VICE-PRESIDENT SHERMAN IS ILL, MAY NOT RECOVER

Is Candidate For Re-election On Ticket With President Taft—Doctoc Pessimistic.

Utica, N.Y., October 28.—James Schoolcraft Sherman, Vice-President of the United States and candidate with President Taft for re-election, is seriously ill and steadily failing at his home here. While his physician, Dr. F. H. Peck, believes there is no immediate danger of death, yet the distinguished patient's condition is such that it is a matter of conjecture how much longer he can withstand the ravages of the disease with which he is afflicted.

ILL ALL THE YEAR.

Dr. Peck at 8 o'clock to-night, authorized this statement regarding Mr. Sherman's illness and his present condition :

Mr. Sherman has been sick all of this year due to the condition of the kidneys, hardening of the arteries and softening of the muscles of the heart, which is somewhat stretched."

After a day of discouraging symptoms Mr. Sherman rallied at night and continued to show improvement during the evening. This is due in no small measure to powerful medicines. Whether he can much longer successfully combat the attack of kidney trouble and complications, first apparent more than a year ago, is a matter of grave doubt. The members of his family are with him constantly and his intimate friends have been notified that he has been failing steadily.

DEATH OF LADY MULOCK.

Toronto, Oct. 28.—Lady Mulock, wife of Chief Justice Sir William Mulock, died this afternoon at Wellesley Hospital. Last week she underwent a critical operation, of which she failed to rally. Lady Mulock before her marriage to Sir William was Miss Sarah Ellen Cawthra, being a member of one of the well-known pioneer famailies of York County. The funeral takes place on Wednesday afternoon

POWERS PROTEST DIVERSION OF CHINA SALT REVENUES.

Peking, October 28—The diplomatic representatives of eleven countries at a meeting to-day decided to protest against the alienation by China of the salt revenues while the Boxer indemnity remains unpaid. They will protest also against China's contention that she is justified in hypothecating the salt revenues in excess of 16,000,000 taels (about $8,000,000) which was their amount when pledged for the payment of the indemnity.

THREE DROWNED IN JACQUES CARTIER

Were On Their Way To Visit Stadacona Paper Works -- Two Were Married.

News was received in town yesterday of the drowning of three men on the Jacques Cartier river. The victims, who resided at Cap Sante, left their homes on Saturday afternoon to visit the Stadacona Paper Co.'s works now under construction and since then nothing has been heard of them.

They drove to the river which they attempted to cross in a boat which was found on Sunday morning at the foot of the rapids, while the oars were found further down the river and the horse was attached to a tree near the river.

The victims are Come Bertrand, 30 years old, who leaves a wife and family, Hildevert Lavallee, unmarried, and an Italian named Guilio, who is also a married man.

A number of residents of the locality were kept busy yesterday looking for the bodies, which, up to a late hour last night, had not been recovered.

WOMAN K'LLED IN NICARAGUA BATTLE

Modern "Molly Pitcher" Loading Shell Into Field Piece When Fatal Bullet Hits Her.

New York, October 28—When the American marines on Oct. 4 charged up and captured Coyatepe Hill, near Massaya, Nicaragua, after having raked the insurgent position with their batteries of rapid-fire guns, lying among the dead rebels was a Nicaraguan woman—a modern Molly Pitcher. Clutched tightly in her hands was a one pounder shell which she was trying to load into a rebel field piece when a bullet from the American force struck her and she fell dead beneath the gun.

This story and other details of the battle were related to-day by Lieut. Geo. W. Martin, of the First Provisional Regiment, U.S. Marine Corps, who came up from Colon on the steamer Cristobal to have wounds in both of his feet, which he received in the battle, treated at the hospital at the Brooklyn navy yard. The rebel losses in the fight, Lieut Martin said, were over 200. Two marines, Private Durham, of Company C, and Private Bobbitt, of Company B, were killed and several others wounded. The heavy casualties of the rebels were inflicted by Nicaraguan cavalry, which pursued them after the Americans had captured the hill.

DEMORALIZED, THE TURKISH ARMY IS GIVING GROUND

Nothing Definite Known of Whereabouts of Forces Near Adrianople---Bulgarians Blow Up Bridge and Block Important Railroad

London, October 28—An interesting question at the present moment is the whereabouts of the Turkish army, of which nothing definite is known. The news that Eski Baba has been taken by the Bulgarian cavalry apparently without resistance shows that Nazim Pasha's army is not where it was supposed to have been—on the line between Kuleli Burgas and Lule Burgas. It may be further west in the direction of Demotica, but it is generally supposed that it has retired from the line of the railway and entrenched itself on the long line from Demotica to Tohorlu.

TURKS "STILL READY."

Constantinople despatches continue to speak of the readiness of the Turkish army to take the offensive.

In any case a few days must see something decisive.

The victorious Bulgarian army is still advancing. It has occupied Bunarhissar and is marching toward Kuleli Burgas. It is reporated that the Bulgarians have blown up a bridge over the Tchorlu River, on the railroad between Lule Burgas and Constantinople, showing that the turning movement is making rapid progress.

Unless the Turks are able to take the offensive vigorously, the present indication is that they will be driven out of Europe altogether, failing interference by the powers at the present stage to end the war, as happened in the Russian campaigns against Turkey in 1828 and 1878, when Russia had captured Adrianople and was at the gates of Constantinople.

Diplomats Very Busy.

There have been renewed activities with regard to European intervention in the past few days and great diplomatic activity in London. The Turkish ambassador had two hours conference on Sunday at the French embassy, and an important conference was held to-day at the British Foreign Office between Sir Edward Grey, the Foreign Secretary; Winston Spencer Churchill, First Lord of the Admiralty, and Lieut.-Col. J. E. B. Seely, Minister of War. Then the Turkish, French, Russian and Italian ambassadors visited the Foreign Secretary, who afterward had an audience with the King of Buckingham Palace.

100 YEAR OLD WOMAN CHARGED WITH ASSAULT.

Chicago, Oct. 28.—Mrs. Mary Hart, 100 years old, was arraigned in the Police Court to-day, charged with assault and battery. The centenarian prisoner, a negress, who was employed as caretaker of a negro church, was charged by Rev. D. J. Clemons, pastor of the church, with assault on him when he endeavored to discharge her. Mrs. Hart is the oldest prisoner ever to appear in a Chicago court. She conducted her own case.

"I refused that man to remove me from those premises without two weeks' notice," she declared. "I am an old woman and I should be treated with respect. If not, there will be trouble."

LOOT A SAFE IN BROAD DAYLIGHT

Burglars Chloroform Cashier and Rob Prudential Insurance Co. at Brooklyn, N.Y.

New York, Oct. 28.—Burglars entered a branch office of the Prudential Life Insurance Company in Brooklyn this afternoon, gagged the cashier, Alice Brenneis, with a handkerchief saturated with chloroform, left her lying on the floor, looted a safe and escaped with $500, money which collectors of the company had brought in during the day.

The robbery took place a block from a station house in the most heavily policed precinct in Brooklyn and within a few blocks of the home of Mayor Gaynor. Miss Brenneis later recovered from the effects of the chloroform.

HAILEYBURY ICTIM DIES.

Haileybury, Ont., Oct. 28.—Mrs. Fred Ericson, hurt in the explosion here Wednesday, died here to-day. She was the only woman employed who did not get away without serious injury. Her husband was instantly killed.

NEWS SHOWS TURKISH DEMORALIZATION.

Whereabouts of Turkish army near Adrianople a mystery

Victorious Bulgarian army still advancing, occupies Bunarhissar and marches toward Kuleli Burgas.

Bulgarians blow up bridge across Tchorlu River, interrupting communication between Lule Burgas and Constantinople.

Turkish army, defeated at Kumanova, appears to be demoralized and has evacuated Kuprili, or Veles, and is retiring on Monastir.

Part of Turkish garrison at Adrianople has retreated to Demotica, 25 miles south. Rest of garrison is cut off and demoralized.

Montenegrins cut Turkish communication between Scutari and the coast.

Ex-Sultan Abdul Hamid arrives at Constantinople and is lodged in the palace on the Bosphorus.

Roumania declines to mobilize army.

VETERAN CONVICT PLEADS FOR BOY

Asks Court Not To Ruin Youth By Jail Sentence, But Goes To "Pen" Himself.

Chicago, Oct. 28.—The plea of an old convict to-day saved Charles Broadbent, 18-years-old, from a penitentiary sentence.

"I am an old convict," he said. "I've been in the penitentiary, so let me go back there again. It can't hurt me any more than it has. But this boy was led astray by me. It was my fault, not his. Don't ruin him by sending him to the 'pen.' I know how it blasts a man's life."

This plea by Magnus Nelson, who with Broadbent held up four men in a park, got the younger prisoner sent to a reform school instead of to prison. Judge Cooper sent Nelson back to the penitentiary.

TO TRY TO STOP SUNDAY "MOVIES"

Lord's Day Alliance To Appeal To Dominion Law To Stop Sabbath Shows.

Montreal, Oct. 28.—That a further effort will be made shortly to contest the right of moving picture show proprietors to open on Sunday, was stated to-day by a member of the Lord's Day Alliance of this city. It was pointed out that previous prosecutions which had failed and been dismissed in the Supreme Court had been undertaken under the provincial law, whereas the next step will be to invoke the Dominion law on the subject of Sunday observance.

Under the Quebec Sunday Observance Act the organizing of "theatrical performances" is forbidden, but under the judgment of the Supreme Court it was held that moving picture exhibitions unaccompanied by verbal explanations or other representation did not constitute a theatrical performance.

The Lord's Day Act, 1907, of the Dominion is, however, considered as being more restrictive in its provisions; but in order to prosecute under this law, it is necessary to obtain the consent of the Attorney-General before a magistrate may hear a case. This permission is being sought by the Lord's Day Alliance, and in the event of its being granted it is likely that a batch of prosecutions will be attempted against moving picture shows in this city.

In addition to the moving picture shows, it is probable that a campaign will be launched by the Lord's Day Alliance against other people, such as real estate dealers, who are said to be engaging in their business every Sunday, although it is manifestly forbidden by both Dominion and Provincial legislation.

CONSERVATIVES TAKE ELECTION IN LONDON, ONT.

District Liberal By 25 In December Goes For Neely By 551.

London, Ont., Oct. 28.—In the bye-election held in East Middlesex to-day to fill the vancay caused by the the Conservative candidate,, George W. Neely was elected over William Sutherland, Independent, by a majority of 551. The defeated candidate is a brother of the deceased member who had a majority last December of 25.

VOTE FALLS OFF.

The vote cast was lightly less than that of last December, although the interest in the campaign was intense and during the last week there have been three or four meetings a night. Sir James Whitney and three of his ministers were in the riding in Mr. Neely's behalf and the loberal leader, N. W. Rowell, campaigned for Mr. Sutherland, who had adopted his plank of 'abolish the bar" In the closing week of the camgaign.

The Liberal vote was not cast strongly for Sutherland, who was evidently distrusted by many because of his vacillating attitude toward the temperance issue and also because of the attitude taken toward him by the temperance convention which refused to endorse his candidature. The fact that Mr. Rowell, after this, took him up was regarded as a bad move by the Liberals and had the effect of the townships of London, North Dorchester, West Nissouri, and Westminster. The latter three are all "dry" through local option and London township votes on it this year.

The result of yesterday's vote by townships was as follows:

	Neely.	Sutherland.
London Township	1038	525
North Dorchester	420	314
West Nissouri	349	270
Westminster	402	549
Totals	2209	1658

Majority for Neely, 551.

BECKER DEFENSE CLAIMS TO HAVE NEW WITNESSES

Meanwhile The District-Attorney Is Preparing For Quick Trial of Accused "Gunmen."

New York, Oct. 28.—It was learned to-night from sources close to the defence that the appeal which counsel for Charles Becker will make for a new trial for the former police lieutenant will set forth, under what will be described as "new evidence," that Harry Vallon, the informer, fired the shots that ended Herman Rosenthal's life; that "Bald Jack" Rose's story was a frame-up against Becker; that Sam Schepps, state's witness who gave corroboration to Rose's tale perjured himself when he swore he knew nothing of the murder plot, and that Harry Vallon also committed perjury when he said he did not ride from the Hotel Metropole in the "murder car" after the slaying of Rosenthal.

FIND NEW WITNESSES.

A gambler whose name John F. McIntyre, Becker's chief counsel, is not ready to reveal, will swear, according to the appeal the lawyer is preparing, that it was Vallon who killed Rosenthal, while another unknown witness is ready to testify that he heard Rose and Vallon plan the murder while at the home of Dora Gilbert, who was Rosenthal's first wife. Another prospective witness, described as "a man of unimpeachable integrity," is also ready to swear, according to Mr. McIntyre, that Rose told him three days before his confession to District-Attorney Whitman in the Tombs that Vallon was Rosenthal's murderer.

FIRST SNOW IN WINNIPEG

Winnipeg, Oct. 28.—Thanksgiving Day was notable in Manitoba for the first serious snowstorm of the season, and which is likely to delay any threshing operations to finish off the crops. Up to midnight two inches had fallen at Winnipeg and outside points report three or more, with a likelihood of more as a blizzard looks probable.

TWO MILITIAMEN KILLED, 29 INJURED IN TRAIN WRECK

Head On Collision of C. P. R. Trains Near Toronto, One Loaded With Soldiers--- Two of the Injured Will Die.

Toronto, Oct. 28.—Two members of Toronto Garrison were killed and 29 injured, two fatally, as the result of a head-on collision near Streetville Junction on the Canadian Pacific Railway about 5.30 to-night. The Chicago Flyer, which pulled out of Toronto at 5 o'clock, crashed into the second section of a train bringing home the troops engaged in the sham battle from Milton to Toronto. All of those on the wrecked train were Torontonians.

The wrecked troop train left Milton shortly before 5 o'clock with six coaches, all occupied by soldiers connected with the local militia—the Queen's Own Rifles, 48th Highlanders, Royal Grenadiers, Mississagua Horse, Canadian Army Service Corps and the Engineers.

THE DEAD.

Maxwell Murdoch, 25, 48th Highlanders, 347 Wellington St. West, Toronto.

G. A. Bantyne, Queen's Own Rifles, 110 Alcina Ave., Wychwood.

SERIOUSLY INJURED.

Corporal W. E. Foote.

Private W. H. Sheard, probably fatally.

Private Roderick McKenzie.

Private Malcolm Sinclair, probably fatally.

FIRST SECTION IN IGNORANCE

The soldiers on the first section of the train knew nothing of the wreck until they reached Toronto.

The special troop train crashed into the engine of the Canadian Pacific Railway express for Detroit, which was just moving from Streetsville Junction after taking water.

One of the dead men was a member of the Queen's Own Rifles, Maxim gun corps, and the other was a member of the 48th Highlanders, to which corps all the injured belong.

The casualties resulted from the telescoping of the first passenger car of the troop train by the heavy baggage car ahead of it. The force of the impact lifted the baggage car from its trucks. Its walls enveloped the light coach, but its floors passed above that of the car behind, cutting away the seats and sweeping the passengers before it. The rear of the baggage car was driven about three-quarters the length of the passenger coach, many of the victims being crushed against the bulkhead, while others, including the two dead men, were ground between the two floors.

Men Jammed Between Seats.

Fully half of the injuries were occasioned by the men being jammed between the seats, which were torn loose. There were fifty-six men in the car, all non-commissioned officers and privates of the 48th Highlanders. The Queen's Own man who was killed had been riding in the baggage car with some comrades of the regimental Maxim gun corps. He was hurled in among the others with the telescoping of the two cars.

The Detroit and Chicago Express stopped at Streetsville Junction to await the passage of the troop trains. The first train passed, but as the second approached the express moved out on the main line. The troop train was running about twenty miles an hour. The crews of the two engines applied the brakes immediately and then jumped. They were uninjured. The pitch-in happened at a curve in the line, which made it difficult for the respective engineers to see each other's approach.

The force of the collision lifted the fronts of the engines from the track, so that they stood locked together after they had ceased to move. The passenger car was totally destroyed, but the baggage car suffered little damage.

Ambulance Corps' Good Work.

The militiamen in the other cars came pouring out, bringing the emergency equipment of axes and tools. Quickly a party was at work upon the debris. The ambulance corps were formed and as the injured were removed they were carried on stretchers tothe station waiting room. Doctors gave the injured what attention they could with the appliances at hand.

It was ninety minutes before all the wounded had been taken out of the wreckage and placed on the ambulance train which brought them to Toronto.

There were a number of remarkable escapes. A man sitting in the fourth seat of the telescoped passenger coach was killed; his comrades in the three seats nearer the front were thrown over his head and car-

DRY DOCK PASSES QUEBEC PORT ON WAY TO MONTREAL

"Duke of Connaught" Arrived Last Evening, But Resumed Her Journey This Morning.

The Montreal floating dock "Duke of Connaught," from Barrow-in-Furniss, where it was built, entered the port of Quebec at half-past eight last evening.

It was in tow of the two Dutch tugs which brought it across the Atlantic and tugs Sin-Mac and J. O. Gravel, of the Sincennes-MacNaughton Line.

ON WAY TO MONTREAL.

The dock came to anchor off the Fly Bank, near Wolfe's Cove, where the Quebec pilots, Henri Lapierre, Eusebe Noel and David Dumais who brought it from Father Point, concluded their task. Montreal pilots Henri Dussault, Nap. Lachance and Rivard then took charge to conduct the dock to its destination.

The "Duke of Connaught" and tugs left on the last section of the long journey to Montreal at half-past two o'clock this morning, with the rising tide.

C.G.S. Earl Grey was added to the number of steamers to accompany the dock to Montreal.

Harbormaster Sullivan was on the Breakwater, in case the dock should moor there, to give any information that might be required from him.

Sam Vezina, master boatman, had the honor of changing pilots for the big dock.

The Quebec Chronicle.
QUEBEC, OCTOBER 29, 1912.

MR. CHARLES M. TEAKLE.

The death of Mr. Charles M. Teakle came as a surprise to all who were associated with him on the staff of the Chronicle. He has been one of the most popular members of that staff for the past 11 years; and wherever he went about in the city in the performance of his duties as a newspaper man, he was always noted for his urbanity and reliability. Naturally enough, he had a large circle of acquaintances who will miss him very much, and these are sure to join with all who are connected with the Chronicle office, in sending their sympathies to his bereaved parents and relatives. The readers of the local news columns can bear testimony to his diligence and carefulness in giving the truth and only the truth about the current events of our city; and many of those who know of his special newspaper work, cannot but bear witness to his talents as a humorist, with nothing but good-nature in his criticisms. A good natured companion, careful in his service to the Chronicle and the public, he will be remembered as a citizen who will be sadly missed in the associations of which he was an active member for so many years.

THEIR WAR, BUT OUR EMERGENCY.

The greater events of the war are now in course of being made on the lesser Peninsula between Adrianople and Constantinople, with the victories of the Servians and Montenegrins for way to the west in the background. Even without the aid of the corroborated and uncorroborated cablegrams, it is so evident now that the Turks will soon have to call for a cessation of the strife, that the theorists are busier than ever in their efforts to plan out a future for Turkey, either as a dependency or independency. Should Constantinople be invested as a final event of the war, the co-ordinating of the interests on the big peninsula, that used to be painted on the map, previous to the Crimean War and some time after, as made up of Turkish territory, will be one of the most ticklish problems Dame Europe and the Great Powers have ever had to deal with. Is there to be a Confederation of States or a series in independent kingdoms set up? The geographical conditions seem to favor the former. But, in the negotiations leading either to the one or the other there is one thing we do know, and that is that Great Britain and her children, the Overseas Dominions, will have to see to the strengthening of the Empire's authority, as a world's authority, among the Great Powers, with no sooth-saying on the part of our friends, statesmen to enervate that authority or put off the day of an amplifying of it. Constantinople may be invested. Turkey in Europe may be wiped off the map. But Britain's voice must be heard as Russia and Austria clamor for a sharing in the spoils of the war.

Those who have closed their ears and eyes against the call that has come to Canada to join with the other Overseas Dominions in maintaining the prestige of the Empire to which they belong, will just have to remain deaf and blind. Nothing more can be done of their enlightment, now that they turn their backs on the sombre solemn words of Lord Roberts and Lord Charles Beresford. The Borden Government must now stand by their guns and be brave. Canada as a whole is with them. There is need for no delaying plebiscite or referendum. The judgement is in the air, and parliament will put in on record in a few weeks time in the regular constitutional way. Lord Roberts tells us that Great Britain's position was never more serious than it is to-day, and Lord Charles Beresford says the same thing. And what is more, Canada believes them, and is prepared to do its duty by the Motherland—too late as it may appear to the over-anxious, or too premature as it may be considered by such as Mr. Walter Reniciman. The "German Menace" has developed into a demand for preparedness, against every emergency. And there the matter rests until parliament meets next month, and a first step is taken in providing an emergency contribution as an initial step towards final Naval Co-operation and closer Empire-affiliation.

It is worth while repeating what has been said about a non-party approach to this question. Is Sir Wilfrid Laurier prepared to act the statesman? Are his followers prepared to follow him whithersoever he leads them, in party line or out of it, for or against the imminent discernment of the people? Whatever he or they decide to do, they may rest assured that the people are on the "qui vive" for their decision in this respect, as they are for the details of the Naval Policy that are almost to be laid before parliament.

"THE FREEDOM CLUB."

There is no mincing of matters about the gentlemen who are being asked to attach themselves to one of the new Irish Freedom Clubs. In doing so, they have not only to trample under foot, at the bidding of such a Club, the Home Rule plans of John Redmond and William O'Brien, but to subscribe to the doctrine of having an Irish Republic established forthwith by force or arms, with the choice of arms openly written about, from the self-acting pistol, such as was lately fired at Colonel Roosevelt, to any other kind of weapon easily carried and automatic in action. Premier Asquith, Winston Churchill, Lloyd George, John Redmond and William O'Brien and their half-and-half scheme for Home Rule, are all to be consigned to oblivion or worse. It is not a very comfortable question to write about, with a blend of Munster and Ulster creeps running down our back; but we cannot refrain from quoting what the new organ of the Freedom Clubs says about the present situation in Ireland with neither malice nor mischief prepense.

"The present situation in Ireland is a perplexing one for the Irish Nationalist. There has been a revolution—so curious—so sudden that many of us have not got the measure of it yet. The party of loyalty to England—the virtual English garrison—is threatening an insurrection, while on the other hand the nominal Nationalists are protesting their unflinching loyalty to the British Empire. On both sides it is largely a game of bluff. It is not a very serious revolution; the reaction on both sides will soon set in and will swing both parties back to their original position. The whole business need not be taken very seriously by Nationalists, but, as we have said, to many the situation is perplexing. We can, however, sum it up briefly by saying that Ulster won't fight and the rest of Ireland won't be loyal to the English interest, at least not for any length of time. They will talk loyally until the Home Rule question is settled one way or another, and then they will go about their business of working for the welfare of Ireland according to their lights."

It is not safe even now to speak of the heroes of the Fenian Raids; and, when it will be safe to write openly and unreservedly of the new movement, can hardly be foretold. But the readers of the Chronicle would have had reason to blame it for lack of newspaper enterprise had we failed to mention the matter. The members of the new "Freedom Clubs" might have waited a little while to see what is going to be the issue of the Home Rule movement which is intended to provide Ireland with a provincial parliament, with or without the co-operation of Ulster. One thing at a time is always a fairly safe game to play, whether one wins it or not. But we suppose in Ireland, as in exceptional Canadian nooks and corners, any role holds good, as long as it is "agin the government."

ONE OF OUR OWN UNIVERSAL WRITERS.

It is not too late to write of Mr. Robert Barr nor ever will be—on this side of the water any way. He was born in Scotland and brought up in Canada, resided for some time in the United States and died in England His short stories were looked for by the readers of nearly all the popular magazines, and his volumes of fiction had always a ready sale, except, as he used to say, in Canada, the land of his bringing-up. And few can forget the severe words he once uttered in the Canadian Magazine against the nouchalance of Canada towards its own literary men, which hardly ever lays claim to a writer until his name and fame has been made in the outer world. As the Toronto Mail, in an appreciate editorial says of Mr. Barr: "Robert Barr was claimed as a Canadian novelist by reviewers who occasionally scan the achievements of Canadian literature, and desire to carry their discussion a step further than to the group of singers who have been called the "lake poets." Properly considered, Mr. Barr belonged to the American school of novelists, the fact that he has resided in England for the past thirty years not having removed all traces of the influences that formed his literary style a generation ago, when he served his apprenticeship on American newspapers.

There has been a little more sanity shown by the Liberal organs in the matter of the Richelieu bye-election than in the case of the Macdonald bye-election, and we are pleased to see it. The world does not come to an end after the winning or losing of an election. Sir Wilfrid Laurier, we noticed went into the prophesying business, a very poor kind of an example to show the "out-and-outers" on his side of Canadian political partyism, who never even sneeze when their prophesies turn out to be "false, false, and empty." Sir Wilfrid claimed that the election in Richelieu was to be realized as "the beginning of the end," but was unfortunate in comparing it with that other "beginning of the end" on September 21st over a year ago, when his unfortunate project of denationalization called "Reciprocity" received its death blow. What a shame it was that Mr. Cardin's majority should have been so reduced by the very corruptionists on account of whose conduct he had previously been unseated! How an election by a reduced majority can cover a multitude of sins, much as the sins of the Laurier regime would all have to be forgotten were a general election to take place at the end of the week, or at the end of the next session or at the end of four more years or—at the end of as long as one can guess at.

Nobody would think of trying to change Sir Wilfrid's opinion about the Hon. Mr. Monk. It might lead him to count up the number of members of his own Cabinets who were forced to resign—and that for misdeeds which Sir Wilfrid rather suspiciously maintained to the end he knew nothing of. The safest course the ex-premier can adopt towards Mr. Monk is to follow the example of the Toronto World and the Quebec Chronicle, by taking off his hat to the late Minister of Public Works, now that he has left the Borden Government on such honorable terms.

The philosophic "Bard of Cloverdate" would supply us with more ambitious wings than the "Benztown Bard," so that from the charms of the finite we may find wider charms nearer the infinite. The most of us are likely to refuse the use of his wings, after reading one or two of his productions. This morning we reproduce his verses on the "Sun and His Family" to be given, the rest of it, in another issue of the Chronicle, tomorrow morning perhaps, if all goes well.

THE SUN AND HIS FAMILY

All hail from the mundane, ye orbs of the All,
Eternity-old, yet coming to go—
Fashioned to bide by the Infinite's call,
Create for decay that others may grow!
Can one of you tell of the marvel in full—
Whence came you or why, and whose the control?

Old Sol sit you there, as we trace far beyond
The trend of your parlance with old Mother Earth,
And still keep the secret, so solemn, profound,
Your offspring have sought from the day of their birth!
Can you tell them but this, inferring in vain,
That the now and hereafter are under one reign?

But what of the Sovereign, whose satrap you are?
Yea, what of this Greatest within the Unseen?
You lead round your chits, now near then afar,
With apron-strings tied to the zone of your sheen:
But have they caught on to all that you know,
While making the most of your life-giving glow?

Were you there at the start when chaos took shape?
Or were there some stalwarts like you long before—
The parents of planets, from deep unto deep,
Revolving, controlling, with law at their door?
Had you ever a boyhood evolving full growth?
Or ever to whom you pligated your troth?

Your sons and your daughters, day in and day out,
Locating a nadir and zenith their own,
Give heed to your bidding with never a doubt,
From transit to transit enhancing renown:
'Tis law unto law one finds in their game,
Of warming their hands in the rays of your flame.

Pare and quarter, boil the squash, mash and press to get out the water, beat in a good spoonful of butter with pepper, salt and a little cream. Pour into a bake dish, strew with crumsb (fine), bake in a quick oven until these are slightly browned.

Woman's Best Help to the good health which comes from regular action of the organs of digestion and elimination—to freedom from pain and suffering—to physical grace and beauty—is the harmless, vegetable remedy

MONTREAL EXPRESS WRECKS A FREIGHT

Eight Cars Wrecked But No Injury To Passenger Train—Freight Engineer Injured.

South Vernon, Vt., Oct. 28.—The Montreal Express on the Central Vermont Railway, bound for Springfield, Mass., and New York, struck the rear of a freight train in a thick fog here to-day. Eight freight cars were wrecked but the express train was not derailed. C. H. Davison, a freight engineer, was the only person injured Traffic was blocked for four hours.

ORANGE ICE.

Squeese the juice of 8 good oranges and 2 lemons, pour over the broken peel and pulp 5 gills of boiling water; let it cool: strain and add the water to the orange and lemon juice. Sweeten to suit the taste with loaf sugar. Freeze in another freezer, serve both white and pink on each dish. This arrangement is very pretty and gives variety.

UNSIGHTLY SKIN IS CLEARED BY POSLAM

To be rid of skin eruptions, pimples, etc., and to quickly clear an inflamed complexion or red nose, use Poslam as soon as the trouble is noted.

If eczema, acne, barbers' itch or any stubborn disease afflicts, cut it without extended treatment through the timely application of Poslam. This perfect remedy heals the skin under all conditions more rapidly and more effectively than anything yet devised. Itching stops at once. Use Poslam now to eradicate some minor blemish, and prove its merit.

The daily use of POSLAM SOAP, an absolutely pure soap medicated with Poslam, is of inestimable benefit to all whose skin is subject to eruptional troubles. Soothes tender skin; never irritates; ideal for baby's bath; best shampoo for dandruff.

Henry Willis, 4 St. John street, and all druggists sell Poslam and Poslam Soap. For free samples, write to the Emergency Laboratories, 32 West 25th St., New York City.

SAY CZAREVITCH WILL RECOVER

Crown Prince Alexis Is Key To Succession Of The Romanoff Dynasty.

St. Petersburg, Oct. 28.—The latest reports received in court circles from Spala give assurances of the recovery of Crown Prince Alexis. Apart from the meagre details of the doctors' bulletins not a single fact has been allowed to appear in the Russian newspapers regarding the illness of the heir to the throne, and the whole nation is deeply incensed by the rigid censorship.

The secrecy with respect to the injuries from which the Crown Prince is suffering has bred a crop of sensational rumor. The fact are that eleven day ago a childish prank moved the little Prince to climb a high cupboard in the hunting lodge at Spala, where the Imperial family was sojourning He slipped and fell, striking a sharp corner of a chair and sustaining numerous bruises.

The frightened attendants tried to make light of the accident and the Prince bore the sharp pain without flinching. The two physicians who are always in attendance on the Prince reported that he had sustained severe injuries in the region of the liver.

A panic prevailed, but no hint of the truth was permitted to leak until his condition became critical, when the country was startled by the physicians' bulletins.

Life Means Much to Russians.

According to the law of the house of the Romanoffs, the succession devolves on the males. Only when the male line is exhausted can the females succeed to the throne. The Emperor's sole surviving brother, Grand Duke Michel, eloped and contracted a morganatic marriage with the wife of a brother officer in 1910, thereby forfeiting the rights of succession. The next heir, Grand Duke Cyril, the handsome young sailor son of the late Grand Duke Vladimir, married the diverced wife of the Grand Duke of Hesse, thus incurring the displeasure of the Imperial family and the Hesse family.

All who are initiated in the mysteries of the court agree that the succession would give play to warring influences dangerous to the dynasty.

For the welfare of Russia and the Romanoffs the preservation of the life of Crown Prince Alexis is of paramount importance. He is a lively child and is watched over day and night by an old nurse and the sailor Derevenko. But he has repeatedly caused consternation to the court by giving them the slip. Last winter the whole garrison was scouring the precincts of the palace for several hours while the Prince remained hidden in a big Chinese vase.

GOOD COMMON PIE CRUST.

One coffee cup lard, 3 of sifted flour and a little salt. In winter soften the lard a little (but not in summer); cut it well into the flour with a knife, then mix with cold water quickly into a moderately stiff dough, handling as little as possible. This makes four common-sized pies (covered). Take a new slice of paste each time for top crust. After rolling, spread with a teaspoon, butter, fold and roll again, using trimmings, etc., for under crust.

STOMACH STARVERS EAT ANYTHING NOW

No Indigestion, Dyspepsia, or sour, gassy, upset stomach for "Pape's Diapepsin" users.

Every year regularly more than a million stomach sufferers in the United States, England and Canada take Pape's Diapepsin, and realize not only immediate, but lasting relief.

This harmless preparation will digest anything you eat and overcome a sour, gassy or out-of-order stomach five minutes afterwards.

If your meals don't fit comfortably, or what you eat lies like a lump of lead in your stomach, or if you have heartburn, that is a sign of indigestion.

Get from your pharmacist a fifty-cent case of Pape's Diapepsin and take a dose just as soon as you can. There will be no sour risings, no belching of undigested food mixed with acid, no stomach gas or heartburn, fullness or heavy feeling in the stomach, nausea, debilitating headaches, dizziness or intestinal griping. This will all go, and, besides, there will be no sour food left over in the stomach to poison your breath with nauseous odors.

Pape's Diapepsin is a certain cure for outof-order stomachs, because it takes hold of your food and digests it just the same as if your stomach wasn't there.

Relief in five minutes from all stomach misery is waiting for you at any drug store.

These large fifty-cent cases contain more than sufficient to thoroughly cure almost any case of dsypepsia, indigestion or any other stomach disorder.

Itching and Burning on Face and Throat

Sores Disfigured So He Dreaded to Appear in Public. No Rest Night or Day. Cuticura Ointment Cured.

"Six months ago my face and throat all broke out and turned into a running sore. I did not bother about it at first, but in one week's time the disease had spread so rapidly over my face and throat and the burning itching sores became so painful that I began to seek relief in different medicines, but none seemed to give me any relief. The sores disfigured my face to such an extent that I dreaded to appear in public.

"I suffered terribly and could get no rest night or day. At last a friend advised me to try the Cuticura Remedies. I had about given up hope, but thought I would have one more try, and so I used a little Cuticura Ointment, and it helped me from the start. I continued using it and in six weeks' time was completely cured, and can say I would advise anyone suffering from skin disease to use Cuticura Ointment, as it is the best healing balm in the world." (Signed) Roscoe Good, Seven Persons, Alta., Feb. 18, 1911.

FOUND RELIEF ONLY FROM CUTICURA SOAP AND OINTMENT

"My little girl when only a few weeks old broke out on the top of her head and it became a solid scab. Then her cheeks became raw and sore, and after trying different remedies found relief only from using Cuticura Soap and Ointment. It lasted six months or more, but after a thorough treatment with the Cuticura Soap and Ointment never had any return." (Signed) Mrs. W. S. Owen, Yadkin College, N. C., May 26, 1911.

For more than a generation Cuticura Soap and Ointment have afforded the most successful treatment for skin and scalp troubles of infants, children and adults. A single cake of Cuticura Soap and box of Cuticura Ointment are often sufficient. Although sold by druggists and dealers throughout the world, a liberal sample of each, with 32-p. book on the skin, will be sent free, on application to Potter Drug & Chem. Corp., 54 Columbus Ave., Boston, U. S. A.

DIZZINESS ANOTHER SYMPTOM of EYESTRAIN.

To the lay mind it may be difficult to understand how dizziness can be induced by the eyes, yet many cases of vertigo are due to nothing more or less than eyestrain. If your system is in good order, your dizzy spells are undoubtedly caused by the strained condition of your eyes. The right glasses will correct this defect in your vision and you will never be troubled with dizziness from this source again. We make glasses for this purpose at satisfactory prices.

GLIMPSES OF OLD QUEBEC

From the Files of the CHRONICLE, October, 1812 and 1882.

A HUNDRED YEARS AGO TODAY

To the Inhabitants of Canada.

Countrymen.

A crisis has arrived. These moments are precious. Your vital interests are deeply involved in the passing events.

The intentions of the enemy now lie naked to our view. This last attack on our lines at Niagara, at a moment a messenger of peace was approaching their coast, ought to remove the last trace of hope. An attempt to retake Detroit was required by the honor of the enemy, but a further exertion of active hostilities, at this precise time, would appear conclusive evidence, that there does not remain within his plans any state of things that can lead to an accommodation. For the purposes of negotiation, it would have been sufficient to have continued measures of precaution.

Countrymen!

The hour is solemn. We are menaced with a total change. How have you felt, when a harvest full of promise, has filled you with visions of various abundance, when the whole has been cut off, in the short interval of a night? With what feelings have you seen your accustomed mansion, disappear in flames, perhaps in the brief passage of an hour? How have you endured the sight of your lovely child, lying in the last noiseless cradle of death, and how have you endured the mortal stillness that ensued? But what are they to the change that is waving its black plumes now in the distance?

We live under a government that is never seen or heard of, but to exempt us from evil;! and we are led by a clergy worthy of the primitve times. Together they have secured to us a moral tranquillity that secures to us the rewards for a better world.

THIRTY YEARS AGO TODAY

Illness of Lady Lagevin.

The intelligence of the critical illness of Lady Langevin was received in town yesterday with unfeigned expressions of deep regret on the part of all classes in the community. Sir Hector was telegraphed for, and arrived in town yesterday morning, having travelled by special train from Montreal in four hours.

The last rites of the Church have been administered to the sick lady, and the Abbe F. H. Belanger, of the Basilica, was yesterday summoned to her bedside. It is feared that Lady Langevin cannot survive long. Twice yesterday unfounded rumors of her decease were circulated in town.

Hon. Mr. Mousseau Interviewed.

Hon. I. A. Mausseau, Premier of Quebec, in an interiew with your correspondent, said the chief objection of the Quebec Conservatives to the ratification of the boundary award was that they had no confidence in the impartiality of the arbitrators, especially Sir Francis Hincks. Metcalf, in his biographies of Sir Francis Hincks and his early contempotaies, describes Sir Francis as a gentleman neither over honest nor over-scrupulous. I think experience has proved the correstness of that description.

The "Shirevlty" of Quebec.

The name of Hon. John Hearn is mentioned for the "shrievalty" in connection with the reported superannuation of the present incumbent.

FRANCE FIRM IN EXTERNAL POLICY

Collaboration With Germany Is Not Modification Of The Triple Entente.

Paris, Oct. 28.—The unswerving fidelity of the Triple entente was the keynote of Premier Poincare's speech at Nantes yesterday, in which the Premier, as is customary on the eve of the re-assembly of the Chamber, placed before the country the views of the country with reference to both external and internal affairs.

M. Poincare lost no time in shattering the idea that in collaborating with Germany in the search for a means to re-establish peace in the Balkans France was preparing to modify the lines of her external policy.

"We have no thought of changing our friendships," said he, referring to allusions in the foreign newspapers. "The ties binding us to Russia and Great Britain are interwoven imperishably. They are dictated by sentiment, interest and political probity. Nothing can sever an entente the solidity of which continues to be indispensable to the maintenance of European equilibrium."

M. Poincare went on to say:—"We find in this lasting intimacy one of the best reasons for the hope that the war will be confined to the Balkan States and can be arrested by Europe at the earliest opportune moment."

Mediation Perhaps Near.

The Premier dwelt on the constant activities in the concord of powers and the necessity of sustaining the vitality of the concert in order to prevent "the inevitable diversity of interests from degenerating into dissension and conflict," so that joint mediation might be undertaken at the proper time. His nearest approach to information in this connection, however, was the statement that the day of mediation was "perhaps near."

He made an eloquent appeal to the nation, at a moment when the tranquility of the world was threatened by an explosion of incompressible forces, to rally around the national ideal and crush out all Isms tending to weaken the republic, and show to the world a united people, "who do not want war, but at the same time do not fear it."

A huge audience greeted this and the references to the entente with cheers that lasted many minutes. There was a rather noticeable absence in the Premier's speech of any mention of the status quo in the Balkans, which heretofore has been such a favorite fetish of the diplomats. Since the victories of the allied states, diplomack admits that the formula shows signs of becoming decripit. As one of the statesmen put it:—"It is more sickly even than is the 'sick man of Europe' at the present moment."

SAY CLAIRVOYANT POISONED HER SON

Chicago Mystic Facing Charge of Murder at Chicago--Other Murders Hinted At.

Chicago, Oct. 28.—The state introduced its principal evidence to-day in the trial of Mrs. Louise Lindloff, spiritualist, clairvoyant and crystal gazer, charged with poisoning her son, Arthur, and who the prosecution asserts predicted the deaths of the members of her family.

Dr. Walter Haines, toxicologist, testified that he found between three and four grains of a mineral poison, enough to cause death, in the body of Arthur Lindloff, the son of the defendant, and that he found the same drug in fatal quantities in the bodies of William Lindloff, one of Mrs. Lindloff's husbands, and of Alma Yindloff, her daughter.

"In my opinion all three members of the family died of poison," said Dr. Haines. He also testified that he had anaylized the powder in a box said to have been found in Mrs. Lindloff's house and found it to contain 80 per cent mineral poison. The embalming fluid used in the bodies, he said, contained no poison.

The undertaker who buried William Lindloff testified that Mrs. Lindloff told him that he would have another funeral at her house within a year. An insurance agent testified that the woman placed a $2000 policy on the boy's life a few months before his death.

Testimony favorable to the accused woman was given by Dr. John M. Berger, who said that Mrs. Lindloff was willing that the body of the boy should be examined and volunteered the information that another physician had told her that he had symptoms of poisoning.

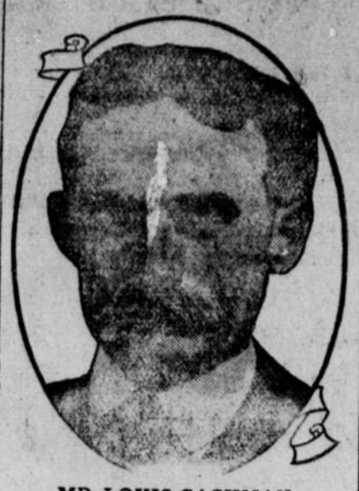

Accusations that the state's witnesses were being approached led to a guard being placed about them by detectives. A number of fortune tellers, crystal gazers and mediums, some of whom are from distant cities, are attending the trial. They and the defendant profess to see spirits hovering about the court room and to receive messages from them concerning the case.

A Great Tonic For the Nerves

MR. LOUIS GACHMAN.

"For about ten years I was troubled with a nervous ailment, tried many different medicines and a specialist, but could not get right. Finally I tried Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey, taking a tablespoonful four times a day. I improved from the first, and to-day am as well as any man could be; am 46 years old and feel as though I were 20. There is nothing to equal your excellent remedy. I know, for I have had experience. I will always recommend it, as I want to help my fellowmen, and in this way do a little towards repaying you for the great good you have done me."—Louis Gachman, 327 Tayco St., Menasha, Wis.

Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey

through its tonic and rebuilding constituents, will relieve troublesome nervous complaints by supplying the system with those vital elements which it needs to bring about a complete restoration to health.

More than half the trouble with nervous run down people is due to faulty digestion, and this is the result of tired, unexercised muscles. Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey used as directed stimulates the digestion and enables you to get vitality, energy, nerve power and strength from the food you eat.

You should have it in your home. It will prove its value in the many ordinary illnesses of a family or for an emergency.

CHARLES M. TEAKLE DIED YESTERDAY

Member of Chronicle Staff Succumbs to a Severe Attack of Pleuro-Pneumonia.

With feelings of the deepest regret the Chronicle is called on this morning to announce the death of Charles Mills Teakle, one of the most gifted and reliable members of its editorial staff, sporting editor and general news writer, who died shortly after noon yesterday following a severe attack of pleuro-pneumonia, which developed two weeks ago from a cold he contracted at Boston the previous week. His illness only lasted two weeks, during which he put up a stubborn fight for life, but notwithstanding the greatest care and every effort known to medical science he failed to recover.

Three weeks ago Mr. Teakle left for Boston on a well deserved holiday. While in that city he contracted a cold which he did not consider serious, and in consequence paid no attention to it. On his return to Quebec he resumed his work in his usual cheerful spirits, but on Monday afternoon he became so ill that he was obliged to go to his home and take to his bed.

He was stricken with pleuro-pneumonia, and notwithstanding the care accorded him by his medical attendants and the hopes entertained for his ultimate recovery by his physicians, family and friends he died yesterday surrounded by his fond parents and his brothers and sisters.

The tidings of his death came as a great shock to his confreres on the Chronicle and every member of the staff connected with the various branches of the establishment, with whom he was a great favorite, keenly feel his loss.

To properly appreciate the true manhood of "Charley" Teakle one had to know him in life. He was a man of exceptional character and possessed of a rarely happy and lovable disposition. His friends were legion in every walk of life, and as for enemies he was never known to have one. He was an affectionate son, who loved and honored his parents and family, and a reliable friend, as well as a man who followed the golden rule of true charity.

He was never known to say an unkind word of his neighbor, or take part in any conversation that had the least tendency toward unkind gossip. In a word he was one of nature's gentlemen. He led a clean, honorable life, and his death is a sad loss to the entire community.

Charles Teakle was the son of Mr. Thomas Teakle, of the Chronicle business staff. He was born in Quebec in 1864, and after leaving school entered into the employ of the old Quebec Evening Mercury to learn the printing trade, and later was promoted to be foreman of that newspaper, and finally had charge of the news department.

Ten years ago he became identified with the Chronicle reportorial staff, and became sporting editor, also telegraph news editor. For some years he was official reporter of the Quebec Board of Trade meetings, and at the time of his death was the night Quebec representative of the Canadian Press Association. He also at times acted as special correspondent for various leading Canadian newspaoers, and had the well deserved reputation of being one of Quebec's best and most reliable newspaper men, as well as an acknowledged authority on sporting matters.

He was a great favorite with the members of the Quebec city press, irrespective of creed or nationality.

Mr. Teakle was a prominent member of the Masonic order, and connected with St. John's Lodge. He was also a member of the Brittanic Lodge of I.O.O.F., and in both organizations held high offices.

He was a life long and devout member of St. Matthew's congregation and in his younger days was connected with the church choir and was highly esteemed by his pastor, Rev. Canon F. G. Scott, who also deeply feels his loss.

Besides his parents he leaves four sisters and four brothers.

His colleagues in the Chronicle establishment, who all held him in the highest esteem for his sterling integrity of character, his kind and genial disposition and his natural sympathetic nature, extend his parents and family their sincere heartfelt sympathy in their sad affliction.

DEATH OF WM. ALBERT PERRY

William Albert Perry, aged 42 years, brother of Mr. James Perry, furniture dealer, St. Paul street, passed away yesterday after an illness of two months. Deceased in his lifetime was a prominent athlete, and took a deep interest in all sporting events. He was a man of retiring disposition and highly respected by a large circle of friends.

AUSTRIAN BUSINESS MEN VISIT QUEBEC

Members of Prague Chamber of Commerce Inspecting the Opportunities of City.

Dr. J. M. Jaroslav Hovak and Dr. Zoenko Faft, members of the Prague, Austria, Chamber of Commerce and Industry, who come to attend the world's convention held at Boston, Mass., under the auspices of the Boston Chamber of Commerce recently, arrived in Quebec on Saturday and registered at the Chateau Frontenac.

Both gentlemen, who have made a tour of the United States and the principal cities of Canada, have come to Quebec to study its commercial importance, and at the same time inspect the government immigration buildings and note the arrangements for the general handling of immigrants who arrive from all parts of the world at this port.

In an interview with a Chronicle reporter yesterdal, Dr. Doenko Fafl, who is a young man and speaks excellent English, said he was delighted with his visit to Canada and was greatly surprised at its size and the progress of its industry.

Speaking of Quebec, he said: "The port was without doubt one of the most magnificent in the world for its natural resources for shipping, and must eventually become famous for its shipping as the natural gateway of the Dominion."

He was also agreeably surprised at the many advantages the city offered for manufacturing and general trade purposes, as well as the beauty of the city's scenic surroundings.

Interest In Immigration.

Dr. Zoenko Fafl said he was particularly interested in viewing Quebec's accommodation for the landing and inspection of immigrants to Canada. He passed several hours yesterday forenoon inspecting the wharves and buildings at the Louise docks, and was especially interested in his observation of the inspection of immigrants that arrived by the steamer Scandinavian.

He was shown over the permises by the courteous acting immigration agent, Mr. Stafford, who treated him with extreme courtesy and gave him all the information he and his companion desired. He said that the way immigrants were received and handled was a credit to the Dominion Government.

Doctors Zoenko Fafl and Jaroslav Hovak leave this morning for New York, where they will sail for home.

THANKSGIVING DAY IS QUIETLY OBSERVED.

Yesterday was Thanksgiving Day and a statutory holiday. In consequence all public offices and banks were closed, and business in a measure suspended. Church services were held on Sunday, and many of those relieved from the strain of their every day tasks, enjoyed their holiday by a trip to the country.

The St. Louis Hotel served a special Thanksgiving dinner last evening, which attracted a considerable number of diners.

AT THE AUDITORIUM.

"Wonderful!" That is what the people were saying last night coming out of the Auditorium. In fact, the last number of the vaudeville is really wonderful. The flying Henrys are probably the best acrobats we have seen in this city for years and the other acts are not to be forgotten.

Miss Louise Collerette has a splendid voice and she knows how to manage it. She wears fine dresses that pleases the ladies, who are also satisfied with the performance of Dorothee Reid & Co.

Harry Larivee ings nicely in French and English. He is also a good comedian. The Knox Brothers are musical comedians that are already known in Quebec. They were applauded as they came on the stage and they were applauded many a time during their act, and they deserved it.

The pictures this week are most interesting. There will be a change of pictures for the matinee Thursday and balance of the week.

Except Wednesday and Thursday there will be three performance during this week.

"ELIJAH" AND CALVE CONCERTS.

The production of "Elijah" by the Majestic Opera Company of New York, which is to be given at the Auditorium Thursday night, is the first on the American continent of the Mendelssohn oratorio in opera form. It has been done in England, with great success, although it had to overcome the opposition of those who thing religious subjects unsuited to the stage. This prejudice, happily, has been overcome by Wagner's "Parsifal" and, in lesser degree, by Saint Saens Samson at Dalila." As staged by the Majestic Company, "Elijah" has all the grandeur of "Parsifal."

A house that will tax the capacity of the Auditorium promises to greet Mme. Calve at the Auditorium tomorrow night, when she and her husband, the Italian tenor, Galileo Gasparri, appear in a concert program which will include scenes in costume and with scenery from Bizet's "Carmen" and Mascagni's "Cavalleria Rusticana."

FOREST ENGINEER HOME FROM TRIP

Felix Laliberte Returns From Clergue Expedition To The Hudson Bay Country.

Mr. Felix Laliberte, forestry engineer, who, at the request of of the Crown Lands Department, accompanied the Clergue expedition to Hudson Bay to explore the forest on both sides of the Nottaway River, returned to town yesterday with his three companions, Messrs. Donat Brule, Homede Dery and Gustave Lord.

A few weeks ago three members of the Laliberte party were drowned on the Nottaway River, but their bodies were recovered by Mr. Lemoine's surveying party which is following Mr. Laliberte's party, and were buried on the shore of the river.

IMMIGRANTS COME FROM SCOTLAND

S.S. Scandinavian Brings a Big Crowd of Desirable Settlers From Old Country.

The Allan Line steamer Scandinavian arrived in port yesterday from Glasgow with 388 passengers, 188 second cabin and 200 steerage, all immigrants who have come to settle in Canada.

The steerage passengers are specimens of Scotch settlers, apparently well educated and in good circumstances, who are going to friends throughout the Canadian West.

After their medical and civil inspections the immigrants were conveyed to their new western homes by a C.P.R. special.

DEADLY CYANIDE WON'T KILL CAT

Expert Says One-Sixteenth of a Grain Didn't Touch One of Nine Lives.

Kansas City, Mo., Oct. 0.—Dr. W. M. Cross, city chemist, was willing to confess that he doesn't understand the theories of the law and the courts on what is proper testimony. He offered to risk the nine lives of a cat in the court room at Nowata, Okla., to prove his testimony for the defence in the murder trial. C. L. Harkins was accused of the murder of a man, his wife and a young woman, Harkins' sweetheart, by poison. The chemist for the prosecution said he obtained one-sixteenth of a grain of cyanide of potassium from one of the bodies. He administered it to a cat, whereupon the feline "uttered a cry" and fell over dead.

"I told the judge and the jury that it couldn't have been cyanide," Dr. Cross said at the City Hall. "I asked them to let me administer a dose to a cat in the court room to show that one-sixteenth wouldn't kill a cat. The lawyers for the prosecution objected. Even the lawyer on my side was afraid. He feared the cat might die of heart failure. To convince him I told him to bring me a cat. He did. Five minutes after I gave the first dose I gave another sixteenth of a grain. That cat is still chasing mice in Nowata. I don't think I touched one of its lives. But the court said it was not proper testimony for a jury.

"Now I'd like to know what the law considers proper testimony. Then when I was finally allowed to tell what I had done to our lawyer's cat the day before they brought in all the druggists in town to testify that there wasn't any good cyanide in Nowata—it had deteriorated. So I went to the drug store and brought before the jury the bottle from which I obtained the poison. It was labelled: —"Tested full strength under government Pure Food and Drugs Act."

BAILEY WINNER IN HERALD ROAD RACE

Captures "Round-the-Mountain" Event, Defeating Fabre Who Won Last Year.

Montreal, Oct. 28.—W. Bailey, of the Montreal Amateur Athletic Association, won the Herald round-the-mountain race from a good field of long distance men, including Ed. Fabre, the famous National A. A. A. runner, who finished first in this event last year, and competed in the Marathon as the representative of the Dominion at the recent Olympiad at Stockholm.

Bailey ran well from the first, and finished the distance, approximately ten miles, in 57 minutes 50 seconds. The record for the course is 56 minutes 54 seconds, made by Jim Robson, of the Gordon Harriers, the year before last. Eugene Clouette, of the Nationals, finished second some distance behind the winner, and W. Showers, of St. Patrick's A. A. A., came third, an equal distance behind Clouette.

JIM FLYNN MATCHED WITH LUTHER McCARTHY

Los Angeles, Cal., Oct. 28.—Jim Flynn and Luther McCarthy were matched to-day to fight twenty rounds at the Vernon Arena, Dec. 10 in the first of Promoter McCarey's "white hope" elimination contests in the heavyweight division. It was announced the winner would be offered a match with Al Palzer.

ALL-HALIFAX RUGBY DEFEATS MONTREAL TEAM

Halifax, N. S., Oct. 28.—The Montreal English Rugby team was able to score one try against All-Halifax in the game this afternoon and they did this amid a big round of applause, for the team is popular and it would not have displeased a majority of the crowd had the visitors won. The score at the end was 14 to 3, in favor of All-Halifax.

BASEBALL STARS FINED FOR SUNDAY PLAYING.

New York, Oct. 28.—Hal. Chase, Cy Seymour, Louis Drucke, Josh Devore, Nick Altrock, Fred Schaffer and eight other stars of the baseball diamond, were fined $5 each to-day in Police Court for playing professional ball on Sunday. The ball players told the Court that they did not know they were violating the law. They were arrested while playing.

Paris, Oct. 28.—Premier Poincare and Tomasso Tittoni, the Italian Ambassador to France, to-day signed an agreement reciprocally recognizing France's right of entire freedom of action in Morocco and Italy's complete liberty in the government of Libya. In the agreement France and Italy grant each other the most favored nation treatment in Morocco and Libya respectively.

CARLISLE INDIANS BEAT VARSITY OLD BOYS, 49-1

Toronto, Oct. 28.—The exhibition football game between the Carlisle Indians and the Varsity Old Boys this afternoon was a one-sided affair, the Indians winning by 49 to 1. While the Old Boys team included such former stars as Lawson, Dixon, Newton and Gall, the others were not of brilliant aclibre, aid the team had had but one practice, while three of its members had already played in the stiff game between Parkdale and the Alerts this morning.

HAMILTON ALERTS BEAT PARKDALE—SCORE 24-10

Toronto, Oct. 28—Hamilton Alerts, in the Ontario Football Union championship game with Parkdale this morning, won by 24 to 10. The crowd was somewhat disappointed at the Alerts' work, while they won, it was a victory of steadiness over brilliance, all the sensational plays being pulled off by Parkdale. Hugh Gall's mammoth punts and well-judged runs kept the visitors guessing and Mack and Adams gave good support. The men on the Parkdale line, while doing good individual work, did not play together as a team, thus losing hard-earned ground.

BROCKVILLE, 22; WESTMOUNT, 15

OTTAWAS NEARING THE CHAMPIONSHIP

Montreal Defeated at Rugby 13-6—Fourth Straight Win In "Big Four."

Ottawa, Oct. 28.—The Ottawa Football Club is now within sixty minutes of the championship of the Interprovincial Amateur Rugby Union. In the match against Montreal at Lansdowne Park to-day they had little difficulty in making it four stright in the "Big Four," defeating the Winged Wheelers by a score of 13 to 6.

In the early stages of the match the wearers of red and blue were so completely outclassed that it looked as if the Ottawas would register another shut-out against the pupils of Art Ross, but Galvin's lightning-like team eased up near the end and Montreal, rallying unexpectedly, scored a try and a rouge in the last quarter. They grew somewhat dangerous near the colse, but brilliant defensive play by Williams, Simpson and Fleming kept them outside the danger zone.

The match was a good one, replete with long punting and running, but once more it was too rough for the good of the players and on several occasions play was stopped. There was no love lost between the teams and at the close neraly every man on the line was cut and bleeding.

It was a strenuous exhibition from start to finish and Refrees Robins and Ripley, both of Hamilton, had their hands full. The Ottawas showed brilliancy in every departmnnt in the first half, but in the second, apparently, withi Arfgonaut game of Saturday next fixed in their minds, they were apparently "under wraps."

In the second quarter Baillie, of Ottawa, was thrown behind his line and was carried off within a broken collarbone.

ST. PATRICK'S HOCKEY CLUB TO MEET TO-NIGHT

A most important meeting of the St. Patrick's Hockey Club will take place in St. Patrick's Hall at 8 o'clock this evening, as several matters of the utmost importance will be discussed. The St. Pats, as reported a few days ago, are anxious to enter the Interprovincial Hockey League, and Messrs. Hanrahan and Conway, who had been delegated to Montreal in this connection will return to town this mornning and report the result of their visit at to-night's meeting.

INDIAN THOMAS WINNER OF CUP AT HALIFAX

Halifax, N. S., Oct. 28.—It is estimated that 25,000 people saw the Halifax Herald's ten mile road race today, which won won by Michael Thams, an Indian, rfom Prince Edward Island, who has twice before captured first place and now becomes owner of the cup. His time was 57 minutes 30¼ seconds. James McKay, of Halifax, was only four seconds behind, and Alfred Rogers, also of Halifax, was third. William Thornton, an 18-year-old boy, was fourth. D. H. Chambers, of St. John, put up a great race, this being his first appearance in the Marathon in Halifax, taking sixth place and coming about 44 second behind the Indian winner.

GERMANY'S NEW RULES FOR OCEAN-GOING STEAMSHIPS

Berlin, Oct. 28.—New rules for ocean-going steamships were approved to-day at a conference held at the Ministry of the Interior at which representatives of the German ministries, the federal council and the shipping interests were present. The new rules have been adopted as the basis of Germany's attitude at the international maritime conference to be held in London. They deal with the question of bulkheads, life boats, wireless telegraphy and the reporting of icebergs.

All passenger steamers carrying 75 persons including the crew, and freighters carrying a crew of 60, must in future be equipped with wireless telegraphy having a radius of 100 sea miles.

These vessels must also carry a certain proportion of skilled oarsmen to man the lifeboats.

The regulations as to bulkheads have been thoroughly amended.

The easiest, safest, quickest and most economical way to move pianos and heavy furniture is—with a freight elevator.

"She liked it except for the scratch it got coming down the staire."

Convenience in the Showroom Demands an Elevator in the Wareroom

FINELY finished pianos or furniture require extremely careful handling. When they don't get it, there is a constant expense for repairs and refinishing.

Besides — heavy goods entail an endless labor expense, if they have to be handled up and down stairways. The cost of the labor required to shift them a few times makes a large hole in the profits.

Stop this endless drain.

The handling of goods from one part of a building to another is done most cheaply with an Otis-Fensom Freight Elevator.

The same work can be done with fewer men, in less time, and without even the risk of damage to the goods. It also enables you to carry any kind of stock on any floor and to get it just as easily as if it were all on the same floor. Our book, "Freight Elevators and Their Uses," gives an interesting outline of the many uses and advantages of a freight elevator. It is free. Ask for one. Use this coupon.

ROYALTY IN FOREST AND ON LINKS

KING GEORGE AND HIS QUEEN ARE ENJOYING THEIR ANNUAL TRIP TO BALMORAL CASTLE.

[Special Despatch.]
LONDON, Saturday.

KING GEORGE and Queen Mary are now entertaining a succession of big parties at Balmoral Castle, which will be interrupted for only a few days while the King visits East Anglia for the military manoeuvres. The King is generally out about eight in the morning and, accompanied by the Prince of Wales and Prince Albert, and two or three friends, makes an early start for the moors.

When the Court departs from Balmoral the King will begin his annual round of shooting parties. In the intervals of shooting over the royal preserves at Windsor he will pay three or four country house visits for the sport. Among those who are to entertain the monarch are the Earl and Countess of Iveagh at Elveden Hall, where both the King and his late father have been frequent guests. Though the wet summer has spoiled sport in most counties this year, the prospect of good bags from the Elveden preserves is favorable. Another visit will be paid by the King and Queen to the Duke and Duchess of Devonshire at Chatsworth House. On this visit there will be the usual theatrical performance—not necessarily an amateur one—as in the old days, in the little theatre that is part of the house.

All the houses at the King's disposal around Balmoral are filled with guests this year. "Out" guests, as the others are called by the rural inhabitants, are frequently invited to the castle and the royal automobiles and carriages, of which a great number have been sent down from London, are at their disposal. Lord and Lady Knollys see much of the King and Queen and the royal children, with whom they are, and always have been, great favorites. They are stopping at Craig Gowan, one of the most charming residences on the royal estates.

Though Princess Mary, like her mother, is very fond of automobiling she loves her ponies best and is said to have been delighted when informed that her pet steeds were being sent to Balmoral from Norfolk during her holiday in the north. She goes out riding every morning, but in the afternoon oftener accompanies the Queen driving. The Prince of Wales, when not joining the shooting parties, is often to be seen cycling along the smooth, well kept roads which run along the Dee banks away to Ballater or to Braemar. He is said to be looking forward with eagerness to his course of studies at Oxford, and Oxford residents are delighted at the idea of having the Prince among them and that the rooms to be occupied by the new royal undergraduate are the same as were occupied several centuries ago by a son of Henry VII. when Prince of Wales.

There are more Americans in Scotland this year than usual. The land of the heather is, for the moment, the playground of many who took part in the big social doings in London this summer. Both American hosts and hostesses are on the increase, and large parties have gathered since the opening of the shooting season at the various lodges rented by Americans for the autumn months.

The Duchess of Marlborough has fresh batches of friends each week. Mr. and Mrs. Bradley Martin have their second big gathering for the shooting, and Mr. and Mrs. John Magee are entertaining a series of parties at Urie Castle, near Stonehaven, throughout the month. So far as is definitely known at present, Mr. and Mrs. Magee will go to India this winter as guests of Sir George Ross-Keppel, Agent to the Governor General, at Government House, Peshawur. When this trip is concluded they will make a tour through India and be back in London for at least part of the summer season of 1913.

Lord and Lady Granard are still entertaining at Castle Forbes, where Lady Paget and Mrs. Ronald Greville are guests.

Lord and Lady Anglesey have been on a long cruise, during which they paid a visit to Lady Cunard, and had what they termed a "heavenly time" at her palazzo in Venice. Lady Cunard has her daughter with her there, having lessons in music and painting, of which she is very fond.

ROYALTY AND THE ROYAL AND ANCIENT GAME OF GOLF.

[Special Despatch.]
LONDON, Saturday.

PERHAPS it is only in keeping with the traditions of the game of golf, which is proverbially both "royal and ancient," that royal ladies, as well as the male members of the royal family, should be keen on the game. In fact, it is on record that the first ladies who practised golf were queens of England and Scotland.

Mention has been made lately that Queen Mary has been playing golf on the links at Balmoral, as if it were something that she has never attempted befo: As a matter of fact, she first took to the game last year, and was induced to continue her practice this season by Princess Mary, who takes a great interest in the game and is quite enthusiastic over it. So rapid is her progress that it is said she bids fair to become as good a player as Princess Patricia of Connaught, who is accounted one of the best lady players in the royal family. She is usally her mother's companion and opponent on the links.

It would be the sheerest flattery to say that Queen Mary is a good player. As Princess Mary laughingly says of her mother's driving, "It is strong, but occasionally wide." But the Queen enters into the game most heartily when once she can be induced to start.

King George finds but little time to play golf while at his highland residence, since shooting and deer stalking possess much greater attractions. Like his late father, he would be considered a "limit" man in any ordinary club. Luckily his influence on the game depends in no degree on his personal skill, and since he ascended the throne he has taken his father's place as patron of many of the proud clubs which bear the title royal to the forefront of their names.

The Prince of Wales and Prince George are ardent golfers and very good players, too. Those who have watched the progress of the Prince of Wales say he is now fully equal to the ordinary five handicap player. He takes golf very seriously, and after a game will go back and practise a difficult shot until he has mastered it. His brother is more dashing and more attractive to watch than the heir to the throne. His style is said to resemble very much that of his grandfather, King Edward. It must be confessed, however, that King Edward, though always generous in his encouragement of golf and golfers, notably during his visits to Marienbad, where he was frequently on the links and where he gave many prizes for competition, never showed any sign of being more than an average player.

Both the Duke and Duchess of Connaught are very fond of the game, though their official and social duties have ever prevented them from indulging in it as much as they might otherwise have done.

The great golfing branch of the English throne is, of course, the house of Schleswig-Holstein. Prince Christian has "driven the first ball" at the openings of many new courses, as to the manner born, and both his children, Prince Albert and Princess Victoria, are enthusiastic players. Prince Albert is recognized the champion of all royal golfers, being only two strokes, or thereby, worse than scratch at Sunningdale, of which club he was the founder, and winner of club prizes. He was runner-up in the Founder's Cup competition at Sunningdale a few weeks ago, and the annual foursome, in which he and his sister, Princess Victoria, oppose each other, partnered respectively by "Jack" White and J. H. Taylor, has been established for several years, the lady's side always receiving the odds of a third. A cup is the symbol of victory in this novel family match, and up to the present the Princess and her brother have each won it twice.

The future Empress of Germany also must be enrolled among the devotees of golf, if one may judge by the attention given to the game by the Crown Prince and Princess during their recent visit to Ceylon, where both of them played several rounds on the links of the Nuwara Eliya Club, near Colombo.

The Grand Duke Mikhailovitch of Russia is another keen royal golfer. He has done much for the promotion of golf on the Continent, and has a private links around his beautiful ground at Kenwood, adjoining Hampstead Heath.

But the connection of British sovereigns with the links has been a remarkable one. It is on record in the "Book of the Chronicles of the Kings of England" that Queen Caroline of Aragon, the unhappy wife of Henry VIII., wrote to Cardinal Wolsey that she found in golf her only recreation from the dreariness of her deserted court. There was Mary, Queen of Scots, who was a player of no small prowess if her victories over the French cadets are to be taken as a criterion. Of Mary's son, James I. of England and VI. of Scotland, the records say very little, but it was he who brought golf to England and founded what is now the oldest golf club in the world, under the name of the Knuckle Club, more familiar to modern ears under the title of the Royal Blackheath. Charles I., however, who learned the game on the links of his native town of Dunfermline, appears at golf there, always as a figure of tragedy. He was playing at Leith when news was brought to him of the Irish rebellion, and immediately he abandoned his match and returned to his council at Holyrood. At Newcastle, while he was held prisoner there by the Scots, during the weary time that preceded his delivery to the English Parliament, he golfed in Shield Field, outside the walls of the town, often against an officer of the Scottish army, with a soldier attending him in the dual roll of guard and caddie.

His son, James II., the last of the Stuarts, was the hero of the first international foursome. When, as Duke of York, he was visiting the Scottish capital an argument with two English noblemen led to a challenge for a match and an undertaking by the royal player to find another Scot to oppose them. A shoemaker named Paterson was recommended to the Prince as a partner who could be relied upon. And evidently the Scottish artisan player was even then a force to be reckoned with, for the heir apparent and he defeated the two English nobles with the greatest ease, and James gave his partner the due share of the very considerable stake which changed hands over the match, with which the shoemaker bought himself a house in the Canongate of Edinburgh.

The Hanoverian kings who succeeded the Stuarts were not golfers, but the House of Hanover did not die out without leaving one name on the roll of golding fame. He was King William IV., who in 1834 gave to the St. Andrews Golf Club its present name of the Royal and Ancient Golf Club of St. Andrews. At the same time he presented the club with the gold medal which has ever since been the first prize at the autumn meeting. Four years later his consort, Queen Adelaide, presented to the club the medal which is named after her, and which, like the silver club, is one of the trophies theoretically won each season by the newly elected captain of the club when he strikes off the first ball of the year.

ENVY THIS BOY AND GIRL—THEY ARE KING AND QUEEN.

[Special Despatch.]
LONDON, Saturday.

THERE are perhaps few boys and girls who have not dreamed how fine it would be to be King and Queen of an island.

On a rocky island of seventy acres, called Steepholme, in the Bristol Channel, dwell a boy and a girl who are the envied of hundreds of others. For the boy is "king" of the island and "monarch of all he surveys," while his sister is "queen." They are the children of a West of England business man, who has leased the island and installed his children, James and Madge, there to rule and play at empires to their hearts' content.

Owing to its distance from land, the uncertainty of landing and the danger of regaining the boat, very few people ever visit it, and few boatmen on the coast care to undertake the task of conducting tourists there.

Steepholme was once a fortress commanding the channel, and there are still scattered all over the island the abandoned ammunition stores and offices, while the batteries are still almost intact, even to the big guns.

James is a courteous, reliant and sturdy young man. He is well versed in everything connected with his island "empire." can point out the nesting places of the peregrine-falcon, buzzard and other rare birds. As a naturalist he can name many rare plants, and is proud of the beautiful peony which is found there in its wild state. Rabbits are plentiful, and the "king" amuses himself by keeping the animals under. The fish are unequalled in the channel. It is only necessary to hang a net upon a few poles at the end of the island and when the tide recedes there is an ample supply of fish to last for months.

And James is a busy "king." Water has to be carried up a steep, narrow pathway, the donkey must be tended to and potatoes and vegetables must be procured from the various gardens perched at dangerous angles round the precipitous slopes.

"Queen" Madge is a pretty girl in her teens, with a beautiful complexion and flowing hair. She discharges her domestic duties admirably and presides at tea with quiet ease and dignity. She has her fowls to attend to, and her herd of goats, adorned with fearsome horns, follow her obediently, each answering to its name. Madge is passionately fond of all animals, even the donkey, and they all vie with one another for just a moment's companionship with the island queen. The two young, self-reliant islanders, though often cut off for weeks from the outer world, are perfectly happy and think there is no place like their island home.

Their father, who regularly visits his childen, was induced to lease the island out of consideration for the health of two other members of the family, who have now developed into veritable giants—so much did they benefit from the bracing air and healthful conditions of the island.

[Special Despatch.]
LIVERPOOL, Saturday.

TENDERS for the steam turbine propelling machinery for the two new dreadnoughts that are to be begun at Portsmouth and Devonport, says the Express, as soon as ever the Iron Duke and the Marlborough have been launched next month, have been asked for already from British contractors.

Every possible effort is to be made to expedite their construction, and it is now understood that one, at least, of them is to be a vessel of enormous proportions. She will be laid down at Portsmouth on the slip vacated by the Iron Duke.

Her displacement is given as 30,000 tons, her length as 700 feet and her speed is to be about twenty-nine knots.

While the side plating of the ship will be heavier than that of the Iron Duke class, there will also be more adequate protection against attacks from the air. The recent developments of air craft have shown that the broad funnel openings leading down to the furnaces and engine rooms need to be screened. This will be a feature of the new design, and probably also steps will be taken to give better protection against aerial attack in the case of vessels completing and already in commission.

It is also stated that the new British ship is to be armed with 14-inch guns. The difference between the weight of the projectile thrown by this gun and that of the 13.5-inch at present in use is only 150 pounds, with practically the same penetrative power of hard steel plate.

A 15-inch gun, with a 1,720 pound shell, is already completed by Messrs. Vickers, with a much greater penetrative power, and there is some expectation in naval circles that this gun may be mounted in the dreadnoughts of this year's programme.

The new ship will be laid down about Christmas, and is to be completed within two years.

The launching of the new battle ship Marlborough at Devonport has been provisionally fixed for October 26, and it is expected that the Duchess of Marlborough will be able to perform the naming ceremony.

The Duchess of Wellington is to launch the Iron Duke at Portsmouth next month, probably on October 12.

THEY'RE STILL DISCUSSING PROFESSOR SCHAEFER'S "LIFE."

[Special Despatch.]
LONDON, Saturday.

ALL the scientists of England are still busy discussing the amazing theories advanced by Professor Schaefer, of Edinburgh University and president of the British Association, who has startled the whole of the medical profession by the extraordinary suggestion he has made to the association that life arises, in its primal form, spontaneously, without supernatural intervention, by chemical action, and that therefore artificial production of life is not by any means outside the region of possibility.

The most obvious manifestation of life, he said, is "spontaneous movement." We see a man, a dog, a bird move, and we know that they are alive. We place a drop of pond water under the microscope and see numberless particles rapidly moving within it; we affirm that it swarms with life. We notice a small mass of slime changing its shape, throwing out projections of its structureless substance, creeping from one part of the field of the microscope to another. We recognize that the slime is living. We observe similar movements in individual cells of our own body; in the white corpuscles of our blood, in connective tissue cells, in growing nerve cells, in young cells everywhere. We regard such movements as indicative of the possession of life; nothing seems more justifiable than such an inference.

The elements composing life substance are few in number. Those constantly present are carbon, hydrogen, oxygen and nitrogen. With these, both in nucleus matter and also, but in a less degree, in the more diffuse living material which we know as protoplasm, phosphorus is always associated. Moreover, a large proportion, rarely less than 70 per cent, of water appears essential for any manifestation of life, although not in all cases necessary for its continuance, since organisms are known which will bear the loss of the greater part of the water they contain without permanent impairment of their vitality.

The presence of certain inorganic salts is no less essential, chief among them being chloride of sodium and salts of calcium, magnesium, potassium and iron.

"The combination of these elements into a colloidal compound represents the chemical basis of life," declared the professor, "and when the chemist succeeds in building up this compound it will without doubt be found to exhibit the phenomena which we are in the habit of associating with the term 'life.'

"These considerations seem to point to the conclusion that the possibility of the production of life is not so remote as has been generally assumed. If spontaneous generation is possible, we cannot expect it to take the form of living beings which show so marked a degree of differentiation, both structural and functional, as the organisms which are described as making their appearance in experimental flasks.

"Setting aside, as devoid of scientific foundation, the idea of immediate supernatural intervention in the first production of life, we are not only justified in believing but compelled to believe that living matter must have owed its origin to causes similar in character to those which have been instrumental in producing all other forms of matter in the universe; in other words, to a process of gradual evolution.

"Looking at the evolution of living matter by the light which is shed upon it from the study of the evolution of matter in general, we are led to regard it as having been produced, not by a sudden alteration, whether exerted by natural or supernatural agency, but a gradual process of change from material which was lifeless, through material on the borderland between inanimate and animate to material which has all the characteristics to which we attach the term 'life.'

"So far from expecting a sudden leap from an inorganic, or at least an unorganized, into an organic and organized condition, from an entirely inanimate substance to a completely animate state of being, should we not rather expect a gradual procession of changes from inorganic to organic matter, through stages of gradually increasing complexity until materia which can be termed living is attained? And in place of looking for the production of fully formed living organisms in hermetically sealed flasks should we not rather search nature itself under natural conditions for evidence of the existence, either in the past or in the present, of transitional forms between living and non-living matter?

"The difficulty, nay, the impossibility, of obtaining evidence of such evolution from the past history of the globe is obvious. Myriads of years may have elapsed before some sort of skeleton in the shape of calcareous or siliceous spicules began to evolve itself, and thus enabled 'life,' which must already have possessed a prolonged existence, to make any sort of geological record. The problem would appear to be hopeless of ultimate solution if we are rigidly confined to the supposition that the evolution of life has only occurred once in the globe. But are we justified in assuming that at one period only, and as it were by a fortunate and fortuitous concomitance of substance or circumstance, living matter became evolved out of non-living matter—life became established? Is there any valid reason to conclude that at some previous period of its history our earth was more favorably circumstanced for the production of life than it is now? I have vainly sought for such reason, and if none be forthcoming the conclusion forces itself upon us that the evolution of non-living into living substance has happened more than once—and we can be by no means sure that it may not be happening still.

"Within the soil of this earth almost any chemical transformation may occur. Assuming the evolution of living matter to have occurred—whether once only or more frequently matters not for the moment—and in the form suggested, namely, as a mass of colloidal slime possessing the property of assimilation and therefore of growth, reproduction would follow as a matter of course. From any beginning of living material a primitive form of life would spread and would gradually people the globe. The establishment of life being once effected all forms of organization follow under the inevitable laws of evolution."

FIRST STEAM VESSELS TO CROSS THE ATLANTIC.

[Special Despatch.]
LONDON, Saturday.

THE centenary celebration of the Comet, the first steamboat to navigate the River Clyde, has excited some discussion as to which was the first steam vessel to cross the Atlantic. America claims to have been the first with the Savannah, a sailing vessel to which an engine and boiler were fitted, and which crossed from Savannah to Liverpool in twenty-seven days in 1819; but of those twenty-seven days she was operated with steam during only eight hours.

The claim has lately been made for the Great Western, though the Royal William was well before her. The Great Western crossed from Bristol to New York between April 8 and 22, 1838; whereas the Royal William crossed from Picton, Nova Scotia, to Gravesend in twenty-two days in September, 1833, five years earlier.

The Annual Register for 1833 notices the interesting event as follows:—"Communication with America by steam. The Royal William, steamer, of 180 horse power, has recently arrived in London from Quebec. On her way she touched for fuel at Picton, in Nova Scotia, where she obtained at $4 per chaldron coal raised on the spot. The quality is pronounced by the engineers on board to be superior for generating steam even to our English coal.

"From Picton she came direct to Cowes in seventeen days. The distance is about 2,500 miles, and therefore this voyage is not instanced for its speed, which was not the particular object of the vessel on this occasion, but it proves three important facts:—

"First—That there is no more difficulty in conveying the mails by steam to our North American possessions than to our dependencies in and about the Mediterranean, for which service steam packets are used.

"Secondly—That the nine weeks' Post Office average allowance for the sailing packets to and from Halifax might, by the adoption of steam, be reduced to a regular passage of five weeks out and home.

"Thirdly—That for the supply of the steam packets to our North American possessions there exist, in our colony of Nova Scotia, coal mines yielding excellent fuel for the purpose at a cheap rate."

LAST LONDON WATCH HOUSE IS BEING DEMOLISHED.

[Special Despatch.]
LONDON, Saturday.

RARELY does a new tourist season come round but American visitors look in vain for some of the "sights" of old London described in the guide-books. They are all gradually disappearing. Now the old London watch house adjoining St. Botolph's Churchyard, in Bishopsgate, is being demolished.

The history of the quaint little building is somewhat prosaic, considering the stirring times of its earlier existence. Nevertheless it carries with it interesting memories of a time when the men engaged in the policing of London more frequently carried their lives in their hands than they do to-day. It is one of the last institutions of the kind in the city, and when it gives place to modern business premises a link with the past will be missing.

Erected in 1771, while Mr. James Townsend was Alderman of Bishopsgate Ward, it was enlarged in 1829. Mr. John Yerbury took over the old building in 1835, when it was decided to build a new police station and vacate the watch house. His son and grandson—Messrs. W. H. Yerbury and S. P. Yerbury—were unaware of this enlargement until a few days ago, when it was revealed through the uncovering of an inscribed stone by the workmen.

"There used to be cells when we came here in 1865," remarked Mr. S. P. Yerbury to a visitor, "but of course they passed away during reconstruction for business purposes. The cells in the basement are now a cellar. The fountain in the churchyard used to be beside the old watch house, close to the front of the railings in Bishopsgate, but it was removed owing to the spray splashing foot passengers.

"The watch house, I believe, was simply a house of detention for 'drunks' who wanted to get into the city and who were not admitted. They were kept here until next morning, when they were taken down to Old street and tried."

Mr. Yerbury has found a lot of old clay pipes on the site. He says that, according to one authority, these were used by those engaged in the burial of the victims of the London plague and that they were buried with them.

AERIAL WAR CRAFT MENACE THE OIL FUEL STATIONS.

[Special Despatch.]
LONDON, Saturday.

The increased use of oil fuel in war ships, says the Express, has made necessary the establishment of new depots besides the present coaling stations.

In addition to the oil fuel storage tanks at the dockyard ports, the Admiralty are now making provision for new storage tanks at other places around the coast accessible to the fleet of oil-conveying vessels which would supply a battle squadron with fuel at sea without bringing the war ships into port. A serious difficulty which the Admiralty are endeavoring to face is the menace of aerial war craft to these oil storage stations.

Oil tanks are built with only light coverings for protection, and they are thus entirely at the mercy of bombs dropped from an enemy's aeroplanes or airships.

REDFERN FAVORS SKIRTS TIGHT AT THE HIPS.

[Special Despatch.]
PARIS, Saturday.

IN an interview on the tendency of fashion next year, Mr. J. M. Gidding & Co., of New York, said:—"During my tour of the principal Paris shops to buy models for America I found that the shape of the skirts has not changed greatly. The tight fitting model remains—perhaps not to the hobble skirt extreme, but Dame Fashion will still see to it that woman does not take too long a step."

Redfern, the "Napoleon of Dressmaking," declared in February last that the tight-fitting skirt was a thing of the past and described it as "the late" fashion.

Your correspondent yesterday called on Redfern to obtain his opinion on the matter. Received by the great "couturier" in his office, the walls of which were hung with photographs of well known actresses bearing the most flattering inscriptions, your correspondent barely had time to explain the object of his visit before Redfern broke in:—

"I am always made to say things I never said. You will remember that I have always been opposed to dresses making the hips appear wide and that I said nothing but evil of the panier skirt. My opinion has always been the same, and I have never hesitated to express it. At the time referred to I said that women no longer wanted dresses tight around the ankles and that they sought freedom of movement impossible with the hobble skirt. I also said that lace flounces and trimmings would be much worn, and I was not mistaken. Take dance costumes, for instance.

"I furthermore said that the paniers would fall and be transformed into drapery, and I say to-day that no matter how clinging the drapery may be it will always leave something to the imagination. If, however, you take a sack, dress a woman in it and tie a cord around it, you certainly will see very pronounced lines, but lines that are neither aesthetic nor graceful.

"The result is that dresses nowadays are made tight round the hips; there are no more paniers, but considerable drapery and lace. The material employed will be velvet, brocade and other soft cloths.

"As for what I think of the American dressmaker whom you interviewed, I may say that he naturally saw the material we are showing this year, I, therefore, share his opinion on that point. I already gave you my opinion on skirts at the outset. With regard to tailormades, I do not think the least indication can be obtained at the present moment; we must await the opening of the Paris racing season to see what will be worn. The American dressmaker's opinion of the panier skirt is very good, but I do not agree with him regarding evening toilettes, because I do not think the corsage will be cut higher for receptions."

As an example of his views, Redfern paraded in front of your correspondent several mannekins wearing exquisite evening dresses. The corsages were cut very low, both in front and in the back, and the skirts, worn tight at the waist, were draped in a very pretty manner, so as to leave on the side a slit which opens in walking. Some of the pleated underskirts are very graceful and show up the slender figure without hindering the movements of the limbs.

"All tailor made skirts," continued Redfern, "have also this slit. They should be larger at the bottom and not at the top, as was the case with the panier skirts. I maintain that a dress should be practical for walking. Its fashion cannot last if it is not. You have proof of this at present. A woman's form should be outlined in graceful movements without evidencing the shape and, above all, without the nudity of the last season. The figure is just as slender in this way.

"The day of the 'sack' is past. Everything is outlined with drapery, which produces the same clinging effect, but with more seductiveness. Fur mantles are what we call three-quarters, short or long, with the same drapery effects. Some of the collars are quite new, among others those entirely covering the shoulders and fitting over the arms. Sable is still the most fashionable fur.

"I repeat that the general note is for drapery from the hips. I still hold to this opinion, and I believe I am quite right."

GIRL MESSENGERS FIND FAVOR IN LONDON.

[Special Despatch.]
LONDON, Saturday.

BOYS employed at Reuter's Telegram Agency, in Old Jewry, had better look to their laurels, for girl messengers are constantly being engaged in preference to the youths.

The sanguine and youthful spirits of the boys have had much to do with their slackness—one of their chief faults—while the placid obedience of the maiden messengers has elevated them in the estimation of their employers.

"Our girl messengers," said the manager of the traffic department of Reuter's agency, "perform their duties much better than the boys. The girls, on an average, take three messages while the boys take only two.

"Street accidents and road mending operations have a fascination for most of our boys.

"Leapfrog helps them to banish the monotony of delivering messages, and sometimes a good thrilling penny dreadful perused while sauntering along Fleet street stimulates a boy messenger's brain, but does not quicken his footsteps.

"But the girls; they have none of these pernicious habits. They go straight about their business, without talking or idling. Street accidents or tar paving operations have no interest for them. They even refuse to linger at the beautiful hat shops in St. Paul's Churchyard they are so conscientious.

"We have three dozen girl messengers at work during the day. Of course we employ boy messengers for night work, but not because they are better workers."

The girls wear neat blue uniforms and plain straw hats with black bands, and at their waists they carry telegram pouches.

"The girls are neater, quicker and more obedient than the boys. That is why I prefer them," the manager said.

AMERICAN'S IMPRESSIONS OF ENGLISH STYLES.

[Special Despatch.]
LONDON, Saturday.

SOME of the little peculiarities which to a stranger's eye mark the dress of the Englishman are set down in "Men's Wear" by an American visitor at Bournemouth.

"It is at such places as this," says the writer, "that the Englishman 'lets himself go' in the matter of clothes. He wears just what he fancies, and his imagination certainly is not lacking.

"To one accustomed to the sameness of well cut American business suits the crowd on the pier or Undercliff Drive at the fashionable hour looks almost comic.

"If a perfect gentleman wishes to wear a green hat, a monocle, something original in cravats, a watch strapped on his wrist, white spats, and brogued shoes with half-inch iron spikes in the soles, his friends don't telephone to the asylum or get up a lynching party, as they most certainly would do in America.

"Instead they hurry around to their own outfitters and try to outdo him by ordering a particularly sporty Scotch tweed to be made into riding breeches, or perhaps a new-fangled sort of golf jacket with patent sliding sleeves.

"The Englishman cares nothing for the neat, well-pressed appearance of the American. In his lounge clothes, any way, comfort is his sole aim. His collar is generally an inch too large. His sleeves are simply enormous. The pockets of his suits bulge with tobacco pouch and briar pipe, a few books, newspapers, &c."

MOTOR BUSSES ARE IN BAD IN LONDON

Many Accidents Arouse a Loud Outcry Against Vehicles Exceeding the Speed Limit.

London, Oct. 18.—The loud outcry in London against the motor omnibus companies owing to the numerous accidents caused by their vehicles has caused those concerns much alarm. The companies have now begun a campaign to detect and punish their drivers who exceed the speed limit.

This step has irritated the drivers, who already cherish numerous grievances, and it is likely that London will again be in the throes of a great transport strike unless the complaints of the bus men are heeded.

The drivers declare that they cannot possibly keep up to their chedules without violating the speed limits. They further complain that the parsimony of the companies prevents them from keeping just within the margin, for they are not provided with speedometers.

There are also allegations that the companies actively discourage trade unionism among their employees and this and other grievances are being taken up by the unions concerned and serious trouble may result.

16 SUBMARINES IN GERMAN FLOTILLA

Authoritation Statement Shows Strength of Fleet That Was Being Kept a Secret.

Berlin, October 18.—The secret of Germany's submarine flotilla is out. Until now nothing has been allowed to be made public as to its strength, but an authoritative statement just issued says that it consists of 16 boats, of which 15 are in commission, while the new naval programme adopted this year contemplates ultimately a fleet of 72 submarines.

A considerable number of these vessels are already under construction, so that the establishment of a second flotilla at Wilhelmshaven on the North Sea (the present boats are all stationed in the Baltic Sea at Kiel) is expected shortly. About one-fourth of the total personnel required for the 72 submarines is already under training, the list at present showing 57 officers, 25 engineer officers, 210 warrant and petty officers and 306 seamen.

The admiralty is experimenting with the "crewless motorboat," the invention of a German engineer, the steering and engine-control of which are operated by wireless te' graphy. The boat gave a number of successful exhibitions near Munich and Berlin last year, stopping, starting and answering the helm perfectly in response to wireless directives sent from a shore station, and the naval authorities believe it may be made a useful auxiliary to the submarines and torpedo boats.

PINK ICE OR SHERBET.

Take 1 pint of currant jelly, dissolve in 1 1-2 quarts of boiling water; 2 cups of sugar, juice of 3 lemons, dissolve well and strain through a fine cloth and freeze. When almost frozen, the whites of 4 eggs well beaten must be added.

CHEESE STRAWS.

Grate 2 ounces of cheese, mix well with 2 ounces of butter, 2 ounces of flour, 2 ounces of bread crumbs, season with cayenne and salt to taste. Roll out very thin and cut into strips one-fourth of an inch wide and six long. Lay on buttered tin and bake brown.

SWEET POTATOES.

Put one-quarter cup of butter and two tablespoons of sugar into a saucepan; when hot lay in raw sweet potatoes that have been pared and cut in halves, season with salt and peppers, half cover with boiling water, cover the saucepan closely and let simmer. When tender and brown take out the pieces carefully and pour the sauce over.

Though all to no purpose, the Halifax Herald puts the argument of the "wider market" promised by the Toronto Globe to the Canadian people once a day. "The Toronto Globe," it says "still laments the rejection of Reciprocity but endeavors to comfort itself and its downeast readers by prophesying that within five years the Canadian people will see their blunder, thru reaching that state of ruin upon which, it contends, they are rushing thru the rejection of its scheme for "larger markets." But the organ ignores the vital fact that the greatest market, the best market, the rapidly growing market for Canadian wheat is in Canada itself, where the market is rapidly increasing thru the coming of hundreds of thousands of immigrants year by year. The organ also ignores the other vital fact that if, in the future, the United States should come to be an importer of wheat for home consumption, as the organ contends, then it is quite certain that Canada will get a full share of that new market WITHOUT having any entangling Reciprocity pact."

Two Militiamen Killed, 29 Injured In Train Wreck

ried back to the rear of the car. Another man, who was unhurt, was standing in the baggage car beside the man who was killed when the crash came. The last man taken from the wreckage was found in the end of the passenger car, protected from harm by a seat which had fallen so as to form a shield about his body.

The two men killed are:

Maxwell Murdoch, aged 25, 48th Highlanders, 347 Wellington St. West, Toronto.

G. A. Bantyne, Queen's Own Rifles; identification uncertain.

Murdoch lived with his uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Harp. He was a member of the Highlanders for three years, and this morning when he left home to join his regiment he seemed gloomy, and stated that the approaching sham battle was to be his last and that on his return to town he would hand in his uniform.

The face of the Queen's Own victim was so badly mangled that the identification is not positive. The company lists were lost in the confusion of the accident and it was not possible to call the roll and ascertain who was missing.

No official statement will be given out by the Canadian Pacific Railway until tomorrow.

BAVARIAN SALAD.

Two small onions, two heads lettuce pulled to pieces, one boiled beet (cold and sliced), three tablespoons salad oil, two of vinegar, yolk of one raw egg, one saltspoon of salt and some of made mustard. Chop the onions exceedingly small and beat into the whipped egg the salt, mustard, the oil, last of all the vinegar. Put the lettuce into a salad bowl, cover with the beetroot, pour on the dressing. Pass the salad to each guest to help themselves.

PITCHES BASEBALL AT BULLET SPEED

Scientific Test Shows Walter Johnson Throws The Sphere 122 Feet Per Second.

When big Walter Johnson, of the Washington Americans, sent a base ball crashing through a screen of copper wires and against a steel plate on the testing range of the Remington Arms-Union Metallic Cartridge Company at Bridgeport, Conn., on October 5 a new chapter in the annals of the American national game was begun. The speed of a pitched ball was exactly recorded for the first time in the world's history.

Ballistic engineers had skillfully adapted the chronograph, employed in accurately testing ammunition, to measure in seconds the flight of a base ball, and at the suggestion of F. C. Lane, editor of the Base Ball Magazine, the rather elaborate test had been arranged.

When the speed of a rifle bullet is to be determined on the chronograph, the arm is placed in a fixed position at a known distance from a large 5-16th-inch steel plate at the end of an enclosed range, something like an elongated shooting gallery of the common type. Over the muzzle of the gun a thin copper wire is stretched. The speeding bullet cuts the wire and electrically releases an upright rod on the recording instrument at the rear of the weapon. The impact of the bullet on the steel plate, in the same manner, releases a knife which nicks the bar as it falls past a given point and from the distance recorded on the bar, the length of time required for the missile to travel from wire to plate is computed in feet per second.

One of the changes necessary to meet the requirements of the "pitching arm" was to arrange a network of copper wires over a frame about three feet square, through which the ball was thrown. This frame was mounted on an upright standard and was raised or lowered to correspond with the height of the pitchers or the style of ball to be delivered.

In selecting the pitchers for the initial test, Walter Johnson was chosen because of his reputation as the speediest "slab-artist" in the game, and Napoleon Rucker, the star left hander of the Brooklyns, was picked as a "South paw" who pitches a ball of moderate speed, depending to a larger extent on "slow ball" tactics than does Johnson.

Both pitchers experienced difficulty in the "tryout" in getting the ball through the rather narrow wire frame. As Johnson remarked, "We are after the man at the other end of the "range" in the real game and I don't think any of us pay much attention to how the ball starts." However, a little practice brought out three consistent "scores" from each pitcher, both of whom threw at a terrific speed. Johnson's first record was 120 feet per second, Rucker's 106; second trial, Johnson 121, Rucker 109, and in the final fling at the plate, Johnson pushed his speed up to 122 feet per second and Rucker increased his to 113. It seemed probable that a speed of at least 150 feet per second might be reached after a longer "warming up" period and more practice.

Johnson's high mark of 122 feet per second affords some most interesting comparisons. For instance, a ball going at that velocity has a striking energy of 160 foot pounds—half the "punch of a .45 calibre Colt automatic pistol. The 20th Century Limited, flying at a mile-a-minute gait over the rails, makes but 88 feet per second—only about two-thirds the speed of Johnson's ball. If Johnson should throw at a man standing on the back platform of that famous train—starting his throw after the last car had passed at the mile-a-minute speed—the ball would catch up and strike a harder blow than if thrown by the average pitcher at a stationary mark.

A speed of 122 feet per second means that Johnson sends the sphere from the pitcher's box over the plate sixty feet away in less than two ticks of a watch—quicker than the wink of an eye. It also means that to be struck with such a ball in any vital spot———?

Well, is it any wonder that a batter now and then "lets one go by" or that he does not always respond to the fans' "Aw, stand up and hit em! Are you afraid of 'em?"

"For six years I suffered from dreadful Kidney Disease. My legs and lower part of my body were fearfully swollen and the pain was awful. Five different doctors attended me and all said it was kidney Trouble, and gave me no hope of getting well.

"A kind neighbor told me to try 'Fruit-a-tives'—and in a short time, the swelling went down, the pain was easier, and then 'Fruit-a-tives' cured me.

(Miss) Maggie Jannack.

"Fruit-a-tives" is the greatest Kidney cure in the world—and will always cure Pain in the Back, Swollen Hands and Feet, Headaches and other troubles due to poisoned condition of the blood.

CHICKEN AND MUSHROOMS.

Clean and wash a pair of fine fowls, stuff their bodies with chopped mushrooms in which a teaspoon of onion has been mixed. Fill the craws with the usual dressing of seasoned crumbs with the addition of the pounded yolk of an egg. Lay the trussed chickens in a pot, pour over them a large cup of clear soup stock (veal) diluted with as much boiling water. Simmer until tender. Take up and keep the chickens hot. Strain the gravy, season to taste, skim off the fat, stir in a tablespoon of flour wet with milk, boil and stir two minutes to thicken; add half a cup of hot milk; stir in well and pour some over the chickens, the rest into a boat.

INSTANT POSTUM

No Boiling

Charming Flavor

This new food-drink is taking the place of tea and coffee in thousands of homes the country over.

"There's a Reason"

Many persons realize vaguely that tea and coffee are injurious, but think they cannot give them up.

Such will find the breakfast cup just as hot, snappy and comforting when they shift to

Instant Postum

It is regular Postum in concentrated form—nothing added.

No Boiling Required

Made by stirring a level teaspoonful of the powder (more or less for strength desired) in a cup of hot water and adding sugar and cream to taste.

If tea or coffee has affected you unpleasantly, wouldn't common sense suggest quitting it. The return to health can be hastened by taking on Instant Postum, which is absolutely free from caffeine, the harmful drug in tea and coffee.

"There's a Reason" for Postum

Instant Postum is sold by grocers. 50-cup tin, 30c; 100-cup tin, 50c.
Send 2c stamp (to cover postage) for 5-cup free sample.

SYNOPSIS OF CANADIAN NORTHWEST LAND REGULATIONS

Any person who is the sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years old, may homestead a quarter section of available Dominion land in Manitoba, Saskatchewan or Alberta. The applicant must appear in person at the Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-agency for the district. Entry by proxy may be made to any agency, on certain conditions by father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister of intending homesteader.

Duties—Six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each of three years. A homesteader may live within nine miles of his homestead on a farm of at least 80 acres solely owned and occupied by him or by his father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister.

In certain districts a homesteader in good standing may pre-empt a quarter section alongside his homestead. Price $3.00 per acre.

Duties—Must reside upon the homestead or pre-emption six months in each of six years from date of homestead entry including the time required to earn homestead patent and cultivate fifty acres extra.

A homesteader who has exhausted his homestead right and cannot obtain a pre-emption may enter for a purchase homestead in certain districts. Price $3.00 per acre.

Duties—Must reside six months in each of three years, cultivate fifty acres and erect a house worth $300.00.

POSTAL SERVICE GREAT EXPANSION

Reorganization of Rural Mail Delivery System — Postmaster Makes His Appearance.

The development of the country and the rapid extension of the areas of settlement is calling for corresponding creases in and extensions of the postal service. An idea of the rapid strides made, is given by the fact that almost 600 new post offices have been opened in different parts of the country since January 1, 1912. The number is increasing monthly for the monthly avearge from July 1 to October 1 has been at the rate of sixty. The grouping together of new inhabitants necessitates the establishment of post offices. The majority of those being opened are in the West, but the older parts of the country are not being neglected. Ontario, Quebec, and the Maritimes Provinces receive their share according to the increase of population, an increase specially noticeable in the cities.

New Western Offices.

An idea of the development of the West may be given in the number of new post offices established in the Prairie Provinces and the Far West in one month. Out of 76 new offices opened on July 1, 50 were in points in the Prairie Pronvinces and the Far West. The same ratio has been kept on Aug. 1, Sept. 1 and Oct. 1 of this year.

Rural Mail Service.

The department is also catering to the needs of the people in the rapid extension of the rural mail delivery scheme. By an act passed last session a superintendent was appointed over the rural mail delivery branch. His work was to specialize on that branch of the department's work. This has been successful and beginning with Nov. 1 of the present year, the rural mail carriers will be equipped with a supply of postal orders and stamps and authorized to take registered letters so that frequent visits on the part of inhabitants to the post offices in outlying districts will be unnecessary, with a consequent saving of time and labor. The result will be a former rural mail carried transformed into a travelling postmaster.

Twelve Hundred Routes.

Mr. Bolduce, the new superintendent, states that at the end of the present year there will be about 1200 rural mail delivery routes in operation throughout the country. At present there are almost nine hundred. Of this number about six hundred had been in operation when the Hon. L. P. Pelletier took up the reins of his department. At that time the scheme had been in operation for four years. The result of Mr. Pelletier's work in appointing a special superintendent will be seen at the end of the year when as many routes will have been established by him in 15 months as during the four years of Liberal administration. This is all the more cerditable as the circular route has been put in operation. The route under the old system was simply between places already established but the circular route takes in more outlying parts as well as the existing route and brings greater benefit.

Western Visit Postponed.

The Postmaster General had intended to see for himself the growth of the country and visit the West before the opening of Parliament, but his work in England, and the early opening of Parliament has prevented him and he will be compelled to wait for a more opportune time.

GOT A BAD SPRAIN

ZAM-BUK CURED.

Don't limp about in pain when you slip on the sidewalk and get a sprain, or get a bad twist at your recreation. Rub in Zam-Buk. It eases pain.

Mr. Clarence D. Black, Legal Department, Transcontinental Railway, Ottawa, writes: "I have used Zam-Buk, with very satisfactory results, but I did not know its full value until just recently, when I fell from a street car and badly sprained my ankle. I immediately applied Zam-Buk, and am pleased to say that it has proved invalauble to me. The sprain was soon cured."

Bear in mind that Zam-Buk is used by all the famous football teams, all the best trainers, and all the leading athletes. Men who are at sport all the time—whose living depends upon their keeping "fit," find Zam-Buk the surest way to fitness. They are the best judges. Mothers! use it when the children get hurt!

In addition to its use for sprains, stiffness, rheumatism and sciatica, Zam-Buk is eminently useful for skin injuries and disesases. Blood-poison, festering sores and ulcers, ect., it quickly cures. Also cures cuts, burns, scalds, chapped hands, cold sores, varicose veins, bad leg, eczema, ringworm, etc. All druggists and stores sell at 50c. a box or post free for price from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto. Refuse harmful substitutes.

Have you tried Zam-Buk Soap? 25c. tablet.

"SYRUP OF FIGS" FOR INDIGESTION, BILIOUSNESS AND CONSTIPATION

Better Than Castor Oil, Calomel or Cathartics to Clean Your Stomach, Liver and 30 Feet of Bowels. Harmless Laxative for Men, Women and Children.

Primitive folks did not need laxatives. They lived outdoors, ate plenty of fruit, and all of their food was coarse. We modern people are different. We exercise too little, eat little fruit, and our food is too fine—too rich.

We simply can't have our ten yards of bowels clogged up, liver choked with sour bile and stomach full of foul effete matter and feel well. It means that the food and waste retained in the stomach and thirty feet of bowels ferments—decays. The decay creates poisons, gases and acids, and those poisons are sucked into the blood through the very ducts intended to suck in the nutriment. Then we have sick headache, become dull, bilious, tongue coated, nervous, meals don't digest, and we feel miserable all over. So we must make our choice. We must live like primitive folks, else we must take artificial means to move the excess bile and waste matter on and out of the system.

The safest, most harmless and effective stomach, liver and bowel cleanser and regulator for men, women and children—is delicious Syrup of Figs, which doesn't irritate, gripe or weaken. Its effect is the effect of luscious figs, senna and aromtics. Don't think your are drugging yourself. Syrup of Figs can be constantly used without harm.

Ask your druggist for "Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna," and see on the label that it is prepared by The California Fig Syrup Company. This is the only genuine—the old reliable. Refuse, with contempt, the so-called Fig Syrup imitations sometimes offered to deceive you.

BY-LAW NO. 25.

By-Law For Extension of the Fourth Street in Limoilou Ward.

(Drawn up in the French Language.)

At a meeting of the Municipal Council of the city of Quebec, held on the 22nd day of October, one thousand nine hundred and twelve, the following by-law was read for the first time:

Considering that the Drouin bridge is being constructed on the River St. Charles ;

Considering that, in order to secure convenient access to the said bridge, it is necessary that, in the public interest, the fourth street should be extended to the Charlesbourg road, that the said Charlesbourg road should be widened at its turning point on the third street, and on each side of the opening of the said fourth street, and also to acquire, for that purpose, a certain portion of land on lots 509a and 509-367 of the official cadastral plan of St. Roch's north.

It is in consequence ordered and enacted by a by-law of this Council, and this Council orders and enacts as follows, to wit :

1. In order to secure convenient access to the Drouin bridge on its Limoilou side, this Council orders, in the public interest, that the fourth street be extended to the Charlesbourg road, that the said Charlesbourg road be widened at its turning point on the third street and facing the entrance of the bridge down to the northern limit of lot No. 509a, and also to acquire, by amicable settlement, or by way of expropriation :

(a) On lot No. 509a: about four thousand six hundred and sixty-eight (4668) square feet for the extension of the fourth street, and four hundred and eighty-four (484) square feet, one hundred and forty-eight (148) square feet, and seven hundred and fifty (750) square feet, for the wideningof the Charlesbourg road;

(b) On lot 509-367: about two thousand seven hundred and eighty-four (2784) for the extension of the said fourth street.

The said superficies forming in toto about nine thousand eight hundred and thirty-four (9834) feet, as shown on a plan deposited in the City Engineer's office; bearing date the 21st of October instant, and prepared by Mr. Hugh O'Donnell, Surveyor.

2. The price to be paid for the said land shall be taken out of the credits voted for contingent expenditure for the current fiscal year.

PUBLIC NOTICE.

Is hereby given that, in conformity with the provisions of the law, the above by-law will be read a second time for adoption, on the 30th of October instant, 1912.

By order,
H. J. J. B. CHOUINARD,
City Clerk.

LINGERI HINTS FOR NARROW GOWNS

Once upon a time—and not so very long ago at that—the word "lingerie" conjured up in our mind's eye dainty garments laden down with lace and embroidery-trimmed ruffles. The more riffles and the more material in each garment the better we are pleased.

Necessarily, when skirts changed from five yards around to two, and even one and a half, the character of our undergarments underwent a distinct revision. Every superfluous inch of material has been done away with, for the present styles styles allow of no fulness to mar the severe simplicity of their lines.

Ruffles of almost every description have given place to straight bands of lace or deep flounces, either accardion plaited or put on with scarcely a suggestion of fulness.

Likewise the fluffy bows have taken upon themselves a new form—an almost exact imitation of the flat bows to be found on men's evening pumps. Or there may be a festoon of tiny bows connected with one another by ribbon, or a loop of twisted ribbon starting from two pointed ends. All of these are of the necessary flatness and are quite new.

Take the matter of petticoats for example. It is the proud boast of many women of fashion to say that they have some time since discarded such an article. Their argument is that with a street gown a petticoat is not needed; that the present evening gown looks better without any, and that with their summer dresses they wear a princess slip.

Other women, especially those inclined to stoutness, wear these convenient little princess slips upon every occasion. And this is not such an extravagant fashion as it might seem, for princess slips may be bought from $1 up to almost any price one is willing to pay.

Another devise resorted to by very large women is the wearing of silk tights. These are made of china silk, black or white, or of crepe de chine.

Petticoat Novelties.

But for the woman who still clings to a silk petticoat for every-day wear there are a number of charming novelties. The silk jersey-top petticoat has come out with a deep accordion pleating of net, about 12 inches in depth, and over it wide silk fringe. This is in white, is very charming, but it will principally appeal to the woman who does not mind sending $15 for one skirt. Another, somewhat similar, at the same price, has a white silk jersey top and two lace flounces, one black and one white.

Newer than these and slightly less expensive is a silk jersey-top skirt with a plaited ruffle or plain foulard skirt. Quite new also, and only to be found in one or two of the department stores, is a cotton voile petticoat, very soft and clinging. Because it is at once practical and inexpensive it should meet with much favor.

Many of the messaline skirts have appeared with accordion pleated ruffles of a contrasting color of chiffon. They are most attractive and graceful; their only drawback is the high cost and lack of durability, but for evening wear nothing is lovelier. For example, fancy this one shown by one of the largest stores. It is entirely of white chiffon, the trimming consisting of shirred bands of the chiffon alternating with plain bands and garlands of artificial chiffon roses of pale pink.

In the matter of wash petticoats there are likewise some startling novelties. One of the latest is by actual measurement just 66 inches in circumference. In place of a flounce there is a wide band of filet valenciennes lace, edged with narrow silk fringe, and, for fear the purchaser should not consider that she has gotten her money's worth, a huge sunflower rosette of ribbon has been added at one side. This is priced at $3.50.

Just two yards around is a[illegible]r, of fine material like handkerchief [illegible]n and called "flaxon." It is finished by a seven-inch band of ecru Nottingham lace and decorated at one side by a loop of twisted ribbon, ending in the two pointed ends made into a decoration. The petticoat shows two of the novel features of this season's lingerie—one is the use of ecru lace and the other this curious twisted ribbon loop effect.

The Narrow Skirt.

For the woman who desires more freedom than is allowed by these narrow skirts there is a very comfortable narrow skirt with an eight-inch slash at one side. If there is narrow lace trimming, this lace runs up the slashed sides and is met by a rosette of ribbon. These slashed skirts can be bought for as little as $1.50.

Quite wisely the manufacturers have in a number of instances made certain exclusive new styles of petticoats, night, gowns, chemises and drawers to match, so that one experiences no difficulty in obtaining as many pieces of the set as desired.

For instance, the first mentioned wash petticoat is carried out in the new narrow style of knickers, finished with a six-inch band of filet Valenciennes lace, edged with narrow silk fringe and decorated at the sides with flat sunflower rosettes.

The extreme of narrowness would seem to be reached in another design of knickers exactly 30 inches around and trimmed with two bands of two-inch shadow lace separated by a two-inch band of fine embroidery. At one side is a flat pleated pump bow.

PLAIN PUMKIN PIE.

Cut the pumpkin in pieces of convenient size to handle; grate with common grater and add milk enough to make it a little thinner than common stewed pumpkin. To enough pumpkin for three pies add one egg; season with cinnamon. Bake a little longer than if the pumkin was stewed.

Otologists the Newest Cult, and, Naturally, They Meet in Boston.

An assemblage of otologists might be suspected of almost anything. Those who have recently met in Boston, to the number of 500, have no design more sinister than the suppression of unnecessary noises, but their views on that subject are very real and earnest. Their song is a plea for the tympanum of the ear, which is hourly assailed by a babel of confused sounds calculated to produce neurasthenia, dyspepsia, and a longing for a lonely lodge in some boundless contiguity of shade.

The otologists go further than the average association organized by the laity for the strewing of legal tanbark on the highway of progress. The tintonabulation of the bells, so much exalted by the late Mr. Poe, only excite the otological ire, with the blowing of automobile horns and locomotive whistles calls for the extreme penalties of the law. In the merry peals of the jongleurs they apparently find support for the thadition that bell-ringing was originally instituted for frightening away the witches, while the barytone alarums of the chauffeur and the engineer are reminiscent of an up-bringing in a boiler factory. It must be stopped, if otlogy can stop it.

With the Moloch of speed madness devouring its thousands, it is not easy to see how the requisite forewarnings of danger can be safely reduced, and yet it is an accepted fact that there are a great many unnecessary noises in the world which exist simply because the otologists and other anti-noise crusaders have not gone about their work with sufficient determination. The trumpet of the garbage man, who follows closely upon the heels of the milkman, is a most raucous instrument, and in the early morning hours tends to excite un-Christian wrath. Even the call of the huckster lacks quality of timeliness which makes words fitly spoken seem as apples of gold set in pictures of silver. Without going to extremes, it is still possible for the otologists, or even the civic authorities, to make a beginning toward the halcyon calm.

NEW YORK STOCK MARKET.

McDonald & Lesperance, stock brokers, private wire to New York and Montreal, Hochelaga Bank Building. Telephone 1227.

(Canadian Press Service.)

New York, Oct. 28.—Stock were quietly strong to-day after a nearly period of hesitation, due to such restraining influences as last Saturday's bank statement, the foreign situation and fears of more unfavorable decisions by the Supreme Court. In the afternoon, when it became definitely known that the latter tribunal would take no action on the several important case now before it, the market more than made up for its initial heaviness, but trading remained light and professional to the end. Reading was against the most active issue in which some inquiry on Hill and Harriman shares, the gangers and a few less prominent stocks. The tobacco group was conspicuous for its wide fluctuations, and the oil shares also manifested strength. United States Steel and Coppers were little more than steady. In fact, the metal stocks were under moderate pressure bueing held back by the advices which suggested prices recessions. Earnings of the Steel Corporation for their third quarter of the year are to be published after the close of tomorrow's market. Estimates range from $27,000,000 to $30,000,000, but this flattering prospect seems to have been discounted.

The most interesting feature of the settlement in the London market where anxienty was plainly discernible was the higher rates over charges for Americans, ranging from 5½ to 6½ per cent. Completion of the settlement is expected to show a marked decrease in foreign holdings of our securities. Paris prices reflected heaviness, and Berlin was again depressed by possible complications arising from the war in the Balkans.

Call money rose to 6 per cent here, an outcome of the depleted bank reserves, but most loans were made under that rate. Time money stiffened to 6 per cent, the highest figure of the year for 60 and 90 days, with little inquiry for other periods.

The bonds market fluctuated narrowly on very light operations. Total sales, par value, aggregated $1,690,000.

United States registered 3's advanced ¼ per cent on call.

"EXCUSE ME" IS ONE LONG NIGHT OF LAUGHS.

Miss Blaney in "Excuse Me."

In the farce "Excuse Me" that after nine months in New York comes to the Auditorium next Monday and Tuesday, Marjorie Newton runs away with a young army officer and takes her dog Snoozelums with her and insists in keeping him in the Pullman car, regardless of the protests of the porter, who explains:

"The rules say no live stock shall be carried in the sleeping car 'ceptin humans."

"Snoozelums," retorts Marjorie indignantly, "is more human than you are."

"Yis'm, Yis'm," asserts the porter, "Snoozelums he is, bue he can't make up de berths."

And Snoozelums rides most of the way in the Pullman. Once Marjorie misses him and is assured by Lieutenant Mallory, the man she has run away with, that the conductor has thrown the dog off the train. This train is a lightning express, carrying United States mail, rushing at a speed of a mile a minute, and it is a prison offence to stop it. But that signifies nothing to Marjorie. She pulls the bell cord, the engineer puts on the air brakes, and the train is suddenly stopped in a manner that hurls the passengers in all directions. It is a tremendously funny scene, as are all the scenes in "Excuse Me," which is a scream of laughter from first to last. Henry W. Savage is sending the farce here with the Broadway cast. The play is the biggest laugh maker of the day.

DENIES CHARGES AND JURISDICTION

Fogel Says He Never Claimed National Race Was Fixed and Refuses a Trial.

New York, October 28—A general denial of the charges brought by the National League against Horace Fogel, president of the leagues Philadelphia club, in this city on Oct. 17, are contained in a letter received from Fogel to-day by President Thomas J. Lynch.

Mr. Fogel's letter expressed defiance of the right of the National League to try his case for alleged statements reflecting upon National League baseball, according to Mr. Lynch, who said the text of Mr. Fogel's reply would not be made public until Nov. 16, when the league will meet here to give the Philadelphia official a hearing.

One of the charges brought against Fogel is that in an article published under his signature he stated that the National League race for 1912 was "crooked" and that President Lynch and certain umpires were working in the interest of the New York club, and that further it was "fixed for the New York club to win the pennant. In his letter of reply to-day Mr. Fogel denies he ever made such statements.

"How does Mr. Folger explain the fact that such statements appeared under his signature?" Mr. Lynch was asked.

"He does not attempt to explain that at all," was the reply. "He merely makes a general denial of that and the other charges and then declares the National League has no jurisdiction in the matter of trying him for his alleged statements."

PERSONAL

Mr. George J. Boyce has left for New York and Washington to do hospital work.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Rowley, of Lake Edward, are guests at the Chateau Frontenac.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Rowley, of Lake Edward, were in town yesterday on their way to Ottawa.

Major and Mrs. Lorne Drum, of Ottawa, who have been in the city for the last few days, left for home by the C. P. R. yesterday afternoon.

Major Ed. LeBel and Mr. R. C. Miquelon, who were at the Savoy Hotel, Seattle, a few days ago, are now returning to Quebec, but will visit several western cities on their return trip.

R. P. Harrison, chief of the U. S. Immigration Department and family are leaving this morning for St. John, N.B., where Mrs. Harrison and family will spend the winter. Mr. Harrison expects to return to Quebec the forepart of next month and will move his office staff to St. John at the close of navigation.

DRUNKEN DOMINIE.

One long or square stale sponge cake, 1-4 pound of citron, 1 glass of brandy, 1 cup of sherry wine, 1 pint of milk, 3 eggs, 1-2 cup of sugar. Cut the citron into spike strips, stick in regular rows in the top of the cake. Six hours before you will want to serve it pour over it, a little at a time, the liquor. It should absorb it all and hold it with Dutch perseverance. Heat the milk, pour upon the beaten yolks and sugar. Stir and cook until it thickens. When cold pour around the cake as it lies upon a long dish and cover the dominie and his bed with a meringue of the whites beaten up with a little sugar. The citron spikes should be just visible through the snowy blanket.

DAY BY DAY

With sad heart the Day by Day column to-day chronicles the passing of "Charley" Teakle, of the Chronicle, of Quebec, of the world of good boys, lovable boys. The world has been brighter and happier because he has lived in it. It will be sadder and emptier now that he has gone. The present writer, who knew him but a short time, hesitates to add his little word to the tributes of his life long friends. But it is something to have known the clean-cut, whole-souled, happy and cheerful man, even if he has passed through one's life all too rapidly. The memory of the loving heart, his disposition to say the good, the kind, the charitable word for every brother, to say the good word or nothing, to see the best in all and to believe that the world is a good world to live in—these are the memories that endure. We grieve at his untimely passing, but we are all glad that he has lived—that the meteor of his life, all too brief, has flashed across our soul-horizon.

King George danced at Balmoral Castle in kilts, something he wouldn't do in his Coronation robes.

In Turkey its well off with the old war, on with the new.

"You can tell a consumptive by the way he coughs," remarks a Boston physician. Also a tightwad.

Referring to the statement that more than 50,000 women in New York are supporting their husbands—"man's place is in the home."

In New York several hundred million eggs are in storage, to force up the price. This is also something that Uncle Sam will have to take hold of, but gingerly.

Aeroplanes are all ready in the Turco-Bulgo-Servio-Greeko, etc., war, but they haven't started. Maybe they're waiting for the moving picture men.

Thousands of bluefish in fishermen's nets on the New England coast carried the nets off to sea and escaped. Another instance of what concert of action in times of great peril will do.

We expect to hear any day now that Graustark, George Barr McCutcheon, E. Phillips Oppenheim and the Princess Yetive have been drawn into this Near-East imbroglio.

There are 106 men in the United States to every 100 women. Let bachelors be content with this unanswerable excuse; also the freak legislators who want to tax them.

No more exiles are to be sent to Siberia. It took a good many years for Michael Strogoff moving in one-night stands to do his work, didn't it ?

Brown October all works well enough in poetry, but as a matter of fact ale is called for about as often as a pousse cafe.

Any of us would go back to the soil if he was sure of getting 3 cents apiece for every apple he raises. But the back-to-the-soiler frequently closes out somewhere in the operation.

Two men were killed in a Swiss aeroplane when the machine fell eight feet. This kills our scheme of taking a ride in one if it wouldn't rise any higher than the tops of the sunflowers.

It hasn't been communicated to us but we suspect that eugenics says "Pooh pooh" to romantic love.

Peace on earth, good will to men, promises to be notably absent near the region where it was first proclaimed nearly 2,000 years ago this coming Christmas. It takes time.

First time in history New York has had a murder trial without a woman in it.

With snow down the river it is time to dust up the double windows.

Montreal will soon have a new toy to play with. There will be a good deal of room in the dry dock for the kiddies.

LABOR UNIONS PLEASE NOTE.

Fox Head Ales and Porters are made in Quebec by Quebec labor—but even more important for you is the fact that no better or more wholesome Ales and Porters can be purchased.

Fox Head Brewery products are recommended to all labor men.

FUNERAL OF MRS. CLORAN.

The funeral of Mrs. Ann Kennedy Cloran took place from the home of her sister, Miss Kate Kennedy, Champlain street, yesterday to St. Patrick's Church, and was largely attended. The chief mourners were her three sons, Senator H. J. Cloran, of Montreal, Messrs. Joseph Cloran, of Boston, and Harry Cloran, of Buffalo, F. O. Moffat, District Passenger Agent, D. & H. Railway, Montreal, and John Clark, of Quebec, nephews, and John Killoran, of Montreal, a cousin.

On the arrival of the funeral procession at St. Patrick's Church, a high requiem mass was sung by Rev. Father Killoran, of Montreal, assisted by Rev. Fathers Woods and Jocklin, C.SS.R., as deacon and sub-deacon.
