SUBMARINE ARMORS.
THE Subscriber, who was the contractor with the United States Government for the removal of the late Steam-frigate Missouri from the Bay of Gibraltar (after the work had been abandoned by English Engineers), is the inventor of
AN IMPROVED SUBMARINE ARMOR,
Through which valuable auxiliary he so successfully succeeded, now offers for sale SUBMARINE ARMORS THAT HAVE NO EQUAL!
They have been adopted and purchased by our Government, and are now in use at the several Navy Yards.
The Greek Government have purchased them for the Coral Fishery. One man can obtain more Coral by their use than thirty naked divers. They have also been purchased of me by the Russian and French Governments, for the purpose of examining the bottom of ships, and building stone walls under water.
By their aid a diver can descend with perfect safety to the depth of 150 feet, and work with great facility, walk about any distance, and remain as long as he pleases.
A Commission appointed by the Secretary of the Navy to test their utility, witnessed an experiment at the Gasport Navy Yard, where a man WALKED TWO MILES UNDER WATER! and remained six hours without ascending to the surface. At the same time a quantity of Gunpowder was placed under a vessel that was sunk, which completely shattered it in pieces.
By its aid the machinery of the Steamers Humboldt and Erie was recovered the past Summer, as well as many other valuable wrecks whose cargo have been saved by their aid.
The price of one of my "ARMORS" complete, is ONE THOUSAND DOLLARS. They will last in constant use ten years.
ALSO FOR SALE,
Improved Voltaic Batteries, Insulated Wire and Cartridges,
For exploding Gunpowder instantaneously under water.
☞ All orders promptly attended to.

RICH'S SALAMANDER SAFES,
WILDER'S PATENT.
FIRE AT KINGSTON!
A SAFE TESTED.—One of Rich's Salamander Safes was most satisfactorily tested here in the great fire of Friday night. It was stored in Messrs. Shaw's warehouse. The building all of wood, and constructed with very heavy timbers, fed the flames for upwards of six hours, and the heat of the burning mass was intense. On subsequently recovering the safe, and opening it, the the interior wood work was found uninjured, and paper wrapping on the keys, plate, &c. contained in the drawer, had undergone no change whatever. A safe could hardly have been put to a stronger test than in this instance, and we were pleased to see how great is the security afforded to books, papers, notes, &c., by this invention. Several of these safes are now in use in this city.—Kingston Daily News.

NOTICE.

MESSRS. WILLIAM LYMAN & CO., Saint Paul Street, Montreal, Wholesale Agents for the sale of
DR. McCLINTOCK'S FAMILY MEDICINES, have received instructions to dispose of them, by Wholesale and Retail, at the Proprietor's prices.
The undermentioned medicines, prepared under the direction of Professor JAMES McCLINTOCK, late President of the Philadelphia College of Medicine, &c., from the purest and freshest materials, are strongly recommended to the afflicted.
Their sale has been unprecedented in the United States, where they have effected thousands of cures, and no case of failure is yet recorded. At this season we call especial attention to one of the most remarkable of these remedies, namely,
[illegible] DR. McCLINTOCK'S [illegible]
the best and safest medicine ever used for BRONCHITIS, CONSUMPTION, and all diseases of the Lungs and Air Passages. For any of these forms of disease, showing themselves in COUGH, Tickling of the Throat, Sense of Tightness in the Chest, Spitting of Blood, Difficulty of Breathing, Hoarseness or Loss of Voice, Hectic Fever, Night Sweats, &c.,
This great remedy is unparalleled for success in the above complaints. It purifies the blood of all scrofulous taint, it heals ulceration, it destroys tubercles in the lungs, it regulates the bowels, checks night sweats and strengthens the stomach, it stimulates the vital powers, and gives vigor to the whole system, it quiets nervous excitement, relieves pain in the chest, soothes the cough, promotes expectoration, and at the same time affords a delicate nourishment. It contains no opium in any form, and agrees perfectly with the most delicate patient.
Dr. McClintock's Pectoral Syrup is put up in elegant Flint Glass Bottles, containing one pint each, and is sold at only $1 per bottle, or six bottles for $5.

A most important article, at this changeable season, is, also,
DR. McCLINTOCK'S COLD AND COUGH MIXTURE.
Colds and recent Coughs, especially if accompanied by fever, or inflammatory excitement, require a remedy different in character from the Pectoral Syrup, which is so valuable in chronic complaints. The COLD AND COUGH MIXTURE
is precisely the cure for recent coughs and irritations of the throat and lungs. It is ESPECIALLY VALUABLE FOR CHILDREN, as a preventive of Croup. No family in our climate should be without this efficient remedy, which, if taken on the first symptoms of cold, would prevent many an attack of Bronchitis, and
A FATAL ISSUE IN CONSUMPTION.
It is put up in neat flint glass bottles, and is sold for 25 cents.
☞ No opium in any form contained in this mixture.

DR. McCLINTOCK'S REMEDIES FOR RHEUMATISM, NEURALGIA, &c.—These excruciating diseases are radically cured by taking Dr. McClintock's Rheumatic Mixture in doses of a teaspoonful three times a day. We have seen the worst cases relieved by it in 24 hours. For external use we have never known so powerful and penetrating an application as Dr. McClintock's Rheumatic Liniment. For swelled limbs, bruises, internal pains, cramps, chilblains, stiff joints, toothache, and other painful complaints, where we have seen it tried, it acts with magical effects. These remedies are sold at 50 cents per bottle.

Dr. McClintock's Dyspeptic Elixir.
Headache, Dizziness, Heartburn, Palpitation, and all the disagreeable symptoms arising from imprudence in diet, or from indigestion, may be promptly cured by Dr. McClintock's Dyspeptic Elixir, the result of thirty years experience in medical practice. This medicine is now for the first time made public, though it has cured thousands of cases of confirmed Dyspepsia.
Price Pint Bottles, $1. Six bottles for $5.

Dr. McClintock's Tonic Alterative Syrup,
For removing all impurities from the blood, and effecting the most rapid cures in all skin diseases, as Erysipelas, Tetter, Scurvy, Salt Rheum, Ring Worm, Boils, Pimples, Eruptions, Ulcers, Fever Sores, &c. Also for Scrofulous, Rheumatic, Mercurial or Siphylitic diseases, this great remedy is surpassingly efficacious. It is exceedingly pleasant to the taste, and will not disagree with the most delicate stomach. At this time of year, it should be taken freely. For children it is invaluable. Price $1 a bottle. Six bottles for $5.

Dr. McClintock's Anti-billious Pills,
For irregularity in the functions of the liver and bowels. 25 cents per box.

Tonic Mixture, or Fever and Ague Specific,
A sure and safe vegetable remedy for Fever and Ague, or intermittent Fever in any of its forms. Price $1.

Dr. McClintock's Diarrhœa Cordial and Cholera Preventive,
A certain cure for Diarrhœa, Dysentery, Cholera Morbus, and Asiatic Cholera.

Dr. McClintock's Anodyne Mixture kills all kinds of pains.
For the instant relief of toothache, headache, neuralgia, &c. Price 50 cents.

Dr. McClintock's Asthma & Hooping-Cough Remedy.
These terribly distressing diseases are relieved to an unparalleled degree by this purely vegetable medicine, which has been brought to perfection slowly in the course of many years observation. Trial is all that is needed to prove its efficacy to those who have never employed it. Price per bottle, 50 cents.

Dr. McClintock's Vegetable Purgative Pills,
A mild, safe, and thorough medicine for Costiveness, Headache, &c. 25 cents.

The above medicines may be procured in Montreal of all Druggists, and of W. Lyman & Co., Saint Paul Street, Wholesale Agents, to whom orders from abroad must be addressed.

THE LEGISLATIVE COUNCIL BILL.—We publish in another column "Conservative's" letter on the subject of the ministerial scheme for the re-organization of the Legislative Council, now under consideration in the House of Assembly. We do so from respect to its author as well as from a willingness to afford our readers an opportunity of hearing both sides of the question; but, we confess, that in sending his lucubration in favor of establishing a mere miserable, prerogative-appointed, money-bag aristocracy in "this Canada," it appears to us, "Conservative," as our neighbours would say, has "woke-up the wrong passenger." So far from our finding fault with the clause in the ministerial bill by which the property qualification of the members of the House of Assembly will be done away with, it is pretty nearly the only clause in it which we entirely approve of; while we view the clause which will make the possession of real estate to the value of £1000, a necessary qualification to hold a seat in the Council, as not only erroneous in principle but utterly ridiculous as to amount, were the principle admitted. We need scarcely remind "Conservative," that no property qualification is required of a British peer to enable him to sit in the House of Lords—nor of Scottish or Irish peers to be elected as members of that august body; but we may inform him, if he is not already acquainted with the fact, that the mere want of property qualification never excluded any man, duly elected, from taking his seat in the British House of Commons. It has, we doubt not, occasionally, prevented a strictly conscientious and honorable man from offering himself as a candidate for election, and thus deprived the [illegible] we do not believe a single instance can be found in which it has ever kept any other man from taking his seat, when elected. The fact is notorious, that, among England's greatest orators and statesmen, the qualification oath has been regarded as a mere form. Pitt, Fox, Burke, Sheridan, Canning, Huskisson, and countless others, were all, at certain periods of their parliamentary careers, notoriously without any property qualification; as were Hunt, Cobbett, Tom Duncombe and others, whom our conservative friend would look upon as mere unprincipled demagogues. Practically, in England as in Canada, the property qualification has been, and is, a mere legal fiction, sometimes, but very rarely, excluding an honest man from a seat in the House, but never a rogue—social or political.— Such attempts to limit the choice of the electors, as to the parties in whose talent and integrity they may have confidence to represent them in the great Council of the nation, are not only wrong in principle but utterly valueless in practice. The possession of property, no doubt, renders its possessor conservative in degree—that is, so far as he believes his own interests are at stake; it is, however, no guarantee for either the principles or talents of its owner, and, in our opinion, it would be quite as reasonable to prohibit the employment, by the public, of lawyers, doctors, engineers and, more especially, of religious teachers and editors, without a property qualification, as it is of statesmen and legislators. "Conservative" may rest assured that, in every community of civilized men, the possession of property gives a powerful and, to some extent, a legitimate influence to its owner; valuable to the community when allowed its natural scope, but which, if artificially increased or strengthened, has ever been found fatal to the public liberties. Man lives not by bread alone, nor is the protection of property the sole end and object of good government. But even, as we have said, were wealth to be accepted as the sine qua non test of value in our legislators and statesmen, what can be more supremely ridiculous than the guage suggested—the possession of £1000!— It is as if, were education made the test, the guage should be the correct spelling of words of two syllables and, say, the repeating of the Lord's Prayer without a mistake. The amount is, clearly, absurd and totally inadequate to ensure wealth in the Canadian House of elected peers; although it may exclude from it much of the talent, experience and knowledge of affairs, possessed by our leading merchants and professional men, who are not holders of real estate, but whose annual incomes from their professions may, possibly, exceed the whole value of the legislative qualification required.

As to our correspondents arguments in favour of maintaining the Legislative Council a non-elective, ministry-appointed burlesque upon the time-honored British Chamber of hereditary peers—if the retention in Canada of, what "Conservative" calls "the semblance of the British constitution," rests upon so utterly rotten a foundation, we agree with him, the slightest popular excitement will bring the entire fabric to the ground, and the necessity of FOUNDING A CANADIAN CONSTITUTION will become paramount. We, however, see nothing either dangerous or discouraging in the prospect; nay, the sooner the political crisis arrives, the sooner will the people of Canada be relieved from shams and "semblances," and secure that actual control over the management of their own affairs, enjoyed alike by the people of Great Britain and of the United States. It is not improbable that, in former days, our correspondent may, as he says, have thanked God that we had a Legislative Council; but that he, or any one else, can have done so since we have been cursed with our Brummagem system of "Responsible Government," is scarcely credible; and—unless he means it as a bitter sarcasm upon their humiliating servility towards the "powers that be"—we confess our inability to comprehend his object in referring to the Rebellion Losses Bill. The conduct of the Council on that memorable occasion, demonstrated how helplessly dependent it was, and how greatly the baser preponderated over the pure metal in its composition. That the present measure for the organization of the Legislative Council is replete with absurdities and contradictions, we readily admit, and we certainly have no desire or expectation that a body so constituted can survive beyond a few sessions of the Legislature. In so far, however, as the adoption of the elective principle is involved, however partially and imperfectly carried out, it is at least a step in the right direction; and, as such, may be consistently accepted "on account," as our mercantile friends express it, but, most assuredly, not "in full" of the just demands of the people of Canada freely to elect their own rulers and legislators.— The only aristocracy which can be tolerated in Canada, must be based upon personal merit and the, consequent, confidence of the people of Canada; the late injudicious—however well-meant —attempt to introduce hereditary distinctions among us, to the contrary, notwithstanding.

PARIS EXHIBITION.—The Local Committee have, we understand, passed a resolution, recommending to the Executive Committee the appointment of Mr. Ricard, as Secretary of the Commission appointed to represent Canada at the Paris Exhibition. Should such an officer be considered necessary, we know of no one more competent in every point of view than Mr. Ricard.

ONE WEEK'S LATER NEWS FROM EUROPE.—The Asia reached Halifax yesterday morning. The intelligence received by her, which will be found under our Telegraphic heading, is comparatively unimportant.

THE LONDON TIMES ON THE CONDITIONS AND PROSPECTS OF PEACE.—The London Times, on the subject of the peace negotiations, expresses the hope that the Cabinet of St. Petersburg will "seize the opportunity to bury its hostilities in the tomb not yet closed, and renew on equitable terms those pacific relations with the rest of Europe without which no empire can be prosperous, respected, or secure." It says that the old treaties which existed between Russia and the Porte are, happily for all parties, at an end; and, whenever new engagements are contracted, they will place the Sultan and his territorial interests on the same footing as the other members of the European family.

The Times hopes also that the policy of the Sultan towards all classes of his Christian subjects will remove the just and numerous causes of complaint which now serve as a continual pretext for foreign interference.

All other points the Times seems to think may be easily arranged, but in reference to the fourth and most critical, touching the preponderance of Russia in the Black Sea, "we confess that we still look with hope to the determination of this question by some military success of the allied forces in the Crimea, which may reward them for the intense hardships they have endured throughout the winter, and confer fresh lustre on our arms."

It argues that a skilful general would take prompt advantage of the moral influence of the Czar's death on the two armies, and says, a successful and decisive blow struck at this time against the Russian forces in the Crimea, would be of inestimable importance in simplifying the negotiations, and perhaps in terminating the war.

The Times further goes on to say that in the negotiations it is the obvious duty and interest of the allies to encourage and assist the peace party in Russia, of whom the new sovereign is said to be a member, and observes :—

"Hitherto they have waged war against the policy of a man; that man is no more; his policy may possibly be abandoned, for it has undoubtedly contributed to his ruin; but to pursue the war with blind hostility would be to direct it against the whole people of the Russian empire, with whom we have no quarrel, except in as far as they have been led to encroach on the territories and rights of their neighbors."

Dr. Granville, in a paper written to Lord Palmerston from Kissengen, Bavaria, July, 1853, predicted the death of the Czar Nicholas. The doctor adds the following :—

"Memorandum—At an interview with Lord Palmerston, Feb. 23, 1854, on matters of a private nature, his lordship was pleased to ask me before we separated whether I still adhered to my opinion and prediction. I replied that before July, 1855, (the emperor would then be fifty-nine years old), what I anticipated would happen. 'Let but a few reverses overtake the emperor, I added, 'and his death, like that of all his brothers, will be sudden.' It has proved so. Alma, Inkermann, Balaklava, shook the mighty brain. Eupatoria completed the stroke, which has anticipated my prognosis only by a few weeks."

The doctor's theory that the emperor's death would be caused by an access of passion, which had caused the death of so many of his predecessors, was undoubtedly correct. A letter from Berlin says—"When the czar received the intelligence that Sardinia had thrown off her neutrality and openly joined the western alliance, he was so overcome with passion that he raved with impotent rage."

CURLING.—A field-day of the Montreal Club took place on Tuesday last, when a Match came off between the married and unmarried players. The Benedicts, as usual, were the winners, but they certainly were hard pressed by their opponents, as will be seen by the score. Had there not been such a tendency to speculate largely in Pork on one of the Rinks, the Lotharios might have, this time, wiped out their numerous defeats in victory.

Various friendly and interesting catch matches have taken place between the members of the different Clubs this month, the ice on all the Rinks being almost as good as at the beginning of the season. Altogether the campaign has been a very successful one and a large accession of Curlers has taken place.

BASIS OF HISTORICAL RESEARCH.—We lately read in a French journal, that the bishop of Arras, Mgr. Parisis, had instructed each Curé in his diocese to collect all the noteworthy circumstances connected with the history of his parish and record them in the parish register. This custom, followed in France from early times, prevailed more particularly in the parishes of the diocese of Cambray. Historical researches were there greatly advanced by it. One parish register (that of Denain) had been found valuable in explaining important facts in the history of the country. The Curés of the same diocese, had been enjoined, not only to keep a register, but to make thorough research into the history of the foundation and vicissitudes of their churches, in the double point of view of chronology and archeology. That which has not been effected throughout the whole of France, has not been accomplished in Canada and could not be: but the labors and patient researches of Mr. Jacques Viger has procured the most valuable information as to the foundation and history of many of the old parishes of Lower Canada.—Quebec Canadien.

What French Scholars think of America.

The Paris correspondent of the N. Y. Commercial Advertiser says:—

"The French Academy, composed of forty of the most distinguished men of France in letters and sciences, were occupied at their sitting on Saturday last, in a discussion on M. Vattemare's project of international exchanges, and the greatness of the United States in particular. M. Guizot was appointed orator of the day, and opening with a flattering eulogy upon the efforts of M. Vattemare, and upon the great value of his schemes to both countries, and particularly to the Academy, he went on to give an enumeration of the immense number of public and society libraries in the United States, gave an apercu of their common school system, which he extolled as being in advance of all others, and spoke of the passion with which Americans were pursuing the collecting of historical records referring to the history of their country. On this subject, he made the remark that Europeans deceived themselves when they made the charge that the Americans were a people entirely absorbed in the pursuit of a material progress; for he said that no nation who bought and read so many books, who paid so much attention to their normal schools, who had labored so hard in the improvement of governmental and civil laws, who had entered with such a passion into the collection of historical records, should longer lie under this oft-repeated and false imputation. His remarks met the decided approbation of the house.

M. Guizot was followed by M. Dupin, former president of the Senate, by M. Cousin, Minister under the Republic, by M. Nodet, Michael Chevalier and others, all in the same strain, each eulogizing the United States and exhibiting a greater knowledge of its institutions than can be found in any other body of men this side of the Atlantic. M. Cousin grew eloquent over the school system of the United States, and the efforts of her lettered men, in establishing for the country a reputation which so clearly contradicts the remark often heard that the American cares for nothing but the "almighty dollar."

In the remarks of all these gentlemen, there were concealed thrusts at the present government of France which did not fail to produce their effect—remarks which, of course, the public will never see, since the proceedings are not published. There were present also, Odillon Barrot, Count Duchatel and Count Remusat, Ministers of Louis Philippe; and in all the Academy, I believe, there is not one friend of Louis Napoleon.

LAW INTELLIGENCE.

Reported for the Montreal Herald.

SUPERIOR COURT.

27th March, 1855.

Present:—Mr. Justice DAY.
" " SMITH.
" " MONDELET.
" " VANFELSON.

KIPPEN VS. RUSSEL & AL.—Mr. Justice SMITH:— This is an action by the plaintiff against Hector Russel and John McKenzie for £59, which he pretends was due by them when in co-partnership, under the firm of Hector Russel & Co. The circumstances are these:—Kipppen was a creditor of McKenzie, being then one of the firm.— Hector Russel & Co. made an assignment of their estate to trustees, for the benefit of their creditors, and in the schedule of the deed, Kippen appears as the creditor of Russell & Co., although the debt was due only by McKenzie. The action is based on the deed of assignment, and it is pretended by the plaintiff that this mention in the schedule is binding upon the late firm. Russel pleads that the acknowledgment in the schedule was by error. McKenzie is afterwards examined on faits et articles, and admits everything as detailed in the declaration, and as to the liability of the firm. The first question, then, is whether the name of Kippen being in the schedule could make the private debt of McKenzie a debt of the firm, and the second is whether the admissions of McKenzie can be taken to bind Russel. I hold the affirmative, and am in the minority. The learned judge cited Collyer on Partnership; also the case of Colt and Wilson, 1 Edward's Chancery Reports, p 484, to shew that a private debt may, by understanding, be paid out of the co-partnership estate.

Mr. Justice MONDELET, who gave the judgment of the Court, said that the admissions of McKenzie could not bind the firm, and that McKenzie would be a propre temoin in his own case. The action dismissed, so far as Russel was concerned.

Mr. Justice DAY withdraws.

Exparte MARTIN for ratification, and divers opposants,—Rule by Petitioner against Opposants to declare whether they admit or contest. The Petitioner has no right to make an opposant declare this—(refers to act of 1831).—Rule discharged with costs.

Two cases of JETTE VS. POULIN & JETTE VS. EISENHART.—Application by Plaintiff to be permitted to examine a person came into the Province since his Enquete was closed. The Defendants Enquete is not closed, but he opposes the examination because the affidavit does not shew what evidence it is, and, secondly, because he did not reserve his right. The court under the circumstances thinks he was not bound to reserve and the motion is granted.

LAVOIE VS. AUCLAIRE.—Application to amend declaration. The suit was brought by a minor, he represented himself to be such at least, for wages as a clerk in a mercantile establishment. The defendant pleads that in the face of the declaration the plaintiff shows himself to be a minor and ought to be represented. After the plea, the plaintiff moves to amend on the ground that the extrait baptistaire proves him to be a major and to have been such at the time of the institution of the action. The application is allowed on payment of 3s costs—the payment to be the condition of amendment.

Exparte DEMERS.—For certiorari from the Commissioners' Court. We do not see that there was any excessive Jurisdiction. The Commissioners may have given an improper Judgment, but this is not excessive Jurisdiction; for the claim was for a present debt and was within the sum enacted by the statute.

Exparte REUBEN BRUNSEN, for certiorari.—The only ground given was that the Magistrate had imposed too heavy a penalty by condemning the party to hard labor for 40 days. That by the statute 4 & 5 Vic. 3. 27, sec. 27 this is shewn to be excessive. The Court however, finds none. In reference to the forms of conviction given in the Act, it will be found that the Magistrate may convict; and another passed subsequently, which says all such imprisonments may be with hard labor.

Exparte DUMOUCHEL.—Application en destitution de tutelle, to deprive Mr. Loranger of his tutorship to the minors Bélinge, on the ground that Mr. Loranger was now so weighed down with public affairs as to be unable to discharge the duties of that office; also representing herself to be the grand-mother of the children. The mother, however, is shown to be alive and the Court would think her better entitled than the applicant; and at all events the Court does not consider that Mr. Loranger's being a member of Parliament or even a Queen's Counsel can so disqualify him as to render him unfit to be the tutor. Application rejected.

DUBOIS VS. DUBOIS.—Action en peremption d'instance, because no proceedings had been taken for three years. Notice had been served on Mr. Berthelot one of the partners of the late firm of Lafontaine & Berthelot. It was urged that no peremption ought to be granted until new Attorneys were named. The Court, however, thinks it has been the practice to consider the Attorney to continue the same in such cases, and the peremption is granted.

GRENIER VS. LAVIOLETTE.—Défense en droit to a part of Plaintiff's Declaration, does not single out any independent feature of it, but to strike out certain portions which would materially change the nature of the action. The Court thinks that this would be mutilating the pleading, and the défense is dismissed with costs.

Exparte CHARON for certiorari. Not granted.

SAUCISSE VS. HART.—Motion to reject part of Defendant's plea, on the same principle as in Grenier and Laviolette, seeking to destroy [illegible]

REFORT VS. SENECAL.—An appeal from the Circuit Court, for dixmes due to a missionary by a parishioner. Three questions arise here: 1st, whether dixmes are exigibles in the Townships, where the lands are held in free and common soccage; 2nd, whether they belong to the Curé or to the missionary; 3rd, whatever the right of the missionary, yet having made an agreement, or rather the Bishop having agreed, that he should serve for a certain fixed salary, did not cut him out of the right to dixmes. Re-hearing ordered because a third Judge was required.

Exparte SMITH for ratification, and PAPINEAU opposant, and ATWATER intervening party.— Arises on the contestation of Atwater of the right of Papineau, claiming right of bailleur de fonds under the present vendor. Demurrer of Atwater dismissed.

MCDONALD VS. SEYMOUR.—An action by the endorsee of a promissory note against Seymour the endorser. The note was made by one Flowers in favor of Seymour, and by the latter endorsed to plaintiff. Seymour pretends it was given for the accommodation of Flowers, and that his endorsation was on this condition: that it was to enable him to raise money. The question is, whether the evidence of Flowers is good in law. Before the 12th Vict., under the Ordinance of 1785, recourse was to be had to the laws of England. The Court is of opinion that it is a mercantile case which comes under the 10th section of that ordinance, and the change made by the 12 vic. does not operate in this case. The opinion of the Court is, that he is a competent witness. He produces no release from Seymour. If his liability could be shewn whether for the note or the costs of the present action, he would be impeached; but no drawer is liable for costs incurred by the endorser. The latter may take his recourse against the drawer for the note, but not for costs, since it is by his own default they are incurred. Action dismissed.

MCDOUGALL and al, vs. MCDONALD.—An action by sub-contractors against principal contractors. The declaration was demurred to, but it is saved by a general allegation "that at all and every the times," &c., the plaintiffs were co-partners. The first demurrer dismissed. The demurrer to the exception maintained. It has been repeatedly decided that no stipulation can oust the Court of its jurisdiction.

STUART VS. LUSIGNAN.—Mr. Justice MONDELET who differed from the judgment of the Court, said this was a motion to set aside the answer of the defendant to faits et articles. After the return day of the rule, the woman came up and as being interrogated, said she had only one general answer to make to all the questions, viz., that they were propounded to her in a language that she could not understand. The learned Judge complained of this as a hardship, and said that it was one of the charters granted to Canadians by the act of 1775. He thought that at least those French people who did not understand English should be allowed an interpreter, and he would give a similar decision if the matter were reversed and an English person appeared before him.

Mr. Justice SMITH said his learned brother need not be alarmed: that nobody wished to deprive the Canadians of any charter. The case was simple enough. If instead of making such a foolish answer, after having been sworn, as soon as she appeared an interpreter would have been given to her; but he contended this was not the proper way that she had chosen. Motion granted and the parties put in the same state as before the answer.

Mr. Justice VANFELSON thought she ought to have come in by an exoine, and asked the relief of the Court.

VIAU VS. PERRIN.—Mr. Justice SMITH—An action of damages for the illegal issuing of a saisie arret before judgment. I differ from the majority. It is true that the plaintiff had twenty-two children in this place, but the defendant had reasonable grounds for thinking his debt perilled, and for issuing capias. [The case of Benjamin and Wilson cited.] In Scotland and England the intention of leaving is always regarded as a presumption of meditatio fuge, even although, as in the present case, the plaintiff said he meant to come back.

Mr. Justice VANFELSON.—I go on the principle that the defendant has acted in the most shameful manner for the plaintiff had real estate in the province, although grévé d'hypotheque. Ten or twelve witnesses speak of his high character, and the Curé thinks him incapable of fraud. The Court intends to give the defendant a lesson by awarding £50 damages.

CORRESPONDENCE.

To the Editor of the MONTREAL HERALD.

SIR,—In the last report of the proceedings of the Corporation, it was mentioned that a petition which had been presented last summer by a large number of the proprietors in the neighbourhood of Dorchester Street, that that Street should be continued to Mountain Street from De Bleury Street, had again been brought before the Council. It may be remembered that money was liberally voted last summer to extend the same Street in the Quebec Suburbs, and it is to be hoped that it may be continued in a much more important direction, and thus afford a very convenient road to the city. The communication between Mountain Street and Beaver Hall is now only by St. Antoine or St. Catherine Streets. The emoluments gained to the city by increased assessment on this Street, if opened, should be a strong motive for its immediate continuation. I am led to believe that the expense in opening it will be comparatively small, as most if not all the proprietors on the Street, seem willing to give up their respective portions, and, it is to be hoped, that the Wardens of the Parish Church will not oppose the improvement of the City by refusing the passage of the Street through the Burying Ground.

A FRIEND TO IMPROVEMENT.

Montreal, March 30, 1855.

To the Editor of the MONTREAL HERALD.

SIR,—Your report of the proceedings of the City Council of the 24th instant, is quite as correct as the correction which appears in your issue of this morning.

I said to the Council that I had no objection that the fourth order of the day, for reasons specified, should stand as a notice of motion by another Councillor, for the next meeting of Council.

The result was, the order lapsed for the want of a mover; but it was not discharged unanimously on the motion of Councillor Campbell. Mr. Campbell, smarting under the implied and merited censure of a motion offered by me, that be be reprimanded by the Mayor for his disorderly conduct, —a motion which he (the Mayor) regretted that it was his duty to place before the Council—has thought proper, subsequently, to introduce my name frequently and offensively by means of italics and large capitals to the notice of the readers of the Pilot:—but so long as the public know the secret of Mr. Campbell's "distinguished consideration," and are acquainted with both parties, I do not imagine that I will suffer any material damage in the estimation of right-thinking and sober citizens.

Yours, truly,
HENRY LYMAN.

To the Editor of the MONTREAL HERALD.

SIR,—I have just seen the Legislative Council Bill. The last section is enough to condemn all the preceding ones. It does away with the property qualification of the members of the Assembly; but, strange to say, it requires one of £1000 for the Legislative Councillors. This is an utter abandonment of every principle that ought to influence a British subject. On what grounds can such a measure be advocated? If a property qualification is necessary for one branch of the Legislature, surely it must be equally so for the other. Money bills are always originated in the Lower House; hitherto, in our simplicity, we have thought that the man who has no property should not have it in his power to tax those who have. A Municipal Councillor is required to possess a property qualification; even a voter must have one; but by this bill it seems that the elected need not. If the desire is to make the Legislative Council respectable, and it can only be done by making the Legislative Assembly contemptible, then, as a matter of necessity, pass the bill. This contrast may have the seeming effect of producing that end; but, like the glow-worm, their glory will be but a feeble one, if it can only shine in the dark. May we never see that day, in which our legislators will be composed of that class of agitators, who never have been, and never will be, possessed of a sufficient property qualification; they will feel little interest in protecting the wealth of the industrious man from either immoderate taxation or wanton spoliation. It is no argument to say that it is not probable that such a thing will occur, it is sufficient to show that such a thing, by the proposed measure, might occur. The democratic principle in our constitution is continually making head against the aristocratic—slow but sure. What the people gain, they always retain, and are always demanding further concessions to their power. We know not what may be done under that system of universal suffrage which now nearly exists, and to which we have lately made such rapid progress. It must be a very extraordinary circumstance if any one of our counties cannot furnish a member of sufficient property and acquirements to fit him for a representative. If a man possess talents, he must be either besotted or he must have applied them to the very worst of purposes, if he have not acquired at least a sufficient qualification: he who cannot manage his own affairs is not likely to prove of much benefit to the state. I defy you to name one person whom it would be desirable to bring forward into public life on account of his great talents, who does not possess a sufficient property qualification. The thing is so unjust in itself, that if there were fifty such cases I would still say, let the constituencies who desire the services of such persons purchase real estate and bestow it on the paupers of their choice. I am inclined to think that few of them would do this.

Pass this measure, and in five years the Council will be swept away and the Crown will stand alone between rational liberty and popular clamour—between order and anarchy. How long would that contest last? If you desire to retain the semblance of the British constitution, you must defend the Legislative Council from popular influence. We have had, on several occasions, reason to say "Thank God, we have a Legislative Council;" and the only regret is, that it has not had more frequently, the moral courage to resist the ministerial and popular pressure.— Witness the Rebellion Losses Bill.

There is no necessity for making the Council elective, and thus changing one of the established and time-honoured bulwarks of the constitution, in order to make it possess the confidence of the country. Let the executive act honestly and conscientiously, and appoint honest, upright and intelligent men from all parts of the country, those who possess the respect of their neighbors, and stand out in bold relief before the whole Province from the political agitators and humbugs [illegible] feelings who do not court popular favor. Such men will command respect; if they are to be found, they can be appointed; if they are not to be found, the elective principle will not cure the defect, and all that can be said is, that we are a contemptible set.

There is no danger in appointing a very large number of them. "In the multitude of Councillors there is safety." From a large number you can always count upon a sufficient attendance to carry on the general business of the country, and upon any great emergency involving some constitutional principle, "a call of the House" will always have the effect of procuring a sufficient attendance. Give power to the Council to superannuate its old and incompetent members by dispensing with their attendance, and the privilege of recommending the names for new appointments. Do not pay them! Complaints have been unjustly made that, the Upper House pass in a few hours important measures that have been months before the Lower Chamber. They have had the bill printed; they have had leisure to consider it; they have had the advantage of the published debates in the Lower House; (better than the originals, by the way,) and still better, they have had calmly the opportunity of exercising their unbiased judgments. Before the bill reaches their Chamber they are in a far better position to act wisely and prudently than the Assembly. In one word, who would not place more confidence in a large body of such men so appointed by different and ever-changing Executives, than in the political agitators, needy humbugs, ambitious tools, conceited fools, disappointed aspirants, disaffected hypocrites and illiterate dolts, who, too frequently, represent our excitable constituencies and form even at this moment no inconsiderable portion of the present House?

A member chosen to represent a constituency demanding all sorts of legislation is constrained to obey the popular will—his judgment, if not warped, must bend to the pressure—whereas one appointed for life by the Crown becomes, as far as human nature can be, independent of both, and is more likely to counsel wisely, and act with more prudence and judgment—he will always be responsible to the "still small voice" and that properly expressed "public opinion," which commands the respect of all well regulated minds. In the name of common prudence, then, try first the plan I have proposed. If we have a Legislative Chamber, let it not be elective—the moment that principle is established, democracy will advance with rapid strides, and British connexion, too much weakened already, will not be worth a dozen years purchase.

I am,
Your obed't. serv't,
CONSERVATIVE.

UNITED STATES.

CAPITAL PUNISHMENT.—A bill to abolish Capital Punishment has been reported to our Assembly; but we presume the pressure of business will furnish a sufficient excuse for leaving it unacted on. Yet the subject is one of far wider importance than many of either the advocates or opponents of hanging imagine. It is not the few wertches whom the Gallows deprives of life, but the many whose moral perception it darkens and depraves—to whom it teaches the morality of evil for evil and vengeance for wrong—for whose sake we mainly desire its abolition, and ask our readers to ponder the following facts:

The States of Maine and Vermont virtually abolished the Gallows many years ago. But one man has since been hung in Maine, and none in Vermont. And the recollection of our readers will bear witness with ours that no portion of the Union is more moral or more exempt from sanguinary crime than those two States. The champion of Hanging is welcome to maintain that their morality is cause or consequence of their disuse of the Gallows, as he shall see fit.

Michigan was the pioneer State of the Free West in the abolition of Hanging. Eight years ago her Legislature enacted its downfall. Immediately thereafter, strenuous efforts were made to restore it—impelled we regret to say, by clergymen. But they did not prevail, and the State has never recoiled from her advance movement. During the eight years in which her laws have utterly ignored the rule of blood for blood, her population has averaged some Four Hundred Thousand; it is now over Half a Million. Fifteen lives have been feloniously taken within her jurisdiction during those eight years, or, at the rate of one per annum for every 213,000 of population. In this City, the number of human lives feloniously taken exceeds in each year those thus taken in Michigan, with a population nearly equal to that of our City, in the entire period of eight years. And Michigan, though she has but one large city, has a very full share of Foreign-born and of rude border population— miners, pioneers, sea-faring men, &c., &c.

We think these facts clearly establish the safety of abolishing the gallows. We do not suppose that men will wholly cease to kill where the State ceases to hang; we only insist that no more murders occur because of this abstinence from legal blood-shedding. And if it be safe to leave man-killing to felons, who would not prefer to have his children grow up where the air is never polluted by the spectacle of a gallows bearing its horrible fruit—where the lesson of revenge is never taught by the legal exaction of life for life?

The late election changed the political ascendancy in Michigan—turned out the party which had abolished the gallows, and installed their old adversaries, from whose ranks the cry for restoration of legal homicide had mainly if not wholly arisen. A leading Whig Editor thereupon raised the standard of repeal of the humane and humanizing statute. But it met with no response from the people or from the Legislature. Not even a show of response for the movement could be got up in either House—no report in its favor—not even a bill. We believe one Senator and five Representatives were the full extent of the force that could have been mustered for Repeal had there been anybody to lead the forlorn hope. But the project fell still-born; and we presume there will never again be a serious effort made in Michigan for the restoration of the gallows.

In Indiana, a recent Legislature gave to each Jury in a capital case the power of adjudging a convict to the Gallows or the State Prison as said Jury should think proper. We haven't yet heard of any one sentenced to be hung under this rule, and do not expect to. We do not approve of this mode of pitching the old machine overboard, but none can doubt that it indicates the set of the current.—N. Y. Tribune.

CAUSE AND EFFECT.—From the statistics on the increase of crime in this city, published in the State of Maine a few days since, different minds will be likely to draw different conclusions. While no one can deny the appearance of an alarming and wide-spread disregard of law, few, perhaps, will reflect upon or admit the real cause. Nevertheless, a matter of so serious import deserves more than a passing notice. The question at once arises, what is the cause of this extensive violation of good morals and of law? To our mind the answer is very simple and concise—the Maine Liquor Law. While we would not go beyond the strictness of truth for the sake of arguing against this odious enactment, we are bound to express our firm belief that to this cause, and to this alone, is due that large increase of violation of law, so out of proportion to the steady and gratifying growth of our city. One crime leads to another and often accompanies it; and the man who enters one of the many grog-shops which disgrace our community, knowing that the traffic is outlawed, has his respect for law blunted, and feels less and less the hold which public enactments have upon his regard. There is no doubt that the Maine Law is openly and definitely disregarded in our midst, and we are daily reaping the consequences in the lowering tone of public morals, and in the general diffusion of rowdyism, and what might be called "Boweryism," among our population.— This defiance of one law, especially one so prominent, leads inevitably to the trampling under foot of all laws.

We confess to a feeling almost of alarm at the contemplation of this picture. The cause of temperance and public morals is too important to be hazarded by enactments of such doubtful character. There can be no doubt—we think few will question the statement—that genuine temperance was daily gaining strength in our whole community, up to the time of the passage of the Maine Law—though the success of that measure was toasted in good punch by some of its leading supporters. We would not deny that it has gained ground since—it is contrary to the nature of things that it should not. But under its present leadership the cause has taken a turn so far separated from its original purpose, and looking to such different results, that the high aim it had at the start has been overlooked, if not attempted to be put out of sight. This attempt has in some degree been successful, and the consequence has been that the religious sentiment in favor of temperance has been extinguished by an over-weening dependence upon law as the remedy for evils. Most truly was it said in the Legislature a few days since, that it was inconsistent to enact one set of laws to govern a community, and to pass resolutions recommending resistance to another set of laws passed to govern the same community.

The truth is, the sophistry so often paraded before the public about "the right of society to protect itself against the rumseller," must be put away.—What is society, that every man has not an equal right to its protection? What is the rumseller, but a part and parcel of that very society which must be protected? The traffic in which he is engaged is odious, if it inflict evil upon men. Shall he be led to see the odium and the evil; or shall he be persecuted until humane and Christian men are ready to forget the rumseller in the man, and to tender him support and sympathy?

This attempt at reforming the world by statute is as old as it is absurd—and has never yet been sucessful. We have already outlived the first invention for that purpose in this State, in the shape of of the Liquor Law just repealed by the present Legislature. We shall very speedily see the end of the second—and the third—and so on —ad infinitum.—Meantime, we trust the genuine friends of temperance will not be forced into the belief that the Maine Law is a divine institution simply because its friends claim that a certain number of rum shops have been closed. The decline of public morals tells a different tale.—Portland State of Maine.

A SINGULAR DREAM.—A young married lady, the wife of a Main St. merchant, residing on Race street in the vicinity of the Third street had a most singular dream, on the night of Wednesday Dec. 6th, which has since been realized in the most singular manner. The name of the lady we withold at her own request. On the night spoken of, she retired to her bed in a piesant frame of mind, not, however, particularly elated. The first of the night she was visited by a deep sleep, which, as the dawn appeared, gave way to slumber of a more broken character. Suddenly she dreamed, and dreaming saw her brother, the same that two years ago left his orphan home to brave the [illegible] might secure to himself and sister a competence. She saw him rise from the bed in a small hut-like tenement, and running his hand under the pillow, drew from thence a revolver and a huge bowie knife, both of which he placed in a belt that he wore around his body. It seemed that it was not far from midnight, for the embers were yet smoking on the rude hearth, and as they cast their lurid glare over his countenance, she thought that perhaps it was all a dream: then she concluded that no dream could be so real, and became convinced all was actual.

While she gazed upon his countenance the expression suddenly changed—it betrayed an intense watchfulness, every pulse seemed suspended and every heart throb muffled, while the eye stood fixed on a particular spot near the head of the bed, while through a small aperture not noticed before, was a human hand grasping a short, keen instrument, looking terribly like a dagger. It apparently sought the head of the bed, for as it touched the pillow it passed itself slowly down to about the supposed region of the heart and poised itself for a second as if to make sure of its aim. That second was sufficient for the brother to rise noiselessly from his seat, draw his bowie-knife from his belt and advance a single step towards the bed. Just as the dagger descended into the blankets, the knife of the brother came down like a meat axe, close to the aperture, completely severing the hand of the would-be assassin above, and causing the dagger and limb to fall on the bed, trophies of his victory. A deep prolonged yell sounded from without, and on rushing to the aperture and convincing himself that there was but one, the brother unbolted the door and stepped out. The moon was shining, and by its light was discovered a man writhing as if in the last agonies.

The miner drew the body to the door, and on turning his face to the fire, beheld the visage of a Mexican, who for some fancied injury, had sworn to never rest content until he had taken his (the brother's) life. On examining the man closely he was observed to have a wound in the vicinity of his heart, which a long sharp, two-edged blade in his left hand abundantly accounted for. Failing in the attempt to assassinate his victim, he had, with his only remaining hand driven another knife to his own heart. The lady awoke, and, vividly impressed with the dream, related its substance, as here recorded, to her husband. Judge then of his and her surprise when they yesterday received a letter from California, per the North Star, from her brother, relating an adventure the night of Dec. 6th, precisely identical with that seen by the lady in her dream. Verilr there are strange things in heaven and earth. Was the dream merely an accidental coincidence, or was the spirit of the dreamer actually present in the lodge of the brother? These and other inquiries involuntarily rise to the lips, and seek a solution not yet granted to mortals to solve.—Cincinnati Times.

A NOVELTY IN MEDICINE.—We find in our exchanges notices of a new kind of universal remedy, in shape of a bath of acidulated electrified water, particularly recommended for those who have been over-dosed with metalic substances by the old school medical men. As one of the many new ideas, it is worthy of a passing comment:—

"The modus operandi is as follows:—A metallic bath is insulated from everything, and partly filled with acidulated water, to convey more readily the electrical currents. The patient lies upon a seat in the tub, insulated entirely from the bath. When gold, silver or mercury is in the system, nitric or dydrochloric acids are employed. When lead is suspected, the acid used is sulphuric.— This done, the negative pole of a battery is put in connection with the bath, while the positive pole is in the hands of the patient. Now the work of purification commences. The electricity precipitates itself, hunts, digs, searches, and discovers every particle of metallic substance concealed in the most profound tissues, bones, nerves and joints of the patient, resolves them into their primitive forms, and extracting them entire from the human organism, deposits them upon the sides of the bath, where they can be seen with the naked eye."

"I have seen," says M. Poly, "after the first bath of a person who had been complaining of the terrible pains in his hands, caused by mercury, the exact shape of the arm imprinted on the negative plate of the battery—the deposit being formed entirely of mercury drawn from the arm." Here ends this important article, which, if true, is destined to become as much a part of the medical practice as vaccination.

We rather like this, and fain hope it is not all a fallacy. We have men with faces of brass and hearts of iron who might profit, after a few years professional use of the metal which makes them a fortune, by a daily bath in this tub, and certain journalists we wot of, whose brains are as leaden as their own types, would, no doubt, after a few dips, come out with imaginations as light, bright and glowing as the sun at noonday. Careless children, and venturesome men and women, who are daily swallowing buttons, jack-knives, needles, pins, and other equally nutritious substances, would be sought for by speculators and paid liberally to go into this bath, with the understanding that the hardware which came from them, and "deposited itself at the side of the bath," should be the property of the said speculator. It is a great idea, and suited to the age.— Buffalo Advertiser.

The American (or Know Nothing) Party and Slavery.

(From the Boston Atlas.)

The New York Herald, the undeviating apologist of slavery, exultingly declares that the advent of the American party has silenced anti-slavery discussion. Sollers, a slave-holding and Know-Nothing member of the House of Representatives, tells us in his place, that the question is to be laid aside. The National Era, the only free paper in Washington, complains that its New England circulation is diminishing. Henry Wilson, after months of shilly-shally and columns of explanation, has at length fairly succumbed.— The new organization, possessing at present almost unlimited political power, gives no sign of its opinion, no intimation of its intention, but remains, to all intents and purposes, a great, dumb, corporate doughface. Considerations of honor and humanity, of justice and self-preservation are disregarded; the old fealty of New England to Virginia is renewed; and men await.

"With 'bated breath and whispering humbleness," for her election. We dare not speak above a whisper, lest her equanimity should be disturbed; we dare not move with our accustomed freedom, lest her jealousy should again be kindled, like a spoiled child, she must be coaxed and petted and dandled into hostility to the Administration.— Thus, unless certain unseen but potent influences are counteracted, we are to be cheated into a renewal of degrading contracts, and into the support of a party falsely called national—a party like that which gave us the Fugitive Slave Law, and took from us the Missouri Compromise.

We know very well that another view of the new movement has been prominently presented. Of course we attach no value whatever to the insane rayings of the Washington Union. That paper has denounced, and will continue to denounce, the Know Nothings as abolitionists But in the estimation of the Union, every man who dares to oppose the Administration is an abolitionist, a traitor and a disunionist. On the other hand, in the free States, and particularly in New England, the members of the new order continue to throw out mysterious hints that all is right; that the cause of freedom will be attended to in proper season; that the North has nothing to fear from the American party. In this way Mr. Burlingame hints, and all the minor philanthropists hint too, just as plainly as their muzzles will let them. In order to avoid all misunderstanding, we may say here, that in our opinion, these inuendoes are not worth a straw. They are the natural, faltering, stammering, explanations of men, who have been false to all the professions of their public lives. They are made simply to cover a disgraceful retreat, and every thoughtful man will regard them with profound contempt.

We are told in the next place, that in most instances the American party has elected anti-Nebraska members of Congress. But this may have been the result of circumstances rather than of principle. The Nebraska bill, if not by birth, at least by adoption, was the bantling of the Administration. Hostility to Franklin Pierce and his cabinet implied hostility to this bad measure. The candidates of the American party were necessarily selected from the opponents of the Administration, and they were necessarily opponents of the repeal of the Missouri Compromise. It is not by any means certain that even upon that point the new members will be faithful to the right. Circumstances may change, men may change with them. If any one had foretold only a little while ago, that Henry Wilson would be found with the extreme South, opposing the passage of the Oregon bill, the prophet would have been hooted for his predictions. We care not what men say when they leave Massachusetts; we ask rather what they will do after they get to Washington. We have seen stronger men than any of those who will compose the next Massachusetts delegation, palsied in heart and tongue and consciens by the incubus of a national party. The American members have a far fiercer ordeal to pass through than any to which their predecessors have been subjected. They are the slaves of an inquisition: they are the retainers of a despot, nameless, formless but inexorable; the echoes of strange oaths are in their ears; the intricate machinery of an immense organization stretches and now lops them at its pleasure. Who can safely predict the course of men thus situated? Who is bold enough to say that surrounded by such influences, thus "cabin'd, cribbed, confined," he would be true to his own convictions of duty and justice?

The cause of freedom would indeed have but little to hope for, were it not for the great and still increasing anti-slavery sentiment of the Northern States. No party which only defies this sentiment can long exist. No representatives failing to meet its reasonable demands can long retain their places. This hostility to slavery has not been a plant of rapid growth. For years it was sometimes almost annihilated by the gusts of popular passion and sometimes chilled almost to death by popular indifference. It has contended against the folly of its supporters and the vindictiveness of its opponents, against the government, the church, the exchange, and the college; it has been assailed by the government centralized into a real and absolute despotism. Denied the right of speech, it vindicated the right until it was acknowledged; denied the right of petition, it did not cease to clamor for the restoration of that inestimable blessing until it was regained; denied the right to debate slavery in congress, it has pertinaciously insisted upon the discussion with all its collateral issue, until a man cannot speak in the capitol with more freedom than twenty years ago would have been permitted in Boston; denied a place among the benevolent questions of the day, it has become by general distinction, the question. It has forced its way into our literature, it has carried by storm the very pulpit worth carrying, it has touched the hearts of a promiscuous audience in the theatre, it has given new inspiration to the painter's pencil and a new tone to the song of the poet. Permeating everywhere, discussed around the fireside, touching the heart of woman and gentle issues, and kindling into a blaze the instinctive equity of childhood, the question of slavery cannot be avoided by politicians. There was a time when indiscriminate and indecent abuse of anti-slavery men was a sure passport to public favor and to place. But that time has gone by. Old difference are adjusted, and old contests are forgotten. The heart of the philanthropist has pardoned the obliquity of vision which distorted his motive; the heart of the conservative has forgiven that immoderate zeal which he regarded as dangerous to the republic. We are all men, and must feel like men on matters affecting the happiness of our common humanity. Here and there some cold blooded martinet, mincing daintily his parrot phrases, shames alike his birth and his manhood But no man accustomed to regard the changes of public opinion, can fail to discern the great and extraordinary change which has taken place in relation to this question of slavery.

The American party may have a giant's strength, but it will contend in vain against opinions which have been so thoughtfully embraced, and which are so generally diffused. It may secure a few victories, it may elect a President, it may obtain the control of Congress; but its first infidelity to freedom will be the signal for its overthrow. It has before it, indeed, a memorable example. It can hardly hope to secure a greater or more general triumph than that which placed the unfortunate Pierce in the chair; and it may well tremble at the prospect of a downfall like his. Hardly more than a moiety of his term of office has expired, yet State after State has deserted him, and he now finds himself in a terrible minority, with half the confederacy arrayed against him, and with a House of Representatives bitterly hostile to his policy. A similar fortune will await any future President who shall venture to disregard, as he has done, the plain admonitions of justice and of humanity.

The contest is indeed just commencing.— Whatever novelty may for a moment divert the public mind, it will be driven back by the instinct of self-perseverance, to the defence of liberty. The slave-power has usurped the Federal government, it has made the President its satrap, Senators its pimps, and Representatives its lackeys, and the country is now governed with a single eye to the interests of that monstrous tyranny. It controls Congress and the Cabinet; it makes treaties, it threatens war, it commands peace, it modifies tariffs, it governs the army and the navy, it gives or withholds the public lands, it discriminates between slavery and freedom, in the very charities of the Government. Like the fabled spirits of modern times, it guides the hand of a feeble Executive when he vetoes bills and when he approves them; and whether a patent is to be extended or a pauper relieved, it demands to be consulted, and gives judgment according to its prejudice or its interest. This condition of affairs cannot forever continue.— The great battles of freedom are yet to be fought. Great tracks of territory yet unsubdued are to be preserved from the curse of slavery. A statute which seems rather like a relic of the barbarous ages than the enactment of a civilized assembly, must be repealed. The government of the country must be forced back to its legitimate and constitutional duties. If the American party is ready to do this great work, we bid it God speed! If blinded by the glare of success it shall prove hostile to the cause of true republicanism, it will need no malediction of ours to consign it to destruction.

A Scottish Agricultural Worthy.

It is impossible to estimate too highly the obligations the agriculture of Scotland owes to those intelligent and persevering men who at the commencement of the present century occupied as tenants some of the principal farms of East Lothian. One—we believe the last of these, Mr. John Brodie, of Abbeymains, has lately died at the ripe age of 76. Eminent as a practical farmer, Mr. Brodie earned a wider fame by the evidence he gave before the select committee of the House of Commons, appointed in 1826, to inquire into the then prevalent complaints of agricultural distress. That committee, as is well known, made no report, but the evidence taken sealed the fate of the Corn Law, though for ten years later that monstrous injustice remained on our Statute Book.

Mr. Brodie's evidence, with that of Mr. Andrew Howden and Mr. Robert Hope, furnished the ground of some of the most decisive arguments urged against the Corn Laws, and demonstrated that the distress complained of was due to an erroneous system of husbandry which the Corn Law had encouraged and served to perpetuate. Mr. Brodie's evidence seems to have given offence to the landlord of his farm of Amisfield Mains, who refused to renew his lease, though Mr. Brodie had continued to improve by draining and manuring up to the close of his term in the full expectation of a renewal. When the lease expired in 1839, the farm was let to another tenant, the landlord profiting of course by Mr. Brodie's improvements. Of this, no doubt, the law permitted, but the effect on the tenantry of the district was to create feelings of distrust and dissatisfaction.

We take from a memoir of Mr. Brodie, contained in the North British Agriculturist, a few passages of general interest. The writer says:

Of all the great men who appeared in East Lothian towards the close of the last and beginning of the present century, and who shed a lustre over its agriculture none was more conspicuous or eminently instrumental in advancing agriculture than John Brodie. Entering the arena after Andrew Meikle had invented the thrashing machine—Lee of Skateraw had introduced the Swedish turnip, and, with Rennie of Phantasie, had adopted the four-course rotation, John Brodie, along with Brown of Markle, Adam Bogue of Linplum, Robert Hope of Fenton Barns, and James Reid of Drem, followed out every improvement in practice, and established on a systematic basis the agriculture of that county which has influenced, and is still influencing, the whole character of Scottish husbandry....In the year 1801 he entered on the occupancy of the farm of Fenton, on a lease of twenty-one years, at a rent of £1,050, and which rent he continued to pay till the close of the lease. The occupancy did not prove a lucrative one, as the farm at entry was in very bad order, and it was only towards the close of the lease that full crops were raised. This was effected principally by importing annually at Aberlady several cargoes of manure from Leith, a vessel being owned by him for that purpose. The quantity of police manure so brought to the farm was at the time deemed extraordinary.

In 1820 he took a lease for nineteen years of Amisfield Mains Farm, near Haddington, to which he removed for the greater convenience of educating his family. When the lease of Fenton Farm expired, the proprietor refused to let it to a non-resident tenant.

In 1826, he took a lease of nineteen years of Abbeymains, which was renewed by the proprietor, Lord Blantyre. The change which a course of high cultivation can effect on the most unpromising soils, especially where the climate is favourable, has been nowhere more strikingly displayed than at Abbeymains. Those who were familiar with this farm prior to 1830, and, who remember the cold, thin, clay fields of the upper part of the farm, and the weeping and week looking soils of those fields, through which the public road between Haddington and Dunbar passes, know what has been effected. Those not so acquainted with the farm at that time can form a very inadequate idea of what has been accomplished. The crops from being among the lowest average per acre in the county have for several years been among the highest, and the produce in grain and in roots equal to any farm in the same space in the United Kingdom. This change has been produced by the skill and capital of Mr. Brodie, a portion of the latter being, however, borne by the landlords by contract on entry. The outlay in permanent improvements, draining, subsoiling, &c., and in manures, has certainly exceeded the original value of the fee-simple of the soil. That the occupant reaped, and his friends will continue to reap the benefit of such improvements, is unquestionable; but had Mr. Brodie been equally unfortunate, as to a renewal of the lease, in this as in the previous farms, much of his skill, enterprise, and capital would have been expended upon improvements, the benefit of which others would mainly have reaped........In Amisfield Mains, he was engaged in extensive draining operations, up to the second year of the expiry of his lease. The increased value imparted to the soil during his occupancy, both of Amisfield and Abbeymains, would of itself have proved a full return for his exertions, had he purchased the land previous to farming it, but farming the soil owned by others, neither skill, capital, nor honourable bearing protected him from the too common fate of occupying tenants, his very position as an improving farmer being rather a disadvantage than otherwise.

Mr. Brodie's peculiar merits as an agriculturist are thus stated:—

He was rather a pioneer than a follower, although with too sound a judgment to pursue novelty for its own sake. As an improver and as a cultivator, the same characteristic of patient perseverance was exhibited. Once resolved to undertake any improvement, he went straightforward undaunted by obstacles, and keeping steadily in view the object aimed at in the execution of any undertaking, whether in completing the draining of a field, or in preparing for, or in sowing a crop, patience in waiting for a suitable tid, and diligent perseverance when the whether was suitable, were alike the subject of remark. Scrupulously attentive to eradicating all weeds, such as couch and knott grass, on their first appearence, he spared no expense to effect this. Keeping the land free from weeds and frequent applications in moderate doses of fertilisers, such as farm, town, and portable manures, were the leading features of his practice. His minute attention to the details in the field exercised no inconsiderable influence in improving the practice of those farmers who, going to and returning from the weekly market at Haddington, had the opportunity of witnessing the operations in progress, and strangers from a distance who came to examine into the advanced practice of the county invariably formed a highly favourable opinion of his general management. As a breeder and a feeder of stock, he was pre-eminent. Those who are familiar with the premium lists of the Highland and East Lothian Agricultural Societies, must have observed that no name occurs so often as a successful competitor as that of John Brodie, while his essays on various subjects are recorded in their transactions, and are valuable expositions of his practice, particularly as a successful feeder of stock. The number of premiums taken by Mr. Broodie was certainly greater than that of any other farmer in Scotland.—London Economist.

SCUTARI.

Amid the clouds of grief and wrath,
That o'er the heart of England brood,
One bright star holds its blessed path,
Unswerving, unsubdued.

A steady radiance; breathing balm
To throbbing limb, and wand'ring brain;
Investing death with hallowed calm,
Taking the sting from pain.

Through miles of pallets, thickly laid
With sickness in its foulest guise,
And pain, in form to have dismayed,
Man's science-hardened eyes.

A woman, fragile, pale, and tall,
Upon her saintly work doth move.
Fair or not fair, who knows? But all
Follow her face with love.

Lady—thy very name so sweet,
Speaks of full songs through darkness heard,
And fancy findeth likeness meet
Between thee and the bird,

Whose music cheers the glooming world,
As thy low voice the anguish dim,
That through these sad rooms lieth cold
On brain and heart and limb.

God guard thee, noble woman; still
Wear the saint's glory round thy brow,
Let bigots call thee as they will,
What Christ preached, doest thou.

FAITHFUL PREACHING.—Rev. W. H. Milburn, to illustrate the peculiar faithfulness of some of the early Kentucky clergy, says in his lecture:

An incident related by Ewell White, himself a man of note, will illustrate this. It happened at one time that a meeting was appointed in ——, in old Simon Kenton's county. A preacher named James Axley, familiarly called Jemmy Axley, by his friends, and very popular, was expected. But when he came he brought another with him, who spoke first. This disappointed the people, and there was a good deal of noise and confusion, and great inattention on the part of the audience. It is customary, when two ministers are present, for both to address the meeting; if one drives in a nail of truth, the other clinches it. When Axley rose, all was still, everybody was disposed to listen.

"My friends," said he, looking round with a keen, observant glance, "it is perhaps a painful, but always a necessary duty of your minister to reprove sin, wherever found, and be assured I shall not shrink from it on this occasion. "Now," said he, "that sandy headed man standing by the door, that went out while the brother was speaking, staid as long as he wished, got his boots covered with mud, came in and made such a noise as to disturb everybody, and prevent their hearing scarcely a word, that man thinks I mean him. And well he might think so, for it was a disgrace to Kentucky to say he was raised here and had no more manners. Now, my friend, I advise you to go home, and learn how to behave when you come to the house of prayer. But I don't mean him.

"That little girl about the middle of the floor, with flowers inside of her bonnet, that was giggling and laughing and chattering all the time the brother was speaking, thinks I mean her.— And she ought I am sorry for her parents, who have raised a girl to fifteen, without her learning how to behave modestly and properly, and they are to be pitied. Little girl, before you come again, learn to be quiet and reverend in the house of God, and respectful to the ministers he has sent. But I don't mean her.

"And now that man on the bench, towards the corner, that's looking up as bright and wide awake, as if he had never been asleep in his life, and never expected to be, but who was nodding and bowing all through the preaching, and snoring so as to disturb all around him—he thinks I mean him. And indeed he well may. My friend, the house of God is not intended for a sleeping room. When you want to take a nap, go home and go to bed and take it regularly; but you come here for another purpose. But I don't mean him.

And thus he went on, fixing his dark, piercing eye on each offender, singling him out in such a manner that he could not be mistaken, till he had nearly gone through with all who had made any disturbance, ending each reproval with, 'But I don't mean him, or her.' White, meanwhile, was sitting on a bench in front of Axley, enjoying the fun amazingly, laughing, rubbing his hands, chewing more lustily, and spitting more vigorously and profusely than before, as each new offender was brought, till the aisle before him was a puddle.

"Now," said Axley, drawing himself up, and with a severe look, "I calculate you want to know what I mean." "I mean," pointing directly to White—"I mean that nasty, dirty, filthy tobacco chewer. Look at a filthy brown puddle before him; a toad wouldn't hop in it, and to think of the sisters' dresses having to go through it."

White was thunderstruck. He never again was known to chew tobacco in meeting.

LITTLE CHILDREN.—I am fond of children—I think them the poetry of the world, the fresh flowers of our hearts and homes, little conjurors with their "natural magic," evoking by their spells what delights and enriches all ranks, and equalizes the different classes of society. Though they bring with them anxieties and cares, and live to occasion sorrow and grief, we should get on very badly without them. Only think, if there was never any thing anywere to be seen but great grown-up men and women! How should we long for the sight of a little child! Every infant comes into the world like a delegated prophet, the harbinger and herald of good tidings, whose office it is "to turn the hearts of the fathers of the children," and to draw "the disobedient to the wisdom of the just." A child softens and purifies the heart, warming and melting it by its gentle presence; it enriches the soul by new feelings, and awakens within it what is favourable to virtue. It is a beam of light, a fountain of love, a teacher whose lessons few can resist. Infants recall us from much that engenders and encourages selfishness, that freezes the affections, roughens the manners, indurates the heart; they brighten the home, deepen love, invigorate exertion, infuse courage and vivify and sustain the charities of life. It would be a terrible world, I do think, if it was not embellished with little children.

SPECIAL NOTICES.

PLANTAGENET WATER.

☞ HEALTH FOR THE MILLION.—It is just at this season of the year when the human system wants something to cleanse, purify and renovate it after the severity and sudden changes to which it has been exposed to during the winter season, and as we know of nothing equal to the celebrated PLANTAGENET WATER for purifying the blood and completely renovating the whole system, we would advise parties who value their health to try this celebrated remedy. But man, tempted by the lovely aspect everything wears, forgets that disease lies concealed beneath the teeming sod, and that there are ready-made graves where the violets are growing. To those who are troubled with headache, dizziness, dyspepsia, &c., the Plantagenet Water acts as an antidote in such cases; and now is the time to take it, as a fresh supply has just been received at the Depot, 4 Place d'Armes, where all orders, either for town or country, will be promptly attended to.

IT IS AN ILL WIND THAT BLOWS NO ONE GOOD.— The late changeable weather, which has given coughs, colds, catarrh, &c. to many of our citizens, has been the source of a rich harvest to Bryan, the maker of the Pulmonic Wafers: 1450 boxes have been sold by the Agent in town during the last few weeks.

ARRIVAL OF THE ASIA.

HALIFAX, March 30, 1855.

The Asia arrived last night—one week later.

No event of importance had occurred during the week.

Public attention was generally centered upon the doings of the Vienna Conference, which was formally inaugurated on the 15th inst.

Hopes and fears were about equally divided as to the probability of peace resulting from the Conference.

From the seat of war the most important intelligence is that the allies have reopened their fire on Sebastopol with good effect.

FURTHER.

The Roebuck Committee was still prosecuting its inquiries into the conduct of the war.

A manifesto by the new Emperor of Russia to his army is interpreted as a warlike demonstration.

COMMERCIAL INTELLIGENCE.

The Liverpool market exhibited considerable animation, but a general decline occurred upon the quotations by the Atlantic, which reached in some cases 1d. per lb. on cotton.

Breadstuffs firm and prices had slightly advanced.

Indian Corn sold at previous quotations.

The circular of Milligan, Evans & Co, quotes Western Canal Flour at 42s. per brl.

In Provisions no change of moment had occurred.

The London Money Market is growing easier, and Consols remain steady at 93⅛.

Mr. McNider, the operator of the British American Telegraph line, called at our office at about eleven o'clock this forenoon, and inquired what price we would give for the exclusive use of the despatch containing the Asia's news, which vessel had arrived at Halifax. We understood from him that our offer was accepted, and that we should have the despatch on its arrival.

Mr. McNider, it appears, subsequently sold it to the proprietors of the Gazette.

VIA BRITISH AMERICAN LINE.

Office—28 St. François Xavier Street,—Union Buildings.

The "Asia"—from Liverpool on Saturday morning the 17th inst.—arrived at Halifax at 9 p. m. on Thursday the 29th.

The "Union" sailed from Southampton on Wednesday, the 14th, with 50 passengers.

THE RUSSIAN EMPEROR'S MANIFESTO.

The following is the manifesto of Alexander to his Army, dated St. Petersburg, March 3rd:—

"Valiant Warriors, faithful Defenders of the Church, Throne and Country,—It has pleased Almighty God to visit us with the most painful and grievous loss,—we have lost our common Father and benefactor: in the midst of his unwearied care for Russian arms, the Emperor Nicholas Paul Orvitch, my most beloved Father has departed to Eternal. His last words were "I thank the glorious, loyal guards, who, in 1825 saved Russia, and I also thank the brave army and fleet. I pray God to maintain the courage and spirit by which they have distinguished themselves under me. So long as this spirit remains upheld Russian tranquility is secured both within and without, then woe to her enemies.

'I love my troops as my own children, and strove as much as I could to improve their condition. If I was not entirely successful in that respect, it was from no want of will, but because I was unable to devise anything better, or to do more.'"

"May these ever memorable words remain preserved in your hearts as a proof of his sincere love for you, which I share to the largest extent, and let them be a pledge of your devotion for me and Russia.

(Signed,) ALEXANDER."

A postscript presents to the Guards the uniform worn by the deceased Emperor, and directs them to retain on their accoutrements the "N," the initial of Nicholas.

The Manifesto concludes—"May the sacred memory of Nicholas survive in our ranks as a terror to the foe and the glory of Russia.

[Signed,] ALEXANDER."

The Manifesto was considered warlike. Various reports are circulated respecting the last words of the Emperor Nicholas. According to English accounts the Emperor Nicholas, addressing Alexander, advised him to make peace, even at the loss of Russian influence in the Black Sea; that he, Nicholas, would take the responsibility, as he had not believed in the possibility of Anglo-French alliance, and Alexander's constant effort to detach France from England and unite Russia with Austria and Prussia. Nicholas added that his presumption had been excessive, and that God had humbled him. The above was evidently manufactured for the English Market.

Russian accounts say Nicholas passed his last hours in the consolations of Religion, having been bid adieu to by all the members of his family individually. He said to the Empress "Tell your brother Fritz, King of Prussia, to adhere to Russia and never forget his father's policy." Nicholas then took leave of Counts Orloff, Dalgorouki, and Arlemart, also of a favorite Grenadier and his household personal attendants. All except family having retired, he asked the Empress to repeat the Lord's Prayer. At the words of "Will be done on earth as in Heaven," Nicholas fervently responded "Always!! Always"!!! Soon afterwards he added "I hope God will open for me his arms" He then became partially insensible for two hours. At noon he said something about a message to a dear friend not named, and something of Alexander and the garrison of Sebastopol. A few minutes afterwards he drew a deep sigh and expired.

The body was exposed, face uncovered, in the Chapelle Ardente until March 16th, when it was buried with the usual Imperial solemnity.

VIENNA CONFERENCE.

The Congress in Vienna formally met on Thursday, the 15th March. There were present 1 French, 2 English, 2 Austrian and 2 Turkish Representatives. The Russian Plenipotentiary was not present. Telegraph reports say that the discussion on the general basis of the negotiations was terminated satisfactorily. Rumors are current that Austria and England would be content without the demolition of Sebastopol but that Napoleon absolutely insists on that condition.

LATEST.

VIENNA, Friday Night.

At Conference yesterday the plenipotentiaries exchanged their powers, and proceedings were entered into for the fourth basis, and the interpretation, as given to them by the Allies, having been set forth, the representatives of Russia accept them verbally. One of the plenipotentiaries was hereupon deputed to draw up a minute or protocol of this, which is to be signed to-morrow, Saturday, the first thing when the ambassadors meet, and this document will constitute the basis of negotiations for peace.

PARIS, Friday night.—The mission of General Wedell has completely failed. Prussia refuses to accede to the treaty with the allies, and will not, therefore, be admitted to participate in the conference.

SEBASTOPOL.

Allies have resumed firing upon the town.

Letters of March 1st, explain the discrepancy between French and Russian accounts of the storming of a redoubt on the night of February 23rd; both accounts were correct; French did storm and capture two Russian redoubts: finding them not tenable from a murderous fire from the wall batteries, they blew up the redoubts and retired, with the loss of 100 killed and 300 wounded.

Feby. 27th.—The dead were buried during a truce of one hour.

March 1st.—The following is Menschikoff's last despatch:—"During last night we erected a second redoubt in front of that which is on the left side of our fortifications. It was impossible for the enemy to prevent us."

Nothing of importance has occurred at Eupatoria.

March 2nd.—Balaklava advices report sickness decreasing. Weather clear and frosty. Three miles of railway now in operation. Allies' rear is generally strengthened. Burgoyne, Chief of Engineers, has left, and is succeeded by General Jones, who recommended, contrary to Napier's advice, an attack on Cronstadt.

MARCH 3.—Russians are fortifying in a formidable manner the valley of Inkermann, and are erecting a mortar battery at Kamara to threaten Balaclava, and have sunk two more ships in Sebastopol Harbor.

March 7th.

(Official French Dispatch.)—"Information of the death of the Emperor Nicholas has just arrived. Yesterday we threw rockets upon Kamiesch, which set the town on fire. Two Russian officers have deserted to the English.— Our siege works are proceeding with the greatest activity.

[Signed]
BRUAT, Vice Admiral."

MARCH 8th.—Nothing important had occurred. The reported battle between the allied armies and Russians in which Osten Sacken was reported wounded, is false.

SATURDAY MORNING, 15th.—Nothing later.— Austrian Government had notified French and English that the mission of the Austrian Archduke William to St. Petersburg is an act of sympathy merely, and has no political object. Austria has addressed a new circular, dated March 8th, addressed to the Germanic Federal Governments, informing them that an Austrian Commissioner will present a new proposition towards the effectual mobilization of the Germanic contingent.

Prussia, by decree likewise dated March 8th, prohibits exportation of goods counterband of war.

Much doubtful talk about autograph letters passed between monarchs.

Circular insists on necessity of being prepared for all eventualities, and mentions that Emperor Alexander has authorized Gortschakoff to negotiate for peace, on the basis sanctioned by late Emperor.

Prussia also issued a Circular, dated March 8th, to its Diplomatic Consular Agents, stating there is reason to believe that the negociations now in progress will terminate in peace.

Alexander is said to have written the King of Prussia, soliciting advice.

The King of Prussia has notified England and France of Nicholas's death, and the Emperor of Austria has written Napoleon.

He thinks negotiations will lead to peace.

Menschikoff has gone to Moscow.

The two Grand Dukes are on their way to St. Petersburg from the Crimea.

Not true that Michael was killed. Osten Sacken now commands within Sebastopol.

FROM THE DANUBE.

ODESSA.—No news of importance.

Count Lamoisky is organizing at Schumla a second Regiment of Turkish Cossacks in which Poles will be enrolled.

Disturbances have occurred in Syria. 1,500 Turkish troops have gone to Beyrout.

BRITAIN.

Since the sailing of the "Union" procedings in Parliament have been unimportant.

The ship Jarcheston, abandoned at sea, was picked up by the mate and 6 of the crew of the English ship Marathon, and brought safe into Liverpool.

The Committee of Enquiry into the State of the Army before Sebastopol had been 10 days in session, and continued. The Earl of Lucan, Col. Kinloch (Commissary Office), and J. McDonald (Administrator of London Times Fund), were examined, and the evidence confirms worst report of mis-management.

Enactment is preparing Foreign Legion at Folkstone.

George Binham, recently envoy to Central America, is only Conservative candidate yet appeared since the death of Nicholas.

General aspect of monitary and commercial affairs has undergone a favorable change, and hopes of cessation of hostilities are once more general.

Gold is increasing, but until the proposals of the new Chancellor of Exchequer with respect to a loan and the result of the conference at Vienna be known, the future course of the Money Market must remain unchanged as discounts at present are 4½ to 4¾ for first class short bills.

Ship "A Worthmore" arrived from Australia with 60,000 ounces gold, and steamer "Argo" with dates from Melbourne to January 9th. All was again quiet. Several failures had occurred.

FRANCE.

The Emperor's visit to the Crimea continued doubtful.

Warlike preparations are as active as ever.— Orders are given to prepare for the transport from Toulon of 50,000 men and 8,000 horses.

General Weddell, Prussian Envoy has returned to Paris.

The Moniteur officially contradicts the calumny circulated against General Forey, that he was in correspondence with the enemy. Forey is, however, recalled.

BELGIUM.

The Ministerial crisis continues. Cabinet not yet formed.

ITALY.

Funeral obsequies of Duke of Genoa were celebrated at Turin on the 10th.

GERMANY.

New Bavarian Loan of 6½ millions Thalers at 4½ per cent is announced.

SPAIN.

Madrid correspondence gives details of recent conspiracy in Cuba, and says Government have received confidential communications from Gen. Concha. The condition of Cuba inspires him with considerable uneasiness. He recommends that concessions be made to the Colony, and that Cuban Deputies be sent to the Spanish Cortes. He begs the Government not to emancipate the slaves, which, he says, would be a fatal measure and would cause Cuba to seek admission into the United States.

If the Cubans be not satisfied by concessions he says 20,000 troops could not preserve it to Spain.

March 8th.—The Government said in Cortes that tranquility was restored in Cuba, and Government would do utmost to prevent further difficulties. A vote of satisfaction was unanimously agreed to by the Chambers.

Provincial Parliament.

HOUSE OF ASSEMBLY,

QUEBEC, March 30.

Last night after the report left, the discussion on Mr. Cameron's motion was continued till the adjournment of the House—it was finally carried as follows:—

That an humble address be presented to Her Majesty informing her that the legislature of this Province during the present session of the Provincial Legislature has passed an act by which it was declared that there shall be an entire separation between Church and State, and that the Clergy Reserve funds and lands shall be appropriated to secular purposes after providing for the salaries of existing incumbents; that the members of the United Church of England and Ireland in this province are under disadvantages that are felt by no other denomination in the Province, inasmuch as they are unable to meet with their bishops, clergy in synod in their several dioceses to form rules and canons for their own guidance and government, as large numbers conscientiously believe that they are under restrictions from the existence of Imperial statutes against the holding of such synods, inasmuch as they are hereafter required to provide for the maintenance of Bishops of their Church, while they are not allowed to have any voice in their selection or appointment, and praying that Her Majesty will be gracously pleased to cause a measure to be introduced into the Imperial Parliament during its present session to remove obstructions that may exist or be supposed to exist under any statute now in force in Great Britain to prevent the meeting of the Bishops, Clergy, and Laity, of the United Church of England and Ireland in their several dioceses in this Province in Synod, and to frame rules and canons for their own guidance; and to enable them to proceed hereafter to the election of their own Bishops, provided that such rules and canons are not repugnant to the laws of this Province, nor to any act or acts that the Legislature of Canada may hereafter pass in reference thereto. Yeas, 70; Nays, 30.

On motion of hon. Mr. Cameron, a Committee was appointed to draw up an address to Her Majesty on the said resolution.

Mr. Cameron then reported the said address which was read twice at the clerks' table.

Mr. Cameron moved that the House do concur in the said address.

Mr. McKenzie moved in amendment, that the following be added to the address:—"And provided that nothing in this address shall be understood as giving any authority to the British Government to veto the appointment of any bishop so to be appointed. Yeas, 3; Nays, 58.

The question being again proposed on Honble. Mr. Cameron's motion, Mr. Brown moved in amendment, that the said address be not now concurred in, and that it be referred back to the Committee, with an instruction to amend the prayer thereof, so that the repeal of the English statute in Canada shall be its sole design; that no new provision may be imposed by the Imperial Parliament, but that the said church and all other changes may be left free from the control thereof. Yeas, 13; Nays, 36.

The question then being put upon the Hon. Mr. Cameron's motion, it was agreed to.

On motion of Hon. Mr. Cameron, the motion was ordered to be engrossed, and a message was ordered to be sent to the Legislative Council accompanying the said address, and requesting the concurrence of their Honors thereto.

To-day, after routine business was disposed of, Mr. Whitney brought in a bill to transfer to the Corporation of Montreal all the property, rights, and privileges enjoyed heretofore by Wardens of the House of Industry in the City of Montreal.

Mr. Felton moved that it be an instruction to the committee appointed to enquire into certain alleged practice of members of the late administration to report forthwith in detail the testimony already taken by them in the prosecution of the enquiry confided to them.

After a short conversation, Mr. Hincks said that he and his friends thought he was treated with great injustice with having vague charges held over his head without any opportunity being afforded him of refuting them. That day he had had a letter sent to him, in which it was stated that the charges which the Committee would investigate, were reduced to nine, namely: Grand Trunk Railway Stock, Portland Railway Stock, Victoria Bridge building lots, Montreal Court House, Point Levi, Hamilton Court House, Sault St. Marie Canal, Toronto Debentures, and Montreal Loan. Who could make anything of such charges as these? There was no prosecutor, no one was responsible, and if he were acquitted by the Committee he would not have the satisfaction of reducing any person to say that he had brought charges which they could not substantiate.

Messrs. Brown, Dorion and Sidney Smith said that the vagueness of the charges was not the fault of the Committee but of the reference. The motion had been made by Solicitor Gen. Smith, who was the accuser, if anybody were to be held to be in that position, and the Committee were directed to inquire into all the charges made or that might be made against the members of the Ministry.

After a great deal more conversation, during which it was proposed that the House should pass a resolution requiring that the Committee should report in three weeks, instead of the one proposed by Mr. Felton,

Mr. Hincks suggested that the whole thing should be left to the Committee, with the understanding that they should report as early as possible, and the motion was withdrawn.

Mr. McKenzie introduced a bill to enable the Trustees of the Public Burying Ground of Toronto to sell a part thereof, and to purchase new ground in lieu thereof.

A message was received from the Legislative Council announcing that they had concurred in the address of the House respecting the repeal of the disabilities affecting the members of the Church of England.

The Honble. Mr. Cayley moved the House into Committee of the Whole, which passed resolutions on the Customs Act. A mistake having occurred in its translation respecting bastard sugars, and a bill was introduced founded thereon, read three times and passed forthwith, in order to go into effect on the same day as the Customs Act.

PHILADELPHIA, March 30th.

The express train which left Pittsburg on Wednesday evening, ran against a rock which had fallen on track, east of Antona. The engine, tender, baggage-car and passenger car were thrown off the track. The engineer, fireman and brakeman were seriously injured.—Twelve passengers were slightly scalded and the train was detained about four hours. The accident was occasioned by the watchman.

LOUISVILLE, March 29th.

The state penitentiary at Nashville is in ruins. A fire broke out at 3 o'clock this morning in the Cabinet department of the building, the flames spread with great rapidity, and in a short time that entire portion of the building was consumed. The east wing of the main building then caught fire and is so much damaged as to render it useless. The cells were all thrown open and the prisoners conveyed to an enclosure in the inside of the walls. One convict named Connor, was smothered to death by the smoke. Not a single prisoner escaped from the prison. All the tools in the different shops were destroyed, as well as the work being manufactured. Loss estimated at $100,000.

BALTIMORE, March 30.

The southern mail has arrived. The "Isabel," at Shaston, brings Havana dates to Sunday.

Much excitement prevails at Havana, induced by the execution of Don Raymond on the 22nd. The popular fury was at such a pitch, that the Governor General had not been seen in public since the event, and the body of the executed man, instead of remaining exposed for twelve hours, as usual, was removed in three. The vindictive conduct of the Governor General is severely condemned. Since he, upon the refusal of the minister to sign the death warrant of Pinto, on the ground of informality, convened a Council of Four, and upon the Council being equally divided, sealed the man's doom by his casting vote.

THE Subscriber begs to return his most sincere thanks to his numerous friends and customers for the liberal support given him for the last twenty-one years that he has been in business, and still hopes a continuation of the same. He would beg to remind Wholesale Merchants and others intending to remove or to fit up on a new plan, that he is prepared to do work on as favorable terms as any other shop in the city, having on hand a very large stock of Lumber of the different kinds used in fitting-up STORES, OFFICES, DESKS, BOOK-CASES, and all kinds of JOINER-WORK, of which he has a perfect knowledge, having fitted up a number of the most extensive houses in the city, and hopes that by keeping none but good and trustworthy men, and strict attention to business, to merit a continuation of the support so liberally bestowed on him.

DIVISION OF PROFITS.

SPECIAL NOTICE.

INTENDING ASSURERS are reminded of the advantage accruing to holders of Policies issued by the Canada Life Assurance Company previous to the 30th of April, when the books of the Company will be closed for the purpose of valuing its transactions and estimating the divisible proportion of Profits. Parties who then stand in the position of members will be one year in advance, for all the purposes of profit to those who may be admitted subsequent to that date.

The last year's business yielded profit to Assured Members equal to 15 per cent. of the gross premiums paid. The effect of continued augmentations of this character is made apparent by the fact that the accumulated reversionary bonuses added to the policy for £1,000, granted in 1847, to an assurer then aged 30, now represent £101.

The steady unchecked growth of the Company's prosperity, the economy and caution which characterize its management, the favorable circumstances in which its realized funds have been invested, and the continual opening of new kinds and channels of business, are so many guarantees of future benefit to every member of the mutual branch.

Forms of proposal, tables of rates, detailed statements of position, and all other information, may be acquired at the office of the Company, or on application to any of its agents.

BUSINESS NOTICES.

Silk and Glossy Hair.

(From the New York Mirror.)

☞ Of all preparations, oily or spirituous, for the hair, give us Bogle's Hyperion Fluid. It is properly named Hyperion, for as that shining old Titan, who, ladies and gentlemen, was nobody but the Sun, threw, at his rising, his radiant locks over the summits of the earth, so Bogle's magical fluid produces a crop of silky and glossy hair upon the most obdurate human head. For dandruff, and all similar affections of the head, it is a sovereign remedy. With all this, it is an agreeable perfume, and otherwise a most useful article for the purposes of the tiolet. Buy it and try it.

Both Upper and Lower Canada speak alike as to the miraculous powers of "BOWMAN'S ENGLISH LINIMENT."

Osgood, Oct. 13th, 1854.

Dear Sir,—It gives me great pleasure in testifying to the extraordinary virtues of the "OLD ENGLISH GARGLING OIL." I have sold it for some time past, and have always found it to give satisfaction in all cases of external injuries, such as Flesh Wounds, Rheumatic Pains, Burns and Scalds, Saddle Galls, Lumps and Swellings of all kinds, &c. &c.

I could enumerate numerous extraordinary cures that have come under my own observation. One for example, was that of a horse that had been badly burned, and afterwards received a kick upon the burnt place; the effect of your Oil in this instance was miraculous.

I can confidently recommend it to the public as a Liniment worthy of a trial. I remain, &c.,

MOUNTAIN HOTEL, MONT ST. HILAIRE DE ROUVILLE, FOR LEASE.

THE attention of Hotel Keepers in Canada and the United States is invited to this most desirable ESTABLISHMENT, (the property of MAJOR T. E CAMPBELL,) which will be Leased to a suitable tenant on liberal terms, and possession given in time to secure all the advantages of the next Season's business.

The St. Hilaire Station on the Portland Railway, is only 19 miles from Montreal, and passengers are set down in 50 minutes after leaving the city, in close proximity to the Hotel. This Hotel has been erected, and special reference paid to the comfort of Families by adopting every recent improvement which appeared requisite.— The delightful situation, combining the most varied and extensive scenery with the most salubrious and invigorating mountain breeze, is on the direct path of tourists to the far-famed Rouville Mountain, and in the immediate vicinity of the beautiful Lake so long the chosen Pic Nic ground of Montreal pleasure parties. From the summit of the Mountain, which is 1400 feet above the level of the St. Lawrence at Montreal, four Lakes and four large Rivers may be seen. The cool and pleasant shaded walks in the woods, (invitingly laid out and of considerable extent,) commence close to the Hotel; while the rushing mountain torrent stream from the lake, after adding all the charms which nothing else can give to scenery, supplies, in wasteful abundance, its indispensible blessings to the Hotel and its visitors. As a place of resort for families from Montreal alone, there cannot be a doubt that, ere long, it will be most favored.

As the Building is not yet quite finished, such alterations and additions as may be deemed necessary by a tenant can yet be made.

Applicants may apply, by letter, post-paid, to the Subscriber,

Herring's Fire and Burglar Proof Safes.
THE undeniable evidence of the superiority of the Safes manufactured by the Subscriber, is known and acknowledged by a discriminating public, who are assured that all Safes made and sold by him or his authorized agents, will be equal to the best, and superior to some of the many which have passed through the fiery ordeal for the last fifteen years, as published and commented upon by the press throughout the United States. They are secured with the celebrated Hall's Patent Powder Proof Lock—the subscriber being the patentee by purchase.
It is generally known all over the world that the Proprietor placed his Safe, in competition with about thirty others, at the WORLD'S FAIR, LONDON, in 1851, placing within it ONE THOUSAND DOLLARS in GOLD, as a reward to any one who could open the Safe, but not one of the operators was found sufficiently skilled in the art of Lock-picking to pick the Lock or open the Safe—the money remained secure for forty-five days. At the close of the Exhibition, the Jury on Safes and Locks very justly awarded separate medals for the Safe and Lock, which can be seen and compared with the one awarded for the same patents at the World's Exhibition in New York, in 1853 and 1854. They can be had of the Proprietor and his Agents in most of the cities in the United States and Canada.

INCIPIENT CONSUMPTION,
SCROFULA, GENERAL DEBILITY, WHITE SWELLING, RHEUMATISM, DISEASES OF THE LIVER AND SKIN, AND ALL DISEASES ARISING FROM IMPURITIES OF THE BLOOD, AND THE EFFECTS OF MERCURY.
SWAIM'S PANACEA has been for more than thirty years celebrated in this country and in Europe for its extraordinary cures, for the certificates of which reference is made to the directions and books (which may be had gratis) accompanying the Panacea.
It has been used in hospitals and private practice, and has had the singular fortune to be recommended by the most celebrated physicians and other eminent persons. Among others by
W. Gibson, M.D., Prof. of Surgery, Pa. University,
Valentine Mott, M.D., Prof. of Surg'y, N.Y. University.
W. P. Dewees, M.D., Prof. of Mid., Pa. University.
N. Chapman, M.D., Prof. of Physic, Pa. University.
T. Parke, M.D., Pres't College of Physicians, Phila.

G. W. Irving, late Minister to Spain.
J. Chipman, Member Royal College Surgeons, London
Sir Thomas Pearson, Major General, British Army.
Gilbert Robertson, British Consul, &c., &c.
And also, the wonderful cures effected by Swaim's Panacea have for many years made it an invaluable remedy. The Panacea does not contain mercury in any form, and being an innocent preparation, it may be given to the most tender infant.
The retail price has been reduced to one dollar fifty cents per bottle (containing three half pints), or three bottles for four dollars.
BEWARE OF IMPOSITION.
Swaim's Panacea is in round bottles, fluted longitudinally, with the following letters blown on the glass:
"SWAIM'S—PANACEA—PHILADA:"
and having the name JAS. SWAIM stamped on the sealing wax, and written on the label covering the cork; and a splendid engraving for the side of the bottle, composed of a geometric lathe work, comprising nine different dies, which have been turned for the exclusive use of the proprietor, by Draper & Co., bank note engravers, of Philadelphia. In the centre is a portrait of the late Wm. Swaim, copyright secured.
ALSO, SWAIM'S VERMIFUGE.
A Valuable Family Medicine, being a highly approved remedy for all diseases arising from debility of the digestive organs, such as Worms, Cholera Morbus, Dysentry, Fever and Ague, Bleeding Piles, Sick Headache, &c. &c. See the pamphlet, which may be had gratis, accompanying the Vermifuge.
Prepared only at SWAIM'S LABORATORY, OLD STAND, Seventh St., below Chestnut, Philadelphia, and sold by all the respectable Druggists in the United States.
CAUTION TO THE PUBLIC.—Persons wishing to obtain the genuine SWAIM'S PANACEA and SWAIM'S VERMIFUGE, should be careful to observe that the name SWAIM is spelled correctly on the bottles and labels, or they may be imposed on by medicines made in imitation of them, by a person bearing a somewhat similar name, well calculated to deceive.

GOOD MEDICINES.

IT is estimated that AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL and CATHARTIC PILLS have done more to promote the public health than any other one cause. There can be no question that the Cherry Pectoral has by its thousand on thousand cures of Colds, Coughs, Asthma, Croup, Influenza, Bronchitis, &c., very much reduced the proportion of deaths from consumptive diseases in this country. The Pills are as good as the Pectoral and will cure more complaints.
Everybody needs more or less purging. Purge the blood from its impurities. Purge the Bowels, Liver and the whole visceral system from obstructions. Purge out the diseases which fasten on the body, to work its decay. But for diseases we should die only of old age. Take antidotes early, and thrust it from the system, before it is yet too strong to yield.
Ayer's Pills do thrust out disease, not only while it is weak but when it has taken a strong hold. Read the astounding statements of those who have been cured by them from dreadful Scrofula, Dropsy, Ulcers, Skin Diseases, Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Dyspepsia, Internal Pains, Billious Complaints, Heartburn, Headache, Gout, and many less dangerous but still threatening ailments, such as Pimples on the face, Worms, Nervous Irritability, Loss of appetite, Irritability, Dizziness in the head, Colds, Fevers, Dysentery, and indeed every variety of complaints for which a Purgative Remedy is required.
These are no random statements, but are authenticated by your own neighbours and your own Physicians.
Try them once, and you will never be without them.
Price 25 cts. per Box—5 Boxes for $1.00.
Prepared by DR. J. C. AYER, Chemist, Lowell, Mass., and sold by all respectable Druggists in the U.S. and Canada.

Cash Music and Piano Store of
HORACE WATERS,
No. 333 Broadway, New York.
Opposition to the Combination.—Music at greatly reduced rates!!
NOTWITHSTANDING the combination of Music dealers to keep up the prices of non-copyright music against the interests of Native Composers, and their refusal to extend to Mr. WATERS the courtesies of the trade, he is making immense sales—having abundant evidence that he has public countenance and support in his opposition to the great monopoly, and in his efforts to aid native talent and adopt the national Currency. His stock of American and European Music is immense, and the catalogue of his own publications is one of the largest and best selected in the United States. He has also made a great reduction in the prices of PIANOS, MELODEONS, and Musical Instruments of all kinds. Superior toned 6½ Octave Pianos for $175, $200, and $225, interior of as good quality and instruments as strong and as durable as those which cost 500 dollars. Pianos of every variety of style and price, up to 1000 dollars, comprising those of ten different manufactories, among them the celebrated modern improved Horace Waters' Pianos, and the first premium Æolean Pianos of T. Gilbert & Co's make (owners of the Æolean Patent). Second-hand Pianos at great bargains. Prices from 40 to 150 dollars. Melodeons from five different manufactories, including the well-known S. D. & H. W. Smith's Melodeons, tuned the equal temperament,—the best make in the United States. Prices, 45, 60, 75, 100, 115, 125, 135 and 150 dollars. Smith's Double Bank Melodeons $200. Each Piano and Melodeon guaranteed. The best terms to the trade, schools, &c. 12½ per cent. discount to Clergymen and Churches. All orders promptly attended to. COMMERCIAL HOUSE,
Corner of Fore and Willow Streets—opposite the Custom House.

THE Subscriber, having renewed his lease of this well known establishment for a term of twelve years, has been engaged for the past seven months, in enlarging and remodeling it, so that it is now one of the most capacious and commodious Hotels in the city.
The rooms have been entirely re-furnished in a style benefitting a first class hotel; and neither pains nor expense have been spared to make it attractive to the business man and the man of leisure;—its location, midway between the two great Railroad Depots and adjacent to the landing of the Eastern Steamboats, on the score of convenience being second to that of no other in Portland.
Having had an experience of nearly twenty years in his line of business, ten of which have been spent as proprietor of this house, he may reasonably assume that he is conversant with the wants of the travelling public, and believes he may point to the success that has crowned his former efforts as a guaranty for the future, that no pains will be spared on his part to render the stay of those who may favor him with their patronage, comfortable and pleasant.
☞Carriages, with careful drivers, will be always in attendance, to convey passengers to and from the railroads and steamboats, and to all parts of the city.

ISLAND POND HOTEL.

THE Undersigned has leased, for a term of years, and recently opened the new and spacious Hotel at Island Pond. This House was built by the Railroad Companies, and the land proprietors at Island Pond Junction, with special reference to the accommodation of the Railroad travel. It has been finished in the most thorough manner throughout, having accommodations for over 100 guests, and is tastefully fitted and furnished.
Island Pond Junction is the half way station on the Montreal and Portland Railroad from the St. Lawrence to the Atlantic. All trains work from this as a common point, through trains stopping for dinner, and way trains for the night. This place is destined to become one of the most attractive spots in New England, as a place for summer travel and resort. The Hotel looks down upon a beautiful sheet of water, elevated 1158 feet above the level of the Sea, forming the head waters of the river Clyde, which flows into Lake Memphremagog. Situated in the midst of the Green Mountains, few localities in New England possess more natural beauty, or offer more attractions to the lovers of the beautiful and the picturesque.
From this place it is 17 miles only, to Willoughby Lake, and 22 miles to Lake Memphremagog, already known as the favorite resort of the pleasure tourist. The region of Island Pond affords the greatest attractions for sporting and fishing.
Provision will also be made for sailing excursions on the Lake, and there is a fine beach drive on its shore.
The Subscriber intends to make his House in all respects a first class Hotel.

Mr. J. A. Page, Cashier of the Vermont Bank at Montpelier, under date of March 23rd, 1853, concerning this Company, writes:—
"It is now about three years since the Company commenced business, during which time they have issued 1022 policies, as appears by their books. All losses incurred, have invariably been paid promptly—all expenses to this date are paid, and they have now a cash capital of over $119,000, well and securely invested—$34,000 of which is the accumulated earnings, over and above expenses, losses and interest, on capital paid in. The affairs are, as far as I can judge, conducted with safety, economy and regularity, and I cannot conceive of any reason why the Company is not on a good and sure basis to be as permanent in its business as any other Company whatever. I think it entitled to the fullest confidence."

Ottawa, Montreal and Atlantic TRANSPORTATION.
PARTIES SHIPPING GOODS from Montreal, Boston, New York, or other places, for Ottawa, which have to pass over the Bytown and Prescott Railway and connecting Railroads in the United States, can have them forwarded most conveniently, and with least delay and expense, by directing Goods and duplicate Invoices to Messrs. STARK, HILL & Co., Forwarders, Ogdensburgh, by whom they will be on arrival at Ogdensburgh transported at once across the Saint Lawrence from the Ogdensburgh Railway to the Bytown and Prescott Railway at Prescott.
Parties sending Goods from Ottawa or any point on the Bytown and Prescott Railway, to Montreal, Boston, New York or other places, should in the same way direct Goods and duplicate Invoices to Messrs. Stark, Hill & Co., Ogdensburgh.
Messrs. S. H. & Co. are Freight Agents at Ogdensburgh for the Bytown and Prescott Railway, and by following the above directions Shippers and Consignees will be spared delay and expense.
