Boys Have Wonderful Time At Lake St. Francis

93 Boys Transported by Rotarians For Picnic Thursday Afternoon

When ninety-three boys, 14 years of age and under, got together for an afternoon picnic on the shores of Lake St. Francis and on a hot afternoon, just use your imagination, plus, and begin to realize what a lot of wholesome fun they had. Yes, the Rotary Club picnic for the boys on the spacious, well kept grounds of Mr. and Mrs. Francois Cleyne, Port Lewis, was an outstanding success. A dozen Rotarians and Mesdames Cleyne, Caza, Lefebvre, Currie, Phillips and Tinker organized the show. Stan. Liversidge, Recreation Director, had the boys in hand and saw to it that they had no dull moments or any inactivity. Thanks to Messrs. Milton, Sharpe, Percy Campbell, Tom Vine and Harold McLean, all the boys had a motor boat ride on Lake St. Francis.

The water was warm and swimming went on all afternoon, although at intervals Stan. Liversidge had all the boys come out of the water and participate in a number of races, a treasure hunt, soft ball and a tug-of-war, when the mass group of boys tugged the men. They proved quite capable of tugging the men to any spot they might so desire.

The boys were transported from Huntingdon by the Port Lewis bus and cars of Rotarians. It amazed the Rotarians how many of the boys had never before seen Lake St. Francis.

Late in the afternoon hot dogs were served. The boys lined up in a queue, got a hot dog and a bottle of pop; if they wished a 2nd, 3rd, 4th and perhaps 5th, they so lined up and got their fill, plus a Dixie cup of ice cream. The capacity to eat hot dogs and drink pop was outstanding. It didn't take the boys to show the little fellows how to punish the cats or drinks. During the afternoon an orange or chocolate bar was given each boy who so desired to have one. Naturally a certain amount of rubbish was about the grounds late in the afternoon so that time Stan Liversidge lined the boys up in one long line and had them cover the grounds and pick up every morsel of bread, Dixie cup, bottle cap or what not else and deposit same in a large waste container.

Thanks to the Rod and Gun Club for a donation of $5 which went into the prize fund for the various competitions.

Mr. Emmerson McNair's summer cottage and grounds is the adjacent property to that occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Cleyne, consequently under the mutual arrangement with Mr. McNair the picnicers had the full run of both properties. Thanks go to Mr. McNair for his co-operation and neighbourly spirit so exemplified.

Three cash prizes of $1., 50c and 25c were given in the various events. The winners were:

Running race, age 10 and under: J. Paul Boyer, Philippe Boyer, George Stark.

Sack race, 10 years and under: Ian Grant, Bruce Amyot, George Robb. Running race, ages 11 and 12: David Rankin, J. C. Lefebvre, Ed. Lefebvre.

Sack race, 13 years and over: Jean Tremblay, Andre Myre, George Varin.

Running race, age 13 and over: George Lazure, George Letendre, Bob Adamack.

Sack race, 13 years and over: Paul Varin, Billy Adamack, Ed. Lefebvre.

Open race, any age: 1, Norman Corbett, 2 Bobby Brown and Philippe Lalande; 3rd, Arthur Rankin and Philippe Gold.

Dr. J. E. Caza, Vice-President of the Rotary Club welcomed the boys to the picnic and expressed thanks to Mr. and Mrs. Cleyne for offering their cottage facilities for the holding of this picnic. Thanks go to the Rotary Annas who assisted in staging this most successful boys' picnic.

District Governor Pays Visit to Rotary Club

Monday evening Rotary District Governor Wm. Emery of Montreal, paid his official visit to the Huntingdon Club. Mr. Emery's address dealt with Rotary and its accomplishments. He pointed out that all members of Rotary get such a tremendous amount of good out of it that they will forever and a day be indebted to it and in a way that can't be repaid in the way of dollars. The humanitarian achievements and the accomplishments exerted for the benefit of youth are to some extent visible accomplishments and a repayment to the efforts of the Rotarians that far outweigh the time and financial aid given by Rotarians, was the expressed opinion of Mr. Emery.

The Rotary Club picnic held for boys last Thursday was reported upon by Mr. Francois Cleyne. It was unanimously agreed by the Rotarians that a similar picnic should be held tomorrow, Thursday, August 21, for the girls of Huntingdon. For further details re this picnic the girls of Huntingdon are invited to read another notice about this picnic and act accordingly.

Four Young Men Have Narrow Escape

Car Plunges Into River at Curve on Highway No. 4

An accident occurred on Sunday morning at about 10:50 near the bend in Highway No. 4 at Percy Nesbitt's farm, when a car failed to make the curve and landed in the river. Four young men from Verdun were the occupants of the car and they were heading for that point after a visit to the States. The car went out of control on the curve and crashed through a guard rail into the river. Two of the youths were thrown clear before the machine hit the water, while the other two escaped by swimming to shore.

The young men were: Guy St. Andre, 4146 Verdun Ave., 19 years old; Girard Vidal, 4161 Galt Ave., 17 years old; Guy Lefebvre, 484 Galt Ave., 18 years old and Andre Bessette, 694 Church, 18 years old. The car was a 1935 Plymouth coupe belonging to a Mr. Heroux, and driven by St. Andre.

The boys had been through the customs the day before and were returning on Sunday and it is definitely understood that they had not been drinking and that the mishap was purely accidental. They were driving at a speed of about 35 miles per hour when the accident occurred.

The R.C.M.P. at Huntingdon were notified of the accident and asked Chief Vallee, of Huntingdon, to investigate and he went to the scene immediately and brought the four boys to Huntingdon County Hospital for first aid treatment. Dr. P. G. McCremon, who was really on holiday, gave the boys first aid. St. Andre was the more seriously injured, suffering a bad cut on the hand and requiring several stitches in his head. He was later removed to the General Hospital in Montreal. Vidal and Lefebvre were treated for cuts and Bessette was only shaken. After treatment they were released and went to their homes.

The car which was on its side in the river, was brought to Kyle's garage in Huntingdon, by the wrecker, later in the evening.

Rev. Maclean's Nephew Lost On Plane Trip

Missing Since Aug. 8th — Search Continuing

Rev. J. B. Maclean, D.D., who is spending his vacation at Hopewell, N.S., has had this vacation marred by the unfortunate news of the disappearance of a plane which his nephew, John Maclean, was piloting. The two-seated Canadian built seaplane disappeared while on a flight from Fredericton to Fredericton on Friday, August 8th. There were two men in the plane, John Gray Maclean, the pilot and Norman Crewe and it was first known to be missing on Sunday morning, August 10th, after a flight that normally would take about two hours.

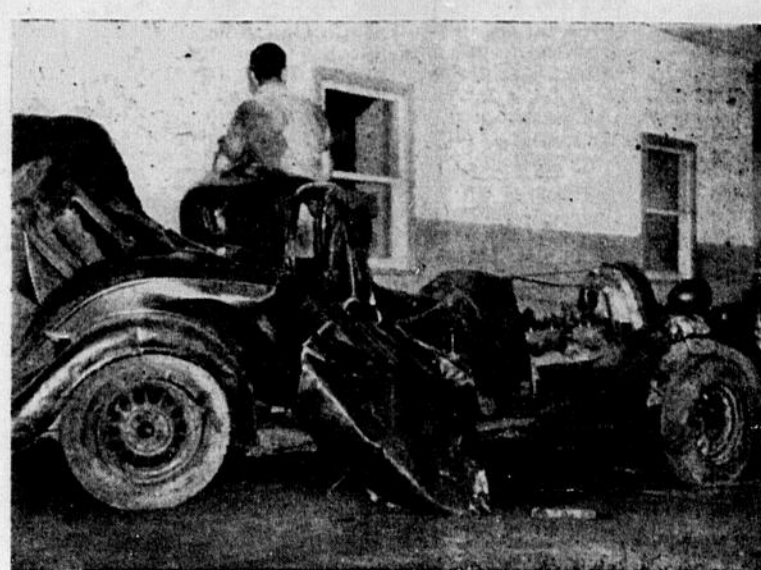

Organized search has been going on since that time, but no trace of the plane or the men has been found. Both men are experienced woodsmen and it is felt that had the plane been forced to land in the bush country, that they would have found their way to an inhabited area without much difficulty. The plane was reported seen in the Fredericton area on Friday evening, August 8th. John Maclean is an experienced pilot and served overseas for a year and a half as a lieutenant, Harry Maclean, who was stationed with the R.C.A.P. as a wireless operator, at Prince Edward Island during the war, joined in the search in hopes of locating the missing man and his friend. A younger brother of Norman Crewe also joined the search parties on an uneventful flight. The search is continuing although hope is almost given up.

The people of Huntingdon will wish to offer sympathy to Rev. Maclean in this trial and at the same time express the hope that his nephew may still be found alive.

FEW SWIMMERS

Regina, (CP)—Although 29 qualified swimming instructors have been appointed throughout the province in the first year of the Red Cross swimming and water safety program, a recent survey showed less than three per cent of Saskatchewan school children can swim.

THIS WAS ONCE A COUPE

This is what the coupe in which the four youths were riding when it failed to make the curve and headed into the river, looked like after it had been towed to Huntingdon. It is miraculous that these young men came out of the wreck with as few injuries as they did. The man in the picture is standing in the hole in the roof of the car through which one of the occupants climbed through and escaped drowning. The story appears elsewhere on this page.

Canadian Schools Living Symbols Democratic Way

McLeish Says Improvement in Education Best Tribute to Those Who Gave Lives

"We owe it to those very Canadian servicemen who did not come back, or are even now paying the highest price in physical or mental suffering as an aftermath of the war, to try and make the best of what they accomplished by their sacrifice, and what they would have us go on to accomplish with the peace and freedom which they made available to us," said John A. B. McLeish, president of the Quebec Federation of Home and School Associations, in a radio address Saturday night under the auspices of the Montreal City Improvement League and the Municipal Service Bureau.

Mr. McLeish stressed the need for a universal memorial which would perpetuate the sacrifices of Canada's war dead. "Nothing could better justify the hopes and ideals for which the war was fought than Canadian schools which a sense of dedication, and qualities of imagination and vision, have made living symbols of the Christian and democratic way of life," he continued.

"In this sense, it is not too much to say that the spirit and program of each school, whether large or small, can and should be a living testimony to the thousands of Canadian war dead. The happy play of young Canadians on the rink and the ball court, the music of their choirs, the beauty of their crafts, and in the truth and service of their later lives as Canadian citizens, it is not hard to imagine that the young men who gave their own youth for their country, would feel that the victory had been a victory indeed."

Girls to Have Picnic at Port Lewis This Thursday

Meet at Empire Garage Not Later Than 1 p.m. Transportation Provided

On Thursday of last week the boys of Huntingdon were entertained to a picnic at the lake. Now this Thursday (tomorrow) August 21st, the girls of Huntingdon are to have their turn. All girls between the ages of 6 and 14 years are asked to meet outside the Empire Garage on Chateaugay Street, not later than 1 o'clock on Thursday, August 21st, when transportation will be provided to carry all of them to the summer home of Mr. and Mrs. Francois Cleyne, at Port Lewis. The departure is scheduled for 1 p.m. sharp, so be on time. Should the weather not be fit, a notice will be posted in the Empire Garage by noon and the picnic will be held on the following Thursday, August 28th.

The Huntingdon Rotary Club is sponsoring the picnic and there are promises of boat rides, treasure hunts, races, swimming and hosts of other fun for all. While Mr. Stanley Liversidge is away on vacation, it is hoped that he may be persuaded to be present for this afternoon to organize the various sports and help make this as pleasant an afternoon as the boys had.

Don't forget to bring your bathing suit and don't bother about bringing any lunch because there will be plenty of drinks and supper will be provided free to all. Just bring your bathing suit and be prepared to have a real good time. Remember it is this Thursday, not later than 1 p.m. at the Empire Garage, so be on time.

BE A PAL, PA

One of our service station operators sent us a note addressed to fathers, asking them to check their automobiles for gasoline before the boys got to visit their girlfriends. He thinks the boys forget to check their cars, what with other things on their minds, and if the fathers performed this necessary deed, he would not be called out of bed at 1:30 a.m. to fill up some luckless boy's tank with gasoline.—Altona (Man.) Lawn Bowling Tournament At Valleyfield

Annual Event Took Place Saturday Afternoon

Valleyfield Lawn Bowling Club held its annual tournament on Saturday afternoon. It was the biggest tournament ever held in Valleyfield, 18 rinks participating and games were played on all nine rinks at one time. True, the greens were not as good as usual but that was largely due to the fact that the greens had to be narrowed up so as to accommodate all 18 rinks.

Visiting rinks came from Caledonia, Verdun, Lachine, C.P.R., Westmount, Riverview and Huntingdon.

After playing two games in the afternoon and the final in the evening Valleyfield team skipped by Harry Whitehead was proclaimed the winner of the day and were the recipients of Ronson lighters as their prize. The runner up team was Verdun, skipped by P. Kennedy. The winning rinks were as follows:

VALLEYFIELD (Winners)	VERDUN (Runners Up)
L. Leduc	P. Brookie
P. Fishwick	H. Buckthought
E. Attridge	C. Latham
H. Whitehead	P. Kennedy
(Skip)	(Skip)

C.P.R. bowlers after finishing their final game sang in excellent harmony a number of hymns as their swan song. The surprise of hymns being then sung was their expression of thanks for the ideal weather and day's enjoyment, and was much appreciated by everyone present.

On Saturday, Aug. 23, the Fisher bospital takes place in Huntingdon. Valleyfield has already entered five rinks and it is quite probable St. Lambert and Caledonia will be here represented. Bowling will take place during the afternoon and evening. Bowlers will dine at the Chateau at 6 p.m.

D. C. Munroe, Ormstown High School Chosen Teachers' Head

Elected President Canadian Teachers' Federation At Closing Sessions Friday

Halifax — Problems of how to overcome the teacher shortage that has resulted in thousands of unqualified persons "teaching" in schools across Canada, and of the best strategy to be employed in the proposed campaign to gain Federal aid for education engaged the attention of the Canadian Teachers' Federation in closing sessions of their conference on Friday.

The teachers elected D. C. Munroe, principal of Ormstown High School, Ormstown, Que., as president of the Federation and appointed George E. Grosby, principal of Metchum School, Ottawa, as permanent secretary-treasurer to head the new office of the Federation, which will be opened in Ottawa.

Mr. Grosby succeeds Dr. C. N. Crutchfield, St. John's, P.E.I., long-time secretary-treasurer of the Federation, who in a farewell address strongly urged the teachers to press hard for the type of professional status enjoyed by the medical and legal professions.

"If doctors can stop 'bone-setters' from practising medicine to the harm of the human body," he said, "why should not teachers be able to stop unqualified persons from harming the human mind?"

Presenting a report of the special committee studying the teacher shortage, E. A. Grosby, Yorkton, Sask., listed low salaries as the principal cause of the present situation in Canada. Other causes, he said, were community restrictions on the life of the teacher, the low prestige of the profession, the appeal of standards for entrance to teaching training schools, use of short term training courses, "sitlers", a word coined in Alberta and meaning an unqualified person who can only sit in the school and watch the pupils work by correspondence courses, and the granting of permits to teach to unqualified persons.

Such practices, he said, dragged down the level of the whole profession and speeded up the rate at which the good teachers were leaving for other jobs.

"Give us more money," he said, "and you will have no shortage of teachers. A $1,500 salary minimum is peanuts. A minimum of $2,500 is by no means too much for a qualified teacher."

C. J. Oates, Vancouver, presented on behalf of the British Columbia delegates a brief on Federal aid for education which was adopted by the conference.

Federal aid, he said, did not mean federal control of education but was a logical forward step in educational progress in the Dominion.

In planning a campaign to obtain Federal aid he said the delegates should remember "that in view of the statements of the prime minister and top-ranking members of the government the Federal aid will be deferred until it is no longer politically expedient to ignore the broad basis of its support."

He urged therefore the seeking of support from private citizens and organizations on all levels of national life "approaching our known friends first" and gradually approaching those suspected of hostility.

Two New Dominions Join British Commonwealth

Hindustan and Pakistan Second and Fifth Most Populous Countries in the World

Two new and populous nations came into being last week at one of the most momentous periods of history.

The new states are Hindustan and Pakistan, second and fifth most populous countries in the world, respectively. They replace, as political units, the old Indian empire which Britain relinquished Friday.

Representing India's two great religious groups, the Hindus and the Moslems, Hindustan and Pakistan have the status of dominions. It's up to them whether they want to stay in the empire or not; they can remain as autonomous dominions like Canada or they can withdraw completely.

In New Delhi, millions of members of both sects laid aside their traditional hatred for each other and rejoiced. But in the teeming Punjab, tragic riots continued.

The toll from rioting and gang warfare in that province rose to 268 dead and 65 wounded in four days and a dozen fires were burning Saturday in the capital city of Lahore.

New Poliomyelitis Research Project Now Under Way

Life Insurance Companies Finance Study For Early Clinical Evidences of Disease

Designed to provide a better understanding of how the childhood disease of poliomyelitis is spread, a new research project financed by Canada's life insurance companies is now under way, according to an announcement by J. K. Macdonald, chairman of the health committee of the Canadian Life Insurance Officers Association.

The new study of dreaded poliomyelitis will take the form of a survey to be conducted by the staff of the Toronto Hospital for Sick Children under the supervision of Dr. L. N. Silverthorne.

Study will be made of the early clinical evidences of poliomyelitis and the signs of abortive poliomyelitis as well as an investigation into the hygienic conditions of homes of patients treated during the course of this study. Abortive poliomyelitis is the condition where the symptoms of the disease occur but where there is no paralysis.

Physicians will make close studies of all symptoms which might indicate the presence of the disease in a child and will make examinations of the cerebro-spinal fluid if there are signs of meningeal infection. An attempt will be made to evaluate the abortive disease from a clinical standpoint.

In studying hygienic conditions of the home, an attempt will be made

Child Bitten by Dog Wound Requires Stitches

Barbara Anne Pope, age 6 years, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. K. Pope, Huntingdon, had the unfortunate experience of being bitten by a dog on Tuesday. It was a bad bite and required several stitches to close the wound. The child was attended at the Huntingdon County Hospital, but was able to return home afterwards.

The child stooped down to pet the dog and the animal bit her. It was purely accidental as the animal is not considered fierce in any way.

Industrial Interest in Huntingdon Fair

HUNTINGDON Fair is just a few weeks away and this exhibition is not given the right amount of attention by our local business folks as might be. The Ormstown Fair, being a larger attraction perhaps takes the lion's share of the interest shown in this district. More enthusiasm should be worked up for the Huntingdon Fair and a determined effort made to improve it and make it more attractive to patrons.

It must be remembered that Huntingdon has become a progressive and important business town during the past few years. This progress is continuing as will be noticed by the additions being made to the textile mills here which form a great part of the business and source of employment. Huntingdon is no longer a retired people's town it used to be and it must live up to the trend of progress in all ways. It cannot be expected that people are going to patronize a fair that is drab and with no attractions outside the exhibits. True, the Fair Board has a hard time financing the exhibition each year, but it always will have until it does something to improve it and make it more attractive to the modern trend.

In an effort to help improve the fair this year, it has been suggested that the business men and manufacturers of Huntingdon get together and make displays of their goods as an industrial exhibit at the fair. As to this we might make a few suggestions: A furniture dealer could have a really good exhibit of modern household equipment and house furnishings that would prove a wonderful attraction and advertisement for their merchandise; electrical equipment could be shown to good advantage and especially as there seems to be more of this available now; plumbing and builders' supplies could be shown to good advantage when much of the new ideas in house building could be explained during the two days of the fair; hardware and farm machinery exhibits would be quite fitting at this time. Above all, these exhibits would show the people visiting the fair what the business men of Huntingdon have to offer them right in their own town. To make this more attractive perhaps some kind of competition could be run in conjunction with the exhibit.

There is no doubt that something in the way of a real good midway is needed to draw more people to the Fair and this is something that the Fair Board should concentrate on and see if they can get an attraction really worthwhile. More lighting is needed to make the Fair attractive after dark. The buildings could do with some renovating in order that they are more inviting. It is not too late to do these things this year and we feel sure that results would be seen in the increased gate receipts as well as from the concessions. The newly elected M.L.A., Mr. J. G. Rennie, might well be approached to see if an increase in the grant can be obtained to be used to pay for the face lifting of the Huntingdon Fair.

Huntingdon Fair has gotten into a rut, but there is no reason why it should stay there. At the last annual meeting of the Board, members then saw the need for greater attractions and it was decided that something should be done toward securing them. If the business men of Huntingdon would get together and hold a good industrial exhibit it may be the spur that is needed to make Huntingdon Fair a really worthwhile one from the patrons point of view. Why not let's do something about it right now, organize your forces and make your preparations at once, Huntingdon is going forward and its fair must progress with it and not fade out of existence.

Now an A.B.C. Member

THIS week we are going to use a little of this space to tell you something about ourselves. It is the practice of most large firms and many of small businesses to have their books audited each year by a competent auditor or chartered accountant. Such an audit helps them in getting a proper credit rating and also assists them in arranging a line of credit with manufacturers and banks. An audit is considered to be a true statement of the affairs of the business in question and thus carries greater weight when doing business with others. It paints a picture of the true worth of the firm and the assets available on which to base the extent to which credit and other privileges may be given.

In years gone by newspapers used to say they had so many subscribers and this had to be taken as a true statement. Unfortunately, like in so many other things these statements were not always true. But it was on this basis that the advertiser placed his advertising in such newspapers. The newspaper would say they had a 1,000 circulation and the advertiser would visualize his advertisement being read by a possible 1,000 persons, whereas perhaps the actual number was only half this amount. Advertising has attained such importance today that the advertiser now seeks much more factual knowledge of the newspapers he intends to use. Later sworn statements were made by the newspaper publishers and even some of these were falsified. A still better method was sought whereby the information given could be absolutely relied upon. Thus the Audit Bureau of Circulations came into being and like the Better Business Bureau, has come to be the reliable source of information as to Newspaper Circulation Facts and Figures.

The Gleaner which has always striven to give its subscribers and advertisers the utmost in newspaper value at all times, is now a member of Audit Bureau of Circulations, or as it is more familiarly known, the A.B.C. An audit has already been made and a report of this audit has been sent out to all interested parties in newspaper advertising. To those who are interested a copy of this report may be seen at any time. Naturally this is a true report and shows the advertiser exactly what he can expect in return for the dollars he wishes to spend in advertising his goods or products.

By this method The Gleaner is now able to give its true credit rating as to the number of copies that go to subscribers and others throughout the district it serves. You don't have to believe what we tell you, you can ask for the information from the A.B.C. that is your guarantee that you are getting what you pay for. Surely we cannot do any more to prove to you that you are getting a real and genuine value for your money. By this method we guarantee that your advertising will have full coverage of our entire circulation and that that circulation is according to the figure audited by the A.B.C. This is of especial interest to the advertisers in the Chateaugay Valley as they can be sure of where this newspaper goes and to how many people in each district. Outside of actually selling the goods we can now prove that advertising in this newspaper is a sound investment. Advertising does not guarantee to sell the goods, but more often than not it is the direct medium through which a large quantity of the goods are sold.

93 Decorous Boys

THURSDAY afternoon 93 boys of Huntingdon were entertained at a picnic at the summer cottage of Mr. and Mrs. Francois Cleyn, Port Lewis, as guests of the Rotary Club of Huntingdon. Here was a place where the training accorded the boys by Recreation Director, Stan Liversidge, had an opportunity to show up to the men and women of Huntingdon, who were present. Everyone came to the conclusion that to run such a picnic two years ago would have been a case of "bedlam let loose", but no, the 93 boys looked to Stan Liversidge for direction and they responded to every request he made of them. The boys all knew that what Mr. Liversidge had to say meant something well worth while to them. It meant organized sport, no fighting or wrangling but something good for all. The only time one could say the boys showed a bit of thoughtlessness was when they received their treats of hot-dogs and drinks from the ladies and men; they usually forgot to say "thanks". In small boys, we suppose that common courtesy, yet important, can be overlooked on such an occasion as was this picnic. Stan Liversidge, in behalf of the boys, expressed the thanks to the ladies and men of the Rotary Club for the picnic and special thanks to Mr. and Mrs. Cleyn to which the boys gave hearty cheers.

The real finale was when a half dozen little boys went to Mr. Cleyn, not knowing his name addressed him as Monsieur Francois. "We wish to thank you for this grand picnic, we will be back some Sunday to visit you".

Killing a Goose That Lays Golden Eggs

IN these days when American dollars mean so much to this country and to the rest of the world, the tourist trade is something that should be catered to and carefully looked after. Unfortunately there are some people who are bent on holding up the tourist through high prices for whatever he wishes to buy. Being a stranger in a strange country he is either forced to pay the high price or go without in the hope of finding something more reasonable.

In a talk with one of our readers during the past week, we discovered that this man and his family had taken a holiday trip through certain parts of Quebec. It was this reader who remarked on the way the tourist was being held up. It includes the Canadian as well as the American, although it affects the American a great deal more because there are more of them. This particular party went on what one might say is a camping tour, that is they cooked their own meals for the most part and slept in cabins at night. On occasion they would stop at some town with the idea of having a fully cooked meal by way of a change. A decision of this kind was made at about the noon hour and the party went into a restaurant with the idea of getting a meal. The waiter handed them a menu and there were a few short orders, but the meals started in at $2.75 per person up to $16.00 per person, with dessert 75c extra. One American tourist with a party of four had dinner and the cheapest it could be done for was $10.00.

It is known that prices have increased and it is no longer possible to obtain meals at low prices, but such prices seem to be quite out of line. It is evident that the American tourist seems to think this also and while he is paying the price now, he will not be back for a second helping. This trade in a good many parts of Quebec makes the harvest that tides the people over for the winter, but if they are not more careful and considerate, they will find their harvest turned to a famine and this will be a result of their own greediness.

It is not known that this overcharging takes place in the Chateaugay Valley, but then perhaps we are a little too close to the border to gather the same value from the American Tourist as we are doing business with him all the year round. There have been some reports of high prices paid by summer visitors who make a habit of coming this way to spend one or two weeks away from the city. Those who have complained feel that costs have not advanced as much as the increase in prices would seem to warrant. Whereas some persons charged $14 or $15 dollars per person per week a year or so ago, the charge has now been increased to $25 or even higher. The service offered has not improved and in many cases the convenience of the guests is barely considered.

Attlee At The Cross-Roads

By Lewis Milligan

"Hayek thinks that the democratic statesman who sets out to plan economic life will soon be confronted with the alternative of either assuming dictatorial powers or abandoning his plans". That is a quotation from a pamphlet entitled "The Twilight of Freedom" by Dean Inge, and it seems to me to sum up the situation in which the British Labor Government has found itself as a result of its attempt to put into effect its nationalization program.

Prime Minister Attlee, in announcing his government's austerity program to meet the economic crisis, teetered between those two alternatives. He announced that there would be "some measure of control" over employment, including a possible limitation of employment in less essential work. Coal miners and other workers are to be asked to work longer hours and refrain from demanding increased wages. "Effective action" is to be taken to ensure efficient management in industry, and the government is to resume virtually all the dictatorial powers it exercised during the war.

On the other hand, it was pointed out in the British press that Mr. Attlee said nothing about the government's nationalization program, and it would appear that its plans in that direction were, for the time being, abandoned. This in itself could be taken as a tacit admission of the charge made by Mr. Churchill that the government had "frittered away" the American loan on socialist experimentation. It is an admission that the government has failed utterly to accomplish what it promised the people of Britain to do—to set up a socialist state in which there would be economic security for all from the cradle to the grave.

It has been freely predicted for some months in London that the Labor Government would not last the year out, or that some form of coalition would have to be agreed upon in order to save the nation from economic collapse. In this connection it is of interest to recall that the first Labor Government, which came into power after the First Great War, broke on the rocks of an economic crisis. The Labor Party at that time was split in two, and Ramsay MacDonald joined with the Conservatives and Liberals in a National Government to save the ship of state from total wreck.

It looks as if history was about to perform its old stunt of repeating itself, although Mr. Churchill has declared that there will be "no coalition", and the Labor Party has sufficient majority in the Commons, without the extreme leftists, to prevent a defeat. But the people of Britain have for a long time been fed-up with wartime controls and shortages, and Mr. Attlee's program of increased controls and austerity may arouse popular clamour for the formation of an emergency Cabinet composed of the best brains of the country. Apart from popular feeling, however, the economic mess in which the Government finds itself is liable to grow worse and force Mr. Attlee to resign.

The only alternative would be for the Labor Government to assume absolute dictatorial powers, as Hayek points out, and regiment the workers and all the resources of the nation for the carrying out of a series of five-year plans on the Soviet model. Mr. Attlee, as a democratic statesman, is now confronted with the alternative of either assuming dictatorial powers or abandoning his socialist plans. He is trying to take a middle course, but there is no middle road, for his government has come to the parting of the ways. One is the broad highway of democratic freedom, the other is the luring byway of socialism which leads to serfdom under Giant Despair.

Time For Decision ...

By George W. James,
 The Canadian Statesman,
 Bowmanville, Ont.
 (Article No. 7)

Having stated in six previous articles the general premise of the present situation in federal political affairs; restoration of fullest freedom under strong, responsible government, with only two parties, Liberals and Progressive-Conservatives to choose between at the next election, it remains for voters intelligently to make up their minds which party they should support to achieve the goal that most Canadians want.

Broad View

Before developing the picture that seeks to define in a fair manner the position of these two parties as set forth in the past and present record of the Mackenzie King administration and the clearly announced platform of John Bracken, national leader of the Progressive-Conservatives, and his course since assuming leadership, it may be well to take a broad view of Canada's progress to nationhood.

Source of Government

Too many partisans identify and glorify the leading statesmen as the architects of Canada's greatness rather than attribute it rightly to the genius of the people. Party flag-wavers still whoop it up for MacDonald, Laurier, King, but their greatness stemmed from innate ability to feel the public pulse and thus shape policy. Balaclava with advice of experts in the permanent civil service they went along to win a lasting place in history. These two sources, public opinion and expert advice make government.

Three Leaders

Among these three leading statesmen, many still feel that Laurier, holding the confidence of two races, stands supreme in cementing national unity and broadening the base for nationhood through immigration. He pursued a course so lofty and fair he required no apology. MacDonald has his Pacific Scandal; Mr. King his "Valley of Humiliation." These three leaders were mainly identified with the broad development of Canada up to our day.

Farm Position

Primary producers, mainly farmers, shaped the destiny of this nation. While agriculture is still the basis of national prosperity, the farming population has fallen to approximately one-third. But as stated before, rural voters still hold the balance in determining what government will be returned to power. All parties agree that farmers have never, save for one short period, received their fair share of the national income. The question is, which leader is most strongly pressing to correct this inequity?

Industry Enters

Macdonald gave industry a foothold under his National Policy. Laurier led in widening domestic consumption by opening up the prairies. World War I gave a further foothold to industry and lifted Canada to world notice. World War II widened the industrial base, brought Canada into still greater world prominence. In all this transition Canada has become greatly industrialized yet agriculture will continue as the base of prosperity. Within all the new domestic and world factors what now must be Canada's course?

New Alignment

No short series of articles can go into the detail necessary for exact analysis but the broad picture is this new alignment of agriculture and industry. World trade will continue to be Canada's main concern and the sale abroad of agricultural surplus will remain the central problem. Hence this column will go to very considerable lengths in examining the policies of the two contending parties, Liberals and Progressive-Conservatives, as they affect agriculture.

House Records

The course of the present government in its present legislation and future programme is of course set forth in Hansard, the official record of the House of Commons. The course of the official opposition, led by John Bracken, is also shown in House debates. So in quoting from these official sources, these articles will attempt a fair appraisal from which rural voters may form their decisions on how to vote in the next election.

Long View

The long view is the one most necessary at this time. It is now almost two years since the war closed and in spite of the continuing squabbles over the peace settlements, we have come so far as intelligently to determine the main course Canada should pursue. If our policy shall become clearly defined in the direction the majority want we need not fear the future. Which party has the better policy? That is precisely what these articles are driving at.

Use Intelligence

The day of the extreme partisan should be ended in this country. To "hurry" for a revered leader and point to the past is no answer to the pressing problems of the day. To acclaim a new leader simply upon partisan lines is not sufficient for intelligent conclusions. Getting down to brass tacks and hard facts is the only way to determine how the franchise is to be exercised. These articles will continue along that line.

AUDITED DISTRIBUTION for your Advertising

Good advertising copy and attractive layouts are, of course, essential to the success of your advertising. But from the standpoint of final results the answer depends upon the distribution of your advertising.

When you buy newspaper advertising you are paying for an opportunity to talk to people about your merchandise and service. What you get for your money, therefore, depends upon how many people there are in your audience, where they are, how this audience was obtained, and many other facts that indicate the value of the circulation as a market for what you have to sell.

In order that our advertisers may have this information and thus be able to invest in advertising space in this newspaper on the basis of known, verified facts, we are members of the Audit Bureau of Circulations.

The Bureau is a national, cooperative association of publishers, advertisers and advertising agencies. At regular intervals one of the auditors employed by the Bureau makes an audit of our circulation records. This audited information is issued in official A. B. RECIPES

POINTERS ON PICKLING

The right pickle adds greatly to almost all supper dishes as well as to both hot and cold meats. Pickles are mentioned in Pliny's Writings, as "spiced and preserved cucumbers" and Cleopatra is said to have been very fond of spicy pickles, so the liking for fruit and vegetables preserved in vinegar is not a recently acquired taste.

Peter Piper was more fortunate than the home-maker. He is supposed to have picked his peck of peppers all ready pickled. Pickling, however, does not need to be a heavy task, nor does it present much difficulty if a few rules are observed.

The home economists of the Consumer Section, Dominion Department of Agriculture have definite suggestions to offer for over-coming some of the common difficulties in pickle making.

Hollow pickles may result from allowing cucumbers to stand too long after picking. For success in pickling—only fresh, good quality vegetables and fruits should be used. Cucumbers and green tomatoes are best if put into brine within twenty-four hours of picking.

Soaking in brine helps to keep the vegetables firm during the succeeding pickling process. Common bag or dairy salt should be used. Salt which has been treated to make it free running causes cloudiness in the brine. Iodized salt will cause a brownish scum or sediment to form.

1 cup salt to 2 quarts (10 cups) water makes a good brine. If not enough salt is used pickles will be soft or slippery. If too much salt is used they may shrivel or become tough.

Good quality, clear vinegar is essential if pickles are to have good flavour. Both cider and blended vinegars have good flavour but white spirit vinegar gives better colour where light coloured vegetables such as onions or cauliflower or pears are used. For uncooked pickles the vinegar is used full strength. If vinegar is too weak the pickles will be soft.

Spices should be used with discretion. A dark colour or bitter flavour may result from too much spice. Whole spices are preferable but should be tied loosely in a cheesecloth bag.

Most pickles are best if allowed to stand at least a month before using in order that flavours will be well blended.

Here are two good recipes for pickles. Many others are given in the bulletin Home Canning of Fruits and Vegetables which may be obtained free of charge by writing the Dominion Department of Agriculture, Ottawa, Ont.

NINE DAY PICKLES

Cut up 5 quarts cucumbers. Place in brine (1 cup salt to 2 quarts water) to cover, for 3 days. Put in cold water for 3 days, changing water each day.

Put in weak vinegar solution, 5 cups water to 1 cup vinegar; add 1 tablespoon alum.

Boil cucumbers in this mixture 5 minutes; remove, drain and put in crock.

Boil 3 pints vinegar, 3 cups brown sugar, 1 ounce allspice, 1 ounce cinnamon (powdered or sticks), 1 ounce celery seed and pour hot over pickles. Drain, reheat and pour hot over cucumbers each morning for 2 additional mornings. Bottle and seal. Yield: about 5 quarts.

BARBECUE SAUCE

2 quarts tomatoes, cut in pieces

2 large onions, chopped

2 large cloves garlic, chopped

2 teaspoons Worcestershire sauce

1 cup sugar

1 cup vinegar

1 tablespoon horseradish

1 tablespoon salt

1 teaspoon paprika

2 teaspoons dry mustard

Mix all ingredients thoroughly. Simmer over low heat for about 30 minutes. Pour into hot sterilized jars and seal. Yield: about 3 pints.

SUMMER SUPPERS, QUICK AND EASY

The home-maker who has spent the afternoon canning tomatoes or making pickles, as the summer heat lingers on, often finds that there are no hungry people coming home for supper.

The situation is not improved by the extra guests who drop in half an hour before meal time.

The home-maker may sit down to a satisfying meal that attracts the eye and teases the taste and at the same time be as cool as the proverbial cucumber herself, if she does a little planning and preparation in the morning.

The Home Economist of the Consumer Section, Dominion Department of Agriculture say that there are many ways to arrange this. A boiled ham or beef loaf, stored all ready to serve in the ice box or cool cellar, and a large aid in any meal emergency, for with greens from the garden for salad and fruit for dessert the meal is on the table.

A hot dish stimulates the appetite and adds variety. This may be quickly served if some of the preparation is done ahead of time. Hard cooked eggs may be halved or sliced in a curry sauce or they may become "a la king" in a plain cream sauce with bits of onion and sweet red peppers. Quartered tomatoes laid on hot buttered toast and covered with a hot cheese sauce make a new kind of rabbit.

Here are two good supper dishes one hot and one cold.

VEGETABLE - CHEESE CASSEROLE

1½ cups milk

1 cup stale bread crumbs

1 cup grated cheddar cheese

1½ teaspoon salt

½ teaspoon pepper

2 eggs well beaten

12 slices vegetables marrow (1 medium marrow)

2 tablespoons chopped onion

Scald milk. Pour over stale bread crumbs, add cheese, salt and pepper, then add the well beaten eggs. Arrange the vegetable marrow in a greased casserole. Sprinkle with the milk and cheese mixture over it. Set in a pan of warm water and oven poach in a moderate oven 350° F. for 1 hour or until cheese mixture is firm. Six servings.

This may be prepared in the morning and baked in time for supper.

JELLIED VEAL IN GREEN PEPPERS

2 to 2½ lbs. veal shank

2 quarts water

1 teaspoon salt

1½ teaspoon celery seed or few sprigs celery leaves

1 small onion sliced

1 small carrot cut in half

Place veal, water, salt, celery seed, onion and carrot in kettle. Cover and simmer until meat falls from the bones, about 1½ to 2 hours. Dice meat—there should be about two cups. Strain stock and boil in an open kettle 10 to 15 minutes, or until flavour is concentrated.

2 tablespoons gelatine

½ cup cold water

2 cups veal stock

2 tablespoons chopped sweet red pepper or 1 pint

2 cups chopped veal

6 medium green peppers

Soak gelatine in cold water. Add hot veal stock, set aside to cool. When it begins to stiffen add chopped red pepper, pimiento and veal. Wash and remove seeds from peppers. Fill with meat mixture. Chill until firm. Cut in slices crosswise. Serve on lettuce. Six servings.

Canning Corner

When a quick dessert is called for, there is nothing better than canned fruit. Served plain with cake or cookies, it is always satisfying. On the other hand if something a little more elaborate is needed, canned fruit forms the base of delicious pies, puddings and sauces. So if one has the storage space, the home economists of the Consumer Section, Dominion Department of Agriculture suggest "canning what you can."

Following are their directions for canning one of the favourite fruits—peaches. Being a sweet fruit, peaches need only a thin or moderately thin syrup. This syrup is made in the proportion of 1 cup sugar to 2 cups water (yield, 2½ cups syrup); moderately thin syrup (1 cup sugar to 1½ cups water (yield, 2 cups syrup).

HOT PACK PEACHES

Blanch peaches 15 to 60 seconds in hot water to loosen skins. Cold dip. Cut in half, remove skin and pit. Drop peaches into brine (1 teaspoon salt to 1 quart water), as they are prepared, to prevent discoloration. Drain, leave peaches in halves or slice and drop into hot syrup, bring to boil and simmer 3 minutes. Pack hot (placing peach halves cups down) in clean, hot sealers. Cover with the hot syrup leaving

Pack in clean hot sealers leaving ½ inch headspace. Adjust rubber rings and tops. Process in the boiling water bath 20 minutes for pints and 25 minutes for quarts. The oven is recommended for Cold Pack Peaches.

The following directions for canning tomatoes and juice are recommended by the home economists of the Consumer Section, Dominion Department of Agriculture.

COLD PACK TOMATOES

Choose firm, ripe tomatoes. Set aside the irregular or broken ones to make juice. Blanch tomatoes 15 to 60 seconds in hot water to loosen skins. Remove stem and peel. Pack in clean, hot sealers or in plain tin cans, adding 1 teaspoon salt per quart sealer or 28-ounce tin can. Cover with hot tomato juice made by cooking in a covered pan for 5 minutes the irregular, broken or very large tomatoes, (which have had stem ends removed and been cut in pieces), pressing through a sieve or purer.

Leave ½ inch headspace in glass sealers and ¼ inch in tin cans. Adjust rubber rings and lids. Process in boiling water bath 25 minutes for pints and 30-ounce tin cans at 20 minutes for quarts and 28-ounce tin cans.

TOMATO JUICE

Wash tomatoes, remove cores, but do not peel, cut tomatoes in pieces. Bring to boil and boil in covered pan 5 minutes. Press through sieve or purer. Bring juice to boiling point. A Poem About The Swallow

The following poem has been submitted for publication and we feel that it carries something to think about. The party sending it does not claim it as his own composition and neither does he give it a title.

Beneath the dim barn's lofty roof, Far-off from noise and laughter, The swallow trim and debonaire Has built his nest against the rafters.

Of mud it is, secure and strong, And neatly made-to-measure, This much he has, some space to sit.

A hold for speckled treasure, A young one he, He never built Before this year. Above disaster Upon the dusty rim he sits, Serene, a small and skillful master.

Untrained, untaught in form and line, And ignorant of dimensions, He never saw blue-print or design, And nothing knew about pretensions.

And yet, this simple classic, here—"Bird" built for love and not for wages) A perfect emblem of the lore By swallows learned through countless ages

Keep Fresh Water In Water Trap

The water trap in modern plumbing fixtures is not intended as a catch basin for articles that fall down the drain pipe, explains the Canadian Institute of Plumbing.

Heating. This trap which is beneath a "water seal" in the drain and protects the health of the household by preventing rise of dangerous sewer gas through the waste lines.

In order to be effective, this U-shaped bend in the pipe must contain water at all times. Any little used fixture in the basement or garage where there is the possibility that evaporation might dry up the "water seal" should be run once or twice a month to refill the trap with water, advises the Institute.

Water in the traps of summer home fixtures should be drained off at the end of the season and replaced by anti-freeze or kerosene to prevent damage to the trap during freezing weather. If a septic tank is used, the anti-freeze or kerosene should not be flushed into it when the home is reopened in the spring as they will destroy the bacterial action.

Malone Fair

Offers a great deal in the way of amusements for all tastes and considerable inspiration for the observant and interested. We do envy Franklin County for the evident interest of the young farmers through the 4-H Clubs and Farm Bureau.

The live stock judging was followed keenly by a large gallery of boys and girls. A building next to the cattle barn was filled with the most interesting results of achievement projects. The collection of clothing and art work, also cooking done by young girls was amazing.

Unquestionably all this is accomplished with unselfish aid by voluntary effort of interested citizens. For instance, Mr. George Thomas, past president, Kiwanis, was efficiently managing the cattle exhibits. His wife was occupied as clerk in the poultry division. The building was handsomely decorated with spruce boughs, shavings on the floor. The entire premises are in spotless condition and buildings well painted.

In the vegetable building, at right of the main gate, the demonstration exhibits of Franklin County Grange are of interest. Malone Grange had a first premium for the theme "Grassland Farming" with Standard Ration samples, results illustrated with samples of dairy products.

Burke Grange also had a first premium with the "The American Farmer Your Unseen Host", green background, map and samples of 15 foods, a miniature steamship and train.

Pomona Grange—"Along the Farm Front", a miniature field divided in centre showing right and wrong method of cultivation by the use of toy tractors, men and animals; "Is the Soil Stealing Your Farm?"

Westville Grange: "The Farmer Feeds the World," was illustrated by Producing—12 vegetables and six dairy products; Conserving—by seven samples of canned goods. Sharing—a model ship, Bangor had an attractive exhibit on the theme: "Trees Serve the Farm."

Juvenile Grange of Malone presented a Grange meeting in session with dolls seated as officers. There was an exhibit of fodder grasses and seeds, canned vegetables and honey.

4-H Clubs illustrated "Camp Overlook", with exquisite detail. A mirror lake surrounded by sand beach, with little boats, canoes. Spacious residence where balanced meals, music, singing and handicrafts are enjoyed. A smaller lake by a woods for swimming and life saving. A recreation ground had figures practicing archery, with Indian camps in the woods beyond. The figures in various activities were constructed from pipe cleaners.

At dinner in the new Sansone Restaurant back of the Diner we had the pleasure of listening to the Eddie Brady Orchestra to accompany the excellent meal.

Two New ...

The birth of the Indian nations climaxed many years of agitation by Indian nationalists. Hindus, Moslems, Sikhs and members of others were united on one thing—they wanted independence from Britain. Finally, after several years of negotiation, Britain agreed to pull out completely.

The man who did as much as anyone to add the new states was the last viceroy—Rear Admiral Viscount Mountbatten. Lord Mountbatten, the dashing Royal Navy sailor who during the war was Supreme Allied Commander in Southeast Asia, came back to India as viceroy a number of months ago. He met Indian leaders and it was largely due to his winning personality that the changeover was done as smoothly as it was.

Now Lord Mountbatten takes over a new job—governor-general of Hindustan. He will hold the post until March 31, 1948, when, it is hoped, India's government will be firmly in the saddle.

The outstanding Moslem leader of India, Mohammed Ali Jinnah, will head Pakistan. Jinnah is governor-general of the new state and he may become prime minister as well. Pakistan's capital is Karachi. Pandit Jawahar Nehru is the new minister of Hindustan, a sprawling state with 300,000,000 inhabitants. Pakistan has 70,000,000 inhabitants.

All life in Whitehaven, a dark, grimy town in Cumberland, north-west England, stood still this week as mourning relatives were told hope had been abandoned for 53 miners, entombed in the Sundersea workings of the William Mine.

Earlier, the bodies of 54 men were recovered following an explosion in the 135-year-old mine. Toll of blast victims was set at 107 at the week-end. Only 10 miners escaped alive from the pit.

A survey conducted among United Nations security council delegates last week indicated that the Netherlands will be defeated in its fight to avoid U.N. action in the Indonesian dispute. Most delegates were determined to keep the issue on the council's agenda despite Dutch protests.

Basis of the Dutch opposition is that the council is not competent—under the United Nations Charter—to handle the problem. It is claimed Indonesia is not a sovereign state—therefore, the dispute is not an international problem.

So far, the council has sidestepped a decision on that point, but a showdown was forecast for this week's meeting.

New strife in the Holy Land at the week-end raised the one-week death toll to 20 Arabs and 13 Jews. One of the latter was a storekeeper who was stabbed to death by a group of Arabs in the border districts joining the cities of Jaffa and Tel Aviv.

An Arab death occurred when a military patrol opened fire in a curfew area after the Arab failed to halt when challenged.

Unofficial counts said at least 107 persons have been injured, and property damage of more than 1,000,000 inflicted, since the outbreak of racial strife last week.

C.A.C. TO HOLD ANNUAL WATER CARNIVAL

The Chateaugay River will be the scene of the C.A.C.'s Annual Local Regatta and Water Carnival next Saturday afternoon, Aug. 23rd. The Committee headed by Commodore Len Noon and Gerry Duffley have lined up a series of extremely fine events that should provide a lot of fun for participants and spectators alike as well as a few races that will mean serious competition.

This year the club has made available two fine trophies which will be presented to the winner of the Men's Aggregate and Ladies' Aggregate. The two victors will be named King and Queen of the Water Carnival respectively. An equal number of events will be provided for both men and women and aggregate winners will be determined by a point system, three for a win, two for a second and one for a third.

Pleasure canoes will be the order of the day and everyone in Chateaugay is welcome to take part in the Regatta. No entry fees will be required whatsoever and individual crews will be presented to each winner.

Among the feature races on the programme are the Men's Single and Tandem, Ladies' Single and Tandem, and Mixed Four Race. Many novelty events are also on the card, the Tub Race, Crab Race, Gullnet Race and several others that will ensure a lot of laughs.

The C.A.C.'s Aqua-Frolie from all reports was one of the most successful held in years and the fine talent was a great hit. By popular request the Entertainment Committee headed by Eddy O'Reilly and Johnny Pugh are already working on a closing soiree that they claim will surpass even the Aqua-Frolie.

TIMELY TIPS FOR THE TRAVELLER

B OF M SERVICES SOLVE TRAVEL TROUBLES

Going away on a vacation or business trip? Why not have a chat with the local manager of the B of M before you go?

Thousands of Canadians use the Bank of Montreal's travel services every year. They find B of M travellers' cheques are not only safe, but extremely handy, and regard them as the ideal way to carry money while on vacation. For travel funds in more substantial amounts, particularly in the case of business trips, the Bank provides letters of credit.

Realizing the danger of burglary, many people, before going away, are placing their valuables in B of M safekeeping. Objects too bulky for a safety deposit box can be stored in the Bank's vaults. When bonds are lodged for safekeeping the staff clips the coupons and credit these to the customer's account.

B of M joint accounts permit the traveller's wife or partner to deposit or withdraw money in his absence. The person going away can also confer power of attorney upon a friend. This allows the friend to operate the owner's account.

The B of M can help in other ways as well.

W. K. Pope, local branch manager, has already saved many people trouble and expense in travelling, and is ready and glad to answer enquiries from others who are travel bent.

Metis By The Sea

By R. J. DEACHMAN

I have just returned from a holiday at Metis. Now where in the world is Metis? I found it quite by accident fourteen years ago and made up my mind then and there that if ever there came a time when I wanted a rest I would go back to Metis, stretch out on the sand, listen to the waves telling stories of the things they had seen in all the years since the St. Lawrence first started running to the sea and the tide moved up to Quebec and even beyond—that must have been many, many centuries ago. Start then from Ottawa. Head first for Montreal, the commercial metropolis of Canada, a fine old city. Move rapidly, we are in a hurry to reach Metis. Take a day or two in old Quebec, our early history was written there. What a story the stones of its streets could tell if only they could speak. Now cross the St. Lawrence on the Quebec Bridge, an engineering triumph over great natural difficulties. Keep on moving east. Gaze—not without a sense of humor—at the streets of Riviere-du-Pont, then on to Metis. M.P. was born here. He is a right stout fellow is he's on your side, a nuisance if he's not. Such is politics! Here we are only eighty miles from Mont Joli, from there—fifteen miles to Metis. How far have we gone? If you have started from Ottawa about 500 miles, call it 373 miles if you left from Montreal.

What is there about Metis which brings people back to it, five, ten or fifteen years in succession. There are other places with grander hotels—if you seek grandeur, and have plenty of money! Is it the scenery? No. Like a good looking girl the scene is restful to the eyes, there is finer scenery, but few finer girls. Is it the beach? No, there is more sand and better beaches in other places. It's the magic of a climate which, in the summer months goes beyond perfection—that's the charm which draws and holds those who have once known Metis.
