Prospect House offered to Red Feather

The Westmount Rotary Club has offered Prospect House, a residence for elderly people, to the Family Service division of the Red Feather Agencies it was announced Wednesday by Rotary President Graham Bowes.

As one of Rotary's two major projects, the Home along with the Unity Bcys' Club has been supported by proceeds from the annual carnival, but actual care of residents was entrusted to the Family Service division with headquarters in Westmount.

The two houses on Prospect street which constitute the home were purchased four years ago by Westmount Rotary and subsequently were converted into a residence for elderly people. There is room for 14 occupants, each with a private, self-sufficient room.

Liberal convention plans set

Three Westmount - St. George delegates will attend the national convention of Young Liberals to be held at the Chantecler in Ste. Adele on September 20 and 21, it was announced recently by Richard Lord, president of the local association.

Vice president, Diana Harris and treasurer, Jean Rinfret will attend, in addition to Mr. Lord.

The purpose of the national convention, Mr. Lord stated, was to bring together representative Young Liberals from all provinces of Canada to "review the objectives of the Federation and extend its effectiveness within the party."

A broad aim, he explained, was to "examine and determine the role of youth in Canada today."

Rotary Gov'nor lauds work of local club

"The Westmount Rotary Club is a model for any other club of similar size to follow." These were the words of Rotary District Governor C. M. Hodgson speaking to an almost capacity audience at the Westmount Club's weekly luncheon meeting in Victoria Hall.

Governor Hodgson was enthusiastic in his praise of "all the aims, ambitions and judgements" of the local organization.

"I have known this club since my own introduction into Rotary in 1935, and I know their works are sound," he said. He paid special tribute to Rotary's support of the Unity Boys' Club and Prospect House, "both monuments that will live long."

Works of this nature are just what is needed, the Governor stated, "as long as the personal touch is retained." He urged members not to be swayed by the glamor of undertakings such as vast fund rais-

Back from Copenhagen

Westmount hemophiliac tops world federation

Frank Schnabel, 122 Arlington avenue, recently named president of the World Hemophiliac Federation, is back from Copenhagen where the first world convention of hemophiliacs was held — full of new hope and new plans in the fight he carries on to make this earth a safer place for himself and all who suffer from the 'bleeding' disease.

Frank is the most famous hemophiliac in Canada, because he is the most active and probably the most courageous and never is too busy or too tired to do whatever is required to further the cause of hemophiliacs.

There probably isn't a higher percentage of hemophiliacs in Montreal, but it seems that way, particularly to the Red Cross, which provides fresh blood and its derivatives to keep these people alive.

The real answer probably is that through Frank Schnabel and the group he has built around him, more is being done here for those with the mysterious

Sen. Gelinas takes World's Fair post

Senator Louis P. Gelinas, 48 Rosemount avenue, Westmount has been appointed chairman of the new committee on fine arts for the 1967 World Fair, it was announced this week by Commissioner General Paul Bienvenu.

Another Westmounter, Mrs. Sterling Maxwell, former chairman of the Montreal Museum of Fine Arts' women's division was also appointed to the 15-member committee.

It will be the committee's job to advise the Corporation on how the fine arts exhibits at the Fair should fit in with the theme "Man and his World." Mr. Bienvenu said.

Seek cause of death

Exact cause of death of 11-year-old Susan Lindover, 4328 Sherbrooke street west, will be sought this coming week at a formal inquest.

The girl, on a bicycle, was allegedly cycling west on Sherbrooke street when she moved into the path of a taxi driven by Paul Lefebvre, of 4676 Resther street.

In some manner she was injured when thrown from the cycle and died shortly after admission to Montreal Children's Hospital.

blood deficiency, and more flock to this city.

Odds once 20-1

Some thirty-odd years ago, when Frank Schnabel went to the hospital for the first time, not more than one hemophiliac in 20 lived to be 20 years old. Today, it is estimated, 16 in every 20 reach adulthood.

One fact, though, that Frank Schnabel is constantly reminding everyone, is that while Montreal is an oasis to those with the Royal disease, fifty miles out, they are back in the desert where the 30-year-old statistics prevail.

Hemophilia is called the Royal disease, because Queen Victoria — though herself immune — passed it down to at least 11 of her male descendants through her four daughters who married into the Royal houses of Germany, Austria, Russia and Spain. In the latter country, the childhood of two of them was so crammed with parental fears that the trees in the royal park where they played were padded with pillows.

Frank Schnabel's mother realized that death was lurking for him everywhere, but she also believed that to be too protective would stifle him, and he has inherited the same philosophy.

Broke all rules

As a boy he broke all the rules for hemophiliacs — went to school, played, graduated from college, travelled, married, got a good job and kept it.

The disease inflicts about one out of every 10,000 white males and the greatest peril is not from external bleeding (which can be taken care of through coagulants) but internal bleeding from hemorrhages.

Often, from injury; and sometimes for no known reason, the capillaries in the knee or ankle

Westmount police are hot on the heels of a firebug who, they believe, is responsible for a trio of fires on Prospect street in the early hours of Sunday morning.

First alarm was rung in from a box in the vicinity of 69 Prospect street, and when the fire apparatus arrived there was no sign of the caller.

The blaze was in the ceiling of a dining room at the rear, and apparently the curtains had been set ablaze.

One stream settled the matter in 15 minutes.

At 4:20 a.m. another blaze was reported at 21 Prospect street — this time from a radio car stationed at the scene of the first fire.

The flames were eating into a cupboard, storage area and household effects in a rear bedroom at 21 Prospect and two streams were called into play.

It was a half hour before this blaze was extinguished — but the firebug wasn't finished.

Only two minutes after the second alarm was received at the station — at 4:22 a.m. — a patrol spotted a blaze in a small cupboard at the rear of 39 Prospect street and was able to combat it with an extinguisher.

Close watch is being maintained on the area and every effort is being made to apprehend the person responsible for these fires. Blazes in the early morning are the most dangerous, firemen say, as they frequently catch persons asleep, who lose their lives before they can escape.

Tenders called for headquarters

Westmount this week called for tenders for the construction of alterations and additions to the Police and Fire Department and the building of a City Hall Annex.

Bids for the work will be received up to Thursday August 29. Officials hope to have construction begin in October under the City's Winter Works Program.

Architects Perry and Patch in association with Durnford Bolton, Chadwick and Ellwood have drawn up plans calling for the building of modern police offices on the north side of Stanton on the site of the present municipal garages. Extensive renovations will be made to the fire station in the centre of the complex.

A brand new City Hall Annex is to be built on the south side to alleviate crowding in the present City Hall building. It will house the departments of personnel, purchasing, health and welfare.

FOURTH IN QUEBEC

John Godine, of Westmount High School, was fourth in the province of Quebec in Grade XI Matriculation examinations. John was also the only student from Quebec accepted at Princeton University as a University Scholar. He will be allowed to shape his own undergraduate program, a privilege usually extended only to Seniors. Class valedictorian at Westmount High, John hopes to major in nuclear physics at Princeton. He is at present at Laval University studying French and living in a professor's home in Quebec City.

Four WHS students write perfect papers

Four Westmount High School students wrote perfect papers in the June matriculation examinations.

Bill Hart was awarded a mark of 100 in English Composition, the only student in the province to receive a perfect score in this subject. Bill scored 98% in English Literature giving him what is believed to be a record total of 198 marks in English.

John Godine, who had the distinction of ranking fourth in the province with an overall average of 94.5% helped his total by earning 100 marks in Physics and Trigonometry. Of the 4,921 candidates who wrote the complete examinations, only 21 obtained averages over 90%.

George Felton, president of the Current Event's Club, received 100 in Oral French.

Robert Birnie, a prefect at the school, wrote a perfect paper in Chemistry.

Twenty-one students from Westmount High obtained first

DRILLING COSTS

It costs more than $62,000 to drill an average oil or gas well which reaches about 4,000 feet into the earth. Costs go higher in less accessible areas and a typical offshore well, for instance, may cost as much as $400,000.

TRUE DATE

WHS student describes Montreal

The Lily and the Rose

By WILLIAM HART

Bell jingle: hoofs pound a tattoo. In a riotous burst of reds and yellows, the horse-drawn trolley jolts into the clearing and halts. With what tourists term Gallic cynicism, but which actually is bad humor, the driver gets up, glares at his passengers, and growls, "Le Chalet." Murmuring "A typical Frenchman!"

the tourists stream to the Mount Royal lookout, gawking at the view of Montreal.

It is a paradoxical view, both beautiful and ugly. Old buildings with steeply slanting roofs nestle at the base of an eclipsing skyscraper. Prim churches disdainfully rise above espresso coffeehouses. Garish signs jar the eye: one in neatly tailored neon shouts, "GO CN!!"; another scrawled in a back alley defiantly cries, "Québec libre!" To this joining of incompatibles, thousands of tourists press each year.

Why? Why do these tourists come to Montreal? Toronto surpasses our city in subways and Sundays. New York boasts of more skyscrapers and sophistication; Quebec radiates more Old World charm. San Francisco has more of a "beat" flavor, and Chicago more of a reputation for crime. Why then is Montreal a tourist attraction?

The answer is that our city is one of the few which combine two cultures — the French and the English. Here, a dowager rushing to high tea may pause in a flower boutique on Saint Catherine street to buy a corsage. Here plays by Shakespeare are presented in both languages, and Molière competes with Gilbert and Sullivan. Here taxi drivers do not merely swear and drive recklessly — they do it bilingually.

To the tourist, this duality of culture pervades Montreal, from the English commentary on a French play at the Comédie Canadienne, to the delightful calèches, to the folk dancing on the mountain, to that epitome of assimilation, the expression, "Checkez les tires." Montreal is a bilingual city enjoying its bilingualism. Here, names like Dominion Square or Place d'Armes, though familiar, are not characteristic; but a name like Place Victoria symbolizes the union of two cultures which tourists love.

Why do tourists come to Montreal? They come to see plays, buildings, films, squares, contests, paintings, and girls, but mostly they come to see the vast, messy, and exhilarating conglomeration of the best and worst of two worlds. They come to see unique hybrid of the French lily and the English rose, the city of Sieurs and Sirs — Montreal.

Professor predicts 2nd flood

Geneva Park, Lake Couchiching — The end of the world is coming by way of the atom bomb this time and not by a flood, a West End of Montreal professor has declared at the 32nd annual Canadian Institute of Public Affairs Conference here.

And about all mankind is doing about it, says Dr. Jean Ethier-Blais of 3635 Ridgewood avenue, is to stand by, in smug contentment.

In today's so-called Christian civilization, he said, men rebel against moral value changes and prefer mechanistic rituals to true spirituality.

French courses

Westmounters who are not content to stumble along with their few snatches of half-remembered school French or those who merely want to polish up their command of the language will have the opportunity, starting September 3 to attend daily evening classes at the Westmount YMCA, it was announced this week.

French language classes under the direction of M. Brault will be held throughout the winter. Mr. Brault has conducted groups at the Master Institute of New York, The Normal School of Paris, McGill University Conservatorium and the University of Montreal.

A feature of the tuition classes is the creation of two scholarships which will be available to the best talents of the language session.

Consider carefully before dropping school

FOR grade eleven students this week was the time of truth. Matriculation results were released and official judgement passed on academic ability.

While Westmount High School displayed its usual high standings, there were also the usual number of failures.

Many failed because they did not apply themselves diligently to studies; few fail because of a lack of ability to make a passing grade.

Unfortunately, the bitter disappointment of failure may lead to a snap decision to leave school and seek employment.

With less than high school standards, it can be safely assumed that the bulk of these drop-outs will, if at all, gain employment which will never bring to the fore inherent talent or ability.

It would be much wiser for the student considering leaving school to stop and think about the future.

The embarrassment of repeating one year is not so bad; actually it could, and should serve to teach how to study, and to point up the necessity of just a little harder work next year.

If many would do this, it would be surprising how many would eventually go on to University, and to greater things in business, and as good citizens in this complex world.

In years to come, it is too late to have regrets.

by the way . . .

THE semi-emancipation of the U.K. football serfs (chains knocked off one ankle) might lead to the revolutionary idea of having teams composed of men who are natives of the place they are supposed to represent. A team composed of men bought from all over England would eventually take no pride in calling itself by the name of some town or district.

Tighter traffic law enforcement needed

Sir, I can't count the number of times in the past few weeks that I've seen people break the most elementary traffic laws and there never seems to be a policeman around.

This week an eleven year old girl was killed in a bicycle accident in Westmount. Something must be done.

Whatever happened to the idea that a stop sign meant you were supposed to stop, or that the orange color on traffic lights meant you were supposed to wait?

The way that people drive around here is just ridiculous. It's a wonder that more people are not killed and there aren't more accidents. Every time you step outside your house — to walk or drive — you just about take your life into your own hands.

And where are the police while all this is going on? Let's toughen up the enforcement of traffic laws. The life they save may be mine.

Lajoie quibbles about Bill 60

Dear Sir:

I see where Youth Minister Gerin-Lajoie was speaking down in Riviere-du-Loup a few days ago to a group of parents and teachers — pushing his Bill 60. He may be able to pull the wool over the eyes of the people in the 'back country' but he won't be able to do it here.

His Education Bill, he is reported as saying, guarantees the rights of the church "as firmly as possible".

That isn't firmly enough, he is hedging.

Either it affirms the rights of the church, or it doesn't — there is no margin for quibbling.

This makes me think of the old soap slogan — 99 99-100 per cent pure.

Either a thing is pure, or it isn't; and any attempt to say that a bill that guarantees them, is pure balderdash.

There's no such thing as a little guarantee of rights, any more than there is a little garlic, or being a little-bit-pregnant.

Ex-Lajoie-ite.

Polio epidemic seen unlikely in Westmount

The outbreak of the dread infantile paralysis which has swept Ontario of recent weeks and has invaded the far west has failed to make an appearance in Westmount.

The epidemic has ravaged many parts of rural and metropolitan Ontario, cutting an equally devastating swath in both areas. Toronto alone has reported more than 130 cases to date and many other cities and towns have proportional outbreaks.

Toronto school opening dates have been affected as a result of the outbreak; it is not believed that any such action will be necessary here. In some parts of Ontario, theatres have been asked to refuse admission to children.

5,000 demand swimming pool

Brother Merry Alphonse, director of St. Leo's School has secured approximately five thousand names to his petition asking that a municipal swimming pool be constructed in Westmount.

An indefatigable worker, Brother Alphonse has directed strenuous efforts for the past three years arouse citizens of this city to the desirability of having a municipally run pool and he has made countless calls and had hundreds of interviews with prominent residents.

The Rev. Brother visited local schools and municipal authorities and has, at various times had petition forms posted in all Westmount schools, both Protestant and Catholic to be signed by the pupils.

About three thousand school pupils have appended their names to the petition, and perhaps two thousand adults have offered their support to the matter.

The emphatical denial two weeks ago by city general manager P. E. Jarman that the city was contemplating the erection of a municipal swimming pool indicates that action will not be forthcoming. (Continued on page 7)

A history — part three Westmount's first schools

St. Antoine road and Clarke avenue being utilized for that purpose.

The first teacher was Miss Turnbull.

Attendance rapidly increased and another teacher, Miss Greenshields, soon had to be engaged. The accommodation naturally became insufficient and in 1876 a house on Stanton street, now used as the Police and Fire Station was purchased. This was, for the time being turned into a school and an additional teacher, Miss A. Y. Ramsay secured.

By 1876 the English speaking population had grown to such an extent that it was again found necessary to extend the school accommodation, and a parcel of land was purchased from the Westmount Homestead Company and a fine building, now used as City Hall was erected thereon.

Here there was ample room for 200 pupils, while the teaching staff was further straightened by the appointment of John Proctor as the first principal of the Cote St. Antoine Academy.

The increase in the population of the Village of Cote St. Antoine, mostly English-speaking Protestants — was rapid, resulting in the raising of the municipality to a Town.

Argyle School built

By 1893, the Academy in its turn proved too small to accommodate the influx of pupils, so the building was sold to the Municipal Council and the present academy, later to become Argyle School, Westmount Senior High and Selwyn House School was erected by the express wish of a well-attended meeting of rate-payers to accommodate 600 pupils at a cost of $75,000.

The building was opened in April 1894 and its first principal was J. A. Nicholson, MA, later Registrar of McGill University.

Only two years later it was found necessary to provide further accommodation for educational purposes, especially for the needs of the west end of the city, for the Academy was overcrowded.

Kings School on Western avenue was therefore built to hold 350 pupils at a cost of $25,000.

Three years later there were again more pupils seeking admission to the Academy than could be taken in, so the Commissioners secured land on Olivier avenue and erected there — on the Queens School at a cost of $50,000 which provided for about 550 pupils. The first principal of the school was Miss Agnes James, BA (later of the High School) with a staff of about 12 teachers.

Population scars

During the thirty-three years from 1873 to 1906, the population of the City grew from about 500 to 10,000 — a city — and in 1906 the Commissioners were again (Continued on page 6)

I SAY!

A man had an enemy who by profession was an actor. The enemy was coming to town in an expensive production. "I know what I'll do to snub him" said our hero, "I'll buy two tickets — and I won't go".

This week in Westmount

By VALENTINA RAHR

Visiting at Westmount Park Apartments this week, fiction writer ALEXANDER ISH-KOFF, Canadian expatriate currently resident of California, summed up some of the reasons why trained Canadians are leaving our country in such large numbers:

"The climate is a great attraction of course. It is a temptation at first to test the weather, and it is unbelievable that the temperature goes down to about 42 degrees only on the coldest day of the year.

"Opportunities for trained workers are unlimited. Whereas here in Canada a man may only reach a certain position, and then be forced to remain at that point for the rest of his life, in the United States there are so many different kinds of industrial openings.

"For the trained young man or woman, or for the 'mature' trained worker with experience, job opportunities are varied and interesting in California.

The pace of life is faster, and French is spoken oftener than you would expect. Many Canadians head straight for California—the walnut groves, orange groves and grape vineyards seem to attract them, and the glamor of living near the largest center of film making industry, and the chance to earn good rewards for work well done is something you can't beat.

"But every one who has settled there has the same yearning: loneliness for Canadian streets, Laurentians, snow at Christmas time, and the sound of the habitant's patois during a skiing weekend, and they suffer nostalgic moments when they meet and talk over old times with other Canadians on vacation."

Westmounters on holiday visiting Stratford Shakespearean festival this week and taking in:

The Mikado, and weekend concerts featuring — Glenn Gould, Oscar Shumsky, Lois Marshall, Rudolf Serkin, Robert Craft, Jon Vickers, Lillian Fuchs, Elizabeth Benson-Guy, Creta Kraus, Mario Bernardi, William Aide, Donald Gramm, Shirley Verrett, The Canadian String Quartet, Festival singers under the direction of Elmer Iseler, The National Youth Orchestra, The National Festival Orchestra, with Walter Susskind conducting.

"School would be such fun if only we had a teacher our own size." These sentiments were expressed by the three members of the Westmount YMCA's Summer Fun Club as they rehearse a

YMCA Summer Fun Club

'Lion Hunt,' Talent Parade highlight closing ceremonies

Fifty youngsters and parents attended the Westmount YMCA's Annual Summer Fun Club closing ceremonies Thursday. The program included sing songs, colored slides, a "Lion Hunt," presentation of swimming awards, a corn-on-the-cob roast and a special Talent Show.

The Talent Show proved to be the unquestionable highlight of the evening. Each counsellor — with their group of children had been preparing for the show over the last two weeks.

On Thursday afternoon all seven groups put on a preview show in which they were both the audience and the actors. The boys and girls picked out what they considered to be the best three acts and these performed as the basis of the evening's Talent Show.

There were comedy skits, dramatics, musical performances and even a fashion show for the first show of this type that the Summer Fun Club has attempted. By the applause and enthusiasm the attempt was most successful.

Last week saw the closing of the regular summer planned program for Fun Club members. There will be two further weeks of swimming program only. Instruction at all levels will be offered three mornings a week and a general swim will be available during the afternoons. Youngsters who are not members of the YMCA may register for the two week course.

Fifty win swim awards

The swimming program during the first six weeks of program proved to be the most popular of all camp activities. Fifty boys and girls passed their national YMCA Beginners Awards. Many continued on to more advanced levels.

The following boys and girls passed their Beginners Test: Adam Bagi, Daniel Bagi, Zsolt Bagi, Nicholas Birks, Ivor Black, David Bland, Michael Board, Alex Cawadias, Alex Darragh, Derek Dodd, Peter Doob, Lawrence Doorman.

Barry Fudge, Robert Fudge, John Galbraith, Peter Gooding, Peter Herczegh, Derek Jamieson, Ritchie Jinks, Frank Klare, Jeffrey Lloyd Smith.

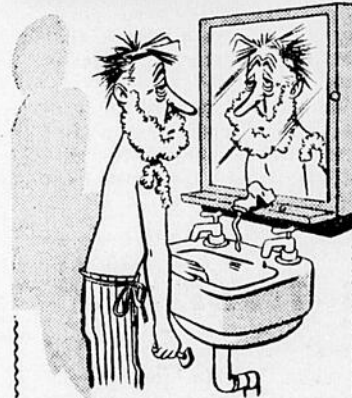

Patrick and Robert Morrow, Bom O'Connor, Michael Ormos, Eric Peterson, Charles Robinson.

Craig Shannon.

The girls were: Veronica Bako, Kim Birks, Anne Behvens, Krista Black, Mary Bowman, Cynthia Copping.

Heather Daigle, Olive Dodd, Manna Doorman, Allison Doupe, Alice Havel Michi, Brenda Murphy, Naemi Stillman and Andrea Vecsei.

VISITORS ALWAYS WELCOME

Coming Anglican congress most complete in history

The most complete representation of bishops, clergy and laity ever assembled in the history of the Anglican Church throughout the world meets in Toronto from August 13 to 23.

The Anglican Congress of 1963 is the third such gathering the Church has held: the first being in London in 1908, and the second in Minneapolis, Minn., in 1954.

The Canadian Broadcasting Corporation has planned to cover the event, both on radio and on television.

The Congress opens with a Choral Evensong service on the evening of Tuesday, August 13; and the following day, Wednesday, August 14, CBC-TV will telecast a special hour-long edited version of the service, at 4:30 p.m. EDT (2:30 p.m. EDT in the Maritimes region).

The CBC radio network will devote six half-hour programs to the Congress: three each on Church of the Air (Sundays at 3:30 p.m. EDT), and Christian Frontiers (Thursdays at 10:30 p.m. EDT).

On August 11, Church of the Air will feature a talk by John Lawrence, editor of Frontier, a religious journal published in England. Mr. Lawrence is an active layman within the Church and is attending the Congress as a delegate.

The August 18 edition of Church of the Air will consist of an edited version of the opening Choral Evensong; and on August 25, the program will present an address by the Right Reverend Dr. Stephen Bayne, executive officer of the Anglican Communion. Dr. Bayne is one of the foremost authorities on the state of the Anglican Communion in the world.

Christian frontiers

Christian Frontiers on August 15, 22 and 29 will concentrate on the theme of the Congress: The Church's Mission to the World. In each instance the program will take the form of a panel discussion, with participation by delegates to the Congress.

The opening service will be held in Toronto's Maple Leaf Gardens, perhaps the city's only building large enough to hold the thousands of people attending the service.

Approximately 1,000 delegates, a thousand-voice choir and hundreds of out-of-town visitors, will be part of the huge crowd at the Gardens for the service.

Speakers at the service are the Most Reverend and the Most Honorable Arthur Michael Ramsey, Archbishop of Canterbury and Primate of All England; and the Most Reverend Howard Clark, Archbishop of Rupert's Land and Primate of All Canada.

The choir is under the direction of John Sidgwick, organist and choirmaster of St.

Clement's Church- in North Toronto. It will sing the Anthem, O Praise the Lord, specially composed for the occasion by Canadian composer, Dr. Healey Willan.

National banners

Immediately preceding the service, a procession of delegates will form up in a schoolyard across the street from the Maple Leaf Gardens, and make its way across the road and into the building.

The procession will group under the national banners of 18 independent national churches from 78 countries, which make up the world-wide Anglican Communion. The youngest Province of the Church heads the procession, with the others in order of seniority, back to the Church of England, as the oldest church in the Communion.

Within each national grouping, or 'province', the order of precedence is laity, clergy and bishops.

Following the bishops of England will be the Bishop of Toronto, as the bishop of the host diocese. He will be followed by 34 Archbishops, Metropolitan and Presiding Bishops. The procession will be brought up in the rear by Archbishops Ramsey and Clark.

The delegates will be seated on chairs placed on the floor of the Gardens, which is normally covered during the winter months by ice for hockey games.

CBC-TV producer Bill Bolt is using four cameras inside the Gardens to capture the spectacle and magnificence of the occasion. He is also using six microphones: two to pick up the massed choir; one each for the pulpit, the lectern (whence the lessons are read), and the organ; and one microphone high overhead.

Altogether a crew of about 25 is needed for the telecast, which is to be transmitted from the Gardens to the main CBC studios, a few hundred yards away, by the same lines that normally carry the NHL Hockey games.

The procession and the service will be recorded in full on videotape, and edited the next morning for broadcast later the same day.

faced with the problem with the old problem, insufficient accommodation.

They, therefore, bought the land at the corner of Roslyn and Westmount avenues and erected what was one of the most modern and up-to-date fire-proof building in the dominion and called it Roslyn Avenue School to accommodate the population of the northwestern portion of the city the land and buildings costing about $150,000.

Although Roslyn School was erected to give the Academy more accommodation nevertheless, a large increase in the Academy grades began and the Board found that the present building would by no means provide for the increasing numbers in the higher grades.

Again the Commissioners were obliged to look around for a suitable site to erect a new building.

They decided to put up a building to accommodate about 800 pupils for the use of higher education for the last four years of Academy work only.

In May 1912, the Commissioners purchased a piece of land facing Western Avenue from the Westmount Corporation and in May, 1913 tenders were given for the erection of what is now Westmount Park School.

The cornerstone of the building was laid on Saturday November 22, 1913.

A place in the sun for weary MTC users

Here's good news for some foot-sore MTC bus users. Westmount has installed a park bench at The Boulevard and Victoria right beside the Route 63 (66) bus stop.

The bench is on the property of Fire Station Number Two, but travellers need not fear too much competition from the local force. Firemen, traditionally sun themselves on benches on the Victoria avenue side.

HONEY'S FLAVOR

The flavor of honey is determined by the aromatic substances found in the nectar of the flowers. Many different species of plants produce nectar and the nectar from each species may carry with it an individual color, flavor and aroma.

New municipal parking lot planned on Greene

Demolition of two offices completely gutted by fire last January will begin soon to make way for a new municipal parking lot on Greene avenue near Sherbrooke.

The new lot will be located on property now owned by John Pool at 1378 and 1380 Greene. The firm of Warnock Hersey has been retained to prepare estimates for expropriation.

City Council this week also agreed to allow taxi organizations to occupy the City's vacant property at the northeast corner of St. Catherine and Prince Albert, land unoccupied since the widening of St. Catherine. The lot was recently paved.

In other business Council approved commitments of $18,000 to cover the cost of architectural fees for preparation of plans for the new police and fire station and city hall annex. Architects are Perry and Patch.

A further commitment of $8,085 was approved for the rebuilding of the floor in the north entrance of the No. 2 Fire Station on Victoria. The present floor is, according to Mayor Drury, "merely a hangover from the horse and buggy days."

The Lily and the Rose is just one of the dozens of competitions for English class at Westmount High School turned in this year by 16 year-old William Hart. Bill received the high distinction of being the only student in the province to receive a perfect mark on his June Matriculation English Composition examination. Bill edited the WHS year book and took an active part in dramatics, and is just back from a visit to the Stratford Shakespearean Festival. He is the winner of a University Entrance Scholarship to McGill where he will join an older sister also on a scholarship. Bill is the son of Mr. and Mrs. I. R. Hart, 4809 Ponsard avenue.

Recreation convention at Halifax

The national conference of the Parks and Recreation Association of Canada will be held at the Lord Nelson Hotel in Halifax this year from August 18 to 22. This will be the first time the conference has been held in the Atlantic Provinces.

The conference, to be co-hosted by the cities of Halifax and Dartmouth, is under the general chairmanship of Abol Ziai, former Director of the Halifax Recreation Commission. Mr. Ziai is also regional vice-president of the Parks and Recreation Association.

More than 200 delegates and their families from across Canada are expected to attend the four day meeting, which will begin with registration on Sunday, August 18 and conclude with the Association banquet on Thursday, August 22.

The Parks and Recreation Association of Canada has as its object the stimulation and advancement of national, provincial and municipal parks, recreation services and programs in Canada.

Mr. Robert Choquette, Deputy Commissioner of the National Centennial Administration, will deliver the keynote address. The topic will be "Canada's Centennial Preparations."

HIGHLIGHTS

Highlights of the conference will include a symposium on "Trends for the formulation of National Parks Policy," a crafts session, divided group discussions, an address and slides on Parks and Recreation in Europe and a report on the National Fitness and Amateur Sports Act.

City girds for 'sudden snowstorm'

The weatherman withstanding, Westmount this week seemed to be girding itself for a sudden snowstorm. City council coolly voted on three resolutions four resolutions to provide new facilities and equipment for snow removal and disposal.

Two burners for the snow melting plants in the Glen will soon be purchased for $5,575. City engineers explained that due to frequent and wide temperature changes involved in the stop and go nature of snow removal, the burners require periodic replacement during the winter. The new ones will serve as spares.

Operations at the melting plants will also be expedited, it was explained, by the installation of a grit collector to remove sand and debris from the melting snow.

Council also approved a commitment of $19,750 to purchase a motor truck chassis with dump body and plough. It replaces a 1954 truck now termed obsolete.

Purchase of a 2,250 gallon water truck with detachable under body grader costing to $20,575 was approved. This double duty vehicle is used in the winter as one of the main pieces of the City's snow removal equipment.

A final commitment, not directly related to winter snow removal operations was approved. Three departmental cars are to be purchased at a cost of $6,500 replacing three existing vehicles with extensive body deterioration.

There was no correspondence and no new business at the Council meeting.

Miss Heather Jane Black weds Gary Stuart Lovely

The marriage of Heather Jane, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Seymour

Roberts Black, of the Town of Mount Royal, to Mr. Gary Stuart Lovely, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Eugene Lovely, of East Florenceville, N.B., took place on Saturday afternoon at four o'clock in Dominion Douglas United Church, Westmount, the Rev. R. Douglas Smith, D.D., officiating. Mr. John Robb played the wedding music. Arrangements of white gladioli with pale aquamarine centres and white pompons were used to decorate the church.

The bride, who was given away by her father, was in a gown of poul de soie fashioned with a strapless bodice having a jacket of French lace with a jewel neckline and sleeves ending in points over the hands, and a softly draped cummerbund, and a gently flared skirt falling into a slight train. Her fingertip-length veil of tulle illusion was held by a circular headdress of seed pearls and white flowers, and she carried a cascade bouquet of white roses and stephanotis. Her only ornament was a strand of pearls, the gift of the bridegroom.

Miss Nancy Black, as maid of honor for her sister, and Miss Louise Black, cousin of the bride, and Miss Sandra Bowles, as bridesmaids, were in frocks deep aquamarine poul de soie fashioned on the same lines as that of the bride and having jackets of matching poul de soie. They wore halos of pale aqua marine and white feather.

Designers disagree on longer hemlines

By Millicent Hickmore

FALL FASHIONS: As midsummer wanes, mi-lady's fancy turns to autumn fashions. One designer in Paris caused a furore recently when he announced that he was dropping the hemline at least six inches longer, however, other designers do not agree and Dior House shows the hemline just covering the kneecap.

The fall and winter showings in New York favor the shift — which is also a shaft ... a skimmy ... a "natural" ... and a skimmer. They all mean the same thing — that dresses float lightly and slimly over the figure with not much indentation, if any at all, at the waistline. Some of these versions have deep but unpuckered hemline flounces and frills around the neckline, too.

TRENCH COATS RETURN: A coat silhouette shown in almost every collection of fall styles was the belted trench type. It frequently had a jaunty British flavor, with epaulets, tabs, etc., yet turned up for evening and theatre wear in glistening satins, brocades and velvets.

FALL SUITS fall into four categories, soft, supple worsteds for under-coat wear; winter weights with longer jackets which reach to mid-hip and are lavishly trimmed with beaver, leopard, mink, fisher and lynx; Chanel type classics; and "bulky sweater" sporty types.

DRAMATIC JEWELRY: Fashion authorities everywhere state that jewelry will emerge as the number one accessory for the coming fall and winter seasons.

son, Coro, one of the top jewelry manufacturers say, the bolder, larger, more dramatic jewelled accent will be the focal point.

The Gentry look demands bold jewellery — massive chains, chunky pins, huge cuff links, some as large as fifty cent pieces; and impressive bracelets, worn two or three on one arm and one on the other.

For the elegant, utterly feminine and formal look, Coro suggests long, long earrings, necklaces and bracelets of rhinestones and silver, the "bogus diamond" splash. Fringe pins and more rings on the fingers.

At home — look for beads in dominating lengths, sizes and colorings. The bead takes over in intricate twists, longer lengths, dramatic combinations.

Never has there been such a trend for jewelry with which to enliven the plainest or the most sophisticated apparel.

Miss Beverley Dorian White weds Mr. Peter Grier Burpee

The marriage of Beverley Dorian, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. A. R. V. White, of Stanstead, Que., to Mr. Peter Grier Burpee, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. T. Burpee, of Westmount, took place on Saturday afternoon at two o'clock in Centenary United Church, Stanstead, the Rev. A. McKinley Rose officiating. Mrs. A. P. Gordon played the wedding music, and Mrs. A. M. Rose sang during the signing of the register. Standards of pink and white gladioli arranged with greenery were used to decorate the church, and bows marked the pews reserved for guests.

The bride, who was given away by her father, was in a gown of white silk taffeta with a fitted bodice having a round neckline and elbow-length sleeves edged with appliques of lace, and a skirt, fashioned with a front panel appliqued with lace and falling into a slight train. Her fingertip-length veil of tulle illusion was held by a small circlet, and she carried a bou-quet of stephanotis, yellow Sweet-heart roses, and ivy.

ATTENDANTS

Miss Dian McNaughton, as maid of honor, and Miss Janet Cass, as bridesmaid, were in frocks of Copenhagen blue silk organza fashioned with overskirts of white eyelet embroidery. Mr. Thomas Burpee acted as best man for his brother, and the ushers were Mr. Richard White, brother of the bride, Mr. Michael Burpee, brother of the bridegroom, Mr. Robin de Schultess, and Mr. Richard Williamson.

Mrs. White, the bride's mother, was in an ensemble of aquamarine crepe. She wore a matching hat, and had a spray of pink Sweetheart roses pinned to her purse.

Mrs. Burpee, mother of the bridegroom, wore an ensemble of pale chartreuse silk with a hat of the same color, and a corsage bouquet of miniature carnations.

RECEPTION

RECEPTION

Among the many honors received they have been welcomed by the Canadian Embassy at several cities. Among the personnel are, Mr. L. Elvine, conductor; Mrs. L. Elvins, Mr. James Briegel, Mr. A. McLaughlin and Mr. and Mrs. K. Skjaevestad, P., Eng.

Says child classes need new treatment

Children aged three and four years "have very different experiences than children of 30 or 40 years ago," says Catherine Landreth, a psychology professor at the University of California.

"They see airplanes, they watch television, they know something of outer space, and they are familiar with electricity through the many appliances in their homes.

"They know more in their first years than yesterday's children, and therefore are ready to add to that knowledge."

But there has been "very little or no change in the nursery school curriculum — in Canada, Britain or the United States — since it was set up in the 1920s," said Miss Landreth, visiting here.

Today's child, she said, needs "a much more diversified diet for the brain" and one that must include "a variety of experiences not included in present nursery school programs."

The child of today is going to learn more in 20 years than the child of yesterday, and the things to be learned now are more complex and more abstract. The end result could be in more young people choosing the sciences of specialization.

Sidewalk reconstruction continues

Residents of Westmount avenue must face yet another week of the rumbling of pneumatic drills and the roar of heavy trucks as sidewalk replacement continues.

Reconstruction on Cote St. Antoine Road is now virtually complete, but Westmount avenue, according to Roads Department officials, "needed a lot of work."

Rebuilt earlier under Westmount's Summer Works program were Strathcona and Hudson avenues. After Westmount avenue crews move on to Carlton and Argyle.

About one-third of the sidewalk on each street is replaced.

Police hunt . . .

gin broke out at 1.28 a.m. Thursday in a rooming house at 236 Elm avenue. The blaze started in a basement, and firemen believe it is possible it may have started from spontaneous combustion in a trunk.

The fire had a head start, having worked its way up inside the walls and the first indication was smoke pouring from the roof. Neighbors noted this and called firemen who used five streams.

Twenty persons were homeless temporarily as a result of this fire which has not yet been completely ruled out as a further feather in the cap of the wanted firebug.

will start to seep blood into the joints. The pressure on the nerve trunks means incredible pain.

Until recently most hemophiliacs ended their lives in braces, or in beds of torture.

After a life of battling for his own existence, Frank Schnabel came to this city and created a Montreal chapter of the National Hemophilia Foundation. He rounded up sufferers and the parents of afflicted children and got doctors to talk to them.

Then he was able to get things rolling for the foundation of the Montreal centre for adult hemophiliacs, headed by Dr. Cecil Harris, chief hematologist at St. Mary's Hospital here.

The swift action at St. Mary's today is simply fantastic, Frank says. "I had a hemorrhage in my right elbow recently," he declared, "and was at St. Mary's by six in the morning. By nine thirty I had received my transfusion and was in my office."

Every hemophiliac today carries a card that reads: Bearer is hemophiliac (uncontrolled bleeding) and needs immediate attention in case of accident.

Get free blood

At St. Mary's hemophiliacs get free transfusions as swiftly as Frank does, the blood given by the Canadian Red Cross. They also get expert physiotherapy if they need it and at a cost in proportion to their means.

Through Frank's interest, McGill has a research program on hemophilia.

And Frank Schnabel does a lot of research himself.

From Copenhagen he has brought back some new ideas and some suggestions. He is stressing a Walking Blood Bank of people with high-clotting propensities, set up by the Red Cross, the clotting factor being established at the time donors give their regular Red Cross blood donations.

These people are ready for a call to give their blood particularly to hemophiliacs, who need high-clotting blood and need it desperately.

Hemophilia, medical men are convinced, is caused by some maladjustment of the genes structure — but how, or why, they don't know yet.

Two thirds of the cases, records show, had fathers, or grandfathers, or great grandfathers who were hemophiliacs. What of the other one-third? They are new mutations.

No family immune

This means any family can get hemophilia.
