Strike Grounds Second Airline

American Airlines Pilots Out

CHICAGO (AP)—A strike by some 1,500 pilots today shut down American Airlines, grounding the second of the major air carriers in the U.S. on the eve of the holiday travel rush.

The pilots, members of the Air Line Pilots Association, struck American at midnight Friday night.

Negotiations in Chicago broke down with an ominous statement from an ALPA spokesman that "it looks like a long, hard strike."

The strike, following an 18-month dispute between American and the pilots' union, posed a handicap for the Christmas season air passenger travel.

EASTERN STILL OUT

Eastern Airlines is in the throes of a 26-day strike, initiated Nov. 24 when flight engineers and machinists walked out over wage demands.

In New York a company spokesman said the pilots, one hour before the strike deadline, had renewed a demand for a 75-hour work month instead of an 85-hour work month for pilots on jet aircraft.

The airline announced that all flights were cancelled through next Friday. An embargo was placed on all air freight and air express until further notice.

The company said it would keep open ticket and reservations offices to help passengers arrange alternate travel arrangements.

CARRY 33 PER CENT

An American Airlines spokesman said that as much as one-third of U.S. daily air travel was affected by the walkouts at AA and EAL. American Airlines carries a daily passenger load of 24,000. It serves 26 states, Canada and Mexico.

The ALPA said American has offered a contract which equals the Eastern Air Lines settlement pact in money for both jet and piston engine operations. However, the pilots said working condition offers did not measure up to the Eastern contract.

The pilots contend the current American pay scale, ranging from $400 to $1,602 monthly, is lower than wages of other airlines. However, an American spokesman said top pay for pilots would jump from $1,602 monthly to $2,334 if the American offer was accepted.

Adventists Name Ex-Waterloo Man

OSHAWA (CP)—Clergymen from British Columbia and Ohio have been named to the national executive committee of the Seventh Day Adventist Church in Canada, Rev. Walter A. Nelson, Canadian head of the church, announced Friday.

F. Brock Wells of Mission, B.C., a native of Waterloo, Que., was named to head the denomination's educational and news departments.

Armenian Horse-Trader Meets Yankee Bargainer

By JOSEPH MACSWEENE
Canadian Press Staff Writer
The plans of Russian deputy premier Anastas Mikoyan to visit Washington conjures up a picture of a business meeting between a shrewd Armenian horse-trader and hard-headed Yankee bargainer.

Commentators are predicting big things—including a Berlin settlement—for the visit, and anything is possible. It seems certain that Mikoyan, Russia's supreme trade authority, won't miss any chances in his own field.

In its drive to increase production of consumer goods under the new seven-year plan, Russia needs United States heavy machinery. Last June, the U.S. rejected a Russian proposal for government-to-government trade negotiations, with the U.S. extending credit for the purchases.

Union Claims Victory

Costly Nickel Strike Ends After 87 Days

TORONTO (CP)—One of Canada's costliest labor disputes was settled Friday.

Government-sponsored negotiations brought agreement between the International Nickel Company and the International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers (Ind.) in the 87th day of the walkout by 14,800 miners and smelter workers at Sudbury and Port Colborne.

"I can't tell you how happy I am," said Labor Minister Daley of Ontario as he announced success in his third bid to end the dispute.

No one would disclose any terms of the three-year draft agreement to be submitted to membership meetings Sunday. Both parties were believed to have made concessions under a formula proposed by the labor minister.

UNION CLAIMS VICTORY

Inco general manager R. H. Waddington declined comment but the union issued a statement claiming victory.

"The proposed agreement has won new gains and greater benefits for our members and was only made possible by the determined stand of the strikers of Sudbury and Port Colborne. The union is looking forward to a period of stability in both communities."

The settlement was a Christmas present for Sudbury and surrounding Nickel Belt communities where 13,000 were on strike. It came while a third relief depot was being established to assist an estimated 4,000 needy families. The area's population is 100,000.

"No greater Christmas gift than this could have been given to the citizens of this district," said Sudbury Mayor Joseph Fabbro.

The strike began Sept. 24 with the union asking an eight-per-cent increase in the average $2.20 hourly wage, plus 19 other items in a one-year contract. Inco refused a wage increase.

Government-sponsored negotiations collapsed Nov. 29 with both parties agreeing to a three-year contract but still divided on wages. Inco offered gains of 1½ per cent in each of the last two years of the contract but nothing in the first. Mine-Mill held out for three per cent in the first year and 3½ per cent in each of the others.

The settlement was understood to include a $25 Christmas bonus for strikers—the company earlier said it wouldn't pay it this year—and a guaranteed 40-hour week. Employees had been working a 32-hour week before the walkout because of over-supply on the world nickel market.

Weaving Firm Moves To Granby

GALT, Ont. (CP)—Alfred B. Grossman, president of Narrow Fabric Weaving and Dyeing Limited, has announced that the firm will move its production facilities to Granby, Que.

He said the move will provide larger and more modern premises and will facilitate production. The company is a division of Burlington Industries (Canada) Limited, Montreal.

Farm Record

WASHINGTON (AP)—The foreign agricultural service reported Friday that world production of farm products will set a record high during the year ending next July 1. Present forecasts, it said, restore per-capita production to the record reached two years earlier—at a level three per cent above pre-war.

Board Of Transport Faces Big Overhaul

OTTAWA (CP)—The federal government is faced with a wholesale revamping of the Board of Transport Commissioners, its most important regulatory agency.

By next spring the personnel of the six-man board will bear little resemblance to that which has been dealing with freight rates and other major issues since the Second World War. Voluntary and statutory retirements are bringing in new faces.

An appointment confronting the cabinet with urgency is that of assistant chief commissioner. Chief commissioner Clarence D. Shepard, 44, is leaving Jan. 1 to become general counsel of British American Oil Company Limited and is being succeeded in the $18,500-a-year job by Rod Kerr, 56, who became assistant chief only this fall.

The six-man board is loaded with work on railway, telephone, pipeline and other cases, and government officials said an appointment is expected soon to the $15,500-a-year post. Several names are under consideration.

TWO MORE VACANCIES

Next spring, the government will have two more board vacancies to fill. Commissioners Frank M. MacPherson and Howard B. Chase will be retiring March 29 and May 19, respectively, on reaching the age limit of 73. Commissioners receive $13,500.

Biggest Satellite Opens New Space Horizons

By DAVID ROWNTREE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The United States Air Force shot a space vehicle the size of a railway coach into orbit around the earth this week.

The satellite is an Atlas intercontinental ballistic missile that weighs 4½ tons. By comparison, the biggest Russian satellite, Sputnik III, weighs 1½ tons but part of that space vehicle broke apart in flight. In one piece, it originally weighed between two and five tons, as far as Western scientists can guess.

STRESS SIGNIFICANCE

Experts at Cape Canaveral, Fla., the launching site, and Washington were less impressed by the size and weight of the Atlas. What they consider of far greater significance are:

1. The Atlas has a two-way communications system that can be used to receive messages as it circles the globe every 109 minutes and then transmit them back to earth. This method may some day be used in radio and television broadcasting and in radio-telephony.

2. Unlike other g.i.s. satellites that have been fired into space in much the same way as a bullet is pointed at its target by a man holding a rifle, the course the Atlas followed was controlled by an internal steering system. Radioed "commands" to the missile passed through an electronic pointment is expected soon to the $15,500-a-year post. Several names are under consideration.

American Scientists Work On 'Revolution In Communications'

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States Atlas soared high around the world today as its architects planned to again broadcast from it President Eisenhower's Yuletide message of goodwill.

They said it would be early afternoon before they decide about retriggering their talking satellite to broadcast the tape-recorded words.

The next step, when the scientists figure they have enough initial data in hand, will be to erase the message and send up another to be released by remote control as the four-ton Atlas continues its travels.

This second phase of the pioneering project promised to point the way to a revolution in communications—mass transmissions of sound and pictures to anywhere on earth through a satellite network.

VISIBLE WITHOUT AID

The 85-foot Atlas, visible to the naked eye in the southern part of the U.S. on some of its rounds, was temporarily out of sight and out of radio control from the United States as its orbit followed more southerly trails.

The boxcar-sized satellite was not expected to slip back into eyefield from the continental United States until about 7 p.m. EST today.

Roy Johnson, head of the defence department's Advanced Research Projects Agency, figured it would be 1 p.m. by the time Atlas soared within range of four army tracking stations across the south. These stations have the code equipment to trigger Atlas's tape recorder.

ARPA scientists indicated they wanted more precise information on Atlas's travels before they try a new recording. They hoped for solid 72-hour orbit data sometime today which will allow accurate predictions of the satellite's future path during its estimated 20-day life.

TRAVELS EASTWARD

As of latest word the east-bound Atlas was rounding the globe every 101 minutes, 14.4 times a day, at heights from 114 to 928 miles. Its track ranged from 32 degrees north—roughly from southern Arizona to Savannah, Ga.—to 32 degrees south of the Equator.

One transmitter for tracking was broadcasting as intended on a wavelength of 107.97 megacycles, just above the band used by FM (frequency modulation) stations in the U.S. The second tracking transmitter, on 107.94 megacycles, was unaccountably dead.

Atlas at 3:15 p.m. Friday, while zipping at 17,000 m.p.h. over Cape Canaveral, Fla., re-broadcast as scheduled a short Eisenhower message recorded Tuesday and carried aloft in the nose cone.

"This is the president of the United States speaking," came the playback of Eisenhower's voice through some static and fading as in the early days of shortwave.

"Through the marvels of scientific advance, my voice is coming to you from a satellite travelling in outer space."

SIMPLE MESSAGE

"My message is a simple one. Through this unique means I convey to you and to all mankind America's wish for peace on each and goodwill toward men everywhere."

Sub-Zero Weather Returns

The biting edge of sub-zero temperatures was felt in the Eastern Townships overnight after a brief mild spell and a snow storm yesterday.

Snow swirled through the area early in the afternoon and turned to a heavy wet blanket later in the day before the storm blew itself out. Although roads were slippery after the storm there was no major disruption in traffic in the city.

According to the Sherbrooke Tourist Office yesterday afternoon the storm carried five inches of snow with gusts of wind up to 30 miles. The storm got underway about 2 p.m. and ended about 10 p.m. leaving Christmas shoppers slushing through heavy slush until thermometer dropped.

Sherbrooke's Road Department crews began the work of clearing the streets at 2:30 a.m. this morning, according to a department official.

The first to be cleared were the bus routes and main arteries. Work was completed by 7 a.m. by two crews. Sanding and salting crews covered hills and main intersections immediately after.

A Provincial Roads Department official said all main highways were open but slippery. Several crews have been out since last night, he said.

The Bell Telephone Company called in extra operators last night after trouble developed on lines between Sherbrooke and Montreal.

Vote Sunday

De Gaulle Likely President

PARIS (Reuters)—General Charles de Gaulle, father of the Fifth Republic born of the Algiers revolt by the army and settlers last May, will in all probability be elected president of the republic Sunday.

The new president will have considerable powers, more than any titular head of the French state has had since Napoleon III.

He selects and appoints the prime minister (and in practice also the ministers); he can dissolve parliament in case of a deadlock with the government and he "negotiates and ratifies" foreign treaties.

ELECTED BY COLLEGE

Under the new constitution, the president is elected by a special College of Grand Electors and not the members of both houses of parliament as under the Fourth Republic.

The grand electors number 81,508. Of these, 76,310 are in Metropolitan France, 79 (senators and deputies) in Algeria, 1,266 in the overseas departments and 3,853 in the overseas territories—chiefly in French West and Equatorial Africa.

There are two other candidates for the presidency. One, Professor Albert Chatelet, is a freak candidate; the other is the Communist party's Georges Marrane. Forecasts are that the Communist will get at most 4,000 votes and the general practically all the rest.

The grand electors are representatives from all the municipal councils in France and the overseas departments specially elected by their respective bodies for this purpose. They also include members of the Senate and the National Assembly, of the general councils (members of the local parliaments in each of the 90 departments in France) and of the members of the local assemblies of the overseas territories.

RESULTS SUNDAY

The election results will be made known throughout Sunday afternoon and evening and the final results are expected about midnight.

But the official proclamation of the result will only be made Jan. 8, the intervening period being left to enable outgoing President Rene Coty to hold the usual year-end receptions.

On Jan. 8, Coty will officially retire and leave de Gaulle president of the republic. De Gaulle will appoint the new prime minister who will choose a ministry. The election of de Gaulle as president of France culminates one of the great personal careers of modern times.

De Gaulle, now 68, led a handful of Frenchmen in London and Algiers in the last war to keep France on the side of her allies.

Sherbrooke Native Gets 12 Years

MONTREAL (CP)—Joseph Henri Salois, 35, native of Sherbrooke with no fixed Montreal address, was sentenced Friday to 12 years in penitentiary on conviction of holdup.

Salois was one of four men arrested following a $4,500 holdup of a cassis populaire (credit union) last Aug. 12 in suburban Ville la Salle. The holdup brought an exchange of bullets between police and the holdup men.

Last month a 12-year sentence was given Morisau Bozin, 28, by Mr. Justice Wilfrid Lazure in assizes court for Bozin's part in the holdup.

Before the same judge Friday defence counsel sought a lighter sentence, saying no charges of attempted murder had been laid against Salois.

Meanwhile, Armand Raymond Seguin, 38, pleaded guilty to two charges of attempted murder resulting from the gunfight. He is to be sentenced Jan. 12. He still faces a holdup charge.

Army Rule Ends

ALGIERS, Algeria (Reuters)—Army rule ended formally in Algeria Friday when Paul Delouvrier, a 44-year old economic expert, arrived here to take over.

Show Business

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Efrim Zimbalist Jr. is a TV star in a dilemma: He doesn't want a flop, but he doesn't want a hit, either. Zimbalist is the suave private eye who matches wits with Hollywood's underworld on 88 Sunset

Strip for ABC Friday nights. The son of the famed musician also is making a name for himself in theatrical films: He scored as Jean Simmons' sympathetic friend in Home Before Dark. Therein lies his dilemma. "I think it's good for me to be doing a TV series now that film production is so low," said the Warner Brothers player. "If I didn't have this, I'd be off salary. Naturally, I hope the series is a success. But the thought of my being in it for five to seven years frightens me. I think I'd shoot myself first."

LONG RUN LIKELY
It looks as though he may be in for trouble. Because "77" has been doing well in the ratings these Friday nights, and the sponsors seem content. Zimbalist could be in for a long run.

When I saw him between scenes, he was wolfing down a sandwich, which comprised his lunch.

"We've been working steadily since the season began," he explained, "and we're still not ahead. We couldn't get any back-log. Sponsor money was tight this year, so we didn't know if we were sold until the last moment. And Warner's wasn't willing to shoot more than the pilot until the sale was made."

The studio even pulled the wily stunt of making the first show 90 minutes long. Thus, if it didn't sell for TV, it could be sold to theatres. TV claimed it first.

singing in turn groups of Christmas carols.

The part of Mary was taken by Susan Armatage; Joseph, Gaston Vidal; Gabriel, Myrna Armstrong; angel, David Rat-tray. The twelve herald angels were Janet Relyea, Richard An-nett, Audrey Apps, Billy Butler, Dana Cayer, Karen Brock, Ryan Quinn, Jimmy Baker, Catherine Bayne, Donna Pratt, Bonnie Lov-ett and Paul Fortier. The shepherds were Terry Fuller, Ronald Beattie and Donald Nixon. The wise men were Dean Apps, Wayne Wilkins and Freddie Tay-lor.

Miss K. Smith, with the help of Mrs. Duffy, directed all the staging and conducted two of the choirs. Mr. A. Bishop, music di-rector, supervised the music, which included xylophone accom-paniment to some of the carols. Mr. D. Tilley, art supervisor made the three back drops used as scenery for the performance. He was helped in this by the pupils of the senior art class. Mr. K. Dixon, industrial arts specialist, prepared the staging and was responsible for the scene shifting.

During the intermission, the principal, Mr. Somerville, pre-sented the R.D.A. School Leav-ing Certificates to the members of last year's Grade 11 who were able to be present. In all, 20 pupils won the certificates.

St. Francis High Students Present Annual Concert

RICHMOND — The annual Christmas concert of St. Francis High School took place on Fri-day evening, December 12.

The pupils of Grades 1-A and 1-B were responsible for the first item, "If We Had Wings". At the rising of the curtain the audience saw a woodland scene with five small girls and boys wandering about. The children were watching all the winged creatures of the countryside, and throughout the scene they told what they saw in songs. Pupils, representing owls, crows and whippoorwill and woodpeckers appeared. They were followed by others dressed as ducks, frogs, turtles, hummingbirds, bumble-bees and butterflies.

Mrs. H. Coles and Miss L. Mc-Ouat, Grade 1 teachers, trained their pupils, and with the help of Miss S. Woodside, Home Economics specialist, made the delightful gay costumes which the winged creatures wore.

The second half of the pro-gram was "The True Meaning of Christmas", a play in three scenes, put on by Grades 2 to 6. The first and third scenes took place in a modern living room. Four children, Terry Cop-ping, Allan Lockwood, Susan Gregory, and Wayne Rodgers asked their mother, Susan Som-erville, to explain what Christ-mas really means. Her answer came in the second scene.

The background was the stable in Bethlehem, where the central figures were Mary and the Babe. They were surrounded by angels, each of whom recounted some part of the Christmas story, be-ginning with the prophecies of old and concluding with the visit of the Three Wise Men. The nar-rative was interpreted by choirs of all the grades, from 2 to 6.

Stores, Transport Agencies Braced For Christmas Week Rush

The majority of Sherbrooke merchants, preparing for the last minute Christmas buying rush, will keep their stores open until 10 p.m. on Monday and Tuesday of next week, but will close their doors at 6 p.m. Wednesday, Christmas Eve.

Most of them will remain closed on the days following Christmas as well as the day after New Year's.

The exception to this rule will be the food stores, which will remain open until 9.30 on Tuesday, Dec. 23 and Tues. Dec. 30, but will re-open Friday morning to give their customers a chance to build up their stocks for the week-end. These establishments will close at six o'clock on Friday and Saturday evenings of both weeks, however.

Next Friday, Boxing Day, will also be a holiday for the post office as the staffs seek to recuperate somewhat from the Christmas rush.

There will be no delivery by letter carriers in the city or on the rural routes. The lock box lobby at the main post office will be open from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m., while the general delivery, registration and postage stamp wickets will be open from 8 a.m. until noon. The money order and savings bank wickets will be closed. There will be one collection from street letter boxes starting at 4 p.m.

Railway and motorcoach companies are also making special arrangements to handle the heavy traffic anticipated at this time of year, although they believe that the traffic this year will not reach the records of two or three years ago when the holidays fell on week-ends.

The Canadian Pacific Railway is operating special trains between Sherbrooke and Montreal on Christmas Eve, Christmas Day, New Year's Eve and New Year's Day.

These will leave Montreal at 1:30 p.m. and arrive in Sherbrooke at 3.45, the return trip will be made from Sherbrooke at 7.40 p.m., arriving at Windsor Station at 10.10 p.m.

The Canadian National and Quebec Central Railways will maintain their regular schedules but are planning the operation of special equipment over the holiday period.

Disraeli Fraud Case Postponed

Airport Action Nearing

Maurice Allard, MP for Sherbrooke, said yesterday he expects new development shortly concerning the calling of new tenders to complete the preliminary work at the Sherbrooke Municipal Airport.

He said his appeal to call for new tenders to cover clearing and grubbing work was before the Federal Treasury Board and that a decision is expected shortly.

Mr. Allard announced about a month ago that he would ask the government to call for new tenders when it was found that the original contractor, Boutin et Freres, of Montreal, could not complete the work at their bid of $154,120. The member has also asked that tenders for the construction of the runways be awarded.

He said he plans to contact federal authorities Monday to inquire on the progress of his appeal.

Mr. Allard said he had no information about a fire last Friday which destroyed a farm house used as an office by federal engineers. The blaze destroyed engineers' plans but it is believed that there are duplicate copies in Ottawa.

The house which is owned by the City of Sherbrooke is fully insured, Municipal Treasurer Pierre Bachand said yesterday.

The preliminary hearing of two Disraeli men, Eugene Berube and Andre Lamothe, directors of the bankrupt Real Lumber Co. Ltd., of Disraeli, who are facing charges of fraud and conspiracy to defraud in a complicated series of actions, has been postponed until Jan. 9, 1959.

Yesterday, the second day of the hearing, Sessions Court Judge Joseph Marier spent the entire morning and afternoon sittings listening to a series of Crown witnesses give their version of the events which led up to the lawsuits and the bankruptcy of the Disraeli firm.

Key witness at yesterday's hearing was Edward Keeble, manager of the Philippe Keeble Lumber Co. Ltd., of Meekins, Gaspé, who testified that the affair started on July 9 of this year when he sold Berube and Lamothe two shiploads of lumber for $90,407.48.

Before the sale, Keeble said he phoned the manager of the bank at Disraeli to determine the financial status of the Real company. After receiving a favorable report, he granted a 30-day delay for completing the transaction.

"I was paid $9,000 by cheques but I never did receive the rest of the money,"

According to the witness, the Real company won a court case against his firm recently in Rimouski obliging them to pay only $30,000 instead of the original amount because the wood was improperly cut, rotten or too short.

He added: "He owes me $22,000 but he still did not pay me."

The Real company sold these logs to the East Asiatic Company in Montreal for the sum of $22, 000, but the amount has not been paid.

The Real company is suing the East Asiatic Company for its share of the money.

Romeo Lavoie, 36-year-old ship captain, claimed that he received a phone call from Berube asking him if he would ship Berube's logs into Montreal.

"I accepted," he added, "and when it came time to pay me he did it by cheque. The cheque was good."

O'Neil Labrie, 33-year-old manager of the Disraeli branch of the Provincial Bank, testified that before the Real Lumber Company went bankrupt, Berube had over $150,000 in the bank.

Labrie also said that Mr. Berube owned a $15,000 house, a $10,000 summer cottage, a farm estimated at $20,000 plus over 150 head of cattle.

"He is a good customer," said the bank manager, "he used to borrow up to $30,000 at times, but always repaid it promptly."

Defence Attorney, J. P. Brazeau asked Randolph Routh, of Montreal and manager of the Montreal branch of the East Asiatic company, what price he had paid when he bought the lumber from the Real firm.

"Sixty-two dollars per thousand feet," Routh replied.

"Was it a fair price," asked Mr. Brazeau, "considering the market price?"

"Well I can't answer that," replied the manager.

"I am sorry," said Mr. Brazeau, "but you will have to give me one."

"It was a good price," replied Mr. Routh, "until I saw the last shipment. It was bad. The wood was rotten."

Says Granting Of Permits 'Imprudent'

ALMA, Que. (CP)—A union spokesman has said "imprudence" in the Quebec government's granting of mineral exploration permits helps cause layoffs like the one affecting 650 Aluminum Company of Canada workers in the area.

Gilles Trudel, president of the National Metal Traders' Federation (CCCL) local representing workers at Alcan's Isle-Maligne and Arvida plants, said in a statement:

"The present economic situation amply proves the necessity of forming an advisory committee to direct explorations."

Last Wednesday Alcan, a big employer in this Lake St. John district 125 miles north of Quebec City, laid off 500 workers at Arvida and 150 at Isle-Maligne. The company said the cut was necessary because several months' supply of aluminum had been stockpiled.

Mr. Trudel said the Quebec government recently granted British Aluminum Limited an exploration permit for the Bale Comeau area. "Was this not an imprudent measure, a step toward glutting a market already sufficiently supplied at the time?"

"This policy of imprudence has precisely the effect of causing economic disturbances entailing the scourge affecting us now—unemployment and all the misery it brings," he said.

Special Carol Services In Local Churches Mark Christmas Week Opening

Special services marking the Christmas season will begin this Sunday in churches in the city and district when the story of the birth of Jesus Christ will be recalled in story and in well-loved carols and hymns.

ANGELIC CHURCHES

The Service of the Nine Lessons and Carols will be held in two of the Anglican churches, the Church of the Advent and St. George's Church, Lennoxville. One of the oldest congregational services in the church, it consists of a series of nine lessons from Holy Scripture, from the fall of man to the redemption. Both candlelight services will begin at 7 p.m. At St. George's the lessons will be read by nine members of the Men's Club while at the Church of the Advent representatives of each organization from the Sunday School up will take part.

St. George's is also holding the children's Christmas service at 10 a.m. in the morning.

St. Peter's will hold its annual carol service at 7:30 p.m., and under the direction of Morris C. Austin, organist and choirmaster, the choir will render Handel's "And the Glory of the Lord," and the lesser known carols, "As I Sat on a Sunny Bank" (17th century English), "Song of the Crib" (15th century German), "Waking Time" (18th century French) and "Ding-Dong! Merrily on High" (16th century French) as well as familiar hymns in which the congregation will join. The boy chorists will sing "Unto Us a Boy is Born" and the Junior Girls' Choir will render a number of carols including three by Kenneth Meek, "Sleep, Sweet Babe"; "Jesus of a Maiden Thou Wast Born" and "A Babe Is Born."

BAPTIST CHURCH

At the Sherbrooke Baptist Church a special service will be held at 7:30 p.m., of song, story and film strip entitled "Joseph and the Nativity" which will be rendered by the choir.

PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

The carol service at St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church will take place at 4 p.m. and a number of singers from various city choirs will be assisting members of St. Andrew's choir in the following selections:

"Birthday of a King," Neldinger; "Good Christian Men, Rejoice"; "While Shepherds Watched Their Flocks," Smart; "Lo, How a Rose"; "We Three Kings"; "Gesu Bambino," Pietro Non; "Angels We Have Heard on High" and "Glad Tidings of Great Joy," Simper. The composition "O Zion Hast, Thy Mission High Fulfilling" will be rendered by a quartette during the ceremony of the lighting of the candles and the congregation will unite with the choir in the singing of several well-known carols.

GRACE CHAPEL

Evangelist Bram Reed of Peterboro, Ont., will be the special speaker at the Christmas service to be held at Grace Chapel Sunday evening at 7. Familiar Christmas music will be featured.

UNITED CHURCHES

A candlelight carol service will be held at 4 p.m. at Sangster Memorial Church and special music for the occasion has been prepared by the choir.

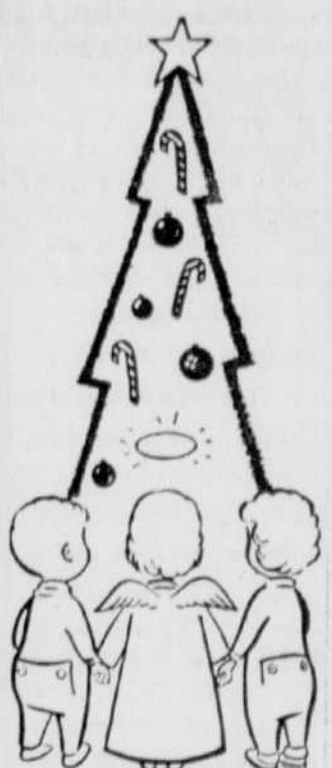

Both Trinity and Plymouth Church are holding the annual C.G.I.T. Vesper Service when the teen-age girls of this organization, dressed in their middie costumes, sing the familiar Christmas hymns and join in the readings and prayers. The climax of the service comes with the lighting of three candles to symbolize the meaning of the C.G.I.T. purpose. Members of the congregation are invited to attend these services. The one at Trinity will be held at 7:30 p.m., while the Candlelight Drama at Plymouth is one half hour earlier at 7.

Proud Of Role

Canada Plays Major Part At UN Assembly

Howard Graffey, MP for Brome-Missisquoi, was a member of the Canadian delegation at the recently-concluded session of the United Nations General Assembly. In a previous article, he wrote about the people he met there. In this second article, written specially for the Sherbrooke Record, he discusses Canada's role in the United Nations.

By Howard Graffey, MP
Canadians should be rightfully proud of the part Canada has played and is playing at the U.N. Under modern conditions, the middle and smaller powers have a role of definite importance to play. Canada finds itself in a unique position, often interpreting the old world to the new and the new to the old. This goes-between function, nevertheless, should never mean that we don't have our own well defined stand on any major issue.

Yet, when the major powers become deadlocked, it is often the smaller countries which can negotiate and come up with a solution. As one Swedish correspondent remarked to me "Small powers don't necessarily mean small ideas."

After Canada had spoken on the question of disarmament in the Political Committee, — the head of the British delegation approached me outside the conference room and said "That was a good speech by your Secretary of State," and he touched upon so many matters that can better be mentioned by you than us." Circumstances give us the chance to play a peace-making role which is often denied the Great Powers, and while they gain much of the publicity at the U.N., no country remains unaffected by modern world events, nor can they remain aloof from the current inter-play of International politics.

The very forces which were and are at play in making Canadian Confederation a realization, now can create for us a most significant role on the International stage. What other country has experienced our history of federal-provincial conferences? Understanding compromise has keystoned so many of the problems which had to be solved, and problems which remain to be solved along the road to nationhood. These same qualities well equip Canada to play her part at the U.N., even if we must realize that "compromise" should never be overstressed under present conditions.

A great number of nations wish to remain uncommitted to the East or West. It is so important that we capture their imagination by "good example," — but too much emphasis should not be placed on "a struggle" to line them up with the Western camp, for it's more than possible that they have their own unique destiny to follow.

When parents separate and quarrel while arguing in public over the custody of the children, frequently the latter back away and seek their own home and way of life. I couldn't help but feel that many of us in the West, tend to look upon the U.N. as an intellectual proposition; whereas the citizens of many countries, who have seen tyranny at first hand, deeply feel and deeply believe in the principles that must soon be put into practice.

As world communications become even faster and the real horrors of any third world war become even more apparent — today's "theory of life" will have to become tomorrow's "facts of life," and the U.N. will have some teeth in it. So my mind wandered back to the early days of Parliamentary History, and I wondered what Westminster looked like at that time. Then I realized that, while the U.N. passed resolution after resolution — which were so often disregarded by member countries; — perhaps here the procedural customs and practices were evolving which ultimately would form the basis of a new type of government where decisions would have to be respected if civilization as we know it — is to survive. Maybe we shall have to avoid calling it a government, and certainly the present voting and "veto" system leaves much to be desired. Nevertheless, these conditions are not necessarily permanent and no doubt peace and future demands will dictate change.

Another lasting impression I took away with me — relates to the Secretary General, himself. You cannot help but notice his earnestness of purpose, and a most interesting development has taken place about his office. As a third party, he represented the United Nations in the Middle East dispute, and did so much to better the situation. Thus the office of the Secretary General can often be used as a negotiating force, and as long as men of Mr. Hammarskjöld's calibre occupy the position, — it is to be hoped that this will prove to be an interesting and useful experiment.

On the last day of my U.N. trip, I walked down the long halls of the General Assembly building. Somehow or other, it wasn't hard to sense a feeling of faith in the United Nations. I passed by men and women who had dedicated a great part of their lives to its principles; men and women who, with the wisdom of the ages, know that man has his part to play in the triumph of eternal principles and ideals. They realize that in this brief period of history, we are confronted with a task that must be faced up to, and one which "will" be solved.

With this feeling of optimism I returned home — home to a country which is a comparatively young member of the family living together on the banks of the East River. Yet, it seems to be a most welcome member; one which should bring those qualities of optimism and imagination to a living room which is sometimes sad and to a household which too frequently loses its sense of humor.

No Easy Road To Berlin

The North Atlantic powers have rightly defied Soviet threats to evict Britain, France and the United States from West Berlin. But following hard on the heels of this defiance came Soviet manoeuvring for high level talks with the Americans, with a possible visit to Washington by Premier Khrushchev. This certainly deadens the impact of the Western stand.

It may all be part of the Soviet strategy of keeping the world guessing. However, it appears to be still unsettled how the West would deal with a genuine Soviet effort to block the ground route to West Berlin, if such an effort developed.

The West has said it will not accept the substitution of East German for Russian control over the access route and the check points 110 miles west of Berlin. The Russians, on their part, insist that they will hand over this supervision if the West refuses to get out and make Berlin a "free city."

If the impasse develops, what then? The simplest, yet costliest, solution would be an airlift such as was used 10 years ago.

Some people, however, say the West should force a ground passage. This means blasting through check points in tanks. Soviet warnings that this would mean World War III may not be serious. But even if they were as anxious as the West to keep the dispute local, it would not be an easy position for the West to maintain.

The West would have to hold a 110-mile highway through hostile territory. This means establishing a 220-mile front with no depth. The road would be subject to attack and sabotage at every point. All the Communists would have to do to make the road useless would be to blow up a few bridges.

The ground alternative is a tough one, calling for a most difficult type of military campaign. It would not be just a question of pushing past the check points and racing for Berlin.

The war that would develop over Berlin might be limited, but it would be a war nonetheless. The new development in Soviet cold war strategy may reflect the Russian fear that such a war could not be kept within limits.

Education And Highway Safety

Once again, groups working in the interest of public safety have launched their annual campaign to cut down the toll of highway tragedies during the holiday season. The important results of six years of activity in this respect are shown by statistics which point out that December — once the deadliest traffic month — now ranks seventh in highway deaths.

But, says the Canadian Highway Safety Conference, scores of traffic accidents in which thousands of persons get hurt still mar the holiday season. And this year, with many Canadians taking a four-day weekend at both Christmas and New Year's the toll could run higher than usual — unless motorists and pedestrians make an extra effort to stay alert.

Being sufficiently alert while driving is difficult at all times, but it is even more so during the festive season when more parties, late hours, extra shopping and home-for-the-holiday travel are added to the usual problems of traffic and weather.

Five pointers on "How to Survive the Holidays on the Highways" have been advanced by the American Association of Motor Vehicle Administrators, of which most Canadian commissioners of motor vehicles are members. They suggest:

Obey all traffic regulations, and particularly speed laws. You don't have to go to the limit. Casualties drop with the speed.

Don't drive when you are tired or sleepy; don't exhaust yourself with an impossible driving schedule. Drive for safety, not distance.

On trips, stop every few hours for a coffee-break; and have a cup or two before driving home from that holiday party.

Keep the car well-ventilated and talk with other passengers; if you're too drowsy, pull off the road and take a brief rest.

Alcohol and gasoline make a deadly mixture. Keep them apart and keep on living.

This And That

It's a small world still despite the advent of the space age. The latest adventurous exploit of man involves, not a flight to the moon, but three men and a woman drifting across the ocean in a balloon called, appropriately enough, "The Small World." They hope to retrace Columbus' route from the Canary Islands to the West Indies. It shows that it's the size of the spirit, not the complexity of the vehicle, that counts.

After a look at the cost of living figures, it is safe to conclude that the only thing going down these days is the temperature.

The old expression "you can't take it with you" doesn't mean as much these days when you can't even hold on to it while you're here.

Some people can read women like a book, but they can't shut them up as easily.

QUEEN DISCARD SEALS BIG SLAM

Here is another interesting hand from Milton Unger of New York. Apparently he was not going to be criticized for missing a grand slam and his redouble of the seven diamond contract was sheer audacity.

West opened the king of clubs and Milton decided that the double was based on great length in clubs and that he would have to look to the heart suit if he wanted to bring home the hand. Of course, if his trumps had been all high he could have gone the cross ruff route, but he missed the ten and eight.

Saturday's Sermon:

Christmas Kindness

By Rev. B. S. Murray, M. A.

There is a "feel" of Kindness in the air as we approach Christmas. In such an atmosphere, grudges and wrongs laid up from bygone days soften. Instead of carrying this all-too-heavy excess baggage there are voices bidding us to "be kind to thyself leaving nothing to mend when Christmas comes. Wise indeed are they who obey this annual "wake" up bugle call and forthwith prepare their hearts for the coming of Jesus our Emmanuel.

Don't you think we need such a period to soften our hearts and make them more kindly, generous and self-forgetful? Robert Louis Stevenson once said that it was the history of our kindnesses that alone make the world tolerable, and the one splendid thing about Christmas time is that it adds so much to the sum total of that history.

CHRIST THE CENTRE

At the centre of this Festival of Kindness stands Christ. It is His feast. His "mass". His birthday. And when we think about His coming, we naturally think of the kindness and love of His Father in giving His only Son to be born as at this time for us; whereby the operation of the Holy Ghost, was made very Man of the substance of the Virgin Mary His mother; and that without spot of sin, to make us clean from ALL sin.

Furthermore, when with the child-heart, the Christ-heart, the heart that wonders, trusts and loves, we gather around "the manger lowly" there wells within us the desire to match this Divine kindness of heart, this loving kindness, with gracious, loving kindly deeds performed so that God may in all things be glorified (1 Peter 4:11).

BE KIND

Strangely enough doctors today prescribe this art of kindness, this hobby if you will, of being kind as a cure for "nerves" and that tired feeling. Did not that great man Lord Baden-Powell of Boy Scout fame recommend the doing of a good deed each day so as to give tone to, and "make" that day?

In the first century, Paul the Apostle prescribed the same art, the same hobby when he recommended the Christians to be kind one to another, affectionate, helping each other by giving comfort - that is, not soothing syrup but strength. To give ourselves, to forgive others and to live with thanksgiving is the complete Pauline formula (Eph. 4:32).

Long before Paul, God inaugurated this art in Old Testament Times (Micah 6:8). Ever since, the Bible has been advocating it. Life today still demands it. Ministers of religion, social workers and all those who in various ways feel the pulse of their fellow man, tell us that the one great trouble with this world is that people are loved "less" than they deserve and need. I am aware of that minority who insist that kindness consists in loving people more than they deserve. Perhaps. Personally I prefer the Policy of Kindness which the Church issues and blesses at Christmas, a policy when carried forward into the other 364 or 365 days will make us both as individuals and as individuals-writ-large - the nation "mightier yet". Then and only then will we be a joyful, happy, prosperous people here in this green and pleasant land of Canada, - an earnest of the joy that waits in the Canada-that-is-above.

JOY DIVINE

Joy divine, my brethren, is a major need of our nervous, out-of-joint, tired old world. But it must be a joy which has as one of its basics, kindness. And such a joy arises from the conviction that God is with us and we are with Him. So, generated within, it is cumulative and not dissipating in its effect producing that inner harmony which remains throughout the year. If, perchance, you have not as yet experienced this special brand of spiritual joy known only to the converted children of God, will you not see to it that the acquisition thereof will be your gift to yourself. You can rest assured that your life henceforth will be enriched with the accent on beauty and usefulness.

Others especially the least, the last and the lost will accordingly feel the impact of this changed thinking. So that others may share in this life anew under the sway of the new-born King and enjoy life abundant, we dedicate ourselves afresh. It is up to us. To you. To me. For God expects us to be kind and useful remembering at all times and in all places that what we think and do make us what we are.

IN HIS NAME

Tennyson who probed the human heart once penned that kind hearts are more than coronets. For, from these kind hearts come forth kind words which inspire and uphold both in sunny and grey days. Aware also that unkind words crush and blight, let us endeavour to specialise in using only words which bear the imprint and merit the approval of Him, Who is named THE WORD, Christ "The Word who became flesh and blood and lived for a while among us abounding in blessing and truth (John 1:14). Emmanuel! God with us!

"In His Name" let us use words. So, too, our deeds should reflect the spirit of the kindest Shepherd, the gentle and sweet Jesus Who gave without counting the cost. Like Him, we, too, can brighten the corner where we are by being kind to those who are in need of a kindly word or a helping hand—the lonely, the aged, those who mourn, the sick, the handicapped, the unloved and uncared for.

If, perchance, there happens to be a humble and inconspicuous family who are having a rough time of it and children without the wherewithal to have a merry Christmas, do remember them

ON WRONG FLOOR

(Windsor Daily Star)

It's a queer thing how the best of plans can go astray, with humiliating results. It often happens at official openings of buildings or other projects, which have been planned meticulously.

An example occurred in the new hospital at Woodside, Nova Scotia. Lieutenant-Governor E. C. Plow, no less, was being shown through. Officials were particularly proud of unbreakable glass windows, and gave a nurse a cane to prove the point. She gave a pane a rap and it fell in shattered pieces. It just so happened they were on a floor where the windows were breakable.

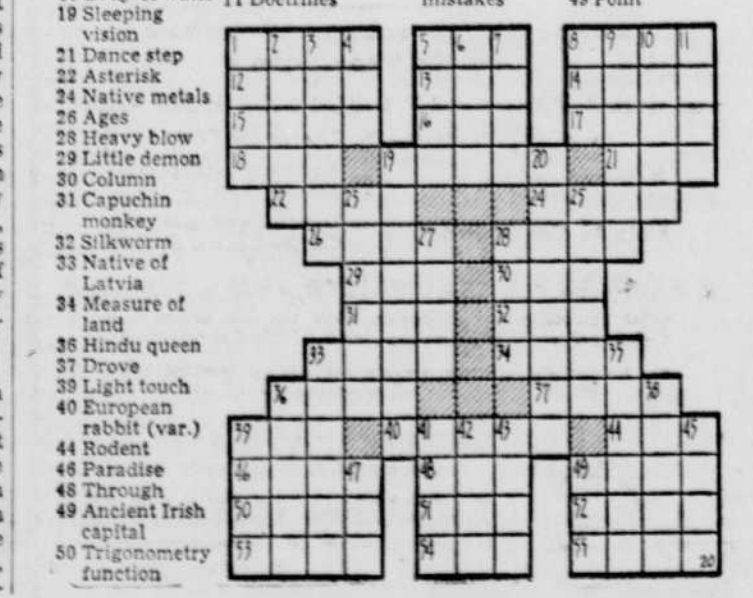

Sometimes we suspect gremlins are at work, little unseen fellows with a fine sense of humor. How else explain all these curious happenings—unless it be just plain human stupidity!

What Recession?

Gerald Waring REPORTING

OTTAWA — The government's inducements to influence the cream of the electronic DPs against emigrating to the States are proving about as enticing as a soggy sandwich.

The treasury put up a little less than $2 millions to keep about 200 of the best electronic brains on payroll while alternate work was being found for them. These are men displaced by the air defence program cutbacks on Sept. 24.

This save-the-brains program will expire on March 24. And the question in the mind of every electronics engineer and technician on the emergency payroll is, "What then?"

The reaction of a great many is that they have no intention of staying on until March 24 at temporary, work-making jobs and risk being dumped on a saturated market at that time.

The government's difficulty in meeting this situation is that it and the armed forces are beset by great gobs of uncertainty about what they should do or can do to ensure maximum effectiveness of the country's defences.

It isn't just the question of the CF-105. Or even the guess work of long range defence planning.

It embraces decisions concerning SAGE, the $40 millions electronic computer needed to control defensive air battles. SAGE for use with missiles like the Bomarc which has been promised the RCAF would be in different configuration from SAGE used with manned interceptors. But the real stopper is the uncertainty over whether to proceed with installation or the tube-powered SAGE model now used by the USAF, or whether to wait for the better transistor-powered SAGE model being developed for the USAF.

Dare we wait?

It embraces integration of Canada's industry with that of the U.S. Are the Americans going to agree to put Canadian companies on all fours with US companies in bidding on contracts for continental defence? Rumor is that they are. But this will entail waiving the Buy American Act so far as Canada is concerned — action which would be likely to trigger the strongest protests from American companies engaged in defence production.

Without such American action, defence production integration could hardly be attained, and Canadian industry would have little prospect of using more than a few of the experts that it and the government are trying to hold in Canada.

In this situation, the armed forces and the Department of Defence Production haven't been able to lay down programs with built-in assurances of long term employment for the electronic DPs. So the knowhow that Canada should conserve for purposes of future industrial development as well as immediate defence production is trickling southwards like sand in an hour glass.

The word that Canadian electronics experts could be had in substantial quantity for from $10,000 to $18,000 a year has brought representatives of dozens of US firms to Canada in search of Canadian signatures on employment contracts.

"Couple of men arrived in Montreal last week from companies I'd never heard of before," an official told me.

So unless the government comes up with a number of firm, long-term projects in the next month to six weeks that will recreate demand for electronic knowhow in the labor market, the rescue operation will fail. It will only have provided weekly pay cheques during the time it took the electronic DPs to latch onto good in the States.

ARE WE CHEATED?

(Ottawa Journal)

The cost of living is at an all-time high and a common sensation will be that we have been cheated.

Business has suffered a recession, unemployment is higher than it was, there is much talk of surpluses.

What, then, is the government thinking about, letting the cost of living rise?

The government is not guilty but it is no more to blame than the rest of us. What we continue to demand are high wages, prosperous profits, short hours, long cars, social security and a lot of money spent on national development.

It's one thing for the prime minister to say the line should be held, that wages and profits should not be allowed to rise and inflation discouraged.

It's quite another thing to take this counsel home and apply it to our own individual way of life; and, in sober truth, it is not much good one or two fighting inflation while all the rest encourage inflation.

Naturally, the government might pass a lot of regulations conspiring us into the anti-inflation battle. Then the cost of living would fall but the government would have the trying experience of knowing what it was like to govern a nest of hornets.

MR. MARTINSON'S RAIL

It was several days after the premature and lasting period of cold and snow had arrived when Mr. Ernst Martinson, Forester of the Canada Paper Company, spied a strange bird at the side of the road on the company's limits above Windsor Mills. The date was Dec. 4 and the bird, just now available for final identification, was a Virginia Rail. The exhausted rail was made comfortable at the lumber camp, with grass seed provided for food, but it died the next day. Its only claim to fame will lie in the fact that it probably lasted longer in the Quebec winter than any other recorded individual of its species.

The Virginia Rail is seldom seen in Quebec in the autumn. Members of the large and active Province of Quebec Society for the Protection of Birds, in Montreal, have recorded this elusive species during three autumns only of the last 13. Sept. 2, 14 and 29 being the dates of observation.

Special Services Christmas Week At Cowansville

COWANSVILLE — In expressing greetings to his parishioners, Rev. John Peacock, rector of Trinity Church, outlined the Christmas services in the parish of Nelsonville.

On December 21, fourth Sunday in Advent, the singing of traditional carols will be enjoyed at 7:30 p.m. and the choir will render special selections, including Canticle of Noel, Hark, What Mean Those Holy Voices, Jesu Bambino, Petit Chanson de Noel and The Bell Carol.

On Christmas Eve at 7:30 p.m. there will be a candle lighting ceremony in Trinity Church. Although this service is primarily for children, adults are invited.

At 11:30 p.m. the Midnight Eucharist will be celebrated in Trinity Church.

On Christmas Day the Holy Eucharist will be said in Trinity Church at 8 a.m. Two hours later, at 10 a.m. it will be sung in Christ Church.

On Sunday, December 28th, all services will be held as usual, excepting that in Christ Church it will be Matins.

A service of Holy Communion will be held in Trinity Church at 9 a.m. on The Epiphany, January 6th. School pupils who have been confirmed will attend service before going to classes.

birds that fail to migrate at the proper season because of physical inability to do so may, if and when they regain the power of flight, feel no "urge" to fly south. Such may be the explanation for the continued presence of a few Robins in our district during this recent period of bitter cold.

Breeding in the fresh water marshes from British Columbia to southern Quebec and Nova Scotia, many Virginia Rails will spend the winter in the southern States. Within a few days of May 10th, they may be expected to return to such localities as the extensive marsh at the Katavale end of Little Lake Magog. Here they will nest before the end of the month and their precocious, coal-black "chicks" will soon be on the move but few will see them or their strange, never-to-be-forgotten parents. The adults are about nine and a half inches long, including a downward curving bill of about one and a half inches length and a ridiculously short tail, not more than two inches in length. Brownish-gray above, they have under parts of a rich chestnut color except for the horizontally barred posterior portion, a diagnostic feature of all our rails, as of the rails and cranes of Britain. Naturalists have found difficulty in describing the queer noises made by rails as they work among the cat-tails and other marsh plants: "squeaks, chuckles, grunts and 'kicking' sounds".

How well we remember in far-off school days when we were shown the nest of a Virginia Rail, built over water at the edge of a tiny cat-tail marsh in southern Ontario, with glimpses of the strange bird rearing its head! How thrilling also, thirty years later, to visit the same tiny marsh, to hear the cry of a rail from the same growth of cat-tails and to glimpse, at last, the richly coloured neck as the bird peered through the rushes! How thrilling, too, to stand motionless one early morning in a Massachusetts salt marsh and watch the Virginia Rail's majestic relative, the King Rail, about a foot and a half in length, walk right out into the open a few feet away.

Still farther south, when the tides are out, one may sometimes look from the causeways and see the slightly smaller Clapper Rail, gray of tone, feeding on the mud flats with extended necks, ever ready to dart for the cover of the reeds at your slightest sign of interest. The rails are indeed a remarkable group of birds, seldom seen except in favorable locations and not given to flying during the breeding season but, when its time comes, the little Sora Rail, another resident of the Katavale marsh and seemingly a very weak flyer, may leave and wing its way across the broad Caribbean to a winter home.

Complete Probe On Textiles

OTTAWA — The Tariff Board, wrapping up hearings begun last month on certain aspects of the Canadian textile industry, Wednesday heard final argument by domestic, foreign and special interests.

The main proposals for tariff revision came from the Primary Textiles Institute, representing Canadian producers of synthetic fibre and fabrics, and the Canadian dress and sportswear industry.

British, Japanese and Cuban interests intervened along with special Canadian industries including the Rubber Association of Canada and the Canadian Association of Consumers to oppose tariff boosts.

The draft tariff is schedule proposed by the Textiles Institute would lump silk and man-made fibres under one item.

The Institute said the wholesale revision would limit increases generally to about five or 10 per cent on some lighter-weight synthetic fabrics.

The Montreal Dress Manufacturers' Guild, speaking for the bulk of the Canadian industry which is located in Montreal, Toronto and Quebec centres, suggested tariff boosts up to 100 per cent to ward off competition attributed mainly to the United States and Japan.

Counsel for the Japanese silk and synthetics industry reiterated Wednesday that international trade is a two-way street and that inability by Japan to sell to Canada would reduce Japanese purchases of Canadian wheat.

The Tariff Board will sit again next February in continuing the series of hearings it began last year into various textiles and their products. It already has disposed of the wool and cotton phases of the hearings.

Judge Gives Wanted Man Three Years

ST. HYACINTHE, Que. (CP) — Ronald Tousignant, 29, one of Canada's five most-wanted men until his capture last Saturday in Sydney, N.S., pleaded guilty Friday to escaping police custody and was sentenced to three years in penitentiary.

He pleaded not guilty to two charges of attempted murder, one arising from the stabbing of a fishing companion, the other an attack on a prison guard. Preliminary inquiry was set for Dec. 23.

Tousignant — with a young companion — escaped last spring from St. Hyacinthe jail where he was awaiting trial on the attempted murder charges. Police said he had been in prison guard Donat Levesque, who is still in hospital in serious condition.

An unidentified woman in Sydney was responsible for his capture last week. She saw Tousignant's picture in a Weekend Magazine story concerning the country's most-wanted men, and reported to police that he was living in a Sydney rooming-house. Sydney police arrested him and brought him to Montreal for trial.

the priesthood in the Armenian church and who is said to be a behind the scenes manipulator of foreign policy as well as a trade wizard.

When Khrushchev held audience with U.S. Senator Hubert Humphrey in Moscow, Mikoyan was called in to take part in the eight-hour conference. Mikoyan also granted an interview to the touring Adlai Stevenson, Democratic candidate in the last U.S. presidential election.

It's apparent that such an important figure would not be leaving Moscow in January, just before sessions of the Communist party congress, without compelling reasons.

OTTAWA VISIT?

Mikoyan has been prominent in the Kremlin's new "open face" policy, in contrast with the remote habits of high-ranking party dignitaries in the Stalin era.

Like Khrushchev, he has appeared on American television, submitting to questioning by a group of American students. He adopted a smooth, avuncular line. In his travels, he has appeared to enjoy slipping protocol and moving among the people.

The Russians gave no immediate hint as to whether Mikoyan, 63, may seek a side visit to Ottawa, but some factors seem to work against such a possibility.

QUICKLY ARRANGED

For one thing, he has applied only for a diplomatic visa to the U.S. — he doesn't contemplate anything like a state visit, and his ostensible purpose is merely to hold talks with the Russian ambassador in Washington. One source noted, however, that it took only 24 hours to arrange for the Washington trip. A Canadian visit probably could be set up in a short time if Mikoyan applied through the normal channels.

PROMPT TREATMENT MAKES LOBAR PNEUMONIA MILD TODAY

Few changes in the practice of medicine in the last 25 years are more remarkable than what has happened in the treatment of lobar pneumonia.

This formerly common infection of the lungs was known as the old people's friend because it so often proved an easy and painless final illness. Today lobar pneumonia is almost a rare disease. When it does develop, recovery is the rule. The speed with which this occurs is amazing to all those who remember what it used to be.

It is interesting and important, even now, to discuss this disease.

A typical case starts suddenly with a severe chill. This may last for as long as half an hour. Soon after the chill, the temperature begins to go up. It rises rapidly to around 104 or 105 degrees.

At the same time, a person coming down with pneumonia may have general aches and pains along with a headache. Pain in the chest or side, like that which is present in pleurisy, is also common.

Cough which produces pain and does not bring up much mucus starts early. The breathing becomes rapid and each breath is shallow.

These symptoms can be confused with other conditions, but are certainly suspicious of lobar pneumonia. Examination of the chest by a physician and especially taking an X-ray film generally bring an early diagnosis.

Unless steps are taken to treat the condition promptly, the typical signs develop by the second or third day.

By this time cold sores around the lips are likely to be present, the facial expression shows anxiety, the pain in the side or chest is severe, and the breathing is amount of sputum which is likely to be tinged with blood. The temperature stays high, at 104 and 105 degrees.

Pencilin and its relatives almost always bring remarkable improvement in a short time. A quick fall in temperature and relief of the cough and pain occur rapidly. The breathing becomes slow and normal, and no longer is it necessary to wait for the crisis to know what the outcome will be.

Today, there is only about one chance in 20 or 25 of dying from the disease. It used to be one chance in three. Lobar pneumonia has dropped from being one of the most important causes of death to being one of the least important of the major diseases.

But one should remember that the diagnosis must be made early and treatment started promptly, because the results are much more likely to be favorable than if pneumonia has been present for several days.

GAGNE-TANNER
SWEETSBURG, Que. — Ste. Rose de Lima Church in Sweetburg was the scene of a pretty winter wedding on Saturday, December 6, when Miss Patricia Alma Tanner, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur C. Tanner, of Cowansville, became the bride of Mr. Pierre N. Gagne, son of Mrs. A. R. Gagne and the late Mr. Gagne, of Outremont, Rev. L. Leroux, of College Bourget, Gatineau, Que., officiating.
The wedding music was rendered by Miss Lucette Guite, of Sweetburg, and the soloists were Miss Jacqueline Bousada and Mr. Josiane Daigle, of Sweetburg. White and gold chrysanthemums arranged with greenery were used to decorate the church.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was gowned in white silk tulle, fashioned with a fitted bodice having a sabrina neckline of rosepoint lace embroidered with sequins and pearls and long sleeves. The skirt of ballerina length had side puffs, giving a bouffant effect. Her shoulder-length veil of tulle illusion was held by a headpiece of stiffened tulle petals appliqued with tiny pearl-encrusted lace flowers, and she carried a white Prayer book covered with pink and white feathered carnations and sprays of stephanotis.
The flower girls were Miss Mary Lou Tanner, sister of the bride, and her niece, Miss Pamela Tanner, both of Cowansville, who wore identical princess style dresses of pink velvet with matching headdresses and carried nosegays of white and pink flowers.

Mr. Andre Gagne, brother of the groom acted as best man and the ushers were Mr. Roderick Tanner, of Sherbrooke, brother of the bride, and Mr. Jacques Gagne, of Montreal, brother of the groom.
The bride's mother, Mrs. Tanner, chose a street-length dress of forest green wool crepe; beige satin hat and a corsage of tea roses.
Mrs. Gagne, the groom's mother, wore a street-length silk dress in bronze tones, green feather hat and a corsage of yellow Sweetheart roses.
The reception was held at the Hotel Maurice in Cowansville where table arrangements included a three-tier wedding cake flanked by bouquets of white 'mums and pink carnations. Each separate table had white 'mums.

Leaving for a wedding trip to Jamaica, B.W.I., the bride traveled in a Burgundy red wool cashmere dress with matching hat and black accessories, a dark tweed coat with which she wore a gardenia corsage. Upon their return Mr. and Mrs. Pierre Gagne will reside in Lachine.

MANNERS MAKE FRIENDS

When you are a guest at lunch or dinner in a friend's home, and you are offered food which you don't care for or you think is too rich in calories, don't turn it down. Take a very small portion and eat a bit of it.
That way you won't run the risk of upsetting your hostess who has tried to serve food that will please all of her guests.

Practise of Steady Dating Could Cause Heartbreak

"Go right on telling parents how foolish they are to let their teen-agers go steady," writes the dean of girls at a large city high school.
"So far this school year six of our senior girls have dropped out because they had to get married. Every one of them is from a good home. Every one is a smart, attractive girl without personality problems.
"They are the kind of girls it 'just couldn't happen to'—but it did. Needless to say, their parents are heartbroken and are asking themselves, 'Where did we fail?'
"I think I can tell them where they failed, but it is too late to help them. They failed when they went against their better judgement and let their daughters start going steady at 14 or 15.
"They failed when they refused to take these teen-age crushes seriously enough to foresee what might happen.
"Next year more girls will make the same tragic mistake that these girls made — and for the same reason, that their parents have let them try to handle emotional situations they aren't old enough to handle wisely.
"When are parents going to wake up? Why do they stick their heads in the sand and think that all they can do is hope their daughter has more character and more sense than the girls who have to drop out of school each year?
"I can tell them that they ought to do more than hope for the best. They ought to protect their daughters by refusing to let them make one boy their whole life.
"I know parents say they can't buck the trend of the times. But I think they are underestimating themselves. All they need to do is stick together and they could put a stop to this too-early steady dating.
"Keep telling them that—and maybe it will finally sink in."

Bargains In Bedlam Aids Welfare Group

OTTAWA (CP) — Bargains in bedlam just about describes the capital's biggest bazaar, a 14-hour onslaught on the Coliseum that makes political conventions look like peaceful picnics.
The Ottawa chapter of Hadassah, a 600-member Jewish women's organization, has held the one-day bazaar for four years now and every year it gets bigger and better.
Mrs. Michael Greenberg, chairman of this year's mid-November sale, was asked whether Hadassah has ever thought of having a two-day bazaar.
"I think we could get the customers, but I don't think our women could stand up to it," she said.
EARLY QUEUES
About 7,000 women stormed through the Coliseum gates this year. Hundreds had waited in lineups long before the 10 a.m. opening. They were still pouring in as the bazaar closed up at midnight.
One photographer, inside the building when the stampede began toward the rummage sale room—one of the most popular nooks—said afterwards it was like being chased by an entire football team.
"The staff was quite bowled over by the mob," said Mrs. Greenberg.
The rummage sale section offers some new, some nearly-new and some used clothing and household items. Hadassah members also staff some 30 booths selling everything from home baking to knit goods, linens and jewelry.
RECEIPTS HIGHER
This year's receipts were expected to exceed last year's, when the bazaar brought in $11,000. Funds go to buy goods for child welfare projects in Israel, items such as books, clothing, medicines and even agricultural implements.

What Should Farmers Recommend On Question Of Support Prices?

L. G. YOUNG in

The Farmers' Voice

The solution of this problem may mean far more than $64,000,000 to the pockets of Canadian farmers. The question is this — what recommendations re support prices should organized farmers make to the federal government in January, January is the month in which the Canadian Federation of Agriculture holds its annual assembly and frames its policy for the next year.

Let's consider dairy products and hogs. A look at what we have to start with shows this — The dairy industry is bothered with a surplus of skim milk powder. Stocks in September were more than twice those in 1957 at the same date. The government is supporting the price at 15 cents per lb. for spray and at 12 cents per lb. for roller powder. As of September 22, the government imposed quotas on purchases to the end of April, 1959. Since the floor price on butter moved from 58 cents to 64 cents production has jumped 13 per cent and consumption decreased 4 per cent. This situation is bothersome, but not a surplus yet.

Hogs are now selling close to the floor of $25 per 100 lbs. Production is away up (over 33 per cent) as the hog cycle should be nearing its peak. The government holds a little pork, not much. The hog-barley ratio, at least in Western Canada, is favourable. This situation must be watched.

It must be remembered that the Canadian government cannot sell or even give away skim powder, even to needy countries, unless it pays freight. The world butter situation is much the same as for powder. U.S. hog production is climbing and will next year have a direct bearing on Canadian prices.

Hon. D. S. Harkness, Federal Minister of Agriculture, spoke recently to the Manitoba Farmers' Union. With the exception of skim powder, he said, there is no serious surplus of agricultural products under price support. But if production of these commodities continues to rise, he warned, there will be a problem. "We will have to lower price. We can keep it at a high price as long as we do not get surplus that we cannot sell or give away." He believes that production can be curbed by lower prices. He suggests farmers should voluntarily control production — a most unrealistic and idealistic wish.

But what of production control by government? Farm Forum findings have indicated that Canadian farmers wouldn't accept controls. Anyway, controls would make this question into a political "hot potato". In the U.S. farmers recently voted for lower corn support prices and end

Once the halls are decked with boughs of holly, depend on it; the guests are going to decorate the furniture less attractively with a holiday assortment of stains, smears and—heaven forbid—scratches or burns. Don't panic; your home shop and the medicine cabinet together are probably stocked with all the materials you'll need to do a refinishing job on the marks left by Yuletide jollifications.

White rings left behind by wet glasses—either water or alcohol—can be cleared with several home remedies.

Some cigar or cigarette ashes from those dirty ash trays should be saved. Mix with castor oil or light lubricating oil, into a paste. Rub the mixture over the stain, with the grain.

Olive oil-and-vinegar mixture is another home remedy for stubborn rings. Stronger cures would be rottenstone or pumice, but these may take off some of the finish if not used carefully. Follow any such treatments by polishing and waxing.

BEFORE TREATING scratched furniture surfaces, be certain of the type of finish you're treating. Use the proper solvent for that finish — turpentine for varnish, alcohol for shellac, lacquer thinner for lacquer.

The solvent, along with a steady hand and a fine brush, is used to treat hairline scratches. Very carefully go over the scratch so that the finish blends over it.

Larger scratches will have to be refinished with varnish, shellac or lacquer. Scratches in a dark surface such as mahogany can be disguised with a little iodine.

Others may require treatment

Production High At Wendybrook

Besides several high records that have recently been made at Wendybrook Farm, owned by Pierre Veillon, Sweetsburg, the Jersey cow Wendybrook Basil's Brownie has completed 9 lactations during which time she produced 83,614 lbs. of milk and 4,511 lbs. of butterfat. She is a daughter of the Superior sire, Gold and Silver Medal bull, Brampton J. S. D. Basil. Her highest record was made as a junior 5 year old when she produced 13,219 lbs. of milk and 678 lbs. of fat in 365 days.

Wendybrook Beacon's Brownie, a daughter of Wendybrook Basil's Brownie, has been awarded a Silver Medal certificate for her junior 3 year old record of 500 lbs. of butterfat in 305 days.

It is quite a few years since a Medal of Merit certificate has been issued to a Jersey cow in Quebec. This time it goes to Wendybrook Basil's Margo in Mr. Veillon's Wendybrook herd. At 7 years, in 305 days, she produced 794 lbs. of fat, and 13,346 lbs. of milk. She wins a Gold Medal certificate as well as the Medal of Merit certificate.

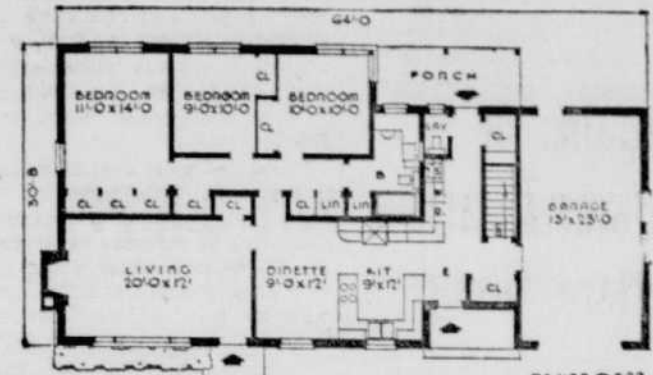

Wendybrook Beacon Primrose, a daughter of the superior sire Brampton Royalty Beacon, has finished a high 2 year old record of 12,308 lbs. of milk, and 622 lbs. of fat in 305 days, and if she freshens within 425 days from the time when her first calf was born, she will qualify for Gold and Silver Medal certificates. Her dam, Payneside Basil's Primrose, was purchased by Mr. Veillon in one of the Sales of Stars at the Royal Winter Fair.

WHAT'S IN THE AIR? — The big and little of the air world are shown in photographs above. Combining features of both a helicopter and a conventional airplane is the recently unveiled Hiller X-18 "Propellorplane." Picture sequence, left, shows its operation. With wings at a 90-degree angle, top, it can rise straight up. As wings are tilted into level position, center, it becomes a normal-appearing plane, bottom. Sequence could be reversed, with X-18 taking off as an airplane and landing as a helicopter. Flying without wings or an engine, right, Diane Barnes, of Birmingham, England, becomes the first woman to solo in a "Gyroglider." Igor Bensen, inventor of the helicopter gadget, looks on from a higher position. The craft, which takes off at about 25 m.p.h. when towed by an auto, is sold as a build-it-yourself kit.

Carol Service Is Enjoyed By Large Congregation At Ayer's Cliff Church

AYER'S CLIFF — On Sunday Evening in Beulah United Church the choir put on a Christmas carol service which was much enjoyed by a large congregation.

The church was nicely decorated with choir figurine candles and other miniature symbols of Christmas adorning the altar rail, lighted candles in each window, and baskets of evergreens with poinsettias as other decorations.

L. Lambourne was the announcer and the service opened with the singing of three carols by choir and congregation, Gentle Mary Laid Her Child, Joy to the World, and Angels From the Realms of Glory. These were followed by two anthems, The Christmas Story, and He Is Born. Mrs. H. N. Pierce, and Mrs. Gordon McHarg rendered a duet, which was followed by the choir in the anthem, The Echo of Christmas. Hark, the Herald Angels Sing and The First Noel were sung by the congregation led by the choir. Blow Ye Winds was the fourth anthem, which was followed by a solo, The Holy City, rendered by Mr. Lambourne. This number, a request, was appreciated by all. Two more anthems were heard, Here In The Stable, and There Were Shepherds.

Service closed with one of the best carols, Silent Night, and the pastor, Rev. A. W. Seaton, pronounced the benediction.

The soloists in the various numbers were Mrs. W. S. Keeler, Mrs. H. N. Pierce, A. C. Keeler and Douglas MacKinnon.

COWANSVILLE —

Mrs. E. H. Spencer was hostess at a Yuletide candlelight tea at her home. Red and white tapers glowed above the silver and the lace tablecloth, and a Christmas plant formed the centerpiece. Tea was poured by Mrs. Carl Brock, assisted by Mrs. John Peacock.

Mrs. Volney Ingalls is a patient at the B.M.P. Hospital.

W.M.S. MEETS
The Woman's Missionary Society of the Richmond and Melbourn United Church held its Christmas meeting in the church parlor, with the president in the chair.

V. Moreland at the piano. Mrs. J. S. MacNaughton gave a reading entitled "The Star and the Shepherd Boy."

Barrington kindly offered to substitute for Mrs. Gerald Thomas, of East Farnham, who is unable to attend. The slate was accepted.

JUNIOR HOCKEY REVIVED IN SHERBROOKE

The Sherbrooke Junior Hockey League has been revived after a lapse of several years and this mainly through the efforts of a bunch of sports-minded fellows headed by Ivan Dugre as president. The league comprises four teams and all games are doubleheaders. This effort is in our mind a very worthy project and can be classed as a community affair. The City of Sherbrooke was approached for financial aid and they very generously came through in view of the fact that it was pointed out that only youngsters from the City would be playing.

This idea received quite a lot of criticism from the outlying towns such as Lennoxville, Bromptonville and Magog as the youngsters from these places have no league in which to play but the executive decided that it would restrict it mainly to local boys.

A lot of fans figured that it wouldn't amount to very much as the boys wouldn't turn out for the idea but judging from the workouts it certainly met with their approval. At each practice the rink has been jammed and all the youngsters were given a good chance of making one of the four clubs.

President Dugre and his executive came up with an idea of drawing the teams in order to prevent packing anyone particular outfit. A special system was devised and Thursday evening it was put in force and one must admit that it certainly divided the teams up. Some of the kids who have been playing together for years are on opposite sides and this should go to make it a very good league. It is a shame that this has not been working for the past several years as we think it would help to keep the kids off the street and at the same time give them some good, clean entertainment.

President Ivan along with his two vice-presidents, Albert Poulin and Al Caplan, Gerry Tessier, secretary-treasurer, and his board of directors have been putting in a lot of work. Everyone has been on hand each evening and the kids seem to realize how well off they are.

On Thursday evening, when the teams were being picked, one youngster told us how lucky they were to have such a bunch of coaches and league officials to make it possible for them to play in a league. The loop has been progressing fine and it seems that everyone is giving it a little boost.

The league purchased uniforms and at the same time insurance has been taken out in case anyone should be injured. The boys will supply their own skates and equipment while besides the sweaters and stockings sticks will be given. This will be quite an item considering the cash the league has to operate on.

The Arena came through with a very fine price for practices and games and they certainly did more than their share considering things up on the hill. They figured it was a worthy cause hence the reason for wanting to help.

No admission will be charged during the season hence all the kids of the City can take in the games and this should certainly help to stir up more interest in hockey and in the long run everyone will benefit from it.

Mayor Nadeau will be on hand to officially open the schedule tomorrow afternoon and this will take place during the first and second games at around 3.15. At the same time someone will go home with a brand new car which is being drawn by the Progress Club. So don't forget drop up to the Arena and help get the league away on a solid basis by your support. That is all what is asked and it will let President Dugre and his executive know that their work is being appreciated by all citizens of Sherbrooke.

Sherbrooke boxing fans should consider themselves very fortunate when they take into consideration the top fighters they have seen at the local Arena on Promoter Pee Wee Berwick's cards the past summer. He didn't have the worst in the rankings on hand.

Three of the fighters who appeared are rated as number one contenders in their own classes. Burke Emery is next to Yvon Durelle while Robert Cleroux is the number one man behind champion Chuvale in the heavy division. Yvon Turrene of Montreal is the first contender for the middleweights while Marcel Piau of Windsor is fifth.

In the welterweight class Cliff Bobo Fiddler of Calgary who was seen here is ranked fourth while in lightweight division Jean Dulhoste of Montreal is fourth. So glancing back over the fights one must admit that Promoter Berwick's program drew the best on both sides of the border and he certainly didn't spare any effort in getting the best available.

Skiers throughout the district should be in good spirits following the heavy snowfall. Cold weather is predicted for the weekend and this should help to make things better for the hickory runners. Mt. Orford is hoping to have their new T-Bar in operation for Christmas Day at least that is what the erecting engineers are hoping for.

The club will be staging courses commencing January 9, 10 and 11 and everyone interested is asked to contact "Juanina" by calling 3-4809 or 3-4084. So if you are in the mood don't forget to call. It seems that special courses will be run throughout the winter months. So if you intend to ski, learn it the right way at the start and save yourself some broken bones.

Well the Belleville McFarlands, the reigning Allan Cup champions, have paid our City a visit and one must admit that the reception they received wasn't one usually paid to champions. Only 318 fans were on hand to see them play the Quebec Aces.

We are of the opinion that they are a much better team than they looked in action here. They pack plenty of speed and experience and they still have a month and a half to play together and that will make a difference. If one is to judge them on their showing here you must admit they didn't look like Allan Cup champions. Everything was bad.

The following night they journeyed to Chicoutimi and tore the Chics apart by inflicting a 8-4 upset on them. The CAHA will no doubt make sure they are right before they leave our shores for Prague, Czechoslovakia, for the World Hockey Tournament. They looked to us as though they needed help at the blue line. Up front they seemed to have plenty of speed to cope with things.

Captain Jones Of US Davis Cup Squad
Expecting Hard Battle In Doubles

PERTH, Australia (AP)—Ham Richardson and Alex Olmedo, buoyed by opening singles victories, aimed for a doubles victory over Italy today which would clinch the Davis Cup in one final for the United States.

The Americans faced the experienced Italian tandem of Nicola Pietrangeli and Orlando Sirola, both determined to avenge Friday's defeats.

The Peruvian-born Olmedo rallied to down Pietrangeli, 5-7, 10-8, 6-0, 6-1, and then Richardson, exerting steady pressure, made it 2-0 by crushing Sirola, 6-4, 6-2, 7-5.

AIM FOR AUSSIES

A victory today or in one of the final two singles matches Sunday would assure the Americans another go at the Australians in the Challenge Round. That series is scheduled for Dec. 29-31 at swept the first two singles matches. Perry Jones, non-playing United States captain, predicted the doubles would be a much harder battle.

After his tennis forces had Brisbane.

"These fellows have played together a long time and they both have excellent services," said Jones. "I look for the dog-gone best fight you ever saw."

Opening To Be Held Between Games
Of Doubleheader; Progress Club To Draw Automobile; First Tilt At 1.45

Mayor Armand Nadeau will officially get the Sherbrooke Junior Hockey League underway tomorrow afternoon at the Arena when the four-team circuit commences their schedule. The first game of the doubleheader is scheduled for 1.45 followed by the second at 3.15.

Mayor Nadeau will be accompanied by members of the City Council and league officials. The opening will take place between the first and second games. The Progress Club of Sherbrooke will draw a car at the same time.

The teams were picked Thursday evening and President Dugre with members of the various clubs were on hand to assist in the selection. A special system was used in order that the teams wouldn't be packed with each club picking one player at a time.

Each team will carry three forward lines, four defensemen and two goalies. Owing to the local stores being open and several of the boys working a special practice will be called next week to complete the selection and at the same time give the youngsters a chance at making a berth on one of the clubs.

The coaches for the teams are, Roger Roy, who will handle the Maroons, Guy Lindley, the Indians, while Jacques Rousseau will look after St. Francis. Pat Murphy has taken over from Maurice Parr and will attend to the Beavers. Parr was obliged to withdraw owing to business and the veteran coach, Pat Murphy, will look after the kids.

The first game will bring together the Beavers and the Indians while the second will see the Maroons visiting St. Francis. All games will consist of two fifteen minute periods, no time-out, while the last frame will be a twenty-minute affair with time-out for the officials.

It is hoped that the public will be on hand to support the youngsters. There will be no admission for the games and everyone is invited to take in the official opening of the league.

Doubles Tourney

Mrs. T. J. Quintin and her partner, Mrs. Norton Baldwin, won the Doubles Trophy in the annual competition sponsored by the Ladies' Sherbrooke Curling Club.

Mrs. Quintin's duo posted a 7-3 verdict over Mrs. A. Couzens and Mrs. F. Simpson in the finals.

The match was closely contested with fourteen rinks taking part in the tourney.

Two local rinks participated in an invitation day held by the Lennoxville Ladies' Curling Club recently. Mrs. A. Kerridge skipped a rink comprised by Mrs. R. Gosselin, Mrs. D. Bishop and Mrs. F. Sangster. The second foursome was skipped by Mrs. N. Lothrop with Mrs. M. Williams, Mrs. W. Elliott and Mrs. H. Johnston. Mrs. Kerridge's quartet had the highest percentage for the day.

Kid Bassey

Arrives Home

For Christmas

LIVERPOOL, England (AP)—World featherweight champion Hogan (Kid) Bassey arrived Friday from the United States and will spend Christmas with his wife and two children.

"But I won't be here long," the Nigerian-born fighter said. "I plan to return to America in mid-January, probably to defend my title against Davey Moore."

Bassey won all three of his fights on his recent United States tour.

Cleveland Signs

Six Players

CLEVELAND (AP)—The Cleveland Indians Wednesday announced the signing of six players to 1959 baseball contracts, including recently-acquired second baseman Billy Martin.

Martin, whom the Indians obtained in a five-player trade with Detroit Tigers, returned his signed contract to general manager Frank Lane a few days after receiving it.

Other players signed up are pitchers Jake Striker and Morrie Martin, infielders Billy Moran and Randy Jackson, and outfielder Carroll Hardy.

First Place At Stake Tomorrow In Intermediate Loop; Beavers Travel
To Richmond, Aces Clash With Meteors

First place in the Eastern Townships Intermediate Hockey League will be at stake tomorrow afternoon when all six teams swing into action. It will be the final slate until after Christmas as the teams have all next week off.

The Beavers will be out to try and maintain their slim lead over Drummondville, who are close on the heels of the Sherbrooke crew. They hold second spot one-point in the rear of the pace-setting Dube aggregation.

Sherbrooke will move down to Richmond to clash with the Braves while Drummondville will journey to Victoriaville while Magog will visit the Meteors in Asbestos to complete the final bill before Christmas. The league will resume on Sunday Dec. 28.

A win for Asbestos and losses for the Beavers and Rockets could move the Meteors ahead of the Drummondville team just one point in the rear of the Dube aggregation. Magog will be out to try and post their first win in the Mining Town. On their initial appearance earlier in the year they dropped a 5-2 verdict.

This will make Sherbrooke's third trip to Richmond and both times they emerged with victories. They posted a 6-4 victory on Nov. 21 and on Dec. 5 they came through with a 5-4 verdict. The Braves have added more strength to the squad and should give a good account of themselves.

At Victoriaville the Rockets will face a tough crew as the Canadiens will be out to make it two straight on their home ice. On Thursday they took the measure of the Sherbrooke Beavers 8-4. They added two more men to the team and tomorrow's battle will be a close one.

By Monday morning the standing may take quite a change as all teams will be gunning for victories to help them in the race for higher honors. The home teams, judging from the past, are favored to win.

Alex Webster, New York's Strong
Running Half Unable To Workout
For Game Because Of Knee Injuries

NEW YORK (AP)—Alex Webster was unable to work out with New York Giants Friday as they completed preparations for Sunday's playoff game with Cleveland Browns at Yankee Stadium for the eastern conference title of the National Football League.

The Giants' strong running right halfback has been hobbled by a left knee injury most of the season. He hurt the other knee in Sunday's 13-10 victory over the Browns.

"You know Webster," said coach Jim Lee Howell. "He is going to play if he can walk. But if we had to play today he simply couldn't do it."

BEST A WEEK AGO

Webster, former Montreal Alouettes star, was the Giants' best ground gainer and pass catcher a week ago. In their Nov. 2 victory at Cleveland, Webster caught a vital pass and snook off defender Kenny Konz to score the big touchdown of a 21-17 game.

Buzz Guy, who plays either guard or tackle for the Giants, definitely is out of the game with a chipped ankle bone. Al Barry, who has an infected toe, may see action.

If he is able to play, Howell said Barry will be handicapped because he missed the workouts.

MADE CHANGES

"We made quite a few changes in the line, especially on plays involving the guards," said Howell. "Al missed all that work."

Jack Stroud, still bothered by a rib injury, worked out with the club on a limited basis. But he is not expected to start. Rookie Frank Youso probably will be in his spot at right tackle on offense. Stroud didn't play at all last week.

Pat Summerall, the hero of last Sunday's game with his 49-yard, game-winning field goal, hasn't been able to practice kicking all week due to a leg injury. Don Chandler, the club's fine punter, has been working in Summerall's place as a field goal kicker. Chandler will kick off but it is hoped Summerall will be ready for the placements.

Howell said the field was in "pretty good shape" considering the snow of a week ago. The weatherman predicted a clear, cold day with a high of about 24 degrees for the playoff to see which team will be the host to the Dec. 28 league championship game with the Baltimore Colts.

Poll Shows College Football Coaches
Came Up With Some Weird Offences In 1958; Players Should Be On Their Own

NEW YORK (AP)—By a 2-to-1 margin United States sports writers and broadcasters favor giving a football coach the same privilege as most other coaches have—that of conferring with his players and advising them during time out intervals.

Of 195 experts casting ballots on this question in the Associated Press post-season football questionnaire, 121 voted "yes" and 62 "no" on the question. Twelve were undecided.

The margin and the number of votes aren't likely to convince the national football rules committee, which has refused to consider changing the rule which bans coaching from the sidelines although a number of coaches have suggested it.

DO IT ANYWAY

The reason most frequently advanced by the writers and broadcasters for permitting such conferences was that coaches evade the rule, anyway, by signals, or using substitutes as messengers. Opponents of a change generally argued that the game belongs to the players, once it starts.

One expert said: "Like gambling, it might as well be legalized to keep it honest—or thereabouts."

Another argued against changing the rule because "substitutions take ample care of this problem in football."

MORE INTERESTING

Other arguments in favor of a change were that the coach is held responsible if his team loses but he doesn't have much chance to make a move that might prevent a defeat, that better and more interesting football might result and that it would take some pressure off the players if they could get advice.

Two fears voiced by negative voters were that coaches would call every play and that the conferences would slow up the game. "The quarterback should run the game, and I have seen more quarterbacks with good sense than coaches," one stand-patter observed.
