of Europe.

Her travelling companions are the ever-present secret servicemen and a Washington school friend.

Miss Eadie leaves for two months in the North July 1. National WI President Mrs. J. Philip Matheson of Oyster Bed Bridge, P.E.I. will also attend the convention.

Polly's pointers

DEAR POLLY—Can an all-sequin sweater be washed or should it be dry cleaned? The sequins are sewn on. —MRS. H. K. B.

MRS. H. K. B.—I would never wash a sequin-sweater. However, some of the readers may have tried it and if so I am sure they will tell us what success they had.—POLLY

DEAR POLLY—When knitting a complicated sweater pattern where each row is different I find it helpful to put a stitch counter on the needle and each time a row is finished I change the row number on the counter. I can lay my knitting down at anytime and know what row to start on just by looking at the counter. They cost very little.—FLORENCE

McGilton—Green marriage

STANSTEAD — The marriage of Jean Holmes, daughter of Mrs. John G. Green, Nairn, Scotland, and the late Mr. Green, to Mr. Gordon Leonard McGilton, younger son of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard G. McGilton, Stanstead, took place on Saturday afternoon, June 25, at three o'clock in Centenary United Church, Stanstead.

Rev. Frank Stanton, a friend of the family for many years, officiated, and the organ wedding music was played by Mrs. A. P. Gordon. At the service guests joined in singing Psalm 23, and during the signing of the register, Mrs. Gordon played Scottish Psalter. Baskets of white gladioli were used to decorate and white satin ribbon bows marked the guest pews.

Included in the many Scottish customs observed, were Peter and Ian McGilton, Beaconsfield, nephews of the groom, presenting each guest with an engraved music program for the service as they entered the church. Miss Susan McGilton, Beaconsfield, a niece, presented the bride before entering the church with a silver good-luck horseshoe adorned with white and pink bell heather and the Gordon Scottish plaid.

The bride, given in marriage by Mr. Donald Chisholm, Montreal, was in a gown of antique ivory silk satin fashioned on princess lines with bridal-length sleeves and a scoop neckline, fastening in the back with self covered buttons and draped into a flare of the floor-length skirt. Her cream full-length veil of heirloom silk tulle was held in place by a wreath of ivory silk flowers, and she carried a cascade bouquet of Apricot Nectar roses. Her jewelry was a single strand of pearls.

Miss Ann Peterson, Dallas, Pa., as maid of honor and the bridesmaids, Mrs. Donald Chisholm and Mrs. George Sarfi, Montreal, were in floor-length gowns of apricot satin designed similarly to the bride's gown with Empire waistlines, short set in sleeves and round necklines, and matching accessories. Their headdresses were wedding rings of satin with white tulle and they carried cascade bouquets of white carnations.

Mr. John Hay, Montreal, was best man and the ushers were Stanford Dingman, Stratford, Ont.; Michael Hickson, Quebec City; Gordon Gilmore, Montreal; and John Ferguson, Stanstead.

Mrs. Green, mother of the bride, was in a jacket dress of wedgwood blue lace over satin complemented by a matching blue silk organza picture hat and accessories. Her corsage was a cymbidium orchid and baby's breath.

The groom's mother, Mrs. McGilton, chose a dress of light turquoise brocaded crepe, a matching blue flower hat and accessories and a cymbidium orchid corsage.

The reception took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard McGilton, Dufferin Road, on the lawns of the gardens, where refreshments were served. The three-tier wedding cake was decorated in white with Scottish trim of silver slippers and thistles and topped with the Gordon plaid ribbons.

Mr. and Mrs. McGilton later left for a honeymoon to Scandinavia, the bride travelling in a Dior model jacket dress in turquoise blue, a matching picture hat and white accessories. After July 19 they will be at home to their friends in Montreal, where they will reside.

Guests were from Montreal, Ottawa, Admaston, Ont.; Dunham, Ayer's Cliff and Stanstead.

During the reception, the couple was presented with 16 telegrams of congratulations from seven different countries.

For and about Women

Edward Churchill (left), Expo's director of installations, and Dr. Jack Hare, project director for the $3.5 million Man the Provider pavilion. Thirty-two agricultural specialists across Canada include 2 women

Mrs. J. Ossington of Granby, Que., and Mrs. Charles Bernard of Ville d'Auteuil, sit with agricultural specialists from across Canada, criticizing and making suggestions for the three and a half million dollar pavilion Man the Provider.

Mrs. Ossington is the Provincial President of the Quebec Women's Institute, and Mrs. Bernard is secretary of Federation Number 13 of the Cercle de Fermieres, an organization of the farming men and women of Quebec.

Mrs. Bernard's principal concerns are in handicrafts produced by farming women, and gardening. She has a keen interest in the "Sun Acre", the focal point of Man the Provider, an acre of field crops growing in a circular garden arrangement. Each crop planted in a pie shaped section of the circle is chosen for color, and will be constantly in flower throughout the period of the Exhibition.

Mrs. Ossington, who came to Canada from Wales, 30 years ago, recently retired from active work on the farm. She is concerned with the need for the growing of food, in this world of ever increasing populations, and thinks it is a great mistake to turn countryside into tourist resorts, when the area could be a food producing section.

She believes the Man the Provider pavilion should raise the image of the farmer. "A farmer is a scientist and everything else rolled into one," she says. "The details needed to plant a crop are unknown to the city man; a farmer is a man who must accept changing conditions and rise to meet them. To do this he must overcome natural disaster, soil erosion and he must keep his fields fertile."

She believes that farmer's wives are involved in farming much more than people realize; for it is the wife who keeps the books, and knows the cost of equipment and supplies, the results of a year's hard work.

Bringing Up Baby

HINTS COLLECTED BY MRS. DAN GERBER, MOTHER OF 5

Did it ever occur to you that when baby gets fussbudgety for no apparent reason, it may be that he's tried to accomplish some new feat and failed in the endeavour? Like trying to roll over, sit up or grab for something that's a tantalizing mite out of reach? If you can spot what it is baby wants to do, you can lend a helping hand. If you can't, an extra helping of attention and affection will usually soothe a thwarted heart.

Breakfast bonanza or supper surprise. No matter when you serve

Gerber Cereal and Fruit Combinations, you're sure to delight your darling. Gerber Strained Oatmeal, Mixed Cereal, or Rice Cereal . . . all with Applesauce and Bananas . . . make a wonderful change of taste for your tyke. Each cereal is cooked with the fruit and comes in a jar all ready to serve. The smooth texture and subtle flavours are bound to win coos of approval.

Sandman strategies. If your baby has trouble entering the land of nod for his night visit, these tricks often help:

(1) A gentle oil rub-down or a spot of warm milk are most relaxing.

(2) A quiet 10-15 minute rocking-chair session is one of the best sleep-coaxers I know.

(3) A lullaby, sweet and low, hath charms to soothe.

Mouth-watering memo. Fruits score high as baby favourites. Especially Gerber Strained and Junior Fruits. And for good reason. Gerber Fruits are cooked in a flash to preserve their appealing colours and sun-kissed flavours. A delightful range of "straight" fruits and fruit combinations. Served "as is" or used as topping for Gerber Cereals or Custards, they're super. Gerber Baby Foods, Niagara Falls, Canada.

Designer foresees men's fashion boom

OTTAWA (CP) — Montreal couturier Michel Robichaud calls his curvy, dark - haired wife Lucienne, 23, "my most difficult customer."

"She's very young and I like to design clothes for her, yet I don't want her to look like a woman of 40."

But a woman can't be really elegant until she is 40, he says. "That's when she's stopped trying to look like other people and isn't afraid to look like herself."

The 26-year-old French-Canadian has been on a month-long tour of Europe, sponsored by the government of Quebec, showing his collection of sportswear in Canadian fabrics in European capitals.

He came to Ottawa for a farewell dinner in his honor given by photographer Yousuf Karsh, whose pretty wife Estrelita is one of Mr. Robichaud's most enthusiastic customers.

The young designer is tall and slim with the quiet, assured manner expressed in his fashions. His own outfit was a Robichaud—a herringbone suit, double-breasted with leather buttons and a bright green silk handkerchief in the pocket.

He thinks men's fashions are on the verge of a revolution. "Canadians are no longer afraid to show their personality."

A native Montrealer, he studied at design schools there and in Paris. At graduation, he went to the atelier—workshop—of Nina Ricci. "I wanted to be sure how to construct clothes, so I could do it myself if I had to."

OPENED OWN SALON

The house of Guy Laroche claimed his services next. "It was small, so I had contact with the customers and learned how the business worked."

Three years ago he returned to open his own salon in Montreal, "because I believe in the future of Canadian fashion."

His prices range from $170 for a straight sleeveless wool dress to $1,000 and more for, say, a wedding dress with a long hand-embroidered train.

MONTREAL (CP)—Always go to a reputable jeweller if you want to buy antique jewelry or precious stones abroad, says an expert who has travelled 50,000 miles around the world buying gems.

"Often people go to Burma or India and come back with a $1.50 California stone they believed 'a steal' at $25," says Cecil Young, head diamond, colored stone and antique jewelry buyer for Henry Birks and Son's 38 Canadian stores.

The international market eliminates any bargains today, Mr. Young says. Jewellers keep track and usually know which stones are where.

And, unlike diamonds which are price-controlled, colored gems are sold for what the traffic will bear.

"The demand for colored stones and antique jewelry is rapidly increasing and today the competition is worldwide," says Mr. Young, who started with the firm in 1932 as a messenger boy. He later studied with the American Gem Society.

"Canadians were more diamond - conscious before the war, but now they are more familiar with colored stones and we are selling more every day.

"They are starting to buy colored stones and even pearls for an engagement ring, which now is often the girl's birthstone."

The gem expert says sapphires, rubies and emeralds are the most popular. They are usually used in combination with a diamond, "because the brilliance of a diamond enhances the beauty of a colored stone."

Mr. Young says few people realize the variety of color available in most jewels. Garnets, for example, may be any color but blue, zircons are blue and yellow as well as white, and sapphires, usually blue, may be pink, white or yellow.

ANTIQUES NEED EXPERT

Antique rings and other old pieces now are highly in demand, he said.

"A brooch that would sell for $25 a short while ago now sells for $60 or $70. Antique jewelry is very scarce and therefore very expensive."

Canadians, he said, will stop at a certain price, but Europeans will go incredibly high to obtain the piece they want.

Buying antique jewelry is dangerous and a reputable jeweller is a necessity, at home or abroad.

"Fakes may be mixed in with real antiques and it is difficult for an amateur to tell the difference." The date before which a piece ranks as an antique is January 1, 1846.

Mr. Young says special care should be taken before buying antique rings as "rings take the greatest wear of any piece of jewelry."

Antique chains should be carefully examined too, to see how much the links have been weakened by constant rubbing over the years.

Another trend in jewelry is toward yellow gold, rather than platinum or white gold, Mr. Young said, and cultured pearls are more popular than ever.

"This year there is a great shortage of 7- and 8-millimetre pearls, and so they're going to be more expensive. When pearls are scarce, the firms tend to take them out of the water too soon and the nacre on the pearl isn't as good."

"Women would never treat a car like they treat their jewelry," said Mr. Young, "but it requires regular maintenance like anything else and should be examined each year" by a jeweller.

Modern settings display diamonds better, but the stones are less safe than they used to be because they are no longer surrounded by metal. Pearls can be damaged by perfumes and hair spray.

Pearls should be wiped after each wearing and diamonds can be cleaned with a mild detergent. But, most important, all jewelry should be kept in a case with separate compartments, to prevent scratching.

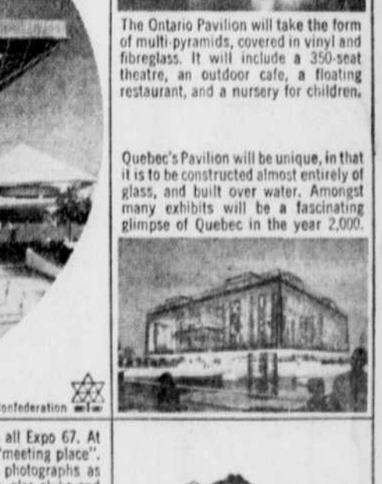
You'll see the world at Expo 67. Here's what the world will see of Canada.

Next year, every town and village in Canada will be celebrating. But the biggest whoop-de-do of all, the great get-together for all Canadians from all the provinces (and half the world as well) will be . . . Expo 67, at Montreal. With over 70 foreign nations coming to help make Expo 67 the biggest, most imaginative exhibition ever staged here, obviously Canada couldn't be left behind. And it won't be. At Expo 67, the sweep, the flavour and the achievements of this vast country of ours will be on show for all the world to see. Our history, industries, culture, and our future, will come alive in a series of soaring pavilions, and a whole season of exciting events. You won't want to miss it, any more than you'd miss your own birthday. Plan now to visit Expo 67. Meet the world, and discover your own country. It will be a wonderful time to be a Canadian.

Your Expo 67 Passport will admit you to all the Provincial, National and Theme Pavilions, and is good for unlimited rides on the Expo Express. Save by buying now at the reduced advance prices. A Daily Passport costs $1.80, a Weekly Passport (7 consecutive days) $6.50. There are also Season Passports, and Youth Passports for the 13-21 age group. Children 2-12, half price. (Ages as on April 28, 1967). Available at banks, travel agencies, department stores, or wherever you see the official Expo 67 sign.



The day Expo 67 opens, shipwrights from down East will lay the keel of a schooner. They'll go on building, clang-bang, until the ship slides into the water, six months later. That's just one of the fascinating features of the Atlantic Provinces exhibit.

The whirl of French Canada's colourful dance spectacle, les Feux Follets, will be seen throughout the six-month Expo 67 season. Other visitors will include the National Ballet, Winnipeg Ballet, and folk and ethnic dance groups from all over Canada.

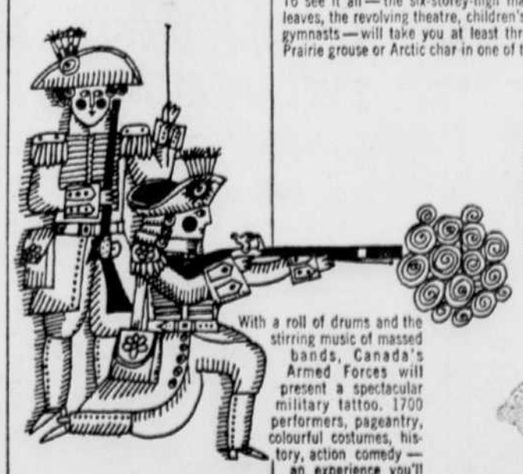
Centennial of Canadian Confederation

The Ontario Pavilion will take the form of multi-pyramids, covered in vinyl and fibreglass. It will include a 350-seat theatre, an outdoor cafe, a floating restaurant, and a nursery for children.

In a glade of giant Douglas firs (real ones), with the whirr of lumbermen's saws in the aromatic air, you could be in a B.C. rain forest. Instead, you'll be in the Western Provinces Pavilion, presenting a panorama of the great Canadian West.

Quebec's Pavilion will be unique, in that it is to be constructed almost entirely of glass, and built over water. Amongst many exhibits will be a fascinating glimpse of Quebec in the year 2,000.

Covering 11¼ acres, the Canada Pavilion will be the biggest in all Expo 67. At its centre is a giant inverted pyramid — Katimavik, Eskimo for "meeting place". To see it all — the six-storey-high maple tree with 500 colour photographs as leaves, the revolving theatre, children's centre, art and sculpture, glee clubs and gymnasts — will take you at least three hours. After that, try a buffalo steak, Prairie grouse or Arctic char in one of the great restaurants.



With a roll of drums and the stirring music of massed bands, Canada's Armed Forces will present a spectacular military tattoo. 1700 performers, pageantry, colourful costumes, history, action comedy — an experience you'll never forget.

"Hubert, I implore you, take me to Expo 67" — the mecca for all drama lovers in 1967. Presenting classical and modern works will be Ontario's famous Stratford Theatre, Montreal's Théâtre du Nouveau Monde and outstanding companies from across Canada and around the world.
