UN plans to oversee Suez

UNITED NATIONS (Reuters) — UN Secretary-General U Thant today initiated action to put UN observers in the Suez Canal area following a unanimous authorization by the Security Council.

Thant told the UN Middle East truce chief, Lt.-Gen. Odd Bull of Norway, to arrange with Israel and Egypt for military observers to oversee the shaky ceasefire between them "as speedily as possible."

Sunday's council decision followed charges and counter-charges by both sides over a nine-hour clash in the canal zone Saturday.

The decision, which grew out of intensive backstage consultations during the long recesses, took the form of a consensus read by Council President Endalkachew Makonnen of Ethiopia, rather than a resolution.

That way, the council got around a continuing dispute between Russia and France on the one hand and the United States and Britain on the other over the initiation of peacekeeping operations.

ALL IN ACCORD

There was no dissent to the consensus proposal for military observers.

Neither Egypt nor Israel formally told the council of their attitudes on the proposal, but informed sources said there was reason to believe that both had indicated they were ready to accept it.

Cairo and Tel Aviv each accused the other of violating the ceasefire.

In the long debate before and after the Middle East war broke out June 5, Canada, a member of the council, had pressed for continued UN presence in the Arab-Israeli trouble spots.

WITHDRAWS 700

Canada withdrew a force of more than 700 men before the war started after Egypt ordered the UN Emergency Force out of the Gaza Strip and the Sinai peninsula.

When the UN Emergency Force, including Canadian ground and air support, was sent to the Middle East in 1956, Israel refused to permit it to be deployed on the Israeli side of the Egyptian-Israeli border.

Thant said Bull told him 25 officers would be required for Suez, plus supporting staff, and that their nationalities would be subject to the agreement of Egypt and Israel.

Hussein in Cairo for little Arab summit

CAIRO (AP) — King Hussein of Jordan flew to Cairo today for a little summit conference with four Arab government chiefs as UN Secretary-General U Thant began laying the groundwork for posting military observers along the Suez Canal ceasefire line.

Hussein was expected to urge moderation toward the victorious Israelis, and there was prospect of a clash with President Houari Boumedienne of Algeria and Nouredin Attasi of Syria, who have repeatedly demanded continuation of the war against Israel. President Abdel Rahman Aref of Iraq also was expected to join the summit conference with President Nasser of Egypt.

An Israeli army jeep hit a mine on a road east of the Suez Canal Sunday, killing one soldier and wounding two others, an Israeli military spokesman said.

READ FINE PRINT

The semi-official Cairo newspaper Al-Ahram said Egypt would need to know the observers' exact job and the extent of their authority before agreeing to accept them.

These details were left to be worked out by Thant and Norwegian Lt.-Gen. Odd Bull, chief of the UN truce organization in Palestine.

An authoritative Israeli source said Israel would agree to ceasefire observers but not to revival of the truce supervisory mission which supervised the working of the 1949 armistice agreements. Israel contends the June war wiped out that truce.

Israeli newspapers reported that Egyptian MiG-21 jet fighters patrolled the canal's west bank Sunday and that Israeli troops observed Egyptian forces strengthening positions about a mile from the Israeli outpost of Ras El-Eish, eight miles south of the canal's north entrance.

Hong Kong riot toll: 9

Crowds attack US, UK sailors

HONG KONG (CP) — Rioting crowds today attacked British and American sailors outside waterfront bars in this British colony as bloody street fighting continued between pro-Peking Chinese and police. The weekend death toll rose to nine.

No injuries to the sailors were reported. Shore patrols rounded up sailors to get them back to their ships.

The savage riots killed three Chinese rioters and a policeman Sunday night.

While mobs rampaged through the streets, burning cars and buses, smashing store fronts and hurling acid bottles, bricks and rocks at police—bar girls, doormen and managers

More than 340 killed, missing after typhoon

TOKYO (CP) — Japanese killed or missing, following Typhoon Billie's slashing weekend attack on southern and western Japan, rose today to more than 340 as rescue workers dug through mounds of mud and rubble.

Police listed the known dead at 210 with 134 missing and 443 injured as the weakening typhoon drove into the Pacific.

Police reports showed 1,206 houses destroyed or damaged by the typhoon and the accompanying floods. 664 others washed away and 235,734 inundated.

Rivers, flooded by torrential rains, swept away 277 bridges and paralysed the country's road and rail traffic. Some rail services were restored today.

It was feared the death toll would be the largest from a storm since June, 1961, when 302 persons were killed in a typhoon.

Thousands of police and soldiers were sent out to clear debris, restore communications and search for victims.

SUTTON CELEBRATIONS END

By JOHN McCAGHEY (Record Staff Reporter)

Pleasant where the parade disbanded.

Some of the floats depicted changes in education, commerce, and integration of new ethnic groups in the Canadian social structure.

Bands from the guard of honor of Notre Dame des Neiges, and the 27th Field Regiment, Royal Canadian Artillery, lined up the crowd, estimated at 2,500 who lined the streets.

Local Scouts, Cubs, Brownies and Guides joined in with members of the Richford and Sutton Legions, and Les Fusiliers de Sherbrooke, dressed in uniforms simulating the buckskin worn by coureurs de bois.

Members of the Sutton and Richford volunteer fire departments did their utmost to make sure all the spectators were as nearly deaf as they could be, sirens wailing as they progressed along the parade route.

Guests of honor, Glen Brown, M.L.A., Brome, and Howard Graftiey, M.P., Brome-Massachusetts, were in jovial moods as they waved to their friends and constituents.

In the evening the village pulsated to the beat of a rock and roll band, as cats from six to sixty, numbering around 700, clustered in front of the Legion Hall.

Judging from the reaction of the band leader, such a thing as three quarter time existed in the neolithic age. No such rot for those swingers.

Fine-toothsome food inspections by 20 men protect Expo diners

MONTREAL (CP) — Food poisoning on the Expo site is a relatively unknown factor, thanks to the work of a 20-man team of inspectors.

In an interview Sunday, George Pail, a top executive of the restaurants division of Expo's concessions and licensing department, said:

"Out of 80,000,000 meals served since the fair opened, we've had only 60 to 70 cases of food poisoning."

A large part of the credit for this goes to the division's inspectors who make fine-tooth-comb checks of the site's 400 food outlets between 8 a.m. and 2 a.m. the next morning.

The plainclothes inspectors, equipped with walkie-talkie radio sets, check everything from the location of fire-fighting equipment to the size of portions in a serving of pork and beans and the bacteria-count on a cream-cake.

Pressure from Expo to conform to laid-down regulations can range from verbal instructions from inspectors to an injunction closing the premise until it has been brought into line.

"We had special legislation passed which makes a judge available to us 24 hours a day to bring in an injunction against an offender and we've done it a few times already."

One concessionaire who sells thick-cream waffles was closed a couple of days ago because a bacteria count showed the cream consumed by the public had too high a reading.

Food poisoning was also caused by a gleaming automated hamburger machine that one concessionaire put in to streamline his stand.

REMOVED MACHINE

"When we examined its operation we found it was cooking the meat, which was perfectly fresh, at 100 degrees maximum. The temperatures at which bacteria really begin to proliferate are between 75 degrees and 120 degrees, so this machine had to be removed."

These Were The Voices Of Reform

(Eighth Of A Series)

By WALT McDAYTER

To say that Canada has a two-party system is somewhat misleading. There have, in fact, been many "third" or minority parties, in both the provincial and federal fields, and they have played a vital part in our politics.

None of the third parties have ever come close to forming a government in Ottawa, but as Opposition members, they have traditionally been the great agitators for reform. It has been the clamor of the smaller parties that often roused the Liberals and Conservatives into action, keeping them from becoming anesthetized by the security of their office.

Many of these smaller parties were born in the period of national economic flux following World War I. Most powerful were those formed to protect the interests of farmers in an advancing industrial age. They did particularly well in provincial politics. In 1919 the agrarian community voted in full strength to put the United Farmers' of Ontario party into office in that province. Two years later, the United Farmers of Alberta formed the Government in Alberta.

Farmers' movements have had some success in federal politics as well. In 1921 their Progressive party won 65 seats in the Commons, mostly Western ridings. Their platform included tariff reductions, especially on foodstuffs, increased Imperial preference, graduated taxation on income, and Senate reform. So popular was this platform that the Liberals swallowed it almost whole, and the Progressives gradually disappeared from the scene.

In the same year that the Progressive party was at its zenith, another political star was rising in Canada... the red star. It was in 1921 that the Canadian Communist party was formed. The name was changed to Labor-Progressive party in 1943. The red star, even under its less offensive name, never reached any great height.

The socialistic Co-operative Commonwealth Federation party was a child of the depression, founded and headed in 1932 by the gentle genius, J. S. Woodsworth. This party pioneered many of the social welfare plans which have since been adopted by the two old-line parties. These include ideas such as a national pension plan, compulsory hospitalization insurance, and medicare. In 1961 the CCF became the New Democratic Party, under the leadership of T. C. Douglas. It was Tommy Douglas who created North America's first socialist government, in Saskatchewan, 1944.

The CCF was left-leaning, but in 1935 in the Canadian west a party emerged championing both economic radicalism and conservatism. Social Credit was the brainchild of an Anglo-Scot, Maj. C. H. Douglas, and is a party advocating rigid governmental price controls and a monetary policy alleged to be a cure-all for the whole Canadian economy. This party, guided in 1935 by William Aberhart, won the Alberta elections, and has retained power ever since. In 1952 the Social Credit party formed the Government in British Columbia as well. They have made almost no impact on the federal Government, however, and in the provincial sphere have not been able to put any of their monetary theories into practice.

Another right-wing movement started with the Union Nationale party, which under Maurice Duplessis' leadership evolved into a strong force in Quebec. Union Nationale was the zealous defender of Quebec's provincial autonomy, and predictably never moved outside the French-Canadian province. Its power waned following the death of Duplessis, and it was defeated in the 1960 Quebec election after having held power 20 years.

Quebec also has produced its own parties in the federal field, ranging from the Nationalists of Henri Bourassa's day to the Bloc Populaire of World War II and the Creditistes of Real Caouette, who broke from the Social Credit party.

J. S. Woodsworth, founder of the CCF in 1932, was one of Canada's greatest humanitarians and foremost social pioneer. In his 20 years as MP, he fought tirelessly to better conditions for wage-earners and farmers.

Canada's political parties have been much splintered in recent years, but some political experts think a day is coming when there will be a re-grouping into two main parties, one of the left and one of the right.

Jim: "John Crawford came out of retirement to win the Eastern Knockout team game with you, Tobias Stone, Alan Messer and Larry Rosler. How did he play after having been a social player for three years?"

Oswald: "He was quite rusty in the first set of boards but by the time the second set came around he was right back in form except that he played the dummy a trifle slower than he used to. On the other hand his technique was perfect. We picked up 720 points worth 13 International Match points on this hand when the opposing South failed to use this correct technique."

Jim: "It is easy enough to go down with the South hand. Assuming that diamonds are opened and continued, South ruffs the third diamond and plays out the ace and king of trumps. The trumps don't break and, with the heart finesse losing, South is down one."

Oswald: "That just the way the hand was played against us but Johnny used the winning technique. He ruffed the third diamond, played out the high clubs, cashed his ace of trumps, led a small trump and finessed dummy's jack. Then he drew

Rotary sponsors pony rides

AYER'S CLIFF — (Staff) — Saturday afternoon at the MacKay Camp for Deaf and Crippled Children at Ayer's Cliff, many Sherbrooke Rotary club members showed up to afford those unfortunate children a day of fun, and a day apart from the usual routine.

It was the annual pony rides day that the Rotary club from Sherbrooke sponsors for these children. And it was a day of joy for the youngsters, as any witness could tell.

The events got underway about 2 p.m. with the pony rides, on about five ponies. Rotary members and others from the camp would lead the ponies with their passengers about the quadrangle, for a one circuit trip. Then off the pony, to give the next child a turn.

Refreshments were the next order of the day, as the children filed to a nearby station wagon to fill up on the pop.

Then a "pony show" during which one beautiful pony gave performances to those assembled: tricks and antics.

Following this entertainment, the group flocked to the beach for rides in two or three boats brought to the camp by various Rotary members.

Clean-up discussed at Rock Island meet

ROCK ISLAND — The meeting of the Rock Island Town Council held last week was largely attended by representatives of various organizations who have formed the Citizens Improvement group of which Mrs. W. T. Greer, Regent of the Stanstead Chapter IOOE is chairman.

Considerable time was given to this delegation and discussion with the council about run-down properties and vacant lots which are undesirable and in some cases present a fire hazard.

The Council was sympathetic and will cooperate as much as money and legalities will permit. It is noted that the Rock

ST. ELIE D'ORFORD — (Staff) — A fire which broke out at 8:41 Saturday morning partially destroyed a house belonging to Laurent Bergeron of the 9th range, St. Elie d'Orford.

The cause of the fire is not known, but Sherbrooke Fire authorities say that it may have been a short circuit. The Sherbrooke and Deauville Fire Department fought the fire.

Firemen returned to their stations at about 12:25.

Pending legislation may nullify vote

A clause in a new cities and towns act may make Sherbrooke's proposed referendum on en-bloc elections and an executive committee unnecessary, says Sherbrooke MLA Raymond Frechette.

Mr. Frechette says that there are clauses in the bill making en bloc elections and the formation of executive committees obligatory for cities with a population of more than 50,000. The bill should pass at this session of the Legislature, Mr. Frechette said, which re-opens on Wednesday.

The passage of this bill would make redundant a referendum that city council voted to hold in August 7 to poll the opinions of the citizens on these two subjects. The proposal for the referendum came from Mayor Armand Nadeau who said he wanted the opinion before going to Quebec with any demands.

The proposal was blocked unsuccessfully by Ald. Amedee Roy who said that the council members were not fully aware of the implications of en-bloc election and an executive council.

He claimed that the council needed more time to study the ideas.

The mayor pointed out that the problem has been in the air for two years now, but Ald. Roy asserted that it had never been fully discussed.

Manager of busline is killed

One person from the E.T. was also killed in an accident in Maine, while four persons were injured in the area over the weekend.

Dead is Roger Provencier, 46, of East Angus.

Mr. Provencier, co-owner and manager of Autobus Provencier of East Angus was killed Saturday when the bus that he was repairing crashed him. The accident occurred when the jack that was holding up one end of the bus, slipped. He was taken to hospital and died shortly afterwards.

Saturday afternoon at 5:25, Diane Gosselin, 11, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Guy Gosselin of 1414 Victoria Street was taken to Hotel Dieu suffering from contusions to the right knee, but was released after treatment.

The accident occurred when, according to police, Robert Caron, 24, of 2121 St. Louis Street was driving his car south north on Wellington, and hit the child after having seen her, but not in time to stop.

Richard Lapiere was taken to Hotel Dieu suffering from lacerations to the inner lip resulting from an accident which occurred at the entrance to the E.T. Autroute at Omerville Saturday evening. He was released from the hospital shortly after treatment.

Aurelien Leclerc, 24, of 137 Fontaine Street, Magog and Rita Laverdiere, 1072 Kingston Street were injured in an accident which occurred near the Belvedere Golf Club at 3 p.m. Saturday. The former was the driver of a motorcycle which hit a ditch and threw the two passengers. He was taken to Hotel Dieu with spinal injuries while his companion was released after treatment.

The area Oddfellows and Rebekahs were the hosts for 35 on or about July 3, and when they arrived in Ottawa, were fortunate enough to see the Queen there.

The following day was spent at Expo 67, and that night this group slept in Montreal, before heading for Quebec City and a tour of that old Quebec town.

Then Friday, they came to Sherbrooke, about an hour late due to traffic problems.

The trip to New York will widen their scope on international affairs and show them how the United Nations operates, says Mrs. F. Currier, Dapp.

Musk-ox slaughter a poor proposal

It is difficult to see the reasoning behind a proposal by the Northwest Territories to allow limited killing of Canada's rare Arctic musk-ox as a means of raising revenue for a few Eskimos.

The proposal has yet to be confirmed, but on the face of it, should be vetoed.

The Canadian Wildlife Service has already objected strenuously to the proposal. One northern expert has pointed out that there are only 7,500 of the shaggy-haired animals in the Queen Elizabeth Islands, Canada's Arctic archipelago, and there is a real danger they will become extinct, if any hunting is permitted, even on a limited scale as proposed.

The Wildlife Service objections should be taken most seriously by the government. History has shown us how astonishingly easy it is to eliminate a species of wildlife from the face of the earth.

And in the case of the musk-ox not even sport can be used as an excuse.

Apparently, all one has to do to kill a musk-ox is walk up to the animal and shoot it. They are as docile as cows. We can't for the life of us see how this prospect would attract anyone who calls himself a game hunter. And those it would attract are not to be considered sportsmen in any sense of the word.

A wildlife conservationist has pointed out that if the Council wants to bring tourist dollars in to the Arctic, there are many other ways of doing it besides promoting a slaughter of a rare beast. He notes that camera safaris of the whole Arctic area, for example, could in themselves bring as much revenue as the musk-ox hunt is expected to.

In this day and age, the Council's proposal can only arouse disgust among members of the public. If the proposal is the best the Council can come up with as a means of providing the Eskimo with revenue, there is obviously something wrong the Council membership.

Many men succeed in business because they're smart — at using other people's money.

An old-time builder of character

You do not see them very often in this age of power-driven machinery, but half a century ago an old grindstone sat behind the woodshed. A 12-year-old did not anticipate the job. It was hard, monotonous work to turn the crank while father bore down hard to take a nick from the scythe.

Scythes had to be kept razor sharp for efficient work and the cutter bar on the mowing machine had many small triangular blades that needed sharpening. Sometimes as a lad sat on an old box and turned, he wondered which was the worse — turning the grindstone or cranking the old cedar churn when the cream was obstinate and would not change to butter.

The New England Farmer, July 1860, put it succinctly. "Who will venture to compute the number of sea voyages that have been planned by farmers' sons at the crank of some old grindstone, or of resolutions made to be merchant, mechanic, anything so long as they shall not be obliged to grind dull axes on a miserable grindstone."

A lad knew, of course that tools had to be sharp to do good work. He had been told that fact many times. But that didn't lessen his feelings as his arm went round and round with the crank. He knew that scythes received nicks and that mower blades dug into hummocks and were dulled. The work had to be done and he had to turn the grindstone. But when Uncle Ben smiled as he watched and said, "Good for you, my boy. It builds character," a boy thought that he could build his character in other and less monotonous ways.

Other papers say:

Satisfied with Glassboro summit

Those who expected any tangible, hold-in-the-hand results — let alone miracles — from the Johnson-Kosygin meetings were bound to be disappointed. The present dis-agreements between America and Russia are too deep, the outlook on world problems too dissimilar, the degree of prestige committed to different policies is too great for there to be any sharp change in the situation.

But those who believe that much can eventually be achieved through closer contacts, through the use of every opportunity to overcome mis-understanding, through face-to-face conversations, have a right to feel heartened as they look back on the two remarkable meetings at Glassboro. Even though no hard-and-fast agreements resulted, something important — and, we hope, lasting — was accomplished. For the second time during the month of crisis (the first was in the use of the White House-Kremlin "hot line") the leaders of the world's two super-powers spoke to each other to reduce tension and explain their views.

President Johnson is hap-

The Christian Science Monitor

pily right when he says that, as a result of Glassboro, the world situation is a little less dangerous.

It is true that, in his remarkable press conference at the United Nations, Soviet Premier Alexei Kosygin reiterated what may be termed Moscow's "hard" line. Although he uttered no threats (and this bears underlining), he showed little sign of accommodation on either the Middle East or Vietnam. On both he repeated stands which appear to be unrealistically harsh. He demanded that Israel withdraw behind its pre-June lines before talks on any other aspect of the Middle Eastern situation take place. He said that America must withdraw from Vietnam. Finally, he made it clear that he has no wish for President Johnson to visit the Soviet Union at this time. While a main reason for this may receive a tumultuous welcome (which under present circumstances would be diplomatically embarrassing to Moscow), Premier Kosygin's brusque answer to this question showed how cold the chill still is.

In the end, the most important single subject on the world's diplomatic blackboard remains American-Soviet relations. On these relations, more than on any other single circumstance, hangs world peace. In fostering better relations the Holy Bush meetings were at the least a modest success. For this three billion human beings can be grateful.

The Ottawa Journal

would only "take us back to the same situation that led to the outbreak of war."

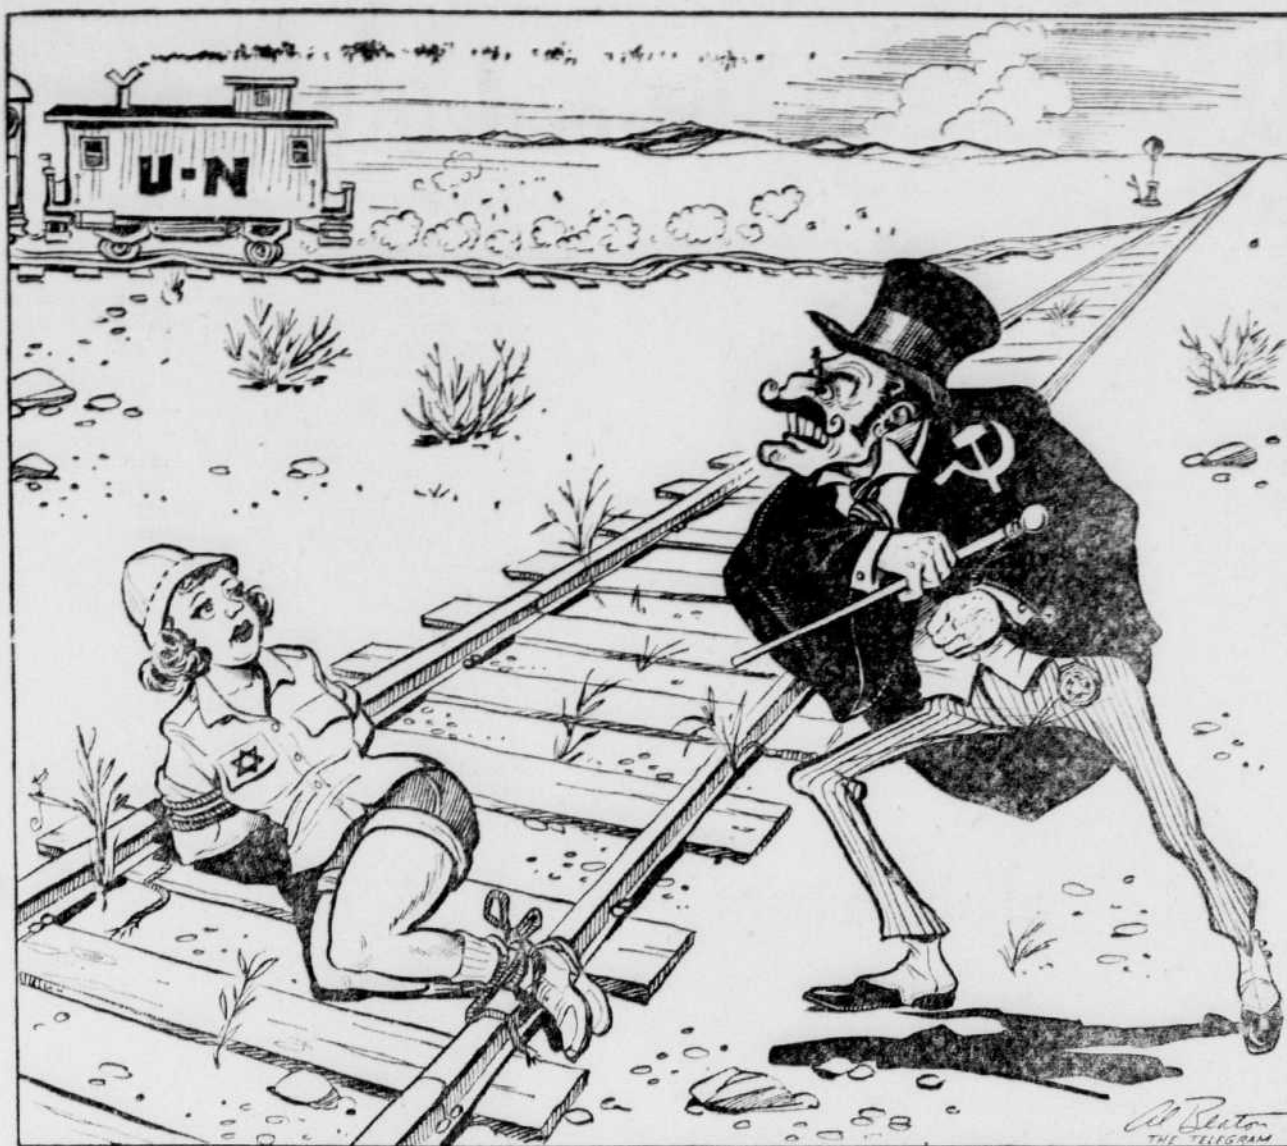

"Military solutions," he said, eyeing Israel, "are unacceptable, but one-sided political solutions" (now eyeing Russia) "are no solutions at all."

Mr. Martin's plea was for more and more UN or other international supervision — of borders, of waters, of religious sites, of refugees, of the integrity of all nations in the area, of a demilitarized zone, of the import of arms. But he made our plea businesslike. Israel must not take "precipitate action" concerning Jerusalem; Russia should today be sending food, not arms; the Arabs must quit their refusal to recognize that Israel is a nation; any future UN force should be on the Israeli as well as the Arab side of the border. Paul Martin has developed something of a reputation as a man who can spin diplomatic jargon into the next acre without saying anything. In this, his most important address in world affairs, and in his hour-long talk Thursday with Kosygin, which perhaps helped along the Kosygin-Johnson meeting, he had done Canada proud and made a useful contribution to UN's work.

UN can't nail western credos to warring nations any longer

By STANLEY RYAN

The war in the Middle East will have profound effects on the future of the United Nations. Many of them will be bad, some very bad. But some good effects may balance the very bad ones.

Some results of the war will become visible only gradually. But it is safe to say that this war marks the end of an era in the history of the United Nations — the era of peacekeeping operations as the world has known them for the last two decades.

Warnings of the "gathering storm" in this field were noted inside and outside the world organization during the UN's Congo operation in 1960-64. And it was not only due to the UN's financial troubles that many observers felt a change was indicated.

The elevation of palliatives, of quite obviously temporary measures to the exalted status of semi-permanent solutions has been the hallmark both of United Nations peacekeeping operations and the postwar world in general: there still is no peace treaty with Germany; Korea is governed by a 14-year-old armistice agreement and Kashmir by a ceasefire arrangement dating back to 1948; Palestine problems were provisionally "settled" by armistice agreements in 1949; the Geneva agreements of 1954 on Vietnam and of 1962 on Laos were clearly meant to be only temporary settlements.

The Vietnam War and the repeated outbreaks of violence and armed clashes in Korea and Kashmir and the persistent tension around West Berlin, have shown how fragile such temporary "solutions" are.

The obsession with United Nations peacekeeping operations as the answer to all international maidens' prayers is the product of neat Western minds and of a Western intellectual approach to problems defying neat Western-type solutions.

Quite a few years ago a comedy, Teahouse of the August Moon, was a great hit on Broadway. It told the story of a Pacific Island wrested from the Japanese in World War II. An American military government was on the island to make it safe for democracy. The team commander, an American version of the immortal Colonel Blimp, proudly proclaimed: "We are going to make democrats out of all these native sons of a... even if we have to shoot every one of them."

This does not imply that the United Nations in its peacekeeping operations followed the same maxim. It was simply demonstrated in the case of the Congo, however, that an operation aimed at establishing a model Western-style democracy in a former colonial territory still deep in the tribal area was futile and dangerous for both the territory concerned and the United Nations itself.

The collapse of Nigerian unity and democracy and the ouster of democratically-elected regimes in over a dozen newly independent African countries by military juntas is another case in point.

Fortunately for the United Nations, this has not been the result of any of its peacekeeping ventures. But it provides more proof, if more proof was still needed, that the ideological medicine concocted in Western political and philosophical labs is of little use in Africa.

ENCOURAGES INERTIA

There is another danger inherent in UN peacekeeping operations of the type we have become accustomed to: they encourage inertia among the parties to a conflict. These states tend to rest on their imaginary laurels in the hope that they can leave it to the United Nations to keep them out of trouble while they make belligerent noises. The disputants have no incentive to take the matter of peace into their own hands.

United Nations peacekeeping operations have also tended to create a state of political euphoria among member states and to promote a highly dilatory approach to the principal underlying causes of a conflict.

Then, when war breaks out, there is endless and ill-prepared debate, and disagreement about which political fire extinguisher the United Nations should use.

It is a long-standing axiom in the United Nations that the success of a peacekeeping operation can be ensured only if the great powers (for all intents and purposes this means the United States and the Soviet Union) can agree.

Experience has shown, however, that great power agreement is no guarantee that an operation of this type will work. This has been vividly demonstrated in the Congo and the Middle East, and has threatened several times to become reality on Cyprus.

It is high time for the United Nations to put an end to paternalistic dogmatism in its approach to peacekeeping. It is too late to treat parties to a conflict as misguided juvenile delinquents who should be made wards of the international court.

Instead of wasting precious time debating an elaborate blueprint for future peacekeeping operations as a panacea for all international ills, the United Nations should realize that each conflict must be tackled individually.

This does not mean that every time an armed clash occurs the United Nations should devote itself to in-depth research of its underlying causes and delay action possibly for months.

The underlying causes of existing crisis situations are well known. What is necessary is that in every such case the United Nations should act with the fullest regard for all the ethnic, political and economic realities in the region involved.

It has now become very fashionable to claim that the war in the Middle East has dealt the already battered prestige of the United Nations a serious blow and that at the best the organization has sunk to the impotent level of its hapless predecessor, the League of Nations.

If the United Nations has suffered a loss of prestige, it shares this distinction with the great powers, the real ones and the courtesy ones. After all, the great powers were unable to prevent the war.

The role of the United Nations in the Middle East has not been decisive. But the UN has at least — as in many other cases beginning with the Berlin blockade in 1948 — provided member states and parties to the conflict with a forum for discussion.

COMMUNICATION CHANNEL

Moreover, the UN is an informal meeting place for diplomats who otherwise would be bound by strict diplomatic protocol. (George Ignatieff, Canada's aristocratic answer to Russia's technocratic Nicola Podorenko, can buttoblend the Soviet delegate and without diplomatic formalities explain what Ottawa thinks of a situation and discuss a possible solution.)

There is a parallel situation with the ICC, the International Control Commission in Vietnam, of which Canada is a member. Although the ICC has been prevented from doing an effective job by circumstances totally beyond its control, it still constitutes a channel of communication, admittedly tenuous, between the warring parties.

If and when the United Nations begins to take full account of the realities in the varied regions of the world and stops trying to nail outmoded ideological credos on the gates of countries in trouble, the world still might eventually award the United Nations the seal of good peace-keeping. (TNS)

THE PRAYER FOR TODAY FROM THE UPPER ROOM

God called unto him out of midst of the bush, and said, Moses, Moses. And he said, Here am I. (Exodus 3:4).

PRAYER: Dear God, we thank Thee for Thy watchful protection and loving care. Direct our thoughts and our ways. Help us to communicate with Thee so that we may help lead and comfort others in their distress. In the Master's name. Amen.

OTTAWA — (TNS) — Brace yourselves, Canadians. If the number of major articles appearing in U.S. newspapers and magazines are any indication, Canada will be visited this summer by far more Americans than our wildest predictions.

The Canadian Centennial Commission has a weighty book containing thousands of photostats of article samples that have appeared in U.S. publications. They include wire service stories in newspapers that have hit the news pages as far south as the News Texan in Grand Prairie, Texas.

But the most impressive list is the number of special articles in magazines. Not only are the more general circulation magazines such as Saturday Evening Post, McCall's and National Geographic listed, but laudatory articles have appeared in specialty magazines such as Bride's Magazine, Mademoiselle, Today's Health, and Better Homes and Gardens.

Of course, Expo gets the big ink as the local point in Canada's birthday celebrations, but many stories outline celebrations across the country.

Bride's Magazine and the rival Bride and Home both have outlined places from coast to coast for honeymooning.

States Bride's Magazine: "It's the time to enjoy all the Dominion's every-year glories — Lake Louise sparkle, Cape Breton's coziness, the far-reaching beaches of Prince Edward Island."

TODAY IN HISTORY

Lady Jane Grey, great-granddaughter of Henry VII, was proclaimed Queen of England by the terms of Edward VI's will, which the boy-king had been persuaded to alter on her deathbed, 414 years ago today — in 1553. Jane had herself been coerced into making her bid by her father and Lord Northumberland, her father-in-law. Her reign lasted nine days before Queen Mary, Edward's older sister, claimed the throne successfully. Lady Jane pleaded guilty to treason and sentence was suspended, but when her father rebelled against her she was executed Feb. 12, 1554.

1951 — Ceasefire talks opened at Kaesong, Korea. 1961 — Former prime minister, Anthony Eden, became Earl of Avon.

First World War

Fifty years ago today — in 1917 — Russian forces captured Haliex, key point in the defence of Lemberg; Austro-German troops driven across the Lomnica and Luvka rivers.

Second World War

Twenty-five years ago today — in 1942 — German troops drove armored spearheads through the Russian defences on the east bank of the Don near Voronezh; 24 Axis planes brought down in raids over Malta; battle resumed at El Alamein; British troops advancing five miles in the northern sector.

celebrates Centennial year

BEDFORD — (Special) — A while one from Stanbridge gala evening arranged under the sponsorship of the local Chamber of Commerce was held July 1 to celebrate the Centennial of Canada. Crowds lined a three mile march from St. Joseph's Convent on Church Street to the fair grounds.

In the procession were the mayors of the surrounding municipalities, the girl guides with their officers Mrs. Fred Tusa and Mrs. John Roxburgh as well as a detachment of girl guides and their officers from New York, who were camping at the Guide Camp at Frelighsburg; the brownies with their officers Mrs. R. W. Craighead and Miss Vicki Callaghan; the cubs with District Commissioner Robert Landon and Mrs. G. Champagne; the scouts with Scoutmaster Gordon Jones and Bryant Cook.

The floats were many and varied. One of the Torrington Company was a miniature replica of the Bedford factory.

Robinson House officially opened

COWANSVILLE — (Special) — The official opening of the Robinson Residence for Retired Protestant Teachers of Quebec and of the Good Will House was held here on June 24, in the afternoon.

Mr. Trasler, president of the Provincial Association of Protestant Teachers of Quebec chaired the program which began at the Robinson House at 2:30 p.m.

Following the invocation by Rev. J. D. McCord, scissors were presented to Miss Helen A. Shearing, president of the PAPRT by Miss Ann Maccheish, past president of the Provincial Association of Protestant Teachers, and the ribbon was cut by the former.

The dedication of the residence was made by Rev. John Peacock.

Before guests and visitors inspected the new home, Councilor Knight, representing Mayor Roland Desouris of this town, spoke to those assembled.

There was then music by Miss Irene McLure as those present proceeded to the Good Will House.

Here again, Mr. Trasler chaired the opening, while Rev. J. Peacock of Cowansville gave the invocation address.

Mrs. Martha Mayfield, chairman of the good will committee and of the Protestant Retired Teachers Homes and Benefits Corporation cut the official ribbon, to open the center.

Rev. McCord dedicated the house, following which several active teachers expressed their greetings: Miss Norma O'Brien, liaison officer between the active and retired teachers and Jack Jardine, who brought a substantial monetary gift to assist the retired teachers' reduction of mortgage.

Hymns were sung after which

Rev. Peacock blessed the residence.

The ceremonies ended with inspection of the home and the serving of refreshments at the tea house.

Bank robber sentenced to three years

SWEETSBURG WARD — (Staff) — Gerard Walcott, 27, Ste. Hyacinthe, opted for a trial before a Judge, rather than waiting for the Assizes, in Bedford District Court, June 7.

Walcott pleaded guilty to a charge of armed robbery at the St. Benoit Caisse Populaire, Granby, August 26, 1966, when $7,200 was stolen.

Judge Guy Genest concurred with Crown Prosecutor Claude Noiseux's request for a three year sentence, dating from the day of the trial. Walcott is serving three years for another robbery.

Albert White, Burlington, Vermont, pleaded guilty to entering Canada illegally. He was fined $50 and costs, or one month in jail. White will be deported by the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, after the fine or jail term is settled.

Real Larose, 21, Cowansville, pleaded guilty to having defrauded a Granby merchant of $602, and a finance company, located in the same city of $310.78, on March 10.

The money from the finance company was applied as down payment on a guitar and amplifier, allegedly sold to one of Laurent Choquette, Roxton Falls on June 17. The posts were valued at $80.

One of the brothers said that they were for his father-in-law to be. Crown Prosecutor Noiseux quipped that "this was a novel way of winning a lady's hand". Noiseux asked for a fine of $50 each. Judge Genest went along with the crown and added "buy your presents from now on." Default of the fine will see the brothers lodged behind bars for 30 days.

James Mason, Brome, pleaded guilty to causing property damage of $25 to Romuald Goudreau's water line, July 6. Crown Prosecutor Claude Noiseux told Judge Genest that Mason had been charged with dangerous driving and disturbing the peace by Sargeant P. Godreau, of the Knowlton Police. Noiseux said that Mason threatened to damage Goudreau's father's property, and made good the threat.

Mr. Godreau said that the damages had been repaired, and body and black top. He is about 185 pounds.

Armand Choquette, Roxton Falls, pleaded guilty to having stolen the money under Choquette's name as well. The guitar and amplifier were returned to the merchant.

Judge Genest handed down a suspended sentence for two years, and ordered Larose to make full restitution to the finance company within three months. "Fools music" said Judge Genest.

Brothers Real and Jean-Paul Belisle, of Roxton Falls, and Ste. Hyacinthe, respectively, pleaded guilty to stealing steel fence posts from the property of Laurent Choquette, Roxton Falls on June 17. The posts were valued at $80.

Toronto Vanier Institution

Try trial paroles for women

HALIFAX (CP) — Trial paroles for women offenders may be introduced at the Toronto Vanier Institution. Leo Hackl, deputy minister of the Ontario reform institutions department, said here Tuesday that work is expected to start soon on the institution.

He told about 400 delegates to the Canadian Congress of Corrections that an "ever developing, ever progressing" program was being planned by the institution.

"We hope to be able to incorporate the issuing of extra-mural work permits," he said. "We hope to have trial paroles and to be able to send women out to take vocational training in the community."

Mr. Hackl said women presented special problems for the planner because of the relatively few women in custody and the great variety of personalities and ages.

The institution has been planned on the "cottage system" to allow for different levels of programs, he said.

Mollie C. Parker of the Elizabeth Fry Society in Toronto told a discussion group the professional woman criminal has little desire for help as her associates waited to receive her when she was released.

"Her desperate need for acceptance makes her an easy prey to further criminal involvement," Miss Parker said.

The Elizabeth Fry Society is a voluntary organization which helps women offenders to adjust to society.

Miss Parker said an inmate who kept up her spirits during incarceration may lose enthusiasm when faced with the problem of rehabilitation.

Quebec architect Jacques Bissonnette, who designed the new $12,000,000 Quebec regional prison, said the architect faced with the task of designing a prison must create a physical environment in which an institutional program can be fully applied.

He said two essential characteristics of the prison are its flexibility and serenity.

Maurice Gauthier, director of prison services in Quebec, said an important object was to instill both prison staff and inmates with the knowledge that in prison "we must prepare for him from the day the inmate enters for release."

He said the policy of immediately granting full privileges to new inmates of the minimum and medium security sections was adopted with that in mind.

He said the policy of immediately granting full privileges to new inmates of the minimum and medium security sections was adopted with that in mind.

SUGGESTED RECLAMATION PLAN — Germain Rivard, a land surveyor of Magog, and spokesman for the ARDA movement has expressed a plan to reclaim land now considered of little value, commonly known as the Cherry River Bog, flooded territory just north west of Magog. Covering several hundred acres, the bog was formed when the present Memphremagog Lake level was raised by the Dominion Textile Company dams, the first of which was built prior to the 1900s. The land belongs to farms and separate tracts of property bordering the swamp, but until only recently was used without question by trappers, hunters and fishermen, until one farmer began charging a trespassing fee. Some thought was given to building marinas on the Cherry River, filling in portions of the bogland, but experience has proven the task of raising the land level extremely costly, inasmuch as there is very poor footing throughout the flooded area. The plan explained by Mr. Rivard, as could be exercised under the ARDA movement, would drain much of the land, which is believed potentially very fertile, and possibly productive.

Garment expert says

Imagination, one of best weapons used in the battle of the sexes

MONTREAL (CP) — Men want their women to look sexy, whether they are dressed, semi-dressed, or undressed, says Darby Strohl, a foundation garment expert whose family has been in the corset business since 1830.

"But I'll tell you something every smart woman knows: Imagination is one of the best weapons used in the battle of the sexes."

Too many women are too anxious to expose too much, said the president of E. T. Corsets Ltd., which manufactures everything from brassieres and girdles to lingerie and sleepwear.

Instead, they should concentrate on wearing the proper foundation garments suited to their particular figure problems so as to enhance the over-all silhouette.

"This is far more appealing to the male than perhaps an over-exposed bosom and flat buttocks, the latter resulting from a poorly-fitted girdle."

The first thing a woman should do when shopping for a foundation garment is to see a properly trained and experienced sales person, Mr. Strohl says.

She should always be measured before buying a new item as the female figure changes from month to month, even from week to week.

SUPPORT NEEDED

If she is in the early stages of pregnancy she should be particularly careful to select brassieres and girdles that will offer a maximum of figure control with plenty of support.

"For the young girl in her teens, plenty of exercise and firm torso muscles will eliminate the need for a girdle and a small lacy garter belt may be sufficient."

"But for the girl in her 20s or one who is slightly on the heavy side, a well-constructed girdle is a must. In this way she will have a more pleasing figure even when she's not wearing the garment."

Mr. Strohl recommends the panty girdle for the heavier woman as "there is more control about the hip line leading down to the thighs."

"Also, the girdles are made from the finest lycra and lightweight materials for easy slip-on. Most of the better garments have removable panels which eliminate the need to wash the entire girdle nightly."

"However, many items do not last as long as they could because our women are lazy. They don't even take the time to wash their bras and girdles by hand. They simply throw them into an automatic washer, often with the children's playclothes, and then are surprised when the stretch goes out of the fabric or it becomes shapeless and discolored."

Golden wedding

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Maskell will celebrate their golden wedding on Tuesday, July 11. A reception will be held in the evening at the Carrousel Room of the New Sherbrooke Hotel, from 7 p.m. until 10 p.m., when all their friends will be welcomed.

Swinging new school uniforms

School uniforms — once dull, drab, and grey in appearance, if not in color, now reflect the swinging look of London's Carnaby Street.

The new line of uniforms, so popular among teenagers, is shorter skirts, shaped jackets, and smart accessories — all in a blaze of color.

Adopted and modified by the Moore-Lyn Division of E. R. Moore Company, the school uniforms are patterned like an ensemble a young lady might find in any clothes boutique.

Blazers, which make good sense for daily wear because of their practicality and flexibility, remain the basis of the uniforms. But they've been shaped cropped, or lengthened into high-style apparel.

Sleeves for the jackets sport elbow-to-wrist patches for durability. Styles range from single-breasted cutaways to double-breasted coats. Collarless Eton styles are as popular as the notched-lapel styles — straight from Savile Row in London.

Skirts are just above the knee, and are an important part of the total British look. Six-gored skirts, hip-stitched pleated skirts and A-line skirts are considered "regulation."

Patterns run the gamut from houndstooth to flannel to plaid. Colors follow the rainbow. Fabrics now include acrylic and other synthetics, for comfort as well as neat appearance.

To top off the two-piece ensembles, a white cotton blouse with a Peter Pan collar does the trick.

Such accessories as tights and over-the-knee socks may be included for headmistresses' and parents' approval. And the cross-over tie, borrowed from the boys, is also available for uniform-wear. The final touch is a jaunty beret or riding cap.

By mixing and matching skirt and jacket styles, color, and fabrics, it's possible to create an almost infinite number of styles. Each school can, in effect, design its own exclusive uniform with the coordinates.

Questions

readers ask

Q—I can buy nonfat dry milk in very large packages and save money. But I wonder how long it will keep in good condition?

A—It will keep well for several months in a tightly covered container, stored in a cool, dry place. But once liquefied, it will keep in the refrigerator the same length of time as fresh milk. Incidentally, as you know, nonfat dry milk is whole milk with water and fat removed. All the protein, calcium, phosphorus and B vitamins remain. Liquefied nonfat dry milk contains only about 90 calories an 8-ounce cup.

Q—Is it safe to eat food from a can that is bulged?

A—No. Play it safe. If a can is bulging at one or both ends, throw it away. Another can will cost less than a possible doctor's visit. N.E.A.

Vietnam war-zone wives' lives lively

The U.S. consulate in Saigon lists 249 American wives in Vietnam — wives of diplomats, businessmen, missionaries and journalists. One is Joyce Nance, wife of A correspondent John Nance, who wrote this account of life in Saigon.

By JOYCE NANCE

SAIGON (A)—When bomb blasts rattle the windows, when the electricity is off, when the water taps give forth only a few drops at a time, when her husband is running around the jungle somewhere — well, an American wife may find house-keeping in Saigon unnerveing.

But once the initial shock wears off and she learns to adjust to a few hundred irregularities, life can become tolerable, even enjoyable—at least to the adaptable.

Of course, she never gets used to the occasional long-planned dinner that abruptly ends with the appetizer, leaving wives to mumble amidst the candlelight as husbands dash out in response to sudden telephone calls men seem to find important.

Yet most wives get accustomed to sirens, low-flying jets and the rumble of artillery in the night.

Stopping can be an adventure, or catastrophe, depending on whether the monsoon rain waits until you get home and whether the shopkeepers have pity for your fumbling ways — an unlikely happening. When you are a foreigner, and don't speak Vietnamese, prices become about triple what they are to the Vietnamese.

Haggling without a common language becomes slapstick comedy.

You scribble your offer on a scrap of paper; the merchant scribbles his. Both shake heads furiously. You start to march off; he calls you back. He writes another figure; or throw up your hands and mark a lesser figure.

If you finally get it for two-thirds the original price you have done well. The merchant has done better.

Buying food is a bit different. By patronizing the same place regularly you can at least standardize your overpayment.

There is no bargaining in the higher-class shops. Prices are just high.

American goods, for example, sell for astronomical prices; a can of fruit selling for 35 cents in Chicago goes for 175 pilsners or about $1.50. A 45-cent box of soap powder goes up to $1.60; a 15-cent can of pork and beans 60 cents.

A dinner out in what was once a good French restaurant can easily cost a couple $20 for an ordinary meal, with maddeningly indifferent waiters. A bottle of mediocre wine—all imported—will add another $8 to $14.

Our tiny kitchen, about five feet by five feet, is one-quarter filled by the bottled gas stove which turns the already sultry room into a sauna bath. The refrigerator takes another quarter of the space but is a blessing.

Visitors to pavilion invite staff to camp

MONTREAL (CP) — A return visit has been made by staff members of an Expo pavilion to the Magog area.

About 1,400,000 visits have been recorded at Australia's pavilion since Expo 67 opened April 27.

But pavilion personnel themselves have been getting in some visits of their own with Canadian families.

Canadian families have been invited to country homes in such resort areas as the nearby Laurentian mountains.

The Australians sometimes find that their trips to the Canadian countryside are an extension of the salesmanship they put in for their country at Expo.

An invitation came recently from a summer camp for boys and girls near Magog, east of Montreal.

In response, three Australians journeyed to the camp with word about life and customs in their island-continent homeland.

CHIEF JUSTICE VISITS

Prominent Australians visiting their country's pavilion recently have included chief justice Sir Garfield Barwick of the Australian High Court.

Two members of the federal cabinet, Defence Minister Allan Fairhall and Ian Sinclair, minister for social service, have turned up. Prime Minister Harold Holt paid a visit June 6.

Maurice West, author of the best-selling novel Shoes of the Fisherman, and sculptress Norma Redpath, were among non-political Australians making an appearance.

Australia's spacious show-house can accommodate as many as 50,000 visitors daily.

Attendance has averaged about 20,000 a day, with long lineups a regular occurrence.

Peace and handicrafts are concern of Israeli defence minister's wife

NEW YORK (AP) — Mrs. Moshe Dayan, green-eyed wife of the Israeli defence minister, twirled a pink rose in midtown Manhattan and talked about peace.

A grandmother, weaver and basketmaker herself, she moved in behind the tanks in the Middle East last month as sort of a one-woman Peace Corps.

"I was so joyous," she said in a weekend interview here. "I went to Bethlehem to visit the family of friends."

She came away with some black Dead Sea stone vases, carefully etched, and the promise of more.

"They do beautiful work, but they never had any government plan there before," she said. "Now they belong to our government. We will work with them. There are dressmakers, olive wood carvers, too."

With the wave of immigrants to Israel in 1948, she volunteered to teach agriculture. But then she noticed the handicrafts in the homes she visited, and she said, linking the two. "Now we will have to get them some wool to work with. They used to get it from Cairo. We have some—not enough, but we will find it."

AN OLD STORY

Mrs. Dayan's concern for refugees and handicrafts is nothing new.

When she fled to New York Friday for six days to promote Israeli-made handicrafts. Sales are lagging at home.

In 1954, she set up Maskit, an arts and crafts firm, with the aid of the Israeli government and the Jewish Agency.

It now has 700 families, some of them handicapped and many of them refugees and Arabs, producing decorative fabrics, jewelry, ceramics and rugs.

Auto men bargain in superlatives

Big union, big bosses discuss big demands

DETROIT (AP) — Leaders of the large U.S. industrial union sit today at the bargaining table with officers of the world's largest manufacturing corporation to present "the longest and most ambitious list of demands" ever laid out by the union.

Describing his goals with these superlatives, Walter P. Reuther begins negotiations between his 1,400,000-member United Auto Workers union and General Motors Corp.

Industry bargainers got their first hint of the details behind the top demands that Reuther has outlined generally as a substantial wage increase, a guaranteed annual income and wage parity between Canadian and American workers.

Both sides admit that the number of precedent-breaking proposals on the union's list of demands could make for bitter bargaining and possibly a tough strike.

Reuther opens contract talks with Ford Tuesday and with Chrysler Wednesday.

EXPIRES SEPT. 6

The three-year contracts between the UAW and the big three automakers expire Sept. 6, just as manufacturers will be getting ready to splash their 1968 models on the market.

Aside from the hefty wage increase the UAW says it wants, there are a number of fundamentals which both sides feel will be hard to reach agreements on. And these are the issues most likely to provoke a strike.

Among the union proposals which could develop into issues of principle are:

—The guaranteed annual income. Company personnel officers say they are interested in paying the details of Reuther's plan, but adamantly insist they won't "pay a man to loaf" or agree to any program which encourages absenteeism.

—Wage parity between Canadian and American workers. The industry says Canadians get paid an average of 30 per cent less than their American counterparts because they are about that much less productive.

The union contends the Canadian-American trade agreement has allowed the auto companies to integrate their North American operations and sharply cut that productivity gap.

DEFINE JOBS

—Lines of demarcation. The union contends that jobs should be more clearly defined so that veteran workers will not be shunted around to duties they consider beneath their dignity. The company says this would curtail the manpower flexibility needed in a business subject to seasonal ups and downs.

—Subcontracting. The UAW insists it should have first crack at a job at a plant if it has the men in its ranks to do the work. The auto firms say that not being free to hire outside contractors to see fit would infringe on their right to administer their operations.

—Voluntary overtime. No man should have to work more than a 40-hour week if he doesn't want to, says the UAW. The producers say that not being able to order an entire shift to work an extra day, and know it would be there, would lead to chaos, particularly on the tightly regulated assembly lines.

Company negotiators in the last few weeks have been the most pessimistic about the strike prognosis.

Dixville Home Notes

On June 30 at 9 p.m. an extensive fire drill was held at the Home by the volunteer fire brigade of Dixville. One of the cottages was supposedly on fire and all children were evacuated immediately except three victims, Bobby Dedam, James Walker and Herbert Cooperman who stayed behind in the burning building and were rescued by the firemen who applied artificial respiration and oxygen.

The three "victims" played their part so well that many on-lookers found it difficult to believe this was really a practice.

Jack Agema, fire chief, invites young people, age 17 and over, to join the volunteer fire brigade as it has been proven, during the last twelve months, that this is a much needed organization.

Brian Grant, one of the patients, was transferred to the Ontario Hospital in Orillia recently.

During the month of June several groups visited the Dixville Home and Gnette Roy School. These groups were from Sherbrooke, Montreal and surroundings.

The construction of the Rotary Centennial project is progressing satisfactorily and it is hoped the official opening will be held during the latter part of September.

John Visser, Gerrit Van der Mark and Ronald Meghin arrived in Montreal on June 25, after spending a three weeks holiday in Paramaribo, Surinam, Dutch Guiana. They were met at Dorval by Mr. and Mrs. J. Agema.

Miss Trees Scheper, an employee of the Home, is being visited by her parents from Holland for two weeks.

Three churches join in service at Danville

DANVILLE — An interdenominational communion service, the first of its kind to be held in this town, was held at the Trinity United Church on Sunday evening, June 25, with Rev. Douglas J. Hawkins, pastor of the church acting as director.

Mr. Hawkins the first speaker, chose as his part of the topic the world need of the purpose of unity. Mr. Austen spoke of the unity we have in Christ, while Mr. Johnson spoke of the 2000-year long table.

Holy Communion was served by the deacons and elders, with the three ministers conducting the service in unison. Those serving were Ralph Perkins and Eldred Marston for the Advent Christian Church, Wm. Clark, of Asbestos, and Duncan Kerr, of Danville, for St. Andrew's Presbyterian, while A. W. Bishop, Danville, and Howard Gibson, Asbestos, represented the Trinity Church.

Mr. Hawkins reminded the congregations of Asbestos and Danville United Churches that there would be no services in the Asbestos United Church on the following two Sundays and extended a welcome to any of that congregation who might care to join in the eleven

THE WORLD OF SPORTS

Second-period charge gives Olympics win

Sherbrooke Olympics maintained their hold on second place last night in the Quebec Lacrosse League as they mauled the Montreal Cougars 13-7 in a game played at the Sherbrooke Sports Palace. The Olympics took advantage of Montreal penalties to score five goals with a man advantage on the field. Sherbrooke, with 24 points, is deadlocked in second position with the Sagat Titans behind the Drummondville Athletics.

Doc Chabot's Athletics gave up their third defeat of the season last night as Peter Donahue scored with less than a minute to play to give the Valleyfield Braves their 9-8 upset. Valleyfield is currently in third place with 21 points.

Going into the second period with a slim one-goal margin, Andre Despard sparked a brilliant Sherbrooke offensive as the Olympics exploded for five goals within eight minutes. Donahue scored with less than a minute to play to give the Valleyfield Braves their 9-8 upset. Valleyfield is currently in third place with 21 points.

Coming into the third period ahead 12-3, coach Roger Despard put substitute goalie Raymond Courchesne into the nets to replace Burgess. The Cougars staged a half-hearted rally marking four goals but Sherbrooke's margin was too huge to overcome.

The Olympics had the last word, however, as John Hansen scored his third goal at the fifteen minute mark of the last period to end the game with Sherbrooke ahead 13-7.

Andre Despard was the offensive star of the game with five goals while John Hansen contributed with three and Guy Hubert and R. Dagenais each marked two.

Denis Dagenais, who totaled seven assists in the course of the game, was thrown out of the game after two periods for his part in a fight.

Serious trouble almost broke out in the second 20 minutes when Remy Fleury charged Montreal player Jean-Pierre Blanchard, injuring him seriously. Fleury was given a minor penalty and the Cougar bench protested, claiming a major. As a result, Carpenter and Leroux received misconducts for protesting too vigorously the referee's decision.

Jim Ryun and Kipchoge Keino emerge more formidable than ever after Los Angeles Meet

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A pair of the world's most celebrated distance runners, Kansas collegian Jim Ryun and Kenya policeman Kipchoge Keino, emerged more formidable than ever after the two-day United States-British Commonwealth track and field meet ended Sunday.

Ryun, the lean, powerful holder of the world mile record, added the 1,500-metre mark to his record collection, running 3:33.1 Saturday, defeating Keino.

Keino, possessor of the world 3,000-metre mark, came back Sunday to outduel Australia's Ron Clarke in the 5,000 metres with a clocking of 13:36.8.

The U.S. men's team defeated the Commonwealth men 245-170, while the Commonwealth girls gained a 125-102 victory over the Americans.

Canadian athletes on the Commonwealth team picked up one first, three seconds and two thirds.

Dave Bailey of Toronto finished fourth in the race won by Ryun but tied the Canadian open and broke the Canadian native records for the 1,500-metre run.

Bailey, who lost the sight of his right eye when he was nine and can't see runners coming up on his right side, set the pace in the first lap, ahead of Ryun and Keino. But the race soon became a two-man affair between Ryun and Keino and Bailey wound up behind third-place finisher Alan Simpson of England.

Bailey's time of 3:41.7 tied the Canadian open record set by John Landy of Australia in the British Empire Games at Vancouver in 1954 and broke the Canadian native record of 3:44 set by Ergas Leps of Toronto in 1964.

Nancy McCredie of Brampton, Ont., paced the Commonwealth to the top three spots in the women's shot put with a toss of 50 feet, one inch. Miss McCredie won a bronze medal in the shot put at the 1966 British Empire Games.

Irena Piotrowski, a native of Lithuania who now lives in Vancouver, picked up two of Canada's second-place finishes, both of them behind Dianne Burge of Australia.

Miss Piotrowski finished behind Miss Burge in the women's 200-metre run with a time of 23.5 seconds to the Australian's 23.2.

In the 100-metre run, Miss Burge won in 11.5 seconds.

THE LAST WORD, BUT ONE—Tim McCarver, St. Louis Cardinals catcher, tries to have the last word with first base umpire Harry Wendelstedt, after Wendelstedt thumbed McCarver out of the game for arguing a call on a close play at first in 10th inning of Sunday's Cardinals-Philadelphia Phillies game in Philadelphia. Manager Red Schoendienst lays restraining hand on McCarver's arm at left. McCarver had grounded to second baseman Cookie Rojas and was thrown out at first. Phils won 4-3. (AP Wirephoto)

Twins drub White Sox twice, Tigers and Red Sox split as Orioles and Yankees divide

Jim Kaat and Dave Boswell, who started catching up with American League hitters a month ago, are holding their own against the pitchers too.

Minnesota Twins drubbed Chicago's American League-leading White Sox, 7-4 and 5-1 Sunday as winning pitchers Kaat and Boswell stroked two hits apiece and delivered three key runs between them.

Kaat singled to start a two-run rally in the fifth inning of the opener and slammed a two-run homer in the sixth while rolling to his seventh victory in eight decisions since June 10.

Boswell drilled two singles and drove in the go-ahead run in the fourth inning of the nightcap on the way to his third straight triumph and fifth in the last month.

The doubleheader sweep left the third-place Twins 2½ games behind the White Sox and one-half length back of Detroit Tigers going into the all-star break.

The Tigers bombed Boston 10-4 for their seventh straight victory before bowing 3-0 to the Red Sox in the second game of a doubleheader. California Angels downed Kansas City Athletics 4-2. Washington Senators swept Cleveland Indians, 8-5 and 4-2, and Baltimore Orioles beat New York Yankees 2-1 after losing 3-1 in the completion of Saturday night's suspended game.

14-HIT SUPPORT—Kaat, who was 1-7 when Cal Ermer replaced Sam Mele as the Twins' manager a month ago, squared his record at 8-8 in the opener at Chicago. The Twins, beaten 2-1 and 1-0 in the first two games of the four-game series, rebounded with a 14-hit attack that pinned 10-game winner Joe Horlen with only his second loss—both to Minnesota.

Kaat struck out eight and yielded eight hits before tiring in the eighth. Ron Kline finished up.

Boswell, who didn't win his first game until May 21 and was 3-3 when the Twins changed pitchers, scattered seven hits before giving way to Al Worthington with one out in the ninth. The young right-hander, who reeled off eight straight victories last summer for a 12-5 mark before being sidelined in August with arm trouble, boosted his 1967 record to 7-5.

He and Kaat have clicked for 11 of the Twins' 20 victories since Ermer took over and are 6-0 between them during the club's current string of 10 victories in 12 games.

SPARKS TIGERS—Pitcher Earl Wilson got into the swing of things at Detroit, pounding a home run while breezing to his 10th victory in the Tigers' first game romp over Boston. Dick McAuliffe also homered for the Tigers and Jim Northrup drilled a two-run single to cap a decisive four-run burst in the third inning.

The Red Sox ended a five-game losing streak in the nightcap as Jim Lonborg and John Wyatt collaborated on a four-hitter. Reggie Smith's two-run homer and a bases-empty blast by Carl Yastrzemski gave Lonborg his 11th triumph against three setbacks.

Don Mincher belted a two-run homer, giving him 10 RBI in his last five games, as the Angels trimmed the Athletics for their sixth straight victory. Run-scoring singles by Bob Rodgers and pinch-hitter Bubba Morton completed the California attack. George Brunet gained his seventh victory in 18 decisions, with a ninth inning assist from relief ace Minnie Rojas.

HOMER BARRAGE—Frank Howard's 23rd and 24th homers and a three-run shot by Ken McMullen powered the Senators to their victory in the opener at Cleveland. Fred Valenzuela won the nightcap with a two-run clout in the eighth after Bernie Allen and Dick Nen hit solo homers for the Senators.

Brooks Robinson homered for the Orioles and pinch-hitter Vic Roznovsky delivered the winning run with a seventh-inning single, enabling southpaw Pete Richert to defeat New York's Mel Stottlemyre.

Saturday night, the Plessisville Braves jumped to an early five-run lead in the first three innings and managed to preserve the advantage to finish the game winning 5 - 3.

Sunday night, in the Als' second road game of the weekend, they overcame sixth-place Thetford 4-2 with the services of big carry the game 10 - 7. Jack Simon Perez on the mound.

The two leaders of the league, the win on the mound for the Coaticook and Plessisville, re- mained at the top of the heap in the Provincial League as they each split their two tilts.

In Saturday's match, Ramon Buduen paced the Coaticook at- tack with two crucial hits scor- ing two runs as the Canadians edged Quebec Indians 2-1. Ped- ro Sierra marked his sixth vic- tory on the mound against two setbacks.

The Indians took advantage of some poor Coaticook defen- sive play in their second con- test. Durocher's Cubs still on skids, lose to Houston, sudden-death helps to decide other games

It was sudden death for just triple and a two-out single by Tommy Davis' single and came across after an intentional walk to Ed Kranepool and an un- intentional walk to Ron Swoboda.

Buchek, batting for Bud Har- relson, who had four straight hits, tied the game for the Mets. Hal Reniff, a Met for only nine days, won his third game since June 11. Then New York won it when Tom Reynolds mered his 22nd home run for- walked, moved to third on the Braves.

It completed a terrible week for the Cubs, who still cling to second place. They trail first place St. Louis Cardinals by 3½ games.

The Cardinals died suddenly Sunday, bowing 4-3 to Philadel- phia Phillies on Tony Gonzalez' pinch homer in the 10th inning.

Willie Mays' 10th inning single drove in San Francisco's only run as the Giants nipped the Dodgers 1-0 on Mike McCormick's five-hitter.

Willie Stargell poled a tremendous leadoff homer in the bottom of the ninth, giving Pitts- burgh Pirates a 2-1 decision over Cincinnati Reds.

Jerry Buchek's two-out pinch homer tied the game for New York and then the Mets pushed over another ninth inning run, nipping Atlanta Braves 5-4.

Wilson's victory was the big right-hander's first since he hurled a no-hitter three weeks ago. The triumph squared his record at 5-5.

Jackie Brandt drove in three runs with three hits for the As- tros and Jim Wynn upped his major league lea ding runs batted in total to 65 with a two-run single.

Larry Jaster was working on a two-hitter and leading Philadel- phia 3-1 in the eighth inning when Mike Shannon booted Billy Cowan's bounce.

Manager Red Schoendienst yanked Jaster and Rich Allen tagged reliever Nelson Briles' first pitch for a 430-foot homer that tied the score.

Gonzalez pinch hit for Cowan, who had homered earlier, open- ing the 10th, and whacked his game-winning shot.

Mays' bases-loaded, two-out single in the 10th inning beat the Dodgers and gave Mike McCormick, 11-3, his seventh straight victory.

McCormick, who pitched a five-hitter, outduelled Claude Osteen, 11-8. It was the eighth straight time the Dodgers have been beaten by a left-hander.

Stargell boomed a Jim Maloney pitch over the right field roof in Forbes Field—only the 11th time it has been done since the stands were erected in 1923.

It was his 12th homer and gave Dennis Ribart the victory. The Reds had tied the score in the ninth on Vada Pinson's,

When did Niagara come into the picture?

The house needed painting. The foyer, new wallpaper. And the livingroom sofa, re-upholstering. But Bill and Alice were short of money. Enter: Niagara. Bernie Faloney makes victorious debut with Lions, beat Esks 7-2

Quarterback Bernie Faloney made a victorious debut for British Columbia Lions Sunday as the Western Football Conference exhibition season got under way.

With the ex-Eastern Conference star at the helm most of the way, the Lions beat Edmonton Eskimos 7-2 in a dull exhibition match before 6,248 fans at Everatt, Wash.

At Calgary, the hometown Stampeders upset Grey Cup champion Saskatchewan Roughriders 27-20 before 12,271 fans with the defence providing the margin of victory.

The Lions, who spelled off Faloney in the late going with rookie Paul Brothers of Oregon State and Canadian Pete Oiler, never trailed the Eskimos.

B.C. had quarter leads of 1-0, 4-0 and 5-0 and the only points Edmonton scored came on a fourth-quarter safety when punter Neal Beaumont retrieved a bad snap and scampered into his own end zone.

Faloney came to the Lions this summer from Montreal Alouettes after the club ran into contract and legal squabbles with Joe Kapp, their top quarterback.

MATCH DULL Neither the Lions nor the Eskimos kept up a sustained offensive drive in the dull match. Beaumont kicked four singles for B.C. while averaging 42.3 yards on 10 punts and newcomer Ted Geraia got the other points on a field goal.

The Lions, who had 13 first downs to 11 for Edmonton, completed 150 yards rushing and 94 through the air as Faloney, Brothers and Oiler combined to complete 10 of 19 pass attempts. Import Terry Baker, the southpaw quarterback who was named the outstanding American college player while at Oregon State, handled the main quarterbacking job for Edmonton.

Frank Cosentino, acquired by Eskimos from Hamilton this year in a trade, and Randy Kerbow also handled some of the quarterbacking duties for Edmonton. The Eskimos managed only eight yards rushing against the tough B.C. defence and 149 yards passing as Baker, Cosentino and Kerbow combined to complete 15 of 28 aerial attempts.

At Calgary, Jim Furlong recovered a loose ball in the Saskatchewan end zone after a blocked punt for one touchdown and the Stampeders defence forced Saskatchewan to concede three safeties.

LAVERTY GETS SINGLE Quarterback Peter Liske added the other Calgary touchdown with Larry Robinson kicking two converts, a field and three singles. Rookie Ben Laverty added another single for Calgary.

Fullback George Reed scored two touchdowns for Saskatchewan, Ron Barwell another on a 20-yard pass from Ron Lancaster with guard Jack Abendschen converting two. Liske went all the way for Calgary and the Stampeders held quarter margins of 10-0, 17-6 and 27-6. He completed 12 of 24 pass attempts for 197 yards and Calgary added 52 yards along the ground in picking up 15 first downs.

Saskatchewan had 16 first downs on nine yards rushing and 219 passing as Lancaster and rookie Jessie Kay completed 12 of 31 aerial attempts in 30-minute-an-hour winds. Kay played the second and third quarters. He went out early in the fourth after clicking on a 54-yard pass play with flanker Pat Brosnan that gave the Riders a first down at the Calgary two.

LEAD BLUES TO VICTORY In the East, Wally Gabler tossed two touchdown passes as he led an experienced Blues side to a 30-13 victory over the Whites in the annual Toronto Argonaut intra-squad game.

End Al Irwin snared the two scoring passes. Marv Luster scored on a 60-yard run after a blocked field goal attempt and halfback Charlie Scales another on a two-yard lunge. John Vilunas, who handled the field goal and convert chores for both teams, kicked a 28-yard field goal, two converts and a single for the Blues.

Rookie import Henry Schlicht and rookie Canadian Mike Martin shared the quarterbacking for the Blues. Schlicht scored a touchdown on a 10-yard run and passed 17 yards to flanker Jerry Bradley for another.

ARVIDA, Que. (CP)—Johnny Hendrick, a muscular mite from Toronto, came to the 18th green needing a seven-foot putt for at least a tie in the Quebec open golf championship.

It was a pressure - putt all the way and Johnny leaped into the air as his sure rap rolled into the cup.

Hendrick finished the 54-hole tournament with a score of 207, three strokes under the Saguenay Country Club par. He had rounds of 68 - 69 - 70. Giroux made a courageous comeback 71-70-67 for his 208.

The principal, Allan Sutherland, introduced the graduates, Joan Bourner, Dale Carson, Judith Cassin, David Conn, John Dennis, James Fletcher, Douglas Frerichs, Sandra Lockwood, James Lodge, Jennifer Lunan, Brian McIver, Judy Mosher, Dale Philbrick, Gloria Robinson, Geary Rothney, Allan Smith, Jeffrey Sterland, Monica Weiss and Michael Williams.

The Valedictory was very capably given by James Fletcher, while the Last Will and Testament of grade XI was given by Monica Weiss and James Lodge.

The RDA Certificates were presented by L. F. Somerville. The Memorial Trophy was presented to Margaret Munroe and the Award of the Mathematical Association of America was presented to James Fletcher. Art awards were presented to Beverly Billings and Debbie Morrill.

Mr. Sutherland spoke briefly, while the main address to the graduates was given by J. A. Turpin. Concluding remarks were made by V. C. Lindsay, of the ADS school board. The benediction was given by Rev. James Johnson.

The grads were piped in by David Appelblom, who has become very proficient with the bagpipes in the past few years.

The following evening the grad dance was held in the school auditorium, where the graduates and their escorts were the guests of honor at what is, through tradition, one of the big nights of the school life.

Present were the teachers and their escorts and a large number of parents and friends, who all enjoyed the excellent music of a well-known band.

A meeting was held recently to complete plans for the annual Vacation Bible School, to be held here from July 17-21.

The nursery, pre-school and beginners classes will be under the capable leadership of Mrs. James Johnson, and will be held in St. Augustine's Church, as will the closing exercises on the final evening.

The primary and junior classes will be held in Trinity United Church, with the Rev. Douglas Hawkins as director. Mrs. Wm. Brockhouse will be in charge of handicrafts and there has been a good response for an appeal for teachers.

Plans are being made for the Boys' Camp at Cedar Lodge, which will be held from July 1-8 inclusive. The camp represents a large amount of planning on the parts of the leaders, and it is hoped that the boys will avail themselves of the chance to spend a week under the ideal conditions.

Mr. and Mrs. Manville Williams and family were recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. Lindsay Nutbrown at Bulwer.

Mrs. Henry Hammond and Mi Marina Hughes, Montreal, and Mr. and Mrs. Donald Hughes, South Durham, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest P. Lockwood.

Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Hodge and son, Gerry, of Westlock, Alta., were recent dinner guests of Mr. Hodge's aunt, Mrs. Della Gallup. They were accompanied by another niece, Mrs. Kenneth Stevens, of Melbourne Ridge, and a great-nephew, Master Wayne Mastine.
