John Dewar & Sons, Ltd.,

Hold the largest stock of Old Whiskies in Scotland, and are therefore in a position to maintain that high standard of quality for which their brands have now gained a world-wide reputation. Numerous testimonials have been received from prominent medical men, who certify that these fine Whiskies are eminently adapted for use as stimulants, by reason of their remarkable mellowness and purity. The Company's Distilleries are situated in the heart of the Scottish Highlands, a district famed for its rich barley and pure water; and as the great merit of a Scotch Whisky lies in its freedom from deleterious compounds, the Company is in such a favourable position that it produces Whisky of the highest excellence. The Judges at the two Greatest World's Exhibits of modern times, viz.: Paris, 1900, and St. Louis, 1904, awarded Dewar's Whiskies the Highest Honours, i.e. — "THE GRAND PRIZE."
