EUREKA COPPER PAINT.
Important to Vessel Owners!
A Paint that will do all that is claimed for it.

This Paint is particularly adapted to Vessels' bottoms, and is a perfect substitute for Copper Sheathing. It is warranted a sure protection from worms and grasses in any waters. Where speed is an object, the Eureka Paint is particularly adapted, it being finely liquidized, and when applied to vessels' bottoms, gives an extra smooth surface. It has been thoroughly tested the past three years, and has proved itself the best article of Copper Paint ever introduced. It is easily applied, having no sediment or hard lumps. It is all ready for use, and does not require constant stirring up.
Vessel Owners and Captains should examine this Paint, as its merits are such that the most skeptical will at once be convinced.
This Paint, like all other patent articles, is liable to be counterfeited, and spurious articles made under the same name. We intend to maintain the reputation it has so justly merited, and to protect ourselves by all lawful means from any infringement of our patent, and we take this opportunity to notify the public that all infringements will be summarily dealt with.

THE
AMERICAN BUTTON-HOLE
OVERSEAMING
SEWING MACHINE,
Has taken premiums in Europe and America sufficient to sustain its claims as the Best Sewing Machine Ever Invented.
WHAT IT CAN DO.
It will do the finest of sewing, hemming, filling, cording, tucking, braiding, gathering, quilting, &c.
It can work a beautiful button-hole, making a fine pearl, as by hand.
It will work a beautiful eyelet hole.
It will embroider over the edge, making a neat and beautiful border on any garment.
It is two Machines in one—a Button-hole Working and Sewing Machine combined.
Parties using a Family Sewing Machine want a Ho'e Machine one with all the improvements; it is to last a life time, and hence they want the one that will do the most work, and do it the best; and the "American Button-hole and Sewing Machine" combined can do several kinds of sewing not done on any other Machine, besides doing every kind all others can do.

VERY NATURAL.
When a person has proved an article and found it good, and answering the purpose for which it is intended, he will not readily abandon it for one of doubtful reputation, or concerning which he knows nothing. We are led to make these remarks owing to the course always pursued by those who have used that celebrated and truly valuable horse-medicine known as "Darley's Condition Powders and Arabian Heave Remedy." All are so well pleased with it that they will not use any other; many have waited several weeks until the agent could obtain a new supply. There is nothing equal to it as a condition medicine, or for any complaint affecting the wind of horses.
Remember the name, and see that the signature of Hurd & Co. is on each package.

The Great English Remedy.
SIR JAMES CLARKE'S FEMALE PILLS.
Prepared from a prescription of Sir J. Clarke, M. D., Physician Extraordinary to the Queen.
This invaluable medicine is unfailing in the cure of all those painful and dangerous diseases to which the female constitution is subject. It moderates all excesses and removes all obstructions, from whatever cause.
TO MARRIED LADIES.
It is particularly suited; it will in a short time bring on the monthly period with regularity, and although very powerful, contains nothing hurtful to the constitution. In all cases of Nervous and Spinal Affections, Pains in the Back and Limbs, Fatigue on slight exertion, Palpitation of the Heart, Hysterics and Whites, it will effect a cure when all other means have failed. The pamphlet around each package has full directions and advice, or will be sent free to all writing for it, sealed from observation.
SPECIAL NOTICE.
Sir James Clarke's Female Pills are extensively Counterfeited. The genuine have the name of "Job Moses" on each package. All others are worthless.
N.B.—One Dollar, with fifteen cents for postage, enclosed to Northrup & Lyman, Newcastle, Ont., General Agents for Canada, will ensure a bottle of the genuine, containing Fifty Pills, by return mail.

PARTED.

A faded flower, a lock of hair,
A little ring, a small white glove,
A portrait of a maiden fair,
Some crumpled notes, Aurora Leigh
With pencil marks and inscribed name,
A fav'rite song oft sung to me;
A ribbon blue, with golden clasp;
A scarlet hood, with faint perfume;
A waist-belt small, with broken hasp.
What foolish things are these to keep;
So very small, so worthless too—
What folly over them to weep.
The faded flower, the small white glove,
The little ring, the portrait fair,
Are relics of a long-lost love;
And whisp'ring soft and whisp'ring low
A story of a little grave,
They cause these bitter tears to flow.

THE AMAZONS OF PARIS CALLED TO ARMS FOR LIBERTY, EQUALITY, FRATERNITY AND ANARCHY.

(From the New York Herald.)

The insurgent ruffians of Paris, among their desperate expedients to prolong their "Beggars' Opera," have, it appears, invited the women of the city (that is, the women of the town) to form a military organization for its defence. The Amazons of the gay metropolis, who may be classified as the ruffians and cut-throats of their sex, figured conspicuously in nearly all the horrible atrocities of that hideous first French Revolution of 1789, of "liberty, equality, fraternity," anarchy and the guillotine. They were conspicuous in the storming of the Bastile; in the royal progress from Versailles to the Capital, riding upon the cannon; in the pursuit of Louis XIV. and his family in their flight from Paris; in the motley procession of the sans culottes which escorted the poor King back to the Tuileries; in the mob which murdered the amiable Princess Lamballe, and marched in triumph through the streets with her head borne aloft upon a pike; in the bacchanalian orgies in the Tuileries, with the occupation of the palace by the mob, and they were the life and spirit of the foul and obscene crowds which regularly, from morning till night, attended and exulted in drunken frenzy at the slaughters of the guillotine. Of all the demons in human shape let loose in Paris during that Reign of Terror, and till the restoration of law, order, decency and religion by the First Napoleon, these abandoned and blood-thirsty Amazons of Paris were the most diabolical, detestable and disgusting.

They reappeared again in the streets among the reds in the revolution of 1830, and in 1848, with the flight of Louis Philippe, they enacted an opera bouffe in the Tuileries which will, perhaps, some day be set to the lively music and scanty costumes of Offenbach, unless he shall prefer the more abundant materials for the illustration of the Amazons of Paris to be found in the glorious reign of its Commune of ruffians and prostitutes of 1871. Voltaire justifies us in the notion that your average Parisian is "part monkey part tiger," or part opera bouffe and part tragedy, a buffoon or an assassin. Victor Hugo in "Les Miserables" describes him, but even Hugo fails to describe the shocking Paris Amazon in the political role of French equality and woman's rights. There can be nothing more revolting, more degrading or debasing than this female monster under the sun. And these are the creatures to whom the Commune of Paris of 1871 have appealed to organize as a military phalanx for the defence of the city. What a mockery for Paris as the capital of civilization! What a chapter of infamy is the present degradation of France?

From the doings of the Commune in Paris during the last two or three weeks, it is clear that their ultimate object is the universal republic of Anacharsis Cloots. They have made considerable progress, too, as it appears, in this direction. They have abolished the rents for lodgings; they have driven off some two or three hundred thousand landlords, and occupy their houses free of charge; they have abolished the Sabbath, and in their spoliations of banks, stores and churches, in their imprisonment of priests and nuns, in their scourging of the Archbishop, and in their blasphemous proclamations, they have prepared the way for parading again through the Boulevards a woman of the Boulevards as the embodiment of their religion. Such are these Communists of Paris. The whole programme may be reduced to these few words:—Everything for everybody; everything in common; no work, but a general carousal till everything on hand is eaten up, and then a sale of the national palaces to raise the wind, and so on. And it appears, too, that in all these socialistic doings the women of Paris, more than in any preceding revolution or revolt, are actively concerned.

How are we to account for this? Is it a natural outgrowth from the debaucheries of the empire? or is it a French development of women's rights? or is it due to the demoralizations of the late siege, or to the general spread of infidelity, domestic, political and religious, among the people of Paris? All these demoralizing causes have evidently been at work, undermining the foundations of government and society in the gay city, now called to meet some of the penalties due for its sins and follies. The German armies came first, as the Medes and Persians came down upon the gay city of Babylon, and put an end to its reigning dynasty in the midst of a grand carousal. Under the German siege the army and the people of Paris were reduced for subsistence to horses, asses, elephants, lions, tigers, monkeys, alligators, rats, cats and dogs, and such strange food on empty stomachs, and under all the fierce excitements of bloody and fruitless sorties, unquestionably contributed much to demoralize and brutalize the Parisians, women included. Then from the capitulation and the harsh conditions of peace exacted by Germany, and accepted from necessity by M. Thiers and the National Assembly, the general mind of Paris was so unhinged as to place the city and its people at the mercy of these reckless and desperate Jacobins.

Most lamentable in all these developments is the apparent widely increased demoralization of the women; for surely these Communists would not think of forming a military legion of the women of Paris if the women themselves had not applied for their equal rights in fighting. So much, then, among other causes—so much for the general agitation of woman's rights. In the full fruition of this grand idea it gives us the Paris Amazon, a monster compared with which the savage Apache is a humanitarian and the filthy Hottentot a model of propriety and feminine fascination. If such are the outgrowths from the centre of modern civilization the question recurs,—Is not this civilization, with its advanced ideas of equality, fraternity, women's rights and Communism, carrying its followers first to anarchy and then to barbarism? Reduce this advanced universal republic of Anacharsis Cloots to its elementary principles and results, and do we not find them embodied in the half-starved Digger Indian?

Anecdote of Daniel Webster.

It is well known that the late Daniel Webster was a man of luxurious taste and expensive habits, which frequently brought him into pecuniary difficulties. Apropos of this a friend sends us from Washington the following anecdote, which we do not remember to have seen in print: A Western gentleman, shortly after the great statesman's death, inveighed seriously, to a mutual friend, against these habits, and enforced his remarks with a practical illustration. "Why, Sir," he exclaimed, "I travelled all night with Webster in a stage-coach out West, not long ago, and in the morning we all got out at a little hotel to stretch our legs and get breakfast. Webster took up a travelling-case, with combs, hair-brush, and tooth-brush, all of which he used vigorously. When he'd got through I asked him to lend me his tooth-brush, as there wasn't any at the sink where we washed, and Mr. Webster courteously complied. After using and rinsing it off I handed it back; and, will you believe it? the extravagant fellow just pitched it over into the bushes. It was a good new brush, too, and might have lasted him two or three months longer. No wonder he was always in debt!"—Editor's Drawer, in Harper's Magazine for May.

A phrenologist remarking that some persons had the organ of murder and benevolence strongly and equally developed, his friend replied, "that doubtless those were the persons who would kill one with kindness."

CAST UP BY THE SEA,

BY
SIR SAMUEL W. BAKER, M.A., F.R.G.S.,

CHAPTER XVII.

In this manner five years had passed away. Polly was now a handsome woman of forty, and was but little changed, but there was one in whom a few years had made a wonderful alteration. It was on a fine summer Sabbath that Polly was on her way to church accompanied by a lovely girl about twenty years of age, who leaned upon her arm and shaded her with her parasol from the glare of the morning sun: her beautiful complexion and large blue eyes would alone have made her striking, but her regular features and the peculiar amiability of her expression rendered Edith a perfection of charms that is rarely seen.

She was seated between her mother and Polly Grey. It was during the second lesson, when the church was perfectly quiet, a somewhat heavy footstep sounded in the aisle as a person entered the door and walked straight toward Squire Stevens's pew, in which he took his seat. The old squire had been dead for some years, and nothing had been heard of his son. The action between the Sybille and the Forte had been a theme of glory for the day; but having been duly chronicled among other brilliant achievements of the navy it had ceased to be of public interest—the dead had been mourned for, and the crape had long since been laid aside: and as the Forte had never been heard of, she was considered to have been lost with all hands.

Nothing had been heard of Ned. In those days there was no regular mail from India, but the letters for England were despatched by the first vessel that chanced to sail; thus as the Forte had been rapidly repaired she was first upon the list, and Ned had expected to bring home the glad tidings of his arrival in person.

Edith had never forgotten the love of her girlhood, and although time and altered circumstances had so far modified sorrow at Ned's mysterious disappearance that she had ceased to be absolutely unhappy, she rigidly executed her promise, and every Sunday evening she strolled with either her mother or Polly Grey through the churchyard, and removed the weekly weeds from the neatly-kept grave beneath the cross marked "A lady unknown." Here she would frequently sit and recall the time when Ned sat with her as a lovely boy and talked of the future with the enthusiasm of his age; and then a blush would tinge her cheek, and a tear for an instant dim her eyes, when she thought of the warm kiss he had given her at parting and the vows that the determined boy had made to work his way to win her.

In the night these old scenes were frequently renewed in dreams, all the characters that were associated with Edith's early youth reappeared in their accustomed places: her father who had been so mysteriously murdered, she had sometimes seen as though in life; Ned had again sat by her side beneath the old mulberry tree that was still her favorite haunt; she had heard Nero's bark as he came bounding toward her: and then, in wild fitfulness, the characters had become confused and faded into nothingness and mist, through which sometimes flitted the horrible figure of an old hag that resembled Mother Lee. The events of her youth had thus left a somewhat melancholy impression upon Edith's character. Although so beautiful, she was utterly unconscious of her attractions, and her chief happiness depended upon the duties of her daily life. Deeply religious, without appearing to be so except in her general conduct and unostentatious charity, she found an intense pleasure in ministering to the wants of the poor in her neighborhood, by whom she was almost adored. Her lighter pleasures consisted in sketching and attending to her flowers, and in charming the ears of all who heard her with her beautiful voice; for of all accomplishments Edith shone most prominently in music—in fact, many of the poor people of the village declared that the Church Service would be nothing without Miss Edith's singing.

At the time that the stranger took his seat in the squire's pew all eyes were for the instant turned upon him, as it had long been vacant, and it was seldom that unknown person of the upper class appeared in the secluded village. He was tall and powerful man, exceedingly weather-beaten, with a face bronzed by exposure to a hot sun, and much freckled; his large sandy whiskers gave him an appearance of advanced manhood; but upon close observation his age might have been guessed at twenty-two or three. As Edith for a moment observed him she could not help thinking that she had seen his face before; but chasing all other thoughts from her mind she directed her attention to the service until it was completed.

When the throng of the congregation passed down the aisle at the conclusion of the sermon Edith remarked that the stranger's eyes were fixed intently upon her; and hardly had she quitted the church-yard in company with her mother and Polly Grey than he turned round and approached her, and stretching out his rough hand in a familiar manner, he exclaimed, "Edith Jones, have you forgotten me?"

Edith paused, and without accepting his hand she examined his features for a moment, and replied, "I hope you will forgive my want of memory. I think I may have seen you before, but I can not recall the occasion."

At that instant a peculiar unpleasant expression passed over the stranger's face, and Edith immediately recognized Jem Stevens.

She could no longer withhold her hand, which he pressed warmly as he exclaimed to her mother, "I am your old school-boy, Jem Stevens, Mrs. Jones!"

The latter lady looked at him for some moments with astonishment, and then grasped his hand warmly.

"How wonderful!" exclaimed Mrs. Jones. "Why, it's only the other day, not seven years ago, that you left us a mere boy! and you look five-and-twenty! and your poor father's dead! and the Hall's empty! and all sorts of changes have taken place! My poor husband too! but of course you know. But no, let me see, I don't suppose you do. How should you? You have been away from England all this time, haven't you? When did you come back? Come along with us and lunch at the rectory, and tell us all about yourself!" continued the voluble and impatient Mrs. Jones, who overwhelmed him with a string of questions, without giving him time to reply.

Now if Mrs. Jones's thoughts could have been analysed as they rapidly passed through her mind, they would have discovered a natural instinct that she would have at once denied had the fact been asserted. It really did occur to the mother in one moment that Heron Hall would be no bad home for Edith! In another moment she reflected that Stevens had been a bad character when at school; and subsequently, with the rapidity of lightning, she concluded that he must have changed for the better, and she therefore asked him to lunch. Stevens accepted the invitation without the slightest hesitation, and offering his arm to Mrs. Jones while listening to her long list of questions and her rambling conversation, he accompanied them to the rectory.

During luncheon Stevens made himself unusually agreeable to Mrs. Jones, and gave her a long description of his voyages, and of the engagement between the Sybille and the Forte, in which he described his own prowess as having in no small measure contributed to the victory. Mrs. Jones was charmed; and when he narrated the subsequent ship-wreck of the prize, and the destruction of all the crew with the exception of those saved in the cutter, which he declared he was the last man to enter, the amiable but weak lady was moved to tears. Stevens then described the voyage of the cutter to Madagascar, where the crew and himself were made captives by the natives, until, after years of suffering, he was at length released by a Portuguese trading-vessel that took him to Zanzibar, whence he had only arrived on the preceding evening.

There was much in the story of his adventures that interested Edith, but she little knew how much that would have been dear to her he had as yet concealed. He said not one word of Ned.

"What a wonderful change!" exclaimed Mrs. Jones, as Stevens took his departure late in the afternoon. "I never could have believed that so bad a boy would have turned out so nice a man; he is really a charming young man! and so clever! and evidently so very truthful! There was something in his way of telling his stories that seemed to assure one of their truth. Well" continued the enraptured Mrs. Jones, "as your poor father, Edith, used to say, 'When the wicked man turneth away from his wickedness'" (and of course that meant the boy, as men are only bigger boys), 'he shall save his soul alive.' He was quite right. This is a wonderful instance of the works of Providence, my dear child, that you should observe attentively. How changed! He is a very nice young man! so very gentlemanly! and so good-natured for a man who has fought the French, and seen so much of the world. Not at all proud or stuck up; and remembered you, Edith, directly, and me, too; but of course a few years make no difference at my age; as Captain Smart remarked the other day, 'An Englishwoman never begins to look her best till she is turned forty.' A very clever man is Captain Smart; very sound judgment; if he only had another arm there would be no one like him. Then you see, Heron Hall and a very good fortune belong to him, now his father's dead. I don't mean to Captain Smart, as he died, or rather his father died, long ago, but I mean Stevens, as we used to call him, Jem Stevens. James is a very pretty name; one of the apostles was called James; I wonder whether they ever called him Jem? I hate abbreviations, but Jem is not so very ugly; not so bad as Ned, for instance," said the discursive Mrs. Jones, thoughtfully.

"Ned an ugly name! I would not wish for a prettier!" exclaimed Edith. "Edward is quite beautiful, and Ned is a lovable name, I think."

At this juncture Polly Grey joined in the conversation and warmly supported Edith, until the argument grew hot, and only terminated by each retaining her own opinion.

From that day Stevens's visits to the rectory became frequent. By a little judicious flattery he had succeeded in captivating Mrs. Jones; and as Edith, when a girl, had been the love of his boyhood, he shortly found himself hopelessly smitten with her now ripened charms.

Edith was fond of riding; and as she daily cantered her pony along the springy green turf above the cliff by the sea side, she was invariably met by Stevens, who joined her in her ride. After some months the object of Jem Stevens's visits to the rectory had become unmistakable. He had offered Edith a beautiful horse, which she would have declined, but her mother had insisted upon her acceptance of the present.

An American Girl at the Royal Wedding.

Caroline Hastings is an American girl, and she writes from London to the New York Sun, to tell how she saw the royal wedding, and what a jolly thing it was. She didn't have an invitation, but she set her Yankee wits to work, and got along just as well as if she had a half dozen of them. "Of course," she says, "I must go alone, and I dared not speak of it except to mamma's maid, a quick witted French girl, who was delighted at my council, and did her best to help me to carry it out. We rose very early yesterday morning, and Marie dressed me in my lovely new rose-colored silk, with court train and panier, trimmed with point. I helped myself to mamma's great solitaires and locket. Marie did wonders with my long blonde hair, and if I do say it, who shouldn't say it, I looked as well, and was dressed as well, as the average young ladies I saw on that eventful day. I hesitated whether to wear the pink, or the lovely white silk with silver stars, and pale blue velvet over-dress, with my pearls, but feared the latter might be trying in broad daylight; for even in smoky London the sun shone out in an unusual manner for the grand occasion. Suffice it to say that when I stepped into the handsomest carriage that Marie could procure (for papa left me plenty of money, to have a good time while he was away, little thinking where I should bring up), I was entirely satisfied with my appearance; and if mamma had gone, she would have looked forty times better than the old Queen in her black satin and her bare neck and arms. We went early to Windsor; my carriage fell into line. The guide eyed us rather sharply as we passed the gates, but seeing a sprightly blonde in pink silk, point lace and diamonds, with a modest-looking maid in attendance, bowed and suffered us to pass on. It was past their comprehension that a young girl, attended by a single servant woman, without an invitation, would dare to enter that sacred enclosure. I now began to feel fearfully nervous, as I had not formed the least plan for carrying out my bold design, when, just as I alighted, a party of gentlemen of the clan Campbell were passing, and with my most winning smile, and you know I can smile, I addressed one of them, a pleasant, green-looking Highlander, in full uniform, saying:

"Excuse me, sir, but I am separated from my party, and would like an escort into the chapel.'"

"'Certainly,' said the good natured fellow and gave me his arm. 'Your name me lady?'" said the Scot.

"'Lady Constance Percy,' said I unblushingly.

"'O, yes! Of the Duchess' family?' and nothing could exceed his polite, respectful manner.'"

How she got out:

"As the retinue left the chapel I knew my time had come to escape before I was detected. So I gave a scream of delight and sprang away from my Highlander (whom I hope to meet again and thank for his courtesy), I exclaimed, 'Why, there's my father! Excuse me; a thousand thanks,' and gathering up my train, I went pell-mell, between lords and ladies, peers and duchesses, regardless of their astonishment, and despite all the proprieties of the occasion, and remember nothing more till Marie seized me, bustled me into the carriage, more dead than alive, pulled down the blinds, drew out a bottle of wine, and held me in her faithful arms to our lodgings; and now I cannot express to you my delight at my success in witnessing the royal marriage."

If this had only come by cable now!

A CURIOUS BEQUEST.

St. Bartholomew's Church has (like most of the City churches) its verger, choir, and a few charity children for its whole congregation. During the whole year it has one large congregation, and that gathers, as now, on Good-Friday, to witness a performance that is anything but agreeable to look at—namely, twenty-five aged women bending down on the floor to pick up twenty-five sixpences. Untold years ago a lady bequeathed property to have twenty-five sixpences laid upon her gravestone in St. Bartholomew's Church, which were to be picked up and severally owned by the same number of widow women. The grave-stone was to be in the floor; and the lady was so particular as to provide that any widow who from infirmities could not, or from pride would not, stoop down to procure a sixpence, should not have it. No provision was made in the will for preserving the lady's grave-stone; so it has long since mouldered away, and it is even doubtful at what spot she was buried. Nevertheless the sixpences are picked up from the floor by the most aged women that can still bend the stiffening hinges of their limbs. They found much difficulty in doing so last year. The sixpence has greatly decreased in value since the original bequest. A very aged clergyman, who has had the Bartholomew living since 1815, preached a sermon on the occasion; but his thoughts were as mouldy as the lady's tomb or the bequest. But possibly some who were present heard a discourse which was not verbally uttered on the occasion—a sermon concerning new wine and old bottles—concerning the difficulty of finding when old things in general have irrecoverably passed away, and how, through that difficulty, charities are transformed to cruelties. Twenty five sixpences are not much; but every year twenty-five millions of pounds are disposed of in England by order of the dead, and in harmony with dead circumstances. The vast charitable endowments which might make, perhaps, a majority of these poor homes happy, are annually bestowed through skeleton hands, surrendered thereto by the living, who see the letter of each bequest killing its spirit. And they send missionaries to rebuke the Chinese for the worship of ancestors!—From "Religious Relics in London," by M. D. Conway, in Harper's Magazine for May.

Advice to Fire-Eaters—Deal gently with the herring.

LATEST NEWS
DOWN TO FOUR O'CLOCK, THIS MORNING.

GREAT BRITAIN

LONDON, April 17.—A special to the Times, from Versailles, says that the Prussian trenches on the Terrace at Meudon are now occupied by the Government troops, and 16 guns pointing towards the forts of Issy and Vanvres, have been placed in position there.

MacMahon has succeeded in surrounding the Insurgent troops at Asnieres, with a strong force from Versailles.

The army cannonading on Sunday, was less continuous than for several days past.

The Prussians are massing large reinforcements to their troops in the vicinity of Paris.

St Ouette sur-Seine has been occupied by the Germans, two kilometres South of St. Denis.

It is believed that Blanqui now controls all the affairs of the Commune.

A despatch from Marseilles, says that the trials of the Communists are now proceeding. Cremieux's wife has sent a petition to Thiers, asking for the pardon of her husband.

A despatch from Melbourne, on the 28th March, says that all the Australian colonies are fortifying their ports in consequence of a warning said to have come from the Home Government, that a descent upon them is threatened by the American filibusters.

The Times of to day has a leading editorial upon the report as to the result of the labors of the High Commission, it says:—The case of the Alabama has always created a feeling of insecurity in England and has demoralized American politics. We hail the possible settlement, and think that the Arbitrators will acquit England of the responsibility for the deeds of the Alabama. The Times adds that the Alabama was partially fitted out at the Azores, and hence Portugal is liable to our experience. The Times is evidently not sanguine of an immediate settlement of the question for it warns the British public, that it is very uncertain whether a treaty will be ratified by the American Senate.

The demonstration in Hyde Park yesterday in favor of the Paris insurgents, was a failure.

FRANCE.

PARIS, April 17th.—Last night passed off quietly.

The Pontifical Zouaves were engaged at close quarters yesterday at Neuilly by the Communist troops, the latter were successful and captured some colors.

The spirit of the troops is good.

A Communist decree provides for methodical requisitions upon the inhabitants of Paris, street by street. Another decree convokes the syndical chambers in order to draft the statistics of abandoned work shops and to arrange for their re-opening by workmen who are not proprietors.

UNITED STATES.

NEW YORK, April 17th.—A correspondent writing from Yeddo, Japan, says that a most startling political tragedy occurred in that city on the 27th Feby., at about one o'clock in the morning: the residence of Herosawa Hooskia Sangi, a member of the highest board of the Government and one of the most distinguished and enlightened progressive statesmen of Japan, was broken open by a band of armed men who forced their way to chamber where Sangi was sleeping and cut him to pieces with their swords. His house stands in the heart of Yeddo and within a few rods of one of the guarded gates leading to Mikados Castle; but the assassins succeeded in escaping before an alarm could be given. The assassination was inspired undoubtedly from political motives.

NEW YORK, April 17th.—Tribune's special, Saturday night:—The Versailles troops are spreading round the city. They have been discovered in strength at Gennevilliers and are extending their lines to St. Denis.

Lullier offers to take command of the gunboats in the Seine on condition that he has full authority.

A new barricade has been erected near the Place Vendome.

Versailles, Sunday: the Assembly is impatient at the ministerial silence about the war news and demands daily communications.

Gen. Wolf from Neuilly made a reconnoisance to the walls of Paris and captured many prisoners.

Barrall's cavalry occupies three lines of R.R. towards Orleans, cutting provincial communications.

Forts Issy and Vanvres, last night fired 5,000 projectiles, and the result was one person wounded.

Lacroix who was arrested at Bicetre, will be prosecuted for writing certain articles which appeared in the Rappel.

Louis Blanc denies that he proposed to confer the two years' leave of power on Thiers, but says the project was entertained in other quarters and that Thiers declined.

RIO JANEIRO, March 25, via London, April 17—The Emperor and Empress of Brazil, will leave here in May, on a visit to Europe.

The insurrection in the State of Entre Rios Argentine confederation has terminated, but that of the Blancos in Uruguay is still unsuppressed.

WASHINGTON, April 17.—Synopsis for the past 24 hours:—The falling bar and cloudy weather of Sunday were accompanied with rain, on the Pacific Coast where the bar is now rapidly recovering—this disturbance is now felt at the Rocky Mountains Stations. The temperature has risen rapidly with the falling pressure in Missouri and Nebraska; cloudy and threatening weather, with fresh North-East winds have prevailed from Lake Erie to Lake Superior—the highest pressure now exists over Lake Erie. Clouds have been broken up in the Eastern States, and partially cloudy and clear weather has prevailed on the Atlantic and Gulf Coasts' probabilities. It is probable that a storm will be developed by Tuesday morning in the Missouri Valley, and westward: North-East winds and threatening weather are probable for the Lakes—on Tuesday, threatening weather in the Lower Mississippi Valley, is probable. No serious disturbance is probable for the Atlantic Coast.

CHICAGO, April 17.—The Nebraska State Lunatic Asylum at Lincoln was burned this morning. Two inmates are supposed to have perished in the ruins, one of whom was chained in his cell. Loss $150,000. Insurance $100,000.

CUBA

HAVANA, April 15—500 insurgents, who invaded the jurisdiction of Remedios from Moron, had an engagement with the Government troops, and were defeated with a loss of 30 killed.

CITY OF MEXICO, via Havana, April 17.—Martin Carera, ex-President of Mexico, is dead.

Fifty-two of the public journals advocate the re-election of the President Juarez, forty in favor of Porfirio Diaz, and ten have pronounced for Zejada.

General Sanchez Schoa has been appointed Minister to Washington.

The regular session of the National Congress began on the 1st of the month.

Senor Hernandez, President of the Chamber in his opening speech alluded to the fears expressed by many of direct intervention by some officious agents of foreign powers in the coming election for President, and muttered the threats heard everywhere of the refusal to accept the decision of the people at the polls. He deprecated such expression as foreboding evil to the country.

Juarez is gaining ground in his campaign for the Presidency. He proposes that the election of President in future be direct by the people.

The several parties accuse each other of endeavouring to bring Mexico under the American flag.

Ranero, the Minister of Finance; Mijia, Minister of War; Balcarell, Minister of Interior, and Saavedra, Minister of Justice have been impeached and will be tried before the Supreme Court. The condemnation of the ministers is considered certain.

PARIS, Sunday evening.—General Cluseret in his official report to the Commune, says, Fort Vanvres was attacked five times in succession on Saturday, cannon and musketry firing continued all day, to day an obstinate struggle is going on at Neuilly, where the ground is disputed inch by inch. The Versailles army has been concentrating for the last four days. A general and formidable attack is momentarily expected.

The Germans at Creteuil have been re-inforced with 18,000 men and are preparing to interfere. The Commune is resolved to continue defence to the last.

The sale of horse flesh has again commenced, and there are other signs of scarcity of food in the city.

NEW YORK, April 17.—A despatch to the Tribune from Paris, on Sunday, says: The firing was incessant during the past 48 hours. The Government at Versailles says: Paris is completely invested and that summonses to surrender in 24 hours will be sent. There is great excitement in the city, and the Commune suddenly allows free circulation in the streets and at railway stations without passes. Most of the City gates are opened.

Military reports are highly coloured. Gen. Cluseret says the attack was extremely vigorous last night, principally against Vanvres which was obliged to sustain 5 consecutive assaults.

Ambulances were seen carrying off the dead and wounded of assailants.

86th Battalion merits mention for its admirable conduct at Neuilly.

Gen. Eudes commanding the Southern Forts says that all seems finished.

The night has been terrible and the battle incessant from 6 in the evening.

Vanvres bore a most violent assault, the loyalists' loss was enormous, they were repulsed along the whole line, it was complete victory for the Commune. Our men fought like lions, especially Lodruxs governor of Vanvres.

The semi official journals say, 1000 soldiers were killed before Vanvres and several hundred taken prisoners at Neuilly. There was no loss among the Parisians except Dombrowski who is slightly wounded.

Fresh Commune elections are being held; they excite but little interest.

A decree of the Commune places all the railways under its control, and obliges them to produce all their books and documents, if required, for inspection.

Another correspondent telegraphed from Paris, yesterday, as follows:—"Yesterday morning attacks were made on Porte Dauphine, which continued all day. The quarter of the Champs Elysees has been exceedingly damaged by shells, which are still falling thickly. The building occupied by the American legation was struck by fragments of shells on Saturday. Minister Washburne continues to reside in the Avenue Josephine."

Barricades will be erected immediately in the quarters of the Tuilleries and Belleville, which will render Paris impregnable to the assaults of the Versaillists.

The same correspondent telegraphed late last night the following:—There has been firing in various directions all day, and I have seen shells strike the Arch of Triumph. The Champs are full of people and carriages, and omnibusses go nearly up to the Arch. Groups are gathered together, and pay but little attention to the bombardment. No interest whatever is manifested in elections.

It is anticipated, that all railway lines will be cut off to-morrow, and a state of siege declared. There are only provisions enough in Paris to last three weeks.

Another correspondent says, he saw fighting which was furious, and only 4,000 yards from Paris.

Six persons arrested as Royalist were shot in the morning.

There is great outcry at the number of arrests. No more will take place without report to the Commune.

NEW YORK, April 17th.—Arrived s.s. Virginia from Liverpool.

LONDON, April 17.—M. Thiers issued a circular on the evening of the 16th, as follows—The Paris insurgents are emptying their houses and selling their furniture.

The government continues to temporise for the purpose of collecting an irresistible force and also to allow the Parisians time to reflect.

The insurgents say that we shoot the prisoners, and intend the overthrow of the Republic, and the suppression of the subsidies of the National Guards. These statements are false.

There was some cannonading to-day, but it was without result, otherwise military affairs are quiet, and nothing of interest has occurred.

A correspondent of the Independence Belge says that the end approaches.

The affair at Asnieres is disastrous to the Communists, whose lines are filled with their dead.

The Versailles forces are within one kilometer of Porte des Fernes.

LATEST FROM MONTREAL.

(Per Montreal Line.)

MONTREAL, April 17.—Some enthusiastic electors of the Ste Ann's Ward have called a mass meeting of the electors of the Western Division, to be held in St. Patrick's Hall, this evening, for the purpose of nominating a candidate to represent them in the Local Legislature.

A Serio-Comic Opera and Comedy will be given this evening, in the Mechanics' Hall for the benefit of the wounded French.

Collections were taken up in the Roman Catholic Churches yesterday, in aid of the Nuns who are going out to the North-West to labor among the Indians.

Mr. Smith, Deputy Minister of Marine, has provided a new flagstaff for the Government Police Station in Grey Nuns' street, from whence in future will float all the Corporation banners, but the dark blue of the Dominion of Canada.

The light under the management of the Trinity House of Montreal will be lit up to-night.

The steamer "Trois Rivieres," which arrived in the harbor this forenoon from Sorel, brought up a very large number of passengers and a great many horses.

The Masonic Grand Lodge of North Carolina has recognized the Grand Lodge of Quebec.

Stepney Loughton, aged 23, a colored American, a tobacconist by occupation, and residing in Dufresne street, was arrested at 8 o'clock last evening, on a charge of attempting to shoot Alex. Baril, a young man with whom he had quarrelled at the corner of DeSalaberry and Lagauchetiere streets. The accused fired two shots at his opponent, but missed him. Loughton is in custody, and the case is being investigated before the Police Court.

At the Police Court, on Saturday, a curious case came up for disposal, Daniel Henderson, about 25 years of age, clerk, was charged with using threats towards Principal Dawson, of McGill University. He endeavored on one or two occasions to force his way into the College and struck Professor Dawson in the face, when he attempted to stop him; the conduct of the prisoner was very singular throughout, he was sent to jail.

James P. Dawes, of Lachine, has sold his imported Clydesdale horse to Messrs. Bettie and Hawkins, of Toronto, for the sum of $1,500; this horse has thoroughly improved the farm stock about Lachine.

A PEEP AT MONDAY'S "BATTLE."

(By an old Parisian.)

PARIS, Tuesday, April 4.—Not having had any fighting worth speaking of since the end of the siege—for what are twenty or thirty people shot down in the street, but a mere petty sacrifice to the Goddess of Reason and Fraternity?—it was quite a relief to know that good, serious, utterly necessary bloodshed was going on within Krupp range of our breakfast table, while we were as fast blockaded as ever we have been during the worst day since 19th September, 1870. We were naturally bored, and what better could we do than go out for a 'nice little drive?' We were told that there were difficulties, indeed, 'that it was simply impossible'; but then, you know, nothing is 'impossible to a willing mind,' and 'everything comes off if you know how to stay.' So we proceeded on our way. Difficulty the first—to get a carriage; several empty, but not one looking certus eundi—with a going face on. All their horses had had nothing to eat for periods varying from thirty-six to ninety-two hours, and must go home at once. Ah, here is a fat old friend in a red waistcoat and a hat of shininess! Voila our affair. "Free?" "Yes, citizen." "Then by the hour, and go to Neuilly?" Monsieur means 'aux Enfers.' It is too hot for me at Neuilly to-day." At last we caught the man we wanted. He was a small citizen, shabby, not to say ragged, and had deserved well of his country by running away at Orleans. He consented to go the barrier, knowing that it was closed; therefore was he rather vexed than pleased when the officer on guard, who happened to be a small shopkeeper of my acquaintance, said, "Ah, Monsieur is English, and of course goes anywhere." At the Arc de Triomphe I found a good deal of excitement, and about five-and-twenty different stories, all of course true, and related by "eye-witnesses," who had not been present. "I saw it myself—moi qui vous parle." "But, citizen, you were not there." "True, citizen, but my wife's brother was." Orderlies were galloping, loads of bread and wine going out 'to the front.' Mon Dieu! once more 'the front,' and that at Courbevoie—les jours se passent et se ressemblent. Every two or three minutes Mont Valerien fired a shot in the direction of Reuil and Nanterre—from the guns of the west face—and you could just hear the rattle of rifles and the crash of the mitrailleuses. It was evident they were at it hard, and I was informed that General Flourens had a plan, which was to march on Meudon. What I did not like to see were the groups of National Guards, in number from three to three and twenty, which were straggling home, without rhyme or reason, as without order or discipline, as if they had 'been out shooting.' Of course they were tired! They had no officer; only five cartridges. No food; only three had biscuits. And, finally, they had been 'betrayed!' Trahis! mais encore une fois, trahis! I know not how, when, or by whom; but when I heard the word 'trahis' I felt myself back at Drancy, Le Bourget, Chatillon, and Buzenval.

At the bridge of Neuilly we were stopped for a minute, but we got through; in fact, the sentries seemed to think that if we were such fools as to wish to go on we might go, if we did not ask them to come with us. Seeing a hateful white line of ambulance waggons halting under shelter of the houses to the right of the bridge, our driver insisted on halting too. We got out to try to pick up news; but nobody had the vaguest idea of anything except that 'somebody was fighting somewhere.' Here I witnessed a droll scene—a Paris cab-driver, who had, like our own, been caught, was being invested with the Order of the Red Cross of Ambulance! He resisted stubbornly, and had an evident idea he was going to be blooded on the spot. 'But I am quite well,' he kept saying. By a little heartless deception we then advanced our cab; and, hardening the heart of our driver by dint of petits verres, we deluded him to Courbevoie. The last time I stood on that Rond Point the Prussians were fighting like furies just at our feet, and a reconnaissance, consisting of about half the little Rue Royale Club, was halted round us. At least we were then killing and being killed by Prussians. Now we are indulging in a little domestic murder. Courbevoie was vastly excited. We were surrounded, and begged, and prayed, and beseeched not to go an inch further. Mont Valerien fired at every carriage. Here our runner away from Orleans took up a firm position. We might walk and be killed, but he would not drive us. In vain he said that Valerien would scarcely open fire on a cab, and that if it did it was "two to one on the bird." Move he would not. 'Citizen,' said my hero, 'it is not for my life I fear; it is for the horse and carriage of my master.' 'That sees itself,' I said; and we got out and walked towards Valerien, which from four side, looked, and was, as quiet as the tower of London.

It was impossible to get on foot to the real scene of action, but heavy firing was going on towards Rueil and Nanterre. To the question, 'How goes the day?' which we put to gentlemen citizens who had left off shooting before the 'bouquets,' we got no answer, and indeed nobody seemed to care. I was examining Valerien through a glass when the cabman rushed up and wished himself something if he stayed another second. 'It is not my life,' &c. as before. 'but look there.'—I looked—there was a stampede in every direction. A small boy rushed by saying, 'Citizens, they descend from the Mont Valerien. Away rushed everybody. We forced our driver to bring up the rear, and were run after by frightened sentries, begging to know "if there was any danger," as they had no orders. We reassured these men, and told them that both sides were running away with noble alacrity. Then we drove back to Paris. Galloping aides de-camp passed us, and we just saved the last drawbridge. I never saw so stupid a panic.—Daily Telegraph.

OPINIONS OF THE PEOPLE.

(To the Editor of the Morning Chronicle)

SIR,—What can have prompted the Commissioner of Police to state that "Mr. Baillairge might, perhaps, inform the public why it is that no proceedings were instituted against the remaining 308 cases reported for non-compliance with the by-laws concerning winter roads." Why does he feign to ignore that the whole of these reports were made to the Recorder's Court, and not to me, as he evidently intends the public should infer, from the way in which he puts the question? Why does he not call on the officers of that Court to explain what in fact they do explain by stating, in direct contradiction to the assertion as to every Police report containing the ward, the street, the name of the offender, the number of the house, &c., that, precisely because the reports are not properly made out, no action can be taken therein?

Allow me to state at the same time, Mr. Editor, in relation to the Gosford Railroad, that I never did, as falsely asserted at the meeting, recommend the substitution of iron for wooden rails, neither did I give an opinion on the matter or draw any conclusion from the communication which I published, and which was nothing more, as I stated in the most unmistakable manner, than the substance of a letter in the Scientific American, on the subject of wooden railroads. Strange that ignorance and bad faith will ever continue to travesty a person's true and evident meaning for interested purposes, and even go so far as to assert that the difference between oak and maple is, that in the first the grain runs longways of the wood, from which is to be of course inferred that the grain of the maple runs crossways, a new and startling theory. The Gosford, as all other undertakings of the kind, has my best wishes, and as a proof of what I assert, I have advocated the immediate cession, on certain terms, of a portion of the Palais harbour to the Company, for a freight, goods and passenger depot, being of opinion as I am, that the site asked for by the Company is the very one that best suits the interests of the city to give, as the ground to be hereafter required for the terminus of the North Shore R.R. must necessarily and more advantageously be northward of the former, and towards the channel of the River St. Charles. Again, in relation to wooden railroads, I may say for the information of all interested therein, that the Railway Gazette gives it as the opinion of the President of the Clifton Road, that the rails will last five or six years. Light trains have been run on that road at 20 miles an hour. The iron straps, alluded to in the case of the Rockport (Ind.) Road, being considered rather a disadvantage, on account of their hastening the decay of the wood.

C. BAILLAIRGE.

17th April, 1871.

OPINIONS OF THE PEOPLE.

(To the Editor of the Morning Chronicle.)

SIR,—Please inform Maple Rail that if Mr Baillairge had written (not "said") "because instead of though" he would have been understood to intimate that the failure of the Road alluded to, was because white oak had been used in lieu of maple, which would (without doubt) have dubbed Mr. B. (although an enfant du sol) as a non-connoisseur of "Woods." Will Maple Rail write what he means by the 'different fibre' of the two woods? Does he wish his readers or hearers to understand that white oak being straight grained, will wriggle up with the action of the Car wheels, and that the same will not be the case with the maple? Now, here in Canada, we must be daft, indeed if we do not know that maple, except the Birdeye, is as straight grained and as apt to wriggle up as white oak, notwithstanding the inference of his letter, that it is cross grained?—more likely he? As to Mr. B. examining the rails on the G. Road first let M. B. inform us, benighted South Quebecers, the length of time those rails have been in use, and the amount of traffic they have sustained. As it appears it is intended to sell us a similar article in the Kennebec; before we get into it we will humbly state for Mr. M. B's information, and that of others who may prefer the sap or syrop to the fibre, that we do not know if Mr. B. has or has not examined the rails on the G. Road, but we do know those who have and are ready to testify that a large number of the rails on that road have already been turned over, and a number quite uneven and not fit to guarantee a safe or easy passage over the road; we were told not to publish it in Gath, but, Mr. Editor, you may publish it (we will not say in "Ascalon") but in the Dominion of Canada, whose emblem is the maple; but we must all own that (especially our Lower Canada) maple is the least durable hard wood we have; when exposed in such a manner as on a Railway, it gets dozed in two years; we must close and not make too great a Rail of maple rail; in the meantime let it be known to him or her, that Mr. B., in his letter, has not given any opinion, pro or con., either of the woods, therefore he has been unfairly criticised, and that we, having nearly been put in the same market basket as the G., and may be considered saleable, we are now less determined to have Iron, and to remain

MARITIME INTELLIGENCE.

PERCE, 10th April, 1871.

To T. H. GRANT, Esq., Quebec,

The navigation is perfectly open here; no ice to be seen from the high lands. Of snow, we have an unusual depth. Winter roads are excellent, and not the slightest appearance of wheeled vehicle as being used before May. We have had a prevalence of strong northerly winds —* * *

The s s Moravian, Capt Brown, from Portland, 1st April, arrived at Liverpool on the 14th inst.

The s s Scandinavian, Capt. Ballantine, from Liverpool, 6th inst., arrived at Portland at 11.45 a.m. on Sunday, 16th instant, after a very fine passage. The following is an abstract of her log:—April 7th—5 p.m., sailed from Derry. 8th—Wind SSW; distance run at noon, 220 miles. 9th—Wind, SSE; do., do., 308 do. 10th—Wind ESE; do., do., 310 do. 11th—Wind ESE; do., do., 314 do. 12th—Wind NNW; do, do., 331 do. 13th—Wind variable; do., do, 285 do. 14th—Wind variable; do., do., 272 do. 15th—Wind NNE; do., do., 325 do. 16th—Wind variable; do., till arrival, 315 do.—8 days and 18 hours from Derry to Portland.

Queenstown, April 17—The steamships Colorado and Holland touched.

The English barque Dovercourt, which lay on the Marine Slip at this place, all winter, will be launched on Thursday or Friday, and after reloading will proceed on her voyage—Pictou Standard.

It is officially reported that during the year 1870, 491 vessels passed through the Suez Canal, of which 319 vessels were British, 75 French, 26 Austrian, 3 Spanish, 15 Turkish, 32 Egyptian, 9 Italian, 3 Ottoman, 2 Dutch, 2 Portuguese, and 1 each Russian, Danish, Greek, Zanzibarian and American. No ship passed through the canal under the North German flag.

Nothing but the sails and rigging has been saved from the wreck of brig William Muir, from Fajardo, P. R., for Baltimore, wrecked on Carritusk Beach. When left by the crew her whole starboard side was out and her decks gone; also all the cargo had been stove by the sea.

Brigt Callie Allie, (before reported) from Rosario for Liverpool, with a cargo of bones, foundered Jan. 10th, in lat 28 S, long 40 W, giving only time to the crew and passengers to throw themselves into a boat. For four days they were thus without food or water; but on the 14th Jan, they were picked up by the Spanish bark Clothilde, and all landed at Pernambuco, except two put on board a British bark bound for New York. The Callie Allie was owned by F. P. Robinson. The crew consisted of eight men, and a passenger named M. E. Davis, was on board.

Deal, April 5—Off: Budbrook, of London, from Hull for Quebec.

Dover, April 5—Off: Mercur barque, of Moss, Zenichow, for Quebec.

Liverpool, April 3.—The Euxine, hence for Quebec, was left at 8 p.m. on the 2d inst., off the Skerries; wind SW, moderate.

Eastbourne, April 4—Off: The barque Parisian, Hay, from Shields for Quebec.

Liverpool, April 4—The Oceola, hence for Montreal, was left at 7 p.m. on the 3rd inst, off the Skerries; wind N, strong.

NOTICE TO MARINERS.

NEW ZEALAND—MIDDLE ISLAND.—Revolving Light on Cape Campbell.—With reference to Notice to Mariners, No. 61, dated 26th August 1869, respecting the proposed establishment of a light on Cape Campbell, south side of the entrance to Cook strait,—

The Government of New Zealand has given Notice, that from the 1st day of August 1870, a light would be exhibited from a lighthouse recently erected on the cape.

The light is a revolving white light, attaining its greatest brilliancy every minute, elevated 155 feet above high water, and in clear weather should be seen from a distance of 19 miles.

The illuminating apparatus is dioptric or by lenses, of the second order.

The tower, 73 feet high is a wooden structure, painted with alternate bands of white and red. It is situated on a knoll at the extremity of Cape Campbell, in lat. 41° 43' 55" S., long. 174° 18' 30" E.

LOCAL NEWS.

GRAND TRUNK FERRY.—We direct attention to the time table of the Grand Trunk Ferry in this morning's paper. On and after to-day the hours of departure of the steamer have been changed.

THE CIVIL CODE.—We beg to acknowledge the receipt by yesterday's mail, of a pamphlet published in Montreal, entitled "La Bibliothèque du Code Civile," notice of which we hold over until our next issue.

THE QUARANTINE STATION.—Dr. Montizambert and staff proceeded to Grosse Isle yesterday, in order to open up the Quarantine Station for the season. It is to be hoped that his services will be of a light character.

EXTENSIVE SPRING TRADE SALE OF GROCERIES.—The trade are reminded of the extensive trade sale of groceries, which commences to day, at the stores of Messrs Gibb, Laird & Co. Sale commences at half past one o'clock.

PRACTICE.—There will be a practice this evening, in Mr. Lavigne's music store, John street, for the Levis concert, commencing at half-past seven o'clock. As there will only be one or two more practices, a full attendance is specially requested.

SALE POSTPONED.—We beg to draw the attention of our readers to the postponement of the auction sale of two houses and shops to be made by Tessier & Delage, notaries. The sale will ultimately take place on Wednesday, the 26th instant.

FIRST PAGE.—On our first page will be found the following—Poetry: "Parted."—The Amazons of Paris.—Anecdote of Daniel Webster.—A curious Bequest.—"Cast up by the Sea," (continued), a tale by Sir S. W. Baker, M.A., F.R.G.S.

ELECTION NEWS.—La Voix du Golfe, a paper thoroughly conversant—as all are aware—with the local affairs of Rimouski, states that the Minister of Public Works, Hon. H. L. Langevin, C. B., has refused to represent that County in the Local Parliament, although specially invited by requisition.

COUNTY OF MONTMAGNY.—We learn that an influential deputation of the electors of this County, waited last evening upon T. Fournier, Esq, member of the Dominion Parliament, for Bellechasse, and requested him to allow his name to be used as a candidate for the ensuing elections for the Local House. Mr. Fournier promised to answer their request within a few days.

CONCLUSION OF SALE OF DAVID LEVY'S STOCK.—The sale of the balance of stock of jewelry plate, plated ware ornaments will commence this afternoon, at 1.30, and this evening at 7.30, when it is expected the whole will be disposed of. The greatest possible sacrifices have been made in the sale of this stock and parties desiring of obtaining goods at less than half cost would do well to attend the sale.

QUEBEC AND GOSFORD RAILROAD CO.—In our report of the meeting of the Shareholders of the Quebec and Gosford Railroad Co., we omitted to give the names of the gentlemen, who, at the request of the President of the Company, were placed on the Advisory Committee. They are Messrs. J. G. Ross, R. Hamilton, Hon. I. Thibaudeau, H. S. Scott, R. C. Fry and W. D. Campbell.

WESLEYAN TEA MEETING.—The annual Tea Meeting in the School Room of the Wesleyan Church, is announced for Wednesday evening, the 26th instant, and we learn that instead of addresses after tea, some choice pieces of music will be rendered during the evening, with intermissions for social conversation. A rare treat may be expected, as some of the ladies who charmed the audience at the late Social have kindly consented to sing on that occasion. Particulars will be duly advertised.

MILITARY INTELLIGENCE.—The last Gazette publishes the following changes:—53rd Foot—Capt. F. A. Ball to be Major by pur., vice B. N. Garnier, who retires; Lieut. W. Rogerson to be Capt. by pur., vice Ball; Ens. B. A. Hall to be Lieut. by pur., vice Rogerson. 60th Foot—Lieut. T. P. Lloyd, from the 93rd Foot, to be Lieut., vice W. Mitchell-Innes, who exchanges. 93rd Foot—Lieut. W. Mitchell-Innes, from 60th Foot, to be Lieut., vice T. P. Lloyd, who exchanges. Staff.—Brevet Col. Sir J. Wolseley, C.B., K.C.M.G., to be Assist. Adj. Gen. at Headquarters, vice Brevet Col. E. A. Whitmore, whose period of service on the Staff will expire on May 1, 1871.

AUCTION SALE AT ST FOY'S ROAD.—The extensive sale advertised at the residence of G. W. Ellison, Esq., commences this afternoon at one o'clock. The Carriages, Harness and Saddlery will be put up at about 3 o'clock. The Auctioneer, Mr. Casey will go through the catalogue, as much as possible, this day. The goods are all in excellent order, and purchasers, no doubt, will obtain first class goods, at their own prices—as all will be sold without the least reserve.—See advertisement.

AUCTION SALE.—The furniture and effects at No. 7 Margaret street, St. Roch's, will be on view this day from the hour of two to four. The goods can be confidently recommended as well worthy the attention of the public, the whole being quite new of the choicest quality; two drawing room sets, one crimson silk, and one green damask, two pianos and a general assortment of quite new furniture. Sale on Thursday next the 20th inst, at one o'clock. Catalogue may be obtained on application at the office of Messrs. Maxham & Co.

CHARITABLE CONCERT UNDER DIRECTION OF MR. MILLS.—Of all our charitable institutions there is one so seldom brought before the public that it is doubtful, even if its existance be known to many—we refer to the Quebec Infant School for which deserving Institution a concert will be given in the Lecture Hall, St Anne street, to-morrow, Wednesday evening. It will be seen from the advertisement that the programme promises an array of talent not presented before at any one concert of the season. And we think Mr. Fred. Mills' name as conductor a sufficient guarantee to the public for the proper carrying out of this excellent programme.

ST. GEORGE'S EVE.—Referring to the subjoined lines:—

TERTIUM QUID.

"Scotland of yore a King to England gave,
The generous act made union of the two;
England to day—all generously brave—
Gives back a Princess, fairly Scotland's due."
—Edin. Review.

We would suggest that, in compliment to "Ye Mayds of Merrie England," the Sons of the Mist should join their English brethren at the service on St. George's Eve.—See advertisement.

DETAILS.—Our contemporary, Le Canadien of last evening, gives in minute detail our share of the burthen for the building of the proposed Pacific Railroad. Each family in Lower Canada, says the same paper, will be called upon to contribute $300. In silver coin, it will weigh 11,250,000 pounds, Troy weight, and will require 11,250 carts—each bearing in value £1,000—to transport it. These carts in procession will extend 18 leagues, 60 acres, and 9 feet. In bank notes, each seven inches in length, and placed one after the other, will form a ribbon of 6,944 leagues in length. A very nice calculation of count.

Y. M. C. A.—Last night, Col. Martindale, R. E., delivered a very able and entertaining Lecture,—entitled "An Hour with Shakespeare"—to a select and appreciative audience. C P. Champion, Esq, in the Chair. The Rev. Mr. Powis opened the meeting by prayer, and the Rev. G. V. Housman, Rector of St. Paul's Cathedral, pronounced the benediction. The Lecturer was complimented by the Chairman, for the very pleasant "Hour with Shakespeare," which they had just passed, and W. White, Esq., proposed the thanks of the Association, in a few happy remarks—Dr. Anderson, (seconding,) giving those of the meeting to Colonel Martindale for his kindness and for his admirable Lecture. He was sure that all present were highly delighted with the rich fare, of which they had partaken, and which, like ripe peaches, containing the element of imprisoned Sunlight, served to stimulate as well as refresh, nourishing and invigorating the mental fabric, and at the same time, solacing and sustaining the heart. From press of matter we are obliged to defer a brief compendium of this charming lecture, until our next.

LITERARY AND HISTORICAL SOCIETY.—At the meeting on Wednesday, 12th April, the following gentlemen were elected Associate Members—J. M. Oliver, W. E. Russell, James Sealy, Lieut. Biddell, 60th R Rifles. The following donations have been made to the Library—"Loves of the Poets," by Mr. J. Ross. "Le Canada sous l'Union," by L P. Turcotte: Returns concerning Fisheries; Table of Trade and Navigation; Report of Postmaster General; Public Accounts; Inland Revenue, Marine and Fisheries; Estimates by H. S Scott, Esq.; Manual of Legislature of New York, by Secretary of State; "Men of Progress," by General de Peyster; "Coins, Tokens and Medals of the Dominion"; Montreal, Past and Present, by Mr Sandham; Reports Sherbrooke Gold District and Waverly Gold District, by Dr. T.S. Akins, Halifax, N.S.; Manuscript on Affairs of North West Company, by T. H Grant, Esq. The following have been purchased: Annual of Scientific Discovery; Uncivilized Races of the World; London "Vanity Fair," Life and Writings of Faraday; Mechanism in Thought and Morals.

LUMBERING PROSPECTS.

There has not yet been any thaw in the north. On the south side of the Ottawa, the country is clear of snow, little being seen anywhere. The northern streams are expected to be flooded heavily in cases of rain. Logs stuck in the Ottawa river last year, will be got down early this spring. The streams are gradually rising, and the effect in the Ottawa is already beginning to be perceptible. Numbers of logs on the south side will be stuck, this year, without there is tolerably heavy rain before or during the month of May. The quantity of timber felled during the winter is large compared with previous years. Prospects generally are considered good for getting out rather more than an average quantity of timber, during the coming season.—Ottawa Press.

BROWN'S BRONCHIAL TROCHES.—From the Medical Director of the General Hospital, Boston Barracks, near St. Louis, March 8, 1862:—"Messrs. John I. Brown & Son, Boston, Mass.—Use of your far-famed and most serviceable 'Troches' is being made in the hospital of which I have charge, and with very beneficial and decided results in allaying bronchial irritation." For Coughs and Colds the Troches give prompt relief.

IN THOUSANDS OF CASES.—Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup, for all diseases with which children are effected, such as teething, griping in the bowels, wind colic, &c., has been used with perfect and never-failing success in thousands of cases. It softens the gums, reduces inflammation, and allays all pain. Mothers, do not fail to procure it.

Be sure and call for "Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup," having the fac simile of "Curtis & Perkins" on the outside wrapper. All others are base imitations.

DIED.

At Levis, on the 17th instant, at the age of 74 years and 3 months, Genève Ladrière, widow of the late Joseph Cloutier.

The funeral cortege will leave her son's residence, (Ls. Cloutier), Hadlow Cove, on the 19th, at 8 a.m., from thence to the Church of Notre Dame de Levis. Friends and acquaintances are respectfully invited to attend without further notice.

YOU ARE SURE TO GET YOUR MONEY'S WORTH.—This new article seems to have been submitted to the most rigid and impartial scrutiny. A commission appointed by the American Institute have paid such an official compliment to its merits as is rarely vouchsafed by cautious science to any "new thing under the sun." A large proportion of the leading hotel and restaurant proprietors in New York use it, and urge its use by others, over their own signatures; and men eminent in science have voluntarily come forward and indorsed it as an economic culinary staple, and as an unexceptional article of nourishment for the sick. The material from which it is manufactured—Carrageen or Irish Moss—a lichen found in inexhaustible quantities on the coast of Ireland, and may be had for the gathering, without money and without price. Hence it will be cheap as long as the sea and the rocks last—which will be long enough for all practicable purposes. Our main object in this article has been to place what we believe to be a subject of great importance in its true light; nothing more, nothing less. The Sea Moss Farine is manufactured by a Company whose central depot is at 53, Park Place, N.Y.

WHERE the digestive powers are so weak as to cause imperfect Assimilation, and in many cases laying the foundation for Consumption and Wasting, the use of Savory & Moore's Pancreatic Emulsion and Pancreatine, already so highly approved by the Medical faculty, will be found among the most potent remedial agents; they effect the digestion of Cod Liver Oil and prevent nausea, while they efficiently supply the place of the oil when the stomach rejects it. These facts are attested by the published records of medical men, extracts from which accompany each bottle, price from 2s. to 21s. Savory & Moore, 143, New Bond Street, London, and all Chemists. NOTE—Savory & Moore's name and trade mark on each bottle.

ALADDIN;

—OR THE—

WONDERFUL LAMP CHIMNEY.

Feelings of philanthropy have induced me to invent a "Lamp-Chimney." The ever-Crashing—Dashing—Smashing—of Lamp-Chimnies, may be considered the greatest of domestic troubles. But the "Composite" Lamp-Chimney, having the Bulb only of glass, the upper part (which is required to produce a draught) is made of tin, or other metal, thereby causing the Chimney to be almost indestructible, and they can be handed down as "heir-looms" in a family, marking the memorable year of 1871—round the lower part of the metal tube are holes, which causes an impingment of heated air on the top of the flame, which renders combustion complete, giving a fine White Light, that reminds you of Venus when an evening star.

But great as these advantages certainly are, they are nothing when compared to the happiness and comfort that this invention is destined to afford the human family.

A man returns home late at night, tired and weary, and finds nothing to relieve the feelings of depression but grog, when, if he could have had a cup of tea, coffee or cocoa, he would have retired to rest contented.

How many happy homes have been broken up? how many children left ragged and hungry in consequence of Drunkenness? and how many men have become Drunkards by being obliged to take stimulants when a cup of refreshing tea would have satisfied all their wants? Now the "Composite" Lamp-Chimney affords the means of boiling water, in less than ten minutes, and of all the inventions for heating fluids by means of a Lamp—none can be compared with this.

Where there is a Baby it will be found indispensable. What a comfort in a sick-room?

The Student removes from his midnight Lamp a cup of delicious beverage.

It will be of the greatest value to the Clergyman or Doctor.

With the Bachelor it will be always in use, beginning with hot water to shave in the morning, and ending with hot water, sugar and spoons in the evening.

The Canada Scotsman

A FIRST-CLASS LITERARY AND GENERAL NEWSPAPER.

VOLUME III., 1870.

"The Canada Scotsman" has been enlarged to nearly double its former size, embellished with a beautifully engraved heading, and otherwise improved. Volume III. commences with the number for January 1st, 1870. All who send in their subscriptions now for the year 1870, will get the paper for the balance of this year FREE, thus dating their subscriptions from January 1st, 1870, and ending with January 1st, 1871. It gives the latest news from the different counties of Scotland, with a summary of Canadian, United States, English, Irish and Foreign News, together with Commercial and Market Reports, Editorial comments on the events of the day, original articles on Scottish and general subjects, Histories of the Highland Clans, Tales, Poetry, &c., &c. The "Scotsman" is strictly independent, taking no sides with any political or religious party or sect. Nothing is omitted that can be of interest to the Farmer, Mechanic or Professional man. The Gaelic Department is continued. It is acknowledged by the Press and Public to be the handsomest, best and most complete family newspaper on this continent. Every Scotsman and descendant of Scotsmen should subscribe for it.

OPINIONS OF THE PRESS:

"A first-class paper."—Montreal Gazette.

"Written with ability and spirit."—Montreal Herald.

"It is altogether a well got up paper, far superior to the New York Scottish American."—Toronto Globe.

"The Highland reader will be delighted with a few columns in his native Gaelic."—Montreal Witness.

F. S. CLEAVER'S CARBOLIC ACID AND GLYCERINE SOAP.

The great advantages of this Soap over others designated as "Carbolic Acid Soap" are that in its manufacture none but pure Medicinal Carbolic Acid in combination with Glycerine is used, and entire freedom is ensured from the offensive odour of Commercial Carbolic Acid containing Sulphur and Tarry matters.

For the Skin also a Perfect Disinfectant.

Eminent authorities agree as to the extremely beneficial results to health obtained by the constant use of Carbolic Acid in a very dilute form. Eruptions of the Skin, profuse Perspiration and Irritation arising from numerous causes, are speedily cured.

Its Antiseptic and Purifying Properties are universally acknowledged.

SHIP BREAD BAKER,

QUEBEC.

For Infants and Invalids.

CHARLES MARTIN'S Cardinal Food, is highly recommended by a large number of the first and leading Physicians of Montreal. It is the most palatable, nutritious and strengthening Food ever prepared; it causes neither acidity nor flatulency, and for the Infant takes the place of mother's milk.

Extract from one of the numerous testimonials Dr. ROBERT CRAIK, attending Physician, Montreal General Hospital and Professor of McGill University, says:—I have made trial of the specimen of your "Concentrated Cardinal Food," which you left with me for that purpose, and have much pleasure in testifying to its excellent qualities. It seems to combine the good qualities of "Baron Liebig's" and "Dr. Ridge's" Food, and to be in a great measure free from the faults of these preparations. I have found it to be readily taken and assimilated by infants and invalids, and nutritious qualities there can be no question."

For sale by all Druggists, where Circulars can be had on application.

Alkabasar

ARRIVED AT LAST.

This elegant Turkish Tonic is one of the most salutary and delicate preparations ever submitted for public approval in this hemisphere, and asserts its pretensions to patronage on the following grounds:—

That it is a preparation of one of the most eminent Purveyors to the Ottoman Court.

It prevents acidity of the stomach.

It relieves lowness of spirits.

It is a mild and invigorating tonic, and a most efficient but innocuous stimulant.

It renders the breath sweet and agreeable.

It stimulates the appetite if taken before meals.

It promotes digestion if taken after meals.

It neutralizes the propensity for strong liquors.

It renders the intellect bright and clear.

If taken habitually it imparts vitality and energy to all the bodily organs.

By its use a man of 70 will become, as it were, restored to the elasticity of 30; and to persons of delicate constitutions it is strongly recommended.

It is an especial favorite with Oriental ladies.

Secure then, health, longevity and vital energy by the habitual use of the

ALKABASAR TURKISH TONIC.

Kept in stock by the principal Druggists and Grocers in the Dominion.

IMPORTANT NOTICE

Borwick's Baking Powder

Makes bread light and digestible in a few minutes without standing to rise as with yeast, and Puddings should never be made without it, as it renders them light and easy of digestion and saves butter and eggs.

TESTIMONIALS.

In answer to your request, I am happy to say I have tested Borwick's Baking Powder, and it proves to be very good, when properly used.

Yours, &c.,

J. E. GUERIN, Head Cook.

Government House, Sydney, N.S.W., 19th March, 1867.

BORWICK'S

I herby certify that I have made a careful analysis of BORWICK'S BAKING POWDER. The ingredients are all of the purest description, perfectly wholesome, well and proportionably mixed, and will keep good in any climate. Indeed, I consider it a beautiful farinaceous powder, and well qualified for raising bread, pastry, &c.

CHARLES WATT, Analytical Chemist.

Sydney, 4th May, 1866.

BAKING

I have used BORWICK'S BAKING POWDER for the last twelve years, and consider it to be an invaluable help to thrifty housewives who delight in making home happy, as they can thereby make cakes and puddings for their families at a much less cost than with eggs.

Yours, &c.,
